Allied Troops Braced for Stand Against Advancing Red Chinese

STRONG YOUNG GERMANS—The battalion of West Berlin industrial police seen above in training might well form the cadre of a new West German army requested last night by the French. If the Germans are willing, their army may form a vital part of the big European Army under Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to be created by Atlantic Pact nations. Men shown are already being trained in anti-riot control and other military tactics.

Traps Endangering Marines, Soldiers

TOKYO —(AP)— Allied troops braced on a new hill defense line 25 miles south of fallen Pyongyang today for a stand against steadily advancing vanguards of a million-man Chinese Red expeditionary force.

The line stretched inland 70 miles in northwest Korea from the Yellow Sea. It was a defense in depth on commanding heights and not a solid line.

The U.S. Eighth Army, with its long and bitter retreat at a halt, was greatly outnumbered and hard hit but still was a unified fighting force.

The Chinese armies in front of it were estimated at 100,000 men with up to 80,000 combat reserves behind those Reds and hundreds of thousands more in Korea or moving up from Manchuria.

The Eighth Army force on the defense line is something less than the 110,000 men Lt. Gen. Walton H. Walker had when he was forced to retreat late in November.

Northeast of the new line, U.S. marines and doughboys battled in a blizzard in a bogged effort to break out of Red traps south of the Changjin Reservoir. They broke out of one and have to fight through another.

Underscoring the critical situation of the United Nations forces near the reservoir and elsewhere in the northeast was the withdrawal of the American garrison from the east coast port of Wonsan.

A bombardment by three U.S. destroyers and shore fire by South Koreans marines covered the pull-out of Wonsan. Presumably the American garrison at Wonsan was relatively small. It was not identified.

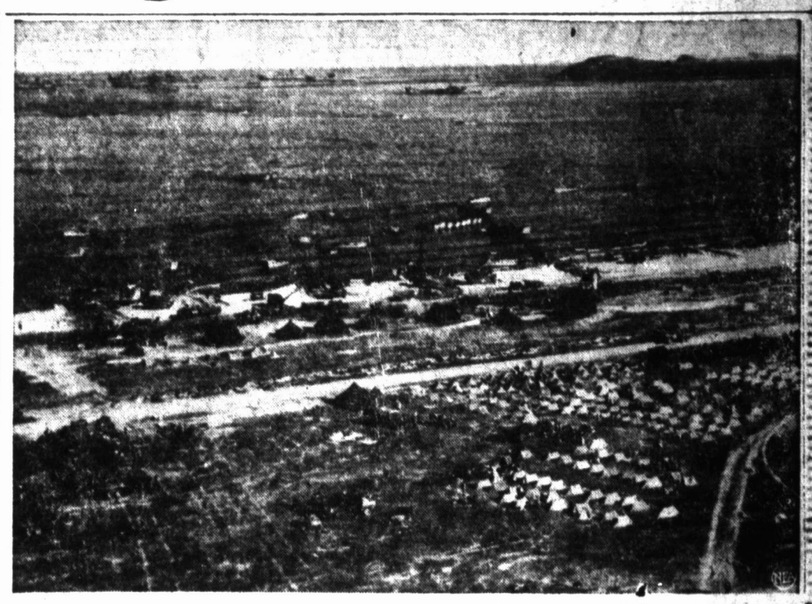

Wonsan was captured Oct. 10 by South Korean troops. The same marines trapped at the Changjin Reservoir landed at the port Oct. 15 after a week-long sweeping of a minefield offshore. Because the port already had been secured, the marines called it "Operation What-the-Hell."

Hamhung and its nearby port of Hungnam, 50 miles north of Wonsan, now becomes the allies' main escape route in the northeast. It is more ceantrally located for the widely scattered units of the 10th Corps.

The new line in the northwest is 85 miles north of Seoul, the Korean Republic's capital, and is 85 miles north of Parallel 38. General MacArthur described it as arching from the west coast port of Chinnampo to Koksan, an inland town 53 miles southeast of Pyongyang.

There was no explanation as

DUNKIRK IN KOREA?—Here is an aerial view of Wosan Harbor, where Allied troops and supplies were poured into the North Korean battleground, under direction of the U. S. Seventh Fleet. The harbor—if it can be held long enough from advancing Chinese and North Korean Communists—might become the scene of a Dunkirk-type evacuation of UN forces fighting on the northeastern front in Korea.

Senate's Tax Writers Set Speedup Pace

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, pressing for enactment of a multi-billion dollar excess profits tax before New Year's, set a speedup pace today to get the job done.

Chairman George (D-Ga) told a reporter he still hopes to have a revised draft of the House-approved tax measure ready for Senate action by the end of next week.

George scheduled 22 witnesses for today's hearing (10 a.m. EST) on the bill, after 20 witnesses yesterday had denounced the measure or features of it. The American Federation of Labor, an advocate of the excess profits theory, was down for testimony today.

George said he still hopes to wind up the hearings Friday,

Gymnasium Bids Said High

None of the four contract bids submitted to the school board for the construction of the field house and gymnasium have been accepted.

According to Knox Kinard, superintendent of schools, the board considers all the bids out of the range of the school budget.

The field house is the last of the school constructions on the schedule for the year. It will be built near the high school building.

Other constructions going up that are expected to be ready for occupancy next year are additions and improvements on all four of the city's elementary schools, Harvester Stadium and Carver school.

Contractors on all these buildings are James T. Taylor and Son of Fort Worth and J. T. Gohman of Pampa. James Cantrell and Co. are architects.

Texans Begin To Warm Up

(By The Associated Press)

Texas began warming up today after severe freezes numbed the state three days in a row. Bright sunshine over most of the area was expected to bring temperatures into the 40s and 50s this afternoon.

The bitter norther took two lives, killed more than a thousand cattle and damaged crops.

Generally, the Panhandle and South Plains were a few degrees warmer this morning as compared with yesterday, while deep South Texas was a few degrees colder.

Dalhart 6-2, Dallas 12-13, Corpus Christi 24-29, Bryan 12-17, San Antonio 14-21.

Early Friday morning, minimum thermometer readings are expected to be relatively moderate, particularly in West Texas, where the lows are due to range from 20 to 30 degrees. The East Texas forecast also calls for 20-30 degree minimums.

During the day yesterday, the mercury hung around the freezing point except in some deep South Texas areas.

Gas Company Gives Advice

Many Pampa residents have been worried the past two days because their gas utilities have quit burning. Worried callers have flooded the Texas Gas and Power Co., and other servicing agencies.

J. W. Garman, president and general manager of the TG&PC, explained the situation of the gas ceasing to burn as follows:

During the present cold wave many windows have frozen over. When the day gets warmer the ice on the windows has melted and the water has fallen to the bottom of the window where it has again frozen at night, forming a perfect seal on the window. Most people have kept their doors and windows closed, and this fact, combined with the sealing

France Urging Defense Army Against Reds

PARIS — (AP) — France pressed today for an anti-Communist army in Europe, bolstered by German manpower, and named one of her top generals to head wavering French defenses in Red-menaced Indochina.

The cabinet announced it will call a meeting of the West European nations in Paris during January to draw up plans for an Atlantic Pact European army. The announcement confirmed that France had agreed to immediate formation of West German combat teams in the Atlantic force.

For the Far East, France named Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny as high commissioner in Indochina, with "full military and civil powers" to direct the war against the Communist-led Vietminh.

De Lattre de Tassigny, who has been serving as commander of infantry in the joint general staff under the Brussels Pact, will take over the duties of both Civilian High Commissioner Leon Pignon and Gen. Marcel Carpentier, now in command of French forces harassed by Ho Chi Minh's Nationalists.

Today's announcement was the first official disclosure that France has withdrawn her insistence on delay in forming German combat units until a unified defense ministry has been created.

'Appeasement' Out For Korean Treaty

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee appeared ready today to consider any reasonable proposal for a Korean settlement if it does not call for "appeasement" of the Chinese Communists.

At the same time officials here disavowed any real optimism over the prospects for acceptance by Red China of an appeal by 13 peace seeking Asian countries for the Communists to cease fire and negotiate a settlement.

Army May Reopen Amarillo Air Base

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Air Force disclosed today that Army engineers have been instructed to work out a plan with Amarillo for possible use of the World War II Amarillo Air Force Base.

Notifying Senator Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Texas) of the action, officials emphasized that the step is not a commitment that the base will be leased or reactivated.

British Say No Pulling Out

LONDON —(AP)— Defense Minister Emanuel Shinwell declared in the House of Commons today that "there is no thought in our minds or in that of the American authorities of withdrawal from Korea."

He said there may be "still harder tidings" from the critical front, however. "No one knows what the outcome will be. It would be foolish to underestimate the size or determination of the Chinese intervention."

He told the House UN forces already face 270,000 Red Chinese soldiers, with 500,000 more in reserve.

He paid tribute to "the gallantry with which our allies particularly the U.S. soldiers, the main bearers of the burden are fighting this desperate and unequal battle, and added:

World Looks Back Nine Years Today

By The Associated Press

This was a Sunday nine years ago, remember?

It was Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941, and Texas newspapers were full of anxious headlines.

One told boldly how President Roosevelt had asked the Mikado to avert war in the Pacific.

Another story told of the first group of soldiers—draftees—to arrive at the new training center, Camp Wolters at Mineral Wells. The 38 men were from Houston.

Ads warned to do your Christmas shopping early.

Talks in sports was about the University of Texas football team it had just licked the University of Oregon, 71-7. And how the draft would affect future teams.

That was nine years ago. Pearl Harbor Day, the day Japanese bombers attacked the great naval base in Hawaii. Newspapers that day reported the fearful feeling of war.

Today, Dec. 7, 1950, Texas newspapers are full of anxious headlines.

One told boldly how the U.S. and Great Britain would stand together in the Korean crisis.

Another story told of draft quotas for January.

Ads say do your Christmas shopping early.

Talk in sports was a lot about the University of Texas, slated to get a new head coach after its Cotton Bowl game New Year's Day with Tennessee.

Newspaper stories reported the fearful feeling of war.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — On this ninth anniversary of the attack on Pearl Harbor, elder statesman Cordell Hull believes peace will be achieved only if the American people "can be much more aggressively vigilant."

The United Nations may seem stymied in its efforts to cope with world-wide crisis, but Hull has no doubt its liberty - loving constituents can save it. Through it, he believes, still lives the best hope for a peaceful world.

The former secretary of state, a UN founder and its ardent champion, gave a rare interview here yesterday to the Nashville Tennessean, which published it as a copyrighted article.

Walter Having Housing Woes

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Rep.-Elect Walter Rogers, who had trouble enough with two primary contests and a general election campaign, now finds himself confronted with a major house hunting problem.

Here this week looking for a home for his wife and six children, the 42-year-old Panhandle lawyer complained:

"These two or three room apartments that do most folks are out of the question for me.

"What I need is a sort of pentagon. Another complication is that some landlords don't want a lot of children around."

He took time out from house hunting to join with other representatives-elect to draw for office suites in the old House office building. All the offices are similar in size and appearance, but some are considered more de-

Commies Issue Plea for Time

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Communist Party has filed a plea for more time to answer Attorney General McGrath's demand that it register under the new internal security law.

The Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB) reported today it has received a petition from Gus Hall, national secretary of the Communist Party, U.S.A., asking a 60-day extension of time in which to reply.

McGrath, through William A. Paisley, a special assistant to the attorney general, filed an immediate objection.

GOP 'Oust Acheson' Plan Moved to Individual Solons

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Republican Senate leaders decided today to let all GOP senators pass upon a formal request "for the resignation or replacement of Secretary of State Acheson."

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman, told reporters this was the decision of the Senate GOP policy committee.

Taft said the 11-member policy committee, after an hour and a half closed-door session, took no direct action itself.

Instead it agreed to call a conference of all 43 Republican senators early next week, probably Tuesday, for a discussion of the oust-Acheson move as well as the broader subject of foreign and military policies.

Even if the Republican senators agreed to back the demand, there is no assurance it would be met. President Truman has said repeatedly he has no intention of letting Acheson go.

Taft appointed a subcommittee to go over the wording of a replace-Acheson resolution sponsored by Senator Ives (R-NY).

Members include Ives, Republican Leader Wherry of Nebraska, Senator Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the Republican conference, and Senator H. Alexander Smith of New Jersey, a member of the foreign relations committee.

Asked whether there had been opposition to the move against Acheson, Taft said there had been "some discussion both ways."

He indicated that all Republicans present favored replacemene of the secretary of state even though some questioned the idea of trying to make this a Republican Party policy issue.

Taft told newsmen he wanted to stress that the conference would not be limited to the Iveas-Acheson matter but also would cover "all phases of the foreign and military situation which presents such a threat to the security of our country."

By the time the conference is held, Taft said, details of the meetings between President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain should have been completed and some information made public.

Taft was asked how he felt about making the Ives reasolu-

Approval by Senate Next Step for Dam

Campaigning for passage by the Senate of the $85,000,000 Canadian River Dam will be underway Monday in Washington D.C. when a delegation of three, possibly more, Panhandle officials and Sen. Lyndon Johnson start work on it, armed with the signed tri-state water compact governing use of the river's waters by Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Rex Baxter, Amarillo Chamber of Commerce manager, Joe Cooley, his Borger counterpart, and City Manager A. A. Meredith, Borger, will leave Saturday by rail for Washington where they will deliver the compact to Sen. Johnson.

However, the signing of the compact, although a big step forward in securing the dam, does not mean it will be built—even eventually. It has to be authorized by the Senate. This authorization does not mean an automatic appropriation for the dam. That appropriation could be turned down by the 82nd Congress and by several congresses thereafter. In fact, authorization could lay in Congress for eternity without an appropriation ever being made. While on the other hand, the 82nd Congress, before whom the appropriation question will come, could okay it at an early date.

In addition, the Canadian River Dam bill, as it is now, provides that no contract is to be let for construction until a compact is passed by the three states. The compact signed Wednesday in

Football Train Plan Is Out

The "Harvestear Special" won't pull out of Pampa Saturday morning. Plans were abandoned Thursday morning when 300 fans didn't make reservations. Approximateiy 75 tickets were sold for the special.

Football fans who plan to attend Saturday's game between Pampa and Wichita Falls can make the trip by bus. John Gilliam, bus agent, said Thursday morning that he could get two more buses for the Wichita Falls trip if fans sign up before noon Friday at the bus station. Five buses have been chartered. However, four of these are reserved for the high school.

Football fans can still get tickets to the game at the high school business office in the city hall. The ducats will remain on sale until Friday evening, 400 tickets are left from the 1,000 ordered.

Chartered buses will leave at 7 o'clock Saturday morning for Wichita Falls. Fans are asked to meet in front of the bus station.

Cost Is High Shivers Says

AUSTIN — (AP) — Gov. Allan Shivers urged Texans today to make "Operation Democracy" a fulltime program and to willingly pay whatever it costs to maintain democracy.

"Whatever it costs, we will have to pay — in money, in blood, in effort, in time and in devotion to whatever duty is placed upon us," the governor said in a speech prepared for radio delivery at 12:30 p.m.

His speech on the ninth anniversary of Pearl Harbor Day launched the Texas American Legion's campaign against complacency and neglect of civic responsibility. Shivers was to light the first of 777 Texas "Fires of Freedom" at 7 p.m. today on the Capitol grounds in Austin.

He said the fires would symbolize the aim of the "Operation Democracy" program "shining as beacons of hope in freedom's name."

tion for outer of Acheson "a party matter?"

"I'm not saying now I feel," Taft replied with a smile.

The cabinet member's removal long has been a target of individual Republican senators. They have denounced his foreign policies both in Asia and Western Europe and accused him of appeasing Russia abroad and pro-communism at home.

Recent setbacks by United Nations forces in Korea have provided them with fresh ammunition.

Senator Ives (R-NY), who originally voted for Acheson's confirmation, now has brought to a head the question of whether Senate Republicans, as a party, should formally serve President Truman with a demand for Acheson's discharge.

to why the location of the defense line was announced. It previously haad been a deep secret.

There were no set lines in the northeast. Three American and two South Korean divisions are all over the rugged map there, with the marings and two regiments of the [illegible] enta Infantry Division in the worst spot.

They pushed into Koto today after a bitter battle through heavy Chinese resistance south of the Changjin Reservoir.

It took them 25 hours to batter their way eight miles from Hagaru.

The first elements of two marine and two infantry regiments made their way into Koto at 7:25 a.m. (5 p.m. EST Wednesday).

Associated Press Correspondent Jack MacBeth, the only correspondent in Koto, said eight hours later they "are still coming into Koto today."

A headquarters spokesman said, "the pressure is heavy at Hagaru and the enemy is trying to capture as many of our men as they can."

The Americans still were faced with fighting their way out of Koto through heavy Communist concentrations to cover the 40 miles of winding mountain road southeast to Hamhung.

Seven Chinese divisions were reported deployed along the road the only escape route south from Koto. The spokesman said he may be able tomorrow to identify two other Chinese divisions fighting to hold the Americans in the trap.

Road Dispute Causes Death of Officer

JERUSALEM — (AP) — Israel complained to United Nations officials here that an "Arab Legion ambush" on the disputed road to Elath in the Negev desert has cost the life of one Israeli officer.

The reported incident occurred about 10 miles south of the spot where Jordan and Israeli forces engaged in a gun duel Sunday morning.

Immediately after Sunday's clash, the UN ordered a cease fire and troop withdrawal. Jordan agreed to both. Israel agreed to abide by the cease fire but served notice it would continue to use the road to supply its settlements at Elath.

Shinwell said this commando unit suffered casualties of eight killed, 26 wounded and 35 missing last Wednesday. He said he had no fresh reports of casualties from the two United Kingdom brigades engaged in western Korea.

Up to the time of the Chinese Communist offensive, United Kingdom forces had listed 52 killed, 174 wounded and five missing. American casualties have passed the 31,000 mark.

Conservative Beverley Baxter declared in the debate that "if it came to a choice between destruction of our men and use of the atom bomb I and many of my friends would support the use of the bomb."

His statement was in answer to a declaration by Laborite Harold Davies that there are "some members on the labor benches who would have nothing to do with the affair if the atom bomb is dropped on China."

The committee clearly is known to be considering proposed revisions of the House bill which might cut more than $1,000,000,000 from its anticipated revenues.

George said it is "too early yet" to speculate on whether the committee might raise corporation income tax rates—now as high as 45 percent — to make up for amounts cut from the excess profits tax yield.

Secretary of the Treasury Snyder has protested the House version would fall $600,000,000 below the $4,000,000,000 tax boost President Truman requested to help meet defense costs.

Chennault Not Head Of Flying Freighters

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — The office of Robert Prescott, president of the Flying Tiger Freight Line, says Gen. Claire Chennault, who commanded the famed Flying Tigers in China during World War II, has nothing to do with that company.

A recent Associated Press dispatch telling how the Flying Tiger airline was ferrying refugees through Singapore from Germany to Australia named Chennault as operator of the line.

'Korea Conscious' Is Marine Description

WONSAN, North Korea — (AP) — During World War II, war-weary Marines on Pacific islands were referred to by their shipmates as being "rock-happy." There's a new term now — "Korea conscious."

It's applied to Marines who are beginning to carry baskets, stray timbers, or what have you on their heads, like Korean women.

But a Marine who can carry a pail of water balanced on his dungaree cap still rates stares of pure admiration.

Wild Game Is On Comeback In East Texas

ATHENS, Texas — (AP) — Wild animals apparently are making a comeback in East Texas.

First it was the recent mad-fox scare. Folks had no idea there were so many foxes until reports started coming in of school children being attacked and big, deranged foxes rummaging around the countryside.

The people ganged up in big posses and in all-night hunts to cut the foxes down to size. It apparently worked.

But now the beaver are making a comeback. Several beaver dams have been found in Henderson County.

And wolves. A group of hound-dog hunters from the Athens vicinity ran one all night last week, and the big dogs finally caught him — a big, gray male — only a few feet from Highway 175.

And where did they finally corner the critter? At the edge of a small lake formed by a new beaver dam!

Deer stocked by the state game department are multiplying rapidly in the Catfish Game Preserve south of Athens. Wilk turkeys are reported in the same area.

In Kaufman County, there are bear. State Game Warden Bill Pratt says he saw a black bear near Rossar last week. Scared residents of the area reported signs of a bear and the warden hunted it down. He found it beside a farm road.

"I got my spotlight on him good," Pratt said. "It definitely was a bear."

Nehru Says India Wanted Cease Fire

NEW DELHI, India — (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today India had suggested a cease fire in Korea and establishment of a demilitarized zone, followed by negotiations in which Communist China would take part.

Nehru did not make clear when the Indian recommendation had been made, but observers believed he referred to earlier efforts to halt the United Nations drive below the Manchurian border, rather than any Indian action since the Red Chinese offensive began.

The prime minister said the situation is changing so rapidly that is is impossible for anyone to suggest what might be done.

The only hope at the present, he added, is that the talks between British Prime Minister Attlee and President Truman "will lead to a peaceful way out of this situation."

Jean Makes Henry Do the Shopping and He's Unhappy

By HENRY McLEMORE

I'm in a kind of snarly, ugly mood today, and I don't care who knows it.

It all started when a certain member of our household was selfish enough to catch the flu and go to bed with it, leaving me with all the cooking and hand-and-foot waiting on to do.

"Raise the window. Shut the window. Get me a glass of water. Turn off the heat a little. Turn on the heat a little. Get me an asprin. Tuck in the covers. Get me a lighter blanker. Hand me a cigarette. I'm out of matches. Call this number. Call that number."

A centipede on a bicycle couldn't have covered the miles around this house that I have been covering. And I have answered more calls for attention than F. Nightingale did in the whole of the Crimean war.

The last thing I want to be is heartless, but I can't help feeling that a certain person isn't as sick as made out to be. I've never saw a really ailing gramaphone.

The last straw — well, the next to the last, anyway — came today when, after cooking breakfast and serving it on a tray, I was told to go marketing for stuff for lunch and dinner.

The patient wouldn't stand for that, and proceeded to give me a fifteen-minute talk on how much cheaper I could get food simply by taking the market basket and doing my shopping with the pushcart venders on Third and Second Avenues.

Knowing I would never hear the last of it if I didn't yield, I yielded and, taking off my apron, slipped the basket on my arm and headed for the pushcart district.

There are miles of these pushcarts along Third and Second, and I must say they have some mighty fine edibles.

I bounced rutabagas in this block, pinched tomatoes in the next block, gazed closely into the eyes of fish, and wandered block after block looking for the greenest, freshest watercress, endive, and lettuce.

I had shopped almost an hour, and my basket was loaded to the gunwales and weighed what seemed to me a hundred pounds. In my enthusiasm to save a few pennies I forgot to look where I was going and when I had finished I was a cool 18 blocks from home.

Naturally, I called a taxi to get me back home. I had to tip him extra because he wasn't too crazy about carrying a vegetable market in his new cab.

The doorman had to have a little money for helping me get out and taking the stuff to the elevator. And the elevator man naturally had to be rewarded for helping me unload.

The patient was delighted that I had saved so much money by my market basket shopping, and sae can go on being delighted.

There are certain things in a man's life that are not a woman's business.

Q. and A.

You and the Service

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Q. I have a punctured eardrum and am very much underweight. The worry about being drafted has aggravated both conditions. Do you think they will take me anyway?

A. That's up to the doctor who examines you. However, if you enlist it will end your worry about being drafted. You will stop losing weight and your ears will be better. And all your problems will be solved. They'll take you on a waiver with your ears.

Q. My husband, father of a 12-year-old son, was just taken into the Navy. Why did they do this?

A. His country needed him.

Q. I have a nephew who served a year in the peacetime draft following World War II. What are his chances of being called again?

A. Not good. Those men aren't being called.

Q. My son has a medical discharge from the Marine Corps and receives a 10 per cent disability pension. He is also going to school. Can Selective Service draft him? What should I do?

A. Stop worrying. They won't take him.

Q. If a man served honorably for three years and gets his call back to active duty from the reserves, what can he do?

A. Serve honorably some more.

Q. My son has joined the Army but isn't a citizen. Can they send him out of the country?

A. Yes. Once a man is in the Army he can be assigned any place, with rare exceptions. Your son's case is not a rare exception.

Q. Do National Guard officers upon induction receive officers' clothing allowance if they received it once before at any time?

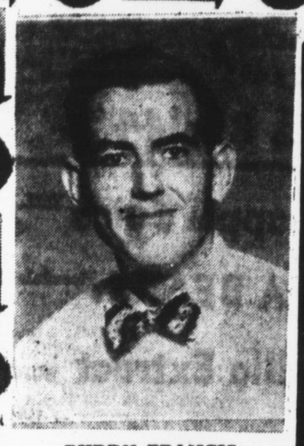

A. No. National Guard officers being called to federal service will not receive a clothing allowance if they have already been given an original $250 for this purpose.

Oilman Says U.S. Standards Never Equaled by the World

By EDD ROUTT
Associated Press Staff

The present high living standards of the United States probably never will be equaled by any other country in the opinion of a tall, dignified international oil man who lives at Abilene and produces oil around the world.

Georgia - born J. E. Brantly president of the Brantly Drilling and Exploration Co., with headquasters at Abilene, recently returned home from the third biannual meeting of the ILO (International Labor Organization at Geneva, Switzerland.

He was an advisor to the American delegation.

Seventeen nations, represented by oil labor, oil management and their governments, met in the historic city to discuss standards of living of oil workers throughout the world. No delegates from countries behind the Iron Curtain attended the 1950 meeting.

"The presence of professional negotiators — whose orders are to take a lot and give very little — makes it extremely difficult for the parties to reach concrete agreements," Brantly said.

"If the living standards of most foreign oil field workers are raised, the oil companies will have to do it."

"Petroleum companies of the United States have developed two-thirds of all foreign oil production. The government of the country in which the company operates charges the oil company with the responsibility of maintaining hospitals, schools and other municipal facilities for the workers.

"Oil producers feel such responsibilities should remain with the government," Brantly said.

"Under current conditions the oil companies must not only maintain the rebular business departments of health, education, housing and so on. In addition the companies generally have to pay a contract tax set by the country."

Brantly said he found that oil workers in all countries want to achieve the American standard of living, and that native labor is envious of the standards of American oil specialists who work in their countries.

"But these countries are 100 years behind us industrially, and cannot expect to equal our standard of living. The best they can do is better their conditions by degrees. No single industry in America made our living standard what it is today."

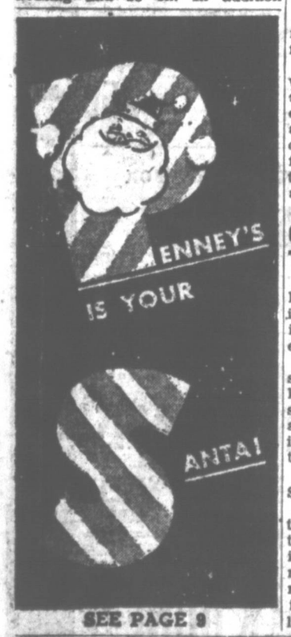

For this reason, Brantly believes the living standards of other countries will never match that of the United States. Their standards will rise only as their industries grow, and as they exploit their natural resources. But meanwhile U. S. standards will be rising at a similar rate as U. S. industrialization continues.

Measuring living standards in terms of per capita horsepower, Brantly said:

"The U. S. has a per capita horsepower of 25. We have more cars, refrigerators and other luxuries, and it follows that a country with one horsepower will have a lower standard of living."

The ILO, developed from the old League of Nations at Geneva, has no actual power and remains clear of political issues. The group meets every two years to exchange ideas, grievances, adopt or reject resolutions.

At the 1950 meeting three committees (Health, Housing, Education) thrashed out the details of their respective projects. Then about 30 resolutions were passed unanimously by the general assembly.

Butchering Service Is Set Up by FFA

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock FFA members have set up a butchering service here, reports Howard Weatherby, vocational agriculture instructor.

Parents of the boys or other interested farmers bring in the animals to be butchered. After a 12 to 24-hour period without feed, the hogs are brought to the FFA, killed, scraped, dressed and hung for overnight draining. The next day carcasses are cut, trimmed and prepared for the farmers to cure them.

Butchering dates are Monday, Dec. 4; Wednesday, Dec. 6; Monday, Dec. 11 and Wednesday, Dec. 13.

Hogs under 300 pounds will be butchered for a $1 fee, while heavier hogs will cost $2. The money thus earned will go for FFA future activities.

Californian Leaves Wife In Shamrock

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Last week there was one angry California wife, according to Mrs. Rhuel Wilson, bus station agent here.

The wife, who got out of the car when her husband stopped at a Shamrock service station, emerged to find her spouse long gone. He had purred away into the night, Oklahoma-bound.

Three hours later, having pulled into Chickasha, Okla., he spoke to his spouse. No answer. Finally he realized that she had been lost somewhere, and since Shamrock was the last place he had stopped, he raced frantically back, more than 100 miles.

He didn't find her at the bus station, but Mrs. Wilson told him a very angry wife had purchased a ticket for Chickasha. She called the bus station in Erick and had the agent there stop the lady and bid her wait for the husband, who raced eastward in consternation and alarm.

The outcome: unknown. Mrs. Wilson hopes some day the Erick agent will enlighten her on the fireworks, if any.

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— Exclusively Yours:

Jane Wyman has informed her bosses at Warners that she wants to skip the movie tragedy business for the next few years. That's the reason she nixed the co-starring role opposite Kirk Douglas in "The Travelers" to be Bing Crosby's partner in "Here Comes the Groom."

Robert Clarke says he's spending the rest of the year in an ogygen tent.

He just set movie history by starring as D'Artagnan in Hollywood's first full-length movie made expressly for television, "The Three Musketeers." The picture was shot in four days— a little over one musketeer a day.

Clarke, who played the romantic lead opposite Sally Forrest in "The Money Game" (formerly "Mother of a Champion"), panted:

"I'm a wreck. In four days I fought 12 duels, rode a horse 16 miles, made love to three women, had six fights. We averaged 20 pages of script a day. I'm the first jet-propelled D'Artagnan in history."

13 Lucky Guys

by FRANK R. ADAMS

COPR. 1950 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Twelve infantrymen and a medical officer, wiped out in a Pacific engagement, suddenly find themselves in the town of Westwaygo, where they lived before the war. Sgt. Eddie Engstrom's dog is the only living thing aware of their presence. A girl comes to the beach. She notices the dog, but of course she can't see the men.

V

EDDIE knew that the reason she had hit on the name "Duke" for his dog was because he had been thinking it so hard, wanting her to say it. He felt as if he had almost established a line of communication. Maybe he could tell her other things that way, too.

"What's your own name?" Eddie asked.

The girl, of course, did not answer that. She did not speak at all for a minute or so. When she did she addressed the dog. "I suppose that since I know they call you Duke it's only fair to tell you that I'm Margaret Louise Denslow. But my father called me Margie Lou when he was alive. He and my mother died a long time ago when I was only 7 years old. Ever since that time I've lived with my Aunt Ellen."

Duke appreciated the confidence and thumped his tail to show it.

"I expect I'm telling you all about me because I don't often have a chance to talk to anyone." Margie Lou sighed. "I don't have many friends, and I don't even know much about dogs — never having had one since my father died. My aunt doesn't like pets around. They make her nervous, she says. Everything makes her nervous. She's sick."

EDDIE was listening, half to what the girl was saying and half to the shouts and wise-cracks of his comrades who were romping around in the rippleless water.

"How're you doin', Eddie? Makin' any progress?"

"Ask her if she's got a friend."

"She can't be as good as you think she is."

"Come on in."

"Bring the dame along. We'll teach her the Australian crawl like we learned to do it Down Under."

Eddie realized that it would do no particular good to beg them to cut it out or to issue an order to that effect. He couldn't make it stick. It made no difference what the other men said anyway except insofar as it increased his own embarrassment. He wished to Pete he could be alone with this girl for a little while, far, far away from an audience of jeering spectators.

Margie Lou got up and stretched. "Come on, Duke," she said. "I've got to go to work pretty soon so I'd better have my swim now if I'm going to get it at all." She tried to whistle the dog to heel but gave up. Apparently she was only a rainy-day whistler. "Follow me, Duke. I know where there aren't any pebbles to hurt your feet."

The girl led the way, accompanied by Duke—and also Eddie—to a strip of beach almost a hundred yards from the place where the squad was bathing. When she found the spot she was looking for Margie Lou hurried right in.

The dog followed her eagerly. So did Eddie though he wasn't exactly conscious of being in water. There wasn't much of any sensation at all.

Margie Lou seemed to think that the lake was cold. She stood shivering a moment then splashed out after the fashion of inexperienced swimmers and finally flopped flat on her stomach.

She went through the exhausting motions of a conventional breast stroke but she made little actual progress. Eddie couldn't help passing her, not unless he stopped swimming entirely and just floated. Duke plodded along gaily beside his master.

Duke and Eddie were perhaps 15 or 20 yards beyond Margie Lou when Eddie heard her gasp. When he turned toward her he could see that her face was twisted in a surprised expression of pain. He recognized the symptoms of a cramp.

But Margie Lou apparently didn't and she didn't know what to do about it. Instead of lying quietly in the water she began to thrash with her arms and gulp air rapidly. She probably could have stood up where she was but she didn't dare try that. Maybe her legs were out of control anyway.

"Help!" she cried and then with panic in her eyes sank out of sight.

Eddie took one look to see where he was going and how far and plowed toward her with his face under water most of the way.

By the time he got there she had risen to the surface again.

As she started to go down once more Eddie tried to grasp her under the shoulders.

He had forgotten that he couldn't even pick up that light stick which Duke had been playing with!

Now he really was scared. Up to that moment it hadn't occurred to him that the girl might drown.

IT seemed as if her frightened eyes were looking at him half appealingly, half accusingly. Why didn't he do something?

Eddie followed her down, trying desperately to help her. Her braided hair had come loose from its coils and he attempted to get a grip on it. It seemed for a moment almost as if he was going to be successful but that was only an illusion. The braid slipped through his fingers.

Bubbles were rising from her open mouth. Her face began to relax. She was losing consciousness. There in the shifting green shadows under water an expression of beauty descended on her face. To Eddie's anxious eyes nothing before had ever seemed so lovely. Freedom and peace rested there for the first time. She didn't look tired any more.

Her eyes opened and she seemed to see Eddie. She smiled and her lips moved as if to say, "You."

Baptists Study Moral Problems

DALLAS — (AP) — A group of Baptist preachers will study moral problems facing Christianity as a whole in Texas.

The group, called the Christian Life Commission, was appointed yesterday by the executive board of the Baptist General Convention at its annual meeting here.

The commission was asked to see what Christianity can do about such things as gambling, drinking, bad literature, and indecent movies. It also will study the problem of broken homes and race relations concerning religion.

Most of Texas Hit With Freeze

(By The Associated Press)

A hard freeze gripped most of Texas today. Temperatures went to 2 degrees above zero in the Panhandle. But the lowest tip of the Rio Grande valley — the rich vegetable and citrus area—missed freezing weather by a degree or so.

But forecast for the deepest part of the Valley for tomorrow was for temperatures 30 degrees or lower.

Neckline Up In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Hollywood has hurled back the television challenge — in the matter of necklines, anyway.

The girls on video, notably Faye Emerson, has been wearing gowns cut way down.

Now you might expect Hollywood to fight fire with fire, or rather, to take the plunge. But no. Movie necklines are going up. So says Helen Rose, who designs the gowns for M-G-M's glamour girls.

"I don't know how those girls on television get away with it," she commented. "Why, if we put Elizabeth Taylor in a gown such as Faye Emerson wears, we'd be flooded with protests."

Such costumes are prohibited on the screen by the Johnston office, Hollywood's self-censoring body.

"Our high water mark is the point of cleavage," explained Miss Rose. "Beyond that, we cannot go."

As a matter of fact, she added, Hollywood necklines are going up. She explained why:

"I think the plunging neckline is unattractive to the average woman. Of course, some women might look attractive with no neckline at all. But on most women, the bosom is not a graceful line at all. And many of them have nothing to plunge to."

Circle the Telephone Budget, Bell Says More Jumps Coming

(By The Associated Press)

Put a circle around the word "telephone" in your family budget book. Your telephone may cost you more one of these days, even if you've already had a rate increase.

The Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., which serves almost all of Texas, says it's squeezed by higher operating costs. The only way out, says Bell, is higher rates.

"If costs of cable, poles, labor and other factors keep going up," a spokesman said today, "we might have to go back for another increase where we've already been granted one. And increases will have to be asked in some cities where the subject hasn't been brought up."

Bell began its rate-increase program about three years ago. Since then it has asked and got higher rates in 202 Texas towns and cities.

In some cases it wasn't easy. Some cities said, in effect, "you won't get your higher rate until you put a dial system in." Bell, in those cases, accepted less of a rate increase than it asked while it went to work on the dial system with a promise of the full increase when the dials were in use.

Eleven cities and towns have turned thumbs down on the increases asked by Bell, and granted lesser hikes.

Requests for higher rates have been filed and are pending in 24 towns and cities.

In addition to Pampa, these are: Terrell, Paris, Hillsboro, Amarillo, Canyon, Fort Worth, Gordon, Sweetwater, Weatherford, Wichita Falls, Cleburne, Lubbock, Brenham, Center, Galveston, Orange, Port Arthur, Sour Lake, Bartlett, Corpus Christi, Lampasas, Smithville and Taylor.

In some of those the increase requested is the second since the war.

Walter H. Prehn, Southwestern Bell general manager, explains the rate increases this way:

"Costs of doing business have outstripped revenues. Runaway costs have particularly accelerated in the post-war period when it has been necessary to make vast expenditures to expand telephone plants in an attempt to supply the demand for service at a time when costs of materials, salaries and taxes were at a peak."

He breaks these increases down like this:

Copper wire up 67 percent since 1940. Clay conduit for underground cable, up 73 percent. Underground cable, up 65 percent. Aerial cable, up 60 percent. Poles, 92 percent. Wire and cable prices still are going up.

In three years the average amount of telephone plant investment per telephone has risen from $213 to $400, Prehn said.

Salary and wage costs — a major factor in Bell's operating costs — have risen even more. In 1940 the total wage costs of the company in Texas amounted to $13,162,000. For the year 1950 this cost will total $71,597,000 — more than a five-fold increase.

Taxes also are up. Prehn says "with the new corporate income tax of 45 percent that has just gone into effect, the telephone company must take in $1.92 for every dollar it gets to keep after taxes."

By the end of 1950, Southwestern Bell will have spent about $323,480,000 on telephone plants in Texas since the end of 1945. The construction budget for 1950 is $80,000,000. For next year it's $89,000,000.

You'd think, spending that kind of money, that Bell would be catching up with demand. It isn't.

In 1945 Texans wanting a telephone totaled 113,000. In the five years since more than 700,000 telephones have been installed in Texas. But there are still 87,000 persons who want telephones.

It's not only that there are more Texans every year, as the state grows. The proportion of Texans who want a phone is increasing. In 1940 only about half the families in Texas had phones. Now the percentage is up to 70.

Bell says it's working hard to get those phones in. It took 60 years for Texas to get its first 500,000 Bell phones, nine years to get the second 500,000. But the third half million came in less than four years between August, 1947, and November, 1950.

Prehn says the company isn't making bigger money out of the increases.

"Even with the increased rates granted the company, earnings will amount to less than four percent on its investment in Texas this year," Prehn said. "With huge amounts of telephone plant additions required to take care of the demands for service, and with material and other costs continuing to rise, it is going to be necessary to seek further increases in telephone rates."

The Bell system last Monday requested an increase in rates at Plainview. It promised a $1,900,000 dial system if the increase is granted.

Plane Rockets Miss, Tank Runs off Road

WITH THE FIRST MARINE AIRCRAFT WING IN NORTH KOREA — (AP) —While Capt. Grover C. McLure, Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., was flying north of Pyonyang, he spotted an enemy tank on a narrow road. He put his plane into a dive and let fly a hail of rockets, but the tank maneuvered smartly and the rockets landed around it. No hits.

McClure launched two more rockets directly in front of the tank. Still no hits. But the rockets confused the tank driver. He swerved off the road into a rocky ravine. The tank turned over and over, bouncing right out of the war.

"HERE'S HOW IT IS, JAKE" — Soviet UN delegate Jacob Malik, right, appears to take a dim view of the point being driven home by Dr.ga Protatch of Yugoslavia. The two diplomats, from Communist countries that fail to see eye-to-eye, met in a corridor outside the Security Council chamber at Lake Success, N. Y., after a particularly stormy session.

Korea Correspondents Find Covering War Most Confusing

By DON HUTH

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea — (AP) — Reporters striving to keep abreast of developments in this war have been wandering like lost souls the past few days, looking for the front lines.

The sudden general withdrawal of United Nations troops along the entire battlefront in Northwest Korea has brought on the confusion.

Command posts where correspondents depart in the morning are not there by nightfall. They've usually been moved to some rear location. A road leading toward the front one day is a battle area the next. Enemy roadblocks bob up regularly on supposedly well-established supply routes. At any turn sniper fire may come pinging toward the highway.

Fighting shifts rapidly, often before a newsman at corps headquarters can get to the scene of a reported action. More than one correspondent headed for the front has passed through a town, and then been told at an advance command post, "hell, that town fell to the enemy an hour ago, and there are a couple of road blocks on the road you used."

Associated Press Correspondent Tom Lambert visited one command post in the U. S. Second Division's area and left before dark to write and send out his story. When he returned next morning he found that the Chinese had broken into the CP perimeter, killing officers and men in their tents. The post had been moved to the rear during the night.

Like homing pigeons, correspondents from all points along the front have filtered back to Eighth Army headquarters to "regroup," borrowing a word from the communiques. Harried public information officers dig up extra cots and clear floor space for American, British, French, Australian, Turkish and Chinese newsmen.

The correspondents spend most of the night piecing together bits of information they have gathered.

Correspondents who have been through months of war in Korea — from the sticky heat, rain and mud of early days to the present cold, dust and confusion — vow: "I'm through. I've had enough. This is a helluva way to make a living."

They shiver by the fire, eating a can of cold beans and swearing they won't go back. Then they write their stories and catch a few hours of fitful sleep in a freezing room.

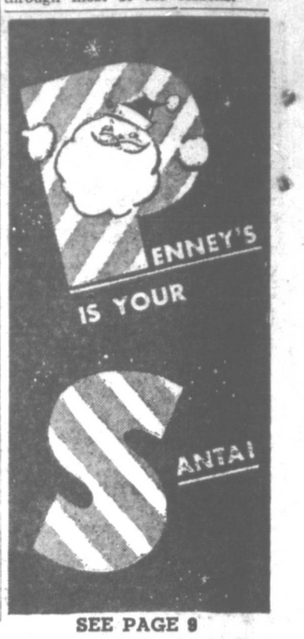

In the morning they crawl slowly out of their sleeping bags, rub up a little circulation in aching limbs, pull on as many garments as they can carry, and ask:

"Well, where are we going today?"

Billy Goat Provides Troubles for Teacher

PALMERSTON, Ont. — (AP) — Teacher Shirley D'Alton has a billy-goat in her one-room country school near here. A few days ago she removed a herd of cows, and boys removed a group of fighting pigs. But the goat won't be driven away. He sleeps through most of the lessons.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

BY CHARLES DICKENS

And then the goose arrived from the baker's oven —and Christmas at the Cratchits' was in full swing!

It was the finest goose that ever graced a dinner table! But the best was yet to come.

Stomach Pain Rarely Due to Appendicitis

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CLEVELAND — (AP) — A pain in your stomach rarely is due to appendicitis — it might be from 100 different reasons.

Determining the right cause can be a knotty problem for doctors, Dr. Edward A. Marshall, Cleveland specialist in internal medicine, said. He spoke at the fourth annual clinical session of the American Medical Assn., a meeting mainly of family doctors.

The person's medical history, physical exams and tests give clues to the right answer, Dr. Marshall said. But he advised four steps when someone gets an abdominal pain:

Give nothing first; give an enema second; give food very late and never give a laxative.

A word of cheer for fat people was sounded by Dr. Samuel Proger, professor of medicine, Tufts College Medical School, Boston.

He said there's no definite evidence that overweight causes heart disease, or brings it on earlier.

The harmones acth and cortisone offer hopes of preventing heart damage from rheumatic fever, biggest killer disease of children, said Dr. Arlie R. Barnes of the University of Minnesota.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

First Play Isn't Automatic

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

A reader from Portland, Ore., writes "I suppose it is silly to bother you with a simple question like this. Still we have been arguing about it and getting nowhere fast. Here is the situation. Both sides need fifty. The up card is a four spot. You are the first player and after drawing hold joker - ace - king - king - 10-7-7-7-6-5-4-2. However, I definitely recommend not throwing away the fourspot. There is a very good chance that the man to your right will select a four as one of his early discards.

If he does you can use your four and one remaining deuce to get the discard pile. In choosing between the other single cards I have a slight preference for throwing the ace. A lot of players just hang on to aces like grim death and I am less likely to have an ace discarded to me than some other card.

Finally I might even throw one of the kings as a trap play. I surely would do it against one of those players who always matches my discard; never would do it against a pair that might freeze the pack against me.

While my reader and his friends all agree that it is correct to meld joker-7-7-7 with this hand I want to put in a mild dissent. I will say this much. It is correct in the ordinary canasta game to meld joker-7-7-7 most of the time. Futhermore, if you do make this meld you should get into no trouble.

The worst that can happen to you will be that the opponents will get control of the discard pile and be able to make two or three canastas before you go out. On the other hand there is little chance of your winding up with a big score if you start with this meld. Even though you get the discard pile you will find that the opponents will get together and meld out before you succeed in capitalizing greatly on your good fortune.

Futhermore, if you are playing against opponents who like to enter into an all out fight for the discard pile, they will freeze the pack against you immediately and you will have little or no chance of getting it. Of course your partner may crash through but there will be two of them working against one of him.

Accordingly I will meld automatically with this hand though I will most of the time. Futhermore, if I choose not to meld I may throw one of my three sevens as bait.

Finally, if I decide to meld with this hand I might meld joker-king-king and either discard one of my sevens as bait or hold the three sevens in case I may want to play for a quick out.

The whole point of this dissertation being that there is no such thing as an automatic first play in a canasta hand.

Dr. Robert Jackson Speaks at Banquet For Irish Rotary

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Rotarians at the annual ladies night banquet heard Dr. Robert E. Jackson, professor at Texas State College for Women, Denton, bring a message centering around Henry Van Dyke's poetry — "Think without confusion clearly."

The speaker was introduced by Supt. Elmer J. Moore of the Shamrock schools.

"When you point a finger at another, you are pointing three at yourself," the speaker declared.

Seven of the 11 past presidents of Rotary were introduced: Bill Walker, L. E. Depew, Norman Patrick, Perry Bear, Stuart Tisdal, Winfred Lewis and Marshall Adams.

E. N. Schaeffer, who has a record of perfect attendance for five years, was introduced by G. L. Harrison, Rotary president.

Others with outstanding attendance records were: H. B. Hill and H. H. Cook, four years perfect; Perry Bear, J. C. Christner and Jack Sims, two years; Gerald Mayfield, Stuart Tisdal, J. C. Wooly, Winfred Lewis and Charles Slemmer, one year.

Entertainment was furnished by the "Bright Spots Orchestra," composed of Ted Sonnenburg, Virgil Snell, Robby Hammack and Clois Smith, with Miss Shirley Lee at the piano.

Shamrock Seeking Officers for Unit Of National Guard

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Organization of a National Guard unit in Shamrock hinges on obtaining suitable officer material, declares Col. T. D. Mitchell, field representative of the Texas adjutant-general.

He has been in Shamrock for several days, but left late last week. Mitchell will return within a few days to see if local civic leaders have been able to secure the officer material needed.

The guard unit would have a payroll of approximately $30,000 annually. It would be designated as Battery "C" of the 474th field Artillery Observation Battalion, Texas National Guard.

Men here would be able to serve their time required by military law without leaving their homes, Col. Mitchell said.

More tea than any other beverage, except water, is drunk throughout the world.

Poppy Sprouting Time Sends Agents Afield in Opium War

By LAURENCE F. STUNTZ

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — Federal agents are flying over lonely valleys and Mexican soldiers are trudging through the mountains in their annual fight against poppy growers who supply opium to the U. S.

Buds of the poppy plant produce an estimated 32 tons of opium in Mexico every year. Most of this goes to the U. S., so Mexican and American officers cooperate in trying to stamp out the traffic.

Mexico's share in the campaign started in November when the illicit fields of poppy plants began sprouting.

Special agents of the Mexican Department of Justice fly in Army planes over the northwestern states where production centers. They look particularly for vegetation of a peculiar green color along streams in remote valleys. Poppies need plenty of water and they are planted in lonely places.

When the agents find a suspicious plantation, they land nearby if possible. If not, they radio the nearest Army post and soldiers are sent trekking overland. In either event, the poppers are cut down or burned. The owner of the land, if he can be found, is arrested and fined.

Experiments have been made in dropping plant killing chemicals from planes, particularly in isolated areas. But this is expensive and does not seem to work very well.

Marihuana fields are another headache for enforcement officers. The government reported it burned 933 separate plantings last year and arrested some 1,600 persons for raising or selling it. But marihuana is raised mostly for Mexican consumption and is not so much an international headache.

The $40,000,000 opium operation is big business. The Mexican Department of Justice thinks it is financed by a few wealthy men — Mexicans and Americans. They use 20 plants or so to smuggle the drug into the U. S. The ring is well protected — gunfire has met raiding squads in the past.

WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLET
NEA Staff Writer

"How do other wives manage to get their husbands to take them out occasionally?" asks a wife with cabin fever — brought on by spending evening after evening in her own living room, while her husband reads, listens to the radio and stalls off all her efforts at conversation by leaning closer to the radio or refusing to glance up from his reading.

Well, a lot of wives don't manage to drag their husbands out at night. Others don't have to drag them because they are married to men who are as sociable as they are. But plenty of wives do get an occasional evening out just by taking the offensive — and ignoring all of their husband's defensive tactics — such as pleading a hard day at the office, or the "do we have to go out again tonight?" routine.

If it's worth it to you—you might try that last method. Don't ask your husband if he wants to go out, or try the wistful "we haven't been anywhere in ages" line. Just get busy and make some plans.

SURPRISE HIM

Hire a baby sitter. Have your glad rags on when your husband comes home, and announce brightly that you're going out to dinner, to a movie, to the Joneses, or whatever place you've picked.

The worst he can do is refuse to go — which isn't likely, with you all dressed up and baby sitter hired for the evening.

If he does that, keep your temper and say well, you guess you'll just go by yourself, and that as long as he is going to be home, you can call the sitter and tell her not to come.

An evening at home won't look nearly so appealing if Papa's got to baby sit and if you aren't going to be sitting home, too.

That may sound like a high price to pay for an evening out — but you wanted to know how some women manage to get their husbands to take them places. And that's one way it can be done.

These Sleekly Designed Holid ay Evening Purses Combine Roominess With Elegance of Fabric

For holiday parties, these evening bags designed by Alan merge glamor with practical roominess. A cocoa blonde satin bag (right) in a simple silhouette has fine-edged frame, narrow chain handle, is worn with designer Margi Snyder's short silk rep dress with scooped neckline. A black velvet pouch bag (upper left) has a clasp of baroque pearls. The fold-over purse for evening (upper right) in an envelope type opens to a deep pouch bag with curved metal frame. A brocade evening bag (lower left) looks like a French candy box, is trimmed with black velvet. A simple elongated envelope clutch bag in velvet (lower right) is lined in contrasting satin, has baroque pearl clasp.

NEW YORK —(NEA) — The theory that a woman needs in an evening bag just enough space for a lipstick, compact, comb and handkerchief is, obviously, silly. Any woman knows that she needs space for a billfold, doorkeys, mirror, several lipsticks, bobby pins, compact, handkerchief, pill box, comb, glasses case and three or four perfume vials.

Though this is a minimum, it's only recently that handbag designers have started giving women roomy evening bags which have glamor; too.

Evening handbags, designed by Alan for the winter holiday whirl are both spacious and pretty. One, adapted from a French candy box, is in white and silver brocade banded in velvet and with a top handle formed by velvet loops. Lined i; black satin, this bag will carry a great deal.

Black velvet makes a shirred pouch which can tote a weary load of trifles from late afternoon into evening. A straight - edged frame has a handsome clasp of baroque pearls. Black velvet cording makes the handle for this bag, which is lined in blonde satin.

Black velvet appears again in an elongated envelope clutch bag with slim, simple lines and baroque pearl clasp.

Cocoa blonde satin fashions a classic evening bag with jeweler's frame and narrow chain handle. Lined in brown satin, this bag is a twin to custom made evening carry-alls.

The foldover purse, favored in many fabrics this season, appears in gold and white brocade for evening. Though it appears to be a soft envelope bag, the fake flap folds up to form a deep pouch bag with curved, narrow metal frame. Black satin lines this bag for pretty contrast.

MECHANICAL HEART MAY REVIVE DEAD—Dr. Charles B. Bailey, famous heart surgeon, announced Sunday at Cleveland that a new mechanical heart (above) is ready for trial on human beings. The machine is ready at Hahnemann Hospital to revive some patient whose heart has stopped beating. It has worked already on dogs. Dr. Bailey said the mechanical heart might have saved the life of Al Jolson, who died Oct. 23, by keeping him alive until a blood clot was removed and his own heart could resume its functions. Medical Science Develops Amazing Artificial Heart

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Someday soon a human who is "clinically" dead may be brought back to life by a new artificial heart-and-lung machine.

One machine that may do this is being kept in readiness during difficult heart operations at Hahnemann Hospital in Philadelphia, in case the patient's heart stops.

The machine and its potentialities were described Sunday by Dr. Charles P. Bailey, chief of chest surgery, and associates at Hahnemann, to the Ohio Chapter of the American College of Chest Physicians.

It has worked successfully on dogs. It kept one dog alive for 71 minutes, while it pumped her blood and gave it new oxygen, he said.

It took dark-red blood from two veins near the heart, bypassing the dog's own heart and lungs, and pumped refreshed, bright red blood back into an artery in the neck. The dog recovered completely after the machine was disconnected, and her own heart took over its normal work.

If this can be done safely with humans, it will make possible new kinds of chest operations and medical treatment of heart and lung diseases, the surgeon said.

The machine is the latest of a dozen or more developed in the last 20 years. The hope for this one lies in its efficient steel "lung" and special new pump. It is compact, with all its parts contained in a glass cabinet only 30 inches nigh, 16 inches wide and 18 inches deep.

Because of the risk, it cannot be used now on a living person, Dr. Bailey said. Its first test probably will come when a patient dies during an operation, when his heart stops beating.

This heart stoppage is called clinical death. A person might still be revived, if blood circulation is restored quickly enough, before sensitive brain tissues are damaged. This critical time element for some people may be only two or three minutes, but there are rare cases of safe escape from death as long as eight minutes later. In these, surgeons squeezed or massaged the heart to start it ticking again.

If heart massage or other means fail, then the heart machine can be tried, the surgeon said, "for there will be nothing to lose, and everything to gain."

If the machine succeeds, then there will be far brighter hopes of realizing the dreams behind the many artificial heart experiments.

One goal is to be able to open the heart, with no blood coursing through it. Surgeons would have direct clear vision of the heart's interior, and would have time to repair faulty valves, correct blue-baby troubles, substitute new pieces of artery from an artery bank. The heart meanwhile would keep beating, receiving nourishment from the tiny capillaries, but would have no work to do.

Medically, the spare heart-lung could help in severe asthma or pneumonia, or heart diseases where the heart needs temporary help. The machine might be connected just to a vain and artery in the neck, refreshing and recirculating the blood, but sending it through the body's own heart and lungs as well.

The spare heart might also bring back people whose hearts have stopped, or who are dying of shock and a dangerous fall in blood pressure.

The lung and heart of the new machine were adapted from industrial inventions.

The lung is a steel cyliner, 26 inches high, six inches wide. Transparent plastic tubes, attached to one or two veins, bring venous blood into its top by gravity. The blood trickles in tiny droplets through a mosquito-like netting of stainless steel mesh, and takes up oxygen blowing up from below.

The artificial heart, no larger than the actual human heart, pumps the blood back through another tube connected to an artery. It takes in gulps of blood, and squeezes it along in pulses, but with gentle pressure that avoids damage to fragile blood cells. The transparent plastic pump has no valves or gaskets that could contaminate the blood. The blood touches only the plastic walls and a surgical rubber liner covering the wobbling shaft that pulses the blood through.

An electric coil keeps the blood warm, and a chemical prevents clotting. The pulse rate is governed by simple controls. The machine operates on ordinary current. It can pump up to eight quarts of blood a minute, about double the volume needed by a person at rest.

The machine was developed in joint research by Hahnemann Medical College, Drexel Institute of Technology and J. J. Ashton Co., New York City engineering development firm.

Use both the fleshy, succulent white stalks and the green leaves of Swiss Chard. Cut the chard into one-inch pieces and cook just as you would ceery, in a small amount of salted boiling water. Do not overcook; the chard should be tender-crisp when done.

Officer Has Impulse to Burn City Hall in Korea Capital

By HAL BOYLE

SEOUL — (AP) — One of the last Americans to leave Red Pyongyang had to fight back an impulse to burn down the city hall.

He is Col. Charles R. Munske of Brooklyn, military governor of the North Korean capital. He had spent six weeks organizing a civic government for Pyongyang and restoring the transport system and water and power supply.

Then in a few hours last Sunday the colonel rather ruefully saw the fruits of his six weeks of hard work go up in smoke and debric as American demolition engineers blew up the repaired bridges and power stations.

But Munske was in full accord with the American Army policy of leaving nothing behind that would be of any help to the Chinese Reds.

"When I went into my office in the city hall for the last time to burn my papers," he said, "I felt like turning over the stove and burning down the building. But I didn't have the heart to do it."

That was Monday morning. The city appeared empty of all allied military personnel except for British rear guard troops and the 20 members of his own Eighth Army civil assistance team.

"There was no rioting or looting — everything was peaceful," the colonel said. "I had kept 1,000 city policemen behind to keep order, but then I decided it was time to let them make their own escape. I gave them the word and they marched south across the bridge. I hope the South Koreaans will take them into their army. They were good loyal men."

One of his chief regrets about the evacuation was that he had to leave behind in the city jail about 800 North Koreans being held for political crimes.

"The turnkey had run off with the key," Munske said, "and we had to leave them there to be freed by Reds when they come in. But before that we had taken 38 of the prisoners and sent them south by rail. They were the worst of the lot—men we were holding for trial as war criminals. They will still have to face justice."

Munske and his detachment left Pyongyang Monday afternoon in eight vehicles. They reached here late Wednesday, half frozen after a nightmare 165 - mile journey through bitter weather.

Australian Salt Flat Now Has Become Lake

SYDNEY — (AP) — Lake Eyre in Australia has never been anything but a vast salt pan — at least in the memory of present Australians. But now floods have filled it with water, 4,000 square miles in area.

A recent exploring party toured it in a launch. One member got seasick. The party was mystified by a tide on the lake of from 12 to 15 inches.

Saturday is the big day — Class AA Texas high school playoffs. Sixteen teams will be whittled down to eight by five o'clock Saturday afternoon. The big game, of course, is the Pampa-Wichita Falls clash in Coyote Stadium at 2 o'clock.

The Harvesters tagged the Coyotes 14-0, earlier in the season, but the game was closer than the score indicates. Wichita Falls fumbled the ball twice inside the Harvester five-yard line, and it was a tough battle throughout.

Many fans thought the Pampans should of chased the Coyotes out of the stadium in their last encounter with Coach Joe Golding's pack.

I predicted the last game as a toss up, with the edge going to Wichita Falls because of the home field advantage. On arriving in W. F., the home town papers had the Harvesters a three to four touchdown favorite. How they reached that conclusion is beyond me. But I believe it was used to fire up the Coyotes, and pump the Harvesters full of over confidence.

I'm not a gambling man, but I bet that the same three touchdown favorite tag is given Coach Tom Tipps' grid crew by Wichita Falls' sports writers.

I'll probably be ready for a straight jacket before five o'clock rolls around Saturday afternoon. . . Putt Powell has the Harvesters a one touchdown favorite . . . He picked the score 20-14.

Pampa has scored ten straight victories this season, and the [illegible] attributed to a fine coaching staff and a bunch of kids who like to play football, and they like to win. Team balance and team play has paid off with team victories. The Harvesters haven't been cocky and they have been playing their games one at a time.

After watching the Harvesters speed past Borger, Coach Joe Golding has probably been staying awake nights cooking up a tricky defense to throw at Pampa's T formation attack.

Coach Pat Pattison, Lubbock mentor, was also in the stands scouting the game. He was here just in case Pampa and Lubbock are victorious Saturday.

I've let my finger nails grow and have ordered an extra box of cigarettes for Saturday's tilt.

Kyle Rote, SMU back, made the second string AP All-America. They say the reason Rote didn't do so well in SMU's last four games was because his wife is expecting a visit from the bird with the elongated legs . . . I can see Killer Kyle climbing out of bed at 2 o'clock in the morning and sprinting all over Dallas looking for watermelon or some other kind of out of season fruit.

Horned Frogs Shoot Past Tech, 70-53

(By The Associated Press)

Southern Methodist University and Texas A&M take on New York basketball teams tonight in the only games scheduled for Southwest Conference teams.

Last night Texas Christian University rallied strongly in the second half to wallop Texas Tech, 70-53, in a game played at Odessa.

Oklahoma knocked off Texas, 49-35, at Norman, Okla.

Southern Methodist plays St. John's at New York City tonight and A&M meets Canisius at Buffalo, N. Y.

Harvesters Tangle With Spearman Cagers Tonight

Pampa Cagers Seek Second Straight Win

Pampa's Harvester cagers will meet the Spearman five in the Junior High School gym at 7:30 tonight. The game was scheduled for last Tuesday but was postponed because of bad weather.

Coach Cliff McNeely's quintet will be after its second straight win of the year when they go up against Coach Garland Head's speedy cagers.

The Harvesters stopped Stratford, 59-52, in their last outing. Pampa will engage the Elks in a return game in the Junior High School gym Friday night. The Guerillas will play Stratford's B team at 7 o'clock in the first game.

Coach Head is minus height this year, but he has a fast bunch of ball handlers to make up for the lack of height.

The probable starters for the Harvesters:

Marvin Bond and Toney Jones at forwards; Duane Jeter at center; Tommy Smith and Jimmy Dulaney at guards.

Pampa Oilers Sell Ricketson, Trade Doud at Meeting

ST. PETERSBURG Fla. (Special) — The Pampa Oilers obtained four players, sold one, and traded one at the minor league meeting here.

Oiler pitcher Earl Doud was traded for outfielder Howell. Don Ricketson was sold to Artesia of the Longhorn League. The Oilers bought Dooley with Lubbock in 1949, to replace Ricketson.

Pampa obtained two pitchers, Claude Baldwin, Albuquerque, and Lee Gatewood, Clarksdale. Curtis Hearnsberger, El Paso, was also added to the Oiler roster.

Oiler Manager Grover Seitz is the Pampa representative at the minor league meeting.

Parker Letters At Wentworth

LEXINGTON, Mo. (Special)—Cadet John Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Parker, 2020 Alcock Street, Pampa, has been awarded a company football letter at Wentworth Military Academy here, according to Capt. Karl Berninger, athletic director.

Approval of this emblem was made today upon recommendations of the coaching staff after evaluating performances of cadet players upon the gridiron this fall.

Formal presentation of this letter will be made at a special student convocation in the near future.

CC Teams Battle For Title Friday

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
AP Sports Editor

The championship of one division will be decided, another will determine eight of twelve regional championships, a third will advance to the semi-finals and a fourth will reach the quarter - finals in a tumultuous weekend of Texas schoolboy football.

The City Conferencea will name its third and final state champion Friday night when John Reagan of Houston plays Sunset at Dallas. The City Conference will be no more after this year. It is being combined with Class AA schools in a super Four A conference.

Class AA, the glamor boy of Interscholastic League football, has eight games as 16 district representatives go through the first round of the state play-off.

Friday afternoon Temple and Austin clash at Austin and Friday night Texarkana will be at Conroe, Baytown at Port Arthur and Alice at Harlingen. Saturday afternoon Pampa plays at Wichita Falls, Austin (El Paso) at Lubbock, Breckenridge at San Angelo and Sherman at Highland Park (Dallas).

Class A decides its semi-finalists with four games. New Braunfels plays Lavega at Waco Friday afternoon, Arlington and Mt. Vernon clash at Commerce and Wharton and Pearsall at Pearsall Friday night, while Levelland and Kermit battle at Odessa Saturday afternoon.

Class B determines regional titles as follows Friday:

Region 1-Happy vs Dimmitt at Tulia, Region 2-Stanton vs Rochester at Abilene, Region 3-Eldorado vs Eden at Eden (night), Region 4-Lewisville vs. Farmersville at McKinney (night), Region 5-Seagoville vs. Grandview at Ennis (night), Region 6-Valley Mills vs Elkhart at Waco (night), Region 10-Granger vs Fort Hood at Temple (night).

Pine Tree and Leverett's Chapel play for the Region 7 championship at Kilgore Saturday. Groveton and Tomball clash at Conroe Dec. 12 for the Region 8 flag. Taft and Lyford battle at Robstown Dec. 15 for the Region 12 crown.

The other two regions will be played off next week. In Region 9, Pearland awaits tonight's game between Columbus and Bastrop at Columbus to know its opponent. In Region 11, Palacios and Pleasanton play at Cuero and Bandera and Dilley clash at Dilley Friday night to determine the finalists.

John Reagan will be favored to beat Sunset for the City Conference championship on the basis of the season record. Sunset surprised last week by upsetting highly rated Arlington Heights of Fort Worth 12-6 but Reagan's 35-0 victory over defending state champion Thomas Jefferson (San Antonio) was the most impressive showing of the year.

In Class AA, Pampa, Lubbock, Breckenridge, Highland Park, Texarkana, Port Arthur, Austin and Harlingen will be expected to come through and roll into the quarter-finals. Pampa, Breckenridge, Texarkana and Port Arthur are undefeated and untied for the season.

In Class A where there are five unbeaten, untied teams, Levelland, Arlington, New Braunfels and Wharton are favored to go to the state semi-finals. Levelland gets the nod over Kermit although it lost three games during the district campaign. Kermit, Arlington, Mt. Vernon, Lavega and Pearsall all are unbeaten and untied, New Braunfels and Wharton are undefeated but have ties on their records.

In Class B it looks like Dimmitt, Rochester, Eldorado, Farmersville, Grandview, Valley Mills, Leverett's Chapel, Tomball, Granger and Lyford will win regional titles.

Shotgun Blast Stops Fox in Sports Arena

NEW YORK — (AP) — The great fox hunt at Yankee Stadium is over.

One blast from a shotgun yesterday ended the mysterious career of the pesky little critter that for 53 days had been the despair of custodians of the huge sports arena.

There was no baying of hounds and no gaily clad hunters mounted on splendid horses were in on the kill. Instead, the end of Reynard came in the dimly lit and eerie atmosphere of a dusty concourse under section 26 in left field.

Walter Grego, a Long Island golf pro who used to hunt with the late Babe Ruth, was the chap who ran Reynard to earth. Recently engaged to help improve the stadium turf, he was inspecting the infield when there was a shout that the fox had been sighted under the stands.

Grego got his shotgun and accompanied Charles Owen, stadium superintendent and master of the hounds, to the dimly lit concourse.

"It was pretty dark," Grego said. "We were pretty nervous, since I had to be careful of the gun. Suddenly, I saw a pair of eyes shining in the dark. He moved and I had only a fraction of a second to get him on the wing. I was fortunate enough to get him right back of the neck at about 40 feet.

"He was lean and starved looking. In a way it was a shame to shoot the little critter, but it's better this way. The stadium was no place for him."

The fox was about three feet long and weighed 15 pounds. It will be mounted later as a press room exhibit.

Reynard first was spotted by watchmen the night before the Army-Michigan football game after a truckload of tarpaulins had been brought in. Since then the fox had proved more cunning than Casey Stengel, manager of the Yankees.

MARK FOR DOAK

DETROIT — (AP) — It took Doak Walker just nine games of the National Football League season to set a new team scoring record. Lion's 24-21 victory over Green By tallying all 24 points in the Lions' 24-21 victory over Green Bay, Walker increased his total to 91. This erased Bill Dudley's 81-point record set in 1949. The league's all-time scoring record of 138 points was set in 1942 by Don Hutson of Green Bay.

GERMAN DOG WINS

ROME — (AP) — A German hunting hound won the 13th Italian national championship for pointers, organized by the Italian Hunting Federation. The winning dog was "Dumar di Po Vecchio," owned by Luigi Corteggiani.

Second prize went to the Italian hound "Friend della Faggiola" and third prize to another German dog, "Jorck." The national championship climaxed 30 regional contests.

Pampans Complete Third Practice Session for W.F.

Pampa's undefeated Harvesters returned to the practice field Wednesday afternoon. Zero weather sent the Harvesters inside Tuesday, and practice was held in the basketball gym.

Although the temperature was still on the down grade Wednesday, the Pampans hustled through a two-hour drill session. Coach Tom Tipps had his district champs working on a defense against Wichita Falls' single wing attack.

The Harvesters and Coyotes will meet at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon in a Class AA bi-district grid contest in Coyote Satdium.

After the defense got a good working over, the Pampans split into three teams, moving up and down the field polishing up on signal calling.

Demaret, Burke Lose at Miami

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — John Barnum and Jack Shields ranked the dark-horse favorites today as 16 teams competed in the second round of the $10,000 Miami International Four-Ball Golf tournament.

Barnum, young Grand Rapids, Mich., professional, and Shields, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, yesterday upset highly favored Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., and Jack Burke, Jr., Houston, 5 and 4, in one of the most remarkable best-ball rounds ever played on the Miami Country Club course. They meet Bill Nary and Joe Kirkwood, Jr., today. The Nary - Kirkwood team beat Otey Chrisman, Selma, Ala., and Harold Williams, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

The top seeded team of Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., and Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, are matched with Ed Furgol, Royal Oak, Mich., and Marty Furgol, North Hollywood, Calif., who are not related.

Georgia, Aggies Set for Cup Game Saturday

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The year's first big post-season football game shaped up today as a ball-carrying duel between Bob Smith of Texas A&M and Billy Mixon of Georgia.

The game is the inaugural President's Cup contest, so-called because American Legion sponsors claim President Truman approved the idea of a post-season game for charity. It will be played Saturday at Byrd Stadium in suburban College Park, Md.

Both teams are due here today, Georgia arriving by train and the Texas Aggies by plane. Coaches Wally Butts of Georgia and Harry Stiteler of Texas A&M plan to work out in the game stadium, on the University

Training Sites Named By Class AA Clubs

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. —(AP)— The Rio Grande Valley will be spring training grounds for three or four Class AA baseball teams next spring.

Beaumont will train at Brownsville; San Antonio at McAllen; and Houston at Harlingen from March 1-April 1. Denver may go to Donna.

Bill Ely, owner of the Brownsville team, announced these facts yesterday.

Craft Is Signed To Manage Beaumont

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. —(AP)— Harry Craft, who starred with championship Cincinnati teams in 1939 and 1940, will manage the top Texas League club next year — the Beaumont Roughnecks.

He succeeds Rogers Hornsby, who went to Seattle. Craft managed the Joplin Miners in the Western Association last year.

NO CHANCE TO SHINE

DETROIT — (AP) — Les Bingaman, six-three 250-pound guard for the Detroit Lions, fears he now will never get a chance to fulfill his secret ambition to play quarterback. After piling up a huge score in a recent exhibition game, Lion Coach Bo McMillin permitted his players to play any position.

Backs became linemen and linemean, harboring a yen to carry the ball, went into the backfield. "And I, with a bum ankle, couldn't play at all," moans Bingaman.

Horse Racing Industry Told No Shutdown Is in Sight

NEW YORK — (AP) — The billion-dollar horse racing industry was told today there are "no known plans to date" to curtail the sport in event of war.

Doubtless remembering the complete shutdown of the sport from late in 1944 to May, 1945, Donald P. Ross, president of the thoroughbred racing associations (TRA), yesterday told members in his annual report:

"TRA is endeavoring to insure that it is not singled out from other sports and forms of entertainment as a target for some useless curtailment which contributes nothing to the defense effort."

Under the heading "war situation" Ross said in his report: "With the war situation in Korea and the general stepping up of national defense measures, it is to be expected that racing will be affected, as will all normal activities. Racing will not shirk its war-time responsibilities . . . the board of directors has had this matter under consideration since July, 1950.

"Since then Spencer Drayton (head of the TRA protective bureau) has spent considerable time in Washington acquainting proper authorities with racing's position and in order to be kept informed concerning all developments which might affect racing. In view of past experience a careful watch will be kept on developments in Washington and all executive orders which might lead to unwarranted restrictions will be anticipated wherever possible.

"In the recent national production authority restriction on construction of places of entertainment, racing was not singled out but the restriction affected all sports and amusements.

"This is in line with TRA's thinking that racing, in so far as national restrictions are concerned, belongs in the same broad category with all sports, amusements and entertainment. Through the TRA racing will be able to formulate plans as rapidly as policy in Washington becomes crystalized. Exclusive of the NPA's restrictions on construction, there are no known plans in Washington to restrict racing."

The two-day meeting ends tonight with the TRA's annual dinner.

Minor Leagues See Ray of Hope in Stopping Casting

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. —(AP)— The harried minor leagues, waging a desperate battle to curtail broadcasts of major league games, saw their first ray of hope today.

According to President George Trautman, the little fellows received evidence that the majors had "a sympathetic attitude" to their radio-television problem.

The subject was thrashed out last night between Trautman, major and minor league committees, and Commissioner A. B. Chandler. The conference lasted three hours and ended on an optimistic note.

"It is the conclusion of the committee," said Trautman, "that fundamentally the solution of this problem rests with the individual major league clubs. However, there is evidence of a sympathetic attitude to our problem by the big league representatives."

Trautman outlined a three-pronged program that he will take in person to the American and National League meetings next week.

1. He will ask the major league clubs individually to curtail their own major league networks.

2. He will ask the majors for better supervision of the conduct of its broadcast outlets.

3. He will ask the majors to limit their television outlets to their home territory.

Whether a curtailment of radio broadcasts will relieve the attendance drop in the minors is problematical. The minors insist, however, that the blame for last season's 19 percent dip was due largely to widespread broadcasts.

The high school and bonus rules also were to be under fire today. The latter law appeared doomed. The high school rule also probably will be scrapped when the contract runs out Dec. 31, 1951.

Flanagan Upsets Sandy Saddler

DETROIT — (AP) — Good looking Del Flanagan of St. Paul, Minn., was hot on the trail of lightweight champion Ike Williams today after scoring an upset victory over featherweight king Sandy Saddler in a non-title scrap here last night.

The 22 - year - old Minnesota youngster was hopeful of getting a shot at Williams' crown in January and the International Boxing Club indicated it would do its best to make the match.

Asked if he wanted a return bout, Saddler replied angrily "absolutely not. Flanagan didn't fight tonight and since you can't make a man fight, there is no use in getting him into the ring."

Flanagan's jubilation at his surprise win undoubtedly was shared by his stablemate, former featherweight champ Willie Pep, who played a big role in the fight even though he was not here to see it.

Flanagan's training consisted in a large part of hours spent watching movies and still pictures of the September fight in which Saddler took Pep's title away.

District 5 Votes In 2 More Teams

DALLAS — (AP) — Texarkana and Sherman were voted into District 5 of the newly created AAAA division of the Interscholastic League athletic program.

Sherman had previously been tentatively assigned to the district, dependent on the district committee's vote. Both schools, Sherman and Texarkana, are just under the 850 enrollment necessary for admittance to the new class. Both, however, will reach the required enrollment next year, officials of the two schools said.

The other five schools in the district are Highland Park (Dallas), Wichita Falls, Denison, Waco and Tyler.

The organizational meeting of the district was held here yesterday.

Bob Ashworth, principal of the Tyler school, was named chairman of the district for the coming year.

The board decided that in case of a tie game each team would get one-half a game credit in the percentage column, with the team with the highest percentage being the district winner.

In case of a tie percentage the team that won over the team it was tied with would be declared the winner. If the two teams tied played a tie game the verdict would hinge on greatest number of penetrations if they were tied, the decision would revert to first downs.

In case of the 3-way tie where each member in the tie had been defeated by another member in the tie it was decided that a flip of the coin should decide the district representative.

More than 15,000 persons died last year as a result of falls in the home.

Rowland Picked For Shrine Game

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — McMurry College of Abilene has contributed a big star for the Shrine's famed East-West charity football game, here Dec. 30.

Brad Rowland, a backfield triple-threater, will play for the Western team in the all star classic bringing together college seniors for the benefit of the Shriners Crippled Children's Hospital.

Rowland, a passer, runner and punter, was named to the Associated Press "Little All America." His is the smallest college in point of registration, some 600 students, ever to be represented in the East-West contest.

Rowland's acceptance of an invitation was announced today along with those of Andy Hillhouse, Texas A&M, and Frank Boydston, Baylor.

The smallest shoe stocked by the U.S. Army for soldiers in Japan is size 3 and the largest size 15 1-2 EEEE.

Number 16 Retired

ABILENE — (AP) — Brad Rowland's "No. 16" is going into McMurry College's trophy room. It will never be worn again by an Indian athlete.

Proposal that the college retire the two-time little All - America back's jersey was made by the co-captain of the team, Floyd Sampson, at a banquet.

Wallop Wichita

"WALLOP WICHITA!"

That's the theme for this weekend. And there are plenty of Pampa football fans who will be yelling it with added enthusiam this weekend after looking at the location of the seats which were sent to Pampa by Wichita Falls officials.

Pampa football fans who were first in line for tickets for Saturday's bi-district game found that their seats were located from the thirty-yard line to the goal, long noted as not the best in the house.

It would seem that officials in Wichita Falls could have done better by a team and its fans that they are supposed to be hosting. There are two sides and end zone available for seating in Coyote Stadium. The end zone is usually reserved for the soldiers from Sheppard Field, but that still leaves about 14,000 seats available.

To be good hosts, the type for which Pampa has become so well-known, one side of the field could have been reserved for Pampa, and the other for Wichita Falls. The remainder of the tickets, not used by the Pampa fans, could then be returned for the use of WF.

That's the method used by Pampa last year.

Something else about our football season. No matter what the outcome of Saturday's tilt, the Pampa Harvesters and their coaches have brought more favorable publicity to Pampa throughout the state than could have been purchased by many thousands of dollars in newspaper advertising and radio time. Next year, with the new redistricting in the Interscholastic League, Pampa could gain even more good, free publicity.

Pampa could make it worth somebody's while to see that we continue to keep this type of publicity.

A Moment of Time

It takes only a moment to write a check or slip some bills in an envelope. If the envelope is addressed to the Pampa Tuberculosis Association, that brief moment may help save a life.

Some of us neglected to take that moment to acknowledge our Christmas seals when we received them in our mail last November. It is easy to put something like this aside during the busy pre-Christmas days. But it is not too late to take a moment off to make our return for the seals.

Funds realized from the sale of Christmas seals are the sole financial support of the association in its work to bring tuberculosis under complete control in our community. The activities of the association include such worthwhile projects as free X-rays and tuberculosis educational program.

Continuation of these activities may make the difference between life and death to some of our residents. Surely all of us want to support the work of our tuberculosis association. It will take but a moment to tell the association we are back of its life-saving program, only a moment to acknowledge our Christmas seals.

Fair Enough-Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — To the great accumulation of proof that Franklin D. Roosevelt was crooked in little things as well as great, I report that he literally stole passages from a book and palmed them off as original composition in an article which, by his own precaution, was not to be published until he was dead. The article was a tribute to the old Cunard liner Mauretania. Under Roosevelt's by-line, it was printed in the June, 1950, issue of Sea Breezes, "The Ship Lovers' Digest," an English magazine, with the title "Queen with a Fighting Heart."

The excerpts in question were stolen from a book entitled "Mauretania Landfalls and Departures," by Humphrey Robertson Jordan, published in London by Hodder and Stoughton in June, 1936. A brief foreword to Roosevelt's piece, in which he affects great knowledge of ships and seafaring, although he never sailed deep water in any other role than that of first class passenger, states that this effort was put together in August of 1936, at a time when Mr. Jordan's book was at hand for consultation and cribbing.

After the June issue of Sea Breezes had carried the Roosevelt piece with a proud little note celebrating this coup, the August issue of the same magazine carried a letter in the vox pop attributed to one Henry Maxwell, who said he thought Roosevelt "must, I think, have had by his hand, when dictating the article" the Jordan book referred to.

Mr. Maxwell then compared the wording of Roosevelt's story in one paragraph of unusually good descriptive writing with Jordan's earlier work.

Roosevelt's piece ran: "to no other ship belonged that trick of hers — that thrust and dip and drive into the seas and through them which would wreck the rails of the 'monkey island' with solid sea or playfully spatter salt water on the captain's boiled shirt as he took a turn on the bridge before going down to dinner."

Jordan's version of the same thing had been: "That thrust and dip and drive of hers into the seas and through them, that trick of hers which could wreck the rails of the monkey island with solid sea or playfully spatter salt water on a commander's boiled shirt, did not belong to any other ship."

Mr. Maxwell's letter closed with the restrained comment that this was not the only indication that the late president had "relied on Jordan's book for many particulars and descriptions."

Nor was it.

In Jordan's preface this line occurs: "For 22 years she remained the world's fastest liner."

Roosevelt put it thus: "For 21 years she remained the fastest liner he (man) had ever produced."

Jordan: "When she had long ceased to be the largest ship, when, after a very gallant struggle in old age she ceased to be the fastest liner, she remained during another five years of hard work, the world's most famous steamship."

Roosevelt: "When she had long ceased to be the largest ship and when, after a gallant struggle in her old age, she no longer was the fastest Atlantic liner, for still another five years of hard work she remained the world's most famous steamship."

The trivial variations in Roosevelt's plagiarism are characteristic of this literary crime.

Continuing: Jordan: "Neither size nor speed, alone, could have given her fame; that rested on something more secure and more intangible — on her individuality."

Roosevelt: "Neither size nor speed alone could have given the Mauretania her fame. That rested on something more secure and intangible — on her personality — for the M, was a ship with a fighting heart."

Jordan: "She was only known on two of the seven seas. She never crossed the line. She never made a long voyage as long voyages are reckoned. Yet, wherever men go in ships her name is familiar as the greatest of her kind."

Roosevelt: "The seven seas knew the Mauretania although she never crossed the Equator. She never made a long voyage as (long) voyages are reckoned. Yet, wherever men are, this August day of 1936, be they in Denver, Colorado, or the veldt of South Africa, the M., even in death, is familiar as the greatest of her kind."

Jordan: "She was an inanimate thing of steel, but her individuality was so near to personality as to be really living for many thousands of ordinary, sensitive, human beings."

Roosevelt changed one word here. He substituted "yet" where Jordan had written "but."

These deadly parallels were discovered in an incomplete comparison of Roosevelt's text with Jordan's. There are other twirls in Roosevelt's counterfeit which strongly suggest that on detailed inspection the enormity of the fraud would be aggravated.

At several points, Roosevelt hedged with remarks that he was relying on notes provided by his secretary, Missy Le Hand, but these concerned capacity, speed, dimensions, performances and other purely mathematical data.

The foreword to the Roosevelt piece in Sea Breezes said: "It is not often that a magazine is privileged to publish an article written by the leader of a great nation — especially an article extolling the product of another nation. The following was written by Franklin Delano Roosevelt at Hyde Park, New York. In August 1936, when he was president of the United States. To his friend, Mr. Ralph E. Cropley, of New York, 'F.D.R.', gave permission to release the article for publication in 1950 if he were dead by that time."

The by-line read "by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Another vox pop letter, immediately following the one in which Mr. Maxwell called the turn on the deified brain-picker, signed "Eileen L. Elliott," put the same accusation in this language: "It struck me forcibly that not a few of the passages were taken word for word from Humphrey Jordan's book, 'Mauretania'."

GLOBALONEY

By DAVID BAXTER

PART 2

When World Federalist Eugene Murphy told just half—the worst sounding half—of the truth about me, that I had been indicted some years ago for "sedition," I immediately began giving you the other half, facts of record. I shall now dish out a bit more and then we will discuss the one-world-government advocate's other issues.

In 1942, when the first indictment was returned, I soon ran out of money and, unable to raise the heavy bond insisted upon by Roosevelt's legal gangsters, I spent six months in jail—much of it in solitary—awaiting trial. In other words, I was punished before being tried, a procedure dear to the hearts of reds and, in this case, of world federalists also. And then, no trial was ever held on that indictment. The courts emasculated it. In 1943 the Washington Bolsheviks tried it again—with similar results. In 1944, Rogge and company made one more stab at it and this time it came before the judge Roosevelt had specially appointed for just that purpose—former Congressman Eicher, who publicly said that he was "proud to be a rubber stamp for President Roosevelt." He certainly proved it in trying that case. Even the Washington Post, which had helped instigate the case, emmitted a sickly belch after the trial had gone on for six months, withdrew its reporter and editorialized that the whole mess was a "judicial farce." That's exactly what the Post called it. Every paper in Washington held its nose as the frame-up became more and more apparent. The staid old District of Columbia Bar Assn. even erupted and demanded an investigation while members of congress presented proof that government prosecutors had conspired with certain left-wingers to deliberately railroad the sedition defendants and deprive them of their rights. In my own case let me remind you that the American Civil Liberties Union is not exactly a conservative, right-wing organization, yet the Southern California branch, even though loaded with socialist, was so outraged by the miscarriage of justice, that it sent a battery of lawyers to defend my rights, free-gratis.

The famous Christian leader, Dr. W. B. Riley, called the case, "the most palpable perversion of justice in American history." The congresional committee investigating un-American activities called it "the abominable so-called sedition case" and stated in its report that communists, using Lenin's tactics, had accused their enemies of doing the things they themselves were guilty of. After six months of weary trial, broke, discouraged and with a wife and two kids to support (I worked in Washington as an artist after court hours), God proved himself, as always, to be on the side of justice. The whole power of government brought against almost helpless citizens could not break through that divine intervention. The defense lawyers, most of them unpaid and simply interested in the issue involved, fought like tigers. Some of them were strong American Legionaires and Veterans of Foreign Wars. My own lawyer, Hobart Little, of York, Pa. who volunteered his services, almost went broke after six months of defending me without pay. He was a cavalry lieutenant in World War I and one of the finest gentlemen I've ever known. Communist papers all over the country kept up a continual smear campaign against the lawyers quite as vile as that aginst the defendnts. Two of the victims died from the strain. They were both aged. One of them was 82 year old Elmer (Dad) Garner, an old states-right Democrat and non-interventionist editor of a country newspaper. The Rogge gang had his body shipped back to his widow in Kansas stark naked and packed in a plain wood box. I wondered what kind of atrocities our native commies would subject patriots to if the day should come when they could go whole-hog. What with men like Communist-World Federalist Alger Hiss practically running the government, with most Americans sound asleep, I had good reasons for wondering.

When, after six months of trial, Judge Eicher finally severed me from the case, he said, in the presence of witnesses, "go on back to California and forget about it, Dave." When Eicher died and an honest judge, Bolitha Laws, took over, Rogge admitted in open court that he doubted whether, even he could get a conviction. The Supreme Court would uphold it. He was fired and Justice Laws threw the case out, calling it a "travesty upon justice." Rogge's successors, headed by Lawyer Shapiro, appealed, and the U. S. Court of Appeals likewise found for the defense. Thus ended the sedition case.

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — General Douglas A. MacArthur would be rebuked or relieved summarily of his command by an administration which is privately furious because he has publicized military and diplomatic difficulties responsible for our unprecedented disaster in Korea, which he blames on his Washington superiors, if the White House dared to brave public wrath.

The only reason he has not been rebuked or recalled is due to official fear of the reaction, in view of MacArthur's popularity on Capitol Hill and with the American people generally.

In off-the-record talks, which many reporters refused to write because State Department officials would not assume direct responsibility for them or permit quotation, it was admitted that the General might have been replaced in late October, had it not been for White House concern over the reaction in the November election and in Congress.

"SETTLEMENT" — MacArthur's offense at that time, in Washington's books, was that he insisted on waging a more aggressive campaign against the Reds than American or European diplomats desired. They hoped, and still hope, to arrive at what Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Minister Bevin have called a "political settlement" with Russia.

Besides protesting against any immediate use of the atom bomb, Mr. Attlee's emergency trip here was to complain against MacArthur's October-November strategy on the ground that it jeopardized the possibility of a general world agreement with Stalin.

Despite past failures, the frightened European leaders think it advisable to approach the Kremlin in what may be a last, desperate effort to stave off a world War III.

STATEMENTS — MacArthur's more recent offense has been his rash of brutally frank statements to American magazine and newspaper correspondents eager to learn the real truth of the military and diplomatic tragedy which finds his, small, so-called "United Nations army" beleaguered by overwhelming Red hordes, and possibly facing a fate worse than the British suffered at Dunkirk.

Violating the politico - military code that imposes a discreet silence on field commanders except for discussion of bread-and-butter problems, MacArthur has divulged information that has been withheld at Washington from Congress, the press and the American people.

He felt forced to do so, obviously, because of criticism voiced of him by high State Department officials, in response to complaints from the foreign offices of London and Paris.

BLAME — Mr. Truman denies indignantly that there has been any "sniping at MacArthur" by Secretary Acheson. Technically, the President is correct, for the polite and punctilious Mr. A. has not sung in the anti-MacArthur choir.

But Mr. Truman's ingenious denial cannot change the fact, as a score of factual and conscientious newspaper reporters will testify, that Mr. Acheson's aides have tried to shift the blame for our Korean debacle and our even more dangerous world predicament, from Washington to Tokyo.

President Truman's exasperation at MacArthur's cabled revelations in reply to American correspondents' telephones and telegrams is understandable. The White House has resented the General's independent attitude ever since he publicly disputed the Truman - Acheson contention that Formosa is not essential to our defense line in the Far Pacific.

FICTION — MacArthur, for instance, has exploded the official fiction that it is the United Nations, and not the United States almost alone, which is resisting Russian aggression in a possible prelude to global conflict. He has only about 20,000 UN members' troops, or less than one-tenth of his fighting strength.

He has revealed that his divided responsibility hamstrings his battlefield operations. It slowed down his advance because he had to query Washington on each new proposed push and Washington then had to consult key UN members before giving grudging authority. In every instance London and Paris advised a halt, but Mr. Truman could not afford to accept their advice.

Even worse, the United Nations handicap prevented him from ground or aerial reconnaissance in or over Chinese Manchuria. Although Washington blames the "inadequacy of his intelligence" for his unawareness of Mao Tze-tung's war plans, he attributes the surprise to the Truman-United Nations restrictions on his freedom of military action.

ANTAGONISTS — MacArthur also had the temerity to deliver a lecture to Attlee and Bevin, and to Premier Pleven of France. It is doubtful if any field commander in history has taken on so many powerful critics and antagonists.

He has reminded the backhome statesmen that World War III may be prevented, won or lost in Korea. Even more significantly, he points out that, unless the allied forces win now, they may some day — and on a not too distant day — be defeated on "European battlefields."

As against this attitude, Messrs. Attlee, Bevin and Pleven believe that another attempt should be made to negotiate a world-wide pact with Stalin. When this proposal is compared to the futile Munich "appeasement" conference, it is answered that the Hitler - Chamberlain-Daladier document gave the western nations more than a year to rearm and rebuild their shattered defenses.

As Attlee argued with Truman, the democratic nations now need at least three years to prepare for a showdown with Moscow. Within a few weeks — or days — the White House must decide whether to accept the MacArthur on European view.

The Doctor Says

WRITTEN FOR NEA

By EDWIN J. JORDAN, MD.

Recently still another report has appeared in a medical journal about poisoning from carbon tetrachloride. This is a potent chemical which is contained in some cleaning fluids.

The report dealt with some 12 cases in Staten Island, New York. Two of the seamen involved had been cleaning their clothes with carbon tetrachloride 12 hours before the development of their symptoms of nausea, vomiting and diarrhea. Another man had been painting a room in his house, using carbon tetrachloride to thin the paint.

In another study of this subject the following statement was made: "Dry cleaning fluids and stain removers are very common household poisons...cases of poisoning result both from the inhalation of vapors as well as from swallowing. Some time ago we examined the body of a woman who had cleaned a dress with carbon tetrachloride in the bathroom, a small space without ventilation she succumbed to the fumes of this compound."

Now this is a serious situation and many people are not sufficiently aware of the hazards which may come from the careless handling of cleaning fluids containing carbon tetrachloride or other dangerous chemicals. Many fluids contain benzol or methyl alcohol which are also dangerous when either swallowed or when their fumes are inhaled.

Some of the cleaning fluids, while they do not contain poisonous chemicals, may catch fire easily. It has been reported that about 200 people are killed and 1000 seriously injured every year from burns caused by using inflammable cleaning solutions.

WORK OUT-OF-DOORS

These cleaning fluids are perfectly safe if used with intelligent care. But more caution is needed. In order to avoid the danger from fumes from those solutions which contain poisonous chemicals, cleaning jobs should be done out-of-doors where the fumes can quickly escape.

A newspaper in the west recently concluded its recital of a murder: Fortunately for the deceased he had deposited all his money in the bank only the day before. He lost practically nothing but his life.

LOOKING SIDEWAYS

By WHITNEY BOLTON

IT WILL NOT BE many days now until you are going to have to examine your wallet and see if it can be shredded up into a reasonable facsimile of the beard of Santa Claus.

And I don't like to throw a dirk at the pretty pictures in the magazines of happy, dancing family groups on Christmas morning, but the solemn truth is, cousin, that you have a better than 50 per cent. chance of going all wrong in your toy buying for today's children. They know what they like—and you probably don't. The difference is that you go by advertising. They go by instinct.

I put on my Be A Good Guy Today suit the other morning and went to have a talk with the Toy Guidance Council, Inc. They don't care whose toys you buy, what make or trade-mark, just so long as you buy intelligently, are guided by the age and mental aptness of your own children and can sweat off the quaint American habit of trying to dazzle the neighbors and THEIR children. Your boy may want a 50-cent wrench outfit and you go out and spend $42.50 for an electric train layout that leaves him utterly bored, no matter what it does to Walter Hissop, your neighbor, who peeled away only $29.50 on HIS son's train outfit.

DON'T BUY ON IMPULSE. You have lived with your child for a while. You must know something of his tastes and bents. Don't buy showy toys just to dress up your tree and incinerate your neighbor. Buy now, not at the last minute. These items are scarce: steel, plastic, rubber. The supply is short and saner people than you will buy them up early. Don't use your own childhood memories as a guide. Silliest thing you can do. You are not buying for you 35 years ago. You are buying for your child, today. Lastly, don't deprive your child of wheeled toys now that he is ready. It sounds dull, but the fact that a child is seven years only once. You are afraid he will get hurt? You are over-protecting him. Instead of depriving him of only a bike or skates or a wagon you are depriving him of courage and security. You are making him know fear. And,alas, your fear.

LASTLY, DON'T BUY TOYS as a reward for good, or withhold them as a punishment for misbehavior. You are dealing with a human child, not a spaniel puppy you are training. Toys are not bribes. They are as important to a child as food. And, if the merchants lynch me for it, I'll get this last one off: don't buy too many toys. Your child will change more in one month than you do in two years. Today's armload of treasures will be tomorrow's useless junk to him.

Now we can dust away the harsh don'ts and give you a bouquet of pleasant dos. Remember that any toy is a tool, for learning, for expansion of mind and spirit. However humble, a toy should help the child grow in every way. Keep away from guads and trinkets. A too advanced playtool can be frustrating and dismaying. a too simple one fails to furnish challenge and stimulation.

OLD DR. PSYCHOLOGY, the man who can hardly read his name, will add that common sense, like salt, should be available in every household. Be certain the toys are safe: no sharp edges, no tiny pieces that can be swallowed, nothing to pinch, burn or blister. Check the paint job on toys for kids under six years old. Non-poisonous paint is essential, as important as the underwriters' seal on electric toys.

The posse from the corner stationery-tobacco-magazine-and-toy shops can now assemble and hunt me down. patronize toy stores, with trained, helpful, intelligent sales help. These men and women have been instructed to save you money, make your child happier and fit the toy to sex, age, talents and hungers of your child. The others just sell toys.

Success Secrets

By ELMER WHEELER

Back during the gold rush days a fellow by the name of Levi Strauss headed west to seek his fortune. He had no intention of looking for gold in the ground. That was a highly uncertain adventure. Levi Strauss knew a much surer way to strike it rich.

He intended to provide a service that would serve human need and he knew if he could do it, folks would pay him for it. He figured the gold rushers would need cloth for tents and wagon coverings, so he carried heavy, tough fabrics west with him.

But when he landed in California, he met a miner who promptly asked him if he had brought along any extra pants. "Pants," said Strauss, "why should I bring extra pants?"

"Miners need pants more than anything else," said the miner. This country wears 'em out fast. Miners just can't seem to keep themselves in pants."

The miner didn't know it, but he had just revealed to Strauss a valuable "strike." If miners needed pants, reasoned Strauss, then his opportunity lay in pants. He had his fabrics made up into pants, which promptly became known as "Levi's." Cowboys, ranchhands, farmers, and just about every other manual worker has heard of "Levi's" famous blue denims, Strauss's first came to mean blue denim pants, and it still does. Workers all over still wear their "Levi's."

All this happened because one man was alert to the opportunity that lay in the rich vein of human needs. That vein still there and it is still rich for anyone who wants to explore it.

So They Say

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—President Truman's request for extension of rent controls by lameduck Congress is really a request for temporary extension of time in which local communities may decide whether they want to continue rent controls or let them expire. Deadline under the present law is Dec. 31.

To date, 700 communities containing 22,000,000 people and 3,100,000 rental units have voted to continue controls. But two to three times as many — 2000 communities containing 40,000,000 people — haven't decided. It's a tough local fight to handle and many communities have dodged the issue, perhaps hoping that Congress would help solve their problem for them.

In November elections, 315 communities — 307 of them in Massachusetts — voted to continue rent controls. Thirty-eight communities — 37 of them in Massachusetts — voted to end controls.

Only nine decontrolled areas have been recontroled. Typical example is two - county area around Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. Local Rent Advisory Board there voted to put controls back on because of "great and excessive" rent increases. So rents were rolled back to levels in effect at time of decontrol, amid landlords' howl.

U. S. Housing Expediter Tighe Woods has authority to recontrol rents in areas where necessary, but has not used this authority unless first requested to do so by local Rent Advisory Boards. Woods believes there is need for authority to recontrol rents in defense areas and this will be one provision discussed in new bill before Congress.

If Congress does extend rent control authority, it will not be used as blanket for whole country. During last war communities with total population of 102,000,000 — 70 percent of the country — lived under rent controls. Today 60,000,000 people — 40 percent of population — live in communities where 8,000,000 rental units are under control.

THE $64 QUESTION

Real estate and home builders' organizations are carrying on hot war against housing credit restrictions, cutbacks on scarce materials like aluminum, copper and zinc which go into construction, and President Truman's request for extension of rent controls. National Association of Real Estate Boards has issued a statement which says: "Reimposition of World War II excess profits tax would have a disastrous effect on corporations owning and operating rental housing because of the depression of their earnings through rent controls." The question which naturally arises from this statement is If they're making excess profit now, under rent controls, what would their profits be if rent controls were removed?

PERLES OF WIT

Perhaps as a tribute to Madam Perle Mesta, U. S. Minister to Luxemburg, that lush little Grand Duchy has been nicknamed "Perle Harbor." . . Another gag line going the rounds in Washington is that the confusion is now a lot better organized than it was in 1942.

FAIR ENOUGH TRADE

Allen S. Redding, the Gettysburg, Pa., farmer who sold his house and 189 acres to General Eisenhower, says he is going to extract a promise from Ike before finally turning over the property. It is Redding's ambition to see the inside of the new White House when the present remodeling is completed. So Mr. Redding wants a promise that if the General ever becomes President, he will issue an invitation for a personally-conducted tour of the executive mansion. As Mr. Redding put it, "After all, I turned my house over to him, so the least he can do is give me a good look at his."

One other reason which local gossip in Gettysburg gives for the General's buying a farm near there is that it isn't far from the Catoctin Mountains, where President Roosevelt's Shangri-La was located. The rumor in that neighborhood is that the area has now been converted into an atomic bomb shelter.

MR. WHISKERS

Housewives who fail to report earnings of their domestic servants or who fail to pay new social security taxes for them after Jan. 1 are subject to penalties, but government doesn't intend to push them. Under the law, the housewife now becomes an employer. As such, delay in filing returns is subject to penalty of up to 50 percent of tax. As tax for each servant employed minimum of 24 days and paid $50 in each three months is $1.50, penalty would be 75 cents a quarter year.

In addition, Internal Revenue code provides for penalties of up to $1000 and a year's imprisonment for falsifying a tax return. But Bureau of Internal Revenue and Social Security Administration say they aren't interested in trying to fine housewives or put them in the jug. All they want to do is spread the word around as widely as possible that this is a good thing for housewives and servants, and they better get in on it.

CURRENT REPORT

U. S. consumption of electric power always reaches peak just before Christmas, and this year it will break all records. Federal Power Commission says the anticipated peak load of Class One systems — covering 96 percent of the power industry — will be over 60,000,000 kilowatts. Last year it was 54,000,000 kw. The 11 percent increase is largely attributed to increases of defense production and heavy use by stores in what may be last "full stocking" Christmas shopping rush.

Dependable capacity power supply this year is estimated at 65,000,000 kw. So there is an 8 percent margin and there will be no power shortages, except perhaps in a few local areas. Projecting future demand and supply, FPC says December, 1951, peak load may be 65,000,000 kw, against 72,000,000 kw. capacity — an 11 percent margin. And the year after that, peak load will be near 70,000,000 kw. with capacity of nearly 80,000,000 kw.—a 14 percent margin.

POW CLAIMS

War Claims Commission has now received 120,000 applications for benefit payments from ex-prisoners of war and civilian internees held by Axis powers. All of them, or their survivors, are wondering when they'll get their money. WCC is processing claims at rate of 1000 a week. Every claim is given serial number. Claims up to No. 30,000 will be paid by Jan. 1. The commission hopes to pay claims up to No. 55,000 by July 1, 1951, and up to No. 80,000 by Jan. 1, 1952. It hopes to finish its job some time in 1952.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

The organizational chart above shows how the history-making National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A., formed at Cleveland, Ohi, will function in its four main divisions — home missions, foreign missions, Christian education and Christian life and work. In the National Council are merged eight national interdenominational service agencies now operating separately. These agencies will now cease to exist and their functions will be taken over by the new body. The new council represents a membership of more than 31,000,000 communicants, about 90 percent of Protestant and Eastern Orthodox church memberships in U. S.

India Begins Growing Its Own Jute Supply

NEW DELHI—(AP)—India, pushing toward self-sufficiency in raw jute, hopes to produce nearly two-thirds of her requirements domestically this year. The overall requirement is 6,000,000 bales yearly. Commerce ministry officials expect domestic production this year to total 4,150,000 bales. In addition, there will be 350,000 bales of mesta and similar fibres which may be mixed with jute. Officials estimate this will keep Indian jute mills working for eight months.

India used to acquire its raw jute from Pakistan, but this trade has been suspended because of an argument over the par value of the Pakistani rupee.

MORE RECRUITS ARE SOUGHT FOR AIR NATIONAL GUARD UNITS

The Air National Guard, in an intensive nation-wide recruiting campaign, is seeking approximately 17,000 officers and men to bring all non-alerted units to full strength. Current strength of the Air Guard is approximately 36,500 officers and men.

The reorganization of the Air Guard has substantially increased the number of non-commissioned grades. This means more opportunities for advancement for recruits and more openings for veterans who qualify for non-commissioned ratings.

The intensive recruiting campaign for the Air National Guard was announced by Major General Raymond H. Fleming, Acting Chief, National Guard Bureau, and Brigadier General Earl T. Ricks, Deputy Chief, who is charged with the activities of the Air Force Division.

"The Air National Guard needs qualified young men of the highest calibre who want to serve their country while continuing their civilian careers as long as possible," said General Fleming.

General Ricks said that "the reorganization of the Air National Guard has opened many vacancies of special interest to veterans. It offers recruits increased opportunities for advancement while serving their country in the Air National Guard."

Adotions Sometime Bring More Children

NEW YORK — (AP) — Childless couples frequently have a baby after they have adopted a child. Some of the reasons may be that after the adoption the wife becomes freer of tension, fears and hostilities, and accepts a feminine and maternal role, says Dr. Abraham Stone, director of the Margaret Sanger Research Bureau.

He said that about 20 percent of married couples who seek advice about inability to have a child have no apparent physical troubles. The desperate desire to have a baby may sometimes apparently interfere with conception.

University to Study Damage of Fish Gear

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. — (AP) —Rutgers University will begin immediately a year-long study of the effects of the coastal sea waters near New York Harbon on various types of cordage, including fishing nets, according to Dr. William H. Martin, director of the N. J. Agricultural Experiment Station.

Purpose of the study, Dr. Martin said, is to help fishermen and boatmen who from time to time report mysterious damage to their lines, nets and ropes. An attempt will be made to determine how much deterioration actually occurs, its possible causes, and what can be done to protect the gear.

DID YOU RING?—With the timekeeper sternly counting off the seconds in London, Jim Kenny unwraps himself from around the bell to scramble back into the ring. It happened in the sixth round of his title fight against British Empire featherweight champion Ronnie Clayton. The Scotsman got back by the count of nine, but lost the decision.

RHUBARBS—Arms outstretched, Jim Cain told Marchie Schwartz and Quarterback Gerry Kerkorian, 17, that's the way he saw it after calling back a Stanford play against California in Berkeley for shoving. Next Coach Schwartz pointed out what he believed to be a wrong call on the part of the referee.

SITTING PRETTY—Yankee shortstop Phil Rizzuto perches happily in the lap of manager Casey Stengel in New York and waves his freshly-signed contract, said to call for $50,000. The American League's Most Valuable Player last season, Scooter is the first Yankee to ink a 1951 pact.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

H-BOMB PLANT SITE—The Newsmap above shows location of the 260,000-acre site near Aiken, S.C., where secret plants to make hydrogen bomb explosives will begin next year. The vast project will be built and operated by E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co. at a cost of over $260,000,000. Some 1500 families now living in the area—most of them in the villages of Ellenton, Jackson, Dunbarton and Snelling must be relocated to make way for the H-bomb plant. Stripe-shaded areas are those to be cleared at an early date to begin construction.

Doctor Says Strike Hindering Research

CHICAGO — (AP) — The University of Chicago charges that a strike of AFL workers is hampering atomic and medical research. But a union man called this "propaganda."

The strike of 250 janitors and maintenance workers at the university began Wednesday. It cut off all building service for classrooms, laboratories and five university-operated hospitals.

Dean Lowell T. Coggeshall of the biological science division said that food is being delivered to the hospitals but that "delivery of feed for vital medical research projects using experimental animals has been cut off."

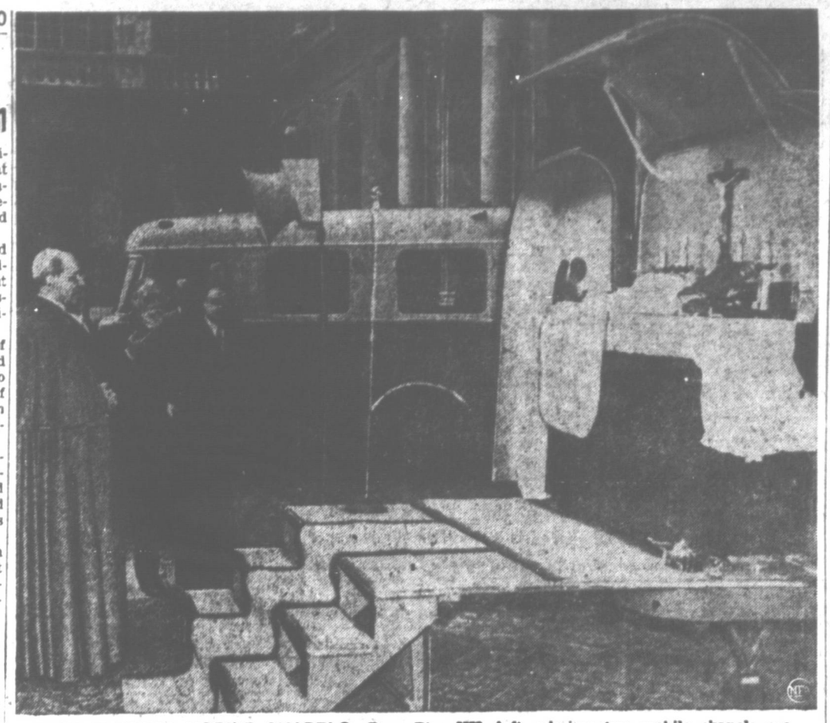

Walter D. Collins, secretary-treasurer of Local 321, AFL Building Service Employes Union, said Coggeshall's statement was issued "for propaganda purposes and is not based on fact."

He said the atomic research project was not affected and that the university "has been stockpiling food for weeks" for laboratory animals.

Relics Spur Rivalry Between Provinces

PORTAGE LA PRAIRIE, Man. — (AP) — The West must be getting old. There are indications of inter-provincial rivalry over the custody of its relics. Ben Richardson, vice-chairman of the Portage La Prairie Museum, says Manitoba is losing many valuable pieces because of the Manitoba government's "wait and seea" policy.

Richardson said an official of the Saskatchewan Museum recently carted off carloads of historic relics from Manitoba and added: "It is apparent Saskatchewan is building up a well-stocked museum with articles from Mobitaba."

Hot Rod Meets Cutting Accidents

SANTA ANA, Calif. — (AP) — Traffic officers have greatly reduced the number of hot-rod accidents hereabouts by heeding the old saying, "If you can't lick 'em, join 'em."

A little more than a year ago the California Highway Patrol, alarmed by the lawlessness and high accident rate of teen - age racing jalopy drivers, assigned two men to the problem. Charles Pollard and Ezra Ehrhardt figured the solution was to let the boys work off steam at organized races. The officer attended club meetings, gained the confidence of the drivers and ended up supervising weekend races for cars and motorcycles at an abandoned air strip.

Now as many as 5,000 turn out Sundays to watch members of the racing clubs — boasting such colorful names as Lancers, Clunkers, Full-idlers, Ma-rod-ers — rip over the course at more than 100 miles an hour. The Sheriff and the Highway Patrol say hotrod speeding complaints have declined 90 percent in a year while registrations rose 30 percent. Automobile statistics show similar accident declines.

Los Angeles Artist Incorporates Painting

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — A Los Angeles artist has a way of financing painting trips to romantic places. Ross Shattuck simply sells stock in his expeditions. It works like this:

Last year he formed the Shattuxico Co., backed by 12 people who put up $300 each. With the $3,600 Shattuck spent six months painting in Mexico. When he returned, each stockholder got a canvas of his choice and a percentage of the sales price of other pictures.

Shattuck just returned from another incorporated trip to Louisiana and plans others. The idea isn's new. Shattuck followed the example of Rockwell Kent, who many years ago sold stock in a painting trip to Alaska.
