Turkey Market In Slaton Is Active

More Than 50,000 Pounds Of Birds Go Out From Town In Holiday Buying; $15,000 Realized

(Special To The Avalanche)
SLATON, Dec. 19.—Over 50,000 pounds of turkeys went from Slaton through the marts of trade to fill demands of Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons this year. This is the report of produce dealers here, and does not include the many sales made to private individuals by local growers, of which no accurate record is available.

Produce men say this season's record is at least 50 percent better than last year's, and predict a similar increase in 1929. This season has been going strong on poultry for several years, but turkeys are just beginning to share the limelight in sizeable proportions.

The average price paid for turkeys here this season has been 37 cents per pound, bringing nearly $15,000 to Slaton turkey growers, and there are many turkeys yet unsold, mainly due to recent price declines. The average weight of the fowls marketed was from 10 to 15 pounds, the heavier ones reaching as high as 30 pounds. A little over 4,000 turkeys were sold.

CHICAGO, Dec. 19.—(AP)—Otto Ruess, who owned 4 cars, a riding horse and a costly North shore home on a salary of $7,000 a year, is going to prison for from one to ten years. While he is there his wife and children will be provided for by the man from whom Ruess embezzled $90,000.

Ruess entered a not guilty plea when arraigned yesterday before Judge McGorty. He changed it to "guilty" when his former employer, Walter P. Paepcke, lumberman, advised him to "take his medicine like a man." Paepcke, in whose firm Ruess was an assistant auditor, then announced he would provide for the embezzler's wife and children while Ruess was in prison.

Author of "Orchid" Has Had "Whirlwind" Career

Perhaps the fact that her first newspaper novel was entitled "Whirlwind" has had something to do with Eleanor Early's "whirlwind" career as a writer of newspaper serial story hits. "Whirlwind" appeared in The Morning Avalanche and scores of other leading newspapers throughout the country just a few months ago and was tremendously popular. Now, Miss Early has written a story which promises to take its place beside "Whirlwind" as an outstanding serial of the year. It is entitled "Orchid" and begins in The Avalanche on Sunday, December 23. Its author has had a colorful career as a newspaperwoman in this country and abroad. She is a native of New England and lives in Newton Lower Falls, Mass.

How to Achieve Beauty

I'm sure I do not have to tell you the importance of cleansing. I have always marked it as the first step in beauty and so must you. Remember, the skin that is not hygienically clean cannot be beautiful. So begin by marking off a short interval during the day. Hang a "Do Not Disturb" sign on your bedroom door, and start in the path to beauty.

Apply a generous portion of cleansing cream with a light finger tip massage. Remove the cream with cleansing tissues using an upward and outward movement.

Santa Gives Modern Parents A Choice; He Has Many New Toys

Old Saint Nick packs many new and novel toys this season, such as (1) a value box... (2) a mechanical airplane flies to a height of 12 feet... (3) an irate tiger, when properly guided, howls and stings... (4) a little old bearded peasant woman is an exact replica of... (5) a little old bearded peasant woman is an exact replica of... (6) a piggy bank... (7) a doll... (8) a doll... (9) a doll... (10) a doll...

By JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer
NEW YORK, Dec. 19.—Parents never have had such a wide choice in the Christmas gifts for the children as this year affords. Old Santa's pack includes gifts ranging from small ones to those that can be had for thousands of dollars. And old Saint Nick leaves it entirely up to the parents whether they are old-fashioned and pick the things they used to enjoy when they were children or whether they go extremely modern and take nothing that does not belong to this motor age.

The decision is in the last analysis, one of the family exchequer. But, after budgeting that, there are certain things that Father and Mother might consider. First, for the growing child, it is usually much better to get one or two durable toys, things whose workmanship commands his respect, than a lot of go-gaws that break at the slightest touch.

Toy Expert Advises
Second, there is a real psychology of toys. Many stores have experts to advise. If a child is nervous, lacks concentration, shows an inclination for things that fret him, parents should start but never finish things, he will get pointers from the expert about how certain toys will correct these defects.

Third, there is a lot to be learned from toys. If they can be linked up with the children's school work, like dolls, animals or other expressions of countries they are studying, they will express an urge in a child, as constructing bridges or painting pictures might, so much the better. Little children, as a rule, like big playthings. Blocks that give them exercise in lift, drink, eggs and other toys that approach the size of big-stead picture books and mechanical things that Father can run for them. They also love things that float in the tub while they bathe, such as ducks that quack, fish that wiggle, and so on. Rag dolls, such as a calico horse, are also popular.

For girls of all ages the market is flooded with dolls. Artistic dolls sound the modern note. More interesting are dolls that are imported from abroad, authentic replicas of the peasant folk of France and other countries. These teach the children much. There are dolls that sing that just dolls that speak. Leather Goose rhymes, dolls all ages, color, size. And household equipment for doll playing, ranging from a little stove with pot to pans to skyscraper doll houses, complete with furniture, and doll beds, trunks and tricycles.

If one can afford them, there are wondrous mechanical things that amuse and educate both boys and girls, such as... (1) a three-ring circus to train with engine, car, pullman and so on, complete with fly, toy motor boat, speed, fire engines that tear apart.

Would You Know One If You Saw It?

If you ever come face to face with a girl, would you recognize it? Of course it is not likely that you ever will see a girl, unless you own a tremendously powerful microscope, for you would have to magnify one over a thousand times to make it as big as a pin head. But you should recognize the fact that these tiny girls can get into your blood stream through the smallest cut, and give you typhoid fever, tuberculosis, lockjaw, blood poisoning, and many more dangerous and prying fatal diseases. There is one sure safeguard against these dangers—washing every cut, no matter how small, thoroughly with Liquid Dettol, the safe antiseptic. You can get Liquid Dettol at Lubbock Drug Company.

Don't dope YOUR COUGH

It is not wise to use remedies which depend upon "dope" such as narcotics, chloroform, camphor or tar products. They may stop your cough temporarily by numbing the throat, or by irritating the throat, but this is not enough. The only safe preparation is one that is safe and effective in curing a cough. PERLUSSIN is a safe and effective cough remedy. It is safe for every cough. It is safe for every child. It is safe for every adult. It is safe for every one.

HOUSTON, Dec. 19. (AP)—The Rice Relays, which have attracted hundreds of the leading track and field athletes of the southwest and middle-west, now are a thing of the past. Record Throng To See Championship Game In Abilene

Yellowjackets Arrive For Tussle With Abilene Team For State Intercollegiate League Honors

ABILENE, Dec. 19.—Shivering in the cold wind which forced the Abilene Eagles to cut their practice session short, the Port Arthur Yellowjackets squad of 22 players, captained by Coach Tom Dennis and "Swampy" Thompson, arrived here today in advance of their state championship fray with the Eagles Friday.

As they had a brisk workout before leaving Port Worth today, the visitors did not take practice before turning in tonight. Dennis announced his charges would be given their final drill Thursday.

Reserved seat ticket sales to Friday's clash on Simmons University athletic field reached 3,300 five hours after being placed on sale here. The sale already has passed $4,000, the amount guaranteed Port Arthur.

Billiard Title Still Unsettled

CHICAGO, Dec. 18. (AP)—The winner of the first world's pocket billiard title remained unsettled today as the result of a series of protests that brought the championship match between Ralph Greenleaf of New York, national champion, and Frank Taberak of Schenectady, N. Y., and former titleholder, to an abrupt end.

The battle between the two ranking pocket cue artists terminated suddenly in the ninth inning of their game this afternoon when Taberak refused to continue play after Greenleaf had left the room twice at the permission of referee Joe Orr. Previously Taberak had entered a protest in the midst of the New York pool shark's high run of 51, when both Greenleaf and Taberak called an obvious combination shot wrong.

The protest will be referred to the tournament committee.

Strolling Down Sports Lane

With Allan Carney, Avalanche Sports Editor

It may be a bit surprising to followers of baseball to learn that E. Garland Braxton of the Washington Senators was the leading pitcher of 1928 in the American League.

Records compiled by the Howe News Bureau show that the Washington hurler was the most effective of them all, allowing only 2.52 runs per nine innings though the records show that he was credited with winning only 13 games and charged with the loss of 11.

Braxton was in 35 games in which he pitched 218 innings and held the opposition to 78 runs, only 61 of which were earned. He allowed 177 hits, gave 44 bases on balls and fanned 94 batsmen. This record goes to show that the pitcher with the most wins on the ledger is not always the most effective. Fifteen moundmen in the same league won more games than Braxton, yet he was leading pitcher of the loop.

Lefty Grove of Philadelphia Athletics led the field in games won with 24 victories and eight defeats. Other American League hurlers who won twenty or more games are: Sam Gray, St. Louis Browns; Walter Hoyt, New York Yankees; George Piggas, New York Yankees; and Alvin Crowder, St. Louis Browns. The iron man of the junior circuit was George Piggas of the Champion Yankees who pitched 301 innings of baseball. He won 24 and lost 13 games and in effectiveness had a record of 3.8 runs per nine innings. He fanned 133 batsmen during the season and gave more bases on balls than anyone, 163.

Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, the Swat Twins of the Championship New York Yankees, were responsible for the most runs during the 1928 American League campaign, according to official figures. Ruth and Gehrig each were responsible for 142 runs. Bob Meusel, team-mate of the famous pair, finished third. Heinie Manush of St. Louis, A. Simmons of the Athletics, and Harry Heilmann of the Detroit Tigers were next in line.

Again Babe Ruth was given the most free passes. The great Bambino received 135 walks during the season. In addition to the above honors, Ruth was the greatest strikeout victim. He fanned 87 times in 154 games. Joe Sewell of Cleveland was the toughest batter in the league from the standpoint of strikeouts, having fanned only nine times in 155 games.

Batting in the American League throughout the season of 1928 was

Nurmi Will Stay With Mile Route On American Visit

Finnish Distance Runner to Hold On To World Crown As Miller While Legs Are In Prime

NEW YORK, Dec. 19. (AP)—Paavo Nurmi is not yet ready to abdicate as king of the world's one-mile runners and fall back on the longer distances for his laurels.

Under the urging of his Finnish-American friend, Hugo Quist, Paavo is fast reaching the point of making up his inscrutable mind to take a few whirls at the old mile route this winter and spring.

Before the inevitable opponent, takes too heavy a toll of endurance and speed. Nurmi today is confident that he can defend his reputation as the greatest runner of modern times against all challengers, provided the distance is long enough.

on a high plane and the statistics show that more than fifty men went through with marks of 200 or better. The majority of these were regulars who were in there in nearly all the games. From start to finish the strike for batting honors was between three men, Leon "Goose" Goslin of Washington, Heinie Manush of St. Louis and Lou Gehrig of New York. This thrilling contest went up to the last week of the season when Gehrig slumped with the rest of the Yankee swatters, but not until the final day was the winner decided between Goslin and Manush. Final tabulation gave Goslin a mark of .378. Manush was a scant point behind him and Gehrig ranked third with an average of .374.

Batting feats of the season of slugging featured the performance of Goslin who hit safely in 23 consecutive games and by Heilmann of Detroit who on July 26 in one game, batted in eight runs. The Yankees again took the team batting honors, but this time they were hard pressed by the Philadelphia Athletics. At the finish the Yankees' team average was .296 and the Mackmen's was .23.

Although neither Washington nor Boston got anywhere in the American League race in 1928, they can well be proud of the defense they put up during the campaign. Fielding records show that Washington had the strongest defensive club in the league and the Red Sox were second. Washington's fielding average for the season was .972 while Boston's was .971.

Good Old Pals—Now!

When the American League magnates met at Chicago recently, these three young managers spent a great deal of their time trying to arrange a few trades. Bucky Harris, of the Tigers, and Roger Peckinpaugh, of the Indians, did make one whereby George Uhle went to the Tigers for Jackie Tavener and Kenneth Holloway. Lena Blackburne, White Sox manager, couldn't horn in on that one, even though he wanted Uhle. Blackburne is shown at the left, Harris in the center, and Peck at the right.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 19. (AP)—While members of the Western team were arriving today, the Eastern squad got down to business with a snappy workout in Kezar Stadium where East will meet West in the annual charity football game December 29.

The Easterners, all in good condition despite their trip across the country, passed and tripped the ball around for an hour. Gridiron warriors who will help the West seek its fourth successive victory, started reporting today. Among those were Petty, end, Texas A. & M.; Walker, quarterback, Texas Tech; Cowan, quarterback, Sul Ross, Texas; Moran and Rohwer, halfbacks, and Dressell, tackle, all of Washington State.

Business College Five Whips Super Service, 38 to 33

Bryant and Kelsey Lead The Winners In Brilliant Win Over Strong Service Aggregation

Two of the strongest teams in the City League tangled up on the Tech gymnasium court last night and when the smoke of battle had died away, the Business college quintet had defeated the fast-stepping Super Service aggregation by the score of 38 to 33.

With Kelsey and Bryant leading the attack, the Business college crew outplayed the Service team in the opening periods and was leading 17 to 6 at the half. A determined aggregation of gas vendors came back in the second half to make a dangerous threat at the lead of the typists. Studeman, Leunberger and Kerr were hitting the basket from all corners of the court. Super Service was gaining rapidly when the final gun-sounded.

"Stoops" Bryant, with seven field goals and three free tosses, led in scoring with 17 points, while his team-mate, Kelsey, came next with 11. Studeman, Super Service forward, registered five field goals in the second half to rank third in scoring.

The Nut Cracker

By Joe Williams

Whenever you see three or four guys go into a room, close and bar the door and stuff the keyhole, what do you suppose they are doing? Playing poker? Wrong! They're probably members of the U. S. L. T. A. wondering what to do about Bill Tilden.

ALONZO STAGG MADE A SPEECH IN CLEVELAND THE OTHER NIGHT SAYING THAT VICTORY WASN'T ALWAYS THE FIRST THING TO BE THOUGHT OF. LOOKING BACK AT THE MARK OF THE MAROONS THIS YEAR, EVEN A CASUAL OBSERVER CAN PICK UP THAT REFLECTION.

Winning isn't the first thing to think of, to be sure, but Stage needn't have emphasized it so strongly.

The coaches are around making speeches here and there. Lots of people leave a comfortable hearth and their favorite comic strips to witness good clean fun like coaches' post-season speeches.

But if you think Bill Tilden is in a bad way, please consider the sweet situation filled by Uncle Wilbert Robinson of Brooklyn. There are 17 factions fighting about Wilbert and all are against him. Just one big happy family.

Eagles Have Impressive Record for Past Season; Contest Will Be Played On Friday

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Dec. 19.—Undeclared, untied, goal line uncrossed or seriously threatened, and no less than four touchdowns in any single game is the record of the Brownsville Eagles, Rio Grande Valley champions, who will meet DePaul Academy, Parochial champions of Chicago, here Friday.

Under the tutelage of Coach Douglas Fessenden, former Illinois University track star, the Eagles defeated every high school team in this section with ease.

Outstanding stars in the Eagles' lineup are Quarterback Newman, Fullback Barruff and Center O'Bryan. The three were almost unanimous choices on the All-Valley teams. Both Barruff and Newman played last year on the Main Avenue high school team at San Antonio, where Fessenden formerly was coach.

Brownsville is a member of the State Intercollegiate League but automatically was eliminated from the Class B championship race through poor arrangement of schedules. The league ruled that the Valley title would have to be decided by Saturday after Thanksgiving but at that time both Brownsville and McAllen were undefeated.

SCRIPTURE: Thus saith the Lord, the Heaven is My Throne, and the earth is My Footstool: where is the house that ye build unto Me? and where is the place of My rest?

For all those things hath Mine Hand made, and all those things have been, saith the Lord: but to this man will I look, even to him that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and trembleth at My word.—Isaiah, LXVII, 1, 2.

MORE THAN A GESTURE

It is more or less the vogue to refer to the Kellogg treaty, rgy well on its way to attention in the United States Senate, as merely an admirable gesture for peace.

Even if it were so limited, the treaty would still be of vital importance. But as a matter of fact, it is not merely a gesture. It is much more. It stands primarily as a peace and official conviction of all the civilized nations of the world that was, as a means of advancing national interests or of determining an international interest or determining an international issue, shall be and is abandoned by them.

Now this is something more than a gesture. It marks a step forward in the relationship of nations which parallels the advance made in a frontier community when courts and a sheriff were provided in order that the ready personal quarrels might be ended. Internationally, it parallels the substitution of the criminal law for the code duello, and precisely as in the cases of the individual and the growth of the law, has been attended by the absolute disappearance of the swords of the cavaliers and the relative scarcity of the gun conveniently carried, so as nations substitute international law for international war, the weapons necessary for the prosecution of hostilities will disappear.

The treaty, of course, implies the early establishment of arbitral methods and a court of arbitration to take the place of batteries and battalions. That step may be confidently looked forward to as soon as ratifications have been exchanged. Other than that, no immediate international action will be necessary until there shall come up some case and perhaps bitter international controversy.

In 1900, 22 cases of industrial poisoning due to arsenic were reported to the British Home Office, and of these there were three deaths. In 1922, there were five cases with three deaths, and in 1923, three cases with one death.

Many years ago, before we knew what we now know relative to the danger of this chemical, its presence in wall papers and in paints resulted disastrously for hundreds of people.

In Great Britain the arsenic of copper and the acetate of copper, which used to be used, have been replaced by harmless pigments.

In this consideration of the dangers of this metal before the International Congress for Industrial Accidents and Occupations, Sir Thomas Oliver called attention to the fact that arsenic is present in the hair and considerable of it may be carried to the skin to produce dermatitis.

Over long periods of time, irritation of the nerve endings is produced.

Years ago arsenic was found to contaminate beer made under bad conditions in England, and there was an epidemic of such irritation of the nerves among persistent beer drinkers.

COUZENS GETS BETTER OF U. S. POCKETBOOK

BY CHARLES F. STEWART Washington Correspondent for Central Press and The Morning Avalanche.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—The richer a man is, the harder it is to separate him from any of his wealth. In fact, to attempt it is to risk separation from some of your own.

Treasury officials ought to have thought of this when they undertook to separate Senator Jim Couzens from some of his.

It all dates from the time, four years ago, when Jim launched a campaign to make income tax returns public.

From the plutocratic standpoint, this was bad enough in itself. Jim made it worse by explaining that he suspected the treasury department of favoritism toward multimillionaires—and adding that he counted on publicity to put a stop to it.

At any rate, the treasury department promptly hopped on Jim with a demand for about 10 million which it accused him of holding out on Uncle Sam.

The fight ended a few days ago. Instead of getting an extra 10 millions from the senator, Uncle Sam retains nearly a million—$989,833 to be exact—no Jim, which, it seems, the latter overpaid into the treasury.

In these hard boiled times of respect only for the "eleventh commandment," and example of actual honesty "plus" on a multimillionaire's part looks pretty nice for a change, when it stands revealed, as in the present instance.

And who can blame Jim Couzens if he sticks his $989,833 in his jeans and keeps it—after what the treasury department tried to do to him.

Too bad the Michigan senator is not as strong on Christ's forgiveness of spirit as he is on financial probity. That's sad truth is that the things he says about the treasury department and its head are terrible.

Indeed, Jim has pending in the senate a resolution calling for Secretary Mellon's resignation, no the grounds of mismanagement of his department.

How he makes this out, considering that the treasury collected $989,833 more than it was entitled to from himself (Jim Couzens), is something of a puzzle.

The secretary had rather the better of the senator, in their row over income tax publicity. Jim did get a publicity law passed, but the next session of congress repealed it.

It may or may not be that Secretary Mellon interpreted Couzens' remarks as a job at himself.

At any rate, the treasury department promptly hopped on Jim with a demand for about 10 million which it accused him of holding out on Uncle Sam.

SO THINK WE

We think it is a grand and glorious feeling when you step into the grocery store and expect to pay fifty-three cents per dozen for eggs and get them at forty-five cents.

We think the same people who wait till the last minute to do their Christmas shopping are the very same folks who wait till six o'clock of the last day to pay their taxes.

We think that possibly Mr. Raskob is going to find a great many people and not resign his job as National Chairman of the Democratic party.

We think conditions are getting pretty bad in some places. We noticed in one of the eastern cities that poverty was so severe that people could not get money enough to buy gasoline to drive their automobiles up to the bread line.

We think there should be a very stringent law against amateur gardeners. We notice where one of these fellows has succeeded in growing a cabbage with an onion, and now won't that be an awful horror if the Christmas gift cards were made from some of that variety of cabbage.

We think that possibly those gambler pals did a good thing after all when they played Robinson, as he was no doubt a public nuisance.

We think that possibly those who are merely fair weather friends, who can not be counted on when it rains? How many care little or nothing about you and your interests but care how much you are able to do for them?

We think after all there seems to be a great deal of something to Almer Patterson. She was the recipient of a Royal reception when she came back from England.

We think even Rotarians cannot always tell when they are safe. Over Michigan way last week the Rotary Association had a march on the boys at the luncheon, and appeared in large numbers just about the time the boys were lighting up their big cigars and getting ready for a rough neck program.

We think that possibly those who are merely fair weather friends, who can not be counted on when it rains? How many care little or nothing about you and your interests but care how much you are able to do for them?

Alister's face. Undoubtedly he would have killed him but for Alister's precaution in bringing Dan to the party. As it was the second kick registered along the side of Alister's head had left him half dazed. But Trigger got no further in his murderous assault. Dan had succeeded in bursting in the door and saw in a glance that Jerry was in no immediate danger. Then he rushed to Alister's assistance as Trigger turned upon him and aimed his silenced gun.

Press Comment (Continued From Page Eight.) national difficulties, although they are without doubt morally obligated. However, we have seen nations violate their moral obligations much too often to feel secure without further provision for peace.

Oh! you're wounded," Jerry cried, and put an arm around Dan's shoulder. "Not bad," Dan said, but his lips twisted in pain and he slumped over, a dead weight in Jerry's arms. She was frantically trying to revive him when Evelyn found her. Dan had rushed so swiftly through the upper hall and disappeared so rapidly up the stairs that Evelyn had not been able to keep him in sight.

She did not know where he was going except to an upper room. She had taken the rear stairs, which were nearer the back entrance, thinking she would save time. But when she reached the second floor she found herself in a wing of the building and not until the heard Jerry's scream did she know which way to go.
