FDR HAS PLAN TO BALANCE BUDGET

Fire Destroys $135,000 College Chapel

Fire, shown at its heighth, Christmas night destroyed the $135,000 Graham Tyler memorial chapel at Park college, Parkville, Mo. The cause was unknown. A gift of $80,000 by Miss Mary G. Tyler, of Philadelphia, in memory of her father, Graham Tyler, started the fund for the building, erected in 1931. Students had been dismissed for the holidays at the time of the fire.

WPA to Wash Hands of Project At Recreation Park This Week

Pampa's fairgrounds project will be officially closed, as far as the WPA is concerned, by the latter part of this week, according to a statement made by Heyward P. Kay, WPA area engineer, who conferred in Pampa last week with City Manager C. L. Stine.

This development follows the intention expressed to Mr. Stine a month ago. At that time the city commission protested the action of the Works Progress Administration in its announced intention. It will again protest the move when the actual shutdown occurs.

Tomorrow, December 29, had been set by the area engineer, as the date when the project would cease, tomorrow being the end of the present payroll period.

City Manager C. L. Stine, at the city commission meeting last night, said that Mr. Kay had said he would be in Pampa the latter part of this week to officially close the project.

At the present time only 75 men are employed on the job. They are at work on the dam. Nothing has been done by the Works Progress administration toward repairing the section of the grandstand shattered by a test conducted by the WPA on November 6, despite the city's request that this be done.

LIBRARY TO BE ENLARGED

Pampa's public library will have enlarged quarters after January 1, when the Texas State Employment service is moved from the basement of the city hall building to a location in the Combs-Worley building, it was announced last night at the city commission meeting.

According to present plans, the entire south half of the city hall basement, with the exception of the American National Red Cross chapter office, will be used by the library. Hall space will be utilized for the reading room.

The employment office has been located in the city hall building for four years. Changed from the National Re-Employment service to Texas State employment service in Octcber, the office is now headquarters for Gray, Wheeler, Roberts and Hemphill counties.

Unemployment compensation claims of persons living in Gray and Roberts counties are to be filed at the Pampa office after January 1, when the compensation section of the social security act becomes effective.

Lennie E Hood is in charge of the Pampa office.

ODELL DAVIS CHARGED IN THEFT OF AUTO

Charged with theft in connection with the taking of a Buick coupe belonging to Bob McCoy, which was recovered in Matador Christmas day by Chief of Police Arl Hurst, Odell Davis, 21-year-old Pampan, was in county jail this morning.

Bond of Davis was set at $1,000 at a hearing yesterday afternoon before Justice of the Peace F. F. Young. Davis pleaded not guilty.

The McCoy automobile was stolen between 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock Monday night from the 100 block on East Kingsmill. When recovered in Matador, the car had been driven 1,500 miles and one fender had been damaged, Mr. McCoy said.

FOLICE LET PICKETS MARCH AT FORD PLANT

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 28 (AP)—Police, who have made more than 300 arrests of pickets since a strike was called at the Ford assembly plant here Dec. 10, embarked upon a new policy today of permitting restricted picketing by the United States Automobile Workers of America.

Clyde and Gene Fatheree gasp when they saw their father, V. E. Fatheree, this morning. For the first time that they can remember, he was wearing a colored shirt. No matter how many colored shirts he was given on past Christmases, he always exchanged them for white ones. But today he "blossomed out" and the change was noticeable to all his friends.

DEATH TAKES PIONEER WHITE DEER CITIZEN

William Gordzelik, 70, a resident of the White Deer community for 27 years, died this morning in a local hospital where he was admitted two days ago. He had been in failing health for some time.

Mr. Gordzelik was born in Germany but moved to the United States at the age of 19. He settled in Peoria, Ill., but moved to White Deer in 1910. He was a member of and active worker in the Sacred Heart Catholic church at White Deer.

Survivors are the widow, five daughters, Mrs. Christine Haiduk, Mrs. Agnes Rapstine and Mrs. Frances Eaken, all of White Deer; Mrs. May Czerner, Tampa, Fla., and Mrs. Nell Britten, Groom, and two sons, Antone and Joe Gordzelik, both of White Deer.

The body now lies at rest at Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral home. Funeral arrangements will not be made until Mrs. Czerner arrives from Florida.

Santa Claus Gets Stuck in Chimney

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 28 (AP)—It's happened.

The accident children always fear—that Santa Claus might get stuck in a chimney—happened before their very eyes here last night.

Santa started down a specially built chimney at a Salvation Army home party and became wedged in the walls. He could budge neither up nor down. Frantic attendants went to his aid; finally pulled him down.

One hundred childish faces, lined with dismay, broke into smiles. A very nonchalant Santa went about the business of distributing his gifts.

Folsom Man Discovered Near Miami

Bones of an ancient elephant found in a filled-in water hole near Miami showed a cut, probably made by a spear, and Dr E. H. Sellars of the University of Texas identified the hunter as a prehistoric Folsom man, one of the earliest inhabitants of North America, according to an Associated Press story from Washington, where the Geological Society of America is meeting today.

A theory that the form of the earth, its mountains, valleys, continents, and oceans, resulted from two billion years of melting, cooling and melting again in spots, was told the scientists by Dr. Bailey Willis of Stanford university.

Dr. Willis said that eventually the "melting spots" under the surface cropped out as ledges of rock and burst forth in stream of lava. The heat which caused the melting, he said, is believed to come from the break-up of atoms, a process known to science as radioactivity.

TULLIS CANDIDATE FOR RAILWAY COMMISSIONER

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Dick Tullis of San Antonio, who has held several appointive offices under the Roosevelt administration, will seek his first elective office when he enters the July 23 primaries as Democratic candidate for state Railway Commissioner, he announced today.

In 1933 President Roosevelt appointed Tullis United States Trade Commissioner to Mexico. Late in 1934 he was appointed a federal housing administration director for Texas.

In July, 1937, Tullis was nominated for regional director of the Rural Resettlement administration in charge of Texas and Oklahoma, but declined the appointment, planning to seek the rail commissionership.

Although not ready to announce his complete platform, Tullis said that reports reaching him and his own observations have convinced him that more equitable dealing is needed by the oil, trucking and railroad industries in Texas.

New Fashion Note: Watches in Ears

CHICAGO, Dec. 28 (AP)—With watches in her ears, the up-to-the-minute woman of fashion was ready to make a timely start into 1938.

The newest time-keeping gadgets are ear-rings set with tiny watches. (How the wearer tells the time is the wearer's problem.

With these ear-watches in the novelty parade into the new year are an increasing number on ring-watches.

And not to be behind the time in modernism one manufacturer has put out a wrist watch in a slim, elongated cylindrical glass case.

Jones Promises To Do Everything Possible To Get Beaver Lake

Additional encouragement for Gray county's proposed lake project at the Beaver Dam site on McClellan creek was received by a Gray county delegation of 14 at a conference with Rep. Marvin Jones in Amarillo yesterday afternoon.

The delegation went to ask the Panhandle congressman that Gray and other counties be given the same consideration in the Panhandle lake program as had been given to the Tierra Blanca project, a dozen miles southwest of Amarillo.

Mr. Jones was shown population figures which prove that a Gray county lake on McClellan creek would serve more people in a radius of 35 miles than any of the other four or five proposed major projects, including the one already started last week at Umbarger.

In spite of the encouragement received from Mr. Jones that he would, upon his return to Washington next Monday, confer with farm security and WPA officials relative to speedy action on the Gray county lake, the local delegation came out of the conference with its tongue in its cheek, and, apparently, an "we'll have to see construction start first" attitude.

Gray county officials cannot understand, they said, why Gray county's lake was taken out of the same category with the Tierra Blanca and Pemphill county sites, which are going ahead under farm security supervision, assisted by WPA labor. Ochiltree county's site suffered the same fate, and Ochiltree county's complaint is the same as Gray's.

Being removed from farm security supervision meant that Gray and Ochiltree counties were placed

WOMAN SLAYS INFANT GIRL OF NEIGHBORS

GREENBROOK, N. J., Dec. 28. (AP)—Their infant slain and laid under the Christmas tree with the presents after they had a dispute with a tenant over heat, a village florist and his young wife wept hysterically today at the home of neighbors who kept them in seclusion.

Womenfolk of the community took turns laying strong but gentle hands on Mrs. Louis Bordolon since she found the body of her 5-months-old Christina in a pool of blood among the gifts she and her husband had bought for their first-born.

County Detective Charles Allegar said Mrs. Sophie Arcuri, 24-year-old mother of a 2-months-old boy, confessed she slit the throat of the landlord's 5-months-old baby with a paring knife because "their baby was warm and mine was cold."

Mrs. Arcuri, police said, had acted erratically and aged visibly since the birth of her son.

She was holding her son in her arms when police arrested her late yesterday.

Mrs. Arcuri, Allegar said, rebuked her husband, an aluminum wares salesman, for lending money to the Bordolons recently to install a heating system in the house they shared.

When she returned home Sunday night with her son from a Christmas visit with relatives in Port Chester, N. Y., Mrs. Arcuri was angry because "someone let the fire go out," the detective said. Her anger rose yesterday as the house grew colder.

Going to the boiler room of the greenhouse in the rear where Mrs. Bordolon had left her daughter while she waited on customers who called in her husband's absence, Mrs. Arcuri carried the baby to her own kitchen and slit its jugular vein, Allegar said.

ALLRED URGES NEEDY BE DINNER GUESTS JAN. 1

AUSTIN, Dec. 28 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred issued a proclamation today urging every financially able person to join the Happy New Year Dinner club by having some needy individual as his dinner guest January 1.

Allred, who is honorary president of the club, pointed out that it collected no dues and anyone who entertained a needy person at dinner New Year's day automatically became a member.

The two-year-old club has received official recognition from Texas to Maine and Florida to California, the governor stated.

"When everyone who is financially able begins to search for a guest January 1," he said in his proclamation, "then New Year's day will be what it should be—a 'good neighbor day!'"

RESIGNING AMBASSADOR BID CHILLY FAREWELL

BERLIN, Dec. 28 (AP)—William E. Dodd, resigning United States Ambassador, departed for the United States today with Mrs. Dodd—more unceremoniously than any previously departing American envoy.

The chill of the farewell was in keeping with the relations between the ambassador and the German government, especially strained since Dodd objected to American official representation at the Nazi party Congress last September at Nurnberg.

With only the male personnel of the embassy and consulate present in the Dodd apartment to say goodbye, the couple slipped quietly into a car and drove to Hamburg to board the liner Washington sailing tomorrow.

DENTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—L. H. Cason, oil truck driver of Dallas, reached for his hat as it blew off his head, fell from his truck and was killed by a passing automobile on the highway near here today.

Investigating officers termed the accident unavoidable. Lloyd Rodden, also of Dallas, was the driver of the other machine.

Plants And Animals In Germless Barrel Turn Out To Be Weaklings

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 28 (AP)—A miniature world completely free from germs—the first ever made—showed scientists here today health without germs is impossible, and that life as man knows it is unlikely without the aid of germs.

This world is made of stainless steel units, each the size and shape of beer barrels. They can be hooked together in long corridors in which animals, plants and insects spend their lives in a germless utopia.

For 10 years at the University of Notre Dame this world has been in the making. Today its first results were reported to the American Association for the advancement of science. The stainless units were shown by Prof. J. A. Reyniers and P. T. Trexler, research assistant.

Guinea pigs, rabbits, cats and mice have been born in the germless world. Chickens have hatched there. Tests have proved that their bodies containd not one germ, no virus, none of the ordinary causes of illness.

They have grown from babyhood in this supposedly miraculous environment. They showed superior growth. But they were seldom healthy. Their bodies lacked something vital, a lack apparently centering in their digestion of food.

Their digestive tracts, Reyniers said, appeared to be very delicate. Normally there would have been millions of germs in this tract, without the germs present, it was difficult for the animals to escape attacks of acidity and other digestive upsets.

What they lacked—that the germs would have furnished—Reyniers said, has not been learned. He said the missing elements might

SHELL EXTENDS PIPE LINES TO GAS PLANT

Completion of an extension to the gas line system of the Shell Petroleum corporation's Pampa plant has been announced by company officials. The plant is located five miles south of Pampa.

The line extension reaches approximately 3 miles to the northwest to the Hughey lease of the Shell corporation and will also serve several intervening leases between these points, contracts with which have already been made.

The main line is 10 inch and the laterals to various leases are from 4 inch to 8 inch.

While the capacity of the extraction plant has not been increased any the output has by reason of the acquisition of a considerable flow of very rich gas in that area.

REBELS SEEK TO LIBERATE TERUEL HOST

(By The Associated Press)

A fierce battle to rescue several thousand insurgents trapped in Teruel highlighted the Spanish civil war today while, half way around the world in China, foreigners fled from Tsingtao in the face of a Japanese advance on that seaport.

General Miguel Aranda, heading a strongly reinforced insurgent army, was reported breaking through government lines northwest of Teruel in a counter-offensive designed to lift the siege of approximately 6,000 insurgent soldiers and civilians who have been stubbornly holding out since government troops captured the city last week.

Dispatches to the French frontier said Aranda's troops were "fighting without pause" and his advance guard might soon drive through to the shell-torn buildings occupied by the insurgents. Barcelona reports told of actual fighting within Teruel.

The United States gunboat Sacramento evacuated a load of American refugees from Tsingtao today, transporting them toward Shanghai—400 miles to the south—as Japanese troops neared the rich Shantung province seaport. Dispatches said 280 Americans had left the city.

Reports from Macao, Portuguese colony off the south China coast, said a Japanese cruiser had shelled Wongkam island, over which Portugal claims jurisdiction, setting fire to several huts.

In Tokyo, foreign Minister Koki Hirota delivered to British ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie the Japanese reply to a protest against Japanese attacking the British gunboat Ladybird.

Text of the note was not made public but imperial headquarters said it termed the attack a "mistake" and expressed regrets.

Meanwhile, in Milan, the newspaper of Premier Mussolini criticized democracy, saying its "faults" had been proved by opposition of the Washington government to a bill which would require a national referendum before the United States could declare war.

"When the supreme interests of a people are at stake," said the

$30 IN CASH TAKEN FROM SERVICE STATION

The Trojan Service station, located at 600 South Cuyler street, was entered last night and $30 in cash taken. Entry was gained by smashing a window.

The robbery took place between 10 and 10:30 p. m., police were notified. An attendant closed the station soon after 10 p. m. and at about 10:30, while walking on Cuyler street near the Santa Fe tracks, he met the owner, W. H. Dockery, who drove to the station to find that it had been entered.

Police believe the robber was hiding near the station and broke in as soon as the attendant left.

WOULD HOLD RELIEF COSTS IN BOUNDS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Usually well-informed officials said today President Roosevelt would tell Congress next week that the 1938-39 budget can be balanced if relief expenditures can be held within bounds.

The budget which he will send to Capitol Hill Jan 4 is not expected to contain a definite relief estimate. Because of uncertainty about the severity and duration of the current business recession the President probably will give only a tentative figure.

Some members of Congress have expressed the opinion relief costs will run so high that a balance between federal income and outgo cannot be reached.

Treasury officials, however, indicated that expenditures for other items than relief and national defense would be sliced liberally in an attempt to bring about a balance.

Billion For Arms

Army and Navy expenditures may be slightly over the billion dollar mark, informed observers said, forming the largest peacetime defense fund in American history.

Government spending will constitute one of the principal subjects before the session of Congress which meets next Monday. So many other controversial topics have been scheduled that legislators were beginning to appear skeptical of fore-

CCC CAMPS TO BE CUT IN 'ECONOMY' MOVE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP) — Robert Fechner, director of the civilian conservation corps, said after a White House conference today the new federal budget would provide only $226,000,000 for the CCC—a cut of $124,000,000 as compared with the current appropriation.

Fechner described the reduction as an "economy" move.

The present 300,000 enrollment will be cut to 225,000 under the new budget and the number of camps reduced from 1,604 to 1,200.

A total of 104 camps are being closed this month. An additional 300 will be abolished in May.

Fechner said applications this month for enrollment had shown an appreciable increase over December 1936. The corp would have to be increased to its 1935 peak of 500,000 enrollees, he said, if all applications were to be granted.

Waterworks at Groveton Stolen, Then Recovered

GROVETON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Mayor W. L. Gibson turned the spigot. No water came.

The mayor sent down to the waterworks and found somebody had stolen almost the whole works.

The city council of this town of 1,500 persons convened and sent Mayor Gibson to Houston, 125 miles away, to buy what was needed.

Three hours later, Mayor Gibson dashed into a Houston store that had waterworks for sale.

"Give me the works," he ordered, "our town is dry."

The salesman pointed to a stack of second hand machinery.

"Why," stammered the mayor, "that's part of the waterworks stolen from us last night."

The store manager apologized and handed over the stolen machinery.

Other stolen parts were recovered in another store.

Ten hours later, good, clean water flowed again through Groveton's mains.

Today two men, R. F. Owens and H. C. Smith, both of Houston, were in the county jail here facing felony theft charges growing out of what happened to Groveton's waterworks.

Jack Dempsey Gives Girls New Year's Party Counsel

By JOAN DURHAM
AP Feature Service Writer

New Year's Eve is a time for celebration—not a signal for debauch.

You don't have to take our word for that. We have it on the authority of Jack Dempsey, whom we present not as the former boxing champion nor as the New York restaurateur. Here you have Mr. Dempsey as the purveyor of advice to young ladies.

Says Monitor Dempsey: "There's no reason for young women (or young men) to do a lot of heavy drinking just because everybody else seems to be doing it.

"Lots of our young women customers never order anything but ginger ale, orangeade or horse's necks!"

Did your eyebrows shoot up at that last? Are you one of the hundreds who have been under the impression that a horse's neck is an alcoholic drink, and a pretty potent one at that?

Then listen to Counsellor Dempsey:

"A horse's neck, you know, is made of ginger ale, ice and lemon," he confides. "The peel of a lemon, cut in one length, is arranged in the glass like a spiral staircase. But the drink, if it's made by people who know their business, doesn't have any liquor in it at all."

Here's how Tutor Dempsey judges the well-bred young woman:

She sticks to her own party, doesn't attempt to attract attention to herself by a lot of raucous laughter or loud talk, and never allows herself to be "picked up"— even to the extent of an "innocent" flirtation.

The First Party

What's a good procedure for the young girl to follow who's going on her first party?

She'll be better off if she goes in a group, says our mentor. Someone in the group can act as an unofficial chaperone and keep an eye on her. That someone may be an older sister or brother or an older friend. But it will be somebody who's on the look-out.

Our New Year's celebrant also will be better off if she goes to a reputable place, continues Professor Dempsey, reverting a little, perhaps, to his professional tone. All reputable places keep trouble-shooters who are trained to be on the look-out for annoyances, he explains.

The young lady may order something mild, like one sherry flip—if curiosity gets the best of her. But there's no reason for her to feel embarrassed if she orders ginger ale or a fruit drink.

How can she know whether a man is drunk or not?

A drunkard sounds his own alarm, our guide explains. If he approaches her or causes any trouble she may ask her escort to notify the waiter or the captain. Her escort, however, shouldn't serve eviction papers himself. He's apt to wish he hadn't.

What about making noise? That's what New Year's is for—if she doesn't become obnoxiously boisterous.

How about being kissed when the clock strikes twelve?

That's a custom—not necessarily an affection, says Jack with a smile. So why not?

Modern Menus

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

When in doubt, cook eggs. They are nuggets of value for your money. They can taste grand when wisely cooked.

Eggs and Vegetable Dinner
(4 to 6 servings)

Six eggs, 1 small head cauliflower, 1 lb. long green beans, 4 young carrots, 2 cups fluffy mashed potatoes, light cheese sauce.

Cook eggs slowly, never allowing water to more than simmer, for 12 minutes. Remove from water and peel carefully, keeping eggs very hot. Cook carrots, cauliflower and beans in separate salted waters. Make dry, light and well seasoned mashed potatoes. For cheese sauce, use light cream sauce with Parmesan cheese in moderate amount dusted into it. Use large serving plate which is warm. Place cauliflower in center, arrange eggs in clusters of 3 at opposite sides of plate, place mounds of potatoes between egg mounds, three on each side, each mound separated from the other and the eggs by a strip of brilliant yellow carrot. Press each potato mound lightly with a spoon to make a small flat surface on which to lay a few of the long green beans. Pour cheese sauce over cauliflower and sprinkle with great restraint with cayenne. Pour browned butter over the other vegetables. And that is a vegetable dinner with strong and valiant character.

For a light supper dish, or for the main dish at dinner, try this seemingly plain combination, and be tastefully surprised.

Eggs and Chipped Beef
(4 to 6 servings)

One jar chipped beef (3 1-2 ounces), 3 eggs, 1 No. 1 can tomatoes, 1 teaspoon brown sugar, pepper, 1 small white onion, 1-3 cup grafted American cheese.

Cut fat and sinews from chipped beef. If very salty, rinse in hot water. Tear meat into small pieces. Combine tomatoes, sugar, grated onion and pepper. Cook in double boiler. Smooth out to even consistency with fork. Then place over direct heat and boil for 10 minutes. Add chipped beef and cheese. Return to double boiler and cook over boiling water until cheese is entirely melted. Beat eggs slightly, then add to mixture. Cook until eggs are crambled in the hot tomato mixture. Serve on toasted and buttered English muffins.

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct and social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

1. Is it thoughtful of a hostess to have new magazines by her house guest's bed?
2. Does a good hostess ever let it appear to her guests that anything she does for them is a burden?
3. Should a hostess apologize to her house guest for lack of luxuries or service with which she cannot supply them?
4. If there is no separate bathroom for a guest should the hostess assign him a towel rack in the common bathroom or fix a rack for him in the guest room closet?
5. Would it be all right for a house guest to go shopping or on a jaunt by herself without asking her hostess to go along.

What would you do if—

You are a young girl visiting in the home of a school friend and you wish to show appreciation for her family's hospitality in some way?

(a) Send her mother a gift when you leave?

(b) Invite the whole family to be your dinner guests?

(c) Ask the girl and her mother to have lunch or to go to a movie with you?

Answers

1. Yes.
2. No.
3. No.
4. Either way.
5. Hostess probably will be relieved, but guest must be sure not to interfere with her plans.

Best "What Would You Do" solution—(a) or (c). (b) would involve paying a bill for her father and he might be embarrassed over it.

Writer Suggests Ways to Grow With Widening Sphere

By RUTH MILLETT

You may be like Mary. She's still young enough though she has been married for twelve years, for she married when she was just a girl. Both Mary and John, her husband, had to quit school, when they were still eager to go on.

John went to work for a business organization large enough to educate its own men. Now he's near enough to the top to be asked to business conferences and an occasional dinner at a bigwik's house.

The invitations do not bother John—for he is used to talking business to those men and his ability to give a compliment gets him by with women. Then, too, he has had the social experience that comes to everyone whose work means meeting new people every day.

But the invitations frighten Mary. Taking care of small children has for years kept her pretty close to home. And when she has gone to an occasional party it's been at the house of one of her old friends. She has never known women like the wives of John's business associates—so beautifully dressed, so casual, so full of talk. Mary is afraid of them. She's doubtful about her clothes—too concious of whether she is always doing the right thing, too aware that she doesn't speak their language. She feels as uncomfortable as a fish out of water. And she thinks there is nothing she can do about it.

There's a lot Mary can do—and the wiser she is, the sooner she'll begin. She can read as many new books as she has time for, and get an idea of others from good reviews. She can check her common sense answers to small questions of etiquette by the advice given in some good book on the subject. Finding out that common sense has served her well in the past should take away the dread of new situations.

She can read a practical book on table service and follow whatever particular style of serving is suitable for her own family.

She can learn about clothes by going occasionally where smart women are, and by reading the best fashion magazines. If she has to buy her own clothes at an inexpensive shop, she can go to an exclusive one first to see what effect her clothes should give.

More important than anything else, Mary must realize that women aren't born knowing the things that fit them for a certain group of people. Each one has to learn a way of living—and it isn't a tragic matter if the learning comes a little late. The tragedy comes when the woman thinks "I can't fit in"—and so holds her husband back or forces him to go on ahead without her.

American Beauty

Job Gives Girl Working Knowledge For Wifehood

By RUTH MILLETT

Women who work before marriage make the best wives. Marriage experts agree on that now, without any ifs and provisions.

Why? Well, there is more than one reason. The most obvious is that a girl who has had to stretch her own pay check is likely to do a fairly good job of making her husband's cover a multitude of necessities.

But what is more important, the girl who has worked knows better than to assume that her husband will be a howling success.

Working as hard as she did at her own job, she didn't step lightly from sales girl to buyer, or from stenographer to office manager. If she has any common sense at all she will remember that, instead of expecting her husband to climb the success ladder without ever a pause or a down-step. Knowing that her own raises were few and far between, she isn't likely to expect her husband to get one every time she decides they should move up a notch in their way of living.

She knows what competition is, and her respect for her husband isn't altered by the realization that he will never be right on the top. Instead, she's very likely thankful that he is able to give her all the things he does.

From her own experience she remembers how important it was to take to the office a mind free from nagging reminders and small worries. So instead of poking troubles at her husband at the breakfast table she tries to send him off with a calm mind.

And she doesn't call after him, "Don't forget to pay the light bill, and get that information for mother." Nor does she let herself quarrel with him in the morning, not if she wants him to get along with the people in the office.

She expects him to have days when he comes home too tired to be companionable, too shaken up with his own troubles to want to share hers. Nights when he wishes that he were a hermit, and acts as though it's her fault he's not. It's just a case of knowing from experience.

If the husbands of the future follow the psychologists' advice and marry girls who have supported themselves for a while, won't the wives have a right to carry the idea to its logical, sauce-for-the-gander conclusion? See to it that men learn enough about "woman's work" to answer their own amateurish question, "What do women do all day?"

Glorifying Yourself

By ALICIA HART,

One still in her 'teens should adopt these rules to insure making the best possible impression.

Strive for natural effects. Her very youthfulness is her greatest asset, and it's a mistake to go in for sophisticated make-up or to try to wear exotic clothes. Simplicity ought to be the keynote of her wardrobe.

Be curious about the newest all-purpose creams. Unless her skin is exceptionally dry or her budget not all limited, a cream which cleanses and softens at the same time is a blessing.

Know the importance of meticulous cleanliness. A daily bath, fresh underwear and stockings every morning, neat clothes, clean hair, tidy nails—these are musts.

Brush her hair each and every night, change her coiffure at least once a year.

Use a nail brush once a day, apply cuticle cream three nights a week, have a small manicure set of her own.

Avoid flamboyant shades of nail polish and queer tones of mascara and eyeshadow. These are wonderful for the older sisters and mother, but on her, they are likely to seem too-too unusual.

Learn, at this early age, to organize her beauty routines, to allow ample time for personal grooming yet never get into the habit of spending too many precious hours fussing with face, hands and so on.

Realize that glowing health is the foundation of true beauty, the kind which doesn't fade all too quickly. This means plenty of fresh air and exercise, enough sleep, a sensible diet.

Know that in order to be popular, she'll have to be intelligent, sincere, kindly, light-hearted and gay as well as good to look at. She should learn to love to read, to be interested in everything and everybody, to like people if for no other reason than that liking them will make them like her.

MARY GARDEN STARTING CAREER OVER AGAIN

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28 (AP)—Another career is beginning at 60 for Prima Dona Mary Garden.

Red-haired, be-jeweled, in business trim, she briskly surveyed the results today of her hunt for singing screen talent—seven months in New York, Paris and Corsica.

"I'm starting all over again, and I love it," she said.

"My work is finding young singers and developing them; I've found splendid voices, lots of them, but they knew nothing. It takes years to learn the grand opera, but I can teach them. How to sing—that I know.

"They need a new kind of training, too— for they are the singers who will bring opera to the screen. Not the same opera I knew, but a glorious opera just the same.

"How soon? We'll have opera on the screen within three years, that's the maximum."

EIGHT SCHOOLS PLACE PLAYERS ON ALL-STATE FOOTBALL TEAM

DICK MILLER LEADS VOTING, FLEMING 2ND

DALLAS, Dec. 28 (AP)—Eight schools today had placed players on the 1937 all-state football team selected by the Associated Press, with Wichita Falls and Longview, finalists on the Interscholastic League race, contributing five of them.

And it was still "open season" for college coaches who want these prize plums because of the eleven selected only three had indicated what school they would attend next season.

The champion Longview Lobos presented Dick Miller at halfback and Chal Daniel at guard on the mythical team, picked by sport writers from every section of the state. Miller led all players in the voting with Harold Fleming, Wichita Falls fullback, ranking second.

Miller and Fleming ended their high school careers in a blaze of brilliance in the state championship game here Christmas day.

Daniel, backbone of the fine Longview line, tied with Arthur Goforth of Wichita Falls in the voting for guard. Both were far ahead of the field.

Odell Damerall of Wichita Falls captured the center post. The end positions went to Joe Schwarting of Waco and Jesse Hawthorne of Port Arthur. Euel Wesson of Temple and Pat Lowry of Austin (El Paso) won the tackle posts, Marshall Spivey of Lufkin was selected at quarterback and Danny Reese of North Side (Fort Worth) made the other halfback.

Longview dominated the second team with Otto Paul Burandt winning an end position, Ted Brannon placing at tackle and Jack McMahon at center. Harold King of Amarillo was the other end, Edward Brand of Wichita Falls the other tackle, V. D. Basey of Austin high and J. P. Matthews of Pampa the guards, Woodrow Bandro of Beaumont the quarterback, Cam Harrell of Conroe and Whitlock Zander of Jefferson (San Antonio) the halfbacks, and Bob Brumley of Edinburg was named fullback.

W. G. Blackmon of North Side ran a close race for end.

Wesson got votes for tackle, end, quarterback, halfback and fullback but most of his ballots were set for tackle.

In the final tabulation Longview placed five on the two teams and Wichita Falls four. The selections were made two weeks before the season closed so were not based on the final game, thus showing the full season's efforts were considered.

A check-up shows that Fleming has decided to go to Texas Christian University and Reese has indicated he will attend the same school. Hawthorne favors Rice or Texas. Wesson is going to Texas A. and M., under his present plans. Spivey says he hasn't decided yet but friends claim he is going to Texas, Rice or A. and M. Dick Miller has not said where he will go but he is expected to enroll at Rice.

Schwarting, Lowry, Daniel, Goforth and Damerall are undecided.

Rice Continues To Scrimmage

DALLAS, Dec. 28 (AP)—The final stretch tuneups of Rice Institute and University of Colorado for their Coton Bowl grid clash here Saturday took the form of strenuous workouts today.

The Owls, making up for a three-day lay-off for Christmas holidays, had two hard sessions scheduled at Houston. The Colorado Buffaloes were working only once a day at Fort Worth, but Coach Bunny Oakes intimated scrimmage would be extended through tomorrow.

Coach Jimmy Kitts, pleased with form shown by his Southwest conference champions, indicated a letup was due for Rice tomorrow. The squad will leave Houston Thursday and two drills in the Cotton Bowl are planned before the game.

Present plans call for a workout at Fort Worth Thursday for the Buffaloes, with a session in the bowl Friday if weather permits.

Whizzer White, the Buffaloes' all-American, will be given a trophy tonight, awarded annually by a national magazine to the player voted the highest rating by his opponents.

Ernie Pinckert, former Southern California star, now with the professional Washington Redskins, winner of the trophy in 1931, will make the presentation.

ALABAMANS VISIT STUDIOS AND WATCH CAMERAS TURN

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP)—The Alabama football team went to Hollywood today, California went back to work and Rose Bowl mathematicians went berserk trying to figure out a winner of the New Year's Day game on the basis of season statistics.

Captain Leroy Monsky led his Crimson Tide teammates over the movie town to see how motion pictures are made at a big studio. In return, the team showed the studio how a band of grid warriors can eat.

Eighteen-year-old Margaret Early, Birmingham starlet, acted as hostess and introduced Pat O'Brien, a No. one football fan, Bette Davis, Dick Powell, Olivia de Havilland, Rosemary and Priscilla Lane and a host of other celebrities.

While the 'Bamans watched the cameras turn, cameras turned on the Golden Bear squad. Stub Allison donated the morning practice to the lens crew, who snapped and cranked while Sam Chapman, Vic Bottari, Bob Herwig, Perry Schwartz and the rest of the Berkeley brigade went through the usual routines.

Meanwhile the statisticians woke up with their usual headache. Two and two make four and that makes California the answer, according to the 3 to 1 betting odds, but divided that sum by Sandy Sanford's right toe, or subtract the passing combination of Joe Kilgrow to Tut Warren, and you have the same headache the statisticians have.

California finished the season with a record of being a "second quarter" team. The Bears ran up 102 of their total of 201 points in that period over a ten-game schedule.

What about Alabama? The Tide played nine games, rolled up 225 points—and scored 94 of them in the second quarter.

It may be a "second quarter" game, but whose?

West Virginia Works Behind Barred Gates

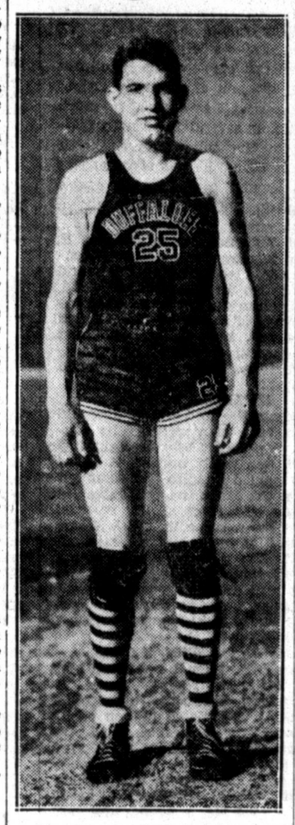

EL PASO, Dec. 28 (AP)—West Virginia's Mountaineers confined conditioning today to a single workout, while their opponents in the Sun Bowl here Saturday, Texas Tech's Raiders, doubled up at Lubbock.

The Easterners appeared better acclimated to the high altitude and in improved condition. Yesterday they had their first hard workout since arrival here. The session was behind barred gates.

Pete Cawthon, coach of Texas Tech, indicated he planned for Tech to mix a passing and power game against West Virginia. He has been working his gridmen defensively against the Mountaineer single wingback and short punt offensive formations.

The two practice sessions daily for Tech were calculated to make up for time lost in Christmas holidays.

Among Tallest

Donald Kendrick, above, of Groom is a regular on the "tallest team on earth" at West Texas State, Canyon, this year. Kendrick, a sophomore, is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 175 pounds. His team averages 6 feet 2½ inches in height and 185 pounds in weight. He is a center but can play other positions.

Owls to Leave For Cotton Bowl Classic Thursday

HOUSTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—The last day of football practice before the Cotton Bowl game dawned today for the Rice Institute Owls.

Two scrimmage sessions were carded by Coach Jimmy Kitts, who has insisted, since the lads returned from a three-day Christmas rest period, that they bear down on blocking assignments.

Five speedy backs, who have seen some service this autumn, may be called upon to run against the University of Colorado if the boys from the Rockies are able to stop Ernie Lain's passing and Ollie Cordill's running. The five are Doug (Scat) Sullivan, Bryce Parker, Dan Coffee, John Neece and Tom (Red) Vickers.

Tomorrow the Rice team will begin tapering off, confining work chiefly to new plays, and will leave Thursday for Dallas, where they will take two workouts in the Cotton Bowl stadium before meeting the Rocky Mountain conference champions.

MORAN GIVEN MATCH AGAIN AS FANS BOO

Jack Mandell pinned his own shoulders to the mat and lost a second main event to Sailor Jack Moran last night in a return engagement which, like a week previous, was questioned by many fans. It all happened with the count even and Mandell with a rocking chair split on Moran. To add more pressure, Mandell leaned 'way back and his shoulders hit the mat for a three-count with Pat Garrison on the counting end.

It was the preliminary, however, which stole the show. Gust Johnson and Andy Tremaine staged probably the greatest battle of speed, science and perseverence of the year when they went to a draw. Their match was even greater than the Johnson-Donahue battle of a few months ago and that is saying a lot.

Johnson had age and experience on his side but Tremaine showed speed and a staying power. Holds meant nothing only Johnson broke more quickly than Tremaine.

Tsutao Higami didn't put Cyclone Mackie to sleep in the semi-final, which also went to a draw, but he pressed buttons a few times to break punishing holds. The Jap, however, doesn't follow up his advantage when he uses nerves. He stands back and waits for his victim to recover before wading in again.

Action Galore.

It got rough in spots when Mackie lost his head from nerve holds. He slugged the Jap and had him rolling along the ropes at the final gong. There was plenty of wrestling in the match with honors slightly in favor of Mackie.

Action was paramount in the main event. Last week Mandell and Moran had their purses held up when Moran won a questionable decision and last night they battled for that purse. Promoter Chambers, because of not having to pay out a main event fee, set an admission price of 25 cents for everyone and more than 600 attended. Next Monday night a New Year card will be presented at regular prices.

Moran won the opening fall of the main event but not until he had backed Mandell into the corner, landed a couple of heart punches and then rolled the Kangaroo man out on his shoulders. The time was 23 minutes and every minute of the time was a blood and thunder exhibition. Moran went berserk with Mandell staying orthodox.

The Australian opened up in the second appearance and took Moran under in nine minutes with a rocking chair split that had the Sailor weaving around the deck.

Both went wild for the third and deciding fall but Moran was the rougher. He used his head by not letting Mandell get set for a leap, feet first, and also worked on him with fists and hold. Mandell was groggy when he got his rocking chair split and didn't realize he had his own shoulders on the mat until Referee Garrison counted him out.

Broncos Given Rousing Cheers At Phoenix Stop

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 28 (AP)—The Santa Clara Broncos, en route to New Orleans for the New Year's Sugar Bowl contest with the Louisiana State Tigers, were given a rousing reception during a short stop here last night.

Coach Lawrence (Buck) Shaw described his team's chances as "just fair" and reiterated his belief that "we're going up against a better team than the one we met a year ago" when the Broncos defeated the Tigers.

Alumni and local football fans staged a demonsration for the Santa Clara squad while the Bronco special train was in the Phoenix depot.

WHITE TOPS AS PUNTER SCORER, AND SCHOLAR

Conversions—Made 23 out of 27 attempts.

Field goals—Made 1 in only attempt.

Scoring—Led nation's scorers with 122 points.

Scholarship—Made 47 "A's," two "B's" in 49 hours of work.

AUBURN BEGINS PRACTICE FOR MICHIGAN CLUB

(By The Associated Press)

Operating on the British idea that a little break in training never hurt anyone, Auburn's Plainsmen are back in the bowl picture today after a ten-day vacation.

Last of the twelve squads to start intensive work for New Year's Day games, the Plainsmen went through a vigorous drill yesterday in preparation for the Orange Bowl tilt with Michigan State.

It brought pleased comment from Coach Jack Meagher who found his squad in "excellent condition" and his ace halfback, Jimmy Fenton, ready for the game of his life against the Spartans.

Other happenings on the extra-curricular football front:

Rose Bowl—California's Golden Bears, toasts of the Pacific Coast fans, arrived in Pasadena to get acclimated before the Rose Bowl duel with Alabama. They held what was supposed to be a private practice but the fans sifted in to cheer the western paladins.

While the Bears were getting an enthusiastic reception, 'Bama asked for a private session and got it. Frank Thomas worked his men on defense and reported progress with Leroy Monsky, captain and all-America guard, back in the lineup.

Sugar Bowl—Louisiana State limited its drill to a light defensive dummy scrimmage yesterday and will get its last scrimmage today. Santa Clara, the Tigers' opponent, is en route for New Orleans, scene of the battle.

Cotton Bowl—Jimmy Kitts, Rice coach, planned to ease up today after a hard scrimmage yesterday. Kitts, pleased with the Owls' condition, will limit practice to signal and dummy scrimmage drills.

Colorado, on the other hand, was just getting started. Coach Bunny Oakes expects to send his Buffaloes through two more stiff drills, today and tomorrow, with punting and field goal rehearsals stressed.

Orange Bowl—With Auburn back in the spotlight, Coach Charlie Bachman of Michigan State promised his squad a real workout today. The Spartans had an easy day yesterday, but it cost them Charlie Asher, fullback, who aggravated an old shoulder injury.

Sun Bowl—The Mountaineers of West Virginia, apparently acclimated at last, will continue to drill on offensive formations. They will taper off for the rest of the week, devoting their time to signal and dummy scrimmage drills.

Texas Tech, after cutting its Christmas vacation short, resumed practice at Lubbock yesterday.

East-West—Two workouts drained some of the stiffness from the all-East team yesterday and Coach Andy Kerr promised another intensive drill today. The all-West squad scrimmaged for two and a half hours yesterday and will have another long drill today.

BUFFALOES BEATEN 50 TO 26 IN OKLAHOMA CITY TOURNEY

By AUSTIN BEALMER

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 28 (AP)—Oklahomans were few and far between today as eight undefeated teams in the second annual Oklahoma Collegiate Baseball tournament moved into the quarter-finals, leaving the 14 clubs which lost in yesterday's first and second rounds to scrap among themselves, merely for experience.

Pre-tournament favorites came through with flying colors in most instances.

The Oklahoma Aggies, defending tournament champions, and Tulsa University were the only Oklahoma teams left in the title flight today. Other seeded teams which fought their way through the second round were Arkansas's Razorbacks, the Rice Owls, Baylor's Bears and the Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers.

The Moundbuilders from Southwestern College, Winfield, Kas., and the North Texas Teachers, neither of them seeded, crossed up tournament officials by skipping through to the quarter-finals with two well-earned victories each.

Nobody was greatly surprised when the Notrh Texas Teachers ousted the East Central Oklahoma Teachers, 35 to 30, but when they outclassed the Central Oklahoma Teachers, 35 to 22, in the second game, the fans sat up and took notice.

The feature of the first day's bombardment, however, was the University of Arkansas thrilling 45 to 44 victory over the Northwestern Oklahoma Teachers. After trailing all the way, the Razorbacks scored six points in the last 20 seconds with Jack Robins slapping in the winning bucket a split second before the timer's gun ended the game.

Northwestern had advanced to the second round by beating Texas Tech, 41 to 31, while Arkansas drew a first-round bye.

The Oklahoma Aggies disposed of the East Texas Teachers in an easy second round game, 42 to 20, after the Texans had whipped Southwestern Oklahoma Teachers, 37 to 16, in the first round.

Baylor's Bears ousted Phillips University from the championship bracket with a 39 to 20 second round victory after both teams had advanced on byes.

The Rice Owls, led by little Max Hyman, stopped the Northeastern Oklahoma Teachers, 38 to 26, after Northeastern had eliminated Oklahoma Baptist University, 38 to 17.

Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers, with Schrick and Troutwine doing most of the damage, turned back the West Texas Teachers, 50 to 26. The Texans got into the second round by beating Stephen F. Austin College, 44 to 35 in the opening round.

Today's schedule in the championship bracket:

3:30 p. m.—Rice Institute, Houston, Tex., vs. North Texas Teachers' Denton.

7:45 p. m.—University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, vs. Warrensburg, Mo., Teachers.

9 p. m.—Oklahoma Aggies, Stillwater, vs. Baylor University, Waco, Tex.

10:15 p. m.—Tulsa University vs. Southwestern College, Winfield, Kas.

18,000 SEE LUISETTI HIT GARDEN HOOP

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 (AP)—Angelo "Hank" Luisetti is back in town with the Stanford University basketball club and the "standing room only" sign is out again at the Garden.

Hank, who is supposed to be the greatest college player in the country and at least the equal of any that ever pulled on a knee pad, has a fabulous following. The court bugs paid $1.10 to stand up under the eaves and watch him and his fellow dribblers play C. C. N. Y. last night.

They got their money's worth, all 18,000 of them. Hank, although he didn't top the Stanford scorers, tallied 14 points and turned in a remarkable exhibition of play-making and generalship to lead Stanford to a 45 to 42 triumph over City College of New York.

A good part of them paid and stood to watch Luisetti, who in two varsity years has scored 826 points, an average of better than 15 to the game for a new collegiate record. They will be there again tomorrow night when he performs against Long Island University.

Hank, a unanimous all-America forward for two years, is the first player, the promoters say, who has packed the customers in the Garden on his own account since basketball became "big money" here. They'll hate to see him graduated next summer.

Over six feet tall and well set-up, Luisetti is as lithe as a big cat. He is an equally deadly shot with either hand, a spectacular dribbler and passer and a defensive genius. His coach, Jack Bunn, who played and coached at Kansas, says Luisetti still could play on his team if he never took a shot at the basket.

Smith and Dodson In Second Round Of Hollywood Meet

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., Dec. 28 (AP)—Horton Smith of Chicago and Lecnard Dodson of Springfield, Mo., moved into the second round of the $4,000 Hollywood open golf tournament here today a stroke up on a bunched field.

Within three strokes of the 67's tabulated by Smith and Dodson were 16 other golfers who equalled or bettered par 70 on opening day.

Debonair Dick Metz of Chicago, who holds the course record of 63, and Bruce Coltart of Haddonfield, N. J., were a single shot back with 68's.

The low 60 pros and 15 amateurs at the end of 36 holes today qualify for tomorrow's final two rounds.

Entries for the Pampa Daily NEWS Golden Gloves boxing tournament, open to amateur boxers 16 years or older, are already being received and within a week an arena for training will be thrown open to the youngsters desiring to box their way to a title and a trip to the state tournament in Fort Worth.

The light classes are most popular, according to early entries, but it is predicted that the big fellows will start registering when workouts begin. It is the hope of the tournament leaders that a large group of "white hopefuls" or heavyweights cash in on the opportunity that might lead them to become a second Jack Dempsey.

With a negro now holding the title, heavyweight boxers are in demand the nation over. Golden Gloves tournaments are watched with interest in the hope of a new "white hope" showing up.

An entry blank appears in The NEWS today. Boys, or young men, desiring to compete in the tournament, which will see a winner in each division sent to Fort Worth with all expenses paid, are urged to fill in the blank and take or mail it to the Golden Gloves Editor, care of the Pampa Daily NEWS.

Entries Coming In

First entry was received from James Brown, resident of the Talley addition, who entered the 135-pound or lightweight class. Raymond Elkins, former Harvester football star, also registered in the same weight. a bantamweight, LeRoy Regan, was the first in the 118-pound class to enter. Other weights have entries as the training period nears.

The big tournament, which will be staged the first four days in February if enough entries are received, will place Pampa in the boxing spotlight in Texas. Few cities, and only two others in West Texas—Amarillo and Lubbock—have Golden Gloves tournaments.

Pampa used to be a rabid boxing center and packed arenas are anticipated during the Golden Gloves event. Tentative arrangements have been made to use the Pampa Athletic arena for workouts and for the tournament. Cliff B. Chambers, manager, plans to lay a new floor in the ring with new mats.

Prospective entrants are urged to file their applications immediately so that workout periods can be arranged.

TODAY'S SERMONETTE

The real Christmas spirit is that which thinks of the needs of others and has a desire to bring comfort and happiness to those less fortunate than oneself. Therefore we are commanded when we make a feast "to call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind; and thou shalt be blessed for they cans't not compensate thee."—Chivers.

DEATH, THE LEVELER

Erich Von Ludendorff hated Christianity, especially Catholicism.

He was one of Germany's ace generals during the World War. In later years, when even some of his friends conceded that his mental brilliance had dimmed a bit, Ludendorff was a leader in the ridiculous "beer-cellar" revolt in Munich in 1923, and later in an effort to restore German paganism at the expense of Christianity.

Ludendorff's last days were spent, however, in a Catholic hospital in Munich, his dying hours attended by nuns, to whom their patient was no smoldering foe of their religion, but simply an old man, dying.

Thus death not only levels, but even in the last days or hours while it is fastening an icy grip on the failing flesh, all the folly, intolerance and petulant littleness of man returns to sit grinning on his bedstead.

Ludendorff is beyond all that now. What does he think now, do you suppose, of all his fuming against a religion of mercy and love?

'STAR-STANDERED BANNER'

The old row about the Star-Spangled Banner's suitability as a national anthem has been fanned into a faint spark once again, this time by Rev. John Haynes Holmes, who seems to be a New York preacher.

The venerable old tune is "vulgar," "celebrates war," "breathes hatred," avers the Rev. Holmes. And Nino Martini, Metropolitan Opera singer, adds that "It calls for an extraordinary range even in a professional singer."

Yet somehow for more than 100 years we've been singing it. And so far as the words go, aren't they something like this: "Oh, say can you see, by the dawn's early light, what so proudly we we hailed, da de dum dum de do do. Do de dah, dah dee dah, dah dee dah da da da . . . " and so on?

At least that's what you usually hear when the venerable old piece is sung. Surely there can't be anything very harmful in that, Dr. Holmes.

Washington Letter

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28—The scuttling of the minimum wage-maximum hour bill in the House was a harder jolt to the New Deal than the Senate's defeat of the President's Supreme Court plan.

Which means that it's the worst blow the Roosevelt administration has received to date.

This time a fundamental economic issue was involved and the New Deal met its defeat in the House of Representatives, where traditionally the administration is expected to have control. The defeat is all the worse because its effect is cumulative, following the court plan debacle as closely as it does.

As a result of Roosevelt's bold attempt to enlarge the Supreme Court, the justices appeared to have been scared into handing down pro-New Deal decisions and one conservative justice resigned. The present cloud appears to have no silver lining whatever. Wage-hour legislation was a keystone in the Roosevelt program.

The great political question of the hour is whether Roosevelt will fight to regain the control of Congress, which a combination of conservative southern Democrats and northern Republicans have wrested away from him and, if so, whether he can win. For the time being one can only be sure that Mr. Roosevelt has received a disconcerting shock.

The President will be urged by some advisers and congressional supporters to veto any farm legislation which Congress passes, and to insist that there be no more huge appropriations for farmers until representatives of the Cotton South and the grain belt have shown themselves willing to aid the poorest paid groups in industry.

Such a course would require more obstinacy than the President has shown for a long time.

The queerest thing about the final wage-hour debacle was the fact that contributory parts in it were played by President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and Mr. Roosevelt himself, who was responsible for the bill and had most to win or lose.

The A. F. of L. lost much prestige and power through its peculiar tactics. Few congressmen who voted for the defeated A. F. of L. substitute bill were willing to continue following William Green's orders subsequently by voting to recommit the bill backed by the administration. Nevertheless there were a few such men and their votes counted in the margin even though there were fewer than 10—the number of votes which, if switched, would have turned the tide.

Although Secretary Perkins may not have lobbied directly to put administration of the wage- hour measure under her department, one of her feminine minions was conspicuous in lining up support for and causing Chairman Mary Norton of the House Labor committee to make the proposal for a Labor Department administrator.

The positions of certain labor leaders were falsified in the course of this lobbying. Members favorable to the original plan for a five-man board administration estimate that somewhere between 5 and 20 southern members deserted the bill because of distrust for Miss Perkins, and the feeling that a board at least would allow southern representation.

Although Roosevelt took no active part in the fight, his combination of floor leadership and liaison men worked feverishly. The administration "machine" proved both weak and unable to estimate its strength. Roosevelt was ready to send a message to the House on the last day if advised that there was any doubt as to the outcome of the recommital fight. He was told the bill was safe. Hence the shock.

As for this feud between business and government, why not appoint Santa Claus as arbiter?

This is "the winter of our discontent," and everybody might as well get everything off his chest.

Seems as if, along about this time, somebody should produce a few more good Hymns of Hate.

Our economic system's all right; the trouble is, we keep on throwing grudges into the machinery.

A democracy, says a cynical friend, is a nation that talks it over and agrees that something ought to be done, then doesn't do it.

Tex's Topics

Marvin Jones, your up-and-doing congressman, doesn't get many chances for out-door recreation, so when one comes along he takes advantage of it . . . That's why he kept a delegation waiting for an hour and 40 minutes in Amarillo yesterday afternoon . . . You can't blame him much, though, for he was using the time to hunt quail with friends on a ranch over around Vega . . . He came back in to report, incidentally, that he didn't do much good . . . Between the four of them they bagged twelve . . . His shooting eye, apparently is not nearly so good as his farm bill eye.

While we are on the subject of Mr. Jones, he assured a Gray County delegation who met with him in his apartment at Amarillo yesterday that he believes government agencies soon are going to put some action into plans for a Gray county recreational lake at Beaver Dam on McClellan creek . . . I feel low as this is written for the Boy Wonder is sick, and when he is sick, so am I . . . The word I got on returning from Amarillo last night was that he's going to have to make a trip to the hospital very shortly, just as I did a couple of months ago . . . As soon as he gets over the present illness, he must have his tonsils snipped, the doctor man says . . . It gets me down to think that I can't bat for him and have mine out, instead

I have always been puzzled about tonsils and adenoids . . . So far as I can learn they are just so much excess baggage which all of us could very well get along without . . . Postmaster C. H. Walker says the figures aren't complete yet, but it looks as if December business in the Pampa postoffice would break the record for all time, locally . . . That's good . . . Other cities are bidding for the services of our City Manager C. L. Stine who has just been made a flattering offer from a city down in Georgia.

Probably someone already has mentioned to you that Homer Pruitt, Borger Chamber of Commerce secretary, is a deadringer for the late Will Rogers, not only in resemblance but in his mannerisms as well . . . Ford Fullingim, brother of Archer Fullingim, has been in town for the Xmas holidays wearing spankin' new cowboy boots and a $15 Stetson (adv.) hat . . . Ford is out of the Railroad Commission office at Houston.

Called on T. E. Johnson, publisher of the new Amarillo Times while in Amarillo yesterday, but he wasn't in, so now, he owes me a call and this will serve to jog his memory . . . I have vowed I will be fast asleep when they ring the old year out and the new year in Next Friday midnight . . . If there is anything I hate to attend it's a wake for another year or a christening for another year . . . Congressman Marvin Jones says the boys at Washington are getting economy-minded . . . Well, it's about time.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—At a five and dime store not far from the N. Y. Public Library is a girl who owns a large chunk of one of the steamship companies . . . She earns about 15 dollars a week . . . She is working there incognito because she wants to prove to herself that she could earn a living if working became necessary . . . This may not be so silly as it seems . . . Twice before her family has had a lot of money—and lost it . . . She intends holding several other jobs, just for experience, before returning to the fox hunting crowd that compose her intimates . . . As for her $15 salary—each week she gives to some family in need.

One of the annoyances of the theater is the late arrival. He knows the curtain goes up at 8:40 and he purchases his tickets several weeks in advance. Yet he never arrives until the play is three or four minutes old. . . This is annoying because the first few moments of any play are of primary importance. It gives a key to what is to follow and acquaints the audience with the time and place. To have some latecomer floundering across an entire row of seats is, to say the least, exasperating. Some theaters have adopted the custom refusing to seat patrons who arrive after the curtain rises.

Equally distracting is the playgoer who wanders out between acts for a smoke and doesn't get back until the second-act curtain is up. You see this time and again, night after night. I wouldn't want anything severe, like guillotining, to happen to these people, but a minor penalty, such as breaking his arm, might not be out of order.

Alfred H. Chittick probably has more time on his hands than any man in New York. . . Maybe in the world . . . Anyway, more than 60,000,000 watches have come to his door to be repaired, and he has shipments of mended time-pieces going out to every country in the world, every day of the week . . . Last week he repaired a watch for Gen. Chas. E. Dawes . . . Another of his customers is Col. Lingbergh . . . Wiley Post, Amy Johnson, Admiral Byrd, and others have paused while Chittick scrutinized their watches . . . Chittick used to be a Pullman porter . . . He has made 86 visits to Niagara Falls, his favorite vacation spot.

Johnny the Call Boy, who is only 43 inches high, has other distinctions besides being master-of-ceremonies on the "Johnny Presents" radio shows . . . Name one? . . . "Well," drawls Johnny, who can really drawl, "I'm the only grown man in New York who has to reach up to put a nickel in a subway slot machine."

Christopher Morley, who has had plenty of literary squabbles in recent years, is one of the few real classicists who is a two-fisted guy at the same time . . . Call one of his scholarly phrases and you'll hear about it.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

You drive along the streets and you see beautiful houses, and you know the people who live in all those fine houses, and you go into them and talk with the people, and you wonder how it is that they stay happy and contented, having no children, or perhaps only one, and you think, "it is a shame to let all that brick, fine rugs, hardwood floors, steam heat, fine furnishings, eye-holding wall-paper go to waste. Perhaps you are one of those persons who think that people who have, and who are able, should have children, and not people who, some say can't afford it. But do you know what those people who live in these fine houses think about, and how their minds run on things? You pity them because they do not have children to enjoy it, but you don't know that they don't want children, don't need children. They have something to take their place. They don't have ambition to create beauty in stone, or paint, or type or sound. They don't have music. Well, what do they have? What do they like? Some of them have a cat or a dog and they think they like those cats and dogs as much as you like your children! But most of the time they think about the house they live in. They worship their house and its finery. They love their pictures as you love your child's bright eyes; their tile roofs as you love your child's bright head; the walls of the house as you love your child's body. That's what they do—they love their houses above everything, their rugs, their floors, their wall-paper, their furniture. That is why they stay home contented; why they don't like to leave—just as you are content to stay at home with your child. They are in love, but not so much with anything that is human.

How's Your Health?

By IAGO GALDSTON, M.D.

Against how many diseases should a child be immunized?

This question is common among parents of young children. The answer is comparatively simple:

Children should be immunized against smallpox and diptheria. An attempt may be made to immunize them against whooping cough and measles if it is wished or seems necessary.

The effectiveness of whooping cough vaccination isn't determined yet. Some authorities, on the basis of their experience, believe it offers some degree of, if not complete, protection. Others are skeptical. So parents should be guided by the judgment of their physician. One thing is certain—the vaccine will do no harm.

Immunization of an exposed child against measles is usually indicated if the child is under 5 years; if he suffers, or has just recovered from some other serious illness; if, for any reason, he is not in good physical condition.

Immunization against measles lasts only a short time.

When effective, it will protect the youngster only against recent exposure. If at a later date the child is again exposed to measles, he is likely to develop the disease.

The child is immunized against measles by having injected into him convalescent serum derived from the blood of a person who has recently recovered from measles, or blood taken from one of his parents. Parental blood is not as effective as convalescent serum, but it is likely to make the developed case of measles milder.

The child should be immunized against smallpox before reaching his first birthday. Shortly afterward, he may be immunized against diptheria.

Some authorities also advise immunization against scarlet fever. By means of the Dick test it is possible to determine if a child (or adult) is susceptible to the toxin of the germs of scarlet fever. The susceptible person can be rendered immune to scarlet fever (for about one year) by being injected with a series of graduated doses of scarlet fever toxin.

Immunization against scarlet fever is not yet as well established as that against diptheria. But under certain circumstances, determinable by the physician, it may be highly desirable.

Around Hollywood

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—This town's master of the process of cumulative indignation—better known as the "slow burn"—is Edgar Kennedy.

Kennedy's step-by-step enactment of the emotion of anger in various film probably has covered as much celluloid as several full-length features. In the short subjects, "The Average Man," he has consumed as much as half a reel in the course of burning himself slowly to a violent crisp.

And audiences seem to like it, which is why Average Man Kennedy has been usurping more and more space in the feature world Seeking him out for a closer scientific study of a slow burner, I found a pleasant, huge fellow who not once showed symptoms of launching into his specialty. And I found history.

He Learns To Kick

"I guess the first time I ever did a slow burn in a picture," he confided, "was right at the beginning. And I was really burned. A new fellow named Chaplin had come out to join the Mack Sennett gang. He had his own ideas about comedy. There was a scene in which I was supposed to give him a kick. I kicked, the gentle, rough-seeming way we have of doing it. But he didn't respond. I kicked again. Still no answer. I was burned. The third time I really kicked—guess I kicked him right out of the scene."

He Begins With A Smile

Since 1912, when he gave up odd jobs, including boxing, to be in the movies, Kennedy has been "burning." Ask him if he can name off-hand any movies in which he has not done a delayed toast, and he'll give you right back: "Robin Hood of El Dorado." In that one he played the sheriff—straight. "And what a job! Me, a comic, and not allowed to play for laughs. . . .

Scientifically, the deferred explosion of temperament is much more than appears on the surface. Most people, for instance consider the "slow burn" has just begun when Kennedy starts wrapping his fingers around his face and tearing at his baldness. In truth, this stage is near the climax. The actual beginning, nearly always, is a smile. The guy is trying to be pleasant, but the other muggs won't let him. He sometimes attempts another smile, although feebly, before his fingers begin drumming the table. By the time he starts tearing at himself, the burn is well advanced. Peaceable even in exasperation, this average man turns his wrath upon himself.

Sharing the Comforts Of Life

By R. C. HOILES.

Ely Gingerg of Columbia university, in an article in Political Science Quarterly, under the heading of "The Social Sciences," remarks that they are largely controlled by professors and there will need be new blood in these social sciences. "Men who live within cloistered walls are frequently anemic," he says.

He points out that the three leading contributors on social sciences, during the eighteenth century, were Gibbon, Smith and Bentham; that none of these men were academic and all of them left Oxford contending "nothing could be possibly learned at Oxford."

We seem to have a craze at present that all the wisdom comes from universities.

Those theorists and educators who delight in making themselves believe that they are great humanists, kind, thoughtful and benevolent are about as addicted to their habits and beliefs as the drunkard. When their inconsistencies are pointed out, or when they cannot answer questions on their fantastic schemes of benefitting the have-nots they pay no attention and, parrot-like, reiterate their former conventions.

We are now going through what might be called the "Keeley Cure," for these people, by the depression we are in. It is painful and most costly but absolutely necessary. They have had a splendid time for the last 25 years unknowingly spreading their doctrines so that they are as confirmed in their habits as the man with the delirium tremens.

So They Say

Your country is now free of the mass neurosis induced by that beastly thing, Prohibition.
—ALDOUS HUXLEY, British author, after his second trip to America.

I can be wholly objective on this depression because certainly I did not create it.
—HERBERT HOOVER.

What I would like to find is a good American business man. They are so kind, so tender, so sensitive.
—DUSOLINA GIANNINI, opera star.

PRODUCTION OF CRUDE SHOWS NICE INCREASE

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 28 (AP)—Production of crude petroleum increased 52,278 barrels during the week ending Dec. 25 to an average of 2,496,118 barrels daily for the nation, the oil and gas journal reported today.

Oklahoma registered a decline of 19,850 barrels daily to an average of 550,300 barrels, East Texas increased 70,750 barrels daily to 489,450 and the total state of Texas had a hike of 63,549 barrels daily to 1,394,994.

In Louisiana production increased 9,180 barrels daily to 252,360 Kansas increased 3,500 barrels daily to 182,175 and California declined 6,000 barrels daily to 705,500.

Eastern states including Michigan decreased their production 1,631 barrels daily to 185,061 and the Rocky Mountain region increased 1,160 barrels daily to 72,800.

FARM TENANCY PROGRAM WILL BEGIN SOON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Two long-range federal projects to aid low-income groups—slum clearance and farm tenancy programs—will begin operation early in the new year.

They are the principal new government activities now scheduled for 1938, although the coming session of congress may authorize others.

The social security program will be broadened. Twenty-one states and the District of Columbia aided by federal funds, will begin Jan. 1 to pay unemployment compensation to workers in insured industries.

A tentative start already has been made on the $523,000,000 slum clearance program, which officials hope eventually will provide better living quarters for millions of low-income residents.

Congress provided $100,000,000 for the first year's operations of the United States Housing authority, set up to direct the program, and appropriated $200,000,000 for the second year. The authority tentatively has allotted $136,550,000 to 32 cities.

The farm tenancy program has been in the organization stage. Officials of the Farm Security administration, which will direct it, said they expected to start making loans early in 1938 to selected tenants who wish to buy farms.

The agency received a $10,000,000 appropriation for its first year's operations. Officials said this amount would permit assistance to about 2,100 tenants in the first year. The program provides for 40-year loans at 3 per cent interest.

While these new government agencies were created in 1937, only one sizable one—the Resettlement administration—passed out of existence. Its projects were turned over to the Farm Security administration, which arranged to complete those already begun.

The Public Works administration was continued by congressional act, but President Roosevelt said its "spending days" were over.

Other emergency agencies given an extension of life were the Civilian Conservation Corps, extended to July 1, 1940; the Commodity Credit Corporation, and the Surplus Commodities Corporation, both extended to June 30, 1939.

The number of government employes declined slightly during 1937, despite the opening of new agencies and continuation of most of the old ones. At the beginning of their year 831,095 persons were on the federal payroll. The last report before the year's end showed 827,701.

RAVEL, NOTED COMPOSER OF 'BOLERO' PASSES

PARIS, Dec. 28 (AP)—Maurice Ravel, the celebrated French composer, died today as a result of a grave head operation. He was 62 years old.

Ravel, who had been in failing health for years, had undergone the operation last Wednesday. Last night his physicians reported his condition was causing serious concern. His brother Edouard was at his bedside when he succumbed, at a private hospital, at 3:30 a. m.

Dr. Clovis Vincent said death ended the agony which the composer had suffered intermittently for the last six years and which had curtailed his work.

Once criticized as the writer of "Dangerous and Anarchist" music, Ravel had finally gained recognition as the foremost of modern French composers.

His best known works included: "Bolero;" the piano compositions, "Jeux D'Eau" and "Miroirs," the string quartet, "Quatuor En Fa;" symphonic works beside Bolero, "Rhapsodie Espagnole" and "La Valse," and a late piano concerto.

CAST OF CHARACTERS

LINDA BENTON—Heroine, daughter of a famous singer.

CAPT. BARRYMORE TRENT—Hero, flying "daredevil."

MIRANDA TRENT — Barrymore's grandmother, a "strong" woman.

Yesterday: Barrymore's plane is reported forced down at sea. It is a crisis for Mrs. Trent and Linda. They are about to retire after that first agonizing day when suddenly the telephone shrills.

CHAPTER XI

At the sound of the telephone bell, Barrymore's grandmother settled back again in her chair.

"Will you please see what that is, Miss Benton?" she directed.

Linda took down the receiver and said, "Yes. This is Mrs. Trent's secretary speaking."

"Oh," said a man's voice at the other end of the line. "Well, this is the United Press. We should like Mrs. Trent to affirm or deny a story we have here. Shall I read it to you?"

"Read it," said Linda, "and I will consult Mrs. Trent."

" 'Miss Magda Shirley,' " the voice read, " 'thrice married, thrice divorced darling of the silver screen, let it be known tonight, friends say, that she was to have been married next month to Captain Barrymore Trent of the United States Naval Air Force. Captain Trent has definitely been given up for lost since his wrecked plane was found floating in the Caribbean Sea after his recent dash to the rescue of the ill-fated Aurelius expedition.

"The names of the glamorous Miss Shirley and the daring young flyer were often bracketed when Captain Trent was stationed in California six months ago. Miss Shirley, friends say, is at present in a sanitarium, prostrated at the news of Captain Trent's disappearance' .....Now what we want to know is: is this the truth or press-agent ballyhoo?"

Linda stood for so long a time silent that old Miranda said tartly, "Well? Well, what is it?"

"I think," said Linda from the blanket of fog that was closing in about her, "that you had better speak to Mrs. Trent.

She handed the instrument to old Miranda.

The old lady listened, her lips drawing to a dangerous line. When the sputtering over the receiver stopped, she broke, her clear, cool voice very contemptious, sure.

"You may say," she directed, "that the story is a brazen, impudent lie. That is all. Goodnight."

Linda asked, in spite of herself, "How can you be so sure?"

"Because my grandson was born with the tastes of a gentleman. He may have paid the creature some attention. She has a pretty face, she is notoriously accesible, and he is a man and young," snapped old Miranda with that unabiased acceptance of the facts of life that had so often reduced her grandson to shouts of laughter; "but he would not consider marrying her if she were the last woman in the world. When my grandson brings a wife into this, she will be a gentlewoman, born and bred to uphold the dignity of his name."

"Then," cried Linda, "how did she dare?"

"Because, my dear Miss Benton, she is shrewd enough to know that any denial I make will be discounted as the inevitable gesture of a doting and deceived old woman..... And she will accomplish her purpose. To-morrow the papers will be full of her....I'd send my immortal soul to be able to prove that that hussy is lying."

"Would you?" thought Linda. "I wonder."

The day he went away, Barry had said in those last crowded moments, "If—of course I'll be back soon, darling; but —well, someone might drop a brick on me, you know —you must promise me to tell gran mother—as soon as you're sure. She's really fond of you, Titania. Promise me you'll tell her."

"Barry, don't!" Linda had cried. "If anything happened to you, nothing else would matter."

"Mrs. Trent," Linda began impulsively— but at that moment the doorbell rang.

It was a messenger with a letter for Mrs. Trent. She opened it and read it, the fingers of one hand tightening slowly about the arm of her chair.

It seemed to be very brief. She read it again and yet again. Then she rose, and glancing briefly at Linda, went slow out of the room and upstairs.

All through breakfast next morning, old Miranda was strangely silent. From time to time she glanced at Linda as if she were about to speak, but uncertain how to phrase something she had to say—as if that something might be unpleasant.

"Perhaps," Linda thought, "she's getting ready to tell me she doesn't want me here any more. ....How am I to tell her about—Barry and me, if she feels like that? But I promised Barry."

So she vacillated all day, debating, dreading. She had almost summoned her strength for the ordeal that evening after dinner when old Miranda said," Judge Baldwin's death has been a shock to me—why I do not know; for he has been ill for years. He was one of my oldest friends."

"Judge Baldwin?" echoed Linda blankly. "I—I hadn't—"

"He died this afternoon. Miss Chattam phoned me."

It was at this moment that Jefferson appeared to announce Mrs. Rita Blanchard. Before old Miranda could speak, Rita was on the threshold behind him. For a moment she poised there, one hand resting against the door farme, the other against her throat, as if to control an overwhelming emotion.

Then she cried: "Oh, poor dear Mrs. Trent!"

With a swift rush she crossed the room, and sinking to he low stool by the older woman's chair, she caught one of her hands in both of her own and pressed it against her cheek.

"I had to come," she burst out when old Miranda did not speak, but continued to sit, motionless. looking at her fixedly. "I thought perhaps — can't we comfort each other? I — can hardly realize yet that we have lost him.....Oh, but you — you don't know yet, do you? ....You must not blame Barry. He wanted to tell you before he went ....He begged me to marry him last night. If I could have guessed—"

Then old Miranda moved and broke her silence.

'My dear Rita," she said, a mirthless amusement in her old eyes, "you must forgive me if I seem unresponsive. But there seems to be an epedemic of this sort of thing. Is it possible that you have not read the morninng news? If not, this will doubtless interest you."

Reaching behind her, she picked up the morning paper and spread it before Mrs. Blanchard's startled eyes.

Old Miranda had been right. The paper had made a noble display of Magda Shirley's story. Headlines brazened:

Magda Shirley Says Engaged to Wed Lost Navy Flyer

and just opposite:

Grandmother of Captain Trent Denies Pilot Planned to Marry Screen Siren

There were pictures of Barry and Magda—that of Barry caught as he stood by his plane that last night; that of Magda in one of her most insinuating poses.

When Rita had gone, Barry's grandmother said dryly, "She really made a magnificient entrance. The Shirley herself could not have been more convincing.... Too bad I had to spoil the act..... Well, well! I wonder who will be next."

"Not I," thought Linda. "Not I!"

For after all, what proof had she that either Magda Shirley or Rita Blanchard had lacked. She had no papers. Barry was gone. Judge Baldwin was dead. The only witness to that hasty ceremony had been that chance visitor, already, no doubt, steaming toward England.

No, Linda thought, promise or not, she could never tell old Miranda now.

All that long evening as she and Barry's grandmother sat—speechless for the most part—in that silent, empty house, she made plans in the back of her mind—incoherent, stupid plans, born of a numbed, despairing mind. All evening she was aware that old Miranda was watching her under veiled lids, a baffled, speculative look, in her tired, shrewd old eyes.

And all about them was the fresh, spicy odor of balsam from the tree that stood stark and bare in the front parior.....To-night, Barry was to have been here to trim the Christmas tree.

U. S. MAKING LAST JOBLESS CENSUS CHECK

A double-check on the census of unemployment, conducted Nov. 18-20, is being made by the United States Department of Commerce.

Trained employes of the post-office department devoted four days to calling on all abodes on 1,864 postal routes.

The identity of the routes were not known to anyone in advance. The postal department divided 92,000 postal routes into groups of 50, each group being equally representative as to territorial and population coverage.

Vice-President John Nance Garner drew number 42 out of a hat containing 50 numbers; thus the forty-second route out of every 50 was designated for the test.

Workers on the routes reached a total of two million people.

A comparative analysis is now being made of the results from three voluntary enrollments on the same routes. The results of these two types of census, compared, will be available for publication January 2.

A second news release, available the following day, will include the total number of unemployed and total number of partly-employed in the United States, as revealed by the voluntary census, and the totals will be divided by sex.

This report will also show the total of those employed on work relief projects and by other emergency agencies, who, for purposes of the unemployment census, are listed as unemployed. These will also be divided according to sex.

BUREAU FILES VITAL RECORDS OF 265,000

AUSTIN, Dec. 28.—The state bureau of vital statistics, during the year, has filed a record of 196,619 births and 68,882 deaths, it has been announced in the Bulletin, official publication of the Texas Department of Health.

The birth certificates will establish the citizenship, protect the right of inheritance, and settle many legal questions involving the families in which these children were born.

The death certificates are of benefit to the widows and the orphans in securing the immediate settlement of life insurance, not to mention their use in the settlement of legal question in the future.

The 265,500 birth and death certificates filed in 1937 is the foundation upon which the administration of public health work can be based during the coming year.

Elizabeth, Queen of Darts

Though Queen of the Realm, Queen Elizabeth is a good sport in her contacts with her subjects. Visiting a working men's social center at Slough, Buckinghamshire, she's pictured participating in a game of darts, known as "the poor man's game" because it is played in nearly every "pub." Steel pointed darts are thrown at bull's-eyes.

LONG-RANGE FORECAST HITS THE MARK IN '37

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28 (AP)—Last January, Daniel Ballmer, a science hobbyist, announced a new method of forecasting weather conditions at long range. He had semi-pictorial charts for all 1937.

He agreed to stand or fall on the outcome of his predictions. These were based on unorthodox ideas as to sun-moon effects on the weather.

Ballmer, who used to be an optician at Cozad, Neb., now has assembled official local and national weather figures and made comparisons indicating he has "hit it" pretty well on his forecasts.

Encouraged by his success, Ballmer has prepared much more elaborate, detailed charts for 1938. Again he is going to face the actual record.

He attempts only to forecast the weather for periods of several days each—weather periods will be stormy or mild, colder or warmer.

Roughly stated, Ballmer's theory is that the nearer together the sun and moon are, the warmer the weather will be, and vice versa, with certain exceptions which he details. He also contends in this connection that moonlight is not merely reflected sunlight, as orthodox astronomy assumes, but is direct radiation from the moon after the sun has heated it to high temperatures. He holds that whenever the moon is "up" in the daytime, there is more heat than the sun alone would supply.

280 AMERICAN CITIZENS FLEE TSINGTAO

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Dec. 28—The United States gunboat Sacramento steamed out of Tsingtao harbor today, carrying American refugees from that rich Shantung province seaport isolated by advancing Japanese armies.

Dispatches from the threatened city said 280 Americans had evacuated, many of them on the Sacramento, which was due in Shanghai, some 400 miles to the south, on Thursday. Earlier this week Tsingtao advices were that there were 300 Americans there, with the Sacramento, the destroyer Pope, and the cruiser Marblehead standing by to aid them.

Fall of Tsingtao to Japanese swarming southward into Shantung province seemed imminent. Tsinan, provincal capital 200 miles to the west, was in Japanese hands. Other Japanese columns raised the rising sun flag over Weihsien, railway point less than 100 miles west of Tsingtao.

Provincial forces of Shangtung war lord Han Fu-Chu took up positions on nearby White Horse mountain after their feeble resistance at Tsinan. In Shanghai, observers raised the question of whether General Han had made a deal with the Japanese.

Chinese here were quick to point out that only provincial Chinese troops were defeated at Tsinan. They said strong central army forces occupied positions at Taian, 32 miles to the south, and Lincheng, another 85 miles along the route to Kiangsu province.

(Japanese reports to Tokyo said General I Tsung-Jen, former enemy of Generalissimo Chiang Kei-Shek, and now cooperating with General Han, had issued a proclamation saying fall of Tsinan did not mean the loss of Shantung province.

(The proclamation called for a general mobilization. Tsingtao was said to be in a state of war, with foreigners and Chinese fleeing and dugouts and other defenses being built.

(Foreign diplomats at Hankow interpreted the arrival of the new Soviet ambassador, Ivan Tewfimovitch Luganets-Orelsky, who has commanded units of the Red army, as meaning closer military relations between China and Russia.)

The United States gunboat Oahu sailed up the Yangtze river to start salvage operations on her tragic sister-ship, the Panay, sunk by Japanese Dec. 12.

Two United States consuls, John A. Allison and James Espy, and Code Clerk A. A. McFayden were on board, bound for Nanking to reopen the United States embassy as soon as conditions permit.

under WPA with the possibility that the project would be abandoned if not completed by the end of WPA's fiscal year, and with the further possibility that the counties would have to buy the land for the project, which was not the case in the Tierra Blanca project, where farm security administration paid for the land, furnished the material and WPA is supplying the man-power to get the job done. Mr. Jones told the delegation yesterday that he did not know or understand why the change was made.

Mr. Jones expressed a personal desire to have the Gray county lake get under construction at the earliest possible moment. He told members of the delegation from Gray and Hutchinson counties that he would, immediately upon his return to Washington next Monday, confer with FSA and SPA officials and then advise County Judge Sherman White in Pampa of the status of the Gray county lake application.

Included in yesterday's delegation which called on the congressman at his apartment in Amarillo were C. O. Greene, W. E. Bogan, George W. Sitter, M. M. Newman, and M. O. Bentley, all of McLean; Homer Pruitt, of Borger, and Mayor W. A. Bratton, County Judge White, City Manager C. L. Stine, Postmaster C. H. Walker, Chamber of Commerce Manager Garnet Reeves, John Haggard, James E. Lyons, and Tex De Weese, of Pampa.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 28. (AP)—Tumbles of four cents a bushel in Chicago wheat prices today resulted largely from month end selling on the part of holders of December contracts.

Activity of sellers was promoted by the circumstance that any December contracts which remained uncompleted after today could only be settled by actual delivery of grain, and that a total of almost 5,000,000 bushels of December wheat was still outstanding today unadjusted.

Sharp downturns of securities were also a notable depressing factor as to wheat.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were ¾ to 4 cents under yesterday's finish, Dec. 92-92⅞, May 91½-⅝, July 85⅝-¾, corn ⅛-1⅞ down, Dec. 59¼-½, May 61¼-⅝, July 60⅝-¾, and oats ⅛-1⅜ off.

HUNTER FOUND.

AUSTIN, Dec. 28 (AP)—Concern over the safety of Haley Ethridge, Austin deer hunter, was dispelled today when he made his way to a farm house after being lost all night in the rain-soaked hills northwest of Austin. Large posses of Boy Scouts and sheriff's deputies had been organized to start a search.

WELL, WELL--SO THIS IS WHAT CAUSED IT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Men who study rocks and reefs heard today a theory that the form of the earth—its mountains and valleys, continents and oceans—resulted from 2,000,000,000 years of melting, cooling and melting again in spots.

Dr. Bailey Willis of Stanford University told the geological society of America that eventually these "melting spots" under the surface cropped out as ledges of rock and burst forth in streams of lava.

The heat which causes the melting, he said, is believed to come from the break-up of atoms, a process known to science as radio-activity.

Another researcher in the life story of the earth reported evidence that one of the earliest inhabitants of North America hunted elephants in what is now Texas.

Bones of an ancient elephant found in a filled-in water hole near Miami, Tex., showed a cut made "probably by a spear," said Dr. E. H. Sellards of the University of Texas. He id ntified the hunter as a prehistoric folsom man.

DO YOU KNOW HOW TO USE THESE WORDS?

CHICAGO, Dec. 28. (AP)—What do you mean when you use the words "let," "bless," and "before"?

Prof. Ovid R. Sellers of the Presbyterian Theological seminary of Chicago put that rhetorical question to the Linguistic Society of America which is holding its 14th annual meeting today.

"Let" may mean "allow" or it may mean "prevent" or "hinder" as a let ball in tennis, he said. "Bless" may mean curse. "Cleave" may mean split apart, or it may mean adhere. "Before' in "before the war refers to the past, and in "a golden age is before us' implies the future.

Other opposites: To stone a man and stone a cherry; to seed a field and seed a raisin; to fish a garden (spread fish fertilizer) and fish a pond.

No wonder said Prof. Sellers, that lawyers wrangle over the meaning of words in wills and why every student of the constitution seems to interpret it differently.

DIVORCE SUIT TO BE FILED SOON BY LEFTY

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28 (AP)—Vernon (Lefty) Gomez New York Yankee pitcher, expects to see his marriage strike out in court.

He told a reporter here yesterday he would "file suit for divorce soon" against June O'Dea, former actress, and disclosed they had been estranged since last April.

Denying he had already filed the suit in Mexico, Gomez left details of his plans up in the air. He, himself, was temporarily grounded, however, for he failed to catch a plane at midnight that was to take him to his Rodeo, Calif., home.

The baseball hurler had visited here at the home of Edna Torrence, dancer, who branded as "absurd" a rumor linking their names romatically.

Bloc Seeks Embargo On War Materials

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—Leaders of the congressional "mandatory neutrality" block said today they would resume their campaign in the coming session of congress for invocation of the neutrality law in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Senator Nye (R-ND) said final settlement of the Panay bombing had cleared the way for him and some other senators to voice their objections to continuance of the administration policy of not placing an embargo on war materials to the far Eastern belligerents.

Nye said he expected strong support in the senate for the Ludlow constitutional amendment, which would require a popular vote before Congress could declare an offensive war.

The senate neutrality bloc, however, has divided on this issue. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) strongly opposes the war referendum proposal, but senators Clark (D-Mo.), Lafollette (Prog.-Wis.), Capper (D-Kan.), and Nye, all members of the bloc, have introduced proposals similar to Ludlow's.

HEFLIN ILL.

LAFAYETTE, Ala., Dec. 28 (AP)—The condition of former Senator J. Thomas Heflin, stricken with lobar pneumonia in the closing days of his "comeback" campaign, remained practically unchanged today. While saying the patient still was "a very sick man," Dr. N. A. Wheeler added, "I do not regard his condition as serious."

be vitamins, enzymes or other chemicals which the germs make when they are in the body.

The missing germs included about 20 species and perhaps 100 different types. These germs are all common to man's digestive tract. They are ordinarily referred to by medical scientists as non-pathogenic—that is, harmless to health.

It is known that some of these harmless germs become virulent enemies of men and animals, if they happen to get outside the digestive tract into other parts of the body.

The plants grown in the germless world were wheat and corn. They were not even as healthy as the animals. The reasons for the sickliness of the germ-free plants, Reyniers said, are unknown.

The insects of the utopia were bottle flies and gall wasps. They didn't seem to mind their queer environment.

casts that the session would end in May.

One experienced member predicted Congress would meet at least until Mid-June, despite the "spade work" accomplished at the recent special session.

An item which most Congressmen believe will be added to the administration program is new anti-trust legislation. President Roosevelt originally placed it on the special session agenda, but offered no specific proposals.

There have been hints that his supporters might get behind something like the Borah-O-Mahoney bill to license corporations doing an interstate business.

Whether or not this is in the wind, activity on behalf of the measure has increased. Today Senator Morris (Ind-Neb) said he favored it.

Other 'Must' Items

Before Congress can debate an anti-monopoly program, it must deal with such complicated and controversy-laden subjects as farm control, anti-lynching, government reorganization, and taxation.

When it convenes, two major measures will be in conference between the House and Senate—the farm bill and new housing legislation. Their completion will be given precedence.

The House Ways and Means committee is expected soon to finish a bill to revise the federal tax structure, placing particular emphasis on the corporate surplus and capital gains levies.

In the Senate, anti-lynching legislation already approved by the House will have the right-of-way. It will be followed, under present plans, by the bitterly-opposed government reorganization bill.

Other proposals, either on the administration program or strongly backed by members, included:

Creation of seven regional planning authorities.

Revision of the Wagner act.

Curtailment of road appropriations.

Wage-hour and child labor legislation.

GALVESTON PUZZLED BY UNUSUAL, DENSE FOG

GALVESTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—A dense fog which has interfered with aerial and maritime navigation for three days was not accounted unusual here for the time of the year.

There have been no periods of interference as long previously this winter, however.

With continued mild temperatures and no strong winds forecast local shipping men saw little hope for an early cessation of the fog.

Airmail and plane passenger movements have been cancelled since Friday. A few ships in harbor have been able to move in intervals of comparative clearness.

Two vessels were laid up as a result of a collision in the fog in Bolivar Roads Sunday night.

SINO-JAP WAR BOOSTS INDIA COTTON MARKET

HOUSTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—W. L. Clayton, head of the world's largest cotton company, back from a flying trip to Europe, Africa, and Asia, today said India and Egypt harvested large cotton crops this year.

"They harvested the best crop in Egypt and the second largest in India," he said. "India is profiting by the inability of Japan to compete in the international market for cotton goods.

"I doubt whether the United States could get much benefit from the situation in view of the high cost of production," the cotton man said, "but England, Italy and to some extent Germany, have got some benefit from the Japanese situation."

INVENTORY OF HEALTH SUGGESTED TO TEXANS

AUSTIN, Dec. 28—That personal health is a big business for everybody and that Texans should be as vitally concerned in an inventory of their physical condition as in an inventory of merchandise, was the idea stressed today by Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer.

Dr. Cox urged that those who wish to live healthily ad happily as possible throughout 1938 and the years to come, have a complete physical checkup.

Correction of defects in early stages will save time, suffering, and money, Dr. Cox says.

Cancer, tuberculosis, nephritis, diabetes and heart ailments are among the diseases listed by Dr. Cox as affecting persons before they are aware of their presence. A good physical examination will often be the means of revealing, and checking, these and other diseases.

Slayer of Mother Freed From Jail

WARREN, O., Dec. 28 AP)—Miss Louise Campbell was ordered freed from the Trumbull county jail today after Coroner J. C. Henshaw ruled the gunshot death of her mother was accidental.

The 28-year-old girl had been in jail without charge since Saturday.

Mrs. Campbell, 55, daughter-in-law of a pioneer Ohio steel master, James A. Campbell, died Sunday of internal hemhorrhages induced by an abdominal wound, despite a blood transfusion from her daughter.

The verdict of the coroner's inquest said:

"All the witnesses in connection with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Cordelia Campbell were thoroughly examined by Coroner J. C. Henshaw, and they all stated that the shooting was accidental.

"Also a statement was made by Mrs. Campbell before she expired that it was an accident."

The order for the release of the young woman gave her the opportunity to attend private funeral services for her mother at a Youngstown funeral home.

A close guard had been placed over the blonde, handsome girl last night after her counsel said she "wanted to die."
