Area Farmers Are Invited To Cotton Confab

Area farmers were urged today to attend a meeting to be held in Big Spring at 10:30 a.m. Friday concerning the sharp cut in West Texas cotton allotments for 1956 by the state Agriculture Stablization and Conservation committee.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, in calling the meeting at the Howard County Junior College auditorium, said "West Texas will suffer a seven per cent reduction while some parts of East Texas will enjoy an actual increase in cotton acreage for next year if a formula proposed by the State ASC committee for distributing the Texas 1956 cotton acreage allotment is followed."

Alarmed at the economic loss to West Texas if the state ASC committee uses the formula, the WTCC has scheduled three meetings this week at which details of the proposal will be discussed.

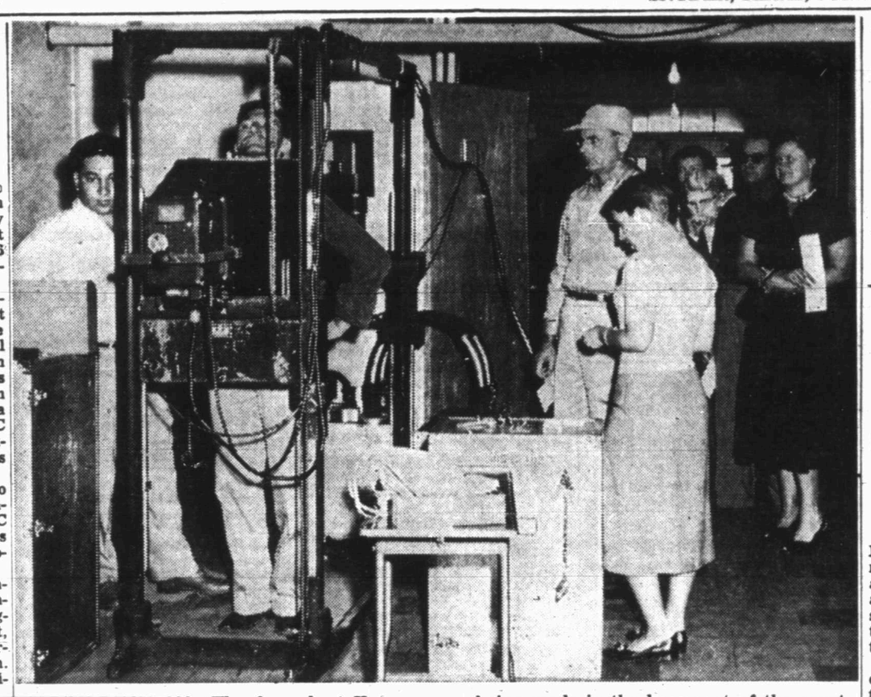
The meetings, which will be conducted by Loyan H. Walker, manager of the regional chamber's agriculture and livestock department, will be held in Haskell this afternoon, in Plainview at 10:30 a.m. Thursday, and at Big Spring Friday.

Cotton farmers, ginners, and oil mill operators, farm organizations, members of county ASC committees, and local chambers of commerce have been invited to send representatives to the meetings. Snyder and Scurry County will be represented.

Under marketing quotas established for 1956 as required by law, Texas cotton acreage is to be reduced approximately four per cent below the 1955 allotment. Because of the state committee's proposed method of allocating the 700,000-acre reserve, however, West Texas acreage would be reduced approximately seven per cent under 1955 while some parts of the state would receive an increase. The state reserve, approximately 700,000 acres, represents about 10 per cent of the entire state allotment, which is normally used by the state committee to adjust basic allotments to recognize trends, instances of hardship, etc.

George Mahon, congressman from this district, has been invited to the meeting.

Counties expected to be represented at the Big Spring meeting include Howard, Martin, Mitchell, Scurry, Dawson, Nolan, Borden, Gaines, Andrews, Coke, Sterling, Midland, Winkler, Loving, Yoakum, Lynn, Terry, Ward, Reeves Pecos, Tom Green, Concho, Runnels, and Garza.



X-RAY RUSH ON—The free chest X-ray survey being made in the basement of the court house here has attracted a steady stream of persons to have their chests X-rayed. Yesterday there were 467 X-rays made, and by 11:15 o'clock this morning there had been 311 more, with 68 school children from Hermleigh having been X-rayed in one 15 minute period. All Fluvanna High School students also were X-rayed this morning. The survey continues through 1 o'clock Friday afternoon. Charles Young, route 1, is shown having his chest X-rayed above while a line of other persons await their turns. (Lee Watson photograph)

George Parr Indicted In Duval County

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP)—A new indictment was returned yesterday against George B. Parr, South Texas political boss, to add to his already gaudy collection.

The Duval County grand jury indicted him on three counts of removing records of the now defunct San Diego State Bank "for the purpose of suppressing evidence material to then pending legal proceedings."

The "legal proceedings" referred to other indictments returned against Parr last summer, Asst. Atty. Gen. Sidney Chandler said.

The grand jury, digging deeply into writing reindictments that were overturned by the State Court of Criminal Appeals, returned 20 more yesterday, the clerk of the 79th District Court reported. The Parr indictment was the only new one.

The Court of Criminal Appeals overturned 104 indictments by a previous Duval County grand jury, saying the jury was not properly selected.

Eight persons were named in the reindictments announced. The name of one was withheld until his arrest. The others besides Adame were H. P. Salinas, theft; O. P. Carrillo, one indictment charging theft and one for issuing false certificates; Octavio Saenz, two indictments of issuing false certificates; Jesus Oliveira, three indictments for theft; F. N. Coronel, two for false certificates; and C. L. Oliveria, false certificate.

Hunt Pressed In Slaying

CHICAGO (AP)—State, county and city police today pressed their widest investigation of its kind in a quarter century as they sought to solve the ghastly slaying of three young boys whose naked, mutilated bodies were found piled in a forest ditch.

Authorities blamed the crime on either a madman or a gang of older youths.

The boys—Robert Peterson, 14, John Schuessler, 13, and his brother Anton Jr, 11 — were strangled and beaten, apparently Sunday night, a few hours after they set out from their homes for a downtown movie.

Their bodies, with legs intermingled, were discovered yesterday in Robinson Woods, just outside Chicago's northwest limits.

A hundred law officers scoured the woods today for clues.

Other police were tracing movements of the youngsters from the time they left their middle-class neighborhood on the Northwest Side to see the Walt Disney movie "The African Lion" in the Loop Sunday afternoon.

An autopsy last night indicated the boys had been dead 36 to 40 hours when their bodies were discovered but that they had not been molested sexually as first believed.

However, Dr. Harry R. Hoffman, an asociate of the Cook County Behavior Clinic, said: "The person who could commit such an act as this one is one to whom the act itself is a gratification of the sex urge."

Coroner Walter E. McCarron called it "the work of a madman" or a gang of older boys. He theorized from marks and dirt on the bodies that the boys were held captive in "some filthy place," bound and gagged with strips of adhesive tape and then dumped in the forest preserve.

Victor Livingston, a liquor salesman, saw the bodies when he parked his car in the forest preserve to eat his lunch.

The oldest boy, Robert Peterson, had been slashed across the head 14 times, probably with an ax or a hunting knife, police said.

The coroner's office said the Schuessler boys had been hit on their faces with what appeared to be the flat side of a knife. But Dr. Jerry Kearns, coroner's pathologist, who examined the bodies, said strangulation caused the death of all three.

The brutal murder brought heartbreak into the homes of Anton Schuessler, 41, a tailor, and Malcolm Peterson, 40, a carpenter.

Anton and John were the Schuessler's only children. Robert was one of four children. All three were clean-cut youngsters with close-cropped hair, who dressed neatly in jeans and jackets with emblems proclaiming that they were fans of the Chicago White Sox and the Chicago Cubs.

Robert's mother Dorothy, 37, collapsed and was put under a physician's care. Seven blocks away, the other mother, Eleanor Schuessler, also 37, sobbed uncontrollably.

"My life ... my arms . . . my legs . . . now gone," she cried. Once she started to rise from the couch as neighbors and a priest attempted to comfort her, screaming:

". . . I want my boys! I want my boys!"

Schuessler, who lived in Germany during his childhood, although he was born in this country, said:

"When you get to the point that children can't go to the movies in the afternoon and get home safely, something is wrong with the country."

Schuessler and Peterson went to the morgue to identify their sons. Schuessler cried out when he saw the body of John, and collapsed across the top of Anton's body. Two friends half carried him to the main floor of the morgue and then carried him to their car when his legs folded under him.

Peterson sobbed quietly after seeing Robert's body.

Tracing the boys' movements, police found that they had gone to two bowling alleys Sunday night, apparently after attending the movie in the Loop.

The ditch where the bodies were found is about 10 miles northwest of the Loop.

Yugoslavian Note Asks Council Seat

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Yugoslavia today sent a note to all members of the U. N. General Assembly formally announcing it was running as a "compromise" candidate against the Philippines for a seat on the Security Council.

The note was the first active step the Yugoslav delegation had taken to win the seat, although it received 28 votes to 29 for the Philippines last Friday after the Soviet bloc dropped Poland as a candidate.

Both the Soviet bloc and the British Commonwealth countries are supporting Yugoslavia, while the United States still stands firmly behind the Philippines in what appeared to be a losing fight.

The Yugoslav note said:

"Many delegations have expressed the desire to elect a compromise candidate to the Security Council after the deadlock between the Philippines and Poland and have proposed Yugoslavia as such a candidate.

"Yugoslavia, sharing the spirit in which this proposal was made, has decided to accept it and consequently is a candidate for the Security Council."

With the United States staking its prestige on a Philippine victory, the Asian country's veteran delegate, Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, voted he would stay in the fight until the end.

U.N. circles felt Romulo's chances faded after Britain passed word she was openly supporting Yugoslavia. A British spokesman denied reports his delegation was openly campaigning for Belgrade, but several diplomats said they had been approached.

The Russians switched support to Yugoslavia last Friday when their original candidate, Poland, failed to win the required two-thirds majority after four ballots in the 60-nation Assembly.

The Yugoslavs quickly narrowed the Philippines' lead and on the sixth and final ballot yesterday the vote stood 29 for the Philippines and 28 for Yugoslavia.

Production Credit Post Filled Here

Aubrey Headstream, formerly assistant secretary - treasurer for Sweetwater Production Credit Association, has been named manager of the association's Scurry County office here.

An employe of the association eight years, Headstream was for four years bookkeeper in the Snyder office when he first became employed with the organization. He spent the last four years in Sweetwater in his association-wide post. There are six counties with membership in the association.

Headstream succeeds Joel Hodges, manager of the office here since 1946 and employed by the association since 1941, who resigned to become vice-president of the Hereford State Bank at Hereford.

A native of Fisher County, Headstream spent three and one-half years in the Army during World War 11, serving in the China-Burma-India theater. He was a sergeant when discharged.

The new office manager is former editor of the Roby Star, a weekly newspaper in the Fisher County town.

He is married and has two children, Carry Don, 4, and Darra Fay, 2. He has not yet moved his family here from Sweetwater.

Narcotic Raid Is Conducted

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A massed force of 250 Philadelphia policemen, backed by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and state law enforcement officers, today staged a series of raids that brought into their dragnet 100 persons accused of using, selling or otherwise dealing in narcotics.

Six of those seized and charged were women. Twenty other persons were held for questioning and further investigation.

The raids — extending even to Horsham, Pa., where one suspected dope violator now lives — were organized weeks in advance and carried out in the early morning hours today with clockwork precision.

The raider parties steered clear of City Hall lest word get around town that some unusual police activity was afoot. The policemen met in small groups at prearranged points.

They carried more than 200 warrants issued by Magistrate Frank W. McBridge, plus 37 others issued by federal authorities.

As the raids were disclosed, Dist. Atty. Samuel Dash said "were out to tear this social cancer out of Philadelphia and we expect to go into court with an airtight case on every warrant.

Police officials before the raids started passed out to the raiding parties sealed envelopes, containing rogues gallery photographs, orders for the raid involved, and the warrants.

Lt. Glascow Driscoll, head of the police narcotics squad, said the stage for the raids was set by three rookie policemen who had been purchasing narcotics to gain knowledge of the sellers.

Todays raid was the second here this year. Last spring, some 90 narcotics users and sellers were seized.

Thieves Loot Omaha Home

OMAHA (AP) — "They really cleaned me out," said Mrs. Margaret Kellogg today, motioning to a big bedroom safe from which two masked gunmen had taken $125,000 in jewels and $20,000 in cash.

The robbers smashed their way into the big brick home on Omaha's fashionable West Side last night while Mrs. Kellogg, 58-year-old banker's widow, and three women friends watched television upstairs.

The women said the gunmen were nervous and confused, but when they spied Mrs. Kellogg, who had come to the head of the stairs, one shouted, "She's the one we want," and dashed up.

Mrs. Kellogg retreated to her bedroom but the bandit slammed his shoulder through the door panel, jammed a pistol in Mrs. Kellogg's back and ordered her to open the big, old-fashioned safe.

The two men laid a bedspread on the floor and tossed the jewels and money into it. The jewelry included a diamond dog collar for one of Mrs. Kellogg's three pet chihuahuas.

Two Brothers Die From Rat Poison

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A coroner has ruled that two young brothers died of rat poison after neighbors said they picked food from garbage pails.

Coroner Nicholas J. Chetta said yesterday that accidental phosphorous poison ingestion caused the deaths of William, 6, and Lawrence Baughman, 7. The parents have been charged with criminal neglect.

Increase In Crude Oil Allowable Is Approved

U.S. Proposal Gains Ground

By DON WHITEHEAD

POINT CLEAR, Ala. (AP)—Harold E. Stassen hinted broadly last night that Russia's leaders may accept President Eisenhower's arms inspection plan because Red scientists are telling them the truth about the terrible destruction that would go with an atomic war.

The President's special assistant on disarmament told reporters he thinks the odds are in favor of an eventual agreement with the Russians. And he added "there could be some developments" in this field at the foreign ministers meeting in Geneva later this month.

"Their scientists are telling the Communist leaders the same thing our scientists are telling us — that the alternative to peace is the threat of atomic destruction," he said.

When the Russians achieve a depth of understanding of the awful alternatives to peace, then "we can begin working out the hard issues," he said.

Stassen gave his views to reporters after telling the 1st annual Southern Governors Conference that if Russia accepts the President's inspection plan, then the world will have time in which to find a means of controlling atomic materials. The Eisenhower plan calls for an exchange of military information with Russia and mutual aerial inspection.

The Stassen speech pushed aside the discussion of politics by governnors who were displaying a marked lack of enthusiasm—at least for the time being—for a suggested Dixie coalition aimed at wielding a balance of power at the Democratic national convention.

(The New York Times and the Baltimore Sun have reported that Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Senate majority leader, was behind a move to organize a coalition which would bring about an "open" convention with a moderate platform acceptable to the conservative South.)

The governors who discussed the coalition idea said no one had approached them with any proposal to join in such a movement.

The only chief executive to give unqualified approval to the coalition suggestion was Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina. He said he thought the South should go to the convention united to speak with one voice and give the convention the same moderating influence which conservative Southerners have wielded in Congress for years.

Gov. Marvin Griffin of Georgia gave his endorsement to a coalition so far as it might influence a platform, but no further.

Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida was the most eloquent opponent of coalition, saying he "wasn't much of a coalition man" and then adding:

"I don't think there is any need for the delegates from various Southern states to meet in a secret conclave and propose a course of action for all the states. I think the South's position should develop normally and naturally, reflecting the will of the people."

The governors in their formal meetings turned their attention to problems of water conservation and development.

PARENTS GRIEVE FOR DAUGHTER KILLED BY PLANE—Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lyle, their faces mirroring the horror before their eyes, watch as flames consume the apartment of their daughter, Mrs. Betty Jean Woolfe, 18, in North Hollywood, Calif. The apartment was hit by a light plane and in the ensuing holocaust. Mrs. Woolfe, the pilot, Joel Thorne, and two-month-old Sheryll Camille Preston, who had just been baptized two hours before. Mrs. Woolfe's husband was attending a Naval Reserve meeting at the time of the crash. Photographer Delmar Watson of the Los Angeles Mirror captured this dramatic picture.

Drug Traffic Probe Opens

DALLAS (AP)—Unsolved murders in Dallas and Fort Worth were linked to narcotics by U.S. Sen. Price Daniel (D-Tex) as he opened his inquiry into the illicit drug traffic in North Texas today.

Daniel said preliminary investigations revealed that narcotics addicts were involved in "brutal unsolved murders and such gang operations as safecracking, murder and robbery." He is chairman of the Senate Judiciary Subcommittee.

Sen. Daniel is conducting the hearings with the assistance of Committee Counsel C. Aubrey Gasque and Investigator W. Lee Speer.

The senator said he has found evidence in Dallas to refute statements by witnesses in other cities that heroin does not make criminals violent.

"Here we have found in our preliminary investigations what looks like a good answer to those who advocate free clinics for narcotics and drug addicts," he said.

"This is one of the main things in this yearing, the fact that narcotics—heroin—are used by gangsters."

He added that Dallas and Fort Worth rank with the nation's top 45 cities in the narcotics traffic.

"On the other hand, had it not been for the tie-in of narcotics with brutal crimes, we would have completed our hearings here in one day," he said.

The first witness, Police Chief Carl Hansson, reported that 75 to 80 per cent of the shoplifting in Dallas is committed by narcotics addicts. Hansson said Dallas police, during the first nine months of this year, made 72 cases involving narcotics such as heroin, 58 involving marijuana and 64 involving barbiturates.

Hansson said that percentagewise, narcotics involvement in Dallas murders and robberies would "run pretty low." But he estimated it at 25 per cent in burglaries and 10 per cent in minor thefts.

Daniel wound up two days of testimony at Houston yesterday.

Senator James O. Eastland (D-Miss) wired the narcotics probe chairman yesterday that other Senate hearings prevented his coming to Texas.

Witnesses expected to be heard here ranged from Dallas underworld characters and addicts to enforcement officials. Purpose of the hearings, Daniel says, is to determine if federal narcotics laws should be changed to meet the situation.

The hearings were expected to follow the general pattern of sessions in Austin, San Antonio and Houston. The Dallas Times-Herald said hearings here were expected "to turn up information that narcotics laws, both federal and state, have been enforced strongly here."

Mrs. Helen Saulter, 27, told Daniel and committee investigator Lee Speer yesterday in Houston that one West Coast wholesaler received about a half million dollars in pure Chinese heroin in a two-year period. She said the dope, bought from Red Chinese agents, was for sale in the San Francisco-Oakland area.

Mrs. Saulter's testimony included a mysterious Chinese liaison man, code cable messages between San Francisco and Hong Kong, and a description of how the dope was sent by mail. Mail shipments, she said, were sent in books with inside pages hollowed out to form receptacles.

Georgian May Try To Outlaw NAACP

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook charged today that "subversion" is involved in the antisegregation crusade of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. He implied that he would seek to have the organization outlawed in the state.

In a presentation of what he called "the ugly truth about the NAACP," Cook declared that the organization is "misnamed" and that its real design is "to force upon the South the Communist-inspired doctrine of racial integration and amalgamation."

He said his statements were based on long investigation by his staff and the staffs of Rep. Davis (D-Ga) and Sen. Eastland (D-Miss). He added that he would welcome a chance to prove them in a court of law.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Peace Officers Assn. of Georgia, he said he wanted to make clear that "the issue involved is one not of race but rather of subversion."

He charged that activities of the NAACP "and its local fronts pose a serious threat to the peace, tranquility, government and way of life of our state."

He proposes, he announced, to ask the Legislature in January to take "appropriate action" on "the subversive nature of these activities."

Observers saw in this language the threat of an effort to have the NAACP banned in Georgia.

Cook classed the NAACP with organizations which he claimed have exploited the race issue—not for the "welfare of the Negro people"—but "for their more nefarious purposes."

They have used the issue, he alleged, to "dupe naive do-gooders, fuzzy-minded intellectuals, misguided clergymen and radical journalists to be their pawns."

Rep. Davis said Cook had asked him for certain information from the House Un-American Activity Committee files. "I furnished the information requested," he said, "but I don't remember the various names on the list."

Davis added that he had not seen a copy of Cook's speech but was confident "it merely recites the facts taken from the committee records."

In New York, executive secretary Roy Wilkins of the NAACP said the "speech is apparently part of a conspiracy by some Southern state officials to combat the U.S. Supreme Court's order to desegregate the public schools by charging the NAACP with being subversive.

"Mr. Cook knows the NAACP is not a Communist organization or a Communist-front organization. He knows also that neither the attorney general of the United States, the House Un-American Activities Committee, nor any other official federal body has ever branded the NAACP as a Communist or Communist-front organization. He cannot show anywhere to anyone a listing of the NAACP as subversive by any responsible body.

"Mr. Cook's speech is full of distortions, word-juggling, free translations and untruths. This string of inaccuracies suggests the whole speech is a concoction.

"It is he, not we, who is seeking to undermine the government of the United States. There is nothing subversive in demanding equality under the Constitution."

Brown Poses Big Question

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edmund G. Brown's decision to stay out of the 1956 race for the U.S. Senate posed a big question for fellow Democrats today:

What other, if any, political plans does Pat Brown have for the future? Would he rather be governor? Or even possibly vice president?

The state's best known Democrat has indicated many times he might run for governor in 1958. First elected to his present job in 1950, he was the only Democrat to come through for a statewide office in 1954, and the only statewide candidate to win both nominations in the primary.

Lately, some of his more enthusiastic supporters have begun to mention his name as a good bet for the Democratic vice presidential nomination next year.

Shorter Flow Recommended By Purchasers

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission today set an allowable production of 3,236,051 barrels daily of Texas crude oil for November, an increase of 74,389 barrels per day over the current level.

The increase will result from continuation of the 16-day production pattern now in effect both statewide and in the big East Texas Field.

The fact that November has one less day than October accounts for the jump in the daily average allowable.

Greater flow was ordered despite the fact that the majority of purchasers at today's statewide proration hearing recommended only 15 days of flow.

This would have meant a cut of 65,000 barrels a day.

Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson said he wanted the record to reflect that national stocks of crude as of Oct. 8 were only 254,986,000 barrels and that the industry has testified in the past that 260 to 270 million barrels constitute the desirable levels for such stocks.

Thompson emphasized that he considered current stocks "well under what companies have testified are desirable levels.

Though most purchasers wanted only 15 producing days in November, their total nominations for oil—submitted in advance of todays statewide proration hearing—had shown an increase of 120,495 barrels per day over nominations a month ago.

Ralph Dietler of Tulsa, board chairman of Stanolind Oil Purchasing Co., said the commission should note that his firms nominations accounted for 80,000 of the 120,000 barrels per day increase.

Stanolind called for only 15 producing days in November, but Dietler said this still meant a big jump over last month when Stanolind sharply curtailed nominations because of the big fire that shut down Standard of Indiana's refinery at Whiting, Ind.

Companies recommending 16 days statewide flow for next month were Atlantic, Magnolia, Shell and Texas. A 15-day schedule was sought by Humble, Continental, gguif, Cities Service, Phillips, Sin-

Companies recommending 16 days statewide flow for next month were Atlantic, Magnolia, Shell and Texas. A 15-day schedule was sought by Humble, Continental, Gulf, Cities Service, Phillips, Sinclair Crude, Tidewater Associated and Stanolind.

Sun Oil's Joe Owens proposed 17 days, contending that the low level of national crude stocks would justify the big increase.

Commissioner Olin Culberson fired sharp criticism at Stanolind in connection with the distress oil situation which developed in West Texas last month when the firm imposed pipeline proration following the Whiting, Ind., refinery fire.

Culberson said he had been informed that Stanolinds pipeline affiliate had not taken 9,500 barrels per day which Humble had agreed to take off Stanolinds hands during September.

Dietler said that was correct, that his company did not feel in position to take more crude oil until the Indiana refinery is back to normal.

"I don't think you've shown good faith with the commission, Culberson declared, insisting that Stanolind should not have allowed 9,500 barrels a day of legally produced West Texas oil to stack up in storage tanks after Humble had agreed to take it.

Mrs. Eastman Dies Tuesday

Services will be held 4 p.m. Thursday for Mrs. Emily (Nell) Eastman, Arah Route, who died 8:35 p.m. yesterday while enroute to Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The services will be in the First Baptist Church, Snyder, with the Rev. Avery Timmons, pastor of the Avenue D Baptist Church officiating. He will be assisted by the Rev. G. M. Cole, pastor of the First Baptist Church.

Also assisting will be Rev. Lowell Ponder, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Beeville, and a brother-in-law to Mrs. Eastman. Burial will be in Snyder Cemetery under the direction of Bell Funeral Home.

Mrs. Eastman was born Nov. 19, 1896 in Collins County. She is the daughter of the late W. T. Thompson and Mrs. Kate Thompson. She was a resident of Scurry County for 53 years, coming here after her marriage to Charlie Eastman, Dec. 19, 1930. She was married at Sweetwater by Rev. Ponder.

Survivors are her mother, Mrs. Kate Thompson, Snyder; her husband, Charlie Eastman, Snyder; one daughter, Mrs. O. P. Pate, Jr., Snyder; four sisters, Mrs. Mary Poteet, Lakeside, California; Mrs. Alma Brooks, Snyder; Mrs. Virgia Brooks, Goldthwaite; Mrs. Ora Ponder, Beeville; two brothers, Elvin and Oran Thompson, both of Snyder. She had two grandchildren.

AREA OIL ROUNDUP

New Wildcats In Mitchell Slated

Two new wildcat locations have been staked for immediate drilling in Mitchell County.

C. W. Guthrie of Big Spring will drill the deeper of the two as his No. 1-A E. E. Erwin. It will be drilled to 7,700 feet to test the Canyon reef.

Drillsite is 330 feet from south and east lines of section 2, block 25, H&TC survey and four miles east of Vincent.

W. A. Delaney, Jr., of Ada, Okla., will drill No. 1 Carrie Hoyt Brown Estate to 4,000 feet, one-half mile northwest of Colorado City.

It is 2,321 feet from north and 2,331 feet from east lines of section 31, block 26, T&P survey. The prospect also is six miles south southeast of production in the Sharon Ridge field.

Texas Crude Oil Co. and Fryer & Hanson Drilling Co. of Fort Worth No. 1 Smauley, wildcat four miles west of the North Roby (Canyon sand) field of Central Fisher County, has set 5½-inch casing at 5,185 feet for tests of the Canyon sand through perforations.

It showed water at total depth of 6,741 feet. One-hour drillstem test from 6,639 to 6,741 feet recovered 920 feet of sulphur water.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 25, block 2, H&TC survey.

Wildcat failures have been plugged in Reagan County.

Stanolind Oil & Gas Co. No. 1-BS University, was abandoned at 10,912 feet after unsuccessful tests of the Fusselman through perforations.

Location was 657 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of southeast quarter of section 29, block 58, University Lands survey, seven miles northwest of Big Lake.

The Texas Co. No. 1 Becton, South Reagan County wildcat, was plugged on total depth of 10,725 feet in Ellenburger. Site was 1,717 feet from north and 2,204 feet from west lines of section 1, J. W. Whatley survey, A-700, seven miles north of Big Lake.

Wildcat locations will be drilled in Lamb and Crockett Counties.

Livermore Drilling Co. of Lubbock will dig No. 1 Dewey S. Hulse in South Lamb County to 4,000 feet to test the San Andres.

Drillsite is 330 feet from south and east lines of labor 25, league 664, State Capitol Land survey and one and three-quarters miles southwest of the Littlefield (San Andres) pool. It is one-half mile southwest of Littlefield.

Six miles south of the Todd Deep field in Central Crockett County, Trebol Oil Co. and E. J. Rodman of Midland will drill No. 1-D University.

It is 990 feet from west and 330 feet from north lines of southeast quarter of section 10, block 31, University survey. It is an east offset to a 9,750 - foot Ellenburger failure.

Cable tools will be used to drill to 2,000 feet.

Commonwealth Oil Co. of Midland, No. 1 Powell, East Yoakum County wildcat, has been abandoned and plugged.

This project tested a section above 5,500 feet in the San Andres, through perforations in the casing. No commercial production was developed.

The project was nine and one-half miles east of Plains and 660 feet from north and east lines of section 4, block D, John H. Gibson survey.

It originally was drilled to 8,027 feet by Ada Oil Co. and abandoned at that point in July. Commonwealth re-entered the hole and cleaned out to 5,500 feet for the unsuccessful testing.

Snyder Men Get Degrees

Several Snyder men had returned by today from El Paso, where they had been attending the 100th reunion of the El Paso Consistory, Scottish Rite.

A number of the men are still in El Paso. The group included a fifth degree team in the Scottish Rite, several receiving degrees, and others going to attend the reunion.

Included in those receiving the degrees from Snyder were T. B. Knight, Rex Nall, Joe Fraizer, Joe Farrar, J. P. Tate, R. P. Ware, and Howard Gray. They were included in a class of more than 200 candidates.

The degree team, which had Nolan Watson as teammaster, included Ed Thompson, Ross Hemphill, Wayland Holt, Ralph Parrott, J. B. Davidson, E. W. Green, M. L. Andress, Jack Craft, Jimmy Billingsley, I. T. Westbrook, Clarence Wade, and Charles Musselwhite.

Included in others attending the reunion were Renal Rosson, Nathan Wade, C. O. Holder, and G. W. Ferguson.

Fact Finding Group Formed

WACO, Tex. (AP)—Formation of a fact finding board to settle the 49-day-old bus strike was suggested to the Waco City Commissioners yesterday by Andrew Kaelin, vice president of the CIO Transit Workers Union of America.

The board—to be formed upon agreement of both parties involved in the strike—would hear both sides of the dispute and offer recommendations to end the strike to the commissioners.

Kaelin also proposed that the striking drivers be permitted to operate personal cars along the vacated bus routes. But a ruling by the commissioners calling for the strikers to abide by city ordinances governing taxi companies would not be acceptable to the drivers, Kaelin said.

City transit workers began their strike Aug. 31 after the Waco Transit Co. refused to cut their weekly work time one-hour per day. Alternate proposals involving monetary settlement from both factions have been ignored or refused during the long, 49-day strike period.

Repeated Offense Charge Prepared

A charge of driving while intoxicated as a repeated offense was being prepared for filing at noon today by district attorney Renal B. Rosson against Mrs. Jerry Everett Paul, 33, of 1106 Twenty-fourth Street.

Mrs. Paul was arrested in Snyder yesterday afternoon by sheriff Homer Whisnand. Rosson said she had a previous DWI conviction in Sweetwater.

Police Investigate Minor Thefts Here

Theft of a tire, tube, and wheel from a car parked in the rear of the "66" Cafe on the East highway last night was reported to police.

At first it was reported that wheels and tires from both a car and a pickup parked there was stolen, but when police checked the scene this morning one of the tires and wheels was located near the cafe.

Travis L. Steele, police chief, said that investigation of weekend burglaries here is continuing, but that persons so far suspected have been checked and elliminated as possibly having committed the burglaries.

Texas Postal Probe To Be Started Soon

DALLAS (AP)—Two postal officials here say they refused to sign statements written by Senate Post Office Committee investigators but attributed to the local men.

The Senate subcommittee, headed by Sen. Olin Johnston (D-SC), is scheduled to hold hearings in Texas soon on what its staff members, and Johnston, have described as job-selling by Republican Party leaders.

Robert Carraway, No. 2 man in the regional post office here and top patronage appointee, said the investigators' versions of his answers to their questions were "not what I told them at all."

Carraway said the investigators asked him such questions as whether he "bought" his job, made contributions to the Republican Party, had been solicited for contributions, or knew anyone who bought their jobs.

Carraway said he answered "no" to all the queries.

The other official, Regional Personnel Manager Harry Hobbs, said he would answer no questions about his interview with the two investigators. They told him not to talk to newspapermen about the interview, he said. Like Carraway, however, he insisted he knew of no case in which any postal employe bought his job.

Carraway said he told the probers it was possible he received a letter requesting GOP donations from Republican National Committeeman Jack Porter of Houston. But, he added, he didn't remember it.

Carraway said he has been in charge of liaison between the regional post office and Porter's GOP Houston headquarters.

Hobbs said he supposed he was questioned because the civil service commission records on such appointments are handled in his office.

However, jobs which Sen. Johnston has said were bought in Texas were all third, second or first class postmasterships. Such appointments are handled in Washington, not by the regional offices.

Carraway said letters requesting donations to the Republican Party which Porter sent to some postmasters were not sent to applicants for postmaster jobs.

The Republican appointee said additional cases have come to the committee's attention since plans for the probe first were announced about 10 days ago. There are now, he said, 55 cases in Texas involving job sales and forced retirements.

Funds Theft Case Slated

COLORADO CITY, Tex. (AP) — Three former Martin County officials will be tried here Oct. 31 in 32nd District Court on charges of stealing county funds, Dist. Atty. Eldon Mahon says.

Joe Froman and Oliver Vaughn were serving as county commissioners at the time of the alleged theft, Mahon said yesterday. James McMorries, former county judge, now is serving a five-year prison term after being convicted on three similar charges.

Froman faces charges of stealing a total of $750 over a 1952-53 period. Vaughn is charged with theft of $167.80 in 1953. McMorries is charged jointly with Vaughn in the alleged theft of another $500.

James T. Herndon, Martin County contractor who was charged with theft of funds from Martin County, was acquitted here Sept. 19 by a Scurry County jury in 132nd District Court. Herndon had gained a change of venue to this court.

Supreme Court Avoids Case On Union Shop

AUSTIN (AP)—The State Supreme Court today decided not to take action in the long-disputed Santa Fe union shop case until the U.S. Supreme Court disposes of a similar dispute from Nebraska.

Pending action in Washington, the Texas high court left in full effect an injunction granted in 108th District Court at Amarillo to restrain the railroads and the unions from negotiating for a union shop working agreement.

The chief issue in the case is whether union shop contracts between the Santa Fe and 15 non-operating unions are constitutional.

The courts brief opinion called attention to the fact that an application for a writ of certiorari is now pending in the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Hanson vs. Union Pacific Railway Co.

"Points of law presented there are to a considerable extent the same as in the Texas case, styled M. E. Sandberry Jr. et al. and Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe Railway vs. International Assn. of Machinists, the court said.

"It is ordered that this cause be passed to await a decision by the U. S. Supreme Court in the Hanson case, and that the injunction granted by the trial court be maintained in full force and effect until further orders.

The 108th District Courts injunction restraining negotiations for a union shop working agreement was reversed by the 7th Court of Civil Appeals. That decision had been appealed to the State Supreme Court.

Union spokesmen had sought uniin shop agrements under terms of a 1951 revision of the Federal Railway Labor Act, in which Congress placed the act above other federal statutes and state laws banning such contracts.

Braswell Returned To Face Charge Here

James Troy Braswell, about 30, a convicted felon with three prison sentences assessed him during the past few weeks, was returned here yesterday on a felony indictment of armed robbery in 132nd District Court.

Braswell was indicted here Sept. 17 in connection with a holdup early in the summer of the B & B Parkway grocery No. 18 on the Lubbock highway here. He had not posted bond by late this morning.

Returned here yesterday by sheriff's deputy Howard Gibbons from Brownwood, he has two 10-year sentences and one five-year sentence from Haskell, Comanche, and Brownwood, all those penitentiary sentences to run concurrently.

A few weeks ago Braswell was captured at Roby by officers and was wounded in the chase.

Dr. Yarbrough Speaks To Junior High P-TA

The Junior High P-TA held its second meeting Monday night with Dr. Cecil Yarbrough as speaker.

His subject was "citizenship". Dr. Yarbrough pointed out that the home was the basic unit of citizenship.

Final plans were made on the Halloween Carnival to be held Oct. 31.

Mrs. Robert Taylor and Mrs. S. Orr were elected to represent Snyder Junior High P-TA at the Fort Worth convention.

Room count was taken and Mr. Lofland's room tied with Mr. Heartsfield's room for the $5.00 prize, which was divided between the two rooms.

The Junior High P-TA meetings are held at night, so that the fathers may attend and many of them did Monday night. The executive committee extended an invitation to the fathers present, to come again and to the fathers not present, to start attending the meetings.

Refreshments of coffee and cake were served.

Helps For Homemakers

Send your questions to "Helps for Homemakers." Snyder Daily News, or call 3-5486.

For a fall supper, try Bouillon Rolls. These rolls turn a routine meal into a special occasion. Spread with butter or margarine hot Bouillon Rolls are perfect partners for a hearty beef stew and a crisp green salad. Follow up with a steaming beverage and glazed baked apples in cream. Brush bouillon onto the rolls to add zippy flavor and a golden crust. Shape these yeast rolls by cutting them into wedges, then rolling them up.

BOUILLON ROLLS

2 packages yeast, compressed or dry
¼ cup water (lukewarm for compressed yeast, warm for dry)
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons salt
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 cup boiling water
5 cups sifted enriched flour (about)
2 eggs
3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
2 bouillon cubes
1 cup boiling water

Soften yeast in the cup water. Measure sugar, salt and butter or margarine into large mixing bowl. Add boiling water. Stir until sugar dissolves and butter or margarine melts. Cool to lukewarm. Add 2 cups flour and beat until smooth. Add softened yeast and eggs. Beat well. Add enough more flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or pastry cloth and knead until smooth and satiny. Place in greased bowl, cover and let rise in warm place until doubled (about 1½ hours). When light, punch down.

Divide dough into 2 equal portions. Shape each portion into a smooth ball. Let rest 10 minutes. Roll each portion into a circle about ½ inch thick. Brush lightly with melted butter or margarine. Cut into 18 wedge-shaped pieces. Roll up gently, beginning at wide end. Place on greased baking sheets. Let rise until doubled (about 45 minutes). Dissolve bouillon cubes in boiling water. Brush rolls with bouillon. Bake in slow oven (325 degrees F.) until golden brown, (about 25 minutes). About 5 or 10 minutes before rolls are done, brush with bouillon once more.

Makes 3 dozen rolls.

Board Of Trustees Tour School Projects

Members of the board of trustees of the Snyder school district yesterday afternoon toured the school system to inspect building projects and their progress.

All but one board member attended the tour. The group was accompanied by D. V. Prichard, building inspector for the projects and local representative of Buford & Feinberg of Dallas, the school's architects and engineers.

As far as could be determined, most board members appeared satisfied with construction work on the nine projects visited. There was some comment, however, on the slowness of work at most of the projects.

Prichard said work has been completed on library remodeling at the junior high school and that other remodeling work in offices there is nearly finished. Two classrooms are scheduled to be turned over to the schools on one project by Monday, and about 13 classrooms built in the program will be ready for use within the next 30 days.

For extra flavor, garnish potato salad with finely chopped green onion or chives.

Included on the program was "Love Miracle in Marriage" by Mrs. Jack Sparks and "The Printed Word and Your Life", was discussed by Mrs. Arel Faver. The highlight of Mrs. Faver's discussion was an essay "My Financial Career" by Stephen Leacock.

Refreshments of pie and coffee were served.

The next meeting will be a dinner, 7 p.m. Oct. 25, in the home of Mrs. Frank Taylor, Bel - Air Village.

Greer Cites Need For Multilane Roads

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas, with 983 miles of multilane divided highways now built or under contract, will need 8,645 miles of this type of road by 1975, State Highway Engineer D. C. Greer said yesterday.

He said the 20-year projection was based on current traffic counts showing the average number of vehicles actually traveling these highways today.

Right now, Texas needs three times as many miles of multilane divided highways as it now has outside its urban areas, and it would take an estimated 612 million dollars to meet that need if such construction were immediately possible, said Greer.

Of the 983 miles of divided expressways already built or under contract, 743 is outside of cities and 240 in urban areas.

Water Picture Change

In urging federal legislation to blueprint an "adequate water supply for the future." Lt. Gen. S. D. Sturges Jr., chief of the Army Corps of Engineers, asserted that "the nation can no longer tolerate piecemeal, inadequate water resources planning."

Speaking to the Ohio Valley Improvement Association in Cincinnati, General Sturgis implemented his point by pointing out that industry uses eight times as much water as it did in 1900 and by 1975 may use 2.5 times more than it does today. This is caused by rising living standards, which call for constant increases in water for sanitation, air conditioning, recreation and pollution abatement.

Up to now the chief federal concern has been control of surface water for flood prevention, power development and irrigation. General Sturgis seems to suggest water development must take on a fourth dimension, in these words:

"An adequate water supply for the future will have to depend more and more upon conservation of surface water through the use of man-made reservoirs constructed by the federal government, other governmental agencies (presumably he means state and water districts), and private concerns."

We do not wish to put words in the engineer chief's mouth, but it seems to us what he is saying is that future planning must deal with water for water's sake, not as a means of preventing floods, bringing new areas into cultimation, and creating cheap power. In other words, water for the general health and welfare of the people.

If so, that is an important departure from past philosophy, and it opens up the vista of a new dispensation in federal practice; for it means that water for domestic and for industrial consumption is in the cards. That is what some harassed municipalities have been contending for years. Presently they are shut out of the federal picture when it comes to developing water resources for purely domestic uses.

Boosts By Indirection

Vice President Nixon received a sizeable boost at week's end toward the ambition which most Americans, friends and foes alike, believe he harbors—the presidency.

It came in the form of one of those end-around plays you used to hear about in football, in which the ball-toter goes around his own end and meets himself coming back.

Joseph L. Rauh Jr., in a speech to the New Jersey State Convention of the ADA, "advised" the Republican Party to "drop" Mr. Nixon as a 1956 presidential possibility because, he said, the independent voter will "never swallow" him. He described Nixon as the "heir apparent" of the GOP and said the "campaign to clean up Richard Nixon is well under way."

ADA, of course, stands for Americans for Democratic Action, and "advice" coming from that source is apt to do Nixon more good than harm. ADA is the left-wing fringe of "liberals" that has operated on the perimeter of the Democratic Party for years, with gradually declining influence.

Now a great many GOP stalwarts, according to reports, are not hot for Nixon, but if outfits like ADA—Mr. Rauh is national chairman—start concentrating on Nixon, two conclusions are apt to be drawn. The first is that people who don't like the ADA—and they are legion—may get to thinking there is something to Nixon after all; the second is that GOP bigwigs may figure that the Democratic Party is afraid of Nixon, so the vice president really has something on the political ball. Some Democratic leaders outside the ADA crowd have been saying Nixon would be their favorite GOP nominee, a push-over, and this also may enlarge the Californian in Republican eyes. If they ain't afraid of him, why do they down-grade him?

Some of the Democratic strategists who are suspected of an intent to knife Adlai Stevenson are following this same course of enlarging a candidate by downgrading him. Messrs. Truman and Harriman recently combined to heckle Adlai. The impression is that this move has its origin among the big city machines—fronted by Carmine DeSapio of Tammany Hall—and that is likely to do Adlai more good than harm.

Pinon, when burned, gives off a fragrant odor. It is in increasing demand over the nation for use in fireplaces.

Twelve Good Men And True—And This!

Government Outsmarts Itself With Its Long Court Proceedings Against Provoo

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—John David Provoo, once found guilty of treason and sentenced to life imprisonment, has beaten the rap because the government outsmarted itself and kept him in custody too long before trying him.

A Supreme Court decision yesterday left him free of the charges.

The government reportedly spent one million dollars trying to convict him. One government lawyer said this was the most important treason case since Aaron Burr's.

Provoo's story is strange. So is the government's handling of him.

Provoo, a Californian now 38, went to Japan to learn the language and study the Buddhist religion. He returned home in 1941 and, a few months before war began, enlisted in the Army. He was shipped to the Philippines.

He was among those Americans captured by the Japanese at Corregidor. Right there, the government argued years later, Provoo became a turncoat by posing as Buddhist priest and offering to help the Japanese.

He was in a Japanese prison camp until the war ended in 1945 but then the Army held him a prisoner for seven months while it investigated him. Nevertheless, it honorably discharged him Aug. 17, 1946.

He re-enlisted 18 days later. But in 1949 the Army again held him as a prisoner in the stockade at Ft.Meade, Md., awaiting court-martial on a charge of homosexuality.

Then on Sept. 1, 1949, the Army transferred him to Ft.Jay, N.Y., and the next day dishonorably discharged him. Immediately the Justice Department had the FBI arrest him on a treason charge. He was indicted on that charge by a federal grand jury in New York on Nov. 19, 1949.

But the government kept him prisiner three years before bringing him to trial in October 1952. Some of his American fellow pris-
Some said he had been a vicious bully and Japanese collaborator.

(The defense argued that Provoo had used his knowledge of Japanese to ease the lot of fellow prisoners and to this end might have curried favor with his captors. Any propa-given the Japanese was defended
ganda help that he might have as forced under pain of punishment or even death.)

On Feb. 11, 1953, a jury found him guilty of treason, specifically for aiding the Japanese with propaganda broadcasts and being partly responsible for the execution of an American Army captain, Burton C. Thompson, by informing on him to the Japanese. The judge gave Provoo a life sentence.

Provoo's court-appointed lawyers fought the guilty verdict and won. On Aug. 27, 1954, a federal appellate court in New York overturned the verdict by ruling Provoo should have been tried for treason in Maryland, where he had been in the Army, instead of in New York.

Why had the Army on Sept. 1 suddenly transferred him to New York to discharge him? And how come the Justice Department was right there to grab him on a treason charge?

A government lawyer later testified, in effect, that this was all arranged between the Justice Department and the Army because Army wanted to get rid of him and the Justice Department lawyers thought they had a better chance of convicting him in New York. He said one of the Maryland federal judges had shown antagonism to the Justice Department in the past.

But the Justice Department wasn't ready to throw in the sponge on Provoo. It had him reindicted for treason by a federal grand jury in Maryland. He was to have been brought to trial last March 14.

Before trial could begin his lawyers argued: Provoo's constitutional rights had been violated by the government in holding him so long before bringing him to trial, so there should be no trial.

The Constitution's Sixth Amendment promises every accused person the right to a "speedy and public trial." The federal judge, Roszel C. Thomsen, agreed and ordered Provoo released.

The Justice Department appealed to the Supreme Court to reverse Judge Thomsen and order Provoo to trial. Yesterday the Supreme Court upheld the judge.

New Gadgets Filter Out Television Commercials

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — There are several gadgets on the market today that will enable a listener to tune out a television commercial.

But they do little to help the veteran video viewer in his real predicament. Your hardened TV fan no longer rants against commercials as he did in those faroff pioneer days when Hopalong Cassidy first rode into our living rooms on a 12-inch screen.

The TV addicts have developed a protective mechanism similar to that acquired by husbands married to talkative wives. The moment a really boring commercial begins to flash on the screen they turn of their ears, a glaze creeps into their eyes, and they sink into the same restful torpor they would if they were listening to a long-winded after dinner speaker.

In some homes commercials are even stoutly defended by parents because of their hypnotic power to quiet children.

"Since my kids became interested in listening to rhyming commercials, they don't ask me to read and explain Mother Goose to them — and that's a real benefit," said one father. "You know many of those Mother Goose verses are a lot of nonsence.

"I couldn't understand some of them when I was a kid, and they make even less sense to me now. So how can I explain them?"

Another father said his 4-year-old son had learned to carry a tune by joining in singing TV commercials. But he made one mistake He let the boy stay up after bedtime one evening listening to some later programs which have commercials carrying different messages.

Three days later when the minister called at the home he heard the little tyke galloping around the living room cheerfully bellowing:

"Zilch's is the beer for me, boys, Zilch's is the beer for me."

Despite such occasional embarrasing mishaps, a gadget to tune out commercials isn't the TV industry's major needed invention.

What is needed is a gadget that will pay no attention to commercials but instead seek out a flash on good programs.

Television has mushromed faster than any other form of free entertainment ever offered the public, not excepting bundling and trial marriage.

It is still afflicted by many forms of blige, including too many cash-and-carry quiz shows to which the contestants come poor as church mice and leave rich enough to endow a cathedral although none has done that with his winnings as yet).

Just this week Jose Ferrer and a fine cast put on a memorable performance of "Cyrano de Bergerac," a romantic French drama that has broken every love-sick college boy's heart for half a century. It was good theater, it was well-advertised, and millions saw it. But others are still complaining, "I didn't know it was going to be put on."

A program-scanner gadget would end such disappointment. It would filter out the trash and when it found something really good light up, ring a bell or cry out: "Don't miss this."

Professional Child Expert, Busybodies Combine To 'Box In' The Modern Parent

By INEZ ROBB

Modern parents, in one woman's opinion, are more to be pitied than scorned. Not only are modern parents saddled with the modern child, but also with the professional child expert, or modern busybody. Boxed in by these two, the modern parent can't win.

Since World War II, I have read with mordid and increasing uneasiness the pronouncements of the child experts whose daily columns of advice are relatively recent newspaper phenomena. As a student of these columns, I have gleaned two over - all facts: (1) the modern child is a Dracula in diapers and (2) modern parents are blundering misfits.

Only one thing is certain: no matter what parents do, it's wrong. I live in a city in which parents sweat blood to acquire the wherewithal to move to the suburbs, so the kids can have the benefit of fresh air, fine public schools, green spaces, a swimmin' hole, a swing, a garden and a house, rather than an apartment, as a home.

For as long as I can remember, the child experts have been exhorting parents to save the child from the city and save the whole family from future grief and anguish. Get the child off the city streets and into the suburbs, they have cried, and salavation is his.

But now comes another expert, an American psychiatrist, who has just warned a gathering of American and Canadian community planners that Suburbia can be full of mental and emotional hazards for the modern child.

Since Daddy is only home in the mornings, in the evenings, and on the week ends, this expert reasons that Suburbia is a feminine world. This, in turn, is bound to afflict the suburban child with all sorts of psychological collywobbles just short of actual delinquency.

He may, poor little nipper, be disturbed and upset because his Old Man doesn't hang around the house all day long. At this point, I have one flat observation to make: the little nipper probably would be a lot more disturbed and upset, not to mention hungry, dirty and cold, if his Old Man did hang around the house instead of rushing to the city to make a living.

In my experience, the only men around home all day and still —city or surburban — who can make a living for a family are those on the night shift. Maybe the kid who has to tiptoe around the house all day while Daddy sleeps in preparation for the swing shift derives some deep psychological benefit that escapes my insensitive soul.

When I was a child growing up in a small town, Papa and my uncles went off to work early in the morning and came home just in time for six o'clock supper. In those days, everyone, even the banker, worked a six-day week. The situation, obviously, was worse than Suburbia.

But there weren't any modern experts in those days telling Mama or my aunts or the neighbors how to bring up children. And if any of us small fry developed during the day any psycho trait too tough for Mama to handle, Papa exercised it in the woodshed come eventide.

Since those days, parents have never had it so good.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington Is Plagued By Pocketbook Thieves

By RUTH COWAN
(For Jane Eads)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Women office workers everywhere are frequent victims of pocketbook sneak thieves, but the capital—with probably the greatest concentration of Girl Fridays in the world—is really a lush hunting ground for these prowlers.

Like their sisters everywhere, government girls leave their purses around just any place—on top of a desk, in an unlocked drawer or on a window sill.

Police estimate the yearly take from government offices at $10,000 to $12,000. Thefts often occur on the afternoon of payday, when many checks have been cashed.

Special agents of the General Services Administration offer five suggestions to government office workers—and they are wise for Girl Fridays anywhere:

1. Take your purse with you every time you leave the office.

2. Lock your purse in a drawer and keep change for incidental expenses in small change purse in another drawer.

3. Ask another employe to watch your desk when you leave the office.

4. If the desk has no lock, leave your purse in a large manila envelope in the desk farthest from the entrance to the office. Cover the envelope with other papers.

5. If a stranger comes in asking for directions refer him to the office supervisor. Then, if a prearranged signal is given by the supervisor, call the building guard.

William E. Aud, head of GSA special agents, and his men have devised tricks to capture sneak thieves. One that had a spectacular ending was used on a thief who was working the Internal Revenue Service building.

Every payday for several weeks, five or six purses were missing. A wallet in an unlocked desk drawer was wired to a buzzer in the next room. The thief tried to get the wallet, and the buzzer brought special agents on the double.

They caught the thief, but he wiggled free and jumped to his death out a window.

'Chronic Nepotism' Cited As One Cause For Failure

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Many a businessman has looked forward to the day when he could add "& son" to the firm's name. And many a corporation executive has looked around in his organization for a job with sufficient prestige for his son-in-law.

Is that as good for the business as it is for the relative?

This very human practice of placing relatives in responsible jobs with first regard for their kinship rather than for their merit or qualification goes by the name of nepotism. It's been around a long time, in politics and business, and the name originated in church practicies of an earlier day.

In a family-owned business it's the family's own affair how nepotism works out. The "& son" can be a family indulgence. Quite often the son does a good job, sometimes better than Dad did.

In a publicly owned corporation, nepotism is the concern of the many stockholders as well as others in the management.

Curious as to how much nepotism there is in business in this country, the American Institute of Management, a nonprofit foundation, studied the directorates and executives rosters of 23,000 companies. It found nepotism in about 12,000.

Stressing that many such corporations are excellently managed, the institute nevertheless points out that "chronic nepotism has caused the failure of many enterprises and companies, stunted the growth of many others, delayed and hampered still others."

Trouble can arise within the corporation, the institute holds, because the choice of relatives for top positions more or less defeats any program of executive development. Also it breeds jealousy. Other executives see little chance for advancement. Sometimes it leads to struggles for control.

There is the steep federal and state inheritance tax. This often keeps the chief owner of a large company from passing control to his children, or leaving them as much of an estate in other forms as he would like.

So he tries to see that they inherit top positions, even if the tax collector gets most of the proceeds of the stock holdings.

Big Fight For Men's Minds Now Going On In Argentina

By BRUCE HENDERSON

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A battle royal for men's minds is going on in Argentina. The outcome could decide whether this nation builds democracy from the ruins of shattered Peronism or reverts to dictatorship.

A press campaign is trying to persuade the working man still fanatically dedicated to Juan Peron that he can get along even better without the fallen president—and be free besides. It is being conducted by the provisional government set up after rebels ousted Peron last month.

It's an important propaganda job and a tough one. Without at least the passive cooperation of these peoples, achieving stability will be difficult. Peron has a 10-year head start in drilling into their minds the idea he was the only one capable of leading them to the better life.

Argentina's General Confederation of Labor (CGT) claims six million of the country's 19 million citizens. The CGT was Peron's big fist.

In 1945 a daylong strike and demonstration by the CGT forced a military clique which had arrested Peron to free him. That show of mass support hoisted Peron into the presidency the following year.

How many of the CGT's claimed six million are still avid followers of the exiled Peron is questionable, but surely the figure is high. Unless taught something other than "Peronismo," they could be a constant threat to tranquility.

The government of Maj. Gen. Eduardo Lonardi is trying to show the Peronistas the difference between labor unions free to chart their own course and those dominated by a government. It is also trying to get across the meaning of "hard money." Newspapers under temporary direction of the provisional authorities carry editorials on these subjects almost daily.

Champagne Railroad Is Appropriate Name

NEW YORK (AP)—The Bath and Hammondsport Railroad, only nine miles long, has the nickname The Champagne Trail.

This tiny railroad, strictly a local enterprise, is located in the heart of the Finger Lakes region of New York state.

The title, Champagne Trail, is no misnomer. The line serves chiefly the wine and grape industry in and around Hammondsport and the Keuka Lake grape belt. It hauls glass bottles into the area and takes them out filled with wine.

The B & H line was originally built in 1875 as a narrow gauge line to connect Hammondsport with the six-foot gauge Erie at Bath. Today it is standard gauge and has 10-full-time employees with road and equipment investment of $160,000.

Hollywood Today

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —By his own admission, John Wayne was playing a supporting role in a TV drama, "Rookie of the Rear," starring Pat Wayne.

No star has ever been happier taking a back seat to a younger actor. Pat, of course, is John's son. Both were appearing in a Screen Directors' Guild Playhouse show, directed by John's long-time mentor and Pat's godfather John Ford.

Between scenes, the proud father declared, "Yes, I certainly hope Pat wants to be an actor, though it's early for him to decide—he's just 16.

"But it would be so easy for him if he does want to act. You should see the fan mail he's getting already. Stacks of it! That's just from having his picture in the fan magazines.

"And acting comes easy to him. Shucks, he had a scene in 'The Searchers' that was a terror. He had to come bursting in and tell me and Ward Bond the whole story. We interrupted him with questions, but he kept on going. Ford let it run and the kid did the scene perfectly."

Besides "The Searchers," which the Waynes just finished, Pat has also appeared in "The Quiet Man," "The Long Gray Line" and "Mister Roberts." All were Ford pictures. Says the veteran director: "He's a fine boy; he does a wonderful job."

Pat's father agrees. But although he hopes for an acting career for his son, Wayne figures there's no hurry.

"Pat was up for the role of Gary Cooper's son in William Wyler's "Friendly Persuasion," he said. "It was a fine role, but I didn't want him to take it. He would have had to miss the football season at Loyola High, as he did last year.

"I think it's more important for him to play ball. If he's going to be an actor, it's important for him to learn athletics. By playing a good American game like football, he'll learn how to move, how to get along with other men."

"Pat's in no hurry. I don't want him to be a child actor. And a man can't really get ahead in this business until he's 30."

Rumor Mill Leads To Theft Of Melons

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—Somebody started a rumor which resulted in a 7-acre watermelon patch being stripped.

H. H. Brazzell reported more than 1,000 melons stolen.

The sheriff's office said several persons reported they heard Brazzell planned to plow the field under and anyone wanting the melons could take them.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

INNOCENT BYSTANDER. By Barbara Frost. Coward-McCann.

Marka de Lancey, an old friend of old friends of this author's, is in for her narrowest squeeze in this new mystery. A lawyer, abroad, has left her his cases including a young Italian violinist and composer, Greg Trafani. Greg as composer can so concentrate that late one night or early one morning he almost misses the delectable corpse of Trixie Maxon in his bedroom. Trixie, ex-Hertha Billek, a singer, had been, though she never suspected it, a likely victim for a coldblooded killer; and it's only after this story starts that Marka discovers she herself is no less likely a victim

Miss Frost exposes her victims to murder in intriguing places like Carnegie Hall and the Bar Assn. headquarters, and she has you afraid she's going to lose her favorite lawyer, and yours, before she winds up her shivery tale. You read to the end for the solution, but you no sooner start than you find there's no mystery at all in the fact it's the choice of the Detective Book Club.

MOONRAKER. By Ian Fleming. Macmillan.

Sir Hugo Drax, building a monster weapon, a moonraker, as a defense for England, is discovered cheating at cards. The knowing eye of James Bond spots him, and the Secret Service moves in with the police, beautifully represented by Gala Brand. Drax's missile site is run with military snap, one man is heard crying "Heil," all wear handlebar mustaches, there's a murder.

Justice, England, Bond and Gala have repeated narrow squeaks before the cry of rocket, away.

STORES COLLAPSED HERE—Stores stood in the center foreground of this scene in downtown Norwalk, Conn., built over the normally placid Norwalk river. Now the flood-swollen stream undermined the foundations, and they collapsed, ripping walls from neighboring structures.

Archbishop, Meg To Dine

LONDON (AP)—Princess Margaret dines tonight with the Archbishop of Canterbury, leading foe in the Church of England of any plans she may have to marry divorced airman Peter Townsend.

The 25-year-old princess, her sister Queen Eliabeth II and other members of the royal family headed the guest list for Lambeth Palace, the archbishop's venerable brick residence across the Thames from the Houses of Parliament.

Also invited were all the church bishops who along with the royal family were to attend the predinner dedication of the palace chapel, damaged in the war and now repaired.

Townsend was not on the list.

The foremost thought with all present was certain to be the romance between Margaret and the 40-year-old RAF group captain, a fighter pilot hero in the Battle of Britain and father of two sons.

With the mounting furore in press and public over whether the princess would flout laws of the church by marrying a divorced man, all the dinner guests likely would observe discreet silence on the embarrassing subject. But this did not preclude entirely private talks among the principals, either before or after the dinner, on the topic of prime interest for most Britons.

The 68-year-old archbishop, Dr. Geoffrey Fisher, is primate of all England. Both he and the Queen—who is constitutional head of the church—are pledged to protect its regulations and traditions, including its ban on the remarriage of divorced persons whose ex-spouses are still alive.

An earlier Archbishop of Canterbury, the late Cosmo Lang, was credited with a major role in forcing the present Duke of Windsor to abdicate the British throne in 1936 when he insisted on marrying the twice-divorced American, Wallis Warfield Simpson.

The archbishop has been a devoted friend and spiritual guide of the royal family, and Margaret has often dined at his palace. But he is sternly devoted to his duty as he sees it.

The British public, meanwhile, experienced mounting frustration over not knowing the future of one of the most popular members of the royal family.

Newspapers were reduced to printing a timetable of yesterday's events, from Prime Minister Eden's forenoon conference with his Cabinet to Townsend final return for the night to the apartment of his London host, the Marquis of Abergavenny. The Laborite Daily Herald headlined in exasperation: "What Is Going On?"

Margaret and Townsend met again for the sixth straight day since he arrived from his air attache's duties in Brussels, this time for 2½ hours at teatime at Clarence House, where she lives with Queen Mother Eliabeth. For 40 minutes of the time the Queen Mother was away, presumably visiting Queen Elizabeth at Buckingham Palace.

HER WEEKEND IS OVER — Princess Margaret, who was all smiles last week when she arrived in London to meet RAF Group Captain Peter Townsend, stares straight ahead as she leaves for the British capital from rural Binfield. The princess and Townsend both were weekend guests at her cousin's country home. Townsend also returned to London amid rumors of growing official opposition to his possible marriage to the princess.

Boat Landing Work Resumes

Work will be resumed on the construction of boat launching ramps at Lake Thomas as soon as emergency re-enforcement on oil well mounds is completed.

Lake Thomas caught an 11½-foot rise just as work was being started on a concrete boat launching ramp near the south end of the dam. This necessitated extending additional rip-rap on the mounds to protect them from wave erosion. O. H. Ivie, production superintendent, for the Colorado River Municipal Water District, said that satisfactory progress was being made on the mound protection.

E. V. Spence, general manager, said that a carload of cement was on the ground so that work on the ramp could be pressed when started. The ramp will permit the easy launching and loading of boats under variable weather conditions. Another improvement to be constructed is a sort of floating dock, connected by a gangplank to the shore, to facilitate loading and unloading of passengers and gear from boats.

Theft By The Miles

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—About 30 miles of copper wire have been stolen off telephone poles in the Burlington area. The theft was discovered when a lineman went to remove the wires, which no longer were in use.

School Bid Opening In Snyder Is Reset

Opening of bids on construction of the new elementary school in northeast Snyder, originally scheduled for last night, was postponed until Oct. 27.

The school board of trustees set the bid opening at 7:30 p.m. that day in the high school cafeteria.

This will be the last phase of the school's $2 million building expansion program.

Sentenced To Home

CHELSEA, Vt. (AP)—Henry Jelbert, 49, of Chicopee, Mass., won't have to go far to serve the 30 days to which he was sentenced yesterday in Municipal Court on a charge of intoxication. He will serve time in Orange County Jail, where he is employed as a cook.

Moonshine Slaying Trial To Be Moved

BEATTYVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Sheriff Hampton Palmer's popularity and influence would make it impossible to obtain a fair-minded jury to try him on a murder charge, the state claimed yesterday.

So Lee Circuit Judge S. H. Rice ordered the trial of Palmer and two of his former deputies, John Combs and Winifred Dunaway, transferred to Owsley Circuit Court.

They were charged with killing 53-year-old George Rece June 11 in an exchange of gunfire during a raid at a moonshine still.

Directors Of Water District To Meet

BIG SPRING — Directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District will meet here Tuesday at 10 a.m., President Robert T. Piner has announced.

Chief item on the agenda will be the consideration of the annual budget to be presented by General Manager E. V. Spence. Work on the proposed fiscal guide, as required under terms of the indenture, is nearing completion, Spence said.

Clothes Coming Off, Hold Up That Bus

BALTIMORE (AP)—Driver Francis Hartlove brought his No. 6 bus to a quick stop the other day after a female passenger cried:

"Wait! Hold everything until I get my clothes off!"

Hartlove spun around in his seat. The woman, fully clothed, finally managed to get her bundle of laundry through the rear door and off the vehicle.

3 Whooping Cranes Sighted In Texas

AUSTWELL, Tex. (AP) — Three whooping cranes, vanguard of an expected flock, were sighted on Aransas National Wildlife Refuge yesterday by refuge manager Julian Howard.

Howard said he saw the birds, two adults and a youngster, from a refuge patrol boat just before noon. He said the young whooper was hatched last June near Great Slave Lake in northwestern Canada.

Last fall, he said, 21 adults that had flown north in the spring came back with no young. The cranes are America's tallest waterfowl and scarcest species.

Canadian wild life officials spotted six young on the nesting range this summer.

Former Official Goes To Prison

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Former Congressman James P. Scoblick of Pennsylvania's 10th District surrendered with his brother Frank, 34, to federal authorities to begin serving prison terms for defrauding Mayfield State Bank of $169,000.

The 45-year-old former Republican legislator was sentenced to five years in prison and his brother to three years. They were involved in a scheme involving the misuse of checks with a former bank cashier, who is already serving a prison term.

Marathon Guzzler Gets Silver Tankard

ALREWAS, England (AP) — Tom Hill, 76, was presented with a silver tankard for drinking 11,000 gallons of beer.

Tom began his marathon guzzle in 1895. He boasts he hasn't missed a night at the Crown Inn since—and has knocked back precisely four pints per night year in and year out.

It adds up to just under 88,000 pints.

Steve Chadwick, the inn's present owner, awarded the tankard.

Attendance At Fair Increased By Youths

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—If any historians of expositions are reading this, correct your figures from 323,224 to 323,230.

The State Fair of Texas Saturday said it broke a world one-day exposition attendance record with 323,224.

Today it was putting a letter from Miss Patsy Towner, Mount Pleasant, Tex., into its records.

Miss Towner said the fair should increase its official figure by six because she saw that number of boys avoid the turnstiles—and avoid paying admission—by climbing the fence.

Baer In Movies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Former heavyweight boxing champion Max Baer has been signed by Columbia Pictures to portray a champ who ends the rise of a young giant. The picture is "The Harder They Fall," a Columbia spokesman said, and the role is reminiscent of the title fight in which Baer knocked out huge Primo Carnera to win the heavyweight championship in 1934.

SPORTS

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

COACH BOB PERCIVAL of the Vernon Lions apparently was pretty bitter over that 22-0 shellacking the Tigers handed his charges some 10 days ago.

Percival made a statement after the Vernon-Plainview game last week that will stump you.

According to Bob Carroll, Plainview-Herald Sports Editor, Percival made this statement following the Vernon-Plainview game:

"Plainview showed us a far finer defense than did the Snyder Tigers last week."

Now ain't that something.

Plainview gave up three touchdowns to the Lions whereas the Tigers blanked the Vernon crew.

And, on top of the Tigers shutting out Vernon, the closest the Lions could come to touchdown territory was the Tiger 39 yard line.

If you can figure out a reason for Percival making such a statement, you're a better man than I am.

This much is true, "the Plainview defense was better for Vernon because she was able to score three touchdowns and win the game, 19-13."

That could have been what Percival meant.

College Grid Tilt In Snyder Talked

There's been some talk started on why Snyder shouldn't invite a couple of college teams to play a football game here next fall.

Such a game, we believe, would draw well here. Football interest here seems to be on a high plane and I believe fans here would jump at a chance to see a college game played on the Tiger Stadium turf.

There's plenty of possibilities for a college game here. There are no less than three colleges in Abilene, Hardin-Simmons, McMurry and Abilene Christian, who could be lured here without too much effort.

Hardin-Simmons is already lined up to play a game on a neutral field in Odessa next fall and whether the Cowboy school could be lured here is doubtful.

But, checking this year's schedules of McMurry and ACC, we note that there's some good possibilities.

Next year, West Texas State will be due to play McMurry in Abilene while East Texas State will be scheduled against ACC in the Wildcat lair.

Either of these two games would make a pretty good drawing card here and perhaps if Snyder would make the right approach to these two neighboring schools, the deal with one of the schools could be arranged.

Since the football schedule in Abilene is over crowded each year, what with three colleges and a high school participating in the sport, the crowds in the Key City aren't too good.

Consequently, the college officials of the Abilene schools would certainly lend an ear to any proposal a neighboring city would want to make in regards to hosting one of their games.

Suggest Rotation System

We might throw in this suggestion for what it's worth.

If it could be arranged, why not start a rotation system with the three Abilene colleges playing here? For an example: "McMurry would play here next year, ACC the following year and Hardin-Simmons the next and then start over."

This way, the many exes of these schools who live in Snyder and the surrounding area would get a chance to see their alma mater in action right here at home.

Snyder, too, would derive much publicity by being the hosts to a couple of college teams.

If we're going to get the ball rolling in this respect by next fall, then there's no time like the present in starting to make some contacts.

The 1956 schedules of these schools probably are already adopted but by making some contacts early, these schools may be able to make a change and switch a game here.

Smith, Carter In Title Bout

By HAROLD HARRISON

CINCINNATI (AP)—Wallce (Bud) Smith, a young fellow who has yet to cash in financially on the fact he is lightweight boxing champion of the world, makes his first defense of the crown tonight against Jimmy Carter, a three-time holder of the title.

Smith, a Cincinnatian, won the championship from Carter, a New Yorker, in a bout in Boston last June 29.

The two sharp-punching Negroes will go 15 rounds or less in the Cincinnati Garden.

The bout at 9 p.m., EST, will be televised nationally by ABC.

Carter was rated a slight betting favorite to become the first four-time champion in the division in history. He already is the first three-timer.

Smith hasn't had a fight since he won the championship.

Both men expressed confidence. Smith insisted yesterday that Carter couldn't hurt him seriously.

"I took his best shots the last time and continued to go right after him," he said.

Carter said he was overconfident in the last bout and added, "He's tough but not too tough in my book."

SWC Lads Among Leaders

By The Associated Press

George Welsh's spectacular aerial display against Penn State has vaulted the Navy's poised passer from 14th to first place among the nation's major college football yardage gainers.

Despite the damp weather, the 164-pound Middie quarterback completed 15 of 20 passes for 285 yards and 2 touchdowns, and added 3 yards on the ground for a 288-yard total, top individual feat of the year, and the second best passing show in five years.

In 1950, John Ford of Hardin-Simmons completed 20 of 25 heaves for 293 yards against Arizona State. That was the only other time in five years any major college passer completed 75 per cent of 20 or more attempts for that kind of yardage.

With his total of 634 yards rushing and passing minus 1 rushing, 635 passing), Welsh became the fourth different player to head the offense lists in as many weeks. The other pace-setters were Joe Clements, Texas, Claude Benham, Columbia, and Art Luppino, Arizona.

Luppino, second in total offense with 606 yards, maintained his grip in rushing with the same number of yards. A new pass leader was unveiled, however, in Dartmouth's Bill Beagle.

The Dartmouth quarterback hit on 19 of 40 throws for 278 yards in the Indians' losing effort to Lafayette. Beagle now has completed 53 passes. His yardage total of 600 is 35 short of Welsh's figure. Completions are the measuring yardstick in passing.

Beagle's attempts and completions are single-game highs for the season and his yardage was second only to Welsh's.

Spartan Is Back Of Week

By TED MEIER
The Associated Pres

Fullback Gerry Planutis of Michigan State, who plunged for the winning touchdown againt Notre Dame last Saturday, was selected the Week today by a narrow margin over Navy's George Welsh whose forward passes crushed Penn State.

It was a contest between two lads from the anthracite region of eastern Pennsylvania with Hazleton's Planutis topping Coaldale's Welsh.

A national television audience saw Planutis overpower the Notre Dame line with savage line bucks as the Spartans moved to their winning TD in the third period. It was fitting for him to buck over the vital points because it wiped out the bitter memory of 1954 when he failed to convert twice and the Irish took a 20-19 victory.

Not only did Planutis go over for the winning touchdown, but he set the stage for MSU's final TD in the Spartan's 21-7 triumph be recovering an Irish fumble on the Notre Dame 16 in the last quarter. He converted all three points. After the game he was awarded the ball by his teammates for his tremendous work.

Where Planutis stayed on the ground, Welsh took to the air as he sparked Navy to a 34-14 triumph over Penn State. The 22-year-old Midshipman set the Nittany Lions crazy with his flips. Altogether he completed 15 of 20 passes for 285 yards, a Naval Academy record.

Coach Rip Engle of Penn State termed Welsh the most accomplished passer in college football today.

Planutis and Welsh were not the only backs to be nominated by sportswriters and broadcasters in the AP poll.

Fullback Joe Childress of Auburn was praised for his work in Auburn's 14-12 upset of Georgia Tech.

Quarterback Sonny Jurgensen of Duke, who tallied the winning TD against Ohio State, was praised, too, as was Don Watson, who scored twice in Texas A&M's 19-16 upset over Texas Christian.

Others nominated included Tommy McDonald of Oklahoma; John Roach of SMU; Frank Sarno of Washington State; John (Drums) Majors of Tennessee and Jon Arnett of USC.

Tigers To Meet Improved Club

Plainview Bulldogs Coming Along Fast

The Plainview Bulldogs, Friday night's Tiger opponents, have improved 75 percent during the past two weeks, according to J. P. Ward, Tiger freshman coach who has been scouting the Bulldogs.

Ward told the Snyder Quarterback Club last night that he saw Plainview play Lamesa two weeks ago and then again last Friday night against Vernon and said:

"Plainview had shown so much improvement since the Lamesa game that it surprised me." Ward said he was conservative in saying Plainview had improved 75 percent.

The Bulldogs run primarily off the straight T but Coach Don Mouser of the Dogs also employs the spread formation some.

Tiger coach John Conley told the Quarterbackers last night that he and his assistants are expecting Plainview to throw the spread formation at the Tigers Friday.

"They used it with good success against us last year," Conley said, "and we expect them to come out with it again this time."

Scouting reports on Plainview reveals the Bulldogs have a stout line with plenty of size.

Conley told the QB Clubbers last night that the Bulldogs will outweigh the Tigers by about five pounds per man in the line.

It will be the second straight game the Tigers will spot the opposition some weight in the line.

The Tiger coaching staff is high in praise for two of the Plainview backs, halfback Waldo Wesley and fullback Penny Culp. Wesley weighs 180 and Culp 170.

"Both are dangerous backs," Conley said last night.

Conley reported that the Tigers have had two good workouts this week and the spirit among the boys seems to be pretty high.

"We're doing our best to keep the boys from getting over confident and I don't believe they are," Conley said.

The QB Club, in its business session last night, heard Dan Cotton give a report on the special bus to Plainview and Bill Morgan on the special train to Amarillo.

Cotton said 25 had signed to ride the special bus to Plainview and there was room for 16 more. Anyone wanting to ride the bus to Plainview Friday is urged to contact Cotton at once at the County Clerk's office in the Court House.

Roundtrip fare to Plainview is $4. The bus will leave Friday at 3:30 p.m. and return immediately following the game.

Morgan said the special train to Amarillo Nov. 4 will definitely run. The required 400 needed to run the special has already been attained, Morgan said.

Junior High Twinbill Here Tomorrow

Tiger Stadium will be scene of a Junior High doubleheader tomorrow night.

The 7th and 8th Grade teams of Snyder and Sweetwater will appear in the grid twinbill.

The 7th graders of the two schools will clash in the first game, to start at 6:30, while the 8th graders will follow at around 8 p.m.

Snyder's 7th grade team will carry a 4-1 record into the game while the 8th graders will go into their game with a 5-0 mark.

The only defeat suffered by the 7th graders was to Sweetwater, 14-0, in the season opener. The local 7th grade eleven, thus, will be seeking revenge tomorrow night.

It will also be the second meeting between the 8th grade teams of the two schools. Snyder 8th won the first game, 20-6.

Another Snyder team, the Tiger Frosh, will also see action tomorrow night. The Freshmen team will go to Stamford for a tussle with the Stamford Frosh.

It will be a stern test for J. P. Ward's unbeaten Snyder Frosh. Stamford recently snapped a long winning streak of South Junior of Abilene who hadn't lost a game since 1951.

J. P. WARD
. . . says Bulldogs are vastly improved.

Levelland 4th; Snyder 8th In Triple-A Poll

DALLAS (AP)—The Garland Owls settled further in the top perch of the Dallas News' AAA football poll this week after beating Cleburn 34-0.

Grand Prairie, Brownwood and Levelland crept up the ladder of AAA success but remained far behind Garland, division kings for the fifth consecutive week.

Top ten teams and their season's record are:

1—Garland 5-0
2—Alice (6-0)
3—Texarkana 3-0-1)
4—Levelland (4-0-1)
5—San Antonio Edison (4-1)
6—Grand Prairie (5-0) and Brownwood 4-1)
8—Snyder (3-1)
9—Lufkin (3-2)
10—Beaumont South Park (4-0-1)

Biggest man on the Columbia University football team is tackle Fred Hovasapian, a 230 - pound sophomore transfer students from Stanford.

Aggies 'Favored' To Whip Baylor

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M will be in a strange role Saturday—favored to win a Southwest Conference football game for the first time in two years.

The bubbling Aggies, hot on the trail of a championship that has eluded them for 15 years, meet Baylor's daring Bears at College Station in the feature game of the conference for the week.

This one might well decide the title and the young Aggies find themselves 3-point favorites to gain the highly favored position.

A crowd of 40,000 is due as Aggieland thrills to the drive back up of a team that has been down so many seasons.

Rice and Texas clash at Austin in another conference game and this one is rated even although Texas has won only one game this year and Rice has lost only one. The Owls' somewhat dismal showing against Southern Methodist last week is the reason for their low rating against Texas.

While the two conference games are being played, the three other conference members will be engaging in intersectional warfare.

Southern Methodist finds itself a 7-point underdog to Mississippi at Oxford.

The weekend starts off with Texas Christian battling Miami at Miami. The Horned Frogs, who lost their first game of the season to Texas A&M last week, are favored by a touchdown over the Miami Hurricane.

Golfers Arriving For Ryder Cup

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP)—A large influx of golfers began arriving here today in preparation for the Ryder Cup-Challenge team matches scheduled for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Ryder Cup team Capt. Chick Harbert fired a 35-35 for a two-under-par 70 over the lush 7,035-yard country club course yesterday.

An 18-hole exhibition round and clinic with the Challenge golfers and Ben Hogan, honorary challenge team captain, will be held tomorrow.

Herbert said he would pair off his cuppers for Saturday and Sunday competition after a practice round late Friday.

Garland Has Early Hunting Casualties

GARLAND (AP)—Garland thinks it has a world's record for casualties—before the hunting season even opens.

The deer-hunting season is a month off but four Garland sportsmen were injured trying out newly attached telescopes on their high-powered rifles.

They were Elmer Newman, M. S. Hollenshead, J. V. Shipley and A. V. Morrison.

Each held his rifle too close to his eyes in getting a good perspective through the scope in firing practice rounds. The gun rebounded and the scope conked the man on the forehead, cutting gashes above the bridge of the nose and between the eyes.

OFF FOR LUNCHEON—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, right, leaves Fitzsimmons hospital with Mrs. Martin E. Griffin, wife of the commanding general of the hospital, to attend a luncheon. It was Mrs. Eisenhower's first appearance at a public function since the President was stricken with a heart attack.

Science Discovers Annihilating Unit

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Atomic science took another big step forward today with the announcement of the discovery of a particle which annihilates the basic unit of all matter.

The discovery was made in experiments utilizing the University of California's biggest atom smasher, the bevatron. It was announced jointly last night by Prof. Ernest O. Lawrence, famed nuclear scientist, and the Atomic Energy Commission, which financed the 9½-million-dollar machine.

The new particle, sought for a generation by researchers, is the antiproton. Although it is a powerful annihilator of matter, it constitutes no threat as a superweapon, no new hazard to the world.

Instead, it opens up the way for exciting new discoveries about the nature of matter. Conceivably some of these may lead to great new practical achievements of the future.

Its immediate value, said Prof. Lawrence, is that it clears up some of the uncertainties in the theory of nuclear structure. In this respect, he added, it is comparable to the filling in of a key word in a cross-word puzzle — it permits the operator to go ahead.

In Washington, a nuclear physicist said discovery of the antiprpton increases the prospects of releasing — in controlled fashion — vastly greater energy from the atom than now is possible by the fission process.

The physicist, not associated with the Atomic Energy Commission, said the discovery improves the chances of tapping energy from the nuclear heart of the atom by an "annihilation process' rather than by fission or "atom splitting."

"What you would have to do," the scientist said, "would be to devise some means of getting a steady stream of antiproton particles and use them to bombard the atomic nuclei so they would strike protons. These would be annihilated and perhaps 99 per cent of the matter involved in the annihilation would be released as energy."

In the fission process only about one tenth of 1 per cent of the total mass is converted to energy, and yet that produces an A-bomb explosion.

The new particle is the antiproton or negatively charged proton. It is the counterpart of the proton, which carries a positive electrical charge and is the main building block of all the elements in nature.

A team which included Dr. Owen Chamberlain, Dr. Emilio Segre, Thomas Ypsilantis produced the new particle by bombarding a copper atom with ordinary protons of very high energy, 6.2 billion volts.

Out of this bombardment, they said, came a proton pair, one positively charged, the other negative. They shot out at a speed of better than 100,000 miles per second. They traveled only a few feet, then collided and vanished.

Escapee Wants Back In Old Jail Cell

LEICESTER, England (AP) — Two hours after escaping from jail last night, 25-year-old Dennis Anson rang the bell at the front gate and asked the warden to let him back in.

"I'm tired, cold and hungry," Anson explained, "and besides I split my pants climbing over the fence."

Wallace Firing Told By Truman

By ED CREAGH

WASHINGTON (AP)—"The important thing to remember," says Harry S. Truman, "is that the President is the only person in the executive branch who has final authority, and if he does not exercise it we may be in trouble."

And so out of his Cabinet in the aftermath of World War II went Secretary of State James F. Byrnes; Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes. They all, in Truman's opinion and his own phrase, got too big for their breeches.

The former President tells the story in the current installment of his memoirs, published in Life magazine. Most of it has been told before but there are some new sidelights—notably a feeling by Truman in 1946 that Wallace might well become a tool of the Communists.

Truman fired Wallace for making a speech critical of administration foreign policy. He tells of calling the then secretary of commerce to his office and listening to Wallace lecture on "the beauty of peace."

"I have never doubted Henry Wallace's sincerity or honesty of purpose," Truman says, "but after this conversation I was afraid that, knowingly or not, he would lend himself to the more sinster ends of the Reds and those who served them."

Wallace later, in 1948, was to run against Truman—on a third party ticket with Communist support.

"It must have been difficult for him in later years," Truman comments, "to acknowledge the aggressive character of the Communists, but he had the good grace to express his full support of my policy when, in 1950, I decided to support South Korea against the Red attack."

Truman says Byrnes, his own choice for secretary of state, tried to assume the responsibilities of the President—to make foreign policy and to keep Truman himself "completely in the dark" about developments at the Moscow conference of foreign ministers in 1945.

The former President has told before—and Byrnes has disputed his version—of scolding the secretary of state and telling him: "I'm tired of babying the Soviets."

In the memoirs, Truman says Byrnes accepted this dressing-down and didn't talk of quitting until some months later, when a stomach ailment developed. Truman mentions in passing that the invitation to Gen. George C. Marshall to succeed Byrnes was relayed by another general — Dwight D. Eisenhower.

As for Ickes, Truman says the late secretary of the interior struck him as "a trouble maker . . . a scold and a gossip," but "I was fond of him, in a sense, especially because he was not a special interests man."

They clashed when Ickes opposed the President's nomination of Edwin W. Pauley to be undersecretary of the Navy—and, says Truman, "I could not, as president, tolerate that."

He said Ickes threatened to quit in the hope of being talked out of it—but Truman accepted the resignation on the spot.

On more general subjects Truman says:

1. He "never had any doubts" that the atomic bomb should be used as a military weapon. And so he ordered its use against Japan. This, he says, "forced Russia to reconsider her position in the Far East" and leap into the Japanese war just before it ended.

2. Some sort of special election should be held—probably by the Electoral College—to fill the vice presidency when the vice president succeeds to the presidency. As it is now, the speaker of the House is next in line, after the vice president, for succession to the White House. Until Truman's administration the secretary of state was next in line. Congress adopted his proposal that this be changed.

Prayers Given For Youngster

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—All day yesterday prayers were offered and now there is hope that 7-year-old Sharon Lou Edwards will survive a long and difficult heart operation.

Members and friends knelt and prayed for the little girl with a rare heart ailment from 6 a.m. until 7 p.m. at the Westwood Christian Baptist Church.

Then the Rev. Hollie Conley announced word had come from the University of Minnesota Hospital in Minneapolis that Sharon Lou survived the operation to close a four-inch gap between chambers of her heart. The gap was discovered shortly after birth.

Doctors, who worked 22 minutes inside the heart, reported the girl doing as well as could be expected but cautioned 48 hours would be needed to determine success of their surgery. The heart defect was described as one of the largest ever repaired.

A mechanical heart was used during the operation.

The home folks are raising a fund to help pay the estimated $4,000 to $5,000 needed for medical expenses. The fund now stands at $1,800.

If all goes well, Sharon Lou expects to be back home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Edwards, in three or four weeks.

Faure Victory In Assembly Vote In France

PARIS (AP)—Twice victor in National Assembly votes on his North African policies, Premier Edgar Faure appeared able today to look forward to a month's respite from parliamentary attack.

He won his latest victory last night with a 308-254 vote of confidence from the Assembly on his plans for restoring order and promoting political reforms in Algeria. The 54-vote margin surprised even his most optimistic supporters.

Nine days earlier he had carried off an even more surprising 477-140 endorsement of his Moroccan policies.

Each time, he came back from what looked like certain defeat. Each time he benefited from special circumstances, but his own nimble parliamentary footwork also contributed to his successes.

With the two voting hurdles behind him, Faure now should be able to concentrate on applying the reform programs for Morocco and Algeria which the Assembly approved.

In voting confidence in the government, the Assembly approved the same resolution it had turned down last Friday on a procedural vote.

Faure's troubles were far from over, however. A big segment of his support has slipped away from him and his enemies are waiting only for an opportune moment to give him the ax. He got a number of votes yesterday from deputies who announced they opposed his policies but hesitated to plunge into another government crisis now.

Crowds Get Larger At Country Roundup

Crowds are getting larger weekly at the Country Roundup, a Saturday night hillbilly show sponsored by the American Legion and VFW at the veterans club.

The show, emceed by Bill Cantwell, starts at 8 p.m. each Saturday. Tickets are sold to the public for 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children. Cantwell said the show is held to help raise funds for projects of the two organizations.

Feature attractions on the show include the Tumbleweed Twins, who are Jack Tate and Buck Conners, the Berryman band, vocalist Evelyn Adkins, and Uncle Dudley.

Youth Tries To End Life

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A youth apparently recovering from injuries suffered, police said, when he threw himself under a truck has been formally charged with murdering his mother.

The complaint was issued against John P. Hawley, 19. He is accused of killing Mrs. Iris Hawley, 45, with a hammer in her fashionable home early Sunday.

Police said that after the killing, young Hawley drove the family automobile to Cajon Pass near San Bernardino and attempted to end his life. He suffered critical injuries when run over by the truck.

Hospital authorities say it will be a week or 10 days before the youth can be transferred to the prison ward of the Los Angeles County Hospital. He underwent eight hours of surgery Monday.

Detective Leonard Alter of San Bernardino, who said the Hawley youth has a history as a mental patient, reported the youth told him, "I did it. I killed my mother."

Machine For Tipsy Drivers Displayed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—If you're the tipsy type that usually has one drink too many at the tavern, now you can literally breathe easier.

Hy Koppelman, president of a soft-drink firm here, has invented what he calls an "air-o-meter." You drop a quarter in the machine, put an attached mask over your nose and mouth, and inhale pure oxygen for five minutes.

That, said Koppelman, should bring you out of pink elephant land.

"Of course," he adds, "sometimes it'll take two quarters to do it."

The device is on display at the 36th annual convention of the Ohio State Restaurant Assn.

One of the difficult jobs of housekeeping is to wax linoleum and asphalt the floors. Now, thanks to Glaxo it's no longer necessary to wax and scrub: just apply Glaxo about twice a year. It maintains a high lustre non slip coating that seals out dirt. Glaxo dries in one hour and is water clear. It's cheaper than wax in the long run, besides saving a terrific amount of work, plus truly a beautiful floor.

gas cooks cleaner
than any non-flame fuel

Gas cooking is clean because gas itself is clean. Kitchen walls are soiled by rising grease and vapor (from the food, not the fuel) gathering dust and dirt from the air and depositing it on room surfaces. Clean blue burner-flame will not blacken pans. Fewer spillovers, too — burners adjust instantly! Broil with door closed — no smoke or vapors to soil cabinets, curtains. Burners, burner bowls, grates wash easily at the sink. Yes, you cook cleaner with gas.

Big Company Raises Price

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Lawrence Corp., one of the largest manufacturers of pulp and paper products in Canada, has increased the price of newsprint by $5 a ton, effective Nov. 1.

P. M. Fox, president, declared in Montreal "the company has gone beyond its ability to absorb increasing costs, and we need additional money to increase production."

The rise brought the price for St. Lawrence customers to $131 a ton, delivered in New York.

In the past, general increases in the price of newsprint have emanated from Canada companies. Uusually when one Canadian firm announces a price change, others follow suit. Top Canadian newsprint manufacturers include Canadian International Paper Co., Consolidated Paper Corp., Abitibi Power & Paper Co. and Price Brothers & Co.

Fox, who is also chairman of Great Lakes Paper Co. Ltd., another Canadian newsprint producer at Fort William, Ont., said he had not yet discussed the matter of newsprint price with that company's board of directors.

A spokesman for Great Northern Paper Co., largest producer with operations entirely in the U. S., said in Bangor, Maine, its officials have not discussed a price increase. President Manuel C. McDonald was not available for comment.

Fox said St. Lawrence's Canadian base price also was increased $5 to $127 a ton. The Canadian price for many years has been $4 a ton below the New York price.

Explaining the increase, Fox said, "in recent years we have spent more than 30 million dollars to increase kraft and newsprint production. Recently directors authorized a new nine million dollar expansion program to increase newsprint output further."

House Theft Case Reset For Nov. 28

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The trial of a former city treasurer charged with felony theft of a house owned by the city has been postponed until Nov. 28 after his attorney asked for more time to prepare the case.

Atty. C. D. Little yesterday told Dist. Judge Langston G. King his client Roy Floyd, former director of the city treasury, will testify that Mayor Roy Hofheinz ordered him to clear an express highway right-of-way "by burning, demolishing, giving away, or in any other way" the city-owned houses on the property.

Floyd specifically is charged with taking a city-owned house from an expressway and giving it to a housemover, W. C. Fortenberry.

PLANE CRASHES INTO APARTMENT HOUSE—This is the two-story apartment house into which a light plane crashed in North Hollywood, Calif., sending the neighborhood into hysteria. The craft plunged through the roof at upper left and sent debris flying through windows at right. The front apartments caught fire and were burned out, but those in the rear were not badly damaged.

Plane Crash Being Probed

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Was millionaire Joel W. Thorne stunting, or was he desperately trying to fly out of trouble just before his plane plunged into an apartment building, costing his own and three other lives? Civil Aeronautics Administration investigators probed deeper today for the answer.

A baby whose family was celebrating her christening, an 18-year-old bride and Thorne perished in the fiery crash and explosion which devastated with bomblike fury two apartments of a six-unit building Monday night.

The fourth victim, a 6-year-old boy, died of horrible burns in a hospital last night. He was one of the christening party.

Frightened residents reported the single-engine plane buzzed the residential area two or three times at what seemed like rooftop height just before the crash. Some thought the plane was in trouble as it roared back and forth in or just under a 700-foot ceiling.

The CAA investigators, Laurence Lightbody and Bernard T. Naught, took cognizance of these reports but hunted for a more scientific answer in the shattered fragments of Thorne's plane.

"Pieces of the aircraft along the flight path indicate it disintegrated in the air," Naught said.

Disintegration could result from excessive speed or violent handling of the plane, such as stunting or the terrific stress of a sudden pullup at high speed, he said.

"In my opinion, it would be inconceivable Thorne would be stunting in the prevailing weather, in drizzling, overcast conditions," Naught said.

"He was an experienced pilot and flying on instruments," Lightbody pointed out. "It seems unlikely he would be attempting barrel rolls or other stunts under those conditions."

Thorne, 40, whose life was filled with speed and violent escapades, took off on an instrument flight plan from nearby Lockheed Air Terminal at 10:08 p.m. Monday, bound for Las Vegas, Nev., where he was maintaining residence. The crash occurred 12 minutes later.

The other dead:

Sheryll Camille Preston, the 2-christened only hours before at St. Charles Catholic Church.

Mrs. Betty Wolf, newlywed violinist who was alone in her second floor apartment while her husband, Martin, was at a naval reserve meeting.

John Marchica, 6, who died last night.

Sooners May Invite Princess To State

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—If Princess Margaret of England is still footloose and fancy free in 1957, she'll likely get an invite to an Oklahoma shindig.

The Semicentennial Commission planning the state's 50th birthday celebration met for the first time yesterday. One of the first suggestions was to invite Princess Margaret.

"The English flag might have once flown over Oklahoma because it was part of the Carolina territory in 1663," said R. G. Miller, Oklahoma City columnist and commission member. "We may get Princess Margaret over here—if she isn't married by then."

Thief Almost Ruins Honeymooner's Trip

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A Kansas City bridegroom is offering a reward to a thief who just about ruined a honeymoon trip to California.

The honeymooning couple, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Sharick, stopped at an Oklahoma City restaurant yesterday. While they were eating, a burglar ramsacked their auto and stole $1,000 worth of clothing—including the bride's wedding trousseau.

Sharick announced later he won't prosecute if the clothes are returned. He'll even give a reward.

"We are desperate," he admitted.

Teacher Gone Home, Headstone To Say

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Ross Vardon, long-time principal of the Greenwood School, Wakefield, who died last Sept. 29, ordered that the headstone on his grave be marked:

"No School Today
"Teacher Gone Home."

The order was contained in Vardon's will, filed for probate yesterday.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, president of the Houston Post and former secretary of health, education and welfare, will be presented an award by the State Fair of Texas as the Woman of the Year today.

'Get Married' Hat Sent To Margaret

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Dallas hat designer - manufacturer Richard Englander has sent a "get-married" hat to Princess Margaret of England.

"It's something blue for her to wear," said Englander yesterday, adding that the hat was fashioned after Texas' state flower, the bluebonnet.

The creation is a pearl-trimmed, blue satin shell in the shape of a heart, symbolic of romance, said the designer. The size is adjustable.

NAMED MARINE COMMANDANT—Lt. Gen. Randolph McCall Pate, above, was named in Washington the 21st commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps, succeeding Gen. Lemuel C. Shepherd who is scheduled to retire at the end of this year. The 57-year-old Pate is a native of Port Royal, S.C., and a graduate of VMI in Virginia. He is assistant commandant of the Marine Corps now.

Gov. Shivers Expected To Have Big Voice In 1956 Convention

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
Associated Press Staff

Gov. Allan Shivers, who last spring in Dallas made a vow to "stay in the mainstream of events . . . within the party of our fathers," appeared Wednesday well on the way to fulfillment of the promise.

That Shivers, who supported Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower for President in 1952, might have a large voice in the 1956 Democratic National Convention seemed highly probable, close observers believed.

The New York Times said Tuesday that Democratic professionals were trying to gain for the South and conservatives generally a possible decisive influence on the convention.

The Times said what many Texas observers already believed:

"The unofficial and unlabeled headquarters for this effort is the LBJ Ranch in the Pedernales River in South Texas." That's Senator Lyndon B. Johnson's ranch home.

The Times' Washington correspondent, William S. White, could have added that a counterpart of the LBJ headquarters on the Pedernales was in Fannin County, just west of Bonham, where Squire Sam Rayburn, otherwise Speaker of the House and eminent Democratic Party leader, holds sway.

Senator Johnson, said the Times, "is seeking to form a powerful centrist coalition within the party even while he recuperates from a heart attack. Before he returns to Washington in November, Sen. Johnson will have talked to representatives of every major faction of the party."

The aim, the Times continued—and this is where Shivers enters the picture—is to force an open convention and avoid anything resembling an automatic nomination for Adlai Stevenson. Shivers, time and again, has said he would bolt the party again if Stevenson is nominated. Just as often he has said he preferred to remain within the Democratic Party.

Johnson and Rayburn also seek a party platform similar in political tone to the moderate record through which they steered last session's Democratic Congress, the Times said. Then they want to exploit whatever opportunities may come in a convention thrown wide open, the newspaper added.

Shivers by turning his back on Wright Morrow, former Democratic National Committeeman from Texas, dismayed some of his die-hard conservative followers. Many of them believed that Shivers was, at the instigation of party bosses, giving Morrow the boot for the same thing that Shivers had done—supporting Eisenhower in 1952.

Now, observers believe, Shivers was merely ridding himself of associates that knew no compromise. Wishing to stay within the party—so long as it could be a party of moderation—Shivers apparently has gone along with Johnson and Rayburn in what all three must hope will rid the party leadership of the extreme leftwing and extreme rightwing elements.

Johnson, before his July heart attack, was being talked often as a presidential candidate that possibly could get together divergent groups within the party. The heart attack, from which he apparently is recovering at a remarkable rate, dimmed the presidential din for awhile.

But now the Times, one of the nation's most reliable newspapers, says, "The Southerners count on Western and border-state friends in selecting a dark horse candidate in the event of a convention deadlock."

Johnson, said by Republicans and Democrats alike to have been one of the Senate's most skilful and persuading leaders, fits the picture. So, for that matter, does Shivers and Rayburn. But both in the past have discounted their presidential ambitions: Johnson has not. And it is easy, many believe, to envisage the handsome senator—his health regained—accepting Democratic nomination.

Democrats who would like to see Johnson in the White House believe his nomination would leave the Republicans in a flat-footed position, especially if Eisenhower cannot run again.

"They would have a hard time fighting Lyndon Johnson," a former Texas attorney general said in Dallas Tuesday. "He just about put their whole program through Congress last session. How would they attack him?"

That Shivers would have a large voice in next year's convention was virtually assured recently with Rayburn's and Johnson's quick approval of Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey as Morrow's successor as national committeeman.

That event, combined with the resignation of Judge James Sewell of Corsicana as chairman of the State Democratic Advisory Council, made Shivers look strong, at least in Texas. He and Sewell have never been friends, politically speaking, and Sewell's position as head of the increasingly powerful DAC probably was most embarrassing to the governor.

Ramsey, long lieutenant governor under Shivers, has never been at serious odds with the governor. Selection of the new leader for the advisory council, set in Waco in November, wil be another clue to the Shivers drive for party eminence—and success of the Johnson-Rayburn centrist coalition.
