Death Strikes Over Snow-Covered Highways Of Oklahoma

Three Killed, Many Persons Said Injured

Scores Of Minor Collisions Are Reported In Neighbor State As Winter Pays Call Over Wide Area

Texas Gets Snow

White Mantle And Cold Mist Keep Lone Star State In Unsettled Condition; Mercury Drops Fast

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 28. — Death struck three times on icy, snow-covered Oklahoma highways Saturday, many persons were injured in automobile accidents and there were scores of minor collisions as the season's first severe storm gripped the state.

Weatherman Harry Wahlgren predicted the snowfall which had covered most of Oklahoma Saturday night with a white blanket ranging from a thin covering to six inches in depth, would continue until early Sunday.

Girl Is Victim

Wanda Lee Chaddick, 15, of Tulsa, was killed one half mile north of Calvin when her automobile skidded and overturned.

Clyde Broaddus, 26, a Holdenville bread truck driver, died in a Holdenville hospital of injuries received Friday night in a double crash with a truck and a bus. The accident occurred 12 miles southeast of Holdenville.

Mrs. S. G. Baker, 64, of Shidler, died Saturday at Guthrie of injuries received when a Michigan car skidded in front of her automobile Friday near Oalando. The name of the Michigan motorist was not reported to officers. He was not held.

First Snow Of Season For Parts Of Texas

(By The Associated Press)

Snow and cold mist in North Texas and scattered rains elsewhere kept the state in an unsettled condition Saturday.

The first snow at Quanah this winter started falling after noon. The temperature was moderate, however, and most of it melted as it fell.

Light Snow At Amarillo

Amarillo reported light snow falling in many other parts of the Panhandle. There was heavy mist from Childress south to Wichita Falls.

The Santa Fe railroad had an inch and a half of snow on the ground along its line from Canadian to Wynoka, Okla., and from Spearman to Shattuck, Okla.

Snow began to fall intermittently at Amarillo this morning but it

Unmasked Bandit Is Being Sought

ROUNDUP, Hockley county, Dec. 28. (Special)—An unmasked bandit who held up and robbed L. W. Hodge here at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon tonight was sought by South Plains officers.

Driving a 1934 model Ford V-8 tudor sedan, with New Mexico license plates turned down, the man stopped at Hodge's service station and grocery for gasoline and oil. He pumped 8 1-2 gallons of gasoline into the car's tank, added a quart of oil to the crankcase, and then drew a gun as Hodge was estimating the prices.

Hodge said the gunman, who was about 25 years old, ordered him to "stick 'em up." When the store owner hesitated, the gunman threatened to shoot. Hodge then was forced to give $24 from a cash drawer to the bandit.

Mrs. Hodge and the 8-year-old daughter of the couple, Stella Lee, were present, but they were not threatened.

The bandit drove eastward, with Hodge following almost immediately. The grocer, however, lost the trail northeast of Roundup.

Hodge said his assailant was wearing a brown suit and a black overcoat.

Pierre Laval Retains Post After Ballot

French Premier Escapes Political Decapitation By Shaky Victory On Promise To Uphold League Of Nations

(By The Associated Press)

PARIS, Dec. 28—Premier Pierre Laval escaped political decapitation by a shaky victory in the chamber of deputies tonight on a promise to "uphold the League of Nations" in the Italo-Ethiopian war.

Two votes of confidence were given the worried premier-statesman in one of the most critical periods of his long career. The first was 296 to 276 and the second 304 to 262.

Crisis Still Ahead

So narrow were these margins on a question of foreign policy that many deputies predicted a cabinet crisis still was ahead.

The votes ended two days of stormy and disorderly debate. Leftists bitterly assailed Laval's policies as pro-Italian and particularly his co-authorship of the now dead Anglo-French peace plan.

But Laval escaped the fate which overcame the other sponsor of the plan, Sir Samuel Hoare, who was forced to resign as Great Britain's foreign secretary.

The premier, in a speech liberally filled with the "danger of war with Italy" if he were overthrown, convinced the deputies to let him remain in office—at least until the budget is voted next week.

Guards On Duty

Heavy reinforcements of mobile guards on duty outside the old Bourbon palace in which the deputies meet were alert against possible disorders but were not called into action.

The whole debate which found deputies near blows at times, was

Mauna Loa Answers Bombing Attack With Blast Of Fire

HILO, Hawaii, Dec. 28 (AP)—Mauna Loa volcano answered an aerial bombing attack tonight with a terrific blast of fire and a new advance of red hot lava toward Hilo's water reservoirs.

It was as if the ancient volcano, once worshipped by natives, were aroused by the 20 big bombs dropped by the fliers seeking to divert the lava flow away from Hilo.

Flames, accompanied by a deafening roar, shot high in the most spectacular display along Mauna Loa's historic slopes since the current eruption started November 21.

GREENVILLE, Pa., Dec. 28 (AP) — The engineer of a Bessemer and Lake Erie train saw the danger signal set against him and brought his train to a stop.

He waited but the signal never changed.

Members of the crew stomped through the heavy snow to the telegraph tower ahead.

They found the operator, Edward T. Lynch, 42, dead at his post.

DIES OF INJURIES

TEMPLE, Dec. 28. (AP)—Neal Bassel, assistant district attorney, died today of injuries received when his automobile crashed into a signal light standard at a street crossing Christmas eve. Bassel had planned to be a candidate for the legislature in the spring.

Reorganization Of System In Area Will Become Effective Wednesday; Relief Rolls Are To Be Slashed

WITH 460 employables neither working nor requisitioned for projects in the 15 counties of Lubbock district of Works Progress administration, direct relief except for some unemployables will end Tuesday midnight.

The district office here Saturday afternoon reported to state headquarters that 2,209 persons in the 15 counties were working on WPA projects and that 1,535 other persons had been requisitioned for other projects.

Others Are Employed

WPA projects also are employing 99 non-relief workers, said Dr. I. E. Barr, assistant district director.

Effective Wednesday, a reorganization of the relief system will be begun.

Miss Thalia Parker, who has been in the relief office here, will become case supervisor and administrator of district 18, which will coincide with the WPA district. She will be stationed in Plainview. A district director of surplus commodities, to be stationed here, will be appointed.

Rolls To Be Cut

In addition to stopping direct relief, both in the form of money and surplus commodities, to all employables, others now considered unemployables will be cut off relief rolls Tuesday.

Only the following classes of unemployables will be eligible for relief Wednesday: Those whose medical rating is in class D, who are unable to do a day's work because of disease ailments; those obviously unable to work because of physical handicaps; widows with dependent children whom they cannot leave because of the necessity of caring for them; those unable to leave their homes because other members of the family suffer permanent ailments or require constant attention.

The aid will be in semi-monthly payments of cash, to be forwarded from Austin headquarters, and surplus commodities to be received once a month from commodity quarters, and to be given at a time and place specified to the eligible clients.

Five Are Killed By Escaping Gas

PATCHOGUE, N. Y., Dec. 28. (AP) —Escaping coal gas today killed the whole family of Robert T. Jerrell. A fellow worker sent to arouse Jerrell when he failed to report at his office found the parents and three children dead.

Arthur Beer, who found the bodies, said Jerrell, 33, lay dead in the cellar before the furnace. The furnace door had been blown off by the escaping gas, which also wrecked a chimney flue.

Mrs. Jerrell, 27, was dead on the floor near the crib of her two sons, William, 4, and Allen, 2, indicating she had tried to reach a window. Robert, jr., 8, was dead in his bed.

One Youth Killed, Another Seriously Hurt In Accident

ALTO, Texas, Dec. 28 (AP)—Harland Lindsey, 13, was killed and his cousin, Robert Ray Lindsey, 12, was critically injured today when a small pickup truck skidded on a wet street here and threw them out.

Plenty Of Cash Found In Texas

DALLAS, Dec. 28. (AP)—Charley Lockhart, state treasurer, said here today that Texas has more cash on hand than at any time in the state's history.

Lockhart, en route for the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, said the state has about $36,000,000 on hand, "or enough cash to pay off everything Texas owes, including the $16,000,000 deficit and have a little left over."

He added that this is impossible under the law, "and most of the funds will be transferred to the various accounts shortly." Lockhart announced he would seek re-election. He is serving his third term.

Prison Doors Open Up For 837 Convicts

Governor Allred Issues Small Number Of Clemency Proclamations During Year As Compared To Others

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 28 — Executive clemency opened prison doors for 837 convicts in the first year of Governor Allred's term, a small number compared with preceding years.

A compilation by the secretary of state's office today listed 1,029 clemency proclamations issued since Jan. 16. Governor Allred revoked 103 clemencies while other acts did not mean freedom for convicts.

Ferguson Toll Heavy

Former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson granted 5,142 clemencies in her second term. Former Governor R. S. Sterling, who preceded Mrs. Ferguson, granted 5,328.

A comparison of clemencies by types showed a sharp difference. Governor Allred and Sterling favored general paroles while Mrs. Ferguson issued more conditional pardons than any other type of clemency.

A comparative resume for corresponding periods in 1934 and 1935 showed Governor Allred released 765, of which 589 received general paroles, 45, conditional pardons, 19 full pardons, and 112 furloughs. In a corresponding period, Mrs. Ferguson freed 1,845, of which 408 received general paroles, 592 conditional pardons, 223 full pardons and 622 furloughs.

Comic Opera Air Around Texas Liquor In Climax

(By The Associated Press)

DALLAS, Dec. 28.—The Dallas News says "the comic opera air surrounding the prescription phase of the Texas liquor law reached its merry climax in Dallas Saturday when a night club, located in a dry precinct, applied for and received a drug store medicinal prescription liquor permit."

The story says patrons of the club on the Fort Worth pike were freely sold liquors tonight by the "drug store department" amid gay music and revelry.

Each customer's name was duly written into a prescription bearing the signature of a physician.

Cost of the permit was $50 as compared to $500 for either a package store or medicinal permit in wet territory. Sales after midnight and on Sunday, forbidden to package stores, are allowed medicinal permit holders on account of the emergency nature of their business. Holder of such a permit also may sell beer and wine on the County Draws Over Million Federal Cash

Total Income Of Lubbock's Farmers Will Be Boosted To Near $5,000,000 During The Past Year

Figures Listed

Largest Item In Farm Income Is Cotton; Annual Report Of County Agent Jobson Is Announced Saturday

BY J. SAM LEWIS
Avalanche-Journal Staff Writer

MORE than one million dollars was poured into the pockets of Lubbock county during 1935 by the federal government, through AAA agencies, the annual report of County Agent C. C. Jobson shows.

This sum, in addition to the cash crops of the county, will probably boost the total income of farmers to between $4,500,000 and $5,000,000.

Cotton Is Largest

Largest item in the farm income of the county, of course, is cotton. Of the more than a million dollars AAA payments, $962,419.91 came from cotton; the remainder from wheat, corn-hog and peanuts.

Nearly half of the cotton income was from pooled cotton exemption certificates. This amounted to $482,304.89. The remainder, $500,115.52, was from rental and parity payments. Payments were under 2,465 acreage reduction contracts, covering rental to the federal government of 74,515 acres.

Under 83 wheat acreage contracts, payments of $23,313.26 were made. These contracts covered 1,388 acres leased to the government, on which no wheat was raised.

Corn-Hog Payments

Corn-hog payments were $21,387 on 512 contracts. There were 247.7 acres of corn leased to the government under these contracts; the remainder of the payments being on non-production of hogs.

Peanut payments on five contracts amounted to $32.32. There were 28.3 acres. Through an error in compiling totals in either Washington or College Station, the total payments should have been larger.

Total figures show 3,065 contracts were in effect for the four crops; 76,179 acres were covered by these contracts and taken out of production and payments amounted to $1,027,152.49.

With over 45,000 bales of cotton ginned up to December 21, it was indicated by cotton men and farmers the total of the county for the season will approximate 50,000 bales. Picking, or more correctly sledding of bollies is under way and if the next two months will yield as well as the past few weeks in the number of bales of this type of cotton,

Voters Are Really Split Over Liquor

AUSTIN, Dec. 28. (AP)—Voters of Travis county justice precinct 5 really are split over the liquor question.

The precinct voted yesterday in a local option election upon the sale of intoxicating liquor.

The result was a 40 to 40 tie.

Neither the wets nor the drys know who came out the better in the tie vote. Three of the communities in the precinct were wet before adoption of state prohibition and thus remain so under the present liquor law. The other two communities were dry and by the same law remain dry.

Another local option election in the precinct cannot be held for a year under Texas' liquor control act.

Congressman Declares That War Between United States And Japan Is Unthinkable; Has Visited Orient

War between the United States and Japan is "unthinkable," in the opinion of Congressman George Mahon, Colorado, who returned ten days ago from a trip to the Orient, including Japan, China and the Philippines. "The possibility of war between us and Japan is very remote, in my opinion," he declared. He spent Saturday in Lubbock, meeting friends and conferring with many persons.

Japan is at present in more or less of a state of war with Russia and has trouble with China. It would be folly for her to start a war with the United States. The congressman believes the military party of that nation realizes that.

Guest Of Philippines

Mr. Mahon, member of the insular committee of the house of representatives, was a guest of the new Philippine government with other committee members and several high government officials, on the trip. They left the United States the middle of October and returned the middle of December, visiting about two weeks in the islands, a week in China and a week in Japan.

"I was greatly impressed with the tremendous resources of the islands," he said when asked what had impressed him most on the trip. "It is a wonderful country. Their biggest crops are sugar cane and cocoanut oil. Of course they have other crops."

Local Stores To Be Moved

January Will Be Moving Time In Lubbock; New Business Being Located; Sites Are Being Announced

January will be moving time for some Lubbock merchants, and several others will go to other buildings in February.

Leasing of buildings at 1115, 1117, and 1119 Broadway to Sears Roebuck & Co. resulted in John Halsey Drug company, Meinecke Bros. hardware store, and Tech cafe seeking new locations.

Others Must Move

As those three businesses leased downtown floor space now occupied, other stores found it necessary to move.

Meinecke Bros. is moving to 1110 Broadway, now occupied by Wolff Bros. dry goods store. In turn, Wolff Bros. has leased the ready-to-wear space in Mrs. C. Abney's Apparel shop at 1206 Broadway. Mrs. Abney said last night she would continue to operate a millinery shop at that address.

John Halsey Drug company has leased the building at 1118 Broadway. Four different businesses, now in that space, have procured other quarters or are negotiating for them. S. W. Matheny, operator of the Yellowjacket news stand will take a part of the building at 1114 Texas avenue. Matheny said, L. A. Suttle, operator of a confectionery, and L. H. Youth Sought Publicity For Stage Career

Heir To Textile Fortune Now Being Held In Default Of $7,500 Bail On Charge Of Attempted Extortion

Plot Is Revealed

Officers Break Through Young Actor's Story To Gain Full Confession; Declares That He Needed Money

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The Milne "kidnap case" fell apart today, leaving drama-loving Caleb Milne, 4th, a prisoner in truth instead of fancy.

The 23-year-old heir to a textile fortune confessed today that his kidnaping two weeks ago was a hoax inspired by need of money and by a belief that resultant publicity would help him get a job on the stage.

To Face Charges

His confession, made to government agents, was followed within a few hours by his arraignment on a charge of attempted extortion. He was ordered held in default of $7,500 bail for a hearing January 9.

The specific charge was that Milne deposited "a letter in the United States mails demanding $20,000."

Milne, an amateur actor who wanted to act professionally and who also had the urge to write mystery stories—ambitions which met with little success—disappeared two weeks ago from the modest room he and a younger brother occupied here. He was found four days later lying bound and gagged and with one arm punctured as though by hypodermic needles—they were pin pricks, his confession explains— beside a roadway near Doylestown, Pa.

Plight Was Realistic

So realistic was young Milne's plight that he was taken hurriedly to a hospital and kept in seclusion for many hours, his condition being described as "too serious" to permit questioning.

A few hours after Milne was found, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the department of justice's bureau of investigation, announced at Washington:

"It is definitely a kidnaping."

The New York police, on the other hand, listed Milne merely as a "missing person." Their only action, following Milne's return, was to take his name off the list.

Slip In His Plot

The slip in young Milne's plot lay in the manner in which he was trussed. The federal agents spent several hours having the men who

University Of Texas Professor Charges AAA Forced Laborers Onto Relief

Heavy Losses Said Suffered

Restriction Program Is Termed Utter Failure; Says Plan Is Attempt To Redistribute Wealth By Cutting Supply

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Operation of the Agricultural Adjustment administration has forced thousands of laborers onto relief rolls in cotton growing states, Dr. A. B. Cox, noted agricultural economist told the American Statistical association here today.

The cotton acreage control program during the last three years has caused losses of $281,000,000 to unskilled laborers and tenant farmers, Dr. Cox, director of the bureau of business research of the University of Texas, said.

Slows Down Production

"Stripped of its frills," he charged, "the program is an attempt to bring about a redistribution of wealth by forcibly slowing down production."

Asserting that the cotton restriction program failed to recognize the "interdependent relations" among producers, laborers, processors, and merchants, Dr. Cox stated that "it is utter folly to think that the heavy relief loads in the south can be eliminated in the near future as long as cotton production is cut one-third."

"Government cotton control to raise price has been a tragedy of errors," he said. "The restriction program has been an utter failure as a scheme for raising cotton prices."

"The program is forcing the small cotton grower, tenant, and farm laborer into the lowest standard of living in their history, miserable as it has been.

"Before this do-less-and-get-more program was started the United States was producing from 57 to 60 per cent of the world's cotton. The United States now produces only 41 per cent of the world's cotton.

Lubbock Citizens Agree Young People Of Today Saying 'Bottoms Up' More Frequently Than Those 10 Years Ago

BY OPAL McMAHON
Avalanche-Journal Staff

ARE today's young people saying "bottoms up" more frequently than did those of teen-age a decade ago?

"I think we're holding our own," a 21-year-old girl nonchalantly answered.

Several Lubbock persons agreed with her. More young persons are drinking than 10 years ago, they said they believed, but they added they doubted that there are more drunkards now. Drinking, one person explained, "is more widely participated in but no more heavily individually."

Little Social Drinking

Ten years ago in Lubbock there was relatively little "social drinking." Many who "sip" wine, take gin cocktails or egg-nogs, and even some liquor "straight" look askance at "heavy drinking."

None of the persons to whom the question of increased drinking was put contended that today's 16-to-20-year-olds were angels who see a whisky bottle only when they rummage in the medicine chest.

A few of the opinions are given briefly:

From an optimistic but not a Pollyanna viewpoint I rather doubt that there is more drinking than there was 10 years ago. I suspect there are possibly more girls drinking. I've been watching young people a long, long time. The percentage of students drinking at Texas Technological college is no larger than it was 10 years ago—Dean James M. Gordon.

Had Conscience Then

I think they had a conscience on the matter then. They have no convictions now. It wasn't "just the thing to do" then—Rev. W. R. Vivrett, pastor of the First Christian church.

Those who drank then were looked down on. I think there are more people drinking now but they don't generally get as drunk. Maybe they've learned how to carry their liquor better, but they don't get in the gutter like they used to—George S. Berry, an attorney.

Ten years ago they thought it "smart" to drink. I don't think there are more drunkards now but that there is more drinking—Spencer A. Wells, store owner.

There is more social drinking now—Cecil Horne, head of the journalism department at Texas Technological college.

There is more drinking and more drunkenness. There has been a general letdown of morals—Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church.

Is Better Controlled

I think there is more drinking now but it is better controlled. There are more girls and young married couples drinking, but I know many who won't drink—Mrs. James G. Allen, college journalism instructor.

I'd say that they drink more from what I've seen at dances. When I was a kid we didn't know what a "pint" was. It seems now that girls have to have their own cigarets and boys have to carry flasks. I think it's just the trend of times. People don't look with disfavor on it like they used to, but I think many parents still disapprove—John D. Mitchell, bank executive.

As a whole, I think they do drink more. I don't think as many drink to excess as they formerly did. More girls drink. Boys didn't offer drinks to girls when I was a boy. I do not think drinking is as prevalent now as many believe. However, there is too much of it—it's just a fad, just as smoking is with girls. I don't think there's any cure in moral and religious teachings. I think young people must be taught the physical ill-effects—Dan W. Powers, sr., dean of Lubbock High school.

One 21-year-old girl declared that persons who serve cocktails now wouldn't have admitted they had wine on their fruit cakes 10 years ago.

One young man, declaring that he did not know "how much they drank 10 years ago," said frankly:

"I don't see how they could have drunk more than they do now. I have met only one boy since I've been in college who wouldn't drink or who had any moral scruples against it. I know a good many girls who won't drink, for they don't want to get a bad reputation for their clubs. However, I think there are more girls who will drink than who won't."

Another college boy said he believed youth drinks about as much today as 10 years ago.

State Health Unit Battles Mosquito

AUSTIN, Dec. 28 (AP)—The state department of health devoted much of its time in 1935 to battling mosquito, Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, said today.

The tiny insect instigated a malaria control program, operating chiefly in East Texas, and a malaria detection survey in which the blood of about 150,000 persons was examined.

In the malaria control program, carried on with a rural sanitation project involving expenditure of approximately $1,000,000, more than 1,000 miles of drainage ditches were constructed. Both state and federal health services cooperated.

Sanitation Improved

Other construction included 63,000 pit privies, 3,000 septic tanks, 82 miles of water mains and 85 miles of sewer mains. Twenty-five watersheds were sanitized.

Large quantities of rabies vaccine were manufactured under an appropriation by the legislature and distributed to indigents in the large population centers. Twenty-five lepers were transferred to the lepersorium in Louisiana.

Other Work Listed

Other work of the department included:

Obtained personnel and allotment through the C. W. A. for public health nursing activities in approximately 150 counties.

Prepared border sanitation program and obtained its adoption by the American Public Health association.

Obtained the immunization of 100,000 school children against diphtheria through promotional work of the nursing division and immunization of 250,000 adults against typhoid.

Made a stream polution survey for the national resources board and cooperated with the commander of the eighth corps area on sanitation of approximately 40 C. C. C. camps.

The capital of Baluchistan, Kalat, is considered the most picturesque fortress in the Baluch highlands.

Mr. Hogan Is Freed Of Twenty Years Stomach Suffering

Rheumatism Conquered Too; Had Been Unable To Work, Indigestion Would Double Him Up In Pain, Smothering Spells Terrible; Gly-Cas Unfailing

"If I had not learned of Gly-Cas when I did I do not know how I could have stood such suffering much longer," Mr. G. L. Hogan, 1312 East Sixth Street, Amarillo, Texas. "For twenty years before I knew of Gly-Cas my health had constantly caused me no end of trouble. My stomach would not allow me to eat the foods I wished. After eating, my heart often pained me and the attacks of indigestion and gas were so great that it would double me up on the floor for an hour at a time. Then too I would endure such severe smothering spells I would not see how I could stand them any longer, I could hardly get my breath at all. I was told by medical authorities that I had an ulcerated stomach and my entire system seemed to be out of order. Rheumatism caused me much suffering too. I could not walk good at times and it seemed I was filled with poisons. I tried many different kinds of medicines but got only temporary relief and continued to grow worse everyday. Finally I was unable to do my work and it was terribly discouraging in my condition to see what was ahead of me. But finally I began Gly-Cas and from the first few doses I realized I had at last found the one medicine I had been needing."

"At present I have only taken two boxes of Gly-Cas but already I am a new man," continued Mr. Hogan, "I have gained ten pounds and feel better than I have in twenty years. I now work everyday, eat and sleep good, freed of that horrible stomach suffering and that dreadful rheumatism has been relieved. It is wonderful that suffering people can get a medicine like Gly-Cas that is such a blessing to humanity. I hope that many people learn of Gly-Cas through my experience with this new medical discovery for I know they will regain their health as I have done."

Gly-Cas is sold by Mark Halsey Drug Co., 1219 Broadway, and by all leading drug stores in surrounding towns.

Gly-Cas $1.00 per box—6 boxes $5.00. Add 2c postage for each box ordered. Send money orders made payable Mark Halsey Drug Store. Don't send cash. Checks not accepted—No C. O. D. Mail Orders—Adv.

Proof Of War Attitude Held

North Carolina Man Declares He Has Proof That President Wilson Wanted To Go To War In 1916

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Dec. 28. (AP)—A. M. Arnett of the University of North Carolina said today he had proof that President Wilson wanted to enter the World war in 1916.

He gave his story to the American Historical association in convention here and announced that he would elaborate on it next summer in a book, with probable title, "We Kept Him (Wilson) Out Of War."

Conference Not A Myth

Arnett declared he has proved that a reported "sunrise conference" in April, 1916, between President Wilson, Claude Kitchin, Democratic floor leader of the house, and Representatives Clark and Flood was not a "myth—as thought by some historians—but an actual meeting at which Wilson expressed eagerness for immediate war only to be blocked temporarily by these three men."

The United States did not go to war until April of the next year.

The Carolinian cited as proof a letter written in 1921 by Kitchin to a friend, C. H. Claudy:

Anxious For War

"Champ Clark, Flood and myself did have, early one morning between 7 and 8 o'clock, such a conference with the president. At that time he seemed anixous to go to war with Germany immediately. This was in April, 1916.

"Champ Clark, Flood and myself have talked about the matter dozens of times and our recollection as to just what was said exactly coincides."

The historical association will meet next year at Providence, R. I., and in 1937 at Philadelphia.

Charles H. McIlwain of Harvard is the new president.

Ducks Are Given Chance To Rebuild Depleted Numbers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Although hunters call the recent duck season the poorest in years, biological survey experts rejoiced today that decreased killings gave the birds a chance to rebuild their depleted numbers.

"Although good in spots, the season as a whole has been poor from the hunters' viewpoint," said Fred Lincoln of the division of wild life research, "I would put the kill conservatively at 25 per cent under the annual average with perhaps 50 per cent as a maximum."

Hunters blamed the bad season on poor weather and stricter government regulations.

The duck conservationists, heartened by the general reports of a diminished kill, felt that a few more such seasons would restore the duck population to normal.

One bureau official said recommendations for next season were still unformulated. All hoped the regulations may be moderated quickly, but feel that, if the recent gains are to be preserved, the restrictions must be loosened gradually.

Amarillo Sandies Defeat Greenville, 13 To 7, To Retain Schoolboy Grid Title

Crown Is Back For District 1 To Wear Again

Sandies Score Early In Game But Need Another Touch To Break Tie After Lions Get Going In Second Period

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, Dec. 28.—Amarillo's rugged Golden Sandies cracked down with touchdowns in the first and second periods here today to win the Texas Interscholastic league football championship by defeating Greenville 13 to 7.

It made Amarillo's second consecutive schoolboy championship. An estimated crowd of 16,000 persons braved inclement weather to see Coach Blair Cherry's black and gold team strike a first half stride that ripped Greenville's defense; and then uncovered a second half defense that completely baffled Greenville's offense.

It's All Amarillo

This game today belonged all to Amarillo. Greenville, hampered by an injury to Bert Marshall, 1934

MUTUAL ADMIRATION

DALLAS, Dec. 28. (AP)—Head Coach Henry Frnka of the Greenville Lions, defeated today by the Amarillo Sandies, called the football contest tonight "the best schoolboy championship game in history."

"We lost to a well-coached eleven in what I consider the best state schoolboy championship game in history," he said. "Greenville played a good game, but was out-played by a better squad."

Blair Cherry, coach of the Sandies, declared:

"We met a fine team and are happy to have won the championship, for the second consecutive time. My boys turned out a fine performance, but I don't believe it was their best this season."

all-state quarterback, fought gamely, tried desperately and went down as stout fellows but unequal to the smashing Sandies.

Perhaps if Marshall had been perfectly conditioned the results would have been different, but the 138-pound signal barker and elusive ball carrier, punter and passer, was seriously handicapped even though he raced in and out of the game in commendable attempts to inspire his mates and turn the tide.

It wasn't a sensational variety of football. Amarillo contributed a powerhouse running attack that netted results. Once in front, the Sandies' husky forward wall came through with a defense that repeatedly stopped the Greenville ball luggers. Greenville swept the sky with last period passes, but Hinton constantly overshot his targets.

Ricketts Is Star

Elwin Ricketts, a 150-pound left tackle, took this game today and put it in his stardom sack. Ricketts tackled, blocked, opened holes and completely stole the show. He was everywhere all the time and it was amazing that he could carry on considering the bruising battle that was waged from single and double wing backs.

Robert Clesson, Amarillo's 175-pound fullback, was Amarillo's ball carrying terror. He found holes and raced through them and put the grand finale to a brilliant performance when he took the ball in the second period and from out of nowhere raced 70-yards to Greenville's 10-yard line to make the winning touchdown possible. Other Amarillo players starred, but to Ricketts and Clesson should go the double banquet and a couple of extra prunes.

McElreath Paces Lions

Outside of Marshall's game effort in spite of a badly injured shoulder, Greenville's standout players included "Tarzan" McElreath who got the pass for Greenville's only touchdown, and Ralph Hinton who turned in most of Greenville's line smacking, all of its passing and much of its punting.

Uncovering tremendous ground power, Amarillo swept to a first period touchdown on a 58-yard march that saw Fullback Clesson plunge across from Greenville's one yard line. Amarillo's powerhouse backs, Clesson, White, Denton and Rice ripped the Greenville forwards with off-tackle smacks and end skirts on this unconquerable drive. Smith kicked placement goal.

Greenville whipped back with an early second period touchdown to knot the score, 7 to 7. Whacking away with straight ground formations, Greenville's brilliant Bert Marshall, and Ralph Hinton cracked the Sandies' line until they reached first down on Amarillo's 23 yard line. After Hinton plunged one yard, he passed to W. A. (Tarzan) McElreath who caught the ball on Amarillo's goal line and stepped across for a touchdown. Marshall kicked the placement goal.

After the kick-off Amarillo pulled the "keep-it" play when Robert Clesson received the snap-back, faked to White and spun off tackle

Matadors Open Border League Season Friday

University Of New Mexico To Send Lobos Here For First Conference Series; 2 Games Booked For Tech Gym

Back from the Christmas holidays and rarin' to go are the Texas Tech Matador basketeers, due for four days of strenuous drills before starting their Border conference campaign here next Friday night against the University of New Mexico Lobos.

The teams will play a series of two games at the Tech gymnasium, beginning the first at 8 o'clock Friday, the second at the same time Saturday night.

For Fourth Title

For the Matadors, under a new coaching regime, it will be the beginning of a campaign for their fourth straight conference cage championship. They started the championship drive in 1933 under Coach Dell Morgan, successfully defended the title under the same mentor in 1934, and won it a third time last winter under Coach Virgil Ballard. Now Coach Berl Huffman, recruited from Lubbock High school last fall to teach freshman football, has inherited the job of protecting championships, and he admittedly faces a tough job.

From all reports, University of New Mexico is blessed with the return of a host of letter men and veterans. There are few of these at Texas Tech, yet in their debut week before last the Matador regulars showed surprising and pleasing form to crush a powerful semi-pro team, the Cosden Oilers of Big Spring.

The Tech cage squad returned to duty Friday, having jostled down Christmas dinners, and informed Huffman they were ready for work. They drilled twice yesterday, at nine o'clock in the morning and at 3 in the afternoon. They'll resume the two-a-day tomorrow, and keep it up Tuesday and Wednesday and possibly Thursday.

Four Intersectional Games On Rice Grid Card For '36; To Play Duquesne And LSU

HOUSTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Rice institute's football schedule for 1936 was completed today when Sam Houston Teachers college signed for a game on the lone open date, October 10. This contest will be played at Rice Field, giving the Owls six home games.

The program arranged by Dr. Gaylord Johnson, manager of men's athletics at the institute, is the most attractive in the history of the school. In addition to games with their six conference rivals, the Owls will tangle with Louisiana State, the University of Georgia, George Washington and Duquesne.

Rice invades Baton Rouge to meet L. S. U. for the second year in succession, but Dr. Johnson announced the Bengals will play here in 1937.

The schedule:

Sept. 26—L. S. U. at Baton Rouge.
Oct. 3—Duquesne at Pittsburgh.
Oct. 10—Sam Houston at Houston.
Oct. 17 — Georgia University at Athens, Ga.
Oct. 24 — Texas university at Houston.
Oct. 31—George Washington at Houston.
Nov. 7—Arkansas university at Little Rock.
Nov. 14—Texas A. and M. college at College Station.
Nov. 21 — Texas Christian at Houston.
Nov. 28—Baylor at Houston.
Dec. 5 — Southern Methodist at Houston.

Amarillo Badgers, Unbeaten But Without Title, Hang Up Suits And Call It A Season

AMARILLO, Dec. 28. (AP)—The Amarillo college Badgers, champions of the Texas Junior College Athletic association in 1934 and undefeated in conference competition this year, have turned in their football suits—minus the title.

The Badgers advanced through the semi-final round but were ruled out of the championship race by J. R. McLemore of Paris, president of the association. After Amarillo and the College of Marshall had battled to a 13-all tie, with first downs and 20-yard line penetrations also even, the Badgers won a coin toss for the right to meet Schreiner Institute for the title.

McLemore ruled that Amarillo had failed to negotiate for the game, and ordered Marshall to play in the "championship" game, which was won by Schreiner.

J. F. Mead, president of Amarillo college, protested McLemore's action and Amarillo then challenged the winner of the Schreiner-Marshall contest but McLemore ruled that that game ended the conference schedule.

The Badgers won eight games, tied one, and lost only to the freshmen team of Texas Technological college.

Ponies Ahead?
Matty Gives You The Idea Here

"Where's that Bobby Wilson? Come on, gang, get him into the open so he can go to town," thinks S. M. U. coach.

"There he goes! Watch out, Stanford! The swivel-hipped boy is away."

"Whoopee! 'At's showin' 'em, Bob. Never laid a hand on you. Oh, what a ball player!"

Gate Crashers Face Barriers

Rose Bowl Officials Seek To Keep Out Free Customers By Adding To Defense; Hundred Coppers To Be On Job

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP) — Rose Bowl officials have taken steps to build what they hope will be an impregnable defense against thousands of potential gate crashers expected for the New Year's game here between Stanford and Southern Methodist.

With hordes of disappointed ticket seekers expected to augment the usual forces who annually have broken down the fence or attempted to, three lines of defense will be erected in anticipation of trouble on Jan. 1.

The first is a new steel fence with rugged posts imbedded in concrete. Behind this will be 100 policemen. The reserve line will be composed of the Pasadena fire department, hose line hooked up and engines running.

Should the situation get out of hand of the constabulary, the rushing humanity will be met with a watery barrage of sufficient force to mow down the attackers at twenty paces.

Must Show Stub

In recent years small riots along the first line of defense have developed as the denied swept over or broke down the fence and dashed into the stadium.

But once they get in this year, they will be rushed right out again, since each one of the 84,700 odd seats is reserved and an occupant must produce his stub as evidence of his right to the space or be prepared for an unceremonious trip to the exits.

More than 500 ushers will take charge of this particular phase of the setup.

West Greets Southwest's Circus Again

Mustangs Back Near Scene Of Early Triumph

Team Works Out In Secrecy As Stanford Indians Practice Out In Public; Bell Loses Part Of Pessimism

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 28.—The circus came back to town today.

It was Southern Methodist's unbeaten football troupe, primed with an array of fine and fancy football acrobatics for the edification of Stanford and 85,000 odd fans who will fill the Rose Bowl to overflowing here New Year's Day.

Failing to live up to his reputation as a pessimist, Coach Matty Bell promised his galloping Mustangs would be in the best physical condition of the season.

"An Even Ball Game"

"We don't rate to be the favorites," Bell told Coach Claude (Tiny) Thornhill, mentor of the Western representatives, when they met the train, "and neither do you. It's a good even ball game."

Just to prove his point, Coach Bell took the Texas invaders over to Occidental college for a long secret workout which included dummy scrimmage against Stanford formations and an amazing array of offensive gestures.

The Indians, as usual worked behind unlocked gates, where all might see what there was to see. They, too, concentrated on defensive and finishing touches, including a great deal of pass throwing.

Mustangs May Gallop

From casual observation in the two camps there was a faint indication that the opposing teams might abandon their usual roles. Southern Methodist, famous for its aerial circus of forwards and laterals, showed a leaning toward running plays.

Stanford, primarily a hard driving power team, was throwing the ball around with Bobby Grayson and Bill Paulman on the chucking end. There was the possibility, of course, that these unusual tactics merely were moves designed to disguise their real intentions.

While the S. M. U. offensive plans were wrapped in the cloak of secrecy, there was no secret that Bobby Wilson, the great little halfback who ran wild against the University of California at Los Angeles November 11, would be given free rein in an effort to match the work of Grayson as a ground gainer.

Coach Bell promised that Harry Shufotd, fullback, would be ready to start after gracing the sidelines for more than a month because of a knee injury. And it was probable that Bob Finley, fine passer and punter who replaced Shuford, would play a halfback on the starting lineup with Wilson.

Doubt still shrouded the case of James (Monk) Moscrip, Stanford's fine end who is not completely recovered from a knee injury.

The intimation was that he would be held on the sidelines for field goal kicking purposes, if it developed that three points would mean the difference of victory and defeat.

The opposing games planned no workouts for tomorrow, and the drills Monday and Tuesday were expected to be confined to light tapering off work designed to put the finishing touches to offensive and defensive setups.

Morris White Likes Tulsa U.

SAFELY ENSCONCED at Tulsa university, apparently, is Morris White, one of the best footballers, if not THE best, ever to carry a pigskin over a Texas high school diamond. That's taking in a lot of territory, but Morris took in a lot of it every time he lugged the leather for Lubbock High school.

We missed connections with Morris while he was here a few days during the holidays, but from his friends and former coaches who saw him for brief moments we gather that the erstwhile Westerner is satisfied and fixed at the Tulsa school. This is disappointing to his friends here who thought mayhap Morris might exercise the privilege of changing his mind after one semester at Tulsa and return to Lubbock and Texas Tech.

But seventy-five bucks a month, plus board and lodging, plus a job and home for Papa White is out of Texas Tech's competitive bidding class, so Morris decides he likes it at Tulsa. We don't doubt it, and we don't blame him in the least. The Matador Club of Lubbock functions exceptionally well for a ten-year-old school, but it can not yet provide jobs for all the likely looking gridiron ivory that would like to come to Tech, must less salaries of that sort.

BERL HUFFMAN, who coached White at White Deer and at Lubbock High and who wanted him at Texas Tech with the Picadors last fall, said it was extremely doubtful that Morris would return to Lubbock. A former room mate of Morris here tells us the same thing. The room mate corresponds regularly with Morris at Tulsa, and letters this fall have implied that White is firmly attached to Gus Henderson's department.

As announced above, we do not blame White for taking advantage of the wonderful educational opportunity proffered by Tulsa U. But if Morris aspires to gridiron recognition as a collegian and if he aims to pursue the sport as a coach hereafter, it occurs to this observer that Texas Tech offers opportunity equal to, if not greater than, that submitted by the Oklahoma school.

In former years, Tulsa would have had the edge over Tech as a school where national prestige so far as individual performers was concerned, but that time has passed. Texas Tech, one of the most rapidly growing institutions of higher learning in the entire Southwest, grows athletically as well as academically. Its status among schools and teams of the first water has improved and increased surprisingly. Before long, even, we hope and expect that Tech will be able to offer jobs and salaries as attractive as any of 'em.

On the other hand, Tulsa, rich though it may be, has not progressed with anything like the astounding speed which has marked Tech's forward movement in the last few years. We are not attempting a missionary speech to Mr. White, but merely pointing out that Texas Tech has its advantages, though maybe not in financial proportions, along with other schools. Our personal best wishes attend White in all his endeavours, and to read the Tulsa papers this fall is to read considerable about the continued football progress of that White boy.

Battle Of The Bobs

GETTING ON to a more nationally intriguing subject, let us do our bit in the ballyhoo leading up to some of the various Bowl games which will occupy some of the leading football teams of the country and draw attention of all football fandom next Wednesday.

Of the Sun Bowl game at El Paso, little need be said. Hardin-Simmons is the aggressor, New Mexico State the fall guy. It won't be much of a game, and nobody much will care. If the competing teams are paid enough to defray actual expenses, they'll be lucky.

There is little interest in Florida's Orange Bowl game, in which Ole Miss and Catholic U. are matched. Two pretty

Stratton Gets Seaman Moran

New Year's Wrestling Bill Is To Be Featured By Strength Against Wild Art; Detton Returns After Rest

The old sailor-whaler from Uncle Sam's fleet and Arkansas' hills, former welterweight champion of the navy and as tough as any gob ever to climb a rope ladder, Sailor Moran, comes back to Promoter Sled Allen's Auditorium arena this week to do main event battle.

Moran, red-headed, vicious-tempered veteran of a thousand mat brawls, tackles the strong man, Walter Stratton of Des Moines, Iowa, in the feature match of Wednesday night's program. Stratton added much to his popularity and wrestling standing last week by whipping another bad sailor, Tex Watkins of Post, in the main go here. Moran did the same thing at Amarillo last week. So Moran and Stratton come together with victory feathers dangling fresh from their noggins.

Dory Meets Hallas

The New Year's program brings back Lubbock's best-liked performer, Dory Detton of Salt Lake City. Detton has been recuperating from illness and injuries for the past six weeks in Hot Springs, New Mexico, and this will be his first sally into ring combat in a longer time than that.

Detton draws an old meanie in his local comeback, jabbering Billy Hallas of El Paso, grizzled veteran of the old school who can dish out the rough stuff with the roughest of them.

A red-hot preliminary to start the show will be announced early this week, Promoter Allen said. He promises another well-balanced, entertaining card for his first show of 1936.

Levelland Cagers Turn Back Invaders From Arnett, Okla.

LEVELLAND, Dec. 28 (Special)—Coach Bill Stevens' Levelland High school Lobos successfully turned back the invasion of the barnstorming cagers from Arnett, Okla., here Friday night, 29 to 20.

The Arnett team, which played at Anton Thursday night, displayed a spectacular passing attack, handled the ball like college players, but was met with a stubborn defense that broke with the attack and prevented wild scoring.

Sugar Bowl Track Meet Is Postponed Because Of Rain

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 28 (AP)—The Mid-Winter Sports association announced late today that the Sugar Bowl track meet, postponed under a heavy rain today, would be held Monday at 3 p. m. at Loyola Stadium.

Vic Hurt Gets Bell's Cheers For SMU Wall

Mustang Line Coach Is Paid High Tribute By Head Man For Giving SMU Strongest Wall In Conference

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 28. (AP)—Matty Bell, "miracle man" of the football coaching profession, likes to talk about his "forgotten man."

Stories of his own amazing comeback from virtual unemployment two seasons ago to head coach of the Southern Methodist Mustangs, Rose Bowl nominees, don't interest Bell.

It's this man Victor Hurt, his assistant coach, whose name seldom creeps into headlines, that he thinks is "the swellest guy of them all."

Bell, after appointment as head coach at S. M. U. culled through a long list of applications for the assistant's job and with the aid of Ray Morrison, the departing mentor, selected quiet, mild-mannered Hurt, then athletic director of Oklahoma Baptist university at Shawnee, Okla.

Does All Line Work

"He's the finest fellow in the world," said Bell. "He has been invaluable to the team this season. Vic has a wonderful knack of getting along with people—especially boys. He has a good head, knows football from all angles and gets the job done."

Bell disclosed for the first time that Hurt has handled the cast iron line throughout the season.

"He's the boy responsible for that line. On Mondays we get together, figure out the assignments for the linemen in next Saturday's game and then I forget the line. Vic gives them their work, drills them and by game time they're ready."

Hurt compiled a great record at Oklahoma Baptist with football, basketball and track teams. He took from high school a gangling lad named Sam Allen and converted him into one of the greatest hurlers of the past decade.

He won more than 75 per cent of all athletic contests at the Oklahoma school over a 10-year period.

Played Under Henry

Strangely, Hurt until this season best known for his track work, never competed on a track team and picked up his knowledge by closely scrutinizing the work of stars and studying methods used by famed coaches.

Hurt was a good football and basketball player at College of Emporia under Gwynn Henry, now coach at New Mexico, and took his first coaching job at Coldwater, Kans., high school in 1923. He served two years at Topeka High school and then went to Oklahoma Baptist.

He is one of the "four V's" of the family of Mr. and Mrs. D. Leroy Hurt of Emporia, Kansas, two brothers he has, Verner and Virgil and sister Vera.

Danno O'Mahoney Overcomes 87-Pound Handicap To Win

CHICAGO, Dec. 28 (AP) — Outweighed 87 pounds, Danno O'Mahoney of Ireland, generally recognized as heavyweight wrestling champion slammed the 312-pound Man Mountain Dean to defeat before 8,000 spectators in the Chicago Stadium last night.

O'Mahoney, after being tossed around the ring and floored five times, threw Dean with an arm lock and body smother in 21:21.

O'Mahoney weighed 225 pounds.

Jesse Owens Ineligible To Run For Bucks This Winter

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 28 (AP) — Jesse Owens, Ohio State university's track and field star, and captain of the 1936 track team, is ineligible for competition during the winter quarter.

The university announced today the negro speed king was ineligible because he failed to pass a psychology course.

Here Is Evolution Of Tiny's Smile

"Gosh, what a bunch of mugs we have out there on the field. Come on, you guys, get going!" reflects Tiny.

"H'm. That's a little better. Now let's get that attack working."

Cooper Leads Pasadena Open

Chicago Professional Equals Course Record With 66 And Tops Field In First Round Of Open Golf Tourney

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 28 (AP) — Harry Cooper, Chicago professional shattered par by five strokes; equalled the course record, and took a commanding lead in the first round of the $4,000 Pasadena open tournament today.

He carded a 33-33—66. His score tied the mark set three years ago by Craig Wood.

Mortie Dutra, Detroit, Henry Picard, Hershey, Pa., Victor Ghezzi, Deal N. J., and Orville White, of St. Louis had 69's in the third day of first round play.

Ninety-one professionals, qualifying with scores of 77 or less, and 30 amateurs, with 78 or under, will go into the 18-hole second round tomorrow.

Champ Fails To Scratch

Horton Smith, Chicago, winner of the Miami Biltmore title last week, posted a 70, one stroke under par.

Sam Parks, jr., Pittsburgh, National Open champion, failed to qualify with a disappointing 76.

Bunched back of the lanky Smith were Ky Laffoon, Chicago; Bill Mehlhorn, Louisville, Chuck Ward, Los Angeles, and Jack Holbrook, Pomona, Calif., amateur, with par 71's.

Johnny Dawson, Chicago amateur; Cam Puget, Del Monte, Calif., the veteran MacDonald Smith, Glendale, and Mark Fry, Oakland, Calif., trailed a stroke behind, while Olin Dutra, former national open king finished with 73.

National Collegiate A. A. Endorses Olympics, Blasts Southeastern's Plan

American Team For Big Games Is Encouraged

Faculty Heads Of Nation Vote Resolution Condemning The Subsidization Of Athletes As Planned In South

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—The National Collegiate Athletic association gave unanimous endorsement today to American participation in the 1936 Olympic games, and then lashed out at the Southeastern conference for its recently adopted sports subsidization scholarship plan.

The association not only approved American participation in the Olympics at Berlin next summer, but urged its constituent members to lend generous financial support so that "America shall be honorably and adequately represented."

Such action was urged by President John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Western conference, who in his annual report, also paved the way for the presentation and adoption of a resolution which, by inference, took the Southeastern conference to task for "compromising" with "recognized and inherent difficulties in enforcing amateur rules."

The resolution viewed the development below the Mason-Dixon line as "a serious threat to the very life of amateur sports," and said it "represents a real emergency which calls for a mobilization of all the resources of the member institutions, particularly the presidents and boards of trustees, who have final powers and responsibility for university policies . . . to combat these evils."

The president was empowered by the resolution to designate a committee of three to make a "thorough study of all the influences that are in any way inimicable to the best interests of intercollegiate sport and threatens its very existence."

Lobos Open With 35 To 25 Victory

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 28. (AP)—Led by their all-Border conference center, Ralph Bowyer, the New Mexico university Lobos opened their 1935-36 season with a 35 to 25 victory over the Colorado college Tigers from Colorado Springs last night.

The Lobos took an early lead and were ahead 14 to 9 at the halftime.

Marlin Owens And Jack Kirkland To Box In Main Event At Crosbyton On Monday Night; To Be Fourth Match

(Special To The Avalanche-Journal)

CROSBYTON, Dec. 28 — Marlin Owens, the Wichita Falls fighter who has won 235 of his 277 public boxing engagements via the knockout route, hopes to even the score with an old enemy, Jack Kirkland of Waco, when they meet here Monday night in a card sponsored by the local American Legion post.

The meeting will be the fourth between Owens and Kirkland. The Waco leather-slinger defeated Owens in their first two bouts. The third resulted in a knockout with Kirkland kissing the canvas. They're both anxious to meet again, and observers predict a highly interesting combat.

The fight here takes the place of the regular Monday night card at Ralls. It is understood here that Ralls will go out of the boxing business after one more program, probably a week from Monday night, after which cards will be staged every other Monday night in Crosbyton.

Four Bouts Scheduled

The place is the first building south of the Crosby county court house. It has been leased by the Legion here and will be put in shape for large crowds.

Three preliminaries, including a scheduled eight-round semi-final, are booked for Monday night's card.

Kid Smyers of Lorenzo will meet Nick Santos in a return match which will go on immediately before the main bout. They are lightweights at 135 pounds.

John D. Walters of Crosbyton and Orval Curtis of Odessa, welterweights, will tangle for four rounds or less in a preliminary. The curtain raiser brings together for a scheduled four-rounder Rhea Campbell and J. W. Faust. They weigh 140 pounds each.

Gala Plans On Sun Bowl Fire

El Paso Carnival Marked By Five-Mile Parade, Mexico Band And Brief Appearance Of State Governor

EL PASO, Dec. 28. (AP)—Arrangements were complete today for the Southwest Sun carnival which will be featured by a five-mile long parade and the Sun Bowl football game between Hardin-Simmons university of Abilene and the New Mexico Aggies.

Early ticket sales for the game, to be played New Year's Day, indicated a sell-out crowd of 12,000, officials said.

Gov. James V. Allred of Texas will arrive tomorrow. He will crown the Sun carnival queen, Miss Ruth Staten, at the coronation ball Monday night, after which the governor will go by plane to Pasadena for the Rose Bowl clash between Stanford and Southern Methodist.

Governor Clyde Tingley of New Mexico and a large delegation from his state and many persons from Arizona will join Texans in the Sun carnival celebration.

Mexico also will be represented. The 98-piece presidential band of Mexico City arrived last night and will take part in the carnival.

The parade will be composed of 102 units, including a regiment of cavalry from Fort Bliss and bands and floats from neighboring towns. Floats will depict historical events of the Southwest.

Capt. John R. Hughes, pioneer Texas ranger, was selected as grand marshal of the parade.

Slow Whistle Rule To Come Out Of Books

Sentiment Against Delaying Of Whistle On Offense Causes National Rules Committee To Announce Discontinuance

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Manifesting a spirit of holiday tolerance derived, at least in part, from more security in their jobs and better working conditions than they have enjoyed in years, upwards of 300 members of the American Football Coaches' association tonight closed their 14th annual meeting with a maximum of militant oratory but a minimum of agitated action.

They generally appeared in agreement on at least two proposed changes in the rules for 1936, involving elimination of the so-called "slow whistle" as advocated by the rules committee itself and a less severe penalty for forward pass interference, but referred all details to the standing committee headed by Columbia's Lou Little.

They listened with much interest to, but took no action upon, the suggestion of Gus Dorais of Detroit, a former Notre Dame quarterback, that research be made to determine whether post-season "bowl" games are "a healthy appendage or a cancerous growth." Drawing no conclusions on this score himself, Dorais, as chairman of the public relations committee, dealt further with criticism of coaches who are "evasive or hostile to the press," colleges which have "pneumonia coops" for press boxes, and elements responsible for excesses in drinking or gambling in connection with the gridiron game.

First-hand description of press-box problems came from Stanley Woodward of the New York Herald-Tribune, newly-elected president of the Football Writers' association.

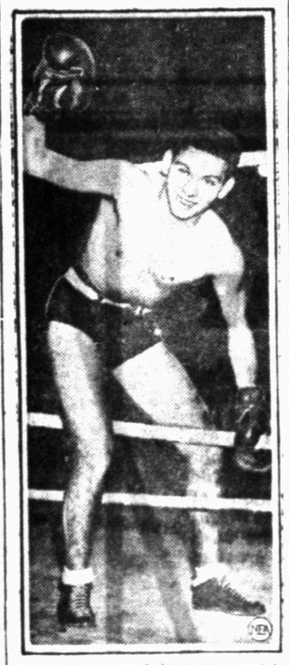

Woodward took occasion to praise the Southeastern conference for it's "honesty and progressive spirit" in regulating, openly, the subsidization of football players.

The coaches listened to an explanation of the Southeastern conference action by Dan McGugin, Vanderbilt's athletic director, who denied the new plan involves "an open warrant for the recruiting of athletes."

Rumors Of Sale Of Houston Race Track Denied Again

HOUSTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Recurrent rumors that the Epsom Downs race track is to be sold or has been sold to a Texas syndicate invariably meet with denials.

Lou Smith, general manager of the track, exploded the latest rumor.

"We have not sold, and we're not going to unless we get a fair price. I think there should be Texas capital in the track. We would welcome it. But we're not going to give that property away."

It is no secret that Smith and his associates, who live in the East, would like to have a substantial amount of Texas capital invested in the track. If influential Texans should become interested, Epsom Downs might be able to get earlier dates in the fall and later dates in the spring, they believe. Under existing conditions, meets here are severely handicapped by cold, wet weather.

Horned Frogs Wind Up Home Work, Prepare To Invade New Orleans For Sugar Bowl Tilt

Coaches Not Satisfied With Physical Condition Of TCU Players, But Jim Lawrence Thought Ready To Start

FORT WORTH, Dec. 28.—Their hard work completed, but still far from being in top shape physically, the T. C. U. Horned Frogs will leave Sunday for New Orleans and their Sugar Bowl battle New Year's Day with the L. S. U. Tigers.

As they packed their traveling kits, Coaches Dutch Meyer and Bear Wolf shook heads doubtfully over the condition of several regulars and indicated that several reserves would be called on in the battle.

The entire squad will leave by train at 7:30 a. m. They will be accompanied by Coaches Meyer, Wolf, Howard Grubbs and Trainer Albert Smith. The first jump will be to Dallas. There the team will spend most of the day as guests of Dan D. Rogers, T. C. U. trustee. They are slated to leave Dallas at 6 o'clock Sunday afternoon and will arrive in New Orleans about 8 a. m. Monday. Final workouts will be held on the Tulane field Monday and Tuesday afternoons.

The squad went through its last home drill in a cold drizzle Saturday morning. Most of the time was spent on defense.

One bright spot of the last workout was the apparent improvement in the ankle of Jarring Jimmy Lawrence, hard-hitting right halfback. The senior ball-carrier ran signals for the first time since he was hurt in the S. M. U. game and appeared to have his old time speed and power. His injured ankle has improved rapidly the last few days and by taping it a new way Saturday, found he could run without much pain. His dash and fire apparently gave the squad new life and the Purple coaches were highly pleased with the final drill at home. It appears now that Lawrence will be a starter at New Orleans.

Rain Forces Tigers To Work Indoors

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 28. (AP)—An all-day rain today forced the Louisiana State university football squad into the gymnasium to continue practice for the Sugar Bowl game.

The squad, having had its last preparatory scrimmage, and needing little more work, was run lightly through plays on the hardwood gym floor, with the players wearing tennis shoes.

East And West Lineups Are Picked

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Starting elevens for the East-West charity football game here New Year's Day began to shape up today after one week of intensive practice.

Repeated drills seem to favor these combinations:

EAST	POSITION	WEST
Frank Loebs, Purdue	End	Bernie Scherer, Nebraska.
Ettore Antonini, Indiana	End	John Sylvester, Rice.
Art Lewis, Ohio U.	Tackle	Larry Lutz, California.
Dick Smith, Minnesota	Tackle	John Bley, Wash. State.

Put The SNAP Back Into Your Hat.

How's your hat? Has it lost its pep . . . does the brim curl like a lettuce leaf? Chances are that the hat is still good. All it needs is a cleaning and careful reblocking (maybe a fresh band) and your hat's good as new. But the trick is to have it done RIGHT. By a man who knows all about hats. We've got one . . . let him put the snap back into your hat.

A LETTER

Lubbock, Texas
December 27, 1935

J. Allan Moses
Classified Adv. Mgr.
Avalanche-Journal
Lubbock, Texas

Dear Sir:

To many people it would be a matter of surprise to learn how widely your papers are read by farmers over much of the South Plains area.

Recently the writer inserted a Want Ad. "A Farm for rent." Up to this time I have had more than seventy-five applications for the farm, as a result of the advertisement, which was run in two issues of the Avalanche and one issue of the Journal, and then ordered stopped.

Applications to rent the farm were received from farmers in the vicinity of Lubbock, Slaton, Post, Idalou, Lorenzo, Ralls, Petersburg, Hale Center, Abernathy, Littlefield, Amherst, Anton, Shallowater, Levelland, Whiteface, Smyer, Hurlwood, Wolfforth, Ropes, Meadow, Brownfield, Seagraves, Tahoka, Wilson, O'Donnell, Lamesa and from numerous other communities on the South Plains as well as several applications from farmers east of the plains.

I can recommend very highly your Want Ad section as a medium of contact with farmers of this area, and would suppose that your papers are read even more extensively by people of the towns of this section.

It would be unnecessary to state that I secured a desirable tenant for my farm. The only regret connected with insertion of the advertisement is the condition revealed that many deserving farmers are unable to find places to farm another year. A critical condition is shown in that so many farmers are likely to be without a place to move January first.

(Signed) C. C. COX

Funeral Services To Be Held Today

Body of Roland Hansard, 29, who died late Friday of an apparently self-inflicted bullet wound, will be sent early today to Chillicothe where funeral services will be conducted by Rev. H. A. Nichols, pastor of the First Methodist church there.

Hansard, a cook, will be buried at the side of a brother's grave, as the young man requested in a note addressed to "Mom."

Shot through the head, Hansard was found in his room at a hotel in 1000-block Avenue H about 6:30 o'clock Friday night—14 days after his Friday Thirteenth marriage in Clovis, N. M. A .38 caliber pistol was on the bed on which the wounded man lay. A note was in his pocket. Hansard died at 10:49 p. m. Friday.

Whereabouts of Hansard's bride was not known definitely, said T. M. Hansard, father of the shooting victim. The father said she left recently for a week's visit in San Antonio with her mother, who was described as ill.

Members of Church

Roland Hansard had been a member of the Methodist church since he was 14, said the father, who added that his wife and all his children were church members.

"This is the most serious blow of all," said the father, who was not enabled to attend services, at which all other members of his family will be. "First my son Derrell died in October, 1921, after enrolling at Hardin-Simmons university. He had captained the Clarendon Junior college through two undefeated seasons, except for one game he didn't enter, quarterbacking the club and winning several games by his drop-kicking. Then I left Chillicothe, where I had conducted a market and grocery 25 years and had made several thousand dollars, only to virtually lose an investment of $22,000 in land I bought at Petersburg in 1929. I came here and worked hard, paid out my little hotel, made lots of friends, and then my youngest boy died last night."

Mr. Hansard said George Underwood, who had employed Roland Hansard, told the father he had promised Roland a "raise" effective Jan. 1, "because he was the most dependable man I ever had."

The structure at 1118 Broadway will be remodeled and refinished, and new equipment will be added. Mr. Halsey said 250 square feet of additional floor space would be available. Other lines of merchandise will be added.

"YOUR DOCTOR AND YOU"

You may have an idea that your Doctor gives some high priced service.

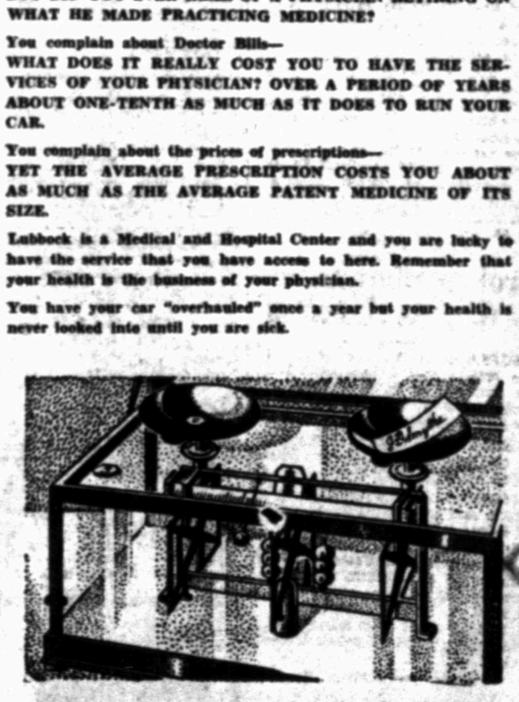

BUT DID YOU EVER HEAR OF A PHYSICIAN RETIRING ON WHAT HE MADE PRACTICING MEDICINE?

You complain about Doctor Bills—
WHAT DOES IT REALLY COST YOU TO HAVE THE SERVICES OF YOUR PHYSICIAN? OVER A PERIOD OF YEARS ABOUT ONE-TENTH AS MUCH AS IT DOES TO RUN YOUR CAR.

You complain about the prices of prescriptions—
YET THE AVERAGE PRESCRIPTION COSTS YOU ABOUT AS MUCH AS THE AVERAGE PATENT MEDICINE OF ITS SIZE.

Lubbock is a Medical and Hospital Center and you are lucky to have the service that you have access to here. Remember that your health is the business of your physician.

You have your car "overhauled" once a year but your health is never looked into until you are sick.

WE CAN WEIGH YOUR SIGNATURE!

Don't be amazed . . . it's nothing, really. The thinnest paper and most watery ink weigh more than some of the ingredients your doctor prescribes, and because we never know more than his prescription tells us, we must be able to weigh any amount, exactly, for your health's sake, and for the sake of our reputation!

Eight Thousand Texans Roar Acclaim For Mighty Mustangs

Matty Bell Emerges From His Screen Of Silence To Say "I Like My Ball Club, 10-7, In The Game"

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28. (AP)—Eight thousand Texans crowded into Olympic auditorium here tonight to acclaim the Southern Methodist Mustangs, the southwest's first Rose Bowl football team. Six shooters cracked and yells split the air as Coach Matty Bell led his 31 huskies into the hall and introduced them.

Leo Carrillo and Pat O'Brien, film stars, acted as masters of ceremonies for the Texas state society.

Last Appearance

It was the last public appearance for the Methodists before the starting whistle New Year's day when they clash with Stanford's Indians in the Tournament of Roses classic.

Bobby Wilson, mighty mite of the Methodist backfield and All-American this season, tossed three souvenir footballs into the yelling throng. He was given a great hand by the band of Texans who stood and roared as the team, led by the famous Mustang band, paraded out of the hall and back to their quarters.

Gloomy Matty Bell Offers Prediction

PASADENA, Calif., Dec. 28. (AP)—Gloomy Matty Bell, head man of the Southern Methodist university Mustangs, threw off his usual pessimism tonight and passed the word around that his Ponies would paw Stanford in the Rose Bowl classic New Year's day.

Bell, firm in his refusal to predict the outcome of the Tournament of Roses classic since acceptance of the invitation nearly a month ago, guessed the potent right foot of Maurice Orr, giant tackle, would put the Mustangs across, 10-7.

Had Shied Away

Until tonight Bell had shied away from predictions, insisting it was "ridiculous to pick a winner in that ball game."

The "guessing contest" finally got him and with a comment that "my guess is as good as any," picked the Mustangs to win "the greatest ball game ever played in the Rose Bowl."

Just two days ago he ranked Orr, the 212-pound kicking expert, as one of the greatest placement kickers of all times, placing him on a par with the redoubtable "Red" Weaver, star of the famous old Centre college Praying Colonels who blasted 99 consecutive placement kicks across the bar.

Bell, incidentally, held the ball for the first 60 of Weaver's kicks as one of his playing mates on the Centre team that made football history in the early twenties.

"Like My Ball Club"

"I like my ball club, 10-7, in the Rose Bowl game," commented Matty. "Of course, this is just my guess."

Casually he admitted he had guessed correctly all the major games of the Southwest conference the past season, including the smashing triumph Texas Christian registered over Rice institute.

Orr, who has booted 37 points to lead linemen of the nation's major school in scoring this year, last year kicked 19 straight kicks from placement after touchdowns.

He has accounted for five field goals, four in Southwest conference games and one against Washington university, and 22 points after touchdowns.

He has been drilled long and hard during the past 10 days and Friday in a workout at Tucson, Arizona, punched placement kicks cleanly over the cross bar from as far as the 35 yard line.

Broken Body Of Girl Is Located

BUFFALO, N. Y., Dec. 28. (AP)—The broken body of a chorus girl was found today in an alley three stories below an open window of the hotel where she lived.

Police said she was Helen Lowers, 28, of Greenville, Ohio, who had played here since September.

Medical Examiner Rocco De Dominicis said evidence indicated the girl leaped to her death.

Her roommate, Marilyn Rogers, and Cleveland, told Detective Sergeant Ralph Guastaferro they had "some drinks" with one of the stage hands of the theater after returning to their hotel "and she always became moody when she took a few drinks."

Direct Relief

disbursing orders issued from relief offices to send those orders to the offices in the district before Sunday, Jan. 5. Orders received after that time will be sent to Austin for approval and settlement, resulting in delay in payment.

The present staff of workers in offices here and in Plainview will be maintained until Jan. 15 to complete records. At present, district 17 is sub-divided, with 7 counties directed from the Lubbock office and the others from the Plainview office.

WPA district records here show that a total of 415 persons in Lubbock county are at work on WPA projects, said Doctor Barr.

A total of 254 others are listed as eligible for work, but it is believed that a good percentage of them do not now live in this county.

WPA records show 106 employables in Lubbock county.

The reorganization of the relief set-up was necessitated by withdrawal of federal aid from Texas and other states.

A Lubbock man, approximately 50 years old, late Saturday night was taken into custody of police and transferred to hospital ward of county jail, after a cafe in 1600-block Avenue H had reported his actions were peculiar. The man presumably suffered of a mental ailment. Baxter Honey took him in charge.

James A. Lowrance was dismissed Saturday morning from Lubbock sanitarium, where he was treated after he had inhaled gas fumes at the Lubbock Coffee Mills, of which he is proprietor, at 1218 Avenue H. Lowrance was found Friday afternoon slumped across a display shelf in front of the building. Mr. and Mrs. Lowrance had suffered Thursday from fumes from a stove, Mrs. Lowrance having to be taken home in an ambulance. Two youths employed there also were treated.

Mrs. Sidney Claiborne is improving in her home at 2421 Broadway from slight bruises and other minor injuries received when her automobile collided with another Friday afternoon about 5 o'clock. She was thrown against the steering wheel and was taken to Lubbock sanitarium, where she was dismissed Saturday morning.

Denial that T. M. Lawson of Lubbock, one of two men injured in a highway mishap near Slaton Wednesday night, is a driver for CCC headquarters here was made Friday by Lieut. Jack H. Turner, adjutant, in a letter to the Avalanche-Journal, which had so qualified Lawson, finding him so identified in the 1936 City directory. "Mr. Lawson ... has not been employed by this department since Oct. 15," said Lieut. Turner. "We are proud of the records of our drivers and of our truck and passenger car operation." J. W. Floyd of Post, who was brought to West Texas hospital for treatment of head injuries received in the mishap, was improved Saturday.

Board of governors of the American Business club will meet Monday evening in the Hilton hotel at the usual hour, Clarence Wiginton, chairman, said yesterday. Matters of importance, including the selection of the date for an athletic program for charity, are to come up, President W. L. Hester said.

H. J. Naylor, Wichita Falls contractor, was the low bidder on construction of a $25,000 combination gym and school building at Thalia, near Vernon, O. R. Walker, local architect, said. Bids were opened Friday.

Congressman George Mahon of Colorado met at Hotel Lubbock Saturday afternoon with a group of men representing Cochran county farmers and others, to discuss what could be done to aid cotton farmers secure easier planting regulations. An informal discussion was had.

Fire At Wichita Falls Is Costly

WICHITA FALLS, Dec. 28. (AP)—A $30,000 fire early Saturday morning partially destroyed the Wigley Furniture company building and for a short time threatened business buildings in the entire block. C. M. Meador, fireman who suffered a heart attack while fighting the flames, was taken to a hospital. Physicians did not consider his condition critical.

The fire started in an elevator shaft in the rear of the building. The cause was not learned immediately. The flames spread rapidly from the shaft to the third floor of the building where a large quantity of merchandise was stored.

After a two hour fight, the firemen finally brought the flames under control.

The fire was the most serious one since the J. C. Penney company building was destroyed in November, 1934.

Farm Payments

the 50,000 mark will have been passed.

Best Estimate Given

Best estimate of the average price per bale is approximately $50. Some cotton men put it as low as $45. However, early season prices were well above 10 cents per bale and, with bales running well over a 500 pound average, the higher estimate is probably more nearly correct.

Cotton seed this year did not average the better than 700 pounds of seed to the 500 pound bale of lint. It was estimated by cotton seed buyers that not to exceed 600 pounds of seed per bale was a good average. This brought a total of 13,500 tons; at a price of $25 per ton, which is considered low, the cash income was around $350,000.

Cash income from grain sorghums, representing the probable amount actually sold, is estimated at $300,000. While the grain sorghum acreage was in all probability well over 200,000, with an average yield of nearly a ton per acre, not all of the crop is sold. In fact, the greater income from this source is indirect, the crop going into livestock, dairy cattle, beef cattle and work stock. Some cash profit comes from sale of dairy products or animals and some from cattle, but the bulk goes into work stock, with no return, direct.

Grain sorghum has ranged in price from $7.50 per ton to $8.50. The crop probably was worth in the neighborhood of $1,500,000 but not to exceed one fifth found its way into the markets, with a cash payment to producers.

Local produce men state the cash income from sale of milk, butter, eggs, poultry, turkeys, etc., was way under the average for years past. Farmers during the latter part of 1934 and in early 1935, sold off both dairy cattle and poultry. Hatcheries did not run more than half of their normal season this past year and the farm flocks were not greatly increased from the low point.

Cash items from sale of produce probably did not exceed $500,000, according to one concern. The amount of cash paid by grocery stores for eggs and poultry is not included in the above, nor is the sale of farm dressed poultry, butter and eggs direct to consumers included. These items would add considerably to the income.

Cattle sales ranged between $150,000 and $250,000. These included sales to local packing houses and sale of calves. No account was taken of sales of cattle to the government in its buying program which ended in February.

Other crops from which a cash income is received, will add another $100,000 to the total income.

FIRE DAMAGE HEAVY

ABILENE, Dec. 28. (AP)—Fire which swept from a furnace room in the basement through two floors of the Laughter funeral home here early today resulted in damage estimated at between $10,000 and $15,000.

The situation as seen by the farmers was explained to Mr. Mahon. He promised to give their proposal serious consideration.

Raymond V. Denton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Denton of 311 Avenue W, returned Saturday to San Antonio, where he will study in Camp Bullis preparatory school. He has been stationed at Fort McIntosh, 8th engineering headquarters, at Laredo. He is a graduate of Lubbock High school.

Morris Denton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Denton of 311 Avenue W, will return to school Monday after four weeks absence caused by injuries received when playing football with friends.

A 7-pound 4-ounce daughter was born at 11:05 o'clock Friday night to Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Patterson of 805 Avenue R, and was named Eva Jeanne.

Visibility Limited

Mist and fog limited visibility at Olney to half a mile. The temperature there was 38, with a light southeast wind blowing.

At Dallas, the state high school championship football game was played under an overcast sky, with mist dampening the Ownby stadium gridiron and making the ball slippery.

The temperature at Sherman was down to 30 last night and today was misty, with heavy clouds.

Austin had .02 of an inch rain today and a minimum temperature of 37. The mercury climbed to 55 later in the day and the snow came out.

Snow At Wichita

Snow began falling late in the day at Wichita Falls and Gainesville, the flakes melting as they hit the ground at Gainesville. A drizzle had fallen most of the day. Snow fell intermittently all day at Borger.

The temperature fell 17 degrees in three and a half hours at Lubbock, and continued to fall. The reading late in the day was 27, a degree lower than the minimum Saturday morning. There was a strong, cold wind.

Three inches of snow fell at Pampa, and more south of there.

Ice-coated streets were a menace to traffic at Paris. A fire truck overturned, but the driver was not injured. Temperatures ranged from 29 to 33 degrees.

Temperature Continues To Drop In This Area

Blustering winds had calmed considerably at Lubbock at 10 o'clock Saturday night, but temperature continued to drop.

A low of 27 degrees for the day was established at that hour, only three degrees higher than the season's twice-recorded low, said main line station of West Texas Gas company, and 27 degrees below the day's maximum reading.

Allred—Full pardons, 21; conditional pardons, 52; general paroles, 603; reprieves, 2; commutations, 4; furloughs and extensions, 161, and revocations, 102.

Governor Allred instituted a new feature in clemencies soon after his inauguration, that of establishing county parole boards to whom the released convicts were paroled for regular reports. The boards, formed in many counties, also were charged with aiding ex-convicts who had served their terms.

Of the 603 convicts granted general paroles, only nine "returned," the governor's term for instances where revocation was necessary. He revoked one of the conditional pardons.

In less than a year, he rescinded 55 of the conditional pardons issued by Mrs. Ferguson and eight of those she paroled. Four of the governor's revocations were general paroles issued by Governor Sterling.

Miss Helen Tarpley, Edgar Perry Are Wed On Saturday

In a ring ceremony conducted at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the home of L. T. Chambliss, 1406 Avenue G, Miss Helen Tarpley and Edgar Perry repeated wedding vows read by Capt. John G. Churchill of the Salvation Army.

Intimate friends and relatives attended.

The bride was given by Mr. Chambliss. Pvt. Harlin Akard of Fort Bliss was best man. Miss Reita Bridges of Lubbock was bridesmaid.

The bride wore an orchid taffeta gown with accessories to match, and carried a bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas.

Mr. and Mrs. Perry will be at home at 2108 Broadway.

Parents Claim This Child Will Not Be Spanked; They'll Use Diplomacy

CLEVELAND, Dec. 28. (AP)—Chubby, 2-year-old Martin Richie has a goal in life—to debunk the adage, "spare the rod and spoil the child."

He has never been spanked. His parents predict he never will be.

Martin's daddy, Dr. Richard F. Richie, is a physician and child psychologist. His mother also subscribes to the non-spanking theory.

Diplomacy Is Better

"Spanking reflects the loss of control by parents," said Dr. Richie. "Diplomacy works much better. Misconduct in children is developed, not inherited.

"They frequently take the course directly opposite that of parental example. They are inclined to develop egotism and become self-important. Then we must change their opinions, kindly but firmly."

In the Richie home, Martin's mischievous blue eyes sparkled as he threw blocks around the living room. He snatched a fragile little bell from the Christmas tree. He examined it, then dashed it to the floor where it broke into a score of pieces.

Hurls Two Books

He greeted a photographer by hurling two books which barely missed their mark.

"I wouldn't spank him," said Mrs. Richie. "It's bad psychology. He's not yet old enough to know right from wrong. I try to remove temptations from his path. It's an all-day job. When he's a little older we can reason with him.

"Excuse me, please. He's at the tree again."

Cash Worries May Be Faced

Allred Says Special Session If Called Would Be Devoted Solely To Methods Designed To Finance Pensions

EL PASO, Dec. 28. (AP)—Methods to finance the state's old age pension program will be the only subject on the calender in event of a special session of the Texas legislature next year, Gov. James V. Allred said here tonight.

The governor arrived here tonight from Colorado, Texas, to attend preliminary events of El Paso's Sun carnival celebration Jan. 1.

Texas legislators have been polled in a three-point letter, the governor said, as to the feasibility of an old age pension special session. Legislators were asked whether they favored a special session, when, and if they believed a definite pension financing program could be worked out at this time. The governor said his decision relative to a special session probably would be reached about Jan. 15.

Revenue Is Question

"The law we have provides for inauguration of the pension program July 1, but we are unable to determine how much revenue will be produced by the newly-enacted state liquor measure," Governor Allred said. "There are many evasions of the liquor tax," he commented.

Texas rangers will not be used to enforce the state's liquor law, Governor Allred said.

"The law gives counties a pecuniary interest in the program that should warrant its enforcement without state aid," he said.

Ranger forays in the past few weeks have stilled "big shot" gambling in Texas and the officers have returned to the task of hunting down cattle rustlers, the governor said.

To Seek Job Again

Asked if he would be a candidate for re-election, Governor Allred replied, "sure." He insisted that he would not be a candidate for the U. S. senate at this time.

He conferred here with U. S. Senator Morris Sheppard, Texarkana, who has been in El Paso for several days.

The News says petitions for a local option election in technically dry Oak Cliff were suddenly withdrawn from drug stores and bars there after an attorney advised "drug store" owners:

"If it goes wet it will cost you $500 instead of $50 to operate. Why not let well enough alone?"

The premier disclosed that Hitler, in answer to a question from Laval, had assured the French minister to Germany that the reich is "not considering any act of aggression."

Death Penalty To Be Carried Out Unless Clemency Given

HUNTSVILLE, Dec. 28. (AP)—Warden W. W. Waid of the Texas prison system announced today that, unless Governor James V. Allred intervened, the death penalty imposed on C. B. James would be carried out during the early morning hours of Dec. 31.

James was convicted in Tyler county of the "pact slaying" of his common law wife, Cleo, 19. Witnesses testified she was stabbed Nov. 3, 1934, as she held a child.

James, 26, claimed they entered a compact to kill each other if they "quit living together." Friends, he said, persuaded him not to commit suicide.

Importation Of Liquor From Mexico To Texas Is Halted

AUSTIN, Dec. 28 (AP)—C. R. Miller, state liquor administrator, said today that federal authorities had moved to stop the importation of liquor from Mexico in violation of Texas laws.

Customs officials telegraphed representatives in San Antonio, Galveston, El Paso, and Port Arthur, after a protest by Miller, forbidding importation of more than one quart for consumption in Texas unless a permit was obtained from the Texas liquor control board.

Miller said customs officials had permitted persons to bring $100 worth of goods across the border duty free and he estimated $50,000 worth of liquor daily had been escaping taxation.

Mahon Visits

the islands. That is because of the fact that the Philippines have free trade with the states and they ship here agricultural crops in competition with our own crops. "It is to their interests to have the islands set free," he added. "Then they could have protection; as it is now, the islands are our competitors."

The United States paid $20,000,000 to Spain for the islands, at the close of the war with Spain, a decade ago. Four thousand lives were lost in pacifying the islands; a billion dollars has been spent there by the government, with not a cent's return.

Others Are Opposed

"American army officers there are bitterly opposed to independence," he said. "American business men in the islands are also opposed to it; they fear for their property with a change of government. Large numbers of the better educated natives also oppose it; they want some form of retaining an American protectorate.

"Business men on the islands, and the natives, fear Japan. They fear possibilities there.

"The great drawback, as I saw it, was the fact that the greater majority of business transactions in the islands is made by foreigners. Japanese and Chinese merchants, I was told, comprise about 70 per cent of the business owners. They have over 87 dialects in the 7,000 islands making up the country."

Visited Japan Twice

The party visited Japan twice, spending three days going to Manila and three days on the return. Vice President John N. Garner and Speaker of the House Byrns went to the royal palace to meet the emperor of Japan and his officers. Other members of the party called at the American embassy where they were greeted by government officials. "We were given every courtesy possible," he added.

"We visited one of the largest textile mills in Japan," he added, and had the opportunity to see cotton from Texas and the south being made into cloth. Japan last year bought $133,000,000 worth of cotton from the United States; their purchases in all amounted to $210,000,000, while they sold to this country but $119,000,000.

No Objections Held

"The Texans in the party let them know that we had no objection whatever to their purchasing any amount of Texas cotton they desired."

In China, Mr. Mahon said, he was impressed with the vast differences in the attitude of people towards other sections. Money that was taken in exchange in Shanghai was no good in Hong Kong, or any other big city of other parts. "There is no national unity in China," he added.

Mr. Mahon is spending Sunday in Lubbock. He returns to Colorado Monday morning and leaves there January 1 for a trip to Washington, arriving in the capital city January 3, the day congress opens.

Quints Making Constant Gain

Observance Of 19th Month Of Their Existence Is Made In Nursery Still Reminiscent Of Christmas Fete

CALLANDER, Ont., Dec. 28. (AP)—While an air of Christmas festivity still remained in their hospital home, the Dionne quintuplets today celebrated their 19 months of life.

The five daughters of Olivia and Elzira Dionne, born May 28, 1934, were robust after a summer and winter of progress.

Under the care of Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe, they have adhered to a rigid routine of frolic and play in the nursery and sleep outside in temperatures far below zero.

Movies Break In

Although this program was partly interrupted during the past month when movies were made of the quintuplets, their aggregate weight has increased since Nov. 28 by five pounds, 4 1-4 ounces.

Yvonne remained the heaviest at 23 pounds, 3 1-2 ounces.

The quintuplets' weight and changes in the month since Nov. 28 follow:

Yvonne	23 4 1-4	11 3-4

Two Persons Are Injured In Knifing Affray On Saturday

One person was treated and sent to county jail and another was receiving attention at Lubbock sanitarium Saturday night after what authorities described as a knifing affray in the lobby of a hotel in 800-block Main street.

A 23-year-old night clerk of the hotel was stabbed through his left arm near the shoulder joint with a butcher knife and had a fractured right hand.

The other man, said to be approximately 35 years old, was severely beaten and stamped, said surgeons.

No charges had been filed late in the night.

The hotel clerk said he protested the other man's alleged cursing and that the man went into a cafe and returned with a knife, with which the asserted assault was made. Time was approximately 9:30 o'clock. Rix ambulance took the men to the sanitarium.

Condition of neither apparently was dangerous.

Youth Sacrifices His Life To Save That Of His Dog

WINSLOW, Me., Dec. 28 (AP)—Twelve-year-old Delmond Colford, sacrificed his life for his dog here today.

Colford and two boy companions were on a hunting trip with the dog "Tex." The dog ran on to railroad tracks as a train approached. Colford followed and pushed his pet to safety but slipped and fell in front of the train. He died of a fractured skull.

Dust Off Old Ones, Fabricate New Ones And Spurn 'Em Altogether Say Notables As Resolution Time Nears

CHICAGO, Dec. 28. (AP)—They dust off the old ones, fabricate new ones and spurn 'em altogether, a parcel of the nation's notables disclosed today as the annual date for New Year's resolutions approached.

One, Newton D. Baker, ex-secretary of war, averred he hasn't had to fashion a new one in sixty years—a resolve he took as a youth is still worth sticking to. What was it?

A Better Boy

"Oh, just to be a better boy," said the famous Clevelander.

For motorists, and others, too, Secretary of Commerce Roper offered this:

"Let us all resolve, particularly the drivers of cars, to exercise more care, thus contributing materially to the saving of lives and property in 1936."

Inveterate smokers could fall in line with Gov. James V. Allred of Texas, himself one of them, who said:

"As usual, I shall resolve not to smoke and as usual I probably will break the resolution."

Here's Small Comfort

Small comfort to the bibulous of good intentions was the comment of T. McCall Frazier of the Virginia alcoholic board: "Resolutions are made only by persons suffering or recovering from some form of intemperance. I cannot hope for temperance's promotion by New Year's resolutions on the part of those who have not been able to control their habits."

Gracie Allen, movie and radio star, also could see little benefit in the year-end custom. Said she:

"I am making no resolutions because Mexico has enough trouble with them."

Neutral Plans Being Pushed

Senator Nye Declares Administration Will Be Forced To Embargo Oil Shipments To African Zone

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Senator Nye (R-ND) predicted today that a "rising swell" of sentiment in congress for strict neutrality soon would force the administration to embargo oil shipments to the African war zone.

Announcing completion of the draft of a bill to extend the provision of the neutrality act imposing a mandatory embargo on sale of arms and implements of war to belligerents, Nye told newsmen that favor for strict neutrality was mounting.

Draft Kept Secret

Although declining to make public the draft of his new bill, the chairman of the munitions investigating committee said it proposed:

1. To extend the present neutrality act's ban on arms shipments to belligerents. This section expires February 29.

2. To embargo loans or credits to belligerents in excess of those in normal times.

3. To authorize the president to add to the embargo list materials of war such as oil, as he deems advisable.

4. To prohibit any increase in shipments to belligerent countries beyond the average of a five or ten year period.

5. To prohibit any American vessel from carrying goods into a war zone. This would require belligerents to come to American shores to get their purchases in their own ships.

6. To prohibit transferring ships from American registry to that of foreign governments for the purpose of carrying war supplies.

7. To require an automatic arms embargo against all belligerents. The present act imposes it against original participants in a war, but gives the president discretion whether it shall be extended to nations entering later.

where they would move. The Yellowcab company, also at that address, is negotiating for another site.

To Announce Address

John Zournas of Tech cafe said he would announce his business's new address Monday.

Purchase of the building at 1114 Texas avenue, by C. D. Shaw, also set in motion another chain of removals. Shaw Beauty and Barber shop, now at 1006 Broadway, will share a part of that structure with Matheny's news stand. Mr. and Mrs. D. Leva, operators of the Hungarian cafe, now at 1114 Texas avenue, have purchased the building at 1110 Texas avenue, now occupied by the Mark Duncan Drug store. Mr. Duncan said he was negotiating for another site. He said his lease did not expire until Feb. 29.

The Levas plan to remodel the quarters to which they will move the cafe, said Mrs. Leva.

City Drug store, which will move Feb. 1, is negotiating for a new location, said E. L. Robertson, owner.

Contract For Building Is Announced Saturday

Contract for construction of a large, ultra-modern Sears Roebuck store in 1100-block Broadway Saturday was signed by Dr. J. T. Krueger, owner of property at the site, and by J. B. Maxey, Lubbock general contractor whose bid was successful.

The general contract approximated $28,000, it was announced. Construction will begin as soon after three tenants occupying the space, John Halsey Drug store, Meinecke Bros. Hardware store and Tech cafe, move out. Their leases expire within a few days. Work will begin not later than Jan. 10 and 60 working days will allow the project to be completed, it was estimated.

Have Two Stories

The building, which will have two stories, will offer a floor space of 17,250 square feet, and will be constructed of brick, stucco and vitrolite glass. There will be aluminum fittings and awning bars. A marbleized tile floor will be laid on the ground level. There will be a freight elevator.

Another building owned by Dr. Krueger and occupied by Lubbock Beauty Supply, across the alley on Avenue K, will be used as a tire shop.

Sub-contracts were awarded to: J. W. Gray, plumbing; J. D. Nelson, electrical work; John C. Hall, painting; H. A. Weimaker, glass and glass fittings, and to Lydick Roofing company, roof.

Three bids for general contract were tabulated.

found Milne and who cut away his bonds, show in what way Milne was bound. Their demonstrations convinced the agents that Milne could easily have slipped from his bonds.

They questioned him repeatedly, but his story was well organized. Only after being required to repeat it many times did it develop flaws, the agents said. Finally, in the early hours of this morning, the youth confessed.

While government officials went ahead with plans to prosecute Milne, some of them wondered how successful such prosecution might be. They recalled that an Indiana youth who kidnaped himself early this year was discharged when Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell at Indianapolis dismissed the indictment.

Storm Signals Multiplying For Major Parties

Face Problems In Own Ranks

Week-End Developments Illustrate Disordered Situation In Part; Al Smith Plans To Resume Attacks

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Storm signals multiply for both major parties as 1935 gives way to a presidential election year.

Leaders of each find it increasingly necessary to cope with differences in their own ranks. Whether the impending struggles will threaten the traditional political set-ups presents a potentially-historic question.

Developments Noted

Week-end developments illustrated the disordered situation in part. With Alfred E. Smith planning to resume attacks on the New Deal at the American Liberty League dinner here January 25, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt a week ago invited him to be their guest during his stay in the city.

He said today in New York he would be unable to accept.

Although Smith has refused to sanction attempts to elect delegates pledged to him for the June convention, some moves to that end persist. The speech may indicate the extent to which he is ready to carry his opposition to administration policies.

Republicans Profit

Standing to profit from that prospect, the Republican leadership was given cause for thought itself today by word that Senator Borah of Idaho will undertake eastern speechmaking in New York January 28.

This arrangement followed closely upon announcement that delegate slates for him would be entered in the Wisconsin and Illinois primaries in the spring. Three different factions already have signified an intention to gain the 90 New York delegates for the Idahoan also, in defiance of the state party organization.

The Smith and Borah speeches may serve to point up the party divisions more along conservative and liberal lines. President Roosevelt will have his way in the opening message to congress and the 1936-37 budget.

Weighing 12 tons, with a wing span of 95 feet, an overall length and height of 65 feet and 16 feet, 4 inches, respectively, the huge "sky Pullman" has a flying range of 1400 miles, a cruising speed of 215 m. p. h. fair teams, but too vague to cut much ice around here.

Considerable more interest is attached to New Orleans' Sugar Bowl game, featuring Texas Christian university and Louisiana State. This may be the best New Year's Day game of them all.

The Rose Bowl contest, however, shades the others in popularity and color. Southern Methodist university's Mustangs already are in Pasadena, and the crowd follows tomorrow. Stanford's there, too, and there is much conjecture over this ball game.

ODDS which favored the Mustangs at 8 to 5 two weeks ago may be just about even as the "battle of the Bobs" gets under way Wednesday. Any fear that Stanford would not be much of a match for the undefeated Mustangs had turned into ear-tugging by S. M. U. constituents. Stanford may not be the best team on the West Coast, but there was logic, when you stop to consider things, in picking the Indians to represent the section in the Tournament of Roses. They'll play a better game than any other coast team, because they've been there before, and eight of the Stanford regulars have been there twice. They don't plan to take a third straight shellacking.

Bob Wilson vs. Bob Grayson; Bob Finley vs. Bob Hamilton. S. M. U. has another well known Bob—Turner, a back. Stanford probably can dig up an opponent for him. So when the announcer says "Bobby has the ball," or "Bobby made that tackle," don't put down another mark for Wilson. It might be any of five or six.

Here in the Southwest, there's only one Bobby, and his last name is Wilson. There's only one to Pacific Coast fans, and he's the big bruising Pullback Grayson. But there'll be a lot of Bobs in that game, and so important is the position of each that any one of them can turn victory into defeat or vice versa. The kicking of Bob Finley of the Mustangs has been overlooked, to a great extent, in this section, but without it the Ponies might not have been where they are. The blocking of Bob "Bones" Hamilton is one reason for Bobby Grayson's national fame.

So don't forget the other Bobs when you go to laying wagers on Wilson or Grayson, names considered synonymous with Southern Methodist and Stanford universities respectively.

Why Not Treat Coaches Like Other Faculty Men?

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. (AP)—A pointed suggestion that colleges and their alumni adopt a saner attitude toward football and its teachers was voiced today by Clark D. Shaughnessy, head coach at the University of Chicago.

"Football coaches," he said in an address prepared for delivery at the annual convention of the American Football Coaches association, "should not be held accountable for football players failing as football players, any more than any of the other members of the teaching staff should be held responsible for their students failing their subjects.

"All that these faculties are responsible for is the efficient teaching of their subjects and if the students fail it is not the teacher who pays with the loss of the job but the student who is dropped from the rolls."

Shaughnessy pointed out that "winning football coaches never lose their jobs" but denied that it is the coach who is largely responsible for football success.

Thirty Deaths Charged To Football In 1935

NEW YORK, Dec. 28. (AP)—Football, as played in high schools, colleges, on sand lots, and by athletic clubs, resulted in 30 deaths during 1935, according to the report presented before the American Football Coaches association by Prof. Floyd R. Eastwood, of New York university, today.

One-half of the fatalities were among high school boys as the school boy death rate from the gridiron sport showed an increase of 34 per cent over 1931. Last year there were 13 deaths among high school players.

Athletic club competition resulted in seven deaths as against four last year. There was a decline, however, among the sandlotters and colleges. Five deaths resulted from sandlot competition as compared to nine last year while there were only 3 in the colleges as against 4 in 1934.

This year's total was five higher than 1934.

Kidnap Story Is Being Told

Gripping Tale Of Threats Of Death In Mexico Is Told By Escaped Prisoner; Rumors Of Revolt Heard

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28. (AP)—A gripping tale of kidnaping and death threats, tied in with the Calles situation in Mexico, was told today in this No. 1 haven of Mexican political exiles, hopefuls and has-beens.

Major General Calixto Garrido Alfaro said five men abducted him Dec. 21 at Popotal, Tacuba, near Mexico City, and held him three days before he escaped and flew here. The men, he said, proposed first to deal with him, then to starve or kill him unless he withdrew sedition charges he made against former President Calles recently.

Calls Him Daffy

As he related harrowing details, he was asked if he knew Major Gaston De Prida of Los Angeles, Mexican political figure. The major, who was commissioned in Carranza's forces had been keeping close tab on the present situation.

"Oh, that fellow," the general snorted, "he's daffy."

Shortly afterward—the general had gone—De Prida strolled in.

Asked about Alfaro's ordeal, he chortled.

"Oh, him? He's balmy," the major averred.

The general declared the kidnapers tried to force him to confess he furnished federal authorities in Mexico City with information which led to recent seizure of machine guns and other arms at the home of Luis Morones, labor leader and friend of Calles.

Although he did furnish the information, he said, he refused to admit it to his captors.

He said he would return to Mexico City soon and give the prosecutor general "additional evidence" that Calles went from Los Angeles a few weeks ago to "foment a revolution." Calles has denied such intention.

New Household Sheets, Towels And Table Cloths Star Monograms And Hobby Designs

Hand-Embroidery Much In Evidence

HANDSOMER than ever before are the new linens assembled for the January "White Sales" that now feature color in riotous profusion. Above is a monogrammed set of pillow cases and sheets with pastel borders; below, a representative display of hand towels with brightly embroidered and woven borders; at left, two sets of luncheon coaster covers and doilies; at right, a table cloth and napkins showing the influence of hobbies on linen designs.
(Linens from McCreery, New York)

BY MARY MARGARET McBRIDE
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK.—It's no longer news that white sales may be red, green, blue or orchid in all the most hectic shades.

But perhaps you don't yet know that the newest monograms are shaded to match the two tones used in many towels, sheets and table cloths. Also that an even smarter identifying device than a monogram on household linen is an object denoting the owner's hobby—a horse for the women who owns a racing stable, a scottie for the dog fancier, a tennis racket for the energetic person who gets up at dawn every morning in summer to perfect her backhand stroke.

Animal Designs Go Cavorting Across Towels And Linens

White for sheets and pillow cases still holds first place, but such a collection of checks, stripes and polka dots for borders you never in your life saw. And if there is nothing else to relieve the white, a smart woman does it with a bright monogram or a series of gay-colored animals cavorting across the hems. For the past few years, silk has been out for the bed except in covers, (satin and corduroy with enormous monograms this year). Percale, muslin and linen are popular in the order named. A luscious color scheme if you don't want white would be the faint-pink of hyacinths for bed linen in a grey room.

Towels, too, have caught the animal idea. Amusing penguins and dachshunds adorn guest towels and also the new small bath towels that a good many people are preferring to face towels. Regular-sized bath towels—or rather extraordinary ones, for never have you seen them so roomy—come in smart dark brown with tan-and-brown-shaded monograms, in two tones of green and in yellow, but not so much dark-blue and black as they did a few years ago. Even black bathrooms are being toned up these days with color.

Check Your Shelves And See What Needs Replacement

The new zest of women for hand-embroidery shows in the latest table linen as well as in the guest towel sector. Cross-stitch, hem-stitch and crewel work all play important roles, and almost every other form of hand embroidery as well. Luncheon sets continue to be as gay as the designers can devise, with a riot of animals, fowls and nonsense. Brown, bottle-green and royal-blue are featured in supper cloths. But when it comes to dining, white damask keeps first place—although there are some formal cloths in pastels, too, blue green and gold, and even filet lace cloths in delicate pinks and greens.

Cellophane is now combined with chenille for luncheon sets any very smart, too, is one nine-piece set in white and red.

During white sales when you can buy at a bargain, is the time to institute a thorough check of your linen shelves. Count your towels, sheets, pillow cases, cloths, napkins and don't forget to see about mattress pads, blankets and comforters. The satin comfort, by the way, is more satisfactory in its present manifestation than ever before in its history being both lighter and thinner, yet just as warm.

Incidentally, it might be a good time to get yourself one of these linen closets with sliding glass doors to keep the best linen away from dust and drawers with metal pull straps for the every day things.

Federated Clubs, P-TAs And Girl Scout Leaders To Be In Sessions Here; Lubbock Study Club To Elect

BY MARGARET TURNER
Woman's Editor

ALTHOUGH this is in the middle of the year for culture clubs, the beginning of 1936 will bring retrospection and speculation concerning the programs for various women's organizations in the city.

The majority of the clubs scheduled only one meeting for December and their first sessions in the new year will be devoted to business and parliamentary drills. This is election year for only one organization, the Lubbock Woman's club, originally the La Beta Delphian club which was organized in 1932, and since elections are held biennially by federated clubs the women will elect at an off year for other groups.

Three conventions are scheduled in Lubbock for early spring. These are the fourteenth district, Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers, the seventh district, Texas Federation of Women's clubs, and the Girl Scouts Cactus regional leaders meeting.

To Set Date

The date for the parent-teacher conference will be set at a district board meeting here early in January. The various district meetings are held in a sequence since state representatives appear on the programs. Mrs. J. B. Day of Rotan is district president.

The Girl Scout conference will be held on April 3 and 4 with a pre-convention day of training for leaders set for April 2.

Tentative dates for the federated clubs convention are scheduled for April 6-8. Mrs. W. P. Avriett of Lamesa is president.

The first meeting of the Sorosis club in 1936 will be on January 14 with Mrs. N. H. Holt as hostess. Miss Vera Murfee will conduct a parliamentary drill, Mrs. R. T. Campbell will preside for a Federation day program and there will be a business session, with the president, Mrs. R. S. Williams, in the chair.

Twentieth Century club will meet on January 14 at Hotel Lubbock for a business meeting and parliamentary drill. Mrs. J. I. Kilpatrick is president of the club, Mrs. H. D. Woods is parliamentarian.

Begin New Study

The Junior Twentieth Century club will begin a study of "The Modern Drama" at the initial program meeting for the new year on January 14. Don Murphy, professor

Age-Old Customs To Be Observed By Societies

As far back as 3000 B. C. arrival of the New Year was an occasion for festivity. The ancient Babylonian New Year began with the vernal equinox, the Egyptian, Phoenician and Persian with the autumnal equinox. The Roman year ended with the winter solstice until Julius Caesar changed the date to January 1.

Ancient joyfulness was occasioned by a belief that strength of the sun was revived with the New Year. The idea of strength, through the years, has become a legend of hope, of improvement of one's self and of one's circumstances. Hence, resolutions.

Confetti, paper hats, serpentine and horns, always associated with the coming of the New Year just as they are on Hallowe'en, are the modern day hangovers of a primitive, pagan celebration.

Lubbock youths and grownups, too, will be watching with hilarity for the birth of the New Year Tuesday night. Details will be completed by Sunday school and other church organizations at meetings Sunday, and by school groups when their post-holiday routine is resumed Monday.

Alumnae of the Sub-Deb club, a Lubbock High school girls social organization, will entertain active members and other guests in the home of Miss Carrie Jane Thomas, 1512 Avenue N. The party will begin at 11 p. m.

From The Woman's Angle

BY MARGARET TURNER
Avalanche-Journal Woman's Editor

HIGH lights in the story of 1935 as remembered by The Woman's Angle.

It was in February that the announcement of the Hauptmann verdict, erroneously reported at first, threw the world in a turmoil. And as the year ebbs the German still clings to a desperate hope for commutation of his death sentence to life.

During this year that is soon to leave us forever two famed gangsters, Fred Barker and Baby Face Nelson, died of lead poisoning prepared by keen-eyed government men, and "Dutch" Schultz fell the victim of the sure fire of a weapon handled by an underworld resident. The committment to prison of the kidnaper and his wife of the little Weyerhaeuser boy at Tacoma, Wash., seemed to place a damper on this American racket of kidnaping.

THE SPORTS REALM

MANY and sudden were the rises and falls in the field of sports. We discovered that Helen Wills Moody was human even as you and we when she staged a fit of glee following her triumph over Helen Jacobs at Wimbledon courts. It will be long before Maxie Baer forgets his experience at the hands of Joe Louis, and an Irishman came over and showed the native boys what is meant by the "Irish whip" in wrestling.

Manned by Captain Musick, Magellan of the air, the graceful China Clipper blazed an air trail over water from California mainland to Manila; Sir Malcolm Campbell showed the boys racing that could be called speed as his Bluebird roared over the salt beds at Salt Lake; the Zephyr continued to win plaudits as the coming stream-lined train and the speed boat, Miss America X stayed the tops.

Business and industry made the first pronounced upswing since 1928, even if the Supreme court's decision wiped out the NRA in June. And the Democrats began protesting the New Deal, if by straw ballot they indicated that they would vote for Roosevelt anyway. Sort of a man who's on the right team, but running for the wrong goal.

IN THE HEADLINES

NEW names appeared in the newspapers of the land and old names attained new prominence. Little Freddie Bartholomew made sweet lil Shirley Temple look to her laurels and the Dionne quintuplets were voted the most natural actresses. Elaine Barrie, John Barrymore's protegee, gave the readers a hearty laugh when she chased the man with the profile half way across the continent. Princess Barbara Hutton Mdivani married a count with a forgetable name and Alf Landon, governor of Kansas, was compared to the late C. Coolidge, except it appears he's gonna choose to run.

It was in 1935 that Fred Astaire made men conscious of "white ties, top hats and tails" and Eleanor Powell, the lady with the tap, was discovered. Fashions remained fairly sensible, since women did not fall for the Renaissance movement nor the costumes worn by Halle Selaisse's soldiers.

The tides of the Atlantic washed to our shores the usual number of alarmists, but from militaristic Japan came one gentle soul, Toyohiko Kagawa, preaching a Kingdom of God built on co-operation of men among men.

ITALO-ETHIOPIAN FEUD

WE learned this year to take our war news with a goodly dash of salt as confusing and contradictory reports of events in Ethiopia were flashed to our country and a Harlem negro was sent back to boast of his endeavors with an Oxford accent.

This was the year my friend that we began our fusses over our efforts for equal rights in making Texas known during Centennial Year, although we might have taken a cue from our neighbor state, Arkansas, who plans a similar celebration. Lubbock got a $25,000 museum out of the appropriations (at least we hope we will get it).

Can you forget the days and days that we sat on the rim of the dust bowl, walking morning after morning to blood shot skies and whistling caliche-laden winds? And when we learned the futility of praying for rain with the wind in the west?

IN THE AIR

THE spectre death rode the skies and the lighter than air dirigible Macon crashed on the west coast and the broken bodies of Will Rogers and Wiley Post were discovered in a desolate spot at the top of the world. The name of Joe Crosson, veteran northern pilot, flashed across the headlines again as he guided the death ship carrying these world-favorites down the Pacific coast. And these two could not know that a stratosphere flight from Rapid City, N. D., resulted in a new record or the esteem and tears of a broken-hearted country.

There were deaths of other notables. Queen Astrid of the Belgians was the victim of an automobile crash; Huey P. Long was assassinated by a Baton Rouge eye specialist and his slogan "Every Man a King" dropped to a muted note, but two other prophets of the restless, Father Coughlin and Dr. F. E. Townsend, carried on tirelessly.

Britain lost two romantic characters, Lawrence of Arabia and Kingsford-Smith, and as this is written Lincoln Ellsworth is still among the list of missing men.

THE THEME CHANGED

WE changed our humming and whistling tunes from the range that gave us "The Last Round-Up" and "Wagon Wheels" to the water and few songs were written prettier than "Red Sails in the Sunset" and "Treasure Island."

• • •

This was the year that we all read "Paths of Glory" (Cobb), "So Red the Rose" (Young), "Mrs. Astor's Horse" (Walker), "Green Light" (Douglas) and some of us started "Of Time and the River." (Wolfe).

Texas Congress To Inaugurate New Program In 1936

Bureau To Be Created Soon

Purpose Would Be To Enrich And Develop Rural Units, To Stress Education And Study For Parents

The new year 1936 will see the inauguration of a new program of service for the 2317 local associations, city and county councils in membership with the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers. The board of managers of the Texas Congress of Parents and Teachers has been called to meet January 8-9 at the Driskill hotel in Austin, and one of the important matters for consideration will be the securing of a competent person to head what will be known as a service bureau.

The creation of this bureau was effected at the post-convention board meeting at El Paso and came as the direct result of a recommendation of the new president, Mrs. M. A. Taylor of Bonham. Mrs. Taylor's recommendation stated: In order to emphasize and more fully develop all parent-teacher associations in the state, which is the real aim and policy of the National and State Congresses, it is recommended that a service bureau be created and that an appropriation be made from the general fund to take care of this work. In this bureau shall be placed the parent-teacher study course and such educational projects as may be found useful, special emphasis to be placed upon the development and enrichment of the rural units and parent education study groups.

Among other matters of business tto be taken up at the January meeting will be the discussion and adoption of committee plans for the next three years, the fixing of the time and place for the fifteen district conferences and the election of the board of trustees for the endowment fund.

Mrs. Taylor has called a meeting of the fifteen district presidents for a school of instruction for January 7.

Mrs. H. F. Godeke, state parliamentarian, plans to leave January 6 for Austin. She will attend preconvention meetings of the committees on by-laws and codes at the Driskoll hotel.

Wee Bits Of Gossip Giving Comings, Goings, Doings Of Well Known People

Dead Louella: Well, Christmas "has came and went" and, around here, we are all enjoying that peaceful calm which always follows a storm. Folks who went away haven't returned yet and holiday visitors from elsewhere have all gone home. A few of the college kids are still here but nobody can find them. Even their mothers haven't seen them since the day they kissed them hello at the train station.

The college youngsters haven't anything on the high school gang, though. I called out at Gladys Hall's house Friday, and her grandmother said: "Gladys isn't here, she hasn't been home since yesterday." She belongs to the Sub-Debs, that group of girls who always throw a ten-day series of dancing, bridge, dinner and slumber parting at Christmas time. That's all over, now. The girls are recuperating today, getting ready to tackle the last half of the school term tomorrow.

They're Good Students

You'd be surprised, too, at what good students most of those girls are. They are active in extra-curricula life. All of which, combined with their board social experiences, should make for a successful adulthood, or something.

Etolle McLeod, home from Hockaday, looks like Norma Shearer. Her vacation will last another week.

LIEUT. S. T. LOVE breezed in, or rather flew in, unexpectedly Christmas Eve from Barksdale Field, La., to make this holiday a happy one for the Love family. The other Loves, Lois in Natchez, Miss., and Everetta and Ruth in New York City, were unable to get home. The New York branch plans to visit here during the first of the Centennial, as Everetta will be down on business for NBC.

Jack Thomas is well on his way toward a colorful career as a U. S. army pilot. He has six more weeks at Randolph Field, then he goes to Kelly Field to be graduated with a commission in June. From there it probably will be Hawaii or just any old place under the sun. He seems modestly thrilled about it all. Jack left today after spending a week with the family and friends here.

Movie Star Here

There was an interesting visitor in town Christmas Day, Guinn (Big Boy) Williams, jr., motion picture actor cousin of W. O. Stevens whom I mentioned in a letter once before. He stopped off here en route to Los Angeles from a vacation in San Angelo. He's making a picture now, and couldn't be delayed here for that reason. "Big Boy" is a son of Guinn Williams, former congressman from the 13th district.

As I write this I am eating fruit cake and candy, furnished by Mrs. Roberta Doughtie, Mrs. L. G. H. Williams and Mrs. John F. Turner. I kept this at the office because I have a good supply at home which was the courtesy of Mrs. J. A. Hood and Mrs. J. N. Power of Post. All right, now, I haven't gained but seven pounds since the plum puddin' and roast turkey season started in.

MRS. L. S. MAST left yesterday to meet a friend, Mrs. Hattie Collins, in Fort Worth. They will attend the Sugar Bowl game and enjoy a month's stay in quaint, colorful New Orleans. Mrs. Collins, incidentally, is former woman's golf champion of Fort Worth.

Sim O'Neal was home from San Angelo during the holidays.

Fay Thornton left Friday for Ada, Okla., where she is a sewing machine company bookkeeper. She visited her parents, the J. G. Oslins.

A good time was had when W. R. Carruth took the Lubbock branch of his family to the old ranch homestead, the X-Bar, near Brownfield for an annual Christmas celebration. About 50 relatives and friends from over the sector were in the party. Those from Lubbock attending were Mr. Carruth's daughter, Mrs. Rafe Nabors, Rafe and family and the host's niece, Mrs. Betty Hodges.

Miss Bonita Harrison of Hamlin, who teaches at Winters, spent the vacation here and in Post with the Frank Lanottes.

The Elmer Freemans went to Weatherford, Okla., for Christmas.

Legislator and Mrs. Doyle Settle are supposed to leave today for Austin after spending the holidays with Luella's family here and Doyle's folks in Abernathy.

I got a Christmas card from Lloyd Croslin, and was I thrilled. That's the first personal recognition I've ever had from Washington, D. C.

QUANAH LEWIS was home from Spur the past fortnight visiting the homefolks, the Temple Lewises.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Wilson, Henrietta, Jessie, and Mrs. Wilson's mother, Mrs. Annie Henderson journeyed up to Plainview Christmas day for dinner with Mrs. Louis Wimberley who, with her daughter, Lois, returned with them for a visit here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Orvie L. Green stopped here Friday, on the way home to Albuquerque from Cisco, to spend the week-end with the D. A. Forbesses, uncle and aunt.

The F. O. Keilleys and daughter are visiting F. O.'s sister in Dallas.

Terrys Are Back

Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Terry and Rex are back from Dallas and Fort Worth where they spent Christmas with their parents.

We had a couple of interesting weddings the past week. The Schumpert-Crenshaw marriage maybe didn't surprise you, but it did me. I was prepared for a lot of weddings (that didn't happen as far sh I know) but not that one. Truett Smith, who long ago had been pointed out as the bachelor type, surprised me, too.

JUST one more thing, then I'm through for this time. You should have seen some of my young favorites enjoying Christmas. Mary Margaret Eagan got a tiny victrola which she has selected from all the other stuff for constant amusement. She has worn Ethridge and Marjorie out because the handle is too stiff for her to wind.

Jane Holden got a bicycle which she is almost too little to ride. She doesn't know how to operate the vehicle yet, and can hardly wait for the cold spell to pass so that she will be allowed out to learn. Curry is going to have her wear a football uniform to protect her from the inevitable falls.

Santa brought Giles Dalby a bunch of horns with which the Connells, Dalbys, Bentons and Wests have learned to harmonize.

I'm going to a watch party Tuesday night, and next week I'll write you about the nocturnal prowlings and howlings.

Yours, Lou.

Texas Schools Make Progress

Superintendent L. A. Woods Says Normal Progress Being Made Again After Undergoing Economic Stress

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 28—L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, reports that Texas public schools rapidly were regaining normal progress after experiencing a siege of unprecedented economic stress.

In a year-end review he said the outstanding achievement, probably was the restoration of a rather healthful financial program from the standpoint of state support.

Deficit Wiped Out

After several years during which the per capita apportionment was reduced and a huge deficit accumulated, the past year saw the deficit wiped out and the school fund in such condition a reduction in the general tax rate was ordered.

"In the school year 1934-35 the per capita was set at $16.50 and by last Aug. 31 the entire deficit had been eliminated, so that at the beginning of the current school year the state was able to begin payment on a $17.50 apportionment for the first time since 1930-31," Woods said.

$5 Already Paid

"The records in this department reveal that $5 of the current $17.50 per capita has been paid.

Other high spots of the year included raising teaching standards, expansion of vocational education, further curriculum revision and development of the state aid program.

"The state equalization aid program now amounts to a considerably larger sum than has ever been expended in this manner," Woods continued. "This has permitted, among other things, the transportation of many high school pupils to classified and accredited schools who previously had been denied the opportunity of attending. The high school tuition has also made it possible for the state to transfer directly this money to the receiving school."

Transportation Offered

He estimated that 27,718 rural boys and girls were given advantage of accredited high school work as a result of transportation facilities extended by the state.

"There has been marked increase in the issuance of the permanent high school certificate," he said. "Since this document prescribes college graduation it is evident that the general standard of teacher training is being increased.

"This is due, in part, to the rather rigid raising of the standards for teaching in classified and accredited high schools, as well as the gradual raising of the qualifications for teachers in state aid schools.

Equalizing Book Costs

In connection with the curriculum movement, selection of text books is being correlated to fit in with the new curriculum. There has been a program instituted to equalize the text book cost from year to year.

Practically every phase of vocational education was expanded through increased appropriations from state and federal sources. The rehabilitation division added to its department the hospitalization of cripple children and also assisted disabled civilians in preparation for occupations.

Demand for vocational agriculture training was reported as greater than at any time since enactment of the vocational education act in 1917. Texas was the first state to place 10,000 members in the Future Farmers of America, an organization of boys enrolled in vocational agriculture. The trade and industrial section likewise reported progress.

"Public school music has become quite a dominant factor in the curriculum and there has been recognition of credit in both band and orchestra," Woods concluded. "Music has been placed in all of Texas rural schools for the first time."

Annual Student Night Affair To Be Given at Baptist Church

Annual student night program will be given at the evening service at the First Baptist church. The theme will be "Baptist Students Sharing Christ."

Following the call to worship, information about student work of Southern Baptists will be given through questions and answers by different persons.

The third part of the program, "Students Sharing with the Church Their Christian Experiences at College," will be divided into five parts given by John S. Ball, Mary Knight, Davis Casey, Bonnie Thomas and Woodson Armes.

"Closing Moments of the Program" will include a hymn, prayer of resolutions and post-benediction music.

Change Back From Rotary To Standard Tools Is To Be Made

Change back from standard to rotary tools will be made soon after January 1 in the W. T. Walsh-Harry Adams No. 1 Averitt, Gaines county wildcat oil test three miles northwest of Seminole, in order to get around troubles that arose after the standard tools were installed recently.

High gas pressure, estimated at 15,000,000 cubic feet, has caused trouble for drillers, two sets having been lost in the hole and one set blown up 150 feet when gas was encountered. The change was made at 3,000 feet and bottom is now 3,132 feet. Work has been stopped since before Christmas.

Two sets of tools were lost on top of one that was blown up when gas was struck. It had to be bridged when it was found impossible to remove all of the tools.

The location is on the northeast corner of section 228, block G, of W. T. Railway survey. It is one of the active tests in Gaines county that has attracted wide attention in recent weeks.

Once Powerful Utilities King Is Creating Midwestern Chain Of Radio Stations; Backed By Chicagoans

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Dec. 28—Samuel Insull, who once strung together one of the country's largest power systems, is reported ready to embark on a new venture — the creation of a big midwestern chain of radio stations.

Backed by a group of prominent Chicagoans, the developer of the recently reorganized Middlewest Utilities company was said by the Evening American to have formed a new corporation, Affiliated Broadcasting company. It is intended, the paper said, to form the nucleus of a chain of broadcasting stations operating in Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, Iowa and Minnesota as well as Illinois.

UNIT NEARS COMPLETION

SAN ANGELO, Dec. 28 (AP)—The new seventy-six bed dormitory for men at the State Tuberculosis Sanatorium at Carlsbad is nearing completion. The new building will enable the state institution to care for about 800 patients and bring dismissals to an average of more than 2,000 annually. The new ward represents an investment of more than $100,000.

The institution has a waiting list of more than 400, Dr. J. D. McKnight, superintendent, says.

First Three Months Of New Department's Operation Are Evidence Of Its Importance In Protecting Public

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 28—The bureau of identification in the department of public safety made 641 identifications of persons and stolen property in the first three months operation with only meager records and inexperienced personnel, C. G. McGraw, superintendent, reported to L. G. Phares, acting director.

Through the bureau's records 317 criminals were identified, 287 identifications made on automobiles reported stolen and 37 on stolen jewelry and other property.

Files Growing Rapidly

Fingerprint records and index files are growing rapidly, McGraw reported, and bulletins listing criminal fugitives, stolen property and missing persons are mailed weekly to all sheriffs and chiefs of police in Texas, the federal bureau of identification and to bureaus in other states.

"We are receiving reports continually from peace officers and departments who receive these bulletins that several fugitives have been apprehended and stolen property recovered through this medium," McGraw said. "We have been able to classify fingerprints, search our files and furnish reports on all identifications to the contributors within 24 hours of receipt.

Eliminates Delay

"This eliminates the ten to twelve day delay necessitated heretofore when the prints were forwarded to Washington for classification and reports. In many instances before the creation of the state bureau, escaped convicts have been arrested and fingerprinted in remote localities and released before a report was returned from the federal bureau."

McGaw said the bureau had installed a non-criminal file for persons desirous of establishing positive identification.

Realizing Value

"Citizens of the state are realizing more and more the value of fingerprints as a means of identification and the many ways they can be used in addition to criminal identification.

"In reality a fingerprint is nothing more or less than a signature that cannot be forged. All amnesia victims could be identified promptly and turned over to relatives and unmarked graves would be a thing of the past."

McGraw said the bureau was handicapped by lack of appropriations for trained personnel but complimented the aptness of highway patrolmen specially assigned to the division in learning technicalities of the work.

I just got a WHIFF of a wonderful dinner

WHAT does it matter that the car broke down—that he missed his train—that he had a mean day at the office—IF there's a cheery wife and a good dinner at the day's end? What can soothe his drooping spirit like that first fragrant whiff that promises a half dozen delightful dishes in one sweet aroma?

There is only one way to be sure that your dinners will never fail his expectations. Install a Gas Range that will forever banish the cooking mishaps which sometimes plague your best efforts. Ask Them One Question!

SENSING a chance to climb back into the saddle—and they have a chance to do just that—the big bosses of the G. O. P., from one end of the land to another, are playing the "anvil chorus" with the New Deal as the anvil.

Upon the head of President Roosevelt are being heaped maledictions of all sorts.

Nothing he has done has been right, they say.

Everything he has even tried to do is wrong.

Washington is populated by "crazy people;" not a government official has sense enough to pour water out of a tub with instructions on the bottom.

The President, himself, is the worst of the lot and in addition to the utter futility of his plans and his program, he wants to be dictator. He is—and this in a stage whisper—a Fascist and he plans to have us all running around making funny signs like the people in Italy and Germany.

All these things, and many others, are being thumped upon the anvil by the Republican gentry.

And human nature being what it is, some people may take these remarks seriously.

That being the case, there is one thing for the citizen to remember—just one question to ask. That is:

Where were all these critics in 1932 and 1933?

What were they doing when "the going got tough?"

If they are so smart now, why couldn't they have averted the debacle which was responsible for Mr. Roosevelt and his New Deal being swept into power on a flood of votes from every middlesex, village and city in the entire nation?

Aye, readers, gentle and otherwise, there is the rub!

A "NEW HOOVER" is being trotted out for our inspection. A smiling Hoover whose speeches are being written by a man with a sense of humor has been made over from the dour, helpless man who was unable to lift a hand against disaster just a few years ago.

We all know where he was when "the going got tough."

There's Colonel Frank Knox and "the Coolidge of the Prairies," Governor Landon, of Kansas.

Where were they and what, if anything, did they offer in the form of a remedy before the last G. O. P. administration literally was "kicked out into the snow?"

Where was "Ham" Fish? Didn't he have time to take off from his Red hunting to help right things?

Where was William Edgar Borah? And who, outside of Michigan, heard of Senator Arthur Vandenberg in those dark days? Or who, outside of Iowa, heard of Senator Dickinson when men of courage and of brains were the nation's crying need?

And the dear American Liberty league, with Jouett Shouse, and the Du Ponts, and "Ned" Hutton and all the rest of the "country savers" of today, including "the impressionable Mr. John W. Davis?" Where were they and what were they doing then? Mr. Hutton was cruising on his yacht, or playing polo so he is not to be censured, perhaps. But those other gentlemen whose hearts are bleeding today in defense of the constitution. They must have been around somewhere. Why didn't they put their shoulders to the wheel?

BEFORE any American citizen should listen seriously to the "anvil chorus" of our Republican friends and of their disgruntled Democratic cousins, he should ask them that lone but pertinent question:

"Where were you when 'the going got tough'?"

That will rock 'em on their heels because they can't answer the question in a way to defend themselves.

Of course the New Deal has not been 100 per cent successful.

Of course Mr. Roosevelt and his aides have made mistakes—some of them grievous ones.

But what man, or set of men, can remake and remold the economic and social structure of a great nation and, in a brief three years, not make mistakes?

Answer that question and you reach the crux of the whole thing.

Mr. Shouse and Mr. Landon, Mr. Hoover and Mr. Hutton, Colonel Knox and the Senatorial twins, Dickinson and Vandenberg—if one will but analyze the situation—are a bunch of "grandstand managers," a bunch of "Monday morning quarterbacks" and "second guessers."

If they are so smart now, why weren't they smart when we needed 'em most?

That's the point!

Think how much time and money could be saved if the judge would call it a mistrial without bothering to draw a jury.

The News Behind The News

EXIT ETHIOPIA?
By W. Stephen Bush

THE whirlwind changes in the international situation concentrated in the temple of peace at Geneva are not due to any about-face of Mussolini. He is as impenitent as ever. He has scorned to play the part of the prodigal. The change proceeds entirely from the new and strange spirit that has been breathed upon the British Cabinet and particularly upon its minister of foreign affairs.

Almost overnight Mussolini has been metamorphosed from a bad, bold aggressor on the verge of outlawry into a respectable litigant, practically a friend of the court. The Negus on the other hand seems to have lost some of his standing as the aggrieved party, appearing at best nothing more than a co-defendant in a partition suit.

New Prominence For M. Laval

What has really happened? Who has performed these lightning shifts on an open stage and in full sight of the audience? In Paris, London, Rome and Geneva word is given out that the magician was M. Pierre Laval, the premier of France, yesterday an obscure, provincial county chairman, who had been graduated into the upper regions of politics through his experience in horse-trading. It was he, the public is told, who bedeviled a cold-blooded British conservative minister of foreign affairs into signing a lot of wrong papers, provoking a tempest of conflicting emotions in every capital of the civilized world.

Now it is perfectly true that Laval pulled all the levers, but he acted only according to instructions, which he had studied long and carefully. These instructions had been supplied to him from a source which has heretofore studiously avoided the light of publicity. All through the weeks of preparation there was a man behind Laval who inspired and controlled every move. This man was Monsignor Luigi Maglione, who in the recent consistory held at the Vatican was rewarded with a red hat for his diplomatic services as papal nunzio in Paris. Behind Monsignor Magnoline stood the Vatican, with powerful interests, both spiritual and material, to break the blockade of sanctions against Mussolini. This object has now been fully achieved. The sanctions have been derailed. It is unlikely that they will be reinstated, let alone drawn tighter.

MUSSOLINI, to whom the moves behind the scenes were no secret, shaped his own course accordingly. It may be safely asserted that he will continue to be guided by the invisible hand that has shattered his ring of enemies with such irresistible strategy. Now that an official and not unfriendly connection with Geneva has been reestablished, Mussolini will seek the initiative in his hands and dictate, directly or indirectly, the next steps. The Vatican from the very beginning placed full confidence in its representative who, in the last months of the World War, had proven his genius as a negotiator and manipulator in extraordinary emergencies. He had prepared an exquisite plan for a peace of understanding without victors and without vanquished, but because it involved splitting up the old German Empire into two sovereignties it was rejected by both Wilson and Clemenceau—by Wilson out of purely ideal considerations, by Clemenceau because of a fear that France might be cheated out of her full measure of spoil.

Il Duce Expects League Support

Mussolini will now expect the League not only to rehabilitate him morally—which to a great extent has already been done—but he will look to Geneva to have all his titles to the African lands validated and secured. Acting under some sort of special authority from the League, he will arrange an international conference which is to be charged with treating and examining in all their details the Anglo-French proposals, or, if these happen to be defeated, any proposals whatever that will keep the issues between him and the Negus alive. To show how sure he is of getting what he wants along these lines from the League of Nations, he has announced that he will appoint his son-in-law as the publicity chief for the conference. The air will be filled with pro-Italian publicity distributed through all available channels, especially via the radio, the motion picture screen and the press.

It may be that the representatives of the Negus will stay away from these conferences contesting their legality and regarding all their proceedings as null and void and not binding on Ethiopia and its government. It will make little difference to Mussolini, though he would probably prefer to have the lawyers of Haile Selassie appear and enter their protests and objections.

ALL this will mean delay. The longer the proceedings are dragged out the better for Mussolini, for he calculates that the world will get tired of the whole business and that in the end the law of inertia will have its way. Time will wear out the public interest and bring about that return to normalcy which Italy today needs for so many reasons. One example of the damage that the Ethiopian trouble has done to Italy may be observed in that while all the big trans-Atlantic steamship lines have recorded notable gains in freight and passengers, the loss of the principal Italian line has been enormous. In the last three months the line has carried only 507 passengers on its round trips between New York and Naples. Genoa, Trieste and Venice look like cities of the dead. Anti-fascist papers published in Switzerland state that within the last month no less than eighty hotels went bankrupt, according to official records in the bankruptcy courts.

In submitting his final claims for African territory now in the possession of the Negus, Mussolini will make the most of the alleged voluntary submissions of native chiefs and tribes whose lands the Ethiopian feudal lords—the "amhara" proper—have conquered only within the last 50 years or so. No doubt Mussolini will play up these claims and support them by motion pictures taken of the various acts of submission and by the declarations of the chiefs themselves. The Italian government, it is well known, has bewildered many of the chiefs and their subjects by its generosity in supplying them with free water, in promising a long exemption from taxes and full respect for their local laws and customs. The "missionary work" done along these lines by the notorious Ras Gugsa has not been without its effect.

New Maps Are In The Making

When the whole map of the claimed or disputed Ethiopian territory is ready for exhibition to the public and to the international conference under the auspices or at least with the consent of the Geneva body, it will show large new spaces marked, "No conquest, but voluntary submission by natives." One can readily see how all this will prolong the preliminary investigations before a final report can be submitted to the committees of the League, whose work in turn must be passed upon by the Council of the League.

As to the motives behind the Vatican's moves, the prestige of the church required an end of a war in which an Italian statesman and the interests of the Italian people were so deeply involved. The Vatican foresaw that if the war was to continue too long the issues of color and race were bound to be seriously damaging to its own large missions scattered all over the African continent. Mission work can be carried on successfully only in a spirit of peace and mutual understanding among all races.

THEN there were the material interests of the Holy See. The Vatican had paid enormous sums of money for the privilege of exploiting exclusively great stretches of land in Italian Somaliland where certain plants from which incense is prepared grow in great profusion. Besides, the Vatican still holds the one billion lire of the old consolidated loan of Italy which was paid to the Holy See at the conclusion of the Lateran Treaty in compensation of the injuries in 1870 and the subsequent years up to 1928. Nor was this all.

Thus the Vatican had credits in Germany from well-known sources which today amount to over 35 million marks. These moneys cannot be withdrawn from Germany under present currency laws.

"THE SOUND WAGON," by T. S. Stribling: (Doubleday, Doran, New York).

IT IS doubtless indicative of something when two of our best known male novelists become socially conscious within three months. Sinclair Lewis' caustic and perhaps prophetic "It Can't Happen Here" was the first indication of the change; T. S. Stribling's less caustic and perhaps more bitter "The Sound Wagon" is the second harbinger of increasing social-mindedness among novelists.

Mr. Stribling hangs his sermon on the peg of one Caridius, who when the story opens is candidate for the lower house of congress in Megapolis, running on a platform which promises honest elections among other things. Before election day is finished, Caridius has been bought out by the big boss of Megapolis. He had hoped to make enough of a showing to be taken up by one of the big parties; it happens that Representative Blanke dies on election day, so the big boss orders everybody to vote again for Caridius, and Caridius is elected.

Takes Politics For Ride

This quite impossible proceeding is characteristic of the ironic attitude assumed by Mr. Stribling throughout. He takes politics for a fearful ride. He gets into the matter of rackets, of our allegedly limping police, of the international munitions ring, of the banking business. There is no limit to the corruption Mr. Stribling is angry at, nor is there any limit to his delight as he exposes the whole festering mess.

It now is time to stroke the editorial beard and remark that "The Sound Wagon" is not a novel, but a sociological treatise in terms of farce. This is quite true; it is even true that none of the characters is very real in the reader's mind. Nevertheless, "The Sound Wagon" is a logical extension of Stribling's famous Alabama trilogy, with its Colonel Milp Militiades Vaiden, its evidence of corruption on a small scale, and its careful exposure of the civilization this corruption produces.

Stribling has deliberately sacrificed one thing, to gain another, and the sacrifice is not in vain.

Examines New Deal

"THE GAY REFORMER," by Mauritz A. Hallgren; (Alfred A. Knopf, N. Y.).

TIMID souls who feel that President Roosevelt is cleverly edging the country over in the direction of Socialism, Communism, or some other haven of wild - eyed proletarians might get consolation out of reading "The Gay Reformer," by Mauritz A. Hallgren.

Mr. Hallgren is a left - winger who examines the New Deal from the standpoint of the radical; and he reports that the seeds of radicalism just are not in Mr. Roosevelt but that, on the contrary, he is a good capitalist who will never conceivably work to undermine the capitalist system.

Well-Intentioned Aristocrat

He sees the president, in short, as an amiable and well-intentioned man of aristocratic antecedents who has been trying, perhaps without realizing it, "to recreate in the modern and complex industrial society which is America the pleasant human relationships that exist in the manorial community of Hyde Park"—that exclusive suburb of gentleman farmers.

The result? His presence in the White House has helped capitalism, he has strengthened financial and industrial monopoly, and at the same time has served to alloy the unrest of the "masses" by inducing the capitalist state to make certain minor concessions.

Mr. Hallgren does not leap to these conclusions hastily. He presents them after reviewing Mr. Roosevelt's career, especially that part of which has been spent in the White House, in the light of left-wing theory.

And his conclusion, restating it all, is simply that "the bourbon gods were kind to American capitalism when they put this country gentleman in the White House."

Mayo And India

"THE FACE OF MOTHER INDIA," by Katherine Mayo; (Harpers, N. Y.).

KATHERINE MAYO does not seem to like the people of India any better than she did when she wrote "Mother India." At any rate, she is out with a new book—"The Face of Mother India"—in which she offers visual proof of her charge that Hindus are an unclean, incompetent, and eternally contentious people.

This book is composed very largely of photographs, which are well worth looking at, whether or not you share Miss Mayo's views about India.

In All Its Aspects

They show India in all its aspects; the magnificent mountains of the northern frontier, hawk-nosed hill people, modern colleges and other institutions established by the British, workers, farmers, students, priests, temples and shrines and stock exchanges—a remarkable collection of views showing all aspects of Indian life.

Miss Mayo knows how a propagandist should use pictures, too. Her selection includes scenes that are apt to persuade you that she is pretty nearly right in her verdict on the noble Hindu; scenes of filth and horror that will try the stomachs of the queasy.

History Included

Included in the book is a 50,000-word sketch of Indian history by Miss Mayo.

Agree with her or not, you will find that her book makes a deep impression.

Odd Happenings

"BELOMOR," by 34 authors: (Smith and Haas, N. Y.).

SOVIET RUSSIA is a topsy-turvy land, and odd things happen there. One of the very oddest is described in the book "Belomor."

The book itself is odd enough. It was produced on the mass production basis, with 34 authors cooperating to write it. But the event it describes—the construction of the great canal from the White Sea to the Baltic, a project Russian leaders have dreamed of since Peter the Great's day—is even more odd.

Done By Convicts

The canal work was done by convicts—political prisoners and plain, ordinary thugs, second-story workers, prostitutes, and bandits. There were some 30,000 of them, with a scant hundred or so GPU men to guide them; and they went into a desolate Arctic region of bogs and swamps, tangled forests and hills of frozen rock, built their own barracks, made their own equipment, and in less than two years time built a canal well over 100 miles long.

Capitalistic engineers jailed for sabotage laid it out; low-browed veterans of scores of prisons did the pick-and-shovel work. One camp had a financial and accounting staff of men who had been imprisoned for administrative offenses.

Sold On The Job

And somehow the handful of GPU men sold this enormous, unsympathetic mob of prisoners on the idea of doing the job as well as it could be done.

It is really an amazing achievement. The book has a quaint sound to American ears, being full of typical Russian-Communist phraseology; but it does tell of the success of one of the oddest experiments in practical penology ever attempted.

Lucky American Femmes Should Count Their Blessings

BY HELEN WELSHIMER

AMERICA is a good place for women. If Mussolini and Hitler haven't made you count your blessings, maybe Christa Winsloe will. Not because you live in a land where you are permitted to choose your husband when you will, and if you will, and propagate according to your beliefs, but because of the multiple conveniences of daily living.

Helen Welshimer

Christa Winsloe, the author of "Maedchen in Uniform," has decided that she enjoys life in America better than in her own country although her own home, property and an assured income are hers abroad. She set forth the reasons in an article for The Ladies' Home Journal.

Conveniences. Marketing by telephone instead of spending weary hours in a shopping ordeal because fresh, good food products must be personally inspected and chosen. Saving blocks of walking from the meat market to the baker to buy the breakfast rolls. Escape from ungracious treatment.

Life Made Simpler Here

FREEDOM of classes with that friendliness and respect for all which act as lubricating oil for the living process. Being able to drive unmolested on a highway without having your speed measured by the size of your tip. Not having your car waylaid by geese, dogs and horses that get in your path. Not having your ankle aching with the strain of constant application of the brakes.

Hotel conveniences. Railroad accommodations. Trust of landlords. Generosity.

Certainly we believe that castles in Spain are lovely. But remember, we have never lived in them! Bath tubs, hot water, ice, telephones have grown to be essential factors in our mode of existence. They simplify life.

American women, through such a simplification, are given time for leisure, Miss Winsloe says. Leisure consists of the precious moments in which we make a choice of what we shall do.

Mental Adjustment Imperative

YET, with the development of the aids to practical living, somehow we have failed to find peace, poise, serenity. Why? Because we haven't organized our lives rightly. Or maybe our meals come on schedule and we manage eight hours of sleep. Not that. They are external problems.

It is in the matter of spiritual living in which American women seem to err. Our thoughts rush madly from one thing to another; tumble over each other in an endless reiteration of the things we've left undone that we should have done and the things we've done that we shouldn't have done.

Miss Winsloe should have gone one step further in her article and suggested that American women use some of their leisure to perform a mental adjustment.

Life is more difficult physically in foreign lands. Yet, the nervous strain of modern mechanism is gone. There is peace, old world stillness. Oh yes, we should count our blessings but we must admit that we have no monopoly on blessings in general. We can have, though! If we use them wisely, with the appreciation due them which Miss Winsloe recognizes, we will combine the peace of Devonshire and the tranquility of the Kashmir Valley with modern facilities for easy living.

America is a good place for women. Only—we don't seem to know it.

Jap Leader, Recently Here, Called "Another Gandhi"

BY WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Correspondent

WHEN a slight, mild Japanese, detained by immigration authorities because he suffers from a virulent disease of the eyes, can get a special dispensation from the secretary of labor through the president himself to be admitted to the United States, you know he is no ordinary man.

EDITOR'S NOTE

The accompanying article is appearing in nearly 1,000 newspapers in U. S. and Canada and is esp cially interesting in Lubbock in view of Dr. Kagawa's recent appearance in Lubbock.

Prominence of the visiting Japanese Christian, as witness in columns of The Avalanche-Journal, is agreed with in this article circulated by one of the world's largest newspaper syndicates, NEA Service, of New York and Cleveland.

Toyohiko Kagawa is no ordinary man.

Fresh from a triumphal tour of Australia, where people thronged to hear him, comes Kagawa, 46 years old, Japanese Christian, poet, untiring lecturer, author of 50 books, labor leader, welfare worker, philosopher, and herald of the cooperative movement and Christian socialism.

Kagawa's mission is to make a tour of the United States, speaking in about 100 cities in every part of the country until June 30.

Acclaimed by his followers as a selfless saint, a Japanese Gandhi, a messiah come to put in practice the social principles of Jesus, a true world leader, Kagawa's visit was sure to be a sensation in one way or another.

Lives His Principles

Coming from the land of the rising sun of militarism and imperialism, this frail, half-blind man puts behind his principles of peace, nonresistance, and brotherly love in social relations the strength that comes from the fact that he has lived them.

In Japan, his followers number in the hundreds of thousands, and he is rapidly developing into a world figure of the stature of Tolstoi or Gandhi. Though he is a reformer, a labor leader, and an "agitator," Kagawa has suffered relatively little persecution from the Japanese government.

AAA Basis Shift From Crop Restriction To Improved Land Use Proposed

New Method May Be Used

Should Supreme Court Ruling Be Against Agricultural Adjustment Program, New Plan Might Be Used

BY JERRY GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—A proposal for shifting farm benefit payments from a basis of crop restriction to one of improved land use was revealed today to be under consideration at the AAA.

Although discussed several months, the suggestion was said to have been brought into prominence by a study of possible lines the Supreme court might follow in its coming decision on the constitutionality of the processing tax, the present financial source of such payments.

Might Be Launched Soon

If it should hold the tax valid, but decide, too, that it could not be used as an instrument of crop restriction, one official said, the land use alternative might be launched at once.

In practical operation, production control would become an indirect, although still important, result of AAA activities. Proper land use, it was said, would limit output to what could be sold in domestic and foreign markets.

Levies Not For Control

In arguments before the court, AAA attorneys contended the processing taxes were not levied to control production. Their opponents asserted, however, that benefit payments for restricting production were made from processing taxes, and that therefore the levies were used to control the planting of crops. Of the possibilities of the land use program, the official said that "if all the land now planted in cotton or corn or wheat which would be more practicable if growing legumes or forests were planted in these non cash crops, then unprofitable submarginal lands would be taken out of production and the harvests would be balanced."

Regional Soil Service Offices Being Established In Amarillo

AMARILLO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Establishment of regional headquarters of the federal Soil Conservation service has been started in Amarillo.

The regional office, which will control the erosion control work in the wind-swept areas of five southwestern states, was moved here from Dalhart respite vigorous protests by organizations and citizens of Dalhart.

H. H. Finnell, regional conservator for the conservation service, will be in charge and the office will employ about 52 persons. The headquarters will have general supervision over nine demonstration projects and five conservation camps. Demonstration headquarters are at Hereford, Vega, Channing, Stratford, Dalhart, Guymon, Okla., Liberal, Kas., Clayton, N. M., and Springfield, Colo.

Resettlement Administration Permanency May Be Sought

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28. (AP)—Although seeking to avoid controversial subjects that might prolong the coming session, administration sources disclosed today that congress may be asked to make permanent some of the New Deal's temporary emergency agencies.

Rexford G. Tugwell's resettlement administration is one of those mentioned. A definite decision on asking the coming congress for such legislation, however, probably will not be made until the session is well under way.

EASTLAND, Dec. 28 (AP)—Eastland county's quota of 60 rehabilitation clients will be increased to 200 by Jan. 1, George I. Lane, county supervisor of the Resettlement Administration, announces. Enrollment of new clients will start at once.

Long-time farm plans will be worked out as rapidly as possible but meanwhile, direct grants of subsistence will be made, Lane said.

Edgar E. Gray, Idalou, Announces His Candidacy For County Commissioner

Edgar E. Gray of Idalou and Liberty announced Saturday that he would be a candidate for commissioner from precinct 3, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries. His was the first official announcement of a candidacy in this county.

"Since so many friends in precinct No. 3 and throughout Lubbock county have urged me to make the race in the coming campaign for county commissioner of said precinct, I have decided to do so," said Mr. Gray.

Gives Statement

He said in his statement:

"In my opinion this is one of the most important offices that comes as a gift from the people. There are many problems of vital importance to the people that come before the commissioners court, besides looking after the roads. Many times questions arise which require men with courage and fortitude to stand for and to fight for the rights of the people; however, the proper kind of road work should be done at all times and not neglected.

"Feeling that the people have the right to know about my qualifications, and what I stand for, I submit the following for your most worthy consideration:

Come As Soon As Could

"I was born in Navarro county, Texas, Jan. 20, 1882. So you see I came to Texas just as soon as I could, and I intend to stay in Texas just as long as I can.

"I was reared on a farm and ranch; was a cowboy and a plowboy; was never arrested in my life; have had several financial ups and downs, more downs than ups for the past several years, like all others have had save perhaps a special few. After my free school days, I studied law and started to make a lawyer of myself before I reformed. I am a member of the Baptist church.

Voted Democratic Ticket

"I have voted the Democratic ticket ever since I was 21 years old. I was elected to the commissioners court in my native county in 1914, and in 1916 was re-elected to the same place; was also a member of the highway commission of Navarro county for four years.

"In 1924 I moved with my family to Lubbock county, and Idalou has been my permanent address ever since. I own a small farm and live on it. It is paid for. I like the country and I like the people."

Mr. and Mrs. Gray have reared a family of five, two daughters and three sons. Both daughters and one son are married. The two other sons are deceased.

If he is elected, Mr. Gray will rent his farm and move to Idalou, "where I would be most centrally located, and devote my full time—plus to the duties of commissioner."

To Have More Road Drags

His program of work, then, he said, would be to place more road drags in the precinct and to pay out "a good portion of the road and bridge fund to the tax payers for dragging roads, because they are entitled to it and because I know from experience that nothing equals road drags for a smooth surface on dirt roads and because we would have a better system and a cheaper system of dirt roads.

"Of course, he continued, "the tractors and graders would be used in cleaning out the bar-pits and in grading the roads. There would be no big I's and little you's. It would be done without fear or favor for those who would do good and efficient work, and the work would be divided as fairly as humanly possible among those who cared to do the work throughout the entire district. It isn't even possible to keep our roads up in good shape with just the tractors and graders alone, even though they are run all of the time."

Promises Economy

He promised he would be conservative with county funds, but would not hesitate to use them as needed. Stating he had led "the fight for the rights of the plain people on many occasions in life," he declared "I shall continue to fight for their rights from here on out."

"I want the office for the salary that it pays, the same reason any other man would want it, whether or not he would admit it openly as I have done," Mr. Gray said.

"If elected I shall give you the very best that is in me, in return, and then when my time in office will have expired, which will not be longer than the expiration of two terms at most, I shall with a grateful heart move back to my little farm just one mile east of Liberty school house, and build a humble little cottage with the money you have paid me, and let the latch string hang on the outside and continue to try to make a good citizen right here the rest of my days," he said.

Davis Praises AAA Program

Income Redistribution Effected Through Program Started General Economic Recovery, Administrator Says

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Dec. 28.—Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, sought to show Friday that income redistribution "effected through the triple A, started general economic recovery."

In a speech read before a joint session of the American Farm economic association and the American Statistical association, Davis outlined the operations of the Agricultural Adjustment program and emphasized that a balance of industrial and agricultural prices "is vital to the recovery process."

Difficult To Measure

"The operations that made up the Agricultural Adjustment program are not to be credited for the whole of the improvement," Davis said. "Other national policies have contributed greatly, notably the devaluation of the dollar and farm credit relief. "It is difficult to measure the relative influences of the different causes of farm recovery, . . . I simply wish to establish the fact that the AAA has certainly accomplished one of its declared objects; under it, farmers have increased their incomes."

He declared a measure of industrial recovery had followed farm recovery, and attributed "an important part of the general improvement" to increased rural buying.

Causes More Consumption

The AAA, he said, "caused more total consumption, and therefore created more employment than any other redistribution of the national income would have caused, and failure to divert more income to the farmers would have delayed national recovery indifinitely."

Due to Davis' inability to get to New York, his speech was read by W. F. Callander, assistant administrator of AAA.

Quarrying For Marble At San Saba Is Being Contemplated

SAN SABA, Dec. 28 (AP)—Samples of marble from the quarries of San Saba county have been sent to a Houston firm by the San Saba Chamber of Commerce. Many inquiries have been received relative to the huge deposits of marble and other building stones lying south and southeast of this town. The Houston firm is contemplating opening of the quarries soon, R. L. McConnell, secretary of the chamber said.

A Vermont marble company recently had some work done at the quarries located on the former W. J. Moore, the B. R. Russell and H. C. Perry ranches. Much of the material was left as it was taken from the ground there.

Manufacture Of Viscose Rayon From Unused Cotton Stalks Is Considered In Texas; Would Add Cash To Farmer

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Dec. 28—Unused cotton stalks may be converted into great financial gain for Texas farmers, in the opinion of Dr. A. B. Cox, cotton economist at the University of Texas.

Dr. Cox, also director of the university's bureau of business research, said construction of a viscose rayon manufacturing plant in Texas was under consideration. Converted into pulp, the now discarded stalks would be used in making dress goods that would be practically indistinguishable from real silk, he said.

New Process Discovered

Discovery of a new chemical process opened new uses for cotton stalks, Dr. Cox, said he was cooperating in furthering plans for new Texas industry with B. H. Palmer, physicist and chemist of New Jersey authority on the new process.

Various methods have been used for several years, Dr. Cox said, in producing rayon but 88 per cent of the world supply was based on the viscose process, a combination of wood pulp and cotton linters.

The new process would substitute cotton stalks for a part of the wood pulp. Mixed cellulose also would be "admirably suited," he said, to manufacture of high grade paper at low cost.

In addition to a surplus of cotton stalks, usually destroyed, Dr. Cox said other raw materials needed, caustic soda and carbon bisulphide, were available in abundant quantities in Texas.

"If the manufacture of rayon, and, possibly paper, from waste cotton stalks and other materials develops into a large industry," Dr. Cox predicted, "as now seems possible, it will bring to cotton growers of Texas great financial benefits."

WON'T NEED MONEY

HOUSTON, Dec. 28 (AP)—For the first time the Houston public school system will end the year without borrowing.

The system has been on a cash basis for 18 months, having borrowed no money since the close of the regular session in June, 1934. In previous years, loans of approximately $1,000,000 annually were obtained.

Resettlement Project Being Planned For North Plains

MIAMI, Dec. 28 (AP)—Plans to place 100 families on 4,000 acres now available in the Red Deer valley have been drafted by the Rural Resettlement committee of Roberts county. Each family would be allotted 40 acres under the plan.

The committee is to send a representative to Stillwater, Okla., to confer with Resettlement officials about the proposal.

Nearly 3,600 Persons Taken From Relief Rolls By WPA

AMARILLO, Dec. 28 (AP)—Nearly 3,600 persons have been taken from relief rolls to work on the more than 100 WPA projects under way in the northern 20 counties of the Panhandle, A. A. Meredith, district director, announced.

Meredith said that pending projects, scheduled to start about Jan. 1, would absorb other workers. He said the 417 "workables" remaining on Potter county's relief rolls probably would be employed on two highway projects, contracts for which have been awarded.

permanently attained only through Christian love and understanding.

Kagawa is the son of a high Japanese official and one of his concubines, a geisha girl. An orphan at 4, he was reared by his father's legal wife, in luxurious surroundings, "but in tears."

Chose Life In Slums

He studied the Confucian classics, but was converted to Christianity by a Southern Presbyterian missionary. His family disowned him.

At 22, he forsook all his possessions and went voluntarily to live in the vile Shinkawa slum section of Kobe. He rented a small, drab room in which a murder had recently been committed, and which was therefore cheap.

THAT is where he caught trachoma from a homeless wanderer he took in. That is the disease that caused his temporary detention at San Francisco, and made special precautions necessary during his tour.

Misunderstood by the slum-dwellers, he was beaten, robbed, and abused. He never resisted, never called for police aid.

Gradually the came to understand that he meant what he said when he began one of his books with the words, "I love them, that is all."

Near death from tuberculosis, he was nursed back to health by Christian friends after his Japanese associates had deserted him from fear of contagion. Then he went to Princeton Theological seminary, and on completing its courses, returned immediately to Shinkawa.

His book, "Crossing the Deathline," a partly novelized account of his life in the Kobe slums, took Japan by storm in 1920. Kagawa became a national figure. He gave away his money and married a girl with his own interests. When they had children he moved temporarily out of the slums to give them a chance.

SENT to prison with other leaders of a Kobe shipyard strike, he wrote "Shooting at the Sun," a throbbing protest against Japanese materialism. People stood in line to buy the book.

Preaching non-violence during the strike, Kagawa became known as one of the founders of the Japanese Federation of Labor.

Foe Of Imperialism

Kagawa helped organize farmers, and gave great impetus to the co-operative movement in Japan. Today 40 per cent of the Japanese people belong to some kind of co-operative. The movement's magazine, "The Light of the Home," has a million readers.

Active participation in slum removal, earthquake rehabilitation, and many welfare movements has made Kagawa an idol in Japan.

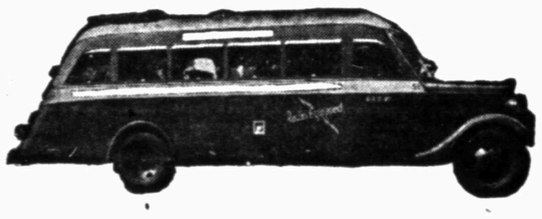

Now his world tour, based on his "Kingdom of God" movement, is expected to extend his influence. He is a bitter foe of Japanese imperialism, including the venture into China.

Last year he stood in a Chinese church in Shanghai that had been ruined by the Japanese invasion, and begged forgiveness for the deed of his countrymen.

IN place of Communist dictatorship, Kagawa urges co-operatives, rooted in the "socialized love" of Christianity. The benefits of his co-operatives accrue to the groups making them up rather than to the political state or to priviate individuals. Through international extension of the co-operative movement, he believes, social security and world peace will be found.

A WORD OF APPRECIATION

As a rule, good counsel yesterday still remains good counsel today.

So we heed the words of the ancient miller: "Let thy product be of the finest, and thy service unexcelled and much business will be thy reward. But fail not to say the appreciative word also, lest those who buy return not to trade with thee again."

So we pause at this season to express our appreciation of your patronage and your confidence in our feeding counsel.

TARZAN AND THE FIRE GODS, No. 85 — By Edgar Rice Burroughs

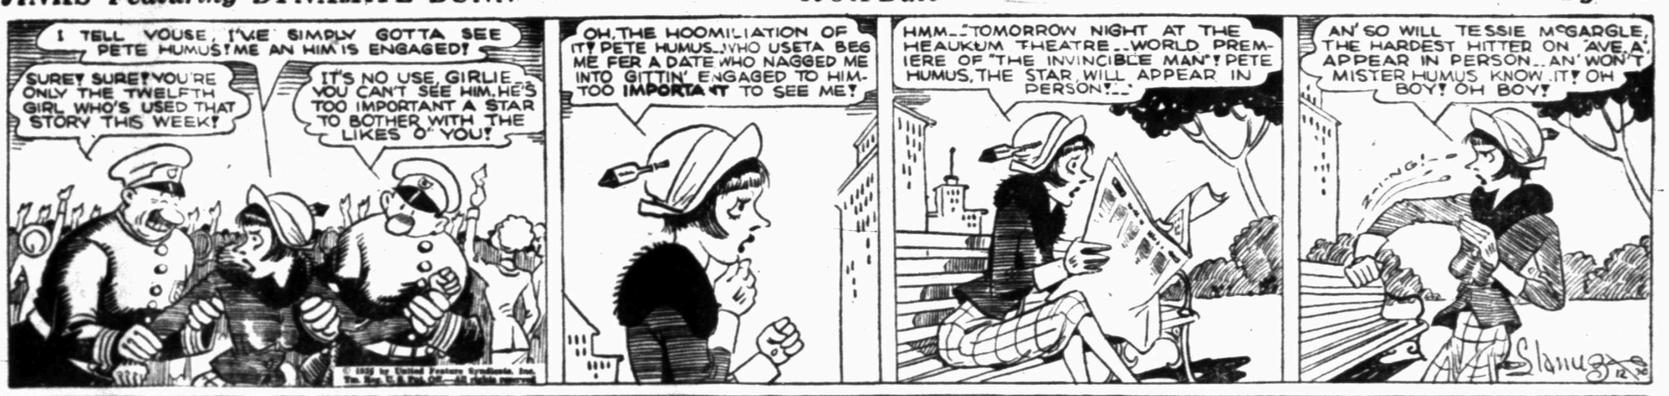

Scaling the palisade of the brigand village, Tarzan dropped lightly to the ground, then crouched in the shadows, his keen eyes and ears alert for danger. The moonlight fell full upon the sentries at the gate. Their backs were toward Tarzan; would they remain thus?

That, concluded the ape-man, was a chance he must take. What was, was; and if he could not change it certainly he would waste no time in ineffective regrets. Stealthily, he crept across the clearing, through patches of brilliant moonlight and dark shadow.

Only the complete silence of his jungle-trained footsteps enabled him to escape detection by the sentries. And now he circled the hut which hid from view the filthy hovel where his friend Tommy Welsh was held prisoner, awaiting cruel torture on the morrow.

There he encountered an unexpected obstacle. Before Tommy's hut sat a guard, a rifle across his knees. Tarzan drew back quickly, wondering if he had been seen. If he had, the alarm would bring the brigand horde rushing down upon him, eager to slay him!

Cycle Of Nautical Movies Starts; Hollywood Will Launch Sea Pictures

BY PAUL HARRISON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 28—The haze of smoke is just beginning to lift from Flickerville's cycle of war pictures, and now we've got ships. Everybody who isn't unfurling a tops'l or battening down a hatch is learning a chantey or fumbling with a sextant.

It may be that "Mutiny on the Bounty" had something to do with the nautical cycle, or else it was just one of those coincidences, like two and two making four. Anyway, every one of the studios is more or less at sea.

There's "Captain Blood," for one. And "Hell Ship Morgan" for another. "Anything Goes" has just been launched with appropriate ceremonies, and a second and saltier musical will be "Follow the Fleet," which has ballads by old Admiral Irving Berlin. "Showboat," a fresh-water revival, is just getting up steam at the Universal dock.

Fifteen boats of various kinds are moored in the Twentieth Century-Fox canal, and the company is readying four pictures of the sea, or with major aquatic sequences. In addition, Fox biographers are working on a story of John Paul Jones.

Sharks And Germs

"PRISONER OF SHARK ISLAND" will have a troupe of real sharks cavorting in the moat surrounding a reproduction of the infamous fortress-prison off the coast of Florida. Warner Baxter has to go swimming with them. The interior of Fort Jefferson, incidentally, has been constructed as a complete cyclorama, the largest, most massive interior set ever built.

The ghosts of a billion malaria germs flit about the big stage where "A Message to Garcia" is being photographed. Fetid swamps are all over the place; mounted men splash through jungle streams, and Wallace Beery takes many a dip as he flounders along. Day I was there, camera and staff were perched on a raft moored in the middle of a pool.

Shirley's A Sailor

"BLACK GANG" (once Captain Lash") is a steamer stokehole story. And "Captain January" is all about a lighthouse and a rock-bound coast on which Shirley Temple is washed up. For this picture they built an inland sea on another sound stage, and on it float real boats.

When fog drifts over the water and plantoons of workmen heave on a couple of wave machines, the whole thing becomes astonishingly realistic, even to a visitor on the set. Shirley's a fine sailor, but two of the crew of the coast guard cutter which2bobs in the tank had to be replaced when they got seasick.

Paying Liner

EXECUTIVES of this studio have a quiet little snicker for themselves whenever they read about the mounting deficits of steamship companies. For Fox owns the most profitable ship in the world, although it never has been launched, and never will be.

It's a reproduction of about half of a large ocean liner, and cost $35,000 to build. But it has been used in numerous pictures, and is rented to other studios for $1,500 a day.

Temptation

THE raids on Hollywood talent conducted by Michael Balcon and other English producers have been the biggest single influence in keeping screen salaries at their fabulous levels. Worst headache for local companies is that foreign rivals offer to pay not only higher wages, but the British income tax as well.

For one reason and another, not many players succumb to the temptation. The reason Richard Dix hasn't is that he refuses to leave his twin baby boys and his wife. Robert and Richard are too young to travel. So Dix continues to struggle along on from $40,000 to $50,000 while the English offer $80,000—clear.

SANCTIONS HIT SINGAPORE

SINGAPORE (AP)—Purchases by Italy of rubber and tin, commodities likely to be affected by economic sanctions, totalled $20,000,000 in 1934. Since this figure represents a large increase over similar shipments in 1933, it is assumed by exporters that Italy is fairly well supplied with such materials.
