Diplomas will be awarded to Snyder seniors

Snyder High School will award diplomas to graduating seniors at 8 o'clock tonight at Scurry County Coliseum, with 166 students scheduled to receive the honor.

The ceremony is dedicated to the memory of Stacy Copeland who died in a car wreck on her way to school in December.

Assistant band director Kay Kennedy is performing the processional and Lynn Fogleman, daughter of assistant principal Thomas and Kem Fogleman, will give the invocation.

Charlie Gorman, son of Jack and Kim Gorman, will give the valedictory address. The theme of his speech will be "We Can't, but God Can" and will include verses from 2 Corinthians and Romans.

Gorman will attend Baylor University in the fall and he said he will major in a pre-med subject.

Kate Wright, daughter of Tommy and Linda Wright, will give the salutatory address entitled "Determination and Perseverance." The speech will include a poem by R.L. Sharpe.

Wright has this message for the Snyder Class of 2002:

"I hope you will walk away from this night with the thought that every choice is yours and every consequence is yours also."

Wright will be attending the University of North Texas in the fall. She will major in business administration.

Principal Larry Scott will announce over $314,000 worth of scholarships to the class, with over $6,000 coming from Western Texas College.

DCOS takes no action on request for assistance

The Development Corporation of Snyder board of directors took no action Thursday afternoon on a request by C.D. Gray Jr. of Ice Melt Products Inc. for financial assistance in leasing rail car space.

Gray said he is seeking to lease some 20 rail car spaces to be used in a mixing operation on the rail sites with a Houston-based fertilizer company.

"We sell magnesium chloride and we will be mixing it with the company's fertilizer," said Gray.

However, DCOS executive director John DeLille said Gray's request did not meet the criteria for DCOS assistance.

"It doesn't increase the tax base, no more employees would be added, and basically, this is an operating expense for the company," said DeLille.

Gray said the investment at the rail site would be around $30,000, and perhaps one additional employee might be hired.

Board member James Brown said he agreed with DeLille on the fact that it is an operating expense, and that the board might could help by recommending a tax abatement for some assistance.

Gray said the source of the magnesium chloride in Borden County is an equal distance from Snyder, Big Spring and Post.

"Snyder is not the only place we can load these rail cars," said Gray.

"I'll go wherever I can to see if somebody else will help," said Gray. "I just wanted to come here first."

Gray also said he thought the DCOS might be an aid to existing businesses and prospective businesses by contracting with an electrical consultant.

"The next company that comes into the industrial park needs someone to help negotiate power rates," said Gray.

DeLille told the board that he has been in contact with two companies that might be interested in purchasing the Lorber building in the industrial park.

The textile manufacturing equipment is expected to be sold separately this summer.

"We're interested in the building, but we don't want to step on the toes of any prospects," said DeLille.

"If the building is vacant four months from now, we'll look at it again," said DeLille.

Board president David Cotton presided and board members in attendance were Brown, Dayton Robertson, Mike McWilliams and Mark Cypert. Also attending were Snyder mayor Francine Noah and Chairman Emeritus Roy Baze.

THE SDN COLUMN

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Success is the good fortune that comes from aspiration, desperation, perspiration and inspiration."

This is the 11th in a series of articles concerning the individual staff members of the Snyder Daily News.

We once asked him if he knew when everybody else reported for work.

"Heck, no," he said. "Everybody was already here working when I got here."

Eric Drennan

That innocent but honest reply represents one of the refreshing things about SDN sports editor Eric Drennan.

He's not a clock watcher. Most sports activity isn't played during normal working hours, so you often find Eric keeping strange office hours.

Despite driving back some evening after midnight after covering some sporting event in Plainview, San Angelo, Fort Stockton or Austin – Eric gets the job done – a job that he loves.

Sports editor at the SDN since 1997, Eric once exclaimed, "Holy cow! You mean I get paid to do this?"

Eric lives and breathes athletics. He can go from a Friday night football game to a Saturday afternoon volleyball match on the strength of a Dr. Pepper and breakfast burrito.

If eating were a sport, Drennan would be a world class competitor, but his 155-pound, 6-1 frame defies his appetite that is only exceeded by his love for sports.

Eric makes reading about a game interesting. He's factual, the story's organized and he gets comments that few others can get – even from a coach who just lost a game.

One of Eric's favorite stories concerned retired Tiger Coach David Baugh who was a man of few words. After a loss, Coach Baugh was asked what had gone wrong. Baugh panned, "We didn't score enough points."

At the field house, Drennan is respected by both the coaches and the kids. He's often called coach, and he's been asked on more than one occasion about his opinion about game strategy. That kind of a relationship brings extra insight home to the readers.

Eric, a native of San Angelo, is married to Kristi, a resource teacher at Central Elementary. They have one son, Alec, who is 2½ years old.

The couple is hoping for another soon. As Eric would exclaim, "Holy Cow!" and he would add, "Just as long as he doesn't arrive on Friday night."

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

Cousin who held wife's hand now holds her ex-husband's

DEAR ABBY: For years I was married to a very abusive man. I have a female cousin who stood by me through it all and helped me to finally free myself from him.

Since childhood this cousin and I have confided in each other about everything in our lives.

Now I find out she's dating my ex-husband! Abby, I feel betrayed. I also feel I can no longer confide in her. What should I do? — CONFUSED BEYOND BELIEF, BEVERLY, MASS.

DEAR CONFUSED: Start praying for her. Because you've been in her shoes, you know firsthand what the future holds for her.

**

DEAR ABBY: My daughter and some friends tell me I "need a life." Their comments hurt and upset me, Abby, because I am living the life I want.

I have lived with my healthy 87-year-old father since my mom died a few years ago. I run the household as well as manage our cabin resort by the lake. I am truly happy most of the time.

Do you have any suggestions on what I can say to my daughter and friends when they go on about this? — LIFE IS GREAT ON LAKE SUPERIOR

DEAR LIFE IS GREAT: Thank them for their concern, then tell them you're happy with your life just as it is. This is the life you have chosen, and you find it fulfilling. And, "Since it ain't broke, there's nothing to fix," tell them they should please stop finding fault with your life and get on with theirs.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question about second weddings. At age 20 I was married briefly. It was a big mistake. My boyfriend and I had lived together during college in our small Midwest town, and we gave in to the pressure to tie the knot rather than continue "shacking up."

My wedding quickly became "my mother's wedding." She completely took over and ran the show. I wanted fresh flowers — I got silk. I wanted ivory china — I got white. I wanted a small, private wedding — I was stuck with 562 people I barely knew. She even selected my Dior wedding gown and veil, and considering Mom was footing the entire bill, I felt obligated to yield. I later threw the dress away — I hated it that much.

On top of all that, I didn't want to get married in the first place, and told my mother as much. By then, however, the invitations were out and I felt stuck. Please keep in mind I was only 20, Abby. That was nine years ago; I would never be steamrolled like that today!

Now I am engaged to a wonderful man. This is his first marriage. We are planning (and paying for) a small but formal event, and I want this wedding to be mine. If I don't get to plan it my way, the opportunity will have passed me by.

Above all, I want the experience of shopping for and choosing my dream bridal dress. I'd like to wear an ivory gown with no train and a simple, long veil that would drag as a kind of train. Certain people have told me I should not do this. What do you think, Abby? Is it OK for a second-time bride to wear a formal bridal gown? — TWICE A BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: Those who are advising you to be more low-key are going by the book. If you do not choose to go by the book — and since you're paying for the wedding — write your own chapter and do what makes you happy. True friends won't criticize.

Parents settle suit

HOUSTON (AP) — The parents of a 42-year-old woman who drowned in a downtown elevator during Tropical Storm Allison are settling their wrongful death lawsuit out of court.

The suit blamed the June 9 death of Kristie Tautenhahn on a security officer at the Bank of America Center who advised workers over an intercom system to move their cars because water was seeping into the garage.

Tautenhahn, a proofreader at a law firm, died on the second-lowest level of an underground garage beneath the building.

The family sued the building's owner, Hines Interests Ltd. Partnership; Setec Protection Service security company, several elevator companies and Tautenhahn's employer, Mayer, Brown & Platt.

Michael Goldberg, attorney for Hines and the security company, said in today's editions of the Houston Chronicle that some defendants paid in the settlement and some did not.

Chris Brown, an attorney for the parents, said the case went to mediation and a confidential settlement was negotiated. He said all parties have not signed the terms, and he cannot discuss them.

Accused child killer gets 130 years for separate assaults

GREAT FALLS, Mont. (AP) — A man has been sentenced to 130 years in prison for assaulting two children, but he still faces trial for the most heinous crime of which he is accused: Butchering a 10-year-old boy and feeding his remains to unsuspecting neighbors.

Nathaniel Bar-Jonah, 45, received the 130-year sentence with no possibility of parole on Thursday for the two 1999 assaults. State District Judge Kenneth Neill, citing Bar-Jonah's extensive record of crimes against children, turned down a request from defense attorneys that Bar-Jonah be sent to the state psychiatric hospital instead of prison.

Bar-Jonah showed no emotion as the sentence was read — 100 years for sexual assault, 10 years for aggravated kidnapping and 20 years for assault.

"It was everything that we expected," attorney Greg Jackson said. Don Vernay, another defense attorney, said they would appeal the sentence.

Bar-Jonah was convicted in February of sexually assaulting a 14-year-old neighbor boy in his apartment and assaulting the boy's 8-year-old cousin by hanging him by his neck from a rope to watch him choke.

Both boys testified at the trial.

Neill had ordered the case moved to Butte after ruling Bar-Jonah could not get a fair trial in Great Falls because of news coverage surrounding separate kidnapping and murder charges he faces involving the 1996 disappearance of another boy, Zachary Ramsay. A trial on those charges is to take place in Missoula; no date has been set.

Authorities believe Bar-Jonah kidnapped Zachary as he walked to school, butchered him and cooked the body parts in meals served to unsuspecting neighbors.

Police said they found encrypted letters by Bar-Jonah that talked about "little boy stew," "little boy pot pies" and "lunch is served on the patio with roasted child."

In court Thursday, Cascade County Attorney Brant Light argued that Bar-Jonah "continues to be a sexually dangerous person."

Light offered a chronology of Bar-Jonah's sexual offenses, going back to his childhood in Massachusetts and his commitment to a mental hospital there. Light also introduced some 14,000 clippings and photos of children that investigators found in Bar-Jonah's apartment.

"When I started this case 21/2 years ago, I had one goal — that this man would never, ever hurt another child," Light said.

Bar-Jonah had previously spent more than a decade in a Massachusetts mental hospital after one attack in which authorities said he tried to kill two boys. Before that, he had forced an 8-year-old boy into his car and choked him with his belt so badly that the boy was hospitalized. Shortly after his release, he assaulted another boy.

Under a 1991 plea agreement with Massachusetts prosecutors, Bar-Jonah was allowed to move to Montana with his mother. Montana authorities were outraged to learn of the deal after Bar-Jonah's arrest.

Bulldogs struggle in 5-2 setback to Windthorst

By Eric Drennan
Sports Editor

ALBANY — After solid play through the first two innings, Ira's bats went dormant. And so did their gloves.

Ira failed to register a hit over the final five innings and committed five errors on the day to fall to fourth-ranked Windthorst, 5-2, Thursday in the opening game of their area playoff series at Lion Field.

The series resumes at 5 p.m. today with a berth in the regional semifinals riding on the outcome. But Ira coach Bubba Edwards knows for his team to advance, it must raise its level of play.

"To beat a good team, you have to jump on them early," said Edwards. "We did that. But then you have to play defense, and you have to keep hitting the ball. We didn't do those two things."

Ira (19-7) got off to fast start as Eric Dickerhoff opened the game with a lead-off single then score on a base hit by Josh Gutierrez.

The Bulldogs padded their lead in the second. After Jerry Jamison reached base on an error, Jess Wall lined a single back up the middle to push the margin to 2-0.

However, that's when the Bulldogs' production came to a halt.

Windthorst's Augie Berend held Ira hitless the rest of the way, and the Bulldogs were picked off the base paths twice in the final two innings.

"You have to hit the ball late in the game," Edwards stated. "Once you get to this level, everybody's good so you're not going to be able to blow people out. You have to keep scoring to give yourself a chance."

As soon as Ira's bats went to sleep, Windthorst (22-2) came alive at the plate. The Trojans scored all five of their runs in the third inning, thanks in part to three Ira errors.

The eight and ninth hitters in Windthorst's order lined singles to start the third. Then after notching two outs, the wheels came off for the Bulldogs.

A botched pick-off play, a miscue on a ground ball and an overthrow at third base, combined with two more hits allowed the Trojans to plate five runs and take control of the game.

"I don't know if part of that was nerves, or what it was. But you can't play defense like that in the playoffs and win," said Edwards. "And our kids know that. We're a better team than we showed today. Hopefully we'll prove that in the last two games."

Ira senior Jase Olvera was tagged with the loss, working the first four innings before giving way to Eric Dickerhoff. Already rattled by the five-run third inning, Olvera threw his bat after striking out in the top of the fifth and was quickly lifted for what Edwards termed as "disciplinary reasons."

"Jase let his emotions get the best of him, and he said and did some things he knows he shouldn't have," Edwards explained. "Winning a baseball game is one thing, but the lessons you learn in how to keep your composure will help you the rest of your life.

"And Jase knows that. He's a competitor and I'm sure he'll learn from this lesson. He'll be ready to go for the next game."

Dickerhoff allowed three hits and a walk, and worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the bottom of the sixth. The junior right-hander is the scheduled starter for Game 2.

"It's pretty simple for us," said Edwards. "We have to cut down on our errors and be more patient at the plate. If we do those things, I think we can win two games in a row."

Sooners, Cornhuskers remain unbeaten at Big 12 tournament

ARLINGTON (AP) — Nebraska and Oklahoma earned a day off at the Big 12 tournament.

As the two teams to make it through the first two days at The Ballpark in Arlington without a loss, the Cornhuskers (41-17) and Sooners (35-23) don't have to play today. Both wait until Saturday needing just one win to get to the championship game.

Two elimination games were on today's schedule. In rematches from Wednesday, Kansas State plays Texas Tech and Texas plays Texas A&M.

On Thursday, Oklahoma beat Texas A&M 9-1 and Nebraska ended Texas Tech's conference-record 16-game winning streak with a 12-8 win in the winners' bracket. In a pair of elimination games, Texas eliminated Oklahoma State 8-6 and Kansas State eliminated Baylor 6-2.

Oklahoma 9, Texas A&M 1

Charlie Frasier drove in four runs for the Sooners and Jason Fransz went 3-for-4, including a 2-run homer, and scored three times.

Mark Roberts (7-3) got the win, allowing five hits and one run in eight innings, whle striking out six and walking one. The Aggies' only run came on a homer by Eric Reed on Roberts' first pitch of the game. Ryan Warpinski (2-5) was the loser, surrendering eight hits and four earned runs in 3.1 innings for the Aggies (35-23).

Nebraska 12, Texas Tech 8

Grose went 3-for-4 and drove in three runs to lead the Cornhuskers, who won their 10th straight Big 12 postseason game.

Grose's sacrifice fly in the second scored Jeff Blevins and gave Nebraska a 2-1 lead. Matt Hooper had an RBI triple in the third and Grose had a two-run double in the sixth that made it 9-1.

Texas Tech (41-17) got three runs in the seventh, including a two-run double by Gera Alvarez. The Red Raiders scored four times in the eighth, and had the go-ahead run at the plate with the bases loaded when Jake Brown flew out against reliever Jeff Blaesing to end the threat.

Shane Komine (7-0) struck out seven batters in 6 2-3 innings, allowing three earned runs in his 16th straight win against conference opponents.

Texas 8, Oklahoma St. 6

Michael Hollimon had a tiebreaking RBI single and Dustin Majewksi added a two-run double in a three-run eighth inning as top-seeded Texas avoided elimination.

Josh Fields had a solo homer, his third, for Oklahoma State (37-21) in the seventh that tied the game at 5-5.

Hollimon's single against reliever Daniel Rew scored J.D. Reininger, who led off the eighth with a double off Mike Patitucci (0-2). Tim Moss followed with a single and Omar Quintanilla was intentionally walked before Majewki, who has six hits in two tournament games, hit his two-run double for an 8-5 lead.

Kansas St. 6, Baylor 2

Brock Smith allowed two runs over 7 2-3 innings and Nick Sorensen drove in three runs for Kansas State (29-24), which is in its first Big 12 tournament.

Smith (6-6) struck out seven and walked three. He scattered nine hits, and didn't allow a run until the seventh inning when Kansas State led 6-0.

Sorensen, Osmar Castillo and Ty Soto had two hits each for the Wildcats, who have won six of their last seven games.

Court: Minnesota man entitled to new trial

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — When Michael Sean Gianakos and Jamie Dennis-Gianakos got married, they added an extra vow to the usual promises to love, honor and cherish: They promised not to rat each other out.

Both admit they married at least in part so they couldn't be forced to testify against each other after allegedly committing armed robbery. But Dennis-Gianakos ended up testifying against her husband when he was charged with murdering a prosecution witness, and Gianakos was convicted.

On Thursday, however, the Minnesota Supreme Court ordered a new trial for Gianakos, ruling that people who are married — even out of criminal convenience — can't testify against each other unless they both consent.

The case began on the night of Jan. 28, 1997, at a motel in Moorhead, where the couple staged a phony robbery to cover up an earlier theft from the motel safe. About two weeks later, they were married, and two weeks after that they were charged with the crime.

In April of that year, AnneMarie Camp — a baby sitter for the couple's two young children and the state's best witness in the heist — was killed.

Gianakos was charged with murder in 1999, and Dennis-Gianakos agreed to testify against him. The defendant pleaded innocent and fought to block his wife's testimony.

Courts don't generally allow spouses to testify against each other unless both concede to it, based on a common law precedent meant to uphold the sanctity of marriage.

The trial court, however, ruled that Dennis-Gianakos could testify against her husband, citing federal case law that grants exceptions when the marriage was not entered into in good faith and when the couple engaged in crimes together.

Gianakos was convicted of first-degree murder and sentenced to life in prison.

In Thursday's state Supreme Court ruling, Justice Edward Stringer rejected the lower court's interpretation. He suggested it was up to the Legislature to clear up the law if it is flawed.

"It is simply too great a departure from over 100 years of this court's jurisprudence to adopt an exception to the marital privilege of this nature," Stringer wrote.

"The law seemed clear to me," Gianakos' attorney, Charles Chinquist, said Thursday. "The Supreme Court just observed the law and applied it correctly when the trial court did not."

Clay County attorney Lisa Borgen said she was disappointed. She said the opinion doesn't change the evidence and "does not change our resolve to continue to seek justice for AnneMarie Camp."

One justice, Joan Erickson Lancaster, dissented in the Supreme Court ruling.

"The preservation of marital harmony," Lancaster wrote, "is not an absolute goal to be pursued blindly."

Dennis-Gianakos, who is serving a 25-year sentence after pleading guilty to second-degree murder, testified at her husband's trial that the couple and their children drove Camp to an abandoned farm.

She said she gave Camp a drugged wine cooler and Gianakos shot her in the back of the head with a shotgun. Then they dragged her body behind a house and slit her throat, she said.

That testimony was at the heart of the state's case. Without it, Stringer wrote, it was reasonable to assume Gianakos wouldn't have been convicted.

Meanwhile, Stringer didn't rule on whether the marriage, which has since ended in divorce, was a total sham.

Dennis-Gianakos said the marriage was meant solely to prevent them from having to testify against each other. Gianakos conceded that was part of their motivation, but added that he also loved her.

Donates to gallery

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Barbara Walters donated $1 million toward a gallery in a new arts center at Sarah Lawrence College, her alma mater.

The gift was announced Thursday at the groundbreaking for the Heimbold Visual Arts Center on the college's Yonkers campus.

"The arts matter and should be supported," said Walters, coanchor of ABC's "20/20" newsmagazine program.

The gallery, the most prominent space in the new 60,000-square-foot center, will be named for Walters.

Snyder FFA wins district awards

Snyder FFA chapter recently attended the district FFA banquet where many of the members were recognized for their accomplishments in the Lone Wolf District FFA. There are 10 schools in the district including Ira, Sweetwater, Hermleigh, Roscoe, Loraine, Highland, Colorado City, Westbrook, Blackwell and Snyder.

From the 20 district FFA officer candidates, two Snyder FFA students were chosen by their peers to represent them at the district level. Logan West was selected district vice president and Jennifer Williamson was chosen district reporter.

Other district officers elected were Kyle Pinkerton of Gail, president; Lisa Parker of Roscoe, secretary; Candace Sanchez of Ira, treasurer; Robin Morris of Colorado City, sentinel; and Tabitha Epperson, of Loraine, acting advisor. Jacinda Judah was chosen as the Area II officer candidate and Shannon Chambers was chosen as the State officer candidate, both are from Snyder.

In the star awards, Snyder FFA had five students chosen as the top of their competition. Star awards recognize FFA members for their work in various supervised agricultural projects. Among the winners from Snyder were Star Greenhand placement, Ricky Early; Star Greenhand Agribusiness, Michael Parsley; Star chapter FFA degree, production, Beth Parsley; Star Chapter FFA degree placement, Amanda Greenwood; Star FFA Degree-Agribusiness, Kendell Tidwell; Star Lone Star FFA degree-production, Jenna Neff. These five will now advance to the area level to compete in hopes of advancing to the state finals.

In the speaking events Snyder had the following wins. Logan West, 1st in junior prepared public speaking and 4th in extemporaneous public speaking; Amanda Greenwood 2nd in soil stewardship public speaking, and Jacinda Judah, 2nd in extemporaneous public speaking. All first and second place winners will now compete at the area level.

Snyder was also the winner of 38 proficiency awards that recognize FFA members for their work in various supervised agricultural experience programs. All 38 individuals will advance to the area level in their quest for the State and National Title.

Overall, Snyder FFA had a wonderful year in the district events and they really look forward to area, state and national competition in the different events.

Happy church burns

AMARILLO (AP) — A fire believed to be caused by an electrical problem destroyed the First Baptist Church in Happy Thursday night, nearly three weeks after the church was damaged by a deadly tornado.

Volunteer Fire Chief Jerry Sims estimated the damage at $2 million, what he termed a total loss. No injuries were reported.

"We were looking at being back in the sanctuary next week. Now, it's all gone," the Rev. Paul Burwash was quoted in today's editions of the Amarillo Globe-News.

Burwash, who was in a nearby house when he saw the fire, said he was stunned and shocked by the loss.

"It's been 18 days since the tornado went through, and we had already put up a new roof," he said.

Roofers had left an hour before the fire started.

Planet outside of solar system is photographed

WAIKOLOA, Hawaii (AP) — Astronomers at the University of Hawaii have photographed a planet outside our solar system, but it may be two years before they know if the pictures are of a large, young planet or an old, brown dwarf.

University astronomer Eduardo Martin and colleague Victor Bejar first saw either a planet or a dwarf — a class of objects sometimes called "failed stars" — on the Keck I telescope atop Mauna Kea in 1998.

Martin said they did additional studies on the William Herschel telescope in the Canary Islands in 2000, but more studies on the Hubble Space Telescope are needed to decide whether the object is a planet.

Martin discussed their findings at a symposium of the International Astronomical Union on the Big Island this week.

New Jersey teacher placed on probation on sex charge

HACKENSACK, N.J. (AP) — Declaring no harm had been done, a judge spared a teacher who admitted having a sexual relationship with a 13-year-old student from prison time.

A state legislator, outraged by the decision, said the judge should be removed from the bench.

Pamela Diehl-Moore, 43, pleaded guilty to sexual assault in January. Prosecutors had expected her to be sentenced to three years in prison.

"We are talking about a sexual assault of a little boy," prosecutor Martin Delaney said at Wednesday's sentencing. "We need to send a message to these people that this is unacceptable and you will pay with your liberty."

But Superior Court Judge Bruce Gaeta disagreed, saying people mature at different rates. He gave Diehl-Moore five years probation.

"It's just something between two people that clicked beyond the teacher-student relationship," Gaeta said. "I really don't see the harm that was done and certainly society doesn't need to be worried."

Republican state Rep. Rose Heck called the sentence "shocking and unacceptable."

The sexual relationship began in 1999 after the boy passed Diehl-Moore's seventh grade class.

Businessman sentenced to 18 months

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A man sentenced to 18 months for making illegal campaign contributions to Sen. Robert Torricelli insisted he was telling the truth when he said the senator had threatened his life and urged him to lie to investigators.

"Despite constant attacks on my credibility by the senator, I want the court and the world to know that all the details I gave the government were true and accurate," David Chang said Thursday.

Chang, the businessman at the center of the criminal inquiry into Torricelli's 1996 campaign, was also fined $20,000 and barred from political fund-raising in the ruling Thursday. He had admitted to making $53,700 in illegal contributions to Torricelli.

The sentencing was the last major event in the three-year investigation into Torricelli's finances, prompting U.S. District Judge Alfred Wolin to say that "another sordid chapter in the history of American politics is laid to rest."

A day earlier, Chang had filed court papers in which he made the accusations against Torricelli.

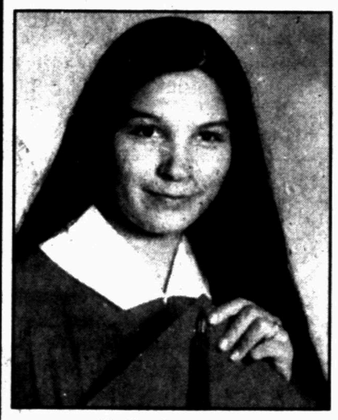

Wolin said Thursday that Chang had engaged in "deceptive and obstructive" behavior.

"His attempt to manipulate a United States senator through expensive gifts in connection with a North Korean grain deal, and the purchase of a South Korean insurance company, betrays Chang's self-styled aura of a reputable and honest businessman," Wolin said.

Lone graduate appears on Letterman show

SIOUX FALLS, S.D. (AP) — April Kleinschmidt, the lone graduate from Harrold High School this year, drew laughter and applause during her appearance on the "Late Show" with David Letterman.

Letterman asked the 18-year-old, who carried a 3.71 grade-point average, to rate her education as the only student in her class.

"I think I got a better education being the only one. Because if I didn't understand anything ... (the teachers) couldn't be like, 'Well, most of the class gets it, so we have to move on,'" Kleinschmidt said Wednesday at the Ed Sullivan Theater in New York City, where the CBS show is taped.

Harrold, population 209, is in central South Dakota about 30 miles northeast of Pierre. Kleinschmidt has been the only one in her class for most of her school years.

The idea of appearing on the show had been discussed as a joke for several years, but information about the lone high school graduate was sent to Letterman's staff this year.

"You were the valedictorian of your class?" Letterman asked.

"Yes, I was," she said.

"And what did you tell yourself" during the graduation speech, he asked.

Kleinschmidt said she told students to "stand for something or you'll fall for anything."

Comedian raised money for injured dog

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Buster headed west wearing a cowboy hat and bandanna to hide the wounds the year-old boxer suffered when he was beaten with a claw hammer and apparently left for dead.

Standup comedian Elayne Boosler took a personal interest in the dog's welfare. She helped raise more than $5,000 to pay his medical bills and relocation costs, donated $1,000 from a recent Florida show, and paid $269 for Buster's flight Wednesday to an undisclosed location.

"He's entered the boxer witness protection program," she said.

Authorities said the boyfriend of Buster's former owner attacked his girlfriend and also beat the dog severely, telling a friend to bury the animal. A neighbor discovered Buster two days later, barely alive.

Buster lost an eye in the March attack and is nearly blind in the other eye. He suffered a deep forehead gash and a shattered jaw.

Shoe bomb suspect may have had help

BOSTON (AP) — The man accused of trying to blow up a plane with explosives hidden in his shoes was ruled out as a source of a human hair and palm print found in the bombs, indicating he was not acting alone, according to newly released court documents.

The documents filed in U.S. District Court on Thursday said Richard Reid "was not unassisted in his efforts to destroy Flight 63," confirming the suspicion of outside experts who have long said that an expert had likely constructed the shoe bomb.

The court documents also said that Reid told his mother that he had a duty as a Muslim to "help remove oppressive American forces,"

In the 30-page response to a motion to lift restrictions on Reid's communications with his attorneys, prosecutors argued Reid "is a committed loyalist who attempted to commit mass murder as part of a terrorist campaign against this nation — a campaign which deploys techniques of stealth and secrecy, including codes and hidden messages."

Reid, 28, a British citizen, is charged with attempting to blow up an American Airlines flight from Paris to Miami on Dec. 22. Passengers and crew members restrained him after he allegedly tried to light a fuse protruding from his shoe. The flight was diverted to Boston.

He faces nine counts, including a charge of attempting to murder the 197 passengers and crew members on the flight.

Prosecutors and Reid's defense have been arguing over how Reid is allowed to communicate to his lawyers and others involved in his defense.

In March, U.S. District Judge William Young lifted some of the restrictions on defense communications but ordered the defense to keep a tight lid on anything Reid tells them.

Prosecutors, who claim Reid was trained by Osama bin Laden's al-Qaida terrorist network, argued that lawyers could become the "inadvertent, unknowing and unwitting conduit" for those messages, which could endanger public safety.

Reid's lawyers filed a motion May 3 seeking to lift limits on their ability to disclose information and the limited access to Reid by others involved in his defense.

Prosecutors wrote in a memorandum that Reid sent an e-mail to his mother on Dec. 20 saying, "What I am doing is part of the ongoing war between Islaam and disbelief, (and as such a duty upon me as a Muslim)."

Calls to Reid's lawyer Thursday were not immediately returned.

Ex-policeman given maximum sentence

NEW YORK (AP) — His wife's plea for leniency rejected, a former police officer was sentenced to five to 15 years in prison for a drunken-driving crash that killed a family of four.

Joseph Gray, 41, was led from the courtroom in handcuffs to begin his term after he received the maximum sentence Thursday. He apologized to the victims' families, who were in court for the sentencing.

"I think he's sorry," said Victor Herrera, whose pregnant wife was killed in the crash. "But I also believe that's too late for us."

Gray, who quit the force three weeks after last year's accident, has been jailed since his May 3 manslaughter conviction.

Gray's wife, Diana, asked state Supreme Court Justice Anne Feldman for leniency. The 15-year veteran policeman and his wife have three daughters.

But Feldman said that while she believed Gray was "fully remorseful," the maximum term was needed as a deterrent to drunken driving.

According to prosecutors, Gray was on a 12-hour drinking binge that began in the parking lot of the 72nd Precinct and led to the Wild Wild West topless bar before he drove his minivan into the family as they crossed a Brooklyn street last Aug. 4.

Maria Herrera was killed along with her 4-year-old-son, Andy, and her 16-year-old sister, Dilcia Pena, when Gray sped through a red light. Herrera delivered a son, Ricardo, after the accident, but he died within hours of birth.

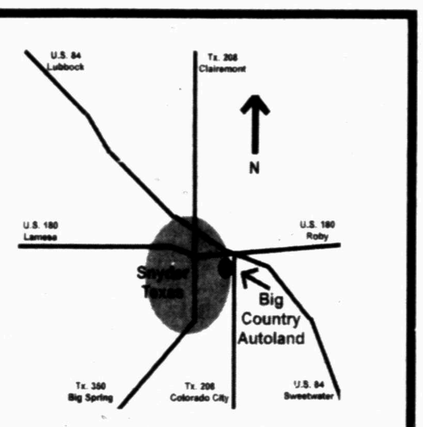

Gray offered an unusual defense at trial, conceding that he was driving while intoxicated but insisting his high alcohol tolerance gave him the ability to drive. His blood alcohol content was measured at 0.16; the legal limit is 0.10.

Gray's boozing with fellow officers in the parking lot — and later at the off-limits strip club — resulted in the suspension or reassignment of 17 officers. It also raised questions about alcohol abuse in the Police Department.

Nuclear-arms reduction pact signed

MOSCOW (AP) — President Bush and Russian President Vladimir Putin signed a landmark nuclear arms reduction treaty in a gilded room of the Kremlin today, and proclaimed it would help cement vastly improved relations between the former superpower rivals.

"Russia's a friend and that's the new thinking. That's part of what's being codified today," Bush said after he and Putin put ink to a pact that slashes nuclear arsenals by two-thirds.

Putin said, "This is a serious move ahead to ensure international security." Even so, the two nations struggled to close their divide over Russia's continued nuclear assistance to Iran, with some progress reported.

The arms accord would limit the United States and Russia within 10 years to between 1,700 and 2,200 deployed strategic nuclear warheads, down from about 6,000 apiece now.

"Friends really don't need weapons pointed at each other, we both understand that," Bush said. "But it's a realistic assessment of where we've been. Who knows what will happen 10 years from now? Who knows what future presidents will say and how they'll react?"

Putin said there were legitimate reasons for keeping a smaller nuclear arms supply. "Out there, there are other states who possess nuclear arms," he said. "There are countries that want to acquire weapons of mass destruction."

Specifically, Bush expressed concern about Russia's nuclear assistance to Iran. "We spoke very frankly and honestly about the need to make sure that a non-transparent government, run by radical clerics, doesn't get their hands on weapons of mass destruction," Bush said.

The United States has branded Iran as a sponsor of terror and part of an "axis of evil" alongside Iraq and North Korea.

Putin gave little ground, defending the assistance as largely energy-related and pointing out that the United States has similarly helped North Korea to build a nuclear power plant.

Astro-graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

Saturday, May 25, 2002

In the year ahead, there is every indication that you may disassociate yourself from that which has failed to produce anything of value. Your new direction will contribute to your success.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) — This is a day when arguments are apt to erupt unless you are careful. Any issue in which you find yourself diametrically opposed to another must be avoided at all cost. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) — Although something might be important to you, if you appear too self-serving about it, you will drive away those who could give the support you require.

LEO (July 223-Aug. 22) — There are no guarantees that expensive, pleasurable pursuits will provide you with happiness. However, being with good friends will go along way toward making you happy.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) — All the motivation in the world won't help you fulfill your ambitions if you insist on doing things the hard way. It might be best to postpone anything that requires exactness and accuracy.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) — Your frame of mind will have a great influence on what kind of day you'll have. Try to be the optimistic person you usually are. Don't let your focus land on the negative side of things.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) — The long-neglected obligation you've avoided taking care of may rear its ugly head and demand to be settled. This could be anything from paying bills to fulfilling a shared effort.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec, 21) — Despite the fact that yours is a sign that is usually friendly to all, you might have a chip on your shoulder. You'll experience some abrasive encounters if you're not careful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) — It's important to be responsible and willing to carry your share of the load when working with others. If you try to sneak out of an unpleasant task, the hand that comes down on you might be a heavy one.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) — This is not a good day to take gambles, especially on someone who has control over an activity in which you're involved. Your hopes will be dashed by unexpected outside factors.

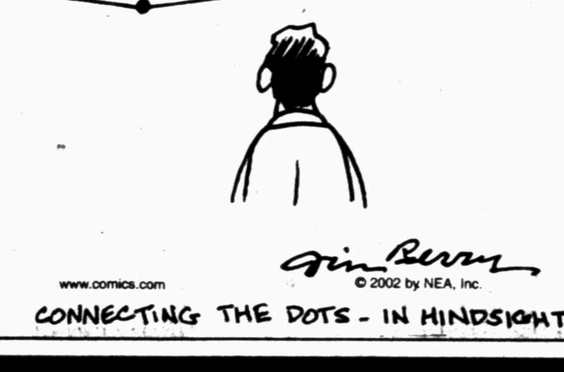

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) — Guard against the use of heavy-handed tactics when dealing with others. The results you get will be swift and undesirable. You can accomplish more with a light touch.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) — You'll suffer repercussions if you discount the views and interests of others. Not only what you say will be ignored, you could be considered nothing but a self-opinionated bore.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) — Don't be naive again if someone who took advantage of you previously attempts it again. If you get roped a second time, you will only have yourself to blame.

This scholarship is dedicated to all the brave and gallant men of this combat infantry company of the Texas National Guard of World War II who were mobilized in the Army of the United States on 25 November 1940 in Snyder, Scurry County, Texas and to the more than 700 of their comrades who walked with them and wore the colors of the George Company during its long period of active military service.

We, the children of that generation, want to express our sincere gratitude to those men and women who sacrificed during World War II in Europe, in the Pacific or at home to make certain our beautiful country remained free and strong.
