Nazi Forces At Bizerte Surrender

Air-Sea Blockade Blocking Escape From Cape Bon

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 10 (AP)—Naval and air forces threw a blockade around Cap Bon peninsula and sank many small ships carrying Axis soldiers desperately attempting to escape the Tunisian inferno today.

The American Second Corps obtained unconditional surrender of all enemy units in its territory southeast of Bizerte. German resistance stiffened in front of British armor smashing against the entrance to Cap Bon peninsula.

The position of Axis troops still fighting in Tunisia was described officially as "worse than desperate" and it is certain that no important number of German and Italian soldiers will escape from Africa.

Details of the German surrender to the Americans in the north were disclosed at headquarters as follows:

At 11 a. m. yesterday Major General Krause, commanding artillery of the Africa Corps, sent an emissary to Maj. Gen. Omar N. Bradley and requested an armistice so the surrender might be negotiated.

General Bradley's terms were as follows:

1—Unconditional surrender.

2—Prompt acceptance.

The American officer further demanded that all destruction of German equipment cease immediately. Krause accepted.

The wholesale surrender of the enemy battalions then began and by early afternoon all the northern region where the enemy had been cut off by the wedge the British First army drove through to Tunis was cleaned up.

The bulk of the German armor was there and the total of prisoners was over 15,000, in addition to another 25,000 taken by the British.

Five other generals were among those who surrendered with Krause.

They were Major General Borowicz, commander of the 15th armored division; Major General Guderian, commander of the air force artillery division; Lieutenant General Buelow, commander of the Mantuffel division; Major General von Vaeerst, commander of the Fifth armored army; and Major General Baumgarten, commander of the Bizerte air force.

The surrendering Germans were concentrated in an area around the mouth of the Medjerda river, which flows into the Gulf of Tunis 25 miles southeast of Bizerte.

The British Seventh armored division, which had come up from the south to add the Americans, caught Borowicz, whose 15th armored division they had been fighting for two years.

Meanwhile British armor striking south and southeastward from the Hamman Lit area on the Gulf of Tunis southeast of the capital found the Germans stiffening there, temporarily at least, and there was some fierce fighting which was confused today.

Armored columns pushed ahead, however, and forward patrols moved a point 12 miles south of Cretaville which placed them near the center of the peninsula's base—and deployed in other areas.

Some enemy troops on the peninsula were attempting to get away, sometimes in what amounted to panic, and Allied air forces were attacking them both on land and sea. They sank many small boats laden with soldiers, who clung desperately to rafts after the vessels submerged and tried to ward off attacks by waving white flags.

A first army spokesman on the Cap Bon front estimated Saturday that 80,000 Axis troops, deserted by their highest commanders, had been swept into the peninsula's beachhead trap.

Allied aerial squadrons, leaving trails of sinking or burning vessels at sea and shattered motor transport and guns aground, were without aerial opposition.

It is Dunkerque reversed, but the British maintained local air superiority over the channel during the historic withdrawal from France in 1940.

Prisoners so far taken include 3,000 members of the German air force. Both the German and the Italian air forces have abandoned the battle of Africa.

Most high commanders and many pilots have skipped by plane. Axis ground troops are without (See NAZI FORCES, P. 8, C. 2)

Showers Benefit Some Points; Hail Damage Is Light

Showers, seasoned with a peppering of hail, cleaned a wintry dish served up by the weatherman over the weekend in this area.

The U. S. department of commerce weather bureau at the airport gauged 4.1 in a series of showers and occasional drizzles, while the U. S. Experiment Farm showed .87 in slightly heavier dashes of rain.

Over the territory this variation appeared to have been about typical. Coahoma, to the east, estimated up to three-quarters of an inch with some hail. In general, it appeared to have furnished farmers in the territory with some badly needed planting moisture. Vincent, in the northeastern corner of the county, had a similar amount, although high winds and hail threatened damage for a time.

In Stanton, the fall was estimated at half an inch with most of it coming in a hard shower Sunday evening. Some hail, not enough for damage, came with the rain. Light drizzle fell most of Sunday, and early reports said that the farming areas to the north and northwest had been helped.

Garden City had only .35 of an inch with practically all of it coming in a midnight shower Sunday. While it freshened up Glascock county ranges, the rain was not heavy enough to be of lasting benefit.

Worst hail damage appeared to have occurred in the Foran section where a rattling burst, followed by a heavy shower, left the ground literally covered with hailstones. Gardens were hard hit, but ranges seemed to have been helped.

Approximately an inch and a third of rain fell at Lamesa with the northern half perhaps getting even more. The fall was general over Dawson county and farmers, ranchers and merchants all were cheered over prospects Monday. Hail was not heavy enough for damage. Reports said that sheets of water lay alongside the road between Lamesa and Lubbock, where heavy rains were reported.

City officials reported that, although a third of an inch of rain fell at the city lakes, neither of the basins received any run-off water.

The Luther community caught around an inch of rain mixed with hail which, however, was not injurious to crops. The Knott community also caught around three-quarters of an inch of rain and a quantity of hail.

Wind reached quite a velocity in the city and at least two trees were reported blown down during the night at 409 Bell street.

COLORADO CITY, May 10 (Sp)—Rain amounting to .74 of an inch fell here and over most of Mitchell county to break a prolonged spring drought.

The showers were accompanied by heavy hail that caused severe damage in several areas. High wind at Dunn overrode the school's new gymnasium.

Subsidy Plan To Get Test In Congress

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—Congress will get another chance to express itself on the use of government subsidies as a method of holding down food costs when the administration asks for legislation extending the life of the agricultural department's $2,500,000,000 Commodity Credit Corporation.

The act authorizing the corporation expires June 30, and the administration is preparing recommendations that the agency, which itself is engaged in a number of farm subsidy programs, be extended for at least two more years.

Tokyo Reports OPA Reduces Margins On Food Items

By The Associated Press

The Tokyo radio reported today that the war had been carried directly to the islands of Japan with the shelling of a village on the island of Hokkaido by a submarine.

The Japanese broadcast said presumably American, missed the shells from the submarine, missed their mark and landed in a field just before midnight yesterday.

In Burma Japanese jungle troops scored new successes. A broadcast, giving the text of an imperial headquarters communiqué, said Japanese army units had entered Butthadaung, 30 miles north of Akyab in Burma and 115 miles southeast of Chittagong, chief Allied base in the Indian border area.

New Delhi dispatches, admitting the withdrawal from Rutherford, said that Maungdaw, on the Bay of Bengal and the western end of the British defense line in Burma, also was in a precarious position and that the British battalions might ultimately be established on the India side of the border. The British had been forced back about 40 miles in five weeks.

RAF and American planes continued to hammer the Japanese, however, attacking Sampans, steamers, bridges, and railways.

American four-engine bombers, making their second big raid from China in a few days, devastated Canton, biggest Japanese air base in China south of Formosa on Saturday.

Forty tons of bombs were dropped on Tien Ho air base and at least 18, perhaps 15, enemy planes were shot down in battle, dispatches reported. Medium bombers joined in the raid as they did on the previous heavy-bomber assault to Hainan Island.

The Tokyo radio, giving its version, said seven bombers took part and two were shot down. The Americans reported losing one medium bomber.

Russians Break Fortifications Of Novorossisk

MOSCOW, May 10 (AP)—Red army forces have penetrated the outer fortifications of Novorossisk, dispatches from the front declared today, and are "persistently crumbling the enemy defenses and breaking into the depths of his positions."

The Soviet advance in the Kuban coincided with continued fierce fighting in the air, which the Russians said had resulted in the destruction of 950 German planes in the last week, and a resurgence of activity in the Lischansk area in the Donets basin.

Axis Rushes To Ward Off Invasion

LONDON, May 10. (AP)—Intensive Axis preparations to ward off any Allied invasion attempt along the soft underbelly of Europe were reported underway from the south coast of France to the Black sea today as the German-Italian debacle in North Africa entered its final phase.

Although Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini seemed particularly concerned over the prospects of an Allied drive through southern Europe, reports from Holland indicated the Axis was not overlooking the possibility of an assault across the English channel.

All of Holland was placed under martial law last night, the Netherlands news agency Ansa reported, and Dutch sources were convinced the action was taken by the Germans in an effort to forestall any armed outbreak in connection with an Allied invasion.

Heightening Axis fears, 400 Allied planes raided the Sicilian harbor of Palermo yesterday on the third anniversary of Hitler's invasion of the lowlands, leaving that important base flaming and smoking under the heaviest aerial onslaught of the Mediterranean campaign.

In the Balkans, German troops were being moved southward through Hungary at a rate comparable to that preceding the Axis attack on Greece and Yugoslavia, according to travelers from Europe arriving at Ankara. Stockholm dispatches reported Germany was sending modern weapons to bolster Bulgarian defenses.

Nazi Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler has hurried to the Balkans to demand the suppression of German opposition and the deportation of all opposition leaders, it was reported from Geneva by Tass, official Russian news agency.

A German radio commentator yesterday underlined the Balkan developments when he said "reported (Allied) troop movements to Cyprus and troop concentrations in Palestine and Syria point to a campaign against southeastern Europe, but the enemy will be repulsed at every point of our southern front." He boasted of the "strengthened defenses" of the Dodecanese, Cyclades, Sporades, and other Aegean islands generally.

AP Correspondent In Africa Injured

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 10. (AP)—J. Wes. Gallagher, Associated Press war correspondent who covered the invasions of Denmark and Greece, and landed with the AEF in North Africa six months ago, has been hospitalized because of minor injuries suffered when a jeep in which he was riding overturned.

Gallagher, a native of San Francisco, was pinned beneath the vehicle Saturday when it overturned near newly-captured Bizerte.

Couple Injured In Storm Near Terrell

TERRELL, May 10. (AP)—Jesse Carroll, 48, farmer living near Terrell, was seriously injured and his wife less seriously injured shortly before noon today when a wind and rainstorm destroyed their home.

Several other homes in the rural community nine miles north of here were blown down but no other casualties were reported.

Several planes at the British flying school here were damaged.

Liquor Fund Slash Rapped By Ford

AUSTIN, May 10 (AP)—A bitter last-minute fight before the 48th legislature over a proposed slash of $390,000 in funds appropriated for the liquor control board for 1944-45 loomed today.

Members of the legislature had on their desks an open letter from Bert Ford, administrator of the liquor control board, saying:

"The conference committees either do not realize the effect that this reduction will have on liquor law enforcement in Texas and the collection of revenues on alcoholic beverages or a majority of each committee is opposed to strict law enforcement alike in both the wet and dry counties of Texas."

The general departmental appropriations bill, including allocation of funds for liquor law administration, is now before the house- senate free conference committee for reconciliation of differences between the house and senate recommendations.

Currently appropriated for the liquor control board is $1,690,100. It was anticipated that the conference committee would recommend a bill calling for $1,500,000 for the next biennium, representing a reduction of $390,000 for the next two years.

Ford's letter was addressed to members of the committees, all members of the legislature, the governor and lieutenant-governor, and members of the liquor control board. Ford characterized the suggested appropriation as "inadequate," pointing out that under it, 92 employees would be eliminated.

MARCH EXPORTS ARE HIGHEST ON RECORD

WASHINGTON, May 10 (AP)—March exports of $931,000,000 were the highest on record, the commerce department reported today.

The previous high, the department said, was in June 1919 when the value of exports amounted to $928,000,000.

Export totals exclude shipments to American armed forces abroad but include lend-lease goods shipped to the United Nations.

The value of imports in March amounted to $248,000,000, bringing the total for the first quarter of 1943 to $711,000,000. The total value of imports in the first quarter of 1942 amounted to $779,000,000.

ADOLF SAYS SOLDIERS HAVING HARD TIME

LONDON, May 10. (AP)—Adolf Hitler was quoted by the Berlin radio today as declaring the winter "involved the heaviest suffering and hardest burdens for our soldiers." The broadcast was recorded by Reuters.

The Berlin radio said Hitler broadcast on the fourth anniversary of the organization of the Nazi "winter help" campaign.

By halting the Russian assault and by counter-attacking, Hitler said the German soldiers had averted a crisis "which would have broken any other army in the world."

"All sacrifices on the home front pale before the privations and sufferings which our soldiers have had to bear for the second time in the east. Only love of their country and a desire that it shall be spared the horrors of war could have made such deeds possible."

M'Carthy Can Silence Critics; All-Star Old Folks Team Named

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Features Sports Editor
NEW YORK—This is the year Joe McCarthy can silence his critics.
A considerable number of fans, while admitting Joe has been an unusually successful pilot, have felt that any manager could win pennants with a club like the Yankees. They have been reluctant to deal out too much praise to Marse Joe.

Of course, with the majority of baseball-goers. McCarthy, already rates as one of the two or three top managers in the majors. The dissenters are in, effect, putting this question up to the plump Yankee maestro this year: "Now, bud, what're you going to do about it?"

The Cardinals knocked the man of McCarthy back on their posteriors last fall and the war has succeeded in breaking up the Yankees. McCarthy no longer has a squad of stars or invincibles. Only one regular infielder and one regular outfielder remain from his championship club of last year. It isn't a hand-picked squad of aces. It's a club that will need real direction. And those who haven't climbed on the McCarthy bandwagon are asking Joe to prove himself—to show whether he can win a championship with a crew of rookies and transfers—to show his ability as a strategist and a handler of men. If Joe can meet the challenge, his critics will join the McCarthy marching and chowder club.

To start with most clubs were better conditioned for the gateway than the Yankees. Those cold ocean winds at Asbury Park didn't help in getting the players in shape. And the Yankees took more defeats in the spring exhibition games than in many a year.

The outfield situation was such that McCarthy had to convert a pitcher, Johnny Lindell, into a fly-chaser. In place of his seven-year-standout, Joe DiMaggio, McCarthy has Stormy Weatherly, only a fair performer by comparison, in centerfield.

The left side of the infield is bulwarked by recruits. A minor league second baseman, George Stinewell, is at shortstop, and a shortstop, Bill Johnson, is at third. Nick Etten, a chap who would hardly have attracted the Yankees in normal times, is at first base, a purchase from the Phillies.

Only Joe Gordon at second, Charlie Keller in left and Bill Dickey behind the plate are carry-overs from last year. Red Ruffing, the veteran of the pitching staff, and Vernon Gomez, a once-great lefty, are gone.

Five changes in the infield and outfield. Never since McCarthy started his four-year-stretch of world championships in 1936 has Joe had to work with such a made-over club.

McCarthy seldom stood pat on his squad. Every year he'd quietly ease one or two fellows out and replace them with talent from the Yankee farm-fellows who were slipping or chaps whose temperaments didn't fit into the Yankee pattern. But never was there a wholesale turnover.

Tam one who regards McCarthy as a kope. However, I will be just as interested as the others in seeing what McCarthy can do with material that isn't considerably better than that possessed by his rival managers. If Joe bags the pennant, or makes a great battle for it, there should be no dissenters left.

Here's the all-star Old Folks team of the majors: Pitcher Fred Fitzsimmons, Dodgers, 42; Catcher, Earle Brucker, A's, 39; First Base, Joe Kuhel, White Sox, 37; Second Base, Lonnie Fred, Reds, 31; Shortstop, Leo Durocher, Dodgers, 37; Third Base, Tony Cuccinello, Braves, 35; Outfielders, Johnny Cooney, Dodgers, 41; Al Simmons, Red Sox, 40; and Paul Waner, Dodgers, 40.

The National League's most ancient squad would have: Pitcher, Fitzsimmons; Catcher, Gus Mancuso, Giants, 37; First Base, Dolph Camilli, Dodgers, 35; Second Base, Frey, Shortstop, Durocher; Third Base, Cuccinello; Outfield, Cooney, Waner and Estel Crabtree, Reds, 40.

The American's: Pitcher, Joe Heving, Cleveland, 38; Catcher, Brucker; First Base, Kuhel; Second Base, Don Gutteridge, Browns, 30; Shortstop, Joe Cronin, Red Sox, 36; Third Base, Pinks Higgins, Tigers, 34; Outfield, Simmons; Roger Cramer, Tigers, 37; Bob Johnson, Senators, 36.

Of the American league regulars Bill Dickey of the Yankees is the oldest catcher at 36 and Luke Appling of the White Sox is the oldest shortstop at 34. Bill Jurges, at 35, is the oldest regular shortstop in the senior circuit.

Overmire May Be Superior To Wakefield

NEW YORK—What's Going On: Detroit fans are wondering whether the $400 bargain will turn out to be a better buy than the $52,000 beauty. Little-talked-about Frank Overmire, southpaw pitcher, cost the Tigers the small amount; ballyhooed Dick Wakefield brought the five-figure price.

Everyone continues strong on Wakefield, touted as a terrific hitter but still a bush-leaguer in fielding, and now the fans have also discovered Overmire and climbed on his bandwagon. Why? Because the youngster pitched 15 scoreless innings in the spring exhibition. Both Wakefield and Overmire played with Steve Overnell's Beaumont Texas league club last year.

Somebody's Wrong Dept.: Dixie Walker of the Dodgers gives his racial origin as Scotch-Irish in this year's National League Green Book while his brother, Harry, of the Cardinals says he's English.

Baseball clubs, says War Manpower Commissioner McNutt, should be able to get along with men over 38 and youths up to 18. If that becomes the case, the majors will have to do some widespread recruiting from the kindergarten and the old folks home. Because, as of present date, there are no 17-year-olds in the majors and only nine greybeards past 38.

Carl Hubbell, Giants; Estel Crabtree, Reds; Fred Fitzsimmons, John Cooney and Paul Waner, Dodgers, are the only past-38 National Leaguers. The junior circuit has Mike Hyde and Al Simmons of the Red Sox, Joe Heving, Indians, and John Niggeling Browns.

There are 14 National leaguers between 35 and 38 and 19 American Leaguers. The senior loops has 56 players between 30 and 35, with another 49 in the junior loop. All other big leaguers are under 30.

These are the 35-38 group: NATIONAL—Leo Durocher, and John Allen, Dodgers; Paul Derringer, Cubs; Ray Starr, Reds; Dick Bartell, Ray Coombs, Gus Mancuso, Bill Jurges and Mel Ott, Giants; Walt Beck and Charles Klein, Phillies; Banks Sewell and Al Lopez, Pirates; and Deb Garmes, Cards.

AMERICAN—Joe Cronin, Red Sox; Thornton Lee, Bill Swift, Joe Kuhel and Moose Solters, White Sox; Mel Harder, Gene Desautels and George Susca, Indians; Tommy Bridges, Roger Cramer and Rip Radcliff, Tigers; Johnny Murphy, Jim Turner, Bill Dickey and Rollie Hemaley, Yankees; Earle Brucker, Athletics; Bob Johnson, Senators, and Fritz Ostermuller and Rick Ferrell, Browns.

It's a pretty good bet that the Dodgers will top the National league standing a month after the season opens. Why? Because Brooklyn plays its first 19 games against the Phillies, Braves and Giants. Also because the Dodgers were "hot" as the season opened after compiling a better exhibition game record than any other club.

The schedule, however, favors the Cardinals in the last month and Brooklyn's old men may fall apart by that time and not have the stamina for the stretch run.

Baseball's dark horse team: The Cubs. They finished sixth last year but an improved pitching staff plus a pair of good rookies in Heinz Becker and Eddie Stanley may make them a serious contender.

JUDGE UNDERSTANDS
BERKELEY, Cal. (UP)—Richard Coke gave up his license to Judge Oliver Youngs, for driving through a blackout with his lights ablaze, that he was driving his wife to a maternity hospital. The judge replied that most men seem to have somewhat similar reactions under similar circumstances and suspended the fine.

Approximately 16,000 Norwegian seamen are engaged in carrying war cargoes for the Allies in Norwegian vessels.

Franco Sends Up Another Feeler For Peace

MADRID, May 10 (UP)—Generalissimo Francisco Franco, speaking at Almeria last night, said the world war had reached a deadlock in which neither side had the power to destroy the other.

"Therefore," the Spanish chief of state said, "those of us who witness the struggle serenely consider it is senseless to delay the peace."

Franco said additional victories would cost great sacrifices, but that sooner or later the deadlock would force the belligerents to listen to voices calling for peace like those of Spain and the Vatican.

(The peace feeler speech by the Spanish leader, indebted to the axis for help in overthrowing the Spanish republic, was considered significant in view of the massive axis defeat in Africa and the successes of the Russian winter offensive.)

U. S. Maritime Trainees Are Boxing Fans

NEW YORK—Boxing should be the last sport to be eliminated if it becomes necessary to halt athletic activities for the duration.

That is the opinion of men stationed at the U. S. Maritime Training Station, located near here on Hoffman Island.

The latest of the sports polls being conducted by AP Features among service men all over the United States, found 1,184 members of the Merchant Marine stationed on the small island in New York Harbor, taking part.

Next to boxing, the seamen thought basketball should be the last to be curtailed, right after baseball.

Here is the order in which the men of Hoffman Island think sports should be eliminated—if it becomes necessary:

Bowling, ice hockey, golf, horse racing, wrestling, tennis, football, baseball, basketball and boxing.

In the same poll the Hoffman Island men voted on sports as to their general interest and morale value and boxing again came out tops. Basketball was second and baseball third.

The others rated in this order: tennis, football, wrestling, ice hockey, horse racing, golf and bowling.

It. Benny Leonard, the former world lightweight boxing champion, is director of welfare and athletics at Hoffman Island. In addition to tutoring, Leonard often boxes with the men.

"Sports, especially group athletics, are a major factor in developing quick thinking, coordination of mind and muscle, and they teach men to keep cool under fire," Leonard says.

"My thought is that if a ship gets hit, the athletic type of man will not go haywire. He will man his post, keep his eyes open and his head high. For he has been hit in the nose before and has the courage and stamina to take it and carry on," he says.

That is why I think the men at Hoffman Island will make great seamen."

Leonard tries to get every man at the base to compete either in varsity or inter-barracks athletics. His assistants are Jack March and Alex Arnick. March, who won the tennis title at Hoffman, was a tennis professional before entering the service and taught at various resort spots. Arnick, a boxing, football and basketball standout, was well known in Pennsylvania as a basketball official.

Racing Pennant In The Bag For Count Fleet

NEW YORK, May 10 (UP)—Count Fleet has completed his "spring training" without even getting his hair mussed, and unless a few of the fellows with sore legs come back in a hurry, you might as well give the Count the pennant right now and rent the rest of them out.

FD Congratulates U. S. Commanders

WASHINGTON, May 10 (UP)—Congratulations on the victories of Allied armies over Axis forces in North Africa have been sent by President Roosevelt to General Dwight D. Eisenhower and British and French commanders.

In a dispatch sent last night, the president told Eisenhower that the "power and coordination with which the Allied forces are crushing our enemies in Tunisia is a tribute to your leadership."

for milk-wagon hauling and such.

As a matter of fact, in waiting in with $100,000 worth of victories in the Kentucky derby and Preakness, the brown colt of lightning from Chicago not only proved conclusively that the current active set of three-year old haystokers are about as "hot" as last night's mashed potatoes, but also that somebody's going to get hurt if they try to keep on chasing him.

Johnny Adams, the pudgy little Kansan who has twice been the nation's jockey champion, summed that part of it up for all of them after steering Blue Swords to second place (as usual) in yesterday's Preakness, eight lengths back of the Count.

"The Count's just too much horse," Jumping Johnny admitted as he climbed down wearily. "And what's more, if Blue Swords is kept chasing Count Fleet much more, he might break down. No horse can stand that."

The Preakness marked the sixth time in two seasons that Blue Swords has eaten the Count's dust.

The enemy was pushed back here today!

EVER see a newspaperman's desk at the end of a crowded day—ash-strewn, paste-smearred, littered with the grist of the news mill that never stops?

It's hardly to be compared with the desk of a great general—and yet the enemy was pushed back here today!

Pushed back by another 24 hours of truthful reporting . . .

Pushed back by community leadership in myriad war activities from bond selling to tin can salvage . . .

Pushed back by the little things that help build and sustain a nation's morale—the personal items, the pictures of the boys at the front, the helps on the home page, the laughs on the comics page and the information and inspiration throughout the newspaper.

Yes, the enemy was pushed back here again today.
He will continue to fall back so long as American newspapers have anything to do about it!

But other sportsmen can find needed sports articles at Hester's. Tennis racquets and balls, golf clubs and golf balls and even tennis shorts are a few of the things the store has.

In addition, Hester's which is owned and managed by Boone Horne, carries a complete line of greeting cards for every occasion and has recently added to its regular line of office supplies.

The store which began with small stock the first part of 1938, has grown steadily. The present location was selected the first of January of this year when Horne bought out Carnett's Sporting Goods store and moved into the Carnett location.

The move, which was an improvement in being able to service the community, according to

Those Plants Should Be Kept Thoroughly Watered

Dry summer weather should not occasion a let down in attempting to beautify the yard, grow flowers, shrubs and garden, advises John Vineyard, Sr., operator of the Vineyard Nursery.

However, it is a season when more work and vigilance will be required. For instance, plants should be watered thoroughly, most of them twice a week, and as soon as the surface dries shallow cultivation should follow. Too, it is well to be on the lookout for spiders which attack all manner of plants. These creatures seem to thrive in hot weather.

If there is a sprangly elm tree on the place which should have been pruned, there is no need to delay. Vineyard says that these trees may be safely pruned during May with proper care.

Victory Gardens who have had trouble getting tomato plants may fill their needs from the beds at Vineyard's for the nursery has most of the varieties recommended by the extension service for this area.

Too, those who have an eye to splashes of vivid color about the yard once autumn is here will find a new assortment of chrysanthemum plants at Vineyard's. These are all from prize winning strains and are chosen for both color and texture as well as conformation of blossoms.

Editorial -

Our Supremacy In The Air

What a joint communique by URAAF and RAF air officers called the greatest aerial assault in all history in support of ground forces opened the way for the British First Army's march on Tunis.

The warplanes concentrated on a four-mile front where the axis forces were strongly entrenched. Four planes every minute for nine solid hours swept over the narrow front and rained bombs and machine-gun bullets on the enemy positions, until scarcely a single square yard of earth remained untouched. As a result the enemy position simply ceased to exist and the ground troops swept forward into Tunisia, keystone of the Tunisian defenses.

Two thousand five hundred sorties were flown by the Allied air forces on a single day, a feat that can only be appreciated by keeping in mind the limited area of operations.

Allied fighter planes laid aside their role as fighters for the day and became fighter-bombers, dive-bombers and whatever else the situation called for. Axis warplanes were virtually non-existent. For weeks dispatches from the front have spoken of allied air supremacy, which is quite a different thing from air superiority. In the final phases of the battle for Tunisia this supremacy of Allied aviation has become absolute. The only comparable situation in this war was the absolute supremacy of the Japanese air forces over Bataan and Corregidor. But for that air supremacy and the attendant inability of the Filipinians to get in supplies by air or sea, General Wainwright's forces might have been holding out until yet.

Most encouraging feature of the war in Europe, from our viewpoint, is the growing air superiority of the Americans, British and Russians over the axis. With complete dominance in the air, the Allies can land at almost any point in Europe their over-all strategy calls for. When the time comes they will simply move in and take over whatever beachheads they require.

Texan Exhibits New Plastic Product Made From Cotton

Hollywood—
Gracie Fields
Again Playing
As Actress

By BOBBEN COONS

HOLLYWOOD — Miss Gracie Fields, who likes to be "playin' houses," is busy again "playin' actors an' actresses."

When Gracie says she's "playin' houses," she means she's keeping house. When Gracie "plays actors an' actresses," it means she's working at the profession in which she rose from obscurity to become England's most popular entertainer and highest-paid actress.

Gracie is playin' at both games now, keeping the big house for husband Monty Banks, and keeping a real-life house for cinema husband Monty Woolley, the Beard. The picture is "Holy Matrimony."

"I'm just a housewife at heart," says Gracie, "and after this picture all you men will be taking your wives to see what a perfect housewife Gracie Fields is. In fact, I think me own husband will be taking me to see it—so I can get some pointers!"

Gracie Fields is a big, breezy blonde, full of more push and vitality than a dozen glamour-dolls could muster for an extra-special clam-bake. On her tours for British war relief she used to keep working, delivering the patter and the songs, long after you expected her to drop from exhaustion. She'd have made a superduper cheerleader for some American college, and that's what she's like now on her air show, her camp and bond work. She did camp and factory tours in England in 1940, and expects to return for more this June.

It has taken seven years for Gracie to find a movie story to make in Hollywood—seven years since 20th Century-Fox brought her over to launch an American career. They had a nice luncheon for Gracie then, with orchids and thick juicy steaks, ah, and everybody was happy and so was Gracie. Which was the end, practically speaking, of that. Gracie with her Lancashire accent, her individual style, needed something special in a story to guarantee that American audiences would join in her fun. Since then Gracie has become better known here through stage and air work, but she still drew something special in a story: "Holy Matrimony" is a comedy in which Gracie doesn't sing—unless they change their minds and give her a song.

Another matter on which some mind-changing may be done is how they'll handle the Vision in "The Song of Bernadette." No decision has been reached, but Roman Bohnen, character actor in the film, has passed on Alla Nazimova's suggestion: that Lillian Gish, ever the spiritual type in films, be cast. The Gish career, including "The White Sister," would form a psychological background for audience acceptance.

FD's Trip Was To Help Quell Southern 'Revolt'

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Politicians argue that no "elective" ever takes a step without political consequences in mind. I guess that's why political observers here see in the president's trip just one more move to placate the rebellious South. They point out that on his journey to Monterey, five southern governors visited his train.

This column has pointed out time and again that the southern rebellion against the administration is more serious than it appears on the surface. There is this to be borne in mind if you are arguing from a purely political standpoint. The South can upset the democratic apple cart in 1944 by rebelling against President Roosevelt for a fourth term or against any successor he might name for a perpetuation of the New Deal, but it can't pick the next president unless it strings along with New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, California and the other states that have the big-number electoral votes.

Insiders say that if the President had any political idea in mind while wending through the South, it undoubtedly was to give the southern members of Congress something to think about on pending legislation—not to garner any votes for 1944.

Persons in the know here say that disclosure that "Shangri-La" was really the aircraft carrier Hornet, is practically the last important secret of either the Army or Navy in which the public would be interested. Personally I think the Navy still has one big story—the account of what has happened in our war against the Nazi submarines. In the battle of the Atlantic, a substantial number of U-boats undoubtedly have been sunk. That'll be a great story when it comes.

Food Administrator Chester L. Davis has let the word seep out to agriculture department employees under his supervision that there will be no firing as long as they deliver. On the other hand, he has let it be known that he will not stand for any of that inter-agency sniping that causes so much trouble in the government. In other words, all Davis is interested in is results and harmony. That sounds like pretty fair administration.

Military strategists here are pretty well agreed that in the shadow of things to come is an all-out Nazi offensive against Russia—the object being a crushing defeat of the United Nations' east-front ally.

The strategists argue this way: (1) The battle of Africa is drawing to a close. Within 30 to 60 days it may be over, with a pretty serious setback for the axis.

(2) In order to offset this defeat from a military as well as from a psychological standpoint, the Nazis' only alternative is make big gains in Russia.

(3) Summer is the only time the Nazis can make any headway on the eastern front, and if they don't act this summer, the Russians will wreck them completely in that sector next winter.

(4) Underground information has it that the Nazis are moving hundreds of thousands of reinforcements into the Russian lines. The quietness of the Russian front would indicate that one or both sides are consolidating their forces for a major battle.

Maintenance Of County Roads Spurred By Rain

With the rains over the weekend in the county, commissioners said Monday that general maintenance on county roads would get underway to last as long as the moisture makes the work possible.

Work has been finished on a stretch of road three miles south of the Vincent store where calluses were put down. Caliche trucks are also hauling loads on the Flat Top road near Vincent and workmen are putting in a bridge on a road near the Moore community.

Work of dragging shoulders on the Lake road and old pavement near Midway, is also underway as it is on the road north of Coahoma-Vincent pavement.

Keeping the county's roads in repair is an all-time job, according to Commissioner Pancho Nail, who pointed out that Howard county has around 48 miles of pavement.

THE WAR TODAY: Russia, Poland Face Adjustments

It's becoming clear that the Russo-Polish acrimony have a meaning which thus far hasn't been displayed officially on the world's bulletin-boards, but which might better be understood in Allied circles for the good of all concerned.

The idea that the two countries are at logger-heads as the result of falling into a booby propaganda trap doesn't quite make sense.

Rather it would seem that Moscow and the Polish government-in-exile (in London) are in process of trying to whittle each other down to the size which will fit their respective views of what post-war eastern Europe should be. There is in the offing—or so I believe—a sizeable boundary dispute. And that won't be the only one which will have to be settled after the conflict.

The Polish government-in-exile, headed by Premier Sikorski, apparently has read trouble in the writing on the wall. Britain's Prime Minister Churchill the other day promised the restoration of a "great and independent Poland."

Premier Stalin of Russia followed with a statement that he favored the establishment of a strong and independent Polish state after the war.

Something is missing from both statements. Neither says that the post-war Poland will be territorially the same Poland as existed before the war.

Russia is likely to insist on numerous territorial readjustments for defensive purposes.

It will be strange if the Reds don't claim the zones taken from Finland in 1940. And the Russians didn't take over eastern Poland for nothing, when Hitler started his war. They likely will reclaim Bessarabia, and demand control not only of the mouth of the Danube in Rumania but other strategic points on the Black sea coast.

Similar reshuffling may be expected in many parts of the world to ensure Allied security. For example, the Japanese mandated islands which were fortified contrary to terms of the grant by the League of Nations and used against the Allies certainly can't be left in possession of Tokyo. Nippon surely will lose both Korea and Manchuria.

Mussolini's Africa empire is shot to pieces. He will lose Albania, which will regain its independence. And presumably the Italian islands off the coast of Asia Minor will be taken from him for military reasons.

So one could go on and find many places where there probably will be readjustments in an effort to make this a safer world to live in. We might as well make up our minds to that in advance. Changes which really go to make for peace or justice should cause no anguish anywhere.

The squirrel family gets its name from the Latin word sciurus, which means shade-tailed.

The telephone buzzed, once, twice, half a dozen times.

Competently, Powell concluded the kiss with just the right amount of pressure. Then, releasing Penny, he picked up the receiver.

His eyes widened, then narrowed. "There it? Yes—yes. By all means, bring it right in!" He dropped the phone to its cradle. "Telegram from Bill!"

Hope sang through Penny, made her throat lump. When the wire was brought in, she wanted desperately to snatch it from Powell's leisurely hands, to rip it open herself.

Powell Ward's face changed as he read it. He slapped the telegram down, annoyed.

"What rotten luck!"

Penny swept the slip of paper from the polished mahogany. Her fingers shook. Her eyes blurred. Stark meaning arched from the brief words.

Bill's plane had crashed. He was hurt.

the national defense.

"The issue," he said, "is clear-cut. The administration must meet it. It must not flinch. It must not retreat. The whole program of stabilization of wages and prices is in the balance. If John L. Lewis can break the line at this point, it will be broken in other places. The time has arrived to decide whether government authority is to control. The Congress must determine whether we are to tolerate strikes in war plants. The time to meet this threat is now."

On End Of War

LONDON, May 10. (AP)—The Allied victory in Tunisia caused a spurt today in wagering on the end of the war with some brokers offering even money that Italy would be knocked out of the conflict by the end of the year and Germany would be defeated by November, 1944.

Numerous bets were reported in "the city"—London's financial district—where the certainty of victory caused a rally in bonds of occupied countries, particularly France, Greece and Poland.

All betting left the Pacific war out of account.

any air support. The Axis is receiving what it inflicted on the British as they left Greece, multiplied 20 times.

French and British elements attacked in the area of Zaghouan, 28 miles south of Tunis, and are moving slowly ahead. Resistance there was still considerable, however, and the Germans were holding a strong position on the hill of Sidi Bella, seven miles northwest of Zaghouan.

The Eighth army attacked north of Enfidaville, made some gains and took some prisoners. On the southern front, German artillery was still active.

The German resistance is apparently designed to cover the retreat of more elements into the Cap Bon peninsula, but the most this can achieve is to delay briefly the final cleanup of the Tunisian campaign.

Almost all the prisoners taken are Germans, the bulk of the Italians apparently having left ahead of the rush.

The Allied communique emphasized the naval blockade of the Cap Bon peninsula, which it said would be continued without respite until the peninsula "is in Allied hands and the last enemy troops in North Africa have been accounted for."

Naval and coastal forces were reported operating on both sides of the peninsula, the tip of which lies 90 miles from Sicily and the communique, without attempting to cover all the operations, said "there have been incidents in plenty."

(A Stockholm dispatch quoted the Voelksischer Beobachter, Hitler's newspaper, as saying that both Field Marshal Erwin Rommel and Col. Gen. Jürgen von Arnim, the German chiefs of command in the hands of the Italian Gen. Giovanni Messe, who led Mussolini's first expeditionary force to the Russian front).

Weather Also Cools
Revelers' Enthusiasm

The usual Saturday night celebrations cooled off like the weather this weekend while county and city police enjoyed a quiet time.

Two were fined Monday for drunkenness in justice court and four for the same charge in corporate court. Household pets gave city police more trouble than humans with three calls concerning dead dogs and a cat over the weekend.

The fire boys were thankful, too, for no blazes were reported and high winds would have played havoc if any fires had started.

In four months more than 18 million pairs of discarded silk and nylon stockings were contributed by U. S. women to the war effort.

Open 8 P. M.Allied Lightning Advance Uses
Methods Better Than Blitzkrieg

By WILLIAM R. KING

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, May 10. (AP)—The lightning Allied advance into Bizerte and Tunis made an antique of German "blitzkrieg" warfare.

The technique which won those cities in two days of concentrated attack as far outmoded the Nazi "blitz" tactics as Germany's low countries campaign outmoded trench warfare of 1914-18.

The German blitzkrieg was briefly this:

Bombers were sent in waves over targets almost entirely without anti-aircraft protection to soften them up. Then tanks in giant formations, with heavy armor in the center and lighter and armored vehicles on the flanks, moved in under protection from fighter planes.

The tanks screened the advance of the infantry which tagged along behind while parachute troops dropped just ahead of the advance to create havoc and confusion.

The solution to such an advance in present day fighting is simple. A screen of anti-tank guns would break up the lumbering tank formation regardless of the strength of the aerial preparation. And parachute troops no longer rank as bogymen who spread terror among troops simply by popping up from unexpected directions.

The Tunisian lightning assault was aimed at seasoned troops who were well equipped with anti-tank and anti-aircraft guns. It early became apparent the Germans would use every trick in their bag to slow the Allies even when they realized they could not win the African battle.

Allied air forces spent weeks pounding Axis airbases and landing fields in Tunisia and Sicily to cripple enemy air strength.

On the day of battle the air forces stopped the enemy air opposition by engaging enemy fighters over their own fields, swamping fighter opposition there and leaving bombers free to dump their tremendous loads undisturbed on enemy positions and moving columns.

To meet the menace of the Nazis' vaunted anti-tank guns, the infantry moved in first to take every mountain or hill on which the Axis had planted their carefully laid batteries. Allied anti-tank guns were quickly put on hills to prevent any counter attack with armor.

The Nazi 1940 blitzkrieg ignored the Allies in Tunisia and Sicily. The newest version used it with vengeance. Every infantry attack was preceded by artillery bombardment, some of which probably was as heavy comparatively as any used in this war or in the last.

After the infantry had cleared menacing high ground, tanks swept forward along the path blasted for them through Axis positions by the greatest concentration of bombing ever seen in a land battle.

In one way the old Nazi blitz and the Allied charge were similar—in the effect on the victim. After the initial break through the tanks were able to advance freely over disorganized enemy positions.

Elements first arriving in Tunis and Bizerte found their rapid advance dumfounded and surprised the soldiers in the cities who fought briefly, then fled or surrendered and columns not facing direct attack turned to flee down the remaining highway outlets, creating perfect targets for strafing aircraft.

The Nazi blitzkrieg was designed to capitalize on the opponent's weakness, using bluff, fear and new weapons to overwhelm them before they knew what was happening.

Attempt Made To
Scuttle Labor Bill
Of Sen. Connally

WASHINGTON, May 10. (AP)—A move to scuttle the Connally anti-strike, plant-closure bill under the weight of far-reaching amendments restricting the war time activities of labor organizations was reported developing today in the house.

Influential lawmakers, long regarded as friendly to the cause of labor groups were mapping a quiet campaign to stifle tight while the amendments are offered under the conviction that the senate will reject the measure if it is returned to that chamber with drastic changes. The senate approved the measure last week by an overwhelming majority.

It was reported by one of the highest ranking administration spokesmen in the house, who declared that "a war time labor bill banning normal labor privileges is certain of passage."

The Connally bill was reported by the committee on labor and human resources, which had held hearings on the bill last week.

The bill would prohibit strikes, lockouts, plant closures, and other labor activities during the war time period.

The bill would also prohibit labor organizations from engaging in any activity that would interfere with the war effort.

No More Paper
Cuts Due Soon

WASHINGTON, May 10. (AP)—Donald M. Nelson told a congressional investigating committee today that no further restrictions upon the use of newspaper and print paper by magazines and newspapers are in prospect before October 1.

A statement by the chairman of the War Production Board was read to a house interstate subcommittee by Donald M. Sterling, WPB consultant in newspapers and publications.

Nelson emphasized that the promise of no further restrictions on paper, before October 1, was "subject to full compliance with the existing WPB limitation orders" reducing the use of paper by approximately ten per cent.

"It is impossible to forecast at this time what action will be necessary beyond the third quarter of this year," Nelson's statement said.
