'Senior Power' Film Shows How to Thwart Sneak Thieves

At the regular meeting of AARP April 14, a film titled, "Senior Power" was shown by Sheriff Bob Hewes.

Following is a description of the film:

Picture a pink frocked elderly woman strolling casually through a darkened street, her handbag swinging freely from her arm. In the shadowy background lurks the classic prototype of a purse snatcher, grubby and greedy. Suddenly, but not unexpectedly, he lurches at the woman, grabbing her purse. She spins on a spry heel and barrages him with a flurry of expert punches from her fist and purse. She did exactly what she should have done. Right? Wrong.

According to producers of a 20-minute film, the woman, Ann, played by Shirley Temple-voiced actress Merie Early, should not have resisted her attacker. Instead she should have showered the contents of her purse on the ground, sat down to avoid being knocked down, and blasted away on a shrill whistle to scare him away.

Along with the drop and dump technique, the film, produced in cooperation with the El Segundo, Calif., Police Department, offers senior citizens other non-physical ways to avoid muggings, home break-

Pilot Sets Deadline of 5 P.M. Monday for Ads and News Items

The Rockport Pilot has found it necessary to establish a new deadline for receiving ads and news articles.

The deadline for all ads (display and classified) and for all news items is 5 p.m. each Monday.

The reason for the deadline change (from Tuesday noon to 5 p.m. Monday) is that a change has been made in the schedule of the printing firm in Sinton which prints our paper. This firm prints more than 15 area weekly newspapers.

In order to have the Pilot printed on time for distribution in the Rockport area on Wednesday, we will have to deliver the page paste-up to Sinton earlier than in the past.

Some ads and stories can be brought in, or mailed in, on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday for use the following week, and this will help us greatly to continue publishing what we trust is an interesting and informative newspaper.

We hope that the new Monday 5 p.m. deadline will not inconvenience our friends who supply the ads and news articles which are vital to our existence. We will appreciate your understanding and cooperation.

Tennis Tourney April 22-25

A total of 42 tennis players from a dozen different cities have signed up for the Spring Men's Senior Classic tournament scheduled for Rockport Racquet Club Thursday, April 22, to Sunday, April 25.

This is the first sanctioned tournament to be staged in Rockport. It is sponsored by the recently organized Rockport Tennis Association and has approval of both the United States Tennis Association and the Texas Tennis Association. As such, participants in the tournament are eligible for ranking by both the national and the state associations. This factor is an important drawing card for out-of-town players, as indicated by the number of non-Rockport players attracted to this weekend's tournament.

For the first time in local tennis history, players from out of town greatly outnumber local players. Eight of the 42 entries are from the Rockport area.

In addition to the entries from the Rockport area, participating players will be from Dallas, San Antonio, Houston, Corpus Christi, Portland, Port Arthur, McKinney, Texas, and from Morgan City and Jeanerette, La.

There are three age categories in both singles and doubles play. Seventeen players are entered in singles 45 and older and there are 7 1/4 doubles teams in this category.

Ten players have entered the 55 and older singles play and 3 1/2 doubles teams are signed up for doubles in this group. In the 60 and older category there are 11 entries, with 4 1/4 doubles teams signed up. It is expected that singles players will enter the doubles to provide the additional teams.

In addition to regular play, there will be a consolation tournament for singles players who lose in the first round of play.

Trophies will be awarded winners and runners-up in each category, including the consolation tournament. Awards will be presented at court-side Sunday afternoon.

Tournament play is scheduled to start at 8 a.m. and continue through the day. Spectators are welcome and there is no admission charge. Depending on how pairings work out, it is possible that Thursday will be devoted to practice play instead of match play, tournament officials said.

Thursday evening there will be a get-acquainted cocktail party. A court-side beer and tamale party is planned for Friday afternoon. Saturday night there will be a tournament banquet at Sea Gun Resort to which the public is welcome. Tickets for this event are available at the Racquet Club Pro Shop and at Net Result Gift Shop.

The tournament's operating committee's co-chairmen are Dr. Jim Wideman and Jim White. Their technical advisors are John Gutzke, Racquet Club professional, and Willie Rinche, Key Allegro Tennis Club professional.

Joe Hugenberg is chairman of the reception committee. Polly Bracht is responsible for entertainment and George Falk is in charge of the court-side party Friday afternoon.

SOCIAL SECURITY REPRESENTATIVE TO VISIT ROCKPORT

A representative of the Social Security Administration will be at the Courthouse in Rockport on Tuesday, April 27, at 9 a.m.

TENNIS TROPHIES — The above photograph shows the trophies to be presented at the conclusion, Sunday, of the First Rockport Spring Men's Senior Classic tennis tournament. Matches will be held beginning Thursday and continuing through Sunday at the Rockport Racquet and Yacht Club Courts which will be free to all spectators, and a number of out of town players are registered for play in this sanctioned tournament.

Admiring the trophies are the two tournament directors, Jim White and Dr. Jim Wideman, both directors of the Rockport Tennis Association.

Reports for Household Workers Due April 30

Quarterly wage reports and social security contributions for household workers are due by April 30, according to Al Roiz, assistant district manager of the Corpus Christi Social Security district.

People who pay a household worker $50 or more in cash wages in any 3-month calendar quarter must send a report of the wages, along with the social security contribution, to the Internal Revenue Service within one month after the end of the quarter.

"Wage reports and social security contributions for January, February, and March of 1976 are due by April 30," Roiz said.

The wage report may be filed on a form available at any Internal Revenue Service Office - Employer's Quarterly Tax Return for Household Employees (for Social Security).

The social security contribution for a household employee is 5.85 percent of covered wages, and the employer pays a matching amount.

Social security contributions build retirement, disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for workers and their families. People who employ household workers can get a free copy of the leaflet, Social Security and your household employees, at the Social Security office, 5733 South Padre Island Drive, Corpus Christi, Texas.

Six Arrested For Burglary

Sheriff Bob Hewes reported that five San Antonio juveniles and one 17-year-old San Antonio youth were arrested over the weekend for burglary of a residence just outside of the Rockport city limits.

Chief Deputy Sheriff E.A. Stautzenberger and Deputy Sheriff Bob McCormick made the arrests. Several of the juveniles were released to their parents over the weekend.

DAYLIGHT SAVINGS STARTS APRIL 25

Daylight Savings Time starts at 2 a.m. Sunday, April 25.

So it's time to dust off that old saying, "Spring ahead, fall back," to help you remember which way to turn your watches and clocks to be in time for Daylight Savings.

What most people will do, of course, is set their watches and clocks one hour AHEAD before they go to bed Saturday night.

That way you will wake up Sunday morning on the new schedule and those who go to church will arrive at the proper time.

Senior Power—

ins, and obscene phone calls. The film is available free to civic and social groups through the First National Bank's Public Relations Department.

Narrated by actor Linden Chile, the film takes a light-hearted look at a very serious subject, crimes against the elderly. Detective Bob Burden of the Phoenix Police Department said senior citizens are likely targets for criminals. As a result they need to learn simple techniques to insure their safety.

Burden agrees with the film's premise that resisting an attacker can be deadly, especially for the elderly. He said dumping a purse's contents on the ground can so unnerve an assailant that he is unlikely to retrieve anything that was in it.

Still on the subject of purse snatching, the film switched scenes from a darkened alley to a brightly lit supermarket where Ann left her purse unattended in a shopping cart to ask a clerk's assistance. As soon as she stepped away, a suspicious looking youth grabbed for the purse. He got the handbag all right, along with the shopping cart tied to it. The grocery-laden cart lurched wildly down the market aisle where the thief was stopped by a shower of canned corn bouncing off his head. Another blow for justice.

Of course, Ann had tied her purse to the shopping cart, a technique suggested by the film.

Producers say a better way to foil the purse snatcher is to carry no purse at all. Instead, keys and wallets should be carried in the pocket.

The film also offered tips on how to avoid home break-ins by scaring prowlers away with a tape recording of barking dogs. While the "dogs barked," the prowler left with police in pursuit.

They also advise using dead bolt locks and keeping windows locked.

Obscene phone calls are also a problem for the elderly. During the film, when an obscene caller got Ann's number, she smiled wryly, stuffed cotton in her ears and deafened her caller by a blast from a whistle. The caller, obviously shattered, dropped the phone and fled. Meanwhile, Ann, portrayed as a swinging senior, chimed a sweet "Thank you," and hung up.

Social Security pay day poses another safety hazard for senior citizens who flash instead of stash their cash. The film advises senior citizens put their money away while still at the bank window and suggests they never leave the bank alone.

What can happen if they ignore those rules was portrayed in the next scene by Harry. As he whistled away from the window counting his money, he was eyed by a youth and his friend who promptly cornered him with a gun and demanded his wallet. Harry gave up the wallet to the gleeful robber who had no idea he was the one being conned. The wallet was cleverly filled with play money causing the robber to complain, "You can't trust anyone over 30." Carrying two wallets, one filled with play money, is another technique offered to help the senior citizen outsmart the street smart thug.

As the film faded, Harry, now imbued with a new sense of "Senior Power," invited Ann to coffee. Linking her arm in his, she said coyly, "That's the best offer I've had all day."

job opportunities available to their graduates.

On Thursday, April 29 Mr. James Westley from the Texas Employment Commission will present a program on "Realities of Today's Job Market". He will present projections on the future job market for this area.

On Friday, April 30 students will meet in general assembly to discuss materials they will receive entitled "Information on Getting and Keeping a Job", and a booklet published by the American Legion entitled "Need a Lift". This booklet lists sources of information for 278 occupational fields.

Many important aspects of the present job market will be covered by these assembly programs and students will be instructed as to what they may expect in employment opportunities and salary scales when they seek employment. Students will be encouraged to upgrade their job skills by enrolling for additional schooling after graduation from high school.

Shrimping Now 'Alive'

The shrimping industry is alive and well in the Coastal Bend.

Last year, $20,000,000 was paid directly to area fishermen for their catches, which included both shrimp and other seafood. But the bulk of that was for shrimp, marine extension agent Ralph Rayburn says. That sum, in turn, generated some $60,000,000 to boost the economy.

"Shrimping is vital to the economy of the local area," Rayburn said in an interview.

"Economic input from the industry is great. We have some highly productive bays, said Rayburn, who is part of Texas A&M University's new marine extension division and based at Rockport.

"According to 1975 Parks and Wildlife Department records for the counties (Nueces, Aransas and San Patricio, Rayburn's district), there are 579 licensed bay shrimpers. Along with that is the bait shrimping industry. And there are 482 licensed bait shrimpers. That encompasses a number of families in the area," Rayburn pointed out.

Historically the shrimping industry started out with individuals using seines and were limited to shallow waters. The "otter-tail" drag net was developed about 1915 and is the basic design still used. The industry did not start to grow, however, until after the late 1930's when large concentrations of white shrimp were found off the coast of Louisiana.

That was the predominant catch until the late 1940's when the brown shrimp industry came into its own. Then "a group of Aransas Pass shrimpers got together and instituted a marketing effort. Now brown shrimp are harvested to the greatest extent. And the shrimping industry is based on that (brown shrimp) industry," Rayburn noted.

Rayburn believes shrimpers' concern over the 200-mile marine resources zone primarily is "What agreements can be reached with Mexico to mutually benefit the shrimpers in both countries." They also are concerned over the outcome of the International Trade Commission's hearing on import quotas. And an ongoing concern is "estuarine area protection through such things as insuring fresh water flow to estuaries to maintain conditions."

While the catch of food shrimp is down right now, partially because waters close to shore are closed, the price is good and "It is still economically sound for them to continue shrimping," said Rayburn.

Even the catch was good earlier this year. Shrimp landings at Texas ports in February established a new record value for that month. The shrimp landings totaled 1.8 million pounds, which was slightly above the 1975 volume, and was valued at 5.3 million, double the 1975 value.

Fashion

A classic dress in a print is a must for the traveler who doesn't wear pants.

It was proper some years ago to wear long dresses after six and hats and gloves preceding that hour. Times have changed, however, and we find long dresses being worn at all hours and many people go without hats and gloves in the morning unless the weather is cold or the occasion is strictly formal.

April Days

The last half of April contains anniversaries which should be recalled by all Americans.

The Battle of San Jacinto, which forced Mexico to recognize the independence of Texas, was fought and won on the 21st in 1836. Arbor Day is celebrated in Nebraska on the 22nd as is the opening of unassigned lands on the 22nd in 1889 in Oklahoma.

April 23rd is the birthday anniversary of the fifteenth President of the nation, James Buchanan, born at Mercersburg, Pennsylvania, in 1791. As the last President before the outbreak of the Civil War he believed the federal government had no constitutional right to use military force to keep states seceding from doing so but also was prepared to defend federal property against attacks.

On the 24th in 1814, British troops attacked, captured and burned Washington. The 24th is remembered in Mississippi as Confederate Memorial Day.

General U.S. Grant, 18th President of the nation and the commanding general of U.S. forces which won the decisive battles of the Civil War, was born at Point Pleasant, Ohio, on the 27th in 1822. The 28th is the anniversary of the birth of the nation's fifth President, James Monroe, in Westmoreland County, Virginia, in 1758. Monroe negotiated the Louisiana Purchase in Paris and obtained Florida from Spain, served eight years in the White House (1817-1824) and proved to be one of the nation's great Chief Executives.

COTTON -- SUMMER'S MOST POPULAR FABRIC

College Station -- Cotton is The Fabric for summer -- woven, knitted, in solids and prints, it's popular for sports, casuals and dress up clothes, Marlene Odle, clothing specialist, reports.

She's with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System. "Brights, whites and stripes head the scene for cool comfortable looks in gauze. And cotton knit T-shirts will be worn with skirts and shorts made of poplin broadcloth with napped, lustered and brushed surfaces," she said.

The homespun -- peasant cloth, wrinkled cottons, linen looks and burlap-like wovens -- will be used for dresses and skirt suits, she continued.

New textures of seersucker and blister fabrics are seen in caftans and jumpsuits.

"The colorful prints -- Persian and batiks, florals and borders -- are found in blouses and dresses.

"For evening, jersey, silk, rayon and polyester crepe de chine in prints, stripes and abstract designs head the list of favorites.

"And gray tops the color favorites," the specialist reported.

'Old Fashioned' Medicine Caps Still Available

College Station -- "Old fashioned" medicine caps are still available for people who have difficulty opening the new child-proof caps, Mrs. Vivian Blair, a family life education specialist, says.

"Safety caps are available-but arthritic hands and poor eyesight are two conditions which contribute to difficulty in opening them," she noted.

Mrs. Blair, specialist in aging, is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas

A&M University System.

She explained that exceptions can be made under the Poison Prevention Packaging Act.

"If you or your physician direct that a prescription be filled in a package fitted with a conventional closure, the prescription may be packaged that way.

"But prescriptions may be filled this way only when directed by a physician or when requested by the purchaser," she added.

Yards And Gardens

This is the time of year for all garden enthusiasts to work toward the pleasures obtained from flowers, fruits and vegetables.

We're not much concerned, in this article, with the economic gains of gardening. There are other values that come to the individual who seeks to develop something of beauty and perfection in accordance with the laws of nature. It may take years to develop an attractive lawn or garden, but the task will bring satisfaction.

In the meantime, while Mother Nature transforms the earth in new regalia, we can at least clean up our premises.

April, 1917

In April of 1917 the United States declared war on Germany. Americans were infuriated by Germany's conduct; they believed many atrocity stories and were convinced the "Lusitania" had been wrongly and immorally sunk. They resented unrestricted U-Boat warfare.

The succeeding years have shown most of these convictions were incorrect. The "Lusitania" was indeed carrying contraband-and the German government had publicly warned Americans not to sail on her.

And while U-Boat sinkings were a ruthless form of war, Britain was at that time attempting to starve out Germany by blockading all her ports; because Britain was stronger in surface ships, Germany's only recourse, actually, was to seek victory or a truce through a submarine campaign.

Yet, we went to war, and insured defeat of the haughty Kaiser's Germany. That defeat and the unfair and immoral Treaty of Versailles produced first the Weimar Republic, weak and ineffective, and then Hitler.

That, in turn, produced World War II, which resulted in a strong communist Russia, a divided Germany and the threat of communist domination of the world. And so, scholars now wonder about America's action in 1917.

About Quail

John Beard, who writes about good food and how to prepare it in the New York Times, recently devoted a column to the game little birds we know as quail.

Beard spoke favorably of eating the eggs, which shouldn't be encouraged unless from domestic hatcheries, and about enjoying the birds themselves.

Quail abound in the more southern states and this small bird, unlike Mexican quail which don't hold, a point well, is admirable in every way. They prefer to walk rather than fly, eat seed, berries, beans, peas, etc., and on the plate are choice white meat, and flavorful.

But hunters shouldn't kill coveys down to less than six birds, kill more than the limit or shoot birds out of season. While Beard is right in that quail are atreat, the quail population is rapidly declining. It might be just as well if those who don't know about these birds never find out about them.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Do you have a few readers who missed the television show "NBC Saturday Night" last week? This show trades in poking fun at the President and is supposed to be funny. According to NBC, it appeared on 160 stations. What is funny about ridiculing the highest office in our nation, the highest court, and our places of worship?

We are a depraved nation that we allow this type of program on the air. Last week President Ford appeared on it. By doing this, he has given this type of show his blessing. If he speaks for the nation, we are now ready for another form of government, and for a leader whom we will be forced to respect through fear.

I do not think it a laughing matter to see the Supreme Court being ridiculed in a skit showing this court viewing and judging a sexual act. Does President Ford think this is fun? Do you?

The wailing wall, which was used as a sacred place of worship for over twelve hundred years was turned into a urinal in another skit. A urinal in use by chancers. What plans does NBC have for the use of our altars? Does our President think it fun to desecrate our places of worship?

I must have no sense of humor, because I see nothing funny about this attitude toward everything we should be holding with the highest respect. Instead, I see it as tragic.

GARDEN DISEASE CONTROL MUST BE SEASON-LONG

Since a plant is subject to disease from the time the seed is placed in the ground until the edible portion is harvested, disease control in the home vegetable garden is a season-long practice, says D.P. Pawlik, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To get off on the right foot toward a disease-free garden select a site that is in full sunlight to aid in drying of the foliage in the early morning hours. Many diseases are caused by a fungal organism, a small, microscopic plant which requires a certain moisture level to germinate to begin the disease process. Plants in protected, shady areas do not dry rapidly, and, as a result, are more subject to disease.

Next, plant garden vegetables on raised beds (8-10 inches) to allow water to move out of the root zone. Poor drainage in the root zone causes many problems, such as the yellowing of tomato plants, points out Pawlik.

Many plants require some method of keeping the fruit off of the ground to prevent fruit decay. Staking plants is still satisfactory, but the use of wire cages has become quite popular. Such cages should be about three feet high and about 20 inches across. Tomatoes, pole beans and cucumbers are well adapted to cages. Plants grown in cages are more upright and the fruit is kept off the ground, thus avoiding a number of soil-borne diseases.

When watering the garden, avoid wetting the foliage of plants, especially in the evening since it will remain wet during the night and provide an excellent area for diseases to develop. Instead, water at midday or early afternoon, and use furrow irrigation whenever possible.

When fertilizing plants, follow a well-balanced program. Excessive levels of nitrogen will make a plant more susceptible to some diseases. Calcium, potassium, and phosphorous are important in developing healthy plant tissue which will to some extent withstand disease attack. Plants which are high in potassium and calcium can withstand a light nematode attack when compared to those grown in deficient soils. Of course, this does not mean that potassium and calcium can be used for nematode control. Soil fumigation is still the accepted method of controlling nematodes.

Fungicides for controlling diseases in the home garden last from 7 to 10 days. Thus, if conditions are still favorable for diseases 10 days after a fungicide is used, an additional application must be made. Also, plants are continuing to grow during the 10-day period and untreated leaves, stems and fruit are being exposed and must be sprayed. A rain after an application will also necessitate retreatment. If leaves have been dry for some three to four hours after spraying and rain does not exceed an inch, then retreatment is not necessary.

After applying a fungicide, make sure all foliage and fruit is covered with spray material. And always follow label directions carefully when using any agricultural chemicals.

WHAT IS BABY'S ROLE IN FAMILY

College Station -- All the long months of waiting have passed and finally the great event occurs -- a new baby in the family.

But parents may suddenly find themselves wondering "why did we have this baby in the first place."

Mrs. Ilene Miller, a family life education specialist, says this feeling isn't unusual. There are many motives for pregnancy and parenthood which may be rooted in desires not directly related to the baby itself. Some may even be selfish and immature, she added.

"But if a couple learns to view their child as an independent being, rather than an extension of their own egos, and can feel a loving concern for the child, the baby's birth can be a joyous event after all," she said.

Mrs. Miller is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She pointed out that some women may want a baby to fill an emptiness in their lives or to make them feel more feminine. For other women, pregnancy provides an opportunity for others to take care of them and provide the extra attention they seek.

"Young couples may be pressured into parenthood to fulfill the expectations of the community or to provide grandchildren for their parents. Families and friends assume the couple wants children so it is not long after the wedding before they hear, 'When do you plan to start your family?'"

The specialist also noted that there may be a certain degree of prestige with parenthood. The baby helps the parents to justify their own lives and prove their virility. Also the family name continues.

"For other couples, the baby may fill an empty marriage or provide a playmate for an only child -- or themselves.

"All these immature, selfish reasons for having a baby may result in frustration and dissatisfaction when the couple realizes they alone are responsible for the baby -- who is totally dependent on them," she said.

Pregnancy and parenthood are times of crisis -- times when old patterns of coping with stress and change are no longer sufficient. Pregnancy and parenthood necessitate role changes as the couple assume new responsibilities for the emotional and physical well-being of their child, the specialist said.

Public speaking is easy. It's the thinking before speaking that's hard.

Animals no larger than a gnat and floating aquatic plants may be keys to a better quality water in the future.

The animal is the Daphnia, a tiny crustacean akin to shrimp and crawfish, which consumes bacteria, algae, protozoa and other suspended matter in water.

The floating aquatic plant is the water hyacinth, which can absorb pesticide residues and heavy metals from water.

Efficient, economical natural processes of water purification, powered by sunlight and the energy stored in enriched waters, will gain favor in the future. This is the belief of Ray Dinges, a Health Program Specialist, with the Texas Department of Health Resources' Division of Wastewater Technology and Surveillance.

G.R. Herzik, Jr., Deputy Director for Environmental and Consumer Health Protection of the Texas Department of Health Resources, noted that one type of solar-powered wastewater treatment process—the stabilization pond system—has been in use for decades.

A stabilization pond is merely an open, shallow basin providing a detention of wastewater for a period of about 30 days. About 500 pond systems are currently being employed in Texas for the treatment of domestic wastewaters. Many others are used to treat agricultural and industrial wastes, said Herzik.

Bacteria decompose solids in the wastes, and algae-microscopic plants—thrive upon the decomposition products.

An outstanding beneficial aspect of stabilization ponds, relating to environmental health, is their ability to reduce significantly the public health hazards associated with wastewaters. Cysts of parasitic protozoa and cysts and eggs of parasitic worms settle to the bottom of the ponds. There is a pronounced decrease in fecal bacteria during the extended storage period, and heavy metal content is reduced by precipitation. Toxic compounds become less toxic during passage of wastewaters through the pond system.

Discharges from the pond systems flow into the system of streams, rivers and lakes throughout Texas. These discharges must be as free contaminants as possible. The green colored algae is probably the most objectionable feature of pond systems. They are very difficult to remove from water due to their tiny size.

Many public water supply systems obtain water from surface water supply sources—streams and lakes. More communities will be forced to turn to surface water supplies as local ground water is depleted or becomes inadequate to support an expanding population.

Dinges said exploratory experiments have been conducted to evaluate the potential of improving the quality of stabilization pond discharges through the culture of higher forms of animals and plants. He said ponds supporting high populations of "Water fleas" (Daphnia) were noted to produce clear discharges low in algae and fecal bacteria content.

Dinges conducted experiments as Giddings with support of the City in an effort to evaluate the role of Daphnia in stabilization pond effluent under controlled conditions. The experiment was successful and algae and fecal bacteria were removed efficiently from water by the swarms of Daphnia produced.

Commercial production of Daphnia for wastewater treatment and as a protein additive to animal feeds may become feasible, said Dinges. Daphnia can be harvested by netting algae, bacteria and nitrogen from the water. The harvested plants may be used as livestock feed, and are an excellent soil conditioner. The plants also absorbed heavy metals and pesticide residues. Overall quality of water exiting the hyacinth ponds was excellent.

The Department of Health Resources has a continuing interest in treatment of drinking water and wastewater. Hyacinth culture may be useful in pre-treatment of surface water to remove suspended materials and trace organics prior to the water treatment plant. Water systems are inspected by Department personnel, which also issues certificates of competency to qualified drinking water and wastewater operators. Some 18,000 men and women throughout Texas operate the plants which keep clean, safe water coming into your homes and places of business.

Wisdom is the art of listening to the soft voice of truth rather than to the incessant babble of selfishness, ignorance and superstition.

APPLICATION FOR GI HOME LOANS

Applications for GI home loans during the first half of fiscal year 1976 were 15 percent higher than the total received during the same period in FY 1975, A.A. Hunter, Veterans Administration regional director, reported today.

Loan guaranty staffs at 49 VA regional offices processed 182,900 loan applications from July through December, Hunter said. December applications 25,466—were 23 percent higher than a year ago.

More than 362,800 GI loan applications were received during 1975, a 6 percent increase over the previous calendar year.

Appraisal requests also were running ahead of last year's figures. The 279,500 requests received during the first six months of FY 1975 were 14 percent higher than the number received during the first half of FY 1975. The 1975 calendar year total of 585,700 appraisal requests were 7 percent above 1974 figures.

The Veterans Housing Act of 1974 relaxed restrictions on reinstating GI home loan eligibility. Previously, loan benefits could be restored only for "compelling reasons."

Since Jan. 1, 1975, the VA has been permitted to restore loan benefits whenever the property has been disposed of and the GI home loan paid in full.

Almost nine million GI home loans, valued at $118 billion, have been guaranteed since the program was established during World War II. Almost 4.6 million veterans have paid their loans in full, and thus could qualify for loan restoration if they dispose of the property which secured their loans.

The VA guarantees 60 percent of the loan up to a maximum of $17,500 of home loans made by private lenders to eligible service personnel and veterans of World War II and later periods. There is no limitation on the amount except that the loan may not exceed the reasonable value of the property as established by the VA.

Veterans who used their benefits before Dec. 31, 1974, may have some additional entitlement while technically obligated for an earlier loan. Maximum home loan benefits were raised from $4,000 to $7,500 in 1950, to $12,500 in 1968, and to $17,500 in 1974. The amount of additional eligibility would be the difference between the present $17,500 maximum and the amount of entitlement used on prior home loans.

Complete loan information may be obtained at any VA regional office or from representatives of local veterans organizations.

BEWARE OF COOKWARE BARGAINS

College Station—Despite claims and advertisements, waterless cooking isn't anything new or fantastic, one authority said this week.

"It simply involves cooking food by steam rather than water—so great quantities of liquid aren't necessary," Mrs. Lillian Chenoweth, family resource management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says.

Salesmen for "waterless cookware" have several sales pitches, the specialist cautioned.

Some include "reducing the amount of food needed" and "increasing flavor and nutritive value of food prepared."

"However, wise consumers know that cookware will not improve family health or decrease food bills."

Sometimes sales pitches offer additional temptations—"discounts" or "free bonuses" such as glassware or silverware.

"However, prices are usually set very high to allow the salesman to offer such so-called bonuses."

"Prospective brides, single women on their first jobs and young people in school often make prime targets for zealous salesmen," Mrs. Chenoweth continued.

Actually, waterless cooking can be done in any heavy metal pan which has a tight-fitting lid, she noted. "The tight lid allows only a small amount of steam to escape.

"Utilizing low heat is extremely important in keeping vapor losses to a minimum."

In general, waterless cookware is made of a heavier gauge metal than normally used in top-of-the-range pans.

However, it's usually sold in sets—so use caution when considering a purchase, the specialist advised.

"Pots included in a large set may not come in sizes needed—and buying a set that includes items you won't use is hardly a bargain," Mrs. Chenoweth emphasized.

"When purchasing cookware whether it's waterless or regular—a pan should possess several characteristics," the specialist contended.

A good pan is:
—made of thick, durable, not-warping material
—constructed of a material that heats quickly and evenly —designed with wide, flat bottom; wide, smooth rounded corners and straight sides

—complete with a tight-fitting lid, and —made of materials and construction features which permit easy cleaning.

Clothes may make the man but our opinion is that it is the woman who makes the dress.

RECIPE

By Sarah Anne Sheridan

Sponge cake appeals to most appetites when it's topped with fresh fruits and whipped cream. Since the strawberry season is near, and sponge cake (layer or individual) can be frozen--this is a good time to stock your freezer--you can be ready for a quick dessert at a moments notice. To bake perfect sponge cakes the following steps should be used:

1. Measure all ingredients. Sift sugar through a fine sifter one to four times before measuring, then sift four times.

2. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry, and beat in gradually 1 tablespoon sugar for each egg white (out of sugar called for in recipe) and set aside.

3. Beat egg yolks with same beater until thick and lemon colored. Beat in remaining sugar.

4. Combine yolks and whites.

5. Mix remaining dry ingredients and cut and fold into egg mixture. Do not beat after adding flour.

6. Do not grease pan.

ABOUT YOUR HOME

Never fertilize wet grass. Put fertilizer on dry and water generously after applying the fertilizer.

When the weather remains hot and humid for several days, stop frequently and take five-minutes of rest while doing strenuous house chores.

By April Rhodes
To prevent steaks from curling when you put them on the grill, score fat with a sharp knife at close intervals.

Your electric knife will do more for you than slicing meats. Use it to slice freshly cooked cakes, breads, tomatoes, etc. Don't use it to slice extremely small items.

A set of measuring spoons kept in the medicine cabinet are quite handy when measuring dosages of medicine.

Insist that your school-age children eat breakfast. The first meal of the day should contain from one-fourth to one-third of the day's calorie need.

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

by Vern Sanford

If you treasure your valuables, then etch or embazon your social security number thereon. To outdoorsmen, of course, we refer to such items as handguns, rifles, binoculars, fishing reels, outboard and trolling motors and other recreation equipment.

You can write your data in permanent ink on your fishing rods if there's no metallic space available.

For your clothing, try indelible ink on the label. Of course the label can be removed, but you could cross up the thief and the "fence" by also slipping a little piece of cloth bearing your individual number inside the lining or at some hidden, inconspicuous place.

Today's thieves seem to prefer items that are easily carried such as pocket watches, small radios, cassette-type tape recorders, portable typewriters, mini-TVs -- all labelable. These in addition to liquor, other drinks and food. They also like items one can't very well mark, such as coin collections and most jewelry.

Whatever you mark, be sure and make a list of same, noting exactly where you etched the number. Make at least one copy of the list and date each page. Keep the original in your safety deposit box at the bank and turn the carbon over to either the local police department (city or county), or your insurance agent. Make a note of the recipient's name on your original, along with the date the report was filed.

Some people use their drivers license number for this purpose. But police officers strongly recommend the social security number be used.

Definitely, do not use both the DL number and the SS number. Neither should you use your telephone number, mother's telephone number, or some address that's easier to etch because it's shorter. Stick with your SS number--and use all the digits. For example, if your SS number is 414-01-5804, don't merely inscribe 414 or just 5804. Make it complete, including the hyphens 414-01-5804.

Be consistent, otherwise before long you won't know what's on what. Then, if your list becomes lost or destroyed by fire, you'll be out of luck when it comes to identifying anything.

Another reason for identifying your merchandise is the fact that the first thing legitimate pawn shop dealers look for on merchandise submitted to them are serial numbers and ownership markings. If the thief can't present a social security card that matches the number on the article, then the pawn broker will not buy the merchandise or make a loan on it. In fact some will report the incident to the police.

For these reasons some thieves will not steal any merchandise that bears ownership markings. In fact, police say that's one of the first things some thieves look for, and if a number is there they won't take it.

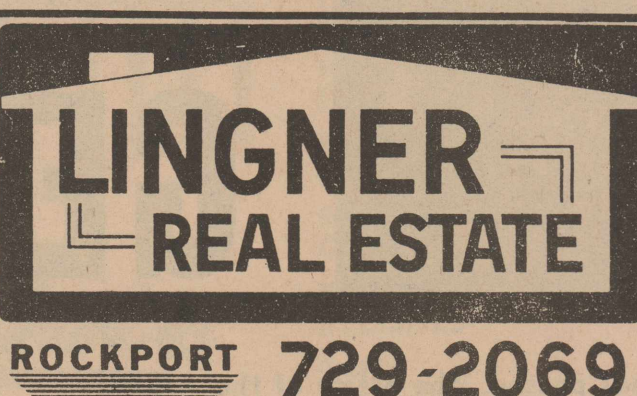

Protect your merchandise by labeling it as yours--a number that longs to you alone.

One of the Finest Ideas that has come along in years is, how people have taken an interest in their home.

Staying Young

We all grow older, inevitably; the process cannot be arrested.

And yet, in a sense, we can stay young. It takes will power and positive thinking, and perhaps luck as far as health is concerned. But most of us can do it. We CAN stay young.

There is a secret. And there are rules. The rules include watching one's diet, so one doesn't accumulate unnecessary fat.

Another is to exercise regularly. We must keep muscles in tone, keep our bodies and body movements graceful and attractive. Too many of us fail to heed the rule for exercise, which can be fun, and is all-important. The secret is state of mind. We must constantly remind ourselves to remain young in thought and spirit.

The 5 Davises

Jerry and Debby Davis, of Lewisville, Texas, became parents of quintuplets last July. All are doing fine but Jerry is having to drive truck almost every day of the month (away from home) and Debbie finds she can seldom get away from five babies and can't take them with her when shopping.

Initially, the Davises refused many commercial offers of aid. They didn't want the children exploited and the over-commercialization which focused on the famed Canadian quintuplets of several decades ago to involve Casey, Christa, Chanda, Charla and Chelsa.

It was the right decision. The folks around Lewisville are doing quite a bit for the family. To enable the five to live normal lives is the best possible goal their parents could have.

Miss Glenda Ann Linney was wed to Fred W. Grupe on Friday night in a double ring ceremony performed by Rev. Bankert at Paws and Taws building in Fulton.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ira S. Linney of Rockport. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Grupe of Fulton.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. The bride's gown was yellow with white daisies with waist-length veil. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Maid of honor was Sheila Linney, sister of the bride. Best man was Clifford Grupe, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony and reception was a dance by Nashville Persuasion at Paws and Taws building. The couple will reside in Rockport.

GI BILL INCREASED ENROLLMENT

Increased enrollment by peacetime post-Korean veterans, particularly at the college level, helped boost the number of GI bill trainees to more than 1.8 million during November, the Veterans Administration reported today. Enrollment under the program was up 18 per cent over a year ago.

VA education officials believe the November figures may prove to be the peak enrollment for the current GI BILL, which was effective June 1, 1966. Eligibility will expire May 31, 1966. Their 10-year delimiting date expires May 31, 1976.

A record 2.7 million persons trained under the GI BILL during fiscal year 1975, and projections point to more than three million this year, a VA spokesman said.

Participation rates under the current GI BILL have exceeded those under either of its two predecessors. Some 4.8 million veterans and servicemen have enrolled in some form of training. This is more than 61 per cent of those eligible.

The participation rate was 43.4 per cent for 13 years of the Korean Conflict bill and 50.5 per cent for the 12 years of the original World War II Bill.

Some 460,000 peacetime post-Korean veterans now enrolled will have their entitlement expire May 31, 1976. They represent about 19 per cent of the total November enrollment.

Among 3.4 million trainees who have been enrolled at the college level since the start of the current G.I. BILL, 21 per cent have been post-Korean veterans.

College-level training in November was 98,000 greater (8.3 per cent) than the April enrollment, the VA reported. However, other residence school training was down 1.3 per cent, correspondence courses fell off 11.8 per cent and on-the-job training decreased 24.5 per cent.

Veterans and servicemen with more than 180 continuous days of other than dishonorable active duty are eligible for VA educational assistance. Eligible veterans are entitled for 1½ months or the equivalent in part-time training for each month of active duty after Jan. 31, 1955, up to 36 months.

Those with more than 18 continuous months active duty are entitled to 36 months educational training and, in some cases, an additional none months if pursuing their first undergraduate college degree. Complete information on educational assistance benefits may be obtained at any VA office or veterans organization.

LAWNMOWERS CAN MAIM

As spring hits, millions of power lawnmowers begin surging across the nation's yards. These efficient machines will cut millions of tons of grass and injure thousands of people.

Besides its vicious cutting force, a spinning power mower blade has three times the muzzle energy of a .357 magnum pistol, which can fire a bullet through an auto engine block. A blade usually spins at 232 mph, enough speed to catch and throw small objects with deadly force. An article in the April issue of Texas Medicine, the Texas Medical Association monthly journal, details case histories of a piece of wire puncturing a man's gallbladder, an iron bolt hitting a pregnant woman in the stomach and an object cutting the neck artery of a boy.

Although these accidents were not fatal, says the author Thomas Coopwood, MD, of Austin, they were very serious. Adults can cause even worse injuries when they permit children to ride on self-propelled rotary mowers. It is entirely too easy for a child to fall and be badly cut.

A Federal Consumer Product Safety Commission study shows that more than half of all power mower accidents involve the hand. The foot, leg and ankle are the next most common sites of injury. The arm, head, eye and trunk also receive their share of injuries.

Cuts account for more than half of all the injuries. Fractures and amputations are next. The study also lists imbedded foreign objects as a serious injury source.

Most power lawnmower accidents are preventable. To cut down on problems, keep children away from power mowers (and preferably out of the yard entirely). Picking up rocks, sticks and other objects before mowing also can decrease hazards but it is impossible to remove every pebble a lawnmower can pick up and fling at a child or adult. If adults must be in the yard while someone is mowing, the operator should warn them whenever they could be hit by an object. This is especially important if the operator is not using a grass catcher. However, mowers can sling objects out from any side. Mower operators can help insure their own safety by turning the machine completely off when they have to clean out clogged grass or work on the mower in any way. Often an operator busy with adjustments on top of the mower will stick a foot into the whirling blades. Operators also injure themselves when they hit a bump or get on a steep slope and their self-propelled mowers overturn.

Power mowers can be reasonably safe machines if threatened with respect and care. Unfortunately many people become too used to them and forget about danger until it strikes.

Consumer Food News

College Station -- Beef supplies are increasing and offering "excellent values" at Texas grocery stores, Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt reports of current buying trends.

lynne Clyatt reports of current buying trends.

"Most of this increase is from grain-fed cattle -- and 'specials' include rib roasts, chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, steaks for broiling, ground beef and liver," she added.

Mrs. Clyatt is a consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Other economy-meat choices are fryer chickens and turkeys, she said.

At dairy counters, "milk and milk products offer true nutritional value for the money -- with cheese an 'all-time winner' that can serve as the protein food for some meals."

Vegetable counters offer attractive prices on broccoli, cabbage and carrots -- along with spinach, mustard, collard greens, turnip and greens.

"Potatoes are one of the best choices, price-wise, with prices lower than they have been for some time, and there are more potatoes-by-the-bag features, too," Mrs. Clyatt noted.

"Asparagus prices, although never low, are starting down as supplies increase. Also, strawberries are more plentiful, but the supply depends on weather conditions, as cold or rain retards harvesting."

Fruit counters reflect plenty of citrus at reasonable cost -- and top-quality grapefruit is among consumer choices, the specialist said.

"Also, D'Anjou pears are especially plentiful and fine quality this year."

Consumer Watchwords: In buying fryer-chicken parts, economize by figuring the best buy. Prices depend on proportion of parts to the total bird -- and on demand.

Remember that thighs and drumsticks together account for a little more than 30 per cent of the total fryer weight.

For A Full-Time Aransas County Attorney ELECT GENE A. GARCIA

The time for change has passed. The office of the Aransas County Attorney is presently able to serve some of the people some of the time . . . and it can presently serve some of the people all of the time . . . but it was designed (and it is supported by your tax dollars!) to serve ALL of the people ALL of the time!!

Now YOU, the Aransas County resident and voter, can bring about this badly needed change, by casting your ballot for GENE A. GARCIA, candidate for the office of Aransas County Attorney.

Total law enforcement, by any office supported by your tax dollars, does not have room for special favors, for 'deals' instead of pleas, or leniency for so-called 'first-offenders'. The law, as it is written, provides a standard of punishment for those found guilty, and that standard does not include the simple erasing of an offense from the court's docket of cases.

Any accused has the right to demand speedy and just prosecution . . . and his accusers, through the State's prosecutor, have that same right to efficient and meaningful dispensing of justice. The Aransas County Attorney must speak for you, the members of the community, and for your rights to protection, as well as swift retribution to the offender.

When those who would break the laws of this State and of this Country lose all respect for the officials who have been elected to enforce those laws, the Prosecutor, as the voice of the people, must make certain that those accused are not simply 'dumb' or 'unlucky', but are criminal in their intent as well as their actions, beyond all doubt.

Whether your particular issue is one of a criminal nature, or a matter of an errant father, or a worthless check, or trespassing . . . whatever your complaint, it deserves the same degree of attention and importance as the next man's, without regard to the color of your skin, the language you speak, or who your parents are.

I earnestly solicit your vote and your support in my campaign to bring FULL-TIME legal representation to the citizens of Aransas County. With help from each of you, I can apply the same diligence and hard work to that office that has enabled me to carry decisions of the County and District Courts to the Court of Criminal Appeals of the State of Texas in my private practice.

As in preventive medicine, I intend to bring to the office of Aransas County Attorney the reputation of integrity and justice which will inspire the citizens of this County to adopt the words of the famous television detective, Baretta: "If you can't do the time, don't do the crime!"

Diligence is its own reward, and I can and will provide this kind of legal diligence for the citizens of Aransas County. My only allegiance is to the standards that have made this nation great, and Aransas County is an important part of that nation to all of those who live, work, play and vote here.

Make Your Tax Dollars Work For You!! Vote GENE A. GARCIA, May 1, 1976.

VETERANS RECEIVE EDUCATION LOANS

A total of 8,429 eligible veterans received education loans during the first year of a Veterans Administration program to help needy GI Bill students, Paul F. Barnett, Acting Director, Houston Regional Office, said today.

The loans, established by the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Act of 1974, amounted to $4.5 million.

The figures showed a sharp increase over the first six months of the program when 3,181 loans were made.

VA regional office in Montgomery, Ala., Los Angeles, Calif., and Atlanta, Ga., granted the largest number of education loans during 1975, Barnett said. The Montgomery office also led in total value of loans.

The 784 loans issued by the Montgomery office totaled $687,008. The Los Angeles office issued 524 loans during the year worth a total of $257,717. The Atlanta regional office of 561 loans was valued at a total of $372,874.

The VA education loan program is designed to provide up to $600 per academic year to veterans attending school under the GI Bill who are in need of money to meet their education expenses.

The loans are in addition to the monthly GI Bill payment, Barnett noted.

The principal factor in determining eligibility is a comparison between "actual cost of attending school" and the student's "total financial resources", Barnett said.

Applicants must be enrolled at least half-time and have sought and been denied a loan under the so-called guaranteed student loan program of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Courses must lead to a college degree or be of at least six months duration and lead to "An identified and pre-determined professional or vocational objective."

Repayment of principal and interest is deferred until nine months after the student ceases eligible enrollment.

Interest on the loan is charged at the rate of 6 per cent and full payment is due within ten years and nine months. There is no prepayment penalty.

A three per cent fee is deducted from the face amount of the loan to provide a fund to insure against defaults, Barnett said.

Interested veterans may apply for education loans at the VA regional office which handles their GI Bill file.

RICE PICTURE BLEAK FOR '76

College Station -- It looks like rice producers in the United States are faced with a "feast to famine" situation.

After several years of record setting rice prices, producers are now planting their 1976 crop confronted with an uncertain market due to record domestic and world rice production last year.

That assessment of the rice producers' plight comes from Dr. Randall Stelly, marketing economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

"The thing that is really casting a dark cloud over the rice market this year is the possibility that U.S. rice stocks on August 1 could be five times the level of last summer -- 34 to 35 million hundredweights compared to only 7 million hundredweights," points out Stelly. "The main reason for this drastic increase is a 14 per cent increase in production from 1974 to 1975 coupled with almost a 16 per cent decrease in exports due to strong foreign competition."

As far as the current crop year is concerned, rice production both in the U.S. and the world is expected to be high again, bringing further pressure on the already glutted market.

"A startling fact is that about 45 per cent of last year's U.S. rice crop has still not moved into market channels," emphasized Stelly. "And in three months the new rice crop will start coming in. Unless some rice currently in storage is moved, a real bottleneck will exist -- to say the least. Marketing activity is almost nonexistent at this time; even exports under Public Law 480 (food aid) are moving slowly."

Current rough rice prices are about a third less than they were a year ago, according to the Texas A&M University System economist. That puts rice at about $6 a hundredweight.

What can U.S. rice producers do about their dilemma?

"They can do little at this point," laments Stelly. "Their main concern should be to keep production costs as low as possible while still trying to produce a good quality crop. U.S. rice is far superior to foreign rice but our foreign competitors on the world market can produce their rice so much cheaper. That's our main obstacle."

"Since the foreign rice crop won't be harvested until this fall, U.S. producers must go ahead with their production plans. If a good foreign crop develops, our farmers will suffer."

Preserve Winter Clothing By Careful Summer Storage

Careful storage of winter clothing ensures wearable garments next season--and eliminates the cost of replacing the wardrobe, Marlene Odle, a clothing specialist, points out.

"Repair all torn or ripped clothing before cleaning and storing. Agitation in the washer and hanging in the closet can make tears and holes larger and impossible to repair when they are noticed next season," she noted.

Miss Odle is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Never put away clothing that is soiled. Leaving stains in the clothing will draw moth larvae which can make quick work of ruining a wardrobe."

"Time may also set stains that would be easily removed if they were treated promptly," she said.

This specialist recommended a cool, dry area for storage to prevent mold and mildew.

She said that many professional dry cleaners store clothes at a nominal fee in controlled temperature and humidity vaults. This works well if home storage space is limited.

"Store similar colors together to prevent crocking or bleeding. Use moth balls in storage to prevent unwanted holes on those cherished items. Cedar chests and closets repel some insects, but moth proofing is necessary also."

"Remove clothes from wire hangers before storing. Place clothes on wooden or plastic hangers to give them longer life," she said.

Guests in the home of Mrs. Lloyd Smith during the Easter holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Raden, son, Micky of Port Lavaca; Mr. and Mrs. Rocky Raden, son Chris, of Lake Jackson; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Oliver, daughters Kay and Shelley and Stacey Bauer of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Johnson and daughter, Heather, of Hammond, La.; Lesli Wilson of Patterson, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Roden and daughter Jackie and Mrs. D.L. ELECT JOE

"PEPE"
Your Full Time County Commissioner
PRECINCT NO. 1-1A

Subject to the Action of the Democratic Primary
SATURDAY, MAY 1
ZAMBRANO

I, Joe "Pepe" Zambrano, mayor protem for the past year and city alderman for the past eight years will appreciate your vote for the post of County Commissioner, Precinct 1-1A.

I think I am better qualified for the post because through the many years I have lived in Aransas County, I know some of the problems of our county. All of these problems can be solved. If elected, I personally guarantee that I will sit down with each person who has problems and I will listen and work out the best solution possible.

I was the originator of the Rockport American G.I. Forum and was charter president. Our original objective was to bring many people together to work for the betterment of our community through education and it has been a tremendous success.

I believe in continued co-operation between the sheriff's office and city police and I will vote on each issue as I feel best with no pressure from any group.

I am totally interested in any project that will help the people of Aransas County; that's why I voted for the "City Park" while on the City Council. It gives families with children a place to go and enjoy themselves.

I have been an active member of the business community and have a positive sense for government, and believe, "that the people must talk and communicate with their representative on a one to one basis for better government services. Government can move forward when the people's needs are made known and apparent and useless and duplicated spending must be cut down."

I am proud to be labeled as the "Champion of the Common People" and have earned that reputation by voting for a balanced budget, the current tax rate and lower telephone rates within the city.

I will be a full time commissioner and I believe in treating everyone fair and equal. I will always be available to discuss county issues with anyone in my precinct and will work to better Precinct 1-1A.

I earnestly solicit your vote and support and welcome any opportunity to speak with the voting public.

Drainage projects were successfully obtained for the people in Ward 1, and I intend to work for and help out in the county's low drainage areas with projects to eliminate the stagnant waters from our homes and our roads.

At the county level, our senior citizens should receive as a symbol of honorable prior service, a reduction on their tax burden. We have a great community for the senior citizens and I am going to work to improve and encourage more senior citizens to move into this county.

If you need a ride to the polls, please call 729-6553, 729-8521, 729-8668, 729-5819 or 729-5028.

Three Sea Turtles To Be Added To Threatened List

Austin-Pacific Ridley, loggerhead and green sea turtles have been proposed by the National Marine Fisheries Service for designation as threatened species under provisions of the 1973 Endangered Species Act.

With perhaps the exception of the Pacific Ridley, the turtles have been found in waters off the Texas coast.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department fisheries officials say the three species, and all sea turtles, already are protected under state law and it is illegal to "take, kill or disturb any sea turtle or turtle eggs in or from the waters of the State of Texas."

According to federal estimates, the world population of green sea turtles in the wild is between 100,000 and 400,000 with another 100,000 held in captivity.

The population of loggerheads along the Atlantic and Gulf Coasts of the U.S. has been estimated at only 25,000 to 50,000 animals.

A world population estimate of the Pacific Ridelys has not been made but it is believed to be considerably more abundant than either the green or the loggerhead.

Already included on the endangered list are the Atlantic Ridley, hawksbill and leather-back sea turtles.

In a draft federal environmental impact statement circulated to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department for comment, five factors have been cited as responsible for the decline of the three species proposed for threatened status:

- (1) overutilization for commercial purposes;
- (2) destruction, modification or curtailment of habitat or range;
- (3) inadequacy of regulatory mechanism;
- (4) other natural or man-made factors affecting their existence-including incidental catch by fishermen; and
- (5) predation and disease.

The first three are considered the most important.

Demand for sea turtle products appears to be increasing, particularly for meat, leather and oil to be used in cosmetics.

Although illegal in many parts of the world, the taking of egg-laying turtles is still widespread. Females especially are vulnerable to humans and other predators when they come ashore to lay eggs.

Moreover, human development along once-isolated beaches has reduced the nesting areas available for turtles.

Once in the water, newly hatched turtles fall prey to sharks and carnivorous fish such as groupers and snappers. It is estimated that only one to three percent of sea turtle hatchlings from each clutch of 100 eggs survive to sexual maturity (four to six years.)

This low survival rate is magnified since only 50 percent of the eggs successfully hatch.

According to the federal report, sea turtles are accidentally taken by commercial fishermen, especially in shrimp trawls. The turtles become trapped in nets and unable to escape.

Although turtles may be caught in shrimp trawls, only a small percentage of them are drowned. Even some which appear to be dead may survive if placed on their backs on deck and allowed to breathe.

The draft environmental impact statement proposes that fishing not be allowed in areas of "substantial breeding or feeding of any such wildlife."

However, in a resolution adopted in March by the Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission, it was pointed out that if strictly interpreted and enforced the proposal could threaten the shrimp industry from North Carolina to Texas.

While supporting the majority of the report, the commission felt the incidental catch of turtles in shrimp trawls was insignificant in comparison to loss from predation and massive harvesting by some countries. Commissioners urged the National Marine Fisheries Service to drop the language from its draft environmental impact statement.

Behind the Seams

BY PEGGY BENDEL

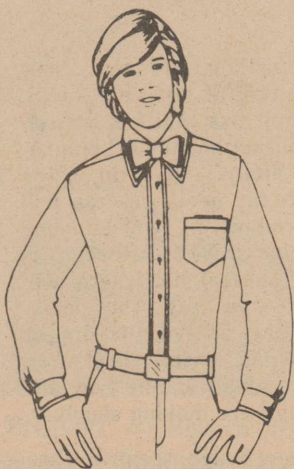

If you plan to put your sewing and craft talents to work on holiday gifts, start stitching now. Ambitious projects like quilts, stuffed toys, needlepoint kits and embroidered treasures take time. If your handiwork is to be a gift of your best, you'll want to work in an unhurried manner.

While browsing through the new pattern catalogs, you'll find many items. Especially good for gifts are accessories without fitting problems, like ponchos, shawls, tote bags and gardening or cooking aprons. Some other ideas are a doll clothes wardrobe, an Americana sampler, or something special to wear like a monogrammed shirt or blouse, or holiday outfits for children.

If you're working with kits, here's another reason to start early. Should you run short of any yarns, you will have time to write to the manufacturer and request extra materials. Companies do this as a courtesy, and need to know the kit number and yarn color code to fill your request.

Building a Sewing Library: Many who sew find a personal sewing library indispensable. A typical collection might include a basic reference book, plus several books on specific subjects like batik, creative stitchery, patchwork or macrame. Newspaper and magazine clippings, as well as manufacturers' brochures (given away in fabric stores), can be collected in a binder to supplement and up-date the information in the reference book. A book shelf like this contains a gold mine of information at your fingertips, ready to answer questions as you sew, teach a new skill or guide you through a crafts project.

A worthy addition to the book shelf of those interested in sewing for men is How To Make Men's Clothes, by Jane Rhinehart, (Doubleday $8.95). The author takes the traditional approach to tailoring, rather than the dressmaker's approach, and gives the kind of inside information an apprentice tailor would gain from his white-haired mentor. This is what makes Ms. Rhinehart's book unique, and she covers her subject in detail, from how to hold the needle in the tailor's way, to performing the custom finishing techniques. Like any quality how-to-book, this one is well-illustrated, has sensible instructions and is backed up by practical research.

A CUSTOM MADE shirt is a luxury he will love. It's time to start sewing now if you plan to finish in time for the holidays. (Simplicity 7205).

The Car Renters

Competition has finally brought the long-entrenched two or three major car rental businesses down to earth. They've been forced to reduce prices sharply, even as costs have risen, and today one can get better terms than two or three years ago.

The Federal Trade Commission has charged that Hertz, Avis and National have monopolized business at certain airports.

Regardless of the outcome of the FTC case, new competition has been good for customers. In Canada, lower priced rental agencies forced some of the entrenched out of business. That would probably have happened here, rightly so, if prices hadn't been reduced.

Cancer Hope

Cancer will claim the lives of thousands of Americans this year. Despite progress made, the American Cancer Society and cancer specialists stress the necessity of educating the public to the fact that early cancer is curable.

What scientists would like to discover is a single key test which would simply and surely detect the disease, such as the blood test used to detect syphilis. But no such test is yet available.

Because the cause is not yet thoroughly understood, cancer checkups are the only sensible precautions one can take.

Thinking Slim

BY JEAN NIDETCH

Complaining is a waste of time.

If we are not happy with what we've got, or what we are, or what we do, the solution will not be found in complaints. That is merely dumping our problems on someone else.

The point is, we are exactly what we want to be, we have what we want, we do what we want.

Look deep within yourself. Be cold and honest. Examine the things you say you would like to change. Do you really want to change them?

You say you've never been a success. Yes you have, because you have succeeded in never being a success.

Too many of us are failure-oriented. Too many of us won't accept responsibility, preferring to blame circumstances, environment, family, friends — anything but the true source: ourselves.

Paradoxically enough, accepting responsibility lifts a huge burden from our shoulders. Now there is no longer any need to look for cause outside of yourself. If you have caused it, you can remedy it.

Overweight is caused by overeating. Failure is caused by not really wanting to succeed. Psychologists recognize, for example, that sometimes accidents are caused because we want them to happen.

I know an actress who was slightly injured filming a scene where she gets beaten up by a fellow actor. She wound up in the studio hospital for examination. Someone from the production checked to see how she was and the nurse in charge said, "Oh, she always winds up here."

It's a call for attention. Something is missing from her life — although on the surface she has everything: beauty, a good career, a loving husband and children. And she'll go on being a victim until she examines what is causing it — and takes responsibility.

The same with any of you who wants to change your life. It merely takes the commitment to the doing of it.

Most of us live on less than our full potential. Think of the power we have if we increase our use of it.

SSI INVESTIGATION FOR ALL RECIPIENTS

People getting supplemental security income (SSI) payments shouldn't feel they're being singled out for investigation when they're contacted during the year by social security representatives, according to A.L. Finck, Jr., district manager for the Corpus Christi social security district.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 and over or blind or disabled. "The law requires that eligibility for supplemental security income and the amount of the monthly payments be redetermined once a year for everyone getting the payments," Finck said.

"The Social Security Administration gets in touch with people to get information about income, living arrangements, and other factors that might affect their supplemental security income payments," he said. "This may be done by a questionnaire in the mail or by personal interview in the home or social security office."

Social security representatives are glad to identify themselves, according to Finck. "They never ask you to give them money to have something done," he said. "It's their duty to help people in any way they can — to get supplemental security income payments in the right amount."

People can get information about supplemental security income payments by calling, visiting, or writing the Social Security office at 5733 South Padre Island Drive.

Kindness has never yet done anyone serious harm.

Vet Benefits Expire May 31

Education benefits will be expiring on May 31, 1976, for many veterans who served in the Armed Forces between January 31, 1955, and May 31, 1966, Jack Coker, Waco Veterans Administration Regional Office Director, reported today.

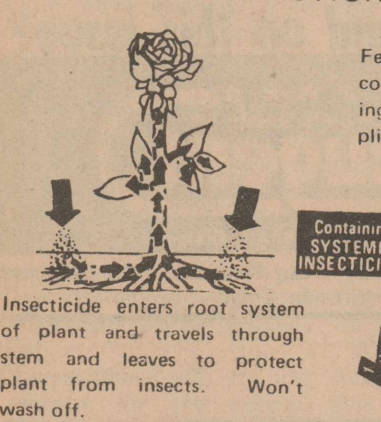

"Veterans in this category who will be continuing their education should be seeking alternate educational financial assistance," said Coker. HEW Office of Education, Department of Labor, and state agencies have numerous financial assistance programs available. "School financial aid offices are also a good source of information on available assistance," Coker stated. HEW has Basic Educational Opportunity Grants, Higher Education Act Insured Loans, and National Direct Student Loans. The Department of Labor has the CETA (Comprehensive Employment Training Act) program and the State of Texas has the Vocational Rehabilitation Program and the Hazlewood Act.

Information may be obtained from any VA office, Veterans Representatives on Campus, veterans service organizations, veterans county service officers, or school financial assistance offices.

Mr. and Mrs. George Parker of Holiday Beach had their granddaughter, Mrs. Patricia Wiley of Houston, and her three children, Baron, Derik and Layla, as guests during Easter week. They returned to Houston on Saturday for Easter Sunday and the Parkers accompanied them.

MORGAN IN NTSU MEN'S CHORUS

There was a combination of old tunes and new compositions at the North Texas State University Men's Chorus Concert Tuesday (April 20) in the NTSU Music Recital Hall.
Although the program contained such favorites as "Aura Lee," "Song of Peace," "The Vagabond" and "Song of Democracy," Men's Chorus conductor Dr. Paul Roe said that he also invited members of the fall semester Men's Chorus to submit their own compositions for a spring concert.

"Almost 75 per cent of the members are composition majors," he said. "I thought we could use the chorus as a sort of lab."

Original arrangements and compositions by students included "Sonnet 97" by Rockport sophomore Michael Morgan, a 1974 graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley R. Morgan, Rockport.

Brown Shrimp Reach Bays

Austin -- Juvenile brown shrimp, now at a critical growth period in Texas bays, have begun congregating in large numbers in traditional nursery areas from the lower Laguna Madre north to Sabine Lake.

Brown shrimp, utilized for food and bait, are a major part of Texas shrimping operations, one of the largest and most valuable of the nation's seafood industries.

In 1975, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department estimated the dockside landing of brown, pink and white shrimp surpassed the $90 million mark.

"March and April are critical months in brown shrimp growth because the juveniles have migrated to shallow nursing areas in the bays where they grow rapidly in the protected environment," said Terry Leary, P&WD shellfish program director.

He said relatively salty water in the bays combined with warm water temperatures this year caused a larger juvenile population.

"The warmer the water, the faster they grow and the faster they migrate back into the Gulf once they reach a size of about three inches," Leary said.

He added that juvenile shrimp are vulnerable to cold waters while in nursery areas and to predators in the deeper bays and Gulf.

Also, premature emigration from shallow water at a small size can cause high mortality.

Studies by P&WD and others indicate juvenile browns grow faster in warm waters and high salinities, and mid-March 1976 temperature readings were higher than similar readings in March 1975.

"In April 1975, a norther came in and dropped the bay water temperature to 57 degrees, and there was a big loss of juvenile shrimp," Leary said.

Records show between January and November 1975, 40.8 million pounds of brown, pink and white shrimp were harvested off the Texas Gulf Coast, the lowest figure in five years. That was six million pounds below the 1974 figure and 13 million pounds below the 1973 harvest of 53.5 million pounds.

"The 69-degree temperatures recorded in Galveston Bay during late March this year are encouraging for the summer harvest," Leary said.

He noted samples collected by P&WD coastal fisheries personnel point to a wide distribution and larger numbers of brown shrimp in bays this year over last.

"If salinities in the bays remain at their present level and if water temperatures continue to rise we can expect good production and a strong harvest this year," Leary added.

Early April samples show the bulk of juvenile brown shrimp have an average size of 1 1/4 inches in Galveston Bay to two inches in the Laguna Madre off Brownsville.

Under current Texas law, the legal size of catchable shrimp is 65 headless or 39 heads-on shrimp per pound or an average size shrimp of about 4 1/2 inches.

Bait shrimp may be harvested in bays year-round, except nights between Aug. 15 - Dec. 15. Large table shrimp are harvested in major bays from Aug. 15 to Dec. 15.

By statute, shrimp harvesting in the Gulf is closed June 1 through July 15 to give the heavy concentration of shrimp migrating from bays a chance to grow before they are harvested.

There are 2,800 boats licensed to harvest shrimp in the Gulf within Texas' nine-nautical mile jurisdictional boundary, including Texas, Louisiana and Florida shrimpers. Additionally, boats from Mexico and Cuba harvest Texas shrimp beyond the 12-mile national fishery zone.

Under statutory framework set up by the Texas Legislature, P&WD began its program to manage the multimillion-dollar shrimping industry in 1959. P&WD monitors on-going shrimp growth rates, migration patterns, seasonal abundance trends and habitat needs in estuaries, where brown shrimp attain subadult size in preparing to return to the Gulf to spawn. White shrimp remain longer, and reach a larger size, thus providing a bay fishery for table shrimp.

Brown are harvested in the Gulf during late July, while white shrimp are harvested in bays beginning in late August.

The Kinsey
 Report

"When once the lure of salt-water grabs a man, it holds him forever in its grasp. All of the mysteries beneath its surface can never be fathomed, and no matter how hard he tries, there will always be something new to learn.

"Although there are some barren, lonely places in the waters of the bays created by nature, as well as by man and his pollution, others team with scores of different types of life -- fish, shellfish, crabs, shrimp -- and some that time will slowly dribble out for man to see for the first time."

Thus, local author Anton A. Husak, in the introduction to his new book, "The Saltwater Craftsman," lures you to read on after you buy the book at The Bookstore in the St. Clair Shopping Center on Highway 35 North. Husak continues:

"Along the shores rimmed with saltgrass and the marshy salt flats is another fascinating world of wild creatures: the sandfiddlers that have learned to live on land and do their mating rituals; the shore birds wading the shallow ponds pecking at minnows; the ducks digging and sifting the shallow bottoms with their bills for food; the shy rails, secretly weaving in and out of the edges of the saltgrass searching for something to eat; and even a hardy breed of mice that come out to steal the bait you laid nearby, or approach into the firelight of your campfire to stand on their hind legs and beg for food."

Husak makes a person become more observant, more adventurous, and, as he intended, makes a person read on.

CAGED TOMATOES FOR GREATER USE

Instead of staking and pruning tomatoes this year, D.P. Pawlik, county agent with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, suggests using wire cages to support the plants.

Caging rather than staking and pruning offers home gardeners in San Patricio and Aransas Counties several advantages, including less sunburn of the fruit, fewer disease problems, and higher yield, all with much less work.

According to Pawlik, the cages can be constructed from concrete reinforcing wire, hog wire or any other sturdy wire mesh that has openings of at least four to six inches and is three-and-a-half to five feet tall. Cut and bend the mesh material into cylinders 16 to 20 inches in diameter, fasten the ends together, and snip off the bottom ring so that the cages can be pushed into the ground about six inches deep for support.

When using wire cages for growing tomatoes, space the plants about two-and-a-half to three feet apart in the row and allow four to five feet between rows.

Pawlik suggests planting a vining or semi-vining type tomato variety when using cages although bush-types can also be used.

After tomato plants have been set in the garden, place a wire cage over each plant and make sure it is well anchored in the ground. The plant will grow up through the cage and the wire mesh will support it. No suckering, pruning or training will be necessary. Ripe fruit can be picked through the cage openings.

Cost of the cages will vary from 30 to 50 cents each, but they can be stored and used for several years.

starter," she said.

"How easy or difficult would it be for other family members to figure out your record system--or do you have a system?"

"Who in the family besides you knows where to turn for necessary information about the family assets and obligations?"

"Do you have a list of people who are important financial advisers?"

"The list might include tax consultant, attorney, banker, insurance representatives, employer, all creditors and debtors," she suggested.

"What happens if your home is burglarized or if there is a fire and all records are destroyed? Which ones can be replaced, and how do you do so?"

"Also, keeping records should be a family affair, rather than the responsibility of just one member of the household," she said.

NOTICE

I would like to make a public apology to Sheriff Bob Hewes for any wrongs the sign with the slogan "This is Hewes Country" may have caused. I painted the sign and the wording was left to me and I happened across an old Marlboro cigarette ad and borrowed the slogan for use on Sheriff Hewes sign. It was a lack of forethought on my part and the wrong, if any, is mine, not anyone else's.

Local Persons Take Cruise

A number of local residents were among the approximately 500 passengers who made a five-day cruise from Corpus Christi to Veracruz, Mexico, and return aboard the cruise ship Veracruz last week.

Owners of the steamship line reported after the cruise that they planned to operate additional cruises out of Corpus Christi starting in September as a result of the popularity of last week's excursion.

The ship left Corpus Christi Sunday afternoon and returned Thursday afternoon. Over the previous weekend, from Friday afternoon until Sunday noon, a short "cruise to nowhere" was operated. This excursion was reported to have been booked to capacity with about 700 passengers aboard.

These two passenger cruises were reported to have been the very first in the history of Corpus Christi.

A full day's stop for shopping and sightseeing in Veracruz as well as a bus tour to a nearby community was on the program Tuesday. Also, there was a chamber music program by students of the University of Veracruz Tuesday evening at the opera house followed by a Mexican folk dancing and singing program.

Throughout the cruise there was music for dancing, a program of entertainment each evening and motion pictures three times a day. In addition, there were daily bingo games and a small scale gambling casino equipped with 21 gaming tables and scores of slot machines.

Rockport people who made the cruise reported the service was good and the food adequate although several said it was not up to the quality they had experienced on previous cruises. All were enthusiastic about the cleanliness and modern facilities with which the ship was equipped. There was some adverse comment on the size of cabins, which are smaller than those usually found on cruise ships. However, the cabins and bathrooms included every modern convenience and were kept in "like-new" condition, according to passengers.

A tour of the bridge impressed passengers with the apparent safety of the ship. Modern devices with which it was equipped included navigation by satellite, automatic pilot, sprinkler protection against possible fire, water-tight compartments throughout the ship and a number of back-up safety devices, including what appeared to be a competent crew.

The SS Veracruz, formerly named SS Freeport, was built in Hamburg, Germany in 1957 and was completely remodeled and redecorated in 1975. It is 490 feet long, has a draft of 22½ feet with eight decks and 465 cabins. It is equipped with a bow thruster which makes the ship much more maneuverable in docking. It has sewage treatment plant and water distillation equipment.

EASTER VISIT

Mr. & Mrs. Ed Morrison and sons, Tommy, Kenny and Ronnie of San Antonio, spent the Easter weekend with his parents, Mr. & Mrs. John Leslie. They had an Easter egg hunt and went to church and were joined at dinner by Mr. & Mrs. John D. Leslie. The Morrisons left for home on Sunday afternoon.

A.A.R.P. HEARS SHERIFF HEWES

A.A.R.P. regular meeting was called to order by president John L. Leslie after a period of coffee and fellowship.

The speaker for the day was Sheriff Bob Hewes who ran a film showing how older people can protect themselves from purse snatchers, obscene phone calls, robberies, etc.

He also said the Sheriff's Dept. will make a security check of the home if you would call them, and suggested ways you might improve your security. Also, if you are out-of-town for a period of time, if you will let them know they will check your house periodically.

The treasurer reported the club now has 380 paid-up members—if you haven't paid your dues for 1976 (due Jan. 1st) your name will be placed on the inactive list. You may activate it again, however, by paying your dues.

Thanks are due Bernice Parker who has taken over the Community Calendar—if you have any additions or deletions you are asked to call her. She wants to keep up with the community affairs and get them listed correctly.

Mr. McBride said they had about 42 calls on helping people with their income tax—had operated with his committee 3 days a week during this period.

Concern Center chairman George Parker said the Dial-A-Care program is working out fine.

The next meeting of A.A.R.P. will be a covered dish affair and the fellowship hour will be from 10:30 to 11:00 on April 28th. Mrs. Eunice Hamon, County Librarian, will be on hand for the program to tell about the Aransas County Library. A.A.R.P. members are also asked to gather up and bring any books they might have around the house and closet which they have read, to add to the library. Paperbacks are also acceptable. Mr. Williams will also be present to tell about the Heart Fund.

ROCKPORT MAMAS BASEBALL NEWS

The Rockport Mamas have played two games in the Corpus Christi City league. They tied with Venture Marine April 7 by the score of 5-5. The game was highlighted by a 3-run home run by third baseman, Fay Lewis.

They met the Patriots of Corpus Christi April 14 and defeated them 9 to 2. Again, Fay Lewis displayed her magic bat by knocking in 5 runs with two homeruns. On the other corner the first baseman, Shirley Rice, came through with two run-producing hits to center field.

Wanda James displayed near-perfect pitching allowing only one hit, one walk and no runs.

The Mamas entered the Pt. Lavaca tournament April 9-10-11 but were outclassed, winning one and dropping two. However, they had their moment of glory by turning in the tournament's only triple play initiated by second baseman, Frieda Herron.

Nursing Home News Apr. 12-18

The Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center had another nice week of activities. Beginning on Monday afternoon, the Future Homemakers of America from Ingleside High School came over and gave out Easter baskets to all of our residents. They sang a few songs and our people really were proud of their little baskets.

Tuesday afternoon, the ladies who I had named "The Dogooders", were out for their game day. However, they are now known as "The Caring Ones", which is what they really are. We do thank you ladies for coming out each month to make a lot of people happy.

Wednesday morning at ten o'clock Father Hamilton along with several ladies of his church came out to have "Easter Mass".

Wednesday evening, the Acteens from the First Baptist Church of Ingleside were on hand for their monthly program of singing songs and serving refreshments.

Also, Wednesday afternoon, our gentlemen residents got their hair cut. Then, you all know Lois, our beautician had a busy week getting all the ladies prettied up for Easter.

Thursday morning right after exercises, the Pentecostal group was out for their program.

Friday afternoon, "Stations of the Cross" was held for our Catholic residents and led by Dora Rodriguez.

Saturday morning, Father Hamilton was out to administer

Holy Communion to our Catholics.

The rest of Saturday and Sunday was left as leisure time or for those going out for Easter and the others just doing what they wished to do.

Sunday morning Church Services were held by Rev. Al Bankert.

A big thanks to the ladies of the Workbasket Club for the very pretty Easter favors made out of bars of bath soap and made to look like a Bible. They were beautiful. Thanks to the lady from the Aransas Pass Woman's Club who brought out the pretty flowers.

I would now like to thank the Hibiscus Garden Club for the beautiful lilies they sent and to all of you who sent or brought flowers to us for Easter. They were all so pretty and we do love each and everyone of you for "Caring."

Thanks to Gerry Rittenhouse for donating a walker to the Nursing Center.

TIMETABLE ON VETERANS' BENEFITS

Veterans recently separated from military service are encouraged by the Veterans Administration to check the timetable on veterans' benefits. Upon notification by the Department of Defense that service members have terminated active duty under conditions other than dishonorable, the VA sends the new veteran a summary of key benefits with time periods which application must be made.

Separate communications provide the veteran with GI Loan Certificates of Eligibility for homes, condominiums and mobile homes and information on insurance and education programs.

The veteran is urged to contact the nearest VA office or representative of veterans' service organization for complete application procedures.

The benefits timetable includes:

--Register with local state employment service office soon after separation. Unemployment benefits vary between states.
--Within 90 days, apply to former employer for reemployment.

--Within 120 days (up to one year if totally disabled), convert Servicemen's Group Life Insurance to five-year Veterans' Group Life Insurance. Apply to office of Servicemen's Group Life Insurance, 212 Washington Street, Newark, N.J. 07102.

--Within one year from date of notice to VA rating on disability, apply to VA for special National Service Life Insurance based on service-connected disability, if applicable.

--Within one year, apply to VA for dental care.

--As soon as possible, apply to VA for GI Bill educational training, which must be completed within 10 years of separation from military service.

There are no time limits for veterans to:

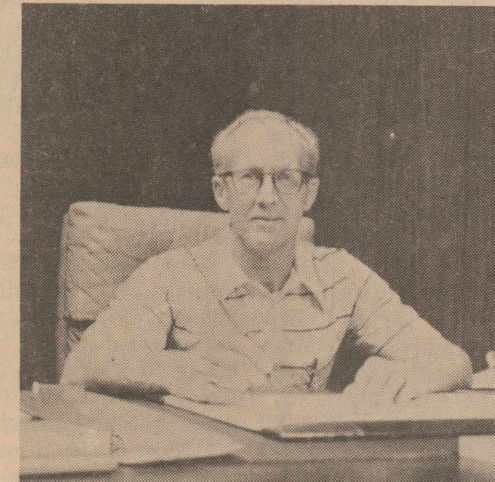

--Apply for GI loan guaranty to buy, build or improve a home.

--File claim with VA for compensation for service-connected disabilities or disease or apply for hospital care.

--Seek assistance from local state employment offices in finding work or entering Labor Department job-training programs.

We know you're concerned about your electric bill.

We're cutting costs wherever possible.

Your electricity bill has already been increased by the fuel adjustment charge — a necessary addition on which we make no profit. So we're making every effort at Central Power and Light Company to reduce other costs wherever possible.

Fuel adjustment is the billing method virtually all utilities use to pass on to customers the rising costs of the fuels which must be burned to make electricity. CPL makes no profit on this charge.

And we can assure you that other costs are being kept to a minimum through CPL's efforts to maintain an efficient, economical operation.

While keeping our standard of service to you high, CPL has achieved significant savings in many areas. In little more than a year, for example, we've reduced the number of company vehicles by 77 and our supply inventory by some $3,149,000.

We've reduced expenses for overtime, and travel, and have made other economies in buying supplies. And we are operating today with 151 fewer employees than a year ago by not replacing those who resign or retire.

With the slower rate of growth in electric use, we're saving many millions of dollars in costs by eliminating some future electric lines and generating plants which had been planned.

We've also found other ways to save money. When possible, we concentrate electric generation at our most efficient units, thus reducing the need for fuel. At other times we purchase energy from neighboring utilities, when their price is lower than CPL's fuel cost would be to generate that same electricity.

At CPL, we're concerned about the rising cost of electricity. We're doing everything we can to cut costs while still providing reliable service.
