Rain, Fog Cover Much Of Nation

By The Associated Press

Wet, foggy and cloudy weather covered most of the nation today and unseasonably warm air spread across many areas.

Rain and cloudiness prevailed from the southern and central Appalachians to the Rockies. Heavy fog, with rain and drizzle, disrupted air and motor travel from the Dakotas and the upper Great Lakes region to eastern Pennsylvania.

Freezing drizzle pelted North Dakota and northern parts of South Dakota and Minnesota. Showers, with snow in mountain areas, fell in sections from Idaho to Arizona. Heavy snow was indicated in parts of Utah, Idaho, Colorado, New Mexico and Arizona.

Air traffic was halted for a time during the night throughout the fog belt which covered at least 16 states. The dense fog which shrouded the Chicago area halted inbound planes from landing at O'Hare International and Midway airports. Outbound flights continued but were slowed in taking off. Some of the inbound planes landed at Detroit, Indianapolis and St. Louis airports.

The Weather Bureau said the fog was caused by warm, moist air from the Gulf of Mexico moving northward and clashing with the cooler Midwest air.

Navy Probes Fatal Crash

BRUNSWICK, Maine (AP) — The Navy began an investigation today into the crash of a patrol plane some 25 miles offshore in the Atlantic. One crewman was killed.

Five other crewmen were rescued from the water after the crash Friday and were taken to Brunswick Naval Air Station Hospital. They were reported in good condition.

The dead man was identified as the co-pilot, Lt. (j.g.) Donald S. Lavigne, 26, of Albany, N.Y. A Navy spokesman said Lavigne apparently died of exposure.

The rescued were Lt. Robert C. Muller, 31, of Lombard, Ill., the pilot; Aviation Technician 1.C. Emanuel A. Croasmun, 33, of Cleveland, Ohio; Aviation Machinists Mate 2.C. Paul L. Force, 28, of Paterson, N.J., and Aviation Machinist Mate 3.C. Pasquale Pape, 21, of Rome, N.Y.

GOODFELLOW GIFTS—J. M. Dean (left), Don Adams and Mrs. Charles (Marjorie) Tyer display some of the many gifts that are being turned over to the Goodfellows for distribution to poor children of the area for Christmas. Contributions of clothing or toys may be turned in at Goodfellow headquarters, 1909 Twenty-fifth. (Staff Photo).

Goodfellows Get 'Fine Support'

Many organizations and individuals, through their support of the Snyder Goodfellows, are making it possible for needy children here to enjoy Christmas.

Without the support of these Goodfellows, many needy Children in the area would be without toys or, in some cases, sufficient food or clothing.

Donations of clothing and toys are being taken at Goodfellow Headquarters, 1909 Twenty-fifth Street or at Post Office Box 661. Anyone wishing may call HI 3-7273.

Money contributions are handled at the Snyder National Bank and the West Texas State Bank. Money donations are nearing the $1,000 mark, and more is needed.

The Goodfellows Christmas program originally was begun here several years ago by the Snyder Kiwanis Club. Over the years it grew to such an extent that one service club could not possibly handle all of the work. So, the program has become a community project in which many individuals, firms and civic-minded organizations donate time and money.

Already some 50 needy families have made application for help," said Mrs. Charles Tyer, a volunteer worker at Goodfellow headquarters. She and J. M. Dean, the only full-time worker for Goodfellows, have been busy this week accepting applications.

Although the Kiwanis Club no longer handles the entire project, the club remains active in the work, along with other local civic clubs, such as the Twentieth Century Club, Lions and Rotary. Many church groups have collected clothing and toys for the unfortunate children. The toys will be repaired by students in the industrial arts classes at Snyder High School.

Volunteer workers have to separate the clothing and get it ready for distribution. The Goodfellows have several committees to make sure that nothing is overlooked. A special committee screens the applications to make sure that only deserving, needy families receive the gift items.

Dolls are dressed by volunteer helpers. Two such volunteers who have dressed many dolls this season are Mrs. Ed Murphy and Mrs. J. E. Sorrels. Anyone who would like to help dress dolls may contact a Goodfellow at their headquarters. The number is HI 3-7273.

Chairman of the Goodfellow campaign is Don Adams. He expressed appreciation for "all of the fine support the Goodfellows have received." He urged continued support of the campaign as if enters the final two weeks.

Acquittals May Spur More Strife

By REX THOMAS

SELMA, Ala. (AP) — The acquittal of three white men charged with the civil rights killing of a white Boston minister left Selma faced today with the threat of renewed racial strife.

A spokesman for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said the verdicts returned by an all-white jury after 95 minutes deliberation Friday probably will touch off an increase in demonstrations, "especially in Selma."

"The (Negro) people of Selma are pretty upset about this," the Rev. Andrew Young, executive secretary of King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said in Atlanta.

"It just means that any Negro or civil rights worker can be killed a block away from the heart of town, and those responsible for it probably will be acquitted."

The Rev. James J. Reeb, a 38-year-old Unitarian minister and father of four children, was waylayed along with two other white clergymen the night of last March 9 on a street corner one block from Selma's main thoroughfare, Broad Street.

The Boston clergyman, who had come to Alabama to join the struggle for Negro voting rights, was clubbed to the ground, and died two days later in a Birmingham hospital with a massive brain injury. His companions also were roughed up by a gang of white men but escaped with slight injury.

More Marines Join Hard-Fought Battle

By THOMAS A. REEDY

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — Helicopters dropped two more companies of U.S. Marines today into the four-day battle that has pitted several thousand leatherknecks and Vietnamese troops against a hard-core Viet Cong regiment south of Da Nang.

The American newcomers deployed south of the main forces as a blocking element while the others probed cautiously for points at which to deliver the hammer blows. Contact was reported to be light but constant.

Savage fighting developed in the Mekong Delta 35 miles southwest of Saigon. Several battalions of South Vietnamese troops penetrated a Viet Cong hornets' nest and touched off a heavy gunfight that continued through the afternoon.

A U.S. military spokesman said the government force was lashed by 50-caliber machine gun and 57mm recoilless rifle fire.

A religious crisis threatened complications at Da Nang, the big air force base 380 miles northeast of Saigon. Vietnamese Buddhists charged that a U.S. Marine beheaded a Golden Buddha and scattered sacred ornaments and artifacts in the Khue Bac Pagoda there Dec. 3.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge is known to have told the Buddhist hierarchy he will look into the matter immediately and all damage will be repaired with U.S. money, regardless of whether Americans were involved.

Buddhists make up the majority of Viet Nam's people and to them the decapitation of a Buddha is equivalent to desecration of a cross in a Christian church.

Reports reaching Saigon from the delta fight suggested the government troops flushed a hard-core Viet Cong battalion, one of the outfits which has been in the field a long time.

This is the kind of Viet Cong force that has plagued and battered government troops and U.S. Marines for more than three days 350 miles to the north in the paddy fields inland from the South China Sea coast.

Marines, continuing the battle with troops from shore bases and from the carrier Valley Forge, had rough going under heavy attack Friday night but reported today that the Viet Cong were evading an open confrontation with the multibattalion American force.

Moving up from the south toward the government forces, the Marines made only light contact with Viet Cong snipers and the main enemy force slipped away during the morning.

Marine patrols took heavily fortified positions without opposition, including barbed wire outposts and a big tunnel system 10 feet underground. The tunnels, disguised by tented doors and bamboo constructions at the entrances contained sleeping rooms that could accommodate 75 persons.

Marine casualties in the operation were described as light. There were no reports of Viet Cong casualties except for a two-day total of 74 Viet Cong dead exacted by both government and Marine troops.

Rumors of much higher figures in the continuing hunt-and-dodge operation found no support in U.S. military headquarters.

It was such tricky warfare that field units did not call for any Air Force support during today's skirmishing.

Bad weather prevented the Air Force's long-range squadrons from pounding North Viet Nam. Navy aircraft from the carriers Bonhomme Richard and Kitty Hawk hit Communist communication lines.

They dropped 34 tons of bombs on bridges, roads and truck convoys and storage areas 25 miles south and southeast of Dong Hoi.

Marine units moved into the coastal valley south of Da Nang Thursday and Friday after two South Vietnamese battalions engaged the Viet Cong in heavy fighting. By late Friday, the fighting slackened.

"The first man off the chopper was wounded in the shoulder. The next was killed," said Gunnery Sgt. Joseph Thurmond, 32, from Chicago.

"Within minutes after the landing we were caught in a mortar barrage. Five or six men were killed immediately. Then the Viet Cong took a whole machine-gun position out, killing or wounding everyone around the gun.

"As we started to move out machine-gun fire hit us," Thurmond said.

Thurmond's company was from the Valley Forge.

"The company commander and my platoon commander were wounded," Thurmond said.

Marine officers were claiming from 200 to 500 Viet Cong killed in the fight, but they had few bodies and weapons to show for it.

The operations officer for the 3rd Marine Amphibious Force engaged in the action, Col. Edwin H. Simmons, of Alexandria, Va., said most of the Viet Cong casualties were results of air and artillery strikes.

Her daughter, Mrs. Jonisue Bowden, a passenger in the car, also was taken to the hospital in Abilene and later was transferred to here. Mrs. Bowden suffered cuts and bruises, but her injuries were not believed to be serious. The mishap occurred at about midnight Friday night and Mrs. Cogdell died at 3:30 a.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Cogdell, 73, was the former Johnnye Kate Oldham. She was born in Aquilla, Tex., but had lived in this area for 43 years. She was married to David Munsey Cogdell on May 31, 1919.

Surviving are two sons, D. M. Cogdell Jr. of Floydada and William N. Cogdell of Silverton; a daughter, Mrs. Bowden; a stepson, Marion Cogdell of Los Angeles, Calif.; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Charlotte Etgen of Snyder; six sisters, Mrs. Joe Clements and Mrs. Ruth Evetts, both of Cisco, Mrs. C. E. Terrell of Sanger, Calif., Mrs. Paul W. Gilliland of Fresno, Calif., Mrs. Dave Walker of Stamford and Mrs. J. A. Moore of Deer Park; three brothers, G. D. WAVE OF THE WAND, AND—

New Supersonic Changes F111 Fighter To Bomber

By ELTON C. FAY
AP Military Affairs Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara plan to wave a $1.75 billion wand and change F111 fighters into FB111 strategic bombers.

By McNamara's own description, the new supersonic bombers, intended to comprise a 210-plane fleet by 1971, actually will be only a variant of the 111 all-purpose tactical fighters now in production for the Navy and Air Force.

But the defense boss told newsmen they would be able to fly to a target twice as far and with about the same range as the F111s which they [illegible]

In talking to a Texas news conference following a meeting Friday between Johnson, himself and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, McNamara had a retort for some senators and others who criticized the announcement earlier in the week of a [illegible] cutback in bases with [illegible] grounding reduction in the number of B52s. "They spoke much [illegible]

With the 210 FB111s and 225 B52s still to be in the Strategic Air Command by the end of the decade, he said, there will be a force of 565. Present strength is about 680, including 80 of the smaller but faster B58s which are to be dropped along with the earlier models of the B52.

LBJ Says Peace Has Top Priority

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has launched an effort to convince the Communists he is willing to curb new "Great Society" programs to finance the war in Viet Nam.

This was a followup to Johnson's public warning Thursday that he will order "other hard steps" in Viet Nam if all prospects for peace prove futile.

Hanoi, Peking and Moscow, however, were not the only targets of disclosures Friday that civilian programs — even those Johnson pushed through Congress this year — will be curtailed because of spiraling costs of the Viet Nam war.

Obviously, Johnson wanted American voters — and the Congress' members who voted [illegible] prepared for emergency [illegible] ments should peace appear [illegible] far range $1 billion program [illegible] new budget goes to Congress, he has a motive.

The clear meaning was that Johnson wants everyone to know — here and in the Communist capitals — that the United States means business in Viet Nam.

In this administration, officers of Cabinet level do not normally volunteer such revelations without a presidential okay. And when the chief executive gives such authorization more than a month before the

Bible Society Raises Goal For New Year

Proclaiming 1966 as its 130th anniversary year, the American Bible Society is seeking to increase its distribution of the Scriptures by a record - breaking 35 million copies annually, officials report.

Members of the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance are helping by distributing gift scripture portions daily at their hospital chaplain's program.

In 1965 the society has distributed approximately 98 million Bibles, New Testaments, portions and selections of scripture. Part of this vast distribution was shared recently with the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance when the society gave over a thousand scripture portions in the local hospital chaplain's program.

The American Bible Society was organized in 1816 to ease the Bible shortage then existing in the United States. It has extended its missionary distribution and translation work to 94 other countries. More than 45 denominations in the United States support the society as their worldwide agency for translating, publishing, distributing and encouraging the reading of Holy Scriptures.

Universal Bible study is observed by the supporting churches yearly in December. Also, an offering is taken each year at this time to support the work of the society.

The current task of supplying Bibles is a problem that staggers the imagination. Present world population of about three billion is expected to reach four billion or more within 35 years. Approximately 70 million adults a best to use in removing cook- are learning to read each year. ies from baking sheets.

In the face of this growth in population and literacy, it will be impossible even by the year 2000 at the present rate of supply to provide a Bible for every Christian home, a new testament for every Christian, a gospel for every illiterate and a scripture portion to share with others. Toward this goal the American Bible Society hopes to evaluate its Bible distribution substantially beyond that presently attained.

Little Change In Oil Imports Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Johnson signed Friday a proclamation continuing almost unchanged the oil import program in 1966.

The most important change permits import allocations for petro - chemical firms in the United States and Puerto Rico.

The new proclamation drew an immediate objection from the Independent Petroleum Associa- president F. Allen Calvert Jr., said in a statement "the changes in the 1966 oil import program do nothing to strengthen the security of the United States as to its vital supplies or petroleum products."

At Bartlesville, Okla., Phillips Petroleum Co. announced it would start immediate construction of its proposed petrochemical manufacturing plant in Puerto Rico. Phillips President Stanley Leonard said:

"Phillips is prepared to comply with all commitments it has made to the Puerto Rican government and to the Department of Interior. We will start construction immediately in anticipation of early receipt of the license for the importation of core plant feedstock."

Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall announced the new import plans at a news conference here. Johnson later signed the proclamation at his ranch in Texas.

Udall said the changes will not affect Venezuela and Canada. He also explained that the oil import control program for residual fuel oil brought to the East Coast is not involved in any way.

Udall said the changes are based on the unanimous recommendation of his department and all other interested departments and agencies.

Under questioning he said it is hoped that the program will result in price stability and that there will be no increases in the prices of oil and gasoline.

He said the oil industry has experienced a particularly stable year during 1965, and credited the import control program with being a factor "because the domestic industry had a larger share of the annual growth in demand."

The domestic industry is experiencing a demand increase this year of more than 3.6 per cent, he continued, as compared with an average rate of about 2.5 per cent in other recent years.

The secretary said the new program should not adversely affect the balance of payments as the only increase in imports will result from increased demand, with the top permissible limit of imports continuing to be 12.2 per cent of estimated total demand.

The secretary declined to give specific figures as to import levels. He said his staff people are working on the details which will be made public before Jan. 1.

A major effect of the provision for import allocations for petrochemical firms is that whatever amounts they are allocated will be charged against the total amount which may be imported and thus will affect the individual allocations to other imports. Similarly, any increase in the amount of petroleum products shipped from Puerto Rico to the mainland will also be deducted from the total licensed import level for the nation east of the Rocky Mountains.

Udall said he thinks it will be possible to make the new regulations effective Jan. 1.

Teachers Study Code's Enforcement

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Approximately 300 Texas educators meeting here are pondering the question: should Texas teachers enforce their own code of ethics in the same manner as doctors and lawyers?

At the present time teachers have a code of ethics but do not enforce it in a systematic procedure. Physicians and attorneys discipline themselves through professional boards.

The question is occupying the principal attention at the seventh annual Teacher Education and Professional Standards Conference sponsored by the Texas State Teachers Convention.

The conference opened with a banquet Friday night at which Dr. J. B. Wooley of Hammond, La., dean of Southeast Louisiana College, was the principal speaker.

Wooley said the first and best way to improve the teaching profession would come through teachers assuming a greater responsibility for enforcing their own ethics.

Sam Anderson of Big Spring, TSTA vice - president, was to preside at today's general session.

Scheduled to take part in the session were Dr. Milo Kearney of Austin, an official with the Texas Education Agency, and F. E. Willingham of Oklahoma City, associate secretary of the Oklahoma Education Association.

L. P. Sturgeon, executive director of the TSTA's governmental and public relations division, was to be the final speaker in a wrap-up session.

Rabbi Again Becomes Reno Police Chief

RENO, Nev. (AP) — The title will be Police Chief-Rabbi Philip H. Weinberg of Reno again this Christmas Day.

Last year, Rabbi Weinberg offered to take over the duties of Police Chief Elmer Briscoe, a Roman Catholic, on Christmas to allow Briscoe to observe the Christian holiday. He'll do it again this month.

One of Snyder's newest business firms, Bea Owens has been open for several weeks, but this is the first opportunity the owners have had to invite the public in to view the latest fashions with a formal open house. No business will be transacted during the open house. Instead, visitors will be given an opportunity to inspect facilities in the new store and to see outstanding merchandise lines on display.

Two Anson Escapees Behind Bars

ANSON, Tex. (AP)—Only one of the three prisoners who escaped from the Jones County jail Monday remain at large today after Kenneth E. Chase, 30, surrendered voluntarily.

Chase surrendered to Jones County Sheriff Dave Reves at the latter's office here Friday.

Gerald David Knight, 32, an ex-convict being held on charges of beating and raping a 12-year-old Dallas girl, was captured by officers Thursday night in Dallas. He surrendered without a fight after he was cornered in the men's room of a theater. Officers said he had tossed away a .25 caliber pistol he was carrying.

Still at large was Pete Guerrero, 20, the third escapee.

Knight is still being held in jail at Dallas. He was scheduled to go on trial here Jan. 17. Dist. Atty. Richard Price said in Abilene Friday that Knight's recapture opened the way for him to be tried Jan. 24, a week later than originally planned.

The two Abilene youths have been charged with aiding the trio to escape from the jail. Officers quoted one of the youths as saying Knight offered to pay him $1,000 for his assistance in the jail break.

Plains Winter Wheat Gets Good Start

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department said Saturday that winter wheat has made good progress in most of the Great Plains.

A report said there was adequate moisture and that weather had been favorable for germination and growth. In some southern areas of the Plains, top soils were drying out due to lack of recent rainfall.

KEEP "Tuned-in"

— Have you heard from God today? Or is there too much static? Maybe you are just not 'tuned-in.' At this moment there are voices and music surging all about you. Do you hear them? Maybe not, but you could if you had your radio delicately in tune. Prayer is the sensitive instrument man must use to get in tune with God. But it is hard to stay tuned in. Elijah failed here . . . and so do we. That is why we need the church. It helps us keep our finger on the dial of faith and obedience to God's will. Go to church Sunday. Carry your walkie-talkie with you every day. Keep it tuned to heaven. Make frequent reports of your victories and failures, and receive your marching orders direct from God! "Speak, Lord, for Thy Servant heareth."

Texas' Underground Water Remains Largely Untapped

Editor's Note: While Texas builds water reservoirs as fast as it can find the money, vast stores remain underground, almost untouched. Bringing the water to the surface costs too much for general use at the moment. But there may be a day when it will be worth tapping. A survey)

By ROBERT E. FORD

LUBBOCK (AP) — The Lubbock telephone directory lists 63 companies offering irrigation services.

It points up what underground water does for the economy of the South Plains and a part of the Panhandle. The question of whether it rains or not is of small importance to thousands of farmers.

All they need do in dry weather is turn on the pumps. It almost takes the gamble out of farming.

Although the great underground reservoir of the Ogallala formation of this rich area is well known, it is only one of many such reservoirs in Texas. The remainder are virtually untapped.

Some other farm irrigation does occur in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, the Winter Garden Area, along the Gulf Coast and in the Trans-Pecos. But the South Plains, sometimes called the High Plains, is the largest user.

When the per acre value of irrigated cotton and sorghum grain is almost double that of non-irrigated areas, why do farmers not drill all over Texas for irrigation water?

One reason is that most underground reservoirs cannot be reached as easily as they can in the High Plains. The farmer must dig deeper and use more energy to bring water to the surface, and this is costly.

Too, about half the water bearing formations are in the eastern portion of the state which has plenty of rain. There are occasions now and then when a farmer could irrigate for a few days in eastern areas, but this limited usage would not pay for the drilling, pipe, pumps and work.

A new tax ruling may create a more favorable climate for irrigating from underground reservoirs in higher cost-benefit drilling areas.

A High Plains farmer, Marvin Shurbet of Petersburg, acting for himself and number of others, obtained a ruling that he was using up his stock of water and therefore he should receive a depletion tax allowable similar to the oilman who is using up his oil.

However, the amount of money involved in the ruling was not great. Shurbet asked for a $377.18 depletion deduction for 1959.

The Texas Water Commission reports that one-fifth of the High Plains water has been mined by the 55,000 wells pumping about 5 million acre-feet of water annually. An acre-foot is 325,851 gallons.

The Ogallala formation is being recharged at a rate of 30,000 acre-feet annually. Eventually, experts believe, farmers will need to go deeper — meaning it will cost them more to irrigate.

The Edwards Limestone formation in South Central Texas has wells producing 17,000 gallons a minute and the reservoir restores itself by 550,000 acre-feet annually.

One of the largest formations is the Carrizo-Wilcox Sands stretching from the Rio Grande northeast to Louisiana. But wells must go down 5,000 feet. This means the water can be used only for high-profit crops such as the winter vegetables of the Winter Garden area.

The Gulf Coast Sands, reports the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas in a recent publication, are largely utilized for municipal and industrial purposes. However, in portions of the rice belt, irrigation is widespread because that crop needs huge quantities of water.

J. C. Grady Jr., agricultural economist of the Reserve Bank, reports that about 2.5 million acres of cotton and the same acreage of grain sorghum are irrigated in Texas. About 900,000 acres of wheat receive irrigation water.

Although rice accounted for only 6 per cent of the acreage under irrigation in 1964, it used 11 per cent of the total output of wells in the state.

Texas A&M University in a 1958 study found that farmers in the South Plains spent from $52 to $81 an acre for irrigation equipment and the operating costs varied from $5 to $8 an acre.

High Plains farmers, realizing that some conservation is in their best interests, have undertaken conservation measures to stop evaportaion, to use water a second time and to replace water in the underground formations in times of heavy rains.

Use of underground water is growing. In 1958, 26 per cent of the acre-feet used for irrigation came from surface sources, but this dropped to 18 per cent by 1964.

It is estimated that Texas farmers used 10 million acre-feet of underground irrigation water last year.

Airmen To End Mock Moon Trip

By PAUL RECER

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Four Air Force officers who have spent 68 days in simulated space travel will "return to earth" here Monday, ending a test of an atmosphere that may may breathe on moon voyages.

The mock space travelers were confined in a chamber at the Aerospace Medical Center at Brooks Air Force Base here on Oct. 14 in a long-range test of the effects on man of a helium-oxygen atmosphere.

All tests so far have indicated the effects are negative, which to Dr. Billy E. Welch, chief of the environmental systems branch of the school, is good news.

"We're getting pretty well what we expected," he said this week.

Welch said the only obvious effect of the oxygen-helium atmosphere is a change in the men's voices. The change is so slight, however, it is detectable only through a comparison with the crew's pre-experiment vocal tones.

An oxygen-helium atmosphere was suggested by engineers as the ideal atmosphere for space travelers to the moon and beyond because of its lightness. A mixed gas atmosphere is preferable to one of pure oxygen because it reduces the hazard of fire.

It was up to Welch and the four earthbound spacemen to find out the long-range physiological effects of the mixed gases on man.

The chamber crewmen, all volunteers from the Strategic Air Command, have spent more than nine weeks in a 30-ton vault filled with 29 per cent helium and 71 per cent oxygen. They lived on a diet close to that of real space travelers — freeze-dehydrated meats, vegetables and desserts three times daily and then a liquid supplement similar to vanilla milkshake. All drinking water is distilled.

Welch and his aerospace medical team have searched for all possible clues to the effect of helium-oxygen atmosphere.

The crewmen daily conducted "in flight" physicals on themselves and relayed data to a master control panel outside the chamber. The panel also monitors all conditions within the chamber and is manned constantly. Body wastes of the crew are collected and examined.

Even the men's beards receive attention. The officers allowed their beards to grow for several days and then shaved just before entering the chamber. They grew another beard and shaved while in the chamber. The composition of the two groups of bristles will be tested and compared.

Atmospheric pressure was kept at ground level for the first eight days of the test. On Oct. 13, the pressure was dropped to that of 27,000 feet, five pounds per square inch or about a third of the ground level pressure. The men remained at this altitude for 56 days and returned to ground level for the final four days of the mission.

"Space travelers" at Brooks are confined in a 20-foot chamber that permits some walking. They also exercise on a bicycle ergometer for three 20-minute periods each day to prevent normal deconditioning effects of confinement and inactivity.

The crew can also watch television, read, write and receive mail.

In an interview through the chamber's communications system at the halfway mark of the experiment, one of the chamber crewmen, Lt. Richard P. Sessler, 28, Syracuse, N.Y., told officials the oxygen-helium atmosphere was no bother to him.

"In fact," he said, "I find it exhilarating."

Both Sessler and another crewman, Capt. Lawrence A. Smulcenski, 29, Miffling, Pa., said what they missed most is earthbound food.

"We all would like to have a big juicy steak," Smulczenski said.

The other crewmen are Capt. Roger C. Gall, 27, San Francisco, and Capt. Robert J. Till Jr., 27, Bangor, Maine.

They were selected after extensive tests from more than 250 volunteers.

Too Many Guests At 'Unexpected Guest'

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The Center Stage Theater in suburban Bellevue, performing the play "The Unexpected Guest," had an unexpected problem the other night — too many guests.

The Totem Sertoma Club, an amateur hockey team, had bought out the 171-seat house for last Tuesday and next Thursday. Because of a printing error on their tickets, they showed up last Thursday.

Trouble was, last Thursday the house had been sold out to two other groups.

The team relinquished its seats and will come back to see the play next week.

Tigers Tromp Breck, 73-39, In 1st Round

Snyder's hustling basketball team took a 10-point lead in the second quarter and put on more pressure in the second half to score a one-sided 73-39 triumph over Breckenridge in the first round of the 11th annual Canyon Reef Basketball Tournament. Other first round winners were Big Spring, Phillips and Seminole.

All first round winners won with ease. The Steers stopped Brownfield's Cubs, 76-32. The Blackhawks bombarded Kermit, 72-66, and the Indians whacked the Abilene Junior Varsity, 78-56.

Breckenridge made a game of it for one quarter, holding Snyder at 13-13, but the Tigers began pressing in the second quarter and were sharp on floor shots. Bill Blum, who led Tiger scorers with 16 points, had one of his better nights. The 5-10 Senior sunk seven field shots and tipped in two on free throws. Eldon Woodward also turned in an outstanding performance for Snyder.

The Buckaroos made too many mistakes to stay in the game. They dribbled the ball too much when they could have gotten better chances to shoot with more passing. Vernon Wilson led Breckenridge scorers with 17 points.

A highlight of the first round action was the play of Big Spring's 6-9 Senior center, Paul Thomas, and Phillips' 6-7 Senior center, Mike Kimmins. Both paced the attack for their teams. Thomas sacked up 16 points for the Steers, while Kimmins garnered 29 for Phillips. The two boys were on opposing sides of the court in second round action Saturday morning. The Tigers also took on Seminole in the second round.

Sugar Ray Steals Show

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Sugar Ray Robinson stole the show from welterweight champion Emile Griffith without throwing a single punch.

Griffith retained his title with a lopsided 15-round decision over Manuel Gonzalez, a hitless wonder from Odessa, Tex., in a boring bout and immediately declared he wanted a shot at middleweight king Dick Tiger's crown.

Long before the unanimous verdict was announced, many of the 12,146 fans who paid $72,502 strolled out of Madison Square Garden Friday night to the tune of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart," as sung by the galleryites in the $3 seats.

They also sang "Deep in the Heart of Texas" and yelled for Manny to go home.

But the farewell tribute to Sugar Ray, the 45-year-old former welterweight and five-time middleweight champion, was a rousing and heart-warming success. It was show biz and saved the program.

The Garden brought in four of Robinson's middleweight title opponents, England's Randy Turpin, Gene Fullmer, Bobo Olson and Carmen Basilio, for the occasion. Sugar Ray and the four other ex-champions all stepped into the ring with robes over their ring togs.

Robinson remained in mid-ring as the others went to the four corners. The crowd applauded them all and then lifted the rafters when Sugar Ray said his farewell.

"To stand here in the middle of the ring for the last time is not goodbye but farewell to a career."

Then, first in French, and then in English, he said:

"I'll see you later."

It's a cinch the Garden fans won't be seeing Gonzalez later.

The onetime cotton picker had his big chance and blew it.

He kept on his bicycle and rarely punched as the angered champion chased him all over the ring, occasionally catching him with left hooks to the body, and left jabs and rights to the head.

Gonzalez had won a disputed, split decision over Griffith in a non-title 10-rounder in Houston Jan. 26. The fans in the Garden wondered how he even made it close the first time.

The officials voted for Griffith this way: Referee Art Mercante 9-5-1 in rounds; Judge Al Berl 11-3-1 and Judge Tony Rossi 12-3. The Associated Press had Griffith pitching a 15-0 shutout.

Boys Club Boxers Score 3 TKO's

The Scurry County Boys' Club Team boxers scored three TKO's out of four bouts with Abilene team boxers. In the only open bout Rudy Benetiz of Snyder stopped Bennie Montez in the first round. In the Novice division Johnny Gaona landed a good blow, flooring William Nelson for the count of eight but he recovered quickly and was mixing it up fast when he was suddenly upended a second time for the TKO.

Carroll Marsh, making his first appearance of this year, scored a knock down in the first round over Pete Aguero. The exchanges were hard and furious, but Carroll took charge to earn his TKO in the second round.

In a most exciting and crowd pleasing bout it was beginner J. V. James of Snyder who had the spectators roaring throughout as he lost a three round decision to Jimmy Ryan.

In the Pee Wee division, winners from Snyder over Abilene were: Felix Martinez over Paul Rodriguez, Eugene Morris over Willie Gray and Junior Rios over Altus Stokes. Tomy Smith of Snyder battled Joe Woodward to a draw and Snyder boys who lost to Abilene were: Charles Rios to Ronnie Reed, Bobby Watson to Sammie Walker, Jackie Lambert to Leringo Walker, and Alvin Porter to David Woodward.

The results of Snyder Pee Wee boxers against each other were as follows: Floyd Jackson over Joe Rios, Charles Porter over Robert Lindsey, Ruben Delao over Ronnie Porter, Clifford Johnson over Pete Rios, David Lindsey over Don Davis and Joe Garza got a split decision over Danny Monroe and Mike Lindsey and Junior Floyd fought to a draw.

Bob Mathias May Run For Congress

By STEPHEN SANGER

VISALIA, Calif. (AP) — Bob Mathias, former two-time Olympic decathlon champion, plans a return to competition. He may run for Congress.

It will be a different kind of competition for the man who sprang to world fame as a 17-year-old from Tulare, Calif., by winning the Olympic Games decathlon championship.

Mathias, 35, says he probably will announce his candidacy early in 1966. He will seek the Republican nomination in central California's 18th District.

Should he win the nomination, Bob will face a highly successful professional politician — Rep. Harlan Hagen, D-Calif. Hagen — who wins elections by big majorities — was elected in 1952 and is serving his seventh term. He is a senior member of the House Agriculture Committee and is well-known for his work on legislation in agriculture and water problems.

Mathias, if he runs, will join the increasing ranks of non-professional politicians who have entered California politics.

He is hoping to duplicate the successes of Republican Sen. George Murphy, a former Hollywood actor; and Democratic Rep. John V. Tunney, son of former heavyweight boxing champion Gene Tunney.

Actor Ronald Reagan, a Republican, is considered a front-runner for the 1966 GOP gubernatorial race, but has not announced his candidacy.

While Hagen was winning his first congressional election in 1952, Mathias was winning his second decathlon at the Olympics in Helsinki. That victory followed his Olympics triumph four years earlier in London.

Bob also played football at Stanford University and was a fullback on the 1952 Rose Bowl team.

Mathias moved to Visalia — a community near his home town of Tulare — in September to be near his Sierra Nevada boys camp.

"People kept asking me to run for Congress," he said in an interview.

"It's important to have the best men back in Washington and some people think I'm the best guy to represent them."

The 18th District comprises three agricultural counties in the southern San Joaquin Valley whose principal products are cotton, grapes and oranges and oil.

"It's like training for the Olympics," Bob said. "I want to do the best I can. It means you have to do a lot of running. I just have that certain desire. There's something inside you that makes you want to win. All athletes have the feeling that they don't feel good unless they do the best job they can.

"I think I would make a darn good congressman."

Vol, Tulsa 11's May Be Air Minded

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The University of Tennessee and Tulsa meet next Saturday in the seventh Bluebonnet Bowl in a football game that could develop into an all out passing contest.

Tulsa, making its second straight appearance in the post season game, leaves no doubt it will attempt to move the football through the air. The Hurricane features the nation's most successful college passing combination in quarterback Billy Anderson and All-America split end Howard Twilley.

Tennessee, the nation's seventh ranked team, showed it had a good passing game, too, in its season-ending victory over UCLA when sophomore quarterback Dewey Warren completed 19 out of 27 for 274 yards and two touchdowns.

Warren, a substitute quarterback who took over for the injured Charles Fulton in Tennessee's seventh game against Mississippi, gave the usually defense minded Vols a new look that may carry over into the Bluebonnet Bowl.

Johnny Mills, one of Tennessee's fine pass receivers, broke his arm in the UCLA game, but the Vols have other fine receivers in wingback Hal Wantland, tailback Walt Chadwick and end Austin Denney.

Tulsa's Anderson and Twilley finished the season with 19 NCAA records between them.

Anderson's five one season records include pass attempts with 509, completions with 296, yards with 3,464, total defense plays with 580 and total offense yards with 3,343.

Twilley, runner-up in the Heisman Trophy voting, gained every NCAA record for pass receiving and became the first lineman in history to win the scoring championship with 127 points on 16 touchdowns, 23 placekicks and four pass receiving conversions. His marks also included 134 passes caught in a season and 261 passes in a career.

Tulsa brings an 8-2 record into the game, having lost only to second ranked Arkansas and Oklahoma State.

Tennessee, also sporting an All-America in its great linebacker Frank Emanuel, finished the season with a 7-1-2 mark. The Vols' only loss was a 13-14 setback to Mississippi. They were tied by Alabama and Auburn.

Tragedy struck the Tennessee team during the season when three assistant coaches were killed in a traffic accident. The team managed to shake off the depressing effects and finish with its fine record.

This is Tulsa's eighth bowl appearance including last year's 14-7 upset of Mississippi in the Bluebonnet. The Hurricane has a 3-4 bowl mark.

Tennessee will be playing in its 12th bowl game. It has a 4-7 post season record and has appeared in all the major ones.

Tennessee and Tulsa have met one common foe this season. Tulsa defeated the University of Houston 14-0 while Tennessee beat the Cougars 17-8. The nationally televised by ABC Bluebonnet Bowl is played in the 70,000-seat Rice University Stadium. A crowd of more than 50,000 is expected.

Clash For Crown

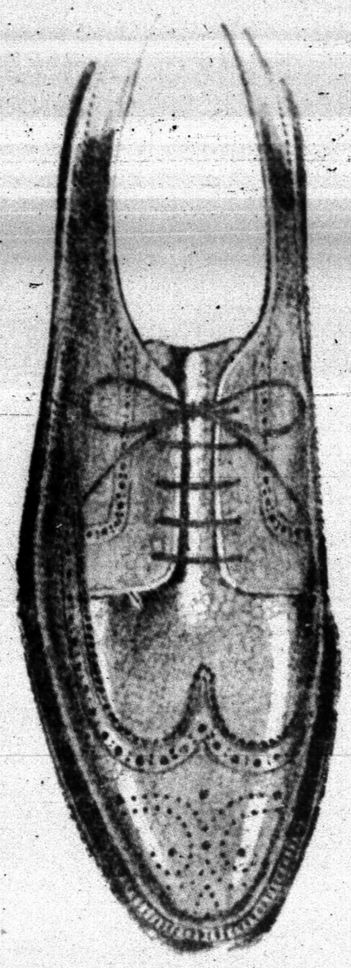

FORT WORTH (AP) — Sul Ross and Midwestern clash tonight for the championship of the Cowtown basketball tournament.

Sul Ross edged Texas Wesleyan 87-86 on Leonard Sparkman's field goal with only seven seconds left Friday night to reach the finals. Midwestern downed Lamar Tech 76-71 on Earl Beecham's 24 points.

Terp Joins Bills

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Ken Ambruski, the Buffalo Bills top future draft choice last year, was signed today by the American Football League club.

Ambruski, a 6-foot-1, 190-pound halfback from the University of Maryland, also had been a future draft choice of the National Football League Chicago Bears.

Chargers Can Wrap Up Western Crown

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The San Diego Chargers can wrap up their third consecutive Western Division championship of the American Football League at Houston Sunday but there's the strong possibility that another title would leave Coach Sid Gillman in his accustomed spot—a king without a crown.

For Gillman, the San Diego's controversial head coach, never has won enough friends and influenced enough people to win Coach of the Year honors.

Gillman, 54 and in his 31st year of coaching, both at the college level and in the pros, numbers only three losing season in his 20 years as a head coach. He also numbers such outstanding proteges as Ara Parseghian of Notre Dame, Paul Dietsel of Army and two AFL coaches—Al Davis at Oakland and Bones Taylor at Houston.

Still, there is the Gillman personality. With his bow tie bobbing on his Adam's apple, Gillman can be a charming, personable man. But when the bow tie bobs excessively, Gilliam can be a sharply, cutting man.

This is the way it will be Sunday win or lose, with the Chargers, at 7-2-3, needing either a victory or a loss by Oakland, 7-4-1, and Kansas City, 6-4-2, to clinch a return against Eastern Division champion Buffalo.

While San Diego is at Houston, Kansas City will be at Buffalo, New York at Oakland and Boston at Denver.

The Chargers have Paul Lowe, with 990 yards gained rushing, ready to become the first two-time, 1,00-yard ground gainer in AFL history, going against a Houston team that has lost five in a row. The Oilers also may be without two receivers—Charley and Willie Frazier.

The Bills will have to find a replacement for receiver Charley Ferguson but otherwise will be at full strength for the Chiefs. Kansas City has been stronger recently with quarterback Len Dawson finding the range with his passes.

Tom Flores has taken over again at quarterback for Oakland, swapping with Dick Wood, but Clem Daniels has been the key to the Raiders' late-season surge. The Jets, mauled by San Diego, 38-7 last week, may have to go without center Mike Hudock.

The Boston-Denver game matches the cellar teams in each division, the Patriots 2-8-2 in the East and the Broncos 4-8 in the West. Jim Nance and J. D. Garrett are giving Boston offensive punch on the ground but Denver has Cookie Gilchrist.

Two Strokes Separate 10

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Two strokes was the difference between 10 front-running teams going into the final round of the $125,000 PGA National Four-Ball Championship today.

In front by one stroke for $20,000 first place money were brothers Jay and Lionel Hebert, with a 54-hole total of 65-65-66—196.

Another brother combination—Jacky and Buster Cupit—and the teams of Bobby Nichols and R.H. Sikes, and Gay Brewer and Butch Baird were locked in a three-way tie at 197.

Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer, shooting better with each succeeding round, made up one of six teams two strokes back at 196.

They have been cutting a stroke a day from their game. They opened with 67, carded 66 Thursday and came home Friday with a 65.

Seek Ban On Braves

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Attorneys for the State of Wisconsin have reached for double-barrelled shotgun they hope will keep the Braves married to Milwaukee for at least another year, or force the National League to cough up a replacement franchise.

The lawyers asked Circuit Judge Elmer W. Roller Friday for an injunction to prevent the Braves from playing league home games anywhere but in Milwaukee.

The plea for a temporary restraining order also asks the judge to order the National League to come forward with expansion plans by Dec. 31 so that major league baseball can be played in Milwaukee in 1966.

The court action came after the Braves asked the judge to dismiss Wisconsin's antitrust action against the Atlanta-bound franchise and the league on grounds that the state is seeking "extraterritorial application of its laws."

The judge reserved decision on both motions. He set next Friday morning as the time for the Braves and the league to argue against the injunction bid.

Hatton Turns Down Offer

CHICAGO (AP) — The search for a Chicago White Sox manager goes on and on with Grady Hatton being the most recent to reject the job.

Hatton said in Houston, Tex., Friday he turned down a five-year contract at $35,000 a year after previously rejecting a two-year pact.

White Sox owner Arthur Allyn says it isn't so. Allyn admits having talked to Hatton about the job but that at no time did he offer a set contract.

The search for a White Sox manager is becoming almost as weird a matter as the resignation of Al Lopez. Reports kept cropping up that Lopez would not return after the season ended.

Allyn and Sox General Manager Ed Short kept denying them. Finally on Nov. 4, the Sox held a news conference at which they announced Lopez' resignation.

Since that time Mayo Smith, the New York Yankees super scout, and George Strickland, a coach with the Cleveland Indians, whave been rumored as possible successor.

Norton Cashes In

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Rick Norton, Kentucky's strong-armed quarterback, reportedly has become the second richest rookie in professional football.

The Miami Dolphins of the American Football League announced Friday they had signed Norton, their No. 1 draft choice, to direct their first team to be fielded next year.

Neither Norton nor Dolphin President Joe Robbie would discuss the price tag, but both Miami papers said it was $300,000 after-tax salary.

Last Lap Counts

BALTIMORE (AP) — Whipping and driving like the old pro he is, Angel Valenzuela rode Djezzar across the finish line first in Friday's seventh race at Pimlico, but—

There was still another lap to go.

Valenzuela later admitted he didn't realize this until the other jockeys shouted to him as he was easing his mount and they went thundering by.

He thought the event, a $3,000 turf race at 1⅛ miles, was a sprint.

BATTLING BUCKS—White Deer pinned its hopes for a second state Class A football championship on these boys, who represented the far north Panhandle community in the state semifinals football contest with Keller providing the opposition here Saturday night. The winner will meet Wills Point for the state crown. (Photo couresy of White Deer).

School Television Program To Feature Art Students

Work of Mrs. Lillian Jones' art classes will be shown and demonstrations given on Monday evening's "Know Your Schools" TV program. Several Snyder High School students will display articles that can be made and used for the Christmas holiday season.

Interested citizens of the Snyder School District and fellow students may view this program each Monday from 6:30 p.m. to 7 p.m. over Snyder Community Antenna Television company's cable, Channel 2.

"Know Your Schools" program is produced by the local schools with the idea of better acquainting people of the community with activities of the schools. It also gives Snyder High School students in-training experience in the operation of equipment and in TV program presentation.

Equipment used is owned by the schools. A large room in the Northeast Elementary school building has been converted into a studio from which the programs originate.

On Monday's feature portion of the program, Brenda Sellars will show the three wise men elaborately robed, which were only recently completed by art students working together with several members of Mrs. Helen Martin's sewing classes. The entire project, including the clay faces and hands, was constructed in art classes with sewing class students assisting in making the jeweled velvet robes and headdresses. The threesome will be displayed for the pre-holiday season period in a showcase in the corridor near the high school's main entrance.

Donna Davis will explain how to make a holiday table cloth and will display an example of work done in the classroom. Jackie Beane will demonstrate the art of making attractive outdoor decorations for the Christmas season. Julia Reon and Debbie Ginby will each show viewers original and unusual table center pieces to add charm to any home for the Yuletide season. Outstanding tree decorations have been designed and made in class. Brenda Dyess will tell of the idea behind this creative bit of work and the method of construction and materials used.

Snyder High School's art students are given instruction in oil painting; in the use of pastels; principles of free - hand drawing; ceramics; sculpturing; wood carving; and leather crafting. One-half credit is earned for each semester's work satisfactorily completed. A student may earn as high as three credits during the three years of senior high school.

Art is taught in the Snyder High School for everyone, not only the gifted few. Classes are for each and every student who wishes to take advantage of the instruction in any one of the several phases of the art program.

One of the purposes of art in the local school is to help develop whatever talent a student might have, but more than this, it is the intent of the school's program to develop art appreciation in each student availing himself of this instruction. In doing this, the school's program planners believe the individual learner will gain a greater personal satisfaction throughout life in viewing the art work of others, and will be able to enjoy the fruits of his own creativeness and abilities to a much greater degree.

It is the belief of those in charge of curriculum planning and of the high school art instructor that all can enjoy art in one form or another, and that all should develop a vital interest in this creative field. They believe that beside helping a person to realize more fully his potential as an individual, art instruction can prove rewarding through a lifetime, spiritually and practically, in both work and as a recreational activity.

Art classes in the local school provide acquaintance with three dimensional design to broaden the pupil's creative experiences; to challenge ability to construct; to relate form, materials and color; to use the imagination, and to develop further concepts of solid forms and spaces.

Mrs. Jones' students are encouraged to express original ideas. They are given an opportunity to develop an understanding of arrangement of detail — design. They learn the importance of balance — the arranging in proper relationships of objects as complimentary parts of a structure.

The school's art study courses are designed to expand the student's imagination, extend the ability to think and judge, and to increase awareness of the beauty in nature and in man made objects and structures. Classes are intended to develop creative thinking on the part of the individual student; evolve satisfaction through self expression and attainment, and increase memory for both color variations and contrasts, and for the detail of design and form.

Art has no language barrier. It is universally appreciated and understood by many. The trained observer and those with an innate ability to perceive can admire and be keenly aware of art's sometimes subtle intention and connotation.

In the early ages of man, before the written word was developed as a means of communication and self expression, he relied on art forms to record his experiences and left the only existing traces of the history of his early civilization. Living under severe conditions, there was much he could tell through crude images chiseled in rocks about the things that pleased or excited him and of hardships experienced that troubled him. Early man made drawings of what he did and expressed visually his hopes, his fears and his reactions to his environment and his life. Throughout the ages, it is such promptings as that of early man that make art expressions and art forms lasting.

Since true art is an expression of an artist's feelings — his beliefs, fears, hopes and often affords a record of his time — those who have learned to view a work of art without prejudice gain greater satisfaction from its portrayal, Snyder High School's art instructor maintains.

Mrs. Jones expresses her thoughts of what art classes should do for her students, in this way, "We all have within us a treasure chest which contains undeveloped qualities. These are hidden abilities, aptitudes, and interests. It is for each of us to discover these qualities, to exercise and strengthen them. The field of art gives each person this needed opportunity for self exploration. To make our contribution to art, and to learn to appreciate the art expressions of others, we must be ready to approach all its phases with an active and inquiring mind and forget prejudices. To know and to understand art in its many forms brings lasting pleasure. This pleasure grows richer and fuller as we grow in understanding. Some of us are active artists who create. Others are passive artists who understand and appreciate the work of others."

Speech students from Gerald Gafford's classes will bring news from all schools in the system. Reporters for the 10 minute newscast will include Dean Kaplan, high school news; Lloyd Potts, covering both junior high schools; Dennis Hammon, bringing items of interest from the seven elementary schools including special education. Mike Stephens will be master of ceremonies for the complete 30 - minute program and will give news from the school's administration and of the school board. News items are gathered each week by members of the high school journalism classes under the direction of Miss Carolyn Payne.

Equipment will be operated this week by four high school junior class members, Herbert Eades, Douglas Burney, Glenn Arnold and Tom Lowe, and by Bobby Wesson, a senior classman. Eades and Burney will operate cameras; Arnold will have charge of mikes; Lowe will take care of slide projector operations, and Wesson will continue to keep close check on audio.

Daniel R. Martin, director of instructional materials for the schools, supervises the complete TV operation. Ed Phy, Travis Junior High school Audio - Visual department head, is the TV program director. Coy Thompson, SCAT employee, stands by as a trouble shooter.

Answers to why music plays an important part in the curriculum of elementary schools in the Snyder school system will be given on the "Know Your Schools" program for Monday evening, Dec. 20, by Mrs. Mary Beth Vestal, music director for East Elementary school. Several members of the East Elementary choral group will be on hand to sing Christmas carols.

AS TWO YOUNG AMERICANS who become involved in a Scotland Yard investigation in London, Carol Lynley and Keir Dullea are starred with Laurence Olivier and Noel Coward as Wilson in the new Otto Preminger suspense drama, "Bunny Lake is Missing." It is coming to the Palace Theater here Sunday, Dec. 19.

Nancy Walker In Directing Debut

By WILLIAM GLOVER
Associated Press Drama Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Nancy Walker was wearing work gear — jeans, bulky pullover, ex-white sneakers — and the unswerving look of a housewife on Monday morning.

"When the curtain goes up opening night, I know I'll faint," she said, but you knew that was about as likely as Liz Taylor playing Lady Macbeth.

Over at a littered table on the edge of the rehearsal hall she consulted the script through big, black-rimmed glasses. Then she waved over one of the cast, whispered in his ear. A moment later, she went into a "like this" bit for some of the other performers.

Miss Walker, sometimes cheered as one of the show world's funniest comediennes, was well into another drill of the play that marks her metamorphosis into Nancy Walker, Broadway director.

The debut venture is "UBTU," a satiric farce due at the Helen Hayes Theater on Jan. 4. Immediately after that she tackles a trio of short plays by novelist Saul Bellow for off-Broadway exhibit.

As fans of the stocky little star are well aware, she's been itching for such a chance for several years — mostly in the hope that employment would thereby increase.

"I didnt swear off acting. I just got bored to death," declares Miss Walker, who last performed on Broadway in 1961's "Do-Re-Mi." That was just 20 years after she first set the public cheering as a lass of 19 in "Best Foot Forward."

"Everything that's offered is just repetition of what I've done before, and I'm getting too old to sit around waiting for the part to come along."

A couple of times in recent seasons she almost got started as a director, but the projects were shelved.

After a bit of of-the-record emergency staging for one enterprise, she publicly tested her ability last spring in a workshop production of two of the Bellow scripts.

Dropping in at one of the invitation-only performances was Jack Kirkwood, an actor turned novelist.

"He was an old friend and after the performance he said he'd just written a play that he'd like me to read. So I did and flipped. It's wild — that's why I wanted to direct it."

The fanciful motion of the comedy concerns a secret organization whose members go about the world cheerily eliminating all ill-humored folk. The title condenses the outfit's slogan that it is "Unhealthy To Be Unpleasant."

The cast includes an impressive assortment of talents including Tony Randall, Thelma Ritter, Alan Webb and Margaret Hamilton. Such performers, says Miss Walker, are for her. She has no desire to guide beginners.

FRANK SINATRA stars in Von Ryan's Express, a war drama in color, which is coming soon to the Tiger Drive In Theater here.

2 Producers Moonlight As Actors

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bart Patton and Len Weinrib are unique movie producers.

When they aren't writing, producing and directing movies at Universal, they act in television commercials.

"I don't think any other producer can make that statement," says Weinrib who started in this business as a comic.

Patton started as a clown.

Both have had years of experience, but Patton is only 26 — Weinrib 30.

Both studied cinema arts at UCLA. Earlier this year they formed a partnership, found themselves an angel and made a movie called "Beach Ball" for $119,000.

The movie, with its teen-age appeal, made its negative costs back in Los Angeles alone.

When that word leaked out, Universal quickly signed them to a fat contract.

So far they have completed one movie called "Out of Sight" and are writing a sequel called "Out of Mind."

As producers they share equal status at the studio with such big names as Ross Hunter and Alfred Hitchcock.

They have plush offices with pretty secretaries and all the other accessories.

Being so young among all the older producers gives the boys another advantage.

"We are left completely alone. All the studio bosses admit they don't understand teenagers," says Weinrib. "They figure we do.

Accordingly, they have a good time making movies.

Keeps Fit Climbing Famed Monument

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gustav A. Hergert, 75, says his almost daily ascents and descents of the Washington Monument's 898 steps keep him fit as the proverbial fiddle.

He says he has done it 998 times. He goes today for 999.

"I'll do it 2,000 times if my strength holds out," Hergert vows. He says it takes him about 18 minutes to go up and about 12 to 15 minutes to come down the 555-foot-plus obelisk. It keeps him in shape for his first love — hiking, he says.

He also swims a mile a day at the YMCA when the water in the indoor pool is not too cold. When it is, he limits himself to half a mile.

More Texans Are Working

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Employment Commission reports an increase in both non-farm and agricultural job placements during the state fiscal year that ended Aug. 31.

The commission, in its annual report, said non-farm placements rose from 518,021 to 543,485 and farm placements increased from 363,348 to 395,192.

The agency also reported it had uncovered $131,310 in fraudulent unemployment insurance payments to 1,535 persons. Criminal charges were filed against 415 claimants and financial penalties were imposed on all the fraudulent claimants, the commission said.

The $51.3 million paid out during the year in unemployment benefits represented a decline of 14 per cent from fiscal 1964, the report said.

Plan Cuts Vandalism

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials report that window breakage has been cut in half at nine Washington schools landscaped through Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's beautification program.

Walter Washington, executive director of the National Capital Housing Authority and a member of Mrs. Johnson's beautification committee, said Friday that as a result 52 more district schools want to get in on the program.

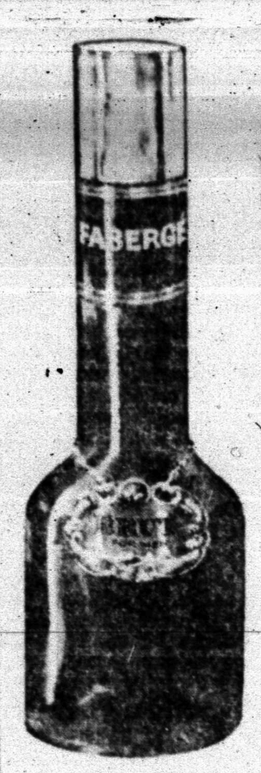

"We are finding," Washington said, "that the whole beautification program has a dimension far beyond planting." He said that school children who have helped to landscape their schools care more about taking care of them.

Window breakage last year cost $119,320 in the District of Columbia schools.

Santa and the Zabbazara Bus

BY LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: Mr. D's bus breaks through a frozen lake at the bottom of a cliff in Santa Claus Land. A strange monster lifts the broken bus and its occupants out of the lake.

CHAPTER SIX
THE FABULOUS DUNKLEBUM

"Hooray! We're safe!" cried the little lost boy as the shining monster deposited the bus on dry land.

The crocodile shook her head admiringly. She said she had never met so strong and brave a creature as the monster and if she had not been so ugly she would have kissed him to show her gratitude.

Lights all along the beast's arms blinked and fluttered with embarrassment. "I am ugly myself," he said. "As you can plainly see."

Well, he certainly wasn't handsome. He had a flat mushy face like a smashed-in tomato. He was fat and stooped and his many glittering arms hung from his shoulders like willow tree branches.

"What are you?" gasped Mr. D, striving with all his might to see out of his poor crossed eyes.

"I'm the friendless Fabulous Dunklebum," said the creature in his tiny squeaky voice. "I'm the only one of my kind. I've lived all my life at the bottom of this cliff, where I can hide my lights in a cave so I won't frighten anyone."

"I think you are gorgeous," said the crocodile trying to hide her missing teeth.

"You have magic, too," said the donkey—"Those lights are very magical! In fact I think you have more magic than anyone I've ever seen."

"Except the Voodoo man!" exclaimed the little boy. "And now the Voodoo man is going to get Santa Claus!"

Mr. D shook his head. "Not yet. We may still get there in time. We can fix the bus by the light of the Fabulous Dunklebum!"

He told the creature of the Voodoo man, who was off to cast a spell over Santa Land. The Fabulous Dunklebum turned on all his lights as high as they would go. They lit up the whole mountainside.

Mr. D got out his tool box. It was filled with bobby pins and rubber bands and fingernail files and chewing gum that Mr. D had used to repair the bus a hundred times before. They found the two missing wheels and hammered them back on with the crocodile's tail. They fastened on the bent and broken fenders with bandage strips.

"She's good as new!" said Mr. D finally.

"Oh, hurry, hurry!" cried the little boy. "Let's go!"

They said goodbye to the Fabulous Dunklebum and thanked him for all he's done. Then they all got on the bus and Mr. D started her up. The engine gave one gasp and quit. There wasn't any gas. It had leaked out of the punctured tank.

Mr. D groaned. The Zabbazara's bus was useless. They would never get to Santa before Voodoo man, and Santa Land would go under a spell forever.

But even as Mr. D. groaned, he felt the bus jerk. The little boy cried, "He's carrying us again!"

Sure enough, the Fabulous Dunklebum had lifted the bus in his long swinging arms and was carrying it slowly up the steep mountainside.

Tomorrow: Santa Land.

Mr. D got out his tool box to fix the broken bus.

Santa Claus Phone Is Set Up Again

Santa Claus will be answering telephone calls here again this year through the cooperation of Snyder Jaycees and Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

Local calls to Santa may be placed between the hours of 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. Dec. 13 through Dec. 18. The telephone number for Santa Claus is HI 3-4691, but youngsters are cautioned that he will answer the phone in Snyder only during the designated hours.

Firm Still Open Following Blaze

Art Roberts, operator of Joe Graham Cleaners, in the 2400 block of Avenue S, said the firm is still in business although a fire last week caused extensive damage to the building.

"We've moved our call office next door south, at 2419 Avenue S," stated the manager.

Fire of undetermined origin filled four buildings in the block with smoke. Firemen said the blaze apparently began in a restroom in the rear of the cleaning establishment. There were no injuries in the fire.

Coeds Stir Trouble In Indian Tribe

By JAMES R. POLK

RED CLIFF, Wis. (AP) — Indian elders ordered two young coeds off their reservation today in an uprising over the federal government's new domestic Peace Corps program.

Although threatened with jail, the two volunteers vowed to remain.

"We want very much to stay here. We feel we are needed," said Judy Rothman, 20, a member of Volunteers in Service to America—VISTA. The other girl is Jill Hunt, 22, of Kewanee, Ill.

A member of the tribe, Mrs. Henry Bresette, charged: "They've disrupted the whole community. They destroyed two programs that would have been of benefit to everyone."

The dispute flamed over the two volunteers' creation of a youth club while tribal elders preferred that they operate a nursery program so Indian mothers could seek jobs to help the reservation's pinched economy.

A new padlock to keep the girls out was placed Wednesday on the small, cement-block community hall on the Red Cliff Indian reservation, a cold strip of land jutting into Lake Superior 50 miles east of Duluth, Minn.

Swiss Suffragettes Predict The Time Will Come To Vote

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

GENEVA (AP) — In his Alpine bastion in the heart of Europe, the Swiss male has forthied himself against a dangerous foreign import — women's vote.

His fortress is not impregnable. Some dents have been made in it. Hard-working suffragettes predict that perhaps by 1970 Swiss women may win the right already granted ladies of Upper Volta and Burundi, in Africa.

Since 1919, the tradition-minded Swiss men have calmly voted "no" 23 times to projects for their women's political emancipation.

"Let them be women, they have plenty to do as it is," is the typical reaction of the average Swiss burgher.

Swiss arguments against women's vote are threefold:

—Politics will split marriages if husband and wife vote for different candidates.

—Women will vote as the clergy tells them to.

—Only left-wing women would bother to vote and pretty soon Switzerland would be submerged by communism.

However, suffragettes and their backers have made some headway. In a 1959 referendum, three cantons (administrative areas) accorded women the right to vote on local issues.

Oddly enough, there is a federation of Swiss women against female suffrage. It has vowed to defend Switzerland against women's vote — "this dangerous foreign import."

"The great majority of Swiss women see absolutely no violation of human rights in the fact that they have no right to vote," said the federation in a recent statement.

The federation's president, Gertrud Haldimann-Weiss, believes women voters would hamper rather than advance the cause of Swiss democracy.

"By obtaining voting rights, women would lose their natural prerogatives," she says. "The political indifference of a great number of women would hinder the functioning of direct democracy which we enjoy and would ultimately diminish our rights."

Mrs. Haldimann-Weiss believes in another solution — a Swiss solution.

"It is quite possible that in Switzerland the misguided emancipation scheme can be replaced by a solution more in the spirit of Swiss mentality, for instance by according women more say in the matters of education and welfare."

Versatile Artist Dickinson In Retrospective Exhibit

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — The Whitney Museum of American Art has provided an opportunity for art lovers to see a big show of all those painters who are named Edwin Dickinson.

Of course there really is only one.

But some visitors to the Dickinson retrospective exhibit, will be impressed by the artist's versatility. It seems that he is as adept in one style as in another.

His great range has been developed in more than half a century of painting — he was 74 last month — but it has been only in recent years that real recognition has come his way.

It was in the 1950's, when several of his major works went to the Museum of Modern Art, Cornell University, the Metropolitan Museum, the Sara Roby Foundation and the Whitney Museum, that he gained top rank.

As the show opened, Columbia University announced that Dickinson had been given the $1,000 Brevoort — Eickemeyer Prize for 1965. The award is made every five years, the winner being selected by the National Academy of Design.

There are 144 paintings, drawings and watercolors, most of which demonstrate at a glance that Dickinson is a representational painter, meaning he has ignored the abstract trend of recent years.

When he chooses, he can fool the eye as sharply as anyone. Yet these realistic images seem to be only a way of getting on to greater considerations.

Mostly these considerations are the importance of form and color, as a means of creating dynamic designs. This is especially true of his show pieces.

But in many of his smaller works — including watercolors and pencil sketches — he has dealt with shapes that are almost abstract. This is particularly true of the sea and outdoor pieces he was doing on Cape Cod in the 1930s.

In his informal works the artist often likes to use a window as the main element in his composition. The viewer is reminded of Andrew Wyeth. But in Dickinson's case the painter is interested in making a quick study of a succession of planes.

Lloyd Goodrich, director of the museum, wrote the monograph which appears in the exhibition catalogue, and sums up Dickinson's unique position:

"He is a representational painter who uses reality with the utmost freedom, a traditionalist who is entirely unacademic, and imaginative creator who embodies his visions in naturalistic imagery. A complete individualist, he has evolved his highly personal art without regard for the trends of the moment."

The show brings together all the landmarks of his career, including "An Anniversary" of 1921, now in the Albright - Knox Gallery, and "The Cello Player" of 1924-26, now in the collection of the Sara Roby Foundation.

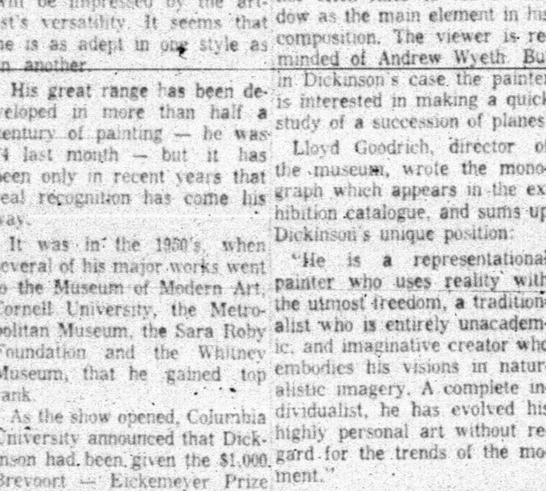

"The Fossil Hunters," painted in 1926-28, now the property of large canvases to intensify one of the trends of Dickinson's work — the use of dream imagery.

At first the viewer may think of surrealism. But this artist was not interested in psychological themes; he was interested in the juxtaposition of the "real", and the "unreal." Usually this means several floating human figures in an unreal light, with a fool-the-eye still life in the foreground.

This sequence includes "Woodland Scene" of 1929-35, belonging to Cornell, and "Composition With Still Life" of 1933-37, now owned by the Museum of Modern Art.

Perhaps the most unusual large canvas is a vivid study of architectural perspective, titled "Ruin at Baphne;" which belongs to the Metropolitan Museum. Dickinson worked on it for nine years, starting in 1943, and never did complete the outer edges.

Dickinson is a fine draftsman who enjoys making small, exact sketches, often showing a commonplace object in a new perspective. His landscapes sometimes are as quick and free as an impressionist's. He never liked portrait commissions, though he could do them well, and often has made informal pictures of his friends. Self - portraits were a sort of hobby with him, and several are in the show.

Dunns To Observe Golden Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. J. Nelson Dunn will be honored with an open house at the home of their daughter, Mrs. C. D. Reon, 4008 Austin Avenue, on their 50th wedding anniversary December 19th.

A cordial invitation is extended to all friends to call between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m.

ON THE HOUSE

Look at the siding on a house these days and you can't tell whether it is made of wood or aluminum or plastic or cottage cheese.

Factory - applied paint coatings give a look - alike appearance to most sidings, no matter what they're made of — and there are very few materials that haven't found their way into the building market as residential siding. The theory seems to be that home owners are willing to use almost any material if they're convinced of its advantages, but they still don't want it to look too individual.

A familiar material gaining popularity as a house siding is galvanized steel, clothed in acrylic enamel colors of white, ivory, biege, yellow, light blue, gray and green. The panels are 12½ feet long and 8 inches wide, with a thickness of .017 inches. Because they weigh only 6½ pounds each, they can be handled by a single installer, either a professional or a do-it-yourselfer.

The manufacturers of steel siding guarantee the surface against chipping, peeling and flaking for 20 years. They say such a guarantee is possible because of the zinc coating on the steel. If the surface of galvanized steel is scratched, exposing the bare steel, zinc has the unique quality of "healing" over the exposed surface to protect it. This attribute has given zinc the nickname of "a sacrificial metal." The protective phenomenon occurs even after the zinc - coated panels have been painted.

Steel siding is naturally termite - proof. Also, say its adherents, it expands so slightly that rapid temperature changes do not cause it to produce strange noises. Because of its ability to withstand impacts, it does not require "backer boards" during installation.

Home handymen capable of installing siding can get instructions on the minor changes necessary for the use of galvanized steel, such as the importance of using zinc - coated nails and the grounding of the lowest course with copper wire.

QUESTION: We have kitchen chairs with seats and backs of a vinyl material in red. We have changed the decor of our kitchen and would like to make the chair seats and backs a bright yellow, but have been told that ordinary paint will not last very long on a surface that will be sat upon and leaned against. Is this true? Is it necessary to give the surface special preparation? How many coats are needed?

ANSWER: The successful painting of a vinyl material which gets hard wear, such as seat cushions and backs, requires the use of a special flexible paint in the plastic family. This paint is made by several manufacturers. The type we have had experience with comes in a kit that contains a bottle of paint, a bottle of cleaner-conditioner and a small, bristle brush.

The first step is to clean the old surface thoroughly with the cleaner - conditioner. When the material is completely dry, the first coat of paint is applied with the bristle brush. Allow to dry overnight, then apply the second coat. In most cases, two very light color is being applied coats are sufficient. But when a very light color is being applied over a dark color, such as in your case, a third coat may be necessary.

The chairs should be set aside and not used for at least one day, two if possible, although the paint actually is dry to the touch a short time after it has been applied. For extra durability, a clear coating can be sprayed on in either a gloss or matte finish. The same cleaner - conditioner used to prepare the surface is also a solvent; it therefore can be used as a brush cleaner or to remove the flexible paint color if desired at any time in the future.

Painter Who Loves Country

CREATURES AND CONTENTMENTS. By Barbara Webster.

The gentle pleasures of country living have been sung so many times, and in so many melodious keys, that many readers have made large collections of these rural paeans.

Miss Webster's "ruminations" as she calls them, deserve to be included in such collections, mainly because they contain a painter's reactions to the joys and tribulations of the country-side.

The creatures she writes about include a Great Dane who was a vigorous hunter of ground hogs, and a tame squirrel capable of forecasting snowstorms. The author likes birds, but is disturbed by the noise of "grackle - cackle."

Some of her essays celebrate the enchantment of the country kitchen and some of the triumphs of the cookstove, an occasional mistake, too, for once she made a pie of horse nettles, thinking they were ground cherries. One of her adventures was to discover that her neglected strawberry bed and some of the wandering patches of wild strawberries on her land had combined to create a new hybrid.

Her powers of observation are strong, as when she spied the imprint of a pheasant's wing, like a phantom fern, on the surface of the snow.

St. Johns Bay Rum
made from the original Virgin Island formula
St. Johns Bay Rum is carefully distilled and blended from the oil in the leaves of bay trees—not a product of modern chemistry. Such trees are found in abundance in the Virgin Islands. Its spicy—though subtle—aroma is thoroughly masculine. After shave or bath it tingles the skin, then soothes it to a blissful refreshment. Packaged in a hand-woven palm frond jacket and available at fine shops. Eight ounces, three dollars, sixteen ounces, four dollars and fifty cents—plus tax.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Patterson and Larry particularly enjoyed turkey this year. It was one they bagged on a recent hunting trip near Medina where they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Morris Miller at their ranch. One of the turkeys was prepared by Mr. Patterson's mother, Mrs. Ellen Patterson, for Thanksgiving. Mrs. Victor Baze of Snyder joined them for the meal.

Also making the hunting trip to Medina was Harry Kingston. The members of the hunting party also brought back some deer. Mrs. Patterson said they were royally entertained by the Millers who served some unusual barbecue meals while there.

The Young Couples Bridge Club was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Sid Long of Gail for the November party at the Community Center. Six tables of bridge players met. Mr. and Mrs. Dick Jones were guests. Mrs. Long served a variety of snacks and dips during the evening.

The group all had supper with the McDonalds Saturday night. They also visited with other relatives in the area, including Mr. and Mrs. Frank Beaver, Mr. and Mrs. Alf Beaver, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Beaver, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee Beaver.

The Fowler Mathis home was the scene of their annual family reunion on Thanksgiving Day. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wayland Mathis, Lou Alice and Mark, all of Union; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hurley and Tom, San Antonio; Mr. and Mrs. Jake Ross, Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Oryal Mathis, Debbie, Marsha and Dow. Painter Copley Had Psychological Eye

AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — The interesting thing about the current exhibit of John Singleton Copley paintings is that it gives everyone an opportunity to see the contrasts between his American colonial career and his later English period.

Many of us have a devoted admiration for the splendid portraits he did in the two decades before he left Boston in 1774 for England, where in another four decades he became first a major figure in the English style, and then a declining master.

Copley undoubtedly was the greatest American painter of the 18th Century, and it was nearly a hundred years before any other Americans — Winslow, Eakins — could reach his level.

Here in America we cherish the magic presence which he gave to his portraits, especially in the late 1760s and early 1770s, and look down our noses at the status - type history pieces and very chi-chi portraits which he did later in London.

But there are some scholars who find an equal interest in his overlooked English period, and among them is Prof. Jules David Prown of Yale, who has written the catalog text for his show.

It is an exhibit that was at the National Gallery of Art in Washington this fall, will be at the Metropolitan Museum of Art here through Jan. 2, and then will be shown at the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston, Jan 22-March 6. This is the first big Copley show since the one in Boston in 1938.

It is filled with contrasts, and is a full documentation of the artist's career. It shows the self - taught Boston youngster coming out of primitive limning very quickly, into a powerful period of exact realism — when he scarcely knew how expert he was, in his naive obesiance to the history painters in far-off London.

Then there is the English period, in which he forsook perceptive realism for the brush-stroke bravado of the British sophisticates, sometimes matching the best of their dash, sometimes not. Awed by the grand notions of the day about history, he often fell into pompous cliches in his oversize examples of fashionable kudos.

Shortly after he had reached London, he had a topical success with "Watson and the Shark," a journalistic treatment of an incident, and another with "The Death of the Earl of Chatham." But when he labored over a royal picture, "The Daughters of George III" he apparently overreached himself in aping British corn, and was scorned for too much schmaltz.

It all comes down to the fact that in his later colonial years, before he was stricken with the bug of high fashion, Copley was a master of the character portrait. (And wasn't Rembrandt?)

Copley had a genius for seeing inside people.

It may be an oversimplification, but at least it seems valid to say that the portraits of his later colonial period raise in the viewer's mind the response, "What an interesting person!" while his English period seems devoted to the response, "How well this man paints." There is a world of difference in these responses.

As Prown says of the late period in pre-Revolutionary Boston, "One of the most remarkable characteristics of his portraits of this period is the sense of presence, the physical entity and the personality of the sitter.

That is true of many Copley pictures. In the late 1750s he was capturing the engaging likenesses of Mary and Elizabeth Royall, and the rugged integrity of Epes Sargent. In the 1760s he caught on canvas a Rembrandt personality in his portrait of Mrs. Thomas Boylston. In the 1770s he gave reality to Mrs. Humphrey Devereaux and painted his doubly remarkable picture of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Mifflin.

His psychological eye still was exact in London of the 1780s, when he did the smashing English - type portrait, "Midshipman Augustus Brine" and such beautifully English pieces as "Mrs. Daniel Denison Rogers."

There are about 125 paintings, pastels, miniatures, drawings and oil sketches in this exhibit, about equally balanced between the colonial and English periods. They include some of his drawing and sketches prepared for major works.

When you see all these pictures, look especially at his works of the 1770s. That was when he used his wonderfully exact technique, unencumbered by painterly self - consciousness, to show the world what he saw in the people who sat for his portraits.

Friday-Type Souffle, Airy

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

IF FISH DAY comes to your house at least once a week, and if you and your family deserves a change from the usual offerings, you may want to try your hand at a tuna souffle.

Souffle dishes are widely available nowadays. The big difference between them and other casseroles is that souffle dishes are made in ovenproof earthenware and have straight sides. The earthenware provides the environment needed for even baking; the straight sides help the souffle rise to considerable heights — as it should.

Souffle dishes are a good investment because they may be used in various ways. For example, they're great for cold souffles, for meat pies, for certain puddings (main course and dessert) — all preparations that need to be brought to the table in the dish in which they are made.

The important point about a souffle is to beat the egg whites so that they hold plenty of air — but not so much that they lose their smoothness and become what is called "dry." In France, the home of the souffle, egg whites are usually beaten by hand in an unlined copper bowl with a balloon-type metal whip. But beating the egg whites with an electric beater, as we usually do in this country, will produce good results — if you do not overbeat.

Souffles benefit from being served with a sauce. However, offering a creamed vegetable instead of a sauce is one way of getting around this. Let the vegetable do double - duty

TUNA SOUFFLE

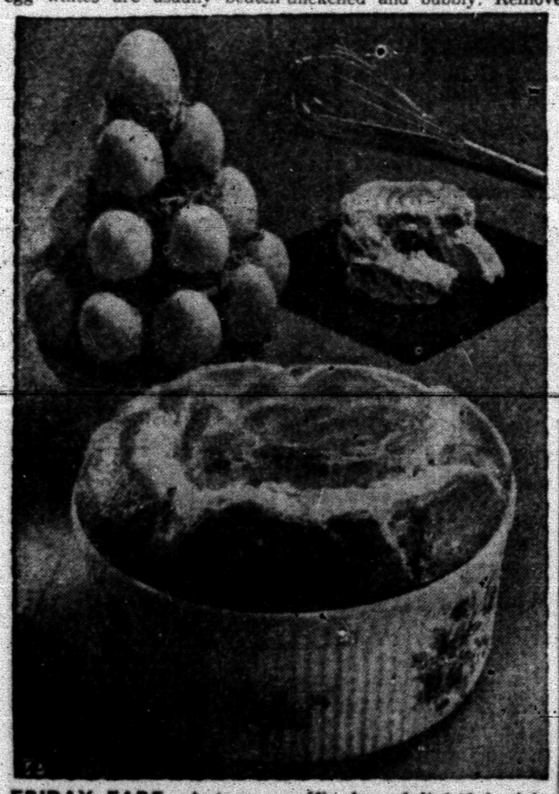

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons minced celery
4 tablespoons all - purpose flour
1 cup milk
1 can (6½ to 7 ounces) light-colored or white tuna, drained and flaked
½ teaspoon lemon juice
⅛ teaspoon pepper
4 eggs (separated) plus 1 extra egg white

Butter a 1½ - quart souffle dish.

In a medium saucepan over low heat, melt the butter; add the onion and celery; cook until softened. Add the flour and stir to blend; add milk; over moderately low heat, cook and stir constantly until smooth, thickened and bubbly. Remove from heat; stir in the flaked tuna, lemon juice and pepper. Beat the 4 egg yolks until they begin to thicken and become lighter colored; gradually stir in the sauce. Let stand while you are attending to the egg whites.

With a clean beater, beat the 5 egg whites just until they hold stiff straight peaks when the beater is slowly raised. Add a small portion of the tuna mixture and fold in thoroughly; add the remaining egg whites and fold in quickly and lightly. Turn into the prepared souffle dish. Bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven until the souffle has risen above the rim of the souffle dish and is lightly browned — 35 minutes. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

The souffle will taste best if it is accompanied by a sauce — one made with mushrooms is a good choice.

FRIDAY FARE—A tuna souffle has delightful airiness, but it also provides enough flavor and substance to please the man in the family.

Baked Fillets With Tomato Sauce

5 large fillets (flounder or similar variety), about 2 pounds
Salt
¼ cup butter
¾ cup each chopped onion and celery
½ cup chopped green pepper
1 can (10 ¾ ounces) condensed tomato soup, undiluted
1 cup tomato juice
¾ teaspoon chili powder
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Dry fish on paper towel; sprinkle with salt; roll up each fillet and secure with wooden picks; place in a buttered baking dish (about 10 by 10 by 2 inches). In a 10-inch skillet over low heat melt the butter; add onion, celery and green pepper; cook and stir occasionally until partly softened — about 10 minutes. Mix in remaining ingredients; pour over fish. Cover tightly with foil; chill. At serving time, remove foil and bake in a moderate (375 degrees) oven until fish is cooked through and sauce is bubbly hot — about 30 minutes. Remove wooden picks. Makes 5 servings.

Sea Master Stand Forth

THE STRODE VENTUERER
By Hammond Innes.

This is a sea adventure, combined with a story of a fight for control of a London shipping firm.

It is narrated by Geoffrey Bailey, a British naval officer who is bitter over the memory of how his father's maritime concern had been wrecked and taken over by a rapacious tycoon named Strode.

But now the house of Strode, run by two stick - in - the - mud sons, has gone into a decline and there is a chance that it will be taken over by a financial combine seeking only to milk it of its assets.

The key to this corporate drama is a young half - brother, Peter Strode, a nonconformist with a habit of wandering remote seas and jungles. Bailey finds himself making a deal with the Strode management to find young Peter and bring him back to London.

So the scene shifts to the Indian Ocean. Peter has become interested in a small colony of natives on a tropical atoll, and has made a secret discovery of mineral wealth in their midst. Bailey's search for Peter takes him into some wild dangers of the sea.

Innes is an adept weaver of narrative and color, and this novel is a diverting adventure in itself.

Ayub To Test Charm On Americans

By CONRAD FINK

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Pakistan's president, Mohammed Ayub Khan, for years charmed Americans with his robust good looks and smiling frankness. In the next few days he will learn if he still has that old magic.

Ayub, who carries himself like the ramrod army officer he used to be, travels to the United States to voice his nation's case. President Johnson is making a personal examination of American foreign policy toward South Asia.

Their meeting is regarded in this part of the world as a potentially explosive confrontation between two strong-willed men who once had much in common but now see global affairs in different lights.

Asia will be alert to what Johnson has to say to Ayub, who dared unleash anti-Americanism in his country and flirt with Red China while accepting millions in U.S. economic aid and arming with American weapons gained under the SEATO and CENTO military alliances.

Of equal interest in Asia will be Johnson's meeting, tentatively scheduled to follow in the next month or so, with Ayub's foe, the deceptively soft-spoken prime minister of India, Lal Bahadur Shastri.

There has been suspicion here for a long time that Johnson is somehow different from past U.S. presidents who poured money into this area, and may be considering a fundamental change in American dealings with India and Pakistan.

This is extremely important to the Indians and Pakistanis because their nations have received, respectively, more than $6 billion and $5 billion in United States aid.

The feeling that a shift may be in the wind was heightened with widespread circulation of a United States Information Service dispatch from Austin, Tex. It could be regarded as Johnson's official tipoff on what the ground rules will be for his coming talks.

The dispatch, written by "a White House correspondent," began:

"President Lyndon B. Johnson thinks American relations with India and Pakistan must be thoroughly reappraised before large scale American aid (curtailed during the war between these two nations in September) can be resumed."

Johnson, it added, looks forward to "plain talks" on three points:

— The United States will have to be convinced India and Pakistan will keep the peace;

— Both nations should "appreciate" America's efforts to defend democracy in Asia;

— Both must agree to use American aid effectively to reach that stage, still distant, where they will be economically self-reliant.

Ayub, who recently has been moderating his anti-American speeches in apparent preparation for the meeting, has indicated he too has three major points to raise:

— United States economic and military aid should be resumed to protect America's already huge stake in the future of Pakistan's 110 million people;

— Pakistan's flirtation with Red China might have looked serious but now is under control;

— In recognition of this, the United States should use its influence to press Shastri into a conclusive settlement of the Pakistan-India quarrel over possession of the Himalayan state of Kashmir.

The Indians argue precisely the opposite on all three points, so the United States is in for more of the squeeze plays that have marked its efforts to play both sides in this fraticidal Indian-Pakistan quarrel for 18 years.

Viet War Stirs Conflicts In Varied, Far-Flung Places

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The diplomatic conflict arising out of the war in Viet Nam ranges over a far broader front than the military struggle.

It extends from Peking to Washington and from Moscow to London with almost every important capital in the world involved. It widens the splits that already exist between nations, magnifies old disputes and feeds global fear of nuclear war.

Red China has used the conflict to try to wrest Communist leadership away from the Soviet Union, especially in Asia and Africa. Soviet leaders have seized on North Viet Nam's need for arms in an effort to break China's grip on the Communist leaders at Hanoi.

The United States, supported by many of its allies and opposed by France, is fighting in Viet Nam not only to bar Communist conquest but also to show that "wars of liberation" elsewhere don't pay.

The chain reactions to the conflict seem endless. The East-West dispute; the splits within the Western and Communist blocs, the dissensions between the big powers and the newer and weaker countries are tied into a pattern of competing, and sometimes contradictory, interests in a sharpened struggle for power and position.

Yet most Western diplomats here agree that if the Vietnamese war could be ended tomorrow, the world might be an easier place to live in but very few of its real problems would disappear.

If the war goes on — and Johnson administration leaders expect it will go on for many months yet — some parallel issues may be negotiated in spite of Viet Nam. Both Soviet and American diplomats believe, for example, that the Vietnamese crisis is not the major block to progress between the two big nuclear powers on disarmament.

Militarily, the Vietnamese war is a small war; mainly involving only the United States and the two Viet Nams. But in U.S.-Soviet relations the Vietnamese war may well be the true reason why Kremlin leaders rejected President Johnson's bid last January for an exchange of visits. That has been the explanation consistently put forward by the Soviets.

The Vietnamese war also is blamed by the Soviets, but not so generally by American officials, for blocking progress in disarmament negotiations. Yet if the war ended tomorrow, U.S. leaders would not expect a sudden boom in disarmament prospects.

Peace would bring no quick accord on a pact to halt the spread of nuclear weapons. The central issue of this proposed pact is not Viet Nam but a NATO nuclear weapons role for West Germany which is bitterly opposed by the Soviets.

Nor would a treaty to ban underground nuclear weapons tests, be readily concluded because the main problem is not Viet Nam, but inspections demanded by the United States and Britain inside the Soviet Union, and the Soviets' refusal to grant them.

But the Vietnamese conflict makes these and many other issues more difficult to deal with. The darkening shadow of the long Asian crisis is everywhere apparent. But it needs to be seen for what it is; probably the major contribution of peace in Viet Nam would be to bring a change in atmosphere and ease some of the tensions between the United States and the Soviet Union.

The diplomatic or political difficultues created by the war are considered here to be greater for the Kremlin than for the White House, in spite of the fact that the United States is involved militarily. And the reason for this is Red China.

The rivalry between the Soviet Union and Red China is a major factor in determining their attitudes toward the Vietnamese conflict. At the same time, it is magnified by that conflict. It is also a governing element in the Soviets' relations with the United States, more decisive than the direct U.S.-Soviet differences over Viet Nam.

To diplomats it seems to be almost a law that as Soviet-Chinese tensions increase, Soviet tensions with the West decrease.

It is commonly accepted among diplomats that Soviet-Chinese differences over the war in Viet Nam have aggravated their more fundamental disagreements over how to communie the world. The Chinese national interest is to keep the conflict going, while maintaining opportunities for subversive and revolutionary activity in Asia.

But the Soviets' national interest, as a more mature Communist power, is to calm down the Southeast Asian conflict and bring it to a close before it gets too dangerous. The Soviets have to try to do this while maintaining their posture as a champion of revolutionary activity to backward or oppressed people all over the world.

Allotments To Shift

WASHINGTON (AP)—Considerable shifting of cotton acreage may take place next year.

In a recent referendum, growers in 350 of the 1,059 cotton-producing counties voted to permit the transfer of federal cotton plantings allotments out of those counties. Hereforeto, transfers were limited to farms within the counties where they were assigned under a mandatory control program.

New cotton legislation passed this year permits the transfer—including lease or sale—of allotments to other farms in the state, but not to farms outside the state.

But such a transfer must be approved by at least two-thirds of the county's cotton growers voting in a referendum. Allocations for the transfer of allotments for the 1966 crop should be filed with county agricultural stabilization and conservation committees not later than Jan. 3, 1966.

The transfer was approved for 61 of 247 counties in Texas; 20 of 69 in Arkansas; 18 of 57 in Louisiana; 2 of 17 in New Mexico; and 22 of 74 in Oklahoma.

Panel On Aging To Get Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Texas Governor's Committee on Aging will receive a $156,500 grant to help set up a program for improving the health and well-being of older persons.

The grant, approved by the Welfare Department, was awarded under a law enacted during the last session of Congress.

The money will be used to prepare persons for retirement and to set up centers providing health and recreation services for the aged.

A Junior Editors Quiz About MYTHS

QUESTION: Where did pagan myths of gods and goddesses come from?

• • •

ANSWER: We all know, these days, that the sun appears to move across the sky because of the revolution of our earth around it. But primitive men, like the one in our picture, did not understand this. Without scientific knowledge, all they could do was invent their own explanations for the natural wonders which surrounded them. This is thought by many experts to have been the origin of the ancient myths, which were handed down the generations through song and story. The ancient Egyptians, for example, realized that light and warmth came from the sun, so they began to think of the sun as a brilliant super-being or god who was being kind to them. Some of their carvings show many sunrays like arms with hands on the end, symbolizing the many gifts of the sun to mankind. (2). The Greeks (1) thought of a sungod, Apollo, driving across the sky. The Amerind [illegible] carved portraits of their sun god (3) and sacrificed to it. In New Zealand, the sun god was supposed to limp slowly across the sky, having once been injured in a battle. Many other pagan gods and goddesses are supposed to have originated in a similar way and to have become familiar through pictures, songs and stories.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Check on the origin of the names of the days of the week, and you will become acquainted with a number of other legendary gods and goddesses. 12-11
