Nixon's Lawyer Playing Down Giant Differences In Transcripts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's lawyer is playing down differences between the White House account of Watergate and newly released House Judiciary Committee transcripts that quote the President as telling aides to cover up the scandal from Senate investigators.

"I don't believe the relationship with the Senate Select Committee was necessarily relevant" to the impeachment inquiry, said presidential lawyer James D. St. Clair when asked Tuesday why a long passage dealing with the Senate Watergate committee was omitted from the White House transcript of a March 22, 1973, conversation.

THEY DID

"We furnished the tape to the (House) committee, so if they felt it was relevant they could publish it, which they did," he said.

As for other differences between the White House and committee transcripts of eight presidential Watergate conversations, he added:

"My experience has been that if you have three people listen to a tape, you get three variations."

John Doar, chief counsel for the impeachment inquiry, said his staff utilized the latest sophisticated electronic equipment in preparing the transcripts and they represented "the best job we can do."

After a full day of listening to testimony in closed session, few members had any comments on the staff study.

WRONG WORDS

Rep. Lawrence Hogan, R-Md., said, "You've got to listen to the tapes. It's still a matter of opinion who said what."

Hogan said he was certain there were errors in the committee transcripts but that he thought they were more accurate than the White House versions.

"There are places where the person transcribing heard the wrong word," Hogan said of the committee transcripts. But he declined to cite an example.

Committee members heard the tapes in closed evidentiary sessions in May, but they didn't get the staff comparison with the White House transcripts until Tuesday, the day it was made public.

In the March 22 passage omitted from the White House transcripts, Nixon is quoted in the committee version as telling aides "I don't give a shit what happens. I want you all to stonewall it, let them plead the Fifth Amendment, cover-up or anything else," if called before the Senate Watergate committee.

LESS DRAMATIC

Other differences were less dramatic. It often was unclear whether they represented anything more than simple differences in what transcribers heard.

For example, earlier in the March 22 conversation, there was discussion of the possibility of White House aides citing executive privilege as the basis for refusing to testify before the Watergate committee.

The White House version quoted Nixon as saying former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was arguing that "now we use

The World At-A-Glance

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Marcus Wayne Chenault has been indicted on two murder charges in the shooting deaths at Atlanta's Ebenezer Baptist Church of Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. and Deacon Edward Boykin. A Fulton County grand jury also indicted the 23-year-old former Ohio State University student Tuesday on counts of aggravated assault, carrying a pistol without a license and carrying a concealed weapon. The indictments came after Superior Court Judge Sam Phillips McKenzie ordered Chenault to undergo psychiatric examinations to determine whether he is mentally competent to stand trial.

Sinatra Calls Press Hookers, 'Parasites'

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Frank Sinatra called off his Australian tour Wednesday night after two trade unions demanded he apologize for on-stage remarks about the Australian press.

The cancellation followed a furor caused by Sinatra's remarks at a Melbourne concert Tuesday in which he said women journalists were "hookers" and "broads" and male newsmen were "parasites" who had never done an honest day's work in their lives.

Two unions demanded an apology from Sinatra, but he refused, and in turn demanded that the press apologize to him for the treatment he has received.

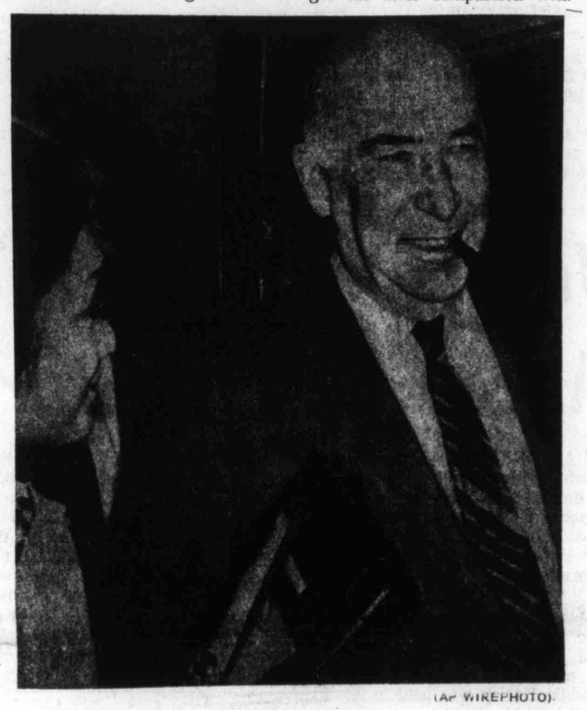

A 90-minute meeting between Sinatra tour promoters and the unions involved ended in stalemate and Sinatra flew out of Melbourne Wednesday night in his private jet, airport officials said.

But the Transport Workers Union said it would support the other unions and refuse to refuel Sinatra's plane when it lands in Sydney, about 600 miles away.

Sinatra wowed the critics and the audience with his first concert in Australia in 15 years, but a leader of the ruling Labor party blasted the special treatment given the star by the government.

"Who the hell does he think he is?" said Neville Wran, the Labor party leader in the state of New South Wales, after watching televised news shots of the singer shoving a TV reporter aside and swearing at him.

Wran criticized the use of uniformed state police as security escorts for the singer and said he was being "lightly passed over by customs officers at airports and allowed to drive at high speeds in areas that are normally restricted to authorized persons.

Quiz Kissinger For 90 Seconds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger testified for 90 seconds in the plumbers trial today and said he never requested that a psychological profile be prepared on Daniel Ellsberg in 1971.

THREE QUESTIONS

Kissinger answered only three questions, one from an attorney for John D. Ehrlichman, the others from an assistant special Watergate prosecutor.

Ehrlichman's attorneys subpoenaed Kissinger in an attempt to shake the credibility of a key prosecution witness, David R. Young, who worked separately in the White House for both Kissinger and Ehrlichman.

A CIA official had testified that Young told him in August 1971 that both Kissinger and Ehrlichman had requested that the agency prepare a psychological study of Ellsberg, who had two months before leaked the Pentagon Papers study of the Vietnam war to the news media.

Ehrlichman's attorney, William Frates, asked Kissinger, "On or prior to Aug. 12, 1971, did you authorize David Young to directly or indirectly obtain a psychological profile on Daniel Ellsberg from the CIA?"

Kissinger replied: "I did not."

The defense said it had no more questions. Assistant prosecutor Philip Bakes asked if Kissinger knew whether such a study was in the works, or if he knew of any plan to gather psychological information about Ellsberg.

NO KNOWLEDGE

To both questions, Kissinger answered, "I had no such knowledge."

Kissinger in 1971 was Nixon's chief national security advisor.

Kissinger was the final witness in the trial, now in its 10th day.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said defense and prosecution attorneys will present final arguments Thursday. Gesell plans to issue final instructions to the jury of six men and six women Friday.

In anticipation of Kissinger's appearance, hundreds of persons had lined up outside the courthouse and the courtroom itself. Kissinger was just back from Europe were he consulted with NATO allies about President Nixon's Moscow trip.

Ellsberg leaked the Pentagon Papers study of the Vietnam war to The New York Times in June 1971, an incident that led to creation of the plumbers, a special White House investigative unit of which Young was codirector.

Young testified last week in exchange for immunity from prosecution.

The plumbers planned and carried out the Sept. 3, 1971, break-in at the Beverly Hills, Calif., office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis J. Fielding, in an unsuccessful search for Ellsberg's psychiatric records.

Attorney Claims Vote Was Counted

The misplaced ballot, which visiting District Judge Weldon Kirk ordered counted, tying the race for the Democratic nomination for district clerk, already had been counted once, a brief filed with the 11th Court of Civil Appeals, Eastland, claims.

William L. Kerr Sr., the Midland attorney representing Mrs. Peggy Crittenden, based this allegation on the testimony of Bob Dean, absentee box election judge. Dean had said all the absentee ballots were counted.

Also, the brief states the election contest petition was filed with 118th District Court too late, according to state law.

Jones and Milstead, attorneys for M. Fern Cox, incumbent district clerk, must file a brief with the appellate court within 25 days after the trial in 118th District Court.

The appellate court is expected to take some action on the case July 19.

Mrs. Crittenden defeated Cox by one vote, according to both the canvass by the Democratic Executive Committee and later recount. After the recount, a ballot was found among absentee ballot applications in the county clerk's office.

Roloff Scores Court Victory

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court today rejected Atty. Gen. John Hill's plea that it reconsider its decision that radio evangelist Lester Roloff can operate homes for wayward teen-agers without obtaining a state license.

The action made final the high court's May 29 decision.

Hill had contended the ruling put 16-and 17-year-olds in "a legal limbo" in which they could not be protected by the state from "even the most severe mistreatment or grossest neglect."

In its decision—which was not made on religious grounds—the high court said there was no clearcut definition of "children" in the state law requiring child-caring institutions to be licensed. It said it felt constrained to follow the State Welfare Department's long-standing inerpretation that institutions caring for children 16 and older need not be licensed.

No new opinion was issued on the decision to overrule Hill's motion for a rehearing.

Dawson Loses Gordon Harris

LAMESA — Gordon Harris, assistant county agent at Dawson County, has accepted the position of county agent in Yoakum County.

Harris, who has been in Lamesa for three years, will go to Yoakum in South Texas on Sept. 1. Harris has been very active in all 4-H projects in Dawson County and especially the annual county fair.

Dawson County commissioners were notified of this development at their meeting Monday by County Agent Lee Roy Colgan and District Agent Bill Gunter.

In other action, the court heard a request for additional funds for the day care center, but took no action. They approved authorization for a city-county Texas disaster act of 1973 which allows them to purchase surplus equipment.

In other action, the court set boundaries of election precincts which showed no changes and also appointed election judges for the coming year.

Hunt Escapee

SUGAR LAND, Tex. (AP) — Authorities searched today for Alvine Higgins, 24, who escaped from the Texas Department of Corrections Unit near here.

A unit spokesman said Higgins, serving an eight-year burglary sentence from Brazoria County, was assigned as a trusty at the unit's bachelor officers' quarters and apparently walked away from the prison early Tuesday.

Ex-Mayor Is Death Victim

STANTON — Guy Waters Alsup, 79, a former mayor here and former school trustee, died Tuesday at Martin County Hospital after a lengthy illness.

Services will be at 3 p.m. Thursday at the First United Methodist Church, Stanton, with the Rev. F. L. Dunn, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Alsup married the former Emma Katherine Hayes on Nov. 30, 1923, in Midlothian.

Survivors include his wife, Stanton; one daughter, Mrs. Betty Ree Givens, Littleton, Colo.; and two grandchildren.

Herald To Shortly Change Over To Offset Printing

The Big Spring Herald has started remodeling its plant as the first step toward conversion to an offset printing process.

"We feel that this will speed our production, improve the appearance of our printing and pictures, and help us generally to better serve our area," said W. S. (Dub) Pearson, publisher.

Heart of the change-over is a new 28-page Goss Community press with a balloon former which will accomodate expanded use of color; including process (full) color.

Among other items being added are two Compu-2 typesetters and a pair of Compu 7200 units to provide display and larger headline type; a camera room and plate-making department, plus make-up stations.

These will replace the hot-metal letter press equipment now in use, plus the conventional (letter) press.

Delivery of the press is scheduled in the last half of July, and the target date for the change-over is around Sept. 1.

"We will be working around the installation of the new equipment," added Pearson, "and this will present many problems. We ask our readers to bear with us during this period of converting to the offset method."

Dick Borghi, San Antonio, director of systems and engineering for Harte-Hanks, Newspapers Inc., of which the Herald is a member, designed the changes and the new production facilities. He also will supervise their start-up.

The change-over is in keeping with the Harte-Hanks policy of updating equipment and operational methods for better service, Pearson noted. And since it represents a heavy investment of capital, it also reflects the confidence of the major newspaper group in the future of Big Spring and this part of West Texas.

In the letterpress process, by which the Herald has been produced, molten metal is used to mould type and engraved plates which are inked and then pressed against paper to produce your newspaper. In the offset process, type is produced photographically (and far more rapidly) and then assembled with pictures to form a single, fine-screen plate which thansfers its ink to a roller that makes a lighter, smoother, and higher-fidelity production.

The expansion will also involve considerable remodeling to the interior of the Herald, providing additional working and service space.

Lift Oil Embargo In Netherlands

CAIRO (AP) — Arab oil ministers lifted their nine-month-old embargo against the Netherlands today, and the Dutch port city of Rotterdam hoisted the flag over City Hall in jubilation.

"Apart from the favorable aspects it has for the Netherlands economy, the Dutch government wants to stress that this decision will stimulate the development of good relations between Holland and the Arab world, as the Netherlands has always wanted," the Dutch Foreign Ministry said.

After the oil ministers lifted the embargo they approved forming an Arab corporation with assets of $1.1 billion. The location of the corporation and the number of shares each country would hold will be discussed later, a spokesman said.

The ministers then turned to plans to invest $500 million of their vast new wealth in industrial projects, including a petroleum service company to prospect and develop oil fields, a role largely held now by the big Western companies.

Two Big Spring Children Found Under Overpass

A San Antonio police officer found two preschool-age children from Big Spring abandoned under an overpass by railroad tracks Tuesday morning, a juvenile officer there said.

Delores Marie Rios, 2, and Ronnie Rios, 5, were reported in good condition. On June 29, the children of Mrs. Mary Rios were driven from Comanche Trail Park in their mother's car by a teenage girl, Sheriff A. N. Standard said.

Riding in the 1965 model car, the two children, the girl and four other juveniles went to San Antonio, Standard said. Tony Cantu, 13, was found in San Antonio Tuesday and Marcos Mendez, 13, Coahoma, arrived home after hitchhiking Friday.

The group had been "living in the car but staying at different locations" there Harvey Aguilar, police juvenile officer, told the Big Spring Herald today.

Mrs. Rios' car was wrecked in San Antonio, and police there impounded the vehicle.

Yet to be located are three youths, who may be going south on IS-35 toward the Mexican border. "It is possible that they were headed that-away," Aguilar said.

Still missing are Genise Garza, 16, Sylvia Hernandez, 16, and Isidro Mendez, 14, all of Big Spring.

PONY EXPRESS 1974 — Three Colorado Communities sponsored a protest against new U.S. Postal Service procedures for sorting and delivering mail. Thirteen cowhands were enlisted Tuesday to carry saddlebags full of postcards from Telluride and Lake City to Montrose, and they made the run in eight hours. Residents had said it takes two or three days for the mail to arrive by conventional methods.

Gaps In Transcripts

flexibility in order to get off the cover-up line."

According to the committee transcript, Nixon said Mitchell was arguing "that now we use flexibility in order to get on with the cover-up plan."

In other cases, the comparison confirmed versions that had leaked from the closed committee sessions.

GET IT

It confirmed that Nixon's comment about Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr.'s hush money demand was, at one point, "Well for Christ's sake, get it ..." The White House version was, "(Expletive deleted), get it."

In his introduction to a 130-page volume entitled "Comparison of Passages," Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said the study, which listed the differences side-by-side, "does not draw any conclusions for, or the significance of, the differences."

Doar also emphasized that committee members would have to make the final decision on the significance of differences and on which version to accept. Members are scheduled to begin debating next week whether there are grounds to impeach President Nixon.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

Release of the transcripts was the first step in scheduled disclosure of thousands of pages of evidence the committee has received from its impeachment staff. More material is expected to come out by week's end.

White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler called release of the transcripts "a hypoed public relations campaign."

He said the committee should release "the full body of evidence all together, all at once, and not in piecemeal fashion."

The committee transcripts were drawn from tapes of conversations Sept. 15, 1972, Feb. 28, March 13, two on March 21, March 22 and two on April 16, all in 1973. Those were the only cases in which the committee had tapes covering conversations included in the White House transcripts released April 30.

TU SPEECH

In a nationally televised speech April 29, the President disclosed he was releasing edited transcripts of 43 conversations he had with aides about Watergate.

"They include all the relevant portions of all the subpoenaed conversations that were recorded," Nixon said. "All portions that relate to the question of what I knew about Watergate or the cover-up and what I did about it."

They were Nixon's response to a Judiciary Committee subpoena demanding tapes of 42 conversations. The committee refused to accept the edited transcripts as compliance with its subpoena.

WATERGATE COMMITTEE

Both versions showed Nixon and his staff early in 1973 regarded the Senate investigation, to be headed by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., as a partisan Democratic effort to embarrass the Republican administration.

During the Feb. 28 conversation, White House counsel John W. Dean III suggested Ervin was "merely a puppet for (Sen. Edward M.) Kennedy (D-Mass.) in this whole thing."

A few moments later, Nixon is quoted as saying, "Yeah, I guess the whole Kennedy crowd is just laying in the bushes waiting to make their move."

On several occasions discussions touched on how to contain the Watergate committee probe.

On March 22, Nixon, Dean, Mitchell, H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman discussed offering Ervin a report to be written by Dean on Watergate and urging the senator to conduct his investigation in closed session.

The purpose, said Mitchell, would be "to limit the number of witnesses which are called up there instead of a buckshot operation."

Nixon said Ervin could be told:

"This is everything we know, senator ... This is everything we know, I know nothing more."

A short time later, Nixon recalled the case of Sherman Adams, who had been forced to resign as a top aide to President Eisenhower. Adams had been accused of accepting favors from Boston industrialist Bernard Goldfine.

MISTREATED

Nixon said he thought Adams had been mistreated and he didn't want the same thing to happen in the Watergate matter. For that reason, he said that he wanted them to "stonewall it."

Then he added that "I would prefer ... that you do it the other way," an apparent reference to offering Ervin the Dean report.

Ervin commented that the March 22 conversation reflected the White House plan "to pretend in public to cooperate, but at the same time to do everything possible to obstruct and impede the committee's investigation."

KILLER OF GUN COLLECTOR

Sentenced To Die In Electric Chair

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — District Court Judge Darrell Hester sentenced Jerry Joe Bird today to be executed in the electric chair for the slaying of a Harlingen gun collector.

After hearing about two hours of closing arguments on punishment, the jury of six men and six women began deliberations at 2:25 p.m. At 5 p.m., District Court Judge Darrell Hester sent the jurors to a motel for the evening.

Deliberations resumed at 9 a.m. today.

Defense and prosecution lawyers spent much of the closing arguments discussing capital punishment.

THREAT

Actually, the jurors will not set the sentence for Bird. They are being asked only to answer two questions. One asks them to determine if Bird deliberately killed Trammell.

The second question asks them if they believe Bird would continue with similar violent conduct and be a further threat to society.

If the jurors answer "yes" to both questions, the judge will sentence Bird to death. If either answer is "no," the judge will sentence him to life in prison.

Over strong defense objections, Cameron County Dist. Atty. Fred Galindo was able to inform the jurors that a life prison term means that Bird would someday be free.

"If you answer 'no' you will be giving Bird a third opportunity to kill," Galindo told the jurors. Testimony during the punishment phase of the trial revealed that Bird had been convicted in 1956 at Corpus Christi on a murder charge. The charge accused him of killing a man during a burglary, an offense similar to the Trammell slaying. Bird was given ten years in prison for the Corpus Christi slaying.

THEY SHOOT HORSES

Defense lawyers Douglas Tinker and Richard Bradshaw of Corpus Christi made emotional appeals to the jurors to spare Bird's life.

Bradshaw noted that a psychiatrist had testified that Bird has an anti-social personality, a mental disorder and has had since he was 10 years old. He noted that records show that Bird was turned away from a state mental hospital when he was 13 because there were no facilities to treat him.

"They shoot horses, don't they? If a horse is sick they shoot him. Are we going to kill Jerry Joe Bird because he's sick," Bradshaw asked the jury.

At first, when Judge Hester read the jury's "yes" answers, meaning that the sentence would be death, there was silence in the half-filled courtroom.

Hester then thanked the jurors and told them that ordinarily he does not comment on a jury's decision but he said, "I do not see how you could have done otherwise."

TAKE MY LIFE

The courtroom remained quiet until the judge began to read the sentence.

Bird would be "put to death," Hester read.

"Oh no," cried Bird's mother, who had been weeping silently in the second row.

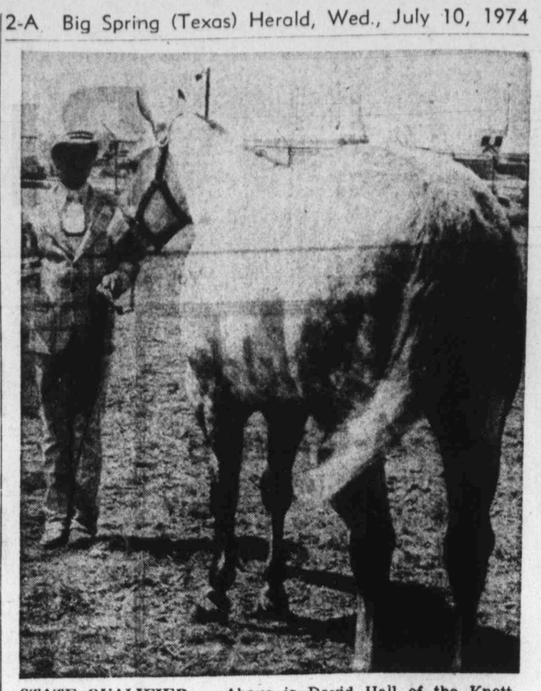

"You will be put to death by electrocution," Hester continued. "Please take my life and let him live," the mother shouted.

Bird was then given an opportunity to speak, after jurors had filed from the courtroom, their faces grim.

TALL PROBLEMS

Bruised Heads, Knees, Feelings

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bruised heads, knees and feelings are daily hardships. They avoid aisle seats in theaters. They shop by mail or spend exorbitant amounts of money for clothes and shoes.

They are tall people in a world designed for the mythical average person.

Some 250 members of Tall Clubs International are gathered here to discuss such problems eye to eye with other women 5-foot-10 or taller and other men at least 6-2.

Boosting the self esteem of the tall people is a main function of the clubs, which claim 3,000 members in 68 United States, Canadian and European chapters. They were founded 28 years ago.

SOCIAL OUTCASTS

"We came together first for social reasons and tried to be a comfort to each other," Ray Jones, a 6-6 General Services Administration engineer from Philadelphia, said at the convention opening Tuesday. The meeting runs through Sunday.

"We get some girls and guys who have been social outcasts for years because of their height. As a minority of 3 per cent, we have some problems but we're making progress.

"We lobbied bedding manufacturers to point out the need for king-sized and extra-long beds for comparable prices and that is being remedied," he said. "We also would like General Motors and other car manufacturers to put more leg room in their cars. Now people have to modify the front seat so it will slide back further, or they just suffer."

At the urging of the Tall Clubs, Jones said some airlines now let passengers reserve seats next to emergency exit doors where there's an extra foot of leg room.

"But clothes are the main problem," said Winnie Heinson, chairwoman of the convention's beauty pageant.

"We can't shop like a regular person," she said. "Trying to find a 14 narrow shoe is nearly impossible. We would like to be able to buy less expensive things."

"I was a skinny kid and wore T-shirts when I went swimming," Jones recalled. "I told the other kids I was afraid of getting sunburned, but I was hiding my ribs. They called me things like 'bean pole' or 'the fat spear.' I could not accept the fact that I was extremely tall and slender."

Youth Attending Waco Workshop

James Darwin Burleson, 16-year old Big Spring High School sophomore, is attending a Baylor University debate workshop in Waco. James is involved in the study of speech and debate in school and serves as an athletic trainer in basketball.

Young Burleson recently took an IQ test and finished in the upper two per cent. That made him eligible for membership in the international organization known as MENSA. Five Big Springers have membership in the local MENSA chapter.

Weekly meetings are held in Midland. Hugh White III is local secretary of the group.

Jurors Wince At Testimony About Sex Torture, Murder

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A Houston police detective said today despite objections that he took pubic hair samples from mass murder defendant Elmer Wayne Henley to be used "like fingerprints."

See Story, Page 6-B

Detective K. D. Porter said he told a reluctant Henley he would have to surrender the hairs while Henley was held in jail last Aug. 14.

"He asked if he had to give them," Porter testified. "We told him they were like fingerprints. If he didn't give them voluntarily, we could get them."

SURRENDERED HAIRS

Porter said Henley then surrendered the hairs.

Henley is on trial here in six of 27 deaths discovered in the Houston area.

The state expects to prove later that bits of Henley's hair were found in a large wooden box which, according to a statement by Henley and introduced into evidence, was used to transport the bodies of victims to burial sites.

Defense lawyers objected over introduction of the hair samples, claiming Henley's rights were violated when he was forced to give them up. The objections were overruled.

HORROR TALE

On Tuesday, the state court jury watched and winced as a tale of sexual torture and murder unfolded.

Jurors were shown a plywood board, about eight by three feet, to which teen-aged males were handcuffed while tortured and raped.

Today, the state was to call scientific witnesses to link physical evidence to Henley.

That physical evidence was introduced Monday and Tuesday—a stained rubber dildo allegedly used to sexually abuse the victims, the "torture board" with handcuffs affixed to hold the victims, and a wooden "body box" which, according to Henley's statements introduced at the trial, was used to conceal young men being taken to one of three burial sites where the 27 bodies were discovered last August.

125 OBJECTIONS

The introduction of the evidence came both during and after the testimony of Sgt. David Mullican, a detective with the Houston suburb of Pasadena whose efforts resulted in Henley's indictment, and over 125 overruled objections by defense attorney Will Gray.

Hensley called Pasadena police last Aug. 8 to tell them he had shot and killed Dean A Corll, 33, the man police say was the leader of the torture-murder group.

BILLOWING SMOKE — Black smoke which turned the sky black at a location at the end of Brown Street near the railroad right-of-way Tuesday dwarfed a city fire truck as firemen fought the blaze. The fire occurred at noon, with nobody sure how the blaze began.

Former Chief Justice Warren Dies Of Cardiac Arrest At 83

WASHINGTON (AP) — The death of Earl Warren, a champion of the Bill of Rights in his 16 years as chief justice, removes a figure indelibly linked to landmark decisions of the Supreme Court in one of its most controversial eras.

Warren, 83, died in Georgetown University Hospital Tuesday night, a little more than five years after his retirement from the nation's highest judicial post. A hospital spokesman said he died of heart failure.

'ONE MAN-ONE VOTE'

Under his leadership, the court struck down segregated schools, laid down the rule of "one man-one vote" and greatly expanded the rights of the accused in criminal cases.

The cases came swiftly for the man whose years on the court were marked by criticism, which included demands for his impeachment.

President Nixon, who often was at odds with Warren in their years as California politicians and who criticized many of his court decisions, saluted him as "a partisan for America."

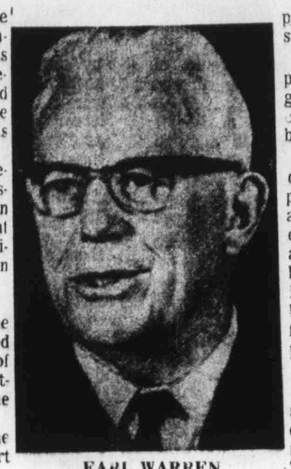

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, named by Nixon to succeed Warren and steer the court toward "strict construction" of the Constitution, said "his contribution was large indeed."

GREAT FRIEND

Rosa Parks, the black seamstress whose refusal to give up her seat to a white man started the Montgomery bus boycott, said, "We have lost a great friend to humanity."

Warren was admitted to the hospital July 2, suffering from a heart ailment. It was his second hospitalization in two months.

With him at his death were his wife, Nina, and the youngest of their three daughters, Mrs. Stewart Brien. The Warrens also had two sons.

EARL WARREN

Only a few hours before, two of the former chief justice's closest associates on the court, Justices William O. Douglas and William J. Brennan, had left his bedside.

TOO TIRED

A court spokesman said Warren wanted the two to stay, but they felt he was too tired.

Warren served as chief justice from 1953 to 1960 after a political career in which he served 11 years as governor of California and twice sought the Republican presidential nomination.

He was vice-presidential candidate on the 1948 GOP national ticket headed by the late Thomas E. Dewey, then governor of New York. They lost to President Harry S. Truman.

Though he disapproved of outside assignments for members of the high court, at age 72 he took on the additional load of heading the commission to investigate the 1963 assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

One of the Warren court's most acclaimed decisions came in June 1954 when it struck down the doctrine of separate but equal schools for the races.

NOT TREES

But the decision Warren thought most important was the "one man-one vote" ruling in 1962 that forced states to reapportion legislative and congressional districts to make them more equal in population.

"Lekislators represent people, not trees or acres," he said.

As Alameda County, Calif., prosecutor, and state attorney general and governor, Warren carved out a reputation for being tough on crime.

But the court's decisions under his leadership expanded the procedural protections available to criminal defendants, earning him criticism from law and order advocates. During his 1968 presidential campaign, Nixon said the Warren court had "strengthened the criminal forces at the expense of the peace forces."

COMMON THREAD

A common thread in decisions of the Warren court was equality —equal schools, equal representation, equal rights. The court consistently broadened the application of the Bill of Rights.

The decisions plunged the Warren court into controversy, and "Impeach Earl Warren" signs sprouted along roadsides in many parts of the country. His admirers, however, predicted he would rank as one of the great chief justices.

Warren was born in Los Angeles March 19, 1891, son of a Norwegian-born railroad car repairman and inspector. He served as an infantry first lieutenant in World War I.

Genial and gregarious, he entered public life as deputy city attorney for Oakland in 1919 and became district attorney in 1925. He was elected governor in 1942 after four years as attorney general.

PARTISAN FOR AMERICA

He was instrumental in swinging the GOP presidential nomination in 1952 to Dwight D. Eisenhower, who as president named him chief justice on the death of Fred M. Vinson.

Nixon, in a statement from the White House, said:

"Earl Warren not only rendered outstanding service to our country but he was a distinguished figure in the Republican Party. In all things, he was never a partisan of political advantage, but always a partisan for America."

Justice Thurgood Marshall, speaking on the Black Audio Network, said, "When history is written, he'll go down as one of the greatest chief justices the country has ever been blessed with."

Former Arkansas Gov. Orval Faubus, one of the sternest critics of the school desegregation decision, declined comment.

Besides his widow and daughter, Mrs. Stewart Brien, Warren is survived by sons James, Earl Jr., and Robert; and daughters Mrs. John C. Daly and Mrs. Harry Van Knight.

Odessa College Dean Leaving

ODESSA — R. N. (Jack) Vaught, who had lost many of his duties as dean of student affairs at Odessa College recently in an administrative realignment, has resigned the post effective Aug. 15.

Vaught, who had held the $17,600 position since 1965, said he plans to accept an administrative position with another college but refused to indentify the school pending formal action on his application.

He had been with the college since 1948.

New Try To 'Cool' Rampant Inflation

WASHINGTONN (AP) — His White House meetings with business and labor representatives, intended to focus the attention of "every responsible sector of society" on inflation and other economic problems, haven't amounted to "jawboning," economic coordinator Kenneth Rush says.

WAGE HIKES

Jawboning would imply the administration was trying to head off specific price or wage hikes, Rush said Tuesday.

"In no case have I gone to a particular industry and said don't increase your price," he told reporters after meeting for 1½ hours with President Nixon, Treasury Secretary William E. Simon and other economic advisers.

Rush said Nixon will meet Thursday with some 19 top business leaders and 12 economists in a new effort to combat inflation. He said the session may be the first of a series involving the President.

No labor leaders have been invited to the meeting, Rush said, although he indicated they could be included in future meetings.

NEW CUTS

Rush said that during Nixon's meeting Tuesday with Simon and economic advisers, they talked about making new cuts in the 1975 federal budget in addition to the $5 billion they already hoped to trim.

He also said they considered proposals to help public utilities that are in financial trouble. He indicated some special assistance may be needed to help utilities expand to meet growing power needs. But it was clear from Rush's remarks that Nixon and his economic advisers did not come up with any fresh proposals to deal with inflation. He said inflation "is not something the government can just by turning off a switch do away with . . ."

The bidding:

North	East	South	West

2 ♥	Pass	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: King of ♠

Most players are familiar with the effectiveness of a holdup play at a no trump contract. They do not always realize that this maneuver can produce similar results in suit play.

North and South conducted a logical auction to reach a good heart game. Once North supported hearts, South's hand revalued to almost a full opening bid. Since there was no point to dilly-dallying, South leaped directly to game.

West led the king of spades and, on the theory that aces were made to capture kings, South won and drew trumps in two rounds, ending in his hand. The jack of clubs was led and passed. Unfortunately, East won the king and was ungracious enough to return a spade. West took two spade tricks and then shifted to a diamond, allowing East to score the ace for a one-trick set.

Observe what would have happened had South held up the ace of spades for one round. He would win the second spade, draw trumps as before and run the jack of clubs. This would lose to East's king, but East is out of spades and has no way to get to West's hand so that his partner can cash a second spade trick. No matter what he does, he cannot prevent declarer from discarding his remaining spade loser on dummy's fourth club.

What if spades were to divide 4-3? In that case, there would be no way for declarer to make his contract if the club finesse fails.

Doesn't a holdup play run the risk of having the second spade ruffed by East? Yes, if the suit breaks 6-1, but that happens less than 7 times in 100, whereas the 5-2 division occurs almost 31 percent of the time. Also, a spade ruff would not in itself defeat the contract—either the club finesse would have to fail or the defenders would have to be able to negotiate a second spade ruff.

All these mathematical probabilities show is that declarer gives himself a far better chance of making his contract if he isn't quite so quick to grab the ace of spades.

Systematizing The Search

The City of Big Spring and the Chamber of Commerce have entered into a contract whereby the City will furnish an estimated $23,000 a year for industrial (economic) development.

The Chamber's job will be to apply this in industrial prospecting.

About the most that can be said for this at the moment is that we will have more ammunition at our disposal than were it not for the city's support under a relatively new statute.

This is not to disparage the move, for indeed it offers considerable promise. It is, rather, to look realistically at the problem and to realize that in this field of endeavor there are seldom such things as instant results.

Few things are more competitive in our nation today than the quest for industrial development. There is simply no hokus pokus, no magic wand, by which promotional dollars conjure miracles into new plants, new payrolls etc.

Like any other worthwhile endeavor, this is a painstaking process. It is hard work given to the stockpiling of much unglamorous detail. It is much more tedious than putting an advertisement in some publication and waiting for the phone to ring.

But it is a sensible approach to a systematic cataloguing of all information, resources, and services needed in answering questions of prospects and in presenting our case. It does provide time and fix responsibility for constantly seeking prospects and following up on those which fit our situation.

This won't lessen the imperative need for local cooperation in all facets, but in time it should provide us more opportunities to exercise that cooperation.

It's Budget Time Again

It's budget time again, and the first out with a proposed budget is the Big Spring Independent School District. The proposed fiscal guide calls for expenditures of $6,892,999, an increase of $547,578, or 8 63 per cent more than the current budget of $6,345,421.

Most — estimated at 90 per cent — of the increase goes to salaries. The state, in addition to the regular scheduled increase, has a cost-of-living increase built into the 1974-75 scale. Local districts must pay 20 per cent of this, so when the state goes up, local districts pick up 20 per cent of the increase, which in our case approaches half a million dollars.

The budget anticipates some 15 less personnel, half a dozen of that number classroom teachers. Were it not for declining enrollment (ours dropped by some 300 from the year's peak), we would be in trouble. We would be in even more trouble were there not a reserve to draw upon The board's objective of holding to the present $1.70 raté on a 75 per cent assessment of the full (1958 base) value wouldn't be possible but for these two factors.

Small wonder there is talk about converting the 100 per cent values to today's market values. Other agencies are beginning to think in realistic, though unpopular, direction.

Yep, It's Dry!

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

We were spoiled by successively wet Julys and Augusts in 1972 and 1973, plus the unusually wet and cold winter of 1972-73, so we forgot that every so often a drought comes along.

THERE'S REALLY no way of predicting one, except that you know it is enevitable as dropping the other shoe. So far, none has been able to figure a dependable weather cycle.

But the signs of drought are unmistakable. As you might suppose, it relates very directly to lack of rainfall. My own theory is that our droughts begin in the autumn, and that the story is told largely from October through the following June.

BY THAT standard, we're in the middle of one of those things. Anytime we don't have upwards of 10 inches in that period, we're in trouble. And anytime you hit around six inches or less, you're in the midst of a serious if not critical drought.

Since Oct. 1, 1973 we have had a total of only 5.52 inches. Hopes were revived by successive Spring months (March 1.27, April 1.73, and May 1.19) which accounted for 4.19 inches of that total. You can be sure that with no month having as much as two inches, there were no soakers to break the cycle.

ONE CONSOLATION is that we have seen worse times, but that's like being happy you got hit on the head with a hammer only nine instead of ten times. The worst nine-month period we have had since records have been kept here was in 1951-52 with a total of 3.16 inches. The second worst followed on the heels of this in 1955-56 with 4.63. Contributing to what probably was the worst drought cycle of the century — the early 50's — was a 7.18 reading for the 1954-55 season.

ANOTHER NOTABLE dry spell was the 1933-34 period with 5.75 inches still another 1946-47 with 6.51 inches. The driest sustained stretch was from Jan. 1, 1917 through June 1918 when 10.92 inches fell in 18 months (and 3.53 inches of that in June). Take out that one "wet" month, and the total for the two years 1917-18 was only 13.50 inches. No wonder cattlemen and farmers said that the "drought of 17 put a crease in my brain."

About the best ray of encouragement is that when that devastating drought ended, 1919 brought 34.01 inches of rain. After the 1933-34 dry spell, 1935 produced 25.95 inches; after the 1955-56 drought, we had 23.14 in 1957.

THE FINAL bright spot is that often when I have been moved to write about how dry it is, the elements have conspired to make me look more foolish than usual by raining by the time the article gets in type.

My Answer

BILLY GRAHAM

Don't you think one of the sicknesses of our times is the nudity seen on the part of our women? Would an appeal from some of our large religious groups to the designers help? It all seems a matter of following the leader.

B.K.S.

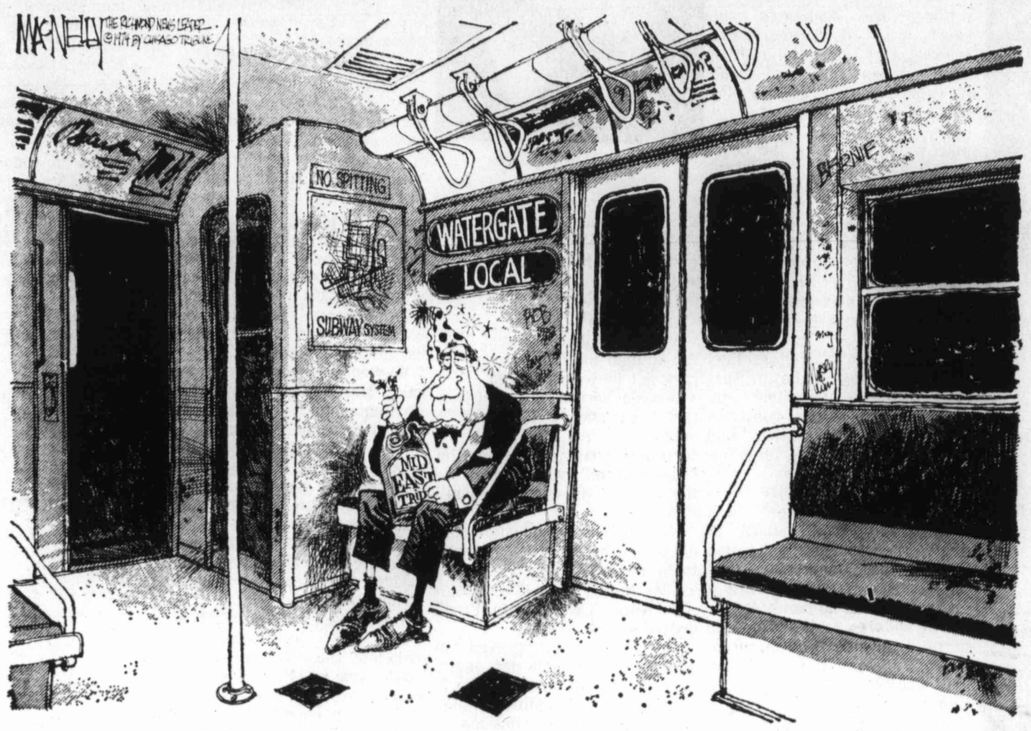

There's a bit of heresy around today that the truly liberated and mature person can shed clothes with no feeling of guilt or shame. To be nude in public is equated with being avant-garde and really free.

Actually, to maintain this is to show ignorance of the Biblical account of man's creation. You see, the third chapter of Genesis implies that Adam and Eve were appropriately naked in the Garden of Eden because they were in a state of innocence. A sort of encircling light of purity surrounded them.

Then it happened! They disobeyed God and their nakedness was suddenly apparent. It was not due to any physical corruption of the body, but to the consciousness of guilt — with which their souls were laden. They lost their purity, and the naked state could no longer be maintained with innocence.

I don't advise Victorian prudery. But I do agree that moral degeneration is evidenced by flaunting the exposed human body. As fallen creatures, we just have no tolerance for that anymore. Furthermore, suitable covering provides a reverence between the sexes which is so vital to the continuation of the race.

The designers only cater to people's taste, so I think that unless we have the self-control that faith in Christ brings. Nudity will increase as a phenomenon of people far from God.

Political Capital

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — Whatever may come out of the Moscow summit, the chances are about 99.9 per cent that Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson will try to shoot it down.

GIVEN THE PRESENT mood of distrust, Watergatism, isolationism and general disillusion, the chances are nearly as good that he will succeed.

With his eye fixed on 1976 and the presidency, you can never fault Scoop for lack of stamina and drive.

Having been furnished an Air Force plane, he is spending the July 4 Congressional recess in Peking accompanied by professional China watchers. His conviction that the Russians are deceivers bent on doing in the United States and China at one and the same time will be cheerfully underwritten by his hosts.

The state of Washington has many resources. If by remote chance an agreement should be reached limiting the number of multiple warheads the Russians can place on their outsize missiles, Jackson can play the numbers game. This he did on the eve of the summit to insist that poor old Uncle Sam had been taken in a rigged poker game.

The issue of the MIRVS, — mulitple independently targeted war heads — now on most U.S. missiles, is so complex that it can be played both ways by the pros and the cons.

It resembles the ancient theological argument about how many angels can dance on the head of a pin. In this argument the pins are loaded with the stuff of annihilation.

BUT ARMS AGREEMENTS to one side, Jackson has a far more emotional weapon with a strong political appeal. That is the plight of the Jews in the Soviet Union and the numbers who shall be permitted to emigrate to Israel.

He told Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger that he would be satisfied with nothing less than a public assurance from either the Secretary or the President on the quota to be allowed out.

Presumably the numbers will be part of the negotiation in Moscow. Moreover, a public assurance must also be given that harassment of Jews seeking to leave will end.

THIS IS, OF COURSE, obviously impossible for either side in the negotiation. Kissinger has said that the United States cannot dictate a change in the internal system of the Soviet Union. He argues that by a relaxation of tensions, the plight of the Jews will ease and increasing numbers will be granted the coveted exit visa.

Recently the figure of 45,000 a year was reported as tentatively agreed upon. In 1973, some 35,000 left for Israel with a small number coming to the United States.

Financial Strains Pain

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Sometimes you can ignore the numbers or say that they lie, but when you're impaled on them, as is the American consumer, you know by the pain that the numbers are real.

Most significant of the numerical spikes are those that show disposable income has risen close to 10 per cent during the past year but that prices have risen even more sharply, although only slightly more so.

But the pain doesn't come from prices alone. Taxes too have risen. So, despite those pay increases, real spendable earnings at midyear are 4.5 per cent below year ago.

Adding to the financial strain of many families is the necessity to pay off some of the big installment credit loans that were taken out in 1972 and 1973 — some of them forced on consumers by existing financial strains.

According to Harris Bank of Chicago, the rise of installment credit in those two years was exceeded only once before in the past two decades. It increased 15.1 per cent, compared to 16 per cent in 1955-1956.

There were unusual factors at work in that earlier period. It was a time of unprecedented increases in automobile sales, for one thing. For another, it was the beginning of a trend toward those "easy credit" terms we have today. Moreover, debt in relation to income was far less than it is today.

The strains are showing up in the savings rate, which most forecasters believed would rise this year. It might have, for a while, but it too seems to have fallen victim to the need to pay inflated bills.

In the last three months of 1973 it jumpd to 7.3 per cent of disposable personal income, after having reached a low point of 5.7 per cent in the previous quarter. In the early part of this year it dropped back to 6.6 per cent.

The most plausible explanation is that consumers had little choice but to spend rather than save because of the increasee in the prices of gasoline, heating oil and food. Already at their credit limit, they obtained the money from what might have been earmarked for the bank or an insurance policy.

A good many economic forecasters believe that installment credit, now totaling close to $150 billion, will rise more slowly in the second half of the year. It is, in fact, rising currently at a rate less than one-half that of 1973.

No Personal Detente

Robert Novak

MOSCOW — Permeating every aspect of the murky summit meeting here was a deep Soviet uncertainty over the future of Persident Nixon, the central topic of conversation by everyone here — except Mr. Nixon and the Soviet leaders themselves.

THE PRESIDENT'S calculated efforts to enshrine detente as a special Nixon creation — its future coexistennt with his own — both embarrassed and angered his Soviet hosts.

Indeed, the real reason for the extracrdinary change in the official translation of Mr. Nixon's celebrated toast to Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev at the state dinner last week, which credited detente to his "close personal relationship" with Brezhnev, was that it appalled and offerded Brezhnev himself. It appeared to elevate Brezhnev to heights unacceptable to the Communist party hierarchy.

ALTHOUGH BREZHNEV is now at the peak of his personal prestige and power, the cult of the individual went out with Nikita Krushchev. Far more important, however, is the fact that detente became an object of highest Soviet policy not by any Brezhnev whim but by decree of the 24th Party Congress in April 1971.

The translation changed Mr. Nixon's phrase "close personal relationship" with Brezhnev to "relations between us." As one well-informed Soviet expert told us: "We have never based any foreign policy ever on the claim of a personal relationship and we do not intend to start now." So detente is still Soviet policy. One official noted: "The cream is off the top; we're trying to keep the milk from going sour."

NO WORD OF this Soviet displeasure was allowed to sift through to Mr. Nixon. Indeed, every public pronouncement uttered by Soviet leaders here was carefully screened to avoid any semblance of veiled criticism of the President. This is a measure of the delicacy with which the Kremlin has approached its 1974 negotiating sessions with a President.

Yet, beneath this placid surface, the party's ruling establishment asked critical questions about Richard M. Nixon and the future of detente. For example, it is felt that since Mr. Nixon's 1972 pledge for vast U.S. trade credits to the Soviet Union, and his promise to extend tariff equality to Moscow, are still unfulfilled because of congressional resistance, he should have brought a congressional delegation with him to the summit. But in fact, the President was not about to share any summit glory with the Democratic Congress.

MORE IMPORTANT, it is now being widely but privately said that Mr. Nixon should have explained the pitfalls of congressional politics before he promised so much in the way of expanding trade two years ago.

Moreover, a feeling of unease is beginning to permeate high party levels about the continuing instability of the American government, including published reports in the American press about dissension between Mr. Nixon and his Secretary of State. Kissinger is regarded here as critically important to the process of detente.

Before It's Too Late?

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How long can a diabetic person with an enlarged liver who consumes six cases of beer weekly go on? He is excessively thristy and tires easily. He will fall alseep but wakes up hourly and snacks, talks to himself and is like a different person.

He has not been to a doctor in three years and will not seek medical help until he has to. Our children and I know he is sick and keep trying to help him but to no avail, and he is becoming so difficult to live with.

We wish to know what to expect so we can help him before it is too late. Our family doctor died and we do not have one I can talk to. — J.C.

Before it's too late? It's pretty late, already, I would suspect. The thirst, and all that snacking, and the beer would indicate his diabetes is out of control.

But the "enlarged liver" indicates another, and perhaps more menacing, condition. With an enlarged liver (it would not be surprising to find that he has cirrhosis of the liver) the beer is a terrible burden on his system. He is drinking almost a case a day, which would be a lot for a healthy person, let alone one with diabetes and liver disease!

If he will go to a doctor now, and start following the advice that will be given to him (leading off with leaving all alcohol alone), perhaps he can bring himself back to sufficient health to go on for quite a few years.

Otherwise I can't see any prospect other than that one of these days he will collapse, and in the hospital the doctors will shake their heads and say, "We'll do the best we can, but he waited too long."

Only real suggestion I can make at this stage of the game is that you and the children get busy and find a family doctor for yourselves. as the doctor begins to know and understand the family, possibly he can get your husband to cooperate in time to do some good.

* * *

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has esophogeal varices. We have found out what that is, but the doctor won't tell us if anything can be done for it, or what. Can anything be done to prevent fatal bleeding which I understand could happen at any time? — C.E.M.

Esophageal varices is another way of saying varicose veins in the lower esophagus or gullet. They can develop as a complication of liver disease, usually advanced cirrhosis, and there is, as you have been told, the danger that one of these distended veins could rupture and cause fatal bleeding.

It is too late to undo the damage that has occurred, and the only preventive measure known to me is an operation called a protocaval shunt — the blood supply to the liver is rerouted to take some of the pressure off those swollen veins.

Get your doctor's advice.

Publish Or Perish

BOSTON (AP) — A good college lecturer had better publish his thoughts if he hopes to get ahead in the academic world, a sociologist finds.

William C. Yoels, a Boston University sociologist, took a statistical look at the career of fellow sociology professors and their promotions.

He found that less than 4 per cent of the faculty in the nation's top 20 college departments of sociology got promoted without having published books and articles to buttress their teaching reputations.

Letters To Editor

Dear Sir:

Since the beginning of the Miss Softball America organization, the development and continuation have required hours of work from the girls, coaches, managers and board members.

Many problems have been solved; many methods were improved. Each year a selection of All-Stars was chosen. This year the method is super or to previous methods.

Each girl's performance was rated at each game as A, B, C or D. As a proud mother, my daughter was selected as an A or B player from each game she played.

In addition to the scorebook and coach evaluation, two all-star tryouts were scheduled at Comanche Trail Park. In talking to several parents, I found they were not totally informed about the change of the "tryout location," and the requirement for the girls to be in uniform. One father received a speeding ticket while trying to locate the place for the tryouts. Another dad waited 45 minutes at the wrong place, and when he found the right place, he learned his daughtr was not in the right uniform.

Many problems were encountered — but everybody made it and was able to try out, with the exception of one person, my daughter.

Because of a lack of communication between her parents, she did not arrive at the tryout site until the last 45 minutes. After emotional coaxing from the mother, the girl was allowed to bat, after being informed that she would be at a tremendous disadvantage.

With this information — from the major league coordinator — one can bet that if she were a super-star, she would not have a chance.

True, the girl was not on time — because of her parents. Should the girl be punished? Should she miss out on the only opportunity she will ever have to try out for the major league Miss American Softball team?

Should she be deprived of the opportunity which she has earned by exhibiting outstanding athletic ability at the games? Should she be deprived of the opportunity to try — just because the board members want to abide strictly by the rules?

Should she be refused the opportunity to try out just because she didn't have a way to get to Comanche Trail Park and was therefore late.

Forty girls were able to try out — was only ONE late?

You bet she is my daughter and I am 100 per cent behind her. I feel she has been treated unfairly. How would you feel if the situation involved your daughter?

Miss Softball America is for the girls — so they can strengthen themselves ir athletic ability, grow in sportsmanship, and acquire lasting friendships. This is something no one can take away from the girls.

Mrs. L. A. Griffith, vice president, presided, and the attendance prize went to Mrs. W. N. Woods. The next meeting will be July 23 in the Wood home, 1701 Jennings.

New Casserole

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: There is something I need to know but I'm too embarrassed to ask anyone else, so I'm asking you: For years I've heard that in order for catfood and dogfood to be sold in grocery stores, it has to be fit for human consumption.

Well I know that tuna fish is rich in protein, and with regular tuna so expensive, I tried making a casserole with catfood tuna. My family really went for it. I hid the cans so nobody would know what I had done.

My family has been asking me to make that special tuna casserole "like last time," but I'm worried. Is there something in catfood that will harm humans? The price is certainly right, but I don't want to take any chances with my family's health. Please advise me.

SLIGHTLY WORRIED

DEAR SLIGHTLY: I didn't pussyfoot around, I went right to the leading catfood manufacturers, and the word from them is: "Don't serve catfood to humans."

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think this is a stupid question, but can an unwed mother join Parents Without Partners? And if so, how do I go about finding out if there is a chapter near me? Thank you.

INTERESTED

DEAR INTERESTED: Parents Without Partners, Inc. is for divorced parents, separated parents, unwed parents, and widowed parents. In other words, it's for any and all single parents with living children. Look for their telephone number in your directory. Or write to their International Headquarters: 7910 Woodmont Ave., Washington, D.C. 20014.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I bought a lovely suburban home. I became friendly with a neighbor who taught me a lot about gardening. She and I liked each other.

Suddenly my husband became desperately ill. He fought hard to live, but it was terminal. During his illness, this neighbor came over often to cheer me up. After my husband died, my neighbor came over. I told her how grateful I was to her for all she had done, then she said: "May I ask a big favor of you?" Then she asked if I would SELL her a bracelet I had. I told her it was a gift from my husband, and I didn't want to sell it.

Abby, she begged and begged, telling me how much she liked that bracelet, so I finally agreed to let her have it for $150 — exactly what my husband had paid for it some 15 years before.

Well, that woman wore the bracelet constantly. Finally, I couldn't bear to see it on her, so I asked her to please, please sell it back to me. At first she refused. Then she said she would — for $500! (It's worth $350 in today's market, but the money isn't important.)

The thought of that greedy woman wearing my memories on her wrist makes me sick. What would you do?

WRONGED

DEAR WRONGED: I'd buy the bracelet back, before she raises the price.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Violence On TV Clips Aggression In Some People

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — A University of Maryland psychologist says television violence, often blamed for violence in American life, actually reduces aggression in some people.

In a study published for the "Journal of Personality and Social Psychology," Dr. Dalmas Taylor says he found that TV violence, for many people, reduces hostile feelings that precede agression.

Taylor said his study showed that American television averages eight minutes of violence for each hour of air time. He included both entertainment and sports in his study.

TICKLISH POLITICAL SITUATION

Charter Flights Fuss

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A convention committee has decided to ask the state's lawyer whether Constitutional Convention delegates taking charter flights home may be reimbursed.

Payment of $3,229 to Rep. W.S. Heatly, D-Paducah, for charter flights to his relatively remote hometown touched off the controversial issue late last month.

Then it was revealed by Sen. Jack Hightower, D-Vernon, on Tuesday that at least three other House members had been reimbursed for charter flights—Reps. Joe Wyatt, D-Bloomington, Ben Grant, D-Marshall, and Emmett Whitehead, D-Rusk.

All but Whitehead were paid from convention funds, according to clerical records, Hightower said.

A copy of Whitehead's voucher for $306.60 stated that his charter trip wes made at the request of Speaker Price Daniel Jr.

Copies of vouchers showed Wyatt was reimbursed $275.67 for three charter flights from Bloomington and Grant $54.44 for a flight from Corsicana to Marshall.

The convention pay committee has rejected $1,105 in charges for three flights by Heatly, but Hightower, chairman of the administration committee, said he was not sure the pay decision was binding.

At Hightower's suggestion the administration committee voted to ask Atty. Gen John Hill's opinion, which has the force of law.

Bridge City Cop Stabbed

BRIDGE CITY, Tex. (AP) — A La Marque man remains in the Orange County Jail today in lieu of $100,000 bond in connection with the stabbing of a Bridge City police officer.

Bridge City Police Chief Wilson Roberts said officer David Hamlett, 26, was stabbed Sunday night after he arrested three men who had been riding in a car reportedly speeding through city streets.

Larry Elton Atwood, 30, was charged Monday with assault with intent to murder. He appeared before Justice of the Peace Marlin Shelton who set bond.

Cohabitation Order Hits Four Policemen, Clerk

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — Four policemen and a police clerk in this Miami suburb have been ordered to stop living with their mates, members of the opposite sex to whom they're not married.

Three patrolmen and a woman clerk agreed to comply with the order, but another patrolman refused.

Police Chief William Kimbrough, who issued the ruling, said the five were involved in "conduct unbecoming a Coral Gables Police Department employe."

He said he issued the order because he believed such living arrangements are illegal and immoral.

"Anything that comes to my attention that can cast a bad image on the Coral Gables Police Department I consider it my duty to investigate," he said.

He also said Florida law prohibits such arrangements, with a maximum penalty of two years in jail and a $300 fine.

Patrolman Jeff Vance, who has not complied with Kimbrough's order but is still on the job, refused to discuss details. But he said he was committed financially to the woman with whom he lives, sharing food, rent, utility bills and other expenses.

Patrolman Charles Van Horn also confirmed that he was among those who received the order. He said he obeyed it.

The others ordered to change their living arrangements were not identified.

Kimbrough said he would meet with the city attorney and the city manager to discuss the case. He said Mayor Robert Knight supports the order against cohabitation.

He said he could suspend for up to 30 days any officer who disobeys an order.

"Beyond that, any action is up to the city manager on my recommendation. And he has always agreed with me," the chief said.

Any action taken can be appealed to a city board and the courts, he added.

Talent, Swimsuit Winners Will Be Selected Tonight

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — The first of six talent and swimsuit winners will be selected tonight as preliminary competition begins in the Miss Texas Pageant.

The six preliminary titlists normally ride the honors into the semi-final round, although such winners are not assured one of the top ten spots.

It is from this group that a successor to the reigning Miss Texas, Judy Mallett, will be chosen Saturday night in a show televised regionally by KTVT—Fort Worth.

The new Miss Texas will carry the state banner to the Miss America pageant at Atlantic City. She also will receive scholarships and prizes totaling more than $6,000.

The 57 contestants will appear in the Convention Center theatre all four nights, sharing the spotlight with Miss America, Terry Meeuwsen, and other entertainers.

The runner-up this year will receive a $1,000 scholarship to Texas Wesleyan University, a $600 cash scholarship and a trip to the National Sweetheart Pageant at Hoopeston, Ill.

The 10 semifinalists will be announced Saturday night shortly after the 10:30 p.m. telecast begins.

Martin Land Bid Accepted By GSA

The General Services Administration has announced that it is accepting the bid of Waddell Strain, Colorado City, for 69 acres of surplus federal land in Martin County.

Jay H. Bolton, GSA Regional administrator in Fort Worth, said that Waddells offer of $10,732.95 was the high bid for the property, which was offered for sale by competitive sealed bids on June 26.

The land was used by Webb AFB in a parasail program which simulated the descent in a parachute. When the program was discontinued, the land was declared surplus.

Initial Vote On Complete New Constitution Shaping

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Constitutional Convention delegates struggled with last minute technical details today before steeling themselves for the first crucial vote on the entire proposed constitution.

Convention executive director James Ray said he doubted if the first overall vote could be taken today. "Tomorrow is more probable," he said.

1876 CHARTER

The key Submission and Transition Committee worked until 1:30 a.m. today then scheduled another session before the convention was set to convene at 1:30 p.m.

Still to be completed was action on the transition schedule which would coordinate efforts to replace the 1974 policy document with the old 1876 charter, if the new one is not approved by voters Nov. 5.

Convention President Price Daniel Jr. had indicated a one-day recess until Thursday would be advisable so the delegates could have plenty of time to digest the Submission and Transition report before voting on it.

But the convention voted 100-54 Tuesday to return to work today.

"We've wasted enough time and taxpayers' money," protested Rep. Tom Craddick, R-Midland, who said he was ready to vote on the constitution as a whole.

Daniel said later, "The delegates tell me, 'We know how we want to vote on the resolution.'"

It takes 121 votes, a two-thirds majority, to send the constitution to the voters for a decision at the Nov. 5 general election.

IF NECESSARY

That means it could take several ballots, each one an attempt to compromise differences, before the necessary majority can be reached. Daniel has stuck by his estimate that there is an even chance of approval on the first ballot but has declared he was doing nothing to persuade delegates to vote for it.

If compromise is necessary, it should be done with the seven separate proposals to be submitted with the constitution, not with the basic document itself.

Daniel is known to oppose at least two of the separate proposals, four-year terms for House members and a ban on labor-management contracts requiring employes to join or pay "agency" fees to the unions that represent them.

But he has said he would be satisfied if the initial resolution, which includes both of those proposals, gets the 121 votes, provided there is no problem with the transition schedule.

Gail Youth Wins Coveted Award

D. M. Parks of Gail is the winner of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association Award today at the state convention of Texas Future Farmers of America.

He is the son of Martin Parks. Sidney Long is his FFA advisor. He holds the Lone Star Farmer degree and serves as secretary and treasurer of his local chapter.

Parks' supervised farming program includes eight cows, 40 heifers, light calves, and one Charolais bull for crossbreeding purposes.

PLAYERS SEEK COUNTERPROPOSAL — Bill Curry, president of the National Football Players Association, gestures to an Atlanta press conference Tuesday as he explains there can be no mediation of their strike until a counterproposal is offered by team owners. At right is Frank Pitts of the Pittsburgh Steelers. Curry is center for the Houston Oilers.

BECAUSE OF PLAYERS STRIKE

All Star Game May Be Canceled

By The Associated Press

As the warring sides in the pro football strike continued their "Alphonse and Gaston" routine today, the fate of the 1974 College All-Star Game hung in the balance.

Management said it was ready to meet, but . . .

The striking football players union said it was ready to meet, but . . .

And Chicago Tribune Charities, sponsor of the College All-Star Game, said it would hold a news conference tonight—9 p.m., EDT—to announce the fate of the 1974 contest. An ultimatum had been issued Monday by the agency of the Chicago newspaper giving both sides in the dispute 48 hours to make ironclad assurances that the July 26 All-Star Game would be played without interference.

The old "Alphonse and Gaston" routine, you will recall, is "After you." "No you first." And so on.

That is exactly how the warring sides sounded in exchanges in the early morning hours today.

The National Football League Management Council, bargaining agency of the 26 club owners of the NFL, repeated that it was ready to resume negotiations and claimed that the NFL Players Association, which went on strike July 1, was stalling.

The NFLPA said, in effect, the opposite.

The union wants management to come to the bargaining table with 63 counterproposals, in writing, to the 63 demands the union made when talks broke off some 10 days before the strike started. Management says it wants to talk about it.

"There will not be any meeting between the owners and the players because Jim Scearce, the federal mediator, said he couldn't assure any kind of meeting except on Friday, so there won't be a meeting," Ed Garvey, the NFLPA executive director, told The Associated Press in Washington early today.

In New York, John Thompson, executive director of the owners' bargaining unit, countered: "It is totally and grossly unfair when Garvey says we won't meet until Friday.

"If there is not going to be a meeting between the owners and the players, it only confirms the intent of Ed Garvey and the union to destroy the All-Star Game," Thompson added.

Neither side would officially say what the significance of Friday had to do with the resumption of talks, but it was learned that management negotiators had told Scearce on Monday that labor lawyer Theodore Kheel, counsel for the NFLMC, had long ago scheduled a mid-week trip, not connected with the strike, to California.

NFLMC sources said Kheel would have canceled his trip if it appeared that the two sides would start talking again, but he went ahead with his plans when the federal mediator couldn't get Garvey to agree to new negotiations.

The union's 63 demands include the so-called "freedom issues," which call for players to have the right to negotiate with any team they wish and to veto trades, as well as an end to the reserve and waiver clauses and drastic curbs on the disciplinary powers of coaches, owners and the league commissioner to impose fines.

"We will not consider eliminations, but we will consider modifications," repeated Thompson early today.

But Thompson wouldn't suggest any modifications. And the union says it is management's time to make a counterproposal.

In other developments Tuesday:

—NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle told The Associated Press that granting total freedom to the players from binding contracts would mean that a few rich teams would dominate the league, some poorer teams would eventually go out of business, over-all revenues would drop and fan interest would decline.

—Officials of the Pro Football Hall of Fame at Canton, Ohio, said the second scheduled NFL exhibition, the July 27 game between St. Louis and Buffalo, would not be played if the players' strike halts preseason training for rookies. Except for the College All-Stars, who stopped practicing until negotiations resumed, rookie drills are under way in all training camps that have opened.

—The Los Angeles Times said this year's charity exhibition game it is to sponsor, the Los Angeles Rams vs. the Cleveland Browns on Aug. 2 would be played "players' strike or no."

Owner Carroll Rosenbloom of the Rams told the Times: "As far as we are concerned, we intend to play the game. As a matter of fact, we may play with the same team with which we will play all season long."

—Pickets from the NFLPA marched near the eight NFL camps which were open by Tuesday.

—And Johnny Unitas, the veteran quarterback of the San Diego Chargers, said he would report to camp as scheduled on Friday, joining such players as center Jim Langer of the Miami Dolphins, tackle Ralph Neely of the Dallas Cowboys and linebacker Mike Curtis of the Baltimore Colts in announcing defiance of the union.

Strike Hurts Starting Chances

DALLAS (AP) — Cowboy offensive tackle Rodney Wallace, who is striking against the NFL, thinks his part in the dispute may keep him on the bench behind rival Ralph Neely, who isn't striking.

"I really don't care about Ralph not being involved in the strike. I'd just hate to think he was using it as an edge on the starting position, or to play. That's one thing I don't like," said Wallace.

Both players want to start at left tackle, but Wallace, who has been second to Neely in past years, thinks the strike will cost him a starting berth this year also.

"I've been sitting on the bench for three years. Now I'm thinking about fourth year, not because of ability but because somebody went somewhere early," Wallace said Tuesday.

Neely has resigned from the striking NFL Players Association and will report to the Cowboy training camp next weekend in spite of picket lines.

"If he goes, I guess he has good reason," Wallace said.

"As far as the edge he'll have on me, I could say a lot of things about that but I'd hate to get in trouble.

"I'd like to start . . . I'd do anything to start. But I doubt it's going to take place with his going early," Wallace said.

HOUSTON AT CHICAGO

World Football Debuts Tonight

By The Associated Press

The World Football League begins play tonight in five U.S. cities with an anticipated attendance of 167,000 in stadia with a total of 297,000 seats.

The WFL will parade its orange-and-gold football onto Soldier Field, where Chicago entertains Houston; Memorial Stadium, where Memphis hosts Detroit; John F. Kennedy Stadium, the site of Philadelphia's home stand against Portland, Legion Field, where Birmingham entertains Southern California, and Orlando's Tangerine Bowl, where Florida hosts the Hawaiians.

In a nationally televised game Thursday night in the Gator Bowl, hometown Jacksonville plays New York.

Owner Bill Putnam of the Birmingham Americans is the most optimistic, envisioning between 50,000-60,000 fans to nearly fill his 70,000-seat Legion Field, while the Florida Blazers appear to have the least to be optimistic about. They have been relegated to the smallest opening-night WFL stadium, the 27,000-seat Tangerine Bowl, and anticipate around 10,000 spectators.

Chicago Fire owner Tom Origer thinks he can attract 35,000 to opening night at 55,000-seat Soldier Field and Philadelphia business manager Ken Bogdanoff says 32,000 will attend the Bell's opening night at 90,000-seat John F. Kennedy Stadium.

Memphis General Manager Leo Cahill forecasts an attendance of between 25,000-30,000 for opening night at 55,000-seat Memorial Stadium, and the Jacksonville Sharks feel they can attract 30,000 to their opener Thursday at the Gator Bowl.

League officials and WFL Commissioner Gary Davidson are optimistic that an innovative WFL will draw support. There are owners in the league willing to absorb first-year losses in anticipation of picking up some National Football League stars in 1975.

Among the new-look features the league is offering fans are newly designed uniforms which the league combined in buying on a "color-coordinated" basis and radical changes in some hallowed football traditions, such as the new seven-point touchdown.

Punt receivers may find things tougher for them, since the WFL has banned the fair catch.

Kickoffs will be from the 30-yard line, and missed field goals beyond the 20-yard line will be returned to scrimmage.

Wide receivers will be able to catch a pass with one foot out of bounds, and running backs will be allowed to go in forward motion before the snap. Extra points will be run or passed instead of kicked, and overtime periods will be used to break ties.

The WFL will play most of its games during midweek to avoid competition with college football on Saturday and the NFL on Sundays and Mondays. The season ends Nov. 29 with the World Bowl championship at Jacksonville, Fla.

Weiskopf Set To Defend British Title

LYTHAM St. ANNES, England (AP) — Tom Weiskopf, the American golf star who used to brood and sulk when things were going wrong, set off calm and relaxed Wednesday to defend his British Open title.

"The man who is going to win over these next four days will be a patient kind of fellow," said the once-explosive Weiskopf from Columbus, Ohio.

"I don't worry so much any more, I don't get hung up and I feel good," said the man who has yet to win a 1974 tournament but claims his game is sharper than it has been for years. Weiskopf, third favorite to win his second straight British championship at bookies odds of 12-1, is a player all the 153 other competitors fear.

Tony Jacklin, who became the first Briton to win the home championship for 18 years at Lytham in 1969 and went on to add the U.S. Open crown in 1970, picked Weiskopf to repeat his 1973 triumph over the 6,822-yard, par-71 links here beside the often turbulent Irish Sea.

"Tom is playing better than anyone I've ever seen play in practice for a major championship," Jacklin said.

Weiskopf, 32, shrugged off the compliment. "It's nice of Tony to say that," he said, "but if I was picking a winner in advance it would have to be Jack Nicklaus or Lee Trevino."

Nicklaus was the 5-1 betting choice for the title he has won twice before.

Gary Player of South Africa, hitting the ball better than he's done in a decade, was listed at 8-1 second favorite along with grim-featured Johnny Miller of San Francisco, who tops the U.S. money list with $200,000 after five major 1974 victories.

Trevino, the fast-talker from El Paso, was listed at 10-1 to crash back into the British golf scene that he dominated as an Open winner at Royal Birkdale in 1971 and Scotland's Muirfield the following year.

"I just hope it rains and keeps cold and the wind blows all day long," said Trevino. "I'm one of the few Americans who loves it here in the worst weather.

"I hit the ball so low that no one can keep up with my company."

Weiskopf, nursing a hairline fracture of a bone in his left wrist, was defending his title against doctors orders.

Weiskopf said that winning the British Open changed his life.

"It altered my whole outlook about the game," he said. I used to be mean and moody but I'm not like that any more.

"You see, now I know I can win the British Open.

"At Troon last year I finally acrieved something important in golf."

May Homers Astro Win

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Astros first baseman Lee May says he may be hitting the ball too hard this year.

May slammed two home runs Tuesday night to lead the Astros to a 5-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

"I've been hitting the ball hard, but they haven't been homers," May said. "I don't know if I've hit them too hard or what. Usually when I hit the ball like that it goes out of the ball park. This year, it's been falling short."

The homers were the 13th and 14th of the season for the big first baseman. They were only the third and fourth he has hit in the past month.

Dave Roberts tossed a six-hitter at the Cardinals as he posted his first victory in over a month. It hiked his record to 6-7.

The Cardinals picked up single runs in the first and second inning to go ahead 2-0. In the first, Lou Brock walked, stole second, his 52nd steal of the year, went to third on Bob Heise's single and scored when Reggie Smith hit into a double play.

The Cardinals scored in the second on singles by Bake McBride, Tim McCarver and Jack Heidemann.

May hit his first homer in the bottom of the second and the Astros added two more in the fourth and chased St. Louis starting pitcher John Curtis, 4-10. The Astros two runs came on singles by Doug Rader, Tommy Helms, Roberts and Greg Gross.

May hit his second home run in the fifth off Cardinal reliever Mike Garman. It followed a single by Bob Watson.

Roberts, bothered with shoulder problems, had lost five straight prior to the victory, a one-walk, two-strikeout performance. He retired 10 straight batters during one stretch.

Houston Manager Preston Gomez said he had no thoughts of taking Roberts out of the starting rotation if he had lost.

"He's pitched pretty good ball," Gomez said. "We were more concerned about his ailing shoulder than whether he was losing games."

In addition to his two home runs, May, who was 0-for-10 going into the game, also had a single as the Astros pounded out 13 hits. 3

The Astros have won seven of their last nine games while the Cardinals have dropped four straight, matching their previous longest losing streak this year.

Local Netters Win In Kermit

Big Spring netters traveled to the Kermit Open Tennis Tournament Friday, Saturday, and Sunday and several of them hit paydirt there, taking top prizes.

Max Hill won second in boys 16 singles, and teamed with Dave Stull to win first place in boys 16 doubles and then teamed with Lindy Woods of Seminole to take second place in boys 18 doubles.

Vicky Murphy won first place in girls 18 singles.

Box defeated former Howard College teammate Ray Villerrael to take the Men's singles title.

Kniffen and the tennis coach at Artesia, N.M. high school teamed up to take second in the men's 26 doubles.

Lions Take 1st With 6-4 Win

The Coahoma Freshman Lions defeated the Bankers 6-4 despite a 14 strikeout effort by losing pitcher Carl Mills, and a home run knocked by Jay Hall of the Bankers.

Tommy Vaughn pitched the victory which allowed the Lions to move into first place with only two games remaining.

Mike Hale had three hits for the Lions while Mike Roberts had two hits for the Bankers.

The Bankers were dropped into third place.

The Lions picked up their six runs on six hits while the Bankers collected four runs on four hits.

World Cagers Defeat Cuba

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Coach Gene Bartow said the United States couldn't afford to look ahead to Yugoslavia and proved himself a prophet when the Americans had to battle hard to down Cuba 33-70 in the World Basketball Championships.

Bartow, sitting with his team in the still-darkened Roberto Clemente Coliseum 45 minutes before the game with Cuba Tuesday night, wasn't prepared to look ahead to the Saturday-Sunday clashes with defending champion Yugoslavia and the Soviet Union.

Yugoslavia beat the Russians 82-79 a couple of hours earlier leaving the Americans and Yugoslavians as the only unbeaten teams.

"This is the only game I'm worried about," said Bartow of Cuba. Cuba battled the U.S. on nearly even terms for the first half. The lead changed hands twice before the Americans finally forged a 47-41 halftime lead on two straight long shots by Luther Burden of Utah and a basket by Eugene Short of Jackson State.

An unusually poor shooting performance by flashy guard John Lucas of Maryland against Cuba's zone was a big reason for the tight score. He made only four of 13 field shots in the first half, and starting forwards Gus Gerard and Tom Boswell were equally frustrated with identical two for seven shooting totals.

The breaking point came early in the second half when 7-foot Richard Kelley of Stanford blocked a shot, stole the ball and grabbed a rebound on three successive plays.

Kelley threw three long passes to Lucas for layups. The three scores shot the U.S. ahead 67-54 and Cuba never rallied.

The U.S. is idle until Friday night, when it plays Brazil.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A Philadelphia franchise headed by former baseball great Robin Roberts has been added to the North American Hockey League, it was announced Tuesday.

Oakland Picks Up Leroy Kelly

OAKLAND — Leroy Kelly, who amassed more rushing yardage than any other active National Football League player in his 10 years with the Cleveland Browns, was acquired by the Oakland Raiders for the $100 waiver price from the Cleveland Browns.

Win Over Texas Revives Bosox

BOSTON (AP) — "This," said manager Darrell Johnson of the Boston Red Sox, "may be just what we need to get going again."

After dropping six of seven games on a current home stand at once chummy Fenway Park, the Red Sox bounced back behind ace Luis Tiant's four-hit pitching Tuesday night for a 2-1 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Tiant was tagged for an unearned run in the first inning on two singles, one a bunt, an error and a sacrifice fly. He dazzled the Rangers the rest of the way for his 12th victory against seven losses.

"He's our big stopper—has been for quite some while," Johnson said. "Our pitching hasn't been too good lately, so this is a big plus. However, don't get overly excited. Our other guys will come around. They just have to get better."

With that Johnson announced that Reggie Cleveland, banished to the bullpen more than two weeks ago, will start against the Rangers tonight. Cleveland, 6-6, is due to be opposed by young David Clyde, who has a 3-5 record.

Johnson also said that Bill Lee, who has been ineffective in his last half dozen starts, will start in the Texas series windup Thursday afternoon.

"Lee is too good a pitcher to throw in the bullpen for any length of time," Johnson said. "We'll let him try to work his way out of his problems. If he can't, he may go to the bullpen, but only to straighten out."

Rick Wise, a righthander who cost the Red Sox a bundle of talent in a trade with the St. Louis Cardinals, has done little to earn his keep and now is nursing arm miseries. He was due to be examined by doctors today.

After losing three in a row to Baltimore and three out of four to Kansas City, the Red Sox needed a victory badly from Tiant—and they got it. He came up with one of his best games, outduelling Boston nemesis Jim Bibby, who blinded the Red Sox in a shutout victory in Texas early in the season.

After the Rangers took a 1-0 lead, the Red Sox started off badly. Tommy Harper led off with a walk and was trapped in a rundown after Doug Griffin flied to right.

Disappointed Inventors

DALLAS (AP) — District Court Judge Owen Giles has appointed a temporary receiver for Invention Company of America (INVENCO) while state lawyers attempt to reach a settlement for disappointed inventors.

Giles named Dallas lawyer Yale Griffis temporary receiver Monday for Invenco and four related companies—invention Services, Inc.; International Licscensing Co., Inc.; Invention Manufacturing Co., Inc., and Advet, Inc.

Jack Wilson of the state attorney general's office had asked Giles to put the companies' assets and records in receivership. Wilson said the companies were unable to meet restitution demands of clients and were insolvent or in "imminent danger of insolvency."

Wilson said that without a receiver "there is danger that assets will be converted, dissipated and placed beyond the reach of said receiver and this court."

Giles had issued a temporary injunction May 18 against Invenco, Invention Services, Invention Licensing and Irv Aptaker, a chief executive. That order forbade the companies to engage in some 16 alleged deceptive trade practices involving promises to investors.

Carl Swanson regional director of the Federal Trade Commission, said the commission will hold a closed hearing in Dallas July 15 to get to the bottom of rumors about swindled savings and unkept promises in connection with the idea promotion industry.

Swanson said industry spokesmen, inventors and interested organizations were invoted to testify at the hearing.

MRS. HENLEY IN COURTHOUSE — Mrs. Mary Pauline Henley, mother of Houston mass murders defendant Elmer Wayne Henley, walks down the hallway of the Bexar County Courthouse with another son, Paul.

MRS. HENLEY CONVINCED

'Mama, I Didn't Do Anything Wrong'

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A casual game of tick-tack-toe was in progress between mother and son as the pair sat on a wooden courthouse bench. Inside a nearby courtroom beyond the reach of their ears, a grisly tale of torture and death was emerging.

"Its a long time sitting out in the hall and not knowing and its even harder not asking, says Mrs. Mary Pauline Henley, 35, mother of Houston mass murders defendant Elmer Wayne Henley.

She was playing tick-tack-toe with another of her sons, Vernon, 12.

IN LORD'S HANDS

Since she is a potential witness, Mrs. Henley cannot read newspaper accounts of trial testimony or inquire of others about trial developments. She is prepared to sit on the courthouse bench for the duration of the trial, which may take eight weeks.

There are others here, too. They are members of families of three mass murder victims..

Mrs. Henley is certain Elmer Wayne, 18, is innocent. Proving his innocence is another matter.

Her eldest son "has put it in the Lord's hands. However it comes out, he'll accept it that way. He hopes some good will come out of it," Mrs. Henley says quietly. She smiles.

CAN'T TELL LIE

Last week before Mrs. Henley was ordered not to talk about the case, she was asked if Elmer Wayne was guilty of murder. She said her son "looked me in the eye and said, 'Mama, I didn't do anything wrong. Dean had to die."

Mrs. Henley said, "So I know he couldn't have killed any of those other boys because he can't look me in the eye and tell a lie."

"Dean" was Dean A. Corll, 33, who Henley told his mother he killed. In a scene which was spread on national television last summer, Henley first telephoned his mother with the emotional story.

Henley is not on trial for the death of Corll.

He is charged with the death of six teen-aged males who, according to a statement of Henley which was read in court here, were procured by him for Corll. In the statement, Henley admits complicity in the deaths.

'A GOOD IDEA'

Mrs. Henley says she has "a good idea" about what was being testified to in the courtroom.

Her nights in San Antonio are spent at a motel. Besides Vernon, two other sons and Elmer Wayne's grandmother are here.

Mrs. Henley is buying copies of local newspapers during the trial for safekeeping but she says she isn't reading them.

Mrs. Henley is divorced. Her eldest son's father "hasn't shown an interest and he won't," she says. The father is in Houston, she says.

She has no steady job and expenses are mounting.

She was fired at a cashier's job last April, she says, when she came here for a pretrial hearing. Other prospective employers wouldn't hire her when she asked to be able to attend the trial, which is here on a change of venue.

WONDERFUL PEOPLE

Other persons, including members of her church, are helping her.

"There's a lot of wonderful people in this world. Without them, I don't think I'd be here," she says. "But I couldn't imagine being on the job and my son being here.

Sonny And Cher Haggling Over Property Settlement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sonny and Cher Bono are haggling over a property settlement involving their 22-room mansion in Holmby Hills, valued at $1.3 million.

The haggling comes in advance of the couples divorce proceedings, which are expected to reach court in September.

Cher, 27, contends she bought the house from Sonny for $450,000 — and she has a memorandum of agreement bearing his signature to back it up. Sonny, 39, contends he got a court restraining order to keep her out.

Cher said she took possession of the house during Sonnys absence Monday night. She said she was accompanied by David Geffen, her frequent escort in recent months, a security guard, a governess for her daughter, Chastity, and her secretary.

Sonny said through a spokesman that Cher had taken the house and he could not get back in because of the guard. He moved into a Beverly Hills hotel.

The spokesman said Sonny had a restraining order to keep her out of the house. He said Sonny planned to go into court to settle possession of the house.

AARP Meeting Is Scheduled

The local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons will meet at 10 a.m., Friday in Kentwood Center.
