Atomic Bomb, Terrific New Weapon, Is Loosed On Japs

Greatest Destructive Force Ever Unleashed By Man Is Dropped On Jap Army Base

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The most terrible destructive force ever harnessed by man — atomic energy—is now being turned on the islands of Japan by United States bombers. The Japanese face a threat of utter desolation, and their capitulation may be greatly speeded up.

Existence of the great new weapon was announced personally by President Truman in a statement issued through the White House at 11 a. m., eastern war time. He said the first atomic bomb, invented and perfected in the United States, had been dropped on the Japanese army base of Hiroshima 16 hours before.

That one bomb alone carried a wallop more violent than 2,000 B-29 Superfortresses normally could hand an enemy city, using old type TNT bombs.

And bombs of this type are only a beginning. Mr. Truman said that while these are now in production "even more powerful forms are in development."

Initial reports on the dreadful power of the Atomic explosive come from Los Alamos, N. M., where it was tested July 16. A steel tower holding the test model was vaporized when it went off. A great crater was torn in the earth. Windows rattled 250 miles away and forest rangers 150 miles off thought there had been an earthquake. A brilliant light flamed over the whole landscape.

No Results Reported

Something like that is believed to have happened at Hiroshima, though in his statement the President had no results to reveal.

Secretary of War Stimson followed through with a report that the blast stirred up a cloud of smoke and dust so impenetrable as to make immediate, accurate observation of results impossible. The power of the bomb, Stimson said, is such as to "stagger the imagination" and he asserted it would "prove a tremendous aid" in shortening the Japanese war.

Stimson's emphasis on this point renewed speculation all over again as to whether Japan may be completely crushed by air attack without invasion.

Face "Utter Destruction"

Mr. Truman noted that the Japanese rejected the surrender ultimatum from Potsdam, and that this had been intended to spare the Japanese people from "utter destruction."

Now, he said, with the new bomb, the Japanese "may expect a rain of ruin from the air, the like of which has never been seen on this earth."

The announcement heralded an Anglo-American victory at a cost of $2,000,000,000 in one of the grimmest battles of the war—the battle of the laboratories—to unlock the secrets of the atom and yoke its energies to military use.

Germans Were Striving

The Germans were striving desperately to win this highly secret contest in the closing months of the European struggle.

Scientists agreed that a new epoch in both war and peace was probably at hand. Although much experimenting remains to be done, this newly controlled energy can doubtless also be used to drive rockets, planes, ships and trains.

President Truman said the new bomb, which draws its energy from the same sources as the sun, has more power than 20,000 tons of TNT, itself a tremendously powerful explosive. Since one B-29 ordinarily can deliver about 10 tons of bombs to a target that means that 2,000 Superfortresses would be required to accomplish with TNT the destruction that one plane with one of these new bombs can achieve.

By another standard, Mr. Truman declared the bomb had 2,000 times the blast power of the 11-ton British "Grand Slam" bomb.

"It is a harnessing of the basic power of the universe," he said. "The force from which the sun draws its power has been loosed against those who brought war to

Blast Of First Atomic Bomb In New Mexico Felt For 250 Miles

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ALAMOS, N. M. Aug. 6—The first of the new atomic bombs caused earthquake-like shudders for 250 miles across New Mexico and Arizona July 16, and its brilliant flash startled a blind girl 120 miles away.

A steel tower which held the bomb was melted and turned into vapor by the blast, and in the earth of the remote New Mexico desert test ground a crater was gouged. Two men were knocked down five miles away.

Observed Ten Miles Away

Scientists and military authorities observed the test from ten miles. In disclosing details of the bomb which has already been dropped on Japan the Army quoted them today as seeing a ball of fire "many times brighter than the mid-day sun."

In the control center, Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard university, and J. R. Oppenheimer, director of the atomic laboratory, stared ahead in the long seconds just before the blast.

When the announcer shouted "now!" and there came a burst of light following shortly by a deep growling roar, Oppenheimer's face relaxed in tremendous relief.

"This is it!" the scientists whispered. "Atomic fission . . . A great new force to be used for good or for evil."

Over on the Arizona-New Mexico state line, 150 miles west, Mrs. H. E. Weiselman of El Paso, Tex., saw the flash and heard the blast. She described it this way

"The surrounding country was illuminated like day for about three seconds. Then it was dark again. The experience scared me.

Blind Girl Saw Flash

The blind girl was Miss Georgia Green of Socorro, who was being driven to Albuquerque to attend New Mexico university. It was several minutes after the brilliant flash until her brother-in-law heard the blast.

The test of a $2,000,000,000 ex-

Cong. George Mahon In On 'Atomic' Secret

By R. C. HANKINS
Avalanche Staff Writer

Cong. George Mahon for three years has been in possession of what may turn into the century's most monumental secret — the atomic bomb.

Cong. Mahon was telephoned by Avalanche - Journal publications Monday afternoon to inform him of black headlines quoting President Truman's announcement that the Japs got dropped in their lap a bomb the power of which was so stupendous that only scientists acquainted with the energy required in smashing an atom could visualize it even in nightmares. Or something to that effect.

The Congressman grunted.

Did the Congressman know anything at all that would give further information?

The Congressman did.

George Mahon as a member of the military appropriations subcommittee of the House, the Speaker of the House, the House majority leader and the others of his eight-member committee probably were the only persons in the entire House that even knew anything about the bomb until Monday afternoon's public announcement.

This reporter got himself over to Cong. Mahon's office.

Civilization Can Destroy Itself

"Civilization probably holds in its hands the power to completely destroy itself," the Congressman said.

"Japan, if the bomb fulfills the War department's hopes, can be obliterated by the new weapon. The war can be hurried to its inevitable conclusion. Manpower losses can be reduced to an astounding degree.

"The limitless potentialities of the principle it utilizes makes it mandatory that international peace be achieved—as an instrument in unconscionable hands it is not inconceivable that one power might utterly destroy the faculties of another in a future war, within 30 minutes after commencing its assault."

Dayton Orr Piloted Plane

Cong. Mahon last spring was flown to Knoxville, Tenn., by a former Lubbock pilot, Maj. Dayton Orr, to inspect two tremendous plants making energizing potential for the bombs.

Also allowed to visit the plants were the chairman of the appropriations committee, Clarence Cannon; the ranking minority Republican member, John Tabor; Chairman Buell Snyder of the military appropriations sub-committee, and Al Engle, Michigan member of the sub-committee.

So far as the Congressman

Scientist Points Out That Control Means Are Needed

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6. (AP)— Some means must have been found to control the effects of the atomic bomb, Dr. Roy K. Marshall, director of Fels planetarium and associate director of Franklin institute, said tonight.

"Otherwise, we might drop such a bomb on Japan and find her suing for peace — and ourselves unable to stop the havoc which was being wrought on the enemy's territory," he declared.

Dr. Marshall explained that "high-speed particles, parts of the core of the atomic structure of the explosive used, plow into other atoms — such as those in furniture or houses, or the human body itself—to produce explosions."

"When these atoms are released they literally bombard other atoms in the area," he said, adding that without some sort of restraining force such destructive action would "proceed indefinitely."

Discovery Said Beginning Of A New Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 6—The atomic bomb, by official description, is probably just a beginning of a new science, and not the terrific thing the size of a football or maybe a stove, that could wipe New York off the map in one explosion.

But it is the opening wedge, and the terrifying aspect at present is that no man can know how far its destructive effects may be developed.

Can't Spread Destruction

The President said this bomb is 2,000 times more powerful than the British earthquake bomb. But that does not mean it can spread its destruction 2000 times farther. Air and earth cushion explosions, so that their effects fall off rapidly in distance.

POWER REVOLUTION SEEN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6 (AP)—A University of Southern California physicist, Dr. R. E. Vollrath, said today that if the new atomic bomb is what he believes it to be, "we shall have a power revolution that will eliminate coal and oil as a source of power, and the industrial revolution will become minor in comparison with it." Long a research worker in atomic energy, Dr. Vollrath predicted that the nation or nations having fullest control of atomic power would have control of the world's destiny.

The British bomb, for example, was unofficially given a radius of utter destruction of 100 yards, meaning a circle 200 yards in diameter. A bomb 2000 times more powerful would probably cause equal destruction over a diameter of a mile or a little more.

Uranium is Basic Material

The air waves would carry secondary destructive effects, like bowling over unstable walls and smashing windows for many miles.

The official reports say that uranium is the basic atomic material. This uranium drama began in the early thirties, in Italy, as something quite different. There Enrico Fermi, physicist, now a Columbia university professor and one of the scientists who developed the atomic bomb principles, was using powerful electronic and atomic rays to bombard solid matter. He got what he reported to be a new chemical element, which he called uranium 93.

Jewess Made Clever Guess

The other world-famous laboratories physicists went to work and for nearly 10 years got nowhere. They could not verify the new element. They got, out of their experiments a lot of chemical elements of a mass, or weight, about half way between hydrogen, lightest element, and uranium the most massive.

Then, just as the present world-war was starting, Lize Meitner, a German Jewess, a mathematician, made a clever guess. She said, if your experiments are splitting an atom or uranium about in two equal parts, then all the puzzles can be explained. She made mathematical calculations to prove the point.

Escaped From Nazis

Dr. Neils Bohr, Danish physicist, who afterward escaped the Nazis to bring his atomic bomb experiments to England and the United States, learned of Dr. Meitner's calculations. He broadcast them.

Inside two weeks the physicists of Columbia university, Carnegie institute, of Washington, Johns Hopkins and other places, and of England and France had made the test and proved the German woman right.

But what an incredible shock they got. They split uranium easily with neutron particle rays. And when one single uranium atom split, it released 200,000,000 (two hundred million) electron volts of energy.

No Secret About Results

One pound of T.N.T. releases five electron volts energy for each molecule of the explosive. And there are usually millions of atoms in one molecule.

All the scientists of all countries saw the result. There wasn't anything secret about it. Germany, England, France and the United

MAJ. RICHARD I. BONG

Maj. Bong Killed In P-80 Mishap

Plane Explodes As Ace Pilot Takes Off

BURBANK, Calif., Aug. 6. (AP)—Maj. Richard Ira Bong, 24-year-old American ace fighter pilot of all time, was killed today as his jet-propelled P-80 plane was disintegrated by an explosion a few minutes after he left Lockheed air terminal on a test flight.

The intrepid young airman, who had 40 Japanese planes to his credit, apparently made an effort to escape through the pilot's hatch. His parachute had been partly opened.

Was Terrible Sight

A Lockheed service mechanic, Frank Bodenhamer, said Maj. Bong radioed the control tower as soon as he was in the air, saying he had developed trouble.

"His takeoff was normal," said Bodenhamer, "but I knew there was something wrong when I saw a puff of black smoke just as he levelled off in flight. The right wing tipped. The next thing I knew the escape hatch came off and the plane started to glide and then nosed over straight down. A column of smoke went into the air for about 400 feet. It was a terrible sight."

Explodes With Roar

Other witnesses said the plane exploded with a terrific roar, being disintegrated as parts were hurled in small bits over a wide area at a spot within a few miles of the airport.

"A piece fell from the plane," said Mrs. J. B. Villarino, who was attracted to the plane because it seemed to be flying so slow. "It might have been the engine wing. Then the plane started straight down and crashed with a tremendous bust of smoke. Huge flames swelled up, plainly visible from my house, although it is about two miles from the scene of the crash."

Tried To Jump Clear

The curly-haired, pug-nosed ace apparently tried to jump clear of the plane. One witness, Mrs. George H. Zane, jr., said she saw the pilot leap from the cockpit with his hands over his head.

An instant later, Mrs. Zane said, the plane exploded, catching the pilot in the air.

Mrs. Zane and three men ran to the vacant lot where the dis-

Wave Of Suicides Reported In Germany

NEW YORK, Aug. 6. (AP)—The French radio, quoting the Swedish newspaper Stockholms Tidningen, said tonight that publication of the Potsdam communique in Germany has been followed by an "enormous wave" of suicides.

The broadcast, recorded by CBS, said 1,200 persons, most of them business men and industrialists, took their own lives in Berlin during the past week, while Leipzig had 600 suicides, Hamburg 458, Frankfurt on the Main "a larger figure" and Cologne 300.

Combination Home Machine Is Developed

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (AP) — An electrical appliance manufacturer said today a combination clothes washer, potato peeler, dish washer and ice cream freezer will be on the market early in 1946, barring unexpected developments.

Edward N. Hurley, president of the Hurley Machine division of the Electrict Household Utilities, said the Thor automatic washer, as the gadget will be called, will sell for less than standard prewar washing machines; can be operated daily as a dishwasher and potato peeler; and can be converted to a clothes washer by an attachment which the housewife can connect in less than a minute.

WICHITA MAN KILLED

Germans Allowed To Form Local Trade Unions And Parties

By EDWARD D. BALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERLIN, Aug. 6.—The United States and Britain today gave the conquered Germans permission to form free, local trade unions and local political parties, but Gen. Eisenhower warned the German people they would get full freedom only after they proved themselves willing to build democracy.

"We shall assist you to rebuild your life on a democratic basis," Eisenhower said in a proclamation to the Germans. The American commander demanded, however, that "there must be no idleness," particularly during and before the coming winter which, he said, would be a hard one.

WANTS UNCENSORED NEWS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP)—Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) demanded today that the Big Three specifically guarantee the free access of an uncensored American press into Poland and other "blacked-out areas of Europe."

He asserted in a statement that what he called "rhetorical reference" in the Potsdam communique by President Truman, Prime Minister Attlee and Generalissimo Stalin to "free elections" and a "free press" is not a sufficient guarantee.

With Mr. Truman expected to return to the White House soon, Vandenberg expressed hope that the President "will shortly give us definite word that uncensored American correspondents actually have been admitted" to Poland, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

Subject To Allied Approval

Freedom to engage in political activity and form unions — and also of press and judicial liberty —still is subject to the approval of the local Allied military governments, Eisenhower stressed. But he held out the prospect that these restrictions might be lifted.

Eisenhower's proclamation was read in his name over the Berlin radio and transmitters in the American zone. At the same time, a similar proclamation was read on behalf of Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery in the British zone.

Laid Down At Potsdam

The relaxation of control was in accord with the policies for the government of Germany laid down last week by the Big Three meeting at Potsdam. The ban on political activities had been relaxed in the Russian zone some weeks ago.

After explaining progress toward destroying German power to make war, Eisenhower told the Germans that "our aim is not merely a negative one.

"We do not desire to degrade the German people," he said. "We shall assist you to rebuild your life on a democratic basis. Your courts and schools are being opened as quickly as they can be freed of Nazi influence. Justice and education founded on true liberal principles will be supported vigorously."

Wright Is Given Life Term For Lamb Slaying

A jury of which Chas. D. Yates was foreman reported at 2:40 o'clock Monday afternoon with a life sentence for A. J. Wright, jr., for murder June 17 of W. T. Lamb in an attempted hijacking of a gasoline station here.

Wright had pleaded guilty upon a defense stipulation that he would accept a life sentence in the penitentiary. The stipulation was agreed to by the state, which had been informed of Wright's having been placed under observation in a naval hospital psychopathic ward before his discharge from the Navy as a mental incompetent.

Formal Sentence Pronounced

Defense witness testimony that hinted of hereditary insanity affecting other members of his immediate family and of relatives of his mother was woven into the trial.

Wright waived a two-day statutory period allowed him, and formal sentence was pronounced by Judge G. V. Pardue.

The first 12 men who qualified from the special venire of 150 men that had been summoned heard testimony in the case, since a jury is required in Texas in all capital felony cases.

Neither the state nor the defense cross-examined any witness.

Attempted To Rob Station

Wright, who with a girl companion attempted by their own admissions to rob the Lowrimore service station at 2301 Nineteenth the early morning of June 17, was pictured by his father, A. J. Wright, sr., of Clyde; Dewey Martin, former schoolmate who joined the Navy with the 21-year-old Wright, and a brother Vernon Wright, also a former Navy man, as having the approximate intelligence of a 10-year-old child.

The father said Wright's mother was highly nervous, ill most of the time, erratic part of the time; that two of Wright's brothers had been discharged from the Navy for the same reason that the accused was: mental incompetency; and that one of them spent four months in a naval psychopathic ward; that two of Mrs. Wright's sisters had suffered mental ailments, one of them having been placed in an epileptic ward.

Vernon Wright testified that when he heard A. J. Wright had joined the Navy that he "quit my job in Arkansas and joined the same outfit he was in, so I could help take care of him." He said he too ended up with his brother under observation in the naval hospital, and that both subsequently were discharged.

Accused "Always Backward"

Martin said the accused always was backward, had never been able to progress past the third grade and that he could not learn to tie a knot or to march when in the Navy.

The father said the accused was not able to absorb what comes to other boys of his age as routine. For instance, he testified, the accused never could learn to drive a tractor properly—often would turn it around before cultivating to the end of field rows.

The defense had presented a motion for continuance, but withdrew the motion when it was announced the state would accept an offer of life imprisonment for a plea of guilty.

The state introduced the follow-

Sen. Johnson Of California Dies

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Senator Hiram W. Johnson, a leader in the Senate battle that defeated United States participation in the League of Nations 25 years ago, died today. He was 78.

The silver-haired Californian, a descendant of French nobility and dean of Senate Republicans in service, died in a coma at 6:40 a. m., EWT., in the Bethesda, Md., naval hospital.

Confined 2½ Weeks

Capt. Robert E. Duncan, USN, his physician, attributed his death to thrombosis of a cerebral artery. He had been confined to the hospital 2½ weeks.

Senator Johnson, Republican governor of California in 1910-1916, was the vice presidential candidate in Theodore Roosevelt's "Bull Moose" campaign of 1912.

He recovered from a critical illness with pneumonia two years ago to engage in a bitter but unsuccessful fight this spring against Senate ratification of the United States-Mexico water treaty.

Voted Against Charter

Ranking minority member of the Senate foreign relations committee, Senator Johnson cast the only vote in committee against reporting the United Nations charter to the Senate without reservation or change.

Illness prevented him from being present when the Senate cast its final vote for ratification, but again he was recorded against.

Johnson was outranked in Senate service only by Senator McKeller (D-Tenn), the Senate president.

Maj. Robert B. Young To Be Acting Attorney

FORT WORTH, Aug. 6. (AP) — Major Robert B. Young, who received a discharge from the Army today, is due to be named acting United States attorney for the northern district of Texas to succeed Clyde O. Eastus, the Star-Telegram learned tonight from sources believed to be reliable.

Young, former assistant city attorney of Fort Worth, is the son of District Judge Bruce Young and nephew of Postmaster Henry Young, both of Fort Worth.

Federal Judge James C. Wilson, Fort Worth, returned here from Dalias this afternoon after conferring with Judge William H. Atwell, and T. Whitfield Davidson on the appointment, but except to say that "a disinterested party," would be named by him Tuesday, would not discuss the matter.

Young recently has been on duty at Wichita, Kas., he is a native of Bonham, Texas, but has lived here since 1906.

Mackenzie King Wins In Glengarry Election

ALEXANDRIA, Ont., Aug. 6 (AP)—Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King was elected to the House of Commons tonight, defeating Dr. Richard Monahan, independent liberal, by a landslide majority in the Glengarry by-election.

Returns from the complete 43 polls gave King 4,623 against 327 for the 64-year-old doctor of Sharbot, Lake, Ont.

King, defeated at Prince Albert in the June 11 general election, was offered the liberal nomination in Glengarry.

Surprise Move Made On Petain

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Aug. 6. — Prosecutor Andre Mornet charged today that Marshal Petain and Hitler exchanged letters three weeks after Allied landings in North Africa relative to German help for France "to assist her in reconquering her colonial domains."

In a surprise move, Mornet interrupted defense testimony in Petain's treason trial to introduce the fragment of a letter he said was dated Dec. 6, 1942, and written by Petain in reply to a communication from Hitler.

Portion Read To Court

The portion Mornet read to the court said "you consider, and correctly, that it is inconceivable for a nation to exist in the long run without a disciplined, obedient army. I have made it my first duty to reconstruct an army capable of assuring the safety of France and her empire.

"Von Rundstedt, (the field marshal then German commander in France) having been obligated by you to take decisions and conclude all necessary arrangements in ques- concerning German actions, I have asked him today to come and discuss with me a different point.

Defense Calls Witnesses

"I have been aware, Mr. Chancellor, of the personal intentions that you have expressed to me at the end of your letter concerning your decision to collaborate with France and assist her in reconquering her colonial domains."

Meanwhile, the defense continued to call generals and other colleagues of the 89-year-old mashal and introduce documents which it hopes will prove that Petain actively cooperated with Britain and the United States against Germany and directly aided the Allies in their North African landings.

Household Appliances To Be Available Soon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP) — Limited quantities of long-scarce or completely missing household appliances will begin reaching retail markets this fall, the War Production board predicted today.

Describing the reconversion program as "steadily gathering momentum" Frederick M. Mitchell, director of the consumers durable goods division, pictured the situation like this:

Sewing machines, vacuum cleaners, washing machines, and electric irons should reach retail markets in small quantities this fall, and alarm clocks in fairly large numbers. But volumne production is not expected to be reached until the spring of 1946.

Seizure And Control Of World's Supply Of Uranium By International Authority Urged

(By The Associated Press)

HOUSTON, Aug. 6.—Seizure and control of the world's supply of uranium by an international authority such as the United Nations was advocated today by one of the scientists who helped create America's atomic bomb.

The Scientist is Dr. H. A. Wilson, professor of physics at Rice institute, who directed a series of successful experiments on a phase of the bomb's development having to do with the use of uranium.

He described the atomic bomb as destructive almost beyond imagination and said: "I think some international authority should take control of the world's uranium supply to see that mastery of the destructive principle of atomic disintergrations does not fall into the wrong hands."

Called To Washington

In an interview in his study at his home, tonight, Doctor Wilson explained what he and other scientists at Rice institute did:

Soon after the Pearl Harbor attack, about 60 American scientists were invited to Washington by the Office of Scientific Research and Development and were told the

Peacetime Uses Of Atomic Bomb Said To Be Incalculable; Must Learn To Control It

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Qualified scientists see the atom-blasting of Japan as the potential start toward telephone booth-size heating plants for great factories and 1,000-hour auto trips on one gram of fuel — but not certainly and certainly not now.

It all comes down to the question of learning to control the awful forces unleashed when the ultimate components of matter are torn apart. The problem is roughly comparable to figuring out how to use the power of a TNT explosive to drive the family lawn mower. It's about that near solution.

Only a handful of experts and Allied leaders know the complete workings of the devastating weapon. They are pledged to secrecy. Others, among them authors of treatises on atomic energy, students of discoveries in that field from the time of the Curies, and men who worked for the war effort but not with the new bomb, expressed amazement that such a weapon could have been made. But they said that now that it has, its possibilities are limitless.

In a book published in 1940, "Foundations of Modern Physics,"

The Woman's Angle
By Margaret Turner

SYMPTOMS of a "back to normalcy" epidemic are showing up alarmingly. Too many people, weary of the war, are looking with longing to the day when the war will end in the Pacific and then they may enjoy Utopia. These thoughtless ones would have you believe that war controls will be lifted immediately, that jobs will be plentiful, goods no longer rationed, new cars with plenty of gas available and new homes in the immediate offing.

It's sad that this state of lethargy has descended and we can only hope it is not too apparent to our service men, who weary from long months of fighting in the European theater, are shouldering their packs and heading for the Pacific.

Noting with alarm several of these symptoms, the Woman's Angle is wondering what the attitude of many people will be when V-J day comes. It would seem that civilians should get some injections of iron into their spines, overcome the urge-to-quit virus and start grappling with the problems of peace.

Cong. George H. Mahon expressed some of these thoughts Sunday night when he spoke at the First Methodist church on "The Place of the Church in the Postwar World." He posed several questions, which included the following:

"Will the fathers and mothers who have laid awake night after night worrying about the fates of their sons serving overseas refuse to give of their time, their thoughts and their prayers to building a postwar world?"

"Will young men be more interested in new inventions, in new gadgets on their cars than they will be in assuming positions of responsibility and leadership?"

"Will mothers be more concerned with new floor sweepers, refrigerators and sheer hose than they are in the fates of their new-born sons?"

THE answers to these questions can be furnished by the church if it is wide awake and on its toes, the congressman suggested. He suggested that during the period of reconstruction, there will be those cynics who would flood the country with a spirit of futility which would be dangerous and deadly. Church people can open the highways to hope, promise and happiness, Mr. Mahon said.

To those who would say the church would have to be perfect to promote those objectives, we'd remind the church can never be perfect so long as its pews are occupied by human beings.

IN THE MAIL

MRS. TED BARNETT writes that while she knows we do not like to print poems in this column, she thought we might make an exception this morning and print a poem written by a Marine captain serving on Guam, who felt especially lonely, if poetic, once when he didn't receive any mail from home.

The poem was sent by her brother, Alton J. Ammons Yeoman 3/c, serving on a carrier in the Pacific and he says it expresses the feelings of service men everywhere.

"It ain't the heat nor the blistered feet,
Nor the meals of Spam in place of meat,
Nor the butter like lard, nor our turn at guard—
None of these are half as hard
As the jolt we get, after all the sweat,
When a cheery voice says, "No mail yet."

And it ain't the breeze, like a dragon's sneeze,
That peels the hide and weakens the knees,
Nor the dirt in your gun, nor the boiling sun—
These are forgotten when day is done.
But our voices fall and our faces pale,
If we draw a blank when it's time for mail.

We stand the flies and sand in our eyes,
The orders, the rumors, the truth, and the lies,
The mosquitoes' swarm and the water warm
And the wards that reek of chloroform.
What takes our fight and makes throat tight
Are the letters that someone didn't write."

THANKS GIRLS

AS you may have noticed, the editor of The Woman's Angle is back this morning after a delightful rest of three weeks. During our absence the column was written by Gem Bob Calley, Jamie Hyatt, Jeane Engle and Opal Dixon and to these four young women our thanks for a job well done. Also to Miss Calley goes a warm "thanks" for her work as woman's editor in our absence.

WRITE PLEASE

DURING one of our idle mornings (oh blissful memories!) we heard Ted Malone, the poet and war correspondent, tell how important letters are in the life of a radio star. According to Mr. Malone, the staff members worry and worry over reception and polls are taken as to what the people like and what they dislike on the ether programs. And letters from fans are welcomed.

Sitting there listening to his pleasant voice, the Woman's Angle thought that what is important to one building a program, that is aimed to please as many as possible, is also true of a column writer. And so this morning we are reminding you that we are glad to get letters from our readers. If you have suggestions to better the woman's page, let us hear; if you are displeased about something, let's air it.

Engagement Is Told At Morning Coffee

A coffee Monday morning in the home of Mrs. Cliff Elliott, 2124 Twenty-sixth, announced the forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Miss Jean Elliott and Lt. Allen C. Hammer, to take place on Aug. 11.

Guests were greeted by the hostess, the bride-elect and Mrs. Lela Hammer, mother of the prospective bridegroom.

Miss Imogene Vincent registered callers.

In Confectionary Motif

The serving table was covered with a white madeira cloth and lighted by white candles in crystal holders. The main table decoration was a large mirror around which pink and blue ruffles were placed. The announcement "Jean and Allen, Aug. 11" was written in pink and blue icing and the lettering was decorated with confectionary flowers in these same colors. The receiving rooms were decked with roses.

Mesdames H. B. Elliott, Earl Elliott and Carphal Neighbors were in the house party.

Sixty-five guests called between 9 and 11 o'clock.

A series of parties is being planned in honor of Miss Elliott.

Mrs. J. R. Bridges Wins Institute Award

Award of a free trip to a reading conference in Washington, D. C., for July of 1947, was won by Mrs. J. R. Bridges, teacher at Bean school, for the highest score in a general achievement test at the University of California, Berkeley. The test climaxed a reading institute at the university held from July 16 to 20. Mrs. Bridges' score was 118 out of a possible 120.

Mrs. Bridges taught in a primary educational clinic at San Diego from July 3-15. The clinic was an initial movement to encourage teachers to return to the school room, at least for the duration. Because so many men and women have gone into the service or have taken jobs in essential industry, there is a great shortage of teachers, Mrs. Bridges said, adding this seems especially true in California and Arizona.

She returned to Lubbock Friday, cutting short her stay on the Coast because of a ruling there that civilians will not be allowed to travel on trains, except in case of dire necessity, until Oct. 5, because of the movement of troops.

Voting Begins On Constitution Changes

AUSTIN, Aug. 6 (AP)—Absentee voting began today on four proposed changes in the Texas constitution, upon which general voting will take place Aug. 25.

Reports indicated no great interest was shown by the early application for ballots, though it may be partly due to travel restrictions that will keep many vacationists home through the summer.

The four proposals in the order given them on the ballot are:

Providing for soldier voting without poll tax payment.

Providing for a year-around salary for legislators.

Providing for a state supreme court with nine judges.

Providing for an increase in the maximum old age pension grant provided welfare grants of all sorts are kept within $35,000,000 a year.

In many counties a vote has also been called on shifting the distribution of county taxes.

Army Is Declared Defeating Its Request For Military Training

By ALLEN DRURY
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Members of the House and Senate military affairs committees charged today that the Army itself was defeating its request for compulsory military training after the war.

Members pointed to a mounting friction between Congress and the War department over:

1. Heavy Army spending.

2. Army insistence on keeping a force of 7,000,000 for the remainder of the war. Many Congressmen believe that is far too much.

Food Being Stockpiled

3. Charges that Army stockpiling of food is partly responsible for the domestic shortage.

4. The Army's refusal to release the demanded number of railroaders, coal miners and shipyard workers to meet war and home-front needs.

Three House committee members—all proponents of peace time training—said their hopes for such a program were fast fading. One said that the Army's relationships with Congress "had sunk to their lowest level in history."

Would Change Control

"If we have a universal military training program after the war it will be in spite of the Army and not because of it," he said.

He also predicted that if there is a peacetime training program it will be under civilian administration and not under control of the Army.

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson, (D-Colo), member of the Senate military affairs committee, said the War department's policies were causing a "growing mistrust" both among the public and in the service itself.

Johnson Decries Attitude

"The War department's arbitrary attitude about releasing eligible men who are no longer needed, and its apparent desire to hog everything in order to keep up its own establishment, are causing a sharp decline in public sentiment for conscription," Johnson said.

"This is increased by the feeling within the service itself on the part of many discontented men who have been given a terribly raw deal. They certainly aren't going to come out with any great sympathy towards permanent military training."

Demands Frank Review

In a weekend letter to Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, Johnson demanded a frank review of Army manpower requirements to show why it needed 7,000,000 men for the duration of the war.

He cited what he regarded as proof that the Army could have not more than 3,000,000 soldiers on the Japanese front by Jan. 1, 1947. He acknowledged that others would be needed for occupation and supply but said it was difficult to see why there had to be 7,000,000.

He asked Stimson what was wrong with his (Johnson's) figures.

"Are they not in truth optimistic? No 'mumble-jumble' answer will do this time. Please be brutally frank with Congress and the country."

The decision to keep a 7,000,000-man army, Johnson said, means that millions of "bitter, disappointed men" will be milling around the country in uniform during the coming months while war production and reconversion suffer for lack of manpower.

Juices Released From Rationing

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP) — Grocers scratched point values today from canned tomato juice, mixed vegetable juice and grapefruit-orange juice blends.

OPA's action in making those products ration-free yesterday followed a recommendation from Secretary of Agriculture Anderson based on lowered military demands.

Anderson also announced that civilian store shelves will get 10,000,000 more cases of canned vegetables from this year's pack than had been expected.

Despite the 10 per cent increase, however, the Agriculture department said the total still will be less than last year's.

Stevenson Has Praise For President Truman

DALLAS, Aug. 6. (U.P.) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson, during a visit in Dallas Sunday, gave high praise for President Truman and said Texans should support him for President in 1948 if he "continues to display such fine leadership."

"His courage in accepting leadership and displaying a determined will to win final victory marks him as a great leader," said the governor.

Stevenson declined to comment on his own political future. He said the 1946 election is too distant and too indefinite to make predictions, that many things can change political trends before then.

Smaller Stores Out Of Meat On Monday

Outlying and smaller stores and markets in Lubbock found their meat supplies curtailed and a few cases entirely cut off Monday.

While the storekeepers blamed the Office of Price Administration's new "locker search" campaign for their difficulties, officials at the O.P.A. said they did not know the reason for the latest development in the meat situation.

One small store was entirely without fresh meat. Others complained of various types of shortages.

A wholesale dealer aseribed part of the local meat supply difficulty to the fact that the government inspector, who has to grade local meat, operates out of Amarillo. He said that delays in supplying the local trade were often due to this fact. The wholesalers think that the situation would be improved by having a local inspector.

The Lubbock meat supply was described by one wholesaler as 20 per cent short of normal.

GIRL, 14, SUICIDES

SPRING, Tex., Aug. 6. (U.P.) — Funeral services were being arranged today for Dorothy Aline Birkhead, 14, of Spring, who died several hours after she swallowed carbolic acid. Justice Henry J. Roth returned a verdict of suicide in the case.

Engineers found wooden frame buildings standing amidst the rubble of stone, concrete and steel structures during the 1941 blitz of London.

Showdown Between Spain And Big Three Plus France Seen In Offing

By RALPH HEINZEN
United Press War Analyst

Spain will feel this week the first political embargo since the "spanking" contained in the Potsdam communique.

Neither Franco-Spain nor Italy will be invited to the four-power conference to be held this week at Paris to settle the Tangier question. France insisted upon their exclusion.

Spain's absence means that eventually, and probably within a very few weeks, Generalissimo Franco will have to abandon voluntarily all that he grabbed in the Tangier zone at the height of the European crisis in June, 1940, or he will be obliged to defend it by force of arms against Russia, France, Britain and the United States.

Likely To Be Showdown

The Tangier issue is likely to be the showdown between Spain and the Big Three plus France. It may make unnecessary any question of economic or political sanctions. The exclusion of Spain from the United Nations is, at most, a moral boycott. Its effect was tempered by Franco's swift rejection of the Potsdam communique by announcing from Madrid that Spain did not "beg admittance to international conferences," and pointing out that monarchist Spain had deliberately quit the old League of Nations.

A likely eventual ultimatum of the Big Four to hand back Tangier is more than a moral sanction. It will definitely imply physical conflict if Franco decides to resist. Both France and Britain have stated their intention of restoring the international status of the Tangier zone.

Russia Supports Move

If Franco decides to resist, it would provide the motive for severance of diplomatic relations which has been demanded by strong leftwing factions in France and Britain. Russia, which has never recognized the Franco Falangist regime, has been pressing her western allies to break with the last government left in Europe which owes its origin, in Moscow's opinion, to the force of Nazi and Fascist arms.

Franco's grab of the whole Tangier government zone dates to June 14, 1940. That was the day the French government fled Paris to Tours, escaping from the advancing German armies. it was the day that Churchill flew to France and gave all his attention to trying to save an ally from capitulation. Neither France nor Britain ever forgave or forgot. Both waited for the end of the war to settle the score.

In taking over Tangier alone, Franco expelled all French and British functionaries from the international zone. He also denied the over-all sovereignty of the sultan of Morocco, Sidi Mohammed, and he chased the sultan's political and religious agents in the zone. Since 1940, Tangier has been completely in Franco's hands along with the 225-mile hinterland. It is now fully policed by Spanish troops, though since 1941 Franco is pledged by an interim agreement with the British government to refrain from fortifying the zone.

Colorado River Goes On Man-Made Rise

AUSTIN, Aug. 6. (AP) — The Colorado river went on a 12-foot man-made rise today, spreading into river bottom lowlands, as the level of Lake Austin was intentionally lowered to permit the destruction of duck weeds.

Flood gates at Tom Miller dam were opened to lower the lake after the growth of under-water weeds had become so dense that navigation was threatened.

The quarters of a forest ranger at Mammoth Springs, Wyo., are surrounded by a fence made of elk antlers.

Officer Kills Woman And Then Himself In Shooting At Houston

HOUSTON, Aug. 6. (AP)—Brunette Mrs Libby O'Brien, 21, of Houston, was shot to death in the lobby of a hotel here yesterday by a young Army flier who then wounded himself fatally, Justice of the Peace W. C. Ragan held in an inquest verdict.

Ragan identified the flier from his Army "dog tag" as Lt. Ralph H. Hamilton, 22, of Winterhaven, Fla. The flier died in a Houston hospital from a bullet that entered above the right temple and smashed through the top center of his skull

Mrs. O'Brien died lying on the floor of the lobby, a bullet through her left breast, another through the left arm, a third in the left thigh, and a fourth in the left knee cap.

"For God's sake don't let me die, I can't die. I mustn't die," Mrs. O'Brien was quoted as imploring witnesses who rushed to her aid.

Ragan returned a verdict of murder and suicide. He said some 25 persons were sitting in the lobby at the time of the shooting, but no one else was hit, though one bullet went wild.

The justice said he took statements in which witnesses said they heard the pair arguing, saw Mrs. O'Brien hand the flier a batch of letters, and the flier jot down something on the back of one of them.

The justice said that according to papers found on the flier's body he was stationed at Marana Army Air field, Marana, Ariz., and the last six weeks had been on temporary duty at Waco Army Air field.

He had been a bomber pilot, and wore the Air Medal with three clusters; the Purple Heart, a Distinguished Unit citation, the ETO ribbon, and three battle stars.

McLennan Democrats Against Return Of Regulars, O'Daniel

WACO, Aug. 6. (AP)—The Texas Democrats club of McLennan county have adopted resolutions opposing the return of Texas Regulars to the Democratic party and recommending that U. S. Senator W. Lee O'Daniel be expelled from the Democratic party.

Meeting here yesterday, the group also adopted a resolution opposing three of the four proposed state constitutional amendments to be voted on Aug. 25.

Regarding the amendments, Mrs. R. E. Pyland, club president, said all state legislators who voted to put a ceiling on pensions by constitutional amendment will be "put out in the election next year." Answering a question from a member of the audience, "what about Coke Stevenson?" she said, "we're going to unseat him."

Resolutions to bar the regulars and oust O'Daniel were introduced by Mrs. Harry Edens, club secretary. Tom Hamilton, lawyer, declared of the Texas Regulars: "These traitors who bucked the party got the seats of their trousers spanked. Now they want to come back in. . . . The fangs of these traitors are poisonous to the Democratic party. I say keep them out."

The club approved the proposed amendment to permit soldiers to vote without a poll tax.

Legislation Governing Powers Of Council Delegates Is Proposed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (U.P.) — Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich., today proposed seven-point legislation to govern the choice and powers of the American delegates to the United Nations organization.

He said in a letter to Secretary of State James F. Byrnes that it was his opinion the power of the delegate to the security council should be "clearly established and bounded by law." Chairman Tom Connally, D., Tex., of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, has asked the State department to determine the need for implementing legislation.

Wouldn't Impair Swift Action

Vandenberg told Byrnes that his proposals would not impair swift action by the council in meeting threats to the peace. Nor, he said, would they impair the President's control over the vote of the American delegate.

He said the implementing statute should take the following character:

1. The American delegate should be nominated by the President and confirmed by the Senate, subject to removal by the President.

2. The delegate should have the rank, pay and general status of an ambassador and should "at all times act pursuant to the instructions of the president."

Should Report To Congress

3. The President should report to Congress immediately whenever he authorizes the delegate to vote for the use of military or economic sanctions. While this does not detract from the President's powers, Vandenburg said, "it will keep Congress currently advised regarding any movements which might graduate into war (which is an exclusive congressional prerogative) and free to assert its attitude if, as and when it wishes."

The President also should report to Congress annually on all our activities in the organization.

Would Get Authorization

4. The President would not be required to report on any authorized action by the delegate in cases involving peaceful settlements of disputes.

5. The President should get explicit authorization from Congress before committing any American forces over and above the quota fixed in the forthcoming military agreements with the council.

6. Either in the delegate statute or in the military agreements, the United States in connection with her sister American republics should assume exclusive responsibility for any armed forces needed to keep the peace in this hemisphere. Vandenburg said he doubted "whether we shall ever want any other armed forces to enter this area."

Connally Opposes Weakening

4. The American delegates to the assembly or lower House of the world organization should be appointed by the president for one-year terms, subject to Senate confirmation.

Vandenberg's proposal is believed to go further than legislation contemplated by Connally. The foreign relation chairman favors a measure dealing only with the salary and title of the delegate and giving the president the power to appoint him.

Connally is opposed to weakening the charter with strict legal limitations on the delegate.

Work On Plant At Borger Halted

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. (AP) — Work has been halted on a toluene plant at Borger, Tex., which was to be operated by Phillips Petroleum company, and on which about 10 per cent of the work had been done, the Reconstruction Finance corporation disclosed today.

RFC officials said the action was taken at the request of the War department. The plant, to cost between $4,000,000 and $6,000,000, had been ordered constructed by the Ordnance department to turn out toulene as an ingredient for explosives.

The work already done was largely in drawing of plans, grading, and similar preparations. Construction was under the Bechtel-Mc Cone Contracting company. The plant was to have been owned by the RFC but operated by Phillips Petroleum company under a lease.

Four Airlines Will Start Flying Troops

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6 (AP) — Arrangements were completed today for four commercial airlines to start flying troops across the country by Aug. 20 to relieve the burden on railroads.

Newark on the eastern seaboard, and Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle on the west coast will be the terminals. Planes and pilots released by the Army Air forces will be used by American, Northwest, TWA and United Airlines.

The Air Transport association announced that 68 C-47 transports and about 260 pilots will be turned over by the Air forces for the service. Only part of the planes are expected to be operating by Aug. 20, but all will be in use within 30 days, when redeployment by air will reach a rate of 25,000 men a month.

Crosby Guard Unit Is Conducting Fund Drive

Company B, 39th Battalion of the Texas State Guard has been rewarded with a public drive for funds by Crosby county citizens and has realized $210.50 according to Roy McEachern, public relations officer of the battalion headquarters in Lubbock.

The Crosby county commissioners already have voted $150 to the guard unit whose budget calls for a total of $300 per year, McEachern said.

When city commissioners at Crosbyton found their general budget too small to aid in the guard unit's expenses, as they did last year, they were forced to refuse a request for aid. The county commissioners agreed to foot half the budget and the other half came through voluntary subscription that exceed the set goal.

That's our business—to install telephones and furnish telephone service. We'd much rather put in telephones for all those waiting than put this ad in the paper. But there is still no choice. Though V-E Day has come and gone, the Japanese war is making heavy demands on Western Electric's telephone factories.

Of course, the end of the war in Europe brings us closer to the day when everyone who wants telephone service can get it without delay. But that day would still be far off, even if all war demands ended tomorrow. Telephone equipment—dial central office equipment, switchboards, even cable—is complicated. It takes a long time to make, and a long time to put to work.

At present, a trickle of new equipment of various kinds is being made. Until more is available, we'll continue to do our best with what we have. Thanks for being patient.

Abilene Grid School Opens, 1946 Site Hotly Contested

BY HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

ABILENE, Aug. 6. — Fort Worth, Corpus Christi and San Antonio were bidding today for the 1946 Texas high school coaching school, although the 1945 clinic was barely underway.

Selection of the site will not be made until winter by the board of directors but these cities were getting the jump on the field.

Meanwhile opening sessions of the 13th annual school drew the largest attendance in history. Bill Carmichael of Bryan, executive secretary, said more than 340 coaches had registered and paid their fees.

Seven States Represented

There were registrants from seven states—Texas, Louisiana, Nebraska, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Connecticut.

The school opened today as Maurice (Skip) Palrang of Boys Town, Neb., and Leo (Dutch) Meyer of Texas Christian university began week-long lectures on the T and wingback formations.

Also this afternoon marked the first workout of the all-star squads of high school players from the 1944 season.

Palrang is coaching the South all-stars, employing the T formation at which he is a recognized authority. Meyer is directing the North squad, using his single, double and so-called triple wingback, or flanker back, formations.

The eleventh annual game is set for the high school stadium Friday night with a crowd of upwards of 6,000 due.

Lectures Given

Lil Dimmitt, Texas A. and M. college trainer, discussed treatment of injuries. Bill James, Texas A. and M. line coach, demonstrated on line play and defense, and Cecil Grigg, backfield coach at Rice institute, demonstrated on backfield play to round out the first day's program at the school.

Tomorrow, the coaches will hear from the first of the producers of state school boy champions when Tom Dennis, whose Port Arthur Yellow Jackets won the football title last fall, appears on the lecture platform. Also, the first of a series of lectures on physical fitness in the service is scheduled tomorrow. Capt. Don Rossi and Sgt. Red Bale of Randolph Field will appear in behalf of the Army.

The annual business meeting of the coaches association is set for Thursday night when Bobby Cannon of Edinburg in line for promotion to the presidency succeeding Howard Lynch of Amarillo.

The Fort Worth, Corpus Christi and San Antonio bids for the 1946 school are being backed by chambers of commerce in those cities, Fort Worth and Corpus Christi having personal representation.

Women's Softball Playoffs Scheduled

In the sixth, four hits, including Outlaw's second double, a base on balls and an error sent four more runs across. Chicago's second run came on Lopat's double, followed by Wally Moses and Kerby Farrell.

Vern Williamson, classy right-hander, was credited with the whitewash job. He had able support from Herb Conyers, six-foot four-inch first sacker.

Conyers garnered the base hit in the sixth that scored the only two runs of the afternoon.

Baytown slapped Rapid Blue Print 4 to 2 in a second game to take second place in the last half of the race.

HANK WYSE

'Wyse' Pitching May Give Chicubs First Pennant Since 1938

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (AP)—Pitcher Henry Washington Wyse of the Chicago Cubs is too much a "Wyse" guy to suit National League batters.

And it's because Hank is moundclever far beyond his 27 years that he may bag his first 20-game season in four years with the Cubs and strong-arm the Bruins to their first pennant since 1938.

The king-pin of Charley Grimm's tossing brigade doesn't have blinding speed; he doesn't have a "Sunday pitch;" and he seldom tries for strikeouts.

Yet he passed the season's halfway mark with a 13-5 record and seven straight victories. Of his first 21 games, 15 were wins.

The reason is evident to anyone who has watched the effortless Wyse do his chores. His control is perfect and his "stuff" is constantly teasing.

Pace Is Success

"I think Hank's success lies mainly in his ability to pace himself down to the last batter," ventures Manager Grimm. "Most pitchers become just throwers late in a game just because they bear down too hard at the start. Wyse is strong, but he always conserves himself for the tough spots."

Wyse is content, observes Coach Red Smith, boss of the Cub bullpen, with simply putting a reverse spin to the batting formula of "hitting 'em where they ain't."

"Wyse may not have any dipsy-doodle-pitch like Dizzy Dean, but when his screw-ball is working, it's a corker."

Tommy Holmes Leads Senior Loop Hitters

NEW YORK, Aug. 6 (AP)—Tommy Holmes of Boston and Goody Rosen of Brooklyn engaged in a hand-to-hand struggle for the National batting lead as the Braves and Dodgers met in a five-game series with Holmes retaining first place by a three-point margin.

Four hits against Dodger pitching in Sunday's second game boosted Holmes' mark to .365 with Rosen holding second place at .362. All figures include Sunday's games.

BROWN'S PLAYER HURT

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 6. (AP) — Mark Christman, St. Louis Browns third baseman, suffered a brain concussion tonight when he was hit in the head by a fast ball thrown by pitcher Allie Reynolds of the Cleveland Indians. Dr. Robert Hyland, club physician, said Christman's condition is serious.

Softball is an outgrowth of indoor baseball, playground ball, kitten ball and diamond ball. It was first played in 1909.

ABC Gets 10-9 Win Over Jaycee Nine

American Business clubbers narrowly defeated the Junior Chamber of Commerce nine 10-9 Monday night to hold their undisputed lead in the American league, and remain undefeated in the second half.

Lester York worked on the mound for the winners, giving up 11 hits. His mates collected 8 base blows from the Jaycees' Morris Turner.

ABCs Take Lead

ABCers began in the first frame to take a safe lead. Strickland began the ball game with a sharp single. Two more hits, a sacrifice, two walks, and two errors were good for 4 runs.

JCC came back in their half of the first frame to push one tally across the plate. They added two more in the second stanza for a 4-3 count.

The two pitchers duelled until the fifth ABC then gathered two hits, a walk, and two errors for two runs. The Jaycees equalled the ABC nine with a pair in their half. Three runs went to each team again in the sixth for a 9-8 count, then the ABCers pushed a lone tally home in the seventh.

Scores In Seventh

Bass walked and Wallace singled to start the bottom half of the seventh. Ferguson hit to York and Bass was out at the plate. Dietering struck out. Wallace scored on a passed ball while Green was batting—York dropping the ball after tagging Wallace out. Green flied out to York to end the contest.

The line score:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| ABC | 400 023 1 | 10 | 8 |
| JCC | 120 023 1 | 9 | 11 |

York and Strickland; Turner and Keeling.

U. S. Army Team Wins London Track Meet

LONDON, Aug. 6. (AP) — Gunder Haegg and Arne Andersson, the flying Swedes, fell far short of world records today but thrilled a holiday crowd of 52,000 as they ran to easy victories in the two-mile and one-mile races at an Anglo-American track meet which the U. S. Army team won by a single point.

Haegg, who holds so many middle distance records that statisticians flinch at the mention of his name, won the two-mile run in 9:00.6 to establish a British record but the time was not too impressive against his world record of 8:42.8.

Anderson did the mile in 4:08.8, compared to his 4:01.6 which stood as a universal standard until July 17 when Haegg shaved two-tenths of a second off it to march closer to the long awaited four-minute mile.

The Americans got off to a slow start but finished strong in the field events to nose out the British Army, 107 points to 106. The British AAA was third with 98 points and the Royal Air force fourth with 94.

One-Armed Gridder Tries Out For Team

ATHENS, Ga., Aug. 6 (AP) — Chester Fletcher of Alabama City, Ala., although minus one arm, is making a strong bid for a guard slot on Georgia's football team this year.

Fletcher, who tips the scales at 170, already is rated good enough to get into action as a substitute and with some experience might break in as a starter, coaches say.

Atomic Bomb, Greatest Weapon Of All Times, Unloosed On Japs

the Far East."

This line appeared to hold dramatic possibilities for propaganda against the Japanese. They regard their Emperor Hirohito as a direct descendant of the Sun Goddess. Now they can be told that the very power of the sun itself is being turned to their destruction.

Following the announcement in Washington Prime Minister Atlee issued in London a similar statement which had been prepared by former Prime Minister Churchill before he left office.

"It is now for Japan to realize in the glare of the first atomic bomb which has smitten her," Chuchill said, "what the consequences will be of an indefinite continuance of this terrible means of maintaining a rule of law in the world."

Can't Tell All

President Truman, as he was nearing the American shores on the cruiser Augusta, homeward bound from the Potsdam conference, and Secretary Stimson worked together to tell all that can be told at this time of the revolutionary new weapon.

Still thick secrecy shrouds much of the atomic bomb work despite the intense excitement in the usually staid government offices, which attended today's startling announcement. Its size has not been revealed, beyond the statement that the size of the explosive is exceedingly small. Nor was it told how the atoms are stored for the moment of explosion.

Started Before War

The start of the project which the government secretly named "Manhattan project," goes back before the war.

For years scientists had experimented with "splitting the atom"—that is breaking off electrons from atoms to see what would happen. They realized that energy was released but also that it would take literally billions of atoms—perhaps massed into a shape the size of a pea—to release enough energy to have a terrific explosive effect.

"By 1939," Mr. Truman said in his statement, "it was accepted belief of scientists that it was theoretically possible to release atomic energy. But no one knew any practical method of doing it.

"By 1942, however, we knew that the Germans were working feverishly to find a way to add atomic energy to the other engines of war with which they hoped to enslave the world. But they failed."

Pooled Their Knowledge

In 1940, months before Pearl Harbor, the United States and Great Britain pooled their ultra-secret knowledge on atomic energy. It was this time also that they pooled their knowledge to promote another spectacular new weapon of this war—radar. Specific research on an atomic bomb was begun.

President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill agreed it should be concentrated in this country because of facilities and scientists available and because of the greater safety from enemy action. Two great plants and many lesser ones were built and are now in operation. The total cost with research and other items has been $2,000,000,000.

Two Plants Constructed

One of these plants was located at Oak Ridge, Tenn., in the mountainous TVA country. A whole new city was constructed where only a little rural community had stood. Today it has a population of 75,000. The plant is known as the Clinton Engineer works. It covers 59,000 acres.

Out in Washington state another "secret city" blossomed where once the little sagebrush hamlet of Richland had passed its tranquil days. In Washington state also approximately a half million acres were taken into the development. Richland is the residential center and plants sprawled in more than 15 other communities in the area, to comprise the Hanford Engineering works.

Near Santa Fe, N. M., a special laboratory was set up to handle technical problems. Stimson said this establishment is handled by Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer whose "genius and inspiration" were credited with having been largely responsible for development of the bomb.

Still Great Secret

What goes on in these plants and others is still one of America's greatest secrets. It took 125,000 persons to construct them and more than 65,000 are now employed in operating them—but only a handful have known what happens there.

President Truman put it this way:

"Many have worked there (in the plants) for two and a half years. Few know what they have been producing. They see great quantities of material going in and they see nothing coming out of these plants, for the physical size of the explosive is exceedingly small. We have spent $2,000,000,000 on the greatest scientific gamble in history—and won."

Scientists Given Credit

For this victory Mr. Truman gave credit to the scientists who put together "infinitely complex pieces of knowledge held by many men in different fields of science into a workable plan."

Some of them who worked on "Manhattan project" were named by Stimson. Originally the undertaking was in charge of Dr. Vannevar Bush, chief of the office of scientific research and development. Along with Bush, President Roosevelt named a policy committee of the then Vice President Wallace, Stimson, General George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff, and Dr. James D. Conant, president of Harvard university.

Work Expanded In 1942

It was at the suggestion of this group that, in 1942, the work was greatly expanded and Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves was placed in complete control. In 1943 the policy committee was expanded into an Anglo-American group with both United Kingdom and Canadian members.

Recently another group of policy controllers was set up under Secretary Stimson for the task of handling control of the weapon and its developments for peace as well as war.

Picture Not Released

Exactly what the bomb is remains one of the mysteries surrounding it. The Army considered releasing a picture of it today, but decided not to. The President let it be known that the explosive charge is "exceedingly small."

However, around that mighty center there may be quite a large bomb casing both to protect the explosive and also to house whatever machinery is needed to set it off.

Now it effects that damage is another unanswered question. When TNT explodes it blows the air away from it with great violence, creating a vacuum; then there is a backward rush of air which often wrecks what the outpushed air failed to get.

New Principle Involved?

This bomb may involve a completely different principle, however. In fact, it seems likely that it does because of the incredible power it is said to unleash. All that is known is that uranium, an unstable radio-active element enters into the manufacture of the explosive. Uranium is found chiefly in Canada and the Belgian Congo. There is a little in the United States, a bit also in Germany.

The development makes Canada and the Belgian Congo two of the more important areas in the world today.

Professor At Rice

War Department wanted to solve the problem of harnessing atomic power to help destroy the Axis. The problem was really about 100 problems in one, Doctor Wilson says.

Because he had been conducting experiments in atom-smashing at Rice for a couple of years, he drew a ticklish problem and brought it back to Houston as home work.

Solved In Six Months

There is a little green frame building on the Rice campus where the institute keeps it 2,000,000-volt atom buster. Here Doctor Wilson went to work, aided by Claude W. Heaps, also a professor of physics; William E. Bennett, chief instructor in physics, and H. T. Richards, a graduate student at the institute, now on duty at the laboratory of the New Mexico production center for the atom bombs.

"We solved the problem in about six months," Doctor Wilson says.

A telegram from the War department late today warned the professor against accidental disclosure of details on how the new bomb does it deadly work.

But, because he is a teacher, he can throw some light on the subject, despite restrictions.

Atoms Constantly Disintegrating

Uranium, which is essential to production of the new bomb, is the heaviest of the elements. Its atomic weight is 238; the atomic weight of hydrogen is 1.

"Uranium is also unstable," says Doctor Wilson. Its atoms are constantly disintergating, so that they last only about a million years under normal conditions."

What happens when an atom disintegrates?

Explained Like This

Doctor Wilson, a veteran atom-cracker, explains it this way: "Take a light metal, like lithium, and fire an atom of hydrogen at it inside a vacuum—such as the big vacuum we use at Rice. The atomic weight of lithium is 7; hydrogen, 1. When they combine under pressure of 2,000,000 volts inside the vacuum tube the combination breaks up into two atoms of helium, each with an atomic weight of 4. The result is being a big release of energy."

Now, obviously, the professor indicates, uranium, many times heavier than lithium, would release far more energy upon disintegration. But he does not say the atomic bomb employes uranium as the element comes to the laboratory. "First," he says, "it must be transferred into other substances."

It is these unnamed substances, which, in distintegration, give the atomic bomb its terrific explosive force.

"How to control that great release of energy was the main problem," Doctor Wilson says. 'Now that it is solved, it might be well to control the controls."

Uses Incalculable

Professor Thomas B. Brown of George Washington university, in Washington, wrote:

"It is not beyond the bounds of possibility that a process may sometime be discovered in which spontaneous release of nuclear energy (atomic energy) may continue to take place once it has been touched off and the possibilities for creation and destruction inherent in the invention of such a concentrated source of power are beyond the wildest dreams of the imagination."

Those who have worked closely with modern power but who know little of the atomic bomb as developed, say peacetime uses are presently incalculable.

Mahon In On Secret

knows, no other member of the House ever saw the plants.

Concealed In Appropriations

As a matter of fact, other than those named and the Speaker and the majority leader, no others in the House were even supposed to "know anything about the bomb."

So secret was the experiment, so horrific the possibilities of a slip, it was necessary even to "conceal in our own appropriation bills what we were working on." The project, Cong. Mahon said, was "disguised in name and so mixed up with other war-necessary items that no hint of the bomb came to light on the floor of Congress—or elsewhere."

Didn't Let Wives Know

Some of the precautions among members of the sub-committee to guard against suspicion of their comings and goings were "quite interesting. If we planned to meet, for instance, we'd go to the meeting place separately—and we'd not even let our wives know we were to attend a meeting in Washington. We'd say we had to be out of town."

Not quite concealing his excitement—he called it "interest"—the Congressman said:

"Let me read what has been announced—I don't know yet what can be released yet."

Tried To Read Story

And he tried to read the Evening Journal — jumping up at closely-spaced intervals to answer his secretary's, "There's a call from the capitol, on the line." Or, "Mrs. ——— is on the line. It's about that matter of . . ." A farm delegation was outside in an ante room.

"Well, General of the Army Marshall came to the sub-committee in the early days of the project. The committee had evidenced a little restlessness over the vast expenditures and we asked him if the experiments were proceeding satisfactorily and whether in his opinion further expenditures would be justified. The general said something that was, in substance, this:

"'Have faith and give us a little more time. I'll take the full responsibility for this.'

Gave Secret Interview

"That was almost two years ago, and the general left no doubt whatsoever of his belief that the project was progressing satisfactorily.

"Secretary of War Stimson, just prior to our flying to Knoxville, asked the group for a secret interview, and asked us to go to Tennessee and check progress of the project."

In Knoxville, the group dressed themselves in metalic shields and stood behind concrete bunkers 15 feet thick so as to avoid radioactive rays given off by what was to prove wartime's greatest discovery. It watched thousands of employes work in the sprawling plants that with their machinery cost well over a billion dollars, observed every stage of production and the final product.

Few Pounds Powerful

Cong. Mahon was informed that a few pounds of the element that energizes the bomb would kill every living being in a radius of two to three miles, if expectations were realized; that the bomb, bursting just above the earth, would send up a ball of flame and intense heat to 30,000 feet.

"That, of course, posed a problem of how to protect the airmen and plane dropping the bomb."

The "experiment" announced Monday was the "perfect one, inasmuch as it was tried out on the Japs themselves," the Congressman said "Our nation warned the Japs after Potsdam. In the face of the alternative laid down to them, they denied any intention to cease the war they'd begun. They evidenced no intention of heeding the threats of abysmal disruption promised them if they didn't listen to the offers of civilized nations.

Might Destroy Entire City

"It is a matter of general speculation, of course, whether the new weapon will produce a drastic, immediate change in the Japanese attitude.

"Our sub-committee was informed that the day might be near when only one bomb might be required to banish a Jap city, which would presuppose heavier energy loads per bomb."

Cong. Mahon said this nation and its allies had been vitally awake to the possibilities that the Germans, before the European phase of the war was concluded, might succeed in learning the secret of harnessing atomic power. It was known their scientists were working on formulas. The fight was directed into destroying every possible source of production and supply of materials needed for the experiments. He said many foreign scientists, some of whom had escaped Hitler's Germany and other Axis nations, had contributed to perfection of the atomic bomb.

"We also have sought to corner the market for uranium resources," he said. "Most of the element is found in the Belgium Congo and in Canada. The United States has gathered a greater stockpile of uranium producing ores than the rest of the world combined.

The Congressman had learned before the Evening Journal's call that the story had "broken." He received a telephone call from

Bomb Is Tested In New Mexico

periment occurred at 5:30 a. m. at a remote location on the Alamogordo, N. M., military reservation, 120 miles south of Albuquerque.

So terrific was the blast that the Associated Press in New Mexico and Arizona received numerous inquiries, some an airline distance of 250 miles from the blast scene, regarding an earthquake.

Reached Stratosphere Quickly

Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, head of the atomic bomb project for the War department, said the shock wave reached the observers about

HEARD GREAT BLAST

Mrs. Pebble Talley, 1510B Ave. M, was one of the thousands of persons who heard the great blast testing the firing of the first atomic bomb in New Mexico early on the morning of last July 16. Mrs. Talley was visiting a daughter, Mrs. J. R. Hext and her family, on the Hext ranch, 40 miles north of Reserve, N. M. at the time.

She recalled Monday that windows in the ranch house rattled and that later reports said it was an ammunition blast at Alamogordo, N. M. The Hext ranch is approximately 150 miles from Los Alamos, where the first atomic bomb was fired.

40 seconds after the flash of light, then came the sound itself.

"A massive cloud was formed which curved and billowed upward with tremendous power, reaching the substratosphere in about five minutes.

"Two supplementary explosions of minor effect other than the lighting occurred in the cloud shortly after the main explosion.

Whole Country Lighted Up

"The cloud traveled to a great height first in the form of a ball, then mushroomed, then changed into a long trailing chimney-shaped column and finally was sent in several directions by the variable winds."

Brig. Gen. Thomas F. Farrell, Groves' assistant, said the whole country was lighted by a searing light with an intensity many times that of the mid-day sun," he continued "it was golden, purple, violet, gray and blue. It lighted every peak, crevasse, and ridge of the nearby mountains with a clarity and beauty that cannot be described. . . .

To Bring Conclusion to War

Farrell expressed the belief the discovery would bring speedy conclusion of the war with Japan and predicted that it would prove to be "immeasurably more important than the discovery of electricity or any other great discoveries which have so affected our existence."

Other witnesses of the test were J. R. Oppenheimer, director of the atomic bomb laboratory here; Dr. Vannevar Bush, head of the office of Scientific Research and Development, and Dr. James B. Conant, president of Harvard university. The detonation was in charge of Dr. K. T. Brainbridge, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The several observation points were tied into the control by radio with 20 minutes to go. At "minus 45 seconds" a robot took over "the complicated mass of intricate mechanism."

New Science Started

States went to work. Japan may have done so too.

There are three kinds of uranium and the explosion occurred in the atoms of only one. The three are uranium 235, 238 and 234. The only known difference are in atomic weight. Only 235 exploded atomically. In one ton of commercial uranium there are 14 pounds of 235 and two ounces of 234.

It is easy to see how atomic power could be used to destroy most of mankind. In principle it is not yet easy to see how the earth could be destroyed.

The principle under which the earth ought to stay put is that what explodes one kind of atom does not necessarily explode any other kind, and there are 92 kinds. Uranium is a comparatively rare chemical element. The 235 variety is still more rare. If all the uranium was to blow up, it still would not be like to start the atomic fire that would disintegrate the rest of the earth.

CALIFORNIAN WINS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 6. (AP)—A one up victory was won by Capt. Matt Palacio of San Francisco over John Kraft of Denver in the 36-hole finals of the Broadmoor invitation golf tourney yesterday.

Maj. Gen. George Richards, budget officer for the War department saying the news had been given to the press. The Congressman had known for weeks the story might "break" at any moment.

ing six witnesses in the first 16 minutes of the trial:

Dr. Robert H. McCarty, physician and surgeon of Lubbock General hospital, who said Lamb's death was caused by a bullet that lodged in the body of the fifth lumbar vertebra of the spine; Mrs. Lamb, slight and frail widow who had married Lamb in 1939; Fred Yelvington, Lubbock Bus company garage employe who "thought I heard Bill (Lamb) holler, and I went over there and heard him say, 'I've been held up,' and I called the police"; W. A. Conner, another employe of the bus shop who said, "I heard four shots, and when I went over Lamb said, 'I'm gonna die'—the only words he spoke to me"; Joe Lowrimore, station owner, who also heard a shot and "heard Bill hollering and he told me a man and a woman had tried to rob him"; and M. N. King, who with another patrolman of police went to the station about 4 a. m. in response to a radio call of the police station.

King said he and Patrolman Bartley found a gun in the station, and pieces of a gunhandle from another pistol, also a black hat.

Before the morning was over, the following other state witnesses had been called: Aubrey Fawver, captain of city detectives; Bill Mabray, assistant chief of police and chief of detectives; W. S. Mash and C. T. Potts, farmers of near Slide; L. N. Bartley, police patrolmen; C. B. Leaird, whom Wright had admitted hijacking near Weatherford the day before the shooting here, and from whom Wright and his girl companion admitted taking an automobile that figured in the shooting here and an earlier hijacking of a gasoline station at Brownfield; H. B. Beaird, from whom Wright admits he bought one of the pistols used in the hijackings here and at Brownfield; W. A. Cross, employe of the bus company garage; Sheriff Grady Harrist; Dr. W. L. Baught, county health officer, and Joe H. Bryant, Lubbock theater owner who had witnessed Wright's signature of a lengthy confession.

Wright sitting beside a dignified man identified by court officials as his father, of Clyde, Texas, looked much different from his appearance early the morning of June 18, when he and Winnie McKeever Garner, 18, were arrested in Lynn county at conclusion of a four-county manhunt.

He and the girl had walked 25 miles after wrecking a car in which they had attempted flight. Both were sunburned and exhausted, dirty and otherwise unkempt. Wright had been drunk, and showed it. Neither had been allowed to sleep. Wright had a bad ear, suffered when Lamb whammed him with a pistol he'd taken from the girl.

The girl will go to trial Thursday, when another special venire is called. Both she and Wright admitted in signed statements they'd figured in the robbery and shooting.

Defense testimony was offered in the interest of mitigation of punishment. Dr. Baught had testified the accused could recognize the difference between right and wrong, and was capable of planning and carrying out a crime. But he described the man as a psychoneurotic and not accountable as a norman person.

The jury was composed of W. W. Snodgrass, T. F. Wood, Floyd Henry, Harold Munn, George Newton, Fred Blair, C. D. Yates, N. L. Goolsby, Vernon Lemon, Con Carraway, I. D. Kitchens and Jim Johnson.

Third Party May Result---Landon

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 6 (U.P.) — Victory of the Labor party in Britain will force President Truman either to "yield to the left-wing New Dealers" or see formation of a third party, Alf M. Landon predicted today.

The Republican spokesman declared also that Britain "has been unquestionably weakened." He said the British empire "is right on the verge of breaking up" just as did the Roman and Spanish empires and warned that the new Labor government's communal plans might be the straw to break the Lion's back.

No Middle-Ground Seen

"I don't think after this British election that the left-wing New Dealers will stand for any middle-ground position," the 1936 Republican presidential nominee said.

Landon emphasized however, that the establishment of a third party would not "necessarily mean the election of the Republican ticket."

"In 1948—if there is a third-party ticket—we may see the Democrats make a plea for Republican votes for Truman—and get them," he said.

American System Isolated

The Labor victory in Britain has "practically isolated" the American system of government to the Western hemisphere, the former governor of Kansas warned.

He said the pattern of world peace depended on whether the government headed by Prime Minister Clement Attlee was able to work amicably with Russia under a "hands-off" policy without sacrificing the goodwill of presently friendly rightist nations and the empire's welfare.

Landon said the world now would see "for the first time an attempt to apply the principles of Socialism—in a limited way—to a great democracy."

Nimrods Expected Cut In Duck 'Bag Limits'

CHICAGO, Aug. 6 (AP)—Midwest hunters generally accepted today as a "foregone conclusion" the tightening up in the daily bag limit decreed in 1945 waterfowl hunting regulations.

Recent surveys of the continent's duck population by the Fish and Wildlife service and other agencies had prepared the way for the Interior department's announcement Saturday that nimrods would have to be content this year with an aggregate of 10 ducks daily, five less than allowed in 1944.

Polo was played in Persia only a few hundred years after the birth of Christ, and is one of the world's most ancient games.

months as "a time of trial," Eisenhower told the German people they had it in their power to reduce the hardships by helping each other and by steady work.

He urged city populations to go out on to the farms to gather the hardest, prospects for which he said were good, and disclosed that American military transport had been made available "to help prevent losses of crops in the fields."

There would be no coal for heating houses, he said, and it therefore was essential that town dwellers gather their own wood from the forests. Regarding housing, the general said there was still time, before winter closed in, for the repair of damaged homes.

"Despite all the hardships," Eisenhower concluded, "you need not face the future without hope. You can redeem yourselves both at home and in the eyes of the world through your own efforts."

Smith personally disposed of 1,600 in 35 minutes in the business section of the townsite — which shows what a surprise it was to most of the workers that they were making the famed atomic bomb.

AFL Withdrawal From IFTU Is Predicted

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. (AP)—Withdrawal of the American Federation of Labor from the International Federation of Trade Unions was predicted tonight by AFL President William Green, probably foreshadowing complete dissolution of the IFTU.

The isolationist move is rooted in the AFL's displeasure at the British labor organization's desire to join hands with Soviet trades unionists and the CIO in this country.

The disclosure, made at a news conference here at the conclusion of today's opening session of the AFL executive council meetings, indicates also a widening of the breach with the British Trades Union congress, despite its ascendancy in the world picture as a result of the British Labor party's recent election victory.

A New Plan For Peace

General Arnold Rings The Bell

AMERICA'S future security may depend upon the maintenance of a strong air force, capable of inflicting instant, deadly blows at the heart of an aggressor anywhere in the world.

Gen. H. H. Arnold voiced this profound truth the other night, and added: "Surely we must face the fact that a true love of peace is not enough for decent peoples of the world to count upon. We must maintain the strength to enforce the pea."

In all of the millions of words that have been written and spoken about how to insure peace, there has been no clearer statement of the case.

There was a time in America when a large percentage of the population believed that peace could be achieved by preaching peace. They believed that if we threw our guns away and sunk our battleships, other nations would do the same. But their error was that of the preacher who sought to increase his congregation by continually berating those who attended services because so many stayed away to go fishing or golfing on Sunday. The people who should have heard his scolding were not there. The loyal attendants who were present did not need it.

In the case of the nations, those who should listen to the preachings of pacifism turn a deaf ear, while the non-aggressive nations are prepared as lambs for the slaughter by its propagandists.

We can expect these propagandists to center their fire immediately on Arnold's program, which lists these cardinal points:

1. A permanent and pre-eminent air force able to handle any eventuality that may arise.

2. A trained air personnel adequate for rapid expansion.

3. Adequate research and development so that our equipment will be the best in the world.

4. A strong aircraft industry to assure production in large quantities of planes for military purposes as needed.

5. Bases—strategic springboards from which we can operate effectively.

These are suggestions that should be made an immediate part of our pattern for future security. We should not permit them to become dimmed during the period of apathy that will follow our victory over Japan.

George Washington's words—"Preparedness is a nation's best defense" are in line with Arnold's words.

We almost forgot old George Washington's advice and had a "narrow squeak" this time. Let's not forget Arnold's.

Staggering Cost Of War

ABOUT the end of the first week in August, this war (German and Japanese) will have cost us $300,000,000,000.

Meanwhile, acting on the assumption that the war against Japan will roar on until next summer or longer, the government has planned a revised federal budget of $85,000,000,000 for the fiscal year 1946. During 1945, a record-breaking $100,000,000,000 was spent.

The national debt, meanwhile, is running up toward $270,000,000,000 and the rate of spending is declining slowly, due to the fact that we still have a huge military establishment to support.

By the end of this year, Business Week predicts, the annual rate of expenditure for munitions will be down by about $16,000,000,000; and by the end of March, 1946, the cut will be around $27,000,000,000.

But while we are concentrating on these billion-dollar figures, it will be well for us all to begin laying some of the weekly pay check aside for a rainy day—to use an old expression that doesn't mean in West Texas what it might mean in some parts of the country where rainy days are not desirable.

War costs will not end with the surrender of the Japs. Even after final demobilization starts, men must be paid, clothed and housed. And veterans' payments begin in earnest after the shooting stops.

The Case For Newspapers

ONE important fact emerged from the recent strike of newspaper deliverymen in New York City. It was: "There is no adequate substitute for newspapers."

Two cross-section surveys, which were made in New York by the Fact-Finders Associates during the strike, disclosed that the majority of New York citizens were convinced of this fact. The fact-finding organization cites figures to prove the correctness of its conclusion.

One survey was made from July 3 to July 5, when the strike was only a few days old. Interviewers, asking whether the radio was completely filling the need for news, got a negative answer from 76.6 per cent of those questioned. A second check, made July 11-12, revealed that the percentage had risen to 89.2. In other words, nine out of ten persons felt that radio was not satisfying his need for news.

Newspapers are especially valuable in war-time since they can be depended upon an accurate presentation of facts.

MY CO-PILOT GOES BATTY

XIV

When I returned to duty at Dinjan two new boys were assigned to my plane, a co-pilot named Hung and a radio operator named Li. They were smart boys, both of them, but on our third trip together I had one of the worst experiences of my flying career with Hung.

We were coming back from Kunming with a load of tin and the overcast was soup-thick all the way up to 24,000 feet. The plane I was given was an experimental model with special supercharged engines, designed to permit greater altitude than the DC-3's and C-47's whose ceiling was 24,500 feet.

At 25,000 feet we came out above the overcast. The temperature at that altitude was far below zero. The heater in the plane wasn't working very well, and an added disadvantage was that we had been using our oxygen almost constantly since leaving Kunming four hours before.

We were over the most dangerous part of the hills, about an hour out of Dinjan, with known peaks rising as high as 24,000 feet, when this boy Hung suddenly hollered, "Boohow! Boohow!" In Chinese that meant "No good!" I jerked around to see what was wrong. Hung immediately grabbed the controls and shot the plane down in a steep dive into the overcast. With a load of tin you just don't do things like that for fear of shifting the cargo, and anyway I couldn't see anything wrong. I reached out, knocking his hands fro the controls, righted the ship and started to club up again.

Everything was all right for about five minutes. Twice I asked Hung what the hell he was trying to do, but he didn't answer. He continued to stare directly ahead and kept his hands clenched in his lap. The overcast was climbing higher by then, we were going right into it, and I was busy with the instruments, checking our position against the known peaks in the vicinity. And when you're under oxygen for a long stretch you doublecheck those things because it's easy to get careless—woozy—the stuff is so much like a drug.

Without warning this time Hung grabbed the controls again. He really had a death grip on them, and he was heading us straight down into almost certain death. I had no alternative. I reached over pulled off his oxygen mask with my right hand, loosened my safety belt and came around in a roundhouse with my left, catching him squarely on the jaw. His head bobbed over on his shoulder, his hands relaxed on the controls, and I pulled out of the dive. I don't know how close we came to disaster because I couldn't see a hundred feet ahead of me. According to my charts we should have hit a 23,000 foot peak at that point, and I'm sure we must have missed it only a few seconds. In any event, I replaced the oxygen mask on Hung's limp face and we got back to 26,620 feet and made the crossing without further trouble.

We were down to about 7000 feet and within sight of Dinjan when Hung slowly roused himself and began to feel his chain.

"What the hell happened to you?" I demanded. I still felt I hadn't settled my score with him.

Hung looked at me, startled. "Nothing, Captain," he said. I—I'm all right."

"What was our highest altitude?" I asked him.

"Eighteen thousand, sir," he replied instantly.

"You don't remember going above 18,000?" I asked.

"No, sir. We haven't been above 18,000," Hung said.

"What are you rubbing your jaw for?"

"It's sore. I must have bumped it. I don't remember. . . . I don't know when . . ."

Hung was too good a boy to do what he had done unless he was out of his head, and by the time we landed I could make a pretty good guess as to the cause of his conduct. To some extent it was typical of the Chinese, even the smart ones like Hung. Little details irk them; they aren't naturally scientific in their thinking or in their conduct; and if they can't see the immediate value of a procedure or a policy they are likely to figure it is unimportant. That may not be true of all Chinese, but it is definitely true of the ones I have known. It was true of Hung.

"Let's see your mask," I said to him as soon as we stepped out of the plane at Dinjan.

He handed it to me and I tilted it. A good half-ounce of water ran out into my hand. I shook the water from my palm and handed the mask back to him.

"If that ever happens again, Hung," I said, "I'm going to report you."

The most dangerous mistake a person can make who is dependent on an oxygen mask is to let the condensed moisture from his breath remain in the mask after using it. The orders are specific in that regard: you drain your mask and dry it every time you use it. Hung had failed to do so, and in the intense cold above 18,000 feet a little clot of ice had formed in the tube, almost completely blocking off his oxygen supply. Most people would have fainted under such circumstances; Hung had gone batty instead.

Looking At Life ----- By Erich Brandeis

A married couple we know came East about a year ago from the Middle West where both of them were born and raised.

He is about forty and she is in the early thirties.

They have no children.

A few days ago they came to visit us, and both complained that they were lonesome for their friends at home.

BRANDEIS

Both are nice people — educated, interesting, intelligent.

He is in a business where he meets lots of people and she is active in Red Cross and in social work.

"Haven't you made new friends here in the East?" I asked them.

"Oh, we have many acquaintances, but friends—" she replied, and then she stopped. Then she went on:

"Friends, I guess are not so easy to find. They sort of seem to grow up with you."

And I really think she is right.

Friendship is a very much abused word.

How many friends have you and I such as Francis Bacon defined them?

"You may take sarza to open the liver," he wrote in one of his essays, "steel to open the spleen; flowers of sulphur for the lungs; castoreum for the brain; but no receipt openeth the heart but a true friend, to whom you may impart griefs, joys, fears, hopes, suspicions, counsels, and whatsoever lieth upon the heart to oppress it, in a kind of a civil shrift of confession."

That, I think is a good definition.

Acquaintances — of which each of us has many—are like sarza, steel, sulphur and castoreum. Each may be good for one particular thing — for sport, for entertainment, for cards, for gossip, for dinner.

But friendship is one of the rarest and most valuable possessions any human being can possibly have.

WITH all the hundreds of acquaintances I have I can think of only three real friends I have had in all my life.

And with each of the three the friendship began many years ago and has lasted and grown through the years.

We have played together and suffered together. We have had common hopes and ambitions, we have planned and achieved and been disappointed together.

And even when our plans and achievements and disappointments were separate to each of us, yet we shared them because we were friends and each one's joys and pains were the other one's as well.

No wonder those people are lonesome for friends.

For no one can acquire, in one year or in two or three that most beautiful of all the characteristics of friendship—memories.

Political Trend Shifts

Leftwingers Lean From Truman

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

THE POLITICAL house which Franklin Roosevelt built threatens to fall apart less than four months after the death of the architect. Although its eventual disintegration had been anticipated by keen and practical politicos, including President Truman, its swift breakup has been a matter of concern to the White House family and to Democrats on Capitol Hill.

Three powerful voting groups whose support helped to elect FDR to four Presidential helpings have indicated that they are not satisfied with the new administration or with the behavior of its leaders throughout the country. They are the Communists and ultra-New Dealish liberals, the negroes, and the low income class electorate who regarded the former Chief Executive as their savior.

TUCKER

The "Commies" shift was expected. They plumped for FDR only for selfish reasons, and they would have quit him had he lived as soon as Germany was defeated. They look upon Mr. Truman as a "conservative," and he cannot expect many votes from that quarter in 1948.

The negro leaders are disgusted with the brush-off they have suffered from Democratic bosses on Capitol Hill. They may return to their historic party homestead — the GOP—in 1946 and 1948.

As an offset to these prospective desertions, however, Mr. Truman may have the backing of numerous conservative groups who usually vote under the emblem of the elephant, and certainly opposed FDR. All private and public polls indicate that the so-called "chamber of commerce" voter approves his policies, his appointments and his general conduct of public affairs.

CLASH: President Truman is not getting along so well with the Army High Command, although their differences do not concern great questions of war or state. But he has rebuked and repudiated the military chieftains twice in the short time that he has sat in the White House.

He took issue with Chief of Staff George Marshall and his personal Chief of Staff, Admiral William D. Leahy, on the question of compulsory military service after the close of the conflict. His Army and Navy spokesmen had testified in favor of this plan before Congressional committees.

But he disagreed with them flatly, and although he did not specify his national defense program, it is understood that he favors a modernized and streamlined National Guard. The men now heading that organization are his cronies, and he takes their advice on this subject.

High War department officials have been working on a plan to send to Germany the wives and fiancees of soldiers, both officers and privates, who may be stationed there for several years as members of the Army of Occupation. They had understood that the President favored the scheme, which has both advantages and disadvantages.

But in his recent Potsdam pronouncement Mr. Truman killed the idea. It is possible that his tour of ruined Germany convinced him that the project was impractical. Anyway, it marks the second time that he has reversed the policies of the brass hats — something FDR rarely did.

WINNING THE WAR
By Albert Leman

SHOULD the Japanese war fold up suddenly, the newly reconstituted Communist party may wield far greater influence than its size warrants.

Washington has procrastinated and so far has done little to prepare for sudden reconversion with its inevitable cutbacks, unemployment and capital-labor rows.

Resulting confusion would be "duck soup" for the "Commies." It would give those labor unions. This opportunity is one of the chief reasons why they kicked out Earl Browder at their secret national convention in New York last week and installed rip-snorting Marxists as their new bosses.

LEMAN

An inkling of their program is found in their "Big Four" Secretariat; William Z. Foster, who began fighting capital in a street car strike in 1894, Eugene Dennis, John Williamson and Robert Thompson.

The first three are old-time labor and Communist agitators. Thompson is a veteran of World War II, the winner of a medal for valor in the Pacific, and leader of the Communist Youth Movement.

They're out to corral the regular "travelers," the younger generation and returning soldiers.

LABOR: Any doubt as to where they stand is dispelled by the following excerpt from their new constitution; they are for: "Common ownership and operation of the national economy under a government of the people led by the working class"— a position far to the left of any responsible Republican or Democratic leader.

The technique which they will use, especially in the coming reconversion turmoil, is based on a quotation from their patron saint Lenin, "You must try to take the enemy by surprise and seize the moment when his forces are scattered."

Foster and his smart associates have no illusions about rolling up a majority at the polls or even in union elections. But they do believe that the more bad blood that they can stir up, the better their chances to muscle in.

Seasoned experts think that the militant wing now in control of the Communist party will be anti-Truman. In New York City Sidney Hillman's PAC already is torn by internal dissension fostered by the "Commies." Ed Flynn's political machine also is split wide open.

The Reds hope to spread disunion in other cities. In close Congressional districts their campaigning and their ballots may tip the balance, hence many tight-rope walking representatives will kowtow to the Reds between now and 1946.

STRUGLE: Foster's mouthpieces are shouting the ancient shibboleths of class struggle.

They will employ these catch phrases to the limit in war industry centers as factories shut down and in civilian manufacturing areas as reconversion begins. They already are touching off bonfires in New York, Detroit, Cleveland and Los Angeles.

One of their techniques in boring from within unions is to champion every possible labor demand for higher wages and better working conditions and to magnify grievances.

This gives the gullible the impression that their own duly chosen union chiefs are falling down on the job and that only "Commies" really fight for the workers. As part of this program a revival of Communist clubs, unemployed leagues and other auxiliary union groups can be looked for.

Business men sometimes erroneously assume that their local Reds are merely rabble. Their numbers throughout the nation are small but they compensate for this by aggressiveness and organization skill.

AGITATORS: The movement is commanded by a small group of shrewd agitators with plenty of money from members and wealthy "angels."

It prints tons of literature compiled by collage trained economists which furnish organizers with arguments that appeal to workers in fear of losing their jobs.

Its press and pamphlets revive class hate by harping on the "spy systems, gunmen, blacklists and organized terrorism" which they accuse big business of using to break labor.

They never miss a chance to publish the war swollen incomes of corporations and investors, as taken from government records. They intrigue against more conservative union officials, especially those in the AFL Executive council.

"Possibly there is life on Mars, but, if so, it isn't worth living," says an astronomer. Conditions seem to be about the same throughout this neck of the universe.

"Ideological Warfare" Breaks Out Anew

Theorists Busy As Bees Again

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Here in Washington, as elsewhere in the country, what was once popularly called "ideological warfare" has broken out again, with name-calling, phrase-making, slogans and all the frills and furbelows.

It is only natural. It went on all during the Roosevelt administration until the war. It was only postponed by the war. For the complicated problems of modern society which provoke it are still with us, we discover, as the clouds of war began to lift. The New Deal didn't solve them. It only allevated some of them.

"Ideological warfare" is a mouth-filler. But all it means for current purposes is the conflict between advocates of various philosophies of government. They disagree on how we should deal with such essentials as providing jobs, homes, protection of savings and security in old age.

A number of surface signs bear witness to the renewal and sharpening of the conflict. For one thing, the American wing of Communism has pitched out Earl Browder, the apostle of cooperation with the Roosevelt administration after war broke out—much to the New Deal's embarrassment in the last election. The party has returned to its old policy of aggressive infiltration for world revolution. "Communism" again offers a convenient target.

Laski For Felix

For another, the victory of the British Labor party, with what it might mean in fundamental changes in the approach of government to economic and social problems has aroused controversy here like nothing that has happened since the New Deal assumed power.

Harold J. Laski, the philosopher of change in England, has come to occupy a position similar to that which Felix Frankfurter's enemies carved out for him here during the New Deal hey-day.

Mr. Frankfurter is no longer a devil to be pilloried in Congress or at the club bar. Elevated to the sanctity, responsibility and obscurity of the Supreme court, he seems to have been tamed, and is usually ranked now among the Conservatives on the high bench.

BUT there'll probably be raised up another symbol to replace him in the confusing times ahead.

Perhaps that figure will emerge from the still active but less influential New Dealers who have remained here. They are growing restless under what they consider the conservatism of the Truman administration. This is another sign of the times, and no doubt will raise up a champion. Perhaps Henry Wallace will do to fill this role.

The atmosphere about this city, particularly since the British election furnished a text, the talking, pondering and planning, is reminiscent of the early New Deal.

Then there foregathered here a multitude of bright and earnest men, young and old, who sat up until all hours "remaking the world." The top places have been nearly swept clean of the New Deal element. But many remain in the lower levels where ideas are discussed if not always put into effect, and they are talking again.

Theories Abound Again

As in the early New Deal days, the bookstore counters are piled high with books designed to solve postwar problems, just as they were filled a dozen years ago with books that offered solutions for the depression. They are ephemeral works, but provocative.

The reason that the "ideological warfare" has broken out again is because, basically, we are again faced with virtually the same problem. Then we wanted to get jobs for people. Unemployment was the problem. Now we want to be sure there will be enough jobs for people when the war is over and the armies are turned loose.

THE unemployment of the depression—which we never did cure or solve—until the war came along to do it for us temporarily—is being discussed again, used as an example of what we must avoid. Over and over it was used in the hearings recently on the "full employment" bill.

Sen. Joe O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.), one of the bill's sponsors, could now mention safely that there were still 9,000,000 unemployed in 1940, just before the war, though Democrats resented it very much when Tom Dewey mentioned it in the campaign last year.

From now on you may expect to hear the words "Communist" and "Fascist" and "Tory" bandied about freely.

But don't expect that to solve the problem. It didn't before.

Vet Finds Fiancee Working In Hospital

FAIRFIELD, Calif., Aug. 6. (AP)—The Air Transport command unwittingly provided a little extra service for an ailing Pacific veteran, Sgt. Wallace Potter, Dallas, Tex., in the form of a reunion and marriage with WAC Pvt. Betty Lee Gamble, Kankakee, Ill.

Potter, veteran of the Admiralty islands and Philippine invasions, was evacuated by plane. When he walked into his hospital ward here he found his fiancee working as a surgical technician.

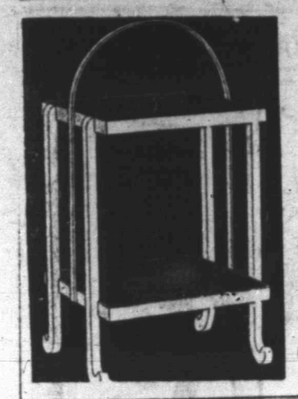

They were married at the ATC air base last Saturday afternoon. They will honeymoon at Potter's Texas home when he is granted a 30-day convalescent leave.

Steam is conducted through large pipes from volcanoes to industrial plants in nearby cities in Italy.

Atomic Bomb Not Expected To Alter Attitude Of Jap Leaders

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 6.—Japan's immediate response to the atomic bomb, if anything, is likely to be a snarling "so what?"

With its closely controlled public and channels of information, the Tokyo war machine is unlikely to say much which would give the Allies any hint of the real effect of this terrible new weapon, the implications of which must be as clear to Japanese leaders as they are to the American public.

WHITE

One bomb has been dropped on Hiroshima, a big Army quartermaster base on the inland sea on which Honshu. It is possible, on the basis of early reports, that nothing much is left of this city of 318,000 people today.

It is also possible that few if any eyewitnesses are left in the vicinity of this town.

People May Not Know

Bn now the Japanese must be practiced in the art of isolating such scenes of disaster and allowing only such details to get out to the Japanese public as suits their purposes.

Consequently it may be that the Japanese public will not hear of the bomb's real effect, or get anything like an accurate picture of the damage it does, until the Army air force is able to drop enough leaflets — and enough more bombs —to tell them.

Many Japanese have varying degrees of training in physics and chemistry, but it remains to be seen whether this training, directed toward giving them necessary technical ability without stimulating their creative imagination, will let the word "atomic" sound in their minds the knell of doom it actually carries for those attuned to hear it.

Doesn't Alter Position

As for the Japanese militarists and other leaders who are running the war, they already know it is lost in the long run, and this new development does not necessarily alter their fundamental position — that they can drag the war out and thereby gain a more favorable peace.

It is of course possible that they will be able to bring themselves to say: "This is too much; we planned a war with existing weapons. This weapon is more than any race — even the divine Japanese —could stand up under."

But each succeeding blow has failed to bring from Japanese leaders anything but further expressions of defiance and the charge that the new disasters were staged as propaganda stunts.

Until the word gets around from Japanese to Japanese, Tokyo is likely to try to gloss it over, and call history's most terrible discovery — the harnessing of the atom —just another propaganda stunt.

Tech Research Is To Be Expanded

Expansion and enlargement of the cotton fiber and spinning research project, now being carried on at Texas Tech, was provided for by members of the Texas Cotton Research committee when they met Saturday in Abilene to out line plans for next year's work, according to Dr. W. M. Whyburn, Tech president and a member of the committee.

The committee, comprised of John Leahy of College Station, director; Gibb Gilchrist of Texas A. & M., T. S. Painter, acting Texas university head, and Dr. Whyburn of Tech, adapted a tentative budget for the three cotton projects now being conducted at their schools. Policies and principles guiding the committee were adapted, management of details were discussed and delegation of authority to the committee was granted.

Gilchrist Named Chairman

Gilchrist was elected chairman of the committee.

Under the new budget adapted by the committee, Tech's expanded cotton research project will get under way Sept. 1, Dr. Whyburn said. Research work will be directed toward perfecting a scientific method of determining cotton spinning quality, with a view of employing such methods as supplementary to grade and staple for guidance in selecting cottons for specific uses. George W. Pfeiffenberger, cotton research supervisor of the Chicopee company which is furnishing the research staff and operational expenses of the project, is directing cotton fibers and spinning investigations.

Synthetics Threat Cited

John Leahy of College Station, director of the committee, who met with the other committee members, told them" The cotton industry can not sit idly by in the face of developing synthetics fiber industry and expect to maintain its competitive position without the use of applied energy."

He explained that synthetics pose an apparent threat to cotton fiber utilization, but that cotton agriculture can and should complement the synthetics industry. Members of the cotton committee were also told by Leahy that cotton agriculture has the capacity to contribute as much in the form of benefits to the synthetics industry as the synthetics industry has the capacity to contribute benefits to the well-being of cotton.

Experimental work with cotton seed is done at A. & M. while fiber work is done at Tech; and the University of Texas studies the marketing and business angle.

Dr. Whyburn, who will be in Austin Thursday for another meeting in connection with cotton research, said the committee will hold regularly scheduled meetings in Abilene or Brownwood.

Noose Tightened On Yamashita's Hideout

MANILA, Aug. 6 (AP)—Desperately counterattacking Japanese were beaten back as they thrust vanily against the tightening Filipino-American noose around Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita's last hideout on Luzon, General MacArthur reported today.

The 32nd Division meanwhile offered a premium—a 45-day furlough in the United States—for the capture of "any live Japanese general." Yamashita, whose title has faded from "Tiger of Malaya" to "the Gopher of Luzon," is still alive and leading his troops' last-ditch fight in the rugged mountains north of Baguio, some Filipinos insist.

MacArthur's communique reported 4,740 Japanese dead were counted and 444 prisoners captured in the last week raising total enemy losses in the Philippines campaign to 443,012. American losses for the week: 27 dead, 61 wounded.

Two squads of the still-battling Japanese counterattacked Saturday northwest of Kiangan, only a few miles from Yamashita's last known hideout. They were driven back, but still are sheltered by a well-prepared trench system and are using mortar and light artillery fire. Smaller counterattacks were reported farther south near Mayayao against Filipino units.

Hawaii Mars Sinks In Landing Attempt

ROCK HALL, Md., Aug. 6 (AP)—The 72½-ton Hawaii Mars, largest flying boat ever to take the air, split her hull and sank in Chesapeake bay yesterday — two weeks after her formal launching — after "roughness" which developed during special engineering tests forced her pilot to land.

Flight Test Engineer R. S. Noble, the only member of the 10-man crew injured was discharged today from a Baltimore hospital where he was treated for cuts and bruises.

Meanwhile, Navy officials stationed at the Glenn L. Martin company plant, where 20 of the big cargo carriers are being built for the Navy, made preparations for salvaging the ship and returning it to the Martin plant.

The Hawaii Mars, capable of carrying 138 passengers, had completed only 12 hours of a scheduled 102 hours of testing, the Martin company reported at Baltimore.

One man who was aboard the ship said the upper section of the plane's vertical tail fin broke away at the 6,000-foot altitude and that the ship "began to flutter immediately and went out of control."

Mahon Urges Progress In Religion As Well

"The Place of the Church in the Postwar World" was the subject of a talk by Cong. George Mahon at the First Methodist church Sunday night in which he said "the church of the postwar world must be well flavored with Christianity or it will be saturated with bitterness, despair and disappointments."

Decrying the prewar church as one that embraced the ideas of negation and doctrine of aggression, Mahon pointed out that the church of the future must be one that endorses a religion of progress, concerned not so much with punishment of evil as with methods of providing security and opening highways of hope and promise; in short to make the people happy.

"The church must be world-minded," he continued, "the leader in showing that men must be as heroic in peace as they are in war. The church must consist of sturdy people who have a well grounded philosophy based on the teachings of Jesus concerning the universality of mankind. We must recognize the way to keep America out of future wars is to keep the world out of them; that only through cooperation of nations can peace be secured; that a few planners and long-haired philosophers cannot do it and that a declaration of peace can be meaningless unless it has a heart put there by the church."
