

ON STATE LANDS IS UPHOLD TODAY

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Mar. 7.—The Supreme court today reversed its decision in two long-standing cases of tax laws and ruled that taxes derived by private companies from state-owned oil lands, under lease, are subject to general taxation.

The internal revenue bureau of the state department today announced that Mountain Producers Corporation, was expected to have been successful in its suit. It was reached by a five to two vote by the court.

The tax decision highlighted a long history of the court at which a case was argued an opinion holding that the state of Texas, through its oil lands, was not a sovereign state for purposes of the federal income tax law.

The court's decision was a reversal of a tax law principle which had been upheld by the Supreme court in 1917. The law was declared that "no one can be taxed on the principle that a state may not tax federal instrumentalities and vice-versa."

He'll Get One of Mother's Eyes

In order that 2-year-old Roger Lavery, above, will not suffer permanent blindness, his pretty mother, Mrs. Irene Lavery, will give up one of her eyes. "No sacrifice is too great," said the mother in her North Wales, Pa. home as she announced that Dr. Ramon Castroviejo, New York specialist, would transplant the cornea of one of her eyes to the right eye of her child. The lad's sight was impaired by measles and pneumonia.

Eastland Youth Chosen For Part In School's Play

Horace E. Horton of Eastland has been selected for the cast of Northwestern university's annual Waa-Mu musical show to be given the week of March 15 at Evanston, Ill. The title of this year's show is "Of Thee I Sing," the Broadway musical hit of several years ago. This is the second time in its 10 year history that Waa-Mu has selected a professional production, the show ordinarily being written and produced by students.

The cast consists of 75 men and women students. A 20 piece student orchestra under the direction of Prof. Glenn Cliff Bainum will play the score. "Of Thee I Sing," written by George S. Kaufman and Morrie Ryskind; music by the late George Gershwin, was the first and only musical show to receive the Pulitzer prize.

Horton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Horton, is a sophomore in the school of Liberal Arts. He is a member of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

Snyder Men, Feared Lost, Return Home

By United Press
SNYDER, Texas, March 7.—Two prominent Snyder citizens, missing since Sunday afternoon, returned home today after firemen, boy scouts and private citizens had searched for them.

A. C. Pruitt, railroad agent, and W. W. Hamilton, prominent attorney, went for a drive Sunday afternoon and officers were notified when they failed to return. Court was adjourned so jurymen and officers could join the search.

The two said their automobile was stuck in the mud 13 miles northeast of Snyder and they were unable to communicate with their families from the sparsely settled area.

Pittman Objects to Burlew Appointment

By United Press
WASHINGTON, March 7.—Sen. Key Pittman of Nevada today charged Ebert Burlew with "a high degree of negligence" and "total disregard for the interests of the government" and urged that his nomination as first assistant secretary of interior to be rejected by the senate.

Nine Are Charged In Burglary Ring

By United Press
DENTON, March 7.—Six men and three women were charged today as alleged members of a burglary gang, which has operated throughout four north Texas counties.

Charges were filed after a series of raids Sunday at Plano, where officers found an estimated $10,000 worth of articles they said were stolen.

DIVORCE GRANTED
Records of 91st district court showed Monday that divorces have been granted recently to Mrs. Jessie E. Putnam from J. E. Putnam and Edith Gilmore from W. D. (Doyle) Gilmore.

MURDER TRIAL IS NOW PROBE INTO A FEUD

By United Press
RIO GRANDE CITY, Texas, March 7.—District Attorney Frank Lloyd of Alice, who was to conduct the murder trial of Eulio Elizondo and Jose Cantu, opened instead today investigation of their deaths.

They had a companion, Ramon de la Cruz, were killed Sunday in a gun battle with five deputy constables, the climax to a four family feud. No charges had been filed in the shooting, although the five deputy constables were held in the Starr county jail.

Filing of charges probably will await a decision on "who fired the first shot."

The fight occurred Sunday on the old military highway, east of Rio Grande City. When the constables attempted to arrest one of the Mexicans, who was charged with disturbing the peace.

The three deaths brought to six the total killings that have occurred in fights between two Mexican families.

Find Third Ransom Note In Levine Kidnaping

After a mysterious phone call received by Rabbi Abraham Nowak, upper left, and his secretary, Evelyn Arkin, upper right, a third note demanding $60,000 for the return of Peter Levine, 12, missing son of Murray Levine, prominent attorney of New Rochelle, N. Y., was found in a vacant lot next to Temple Beth-el, shown at bottom. The rabbi has denied being an intermediary.

LARGEST ANTI-TRUST SUIT IN HISTORY IS FILED BY McCRAW

By United Press
AUSTIN, Mar. 7.—Attorney General William McCraw filed suit today in 53rd district court asking $30,132,000 penalties and forfeiture of charters of six Texas cement companies for alleged violation of the state anti-trust law in price fixing.

Defendants were Lone Star Cement Corporation of Dallas and New York; Southwestern Portland Cement Company of El Paso and Los Angeles; Trinity Portland Cement Company of Dallas and Chicago; Atlas Portland Cement Company of Dallas and Chicago; Longhorn Portland Cement Company of San Antonio, and the San Antonio Portland Cement Company.

The petition alleged violations from Jan. 3, 1929 to the present, a total of 3,348 days. Penalty is $50 to $1,500 a day. Minimum penalties would be $1,004,400 and the maximum $30,132,000.

The suit is the largest filed by the state, exceeding the anti-trust suit filed by Gov. Allred at attorney general, against major oil companies, seeking penalties of $17,850,000. That suit was set for trial Oct. 3, after the state civil anti-trust law first was held invalid.

McCraw's complaint charged the cement companies entered into price fixing agreements about Jan. 3, 1929, when the cement institute of Chicago was formed.

The adoption of identical terms of sale and marketing policies also was attacked.

Allred Asks McCraw Seven Questions

AUSTIN, March 7.—Gov. Allred and Attorney General McCraw today continued their political battle.

Allred called on McCraw to state his stand on seven questions. McCraw replied, "The little man is getting nervous. The campaign will start in due time."

Allred asked if McCraw was for or against (1) pensions for every one over 65 or for the needy only (2) The child labor amendment, (3) sale of liquor by the drink (4) legalized race track gambling, (5) a sales tax, (6) additional taxes on natural resources and (7) a state income tax.

Olden P.T.A. Has Regular Meeting

The Olden Parent-Teacher Association met at the school on Thursday with the president, Mrs. Walter Barrett, in the chair.

After several business problems were worked out, a program was rendered on "Citizenship," by Mmes. S. J. Smith, J. Paul Eppler, Dave Vermillion and Charles Young. Twenty-four attended.

Bolshevik Tells of a 1934 Plot On Soviet MOSCOW, Mar. 7.—Bolshevik leaders opposed to the government plotted to seize the entire membership of the Communist Party congress in 1934, N. I. Bukharin, one-time "right hand" to Lenin, testified today at the mass trial of 21 persons accused as traitors today.

PROPOSED TAX IS RAPPED BY REP. LAMNECK

By United Press
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Rep. Arthur Lamneck, a member of the tax originating ways and means committee, today attacked the administration's proposed tax on certain corporations as violating the principle of taxation in accordance with ability to pay.

Lamneck spoke at the house near the end of general debate and prepared to give the bill the first major test on an amendment aimed at the undistributed profits tax.

Senate foes of the administration reorganization bill planned an attempt to add an amendment that would limit the powers it gives to the president.

Arthur Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority elected the demands by his co-administrators for his resignation today and accused them of making "explicitly false reports" to the president, to congress and to the public.

Automobile Case Suspect Is Held By County Officers

John Hamilton of Ranger was held Monday by county authorities for officials at Eunice, N. M., where he is wanted for questioning in an alleged automobile theft case, Deputy Sheriff Tug Underwood reported.

Hamilton, said Deputy Underwood, was placed in custody Sunday at Ranger. He refused to waive extradition and New Mexico officials were taking steps to extradite him, added the official.

Town Is Confused By Fast, Slow and Just Medium Time

By United Press
MOUNTAIN CITY, Nev.—When strangers ask the time of day here, they receive the reply: "What time do you want—fast, slow or in-between?"

Mountain City, being in Nevada, is in the Pacific time belt. But the bulk of the ore from the rich Rio Tinto copper mine is shipped northward to Mountain Home, Idaho, which observes Mountain time.

To facilitate trucking schedules the city for the last year has set its clocks by Mountain time. In recent weeks, however, a large amount of ore has been trucked to Elko, Nev., where Pacific time prevails.

The result is that half the mining camp observes Mountain time and the other half Pacific time. Ranchers living a few miles away and not affected by ore-trucking scheduled have compromised and keep their clocks and watches hand an hour slower than Idaho time and half an hour faster than Pacific.

But a baby can't be born or a man can't die in Mountain City by Mountain time. For Elko county records, only Pacific time is accepted.

Man On Relief Is Willing to Sell His Eye to Scientist

By United Press
ROCHESTER, N. Y.—William D. Eddy, 68-year-old relief client, has offered his right eye just for a little home and happiness for the few remaining years of life—and he really means it.

"I've thought it all out," Eddy said, "and I know that if the surgeons cut out my right eye so that someone else can see, the strain might cause my left eye to go bad. It's a risk, but the gamble would be worth it to me."

The elderly man, who lives in a primitive cottage he built 20 years ago in nearby Penfield, told of a desperate struggle to exist in the past few years.

"You wouldn't call it living—what my wife and I have been doing," he said.

Eddy receives relief from the town, but from his point of view, that is not a satisfactory way to get along. That is why, he said, he would give an eye for a chance to really live again.

Convalescent Queen No Melancholy Dane

Looking very happy to be up and about again, is Queen Alexandra of Denmark, shown above in her first picture since a recent serious operation. She was on her way from Copenhagen to a convalescence on the French Riviera.

Eastland Girls Are Listed Upon School Honor Roll

Complying with grade requirements for the honor roll, Misses Carolyn Cox, Marie Galloway and Jane Hyer of Eastland ranked with the upper fourteen per cent of the student body at Texas State College for Women at Denton. Honors were awarded them on the basis of their work during the first semester.

Miss Carolyn Cox, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed T. Cox, made high B plus average in the Home Economics Department; Miss Marie Galloway, who was among the leaders in the Foreign Language Department, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. V. Galloway. Miss Jane Hyer, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Hyer, is doing her major work in the History Department.

Training School For Recreational Group Wednesday

Extension service officials announced Monday that the first of a series of quarterly recreational training schools sponsored by a committee of the Eastland County Home Demonstration council will be held beginning at 10 a. m. Wednesday at the courthouse in Eastland.

In the afternoon reporters of home demonstration clubs and 4-H clubs will receive instructions on writing of meetings and other activities.

To attend the school will be recreational council members of each home demonstration club in the county, sponsors of girls and boys 4-H clubs and two members each from all 4-H clubs in the county.

Mrs. Eastland Among TSC Honor Students

DENTON, Mar. 7.—Complying with grade requirements for the honor roll, Mrs. Lillian N. Eastland of Ranger ranked scholastically with the upper fourteen per cent of the student body on the first semester's work at Texas State College for Women.

Mrs. Eastland's attainment was to make a high B average in her home economics course. She is a sophomore student at the college.

Masonic Meetings Due at Eastland

Work in the Entered Apprentice degrees is scheduled at a meeting of the Eastland Lodge No. 467, A. F. & A. M., at 7:30 tonight in the Masonic temple, it was announced today.

Tuesday night at 7:30 the Eastland Royal Arch chapter will meet for work in the Mark Master's degree.

TUBING IS RUN ON M. THOMAS IN CISCO AREA

Operators Monday expected to complete running of tubing on the Lone Star Gas company No. 1, Marshall Thomas, which is extending the Ellenburger lime a pay area about eight miles northwest of Cisco.

A crowd of curious, oil men and company officials continued Monday to visit the well. Potential production test will be given sometime this week.

The well came in shortly before midnight Friday with fluid flowing over the masthead. It was 20 minutes before the well was shut-in.

A total of 1,321 feet west of the Hickok No. 1 Van Parmer pool opener in the area, the Thomas is expected to be the "go signal" for even greater development of the area.

Demonstrative of the interest aroused by the production of the well was the activity of lease and royalty men, abstractors and others. It was hailed as one of the major developments in oil activities of West Central Texas for several years.

Lone Star was delayed in drilling in its No. 1 Van Parmer, different lease than the Hickok's, which is 3,000 feet north and slightly west of the discovery. The Lone Star No. 1 Parmer entered the Ellenburger formation at 3,972 feet.

The No. 1 Thomas topped the lime pay at 4,118 feet and casing was set at 4,120 feet. Saturation was reached after drilling in about 37 1-2 feet of the formation. The drill had not penetrated far, it was said.

Funeral Planned For Ranger Man

Funeral services for Lynn Boyd Paschall, 59, who died suddenly at his home, Breckenridge Highway, Ranger, Monday morning, are to be conducted from the First Christian Church of Ranger, Tuesday afternoon at 2:30, with Rev. H. B. Johnson, pastor of the church, in charge of the services. Burial will be in Evergreen cemetery immediately following the church services, with Killingsworth, Cox, in charge of arrangements.

The decedent was born in Hopkins county, Texas, Feb. 1879 and had lived in Ranger for 21 years. He was a member of the First Christian Church.

Survivors include one son, Earl Paschall, and two daughters, Mrs. Boyd Martin and Mrs. Sudie Chingleton.

Deep Test Spudded Near Mineral Wells

D. M. Hansford et al No. 1 George H. Holzie, 6,000-foot wildcat six miles southeast of Mineral Wells, has been spudded in Palo Pinto county, it was reported here Monday.

The well is contracted to 6,000 feet or production in the Ellenburger. Location is on an 80-acre tract in the Dennis Mahoney survey. Hansford of Mineral Wells and others of that city are reportedly financing the test.

Location is an area which produces gas from a shallow depth. J. O. Fox and Son of Dallas are contractors on the test.

Miss Caldwell Is On Girls' Club Program

A demonstration on cutting material for a smock was given by Miss Mabel Caldwell, assistant county home demonstration agent, at the recent meeting of the Morton Valley girls 4-H club in the schoolhouse.

Songs were led by Rose Ella Boone.

88th Court Grand Jury Is Impaneled

Grand jurors for the March term of 88th district court were impaneled Monday morning at Eastland by Judge B. W. Patton and they immediately began a investigation of alleged lawlessness in the county.

Members of the jury are John W. Tibbles of Ranger, G. S. Bruce of Desdemona, W. A. Tunnell of Pioneer, Lowry Horton of Rising Star, Frank Crowell of Eastland, L. J. Lambert of Eastland, W. A. Tate of Carbon, Lee Dockery of Ranger, George Atkins of Cisco, K. H. Pittard of Cisco, Frank Dean of Gorman and W. R. Laird of Okra.

NOTICE TO CANDIDATES

The Eastland Telegram in its year announcements in its prominent column and for convenience we herewith to you cost of same. These announcements will appear in Telegram daily through the next run-off.

ALICE COUNTY
LAWYERS $15.00
JUDGES $10.00
AND
TABLE $7.50
in connection with the Weekly Ad and $5.00 to the stations.

EASTLAND TELEGRAM

Published every afternoon (except Saturday and Sunday) and every Sunday morning.

Member Advertising Bureau—Texas Daily Press League
Member of United Press Association

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation which may appear in the columns of this paper will be gladly corrected upon being brought to the attention of the publisher.

Obituaries, cards of thanks, notices of lodge meetings, etc., are charged for at regular advertising rates, which will be furnished upon application.

Entered as second-class matter at the postoffice at Eastland, Texas, under Act of March, 1879.

SUBSCRIPTION RATE

ONE YEAR BY MAIL (In Texas) $3.00

Keeping the U. S. Army Out of Party Politics

It may seem unfair that an army colonel has to be the goat when Paul V. McNutt's political exuberance carries him out of bounds, but no unprejudiced observer will condemn or undervalue the prompt action of the army in disciplining one of its officers for involving himself even indirectly in party politics.

Col. Davenport Johnson was relieved as commandant of Hamilton Field, the army bombing base at San Francisco, and transferred to a secondary post at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill. Chanute Field, in military parlance, is "down the river," the "St. Helena" of the Army Air Corps.

The army said the transfer was routine, but it followed in quick sequence the act of Colonel Johnson in flying Indiana's Presidential Hopeful McNutt from San Francisco to Denver without authorization from the War Department, an act distinctly against army regulations. To make matters worse, the colonel not only flew McNutt, but carried with him a delegation of enthusiastic Indiana Democrats who had met McNutt when he arrived by trans-ocean plane in San Francisco.

There is all reason to believe Colonel Johnson acted in good faith. McNutt is a past legion commander and governor general of the Philippines, and as such occupies sort of a quasi-military position. McNutt was on a semi-official trip to Washington. And the colonel wired both his chief of staff and the War Department for permission to make the flight. He unfortunately let himself be swept away by McNutt's haste and didn't wait for replies. Permission was denied.

Friends of McNutt are now crying inter-Democratic policies and claim Colonel Johnson was transferred with presidential knowledge—as a reprimand for McNutt that he was a little hasty in starting his presidential boom. Indiana's Senator Minton asks for an investigation.

Perhaps it is party politics. Perhaps the administration is sharp-shooting at the ubiquitous McNutt. Neither of these reasons excludes the fact that an army officer climbed out on a limb for a self-avowed presidential nomination candidate whose official business was opportunistically turned to noisy political capital.

Look abroad and see how the army has mixed into politics throughout central Europe. And see what the result has been. The United States has politics and the United States has the army. Keep them separate at all cost.

Shirley Temple plans an American tour, singing and appearing before fans, by way of a vacation. Doesn't sound like child's play to us.

California man divorces his wife because she insisted on playing ball. His wife's teammates, however, testified she was often safe at home.

Master Sculptor

HORIZONTAL

1, 5 Pictured

French

sculptor.

10 Morindin dye.

11 Measure.

12 Cotton fabric.

13 Hawaiian bird.

15 Folding bed.

17 Artissians.

19 To sin.

20 One who inherits.

21 Handles.

22 Half.

23 Exits.

24 Rowing tool.

25 Rough

crooked tree.

26 Ungainly.

28 Go on (music).

31 Tennis stroke.

32 Half an em.

33 Ell.

34 Automaton.

36 Mineral spring.

37 Myself.

38 To border on.

39 Shred of waste silk.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

SWEDEN, AUGUST

LIVIA, OUTER

SLEW, ELEM, LIMP

TENSILE, LUNCLORE

CAPON, CATAPULT

KROINE, SWEDEN

HATER, TENNIS

CELESTIAL, ACE

LUKE, EDUCATE

MANISSON, RIX

SPAG

40 Heron.

43 Neither.

44 Citizen's dress

of —.

46 To devour.

48 Card game.

50 Child.

51 Transposed.

52 Distant.

53 Constellation.

55 Myself.

56 Deficient in quantity.

57 One of his famous statues, "Age

of —."

58 By way of.

59 Weir.

60 Musical note.

61 Sore

incrustation.

62 Coin slit.

63 Scheme.

64 Vinegars.

65 Vagrant.

66 Synopsis.

67 To rave.

68 To depart.

69 Pitcher.

70 Dress

fastener.

71 Suit maker.

72 Soaks flax.

73 Unit.

74 To accomplish

52 Musical note.

54 Form of "a."

This Is No Time for a Calm Discussion of Taxes

Texas Qualified For Location of Chemical Plants

DALLAS — The "inherently creative" nature of typical modern-age industries such as chemicals—for whose locations Texas is particularly qualified by physical advantages—is cited in a report of the All-South Development Council as marking these industries as especially worthy of attention by those seeking to attract new industrial enterprise to the state.

Economic soundness, progressiveness and stability of industries in this classification are shown in various studies, among them a recent series of charts prepared by the National Industrial Conference Board. These, covering the period 1929 through 1937, showed the graph lines for chemical manufacturing at consistently higher levels than the average of 25 other industries—slower to dip in depression times, but just as fast to rise when things got better. The margin held good in employment, man-hours, and "real" weekly earnings charts.

Expenditure of $20,000,000 a year in research; the fact that 82 per cent of the industry's workers are in plants of less than 1,000 workers; the investment of an average of $8,260 in capital goods and equipment behind each worker; and the high proportion of salaried employees (18.1) to hourly wage earners (the general average for all American industry is 12.7 per cent), are other favorable points noted in the report, which urged a conservation state taxation policy toward industry to assure Texas' rightful growth in this field.

Texas is, of course, extraordinarily well stocked with the main raw materials of the chemical industry—salt and sulphur, limestone, coal and lignite, petroleum and natural gas, and high cellulose-content agricultural products. From these are made such elements as the basic acids, sulphuric, hydrochloric and nitric; the heavy alkalis, soda ash and caustic soda; the amazingly diverse chemical products of coals and petroleum; industrial gases like hydrogen and chlorine; and ammonia, industrial alcohols and other solvents, and plastics and synthetic resins.

"These products, directly or indirectly, ramify throughout every fibre of the web of our economic structure," the report quotes from Elmer H. Johnson, industrial geographer of the University of Texas. "The advance of science and the so-called conquest of environment which science has made possible have not diminished the dependence of modern economic life upon natural resources; it has only made that dependence greater in extent and degree, and thereby intricately complex. Nowhere are these scientific and technical advances better illustrated, or the dependence upon natural resources more pronounced, than in the modern chemical industry and its more closely allied industries."

Scottish Rite Plans Memorial

On the grounds of the Texas Scottish Rite Hospital for Crippled Children in Dallas, will be erected in the next few weeks a memorial statue to be engraved with the names of those maintaining this charitable institution through endowment. The graceful fifteen foot monument has been carved from pure white marble by Raul Jossot, noted Texas sculptor. It represents a hospital nurse aiding a crippled child, signifying charity and kindly care. The memorial will be unveiled with appropriate ceremonies this Spring.

"The vanguard of the third great movement in Texas economic history," is what Johnson sees in the recent development here in production of heavy alkalis using Texas salt as the raw material.

Recession Charts Show Business In Texas Stays Good

By United Press

AUSTIN, Texas, March 2.—Recession's chart shows that Texas business has not gone back to last year's figures though declines for the month were noted in reports to the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas for January.

Reports from 2,460 establishments show 97,947 workers, a decline of 4.9 per cent from December, but an increase of 6.7 per cent over January of 1937. Manufacturing industries had a monthly decline of 2.4 per cent but a year's gain of 2.8 per cent. Cities with better than average showing for both employment and payrolls were Amarillo, Austin, Galveston and Houston.

Department store sales, measured in dollars, gained 9.7 per cent over January, 1937, and showed less than average decline from the Christmas season. Greater than average gains were reported by Abilene, Dallas, Houston, Lubbock, Arthur, Temple and Waco.

Dairy manufacturing large gains in butter, ice cream. Postal receipts after the holiday season but 30 representative cities ed a gain of 4 per cent January, 1937.

Building permits were in December and less than preceding January. They were 17 and 23 per cent, respectively. There were exceptions for both periods. Increases for both periods in Dallas, Del Rio, Fort Worth, Marshall, Longview, Sweetwater, Arthur, Sweetwater, Wichita Falls.

ABILENE, TEX., GETS

ABILENE, Texas.—The Texas Chamber of Commerce moved into its new office building here today. The building, a museum, lounge and rooms.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By Mrs. Gaynor Maddox

NEA Service Staff Writer
BITTERNESS will age a woman. But bitters in food will add sprightliness.

Cream of Cucumber Soup

(Serves 6)

Two large cucumbers, 4 tablespoons butter, 3 tablespoons flour, 3 cups white stock, 1 cup milk, 1-2 cup cream, salt and pepper, 2 teaspoon bitters.

Peel and thinly slice cucumbers. Cook in 2 tablespoons butter for 10 minutes. In the meantime melt the remaining butter, add flour and stir until smooth. Add milk and stock gradually and cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Add cucumber; let cook slowly until soft and transparent, about 15 minutes, then rub through fine sieve. Reheat; season with salt and pepper; add cream, and 2 teaspoons bitters just before serving.

There was a luncheon of bitters at the Hotel Puyallup recently. It closed on anything but a bitter note. Crepes Suzette was the tender finale.

Crepes Suzette

Six tablespoons sifted flour, 1-2 teaspoon sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1-2 teaspoon vegetable oil.

Combine flour, salt and sugar.

Beat eggs with rotary beater until very light. Add flour mixture, beating with rotary beater until smooth. Add milk slowly, beating constantly. Add vegetable oil.

Grease very small pan (or pans).

When hot pour on a very little batter, only enough to cover the bottom of pan in thin film, shaking and tilting pan so that the batter spreads evenly. Brown lightly on one side. Turn carefully with spatula and brown on other side. Remove from pan and keep in warming oven until ready to serve.

SHE RISKS HER LIFE FOR THE

IONE REED, Hollywood's Daring Movie Stunt Girl, after a hazardous feat, asked for a Camel. And that led to the question: "I've noticed that you're a steady Camel smoker, Miss Reed. Do you have definite reasons for preferring them to other cigarettes?"

HERE'S MISS REED'S ANSWER: "Yes, indeed, I certainly have. Camels are distinctly different in so many ways. Going through my stunts over and over is a severe test of healthy nerves. I smoke Camels all through the day, and my nerves don't feel the least bit frayed. Being so mild, they are gentle to my throat too. After a meal, I enjoy Camels—for digestion's sake." You see—in so many ways, Camels agree with me."

FOR RECREATION Miss Reed likes cooking...dancing...outdoor sports. And Camels! "Hollywood seems to have a decided preference for Camels," she says. "I notice that so many of the stars prefer Camels."

DARING? Yes! Foolhardy? No! Ione Reed knows what she's doing. And she is careful in her choice of a cigarette, because, as she says: "It means a lot to me to know that my cigarette agrees with me!"

Millions of other people find that Camels give them what they want in smoking!

It's Camels for star stunt girl—Ione Reed! It's Camels for the famous diving expert—Commander Ellsberg! And for golf champion Ralph Guldahl; speed flier Roscoe Turner; and men and women in all walks of life. If you are not now enjoying Camels, perhaps you, too, will find that it means a lot to smoke Camels—the cigarette that is made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS, Turkish and Domestic.

PEOPLE DO APPRECIATE THE COSTLIER TOBACCOS IN CAMELS

THEY ARE THE LARGEST-SELLING CIGARETTE IN AMERICA

ONE SMOKER TELLS ANOTHER

"CAMELS AGREE WITH ME"

Camels are a matchless blend of finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS—Turkish and Domestic.

DOUBLE-FEATURE CAMEL CARAVAN Two great shows—"Jack Oakie College" and Benny Goodman's "Swing School"—in one fast, fun-filled hour. Every Tuesday at 9:30 pm E.S.T., 8:30 pm C.S.T., 7:30 pm M.S.T., 6:30 pm P.S.T., over Columbia Network.

"What cigarette do the tobacco growers smoke themselves?"

"Camels—by a majority," say planters who know the of tobacco bought each popular cigarette.

T. N. Williams, well-known grower, of Winchester, Kentucky, says: "A planter knows tobacco. My last crop was the best. I ever had and the Camels bought my best leaf tobacco isn't any question where expensive tobaccos go. The Camel cigarettes."

Top prices what J. B. A. successful got from the buyer last "Camel buyers buy just any —they pay more to get That means finer tobacco used for Camels. I say got to be grown in tobacco why I smoke Camels."

Copyright, 1936, R. J. REYNOLDS TOBACCO CO. Winston-Salem, N.C.

For Love of Polly

By RACHEL MACK

Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
POLLY CHILDS, heroine, a young girl who sees her through.
JERRY WHITFIELD, hero, the boy who sees her through.
CABELL BANKS, privateer.

CHAPTER XXIX
SPRING night in Connecticut, and the scent of lilacs through the window. Polly's baby sleeping in his cradle, Polly in her bed.

GETS on guard his whiskered nose his outstretched paws, his ears twitching—the little dog that has of come so far and knows his destiny.

Spring night on the Atlantic off the coast of England, the same moment in the span of time, yet as hours are counted. Two vessels riding close, one newly christened.

... About the prisoners," Jerry Whitfield was saying to Cabell Banks. "I'd like to get rid of them."

"Yes, it's bad business keeping prisoners. You've got to feed and exercise them. In the end they're bound to take your ship away from you. My advice is, set them ashore on the first island you come to."

"There never was sounder advice," Jerry replied. "And we'd both better head south at once. One day, Old Mother Frigate will count her chickens—"

"We'll sail together, of course. I'll have my French pilot pick up the island. Good night."

Cabell went over the side alone and roved himself back to the May Queen. Presently the two vessels were cleaving the night like pairs of friendly birds flying at night.

The old French pilot knew of a small island that would do. A ship came sailing had once put in there later a new mast the year he got her. His second wound fighting for Napoleon.

"It's inhabited," he told Cabell. "There's a small settlement, but it's not too comfortable. The ship in the harbor had once put in there later a new mast the year he got her. His second wound fighting for Napoleon."

"They will have to live on carrots and goats' milk, the fine Frenchman said. Cabell took the island proved to be just what the old Frenchman said. The next day before sunset, the Gray Gull stood by while Jerry took the May Queen as close to shore as he dared and unloaded prisoners. From the forecabin a few men were called at a time and disarmed. Fists and tempers were active. The prisoners had naturally concentrated during the night and day to overthrow their captors. Jerry warily stationed them in the boats with oars in their hands, each matched by an American oarsman, with another pair of his men to guard the boat. And so the transfer was made from ship to island without loss of life.

This accomplished, the May Queen and the Gray Gull put to sea again and sailed west. That way lay home.

Though there was threat of storms, good weather held, and this was fortunate. Both ships were lightly manned, and on board the May Queen bruised bodies and blackened eyes were prevalent. Jerry and his original 12 men could attest to the prowess of British fists, even when swung by sleepy drunks. Jerry's left cheek was crazily split when the surprised helmsman's knuckles had placed their one protesting blow. His moccasined feet were painfully sore from the scuffling British boots that had trodden over them.

Yet the wonder of this beautiful brig made his aches and bruises seem as nothing to Jerry Whitfield. He ran over the ship like a gratified boy who cannot believe his luck. He was mute and awestruck. He studied her broad decks and beautiful cabin, her stout canvas and strong spars and realized that they were his to command. For by the laws of war, she was his! There was only Cabell Banks to dispute his ownership, and Cabell had spoken. Cabell and stood in the presence of both crews just before they left the island and said:

"Captain Whitfield boarded the May Queen against my advice and without my assistance. She is his. I have nothing to do with her, except to share the cargo according to agreement."

Because of the cargo the two captains were proceeding together now to an American port. They wished a court of admiralty to pass on their prize in order that all might be legal.

And so for the second time they put in at Wilmington for matters of business. They learned now that privateer skippers needed sharp teeth, for the cargo they had wished a court of admiralty to pass on their prize in order that all might be legal.

On the night of departure from Wilmington, Cabell and Jerry sat in the Gray Gull's cabin and enjoyed a last talk. They were going their separate ways, Cabell across the Atlantic again, Jerry to Connecticut to see Polly.

"It's a thing I can hardly believe," Jerry said. "Me going to Polly at last. Going in my own ship."

"The fortunes of war, my boy. Down yesterday. On top of the world today. And don't forget tomorrow's an uncharted country. By the way, my banker gave me some papers I left with him on our last stop here. I've got a confession to make. That letter you wrote Polly and gave me to post. Well, it was with the papers. I found it when I opened the packet. There's nothing I can say except I'm sorry. I was almost crazy at the time, you'll recall, over debts. It's a poor excuse, but all I have. I've just posted the letter to Polly with an apology from C. Banks. . . . Forgiven?"

"Of course," Jerry said. "I reckon there's nothing we couldn't forgive one another after what we've been through. Polly's sensible. She'll take it all right."

And so in their large masculine way they disposed of the matter of a mere letter, shook hands, swore eternal friendship, and parted. Later, they saluted as their two ships left the harbor. One ship stood toward the east. The other headed north, following the coast line—the May Queen bound for Connecticut.

Some British warships stood off Norfolk, and these drove her out to sea. Two of them followed her, and because they kept together like a pair of gadflies, Jerry dared not fight them but fled before them, hoping to lose them and so turn home again. This monstrous game kept up for a fortnight, and then one day the May Queen's lookouts reported that the gadflies had parted company and only one remained.

Jerry went to meet this ship in combat. And so they tested the May Queen's long guns. There was bloodshed, and five of Jerry's men were buried at sea, but there was victory too.

(To Be Continued)

opposition to the movement.

Q. How many Federal soldiers were garrisoned in Texas at the time of its secession and under whose command were they?
A. There were 2,264 men at San Antonio, Brownsville, and other posts along the Rio Grande and on the Indian frontier, under command of Major General David E. Twiggs, who was in sympathy with the South and who tentatively agreed with the "Committee of Public Safety" to withdraw the troops and to surrender the military equipment, valued at from $1,000,000 to $1,500,000.

Q. Why was this agreement with General Twiggs not carried out when made?
A. While negotiations were pending for removal of the troops, Twiggs was replaced by Col. Carlos W. Smith, then in command at Camp Verde, Texas, who immediately rushed to San Antonio, took command and at first refused to comply with Gen. Twiggs' agreement.

Q. Who composed the subcommittee that negotiated with General Twiggs for the withdrawal of Federal troops from Texas?
A. Thomas J. Devine, Samuel A. Maverick and P. N. Luckett were a sub-committee representing the "Committee of Public Safety."

Q. What was done by Texas to enforce withdrawal of the Federal troops and surrender of the stores at San Antonio?
A. Immediately after Col. Waite replaced Gen. Twiggs, Ben McCulloch, on instructions from the "Committee of Public Safety," rushed into San Antonio with a hurriedly assembled force, at which terms were readily agreed upon for Col. Waite and his troops to retain their small arms and sufficient supplies for transportation to the coast, where they were to proceed to the North.

Q. What requirements did the Texas secession convention make as to officials and with what results?
A. All State officials were required to take an oath of allegiance to the Confederacy or else vacate their offices. When notified of this, all complied except Governor Houston and E. W. Cave, his secretary of state, Houston stating orally that he did not recognize the existence or authority of the convention. On March 16, the office of governor was declared vacant and Edward Clark, lieutenant-governor, succeeded him, Houston making no resistance, but issuing an address declaring the action to be usurpation.

Q. Who represented Texas in the secession convention at Montgomery?
A. Senators Louis T. Wigfall and John Hemphill and John H. Reagan, John Gregg, W. S. Oldham, William B. Ochiltree and T. N. Waul, who were selected by the Texas secession convention to represent Texas in the creation of the Confederacy.

"OUT OUR WAY"

By Williams

Sport Glances. By Grayson

ALLEY OOP

By Hamlin

Beery Brothers at One Time Tried to Become Cowboys

By United Press

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—From the uncle who can "out-act either one of 'em" comes the information that Wallace and Noah Beery, film actors, at one time were embryo Wyoming cattlemen and contemplated making ranching their life work.

T. S. Mills of Tensleep, Wyo., who came to the state in 1875, said the actors' mother sent them to his ranch during their youth, where they remained a year.

"They wanted to be cowboys, all right," Mills said, "and told me they would some day own their own outfits. Then their mother came out for a visit. She took one look at the wild country and immediately entertained different ideas about the futures of her sons."

The boys went back to Kansas City and a few years later left home to join Ringling Brothers Circus, according to Mills. From there they migrated to the stage and in 1916 received their first chance in Hollywood, where they have remained since.

"I go out to visit them often," Mills said, and then added proudly, "as a matter of fact, I can out-act either one of 'em."

FRECKLES and HIS FRIENDS—By Blosser

MYRA NORTH, Special Nurse -- By Thompson and Coll

THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

