Chinese Counter-Offensive Said To Have Driven Japs Back

Hangchow Front Reports Great Loss Of Life

Japanese, However, Announce Occupation Complete; Missionaries In Danger

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Jan. 4. (Sunday) — Chinese military authorities reported today flying columns under Gen. Chang Fah-Kwei, famed "ironsides" commander, had driven the Japanese from Hangchow with heavy losses.

Sharp fighting was reported developing on the outskirts of the historic capital of Chekiang province, 120 miles southwest of Shanghai.

Japanese insisted their occupation of Hangchow was complete and unopposed. Communication with Hangchow was shattered but latest reports from there indicated foreigners were safe and the situation quiet.

U. S. Missionaries Endangered

Other Chinese reports said the Japanese occupation of the area from Shanghai westward to Nanking was far from complete. They claimed the Japanese were extended over an area too large for their available troops to control.

Two Japanese columns were driven from the north and south to pinch off Suchow, in northern Kiangsu province, one of the most important railroad junctions in China.

One army was battling Chinese forces at Kashan, on the fringes of the Kiangsu lakes region.

Reports from the battle area 300 miles northwest of Shanghai indicated four American missionaries were in danger of being trapped at Suchow.

The missionaries who remained at Suchow were Dr. and Mrs. Frank A. Brown of Norfolk, Va., Dr. Archibald McFadyen, Raeford, N. C., and Mrs. N. D. Grier, Due West, S. C.

Chinese In Counter Offensive

To the east of the southward advancing Japanese units, bombing planes raided the Tsingtao peninsula. Pingtu, 50 miles northwest of Tsingtao, was bombed. Nine missionaries of the Southern Baptist church are at Pingtu.

The planes scouted Tsingtao and a Japanese warship dropped anchor briefly at Tsingtao bay. Belief the city was to be attacked by the Japanese navy was heightened when a man-of-war swung alongside the luxurious waterfront hotels. It turned about and set out to sea, however, without disclosing the object of the visit.

The Chinese air force, presumably using recently delivered Soviet planes, began an aerial counter-offensive Sunday with an attack on Japanese-captured Nanking, once China's capital.

McCraw Too Busy To Announce, He Says

AUSTIN, Jan. 3. (AP)—Attorney General William McCraw evidently is convinced that a late official start is no handicap in a governor's race.

He intimated strongly today he would delay his formal announcement for a month and perhaps longer. Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson and State Representative Clarence E. Farmer of Fort Worth already have shoved their sombreros into the ring and Mayor C. K. Quin of San Antonio said he would do likewise unless Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson ran.

"With hearing in the E. H. R. Green inheritance tax case being resumed in New York Monday," McCraw said, "I won't have any time to devote to politics. I have participated personally in that contest so far and will continue to do so. I don't want to announce for governor until I'm in position to start my campaign in earnest."

No Persons Disqualified From Highway Jobs Because Of Age

AUSTIN, Jan. 3. (AP)—Advanced age, charged in some quarters with removing men from industry's payrolls, apparently is no deterrent in the highway department.

E. M. Belcher, director of the compension division, said today only 150 of the approximately 6,500 persons on the department's labor payroll had been disqualified from jobs and none because of age.

Boy King, Cabinet Defied And Riotous Session Of Egyptian Deputies Held

(By The Associated Press)

CAIRO, Jan., — The chamber of deputies tonight defied Egypt's boy king and in a riotous session voted a lack of confidence in the government he chose to succeed the ousted Nationalist Premier Mustapha Nahas Uasha.

The deputies cried down Drahmed Haher, president of the chamber, when he attempted to read a message from King Farouk suspending parliament for one month. They voted against the government 180 to 17 while Maher shouted the session was illegal.

The senate also voted its lack of confidence in the new government of Premier Mohamed Mahoud, 83 to 4.

After the vote the deputies trooped out of the parliament buildings through hundreds of police to the nearby club of the Nationalist Wafdist political party.

There Nahas called for the Hahmoud government to resign and declared the king had failed in his attempt to suspend parliament as the outcry was so great the decree could not be read. The suspension was to have cleared the way for new elections by which the king hoped to overthrow the Wafdist parliamentary majority.

Police Clear Chamber

When Maher, brother of King Farouk's political adviser who was one of the causes of the quarrel with Nahas, attempted to read the decree, Nahas sprang to his feet demanding the right to speak.

Maher refused him the floor and the tumult became so great the president declared the session ended. Police were ordered to clear the chamber and the galleries quickly were evacuated, but the police refused to drive out the deputies.

Many of the deputies were armed with heavy sticks and they blocked the entrances to the chamber while the stormy session went on in darkness.

The quarrel between Egypt's 18 year old king and Nahas developed early last fall when Rarouk attempted to increase his influence in the government and demanded the blue-shirted Wafdist youth organization be disbanded.

After weeks of futile seeking after a compromise Nahas refused to permit arbitration by a committee named by Farouk and was summarily dismissed from office.

Ford Protests Labor Decision

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, Jan. 3.—The Ford Motor Co. asked the National Labor Relations board today to vacate its recent decision that the company violated the Wagner labor relations act, and the board announced it would defer court action against the company while considering the petition for a new hearing.

The petition, filed with the labor board in Washington, said the company had been "denied a fair hearing both within the meaning of the statute and in violation of the fifth amendment to the constitution of the United States."

Violence Recalled

It said evidence would be offered at a re-hearing to disprove the anti-union activities charged in the decision, or justify them in the light of the "history of the time."

Should the re-hearing be denied, the board's next move would be to apply to the United States circuit court of appeals for an enforcement order.

The board held the company responsible for violence which occurred at the Ford Dearborn plant May 26. It ordered the company to reinstate 29 men discharged allegedly for union activities and to post notices it was desisting from interference with the United Automobile Workers or other legitimate labor organizations. The 10-day period granted for compliance with those orders expired last night.

New Income Tax Proposal Given Tentative O. K.

Progressive Increase In Levy Would Be Imposed In Ratio To Business Done

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—A proposal to increase the proposed income tax on corporations having profits of $20,000 to $25,000 received tentative approval today as a house tax subcommittee started the new congressional session by resuming its tax revision studies.

It proposed corporations with income of $25,000 or less pay 12 1-2 per cent on the first $5,000, 14 per cent on the next $15,000 and 16 per cent on the last $5,000.

The rates would take the place of those of 12 1-2 per cent on the first $5,000 and 14 per cent on earnings between $5,000 and $25,000, which the subcommittee accepted during the special session.

Progressive Scale Planned

The $25,000 firms would be relieved of the necessity of paying undistributed profits taxes, while larger companies would pay 16 to 25 per cent income tax—the exact rate depending on the proportion of their incomes paid to stockholders in dividends.

A 16 per cent top levy on the small firms, Chairman Vinson (D-Ky) said, would help provide for a gradual instead of an abrupt increase in rates between this category and that of the larger companies.

A further provision designed to assist in making increases gradual would place corporations with intermediate incomes in a separate tax class or "notch." They would pay higher taxes than the $25,000 firms and lower ones than the big companies.

Alabama Election Finds Wage-Hour Bill A Prime Issue

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Jan. 3. (AP)—Democratic voters of Alabama will nominate a United States senator tomorrow after a campaign in which the wages and hours bill was one of the chief issues.

Mrs. Dixie Graves, the present holder of the seat, is not a candidate.

Representative Lister Hill, Montgomery's veteran congressman, favors the measure, Former Senator J. Thomas Heflin, seeking return, and Charles W. Williams, political newcomer, oppose it as harmful to the South.

Approximately 20 members from points on approximately 2,400 miles of line represented in the chapter were in attendance.

Joan Crawford Not At Father's Rites

ABILENE, Jan. 3. (AP)—Although Joan Crawford had been reported flying westward, she did not appear here today at the funeral service for her father, 71-year-old Thomas E. le Sueur.

The curious had kept up a barrage of telephoning all day, calling the municipal airport, hotels, the funeral chapel, and newspapers for word of the movie actress.

A score or more even sat in automobiles outside the funeral home. Once when a taxicab drew up and a tall woman in black stepped out, there was mild excitement. The woman was Mrs. Charles le Sueur of Abilene, wife of a cousin of the actress.

Overshadowing all other floral tributes to the elderly father of Miss Crawford was a giant wreath of lilies, primroses, gladioluses and fern. It was delivered to the funeral home at noon today, on telegraphic order from the actress, sent yesterday from New York. Later, following the burial rites, the wreath was placed at the head of her father's grave in a local cemetery.

Court Sustains Power Subsidies

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. — The supreme court threw out the challenges of two private power companies to federal financing of public power projects today in a decision Secretary Ickes said would affect $146,917,808 of proposed construction.

Unanimously, the court ruled the Alabama and Duke Power companies had no legal governments in Alabama and Duke power companies had no legal right to contest validity of PWA loans and grants to local governments in Alabama and South Carolina for the construction of power plants.

The justices held the companies had suffered no invasion of legal or equitable right as the result of the government's activity concerning these projects.

Ickes Apparently Pleased

Secretary Ickes, the public works administrator, said the decision would affect immediately 61 public power projects in 23 states.

"This decision," he said, "appears at the end of a long trail on which certain selfish corporations sought to block the will of the people. The

End Of "Abuses" Is Asked; Monopoly Control Looms

Later Message Of President Expected To Be Directed At "Certain Processes"

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—President Roosevelt indicated today he would ask congress to tighten existing controls over monopoly.

The chief executive made general references to the subject in his message to congress on the state of the nation, and said he would send a later message "in regard to the relationship of government to certain processes of business."

Saying there are business practices "which most people believe should be ended," Mr. Roosevelt asserted these included "collusive bidding in defiance of the spirit of the anti-trust laws by methods which baffle prosecution under present statutes."

Statutes Not Adequate

Mr. Roosevelt's statements followed a recommendation by Attorney General Cummings for a congressional study of the anti-trust laws.

In his annual report, Cummings said laws are not adequate for "dealing with the many ramifications of the (monopoly) problem." He submitted with his report one from Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, criticizing court interpretations of the existing anti-trust laws.

Senator La Follette (Prog-Wis) said he would support a resolution for a congressional monopoly investigation if it were conducted "to weigh, in the light of public policy, the whole question of competition and monopoly.

Information Is "Available"

"We are woefully in need of a resurvey of the changes in economic life since our anti-trust legislation was first put on the statute books in the 'nineties.'

Chairman Wagner (D-NY) of the senate banking committee, said, however, he saw no need for an extensive investigation.

"We should be ready to legislate against monopolies now," he said. "We surely have enough available information about them."

A similar view has been expressed by Senator Borah (R-Idaho), coauthor of a pending anti-monopoly bill. This measure, drafted by Borah and Senator O'Mahoney (D-Idaho), would provide for federal licensing of corporations engaged in interstate commerce.

In his message, Mr. Roosevelt asserted a group of business problems has arisen "out of the concentration

Speech Criticism Not All Praise

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—Democrats in congress generally praised President Roosevelt's message today, some Republicans said it was more conciliatory than expected, and other minority members called it an "alibi" to account for the business slump.

Among the comments were:

Democratic Leader Barkley of the senate—"A very comprehensive, well-prepared and constructive speech."

Republican Leader McNary of the senate—"A pleasingly conciliatory speech on comparison with some of the recent utterances by some administration officials."

Majority Leader Rayburn of the house—"The message was reassuring to everyone who wants to be

ANYWAY, F. D. R. LIKED IT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. (AP) — The president liked his own speech today.

Capitol guards said that just before the chief executive left the house chamber, he remarked to Representative Snell (R-NY), one of the special committee that escorted him to the speaker's platform:

"As they say on the East Side in New York, I guess that's tellin' 'em; that's not askin' 'em."

'We Hold Our Objectives To Be Sound'

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. — Highlights of President Roosevelt's message to congress:

We have improved some matters by way of remedial legislation. But where in some particulars that legislation has failed we can not be sure whether it fails because some of its details are unwise or because it is being sabotaged. At any rate, we hold our objectives and our principles to be sound. We will never go back on them.

Government can be expected to cooperate in every way with the business of the nation provided the component parts of business abandon practices which do not belong to this day and age, and adopt price and production policies appropriate to the times.

If attention is called to, or attack made on, certain wrongful business practices, there are those who are eager to call it "an attack on all business." That . . . is wilful deception that will not long deceive.

In regard to taxes . . . our conclusion must be that while proven hardships should be corrected, they should not be corrected in such way as to restore abuses already terminated or to shift a greater burden to the less fortunate.

THE proposed budget for 1939 (the fiscal year beginning next July 1), which I shall shortly send to the congress, will exhibit a further decrease in the deficit, though not an actual balance between income and outgo.

I am as anxious as any banker, or industrialist, or business man, or investor, or economist that the budget of the United States government be brought into balance as quickly as possible.

I GLADLY note that measures which seek to initiate a government program for a balanced agriculture are now in conference between the two houses of congress. In their final consideration, I hope for a sound consistent measure which will keep the cost of its administration within the figure of current government expenditures in aid of agriculture.

I am thankful I can tell you our nation is at peace. It has been kept at peace despite provocations which in other days, because of their seriousness could well have engendered war.

DISREGARD for treaty obligations seems to have followed the surface trend away from the democratic representative form of government. It would seem therefore, that world peace through international agreements, is most safe in the hands of democratic representative governments—or, in other words, peace is most greatly jeopardized in and by those nations where democracy has been discarded or has never developed.

Resolute in our determination to respect the rights of others, and to command respect for the rights of ourselves, we must keep ourselves adequately strong in self-defense.

Transportation Of Helium From U. S. To Germany Is Begun

HOUSTON, Jan. 3. (AP)—Bringing the 468 steel bottles which will be used to transport the first helium gas ever exported from the United States, the German steamer Dessau is due here either Friday or Saturday, it was learned today.

Arrival of the Dessau with the bottles, each said to weigh around 5,000 pounds, will be another step in preparations for the movement of upwards of 17,900,000 cubic feet of helium from Houston to Garmany.

The helium is destined for use in a new Zeppelin which is scheduled to be completed some time in April.

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 3. (AP)—Charles Arnott, Socony-Vacuum Oil company official whom federal prosecutors have called the "master mind" of a conspiracy to raise and fix gasoline prices, was prepared to take the stand in his own defense when the long anti-trust case enters its fourth month tomorrow.

"More Perplexity Than Fear," President Says, Describing Recession Of Business

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. — President Roosevelt asked the newly-convened congress today for legislation to end "harmful" business practices, and appealed to business itself to help in the stamping out.

In a personally delivered message broadcast to almost the entire world he promised business if it would cooperate with government in this way, it could count upon government to cooperate with it "in every way."

After the recent attacks upon some sections of the business community by high administration advisors, the president's address was generally regarded in congress as unexpectedly conciliatory.

Atmosphere Still Surcharged

But opponents of the administration were still wary nevertheless, and before determining their course of action preferred to await a second message on the subject of business reforms which Mr. Roosevelt said he would send to congress later.

Otherwise, today's message:

Noted a troubled and tense world situation which he said made it necessary that the nation be "adequately strong in self-defense."

Reported the budget which would be submitted this week for the next fiscal year would not show a balance between income and outgo but would reveal "a further decrease in the deficit."

Speech Answers Specfiation

Called the wage and hour legislation "a problem which is definitely before this congress for action."

Expressed hope conference committee working out a crop control bill would confine the cost to what is now being paid for that purpose—$500,000,000 annually.

And, proferred advice on the writing of a tax bill: no decrease in the total revenues to be collected, a watchfulness against opportunities for tax evasion, and a "change" in provisions which have been "proven to work a definite hardship."

In view of the suspense created by the speeches of Robert H. Jackson, assistant attorney general, and Secretary Ickes, accusing big business of going "on strike" against the government in an effort to free itself of all restrictions, Mr. Roosevelt's words on this phase had been eagerly awaited.

He had gone through three-fourths of his speech before he reached it; vociferous applause had greeted his remarks on foreign affairs, applause from some and a dour silence from others met his comment on the wage-hour question, and there was obvious divid-

Constance Bennett Files Libel Suit

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3. (AP)—Film actress Constance Bennett sued James (Jimmy) Fidler, columnist and radio speaker, and several of his sponsors today for $250,000 damages, charging he libeled her in a broadcast Dec. 28.

Her complaint accused Fidler of implying wrongfully that she had been grossly discourteous to Patsy Keily, film comedienne, working with her in a picture.

Miss Bennett contended the broadcast gave hundreds of thousands of motion picture and radio patrons the impression that her supposed snubs of Miss Kelly was so reprehensible as to cause comment all over the studio.

First January Meetings Important To Several Hundred Church Women

The Woman's Angle

By Margaret Turner

WHEN Governor Allred finally took up betting he really went about it in a big way. You've seen the story of his bet with Governor Ammons of Colorado that Rice Institute would defeat Colorado university in the Cotton bowl Saturday. The result is history. The stakes were the proposed international park in the Big Bend area of the Rio Grande against Pikes Peak.

Of course it was all in fun, but we are remembering a little story out of Austin last June at the time Governor Jimmy was victorious in his war against race betting. It related that the governor had never even so much as matched nickles for soft drinks and, as far as he could recall, he didn't bet as a boy. Moreover, he doesn't play poker or gamble in any form.

And then, in his enthusiasm on the first day of the year, Governor Jimmy bets a large chunk of the whole state. Not bad!

FROM Iloilo, Philippine Islands comes an interesting letter from Miss Ferne Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Holland, 1311 Fourteenth street, who is spending several months there as the guest of an uncle and aunt. She wrote in part:

"There are six American missionaries—refugees from Shanghai—in Iloilo. They said war was horrible there. This conflict is making the 'Filipinos' open their eyes. They're not so anxious for their independence, even though President Quezon is asking for it.

"I'm beginning to believe this really is an awfully small world. Lubbock is well represented in the Philippines. There's a Mr. Day in Manila who went to Tech; Mrs. Charles Keithley (the former Frances Ford) also lives there; Mrs. J. F. "I plan to leave here the first of March. I will spend about ten days in Manila and Baguio and then leave for Indo China. We will make connections with a North German liner for Europe, planning to leave our boat at Genoa and go through northern Italy, Switzerland, over to Paris then on to England and Scotland. We expect to arrive in New York June 3."

The rouge should be applied on the cheekbone, blending outward more heavily toward the hairline. Take care to keep the rouge far back on the cheeks. Use a dark powder on the chin, throat and around the outline of the face. The result to your appearance is said to be amazing.

College Students Back, Bringing With Them All Sorts Of Odds And Ends From Home

By MARY HOWELL

With the aid of Kris Kringle during the Christmas holidays to say nothing of the drug and grocery concerns back in the old home town, a part of the 3,157 Texas Technological college students are owners of additional wealth since their return to Tech, where classes were resumed Monday.

Perhaps it was a discarded vacuum cleaner that the family did not trade in for a new one and then again it might have been a pair of gold fish, but wherever there was a Tech student he carried some article that was "managed for" when he visited home folks.

Food, Naturally, First

Food held a majority over all items that students brought back to school, and drug supplies ran a close second. Boxes containing cakes and pies were more carefully wrapped than a case of soup that a sophomore student unloaded at the men's dormitory Sunday night or the jars of pickles, olives, and relish that residents of the girl's dormitory carried with caution.

Toys were not omitted in the cargo of treasured valuables. Replicas of Charlie McCarthy, toy bears, rabbits, and negro dolls frequently were found.

The "machine age" entered into the picture. There were electric razors, typewriters, adding machines, and several students were showing new cars. Electrical appliances included waffle irons, grills, table and floor lamps, radios, toasters, irons, hair dryers, and electrically-run clocks. "Ninety-eight cent" alarm clocks were found in several collections of baggage.

Feast At Girls Hall

Food for midnight feasts ranged from the carton of soup to pancake flour and then there was grape fruit stacked in sacks. Candy, cake, and baked chicken, and ham furnished a feast on third floor Sunday night in the girl's dormitory.

Flourishing among the coeds were engagement rings and fur coats. Supplies of tooth paste, face powder, soap, tooth brushes, and hand lotion were unpacked "because we would have to pay for them if we got them in Lubbock, and they don't cost me anything at home," one freshman coed from Fort Worth said.

Persecution Reminiscent Of Biblical Days Facing Jewish Race In Rumania

Eviction Threat Becoming Tense

(By The Associated Press)

BUCHAREST, Jan. 3. — Rumania's 1,200,000 Jews faced the new year with gravest anxiety today as stringent measures imposed by the new government of Octavian Goga for "regulation of foreigners" made them fear loss of homes and fortunes.

If utterances of the more zealous leaders of Goga's National Christian party are to be accepted at face value, Rumania is about to take measures more stringent even than those introduced by Adolf Hitler in Germany.

These leaders are demanding that all foreigners who became Rumanian citizens after 1920 be expelled from the country or be so strictly limited in occupation privileges that they be reduced to poverty.

"Where To?" Is Question

Such restraints would hit squarely at thousands of Jews who fled from Russia, Poland and Germany after the World war.

Jews, desperately contemplating flight now to a new haven, asked "where to?"

Borders around them are closing. Bulgaria has indicated she would not permit any great influx of fugitives. Little welcome was expected in Hungary or Yugoslavia. Even the government of tolerant Austria—where thousands of political refugees have found security—paid attention to a newspaper campaign "to close the gates against foreign Jews—we have enough."

In Bucharest today blue-shirted "lancers" (the Rumanian equivalent of Nazi brownshirts and Fascist blackshirts) paraded the streets maintaining order and recruiting a force to carry out policies of the new nationalist movement as soon as its program is definitely made public.

Official Dictum Awaited

Of Rumania's 18,000,000 population; 1,200,000 are Jews, many of whom have played important parts in recent industrial and commercial expansion of the country. Thus, many leading citizens appeared destined to be hit by the impending regulatory measures.

"We are anti-semitic in principle—we don't hate Jews. We propose merely to recover Rumania for the Rumanians," said a high official.

Apparently the only delay at present, other than that of actually securing bids on the remainder of the work not to be covered by REA appropriation, was the task of securing right-of-way contract for the lines.

"WE KNOW TOBACCO BECAUSE WE GROW IT"

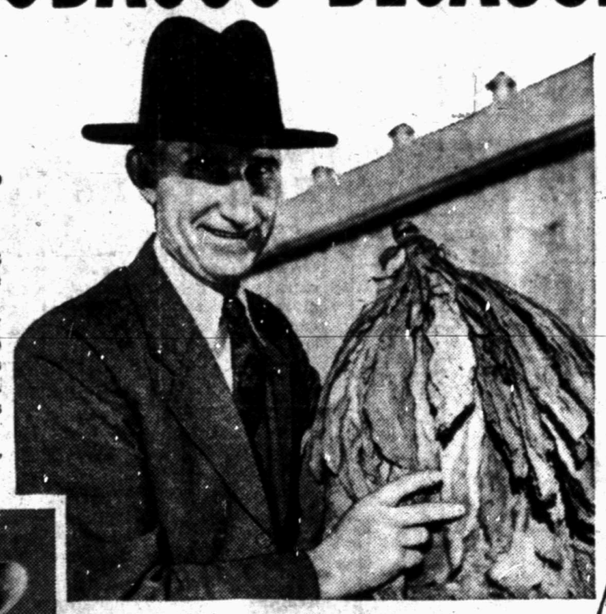

What quality of tobacco goes into Camel cigarettes?

This question, of interest to every smoker, is answered by the men who know tobacco from the ground up

IF YOU want to know the quality of the tobaccos that go into various cigarettes, here is one certain source of information — the man who grow tobacco.

They sell leaf to the buyer who bids most for it. They have seen Camel bid and pay higher prices necessary to get choice piles of leaf. And they report other planters who grow fine tobacco have had the same experience. That's why, as one grower puts it: "Most planters prefer Camels."

Smoke Camels steadily, and you'll realize what finer, more expensive tobaccos mean in smoking.

MEET ALEY SKIDMORE, of Winchester, Kentucky. "I'm a tobacco planter," he says as he displays some of his choice leaf. "Those Camel buyers pay for the best — and get it. The choice lots of my last crop brought me a top price, and Camel took all of the fine leaf that I had. I'm a steady Camel smoker myself. Camels are the favorite with men who grow tobacco." Mr. Skidmore and the other planters shown here bring direct evidence that Camels are indeed made from costlier tobaccos. Turn to Camels and see for yourself that those costlier tobaccos do make a real difference.

"I'VE BEEN IN this county for 30 years," says tobacco planter Ollie Hazelwood. "I'll tell you where the best tobacco goes. The choice lots of my crop are almost always bought by the Camel people. Every one on our place smokes Camels too — just like me."

"AN EXTRA GOOD CROP," says Ray Sponcil, who has grown fine tobacco for many years, "and the Camel buyer bought all of my good leaf. I've seen the real fine lots go to the Camel people year after year. I smoke Camels because I know the quality of the tobacco they use."

"CAMELS ARE MADE FROM more expensive tobaccos," says planter Beckham Wright. "I know the kind of leaf used for making various cigarettes. Only my best lots are bought for Camel."

"THE CAMEL PEOPLE bought the best of my last crop," says T. N. Williams, tobacco planter. "They paid the highest price. More expensive tobacco goes into Camel cigarettes all right."

PEOPLE DO APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS

THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

Camel spends millions more for COSTLIER TOBACCOS. They are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS —Turkish and Domestic.

Football Rules Committee Makes Two Changes Designed To Promote Offense

Pass Rule Made More Liberal; Ball Moves In

(By The Associated Press)

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., — The football rules committee of the National Collegiate Athletic association announced today two changes in playing regulations, both of which will aid the offense.

For the 1938 season, only fourth down passes back of the goal line will be ruled as touchbacks.

The other change applies to a ball going out of bounds between the goal lines. It will be put in play 15 yards from the sideline instead of 10 as heretofore.

Three "Free" Passes

Announcement of the changes was made in a prepared statement by William S. Langford of New York City, secretary of the committee.

"Hereafter," said the statement, "any forward pass (excepting those made on fourth down) which becomes incomplete behind the goal line, will be treated as though it struck the ground in the field of play.

"An imcomplete forward pass behind the goal line on fourth down, will as now result in a touchback.

"This change, it is believed, will be of material assistance to the offense on goal line plays, as it will enable the field general to employ his full repertoire of attacks at all times."

In its announcement of the other change, the rules committee said:

"This change applies when the ball goes out of bounds between the goal lines, or becomes dead within 15 yards of the sidelines, in which case it shall be put in play at a spot 15 yards from that side line, instead of 10 yards as heretofore.

More Elbow Room

"The development of passing, both forward and lateral, has made more leeway desirable, and as it is not practicable to widen the field of play, the committee took this means of providing more elbow room. This will also aid the offense on short-side plays when near the sideline."

Before the change, the forward pass rule provided that the first forward pass in any series of downs which should be ruled incomplete, should be penalized as though it became incomplete in the field of play. Any other forward pass which became incomplete was ruled as a touchback.

The coaches' association also had suggested that if, on a forward pass play, the ball inadvertently struck an ineligible player of the passer's team, before crossing the line of scrimmage, it should be considered an incomplete pass, with loss of a down, rather than with loss of the ball as at present.

Leave Goal Posts Alone

The rules committee said it was unanimously voted to refer this suggestion to the standing committee on rules changes, for study and a report at the next meeting of the rules committee.

Secretary Langford said that the committee discussed "briefly" a suggestion to allow forward passing anywhere behind the line of scrimmage instead of five yards back as at present, but added that "no marked sentiment" was found. He said no thought was given to moving the goal posts back to the goal line. They now are 10 yards back of the goal.

Bitsy Grant Leads Seeded Players In Miami Joust

CORAL GABLES, Fla., Jan. 3. (AP)—Bryan M. (Bitsy) Grant and the other seeded players won easy first-round matches today at the opening of the annual Miami Biltmore tennis tournament.

Grant eliminated Charles Carroll, a local player, 6-1, 6-1, in a style that confirmed expectations he would win to the finals for an encounter there with Bobby Riggs of Chicago, seeded No. 1, who drew a first round bye. Grant was rated No. 2.

Arthur Hendrix of Lakeland, Fla., seeded fourth, took Gene Sapphire of Miami in love sets; Charles Harris of West Palm Beach, Fla., seeded fifth, conquered Robert McMillian of Madison, Wis., 7-5, 6-2; Martin Buxby of Miami, seeded sixth, dropped only three games in defeating L. S. Holmes of Salisbury, N. C., and Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, seeded seventh, outplayed a fellow-townsman, W. Hastings, 6-3, 6-2.

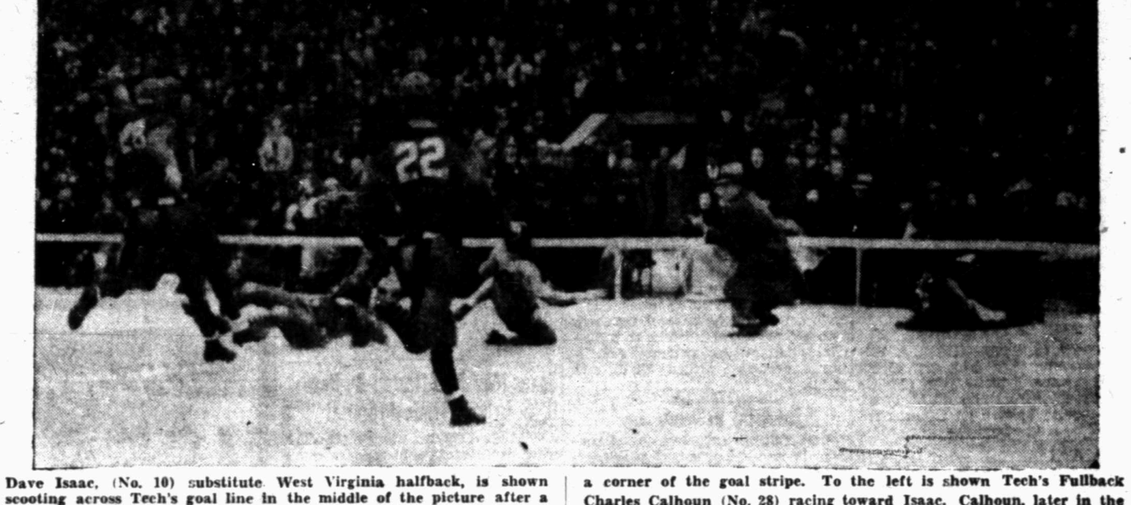

The remaining first round matches, including those of Wayne Sabin of Portland, Ore., seeded third, against James Ford of Miami and Bernie Coghlan of Los Angeles, eighth seeded, against Bill Hardie of Miami, will be played tomorrow.

Camera Catches Scoring Plays In El Paso's Sun Bowl Grid Battle

Dave Isaac, (No. 10) substitute West Virginia halfback, is shown scooting across Tech's goal line in the middle of the picture after a Red Raider fumble had given the Mountaineers their chance to score early in the second quarter of El Paso's Sun Bowl game Saturday afternoon. Babe Curfman, (No. 22) Tech halfback is shown cutting across the end zone, too late to keep Isaac from skimming across a corner of the goal stripe. To the left is shown Tech's Fullback Charles Calhoun (No. 28) racing toward Isaac. Calhoun, later in the period, scored Tech's only touchdown, but kick from placement gave the West Virginians a one-point margin that meant a 7-6 victory. (El Paso Times Photograph).

Beneath this pile of Texas Tech and West Virginia players was Tech Halfback Charles Calhoun who punched the center of the valiant Mountaineer line in the second quarter for the Red Raiders' only touchdown in their 7 to 6 loss to the West Virginians before a capacity crowd of 12,500 in El Paso's Sun Bowl Saturday afternoon. Referee Cooper Kinney is shown standing over the entangled gridders, blowing his whistle to indicate the play had ended. A second later, after the players had jumped to their feet, Kinney signaled a touchdown. Babe Curfman, Red Raider halfback, (No. 22) is shown as he fell to the ground, but anxiously glanced over his shoulder to see if Calhoun had gone over the goal line. The Mountaineers scored early in the second period and it later developed their perfect kick from placement was the margin of victory. (El Paso Times Staff Photo).

Pro Scouts Are Busy At Frisco

Isbell To Packers

Cecil Isbell, outstanding Purdue halfback, bound for the Green Bay Packers.

Two other Fordham boys, Alex Wojciechowicz, center, and Ed Franco, tackle, are said to be seriously considering offers.

Curley Lambeau, boss of the Green Bay Packers, and Earl "Dutch" Clark, Detroit Lions coach, interviewed prospects right and left after the big charity game had ended in a scoreless tie.

Lambeau revealed he intended to try to make a deal with the Washington Redskins for the services of Elmer Dohrmann, giant Nebraska end. The Redskins drew Dohrmann, star of the East-West game, in the draft.

Probably the most sought after player was Carl Littlefield, Washington state fullback, whose name was not even included in the recent pro draft. In addition to offers from the Packers and the Lions, he has been approached by several other clubs, his coach, Orin Hollingbery, said.

THE new Super-Traction Firestone Ground Grip Tire with extra deep tread and extra wide bars of wear-resisting rubber gives the greatest traction ever known for cars, trucks and buses operating on muddy, snowy and unimproved roads.

DEEPER BITE FOR GREATER TRACTION. The tread is flatter with higher shoulders and bigger, broader bars of rubber. Wider, deeper, tapered spaces between the lugs assure positive self-cleaning action and continuous traction.

GREATER ROADABILITY. Tread is designed to fit the road, providing materially longer life.

LONGER WEAR, GREATER ECONOMY. The tread is made of special, extra-tough, wear-resisting rubber which assures longer mileage. All the traction bars are joined together in a continuous design to prevent bumping on paved roads and each is triple-braced and triple anchored preventing it from breaking off as so often happens when separate rubber lugs are used.

EXTRA STRENGTH FOR GREATER SAFETY. Every fiber of every cord is saturated with liquid rubber by the Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process. This greatly increases the strength of the tire to withstand the strain of extra traction. Two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread bind the tread and cord body so solidly together that we guarantee they will not separate.

Come in today and find out how little it costs to equip your car, truck or school bus with new super-traction Firestone Ground Grip Tires.

When roads are covered with snow, farmers need the extra traction of the new Firestone Ground Grip Tires

Spanish Troops In Withering Offensive On Snow Slopes Surrounding Teruel

Battle Results Are Conflicting

(By The Associated Press)

HENDAYE, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Jan. 3.—Heavy fighting which left Teruel's snow-banked battlefields littered with thousands of dead surged tonight about the strategically located provincial capital.

The tide of combat at most points was in the insurgents' favor, according to accounts reaching the frontier, but each side claimed control of the city for which more than 200,000 men were fighting.

The government troops tried to turn the insurgent right flank but the insurgents asserted they were repulsed.

The insurgent left flank appeared to be advancing north of Teruel, seizing positions which the government had held for a year before starting the surprise offensive which, three weeks ago, wrested Teruel from the insurgents.

Both Claim Advances

In Madrid, however, the government asserted that, in addition to holding their lines at all vital points closest to the city, government troops had recovered some lost ground and captured many prisoners.

Over the week-end the insurgents, in the greatest battle of the year and a half-old civil war, reported they had won control of Teruel. Government forces were said to be retreating in disorder.

Control of the city was expected to be a determining factor in the outcome of the war.

A communique from Salamanca, Generalissimo Francisco Franco's capital, said the government, despite reinforcements, had been driven from Villastar, about five miles from Teruel, after a firece struggle.

Blizzard Hampers Offensive

(Dispatches from Madrid said the snow and cold hindered the insurgents' counter-offensive. The Madrid reports asserted government artillery at Teruel slowly was reducing to ruins citadels of the beleaguered insurgent garrison within the city.)

Government artillery mounted above insurgent-held La Muela, strategic position a mile and a half west of Teruel, inflicted severe punishment on insurgent reinformements moving into position there, a communique from Barcelona said.

Automatic Pistol? Not For Highway Cops! They Need Gun That Will Sub For Club

AUSTIN, Jan. 3. (AP)—No more temperamental automatic pistols for the Texas highway police.

Patrolmen have discarded them in favor of rugged revolvers.

Col. H. H. Carmichael, public safety director, explains it this way:

"Like the U. S. border patrol we found the .38 caliber super police revolver on a .44 frame best suited to our needs. The automatic must have the best of care and requires special treatment. Often when a patrolman joggled over rough roads the cartridge clip was shaken loose. That's not a very good condition for a gun when needed in an emergency.

"The revolver can stand rough usage. An officer can use it as a club and it'll still shoot."

Formerly, several types of guns were used by patrolmen in an experiment to determine the best one. Now the heavy revolver is standard equipment.

Plainclothes officers of the department, including Texas Rangers, furnish their own artillery, however, and there's sharp difference of opinion as to merits of various types.

J. W. McCormick, veteran captain at Wichita Falls, champions the sturdy six-shooter or single action pistol.

Suggestions To Railroads Made

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. (AP)—The Interstate Commerce commission, discussing the general railroad situation in a report to congress today, said increased rates alone would not solve the carriers' financial problems.

"No competitive industry can work out its salvation through a price-increasing policy alone, and the railroad industry is now, to a very considerable extent, in that class," the report said.

The commissioners said their report was not to be taken as indicating their attitude toward the pending petition of the railroads for a 15 per cent rate increase, estimated to increase revenue by $500,000,000 a year.

Criticism Voiced

The commissioners criticized what they said was the failure of the railroads to effect greater operating economies.

They expressed the belief the railroads, by cooperation with each other, and the coordination of many of their facilities and operation, could make "further material reductions in operating expenses."

In its legislative recommendations the commission renewed a previous one that would put interstate air transportation under the commission's jurisdiction.

Entomologist Finds Insect That Virtually Roasts To Death In A Human Hand

KAMLOOPS, B. C., Jan. 3. (AP)—A dominion entomologist announced today he had found nine specimens of "ice bugs" or "living fossils" which would "virtually roast to death" if held in a human hand.

The bugs, known to science as grylloblatta campodeiformis, resemble cockroaches and were found by G. Alan Mail near here on Mt. St. Paul.

Mail said he found the bugs at a lower altitude than they were previously known to exist. He related ice had melted off the mountain's south side at an altitude of 2,500 feet and the insects were found buried beneath cold, damp rocks.

"I don't know where they went in hot weather," Mail said. "The bugs have been found in only about six places in the world and at altitudes around 6,000 feet. They would become dormant and, probably die at a zero temperature, but couldn't survive anything warmer than 70 degrees."

Texas Gas Output In November Is Over 2 Billion Cubic Feet

AUSTIN, Jan. 3. (AP)—Texas' 2,821 gas wells produced 2,013,996,000 cubic feet daily in November, 1937, the railroad commission reported today.

Output included 1,305,889,000 cubic feet of sweet gas and 708,109 of sour.

Carbon black production totaled 1,309,352 pounds daily.

Aggravated Assault Charges Are Filed

Three charges of aggravated assault were filed Monday in county court naming two defendants. Both had been arrested Sunday by members of the police department and transferred to county authorities, said Jas. P. Posey, chief deputy sheriff.

Two charges were filed against S. W. Clark, 33-year-old "trucker" of Wolfforth, alleging he committed assault on Mrs. Penney Earwood and Mona Clark. He allegedly committed an assault with a knife on Mona Clark.

A man charged as J. L. Jones allegedly committed assault on Cleo Jones.

Bond Not Posted

Jones was released from jail on bond of $250. Clark late Monday had not posted bond.

Jess Hardy and Tom Cannon arrested Clark in the 1700-block Avenue H Sunday afternoon. Jones had been arrested in the 1900-block Texas avenue early Sunday by Cannon and Aubrey Fawver, also of the police department.

H. T. Martin, charged with swindling with worthless check, entered a plea of guilty and was assessed a fine of $1 and court costs and required to pay the dishonored check, Judge J. J. Dillard of county court said.

A 15-year-old Monahans boy entered a plea of guilty of entering the home of Judge E. L. Pitts of 99th district court and taking a watch belonging to Mrs. Pitts. He was sentenced by Judge Daniel A. Blair of 72nd district court to four years in a state reform school.

The youth assertedly burglarized five Lubbock residences. A pistol assertedly taken from one residence was returned to its owner.

Chief of Police Don Reeder and Deputy Sheriff Grady Harrist transferred the youth here from Monahans. The burglaries were Wednesday.

No Special Session Seen As Likely By Governor Allred

AUSTIN, Jan. 3. (AP) — Prospects for a special session of the legislature in 1938 seemed remote today.

Governor James V. Allred answered with another query a press conference question as to possibilities for a session.

"What special session?" he retorted. "We are not going to have any more sessions that I know anything about."

He said the old age assistance administration received approximately $2,000,000 in federal funds last week and apparently had enough money for current pension needs.

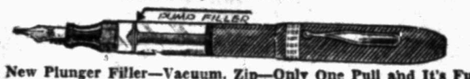

Cafe Ransacked, Woman Bound; Two Men Are Sought In Dallas

DALLAS, Jan. 3. (AP)—Two men accused of binding and gagging Mrs. Nell Tripp, 38, before burglarizing and setting fire to the cafe-dwelling in which she slept were sought here today.

They entered the cafe before daylight, Mrs. Tripp said, and overpowered her. They took between $6 and $10 from the cash register, drank a bottle of beer each as they ransacked the place and then started fires in the kitchen and under a counter, she said.

A man who came to the cafe door smelled smoke and released Mrs. Tripp from her bonds, and summoned police and firemen.

National Demonstration Marks 13th Observance Of Fascism

ROME, Jan. 3. (AP)—Fascist Italy commemorated its 13th birthday as a totalitarian state today with nationwide demonstrations of satisfaction at "dispersion of so-called great democracies" at Geneva.

The Fascist party hierarchy said the anniversary coincided with "dispersion of so-called great democracies lodged in the fortress at Geneva, which is crumbling before a formidable array of young peoples, the bearers of a new civilization."

HE SELLS 20 MILLION POUNDS OF TOBACCO A YEAR

Bob Cooper—tobacco auctioneer—tells why he, and other tobacco experts, prefer Luckies . . .
"I've been auctioneering for 20 years," says Mr. Cooper, "in Georgia, North Carolina and Tennessee... and I've seen the tobacco Lucky Strike buys at auction after auction. It's the best in smoking quality.
"Luckies suit my throat, too, as well as my taste. Even after crying out bids 7 hours a day, Luckies never bother my throat in the least." (Reason: the exclusive "Toasting" process expels certain irritants found in all tobacco.)
"In every section of the Tobacco Belt where I auctioneer," Mr. Cooper adds, "I've noticed tobacco men smoking Luckies."
Are you benefiting by the experience of the tobacco experts?... Sworn records show that among independent tobacco experts, Luckies have twice, yes—twice, as many exclusive smokers as have all other cigarettes combined.

Member of Associated Press. Full Leased Wire Service

The Colors Salute Eddie Neil

TO the public, at large, and to many newspapermen who work for it or with it, the Associated Press appears as a coldly efficient machine of juggernaut proportions which with amazing success and accuracy presents a large portion of the civilized world with its daily news on happenings everywhere.

Greatest news service in the history of mankind, almost mechanical in its speed, and quality and quantity of its daily turnout, the Associated Press is operated, as it must be operated, under discipline comparable to that of a wartime army. Everything about the AP is gauged to move with dispatch and with the least amount of lost time and motion. Without such a policy, it couldn't be the Associated Press upon which so much of the world relies for its information and entertainment.

But under it all—behind its gleaming armor of cold efficiency—the Associated Press is man-made and man-managed; and the men who make and manage it are human beings, like the rest of us—subject to the same feelings to which all of us are subject.

An indication of the AP's human background was noted yesterday when its busy newswires covering 300,000 miles of network, were halted to give way to statement by its general manager, Kent Cooper. It made no difference that a new session of Congress had just begun; that the world was waiting for first indications of President Roosevelt's message to the solons; that war news, first-of-the-year business reports and a thousand other items were crowding the humming wires. Mr. Cooper, "emperor of news" and generalissimo of the whole Associated Press army, had something to say about one of his boys who had lost his life reporting—at the firing line—the civil war in Spain.

Addressed to the far-flung staff of the Associated Press, and to members of that co-operative organization, the communication had to do with the death of Edward J. Neil, jr., following his wounding in Spain's front lines.

It read:

"Words which come to us fluently in reporting the news of the day completely fail us in expressing the depth of our sorrow at the loss of a fellow worker in such circumstances as befell E. J. Neil.

"His proud boast was that neither he nor his father ever had any other employer than the Associated Press.

"Neil did not undertake this assignment for the mere sake of exciting adventure.

"He was a competent sensible reporter who went because there was a task to be done. He wanted to do it. He did not go as a 'visiting journalist' who does not venture beyond where comfort and safety are assured and who returns quickly to capitalize his 'trip to the front' on the radio or platform as a 'war correspondent.'

"Like the assignment in Ethiopia, which he saw through to the end, he volunteered to say to me he would like to stay it out in Spain as long as it or he lasted.

"One who served with such distinction and such steadfast devotion to duty surely will have proper recognition in the hearts and memories not only of his associates but of the reading public he served through danger so faithfully and so competently.

"Finally, it might be said that the tragedy of his death may contribute something to the newspaper reader's understanding of the danger some Associated Press men incur when they undertake these most difficult tasks of covering the news of strangely tangled war events in strange lands.

"Memory of Eddie Neil will be treasured as long as the AP lasts.

"Kent Cooper
"General Manager."

THUS to Eddie Neil, a fine reporter who laid down his life being true to the newspaper principle of "get the news from its source," came a last but impressive salute from the man whose initials, "KC," on Associated Press letters or telegrams mean "the boss speaking."

Thus to many a grizzled copy reader and many a harassed managing editor came the realization that the AP and its dynamic chieftain have their human side, too. And thus came to 7,500 AP men, themselves, the reiteration that "the boss" is at heart merely "one of the boys" and, after all, the best friend they have.

Mr. Cooper's communication—the method he used as well as the thought behind it—was heart-warming to The Morning Avalanche, whose pages for years have borne the bylines of Eddie Neil. We join "KC" in dipping our colors to the memory of a newspaperman who was a newspaperman to the very end.

The One-Minute Sermon

Should we again break thy commandments, and join in affinity with the people of these abominations? wouldest not thou be angry with us till thou hadst consumed us, so that there should be no remnant nor escaping?

O Lord God of Israel, thou art righteous: for we remain yet escaped, as it is this day: behold, we are before thee in our trespasses: for we cannot stand before the because of this.—Ezra 9, 14 and 15.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Investigating the murder of BOLITHO BLANE, British financier, aboard CARLTON ROCKSAVAGE'S yacht, Detective Officer KETTERING runs into a maze of conflicting clews.

As the investigation progresses, Kettering learns from REGINALD JOCELYN that Rocksavage possessed the best motive for the crime—financial gain. Moreover, he learned that Rocksavage was able to dress for dinner in four minutes, a feat conceivably enabling him to commit a murder and return to the ship's lounge without creating suspicion. Only NICHOLAS STODART, Blane's secretary, has a complete alibi.

Confronted with Jocelyn's revelation, Rocksavage counters that Jocelyn, too, had a good motive—money. Furthermore, that Japanese agent INOSUKE HAYASHI, stood to lose a million dollars had Blane lived and concluded a merger with Rocksavage, thereby killing the soap monopoly deal Hayashi sought. At the same time LADY WELTER becomes deeper involved when unable to prove her whereabouts at the time of the crime.

Hayashi, questioned again by Kettering, admits his interest in the soap monopoly but denies murdering Blane. Contending that he was in his cabin when the crime occurred, he offered the steward as proof of this.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

K: You rang for the steward? Why?

H: To bring me some writing paper. When I asked for it before there was none, as the chief steward had only just returned from Miami and he had the key of the store where it was locked up. That was why I wrote first on a postcard. The steward came back with the writing paper about five minutes after I asked him for it.

K: Were you changed then?

H: No, I had not then changed. I was still in lounge suit at five to eight. The steward can prove that. How, then, could I change my clothes and murder a man in the short space of 20 minutes when, in that time, I also wrote a longish letter?

K: Where is that letter?

H: I see no reason why I should answer that question. The document is a secret one and can add nothing to your investigations.

K: Mr. Hayashi, you don't seem to realize that you are under suspicion of having committed murder. It is vital for your own sake that you should produce any evidence that will free you from suspicion.

H: It may be true that I am under suspicion, but I hope sincerely, Detective Officer, that you will not do anything so foolish as to charge me with murder. I have assured you that that letter exists. I could be produced, and if produced it would clear me of suspicion immediately. It would also, er . . . : make rather a fool of you, so I pray you do not force me to produce it.

K: Aw, these Oriental tricks won't wash with me. If you'd been writing a letter during those 20 minutes you'd only be too pleased to fetch it up. Will you or won't you, sir.

K: O. K. I've done my best for you.

DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAME'S SHORTHAND NOTES OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S SECOND EXAMINATION OF THE BISHOP OF BUDE.

K: Good morning, Bishop. I hope you're feeling all right, again now. That was a rotten business your throwing a faint on us yesterday.

B: Thank you, thank you. I am better, yes; but my heart, you know, has been troubling me for some little time and I'm rather subject to these sudden attacks.

K: Now, that's real bad, particularly as I've got to ask you some rather unpleasant questions.

B: Dear, dear, I cannot think what they would be about. I have nothing to hide, nothing at all, I assure you.

K: Well, I hope that is so for all our sakes, but I want the truth about your relations with Bolitho Blane.

B: A casual acquaintance made years ago. I barely knew the man, as I told you yesterday.

K: Now, that won't do. You evidently haven't looked in your black despatch box this morning, or you'd realize that, when I was searching the cabins yesterday, I removed that letter from it Blane wrote you a few days back from the Adlon-Claridge in New York. In that he spoke of the wonderful friendship you had for each other.

B: Oh, er—that. What an extraordinary letter it was, wasn't it? I took it to be some kind of a joke. I could hardly regard it as anything else, but I did remember from my meeting with him in the past that Blane had a very queer sense of humor—very queer.

K: Pointless sort of joke, wasn't it?

B: Quite pointless, but we all know now that the poor fellow was half on his head with worry. I imagine he must have been suffering from some strange reaction caused by overstrain when he wrote it. Those protestants of friendship were so absurd when you consider that I had only met the man quite causally.

K: I don't consider anything of the kind, Bishop. In 1917 you knew Blane mighty well.

B: What—what's that?

K: You heard. You remember that nasty business in 1917, so nasty that we just won't talk about it. You were in that up to the neck and Blane knew it. For reasons we needn't go into, he decided not to spill the beans at the time, and so you managed to get away with it. If you hadn't you wouldn't be a bishop today, but Blane hadn't forgotten he had the goods on you and, when he contemplated doing some funny business during his trip on this yacht, he took the precaution of writing you first to tip you off that if you didn't keep your mouth shut he meant to put you through the hoop. Now, what have you got to say?

B: I protest, sir. I protest. An Episcopal Court exonerated me completely—on every charge—in that most unsavory matter in which it was my ill-fortune to be involved when I was with the troops in 1917.

K: An Episcopal Court might have preferred to give you the benefit of the doubt rather than have a prominent churchman involved in a public scandal.

B: Be careful, sir. There is, I warn you, such a thing as the law of libel.

K: I should worry. You would not dare to rake that unsavory scandal up by bringing an action in a civil court but, unless you're very careful, it's all going to come out now whether you want it to or no.

B: What d'you mean? You don't think I—I . . .

K: Well, maybe we won't have to rake it up, but that largely depends on you. It's my duty to get the man who has murdered Bolitho Blane and, if you'll give me your assistance, I'll do my best to keep you out of this business as far as I can.

B: That's very kind—very kind, indeed. Of course you must quite understand, Officer, that there was no foundation for those charges, none at all, but naturally I should find it most distressing to have that horrible affair made public after all these years. I am afraid I don't see, though, how I can help you more than I have done already.

K: You came below to your cabin at 7:05 on the night of Blane's death and you did not appear in the lounge until 8:05. What were you doing all that time? I want the truth now.

B: I was in my cabin. I never left it I assure you.

K: Can you give me any proof that was so?

B: No. I fear that I cannot.

K: I wonder if you realize the seriousness of your situation, Bishop. Here is this man, Blane, who knew something which he might have published to your detriment. We writes you a letter from New York containing a veiled threat that in certain circumstances he may give you away. The moment he comes on board you go down to your cabin.

If you had started to change then you had 40 clear minutes in which to do so, which would bring you round to 7:45, and then 15 clear minutes before you appeared in the lounge to kill that man who was holding a threat over you. You were the only person on board who had ever met Blane before and you had a very strong motive for wishing him out of the way. D'you understand now how black this case looks against you?

B: But surely you're not suggesting that—that . . .

K: I certainly am.

B: Well my dear sir, this is—well, really!

K: It's really a very strong case against you, unless you can prove what you were doing between 7:05 and 8:00.

B: Nothing, absolutely nothing, except changing in my cabin. I give you my word but, unfortunately, there is no way in which I can prove it.

K: All right, then, but I'm afraid I shall have to talk to you again later on.

Building Splurge Continued Here

City Building Inspector Jim Reid Monday issued 1938's first building permit to E. A. Rampy. Before the office had closed yesterday, five permits had been issued authorizing construction and repairs estimated to cost $13,160.

Claude Martin was named contractor of the one-story frame residence and garage at 1719 Twenty-first street to be built by Rampy. It will cost $2,400.

Other permits were to: Miss May Horne to construct a one-story frame residence and garage apartment at rear at 2013 Seventh street, $3,000; W. B. Evans to construct a one-story brick and veneer garage and servant house at 2411 Nineteenth street, $5,500; Alvis Graves to repair and alter building at 2102 Avenue L, $60; and Wayne H. Sager, owner, and Jess Williams, contractor, to construct a one-story frame residence and garage at 2405 Twenty-second street, $2,200.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

A SECRET and hastily summoned session of the Senate Commerce committee to discuss construction of powerful, far-cruising oil tankers precipitated an extraordinary preview of the administration's war fears. The few unsuppressed circumstances leaking from behind locked doors have profoundly disturbed neutrality advocates in Congress.

Chairman Copeland called the conference on the day after Congress quit for the holidays—a most unusual procedure in itself. Present were members of the Maritime commission and several admirals of the navy. Only eight Senators on the committee had remained in the capital—Democrats Copeland, Guffey, Maloney and Sheppard; Republicans McNary, Nye, Vandenberg and Gibson. With obvious embarrassment the chairman explained the job which had been wished on him, also urging that his remarks be held confidential.

He wanted to ascertain whether the members would approve—or at least not openly disapprove—a scheme under which the shipping agency would subsidize 20 tankers costing $3,000,000 each. Government aid, he added, would be necessary because these vessels were to be of heavy construction so as to carry armament, have more storage space than the ordinary craft and greater cruising radius. Uncle Sam's contribution would be $800,000 per ship.

HALTED: Mr. Copeland conceded that the men on hand could not bind the committee to formal action. He simply sought their sentiment on the proposition, together with a pledge that they would not head any organized opposition to the idea.

Several members attempted to obtain more definite information from the New Yorker, but he seemed reluctant to volunteer details. Messrs. McNary and Vandenberg declined to be a party to the arrangement, and most of the others asked more time to consider it. Finally, Neutrality Author Nye spoke up flatly and decisively. "I won't agree to any plan," he said, "under which the government will invest money in ships which may some day be engaged in refueling foreign navies. That would tend to make the United States a party to other nations' wars."

The four G.O.P.-ers eventually walked out without making any commitment, and their Democratic brethren tabled the proposal—at least temporarily. Since such auxiliary vessels are a vital need to national defense, the suggestion will soon be advanced in slightly different form. Movie and newspaper showing of the Panay pictures may stimulate public interest in preparedness plans still unrevealed.

ACHILLES: An apparent discrepancy in T.V.A. directors' confidential testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee lies behind the sharp demand for a showdown investigation of the sprawling power setup.

In appearing before the appropriation czars, the three T.V.A.-ers testified that they contemplated a $112,000,000 dam at Gilbertsville—the last project in the network of river construction. But four days later, in a utility trial at Chattanooga, their chief engineer said under oath that the finished blueprints called for a $138,000,000 dam rising five feet higher than the affair described on Capitol Hill.

Congress still thinks it's bigger than its creations. Even New Dealish members resent such flouting of their dignity—if such it was. They're also curious to learn why T.V.A. has not submitted a report on allocation of costs as between power, flood control and navigation for two years—despite a specific requirement in the law for annual accountings.

NAVY: A distinguished lieutenant-colonel in the Marine Reserve corps—"Jimmie" Roosevelt—is supposed to have inspired the reform of the West Point football system under which the army "sank the navy" too regularly to suit old grads from Annapolis.

Young Roosevelt associates with marine and navy men—at Washington and on sea trips with his father—almost constantly. They never missed a chance to impress him with the unfair advantages the Pointers had over the navy, which did not permit graduates from other schools to go in for football. "Jimmie" whispered the word in a certain influential ear, and the order was passed down the line.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THERE have been repeated denials, official and otherwise, that the administration was contemplating a large rearmament program. Now President Roosevelt has taken the first step in the direction forecast in this column. His letter to Chairman Taylor of the House Appropriations committee foreshadowing larger naval expenditures was only the tentative gesture of a bather who sticks his toe in the water to test the temperature. If the public and Congressional response is sufficiently favorable—as it will be—the big plunge will not be long delayed.

There is no doubt in the minds of competent analysts that rearmament is to be the final shot in the arm to revive business activity. It is regarded in high administration circles as the only immediate hope of keeping heavy industry going and of spreading reemployment by private enterprise.

In a sense, it will be an ultimate test of whether we can avoid a readjustment to a lower standard of living such as is now going on in the rest of the world.

FUTILE: The motive behind the British and other European armament programs was in large part economic even though this angle has been carefully shrouded in the patriotic national defense appeal. European nations have been subjected to the same kind of pressure that we are now undergoing, and are attempting to meet it in the same way we are about to try.

But there are two important distinctions between their situation and ours. First their living standard was not as high as our to begin with—therefore they hadn't as far to fall. Second, a formula which may bring a measure of economic relief to a population of 20 or 46 or 60 million isn't likely to work so well for a nation of 130,000,000 people.

Spending half a billion extra dollars for a larger navy would be as pathetically futile from the viewpoint of restoring the recovery trend as the paltry $200,000,000 with which the Reconstruction Finance corporation originally set up shop. It's like opening a poker pot with a pair of jacks or worse—maybe a pair of deuces.

FEARS: Leon Henderson, W.P.A. economist, chipped in his two-bits' worth last week to the campaign to blame big business for the deprecession. He states that speculation in inventories caused the trouble and declares that they were larger last September than when the 1929 pyramid collapsed. A Department of Commerce study to be made public this week will show that 50 companies increased their inventories by 44.9 per cent between September, '36 and September, '37.

Mr. Henderson's logic is one more illustration that you can prove anything with figures if you try hard enough. Certainly there was a tremendous building up of inventories last spring and summer. And in a sense this was speculation—though not in the sense of pure gambling for profit. It was rather in the nature of a hedge.

But even if it had been gambling for profit, what caused it? Two universal fears on the part of business men—fear of inflation and fear of labor trouble—both of them the direct result of administration policies. It is undoubtedly true that big inventories have accentuated the business slump—but government can hardly duck all responsibility for them.

HOURS: On the morning of the day that Assistant Attorney-General Robert Jackson was scheduled to lambast the stuffing out of big business for the second time, a fairly important New Dealer entered the office of a New York friend in a state of considerable excitement.

"Don't take what Jackson is going to say too seriously," he advised. "It's just part of the game, and you can count on it that something will soon be said on the other side to offset it. Remember that everything in Washington is on a 24-hour basis these days."

Growled a bystander: "Make it a 2-hour basis and you'll be about right!"

CONGRESSMAN George Mahon dropped in Saturday for a Happy New Year chat just before grabbing a rattler back to Washington and the regular session. Looking fine and feeling finer, the Honorable was never-the-less not optimistic concerning the forthcoming farm bill which, now in conference, he expects will probably be passed sometime during the present month.

According to the Gentlemen from Colorado City, the Senate and House bills have been changed and changed and changed until not even a Philadelphia lawyer can understand all their lengthy provisions. Further than that, whatever is passed in the way of a final bill likely will not suit the South—or this portion of it.

George and the other boys from Texas are doing all they can, but they're over a barrel, over-ridden by midwest and westerners in the hectic tempo of a staggering official Washington.

Naturally The Plainsman asked the Congressman if he were going to run again.

He is—and will make a formal statement at a later date.

George is doing all right for his district up there and will do even better as time rolls along and he becomes more prominent and more and more familiar with the Congressional situation.

And that's a mighty good thing—because there's nobody in the district who has more than a Chinaman's chance of beating him!

A LETTER to The Plainsman from Mrs. Ferrell Farrington, editor and owner of the O'Donnell Index, anent the cotton situation in Lynn and Dawson counties, reminds The Plainsman of something else the Congressman said.

Several days before he left the capital, the Washington Herald had an editorial headed "Have You Ever Heard of O'Donnell?"

The article told all about the cotton crop in that vicinity and gave O'Donnell a great, big hand.

By gosh, O'Donnell deserves it!

R. F. "Mike" Bayless, Mr. John Santa Fe's partner here, surveyed his plain but kindly features in a mirror and then wondered how in the world anyone could get him mixed up with Dan'l Cupid.

But someone did—and in his hand was a letter to prove it.

Bearing an Augusta, Ga., address but with a Langley, N. C., postmark on the envelope, the letter addressed to "Depot Manzger, Lubbock," read:

"Dear Sir: Will you please post this sign in your depot?

Although laws governing privilege of publication will not permit The Plainsman to give this applicant's name, he is passing the information along to Spencer Wells, Vernon Herndon and Durwood Bradley, as the city's most eligible bachelors.

GET A POLL TAX RECEIPT

Editor of the Avalanche: Here is e New Year. After the usual liday festivities comes a pause. eginning with this pause we pon- r; we follow the mind in a period wonder; we then meditate. We ve a conviction that the average ividual grows reminiscent and trospective of 1937. He then con- udes that the curtain has once ore fallen between the dead past d the living present. With such oughts we decide upon taking ock. Already the merchant, the anker, and industrialist are ac- ve in efforts to determine their eets and liabilities. This taking ck has long been considered es- ntial as well as safe in the world business.

There are certain perils that men- e our country which make inse- re for us the liberties we have joyed these 150 years. Let us be nest about it.

The first peril is regimentation. egimentation of what ever group d for what ever purpose will entually prove disastrous. In its al analysis it will rob any people their independence.

The second peril is the child la- r amendment. The farmers and ckers of this movement had no ttention of correcting abuses under mployment. Their purpose was to t control of all young people in rder to eventually sovietize this ation.

The third peril is the imminent nger of war. But let's not be so olish as to ask or expect a refer- dum on this very important sub- t. We are yet a representative vernment and the constitutional visions made allowing the presi- nt and congress are a sufficient arantee that this exigency will be ly and properly handled as ar- nged by the framers of the con- tution.

Permit me to urge upon you the portance of paying your poll tax securing your exemption certifi- e. For there will be many ques- ns upon which we shall be called pass in this year 1938. Our part the solution of city, of state d of national government will be termined by the possession of a ll tax receipt. If we fail to ex- cise our voting privilege and men d measure to whom and to which oppose; triumph—then we should d no fault. Remember that ours the only country in the world here poverty is on an exact equal- y with wealth so far as controlling destinies of our state and feder- government is concerned.

n this country a man does not e because he is rich. He does vote simply because he is edu- ed. He does not vote because has talent and genius. He s because he is a man who has manhood to support. We con- d that there is nothing in this tion more valuable to any human g than manhood. And for that son we put poverty on an equality h wealth.

We say in this country without rty the nation is not worth serving. Now, may I appeal to ry working man and every em- yed woman to secure your poll . When the time comes let us e for integrity; for progress, and prosperity. Vote for business d for good wages. Vote against eness and hunger. Vote for the orcement of laws. Vote to keep tracts sacred. Vote to preserve , liberty, and property. Vote inst the bomb, the torch, and the marine. Vote for law and order. e to give the youth an oppor- ity; age its just security. Vote preserve our country with its or unstained, its credit unim- red, and for the preservation of ce. For by so doing we shall serve it for ourselves, our chil- n, and their children yet to be.

TARZAN'S QUEST, No. 18 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

As Kavandavanda's dagger leaped up to rather ferce for its downward plunge into Jane's heart, the high priest heard wild screams of terror in the corridor. He paused. "Kavandavanda! Save us! Save us!" cried the voices in awful chorus. His hand was stayed.

The high priest wheeled angrily as a throng of slaves and warriors pressed into the room. "How dare you disturb Kavandavanda? Begone!" But the intruders continued their frantic wails, and he was impressed by the pictures of fright their faces revealed.

"What brings you here?" he demanded. "The dead men fly," a warrior answered; "they have come seeking vengeance. Come out and cast a spell upon them, Kavandavanda, and drive them away." "I will go and look," the high priest said. "Ydeni, bring the girl!"

Presently they issued from the temple, Jane in the firm grasp of Ydeni. She cast her eyes aloft and saw the two tiny figures floating down. She pitied them, whoever they were, for she believed they would meet instant death at the hands of the savage Kavuru.

Ask The Master Psychologist
DR. LA ROSE, Ps. D.

How to obtain Love, Happiness, Success, being loved and admired for yourself alone, capturing the hearts and friendship of all about you, can bring you more happiness than all the jewels and fine clothes you could wear . . . than all the wealth you could spend in a lifetime. Without friendship and love, life would not be worth living, for admiration and affection are the breath and heart beat of all human happiness. Within you is a power that controls your destiny. It is in every woman and man, but few discover it. Those who do are blessed with the key to Life's Happiness. With all my heart I urge you to bring forth this innate charm that is yours. Develop it, and you will attract to yourself those things that make life worth while. You are helpless in the hands of women who have learned how to use their hidden powers of attraction. You have these powers. You can discover and develop them and swiftly make yourself irresistible to men . . . even in competition with women far more attractive-looking. You can win and hold the love of the one you want. So if in doubt, ask the man who knows.

Censorship Of The Press Said By Columbia Professor To Constitute Grave Menace

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. (AP)—Dean Carl W. Ackerman of the Columbia University School of Journalism today denounced dictatorial control of the press as a "black plague" threatening world peace.

Dean Ackerman, reporting to Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of the university, on his world study of the growth of censorship and suppression, declared:

"It is significant, I think, that no nation where the press is free from governmental control is today directly involved in the war in Spain or China.

"Where there is freedom of thought and expression," he added, "as in the British commonwealth, Switzerland, Holland, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Argentina, and the United States, the national state of mind toward international relationships is as different from the present situation in Brazil, Russia, Italy, Germany, and Japan as day from night."

STOCKS RALLY, WANE

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. (AP)—Stocks rallied early in today's market on a small amount of buying steam, but found the grade a bit too steep and leaders backtracked at the finish.

There was a mid-day slip, but best levels were reached after publication of President Roosevelt's recommendations to congress.

Traders were quick to cash profits, however, and in the final hour advances running to 3 or more points were reduced substantially or converted into losses.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks ended off .1 of a point at 42.9. Transfers totaled 916,050 shares compared with 780,115 last Friday.

Aircrafts, relatively strong during the greater part of the day on further expectations of heavy army and navy orders, slipped with the rest on the home stretch, but Douglas and Boeing managed to retain gains of ⅝ of a point each at 32½ and 39⅝, respectively.

Steels were well up in front until the concluding lap when most turned downward and closed behind minus signs. Bethlehem made a top mark of 61¼ but closed at 58, off ⅜. U. S. Steel was high at 56⅞ and ended with a net loss of a point at 53.

Market sentiment was visibly depressed when it was announced the Erie railroad was unable to meet interest on 5 of its bond issues due today. Erie stock broke 3½, or 2⅝ points at a new low, and some issues of the bonds dropped around 15 to 17 points.

Motors did well for a while, but gave ground eventually. Chrysler yielded ⅞ at 46¾ and General Motors was ⅛ in arrears at 29⅞.

Utilities were fairly resistant. The ruling of the supreme court for the New Deal on PWA loans to municipalities for construction of power plants was offset partly, from a market standpoint, by the court's agreement to review the much disputed Electric Bond and Share case involving the holding company law.

Some mining and smelting issues dipped following reduction of the treasury's buying price for new domestically produced metal. The purchase rate for foreign silver, though, was maintained.

On the offside were Westinghouse at 99⅛, after being up to 104; du Pont 111½, U. S. Smelting 58, American Smelting 45¼, Sunshine Mining 12½, Southern Pacific 17½, J. I. Case 82⅛ and Montgomery Ward 30⅞.

Cotton . .

NEW OLREANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 3. (AP)—Cotton trading was narrow today and prices fluctuated within a small range. The close was steady, at net decline of 1 to 3 points.

At the best of the day prices showed net advances of 4 to 9 points over the previous close but the market encountered liquidation in final trading in sympathy with a reaction in outside markets.

Closing prices were at the lowest with Jan. at 8.31 bid, Mch at 8.38 bid, May at 8.46@8.47, July at 8.57@8.52, Oct. at 8.56 and Dec. at 8.58 bid.

AVERAGE PRICE

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 3. (AP)—The average price of middling cotton today at ten southern spot markets was 8.33 cents a pound; average for the past thirty market days 8.17 cents a pound.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Jan. 3. (AP)—Cotton fluctuated irregularly today. March, which recovered from 8.23 to 8.34, closed at 8.28, with final prices 2 points net higher to 3 lower.

There was no follow-up to early demand and prices soon eased to losses of around 3 to 5 points. Rallies of about 10 or 12 points from the lows followed as the stock market advanced on the first favorable impression of the president's message to congress. A later decline in securities caused cotton to react 4 to 9 points from the best at the close.

Monopoly Control

of economic control to the detriment of the body politic—control of other people's money, other people's labor, other peoples lives."

"Small Group" Suffers

"In many instances," he continued, "such concentrations cannot be justified on the ground of operating efficiency, but have been created for the sake of securities profits, financial control, the suppression of competition and the ambition for power over others.

"In some lines of industry, a very small numerical group is in such a position of influence that its actions are of necessity followed by the other units operating in the same field."

These influences, the president said, operate to control banking and finance despite federal legislation which has been designed "to take control out of the hands of a small group."

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Jan. 3. (AP)—Highest prices today for wheat, up 1⅜ cents a bushel, came after the contents of President Roosevelt's message to congress had been made public.

Selling to realize profits on the upturn, however, led to a late reaction that wiped out more than half the day's maximum gain. Contributing to the late setback was disappointment over North American wheat export purchases estimated as totaling today less than 200,000 bushels.

Absence of selling pressure rather than alacrity of buyers distinguished the upward movement of wheat prices. Serving as a drag on wheat values were indications that Europeans were doing everything possible to avoid making any but hand-to-mouth purchases at present in North America.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ⅜@¾ above Friday's finish, May 90⅜@90½, July 85@85⅛, corn ⅛@⅛ down, May 61¼@61⅜, July 60½@60⅝, oats ⅛ off, rye showing ¼@⅞ advance, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2 cents.

FORT WORTH REPORT

Allred Says 50,000 May Ask Benefits

AUSTIN, Jan. 3. (AP)—Governor James V. Allred estimated today 50,000 claims would be filed this month in Texas for unemployment compensation but because many employed people were not covered under the law not more than one-fourth of the applicants would be eligible for benefits.

Allred announced that the federal social security board had approved details of the plan for receiving claims. Allred last week appeared in Washington with Orville S. Carpenter, director of the Texas unemployment compensation system.

"The law provides for a two-week waiting period before payment can be made for unemployment," the governor said. "This means the third week of January will be the first week in which any person can receive benefits. A few days will be required to approve the claims and prepare the checks so that the first payments will be made about the last week in January."

Pet Dog Becomes Retriever And Uncovers Evidence That Leads Judge To Grant A Divorce

SEATTLE, Jan. 3. (AP)—A pet dog found evidence that won a divorce today for Mrs. Ida Dek Irby Paget from Claude Oliver Paget, occountant.

Mrs. Paget testified that her pet dog gaily romped in one day with a letter beginning "my darling," and signed "Gladys," which had fallen from her husband's pocket. Superior Judge Calvin S. Hall admitted the "retriever's" evidence and granted Mrs. Paget's petition for divorce.

Edward J. Neil, Jr.

British agency.

Frank B. Noyes, president of the Associated Press said: "His death is a loss not only to the Associated Press but to the entire newspaper profession. He went to Spain as a working newspaperman, not in search of adventure, and while there he performed his task ably and without regard for the consequences to himself. The Associated Press is proud of him."

The staff of the Palestine Post, Jerusalem, cabled a message that recalled Neil's assignment in 1936 to cover the conflict between the British and Arabs. Tributes also came from Webb Miller, European news manager of the United Press, and Reynolds Packard, now representing the United Press in Austria and a fellow correspondent of Neil's during the Italo-Ethiopian war.

To expressions from such managing editors as Roy Roberts of the Kansas City Star, and Malcolm Bingay of the Detroit Free Press were added the sentiments of sports writers and editors who rubbed elbows with Neil for years at the country's biggest athletic events.

In their columns Sports Editor Jimmy Powers of the New York Daily News recalled a visit with Neil in Paris, parting with a "don't forget to duck, Butch," and Bill Corum of the New York Journal-American praised him as a "modern Richard Harding Davis."

The news of Neil's death cast a pall of gloom over such sporting haunts as the major league baseball offices, the Hippodrome, and Madison Square garden.

Condolences of the sports world otherwise came from such representative institutions or individuals as the University of Pittsburgh, Oregon State college, Edward C. Foster of Providence, R. I., executive secretary of the National Boxing association; Dan Parker, sports editor of the New York Daily Mirror; and many others.

BILBOS TO DIVORCE COURT

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 3. (AP)—The domestic troubles of United States Senator Theo G. Bilbo and his wife, will be publicly disclosed soon in the little town of Popularville, Miss., where they were married.

RESIGNATION NOT ASKED

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 3. (AP)—Albuquerque's city commission decided tonight not to ask the resignation of Mayor Charles Lembke, charged with embezzlement, pending a grand jury investigation of the city's affairs.

Uniform crime reports from the entire country are compiled quarterly by the federal bureau of investigation.

FDR Addresses U. S. Congress

ed reaction among his hearers to other points of his message.

Then, he said:

"The objective of increasing the purchasing power of the farming third, the industrial third and the service third of our population presupposes the cooperation of what we call capital and labor.

"Capital is essential; reasonable earnings on capital are essential; but misuse of the powers of capital or selfish suspension of the employment of capital (his nearest approach to Jackson's and Ickes' charge of a strike) must be ended or the capitalistic system will destroy itself through its own abuses."

"Condemned Minority" Rapped

He said the majority of business men and bankers "intend to be good citizens," that the practices of which he spoke were confined to a minority.

"But unfortunately for the country," he said, "when attention is called to, or attack is made on specific misuses of capital, there has been a deliberate purpose on the part of the condemned minority to distort the criticism into an attack on all capital. This is wilful deception, but it does not long deceive.

"If attention is called to, or attack made on, certain wrongful business practices, there are those who are eager to call it "an attack on all business." That too is wilful deception that will not long deceive.

Economic Analysis Propected

"Let us consider certain facts:

"There are practices which most people believe should be ended. They include tax avoidance through corporate and other methods, which I have previously mentioned; excessive capitalization, investment write-ups and security manipulations; in defiance of the spirit of the in defiance of the supirit of the anti-trust laws by methods which baffle prosecution under the present statutes.

"They include high pressure salesmanship which creates cycles of overproduction within given industries and consequent recessions in production until such time as the surplus is consumed; the use of patent laws to enable larger corporations to maintain high prices and withhold from the public the advantages of the progress of science; unfair competition which drives the smaller producer out of business locally, regionally or even on a national scale; intimidation of local or state government to prevent the enactment of laws for the protection of labor by threatening to move elsewhere; the shifting of actual production from one locality or region to another in pursuit of the cheapest wage scale."

Problems Enumerated

He went on to what he called problems arising from "the concentration of economic control," which he said gave "food for grave thought about the future." In many instances, he said, such concentrations could not be justified on a basis of operating efficiency and were brought about principally for the sake of "securities profits, financial control, the suppression of competition, and the ambition for power over others."

The ownership of vast properties and the organization of thousands of workers creates, he continued, "a heavy obligation of public service," which should be accepted before such power is sought.

"The man who seeks freedom from such responsibility in the name of individual liberty is either fooling himself or trying to cheat his fellow men," the president said. "He wants to eat the fruits of orderly society without paying for them."

"More Perplexity Than Fear"

One allusion was made to the current economic recession as such; he said it had caused "more perplexity than fear."

Then, he said:

"Government can be expected to cooperate in every way with the business of the nation provided the component parts of business abandon practices which do not belong to this day and age, and adopt price and production policies appropriate to the times.

"In regard to the relationship of government to certain processes of business, to which I have referred, it seems clear to me that existing laws require reconstruction. I expect, therefore, to address the congress in a special message on this subject, and I hope to have the help of business in the efforts of government to help business."

Applause Given Speech By European Democracies

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 3.—Europe's great democracies and the League of Nations tonight expressed warm approval of President Roosevelt's message to congress, especially his assertion the world's peace was "most safe in the hand of democratic representative governments."

In France and Great Britain nationwide applause greeted his statement of the American people's belief democracy would "be restored or established in those nations which today know it not," and his declaration "in that faith lies the future peace of mankind."

Sources close to the British government declared Europe generally—Germany and Italy excepted—welcomed what they called a bold condemnation of the policies of dictatorial countries.

Fascists Yawn

In Rome high Fascists were indifferent to the president's comments on democracy as a repetition of his previously expressed views. Official comment was withheld pending examination of the full text. The Fascist attitude previously has been, however, that Italy is the true democracy.

At the British foreign office the speech was applauded as evidence of the identity of American and British foreign policies. French statesmen in Paris left no doubt President Roosevelt's message was considered "France's own."

One official quarter declared the only hope of France was that what the president termed a "surface trend" away from democracy and the consequent disregard of treaties would be obligated "before it is too late."

League circles at Geneva hailed the president's prophecy of a return to democracy to totalitarian states as a prediction of a similar return to international collaboration through the league.

Interpretation Sought

They expressed the opinion Roosevelt's support of national democracy meant he also believed "international democracy" or league collaboration must be restored.

Many league officers hesitated to express an official reaction because they were anxious to avoid charges of Fascist leaders that the league was only a tool of democracies.

British quarters expressed disappointment Roosevelt failed to elaborate the extent of the leadership the United States was prepared to take in curbing international lawlessness.

They said, however, they believed Roosevelt was hampered by the isolationist attitude of America and handicapped in a full expression of events in the Far East by the United States' lack of a large naval base in that region.

Method In Madness Brings Haven In Jail To Man

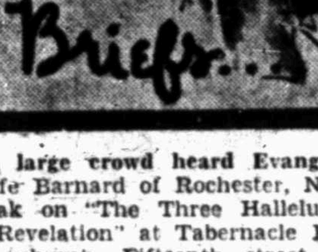

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3. (AP)—Thomas L. Dollard, 54-year-old unemployed clerical worker, was being fed by the city today.

Dollard, who said he was rejected by 65 employers in one week on the ground he was too old to work, tossed a brick through the front window of WPA headquarters here to call attention to his plight.

He walked to the hall of justice, asked to be arrested, and was jailed for malicious mischief.

But there was no malice in his deed, Dollard contended today.

"It's job or jail," he said, explaining he was married and had a daughter in high school. "The principle involved is whether a man, especially a man with a wife and child, has a right to a job."

A large crowd heard Evangelist Rolfe Barnard of Rochester, N. Y. speak on "The Three Hallelujahs of Revelation" at Tabernacle Baptist church, Fifteenth street and Avenue N, Monday night. Services will be held at 10 o'clock this morning and at 7:30 o'clock tonight Mr. Barnard will discuss "Christ's Crucifixion Between Two Thieves" and "Heartless Religion and Godless Communism."

Doubt exists as to whether the anniversary of the birth of President Andrew Jackson will be observed here Saturday by Democrats of Lubbock county with a traditional dinner. L. C. Ellis, county Democratic chairman, said he would consult with a number of Democratic leaders before a final decision was reached. Indications are, however, that it will not be held, since some of the leaders are planning to attend a Dallas dinner.

J. Neil Johnston, who several years was associated with the circulation department of Avalanche-Journal Publications, Inc., was reported critically ill Monday night at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. S. C. Spikes, 1720 Avenue J. He has ben suffering from a heart condition several months but did not become seriously ill until Thursday night. Those at the bedside said Monday that after apparent improvement earlier in the day his condition became less satisfactory.

None were injured in seven minor car wrecks over the week-end and Monday. According to police records cars driven by the following figured in accidents: Mrs. Cleo Jones of 1936 Texas avenue and "a Mrs. Ray Campbell of Lubbock"; Mrs. Robert Rogers of 1702 Thirteenth street and Mrs. A. A. Greer of Shallowater; V. R. Dockery of 1011 Avenue J and Gus Shantz of 1625 College avenue; Mrs. J. A. Jackson of 2811 College avenue and Rudolph Pool; J. M. Jackson of Roaring Springs and Bob McCharn of Albuquerque, N. M.; E. W. Millsap of 2115 Eighth street and O. E. Montgomery of Dickens; and Julia Roberts of 2313 Thirty-fourth street and Ellis Martin of 1918 Twenty-eighth.

The troop was the 66th in the council and the 80th unit, including troops, cub packs and Sea Scout organization.

The troop is sponsored by the Littlefield Junior High school, of which F. S. Hemphill is superintendent. T. E. Liner was elected scoutmaster.

Chairman of the troop committee is Orion Dinnis. Other members of the committee are: C. E. Harvey, Van Clark, J. N. Denning, Hemphill, and Bernard Collins.

BOB BURNS' TEACHER DIES

EMPORIA, Kas., Jan. 3. (AP)—Frank D. McLean, 80, first music teacher of Bob Burns, movie and radio comedian, died in a hospital here today. The comedian took lessons from him on the mandolin and trombone.

Centenarian Recalls Jesse James Stickup

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 3. (AP)—Henry Ingersoll Cameron, who says he's nearly 101 years old and recalls he lost an eye in the Civil war, helped bury Jesse James, and saw "Wild Bill" Hickok killed, hopes to get back on his feet soon.

Cameron, who also boasts he hasn't had a hair cut in 87 years, sat in a wheel chair at the home of his daughter-in-law here today, and said he expects his sense of balance would return before he reaches 104.

Three years ago after a session of solitaire, he told his family: "Damn, I can't get up out of my chair." Doctors said it was because his sense of balance had gone.

Cameron asserted he also remembers bebing held up by Jesse James.

"I only had $7.50 on me," he said, "so Jesse handed it back and said 'here, I got more than you'."

Government Wins

people have won."

In three other actions affecting utilities, the court:

1. Reversed by a 6 to 2 vote, a California district court decree enjoining a rate making order of the state railroad commission. The tribunal sent the case back to the lower court to determine whether the rates were confiscatory. In this case the government had asked the justices to reverse previous decisions and held the utilities should be valued for rate making purposes on the basis of "prudent investment" without consideration to reproduction costs.

2. Returned to the southern Indiana federal district court for further consideration a case involving Indianapolis water rates fixed by the state public service commission. Justice Black dissented.

3. Agreed to pass upon a challenge to the constitutionality of the Public Utility Holding company act of 1935. The litigation was filed by the Electric Bond and Share company and 26 subsidiaries, and the government had joined in urging an early hearing.

Court Decision Affects Several Texas Projects

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3. (AP)—The Public Works administration said today supreme court decisions upholding the PWA power program opened the way to proceed with 61 projects in 23 states.

The PWA had allotted $61,225,544 as loans and $38,412,408 as grants to the projects, which it said had been blockaded by litigation.

Those in litigation, the loans, grants and total estimated cost included:

Texas—Lower Colorado, $10,500,000, $4,500,000 and $20,000,000; Liberty, $68,200, $27,000 and $95,200; Leonard, (no loan), $32,727, and $37,727; Electra, $122,000, $99,818 and $221,818.

reassured. I think it outlines a sound program."

Republican Leader Snell of the house—"It was more conciliatory than I expected."

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich)—"I find no inkling in the message that the executive understands or is willing to admit what is happening to our economic life."

Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) of the senate foreign relations committee—"It very firmly and accurately analyzed . . . the need for this government to prepare to defend itself in any emergency."

Representative Bacon (R-NY)—"He was trying to find an alibi for the Roosevelt depression. I find myself in agreement with his remarks on the foreign situation."

Senator Shipstead (FL-Minn)—"The aim is all right, if he can actually work out these objectives."

Senator Glass (D-Va)—"A very agreeable and engaging sort of message from his viewpoint."

"Drawn-Out Agony"

Representative Fish (R-NY)—"A long, drawn-out agony of alibis and avoidances without any definite program of recovery."

Representative Hoffman (R-Mich)—"He talks against controlling other people's money and other people's lives yet he is doing that himself."

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont)—"An excellent political speech."

Senator McAdoo (D-Calif) — "The president's message . . . should reassure those who feel nervous about the future of business in the country."

Senator Davis (R-Pa)—"The president's message must have been written after he got the universally unfavorable reaction to vicious attacks on business by Jackson and Ickes."

Faculty Changes Are Announced

Joe Haddon, formerly associated with Slaton schools, and Mrs. Jean G. Pittman, Lubbock substitute teacher, have been elected members of Junior High school faculty, succeeding Lynn Gray Gordon, who resigned recently as assistant principal and band director to accept appointment as a sanitation engineer with the state board of health.

Haddon will direct the Junior High school band on a half-day schedule, will continue with the Slaton band and do special work at Texas Technological college. Mrs. Pittman, a science teacher, also will work on a half-time schedule.

Gordon is to take a three-months' course at Vanderbilt university before assuming his new duties.

Easter Services In Lubbock Planned

Churches affiliated with the Lubbock Ministers association will have a union service or simultaneous services, probably at Easter, as a result of plans made at a monthly meeting of the organization Monday at the First Methodist church.

Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, pastor of First Methodist church, Rev. C. E. Hereford, pastor of First Baptist church, and Rev. R. M. Hocker, pastor of First Church of the Nazarene, were appointed members of a committee to make plans and recommendations.

Tentative schedule also was worked out for broadcasting of Sunday night services at various churches over radio station KFYO through the year. Rev. Jack M. Lewis, pastor of First Presbyterian church, said that First Baptist services will be broadcast through January, and that the following schedule for other months has been adopted: February, Central Baptist; March, First Presbyterian; April, First Methodist; May, First Christian; June, Asbury Methodist; July, Calvary Baptist; August, First Church of Nazarene; September, St. Paul's Episcopal; and October, Tabernacle Baptist.

New officers for the year presided for the first time at the association meeting. They are Rev. J. Hodge Alves, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal, president; Mr. Hereford, vice president; and Rev. Cecil R. Matthews, minister of religious education at First Methodist.

Students Return To Classes On Monday

Christmas and New Year holidays ended, students of city and county schools and Texas Technological college returned to their usual schedules Monday morning.

City schools had been at recess since Dec. 22 and Tech since Dec. 18. Various of the county schools set their own vacation periods.

Posey and New Deal Rural schools ended their Christmas recess last Tuesday and Idalou on Thursday. Those resuming session this morning were Cooper, Frenship, Roosevelt and Shallowater, according to County Superintendent Joseph R. Griggs.

Beware The Cough

From a common cold

That Hangs On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Creomulsion not only contains the soothing elements common to many cough remedies, such as Syrup of White Pine Compound with Tar, and fluid extract of Licorice Root, but it also has fluid extract of Ipecac for its powerful phlegm loosening effect, fluid extract of Cascara for its mild laxative effect, and, most important of all, Beechwood Creosote, perfectly blended with all of these so that it will reach the source of the trouble from the inside. Creomulsion can be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children with remarkable results.

Thousands of people, who really know their drugs, use Creomulsion in their own families, realizing that this excellent preparation aids nature to soothe the inflamed mucous membranes, to heal the irritated tissues, and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. Druggists also know the effectiveness of Beechwood Creosote and they rank Creomulsion "tops" for coughs because you get a real dose of Creosote in Creomulsion, emulsified so that it is palatable, digestible, and active in going to the very seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is generally found satisfactory in the treatment of coughs, chest colds and bronchial irritation, especially those stubborn ones that start as just a common cold and hang on for dreadful days and nights thereafter. Even if other remedies have failed, your druggist is authorized to refund every cent of your money if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained from the very first bottle of Creomulsion. Don't worry through another sleepless night—use Creomulsion.

Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product, and the relief that you want. (Adv.)
