BLACK HARDWARE GOES DOWN TO 22 TO 4 SCORE

Black Hardware Nine, which was leading City League enrollment last Sunday afternoon, found themselves outclassed last Sunday afternoon under a barrage of fire from the Littlefield Cats when they gave a final score of 22 to 4.

Upper Brittain matched the score of the Hubbers, and was informed it was to be known Hubber nine, and were bringing the best and not until too late was it found that one of the City players was being substituted. Then came that they were pitcher that could hold the back, but alas, the story was this:

$50,000 City Hall And $10,000 Paving Bonds Voted Tues.

Littlefield citizens again placed the stamp of approval upon the progressive action of the city when last Tuesday they voted almost unanimously for the erection of a City Hall building to cost approximately $50,000, also for $10,000 more of paving to be done principally in the business section of the city.

The voting, however, was very light, practically everyone conceding the merits of the propositions and that it would be carried easily without their assistance. Only 149 votes were cast at the polls Tuesday, 144 for the City Hall and 2 against, and 145 for the street improvements and two against.

It is understood that the City Commission has had numerous applications for the purchase of both bond issues, also several architects who are anxious to submit plans for the city hall structure, while there have already been several contractors seeking information relative to the additional paving to be done.

GENERAL RAIN ON SOUTH PLAINS IS AID TO FARMERS

Following much rumbling, blustering and flashing of lightning, there was a scant one-half inch rainfall in the Littlefield section last Sunday afternoon and night which was of great benefit to young growing crops.

The rain was general extending into the North Plains country where reports of as much as two inches precipitation have been made. In the Spade section, a few miles northeast of Littlefield, and in the Spring Lake section, in the northwest part of Lamb county, there are reports of some damage from hail, many of those damaged, however, claim their crops will practically recover, and where they will not there is still plenty of time to plant feed crops for fall maturity.

Speaking generally, farmers claim there never have been better crop prospects in this part of the South Plains country.

LAMB COUNTY FARMERS TO ATTEND SHORT COURSE

The A. & M. College Farmers Short Course is to be held at College Station from July 29 to August 3. This week is set aside for the purpose of conducting a state wide short course for farmers, and is attended each year by some 4000 farmers, their wives, and children.

It is expected that a Lamb county delegation will attend this year with County Agent D. A. Adam, as their leader, and any one wishing to go is invited to get in touch with the county agent so he can make reservations for them.

The Lamb County 4-H clubs will be represented in full force, and they too are wanting the adults to go with them.

METHODIST CHURCH

The church attendance campaign will continue until our revival meeting, and our attendance Sunday was very good. Reception of members and infant baptism will be in addition to the sermon Sunday. Group quarterly conference for the third round was held in Muleshoe, Wednesday. This rounds us that our conference year is rapidly drawing to a close. May we pray for such an outpouring of the Spirit during the summer that we may really have a great awakening. The pastor appreciates the way the people have taken up the church work after his return.

ROBBERIES MADE AT THREE LFD. SERVICE STATIONS SAT. NIGHT

Weekend visits were paid to at least three auto service stations in Littlefield last Saturday and Sunday nights and robberies made.

At the Riley service station opposite the post office, locks were picked on the station door, the cold drinks box and the gasoline pumps. Eight or ten casings, of different sizes were taken, and as many tubes, several bottles of soda pop were pilfered and some gasoline taken from the tanks, also about $18.00 in small money from the cash register.

At the Logan & Yeary station, on South Main street, the gasoline tank was broken into and about 30 gallons of gasoline stolen.

At the Smith station, in Southmoor the gas pump was pilfered and the hose cut off.

Riley states he has been loosing gasoline for several weeks past, and has had nearly a dozen locks of different kinds broken into. Apparently the guilty parties are experts in the lock-picking business and keep a lookout posted while doing their work.

ORGANIZE GOLF CLUB

The Littlefield business men organized a Golf Club here Monday. The following officers were elected:

R. E. McCaskill, president; Max L. McClure, vice-president; Jimmie Brittain, secretary; C. H. Grow, chairman of green committee; H. B. Teal, caddy master; Charles Harless and Ed Barnes, directors to serve with the officers of the club.

The fairways have been mowed, greens rebuilt, markers placed on all fairways, flags on all greens and all T-boxes rebuilt. There are over 30 members in the club. The first tournament was held Wednesday.

WATCH THE SIGNALS

"If somebody don't go to watching these stop signs, somebody is going to pay for their negligence," according to City Marshal L. W. Wynn.

Wynn says most people intend to obey traffic requirements, but there are some who apparently try to slip by every one of them they can.

Stop signs and slow signs on Main street are constantly disregarded, and this is just a friendly warning from the Leader that the City Marshal is going to be out gunning for the violators, so better be careful!

$200 IN PRIZES TO BE GIVEN VISITORS HERE NEXT MONDAY

Next Monday will be Trades Day in Littlefield, and plans for an extensive and interesting program are being perfected this week for the occasion.

Two hundred dollars in cash prizes are to be given away. There will be prizes for the most freckled boy and girl, the visitor coming from the greatest distance, the man with the largest family, also, various athletic events, baseball games and band music throughout the day.

Littlefield merchants are putting on special price trade events of an attractive nature, and a pleasurable and profitable time is assured all who attend.

GOERTZ BRINGS IN FIRST WHEAT; 25 BU. PER A. 63 TEST

Harold Goertz, living four and one-half miles northwest of Littlefield, brought into the local market last week the first of the new wheat crop sold here this year.

Goertz has 50 acres of wheat, the most of it being the Black Hull variety. The yield was better than 25 bushels per acre, and the test averaged 63 pound per bushel.

He states that all his neighbors in that section have good wheat crops, some of them he thinks will yield heavier than his. He finds it a very profitable crop to raise in this section, and says the pasture he obtains from it is well worth the planting.

INJURED BY FORD

Miss Cecilia Patterson of Enochs, was seriously injured last week when she was trying to crank a Ford car.

She left the emergency brake and ga lever down causing the car to start moving when the motor started.

Help keep Littlefield clean!

NEWS OF TOWNS NEAR HERE

MULESHOE

State Highway Superintendent D. L. Butts is doing some road improvement work on Main street that will put it in first class condition.

The Commissioners Court last week decided to employ a county agent, and application for such has been duly filed with the Extension Department at College Station.

Fred Warren has just finished cutting his alfalfa for the first time, averaging one ton per acre, and selling for $25.00 per ton. There will be two more cuttings this year, the second probably a heavier one than the first.

Plans are being completed for a big picnic and celebration here July 4th.

Sixteen carloads of cattle were unloaded here last week, being shipped from Odessa to range in this section.

MORTON

Morton J. Smith has given two well located lots to the Presbyterian church here, who expect to build on them soon.

T. M. Lackey is this week moving into his new store building recently completed by T. M. Neely and Sons, of Littlefield.

Favorable reports have been received on an application for mail service between Morton and Lehman. Service may be given from Littlefield.

The South Plains singing convention meets in Morton, July 14.

S. L. Carlton, lawyer from Levelland, is opening a law office here.

FLOYDADA

Free mail delivery service is soon to be established here, 49 blocks of business and residences being accommodated to begin with.

Ten thousand young bass were put into the Country Club lake here last week.

Talking pictures are being introduced in the local theatre.

OLTON

Wheat harvesting is now in full blast in the northern part of Lamb county, many fine yields running from 25 to 40 bushels per acre being reported.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schrier, old time residents of this section, have returned from Pamona, Iowa, where their son has been attending college.

Coy Bartlett is suffering from a badly lacerated face and one eyeball being cut, caused by running into a biplane car on the highway near Olton. The car was sitting along the roadside with no lights on when he struck it.

W. A. Deor, of Stephenville, opened a new grocery store here last week. Another new concern is the Turner Bros. filling station.

LEVELLAND

A $50,000 bond issue for enlarging the high school building here was carried last week, there being only six votes against the measure.

Considerable Yellow House ranch land is now being sold in this section, some of which is being promptly occupied.

Wheat in this section will mostly range between 20 and 25 bushels per acre. Spring crop prospects could scarcely be better.

CHOOSE COLLEGE PRESIDENT

R. L. Duckworth, Dallas, formerly editor of the Apostolic Way, a pre-ecological of the Church of Christ, has been chosen president of the Littlefield College.

Prof. Sam H. Cantrell, has been elected registrar and head of the Departments of Philosophy and Economics. He will also have charge of reorganizing the educational work of the college for the coming year. Cantrell holds B. A., and M. A., degrees, from Texas State University.

HAVE FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion was held last weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Hays. The following were present: Mrs. Hays parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Wood, of Childress, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Billingsley, of Kirkland, Mrs. W. H. Kincannon and daughter, of Corpus Christi, Mrs. Albert Wood, of Pampa, Rhodes Wood and children and L. B. Wood, of Amarillo. Her sisters, Mrs. E. R. Billingsley and Mrs. W. H. Kincannon will spend the week here.

MODERN CLEANING AND PRESSING SERVICE GIVES SUCCESSFUL APPEARANCE TO MEN

The time was when a man buying clothing so as to fit every crook, turn and peculiar twist of the human physique, so that a man may buy a suit that actually fits the first time he wears it. Nor does one always have to buy a suit specially tailored for his particular anatomy to get one to fit. Most suits purchased are what are known as "stock tailored," and there are a half a dozen or more stock patterns, each cut after a particular type of body so that nearly anyone can get a pretty accurate fit, frequently the buyer looking as tho he had actually been moulded into his new wearing apparel.

Notice the successful man of today and one will see there is no more bagginess of trousers, but rather a crease that runs in unbroken line from the waist to the instep. Careless, wrinkled clothing nowadays is for the most part inexcusable, and generally, a sign of slothful, indifferent character.

Nearly every man today prides himself more or less upon his garments. Clothing that looks fresh and new is an asset to the wearer. Employers do not give responsible positions to people who wear "old clothes," nor do hostesses often invite shabby guests. With the high standards of "cleaning and pressing now days nearly any member of the male sex may look neat at small expense. Perhaps few stop to think of the value of modern service in this respect. In the old sad iron days about all anyone asked of a tailor shop was to remove a few wrinkles, perhaps try to get out a particularly ugly grease spot and make a few creases. Today, the average man who has any pride at all in his appearance asks and gets a great deal more. He wants not only creases, but creases in the right places—and he wants all the spots removed. He wants his suit reshaped so that it fits him just as it did when new. He also wants the nap raised and the lustre of the fibre restored—and he gets it.

Modern cleaning and pressing service, gives all these and more. It kills all disease germs, removes offensive clothes wear longer, and while the perspiration odors, and actually makes wearing is going on, the wearer enjoys a full measure of satisfaction from his suit.

Free Attractions To Feature So. Pl. Fair

Lubbock, Texas, June 12.—Free attractions, fire works and other amusements at the Panhandle South Plains Fair at Lubbock, this fall, September 30 to October 5, inclusive, will be more interesting and more expensive than ever before, officials of the fair have announced.

Contracts for six feature free acts and for fireworks, each night have been signed.

The fireworks program will cost the fair association $75 more each night than any previous year.

Each of the six free act troupes have played with the leading vaudeville and circus organizations in the nation and have an outstanding record for entertaining crowds.

Prince Nelson, ace of dare-devils, the highest paid actor in circus or vaudeville work in the world comes to do stunts of all kinds on a wire, 75 feet high without a net below. He has crossed over Niagara Falls on a wire 9 times.

The Chicotts Novelty, a double act will have special appeal to the "kiddies" that see the fair. The Francis Trio, comedy act, is the head comedy act at the Oklahoma State Fair this fall and at other big fairs. The Hadano & Co., troupe will do high diving and the Three Mazozias, an imported French act will entertain with balancing, swinging, and other acts, carried out with style and beauty that only ability can produce.

It will be an absolutely free show inside the front gate, A. B. Davis, declares. A $1.50 show for fifty cents.

Exhibits of all kinds will be gathered from over the South Plains and adjoining sections.

USE CALCIUM ARSENATE TO CONTROL WORMS ON TREES

It is noticed by the county agent the cotton wood and elm trees in the county are being eaten up by worms, and it is recommended that calcium arsenate be used in the control of these pests.

This should be sprayed on at a rate of about 6 pounds to the 50 gallons of water. It is very effective, and will give 100 per cent control. One should be careful to keep all the calcium arsenate stirred up in the barrel as it does not dissolve, only hanging in suspension in the water.

but very effective.

This poison will stay on the leaves until it rains and washes it off. Any other information desired on this can be obtained from the county agent, D. A. Adam.

THE VALUE OF THE SMALL TOWN BUSINESS ORGANIZATION TO ITS LOCAL COMMUNITY

by SAM H. CANTRELL, Prof. Social Science Dept., Littlefield College.

NOTE: This is the fifth of a series of articles on social and economic matters by Prof. Cantrell to be published in this newspaper.)

Often the question forms in the mind of the individual as to the value of the services rendered by the local merchant, the local banker, the local realty man as well as the professional man and of others. In many cases the question is decided by the mere satisfaction of personal needs. Yet the writer feels that the question should have far more value than that for considering the attainment of a mere point of satiety.

When we look at a beautiful landscape done on canvass in an artistic setting we feel that it often possesses more value than the mere price charged for it. Such a value we designate as subjective and it is the aim of this article to point out a few of the elements that might produce a subjective effect in analyzing the business organization.

One individual declares that when he desires to purchase red beans and potatoes he seeks a grocery to get them. His objective is to obtain the food products and since the groceryman desires to make his per cent of profit that both receive mutual satisfaction and there is nothing else to the deal. Such is true but not the whole truth. Let us consider the factors that have entered into this deal thus making it possible. First, groceries must be assembled and to accomplish this transportation is essential. Second, a certain amount of risk must be assumed by the groceryman in order to have these objects available for the needs of the consumer. Third, management and services must be efficient in the operation of the concern. Such are some of the factors and others might be mentioned. But declares one the merchant receives a profit to cover these items. That statement may be true in a relative sense but not in the full sense.

When a merchant locates in a town and does a successful business does he not increase the valuation of the community? In what way may the merchant cause an increment to be added to the present status of the community. The merchant, the banker, the professional man desires to see his locality grow and prosper. He invests his money in schools, in churches, in paved streets, in a sewage system, lighting system, and civic organizations. Does the element of taxation cover all these items? It might to some extent yet even the multiple shift in taxation fails to include all.

The business man sends his children to the public schools, he desires the best for them and seeks to place his town school in the foremost ranks. He contributes to the maintenance of the churches and personally participates in order to enhance their activities and influences. What he contributes in his participation could hardly be evaluated, yet every one feels the value to be great.

A community always enjoys the reputation it makes for itself. If it possesses a high status it will attract the best citizenship to its confines. Yet, if such a community has the name of having low standards in its social activities or if the moral atmosphere is not of the best citizens from other localities will not seek to make such an area their home. It is in the hands of the business and professional men of a town to set up its status. Will they make it thrifty, healthy and progressive or will they permit it to be static tending toward deterioration?

The more the business enterprises of a successful nature located in a community the greater the valuation that locality possesses and greater are the values accruing to each individual farm plot. So when people begin to use the mail order house to purchase goods which do not give that element of subjective value, they set in motion the process of their town's deterioration. Just a matter of time until centralization will eliminate convenience and small town association.

In addition to emphasizing the ideal of the good life instead of material gain, the town should definitely study how it can be of the largest service to its environment. In the course of development of the small town into a political entity separate from the surrounding territory there has grown up a feeling of antagonism between the town and the country. The country man feels that the townsman is attempting to exploit him. Consequently many attempts are now being made on the part of the farmers to free themselves from the domination of the town by establishing co-operative organizations to assume the functions which have been performed by the small retailer in the town store. The feeling of antagonism in some cases becomes very marked. Were there not some foundation for the attitude of the farmer on the subject the reaction against the mail dealer would not be so general as it is. If the small town resident could realize that service rouses no antagonism and if he would study how to make his business of the largest benefit to the farming community a much better relationship would exist. If, instead of trying to persuade the farmer that he owes it to the town storekeeper to trade with him instead of the mail order house because the storekeeper pays taxes, contributes to the town fair fund, or puts up cash prizes for the fat mans race at the picnic; and if, instead of attempting to keep farmers out of small trading in the town by high license on huckster wagons, he would study the farmer's wants and adjust his business so he could best supply those wants, his business would thrive and he would not fear the outside agency. The small town is the natural center of rural life. Both town people and the farmers should study how to make the school, the church and the industrial life of largest service to the whole community.

THE WHY of SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

GOLLIWOGS

ON THE bonnets of some automobiles will be seen a squat, hideous little figure—the uglier the better—placed there "for luck." The golliwog is a favorite. In shop windows may be seen weird artificial ornithological specimens advertised as ouija or "weeje"—birds; supposed to, somehow, bring good luck in connection with the ouija board. The purchaser of the "weeje bird" and the owner of the golliwog-decorated auto would repudiate any serious belief in the efficacy of their talismans. And yet the automobile man says: "Of course it's all nonsense; but I haven't had an accident since I mounted my golliwog. And the sweet school girl giggles: "Oulja's been awfully nice to me since I bought my Weeje-bird"—showing the lingering atavistic tendency to a belief in talismans which the savage openly avows with regard to his hideously carved ju-ju. Primitive man came to a belief in the efficacy of hideous figures as a protection against evil spirits, or the evil eye, by logical reasoning. With his descendants it is only an unreasoning survival. Primitive man reasoned that an evil spirit would be scared by the distorted features of the fetish and keep away. Or perhaps, he might mistake it for a spirit or his own kind voluntarily or by force attached to the possessor and forbear to trespass. Again anything hideous or unusual catches and holds the attention and the glance of the evil eye would be attracted to the golliwog and its baleful influence wasted on the freak figure instead of falling upon and blighting the figure's owner. From stone hatchets to automobiles is a far cry, but not for the golliwog.

What Ailed the Dog.

A dog which had been brought back week after week to a St. Louis veterinarian to be treated for indigestion greatly puzzled the doctor. Finally he asked the owner, "Has the pup any peculiar habits?" The owner couldn't recall that he had—except that the dog was always running into drug stores and ice cream parlors and hunting for chewing gum stuck under the chairs and eating it. . . . There may be something after all in the theory of the transmigration of souls. This pup may at some time in the past have been a high school flapper. —Capper's Weekly.

For Meditation

By LEONARD A. BARRETT

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

STATISTICS inform us that about a quarter of a million persons in this country last year endeavored to live by methods which society recognizes as criminal. Of this large number about 10,000 were murderers. Whether 250,000 criminals constitute a normal percentage of a country's population given over to crime, or whether it is abnormal, is not the most important question.

Crime should not be countenanced on any percentage basis which would seem to justify it. That is a wrong philosophy which argues that out of every 1,000 persons a certain number are bound to go wrong, and that society is not in danger if the percentage is kept within those bounds.

Is this not the serious situation which confronts us today? Courts may dispense justice, but public opinion has a great deal to do in creating a popular demand that the punishment for crime be both sufficiently severe and actually executed. Public indifference makes it easier for much of the crime of today to be treated lightly and in some cases to go actually unpunished. When the public mind tolerates and partly justifies crime it reaps the result of its own sowing, and the criminal accepts the benefit with an increased disregard for the power and sanctity of law.

If public opinion would demand through the personal expression of every citizen and also through the most powerful medium, the public press, more strenuous methods for the unweaving of crime and a more severe punishment, even to the use of the last, as is done in European countries, perhaps we would have a better ordered social system and democracy could pride itself on another achievement.

MRS. NEAL A REAL ORGATONE BOOSTER NOW

"I Gladly Tell Others of Aid New Medicine Gave Me. It Saved My Life" Says Lubbock Woman

"I'm a booster for Orgatone from now on." Thus spoke Mrs. J. B. Neal, well known citizen of Lubbock, residing at 1613 Tenth Street, and when asked what Orgatone did for her, she said:

"Orgatone has given me the relief I long sought," she continued. "I had stomach trouble for about fifteen years, my food never agreed with me and the least thing I ate soured on my stomach, causing me to suffer intensely. Frequently I had dizzy spells and everything seemed to be turning round and round. I would become so dizzy that I'd have to lie down. I had gall bladder trouble and I had pains in my right side, which would ache and throb until I would be in misery and thought I was going to die. Gas formed on my stomach and I had terrible heartaches at times. I was very nervous and restless and never felt like doing my work, and hardly ever got a good night's sleep."

"A friend recommended Orgatone to me and advised me to try it. Since I began taking Orgatone I have a different story to tell. Now my stomach is in fine condition. I can eat any kind of food I want, without it disagreeing with me. Nothing ever soured on by stomach now, and the pains in my sides have entirely disappeared, and this is the greatest relief of all, for I did suffer terribly with those pains in my right side. No matter how much I stoop over my spells of dizziness do not bother me and I have more strength and feel more like doing my work than I have in years. The nervousness has been relieved and now I sleep soundly all through the night and get up mornings feeling fine. Orgatone has really made life worth living for me. It has saved my life, and I'm going to be a strong booster for it, it has done for me what medicine and doctors failed to do. I am more than glad to make this statement and tell my friends about it."

Genuine Orgatone is not a so-called patent or secret remedy but a new scientific bile treatment containing no alcohol or other false stimulating drugs and is sold in Littlefield by the Walters Drug Company who are direct laboratory agents.—Adv.

LITTLEFIELD CLOSING JULY 4

Practically all business houses of every kind will be closed in Littlefield for the Fourth of July.

Some of the business men will attend the big celebration to be held at Sudan, a few will go to the Hobbs, N. M., celebration, while others are planning fishing and visiting trips.

The buying public is asked to kindly observe this closing notice and lay in needed purchases in advance.

In the first three months of this year world merchant shipping vessels under construction increased by more than 200,000 gross tons.

POULTRY FACTS

EARLY HATCHING MEETING FAVOR

Breeders Find Chicks Make Better Winter Layers.

The official results of laying tests recently concluded show that early-hatched chicks of the heavier breeds make the best winter layers. Rhode Island Red pullets which were hatched in March gave a winter egg production of 42.35 eggs. April-hatched pullets gave a winter production of 35.40 eggs and May pullets gave a production of 22.50 eggs.

The profit in producing eggs comes largely from producing them at a season of the year when they are highest in price. This means that we must plan to produce eggs during the winter months. The experiment referred to shows that, with the general-purpose breeds, the early hatched chicks are the ones which mature in time to start laying in the latter part of October and continue throughout the winter.

Many people have failed to raise early chicks for the reason that they have trouble with leg weakness and brooder troubles. The leg weakness can be largely overcome by the ration advocated by the Wisconsin experiment station as the result of their experiments in overcoming this trouble. This was reported at an earlier date but for those who overlooked it we are repeating the formula which they suggest: eighty pounds ground yellow corn, twenty pounds wheat middlings, five pounds ground raw bone, five pounds pearl grit and one pound of common salt. Skim milk is used freely but no water is furnished. Infertile eggs or cod liver oil is added in limited quantities if the chicks do not have access to sunlight.

The first experiment quoted shows that April pullets produced a fairly good quantity of eggs. This is undoubtedly on account of the fact that they were well grown. This is a fact that the producer who has late-hatched chicks should take into account. Oftentimes April-hatched pullets which are well fed will mature before March pullets that are stunted and poorly grown.

Crop-Bound of Fowls Caused by Rough Feed

"Crop-bound" is caused by eating food too large to pass through the gullet from the crop to the proventriculus or true stomach. Chicks become crop-bound if fed whole wheat when too young. The wheat swells and becomes too large to pass out of the crop. Coarse feed with an excess of crude fiber often causes this condition. The paralysis of the muscles of the crop is another cause. This occurs in cases of cholera.

Sometimes the contents can be removed by drenching the fowl, then kneading the crop and holding by the feet head down and working the contents out by the mouth. In severe cases an operation is necessary. Remove the feathers, make a slit through the outer skin, spread apart, then make an incision in the crop and remove the contents; then sew up the crop, then the outer skin. The crop membrane and skin should be sewed separately.

Pullets Require Green Feed When Confined

When the pullets are penned and set to their work task of egg laying, their need for succulent green feed must be met, say the poultry specialists of the Ohio university. Succulent green feed provided for the pullets for the first few weeks after they are housed will keep them in good physical condition. Rape, green clover, and alfalfa are satisfactory for this purpose.

If no succulent green feed is available, the poultrymen recommend a dose of Epsom salts for the birds soon after housing. One pound of the salts for each 100 birds should be dissolved in their drinking water, and no other water should be given until that containing the salts has been consumed.

Care of Pullets

Poultrymen who buy pullets at this season should have facilities for properly housing the birds and ranging them separate from old hens. The pullets will be unfamiliar with their new location and possibly changed rations, and every day that they go underfed means a day or more of egg production lost during the winter. It may be possible to learn the ration used by the former owner and make changes gradually to the rations you are using.

Hens Need Mash

Don't get the idea that because it is cold that your hens do not need anything but corn. Corn is all right and has its place in the menu, but if you want eggs, and also to get your hens in good condition for hatching they must have something besides corn. Give them a good egg mash and it will be better if it is fed moist and warm, once a day—better still if it is fermented for 24 hours with yeast. Do not feed all they want. Make them clean it up.

AGENT ADAM IMPORTS TEN PURE BULLS AND THREE HEIFERS INTO COUNTY; CIRCLES ARE BEING FORMED the necessity of upbuilding the industry and knowing that pure bred bulls the produce of the best records of cows will pay most economically, agent D. A. Adam is centering all of his time on the deal of bull circles, and the deal of bulls out of register dams in Lamb county.

In the past 15 days the agent was in Missouri selecting bulls and three heifers in Lamb County territory. These have gone into circles each circle, and two to prime herds, making a total of three bulls in Lamb County at present time. County Agent Adam accompanied to Missouri by Agent R. O. Dunkle of Texas who helped in making selections.

circles that have been or located in the Sudan ter and were financed by the First Bank of Sudan, under the of J. C. Barron, cashier to the county agents who these bulls, and went to the attached to these, it was found circle bulls are eight of the that have ever been brought south Plains of Texas. One composed of "Linebred Ox" "Do" bulls, and the "Linebred Majesty" bulls. These were purchased out of the herds of Earle Thomas, St. Joseph, Mo., and Mrs. Mary Culver, King City, Mo., two of the best developed herds in that state.

During the remainder of the year County Agent D. A. Adam contemplates organization of four more Jersey circles, one Guernsey, and one milking Shorthorn bull circle for Lamb county. By the first of the year the entire county should be well covered with bull circles for the use of the general public. Lamb County is fast coming to its own in the dairy development of the South Plains. Bankers and business men are very enthusiastic in putting over this program.

WHAT IS DOING IN WEST TEXAS

Crosbyton has a farmer in the Owens community who has marketed over one thousand dollars worth of home raised hogs in the last month. He also buys and feeds out several hundred hogs each year. The farmer Sam B. Anthony, allows his boys to finance their schooling by working on the farm.

West Texas Today for June will be mailed to more than 10,000 members of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce this week. Some material for the publication is sent in by commercial executives, county agents and others, and some written by its editors and staff members of the regional organization.

Turkey acquired its first unit of a chain of parks when two and one half acres was recently purchased for a recreation center. The Turkey Enterprise and the Lions Club have cooperated in getting the park, and the equal of the parks is soon to be installed in equipment.

Paducah has broken ground for a new hotel. Charles Pruden of Bowie will build a three story fireproof hotel on some lots on the northeast corner of the public square. The hotel is expected to be ready for occupancy in the fall.

Sweetwater building permits for 1929 neared the half-million mark recently with the May permits standing at $123,095. May building permits were more than one-third the total for the entire other four months of 1929, and strengthened indications that this would be a banner year for Sweetwater building.

Floydada's recent building permits have been $10,000 with the announcement of a lease of a building to J. C. Penney on which will be spent $2,000. H. P. Pennsylvania Village Receives $2,000,000 "Town Hall" As Gift From "Chocolate King"

Milton S. Hershey

Hershey, Pa.—Adding another to his long list of "practical" philanthropies, Milton S. Hershey, the "Chocolate King", has just announced the gift of a $2,000,000 structure of classic design that is to become the community center for the twenty-five hundred residents of this town.

Including the cost of the new community center, Mr. Hershey's "investments" in the health and happiness of his neighbors now totals, at a conservative estimate, at least $65,000,000.

The work of excavating the large tract required for the new building is under way. Six stories high and occupying a plot 400 by 250 feet, the structure will be of Italian Renaissance design. It will face a terraced, formal court, containing a decorative pool and promenades bordered by flower beds.

Contains Bachelor Quarters

Although it is entirely new in many of its details the Hershey community center actually is the realization and outgrowth of an idea

Terraced Court and Main Wing of New Community Building

Hershey's policy of "helping others help themselves".

The bachelor residents of the center will be provided for with 150 dormitories and apartments. One of the principal features will be a modern theater with seating capacity of 2500. There also will be a second, "little" theater for church, agriculture and other social gatherings.

Has Club Facilities

The first floor will contain, in addition, a public library and club rooms, large gymnasium with bleachers raised from the floor, swimming pool, dining room, lecture and study halls. On the second floor, besides the theatre balcony will be exhibition rooms, separate quarters for fencing and boxing, hand ball courts and other recreational facilities, while on the top floor will be a completely equipped community hospital and sun-deck. The entire project is to be operated as a community benefit with unusually low charges for individual accommodations.

SINGING AT SPADE

There will be an all day singing held at the Spade community house Sunday, July 7th, to which all people and especially singers, are invited attendance.

A basket dinner will be served on the grounds at the noon hour. Those attending are requested to bring lunch for themselves and a visitor or two.

The great new six-cylinder valve-in-head engine responds to the accelerator with an eagerness that is literally amazing. Touring speeds are negotiated with such smooth, silent, effortless ease that you almost forget there's a motor under the hood. And when the throttle is opened wide—the pace is faster than the most experienced driver would care to maintain!

Back of this exceptional performance is a brilliant array of engineering advancements—typified by a high-compression, non-detonating cylinder head... automatic acceleration pump... hot-spot manifold... semi-automatic spark control... and a heavier crankshaft, statically and dynamically balanced.

OUR LATEST PEST

Fruit growers of the U. S. are now greatly alarmed over the appearance of the "Mediterranean fruit fly" in this country, and whatever alarms them should cause all of us serious worry. There is no part of the nation that can afford to be robbed of its fruit supply.

The appearance of the fly in Florida some weeks ago has sent federal experts scurrying there and has brought an appropriation of several million dollars by congress to prosecute the fight against it. This new pest—for it is the first time it ever appeared in this country—is a trifle smaller than the ordinary house-fly. It pierces the skin of any growing fruit on which it alights, lays its eggs inside and so develops larvae that make the fruit unfit for use. The only means of control so far discovered is the use of poisoned bait-sprays to kill the adult fly.

Millions of dollars damage has already been occasioned in Florida, and Uncle Sam is fighting night and day to stamp out the pest there and to prevent it spreading to other states.

Littlefield housewives should be interested in this fight for it means a lot to them. A poor canning season always hits them harder than the men folks know anything about. We may be spared the ravages of the pest in this community, but that does not mean that fruit should not be watched closely for its appearance. The presence of any strange insect pest should be immediately reported to the Department of Agriculture at Washington City.

A Chicago auto dealer says he stands behind every car he sells. Good thing he doesn't sell mules.

W. T. C. C. POLICY

The directors of West Texas Chamber of Commerce are to be commended for their delay in employing a new manager of that organization to take the place of Homer D. Wade, resigned to go to Dallas.

A re-organization and the establishing of a new policy of operation, together with outlines of definite accomplishments, is of primary importance, and should have first consideration. It is better to fit a new manager to a real policy of aggressive activity, than to fit a policy to a new manager.

During the past two or three years West Texas Chamber of Commerce has lost much through its style of hip, hip, hurrah, rather than the prosecution of a definite constructive system of benefit to its avowed interests and the regional territory it represents.

There were about 16 applications for the manager's job; but we doubt if more than two or three of them are capable of competently filling that position. Really, we believe the directors will have to go out and look for the right man. At any rate, a working policy is needed first.

It does beat all how the price of wool keeps us considering the vast number of lambs being shorn in Wall street.

POOR HEADLIGHTS

We recently asked a Littlefield motorist what, in his opinion, causes most auto accidents and he replied: "Carelessness in the daytime and improper headlights at night." The answer is worth studying over.

He argues that even though headlights are far better than they used to be, there's still room for improvement. The answer to the problem does not come in dimming when other drivers approach, he contends. Dimming may be considerate of others but it momentarily puts the driver behind the dimmed lights into a dangerous blind spot, and that one moment of blindness may cause a serious accident.

The entire difficulty, as he sees it, lies in improperly focused headlights. This means danger both to the driver of the car and those approaching him. Too many car owners take it for granted that so long as they can see to drive by their lights they are in proper condition when the fact is they may be casting a glare.

Driving with one light out is another frequent yet dangerous practice and one for which there is no excuse since light bulbs are among the cheapest things about a car. If every motorist would make it a rule to have his headlights focused and adjusted every few months, and would watch his lights as closely as he watches the air in his tires, accidents would be reduced and a good many lives saved, argues this local motorist.

And his argument is worthy of the serious consideration of every man who drives an automobile.

Talking about efficiency, it once took a couple of sheep a year to make a woman's dress. Now a silk worm does it in a few minutes.

PEACE WINS OUT

Littlefield citizens who follow news of the world pretty closely are no doubt glad to discover that peace is now having her inning. The Mexican revolution has fizzled out, and the disturbances in China are about at an end. In both cases the regular governments won out.

The only wars of late years have been civil wars, and now they seem to be about finished, with no more looming on the horizon. The dove of peace is busy, and the talk everywhere is of disarmament, limiting navies, scrapping big guns, abolishing poison gas, bombing planes and sneaking submarines. The very powers which have been suspected most of evil and secret designs are now the loudest in their shouts for the securities of peace. They seem to be willing to go even farther than the nations with clean records to prevent war.

All of which is just about as satisfying as anything we can think of just now, and all of which forecasts at least one great blessing to be thankful for when Thanksgiving day again rolls around.

State legislatures can't pass laws to please everyone, so sometimes it looks as though they pass a lot of them just to please themselves.

DON'T PUT IT OFF

The best way to keep the weeds from getting the start of you is to get a start of the weeds. Right now they are growing at an alarming rate. But if they are mowed down at once their growth will be permanently retarded and the dangers they cause in mid-summer, to say nothing of their unsightliness, will be greatly reduced.

We know there are a thousand alibis for letting them go and for not cutting them now when they ought to be cut—but there is no alibi for deliberately subjecting your community to a serious epidemic of disease.

You wouldn't deliberately poison yourself, your family or your neighbors. Yet you will suffer poisonous and pest-breeding weeds to do so and not feel that you are in any way to blame.

The few hours work it would take to cut every weed in Littlefield is nothing compared to the sickness these weeds can cause, and will cause, if neglected.

Look at this thing sensibly—and then get busy with the blade.

As President Hoover sees it, what this country needs most is 52 law-obedience weeks every year.

LET'S DEBUNK

The incompetency of the present legislature speaks volumes for itself. Perhaps never before in the history of Texas has there ever been one so reprehensible and filled with members less qualified to deal with the varied problems of state government.

No doubt the present catch-as-catch-can system of selecting men for these important places is at fault. Strong men, experienced and well qualified, do not care to waste their time, energy and talent with the aggregation of misfits and incompetents who are sent down to Austin to blunder their way through a mass of important legislation on which they are not mentally qualified to pass equitable judgement.

If it is necessary to obtain competent men, let them be conscripted from the ranks of seasoned business, relegating face downwards to the political cemetery, the kid lawyers and other noncompoos of budding aspirations.

Maybe the reason it's so hard to keep a woman in dresses nowadays is because they're getting farther out of them all the time.

MORE EVIDENCE

At the Presbyterian General Assembly in St. Paul recently Walter J. Clarke, an official of the body, said in an address: "The business world spends millions for publicity where the church spends dollars, yet the church has the greatest message on earth to deliver, and it should be advertising that message to humanity."

One single brand of cigarettes has appropriated $12,500,000 for advertising this year, one-half of which is being spent in newspapers alone. The continued experience of regular advertisers demonstrate that newspapers offer the most effective medium of appeal. I have faith that some day religion may be adequately advertised and that the church will reap rewards as rich as are now being reaped by others who put their money into printer's ink.

No further comment appears necessary, unless it be to add that a word to the wise merchant ought to be sufficient.

LITTLE LEADERS

Ever notice that the only time some Littlefield men don't spend money foolishly is when they are broke.

The Littlefield girl who is courted in a kitchen generally knows what to do in one after she gets married.

How many Littlefield men can recall when they used to get a quarter's worth of pins out of every dollar shirt they bought?

Half the fun some Littlefield people get out of going to church is sitting around after it's over trying to guess who the preacher was hitting at.

Why is it that when a Littlefield man breaks down because he doesn't take care of himself his wife always blames it on overwork?

When some Littlefield fellows talk about the "pull together" spirit they usually want all the pulling done in their interest.

How many around Littlefield ever expected to live to see the day when girls would get sun-burned in the places they do now.

Egotism is that which enables a Littlefield man to feel big even though his wife thinks he's the smallest potato in the hill.

A man would me pretty smart if he could only learn all that his 18-year old son thinks that he could teach him.

$50,000 TO EARN $160,000,000 IN 200 YEARS ACCORDING TO WILL FILED IN INDIANA; ILLUSTRATES THRIFT VALUE

By S. W. STRAUS, President
American Society for Thrift
Those who would get ahead financially can hope to do so only by putting their dollars to work for them. In view of the spectacular stories often heard about wealth being quickly won, the gradual and steady accumulation of funds through thrift may seem slow and unsatisfactory to many yet in the long run greater progress is made this way by most persons than through the practices of financial magic.

The newspapers of the country recently told of the filing for probate in Indiana of a peculiar will. By the terms of this testament the sum of $50,000 is to be held in trust for a period of 200 years. At the end of that time, the estate will, it was set forth, be worth $160,000,000 which vast amount is to be given to various charitable and welfare organizations. The figures serve to illustrate the enormous increase made possible through compound interest. The sum set aside in this will will have reproduced itself about 3,200 times within the prescribed period.

While the lapse of time encompassed in the terms of this will is three times greater than the normal expectancy of human life, the mathematical principle responsible for this enormous growth is no different from that which may be taken advantage of by the average person at any time. Modest amounts of money deposited systematically in a savings bank or invested in sound securities with the reinvestment of the income thereof, grow into comfortable fortunes within a few years. For illustration, the saving of $90 a month for 25 years at 6 per cent compounded semi-annually will build up a fortune of more than $60,000. In actual experience, the building up processes are apt to be much more rapid because as the years went by there would doubtless be a considerable increase in one's earning capacity and it would be possible to save and invest on a steadily increasing scale.

Those who are seeking financial independence can never hope to realize their ambitions until they learn the value of making their dollars work for them. The amount may be small at first but it will grow as time goes on and the results will be surprisingly gratifying.

WHO CAN BEAT IT?

Mr. W. H. Badger, of the Yellow House Land Co., of Littlefield, was in the Herald office Monday.

Mr. Badger is a strong booster for this country and expressed himself as being well pleased with conditions and thought the outlook for the development of the country is growing better all the time.

But here is the circumstance Mr. Badger related while here that called for the heading at the beginning of this article:

Recently the Yellow House Land Co., sold a man an eleven hundred acre farm near Pep and in less than thirty days 1,000 acres were broken out, one labor of which was planted to cotton. This cotton was a perfect stand and giving every promise of a splendid yield. We called upon our friend A. G. Jungman of Pep to verify this story and he assured us that it is correct in every detail and stated that "that is the way they do things at Pep," stating further that he bought his own farm one day and two days later had 100 acres broken.

If that is really the way they do things at Pep, we are forced to take issue with Shakespeare in his statement that a rose would smell as sweet if we should call it a pole-cat flower, and say that surely there is something in a name.—Herald, Levelland.

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY

Mrs. F. G. Sadler entertained the ladies of the Presbyterian auxiliary, Tuesday afternoon at her home.

Business session opened by prayer by the chaplain.
Reports were made by Rotary committee, secretary of literature, and sick committee.

Mrs. Rutledge was in charge of devotional, opened by song, "What A Friend We Have in Jesus," followed by Scripture reading and closed by repeating the Lord's prayer.

Miss Hubbard gave the 2nd chapter from the study book, "From Jerusalem to Jerusalem."

The hostess served dainty refreshments to the following members: Mrs. Ray Jones, Dyer, Leach, Gardner, N. A. Douglas, Sid Hopping, S. G. Underwood, E. A. Bills, Irvin Miller, Lulu Hubbard, Chas. Barber, C. C. Clements, M. V. Cobb, and L. M. Touchon.

Mrs. Clements will entertain the ladies next Tuesday. Mrs. Hopping will give the lesson.

The "incher" who begins to creep forward as soon as he thinks the traffic lights are about to change from red to green is a nuisance to pedestrians and motorists alike, but the "sleeper" who is day-dreaming at the wheel when the lights do change and does not start when the change occurs is equally annoying. The good driver is always both considerate and alert.

Petitions for a $1,500,000 road bond election are being circulated in Hopkins County.

BLACK CATS AND HARD HITTERS CROSS BATS HERE

The Littlefield Black Cats and Lubbock Hard Hitters crossed bats in a game here last Saturday afternoon, the score being 18-10 in favor of the visitors.

There was a good attendance of people at the game, but not much money taken in, according to one of the players, folks refusing to pay the requested price, and since no officer was present, pushed their way into the grounds.

Some of the local negroes will go to Lubbock to play the African aggregation there Sunday afternoon.

It is easy enough to trap or shoot a rat, but to corral his fleas filled with deadly plague germs is another matter.

MRS. BROWN "PRETTIES UP" HER FOOD FOR MR. BROWN

"PRETTY is as pretty does," said Mrs. Brown firmly.

"What care I how fair she be, if she be not fair to me?" responded Mr. Brown gloomily.

No, gentle reader, the Brown family was not discussing the forthcoming arrival of a portentous female relative. Instead, Mrs. Brown was trying with more vigor than tact to get her sulky husband to eat a particular food which was good for him, but which he did not like.

The discussion was a draw.

The Midnight Fairy
That night, Mrs. Brown had a dream. She dreamt that a fairy whispered in her ear: "Pretty tastes as pretty looks"; and "Fair food never lost a race"; and "Decorations on the pudding make it eaten like a good 'un."

When Mrs. Brown woke she had seen the light. From henceforth and forever her food would, above all things, LOOK PRETTY! She would "pretty up" her most ordinary dishes until they appeared to be entirely new concoctions.

A Devilish Product
Mrs. Brown considered her supper menu for tomorrow night, and her heart sank. She was going to have deviled eggs, and Henry didn't like deviled eggs even though he should.

What could she do? Her eyes ranged along the row of canned foods which she saw sitting on her cupboard shelves, and stopped at one which bore the label "Sliced Hawaiian Pineapple." Just the thing! Henry loved pineapple. She would cut her eggs cross-wise instead of the long way and then would fit an egg into the hole of a pineapple slice. Delicate mounds of salad dressing sprinkled with nuts would make the combination so charming to look at that even the recalcitrant Mr. Brown would enjoy it.

And the lobster canape that she was going to serve her bridge club—why wouldn't it look nicer and taste better if the round of lobster-covered toast rested on a ring of pineapple?

Flowers and Rings
She speculatively eyed her gelatin dessert molds. Wouldn't a ring at the top and bottom of the dessert look charming if it were made of pineapple cubes?

Cookies? In her mind's eye she saw a slice of pineapple cut in such a way that it was only half as thick as usual. Then she saw herself cutting the slices into almond-shaped petals. She pressed four of the petals into the top of each cookie which was resting on a baking sheet, and then she popped them in the oven.

Then Mrs. Brown decided that all this imagining would be put into effect—and it was.

And when Mr. Brown saw all the glorified foods did he smile and smile, and eat and eat, with never a single objection? Well, he certainly did!

Procrastination is the thief of time but why get hi-jacked!

LAMB COUNTY COW HEADS COW TEST BY MAIL ASS'N

"Black Beauty," owned by J. E. Holland, Fieldton, has the distinction of being the highest butter fat cow in the Cow Test by Mail Ass'n organized by county agents of West Texas, for the first month of the organization.

This cow, a grade, made a total of 37½ pounds butter fat, leading the second by several pounds, having a record of 43.2 pounds and owned by a man in Shackelford county.

Through this association the men who are in this work are finding out just what kind of cows they have and are finding where herd improvement is essential in the upbuilding of the dairy industry.

It is hoped that before many months ways lead the Association in butter fat are passed Lamb County cows can all records.

Leader of the Local Negro Colony Says None Of His Folks Drink Tea with President's Wife

"Pur'ly I ain't got no time for dese white folks dat am messin' around ober de cullad people. I've lived in Boston and I've lived in Chicago, an' ah hain't neber seen any good cum out o' this a mixin' ob de two races." That was the statement of Jack James, shoe shine artist at the Sanitary Barber shop, and aristocratic leader of Littlefield's colored colony cult.

"De black man am got his place and so am de white man," continued Jack. "Ah knows where ah belongs and I've gwine to stay dere. Dey ain't gwine to mix dis cullad gentl'man up in no pol'ticks, neber."

"If Mr. Hoover's gwine to start dis entertainin' of my people he's got to sta't a lot of trouble in South dat's gwine to be ha'd to see when 'lection time comes agin."

"Us cullad folks got a social sense ain't nevah gonna be no vate affairs. I don't fawn in no house, ef she wants entertainin' her get it in a cullad house wid people. I sho don't want none of wimen folks drinkin' tea aroun' president's wife."

Worried Night after Night as health declined

"I SUFFERED frequently from nervous headaches, and I could not sleep well," says Mrs. Cora Dover, R. F. D. 2, Hickory Grove, S. C. "I was thin and pale. I was so weak I could scarcely walk. I tried several remedies which were suggested, but nothing seemed to help me. Night after night I worried because I could see I was going down-hill. I had my children to look after, and I was afraid of what would become of them if anything happened to me."

"I began to take Cardui on the recommendation of a friend. It wasn't long until I was beginning to pick up. My strength gradually began to return. I rested better at night and was less nervous. I took several bottles of Cardui, and when I had finished taking it I was in fine health."

In 1920 Texas had 29 cities of above 10,000 population and five above 50,000. The 1930 census is expected to show 50 cities above 10,000 and eleven of above 50,000 with three and possibly four above 200,000. Since 1920 Texas has grown in population at the rate of more than 100,000 a year according to Census Bureau reports and estimates.

The Round Rock cheese plant, established in 1928, did a $100,000 business its first year and is paying farmers of that section $10,000 a month for milk. Its output won second prize in the National Dairy Show and with a grade of 93.75 outscored many fine entries from Wisconsin.

With geologists believing most of Texas' mineral wealth is still undiscovered or undeveloped, the state's mineral output in 1928 was valued at $435,000,000.

REPLICA NOW ON DISPLAY

A replica of the millionth Frigidaire will be placed on display tomorrow by Higginbotham-Bartlett local dealer. Built as high explosive bombs crashed an aerial salute above the factories in Dayton, the one millionth unit was recently shipped by airplane to Atlantic City for exhibit at a national convention.

Presentation of the newest Frigidaire, which has been designated the "Million Model," will signal the beginning of a country-wide celebration of the entrance of Frigidaire Corporation into the million users class, the dealer said. Featuring the celebration will be a Cold Control Demonstration Week, which will begin June 25. During this period special arrangements have been made to acquaint visitors with the actual operation of this latest improvement, which makes available six freezing speeds in the preparation of frozen desserts. It also makes faster freezing of ice cubes possible. Refreshments will be served and a souvenir recipe booklet given to all visitors.

The "Million Model" is finished in porcelain enamel, inside and out, and provides eight square feet of shelf space. It is equipped with the Frigidaire cold control and includes all the features which have made this automatic refrigerator the choice of the majority, the dealer explained.

"It embodies all the experience and manufacturing efficiency gained by Frigidaire Corporation in building more than a million units," he continued, "and processes all the structural features and refinements found in the highest priced models. Mass production and quantity buying have enabled Frigidaire to offer this unit at an extremely low figure.

The "Million Model" is the twenty-eighth member of the Frigidaire household line, the local dealer said. The company manufactures 20 types of compressors, 60 cooling coils, 14 ice cream cabinets, 4 ice makers, 5 series of water coolers, milk cooling equipment and a room cooler.—Adv.

PLAN FOR PLAINS

The weekly meeting of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce held Tuesday in the Baptist church was largely attended. Pres. J. E. Brannen presided.

W. R. Arnold, secretary of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, and Dr. O. H. Lloyd, of Amarillo, were present and made splendid talks. Dr. Lloyd spoke of Lamb county joining with some 20 other counties of the Panhandle Plains in making exhibits which will be shown in many states as well as giving all the Panhandle Plains section good publicity.

D. A. Adam also spoke along the lines outlined by Dr. Lloyd (reviewing the possibilities of this section. The movement was favored and was referred to a committee to raise sufficient funds to join in this project.

Reports were made by T. S. Sales, of the Retail Merchants committee, M. A. Burt, of the Trades Day Committee and A. J. Davis as to progress the Chamber of Commerce band was making. F. G. Sadler gave an outline as to progress being made on the Pep and Bula roads leading into Littlefield.

Ed Robinson a new member of the Chamber responded to a call of the President and made an interesting talk. E. A. Bills referred to the possibilities of Littlefield securing a canning factory.

Words of praise for our home city are a fine thing, but money spent in our home stores talks even more eloquently.

LIFE A MYSTERY

Take the delightful uncertainty, the guess-work, the "gamble," if you'd call it that,—take these elements out of life, and life loses interest.

The mystery of tomorrow—who would have it otherwise. The uncertainty of what may happen—how seductive! I would not know the future if I could; the hope that it be bright arouses all the faith of which I am capable; and life without faith is but dull, drab, mean existence.

Why, the few things we are reasonably sure of in the future are the very things that bring dread. We don't like to think about death, sorrowing mourners, and the like—so we turn hurriedly to dreams—to hopes of eternal life; and right there, the mystery holds a world of comforting reassurances.

I certainly don't want to know exactly what will happen tomorrow, next week, next year; I might not sleep well tonight, or for nights to come. I prefer the amorous dream of golden possibility, that tempers me to combat possible disaster, like the loss of a small bet in life's great game of chance.

Good men and women have committed suicide to escape calamities which they felt sure would come. Ah, they were not sure. Nobody can be absolutely sure of the future, or what it may bring—and that's a mighty comforting fact, it seems to me, to tuck away in one's bosom especially if he has tendencies to see only the dark side of things.

I have no use for the "fortune-teller," or for any one who claims ability to peer into hidden realms and make forecasts for me. To accept life with its entrancing uncertainty, its inspiring gables, its happy conflicts—to win some of its ten thousand victories—to overcome evil with good—what better doctrine than this?

Texas has about 4.5 per cent of total population of the country, does only about 1.5 per cent of country's manufacturing.

The total annual production crude raw material of Texas averages $1,500,000,000, approximately 5 per cent of that of the United States.

A reasonable optimist is the one who thinks the brickbat was meant someone else, but dodges it just the same.
