PRESIDENT CARRANZA KILLED BY HIS OWN MEN

FIGHT NARROWS BOTH PARTIES FOR NOMINATION

Republican Leaders Centering on Lowden, Wood and Johnson

REPUBLICAN REGULARS LINE UP FOR LOWDEN

Cox and McAdoo Are Favorites Among Democrats—Regulars Support Cox

By HAROLD D. JACOBS

NEW YORK, May 22.—Political maneuvering is going on within the two major parties with increasing rapidity in an effort to narrow the field of presidential candidates as much as possible before the national conventions.

Almost every day reports are circulated of some new "trade" or "combination" attempted by the various leaders. Owing to the fact sentiment has not yet crystallized sufficiently to make two or even three candidates in each party stand out to the extent of overshadowing all rivals, the politicians have the biggest task in this direction they have faced in recent years.

Indications are becoming stronger that the majority of party leaders have begun to rally about a particular candidate in each party, but indications are just as strong that these leaders are experiencing the greatest difficulty in convincing the rank and file that their selection will insure victory in the fall elections.

According to the best available information, Governor Lowden of Illinois has at present the strongest backing among the republican "regulars." There is said to be an analogous situation among the democrats regarding Governor Cox of Ohio.

The situation confronting these republican leaders, however, is believed to be complicated by the fact that Major General Leonard Wood is practically certain to go into the Chicago convention with the greatest initial strength, while Senator Hiram Johnson is admitted by even his most bitter republican opponents to be the best "vote getter" among the party's candidates.

Furthermore, it is alleged that the organization built up around Wood is fully as powerful as the regular republican machine.

As regards the democrats who want Cox, they are confronted by the problem of eliminating William G. McAdoo, who, according to his friends not only will possess the greatest strength at the opening of the San Francisco convention, but is backed by an organization similar to Wood's and his vote getting qualities similar to Johnson's.

All these factors are serving to enliven the presidential campaigns which so far as selection of delegates is concerned, is rapidly drawing to a close. Political observers are generally firm in the belief that the present maneuvering will largely go for naught and that the real battles must be fought out on the convention floors.

With Fugitive Companions, Deposed President Slain By Disloyal Troops

GENERAL VENUSTIANO CARRANZA

VENUSTIANO CARRANZA

Born Cuatro Cienegas, Coahuila (150 miles southwest Eagle Pass, (Texas) December 29, 1859.

Elected a judge, then senator and later governor of Coahuila.

First chief of the revolution April, 1913.

Ruled Mexico as "first chief of the constitutionalis party" 1914-16.

Elected president March 11, 1917.

Fled from Mexico City May 6, 1920.

Killed in the mountains of Puebla near Tlaxcala-Tongo May 20, 1920.

(By Ralph H. Turner, United Staff Correspondent)

MEXICO CITY, May 21.—Venustanio Carranza, deposed president of Mexico, with six members of his party, has been killed near the town of Tlaxcala-Tongo in the state of Puebla, according to advices to headquarters of both Generals Obregon and Pablo Gonzales here tonight.

Reports received at revolutionary headquarters up to midnight did not name the six members of the deposed president's party who were killed with him.

Earlier dispatches, however, had said Luis Cabrera, Carranza's minister of the treasury; General Barragan, his chief of staff; Aguilre Berlanga, prime minister, and Ignacio Bonillas, former ambassador to the United States, were with their chief.

Telegrams received at the headquarters of General Gonzales, filed in Huachinango, Puebla, said the bodies were being taken to Beristain in the same state.

The Carrancistas were killed at 1:00 a. m. yesterday by a force commanded by Colonel Rudoipho Herrera, advices to General Obregon from Villa-Buarez Bareza, Puebla, said.

Herrera formerly was a Carranza commander.

Telegrams here indicated the colonel with his men accompanied Carranza on his final flight into the mountains after the Rinconada defeat. While reports were vague, it was believed at revolutionary headquarters that Colonel Herrera and his men revolted during the flight and turned against Carranza.

In view of the fact that some of the telegrams referred to the killing of Carranza and his men as "assassinations," it was believed they may have been slain without an opportunity for defense.

Later advices gave the name of the slayers' leader as Colonel Barrera instead of Herrera, as spelled in earlier telegrams.

Barrera One of Pelaez Men.

Barrera, these advices said, formerly was a commander under the bandit Pelaez in the Vera Cruz and Tampico districts. Pelaez surrendered to Carranza in March and it was presumed Barrera and his men joined the Carrancistas at that time. The killing of the deposed president, these advices said, was the result of a plot laid by Barrera and about 50 of his followers.

Carranza was the first to fall, it was said, then his followers were reported killed one by one. It was believed here the majority of Carranza's cabinet members who were with him were among the dead. General Murguia, formerly in command of Carranza forces in the federal district of Mexico City, also was reported to have been with the deposed president.

Dispatches from Vera Cruz and Mexico City since the revolution became an assured success, have quoted its leaders as ordering their men to see that Carranza was not harmed if he was overtaken by rebel troops.

The dispatches would give color to today's dispatches reporting the deposed president was slain by traitors among his own men. The reported assassination comes as an addition to an already long list of Mexican rulers who have met violent ends, and adds another bloods chapter in the lurid history of Mexican politics. Recent Mexican dispatches said the former president showed a dignity and bravery in his final days. He was described as leading his own men with fearless valor in the fighting near Apizaco, Rinconada and San Marcos during his flight from the capital.

After the final defeat when Carranza and his men were forced to flee into the mountains, reports indicated he was attempting to make his way toward the coast in the hope of obtaining passage to the United States or some other country. Revolutionary leaders indicated they would be perfectly willing to see him escape considering that the simplest way of eliminating him as a factor in Mexican affairs.

Bonillas Fate Unknown.

The fate of Ignacio Bonillas, former ambassador to the United States, will be watched with particular interest by many Americans. He was considered by many a victim of circumstances. Torn from his peaceful surroundings in America, the former ambassador returned to Mexico last fall to begin his campaign for the presidency.

Bonillas was described as without particular personal ambition in entering the field for the presidency and only doing so at the request of the Carranza group. The president felt that Mexico should be led by a civilian and picked Bonillas as the man to defeat the two generals, Obregon and Gonzales, who were the leading candidates.

It was this decision which led to Carranza's downfall. Bonillas was greeted as a "made" candidate and his candidacy regarded as a joke.

Failing to read the signs of popular opinion, Carranza continued stubbornly to push Bonillas' cause. The immediate event leading up to the crisis was an attempt to occupy the state of Sonora with Carranza troops. Adolfo De La Huerta, the Sonora governor, opposed this action and the Sonora "secession" followed.

Meantime Obregon had been placed under nominal arrest in Mexico City for alleged plotting with the bandit, Roberto Cejudo.

Obregon feared to remain in the cipital. He eluded police and fled in an automobile. General Banjamin Hill, an American who had served in the Mexican army and was one of Obregon's leading supporters, accompanied his chief.

Soon after this Obregon's forces joined him and the man who defeated Francisco Villa came out in open defiance of the government. Soon after General Gonzales declared against Carranza and Obregon's and Gonzales' troops entered the capital, proclaiming the supremacy of the revolutionary movement.

Carranza, accompanied by his followers, fled toward Vera Cruz. The Vera Cruz garrison, however, went over to the revolution and the first clash between the rival forces occurred south of Apizaco. In this clash the Carranza forces were successful and their trains proceeded to Vera Cruz only to be met by a superior force.

Five days fighting followed, ending in the complete defeat of the Carrancistas. The deposed president fled into the mountains where he was reported killed.

OTHERS OF CARRANZA'S PARTY REPORTED SAFE

MEXICO CITY, May 22.—Reports received here early this morning that General Juan Barragan, chief of the presidential staff, Ygnacio Bonillas, former Mexican ambassador at Washington; General Mariano Gonzales and General Federico Montes, who accompanied President Carranza in his flight from San Andres are safe. No mention is made of the others in the party which it is believed included Luis Cabrera, minister of the Treasury, Alfonso Cabrera, his brother, governor of Puebla, and General Francisco Murguia, who acted as commander of the Carranza troops after the president had fled from this city.

Orders have been given that a train be taken to Beristain, the nearest railway point to Tlaxcalal-Tongo, to receive the bodies of those killed in the encounter in which President Carranza lost his life.

CABRERA AND BONILLAS ARE REPORTED SAFE

By Associated Press

HAVANA, May 22.—Louis Cabrera, minister of the Mexican treasury department, and Ygnacio Bonillas, former Mexican ambassador at Washington and repoted to be the favored candidate for president of Mexico and all other members of the Carranza cabinet, accompanied President Carranza in his flight to the mountains of Pubia, according to Mexican newspapers received in this city yesterday.

CITY JUDGE ANNOUNCES IMPORTANT RULING ON VAGRANCY CHARGES

The practice of broadening the term "vagrancy" to include a score or more of crimes, received a heavy blow on Saturday when City Judge Ogle refused to fine Dick Ballard, restaurant manager, who was arraigned on a charge of vagrancy. Ballard was accused of immorality, being charged jointly with a young woman arrested a few days ago on a vagrancy charge. Judge Ogle ruled that the term "vagrancy" did not apply in this case inasmuch as the defendant is not a vagrant due to the fact that he has a business of his own and has worked every day since his arrival in Wichita Falls. Shields Heyser, counsel for the defense, attacked the method of peace officers in arraigning persons on vagrancy charges, declaring that the term "vagrancy" is being "too frequently used as a vehicle to bring persons into police court."

The woman charged jointly with Ballard was fined $25, the evidence showing, according to Judge Ogle, that she has a "previous record in police court." The young woman declared that she had just been released from a hospital where she had been confined for three weeks suffering fro mpneumonia and had gone to Ballard's restaurant to seek employment when the police arrested her as a "vagrant." Shields Heyser announced that her case would be carried to the county court.

An oil well driller was fined $10 on a charge of "speeding." He asserted that his arrest was a case of "mistaken identity" declaring that he was going "very slow" when arrested but that a "feloiw going fully 45 miles an hour passed me and the 'speed cop' got me in place of the other fellow." He gave notice of appeal to the county court.

SECOND RAID ON OIL FIELD SETTLEMENT NETS NINE ARRESTS

Kemp City was again raided by officials of the sheriff's department Friday night and seven women and two men brought to Wichita Falls in automobiles. The women were taken in a raid upon a dance hall, while one of the men was arrested on a charge of "pistol toting" and the other on a charge of operating an illicit dance hall. Final disposition of the cases against the women has not been made, but John Davenport, county attorney, indicated that charges would be filed against the operators of the gambling hall and that the girls employed as dancers would be released.

Twenty-four gamblers were taken in a raid upon a resort in the K. M. A. field Thursday night.

39 INDICTMENTS RETURNED BY GRAND JURY THIS WEEK

Final report was made by the grand jury Friday afternoon when 18 true bills were returned, bringing the total number of indictments returned during the special session to 39. Two indictments on charges of murder were returned, but District Attorney Fletcher S. Jones withheld the names, due to the fact that the defendants are now at liberty on bail. It is understood that special venires will be drawn early next week and that the murder cases will be disposed during the special session of the 30th district court.

Jack Glover, Newtown resident, was indicted on a charge of operating a gambling house. It was in the resort alleged to have been operated by Glover that S. B. Johnson, oil well driller, was killed and Everett Sawyer, also an oil field employe, was seriously injured. Glover was later arrested in Frederick, Okla., and charged in Justince R. V. Gwinn's court here, with murder. No bill charging murder, however, was returned against Glover. Porter Lawson and Tex Richardson, alias G. E. Fringe, were also indicted on a charge of operating a gambling house.

Those indicted on charges of theft of property valued at over $50 include W. O. Bowen, W. E. Oakes, H. D. Wellman, F. W. Chambers, Agnus Mitchell, Schleck Irving, H. O. Daup, E. S. Roberts and Walter Monte.

BIG GASSER NEAR EASTLAND BRIDLED

EASTLAND, TEX., May 22.—The 36,00,000 foot gasser which has been making that much gas daily on the Joe Burkett farm, one mile south and a little west of Eastland was bridled down yesterday after many unsuccessful efforts to control it. It has been gassing for more than three weeks and workmen have been that length of time in trying to bridle it. As a result Eastland citizens are now enabled to rest at night without the usual roar which sounded like an on-coming cyclone. It was announced that a contract had been made with the owner of this big gasser with the Lone Star Gas Company, they to pay the owner $500 for a one-half of the gas produced daily. The well was drilled by a well known physician of Abilene, Texas and Eastland capital.

NIGHT RIDING REPORTED IN SUGAR BEET REGION

SAGINAW, MICH., May 22.—Capt. Robert Marsh, commander of the state constabulary, was expected to reach here today to personally conduct an investigation of reports of night riding in the sugar beet region. Reports were current that a company of constabulary had been ordered into the district to check the alleged depredations, said to have been the result of a strike of beet growers against what they termed an unfair contract for the 1920 crop.

County officers upto today had been unable to confirm rumors of the burning or destruction by dynamite of houses on beet farms. One house at Alkton and one near Hemlock had been destroyed by fire and another report said one house at Hemlock was dynamited several days ago.

Gov. Albert E. Sleeper announced that the contabulary would be ordered out if the situation warranted the action.

HENRY LANE WILSON WOULD CREATE BUFFER REPUBLIC NORTHERN MEXICO

WORCESTER, MASS., May 22.—The division of Mexico at the 22nd parallel by the creation, by force if necessary of an independent Mexican republic—including the present states of Sonora, Chihuahua, Sinaloa, Durango, Coahuila, Nuevo Leon, and Tamaulipas and the territory of Lower California—was advocated last night by Henry Lane Wilson, former United States ambassador to Mexico. Speaking at Clark University's conference on Mexico and the Carribean, Mr. Wilson declared such an independent republic as a buffer state three times the size of Texas, between this country and Southern Mexico woul daford self government to northern Mexico, "breeding ground of all recent Mexican revolutions" which Mexico City never has been able to control.

Mr. Wilson revealed that when he retired as ambassador in 1913 he had recommended armed intervention by the United States as an alternative to recognition of the Huerta regime. In the present emergency, however, he questioned the capacity of present Washington administration to carry out intervention with success.

AUSTIN, May 22.—Taking of testimony in the inquiry into the pink boll worm situation in southeast Texas will commence on next Monday morning at 10 o'clock. It was decided late last night by the joint house and senate committees on agriculture. Several of the members insisted that the investigation should commence today, but as it has not as yet been fully determined on the plan to be adopted in the interrogation of witnesses it was decided to defer action until Monday. It was also pointed out that it would be necessary to have representatives in attendance from the Texas department of agriculture and the federal horticultural board.

There are upwar dof thirty witnesses who are to be summoned to appear before the committee. It was decided to request the governor to wire the federal horticulture to have a representative here on Monday.

R. L. Dowra, member of the house from Lamar county, was elected chairman of the joint committee and Senator R. B. Cousins, of Sabine, was named as secretary. The committee was authorized to employ two stenographers.

WORLD FALL IN PRICES FORESEEN IN ENGLAND

By United Press.

LONDON, May 22.—The week's sensational decline in cotton prices was interpreted by some newspapers today as the beginning of a general decline in prices in the British Isles.

Cotton has dropped 14 cents a pound since Thursday and more than 30 per cent since February. Wool prices also have declined. The press generally was inclined, however, to doubt whether the price of clothing and fabric goods would be affected immediately, pointing out that present stocks of manufactured products were made from cotton and wool purchased at the peak prices. Prices of tea, syrup, tinned salmon and mutton also have declined during the past week. Reductions in shoe prices were predicted.

The Daily News believed water freight rates would be lowered in the near future and foresaw a marked decline in prices for that reason.

"A Manchester expert," the News said, "declares the cotton slump is the first real sign of a world fall in prices."

Frank Kell, R. O. Harvey, W. M. Priddy and J. I. Staley were asked by the operators to be members of this delegation.

A resolution of thanks to the members of the Texas delegation for their efforts in behalf of the Texas landowners was adopted at the meeting. Either in Washington or New York a conference will be arranged with the nationally known attorneys with whom the operators concerned have been negotiating, with the view of bringing them into the case as additional counsel, it was announced.

MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton

The early rallies met liquidation and the market broke 5 to 60 points from last night's closing figures later in the morning with July selling at 37.36 and December at 33.37. There was trade buying at this level and a flurry of covering which caused closing rallys of some 20 to 25 points. Last prices were steady at a net decline of 25 to 40 points.

The market closed steady.

New Orleans Cotton

Offerings increased following the forecast of continued dry weather for the entire cotton region and prices were sent 42 to 49 points under the finals of yesterday, July touching 37.28 and October 34.38. During the last half hour of business shorts took profits on a large scale and their buying gave the market a firmer tone and brought partial recoveries, the close being at net declines for the day of 14 to 34 points.

The cotton market closed at net adrances of 13 to 34 points.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, May 22.—Although much nervousness manifested itself in the corn market today, wild liquidation appeared to have been halted. Calls for heavily increased margins tended to exercise a stubborn effect and there were signs that many influential interests regarded the drastic declines as having sufficiently discounted for at least time being all bearish conditions.

Opening prices which ranged from 2½ lower to 3½c advance with July 1.58 to 1.61 and September 1.52 to 1.53, were followed by slight gains all around and then a general setback to about yesterday's finish.

Oats were strengthened by word of liberal export buying. After opening ½c off to ⅝c advance, including July at 85 to 86c the market hardened somewhat and then eased back.

Provisions like grain showed comparative steadiness.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, May 22.—Stocks were active and strong at the opening of today's short session, oils practically leading on reports of the death of former President Carranza. Representative rails and allied equipments shared substantial advances and sugars recovered materially from yesterday's sharp setback. Motors and their sugsidiaries were irregular higher, the rubber issues being especially responsive to a moderate inquiry. Dealings in Liberty bonds at the outset were comparatively light but with indications that yesterday's rally would be maintained.

Trading was light but a steady tone ruled in today's market with occasional profit taking. The oil shares were especially responsive to Mexican advicses and allied issues, such as motors and their specialties also made moderate gains. Rails and equipments improved on the better transportation outlook. Sugar, tobacco and leather stocks registered variable advances. The market became unsettled in the final dealings on selling of several of the high industrials, crucible steel reacting sharply. The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 300,000 shares.

WEAVER PITCHES IN TOUGH LUCK AND EXPORTERS TAKE THIRD IN A ROW FROM SPUDDERS 3 TO 2

In ability to hit in the pinches, combined with "Pete" Snedecor's bobble in the fourth frame enabled the Exporters to make it three in a row from the Spudders yesterday. The score this time was 3 to 2. The Spudders outhit Beaumont 10 to 8, but could not deliver the punch when it was needed. Spudder batsmen were left on the bags in nearly every inning.

"Buck" Weaver did not pitch the worst game of ball in the world and had something on Bailey, who was on the mound for the Exporters. Beaumont's first two runs were earned, but the winning tally was the result of a muff by Snedecor. Both Spudder tallies were made by clean hitting. "Buck" tried to keep his own team in the game with a home run clout over the center field fence in the fifth and singles by Grubb and Dooley in the sixth netted another.

The Spudders were in a fine position to score more in both the fifth and sixth, but could not push another over the platter. Snedecor had a chance to deliver in the fifth with runners on first and third, but hit weakly to the infield. Mokan opened the sixth with a single, but died stealing, while Weaver fanned in the same frame with two runners on the sacks.

Demaggio's single, a sacrifice by Mathes, and another safety by Horan pushed the first Exporter tally over in the first inning. In the second, a pass to Alexander, Rader's infield out, Monroe's safe clout and Stansbury's sacrifice fly earned another for Beaumont.

The winning tally came in the fourth when Rader scored from second after Snedecor let Dooley's throw get away from him on an attempt to get Monroe, who had singled, off first.

Fast fielding helped Bailey in the first. Tanner drew a pass with one down. Snedecor hit to Rader and was thrown out at first. Tanner tried to make third on the play but was thrown out, Mathes to Stansbury.

The Exporters started right after Weaver. Demaggio poled a hit to left took second on Mathes' sacrifice and score on Horan's single. A fast double play, Honeck to Tanner to Snedecor, on Easterly's grounder saved Weaver further trouble.

Mokan's single in the second gave the Spudders an opportunity but they passed it up. Johnny went to second on Brownlow's sacrifice and remained there while Grubb took three healthy swings. Honeck drew a pass. With the count three and two on Honeck, Mokan started for third on the next ball and was nipped, Alexander to Stansbury.

Buck's unsteadiness cost another run in the second. He passed Alexander who took second on Rader's infield out. Monroe sent him to third with a punch to center and he scored on Stansbury's sacrifice fly to Mokan. Bailey also drew a pass after Monroe stole second but Weaver tightenetd up and fanned Demaggio.

Dooley opened the third with a safety and was forced at second by Weaver. Josefson fanned and Tanner forced Weaver for the third out.

aMthes started the Exporters' half with a single but died stealing. Horan fanned and Weaver tossed out Easterly.

Snedecor's muff handed Beaumont another tally in this frame. With one down, Rader singled and advanced to second on Monroe's second safe wallop. Dooley tried to get Monroe off first and his throw got away from Snedecor. Rader came all the way home from second and Monroe pulled up at third. Stahsbury lined to Honeck who got the ball over to Grubb before Monroe could get back to the bag.

Weaver tried to keep the Spudders in the game in the fifth. Bailey wabbled with two down and grooved one for Buck. He put all he had into his swing and drove the pill out of the park over the center field fence. Jo and Tanner kept at Bailey and two singles followed in rapid order. Snedecor failed in the pinch and knocked one at Monroe for an easy out at first.

Buck was going well in this frame and retired the Exporters in order.

Johnny Mokan got his second hit in the sixth but went out stealing on Brownlow's third strike. Grubb dumped one in front of Horan and went to third when Bailey threw wild trying to catch him off first. Honeck drew a free ticket. Dooley came through with his second safety, scoring Grubb and Honeck went to second. Weaver fanned.

Alexander got a life on Honeck's bobble in the Exporters' portion of the frame and went to second on a wild pitch after two were out. He died there, however, when Rader flew out to Brownlow.

The Spudders could do nothing with Bailey's shoots in the seventh and went out in order. The Exporters also went out in order, Monroe, Stansbury and Bailey flying out to Brownlow, Mokan and Josefson.

Brownlow singled in the eighth with one down but was doubled off first on Grubb's line drive to Mathes.

Ground rules prevented an Exporter score in this round. Mathes beat out a slow roller to Tanner with one out. Horan flew out to Josefson and Easterly pasted one over the right field fence, the hit being good for two bags only, according to ground rules. Mathes pulled up at third and [illegible] when Tanner threw out Alexander.

The Spudders went out in order in the ninth. Score:

THE CALL OF THE BACK TRAIL
(Wherein the Veteran has a Message to Deliver)

I've heard the Call of the Uncut, pal—
I've heard the call as it always comes;
It's nix for me in the Big Corral,
And back again with the boobs and bums;
I can hit 'em a mile and run 'em out,
I can dig 'em up with never a slip;
But what's the use when the showdown comes
And you got a kink in your salary whip?

My lamps are good as they ever were—
My props still hold for the Hit and Run;
I'm still out there for the oldtime "sock"
With a couple o' weeks in the summer sun;
But I've heard the call as it always comes—
I've bought my ticket and packed my grip;
For what's the use of the rest of it
When you got a kink in your salary whip?

I come from the Bush twelve years ago;
I've had my day and I'm going back;
I can't peg one from the plate to first,
The glass is there and I heard it crack;
I can hit 'em far as I ever could—
I can go and get 'em with never a slip—
But the old soup bone's on the blink at last—
I got a kink in my salary whip.

MASS VS. SPEED

It is mass plus speed that makes for distance when you employ a club to sock a ball.

The average delegate can whip a light bat faster than he can a heavy one—therefore he can get greater range with the lighter tool.

But when you have the physical power to employ a heavy implement—bloole—zowie—.

The average bat for the average cove weighs 40 ounces. The bat which Babe Ruth wields has a displacement of 52 ounces. He has still another bat when he happens to feel in an unusually robust mood which weighs 54 ounces. These two bats are also about two inches longer than the weapons any other ball player uses.

One of the secrets of Ruth's monumental range is that he can whip a 54-ounce bat with as much snap as the other man can handle a 40-ounce destroyer.

There is an awful amount of forestry crashing into the ball when Ruth lands—and the forestry is moving at terrific speed. For it not only has a mighty pair of hands and arms to propel it, but also an additional impetus from 220 pounds tossed in at exactly the psychological moment.

NOT THE SAME.

Jack Dempsey is reported to have lost $15,000 in a crap game recently. Tosing Willard seven times in the first round and tossing a seven on the first throw are far from being one and the same.

Dempsey can hit—but not hard enough to bat out Little Joe when he needs him in a pinch.

And old Kid Craps can stop a heavyweight as quickly as a bantam if he happens to be in the double-crossing mood. You can tell that to the world and a couple of the stars.

INVITING MISS LEITCH

It would be an extremely fine thing for international sport if Miss Cecil Leitch, the British women's golf champion, could find time to make us a visit and take part in the women's championship at Mayfield this fall.

A contest between Miss Leitch and Miss Sterling would attract as much notice and as large a gallery as any golf battle on the menu.

L. D. R.—Babe Ruth has batted over .300 in six of his seven baseball years. Upon the other occasion he reached .290.

Gerald Patterson, the Australian tennis star, is coming all the way from the other side of the circle to defend the championship he won at Wimbledon a year ago. As the same Patterson carried Billy Johnston into the far corner of five sets here at Forest Hills it can readily be seen that the job of beating him in England is going to be no wool-lined assignment.

Speaking of Babe Ruth's 52-ounce bat, Abe Mitchell's driver weighs 17 ounces, which is about 4 ounces heavier than the normal weight employed. And wasn't Richard Coeur de Leon's mace the heaviest one in those sprightly times?

MARINES BOOT GAME AWAY TO GALVESTON SIX TO TWO

GALVESTON, TEX., May 21.—Four hits, two errors and a sacrifice in the third inning gave Galveston enough runs to win today's game from Dallas and the Marines donated additional counters with glaring errors in subsequent stages of the game. "BIG SIX" MAY QUIT GAME AT CLOSE OF SEASON

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

NEW YORK, May 22.—Christy Mathewson, who left the management of the Cincinnati Reds to enter the army, and generally supposed to be the next leader of the Giants, will write "finis" in his baseball book at the close of this season, according to reports. He will devote his attention to private business next year, his friends say.

Matty failed with the Cincinnati Reds but McGraw took him back and planned to give him his chance with the team that he took a major part in making famous.

However, it seemed that Matty lacked the fighting qualities, the temperament that has always been characteristic of a Giant leader.

Sport Comment
By Paul W. Larkin

'Twas a tough one to lose.

Manager Salm's pennant aspirants have suffered five losses in a row now. The respect which the Spudders hold for the exporters has increased considerably.

Two runs off 10 hits and three passes is not what we would call making thrifty use of safeties.

The infield can be blamed for two of the losses, and Snedecor was mixed up in both of them. "Pete" does not have to take off his hat to any of them in the league, in spite of it all, and let's not forget the victories which his bat has made possible.

It seems as if the Spudders can't win no matter how they try. Manager Salm has juggled his pitchers, outfield, infield and batting order, but they continued to lose. We'll gamble that there will be a different story to relate next week. It can't go on forever.

It is just possible that Jimmy Zinn will work in one of the Fort Worth games. The Panthers are going at a terrific clip and it is up to somebody like Zinn to stop them from making a runaway with the flag. If Jimmy is right, we should bring home the bacon, but there's no telling what the long lay off might do to him.

Dooley continued to whale the ball yesterday. If he continues to play up to the pace he has set, Kitchens will warm the bench for a while.

Umpire Powers didn't help the Spudders a bit yesterday. He called Mokan out at second on an attempted steal when, in the opinion of everyone except Powers, Johnny had the ball beaten. The decision cost a run as Grubb and Dooley followed with singles. Even the "ump" is giving the other fellow the breaks.

Major League Bits

Yesterday's hero: Tris Speaker. The Cleveland manager hit a home in the third with two on bases, enabling the Indians to beat the Athletics 9 to 4. Smith, Walker and Dykes also hit the full circuit.

A pass, Eddie Collins' single and doubles by Weaver and Jackson gave the White Sox four runs in the tenth and allowed them to beat Washington 11 to 9.

Boston hit Dauss and Ayers hard and won from Detroit 8 to 3.

Rixey bounced a bat off the dugout roof into the stands and the umpire gave him a one-way ticket to the showers. Luderus was sent after him later. The Cards beat the Phils 3 to 1.

Robertson let a hit get through him giving the Giants the run in the ninth that beat the cubs 2 to 1.

Cadore in his first start since the 26-inning record breaker with the Braves, beat the Reds 3 to 0. The Robins batted Eller out of the box.

Great Day at Cornell.

ITHACA, N. Y., May. 22. — Thousands of alumni and other guests are at Cornell today to attend the annual spring day festivities. The athletic events which are a feature of the program, consist of a baseball game between Yale and Cornell and the annual race on Cayuga lake.

SHEEHAN PUTS M'GOWAN TO SLEEP IN A MINUTE

Levinsky and Wiggins in Draw.

DAYTON, O., May 22.—Battling Levinsky, New York, and Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis, fought 12 rounds to a draw here last night. It was a referee's decision. The battle was supposed to be for the light heavyweight championship.

The Black Spudders lost the first game of the series to the Black Panthers yesterday at Athletic park 9 to 2. The same teams will meet today and tomorrow at 4 o'clock.

KROHN WILL ENTER RING A FAVORITE IN BOUT WITH SPARKS

It's a question of lose and practically drop out in the fans' estimation with Speedy Sparks in his bout with Harry Krohn here Monday night or win and go ahead for more bouts. With Krohn the match is his introduction to Texas. If he wins the fans in other cities in this vicinity, particularly Fort Worth and Dallas, will want to see Harry.

At the close of a week's training here today both men declared themselves in A No. 1 condition and expressed confidence of victory. Speedy counts on the better wallop. In spite of the fact that Sparks is the local man the fans who have seen Krohn work out here are inclined to favor him as the victor.

Krohn has one of the fastest right cross offensives that has been seen in these diggings. He stands up and fights. Speedy bores in. Krohn likes it at long distance.

Eddie Lewis of Fort Worth and Sid Martin, the fighting plumber, will meet in the semi-final. Lewis has defeated such men as One Round Hogan of New Orleans, Jack Ryan of Memphis and Mickey Reilly of Tulsa. The go will be Martin's toughest opportunity. It will send him up the ladder as a main event boy if successful.

Martin believes that he has it in him to win. He was a successful amateur athlete in Chicago before the war and wears on his watch fob a number of medals won in various events. After he got into the professional ranks Martin broke into the ring game as the sparring partner of some of the best of the lightweights. He was "paid to stand on the receiving end," as Martin puts it, and he learned some fast lessons in that way.

ROTAN AND JACOBY IN GOLF FINALS AT HOUSTON C. C. TODAY

HOUSTON, TEX., May 22.—In today's golfing finals George Rotan of Houston will endeavor to win the state amateur championship for the sixth time. He is being disputed by Louis Jacoby, a Dallas entry, who has shot a splendid game for the last three days.

This pair has clashed on the links before, but Jacoby has never succeeded in putting Rotan out in a state meet.

For the fourth consecutive day the weather remains flawless. There has scarcely been a cloud in the sky since the Wednesday start and the fairways are warm enough to permit long rolls.

SID MARTIN PUTS YOUNG MITCHELL TO SLEEP IN FIFTH FRAME IN BURK

Sid Martin, Wichita's fighting plumber, handed Young Mitchell the Kayo wallop in the fifth round of a scheduled 10 round bout at the Owl club in Burkburnett last night. Mitchell was beaten from the moment he entered the ring and was hanging on until Martin slipped him the sleeper in the fifth.

In the semi-windup Martin Gersh won a decision over Jim Breen of Minneapolis, former sparring partner of Mike Gibbons, in six rounds.

Roy Schoval, manager of the Owl Club, intends to stage weekly bouts, if possible, at the club, and judging from last night's crowd, Burk fans will more than support the contests.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Walter Hagen, open golf champion of America, and a party of seven amateur players and a committee on rules are to sail today for England.

Hagen is to compete in the British open championships. Among the other players are Stewart Stickney, St. Louis, and Nelson Whitney, New Orleans.

THE GEORGIA DELEGATION.

The outlook is that that Watson-Hardwick-Smith delegation at San Francisco—provided it gets entree at all—is going to be almighty lonesome. Every democratic state convention that has been held so far has endorsed the Wilson administraiton and its achievements excepting only Georgia in the South and Massachusetts in the North—the endorsement by New York was chiefly lip endorsement, it must be admitted—and the roll daily increases. Wednesday it was Nebraska and Washington; Thursday it was Indiana, Virginia, Michigan and South Carolina. In a few days it will be Texas to join in the swelling list, and that administration forces will be in control now seems as certain as anything in the future can be. The endorsements are not merely perfunctory declarations, they are fervid in their proclamation of faith in the titular head of the party and strong in their denunciation of the majority faction in the senate in rejecting the peace treaty and the League of Nations, ratification of which is urged with virtual unanimity.

New York, Connecticut and Massachusetts democrats have declared for a modification of the Volstead law to permit the manufacture of light wines and beers; New Jersey will join them and possibly Pennsylvania and California and one or two others. But it is worthy of note that even the wet states like Illinois and the recently wet states like Michigan and Indiana have defeated every attempt to put over a wet plank, and Michigan democrats went so far as to endorse the national prohibition amendment as one of the "constructive acts of the Wilson administration," the acts of which were unanimously approved.

Texas democrats are in sympathy with the position of its national committeeman, Thomas B. Love, who announces he will not favor the election of a temporary chairman who is not "right" on the wet plank, even if he be of medium wetness.

Texas a Creditor State.
(Denton Record-Chronicle)

An effort to amend the road bond law will be made at the special session if the governor can be induced to submit that question. Two amendments are being urged. One is that the interest limit of 5½ per cent be taken off or raised to 6 or 7 per cent so bonds can be sold at par under present conditions when the best issues in the country are selling to net from 6 per cent on up to 8 per cent. The other that Texas county, district and municipal bonds be exempt from taxation so that they can be purchased by the people of the community in which they are issued and the interest money kept at home instead of being sent to northern and eastern financial centers. Millions of dollars worth of bonds have been voted in Texas that are absolutely unsalable in present financial conditions, because with Liberty bonds selling below 85, Texas county and municipal bonds cannot be sold at a price that authorities would be willing to accept, even if there were not a requirement to get par and accrued interest for them. But even at 5¼ per cent, if the bonds were not taxable at the rate of 2 to 3 per cent, local pride and concern, we believe, would insure communities taking care of their own bond issues at par as a patriotic contribution to the general good. If the interest rate were made on a par with other securities, we know virtually every community in the state would handle its own issues and Texas would have a bond market of its own able at least to underwrite, if not handle outright, all the public improvement bonds issued in Texas. Texas, it should be remembered, is nearing the stage of becoming a creditor state. A little encouragement and it will handle its own credits without sending millions of dollars annually out of the state for interest on bonds, mortgages and other indebtedness instruments, for indebtedness created when it was a debtor state exclusively. Taxes on bonds yield no return in Texas today; pursuing the fiction of taxing such securities is not worth while, particularly when its main result is to drive our own bonds out of the state into other states where a more liberal policy is pursued.

The Freight Cars of the Country.

Increased efficiency has resulted in getting more work out of the rolling stock in the lines of this country, but we are shy on freight cars to the extent of 570,000 and there are now in service about 124,000 freight cars which should have been scrapped. Owing to the increased capacity of new cars 49,500 would replace these.

"The stars incline, but do not compel."
(Copyright, 1919, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Saturday, May 22, 1920.

All the planetary influences are favorable today, according to astrology. Venus, Mercury and the Sun are in benefic aspect.

It is a rule under which all the affairs of women are believed to be more fortunately directed.

It is a time when girls may expect romance to bring happiness and when meetings with strangers may be most memorable.

For the women interested in politics much good should accrue through publicity at this time.

Newspapers, magazines and books should benefit while this configurations prevails, for the stars are held to be most propitious for favorable acceptance of what is published.

This is a rule under which to push all ambitious plans. Meetings, conferences and interviews on which large issues depend are well directed.

It should be a lucky day for those who seek positions for contracts of any sort.

The signs are propitious for all activities for women, who will do much along organization lines, especially where publicity plays an important part.

Under this rule persons of faint heart will do well to gain the courage to make requests. Lovers as well as persons who have commercial or political ambitions at heart may courageously put fate to the test while this configuration prevails.

When the summer quarter begins there will be an unsettled state of the country, confusing and disturbing to business and political plans. Uranus on the cusp of the sixth threatens new troubles in dockyards.

Again there is the forecast that many branches of foreign trade will benefit, but that disputes with foreign powers will ensue.

Attacks on persons holding high authority in the government will increase in violence as the weeks advance, the seers foretell, and a famous libel suit will be instituted.

Switzerland and the West Indies will be under a cloud during the summer and there may be many troubles affecting all classes of the people.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a prosperous year. Those who are employed will benefit.

Children born on this day will be endowed with splendid talents and fine possibilities. Happy and prosperous lives stretch out before them.

GEOGRAPHY LESSONS FROM SERIAL THRILLER

It is safe to say that no one ever thought of dramatizing Wentworth's Arithmetic or setting McGuffey's Third Reader to syncopated music or otherwise popularizing the things that make the little Red School House famous. The star system now in vogue among producers has done much to increase the interest of the masses in astronomy, but aside from that very little has been attempted in the way of making education easier to take.

Just think how much more interesting it would have been if when you were a boy or a girl (as the case may be) your teacher had called out, "Class in arithmetic will now take places and we'll run through the first act of 'Decimals'," or, "Reading class report in make-up at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning for the 'School House Blues' number from McGuffey's 'Follies of 1884'." Well, if you recall it, they didn't do things like that, and they don't yet, but they may be coming to it, for the latest motion picture serial, a Pathe product entitled "Trailed by Three," might be called a movie version of Fry's Geography of pleasant memory.

From Here to Everywhere.

From the sun-scorched beaches of a South Pacific Isle where life is red and raw and in a permanent state of irritation, according to Jack London, this serial runs the geographical scale to effete New York, the rolling prairies of the far West, the opium soaked mysticism and cussedness of San Francisco's Chinatown, the watery wastes of the pitching Pacific, the sordidness and squalor of a far Eastern seaport, the gorgeousness of a Pasha's palace, and his harem which is not open to the public. An anthropologist would simply sit back and gloat, for in this new screen production he would be able to look at close-ups of the various races of the world—Negroes, Kankakas, Caucasians, Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Turks, Levantines, Bysantines, Lascars, Czecho-Slavaks, Jugo-Slova, Georgians, Circassians, Tartars, Kurds,—and Whey, too, for all we know.

Had Serious Purpose.

Adhering strictly to the lines laid down in Mercator's Projection, the start of this cinematographic Cook's tour is made in the mythical Island of Manoa, a prototype of any one of the South Pacific dry spots that served Jack London as a locale. Down there it seems, the oysters are not called upon to disport themselves on the halfshell packed in ice or to romp around in a cocktail, therefore, they can devote eight hours a day to the industry that made them famous,—pearl manufacture. At the time our story opens, these industrious little bivalves had turned out some extremely high-lass examples of their handiwork.

The natives of the island were being oppressed and held in subjection by a white tyrant, and their chief, who had been deposed, was a sort of political outcast. But he loved his people, as all politicians do, and he resolved to buy back their freedom. So he went out pearl trapping at great personal risk, braved the shark-infested waters and brought out a fortune or two in pearls. These had to be sold in order to be of real value, so with the aid of a missionary's daughter, the chief went to New York. The white tyrant's minions took up the trail, intending to grab the pearls, and the chase was on.

Charles Turner Dazey, famous as the author of that most famous of all stage plays, "In Old Kentucky," is the author. This is proof enough of the seriousness of the intention and execution of the story. On his own word, Mr. Dazey wrote the story because he wanted to, and not in fulfillment of an order from a motion picture producer. In addition to using the world in general as his setting, Mr. Dazey had a very serious purpose in mind.

"It would be quite impossible for one to see a motion picture serial and fail to notice that the prevailing idea among serial writers, that deep and engrossing mystery should of necessity enshroud a certain character in the play was leading to all sorts of gross extravagances and exaggerations," said Mr. Dazey. "There were haunting shadows, "Unknowns," psychic phenomena and a lot of other theatric devices calculated to gain the desired air of mystery, but which, since the public could not understand them, in many instances provoked amusement instead.

Freedom From Slavery.

"It seemed to me that a serial photoplay might be made interesting without all this paraphernalia. So I thought to take a motive from the common—one that everybody could understand. With this as my starting point I hit upon the idea of showing a group of men struggling to gain freedom from the slavery imposed by some existing social evil.

"And with this end in view I selected a tribe of South Sea Islanders. The men in this group were to be gifted with fine moral sense and to represent that most admirable being we know as 'Nature's Nobleman.'

"Then, to show them in enslavement, I introduced a man of keen commercial abilities, conscious of his superiority in this respect over the natives of the island where he operated as a trader, and intense in his desire to amass great wealth and influence. By the exercise of the commercial shrewdness he acquired in America to this selfish end, this man might easily plunge the natives, unsuspecting in nature, into his debt to such an extent as to render them virtual slaves to his every wish and demand.

Introducing Dramatic Element.

"So from this beginning I had no difficulty in introducing dramatic element. Struggle was accomplished by showing the chief of the tribe as a man desirous of freeing his people from bondage at the risk of his life even, and in a dangerous fishing ground the chief finds a number of pearls of great value. These are to pay the ransom of his tribe, but these are stolen by a follower of the trader who carries them to New York, where circumstances interest a girl and her lover in the fight to keep the pearls out of the hands of the trader's followers. So my struggle is physical to the degree necessary for dramatic effect, but, too, it is symbolic of a fight to see justice done, the pearls representing the object which will gain freedom for a band of men under the yoke of a cruel oppressor."

BAYARD VEILLER IN CLOVER; NOW SCRIPT CONCOCTOR

Getting a man to talk about plays he has written when he wants to think of trout he might be catching is not the easiest thing in the world.

So far as that goes, if one wants merely a list of Bayard Veiller's plays he may consult "Who's Who" and find there recorded "Within the Law," "The Thirteenth Chair," "The Chatterbox," and seven others. These ten have all been made into motion pictures—not always under their own titles.

Having gotten thus the preliminary requisites for an interview, I looked up Mr. Veiller and requested a few moments' chat.

"Certainly. Of course. Glad to," he beamed. "Used to be a press agent myself."

We strolled out of doors and surveyed studio Japanese garden as we talked.

Had News Experience.

"Used to be a newspaper man, too," continued Mr. Veiller—a self-starter. "I started on the New York Star as a general reporter. I was in the down, send out a couple of guides and they drive the deer across the road, I shoot them from the front seat.

"I have gone ahead with paper and publicity for DeWolf Hopper, James K. Hackett, most of the Schubert stars. I was an advance agent when I wrote my first play, "The Primrose Path," about 1914. This is a nice looking garden. Any fishing in the pond?"

A friend of Mr. Veiller's sauntered by.

"Say, you ought to come up to my camp in the Adirondacks," he suggested.

"Any fish there?"

"Fish? Say, my private lake is stocked with 20,000 trout!"

"What do you think of a newspaper training, Mr. Veiller?" I injected.

"Most wonderful in the world. I've got a 3½-ounce rod. What kind do you use?" (Turning to the 20,000-trout man.)

"Use a net on my lake."

"That's not sport!"

"What do you want, man, to eat fish or to go fishing?"

"Go fishing!" (With an air of the obvious.)

"Well you can do that, too. I've got a mile and a half of mountain stream on my land."

"Guess I'll invite myself up there this summer."

"Pardon me for interrupting, Mr. Veiller. Newspaper work is the best training for playwriting, you think?"

Studies Humanity.

"For any line of work, the best lawyers I know have been newspaper men. Three or four years is enough for a man, though—then he should get out of it."

"Suppose you base your plots on newspaper experience?"

"Oh, no, you don't get plots—you get human nature."

"Speaking of human nature," said Mr. Veiller's Adirondack friend. "We have some pretty good deer hunting up my way, too. Every year I ride out in my car, let the windshield send out a couple of guides and they drive the deer across the road. I shoot them from the front seat."

"Fine!" said Bayard Veiller.

"Have you written for the movies before, Mr. Veiller?"

"No. That is, I just finished a South Seas story for Louise Glaum. I am going to write four scripts a year. The first one I have in mind is for Bert Lytell. I won't say anything about it—except that it is a melodrama."

Mr. Veiller is considerably below the average height. His hair is black and thick, his skin is dark. I asked, perhaps impertinently, if he was of Spanish descent.

"No. I am American. I was born in New York, of American parents—but I have French blood in my veins."

"By the way, you are being interviewed on Friday the thirteenth."

"That so? Come to think of it. I have written thirteen plays, one of the most successful of them, "The Thirteenth Chair." The thirteenth play is entitled "Danger."

Oklahomans Ban Bandits.

Oklahoma City now has an anti-bandit motion picture ordinance. The ordinance rules out all pictures which show and feature ex-outlaws as such. Films showing crime or outlawry featuring professional actors who take such parts are not prohibited. This action is due entirely to the film activities of Al Jennings and Emmett Dalton.

Anita Stewart possesses a mink fur coat which required two years in the making.

WHEN SHOULD A GIRL PROPOSE?

Should a girl propose during leap year?"

This question was put to Miss Shirley Mason, who has been called "the sweetest girl on the screen."

As a screen star, Miss Mason has received some hundreds of proposals. She has rejected them all, because she intends devoting her entire life to pictures.

"To the question, 'Should a girl propose during leap year?' I would reply: 'No!'" said the dainty little Fox star.

Make Themselves Unattractive.

"I say, 'No,' because it isn't necessary. Perhaps some people who do not agree with me may say that all girls are not attractive to men, and that an unattractive girl who wants a husband just naturally has to ask him to marry her. That isn't true.

"There is no such thing as an unattractive girl. By that I mean that a girl may make herself unattractive by her own actions, but that at heart she really is attractive. In other words, when a girl makes herself unattractive, she is not living true to herself. I know girls, for instance, who have rare beauty, and yet they repel men. I know other girls with snub noses and yards of freckles, who always attract men. Why is this? Because the freckle-faced girl is not self-conscious, she is not worrying about herself; she is happy with life and she wants to and does, make others happy.

"I remember meeting a young woman once who was as fair of face as a Grecian statue. Her eyes were a limpid blue, her nose was finely chiseled, her hair was a rich Titian color, her lips were perfectly formed. I have seen men introduced to her pause in silent admiration, then smile with an expression denoting more than cordiality. And then when the girl opened her perfectly formed lips to reply to the greeting they would curl into an expression of sarcasm which changed her whole appearance. Eventually she would simply "freeze out," her new acquaintance, who had met her with frank admiration. Yet this same girl would be friendly with other girls.

Realized Mistake in Time.

"This girl interested me very much and I made a study of her. I found that she liked men in general but was so self-conscious that when she spoke to them she assumed a defiant attitude. The result was she gave the impression that she was a 'man-hater.' Well, she is married now. She realized her fault and overcame it. Then, instead of repulsing men she attracted them, not only because of her beauty but because of her sweet ways. And then the man came along and proposed and she accepted him.

"No, a girl certainly should not propose, during leap year or at any other time. If a man is attracted by a girl he soon will show it. On the other hand, if a girl throws herself at a man—which she does if she proposes—the man is likely to develop a feeling that an attempt is being made to capture him. And men don't like to think they are being captured. They want to feel that they are doing the 'capturing.'

Even Adam Proposed.

"Then, too, a girl doesn't want to feel that she is pursuing a man with the lasso of matrimony. She expects to be wooed. I have no patience with the doctrine preached by one of our modern philosophers that it is the woman who pursues the man, and not the man who actually wooes the woman. If you will glance back through the pages of history you will find it was man who did the proposing. Adam was created, and he became lonesome. He was given Eve, and straightway he wooed her. Of course, it wasn't necessary for Eve to propose, for she had no rivals; neither did Adam.

"In all famous love stories you will find that man did the proposing. So my advice to all girls is, let man do the proposing; don't bother about leap year. Love responds to love, and if you are always cheerful and happy and agreeable you soon will find yourself with proposals enough."

BRENNAN'S LECTURE LAST NIGHT HEARD BY LARGE CROWD

A vigorous plea for system as the foundation for success in business was made last evening before a large gathering of merchants and business men in the First M. E. church by W. F. Brennan of Dayton, O., representative of the National Cash Register company. Accompanying the lecture was "The Troubles of a Merchant," a moving picture, showing how the man who "guesses" about the various processes of his business is almost certain to be more or less of a failure and sure to be the first to go to the wall in time of stress.

The lecture and picture were arranged by the chamber of commerce of Wichita Falls. It covered methods of advertising, salesmanship and many of the other points of the best modern business practice.

Speaking of advertising, Mr. Brennan said, that newspaper advertising was the most effective and cheapest form of which the merchant could take advantage.

"Advertising in simply a way of telling possible purchasers about the goods you have for sale. To be easy to understand, an ad must be made of simple words, short sentences, few ideas. Big words and involved sentences will not be read. The purchasing public does not care how well educated you are—it simply wants to know what you have to sell, its quality, and its price.

"For many people to read it, an ad must be set in plain type and must be uncrowded and unconfused by needless cuts, borders and ornaments. If an ad tells of but one line of goods, it may catch the eye, but if it is crowded with many ideas, the chances are it will not be read. It is not the number of articles you advertise that counts, but the number of persons who come into your store to buy the goods you advertise. I do not mean that if you have a large space, you should use it to tell of one article. A half-page or a page ad is really a collection of smaller ads, to each of which the principle stated should apply. Each should tell of but one line of goods.

"To give individuality to your ads, it is well to have a specially designed name-plate for the name of your firm or store.

"Make your ads different. Don't copy what other people say. Put your personality into them. Tell the story about your goods just as you would tell it in the store. If your ad is just like everybody else's, it will not be read.

"Cuts are good if they really illustrate, but a bad cut is worse than none. Don't use a cut that isn't just what you want, simply because you can get it from a syndicate cheap. If you get a syndicate to plan your advertising, be sure to get individual attention. Ready-made ads don't always apply to your particular business, and will not get results for your store. To make a favorable impression, an ad must have an attractive appearance, by having a symmetrical form, attractive lettering and appealing illustrations.

"In preparing your ads write them out as best you can, and then say the same thing in half as many words.

"Your advertising is your store news. If you haven't any, make some. A new line of goods; cut prices on goods you want to turn over. It is easy enough to get news if you watch for the opportunity.

"Don't spend a few dollars in advertising and then say, 'advertising doesn't pay.' Advertising does pay as attested by thousands of merchants over the country who have become successful through its judicious use. It may take a little time to secure maximum returns, but if you make it a part of the continuous policy of your store, you will not be disappointed with the results.

"Select your advertising medium carefully. Its value, to a certain extent, depends upon the goods you sell and the conditions under which you sell them. Except for the small store serving a district in a large city, more people can be reached oftener and at less expense by newspaper ads than in any other way. The merchant who is not using them is missing a big opportunity."

Window Displays.

He urged more attention, however, to window display, declaring that the more goods shown in that way in an attractive manner, the larger the sales which would be made. "Make the display simple," he said, "use colors and arrangement to call attention to the article you wish to sell. Always state the price. Fix your lights so they will shine on the goods and not on the street. Remember that people get an idea of the kind of goods on the inside of the store from those they see on the outside."

Mr. Brennan told of the good effects that a school for the employes had secured for the National Cash Register company. "Every employer," he said, "should teach his clerks how they can become expert salesmen." Speaking to the clerks present, Mr. Brennan first said that to be a good clerk, a person must first be a good man. "Bad habits outside of working hours," he said, make a bad record in the store the next day. A man can't stay out half the night and expect to sell goods the following day."

Mr. Brennan urged neatness, accuracy, honesty and courtesy as the first essentials of successful salesmanship. "Misrepresentation of goods," he said, "is bad for the store and bad for you. Nothing is more important than courtesy. Remember the motto today which is making many merchants millions: 'The customer is always right—please him.'"

Speaking of the credit business, Mr. Brennan urged his hearers to guard against the extension of credit unwisely and forgetting to charge for sales.

"The difference between the up-to-date and the out-of-date merchant," Mr. Brennan said in closing, "is that the up-to-date merchant knows all about his business and the out-of-date merchant only guesses. He guesses what stock he has on hand, he guesses which of his clerks are honest, he guesses about his selling price and guesses about the cost of doing business. Consequently there are thousands of failures in the business world every year."
