Just Between Us

by JBS

McLean's Laura Switzer will be going to Russia next week at an opportune time. You can bet the whooping it up over the orbiting of a man in space will still be going on in that faraway land.

Won't those basketball games in the Soviet Union feature a strange competitive combination? . . . the Flying Queens representing a Baptist-sponsored institution and a Christian nation and the Russians an atheistic government.

Maybe more could come of this than just improving relations between East and West. . .

—jbu—

For Laura, the trip will put her about as far away from home as you can get for a birthday celebration. She will be 20 years old on April 21.

—jbu—

Our town is certainly getting to be a big spot on the map, thanks to products like Laura and Phyllis Flowers.

Phyllis brought recognition this way when she won the Texas Future Business Leaders of America spelling contest a while back, and she'll put McLean before many more people at the national FBLA competition in Washington, D. C., in June.

We're proud of both of these girls, and know the entire city is, too.

—jbu—

Laura feels residents of McLean had a part in preventing the disbandment of the Flying Queens, when Wayland College declared the financial burden was too much to carry.

In a letter to The News recently, after a way was found to keep the famous basketball squad intact, Laura expressed her appreciation. "along with the rest of the Queens, for your devotion, and also that of all the people of McLean, to our ball club.

"I am sure the response of the people of McLean had a bearing on the final decision that has been made," she said.

—jbu—

Laura wasn't the only one from around these parts playing in last week's National Women's Basketball Tournament in St. Joeph, Mo.

Opal Bogard, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Rhodes of McLean, was a member of the T. F. and R. Silverton, Texas, team which performed well before being eliminated in the quarterfinals.

The Silverton team, composed of Queen Bee players at Wayland, battled through five overtimes before falling to the tough Topeka, Kan., Boosters 46-44.

The game was the longest in the history of the women's national tournament.

—jbu—

Anyone ever heard of towns named "McLain" and "McClean" in these parts?

The names were used on datelines in The Pampa News the past week. And it was a funny thing, too. The persons mentioned in both stories had names the same as some living in McLean.

Strange indeed . . .

—jbu—

A blessed event finally occurred out at our mayor's place the other night.

Red Dove gave birth to a son.

Seriously, Red Dove is a mare owned by J. S. Morse and his grandsons, Sammy and Johnny Hayne. Mayor John C. Haynes has been keeping the horse at his place since she was acquired some six months ago.

New Post Office Opens in McLean

McLean's spacious new Post Office finally went into use Tuesday afternoon.

The structure, which had been virtually completed since early this year, was occupied in short time late Tuesday after Postmaster Bill Reeves received the signal to move.

Post Office employes hauled and carted equipment and supplies across the alley between the old and new buildings, and were ready for business at the regular time Wednesday.

Some confusion resulted, when patrons began the search for their new boxes—and tried the combinations.

Construction of the large brick building was started last summer. It is owned by Mr. and Mrs. William C. Null of Fort Worth, and leased to the government.

3,920 Square Feet

The modern structure, which has a large parking area around the front and one side, contains 3,920 square feet of floor space and an outside loading platform.

A private office is provided for the postmaster, and the building has a tile floor and modern flourescent lighting.

Reeves said he is awaiting delivery on several pieces of equipment.

Dedication services are being planned for the Post Office by the McLean Lions Club, but a date has not been set.

Services Are Held For Mrs. Campbell

Funeral services for Mrs. M. T. Campbell, mother of Mrs. George Terry of McLean, were held last Friday in the Shamrock First Baptist Church.

Interment was in Shamrock Cemetery.

Mrs. Campbell died the preceding Wednesday at her home in Shamrock following an illness of two weeks.

Mrs. Campbell was born June 22, 1893, in Hughes County, Okla., and moved to Shamrock in 1928.

In addition to her daughter here, she is survived by her husband; four other daughters, Faye Campbell, Shamrock, Mrs. Thomas Wood and Jane Campbell, both of Odessa, and Mrs. Clifton Pugh, Denver City; five sons, Ed of Shamrock, Elsie of Eunice, N. M., Jerry of Elk City, Okla., Bobby and Billy, both of Dumas; three brothers, Edmond Harjo, Wichita Kans., Newman Harjo, Holdenville, Okla., and Charlie Bruner, Los Angeles, Calif.

Baptist Revival Will Open Sunday

Rev. Dan Beltz, pastor, will preach at revival services beginning Sunday at the First Baptist Church.

Song leader is to be Don Parmeter, music director of the Shields and Boulevard Baptist Church in Oklahoma City.

Rev. Beltz said services will be held nightly at 7:30 through April 30. Morning services are scheduled at 10 Tuesday through Friday during the two-week period.

The pastor invited everyone to attend the revival. The church nursery will be open for each service.

HAYNES HEADS SCHOOL BOARD

Sammy Haynes was elected Monday night as president of the McLean board of education for the coming year.

Serving as vice president of the newly organized board is Faris Hess, and secretary is Spencer Sitter.

All were elected by acclamation. Haynes succeds Jewel Meacham as president. Meacham did not ask re-election to the board, and completed his term of office Monday.

Orrick Seated

Taking his seat on the board for the first time Monday was George M. Orrick, who was eelcted to a three-year term last week. J. B. Roach, the other newly elected member, was out of town Monday and unable to attend the regular board of education session.

The other retiring board member, is Clyde Brown. He also was not a candidate for re-election.

During their session Monday, the school trustees discussed the purchase of a new bus but delayed a decision on the size—whether a 48 or 60-passenger—until additional information is available concerning the number of students on the routes.

Supt. Lee Welch was instructed to have one of the driver education cars available for use on days when the number of students on a route drops below five.

Reduce Expenses

The board felt that the use of a car instead of a bus when pos-

McDonald took first place in the "little eliminator" competition, while Kirk was the "big eliminator" winner.

GREEN BUGS ARE THREAT TO COUNTY WHEAT

A tiny insect no bigger than the head of a pin is dealing misery to Gray County wheat farmers.

Green bugs were taking their toll of the lush, green fields all across the county the past week, but their costly move was rapidly being halted today.

Gray County Agent Foster Whaley and Assistant Agent Cecil Reiger reported early in the week that about 50 per cent of the county fields had been sprayed.

Virtually every acre of wheat in the county is expected to be treated against the green bugs within the next few days.

All Across West

Reiger said the insects had been found in the entire west side of the county, and they were moving in a northeasterly direction.

Aerial spraying is the only method for battling the bugs, since a deadly poison known as Parathion is used. Reiger said ground spraying would endanger the lives of persons involved in the operation.

Parathion is a contact poison, and kills all insects and animals in the fields where used. One spraying will eliminate the green bugs and provide protection from their return for some three weeks.

6,000 to the Foot

Infestations of 6,000 green bugs to the running foot have been found in some fields. The Extension Service experiment station recommends spraying when as many as 450 are found to the foot.

Reiger, who described the green bug as a "versatile little insect," said recent weather conditions have made it possible for the bugs to thrive.

They reproduce best in 40 to 60 degree temperaturss, while their natural enemy—the lady bug—needs temperatures of 70 to 80 degrees.

The green bug does its damage while in the stage of development. The adult, measuring only one-sixteenth inch long, develops wings and flies away from the wheat

Austin Gets Top Red Cross Award

Jerry Austin, Plainview policeman and former resident of McLean, has been awarded a certificate of merit by the American Red Cross for saving the life of a neighbor's child Jan. 19.

The certificate is the highest honor bestowed on an individual by the Red Cross.

Austin is credited with saving the life of 13-month-old John Wayne Evan in Plainview. He administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to start the baby to breathing again.

The former McLean man was the 140th Texas resident to receive the certificate. The award was presented at a Plainview Kiwanis Club luncheon recently.

Laura Is All-American; Will Go to Russia Soon

A McLean girl has been selected one of America's outstanding women basketball players, and she is a member of a squad which leaves Sunday for Russia.

Laura Switzer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Switzer, McLean, led the Hutcherson Flying Queens of Wayland Baptist College, Plainview, to the championship last week in the Women's AAU Baskeball Tournament at St. Joseph, Mo.

She was named the tourney's most valuable player, placed on the 1961 All-American squad, and is a first team selection on the 1961 National Girls Basketball League All-Stars.

All told, Miss Switzer made 78 points during the Queens' five tournament games. The Queens totaled 322 points to their opponents' 136.

The Wayland squad downed the tough Nashville Business College's defending champion team 39-29 Saturday night to win the title—their sixth in the last eight years.

They had been defeated by Nashville in the finals last year.

Miss Switzer, a 6-1 forward, is the first Wayland eager ever to receive the most valuable player award.

Miss Switzer and other members of the Flying Queens squad will make the trip to Russia, where they will play basketball against the top Communist teams for about four weeks.

Their coach, Harley J. Redin, will accompany them.

Theyl are to see their first action on April 22.

Two games are to be played in Moscow and the same number in Kiev, Tbilisi and Leningrad.

Providing the competition for the Flying Queens will be the USSR junior teams, Ukranian, Georgian, Latvian and Russian Federation teams.

The Queens posted a remarkable record during the season just completed. They finished with 24 victories and two defeats, winning their last 15 consecutive games.

The city commission and McLean Lions Club this week sent telegrams of congratulations to Miss Switzer for her performance in the AAU tournament.

SURROUNDED BY TROPHIES: Laura Switzer, Hutcherson Flying Queens forward from McLean, holds the most valuable player trophy presented to her last Saturday in the Women's National AAU Tournament in St. Joseph, Mo. Trophies behind her were awarded to the Queens at the tourney. At right is the tournament first place trophy and at left is National Girls Basketball championship trophy.

The girls entered plain bread muffins and cinnamon rolls. Each product was scored by the judges and ribbons were awarded according to ranking.

Judges were Mrs. S. R. Hood, Pampa, and Mrs. A. M. Dickerson, Lefors, both Home Demonstration Club women. Miss Lou Ella Patterson, Gray County home demonstration agent, was in charge of the contest.

The 4-H girls themselves participated in a judging contest to test their choice of best products against thosse of the official judges.

100 YEARS AGO

War Breaks Out; Sumter Hit

(This is the first in a series of weekly articles beginning in this centenaal year of the Civil War.)

By LON K. SAVAGE

Capt. G. V. Fox of the United States Navy surveyed his small fleet and gave the signal to cast off. Then, as his seven ships pu out of New York harbor that Tuesday morning, April 9, 100 years ago this week, he again considered his objective.

He would attempt, his orders said, to deliver supplies to the United States troops at Fort Sumter, located on an island at Charleston harbor in the Confederate state of South Carolina.

Should the Confederates try to stop him, his orders read, "you will, if possible, effect an entrance and place both troops and supplies in Fort Sumter."

Thus it was that decades of bitter differences between the Northern and Southern states had led to war, just as they had led in December, January and early February to the secession from the Union of seven states which bound themselves together into a new nation—the Confederate States of America.

Resistance could well be anticipated, Fox knew. The Confederates had demanded that the federal troops at Sumter be withdrawn since the fort, they said, was no longer within the United States.

As Fox' fleet sailed southward next day, Confederal Gen. Pierre Gustave Toutant Beauregard, the famous Louisiana Creole, received an important order at his office in Charleston.

Because of the attempt to supply Sumter, Beauregard would demand immediate evacuation of the fort. And, said the order from Jeffer-

Brownie was the last of a litter of pups in the window of a pet shop. Although his looks were nondescript and he wasn't a puppy any more, his tail wagged jauntily, hopefully at anyone who stopped to look.

On the day that Brownie was to be taken to the city pound, a young woman with several children in tow came in and bought him. "I suppose it's an advertising gimmick," she said, "but it really got me."

The attendant understood what she meant when she went to pull the "For Sale" sticker off the window. Someone had changed the "l" to "k" and added an "n."

Green Bugs

Approximately 25,000 acre of small grain have been sprayed in the county. Aerial applicators have been extremely busy.

Fact is, a meeting of our range management committee has been called off due to the fact that we were unable to get information on cost of aerial application of brush control chemicals for the coming year.

The aerial applicators are too busy with killing green bugs to worry about brush control now.

New Feed Grain Program

Meetings on the new feed grain program will be scheduled in the near future. Here are a few points you are interested in:

1. The program is voluntary.
2. For cooperators they will receive $1.93 per 100 pounds price support on milo. This is an increase of 41 cents per 100 pounds over 1960.
3. A liberal payment for diverting a minimum of your average grain sorghum and corn acreage (average 1959 and 1960 acreage).
4. This acreage must be diverted to a soil-conserving use. Summer fallow qualifies as a soil conserving use.
5. In case land is summer fallowed and planted to small grains, grazing will be permitted if the county committee determines this is a usual practice.
6. Barley price supports have been raised from 77 cents in 1960 to 93 cents for 1961 for coperators.
7. Oat support price has been raised from 50 cents per bushel in 1960 to 62 cents in 1961 for cooperators.
8. To qualify as a cooperator, a farmer must deduct 20 per cent of his average acreage of grain sorghum or corn for 1959 and 1960 to a soil-conserving use.

In our own individual lives we need a lot of faith in the Higher Power in order to meet the problems of each new day. We need hope for tomorrow and in this crazy mixed up and uncertain age we need faith in something which can help us beyond the things we can do for ourselves.

As a citizen of our wonderful country we need to have faith in our leadership. The slambang campaigns of present day politics sometimes leave us with a feeling that all is bad. We wonder if the politician of today is so much worse than his forerunner or could it be that we know him beter because of radio, television, and a better news service.

We believe that a certain degree of moral decay is sapping away at the very roots of our wonderful freedom. Our very way of life seems to be in danger of falling to pieces because of selfish greed and political expediency.

But we mustn't lose our faith. We need to heed these danger signals and begin correcting the trouble. If we had things wrong with our physical health we would turn to our doctor and take his advice until we are well. We can see by history that other nations who made these same mistakes before us got in real trouble.

Will we keep on shaking the economic tree until we break the limbs? Will we refuse to believe that Santa Claus is just the man of the house? If so, we could get spanked like little children.

MORE PEOPLE ARE BUYING CHEVROLETS THAN ANY OTHER MAKE!

When one car outsells all the rest the way this new Chevrolet is doing*—there's got to be a reason. And we can think of some pretty good ones. The clean-etched looks of the new Body by Fisher, for example. The eager brand of "git" that's under the hood. The easy way it handles. Plus the added advantage of extra-cost options like triple-turbine Turboglide.

But to sample all these reasons together, you have to get a Chevrolet out on the road. And there's where that Jet-smooth ride takes over with its own gentle kind of persuasion. If you weren't absolutely sure, you'd imagine you were riding in a far costlier car.

AND JUST ONE JET-SMOOTH RIDE WILL SHOW YOU WHY!

No wonder people are buying more Chevrolets than any other make! Chevrolets have more of what it takes to please people!

PROPER USE: Cattle graze on a High Plains hardland range site which is at about the state of proper use. The grasses grown are blue grama, sideoats grama and buffalo grass.

Proper Range Use Is Profitable

One of the most practical and profitable conservation practices for grassland is what the soil conservation men call "proper range use." We might know it better as "not overgrazing."

They both mean about the same thing except that a man who does not overgraze might also not adequately use or get enough of his grass.

Proper use is "having your grass and eating it, too."

Proper range use is a conservation practice just as building farm ponds, or terraces, or seeding grass. It is backed by years of close observation of practical range management and evaluating results of research experiments designed for that purpose.

The thinking behind this practice is, first, that it takes grass to grow grass. In order to use or improve something we must have a start.

Second, that grass plants will store food in their roots in late summer and use this as a springboard for their first growth in the spring. An adequate amount of plant food must be available to store in the roots, this of course being dependent upon the amount of green foliage or leaf growth available for food manufacturing.

These grass leaves serve as the framework for extremely complex machinery (machinery our best-trained scientists have not been able to duplicate) which combines sunlight, oxygen and water to produce sugar, then converting the sugar to starch or plant food for storage in the roots.

Third, when too much of this complex machinery (leaves) is removed, a sharp decrease in food production results and ultimately causes roots to die back proportionately. Overgrazed grasses with short roots and depleted root reserves are more susceptible to death during summer drouths and hard winter freezes.

Roots that reach well into subsubsoil are able to secure more moisture and plant nutrients vital for plant livelihood. Also, properly used plants provide more vigorous growth the following season.

Fourth, grasses produce and store most of their food during a relatively short period when seeds are maturing. Since this is a critical period for grasses, it is a wise rancher that keeps a close check on the amount of use his grasses are receiving and takes the necessary action to prevent overuse.

As grass species vary considerably in heigth, the best practical method for measurement of "proper use" is based on weight.

Today we use 300 horsepower to move a 150-pound man one block to purchase a one-ounce package of cigarettes—complete with filter tips so he won't know he's smoking.—John B. Macdonald

THE STEPS TO MATURITY

By JUDY WYATT

What does every boy and girl look forward to, more than anything else in the world? The time they start dating, of course!

Dating usually turns out to be everything, and even more, than was expected. However, there are those who are less fortunte than most, and experience some pretty trying ordeals.

For example, one girl was finally asked for her first date by a senior boy whom she had hero worship for. While riding along in his car, she noticed a repeated, fast motion of his hand from coat pocket to mouth.

Curiosity overcame her and she questioned his actions. After stammering around he finally confessed, "I didn't have enough chocolate-covered peanuts for both of us, so I am eating them!"

Well, so much for the less fortunate!

Occasionally, such incidents occur and are uncontrollable, but most times dating involves happier situations. It is a maturing experience for young people.

By learning the various types that make up the majority of the opposite sex, knowledge is obtained that will be invaluable in choosing a matrimonial mate. By learning how to cope with all situations, poise and self-assurance are possessed.

New interests in others instead of one's self are found to be fascinating and helpful in talking over ideas and feelings.

Don't burst into the dating period afraid of the outcome—go full force; for the knowledge obtained will serve as a guide from then until death.

'Twirp Week' Rules Laid Down by FHA; Clean-up Planned

By DOYAL BILLINGSLEY

FHA is sponsoring "Twirp Week." Tuesday, April 11, was "Kids Day." Everyone was dressed up like a little kid. Then on Friday there will be a "Cleanup Day," when everyone will go about the school and pick up the trash and articles that a few litter bugs have put there.

"Twirp Week" means that the girls have free reign on the boys, for the girls have to ask the boys for dates. Here are some of the rules that everyone has to go by:

1. Girls ask boy for dates.
2. Girls must pay all bills, including transportation; if she cannot have the car, she must pay boy's gas bill.
3. Girls must go to boy' house and pick up her date and open all doors, etc.
4. A girl, not wanting other girls to ask this boy for a date, must buy a "taken" tag for him.
5. Any boy that is asked for a date must say yes, unless he has another date or extreme illness.
6. All boys that are asked to wear a taken tag must do so at all times.

Now you people who read the paper will know what the boys of MHS are having to go through this week. They are being pestered to death by some girls who want to go with them. Have PITY on them, girls.

Note of Thanks

Dear Faculty Members and Students:

I greatly appreciate the kind words and thoughtful deeds shown to me during my time of grief. May God bless and keep each of you.

Sincerely,
Janelle Hall

THE TEAR OF THE YEAR

DEAR READERS,

Due to unfavorable circumstances, this will be the last of the series about Margaret and Nick.

Three year have passed by. They were wonderful years. But now time is running out. One week remains before graduation of the class in which Margaret and Nick have belonged for 12 years. It doesn't seem possible that 12 years could fly by so rapidly. It seems like only yesterday that Margaret and Nick had enrolled in the firstgrade.

As the years have flown by, both Margaret and Nick have matured mentally and physically, but deep down inside they are still the same pig-tailed girl and bashful boy of 12 years ago. Graduation is a happily awaited moment in the lives of every boy and girl. To some it is looked upon with joy, but to others it is looked upon with regret, as we shall see in moment.

It is now May 12, 1961. Less than one week from today, on May 19, the class of 1961 will graduate. Let us now visit the home of Margaret Fry.

As we enter the door we find Mrs. Fry at work at the sewing machine. She is putting the finishing touches on the dress Margaret will wear to the graduation dance. There are tears in Mrs. Fry's eyes. Soon her daughter will have to leave home in which she was reared — the home in which she was loved.

"Mother, don't cry. This is a happy event as well as sad."

"I know, dear, but I realize the hardships of life that you will encounter. College will be an important step and I hope you are ready and will be happy. Of course, your father and I will both miss you, but then Kathy will keep us occupied."

"Mom, you're sweet. I'll sure miss you and dad. But college and I will get along fine. It'll work out, just you wait and see."

At the Newman home, we also find Mrs. Newman in tears. But she has another reason for crying —her Nick will not get to attend college. Mr. Newman passed away last year, and Nick must remain home to care for his mother.

"Mom, don't cry. I told you college can wait a year or two."

It is now Wednesday, May 17. Margaret and Nick are at the local drive-in. They ordered Cokes and they began to talk about the future.

"I guess I had better give your ring back. I'll be leaving soon, and, of course, I will be too far away to date you."

"Peggy, I can't imagine life without you. What will I do when I need cheering up. Peg, I'm taking the ring back, but not my heart. I'll write when I can, okay?"

The week has finally come to an end. It is now May 19. Graduation is just beginning. Mis Margaret Fry and Mr. Nick Newman walk in together. Their heads are raised high with pride. This is indeed a great moment in their lives. Margaret had been bestowed with the high honor of being valedictorian of her class. Her address was very well stated. The most inspiring part of the graduation was when the class sang "You'll Never Walk Alone." Their voice had a sound of sincerity.

That night after graduation, Nick took Margaret home to change into her graduation dress. They went to the dance and had an enjoyable evening. The night was cool and the stars were brightly shining. Nick drove Peg home slowly as they said their goodbyes.

No one knows what happened exactly, but the headlines in the morning paper read "Two Killed in TWO-Car Crash." One drink too many and two innocent teenage lives were taken. The drunk man swore that he didn't see the car.

Two mothers went to a funeral on a dark rainy Sunday afternoon. Two lives were now joined in death. No one knows why, but all figured God knew best.

'61 Annuals Arrive At McLean High

By FRANK YEARWOOD

Thursday, April 6, the '61 annuals arrived at MHS. This made them about a month early in getting here. By getting them early it threw everybody into a mad rush to get their money in on time.

Tuesday, April 11, the annuals were distributed to the students in the auditorium.

At the start of the seventh period Mr. Green called the students to the auditorium where they received their annuals and then spent the rest of the period, or they could stay as long as they liked after school, signing the annuals for one another.

Senior Class Hears Results of Tests

By DANNY BROWN

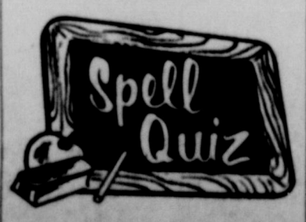

Tuesday, April 4, the senior class, accompanied by Miss Brown and Mr. Green, went to West Texas State College in Canyon to hear results of mental aptitude tests which were taken earlier this year.

This series of tests, which is sponsored by West Texas State College, were given during the English IV class period of two days in February. The tests were directed by Miss Brown.

The purpose of the tests was to determine the subjects which each individual is strongest in and to help determine the best subjects for each to center his attention on in college.

Each student was given about 10 minutes of private counseling by a teacher from West Texas State. Some of those counseling were: Dr. Findley, Dr. Russell, dean of Graduate School, Dr. Harrison, Mr. Borden Price and Dr. Ruth Lowes.

fields.

The green bug sucks the juice out of the wheat plants, leaving them to die.

Rapid increases in the number of green bugs is due to the fact that a female bug gives birth to 50 to 60 living young when only seven days old.

The last generation of the bugs before freezing weather lays eggs, instead of giving birth to the young. Reiger said all of these eggs hatch out female bugs in the spring to start the cycle all over again.

Reiger said the cost of spraying an acre amounts to about the same revenue a farmer receives from 1½ bushels of wheat.

WAR

son Davis, President of the Confederacy, if the demand were refused, Beauregard would open fire.

The demand was delivered at 2 p. m. next day, April 11. Maj. Robert Anderson, federal commander at Sumter and a former West Point teacher of Beauregard's, turned it down.

There was considerable discussion, exchanging of notes, bowing and handshaking that night until Beauregard's aides announced early next morning that firing on Sumter would begin in one hour.

And just as promised, at 4:30 a. m., April 12, the first shot of the Civil War flashed out from one of the surrounding batteries, arched across the dark sky and burst spectacularly on the fort's parapet. Then, howitzers and mortars let loose in pre-arranged pattern from 47 batteries trained on Sumter, and the war was on.

Crowds Cheer

Anderson's men, approximately 100 facing an opponent of some 6,000, answered the fire at dawn. When they did, they received loud cheers from hundreds of Charlestonians who had thronged the waterfront to watch and applaud good shooting—by either side.

All day and all night the guns thundered on. Then, about 8:30 a. m. on the 13th, the fort caught fire.

Maj. Anderson's men, unable to control the blaze, closed their powder magazine, dumped 50 barrels of powder into the sea, then crawled into the embrasures and lay flat, wet handkerchiefs over their mouths to breathe.

By 1 p. m., the battle was over. The ships of Fox' expedition, unable to enter the port, waited outside as the surrender took place.

There were no deaths from the battle. But next day, during a ceremony in which cannon were fired, the flag lowered and Anderson's men marched to beating drums from the fort, a cannon accidentally exploded, killing the first man of the half million who were to die in the war.

If there was any doubt of war after the bombardment, it was resolved Monday morning, April 15, when the people read in their newspapers that President Lincoln had called for 75,000 troops to fight the seceded states.

Next week: Wild enthusiasm greets the war.
