THE NEW MARCH OF DIMES — J. C. Roberts, right, Gray County chairman for the 1960 March of Dimes, explains to Boyd Beck, center, Greys chairman, and George Kleeburg, Pampa drive chairman, the difference between the coming campaign and past Dimes drives. The campaign will be conducted from Jan. 2 to Jan. 31. In addition to polio, the National Foundation has announced an expanded health program. The "new" MOD drive will lead the fight to prevent other crippling and fatal diseases. Roberts said the research that produced Salk vaccine is now extended to a search for preventative, cures and treatment techniques in birth defects and arthritis. (Daily News Photo)

'Food For Peace' Is Like Pledge In India

Outlines A Second World Goal In Land Of Hunger

NEW DELHI (UPI) — President Eisenhower launched a global "food for peace" campaign today in a land where millions know hunger, so that friendship among nations can replace fear and suspicion and men may be free in the pursuit of happiness.

It was the second world campaign he had outlined during another day of personal triumph in this Eisenhower-crazy city. It came in his second major speech of the day.

Earlier, in a speech at Delhi University where he received an honorary degree, he called for a world interchange of students to build peace upon a platform of youth.

The President's voice was hoarse, betraying the strain of continuous speech-making and his public appearances, but his doctor said he was standing up well.

At the President's second appearance — the opening of India's first international agricultural exhibition — his visit to India drew special praise from Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru.

"We here honored you because you have found an echo in the hearts of our millions of people," Nehru said. "I believe your coming here will be a blessing to us and a blessing to all."

Eisenhower used a pair of golden shears to cut a ribbon and officially open the American pavilion after brushing past the Russian and Red Chinese exhibits.

His speech at the fairgrounds lasted only 11 minutes but he remained on the grounds two and a half hours, leaving after the sun set on the spires and balloons of the fair.

Eisenhower, already hailed as a man of peace, repeated his personal triumphs of the two days before. Again today he drove through human canyons of hundreds of thousands of Indians who shouted "long live Ike" and almost smothered him with flowers as they cheered "the king of America."

Eisenhower, standing in the rear of an open car, held up his hands to ward off the avalanche of flowers as he drove slowly past mist-shrouded walls of the historic red fort, the ancient British defense bastion in India whose dirty walls were reared up through morning vapors and the thin smoke from tiny cooking fires in nearby shanties.

He was hoarse today from his speech making but his doctor said this was nothing unusual and that he was bearing up well from his strenuous peace tour of 11 nations and wild welcomes never before seen in the history of India or the other nations he has visited.

Pal Of Gangster Indicted

Slaying Over Gambling Debt

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sam Frank Locigno, 38-year-old pal of ex-convict Mickey Cohen, was indicted for murder Thursday by a county grand jury in the killing of Jack (The Enforcer) Whalen. Whalen was shot to death Dec. 2 in a crowded Sherman Oaks restaurant while Cohen and his party sat less than six feet away.

The panel returned the indictment after a three-day inquiry into the gunshot slaying. Locigno, formerly of Cleveland, surrendered to police while the grand jury was meeting Thursday and admitted the killing. He pleaded self defense.

Locigno claimed Whalen, a convicted extortionist, entered Ronelli's Restaurant, struck one of the men sitting at Cohen's table and then advanced toward him in a threatening manner. Whalen was not armed, police said.

Whalen was out to collect a $500 gambling debt from Locigno and another man, police said.

When A Body Spies A Body It's A Case Of Drinking Rye

Cars slammed to a screeching halt, drivers bailed out and rushed to the center of the street in the 300 block of W. Brown about 7 o'clock last night, all anxious to get a look at the body lying in the middle of the pavement.

None approached closer than ten steps until a Pampa minister knelt and felt for a pulse beat. Questions filled the air: "What happened?" "Wreck?" "Hit by a car?" "Is she dead?" All were asked and discussed until a police car arrived.

"She's dead, all right," the policeman muttered as he placed an inert form in the patrol car and headed for the station. "Dead drunk!"

Militia Called In Strike Disorder

By ROBERT DODOR
United Press International

ALBERT LEA, Minn. (UPI) — Minnesota Gov. Orville L. Freeman today declared martial law and called out the National Guard to help preserve order in this strife-torn town, scene of four clashes in two days between striking United Packinghouse Workers and non-union employees at Wilson & Co.

Freeman ordered two National Guard units from Rochester and Mankato, Minn., about 40 miles away, to Albert Lea to guard against further outbreaks of violence.

The Minnesota governor said he was acting in response to pleas from city officials.

Freeman signed the proclamation declaring martial law early this morning in his offices in St. Paul, Minn.

The governor also scheduled a meeting today with Wilson President James D. Cooney in an effort to head off further trouble.

Freeman, professing alarm at the "apparent breakdown" in negotiations, sent telegrams Thursday to Cooney and UPW President Ralph Helstein, asking for the parley.

However, a Wilson spokesman said he had been informed that Helstein had been asked to meet with federal mediators in St. Paul, Minn., and emphasized that Cooney would only talk with Freeman.

More than 1,000 residents of this southern Minnesota town looked on Thursday while yelling pick-

Damage Slight To Missile In Pad Misfire

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — A Titan intercontinental ballistic missile which failed to get off its pad Thursday apparently suffered little damage in the second of its engine "blows," sources said.

It was believed another launch attempt would be made soon, after clearing the difficulty which caused the first stage engine to shut down automatically.

Exact nature of the trouble was not revealed by the Air Force, but one source said it "might have been" outside the missile, in the ground support system. "The instruments didn't get a proper engine signal," he said.

This had been planned as a critical test firing of the Titan's second stage engine in flight. The first four Titans carried dummy upper stages, and the fifth was prematurely launched and fell back on its pad to explode AUG 14.

The Titan is the nation's biggest war rocket, but it is still far from the operational stage achieved last September by its less sophisticated ICBM "brother" the Atlas.

Couple Wed For 81 Years

FAIRVIEW, Utah (UPI) — A bedtime snack of a piece of candy and a breakfast of meat and potatoes is part of the daily regimen of the long-lived Peter Petersons, believed to be the nation's longest-married couple who observed their 81st anniversary today.

It's a formula that has worked. For Peterson, 89, and his wife Celestia, 88, fully expect to "be around for a while longer so we can both live together when we pass the century mark."

"We're in better health now than we were a year ago, and it looks like we're going to make it," Peterson said.

A year ago the Petersons' 80th anniversary turned into a community celebration at Fairview, a central Utah farming community where the couple has lived all but 10 years of their lives.

Today, their anniversary celebration had "much less fuss." It was confined to only most of their 257 descendants.

Drug Company Ad Drives Scrutinized

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate price investigators today dug further into charges that high-powered advertising campaigns by medicine firms have confused doctors, raised prices and may harm patients.

Specifically, the Senate anti-trust subcommittee tried to determine whether advertising drives by big drug companies keep down competition from smaller firms.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D - Tenn.), summoned Seymour Blackman, secretary - treasurer of Premo Pharmaceutical Laboratories, Inc. of South Hackensack, N.J.

Premo was described as a medium size manufacturer of drug products. Chief subcommittee counsel Rand Dixon said Blackman would be asked how promotional and licensing practices of major drug companies affected his business.

He said Blackman's testimony would "follow well in line" with testimony Thursday about the advertising of Merck & Co., one of the leaders in the drug industry.

Dr. Augustus Gibson, Merck's research director, conceded that one ad claiming that a certain drug produced "no worrisome side effects" was not true.

Like Plea Unheard; Steel Talks Stop

By WILLIAM J. EATON
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Steel bargaining talks were in recess today just one week after President Eisenhower called on the union and companies to seek a settlement by round-the-clock negotiations.

Federal Mediation Chief Joseph P. Finnegan suspended the talks Thursday. One reason was to allow steelworkers President David McDonald to sit in on aluminum contract negotiations in Chicago.

McDonald hopes to write new contracts with the three biggest aluminum makers — Alcoa, Kaiser and Reynolds Metals — that he feels will increase the pressure for a steel settlement.

In breaking off the steel talks, Finnegan said "no progress of substance has been made." He indicated he would reopen the bargaining sessions in a week or 10 days, depending on what happened in the aluminum negotiations.

Chief management spokesman R. Conrad Cooper, meantime, would not comment on McDonald's call for company-by-company bargaining between the union and 95 steel firms, including the 11 largest companies involved in the top-level negotiations.

McDonald said separate discussions were required under the Taft-Hartley back-to-work injunction which halted the 116-day strike Nov. 7. McDonald said bargaining with Cooper and his aides has been useless.

Cooper rejected two other union requests for retroactive pay under any future settlement and a pre-Christmas cost-of-living wage hike.

Jobless Tally Report Today
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government was expected to report today that unemployment rose by about 400,000 and the number of jobs fell by more than a million last month.

Layoffs forced by steel shortages during the 116-day steel strike were the major factors in both changes, informed sources said.

The Labor Department November job report estimates were compiled a few days after the steelworkers returned to their jobs under a back-to-work order issued Nov. 7. Steel shortages were still acute, however, because large-scale production had not yet resumed when the figures were being gathered.

Cubans Charge Reporter With Aid To Escapee

HAVANA (UPI) — Cuban authorities said today they are holding Miami Herald reporter James Buchanan on charges of "involvement" in Austin Young's escape from prison Wednesday, even though the reporter was in Miami at the time.

An army spokesman said Buchanan was arrested Thursday as he entered the room in Havana's St. John Hotel where Young had been recaptured earlier. He said the Miami newspaper was carrying iodine and bandages, presumably to treat the minor injuries Young suffered in his dramatic prison break.

Young and Buchanan are being held at military intelligence headquarters here.

Two other U.S. newsmen, NBC cameraman Carlos Santos and Luis Rives, were arrested and held briefly Thursday in the western town of Consolacion del Sur, where they were filming the army's house-to-house search for Young.

UF Over The Top

The Pampa-Lefors United Fund drive is $192 over its established goal of $63,900 today. Fund secretary Elsie Gee reported total receipts of $64,992.

Campaign Chairman Floyd Watson said only a few small cards are still in the hands of directors and are expected to be completed soon.

This year is the second year in the history of the drive the quota has been reached.

Candidate For Governor Hopes For Shivers Nod

AUSTIN (UPI) — Jack Cox, who as a legislator stayed in a puppet in the Capitol grounds, now says he is ready to move inside.

Cox announced Thursday that he will be a candidate for governor in the 1960 Democratic primary.

The former executive secretary of the ultra-conservative "Freedom in Action" organization said he would announce his platform after the Feb. 1 filing deadline.

Cox moved into the pup tent in protest to lawmakers' salaries while he served in the House in 1947. He spent three terms in the Legislature.

$103,300 Damage Suit Filed Today
A damage suit in the amount of $103,300 was entered in 31st District Court this morning by C. E. Fairis, et al, against Utility Oil Company of Pampa.

The suit alleges eight counts of negligence on the part of Don Loshier, an employee of Utility Oil Company, in the deaths of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Smith of Lefors Oct. 28.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith both were killed about 100 feet south of the Pampa city limits when their car collided with a Utility Oil Company truck driven by Loshier.

The Smiths were returning to their home in Lefors, traveling south on State Hwy. 273, when their automobile collided with the truck, traveling north. Mrs. Smith was pronounced dead on arrival at Highland General Hospital. (See SUIT, Page 2)

Death Near For Last Vet

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Dr. Russell Wolfe said today that he believes "death is only a matter of hours away" for Walter (Oldieb) Williams, 117, the last surviving veteran of the Civil War.

Williams is suffering from his fourth attack of pneumonia this year. Dr. Wolfe, who has treated him for several years, said his condition is critical and he is very weak.

His condition has been critical in the past, however, and he has recovered. He has run a fever of 103 degrees since Sunday and is under an oxygen tent. He has not eaten in five days.

Williams was 117 on Nov. 14.

Tit For Tat And A Ticket

Donald Ray Treat, 51, won the first round but lost the second in a scuffle with a Pampa police officer Thursday afternoon.

Treat, who lives at 617 N. Christy, allegedly assaulted Officer P. E. Bailey after Bailey lagged Treat for speeding on Gwendolen St. Bailey said an argument developed over the truck and treat hit him on the neck. Bailey retaliated and then brought the Pampa man to city jail on a charge of aggravated assault.

In county court this morning Treat admitted hitting Bailey and was fined $25.

Prison Break Ringleader Is Captured

By CHARLES E. MAHON
United Press International

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (UPI) — Charles W. (Yank) Stewart, ringleader in the escape of 20 convicts from North Carolina's "Little Alcatraz" prison, was captured here early today.

Stewart, 52, was caught after he wrecked the stolen automobile that he was driving during a police chase. Stewart's car plunged 30 feet off of a bridge down a riverbank on Route 220 near here.

Only six of the 20 convicts who fled the maximum security prison after overpowering the guards Tuesday were at large today.

State police grabbed the swarthy ringleader of the prison break from the Ivy Bluff prison for incorrigibles only 100 feet from where his car was found after it crashed through the bridge railing.

Police said Stewart offered no resistance, although he was armed with a .38 caliber revolver. He did not have the machinegun (See RINGLEADER, Page 2)

New 'Fuel' To Compete With Gasoline Developed, Tested

DETROIT (UPI) — New fuel gases developed by Allis-Chalmers Mfg. Co. now make possible, electric cars which could compete with gas buggies, according to Dr. H. K. Ihrig, research director for the company.
Ihrig says the new fuel gases can be fed into fuel cells which generate electricity to power all types of vehicles on a basis competitive with gasoline-powered cars, trucks, tractors and military vehicles.
The new system was tested recently on a tractor which plowed a field with only a 20 horsepower electric motor.
The electricity that drove the experimental tractor came from 1,008 individual cells. A mixture of gases, largely propane, fueled the cells along with oxygen. The gases were fed to the cells through a system of tubing and, once in the cells, reacted in an electrolyte.

The chemical reactions within the cells cause a direct current to flow to an external circuit which is connected to a controller which regulates the electricity supplies to the motor.
In this way the speed of the vehicle can be controlled by varying the amount of current going to the motor. The vehicle can be reversed by changing the polarity.
"At the moment, we don't see any reason why this couldn't be applied immediately to all types of vehicles, passenger cars, trucks, tractors or military vehicles," a spokesman said. "We don't know of any serious shortcomings but it is still in the experimental stage and we plan no commercial applications in the near future."
"It might be as long as five to 10 years, depending upon the problems we run into as we're testing the possible uses of the fuel cell."
The fuel cell doesn't store electricity like the batteries used in electric cars that have appeared on the market previously or the battery used to start a gasoline-powered car. It converts chemical energy in the fuel gas to electrical energy, or direct current. The gases are consumed much like the gasoline is consumed in an internal combustion engine.

Wall Street Chatter

Wall Street Chatter
NEW YORK (UPI) — The prolonged steel strike apparently will cause two general changes in the 1960 economy, says economist John W. Harriman.
It obviously will change the time shape so that the first six months will be a relatively stronger half, declares Harriman, who is economist for the Tri-Continental and Broad Street group of Mutual Funds.
The strike has shifted forward certain undertakings on the part of both business and consumers so that the possibility of a downturn within 1960 can be almost eliminated.

Armour sees its 1959 net up to about $2.73 a share, without counting certain charges, against $1.06 last year. . . . Burroughs expects its net to run around $1.25 or $1.30 before deducting non-recurring expenses and possibly to around $1.75 in 1960.

How To Make-Up for Entrance To Christmas Party

This season's evening coats in colors that would shame a hoard of jewels, are designed for making entrance.

So why not aid and abet them in their schemes by making up to them — not to the little quiet tion, Max Factor has an answer: "In making up to your bright silk satin or metal-shot evening coat, you will be doing a service to the quiet little dress which can share this splendor."

Your coat supplies your color-key. Joining lipstick color which could always be harmonized to a color as bright as any in Joseph's coat, is today's eye-shadow. There, he says, you'll find as many variations of color in misty or iridescent pastels as you'll find in any

DEAR ABBY....

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I was extremely amused at the letter signed "A DOCTOR, SEVENTH PLUS" because I knew one of those old coots who married a beautiful young woman who was thirty years younger than he was. They were very happy for about six years. Then she became a widow. She didn't cry too hard because she inherited enough money to get someone her own age to marry her. So you see, Abby, it sometimes pays to carefully count a man's years.

DEAR LOIS: The lady is this case probably "carefully counted" the man's money — not his years.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor of ours just came back from a mental institution. She had a nervous breakdown and was gone almost three years. How do we act towards her? Should we pretend as though we don't know where she was? Should we give her a welcome home party, or should we wait until she shows more interest in us? She was always a nice quiet lady. Her children (4 and 7) were kept by her sister, but a re home with her now. I suppose this means that she is normal again. Can you advise us? We want to do the right thing.

NEIGHBORS
DEAR NEIGHBORS: Most people who have been stricken with a mental illness were normal, human beings before their illnesses, and most of them return to normalcy after treatment. No mention of "where she was" is necessary. But she knows that you are aware of her three-year absence, so don't treat her as though she were a child. Call on her and tell her the neighbors want to welcome her home with a little party, and let her name the day.

DEAR ABBY: Our 15-year-old daughter is a very nice girl. We raised her right and I don't like to boast, but she is very pretty and is getting extremely popular. Our problem is: She wants us to put in a long telephone cord so she can carry the telephone all over the house and talk privately in her bedroom.

Her father said it was too expensive (this wasn't the real reason) and I told her if she had anything to say that her family couldn't hear, she should be ashamed of herself.

We have been going around about this for several months and I am interested in a solution. Our daughter has some birthday money saved and says she will pay for it herself. Should we agree?

PERPLEXED PARENTS
DEAR PERPLEXED: Teen-agers are people. All people are entitled to privacy. (Don't assume that just because she wants to talk confidentially to her friends that she has something to be "ashamed of.") If your daughter shows consideration and respect for her family, this would be a fitting reward for her. Give her the long cord.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY, care of this paper. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Now's the season to be jolly; it's not the season for folly. Turn off illuminated Christmas decorations before leaving home.

Plastic-coated throwaway plates in holiday designs are just the thing for serving Christmas and New Year's buffets. Save the family china for less precarious occasions.

SHINING WRAP. If its color is gold, you can look like an angel on a Christmas tree wearing golden frost on your eyelids, goldfire on your lips.

To try out your entrance-making make-up, Factor suggests standing six feet away from your full-length mirror (which means you will be seeing yourself 12 feet away) to see if you've been brave enough with your effects. If you haven't, he says, try again.

RUTH MILLETT

What has been happening to Christmas to make adults shudder at the mention of the word and come forth with such dreary remarks as, "Christmas is going to be on us before we know it — and I haven't even started on my shopping yet?" Or, "The Christmas season is so hectic I'm always a wreck before it's over?"

If you don't believe those remarks are typical of the adult attitude toward Christmas, just mention the word and see whether adult faces fall or light up. What has been happening to Christmas is that we've turned it into a social season instead of a Holy Day. And we have burdened ourselves with so many elaborate preparations, so much big entertaining and so much heavy spending that for many, Christmas is no longer a day to look forward to but weeks of worry and scurry to dread.

We no longer give gifts just to those we love and those who might otherwise go unremembered. We use the Christmas gifts as a way of repaying debts accumulated throughout the year, of strengthening business ties, of flattering those who can be of help socially. "Lipping" those we have neglected to tip throughout the year. No wonder—Christmas-shopping has become a headache.

So many have so much—including our children—that Christmas shopping all too often is a frantic search to find something for the person who has everything.

Instead of letting the children decorate the tree, hang up a few ornaments and put a holly wreath on the front door, we've become competitive in our Christmas decorating. There are even prizes in most towns for the best outdoor display, the most beautifully decorated door and so on. So Mama—not the kids—does the decorating, which gets more and more elaborate every year as she tried to think up something "different" enough to attract attention.

And all those pre-Christmas "open houses" that have turned into big, noisy cocktail parties where a host and hostess try to pay off their social debts have the grownups so bushed they dread getting up early Christmas morning with their children.

That is what has been happening to Christmas, that and the high-pressure selling that starts in before Thanksgiving telling us to hurry, hurry, hurry—that there are only so many shopping days left until Christmas.

MATURE PARENT

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Once, when I was in the third grade, our regular teacher fell ill and a substitute took over our class. We soon detested her.

If she caught us whispering, she'd leave the blackboard, sit down at her desk and say, "Go on. Finish your conversation. I wouldn't want to interrupt such an important discussion for the world." If we mispronounced a word, she'd comment, "Never mind. You read so well you don't have to bother with what the book says." If we were tardy, she'd look up as we opened the classroom door to say, "Good morning. How nice of you to decide to come to school today."

At first her sarcasm merely confused us. Her use of friendly words to express unfriendly meaning was new to us, and we didn't know which to respond to. Told not to mind our reading mistake, we'd smile uncomfortably and blunder on, unsure of whether we'd been approved or criticized.

But gradually, as we became certain of her unfriendliness, we began to resent her fiercely. We resented not her criticism so much as her refusal to put it into honestly critical words. So in open defiance, we finished our whispered conversations and cared less and less about pronouncing the words in our readers. We started taking Miss Hamm at her word and not at her meaning. Our principal had to find another substitute. Sarcasm is a dangerous self-indulgence for parents, too. When we find Gloria's sweater and school books piled on the dining room table, we can't afford to say: "That's right. Just leave your stuff wherever you feel like it for other people to clear up." When you buy leather gloves, ask if they are washable. Some are; some are not. Better to be on the safe side before you plunge with the suede.

Nigerian Minister To Speak At Central Baptist Sunday

PLAINVIEW (Sp) — Samuel Titilola Oladele Akande, Nigerian, West Africa, one of the 22 foreign students enrolled at Wayland Baptist College, will speak at the 11 o'clock worship hour Sunday morning, at the Central Baptist Church. In his homeland, Akande served on the executive committee of the Nigerian Baptist Convention for one year. He also served on the Sunday School board, and was a member of the board of governors for a Baptist high school and the Baptist seminary in Ogbomoso. Christian Scientist Sermon Topic Is 'God The Preserver'

Man's God-given safety and protection will be stressed at Christian Science services this Sunday. Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon on the subject "God the Preserver of Man" is the Golden Text from the King James Version of the Bible: "The Lord is good, a strong hold in the day of trouble; and he knoweth them that trust in him (Nahum 1:7).

Citations to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy include (187:27): "The history of Christianity furnishes aubill in the proofs of the supporting influence and protecting power bestowed on man by his heavenly Father, omnipotent Mind, who gives man faith and understanding whereby to defend himself, not only from temptation, but from bodily suffering."

First Services Sunday At New White Deer Church

By MRS. C. EVERLY
Daily News Correspondent

WHITE DEER (Sp) — Opening services in the new First Methodist Church will be held here Sunday. The program for the day will include Sunday school at 9:45; morning worship service at 10:35; the Rev. Marvin Menefee, pastor, bringing the message; afternoon services at 2:30, with a former pastor, the Rev. S. Duane Bruce, now pastor of the First Methodist Church in Perryton, delivering the sermon, and evening worship at 7:30, with the young people in charge and Mert Cooper, a ministerial student from the First Methodist Church, Pampa, as speaker.

Last spring, the old church building was torn down and the new building has been erected on another location in the south part of town, facing the Groom highway. It has 11,000 square feet of floor space and was constructed at an approximate cost of $90,000. In addition, much of the lumber from the old building was used and some of the labor was contributed by members of the church. The exterior of the building is of salmon pink brick, in modified Gothic style. The picture window is dominated by the picture of Christ known as "Come Unto Me," with the symbol of the hand of God and the Holy Spirit on each side. The bottom portion is centered with the open Bible with baptism and holy communion on the sides. Symbols in the side windows tell the story of the life of Christ. The main sanctuary will seat 200, with space provided in, and under, the balcony for an additional 76 persons. It is constructed with cloistered aisles and laminated beams, a divided chancel, and a large cross over the altar. The remainder of the building includes 12 Sunday school rooms, a parlor, a fellowship hall, and a chapel seating 40 persons. The Rev. Hugh H. Hunt of Lubbock, executive secretary of the Town and Country Commission of the Northwest Texas Conference, was the architect, and Delbert Allredge was the builder. Members of the building committee are H. T. Dickens, Everett Williams and Dalton Ford. During the construction of the new building, morning services have been conducted in the high school building, and evening services, in the Presbyterian Church.

"You Go To Your Church and I'll Go To Mine, But Let's All Walk Along Together."

Robbie Robison, Chairman
Church Relations Committee
The Pampa Pilgrimage

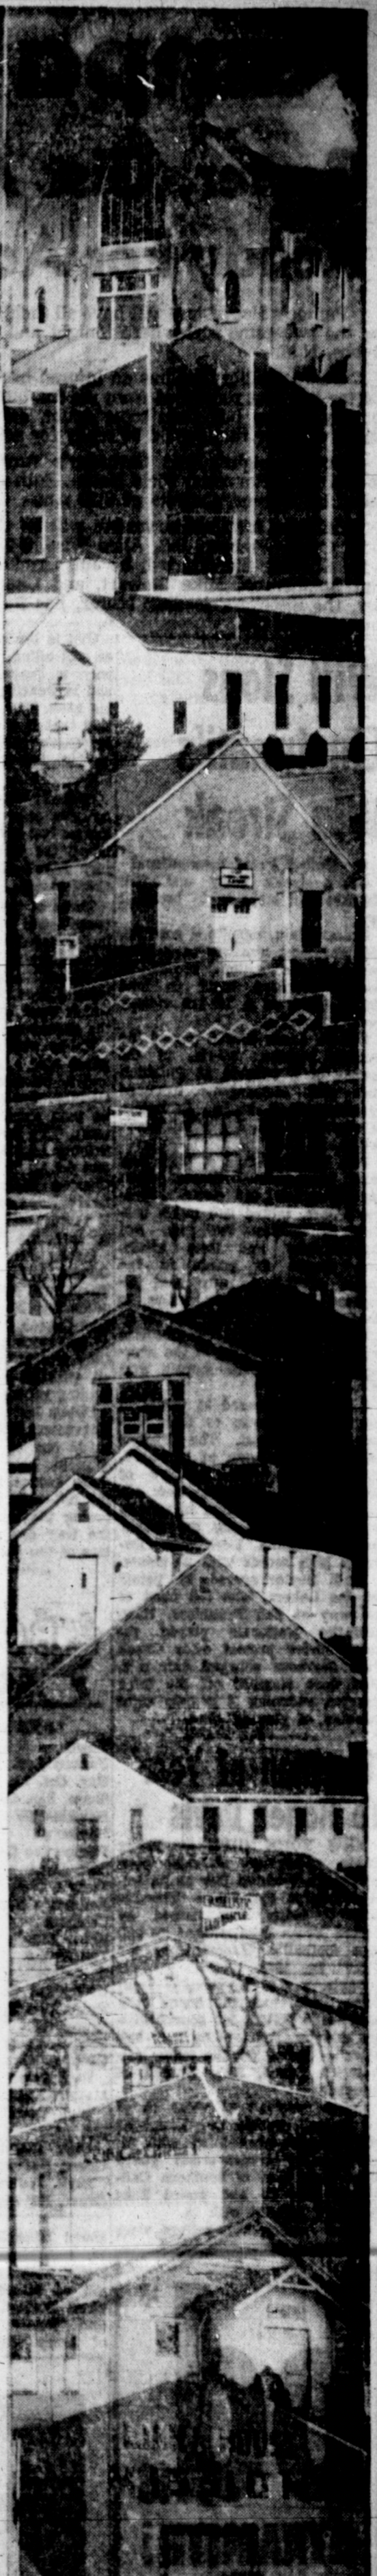

WOULD YOU LIKE TO BE A PILGRIM?

It's almost Christmas time. A season for millions of people to pause, worship the birth of Christ, and re-join as families. For centuries the name Pilgrim has been given to those who journey to some shrine, or some church, as an act of devotion to God.

On Sunday, December 20th, Pampa's Churches will open their doors, their members will open their hearts, and Christmas Week will open with a warm welcome to every person who will join the Pampa Pilgrimage. Services will begin in each Church at 6 PM. Schedule your family to be at home by 5 PM on the 20th. Drive, or walk to the nearest gathering point to either your church or your home, as you choose. About 5:15 PM, the Pilgrimage will begin. From five major centers, Pampa's families will walk toward the Church of their own choosing. Details of gathering points, schedule and Pilgrimage routes will be given in many ways. This newspaper will carry them, a printed brochure will be distributed through Churches and Schools, and frequent announcements will be made through Clubs, classes and groups.

The Youth of Pampa have one major item on their "I Want" list this Christmas. They want YOU and your family to offer this gift to Christ, and to God. The Gift of your presence in the mass of Pilgrims, and in the congregation of your choice, will be the best of all Christmas gifts. Save your Sunday evening, December 20th, for a Pilgrimage with your family, your neighbors and your friends. We CAN fill and overflow every church in Pampa, if we care enough.

IN A CLINCH — James Harrigan, left, of Fort Sill ties up Norman Rexroat of Pampa, as Rexroat attempts to move in and land some punches in their middleweight bout Thursday. This was a common occurrence during the fight, as Harrigan repeatedly went into clinches to keep Rexroat from pressing his attack. Rexroat won a one-sided decision. (Daily News Photo)

Jerry Lucas passed the acid test—and now there's no doubt that Ohio State will be in the running for the national basketball championship all the way.

The heralded 6-9 sophomore proved his ability in out-dueling 6-10 Bob Nordmann Thursday night and leading Ohio State to an 81-74 victory over St. Louis.

It was the fifth straight win for third-ranked Ohio State and the first loss for seventh-ranked St. Louis.

Lucas won his personal duel with the rival giant easily. He poured in 13 field goals and four free throws for 30 points while holding Nordmann to seven field goals and three free throws for 17.

Larry Seigfried shared honors with Lucas by scoring 22 points while George Dunkel had 20 and Pete McCaffery 18 for St. Louis. Georgia Tech remained unbeaten with a 0-64 triumph over South Carolina, North Texas State shaded Hardin-Simmons, 92-89, and Western Kentucky whipped Seton Hall, 78-69. Detroit romped over Iowa College, 85-67. Vanderbilt topped Rice, 82-79, and Wake Forest beat Davidson, 90-55, in other top games.

Georgia Tech hit on 50 per cent of its shots to score its fifth straight win of the season and 12th in a row over a two-season span. Dave Kenton scored 21 points for Georgia Tech while Art Whisnant tallied 23 for South Carolina.

Jim Mudd, a 6-7 forward who was second to Oscar Robertson in the Missouri Valley scoring race last season, scored 24 points in North Texas State's win but it wasn't until Darrell Reitzel netted two free throws in the final minute that the Texans sewed up the game.

Dave Debuschere, a 6-5, 225-pounder, connected for 24 points as Detroit scored its third straight win before about 6,000 at New York's Madison Square Garden. Detroit led, 44-31, at halftime and Iowa never got closer than nine points during the second half. Western Kentucky, playing the second game on the Garden card, remained unbeaten as Al Ellison poured in 36 points. Ellison broke the game wide open with seven straight points in the second half. The Hilltoppers led, 33-30, at halftime.

Bill Depp scored 20 points and Bobby Bland 18 to lead Vanderbilt. Wake Forest rolled to a 51-24 halftime lead against Davidson and never was threatened thereafter. Louisville downed Eastern Kentucky, 75-67, and Centenary upset Miami, 66-57, as Jack Crawford scored 20 points and grabbed 15 rebounds.

Delaware, beaten only by national small college champion Bowling Green in nine games, will be receiving the cup for the first time.

Pampa Boxers Capture Six Of Eight From Fort Sill

Pampa's boxers won six of eight fights from Fort Sill, Okla., before an overflow crowd Thursday night at the Optimist Boys Club. Pampa also won two fights with Lefors.

Featherweight Dickie James and welterweight Snider led Pampa to victory with an impressive TKO victory and a knockout.

James, fighting one of the best fights of a career which covers more than 100 bouts, punched his way to a technical knockout over William Gaukel of Fort Sill in 1:20 of the third round.

James completely outclassed his opponent, hitting him hard with straight, jolting right and left jabs and a few uppercuts. Referee Cliff Dunham stopped the bout in the final round as Gaukel was taking a particularly bad beating.

The Pampa featherweight has long had a reputation as a good boxer, but has seldom shown as much punching power as he did in Thursday's bout.

Jim Snider kept the knockout honors in the family for the second week, when he laid John Shadrock of Fort Sill out at 1:24 of the second round, in a welterweight bout. Snider knocked Shadrock out with a vicious right uppercut, for a quick finish to a fight that had been fairly even.

Jim's brother, Charles, wasn't as fortunate. Charles, who had scored a knockout last week, lost a decision to a counter-punching welterweight, Len Womack of Fort Sill. Snider, although he was the aggressor all the way, couldn't land any really damaging blows until near the end of the third round, when they were too late to change the outcome.

Gary Willis, in his first appearance of the year, looked good in winning a decision over Joe Freeman, a tough Fort Sill colored fighter. Willis landed many solid left and right hooks, but Freeman was never really hurt. Freeman also landed several punches, and Willis took these in his stride.

Middleweight Norman Rexroat looked like the free-swinging Rexroat of last year, in taking a lopsided decision over Joe Harrigan of Fort Sill. Rexroat threw caution to the winds and moved in slugging at every opportunity. He was unable to score a knockout or TKO only because Harrigan, instead of attempting to launch some kind of attack of his own, concentrated only on tying up Rexroat.

In other fights between Pampa and Fort Sill, Pampa's Dickie Willis defeated welterweight Milton Timms; Fort Sill's Lewis Bell defeated Pampa welterweight Jesse Ring, and Pampa 126-pounder Dennis Combs defeated Steve White of Fort Sill.

Willis and Ring both were fighting their first match of the year. Ring has been coaching the Pampa boxers this year.

Bruce Topper of Pampa pulled one of the big surprises of the night when he scored a third round TKO over Paul Malone of Lefors, in 1:25. This was the first time that Topper, a novice, had fought for the Boys Club.

In the other Pampa-Lefors bout, Corky Morse of Pampa won an action-packed decision over Gene Shipman of Lefors. Both boys slugged it out toe-to-toe most of the way, with Morse getting the best of it.

The next bout for Pampa's fighters will be here Dec. 19 against the University of Corpus Christi. Bobby Wilhelm, Pampa's former state welterweight champ, will fight for Corpus Christi against Amarillo's Manny Perez. Advance ringside tickets for the Corpus Christi fights are being sold by the Optimist Club.

Not For Sentiment

(We begin here a series of editorials inspired by comments submitted by a friendly reader. The series deals with our editorial policy respecting the government schools. Toward the close of 1958 we published two editorials in series, both on the subject of education. The first one was called "Private Education" and dealt with what we consider to be a basic fact, namely, that government, as an agency of force and violence, should have nothing to do with education any more than it should have something to do with religion. The second of the series was called "Underground Education" and dealt with the fact that being noted rather widely that in the South, where compulsory integration had been ordered, a sort of surreptitious schooling was underway. Children were being gathered into basements and other unlikely places, there to receive the rudiments of their training. Again, as in the first editorial, we praised the concept of private and independent instruction, showing what it could and would do, and at the same time criticizing the use of compulsion and violence in schools. To our amazement, a friendly reader liked the second effort although the first one came in for critical comment. Of "Underground Education" the comment was: "Excellent treatment of PRINCIPLE!" Underscored in the original copy were these two sentences: "So private education, unpretentious and plain, is now operating in the Southland, like an underground movement," and, "Isn't it strange that the catcombs have come again and in this country?" Presumably both of these underscored passages received the applause of our friend. But the comments respecting "Private Education," the first editorial, are as follows: "Just because the teachers and the parents and the children do NOT UNDERSTAND THE PRINCIPLES OF TRUE EDUCATION, is that sufficient reason to let them, individually and collectively including the citizenry—make the public schools run for cover under the admission that private schools can do a better job? NO! The public schools should so improve themselves that THEY do the better job! Otherwise the government efforts go down in defeat. Since schools (government?)

Who Would Pay?

(We are in the midst of discussing our editorial policy on schools with a friendly reader who has benefited us greatly by commenting on a number of our prior editorials.) Our friendly reader, in response to an editorial of ours which appeared in May of this year, comes right into focus with what we believe has been, and perhaps remains, the principal policy of education respecting our policy on education. The editorial was called "Steps to Learning." We received a number of favorable comments on this particular article, which was later picked up and produced in a national journal (The Freeman). The particular phrase which came to our friendly reader's attention, and hence to our own, is this: "We will reply that education should be paid for by those who receive the education or by those who are responsible for the ones to be educated." This part is underscored. But there follows a pertinent observation which relates to the subject at hand and which we think should also have been underscored: "Additionally, education could be (and is) supported voluntarily by those persons of means who wish to put their money to work in this avenue. This would entail the placing of education in the free (and unsubsidized) — by compulsive means market, so that those to be educated become customers in the freest and most noble usage of the word." To the underscored sentence, our reader has commented as follows: "Does this not mean that the author would eliminate 'government schools' for those who are unable to pay for 'education' in private schools? Think how many in this category would have been denied 'education' under such a plan. Again, I admit I do NOT have a comprehensive idea of the

SIX HARMFUL BELIEFS ABOUT MONEY

In the last issue I listed six harmful beliefs that Frederick Nyemeyer, in his magazine "First Principles in Morality and Economics," contends cause much trouble, not only in money, but our human relations.

One of the beliefs is that we should try to make money more efficient. He relates, under the heading of "Efficiency in The Use of Money—By A Banker, And By His Defalcating Teller," the following:

"Maybe excessive attention to the idea of efficiency in the use of money has done as much damage to monetary theory and monetary practice as any other factor."

"In the example presented in the previous issue depositors put $500,000 into your bank, into checking accounts. You discovered that some of this money was always 'idle,' resting in one or another of the depositors' accounts. The arbitrary figure used in the illustration was $300,000.

"And what did you as banker do? You said to yourself 'That money is always there. It is never removed. It is idle. I will put it to work by loaning it to A and B and C, etc.'"

"Your argument was one of 'money efficiency.' The proposition was that money should not be employed to the maximum; 'profit' from the use of that money; and you justify your taking that profit for yourself originally (although eventually you cannot retain it), on the ground of efficiency, namely, money ought to be employed to the maximum; this money is not being used; therefore, you will put it to work."

"The law of the land has sanctioned that efficiency argument. You as a banker are permitted to loan to third parties your depositors' money. There are certain restrictions which are imposed upon you to reduce the hazard of the operation, but the privilege exists and is assiduously exercised by bankers."

"Suppose that you have a big bank and many tellers. Suppose one of your tellers discovers that the account of a certain depositor always carries large balances, but that the owner apparently does not check his exact balance situation except at long intervals and maybe almost never. He probably has, for many years, found the bank to be more correct than his own additions and subtractions on his checkbook stubs. And so your teller takes out $10,000 of unused funds."

"If you as owner of the bank may use — loan out — unused funds of depositors, why should not this poor teller put $10,000 to work to buy a house for himself? Suppose he does buy a house, and uses the defalcated $10,000 for the down payment, and suppose that he has a firm intention to repay. He may say to himself: 'I will work and save and pay off $2,000 a year. My relatives will contribute several thousand dollars to the house. I will eventually repay the whole sum. I am only temporarily using unused money."

"But if the bank's own auditor or if the public bank examiner discovers what has happened, the poor teller will go to jail for having tried to be efficient in the use of money."

"There is something wrong with any law that says a banker may loan unused funds but that his teller may not. Of course, the two cases are not exactly parallel, but the principle of using unused depositors' funds is parallel."

The Conflict Between Efficiency In The Use Of Money And The Demand For Money

"The term demand for money has been defined previously, but the term continues to be elusive to most people and to have several meanings. Two common meanings are: (1) The demand for money for the transaction of regular purchases. If that meaning is accepted, then demand for money is merely a disguised and indirect demand for goods. Your demand is not a demand for money, but for the things you wish to buy and consume or in which you wish to invest."

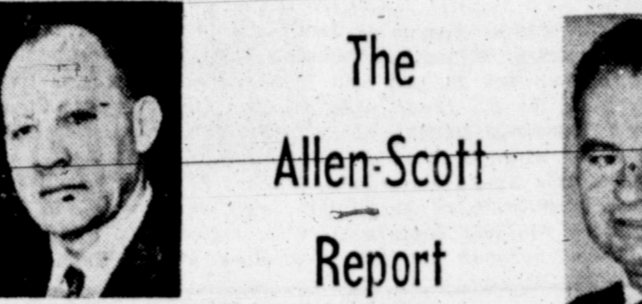

"The real demand for money does not consist in the demand to have money for the transaction of regular purchases. If that meaning is accepted, then demand for money is merely a disguised and indirect demand for goods. Your demand is not a demand for money, but for the things you wish to buy and consume or in which you wish to invest."

"The real demand for money for a store of money, or a stock of money on which you can rely in emergencies, and which you need in order not to be embarrassed financially in your regular transactions. Your demand for money is evidenced by the money that you carefully keep on hand in one form or another, maybe in the form of cash in pocket, or amounts in checking accounts."

"There is a conflict between demand for money, which is the true concept and (2) the idea of efficiency in the use of money in the form of loaning unused checking balances to borrowers. What real sense can there be in your having a checking account at your bank (which evidences your demand for money), and which is really your stock or your reserve that your judgment tells you that you need, but your banker proposes to loan out that money to a borrower who will not be able to repay, say, in less than 60 or 90 days, or a half year, or a year, or even longer?"

"The banker may be 'efficient' in using your 'idle' funds in his bank, but he has genuinely undervalued your cash position. His hope is that if you suddenly demand your money somebody else will put it in a comparable amount. The phenomenon, demand for money, really does not tolerate a banker loaning out any part of the funds of depositors on time. The reason is that the depositors understand that they can get their deposit money on demand, but their banker has loaned out the money on time. There is here an innate contradiction."

INDIA TO DISCUSS PLANS WITH EISENHOWER TO COUNTER REDS' TRIPLE AGGRESSION

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower already knows the three main points that Prime Minister Nehru will stress in discussing Red China's ominous aggression on India's remote northern border. This significant advance information is as follows: The Communists' border attacks are the "first overt manifestations" of a struggle of many years duration in which India will be "aggressively challenged in three crucial fields" — military, industrial and trade.

To meet this fateful three-pronged assault, India proposes to immediately increase its armed forces, speed up industrialization, and populate the now — virtually empty border regions, building roads, railways and airfields.

For these urgent purposes, India will need and seek from the U.S. and other Western countries considerable additional economic aid, particularly loans and credits. That will be over and above the assistance India already has obtained for its new five-year plan which gets underway in 1960.

These important background details come direct from Nehru, and were imparted to the President shortly before he left Washington on his historic goodwill trip. They are based on a report cabled to the State Department by Senator Albert Gore (D., Tenn.), member of the Foreign Relations Committee, following a three-hour talk with the Indian Prime Minister.

In only one respect, Nehru told Gore, were Red China's border attacks unexpected — their timing. "I have always been aware that a powerful and forcefully ruled China would pose serious threats for India," said Nehru. "But I underestimated the speed with which they would be executed."

"The real demand for money does not consist in the demand to have money for the transaction of regular purchases. If that meaning is accepted, then demand for money is merely a disguised and indirect demand for goods. Your demand is not a demand for money, but for the things you wish to buy and consume or in which you wish to invest."

Melee Shapes Up Over Aid To Education

"Education U.S.A." By LOUIS CASSELLS United Press International

A battle royal over federal aid to education is in prospect when congress convenes next month. "Battle royal" is the prizefight promoter's term for a wild melee in which there are not just two but several combatants in the ring at once.

That is an accurate description of the legislative fight that's shaping up over school aid.

In one corner, and already pawing the canvas for action, is the (NEA) which represents 700,000 school teachers, principals, superintendents and others professionally involved in education.

The NEA has pledged itself to an all-out, "no compromise" fight for passage of the so-called Murray-Metcalf Bill, which was approved last year by the House Education and Labor Committee.

The Murray-Metcalf Bill would string-free federal grants to states on the basis of $25 per school child per year. The money could be used at each state's discretion for teachers' salaries or classroom construction. This legislation would cost about $1,100,000,000 a year, and is envisioned as a permanent program of federal sharing in school costs.

The NEA says nothing less than this will relieve the "worsening financial crisis" which confronts America's public schools. It argues that local property taxation — the main support of school finances at present — and state aid both have been pressed close to the feasible limits in many areas, and that continuing federal aid is the only answer to the steadily-climbing cost of educating our ever-growing population of young people.

In another corner of the legislative ring, and equally adamant against compromise, is the Eisenhower administration. It favors a "build now, pay later" bill under which the federal government would help to underwrite the cost of debt service on long-term school construction bonds. The aid would be available only to "needy" school districts, and would be restricted to classroom years. The cost to the federal treasury, estimated at $600,000,000, would be spread over about 20 years.

Although no congressional committee has endorsed this proposal, the administration says a debt service bill is the only kind the President will sign.

Murderer Under New Death Sentence

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A Negro whose first death sentence was revoked on grounds Negroes were systematically excluded from his trial jury was under a new death sentence today.

Another all-white jury Wednesday night found Robert Lee Goldsby, 33, guilty of murdering a white woman.

Circuit Judge Henry Lee Rodgers, who sentenced Goldsby to die five years ago for the same crime, again passed the death sentence — mandatory if the jury fails to recommend mercy.

Goldsby, who has been on death row since 1954, showed no emotion when Rodgers said: "I sentence you to die in the gas chamber Jan. 22." An appeal will delay the execution.
