Testimony In Jones Murder Case Will Begin Today

Jury Of Farmers Selected To Try Lubbock Realtor

Attorneys Spend Entire Time Monday Getting Jury Box Filled With Heads of Families.

DEFENDANT'S PLEA IS SELF DEFENSE

Short Trial Is Seen By Senator Bledsoe; Very Small Crowd Attends During First Day.

With all of yesterday spent in the selection of a jury, testimony in the case of Tom Jones, prominent Lubbock realtor, who is charged with the murder of his stepfather, William Estelwood, will begin today. The morning session will begin promptly at 9 o'clock in 9th District court, with Judge Clark M. Mulligan presiding.

The case against Mr. Jones called Monday morning came as the result of a shooting shortly after noon on Thursday, September 8, and which took place on Avenue K, along side of Hotel Lubbock. Mr. Estelwood, about 45 years old, was master-mechanic of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas railway shops at Stamford and family trouble, of long standing, brought about his death on the down-town sidewalk, with pistol bullet wounds in his head and breast.

THE TWINS HAVE IT! Betton Daddy Granted Plea to Dodge Jury

Twins are twins and not to be taken lightly! At least that was the decision of court officials here yesterday when H. D. Betton, of the Betton community offered as plea to escape jury service that the well-known stork had made a double visit to his home early Monday.

Judge Clark M. Mulligan, presiding in 9th District court, immediately granted Mr. Betton's request for immunity and said he would make similar allowances for any summoned juror who offered the same excuse. Conversation which followed the incident brought out that District Attorney Durwood H. Bradley, Judge Mulligan and Attorney Charles C. Crenshaw, present in the discussion, each had something in common with Mr. Betton. Judge Mulligan and Mr. Bradley were each born a twin and Mr. Crenshaw has twin sons.

Another Mystery Witness Appears In Oil Jury Quiz

New Developments Loom; Government's Latest Find Closely With Federal Counsel.

IDENTITY LATEST WITNESS IS SECRET

Only Short Session Of Grand Jury Is Held Monday and But Two Are Questioned.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Another man of mystery appeared suddenly today in the picture of the oil conspiracy jury scandal. He was introduced by William J. McMillin, government informer against William J. Burns and his detective who shadowed the Fall-Sinclair trial jury, but his identity as well as his connection with the case was carefully guarded by the federal attorneys.

The stranger came here from Philadelphia with McMillin in the latter's automobile; was escorted with government counsel for nearly an hour and then left the District of Columbia supreme court with a government agent and under strict injunctions not to talk. He probably will go before the grand jury tomorrow.

The secrecy which the prosecutors threw about the new witness convinced observers that his testimony was regarded of high importance in corroborating if not expanding a brief given by McMillin against Burns' kid son, W. Sherman Burns and the Burns operations.

Only Brief Session Opening the third week of its inquiry, the grand jury was in session only a brief time today and heard only two witnesses, William J. Burns and his son, W. Sherman Burns and W. Raymond, appeared at the

OCCUPANTS TOSSED INTO ICY WATERS

Searchers Seek for Trace Of Boat and Two Others Not Found With Those On the Beach.

(By Associated Press) JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 14.—Eleven persons including seven children, probably perished when an explosion occurred aboard their fishing craft, apparently when they were sleeping, it was revealed today, after the finding of nine unclotted bodies on a beach about fifty miles southwest of here.

Captain John Albert, an Indian, with his family and wife's parents, all residents of Sitka, left Hoonah a week ago, where he had been for the fishing season. On return to Sitka, as the small craft was in the entrance to Whittestone Harbor, between Hoonah and Sitka, the explosion took place, apparently entirely destroying the trail gas boat and leaving the unwarmed family helpless in the icy waters.

The recovered bodies were badly discovered, as though from an explosion. Searchers were seeking for traces of the boat and two missing persons.

PICK DEBATERS Team to Meet Cambridge In Forensics Selected

The team which will represent Texas Tech in its first international forensic contest, the debate against the team representing Cambridge University of England here on the night of Saturday, November 19, was announced yesterday to consist of Hal Lary, Clovis, N. M., and Alton Hutson and Clarence Whiteside of Lubbock.

All three members of the team are well qualified. It was stated by Miss Anna Jo Pendleton, debate coach at the college. Hutson and Whiteside were members of the Lubbock high debating team and Lary was one of the Clovis High forensic contestants.

The Cambridge university debaters are meeting representatives of thirty American colleges and universities during their tour. They are giving stiff competition in each instance, reports declare.

Ball of Fire Is Thrown High Into Air; Steel Rained Through Homes Of Section.

(By Associated Press) PITTSBURGH, Nov. 14.—Rouge workers, using dynamite in an effort to penetrate wreckage in the North Side district, yesterday located the bodies of six additional victims behind a boiler in the tottering plant of the Pittsburgh Clay Pot Company. This brought the known list of dead to 27.

Another body was taken from the ruins during the night, bringing the known dead in the disaster to 28.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 14 (AP)—An entire section of North Side Pittsburgh lay in ruins tonight, and the bodies of twenty-one persons rested in the Allegheny county morgue, mute evidence of one of the most disastrous explosions in the city's history. Death and devastation swept the old Manchester district when a mammoth storage gas-tank exploded.

Tonight, as hundreds of victims of the disaster nursed their injuries in hospitals and in other havens of refuge supplied by relief agencies, firemen, policemen and volunteers continued the work of exploring the wrecked district in the belief that the other bodies would be found in the mass of twisted debris. As night fell other scattered upon stricken region, rescue workers erected emergency lights at vantage points. Many of the debris-choked streets and tumbling-down buildings resisted the efforts of the firemen and they resorted to dynamite in an effort

Lindbergh Given Hubbard Medal At Fliers' Reception

President Coolidge Once More Pays Tribute To Intrepid Aviator With Presentation Talk.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Charles A. Lindbergh returned to Washington today to receive from the hands of President Coolidge the coveted Hubbard medal as an award of the National Geographic society for outstanding accomplishment in exploration. The award places young Lindbergh alongside such illustrious pioneers as Commander Robert E. Peary, Sir Ernest Shackleton and Commander Richard E. Byrd, who were among the seven to receive the medal previously.

Those invited to hear President Coolidge present the medal tonight at Washington auditorium and to hear Lindbergh speak of his epochal flight, included the most prominent members of Washington governmental and diplomatic circles, and priviledges to sit with the president and Lindbergh on the stage were 17 of the intrepid American aviators, the one girl, who survived hops over the Atlantic and Pacific oceans and Lindbergh's mother, who came here with him from New York by airplane.

Popularity Undimmed. That the passage of time had not dulled Lindbergh's popularity is the capital to which he returned for his first triumphal welcome in the country was attested throughout the day. Through greeted him from the time he landed. His appearance was marked everywhere.

PILOT IS PROBED Police Tracing Down Try On Life of Oregon

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 14 (AP)—There was an organized plan to assassinate General Oregon candidate for the presidency, police have not revealed the names of the men who attempted to kill General Oregon, Antonio Trujillo, has died from his wounds. Another is in a serious condition. A third man who was captured directly after the attempt—Francisco Olivares—may be released, the police being inclined to believe his story that he was an innocent bystander, and ran away when the shooting began. If Olivares is released, it means two instead of one of the bombers escaped.

Remus Helps Pick Jury In Own Trial

Two Women and Four Men, Tentatively Accepted, Locked Up For Night at Cincinnati.

(By Associated Press) CINCINNATI, Nov. 14.—George Remus, "bootleg king" who abandoned a promising legal career in Chicago to amass millions by violating the national prohibition law, today helped choose a jury to determine whether he shall die in the electric chair.

Five weeks ago Remus traced down his estranged second wife, Josephine Remus, placed a pistol to her body and fired a bullet which killed her two hours later.

At adjournment of court today the jury box was half filled with tentatively accepted jurors. Six of fifteen veniremen tentatively accepted, two women and four men, were locked up over night. They could be removed only by use of sequestration challenges, of which the prosecution had four and the defense sixteen.

Twice today Remus arose in his court room corner, which had begun to build him a reputation for capability before he left Chicago, and addressed the court. At other times he advised with Charles Eklon, his associate counsel. Virtually at the outset he read a long action in a sonorous resounding clearly phrased voice which brought into the murder trial nearly every surviving member of Mrs. Remus' family and Franklin L. Dodge, Jr., the former prohibition officer here.

KANSAS TEAM WINS Aggie Stock Judges Take First At Kansas Show

(By Associated Press) KANSAS CITY, Nov. 14 (AP)—The Kansas State Agricultural College was the big winner in the early judging of fat sheep at the American Royal Livestock show here today. Chase Brothers, Willow Lake, S. D., showed the champion Shropshire.

The Kansas College who won the champion Berkshire was Champion three Poland China and Berkshires.

University of Nebraska exhibited the champion pen of barrows in Chesterwhites and the Oklahoma College showed the champion barrow.

Rumanian Held In Carol Plot Given Freedom At Trial

New Era of Liberty For Nation Visualized By Verdict of Judges In Court Martial.

(By Associated Press) BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 15.—Mihail Manoliescu was acquitted early this morning by a court-martial of five judges, who voted three to two to set him free. Manoliescu was charged with conspiracy to bring former Crown Prince Carol back to Rumania and to restore to him his rights of succession to the throne.

The acquittal of the former under secretary of state was greeted with tremendous cheers.

"This is the beginning of a new era of liberty in Rumania," said Manoliescu, who a few minutes previously had told the court-martial of the Associated Press that he expected to be convicted.

The court-martial of Carol's friend and bearer of letters and other documents from the former crown prince to leaders of the various parties in Bucharest was the sensation of the last week.

Manoliescu, himself, with his brilliant oratory, won the sympathy and support of the thousands who swarmed about the precincts of the little court room where the proceedings were carried on. More than 100 prominent lawyers hastened to the aid of the accused man and many of them gave their services at the trial.

The prosecutor demanded the full penalty for what he termed a conspiracy against the state, which would have been five years imprisonment. Long after midnight Manoliescu's lawyers still were pleading for his liberation. One of them, M. Mihalache, drew the wrath of the court by declaring: "Our present system is balanced on the sharp edge of a sword. If it be the wish of the people, Prince Carol may return not only as regent, but as king. One can stem a rivulet, but not a river. One can repress the wishes of the government, but not the will of the people."

LEGION AT SLATON Ex-Service Men Form A Post Armistice Day

(By Associated Press) SLATON, Nov. 14.—A meeting of World War veterans held here Armistice Day resulted in the organization of a Slaton Post of the American Legion with thirty charter members. Officers chosen from among the veterans are: D. E. Kemp, post commander; Dave Hobbs, vice-commander; I. M. Brewer, post adjutant; J. B. Hankins, sergeant-at-arms; Floyd C. Rector, finance officer; L. A. Wilson, historian; and Dr. E. C. Foster, chaplain.

A name for the post has not been selected, but a committee for that task was appointed. Another meeting will be held Monday evening, Nov. 21, at which time other ex-service men are expected to enroll as members, and various matters of business will be attended to, says Post Commander Kemp.

Many Jury Prospects Called

A special venire of 125 Lubbock county citizens was summoned by court officials for jury selection at Stamford and District Attorney Durwood H. Bradley, for the state, and Senator W. H. Bledsoe and his law partner, Charles C. Crenshaw, who make up the defense counsel, filed prospective witnesses with questions concerning the entire day yesterday before the panel was completed. When the last juror was selected 73 of the 125 names appearing on the venire list had been run through the selective method.

Judging from questions asked prospective jurors by Senator Bledsoe, Mr. Jones' chief counsel, self defense will constitute the defendant's plea for acquittal. State's Prosecutor Bradley did not question prospects concerning the death penalty and is expected to ask the jury only for a prison sentence if a verdict of "guilty" is returned.

NEW DALLAS TRAIN Service Between Lubbock And Dallas Bettered

Twelve hour train service between Lubbock and Dallas will be available after Sunday, November 27, it was announced yesterday from the office of E. F. Bayliss, local Santa Fe passenger agent, who added that a new train, made up from the local station, will start operating to Dallas on that date.

The train will mean a saving of about 50 per cent in the time between the two cities. The train will carry a pullman and leave Lubbock at 7:45 p. m., arriving in Dallas at 7:45 a. m. Time made by the new train will be the shortest possible between Dallas and Lubbock.

Other slight schedule changes are to be announced by the Santa Fe at a later date.

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST - Grapes, cereal cooked with chopped figs, cream, poached eggs on graham toast, milk, coffee. LUNCHEON - Mushrooms in tomato sauce on toast, hearts of celery, rice custard pudding, milk, tea. DINNER - Cream of lima bean soup, toasted crackers, chicken souffle, creamed carrots, honey, few and stuffed pepper salad, sliced pie, milk, coffee. The chicken souffle uses up any remnants of chicken left from the chicken stew of the dinner before. A hearty soup is included in the menu to make up for the light meat course. Four eggs, 1 1/4 cup milk, 1/2 cup sugar, 1 cup stale cake crumbs, 1/2 cup seeded raisins, 1/2 cup candied cherries, 2 tablespoons flour, 4 tablespoons cream cheese, 1/2 tablespoon peach butter, 3 tablespoons powdered sugar, plain pastry crumbs. Mix thoroughly and add raisins and cherries sprinkled with flour and finely chopped. Mix well and spread an even layer over the bottom of a deep pie dish lined with plain pastry. Beat yolks of remaining eggs slightly with 3/4 cup milk and remaining sugar. Blend in cream cheese and a few grains of salt. Pour over mixture in pie dish and bake in a slow oven until custard is firm to the touch. Spread over peach butter and cover with meringue made by beating whites of the 2 eggs with powdered sugar stiff and dry. Brown lightly under gas broiler flame.

Call the Master Cleaners:

You Can Avoid It!

the hand causes "Gas-O-Leenos"

"Gas-o-Leenos" isn't a disease of the body—but it gets awful close to it some times. It's a disease so often found in clothes that have been "hand-dipped and squeezed" in plain gasoline. Clothes that when cleaned that way, then hang out in the sunshine to catch dust and all summer of germs, while drying—suffer from "Gas-o-Leenos."

"They positively smell 'bad'—was what one friend said to another about a mutual friend's clothing. It wasn't a thing but "Gas-o-Leenos."

"Gas-o-Leenos" is easy to avoid—and in every instance it pays to avoid it.

Here we employ a very expensive mechanical cleaning system in which cleaning liquids are continuously FLOWING—then when removed from the cleaner—they are WHIRLED dry in what is known as a near-vacuum process. This, in addition to drying clothes, makes sure that all manner of sand, grit and other foreign particles are removed.

A de-odorizing machine is next used to make sure that none of our customers will suffer from "Gas-o-Leenos."

Now to give our customers still better value we HAVE LOWERED CLEANING and PRESSING costs—in many instances as much as 33 1-3 per cent.

You need to pay $1.50 to get our services for cleaning and pressing a man's suit. Today and hereafter you are only asked to pay $1 for the same service. Cash did that!

WESTERNERS PREPARE FOR QUANAH GAME

Contest Will Mark Last Home Battle For Lubbock High

Strenuous Workouts Are Scheduled for Lads of Morgan and Frank; No Injuries in Camp.

The high school Westerners yesterday started preparing for their last home game with the Quanah Chiefs, which will be battled out on the Matador gridiron Friday afternoon. The Westerners, battling a defensive contest throughout the season, not by choice but by necessity, will open up a strictly offensive game against the Redmen Friday afternoon.

The Chiefs come to Lubbock a defeated team in all of their conference games having lost by decisive counts in each instance; but they are coming West—where they have made their homes since Columbus discovered America and naturally they will feel more at home on their western tour. "Send the Westerners," is ringing clear as a bell among the Chiefs this week and they are priming for a real duel with the locals Friday in Lubbock.

Plenty of Work.

After being held to a 6-4 tie game by the Plainview Bulldogs last Friday, Henry Frank and Del Morgan, handlers of the high school recruits, are doing nothing but hard the lads a handful of work every day until the day before the fracas with the Chiefs, Frank and Morgan expect to send their roster of Westerners through the stiffest workout they have had this season.

With the Quanah game the next to the last performance of the season the Westerners hope to ascend higher in their spirits than they have since the clash with the Amarillo Sables. With the Turkey Day festival with the Vernon Lions nearing on them, the homelings realize in order to hit this striking spirit it will take an astonishing and lasting effort.

Friday's contest with the Chiefs will be the only game for the fans to attend in Lubbock this week as the Texas Tech Matadors will have a week of rest. Since this is true naturally the high school officials are anxious that the largest attendance yet given the high school eleven will appear for the Quanah tilt.

Frogs Working To Make Ponies Pay For Past Defeats

With Record Marred Now By Two Defeats; T. C. U. Has Only Visions Of Vengeance Left.

Special To The Avalanche.

FORT WORTH, Nov. 14.—With their record marred by two defeats the T. C. U. Horned Frogs Monday began preparation to take out all of their accumulated vengeance here Thanksgiving day on the heads of O. R. M. D. Mustangs, the first game of the season for both eleven.

Part of that accumulated vengeance harks back to Thanksgiving day last year when the Ponies defeated the Frogs by one score in the game that clinched the conference title for the Dallas team. That victory for the Mustangs put the Dallasites two games in the lead in the record of five games played in the spot six years between the Purple and the Blue.

Their first clash of any consequence was in 1921 when the Frogs humbled the Methodists, 13 to 6. The meeting in 1922 resulted in a scoreless tie but in 1923 the Ponies entered things with a bang when they trampled the Frogs, 46 to 6. The Methodists jumped in to the lead in the then established Pony-Frog combats with a 6 to 9 victory in 1924.

They did not meet in 1925 due to the way in which the Southwest Conference schedule worked out. This came the great battle of 1926 when the teams met an undefeated eleven. The Frogs had the Ponies beaten, 13 to 4, until the last few minutes of play when a loose ball, thrown to Dawson, scored for the Blue. Cortez kicked goal to win the game.

Practically the same team will represent S. W. U. in this year's game but it will be a much changed Frogs line-up. Twelve of last year's Frogs are absent.

CHILD POETS AIDED

San Antonio Society Will Make Publication Easy

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Mrs. Leah Johnson, librarian at the local Carnegie library has launched the first annual child poet's contest held in the city. Winners will be announced November 18.

The winning poems are to be published by the library, giving the juvenile poets a much better chance to get their works into print than most adult poets have.

A program is to be held at the library at the announcement of winners and the winning poems will be read. The poems will be divided into four groups according to age.

Teant Can Rest In DISSECTING GRID RULES Fair Catch Choice

BY E. J. O'BRIEN

Several years ago there was a rule in the book which stated that after a man had made a fair catch this ball should not touch the ground. If it did it was considered to be in play and could be recovered by the defense.

In other instances, the rule to make a fair catch, had to protect his rights by holding on to the ball and seeing that it did not touch the ground. If a team wanted to kick, or to make a place kick, it had to be held off the ground.

This angle of play a great many people seem to think still exist. If you will take time to read Rule 11, in the official guide, you will find that the rule has been changed.

Once the player has got the ball he must hold it only until it has been declared dead by the referee's whistle. Then he can lay it on the ground or do what he pleases with it, until after the referee blows his whistle signifying that play may start.

From that instant, the ball shall not touch the ground, for the moment it does it is considered in play.

On a free kick after a fair catch the ball shall be kicked by a punt, drop kick or place kick, either from the mark of the catch or some point directly back of it.

The player on the defense must be behind a line ten yards in front of the ball until the ball is kicked or has touched the ground. It matters not whether the ball touches the ground by accident or otherwise. Now, after the referee blows his whistle, signaling that play may start, no player shall allow the ball to touch the ground in the field of play without immediately thereafter putting it in play by kicking.

The question now arises, when the ball touches the ground, can the defense run up and gain possession of it by falling on the ball. They cannot gain possession of it in this way. The ball must be kicked, and if the offense does not kick it immediately upon its touching the ground, their team is penalized five yards and forced to kick from that point.

Now, should one of the defensive team advance beyond his neutralized line before the whistle blows, his team is penalized five yards, thus giving the offensive a chance to kick from a point five yards nearer the opponent's goal line.

Of course, after a team has made a fair catch they don't have to kick for if they choose they may put the ball in play by means of a scrimmage.

Local Legion Men Will Visit Slaton Post Next Week

Officers To Be Elected At Meeting Of Allen Brothers Post Next Night Of November 28.

Members of the Allen Brotherhood of the American Legion will attend the first meeting of the newly organized Slaton post, at 8 o'clock next Monday night, at the regular session of local legionnaires, held last night.

It was emphasized that legion men, whether or not they have dues, are asked to assemble in front of the Hubber drug store in the Temple Hotel Building at 6:45 o'clock next Monday night. Rides will be furnished for those not possessing automobiles.

It was decided to both elect and install new officers at the next regular meeting of the local post, which will be on November 28. Hereafter, officers will be elected in the first regular meeting after November 11, it was decided.

Other talks were made by Durwood Bradley and Judge Goodman. Post Commander F. D. Rupp presided over the session.

ASK MUSIC COURSES

C. L. A. Wants State To Keep Up New Branch

DENVER, Nov. 14. (AP)—A request for a state-supported department of music in the College of Industrial Arts has been presented to Governor Dan Moody by President L. H. Hubbard and Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, chairman of the board of regents of the institution.

If the Legislature accedes to the request, it will be the first department of music to be supported entirely by appropriation. At present, support is by fees with an assistant professor and a director of public school music paid by the school.

There are now ten faculty members in the department, offering instruction in voice, piano, and other instruments, and in charge of the choral club, vocal choir and college orchestra.

Arguments are made that many students are deprived of musical instruction because of excessive fees, and that music instruction should be included in the curriculum of a college.

New Lockney Mill To Open On Friday

Public Invited to View Operations Entailed In Cotton Oil Plant at Formal Opening.

LOCKNEY, Nov. 14.—A short program, an inspection of the plant and a barbecue in true West Texas style will mark the debut of the Lockney Cotton Oil Mill to the people of the South Plains as another industry for that section. The date is Friday, November 18.

Guests, seed handlers, chief executives of the Anderson-Clayton company and several noted railroad officials have been issued invitations to the mill's formal opening.

Visitors will witness the mill in operation, beginning at the point where the raw materials are introduced and shown the different steps necessary in making the finished product.

Work was started on this plant April 30th, of this year and has been enabled through to completion to enable it to take care of this year's crop. The J. S. Harrison Construction Company of Waco, Texas have had charge of the contract work.

The Lockney Cotton Oil Mill edition of the Lockney Bulletin will be out Thursday, November 17th, carrying especially to the cotton and cotton seed industries. This edition will be used by the Lockney Chamber of Commerce as a special publicity organ.

Slaton Will Be Music Teachers' Goal This Week

Prof. Wagborne of Tech, Other Local People To Appear On Program for Music Convention.

(Special To The Avalanche.)

SLATON, Nov. 14.—The South Plains Music Teachers' association, comprising an area of twenty South Plains counties, will hold the fifth annual session here lasting two days, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 18 and 19. Teachers of music from all over the South Plains region will attend. Many noted artists are expected and some of these will appear on the program.

Miss Jeanette Emmons, Slaton, is president of the association. Miss Grace L. Eddy, Slaton, is vice-president. Miss Frances Guffin, Slaton, is secretary.

An afternoon session will be held Friday, followed by an evening program which will be attended by the public. Orchestras from the Lubbock and Slaton high schools will play. A meeting will be held Saturday morning and another in the afternoon. At noon Saturday, the "Parent-Teachers' association of the Slaton schools will serve the guests a luncheon at the Slaton club house.

Resolutions discussing many vital questions in which the music teachers are interested, officers are to be elected for the coming year and plans will be laid for the year's activities.

Lubbock People Appear.

Among those slated to appear on the program for the two days, are: Misses Margaret Huff, Mary Dunn, Dorothy McDonald, Lubbock; Mrs. Carl Scroggin and Mrs. M. O. Neal, Lubbock; Mrs. M. E. Ware, Dallas; Mrs. J. E. Hardesty, Lamesa; Miss Martha E. Cox, Lockney; Miss Rose Goddard, Dallas; Prof. W. R. Wagborne, of Tech College, Lubbock.

Baptists To Meet In Wichita Falls

Many Important Matters To Come Before Church Hosts, Beginning At Wednesday Session.

DALLAS, Nov. 14. (AP)—The annual convention of Texas Baptists, the big event of the year in executive circles of the denomination, will begin November 16, when the streets of Wichita Falls will be crowded with Baptist laymen, ministers, delegates, or messengers and executives from various institutions affiliated with the denomination.

Perhaps the outstanding topic of the convention will be the Conquest Campaign, which is a debt-paying campaign inaugurated a year ago for Baptist institutions in the state. Dr. George W. Truett, director of the campaign, and H. L. Kokernot, chairman of the campaign executive committee, have called a meeting of the committee for discussion of methods to be recommended for continuation of the drive.

"A year ago we pledged ourselves to the Baptists of Texas to rid our institutions of debt in the next four years," Dr. Truett said, referring to the work of the committee. "For the past few years our institutions have made tremendous growth, and as most institutions of all kinds, we found it necessary to go into debt. We have about eighteen or nineteen million in assets, and we owed last year about six million. This debt has been substantially reduced, and we hope to wipe it out entirely in the next two or three years."

BRICK BRINGS RESULTS

WACO, Nov. 14. (AP)—Falling to collect $15 due on a "hot check," Lee Torrence, local automobile man, wrapped a brick in a package, sent it to his debtor. The package, sent C. O. D., was accepted and Torrence received his $15.

ORCHARD DRIVE Results Begin To Show In Contest For East Texas

LONGVIEW, TEX., Nov. 14. (AP)—With a number of counties reporting completion of their local orchard campaign sponsored by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Extension Department of A. and M. College is beginning to record results.

Anderson, Delta, Jasper, Gregg and Walker were among the first counties reporting completion of their associations.

Prizes for the three counties making the best records in the contest have been offered. These prizes consist of articles of varying length in "East Texas," the official publication of the chamber.

In the essay contest, being held in connection with the orchard campaign, the chamber will award five prizes. The three highest ranking essays also will be published.

NEW MEXICO STUDENTS TO SHOW FILMS OF SCENES

As a feature of their meeting in the near future in which a larger part of the student body will be present, the students of the New Mexico club plan to entertain by showing films of scenic spots of the state of New Mexico, it was decided at a meeting of the club last night. "New Mexico boasts of some of the prettiest mountains and beauty spots of the United States and films of these will be shown through the college projector.

In the meeting last night, Prof. Cecil Horne, sponsor of the club, spoke on "New Mexico." Miss Zelma Ringwald gave a reading and the students sang the state song, "O Fair New Mexico." In the business meeting which preceded the program, the students adopted by-laws and constitution of the club and also voted to reserve a place in La Ventura, the college yearbook.

A series of socials during each term is on the actively schedule of the club. About 25 members were present last night.

MERITORIOUS CAMPAIGN

The annual membership campaign of the American Red Cross was inaugurated Friday and will continue until Thanksgiving Day. During that period it is expected the claims of the organization to the good favor of all the people will be presented with the earnest hope the responses will be both representative and liberal. As a relief agency the Red Cross has so completely demonstrated its ability that none presumes to question it, even though co-operation be withheld. Wherever distress has raised its head the organization has been first on the ground to administer to the afflicted, feed the hungry and smooth the pillows of the dying. The year now drawing to a close has drawn most heavily on the resources of the organization. Not since the World War has its benevolent hands been so generally bestowed and its constructive work carried on. Without the aid of the Red Cross one wonders just what the distress in the Mississippi valley flood would have been. Without its help and assistance what misery and woe would have resulted in the various communities that were swept by wind and storm during the spring and summer. To carry on this work the Red Cross must have a treasure. Its only source of revenue is the charity of the people of the nation, each of whom is asked to become a member and contribute at least one dollar to work for which it is organized. Certainly there is not one but who can afford to contribute that small sum to the cause of suffering humanity. Of special interest should the campaign be locally because through it the community charity work is carried on. The poor and needy unfortunate must be provided for. In this land of plenty where the spirit of Christianity animates every activity, or should, the obligation to help and assist those in distress is pressing. In its discharge will come that peace of mind that accompanies the performance of a good deed. With some people the disposition is to personally dispense the charities they practice. Which would be well and good were it not for the fact that the world is filled with imposters living and in some instances growing wealthy off the kindness and generosity of the public. To give to such do harm rather than good, for it enriches the unworthy and deprives the needy of aid they should have. Organized charity is the only successful manner of reaching the class that needs it. And for that reason we should support most liberally the Red Cross.

AS TIMES CHANGE SO DOES THE MEANING OF WORDS

Strange how words change their meaning! Originally sacrifice meant to make sacred. In the beginning the sacrificial feast was like the Lord's Supper where the bread and wine are sanctified, and partaken of as symbols of the flesh and blood of God, which are love and truth. When all sense of holiness perished, and men became cruel, the sanctification was forgotten, and only the slaying was thought of. Thus to sacrifice came to mean to slay, to afflict, to go without. Eventually the practice of sacrificing, in the sense of slaying spread over the whole world. It came to be believed that the greater the slaying, the more the Lord was pleased, and on great occasions, flocks of sheep and herds of cattle were slain. Then to make the sacrifice greater, human beings were offered upon the altar. The erroneous conviction that God is pleased by self-affliction, the sanctification of the heart with the fire of divine love came to be the burning of the heart in material fire and many of the finest of youth were slain at a time. All this came from not knowing God, from wrong ideas of what he is and wants. In such mistaken belief, deeply penitent, Abraham would have sacrificed Isaac, his beloved son. In the substitution of a ram for the boy, it is seen that the Lord permitted sacrifice of animals to save man from grosser evils. As the time drew nearer for the world's redemption, the Lord plainly declared that he abhorred such sacrifices. And now the light shines so brightly that we clearly see only one sacrifice is acceptable to the Lord, which is, the sacrifice of righteousness, the sacrifice of that which prevents one being wholly righteous. Though the sacrifice of animal is largely done away with, the spirit is still in the world. It is seen in India, where penitence is done by excruciating self-torture. Let us get entirely away from that thought and spirit. God does not sanction any form of self-torture or deprivation, other than what comes through shunning evils. He wants us glad and rejoicing all the time, for he is divine love and its joy. The sacrifices of the Jewish Church foreshadowed the sacrifice of Jesus upon the cross. Let us not make in this sacrifice the ancient error of thinking of the slaying without the sanctification. Lift the mind up from Jesus as he hangs upon the cross, to the sanctification that comes from the sacrifice of all that is wrong, the sacrifice necessary to be without sin. Dwell most upon the sanctification and glorification through his oneness with God.

SUGGESTS "AMERICAN LOCARNO"

Renunciation of war as an "instrument of policy," accepting only legal defense as a reason for military or naval action, was proposed recently as a basis for a permanent treaty between France and the United States. Dr. James T. Shotwell of New York, for years a close student of international law and international relations, preferred the suggestion is an "American Locarno." He urged the United States to accept the offer made by France, through Foreign Minister Briand last April, for a pact which would outlaw war between the two nations. Pointing out that President Cleveland, in answering a memorial drawn up in the British house of commons forty years ago calling for a treaty of arbitration with the United States, had "stated the answer to Mr. Briand's offer." Dr. Shotwell declared that repeated efforts on the part of American executives to abolish war had been blocked in the senate. President Cleveland in his answer to the British memorial stated: "I believe I may speak for the American people in giving the assurance that they wish to see the killing of men for the accomplishment of national ambition abolished." In spite of the fact that Cleveland urged the ratification of the treaty, and that later President McKinley added his voice to those recommending the plan, the senate refused ratification, taking much the same view as was later expressed by that body when the League of Nations was under consideration. Revision of fundamental clauses in existing arbitration projects were seen as necessary by Dr. Shotwell if a practical peace plan is to be evolved. These revisions were included in a so-called "security compact" which has been drafted by Dr. Shotwell and his associates, and which will probably be called to the attention of congress at the coming session. The senate, with its ultra-conservative ideals, is the principal obstacle to the establishment of permanent peace, according to many of the leaders who are urging that Briand's pact be accepted. The senate rejected the League of Nations as something decidedly revolutionary in international relations, notwithstanding practically every civilized country accepted its principles. The senate rejected the proposed British treaty upon the same ground—that it was without precedent, revolutionary, and was what one senator termed "infringing upon the unalienable rights of the United States." The time has come to reconsider the action of the United States with reference to the experience of making in a half century of international discussion," Dr. Shotwell said. "Above all, with reference to that most tragic affair of the existing system to maintain by force of arms those very elements of national heritage which the world has heretofore been unwilling to submit to any other form of arbitrament."

BETTER JURIES

Indiana's political housecleaning campaign, according to the Consolidated Press has been brought about by the state's approbation of Chief Justice Taft's plea for more intelligent jurors. "The present grand jury," the Consolidated Press man writes, "has no strings tied to it and is seeing that not a stone is left unturned in prying down into official corruption. The people of the state are backing up the investigation and expect to have their house in order shortly." Chief Justice Taft has made some rather startling statements of late—startling, that is, for a chief justice. He observes the law and the machinery of the law as it is, and not as people would like it to be. Intelligent jurors are all too rare; most of them, of course, are honest. Sometimes honesty when it is not leavened with intelligence amounts to the same thing, insofar as results are concerned, as dishonesty. Juries are an integral part of our law-enforcement machinery. The members of juries should be as capable, mentally, as the judge on his bench. No one would expect them to be equally well-versed in legal technicalities; but they should be capable of discerning truths, making sound judgments and weighing facts. Some method could be devised whereby we would be assured of that type of men. It might jar our ideas of perfect democracy, but it would be certain to bring about a more sensible administration of justice.

SO THINK WE

We think that it is a pity that the average woman has not half as much patience for her husband that she has for her boy.

We think that when words fail to express a woman's contempt for a man he enjoys a well-earned rest.

We think that nothing is stronger than the law and yet there is nothing so easily broken.

We think that most Americans learn to kick at an early age and rarely, if ever do they learn to overcome this habit.

We think that one of the greatest needs of the city of Lubbock now is a municipal auditorium. If Lubbock expects to get her proportion of the state and Southwest conventions there must be some place for the conventions to convene. Until she has this equipment the gatherings will pass Lubbock up.

We think that nature is cunning. She creates a fool then disguises him with the face of a cherub.

We think that if the government finally makes all of its money smaller the church contributions box should be definitely benefited.

We think that the optimistic hopes for the best and enjoys it; the pessimist fears for the worst and realizes it.

We think that many men who smile at the credulity of youngsters who believe in Santa Claus still think that they can best the stock market.

OPINIONS

DIVORCES AND DRESS In America where there is one divorce to every six marriages. Now that'll burn your fuses out. Big Boy.

Modern dress has probably had as much to do in the creation of this alarming problem as any other one thing. And one of the astonishing phases of the matter of woman's dress is that many noble wives and Christian mothers defend the fashions of the day and permit their daughters to go out with young men dressed in a way more suitable for retiring than for public appearance.

Now there's a fit program for the federation of women's clubs. During the year 1926, there were 1,929,479 marriages and 138,888 divorces.—Ablene Times.

FALSE GOSSIP Recently a wild rumor that one of our local boys had died of the effects from drinking bad liquor was circulated around the city and grew to enormous proportions, badly frightening the parents of this boy. It was also rumored that another was quite sick from the same source.

After the demise of our friend Osa Moorhead, it was said that it was due to this aforementioned cause.

Inquiry from his medical attendants disclosed the fact that death was due to pneumonia. On the day previous to the beginning of the sickness, the young man had made a trip to the oil fields, and on that day, some man, unknown, died supposedly from the effect of bad whiskey. This started the story and it was reported that two Pecos men had been stricken with bad liquor and that the deceased was also quite sick from the same cause.

The whole story proved to be completely false.

This story may have been started by some of his best friends, who would not injure his memory in any way, yet his unconscious hurt the feelings of his family.

NEW RAIL LINE BUSY.

The Santa Fe branch line west from Lubbock through Hockley and Cochran counties, completed and operating trains in December, 1925, is doing a heavy business in Bledsoe at this time.

In former years the ranchers had to drive their cattle miles and miles to shipping point at Lubbock, Littlefield or Brownfield or other points. Now they are loading at Bledsoe and other towns on the new line.

Last month over 200 cars of cattle were shipped from Bledsoe and during the first week of November 200 car loads were loaded out at that city with a number of ranchers including the Four Lakes ranch, Dalmore Bros., I. Hutchison, Buckeye ranch and others loading cattle for market this week.—Cochran County News.

The fact that the new line to the West of Lubbock is busy is evidence that the country to the west of us is developing. There is much new land being cultivated, and while there is still much of the territory in ranches, the livestock industry will in a very short time give way to small herds and stock farming. The country is too rich and the land is too fertile, and too well adapted to the raising of fine crops to continue in use as raising cattle on the range. The line will be busy sure enough in a few years when all of the land to the west is in cultivation, trainloads of cotton and corn and feed stuff will take the place of livestock.

RAILWAY CROSSING ACCIDENTS. Two persons were seriously injured here Wednesday when trains demolished their automobiles on grade crossings. This brings the total of automobiles destroyed to three and persons injured to four this year.

Under the paving program, Elsie street will become the principal crossing on the railway in this city. Traffic across the railway to and from the north and south parts of town has always been heavy and attended with considerable hazard. With the routing of the Oil Field Highway over this street, there will be a constant stream of people passing over this crossing day and night.

The railway company is now rearranging its tracks and depot here. The county and state are grading and paving the Oil Field road and Elsie street. The railway crossing should have an electric danger signal if the lives of our citizens are to be protected. While the crossing is being worked on it may be very sure that we will have a crossing accident have occurred this week, and they will continue to take place until a watchman of electric warning signal is installed. Pamhandle should insist on the Santa Fe making this improvement to protect themselves. The railroads are usually willing to do their part if the people and the local authorities are willing to cooperate with them. We have found that the railroad corporations are more willing to protect the general public than the general public is willing to protect themselves. In the case of the under passes in the City of Lubbock we understand the railroad company has agreed to bear their part of the expense, but the local authorities cannot agree on what the part of the city and county is, and for that reason the much needed protection is seemingly denied the public.

NEW LOCKNEY SUB-STATION OF TEXAS UTILITIES READY. LOCKNEY, Nov. 14.—The Texas Utilities Company has completed their new sub-station in Lockney that will furnish a higher voltage for local use as well as providing two sources of electrical supply. With the completion of the high line from Floydada to Italia, the company are now able to supply electrical energy both from the Lubbock and Plainview power houses. It was made so as to supply electrical power for the Lockney Cotton Oil plant that will use an unusual amount of electricity at all times.

FORMATION OF FEEDER PIG ASSOCIATION, PLAN. LONGVIEW, Nov. 14. (AP) — The formation of an East Texas Feeder Pig association, designed to promote the industry in the territory served by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce, was announced at a preliminary meeting held here.

The project was originated by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce and the Extension Department of A. and M. college. Permanent organization will be effected at another meeting to be held early in December.

Moral Issues

All the great issues of this generation are moral issues. They are not primarily political or economic. The questions that are being raised in the press and in the pulpit and in the legislative assembly are questions that have to do with the way people behave, and that is always a moral issue.

The Prohibition issue is a moral issue. If the men and women who drink, and say they are going to law or no law, should become abstainers, it would be because they realized the higher law of obedience to the social welfare instead of obedience to a personal passion of habit. And that would be a profound moral change in their thinking and acting.

The questions that are being discussed about the way young people are defining life in this generation are all moral questions for they all have to do with the personal conduct of the person.

THE LONG, LONG TRIP

By the Rev. Campbell Cagle, D. D. It is the longing in the even, and its longing in the dawn, for the rest that's waiting for me just a little farther on.

Of the daily toil and trouble I am getting weary quite, as I hear the angels singing in the night.

I'm getting things together, I'm turning over the years to right the wrongs of other days and wet them with my tears.

I am seeking from the better things, and getting things together, as I walk along my winding way in eager earnest and content of my ill-dress and all my sin and sorrow, I have builded me a house of faith beside the lifted cross.

I am getting things together, and I'm picking up my grip, that I may be ready when I'm summoned for my long, long trip.—Austin Ave, Herald, Waco, Texas.

Yonder in this land of bliss, the earth is full of treasure, and there's so much to please the eye, but my heart is longing, longing for the things that satisfy.

I'm getting things together, I'm turning over the years to right the wrongs of other days and wet them with my tears.

I am seeking from the better things, and getting things together, as I walk along my winding way in eager earnest and content of my ill-dress and all my sin and sorrow, I have builded me a house of faith beside the lifted cross.

NORFLEET

The Manhunter's Own True Story
As told to Gordon Hines

WHAT HAS BEEN TOLD:
Frank Norfleet, a Texas rancher, swindled out of $45,000.00 by a gauged by Joe Furey, and he resolves to despoil the ring. He starts out following vague clues and his pursuit leads him back and forth across the country several times. Finally he gets a tip that leads him to Jacksonville and his young son accompanies him. They find Joe Furey in flight which creates a near riot. The police lose Norfleet. Furey is about to be released on a cash bond when Norfleet shows the sergeant a warrant endorsed by the Governor of Florida. He reluctantly turns the man over to them. A sheriff's deputy offers to drive them to the Georgia line. Norfleet is anxious to get his man out of Florida to avoid legal complications. After starting with them, the deputy suddenly recalls a previous engagement and goes to the engine another car for the trip. He suggests that they drive to a flag station, a few miles away and wait in the woods there until time to flag a limited train which would be the quickest way out of the state. Arriving at the flag station, Furey offers a restaurant for his horses if he will release him. Furey gives Pete a note to the secretary of the lake stock exchange in Jacksonville, instructing him to pay young Norfleet $20,000.00 "on account." He returns to Jacksonville to get the money and the luggage left behind and Norfleet and Furey wait in the woods near the flag station. Furey remembers the fact that they had swindled Norfleet in the first place.

CHAPTER THIRTY-TWO
"I wish God would killed you the last time you were in Florida! We planned to, but it didn't go through. Your damnable hunting has cost me as much as I've made. Every time you've spoken to a local officer, it has cost me. Believe me, all of them, from the highest down, shake us down every chance they get. They haven't the guts to go out like we do and take a man's money, but they'll around, like scavengers, waiting to shake us down for money we've risked our lives to get! It's a fair world," he explained, bitterly.
I was reminded of the peculiar actions of Lips and Anderson. Perhaps they, too, had been a shake-down. I wondered if Furey was thinking of them. I'd tell him out—Furey, those California deputies gave us both a fine double-crossing, didn't they?
His eyes flashed and his face went chalk white. Then the blood came rushing back to his face and he was angry. He tried to read my face and believed that he did—fortunately for me and my bluff.
"God Almighty, Norfleet! Did they agree on me?"
I nodded wisely.
"The dirty—bounds!" he almost screamed. "I paid them $20,000! They had me at my home in Glendale and they so, their price at $20,000! I sweat blood to get that money. I—I don't know any little boy—the damned sons of snakes!"
He covered his face with his hands, sending the air with curses, anathematizing Lips and Anderson with every known term. The veins in his hands swelled out as if they would burst, and he was so passionately angry that he trembled in every muscle.
I tried to be casual, to conceal my excitement over the revelation.
"I thought, Furey, that you were the one who always got the money."
He could not answer for the moment. I was afraid he was going to have an apoplectic stroke before I could drag the whole story from him.
"I know they got the money, Furey—knew it all along. I think they lied to me about how they got it and how much they got. What's the straight of it? How did they manage it?"
But Furey couldn't compose his mind. He rubbed his hands together, fingering the chains of his hand cuffs, and his breath came in labored spasms. He didn't answer my question.
"Norfleet, I haven't had one minute's peace since I left you in Fort Worth, except for the brief time I was in Europe. I should have stayed there. The first day I set my feet on American soil, I learned that you were hot on my trail. Remember when I got away in the boat at Key West? I went to England. But I couldn't stay there. I had friends there, but I couldn't fit into their English scheme, and there was the wife and kid back in Glendale." His voice broke and he stammered for a moment.
"When I got back home my little boy ran out to greet me, throwing his arms about my neck. I knelt down to catch him in my arms and those two bulls ran out of the house and pounced on me, tearing me away from the boy. He was almost sobbing. 'I'm in a desperate break for liberty. The boy threw himself between me and the officers and then they were confused for a moment. I heard someone of them and dashed into the house. My wife saw me and called out in a frightened voice, 'Joe! Joe!' but I dared not stop. I sneaked out the back door and through the yard, the officers behind me. I made a high jump to lock my hands over the eight-foot fence. If I had, not over into the orchard, I'd have had a 50-50 chance. My bluff caught on something, and I was held tight, struggling to get over. The officers halted bullets about me and I finally fell into the soft earth. I thought I was done for."
"He shifted on the stump, then resumed:
"I wasn't long learning who they hadn't tried to hit me. A dead man can't pay off. Oh, if I had split into streaks by the tall pines. The jungle-like wood was still as death. I wondered what time it was. Furey cast a nervous glance at the sun and fidgeted.

"Furey, Pete should have been here by this time."
He jumped and my gun jabbed his neck. He was extremely wrought up.
"For God's sake, Norfleet, don't worry about him! He'll be back before sunrise, with the money! See, the sun is still yellow!"
"And so are you," I retorted, "but it will be black for you if that boy doesn't come back!"
Furey seemed to hear something and put his hand to his ear to amplify the sound.
"Listen!" he exclaimed. "Listen! I hear him coming! Don't you hear a car? Hear it? He'll be here in a minute now!" The man was almost in tears.
A car shot into view, coming toward us from the direction of Jacksonville. It ran up near the group of men, turned about, and circled, headed back toward Jacksonville.
Three men got out, each armed with a riot gun. Furey groaned. The newcomers walked up to the other two men and a conference was held with each of them glancing occasionally furtive looks in our direction.
Things looked bad—worse than before.
"Furey," said, grimly, "if you've got anything you want to get off your conscience, you'd better unload. It looks like sundown for both of us!"
"Norfleet!" he cried, pleadingly, "what do you mean? You're not going to kill me? Oh, my God, mind! Don't!"
"It looks like my time has come," I replied, "and I'm not going alone. If you want to square with your Maker, it looks like now is the time to begin!"
Furey screamed, "Men! Men! Go back, for God's sake! Don't start anything! Go back! I'll take my chances alone!"
The men stood and I stared. The sun had melted into a glowing red and its lower rim had touched the horizon.
It was the biggest, reddest sun I had ever seen. Perhaps I'd never look at it again. I began to wonder if I hadn't better square a few matters with my Maker myself. I didn't want Furey to fare better in the hereafter than I. I couldn't help hoping we wouldn't both land in the same place.
The men examined their guns and scattered as if to surround us.

even dreamed they intended to sell me out!"
I was watching his face and, just then, I caught a peculiar flicker as if he had seen something. He was looking over my shoulder, very intently. Suddenly, he shifted his gaze, glancing furtively at me. I could see that he was trying to be calm. I heard a slight rustle in the shrubs.
There was some one hidden behind me!
I jumped back, but of Furey's reach and turned for an instant. I was looking squarely into a sawed-off shotgun, not 40 steps away! It was jerked back and a slight jabbing behind Furey and pressed my old 45 against his head, just below his ear.
"Furey," I bellowed, so that the mysterious party could hear, "I'm selling out at a high price! Another crooked move over there in the bush will send you a slight jabbing. They'll never take you from me alive! You'd better tell them to go back where they came from!"
Furey shook his eyes pained.
"Go back, men! Go back! For God's sake, don't start anything! I've got a gun and I'm not afraid of you!"
Not a leaf stirred. Not a twig cracked. The silence was deafening. My ears roared. Furey was throwing a fit on the stump, and it was hard to keep the cold steel against his ear. I admonished him to get back, but he didn't budge.
Not a leaf stirred. Not a twig cracked. The silence was deafening. My ears roared. Furey was throwing a fit on the stump, and it was hard to keep the cold steel against his ear. I admonished him to get back, but he didn't budge.
I was looking death squarely in the face. Furey must have had a similar thought, for his suppliant ones made the woods ring. The gunner's mouth snapped. There was no sound.
"Listen, you!" I shouted. "You!—You!—over there in the palm! Stand up so I can see you! NOW!"
I drew my other gun and held it in their direction.
Four men sprang up like jumping jacks, their heads and shoulders above the shrubs. They were city men—probably good friends of the head deputy who was so solicitous of our welfare. He was the only man who had known where we had gone.
These men were at least 20 steps nearer than the place where I had first seen the shotgun. They had been creeping up on me until I called for a showdown. A little closer and they would have had a broadside shot at me, and Furey would have been a free man.
I estimated the range of their bullet-houses. I knew what my 45 would do, and, since a sawed-off shotgun has a shorter range, I hoped to keep them at a disadvantage. Furey must have sensed that, if it was to be a battle, it was now ready to start tonight.
"Go back!" he cried, frantically. "Never mind whom you or what you were told to do! Just go back! Go back!"
They stood in a row and stared, moving not an inch.
"Men! I demanded as calmly as possible, 'what is your business here? What do you want?'"
One of them answered in a surly voice:
"You—old fool! Our business is to find out what your business happens to be!"
"Gentlemen, I hoped to use that word—I am an officer of the law. This man is my prisoner. I am attending to my own business and I don't need your help. I expect it would be better for you all if you moved farther away!"
They moved closer together and talked in low tones, glancing up as Furey let out another yell for them to go away. Then they moved slowly back to the roadside and one watching.
Long shadows stretched over us and across the road. The sun was lowering, and its fading rays were

WHICH DO YOU KNOW THE MOST ABOUT?

The telephone The radio The telegraph The airplane The Want Ad The Want Ad is the most serviceable to the average person of all the wonders of the age. Can you find a better job through radio? Can you find a tenant for your house by telegraph? Can you locate a lost bracelet by airplane? Can you find bargains by haphazard telephoning? The Want Ad can do all of these things. It is the perfect method of mass communication. You can reach twenty thousand people by Want Ad cheaper than you can reach one by telegraph. When your advertisements are phoned to the Avalanche and Journal your ad appears in BOTH morning and evening editions at one cost.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK Nov. 14. (AP) - The cotton market was lower today under renewed liquidation, combined with southern and local selling, promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables, reports of warmer weather in the south and a less active demand after the rallies late last week. January contracts sold off to 19.66 or 28 points net lower, and closed at 19.80, the general market closing steady, at net decline of 21 to 26 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 5 to 15 points owing to easier cables. Buying developed on the report of the census bureau showing domestic consumption of 612,935 bales against 568,326 last year, but demand was apparently soon satisfied.

December liquidation in preparation for the first day toward the end of this month appeared to be a factor of some importance, although there was a demand for the near months from spot houses at a discount of about 25 points as compared with March. December sold off to 19.59 at 18 points January, the low point touched early in the afternoon and while there were rallies of 15 to 20 points on covering they were not maintained, the close being within a few points of the lowest.

Trade interests were credited with buying cotton again today on scale down orders, but local brokers said the market showed evidence of a slight easier technical position after the covering of late last week.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 14. (AP) - The cotton market here today was reactionary due to liquidation of the first day for delivery of December notices. The market closed at net off to 19.59 at 18 points January, the low point touched early in the afternoon and while there were rallies of 15 to 20 points on covering they were not maintained, the close being within a few points of the lowest.

Liverpool was 3 to 2 penny points lower than due and first trades here showed losses of 2 to 3 points with the decline continuing until December went down to 19.59 and March to 20.67. After a 12 to 14 point rally the market turned easier on liquidation and dropped to 27 to 30 points under the early highs. Fears of bad weather brought a rally to 25 to 28 points, but this was lost when December later declined to 18.25 and March to 20.81, a loss on nearly a dollar a bale for the day. Exports totalled 54,316 bales.

COTTON GOODS NEW YORK, Nov. 14. (AP) - Cotton goods sold in moderate lots at slight concession in the gray cloth division today. Finished goods were in steady call for immediate shipment of small lots and for moderate quantities for future delivery.

Silk and rayon dresses were being offered for holiday sale at cheap prices. Wool goods were steady with the movement best on fine worsted dress fabrics and small filling in lots of coatings for cutting; blueprints were steady with trading moderate, and a larger interest shown in future deliveries.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK FORT WORTH, Nov. 14. (AP) - The hog market today was slow and 10 to 15 cents lower; pigs and sows however were generally steady.

In the cattle market, slaughter steers were firm to 25c higher; sheep steady and slaughter calves 25 cents up. The sheep trade was generally steady.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK CHICAGO, Nov. 14. (AP) - Cattle 25,000; steady on steers and she stock; bulls strong to 15c higher; vealers steady to 25c lower; top fed steers 18.25; new high on this class; most fat steers 12.50@15.50.

grammers 11.00@12.00; vealers 12.50 @13.00. Hogs 50,000; 1927 15c lower; sows ready to 15c lower; pigs around 25c lower; top 2.50; butchers 2.25 @2.90; medium 3.15@2.45; light 3.50@2.25; pigs 2.25@2.75; sows 4.00 @3.40; estimated holdover 5,000. Sheep 23,000; fat lambs 25 to 25c lower; good native lambs 13.25@12.50; buck lambs 11.00@11.50; culls 10.25@10.75; sheep steady; fall ewes 6.00@6.75; top 7.00.
