Shivers Plans National Drive For Demo Interposition Plank

RAINBOW MARKET SAFE BLOWN—A burglar apparently poured more nitroglycerine into the Rainbow Market safe Saturday night than he intended to, because the safe was violently blown apart, and the office part of the store left in shambles. All the files of the store were rifled by the burgler. Entry into the building was made through a hole in the roof. The burglar's efforts were hardly worthwhile, however, because only about $7 in change was inside the safe. Police who investigated, said that no arrests have been made in the case. Race Ban Decision Is Given

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today upheld a decision that the ban on racial segregation in public schools applies also to tax-supported colleges and universities.

The decision was given by a special three-judge U. S. District Court in Greensboro, N. C. It ordered the admission of three Negroes to the University of North Carolina.

University officials appealed to the highest tribunal to reverse the District Court and to reverse its own decisions of May 17, 1954, striking down segregation of white and Negro pupils in public schools.

The Supreme Court's action today in affirming the lower court was taken without the customary hearing of arguments. The high court simply issued an order which read:

"The motion to affirm is granted and the judgment is affirmed."

The court noted in its order that it was acting "per curiam," meaning the full court itself was speaking rather than one of its members speaking for the court.

The three Negroes involved in the case were admitted to the university last fall. They are Leroy B. Frasier Jr., Ralph K. Frasier and John L. Brandon, all of Durham, N. C.

The lower court in ordering the Negroes admitted cited the Supreme court's holding in the 1954 school segregation cases that "in the field of public education the doctrine of separate but equal has no place."

Issue Of States' Rights Emphasized

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Shivers said today he plans a nationwide drive promoting an interposition plank for the Democratic national convention.

He said he hopes to make speeches and talk to party leaders widely, hoping to hold the purpose of such plank to broad principles of states' rights without especially pinpointing the segregation issue.

Shivers also said he did not plan to get into the governor's race actively, indicating he would only if pushed into it. Shivers said last week that he will not seek reelection for his fourth term.

Shivers said he would support "principles and theories of government rather than individuals" in the governor's race.

The governor said he had always tried to stay out of other people's political races, operating on the theory that if "they leave me alone I'll leave them alone."

"But if some candidate should try to get me mixed up in his campaign, I might have to reply," Shivers said.

The governor said once more that he would support a presidential candidate in November "who would be best for the future of the nation."

He said he hopes it would be a Democrat, but that his support would be "irrespective of party affiliation."

"A Democrat would certainly be my first choice," Shivers said.

Shivers hopes to lead the Texas delegation to the national convention at Chicago and said he did not think his views would bar him from participating. He said he hoped to carry on his fight for an interposition within the Democratic party framework.

Shivers was among the Southern governors who supported Dwight Eisenhower in 1952. Subsequently he has highly praised the Eisenhower administration. He renewed this stand today, adding only that he did not always agree with everything the President did.

This was an apparent reference to the President's veto of the Natural Gas Bill, which Shivers supported.

Shivers said he would begin his travels in behalf of the interposition plank as soon as the pressure of work in his office would permit. He does not plan to work exclusively in the South, he said.

Shivers said his hope was that interposition would result in a constitutional amendment clarifying and restating the 10th Amendment to the federal constitution which deals wih the division of the powers of government.

"We need to restate the entire position of the states in the federal Union," Shivers said. "Segregation is just one aspect of it."

The governor said the fight to restore title to the tidelands actually was interposition, and that it had succeeded. He said the term had no been used in the tidelands fight, but that it essentially meant a prottst and did not constitute "rebellion or insurrection."

Shivers has urged that interposition be a topic for action in the Texas precinct conventions. He has suggested a referendum on it in the July primary.

LEGAL SNARL

Replacement For Senator Is Problem

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP)—The State of West Virginia today looked to the judiciary and thought about asking the Legislature for the solution to the legal riddle posed by the death of Sen. Harley M. Kilgore.

The term of the 63-year-old Democrat, who died last week, still has two years to run.

There is a conflict in state law on how to nominate candidates for the unexpired portion of his term.

The State Supreme Court hears a petition today by Philip H. Hill, a Charleston attorney whose certificate as a Republican primary election candidate was refused by Secretary of State D. Pitt O'Brien last Saturday to test the question.

Gov. William C. Marland, a Democrat, was due back in his office after a fishing vacation in Florida. Legislative leaders are on record as favoring a special session to clarify the nominating procedure.

Marland, the man who would call the session, also is reported to favor legislative action to clear up dilemma.

The riddle is this:

One section of state law provides that nominations shall be made (1) in the primary if the vacancy occurs more than 30 days before the primary, which is the case in this instance, or (2) in party conventions if the vacancy occurs within 30 days of the primary.

However, another section of the law sets the deadline for filing for the primary at midnight, Feb. 4, the 14th Saturday before the primary.

When legislators advanced the filing deadline a few years ago, they neglected to amend the section dealing with vacancies.

Atty. Gen. John G. Fox has given the opinion that candidates should be chosen in the primary.

Meanwhile, Marland must name a successor to Kilgore to serve until the general election next November. A strong possibility is that he will appoint Mrs. Lois Lilly Kilgore, widow of the senator.

Low Pressure Area Invites Cold Weather

The Associated Press

A low pressure trough lay over West Texas Monday, inviting a Pacific cold front into the state.

The front was expected by Tuesday with cooler temperatures and dusty winds, but no rain.

Clouds and some fog covered the upper and middle Gulf Coast and extended upward into Central and East Texas early Monday. Fog cut visibility at Beaumont, Galveston, Corpus Christi and Houston. Brownsville was clear.

Temperatures fell early Monday to near freezing in the Panhandle, where minimums included Dalhart 34 and Amarillo 40. Corpus Christi had the high minimum, 72. Others: Lubbock 37, El Paso 54, Texarkana 59, Abilene 61; Lufkin 62; Beaumont, Galveston and Waco 63; San Antonio, San Angelo and Dallas 64; Laredo and Brownsville 68.

Sunday was generally fair and warm, with cloudiness building up along the Gulf Coast and in the extreme south. Houston and Palacios reported light rain. Maximum temperatures Sunday ranged from 89 at Laredo to 69 at Galveston.

Warmer weather prevailed over the central and southern portions of the nation today with precipitation confined mainly to the Northwest, where snow flurries were reported.

Temperatures were as much as 20 degrees higher than yesterday's in the area from Texas northwestward to the lower Great Lakes region.

Arab And British Tension Mounting

LONDON (AP) — Britain recalled the remaining senior British officers in Jordan's Arab Legion today in retaliation for King Hussein's curt dismissal of Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb, the Arab Legion founder and commander.

Prime Minister Eden made the announcement in a tense session of the House of Commons, against mounting demands for a hardening of the British attitude toward the Arabs.

King Hussein replace Glubb last Thursday as commander of the British-financed Arab Legion with the Arab general who had served as Glubb's deputy.

Eden voiced "resentment" at the firing of the British commander, who had built the Arab Legion into one of the finest fighting forces in the Middle East. Eden's statement followed an emergency Cabinet meeting.

British army officers have served in key posts in the Legion.

Eden told the House:

"In our opinion officers in executive commands cannot be asked to continue in positions of responsibility without authority. We have, therefore, asked that such officers should be relieved of their commands.

"Those on the active list of the British army—about 15 in number will be recalled.

With threats of a revolt even inside the Conservative party against the Eden government policy in the Middle East, the Prime Minister said:

"We are considering the effect which these events would have on our relations with Jordan and indeed on the whole situation in the Middle East. These matters we are discussing with our Allies, but I do not propose to comment on this wider aspect today."

Voting Slated For Veterans Day Here

Members of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce will vote within the next few days on whether to add a new holiday to those which are recommended by the chamber merchants committee and observed by most businesses here.

The holiday in question is Veterans Day on Nov. 11, which would honor veterans of all wars. The merchants committee has already recommended for observance here six other holidays, which are Memorial Day on May 30, Independence Day on July 4, Labor Day Sept. 3, Thanksgiving Day Nov. 22, Christmas Day, and New Years Day.

The merchants committee, headed by Jim Mixon, also has several other projects scheduled. A subcommittee of Bob Taylor, Carl Whitfield, Chuck Wolfe, and Ben Young will work on the Christmas decoration program here in an attempt to make it more economical.

Taylor was appointed to work with the agriculture committee as a merchants committee representative on the proposed local observance of National Cotton Week May 14-19. Two members of the agriculture committee, Dr. Robert Kidd and Bentley Baize, met with the merchants committee concerning the special week.

A study will be made by the entire merchants committee concerning special merchants promotion days, such as Dollar Day and other projects requiring cooperation of all merchants, to see what improvements can be made.

In other recent committee action of the chamber, the tourist development committee, headed by Tommy Davis, began plans for a new Snyder brochure. It has been four years since one has been published.

The public relations committee, headed by Bud England, is working toward farmer - businessmen dinners to include entertainment programs and to be held in the rural communities. That committee will also represent the chamber in area meetings and will be the chamber's official welcoming committee for any officials visiting here.

Oil Money Donation To Goldwater Aired

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) says he accepted a campaign contribution from a member of the family that controls Superior Oil Co. of California.

Goldwater added, in an ABC-TV interview yesterday, that he doesn't think this should affect his membership on a special Senate committee planning a broad investigation of lobbying and campaign contributions.

He said he could name "four or five Democrats who received contributions" from the same source. He did not elaborate.

An aide in Goldwater's office quoted the senator today as saying his contribution came from "Bill" Keck.

There are two William Kecks in the family. William Myron Sr. is Superior's board chairman. One of his sons, William Myron Jr. is an independent oil operator.

Records in the office of the Arizona secretary of state list a contribution of $250 for Goldwater's campaign fund from a Matthew Keck of Chicago. The Goldwater aide could not place that name.

The special investigating committee and another, smaller Senate group, were set up after Sen. Case (R-SD) disclosed he rejected a $2,500 campaign fund offer during the recent Senate debate on the controversial natural gas bill.

The money offered Case was traced by the smaller special committee to personal funds of Howard B. Keck, president of Superior Oil. John M. Neff, an oil company lawyer-lobbyist who made the offer, testified there were "no strings attached."

Robert K. Goodwin, Iowa Republican national committeeman, has testified Neff made two offers, of $2,500 and $1,000, both rejected. Neff, a lawyer-lobbyist for the Superior Oil Co. of California, has denied making either offer and said he talked with Goodwin only once, in Des Moines.

Neff's activities in Iowa came under investigation as part of the committee's efforts to determine whether an improper attempt had been made to influence the vote of Sen. Francis Case (R-SD) on the natural gas bill.

The special committee has traced a $2,500 contribution Neff offered for Case's re-election campaign to the personal funds of Howard B. Keck, president of Superior Oil. Neff testified there were "no strings attached" to the offer, which Case rejected.

The four-member committee investigating the Neff-Case affair has almost finished its work, but a larger special committee is to take over a broader probe of lobbying and campaign contributions. It still is trying to agree on rules of procedure.

Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz), a member of the larger committee, said during an ABC-TV interview yesterday that he had received a campaign contribution from the Keck family but didn't consider that a reason to disqualify himself.

"If Mr. Keck likes the way I vote he has a perfect right to give money to me," Goldwater said. Neither Keck nor any of about 200 other contributors to his campaign has ever asked a special favor of him, the senator added.

Neither Goldwater nor his questioner made clear whether they were talking about Howard Keck, though the questioner referred to him as "Mr. Keck, who seems to be, shall we say, the source of this trouble at the start."

The questioning, however, grew out of an earlier Drew Pearson broadcast during which an aide said Pearson reported that Goldwater had received a contribution from Matthew Keck of the Superior Oil family.

Land Dealer Facing Trial

AUSTIN (AP)—B. R. Sheffield, Brady land dealer, faced trial here today on felony charges growing from the veterans land program.

The three-county indictment was brought last spring.

Former Land Commissioner Bascome Giles and Sheffield were indicted jointly in several cases. Giles was tried first and is serving a 6-year term at Huntsville. He was convicted here on a charge of aiding and abetting theft by Sheffield.

Defense attorney Everett Looney has had subpoenas issued for 186 defense witnesses, including Gov. Shivers and Atty. Gen. Shepperd. Dist. Atty. Les Procter has called 36.

Sheffield is charged on two counts of theft and one count of conspiracy to commit theft in a Kinney County land deal in late 1954 The indictment charges Sheffield with theft, in conjunction with Giles, of $6,000 in veterans land program funds Nov. 4, 1954; theft of the same amount on the same date with Giles as an accomplice; and consiracy with Giles to steal $6,000.

Giles pleaded guilty to nine other charges of acting as accomplice to theft by Sheffield in the Kinney County deal.

SCURRY COUNTY GIVEN OLD STEAM LOCOMOTIVE

The Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific Railway has donated to Scurry County a coal-burning steam locomotive, and the engine will be placed in Towle Memorial Park.

Reason for the contribution of the engine is to help preserve for future generations knowledge of the past. The engine had already become an obsolete mode of transportation, since no more steam engines are being built for railroads.

Elroy Miller, general agent here for RS&P, said the engine, No. 5, was the fifth bought by RS&P, in its nearly 50 years of operation between Roscoe and Snyder. It weighs 111,400 pounds, while the tender weighs 33,020. It is being painted black with white lettering, this week at RS&P's shop in Roscoe, and it is tentatively scheduled to be taken off the track and transported to the park next Monday. Canyon Trucking Co. of Snyder is donating its labor to move the engine, according to County Judge Edgar Taylor. An RS&P section crew will set ties and rails in the park for the engine and tender. At last report, it had not been definitely decided just where in the park the engine would be placed.

The contribution to the county was made through concurrence of several RS&P oficials. They included Don Wooten of Abilene, president; William L. Bailey of Abilene, executive vice-president A. H. Haney of Roscoe, vice-president in charge of operations; R. O. Dobbins of Roscoe, auditor; and E. J. Wrothy of Roscoe, vice-president in charge of traffic.

House Group Hears Testimony By Smith

By BO BYERS

AUSTIN (AP)—Garland Smith testified today he feels enforcement of the Insurance Securities Act which took effect Sept. 6 was the responsibility of the Insurance Commission.

The commission, which Smith headed at the time, has come under sharp criticism for allowing U.S. Trust and Guaranty Co. to continue its sale of certified drafts for more than three months after the Securities Act became effective.

Smith's testimony—the first he has given publicly in connection with failure of the Waco banking-insurance firm—was given as the House Investigating Committee resumed its inquiry into circumstances surrounding the company's demise.

Rep. Scott McDonald of Fort Worth asked Smith if he felt it was the commission's responsibility to see the Insurance Securities Act was complied with.

"I think so. It was our responsibility," replied Smith.

He testified the course of action leading up to receivership for U.S. Trust Dec. 15 was based on the judgment of both the commission and the attorney general. His testimony thus seemed designed to place some responsibility on Atty. Gen. Shepperd for the way the matter was handled.

The former Insurance Commission chairman insisted the commission acted as rapidly as possible against U.S. Trust.

He told the House Investigating Committee:

"Taking into consideration the question of appraisals, solvency and complicating factors . . . I do not consider the board was dilatory, taking into account the information possessed by it at that time and the grave consequences which could follow hasty, unproven charges and the attendant publicity."

Ike Sends Bulganin New Note On World Disarmament Plans

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower has sent to Moscow a new note urging Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin to join him in making a start on a world disarmament program.

The letter constitutes the latest round in a propaganda duel which the two men have been carrying on over disarmament and world peace for many months.

Eisenhower's note was due to be delivered to the Soviet Foreign Office today by U.S. Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen. Washington officials said administration plans call for it to be made public tomorrow.

It was learned the note first was dispatched to Moscow late last week, but poor radio reception forced a lengthy repeat transmission and delayed plans for a public announcement during the weekend.

The Eisenhower message is both a negative reply to Bulganin's repeated proposal for a Soviet-American friendship treaty and a positive reassertion of Eisenhower's own "open skies" disarmament plan.

The Eisenhower-Bulganin correspondence started after the summit conference last July. It was at that time that Eisenhower proposed that the United States and Russia exchange aerial reconnaissance and military blueprints as a first step toward disarmament.

Bulganin severely criticized the President's plan in a letter last September. Then at the Geneva foreign ministers' meeting in November, Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov said bluntly that Russia would not accept the Eisenhower plan.

Subsequently Bulganin made his proposal for a friendship treaty and Eisenhower turned it down.

AREA OIL ROUNDUP

S,West Borden Extender Finals

One-mile south extension to the Jo-Mill (Spraberry) field of Southwest Borden county has been completed by Midwest Oil Corp. as No. 1-A Bond.

The well was finaled for 198 barrels of 38-gravity oil and 36 barrels of water in 24 hours.

Production was through a 14-64-inch choke and perforations at 7,146 to 7,182 feet after fracturing with 15,000 gallons. Gas-oil ratio was 665-1.

The new extender is 791 feet from north and 2,300 feet from west lines of section 25, block 33, T-4-N, T&P survey and 10 miles north of Vealmoor.

Southland Royalty Co. No. 1 Dorward, workover operation in Northwest Borden County, is preparing to set a bridging plug and test higher in the hole after swabbing from Devonian through perforations at 9,866 to 9,877 feet.

Operator swabbed 12 barrels of 37-gravity oil and 129 barrels of water from those perforations in 24 hours. Section had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and re-acidized with 6,000 gallons.

The 9,970-foot Ellenburger failure originally was drilled by Helmerich & Payne, Inc., and plugged in June, 1953.

Location is 330 feet from north and west lines of section 10, block 32, T-5-N, T&P servey and nine miles northwest of Gail.

A discovery from an unidentified formation, possibly the Strawn or Odom, was indicated in West Nolan County at Graves & Bardley of Midland No. 1 Lance Sears.

This re-entered wildcat failure was flowing load oil at the hourly rate of 20 barrels at last report.

Flow was through a 13-64-inch choke and perforations between 6,934 and 6,968 feet, which had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and treated with 10,000 gallons of jel acid.

Tubing pressure was 750 pounds.

It is 330 feet from south and west lines of section 151, block 1-A, H&TC survey and three and one-half miles west of the Venamadre (Strawn and Odom) field and two miles north of the Nena Lucia (Strawn) field.

The project was originally drilled by Choya Drilling Co. of Midland and abandoned at 7,850 feet.

Hunt Oil Co. No. 1-58 C. E. Boyd, re-entered dry wildcat in East Nolan County, has been abandoned the second time at total depth of 7,056 feet.

This project was on the southeast side of the EVB (Ellenburger) field and 660 feet from north and 560 feet from west lines of section 58, block X, T&P survey.

Apparently the testing after re-entering was without results.

Third pay, the Mississippian, was indicated in the Tompkins (Strawn and Bend conglomerate) field of Stonewall County with the recovery of oil and gas on a drill-stem test at J. R. McLean and J. D. Tompkins No. 1 W. B. Trammell.

Interval tested was from 5,914 to 5,961 feet with tool open two hours. Recovery was 810 feet of gas, 20 feet of heavily oil and gas cut mud, 40 feet of slightly gas cut mud and 50 feet of slightly oil and gas cut salt water. There was a weak to fair blow of air.

Operation is now drilling deeper.

Location is 517 feet from north and 467 feet from west lines of W. C. Vardeman survey No. 347 and 10 miles south of Aspermont.

SNOW SLIDE SCENE—Rescue workers and family men whose homes were crushed by roaring snow slide, walk among debris, checking damage and salvaging household goods. A slide in Burke Canyon in 1910 killed 16 persons. This region has been hit by heavy snow.

New Israeli, Syrian Clash Is Reported

JERUSALEM (AP)—A new Syrian-Israeli clash brought war closer to the seething Middle East today.

Two Israeli policemen were killed as the two sides exchanged fire on the shores of the Sea of Galilee yesterday less than 48 hours after Jordan's King Hussein fired British Lt. Gen. John Bagot Glubb, the veteran Arab Legion chief.

The enraged Israelis branded the latest Galilee incident "a wanton attack." The Syrians also captured two wounded policemen.

Western diplomats expressed open concern the Galilee clash might set off a chain reaction at a time when tensions are at their highest since the Arabs and Israelis fought in 1948.

"It's just this sort of shooting incident that can explode into a full-scale war right now," said one Western diplomat.

Western circles feared Israel might use the latest incident to launch a "preventive war" while she felt she still enjoyed military superiority.

There was also apprehension that with Arab nationalism flushed to a new high by pride over Glubb's ouster, the Arab states might decide to go into action.

Jordan's dismissal of its military head brought a flurry of activity in Middle East and Asian capitals.

Dorothy R. Green, 5802 Cochran St., Houston, Texas, writes us that she lost 32 pounds taking Barcentrate.

Barcentrate is the original grapefruit juice home recipe for taking off ugly fat, without starvation diet or back breaking exercises.

You will not know a hungry moment while taking Barcentrate. Barcentrate liquid is so vastly different from all the pills and capsules now being sold. It has stood the test for over 13 years. Over six and a quarter million bottles sold in Texas.

If the very first bottle doesn't show you the way to reduce, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Woman To Celebrate Her 103rd Birthday

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Maria C. Lindstrom, an immigrant from Sweden, was told by a physician 42 years ago that she had only three months to live.

She will celebrate her 103rd birthday Thursday.

Mrs. Ida Curry Celebrates Her 83rd Birthday On Sunday

All ten living children and three grandsons she reared helped Mrs. Ida Curry celebrate her 83rd birthday at a traditional party held here Sunday. Fifty relatives from three states attended the all-day event in the Curry home, at 3112 Avenue K.

This was the first time all the brothers and sisters, all of whom at one time or another, have lived in Snyder, had ever been together at the same time.

A resident here since 1919, Mrs. Curry reared 12 children and three grandsons. She was born in Camp County, Tex. Her only living sister and one of her two brothers also attended the party. They are Mrs. E. F. Thompson of Dallas and Levi F. Teague of Rosser.

Hosts for the party were Mrs. Herman D. Morton of Midland, Mrs. Glynn C. Snyder of Crane and Mrs. Kenneth Snyder of Snyder. Floral decorations for the house included arrangements presented to the honoree by Mr. and Mrs. Mike Moore of Big Spring and Mr. and Mrs. Lee T. Stinson.

Mrs. Curry's pillow corsage was of red carnations.

In addition to the 10 children, Mrs. Curry has 25 grandchildren, 36 great grandchildren, and two great great grandchildren. Her husband, A. M. Curry, died here in 1930.

The children are O. W. Curry, A. E. (Bill) Curry and Mrs. G. M. Wilson, San Angelo; Elmo and H. L. Curry, Miles; Mrs. John McBeath, Birmingham, Ala.; R. C. Curry, Eunice, N. M.; E. L. (Sykes) Curry, Hobbs, N.M.; Mrs. Herman D. Morton, Midland and Allene Curry, Los Alomos, N.M. Olan W. Curry of Killeen, Glynn C. Snyder of Crane and Kenneth H. Snyder of Snyder and the three grandsons reared by Mrs. Curry.

Attending the party also were Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Sissel, Ann Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Finch, Becky and Diana Johnson, San Angelo; Mrs. Hazel Waller and Herbert Jonte, Dallas; Mrs. Jessie Voss, Mrs. May Voss, and Glenn Voss, Post.

Young people are more often subject to headaches caused by vision difficulties than are older people.

Thieves Do Amateur Job Of Safecracking

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—A Norman automobile agency will have to call in professional safecrackers to finish a job started by unsuccessful amateurs.

Police said the would-be thieves apparently attacked the safe with everything from welding equipment to crowbars, but succeeded only in jamming the safe so it could not be opened. The safe, at the Cook Studebaker Agency, contained about $1,500 in cash and checks.

The thieves got only about 28 cents left in a cash drawer for their troubles.

Unreasonable Subject

Those Democrats who hope to ride into office on President Eisenhower's state of health are just as unreasonable as those Republicans who have caller for a moratorium on that subject during the upcoming campaign.

The President himself has made no attempt to conceal his health, or hide his concern for same, or to shy away from the subject. Of course it's definitely an issue in the campaign, and the effort of certain Republican leaders to make it taboo is ridiculous.

But not as ridiculous as the Democrats would be to harp on it continually, drag it into every speech, and depend on it as the decisive factor in the campaign. Adult Americans are quite capable of making up their own minds as to whether the President's heart condition should bar him from further political activity, and continual harping on the subject by Democratic orators would be resented by a great many. It would obscure the many issues that distinguish Democrats from Republicans, and intensify the natural sympathy almost all Americans have for Mr. Eisenhower's condition.

The record of the Eisenhower administration is a legitimate campaign issue, and the President made it clear he intends to stand on it.

It is a simple mathematical fact that Democrats outnumber Republicans by some millions of votes, and the 1954 congressional elections underscored that fact.

To lure the necessary millions of normally Democratic votes into the Republican presidential column this year the GOP must be ready to defend the record of the Eisenhower administration all the way down the line. That record is vulnerable at a number of points—the farm issue, labor law revision, the handling of foreign affairs, the cutbacks in military strength in the face of mortal peril, failure to balance the budget and so on—and Democratic orators would do well to hammer away on the issues, which concern Mr. Eisenhower's political performance, rather than dragging in his physical condition on every occasion. By the same token GOP orators would do well to defend their record rather than trying to ride into office on the President's coattails.

Clearing Atmosphere

Governor Allan Shivers has now taken himself out of office-seeking for this year at least, which cleared the gubernatorial atmosphere to some extent, though few had believed he had any intention of seeking a fourth term.

The gubernatorial atmosphere was still further clarified at almost the same time by Ralph Yarborough's admission that he had accepted $1,000 from an oil attorney whose name had figured largely in the celebrated offer of $2,500 in campaign funds to Senator Case (R-ND) and rejected by him. This incident is hardly calculated to enhance Yarborough's political oomph under the circumstances.

With these two dear enemies on the sidelines Texas has an opportunity to elect as governor a man who stands free of the turmoil that has surrounded this office for the last four years, a man of outstanding ability, a man who can in effect start from scratch in reconciling the contending factions of the Democratic Party in Texas.

Who this paragon is we have no idea but no doubt he exists.

Governor Shiver's swan song was a defense of principles he has stood for. So far as we can recall it was the first time in history a Texas governor ever spoke with pride of the fact that partly under his regime total state expenditures had increased between 1946 and 1955 from $300 million to $700 million a year. Of course the thoughtful citizen understood his point—increased service to the people under inflationary conditions—but his enemies must have got a sardonic smile out of it.

Texas could use a little quitetude on the political front for a few years; there are great and momentous state problems to be solved, and they can never be solved in an atmosphere of strife and bickering.

If the rivals for leadership would stand aside in May and let the people work out their problems by themselves in the precinct, county and state conventions it would be nice and perhaps, would resound to the glory of the state.

Female Hermit On Top Of Mountain Has Same Problem As Those In Apartments

MT. KINTOKI, Japan, March 5 (AP)—A single girl living alone atop a Japanese mountain has one problem in common with a single girl living alone in a Manhattan apartment—men with ideas.

It is probable, however, that Taeko Komiyama solves it by more direct action.

"I use judo on those I can handle. When there's one I can't handle that way, I run out into the forest, climb a tree, and hide in the top branches until he cools off.

So far it's worked so well that the 25-year-old mountain maiden has a record of one escaped murderer knocked out, more than a score of amorous males put to rout, three tree climbs and hundreds of young Japanese girls who also want to be female hermits.

Actually, sturdy five-foot Taeko is not a hermit but a charming, vivacious girl who likes people. Her greatest joy is the knowledge that she has talked many desperate people out of mountain suicide.

Famed throughout Japan as "Kintoki Musume" ("Kintoki Daughter,") she moved to Mt. Kintoki's 3,700-foot peak seven years ago, shortly after the death of her beloved mountain-guide father in an accident.

With the help of her brothers, all farmers, Taeko added a tiny teahouse room to the original hut they had built. The money she makes selling tea and cakes to hikers during the spring-to-fall climbing season buys her food and other simple wants for the four winter months she lives alone amid snow and below-zero weather.

Taeko finds three major compensations for winter's cold and snow.

The quiet solitude gives her hours for reading, particularly the Bible. She is a devout Christian.

The winter means much less work. Climbers wanting cakes are few. And melted snow supplies water which in summer she carries from the village—four to five gallons every other day. It takes the average Japanese hiker three hours to climb to the peak. Taeko makes it in 40 minutes.

Also, the winter means much less trouble for men with ideas.

"You know how it is," she smiles. "In spring, a young man's fancy —. Well, that figures for summer and fall too."

Taeko's worst experience happened last winter.

A murderer under death sentence escaped jail and climbed the mountain with, he later confessed, the definite intention of "becoming famous by killing the famous Kintoki Musume."

Taeko tells the story:

"He burst into my house at night and before I knew what was happening he was stabbing for my throat with a wicked - looking knife. I suffered some cuts before I was able to knock him unconscious. Then, blood streaming from my cuts, I ran down the mountain to the village screaming 'Murder,' and told the village police."

The convict had regained consciousness and fled before police arrived, but he was captured a few days later.

Despite such experiences and the fame they have brought her in Japan, Taeko is more proud of her work in preventing suicides.

In her seven years on Mt. Kintoki, dozens have climbed with the intention of either killing themselves there or taking a last look at nearby Mt. Fuji before drowning themselves in a lake at Kintoki's base.

The mountain girl believes she has talked almost all of them out of their suicidal intentions. "I still hear from some of them. They write or climb my mountain and talk with me."

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

YEARS OF TRIAL AND HOPE. By Harry S. Truman. Doubleday.

Truman's second volume of his memoirs hit the nation's bookshops today, reminiscent of one of his "Give 'em Hell" campaign speeches. It is the personal report of one of history's most controversal figures.

Embraced in the 521-page volume is enough controversy to keep statesmen and politicians at each other's throats for years to come.

The Democratic president from Missouri, always a scrapper, has already drawn the fire of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Patrick J. Hurley and others whose careers brought them into bitter difference with him. Their champions will be fighting his champions over Truman's many clashes with men in high places during the more than seven and a half years of recurring crises that punctuated his occupancy of the White House.

How to deal with the unprecedented problems of atomic energy, the explosive Chinese situation and the subsequent loss of the mainland to the Communists, the Greek -Turkish aid program that came to be known as the Truman doctrine, the Marshall Plan, the Berlin airlift, the creation of the new Jewish state of Israel, the upset Truman victory at the polls in 1948, the decision to send American troops into Korea.

All this and more is covered, including his differences with President Eisenhower, whom he accused of using foreign policy as a "Political Football" in the 1952 campaign.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Women Demos Already Have Selected Leader

BY JANE EADS

WASHINGTON — While the men of the party are busy smoking up rooms and whooping up support for their favorite candidates in the coming convention, women Democrats here have already agreed on their nominee—Jenny by name.

The slogan "Jenny for President" will be tooted through their primary all March long, and Jenny will hold the spotlight at the big one-day party (emphasis on the party) convention they're planning for April 19.

All this is a bit of spoofing on the part of the Woman's National Democratic Club to lighten the chores of raising funds for their proposed headquarters' annex here. "Delegates" to the convention, many of them wives of Democratic members of Congress and themselves actively politicking elsewhere for the party's seriously avowed candiates, will pay $10 to sit at state tables and join in the hoopla. There'll be badges, banners and balloons, slogans and sandwich girls, nominating and acceptance speeches, parades and demonstrations, all vividly previewing the real hullaballoo highlighting the hectic months ahead.

Who is Jenny? Why, she's the female of the donkey species. Before putting the candidate's name on their ballot, the ladies cleared her with a couple of farmers, agricultural researchers and the Library of Congress.

Jenny is different from other candidates in that she will have selected her cabinet ahead of time. Not only will their names be announced at the convention, but appropriate morning, afternoon and evening fashions for each to wear after taking office will be shown by a clothing store. A campaign song will be introduced by witty composer Hank Fort. There'll be state songs and songs by the club's 30 - member choral group, known as "The Donkey Serenaders."

Carrying out the idea further, there will be national committeewomen, regional and state chairmen, a steering committee, platform and credentials committees. Katie Louchheim, chairman of the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee, and Christine Sadler Coe, Washington bureau chief for a national magazine, are writing the script.

"This will be a gay and timely spoof of all things political, guaranteed to offend no one," says Mrs. Davis.

"PRETTY CHILLY, TODAY!"

Problem Of Air Pollution Commanding Attention Of Nation'sHealth Guardians

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP)—About 50 years ago you could fling open a window with a reasonable chance of collecting a chestful of fresh air—a mixture of gases roughly one-fifth oxygen and the rest nitrogen with traces of carbon dioxide, argon, neon, krypton and helium.

Try it now. You will get the usual, but it will be diluted with plant-killing sulfur dioxides, ammonies, oxidized hydrocarbons and assorted other gases and solids, none of which is going to do you any good.

The reason for the change is that with automobiles, factories, oil burners, coal fires, back yard incinerators and burning trash dumps, people are slowly fouling the air they breathe.

This matter of air pollution has reached the point where the federal government through the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is embarking on a research program to determine the effect of dirty air on public health. The program was sparked by President Eisenhower in his 1955 State of the Union message when he said, "As a result of industrial growth and urban development, the atmosphere over some population centers must be approaching the limits of its ability to absorb air pollutants with safety to public health."

Air pollution is naturally a matter of degree from city to city but, even so, Dr. Arthur Stern, head of the Public Health Service's sanitary engineering center at Cincinnati, estimates that 10,000 U.S. cities have air pollution problems.

In Los Angeles, doctors have cited the choking, smarting smog that settles over the city from time to time as a contributing factor in some deaths.

Dr. Clarence Mills, professor of experimental medicine at the University of Cincinnati, told a pollution committee in Los Angeles in 1950 that deaths in Los Angeles County for the three previous years were up perhaps as much as a third on smoggy days. His study showed a total of 312 excess deaths from respiratory and heart causes in smoggy periods.

Last October a choking smog settled over New Orleans, triggering a wave of asthma attacks which killed two persons and sent more than 350 to hospitals.

During the last week of October 1948, a stifling foglike pall cloaked the heavy industrial area around Donora and Webster, Pa. In 36 hours 20 people were dead.

The great London smog of 1953 set off a wave of respiratory illnesses and hastened an estimated 4,000 deaths.

A study by W. C. L. Hemeon, director of the Industrial Hygiene Foundation of America at Pittsburgh, indicates the killers in the London and Donora smogs were acidic salts from coal smoke that dried the fluids in the respiratory tracts and caused irritations.

Each of these fatal smogs has been brought about by a peculiar weather condition known as temperature inversion.

Smogs occur most frequently in natural bowls and in river and lake valleys. Masses of warm air moving down from the upper atmosphere settle over the bowls and become compressed. When the mass drops low enough to touch the sides of the bowl, it is considerably warmer than the air at ground level.

Since cool air has a tendency to settle and the warm air already is pressing downward, this mass lies like a blanket over the community, holding and concentrating the air pollutants.

In most cities there is enough turbulence in the air to carry off or disperse much of the pollution.

Part of the research by the federal government will be a study of these temperature inversions.

While coal smoke, blamed in the Donora tragedy, long has been a nuisance (England's King Edward I tried to curtail the use of 'seac coale" 650 years ago), it can be controlled. So, for that matter, can smoke from other sources though the process is expensive.

A prime example of what can be done is New York City, which burns about 30 millions tons of fuel annually—coal and oil—for heat and power plus over a billion gallons of gasoline.

Dr. Leonard Greenburg, commissioner of the Department of Air Pollution Control, reports that 10 years ago 162 tons of soot settled per square mile on New York each month. Now the soot level is down to 62 tons.

In no other town has air pollution been studied as extensively as in Los Angeles—and no coal is burned there.

The Stanford Research Institute of Stanford University, Calif., has found that back yard incinerators, factories, stoves and automobiles in and around Los Angeles burn over 50,000 tons of organic materials and fuels daily.

The net result is the release into the atmosphere of some 3,000 tons of solids and gases.

After a prolonged study 1,000 tons was traced to automobile exhausts, including 290 tons of eye-stinging olefins, a hydrocarbon of the ethylene series which can be used in making anesthetics — or mustard gas.

Only 220 tons of the pollutants came from the vast petroleum industry in and around the city, Stanford said. The rest came from the back yard incerators, the burning of natural gas and evaporation of gasline. The petroleum industry was the heaviest financial contributor to the survey.

N. L. Faith, chief engineer for the Air Pollution Foundation in Los Angeles, said, "There is evidence that automobile exhaust is the No. 1 culprit in air poliution."

One major by-product of the air pollution study in Los Angeles was the announced discovery by Dr. Paul Koten of chemicals in the air which caused skin cancer in mice.

Aside from the health problem, the economic loss because of air pollution is enormous.

Metals corrode, synthetic fabrics are damaged, buildings are streaked with soot and so, for that matter, is your home. Soiling generally is a big factor.

An economist, Weldon B. Gibson, did some figure collecting on the subject of air pollution in 1949. His was the first and last such compilation for the nation. He estimated the annual bill to be more than $10 each for every man, woman and child.

If Gibson's figures are still valid the loss today would figure out to something like $1,600,000,000 annually.

Even farmers have not escaped. As factories have dispersed into the countryside, cattle have been poisoned and plants damaged. Truck farms around heavy industrial areas have suffered enormously.

Business Expects To Be One Of Campaign Issues

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Business rather expects to be one of the many issues in the presidential campaign.

The entusiasm voiced by many top industrialists and financiers over President Eisenhower's decision to run again sounded mostly one note: it would bolster business confidence.

The business leaders appeared to accept the belief widely held—rightly or wrongly—that this is a "businessman's administration."

Opponents of the administration may be expected to step up their charges—right or wrong—that Washington's policies of the last three years have tended to favor the interests of business, to make "big business" bigger and to make competition rough for small business.

Business has been increasingly sensitive about its position and about public opinion in the last 20 years or so. Particularly since World War II, business leaders have tried hard to "get the business story across"—to make the rank and file of the citizenry understand that healthy business meant a generally healthy nation, that business wasn't a wholly selfish thing but had the general welfare at heart too.

Business leaders realize that the present business setup was put for a test when several top leaders of business moved into leading posts in Washington three years ago and announced that the climate for business would be favorable.

Industrialists who believe that the prosperous times show what business can do when given a freer hand fet lest something jolt confidence, turn the economy downward and sour the electorate.

Most of them realize all the other factors making for upward or downward turns of the business cycle. Most know that other issues will be hotly debated during the political campaign and may capture more of the public's interest.

But many expect that as the campagin progresses there will be debates on which is better for the nation, an attitude of "be kind to business" or one of "police business closely lest it grab too big a share."

10 Years In Open Spaces Haven't Dulled Lucius Beebe

By INEZ ROBB

WEEHAWKEN, N.J. — There is little doubt through my long acquaintance with Lucius Beebe, former New York theatre, Broadway and night life columnist (and the only really wealthy reporter I have ever known), mine has been a richer, fuller life.

Under his educational auspices, I became intimately acquainted with guinea hen under glass, caviar, truffles and pate de fois gras cuvee '98. It was even under his sponsorhip that I once became innocently involved with the most elegantly-titled international jewel thief ever to operate in New York.

Well, sir, I am happy to report that ten years in the great open spaces of Nevada, whence he fled in pursuit of the simple life after World War II with his literary partner, Charles Clegg, have not dulled the old Beebe effulgence.

Indeed, during the past ten days he has done what any New Yorker in his right mind would previously have guaranteed to be impossible: He has made the railorad yards of this simple community, on the banks of the Hudson across from midtown Manhattan, the social Mecca of the Eastern seaboard.

Not since Aaron Burr fatally wounded Alexander Hamilton here in 1804 in the most notorious duel in American history has Weehawken enjoyed juch an influx of the carriage trade as has come to visit the Messrs. Beebe and Clegg in their new jointly-owned private railorad car, The Virginia City.

Through their private pullman, the joint authors of "Mixed Train Daily," "The American West," etc., have given their awed friends a glimpse of a decor which they describe as "Renaissance Venetian Baroque," of which we might otherwise have gone to the grave in blissful ignorance.

Off hand, I would describe "Renaissance Venetian Baroque" as a union of Wedding Cake Gothic, the Taj Mahal and Technicolor with overtones of Cecil B. de Mille.

Suffice it to say The Virginia City like a giraffe in that it has to be seem to be believed.

It boasts a drawing room with fireplace three bedrooms, a dining room of unbelievable splendors, a combination shower and Turkish bath, a remarkable gallery, quarters for a chef and steward, an elaborate heating and air-conditioning system, a wine cellar and hi-fi everywhere.

Capping it all is the only "Renaissance Venetian Baroque" great Dane in existence. Christened T. Bone, the massive dog was the sentimental Christmas gift of a Virginia City, Nev., croupier who had enjoyed the patronage of both Mr. Beebe and Mr. Clegg.

"It was the biggest thing the croupier had that wasn't nailed down," Lucius explained. "He felt we ought to have something to show for our investment. Frankly, I think we have more tied up in T. Bone than in this car."

Part of the de luxe galley equipment is a special blender used only for T. Bone's brandy milkshakes, to which he is partial. So, in passing, it is not amiss to note that T. Bone even had big, bloodshot eyes to match those of his two joint Renaissance Venetian Baroque owners.

Large Storage Bill Run Up By Virginian

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—For 29 years Pitzer Transfer Co. here received a $2 check every month from a man in Baltimore for storage of goods.

Finally a man identified himself to Jim Nunnery, the secretary-treasurer, and asked to see the goods. They were in two small chests. One contained some tools for an old model car. The other contained some relics of World War I – gas mask, uniforms and some moths. The owner said he guessed it wasn't worth paying futher storage – would the company throw them away. The total bill was $696.

Woman Is Puzzled By Half A Puzzle

ORLEANS, Neb. (AP)—When Mrs. Edna Heinze's grandchildren came for a visit, she gave them a jigsaw puzzle to play with.

The visit over, Mrs. Heinze proceeded to clean up and found only half the puzzle. Since half a puzzle is no good, she threw it away.

A few days later, while cleaning, she found the other half of the puzzle.

She reasoned again, half a puzzle is no good, and threw it away.

Hollywood Today

By JAMES BACON

HOLLYWOOD, March 5 (AP)—Frank Sinatra, once Hollywood's unhappiest star, now is one of its happiest.

At MGM where Frank, Bing Crosby and Grace Kelly are teamed in "High Society," everybody is talking about the new Sinatra—Happy Frank.

"I haven't worked with anyone so cheerful since Debbie Reynolds first came on the lot," one worker comments. And another quips:

"Frank now is as charming as Errol Flynn, as gallant as Ronald Colman and often as witty as Jerry Lewis."

Crosby once was quoted as saying that Sinatra is "the kind of singer who comes along once in a lifetime, but why did he have to come along in my lifetime?"

Now Frank has worked his charm on Bing. After 20 years with Decca, Bing, one of the recording company's founders and biggest stockholders, has switched to Capitol—just because Frank asked him to. The two crooners, probably the greatest of the era, will team with Miss Kelly, in her singing debut, to make an album of the "High Society" score.

Sinatra has a simple answer for his change.

"I got no problems," he smiles.

Although the crooner talks little about his past miseries, his friends are quick to go to bat for him. Humphrey Bogart's explanation:

"Try and be cheerful sometime after you've split up with your wife and family, lost your voice and the government tells you that you owe a quarter million in back taxes that you thought had been paid."

Certainly, the big reason for Frank's change is the upbeat in his career since he won an Oscar for "From Here to Eternity." He took the "Eternity" role for $8,000.

"I told them I'd do it for nothing —and I would have," he says.

Sinatra has been working steadily for 2½ years and doesn't plan to quit for a few more. As soon as he leaves "High Society," he heads for Spain to do a film with Cary Grant and Sophia Loren, the Italian actress.

Then he'll come back for a night club appearance in Las Vegas.

Somewhere in between he'll do personal appearances for his first Western, which he also will produce.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

..IT LOOKED FOR A WHILE Saturday night that we were going to have to eat the News' Sunday sports section, speaking of Palo Duro's state championship game with French of Beaumont.

It's dangerous to make slanderous remarks about a team for a certain game before the game comes oft because we've seen such instances back-fire.

French did show a little more "spunk" in the game with Palo Duro than in their tourney debut against Harlingen. But the Beaumonters, after a good first half against the Dons faltered in the second half and Palo Duro coasted home.

Palo Duro didn't show their usual class in either of their two tournament games although the Amarilloans didn't have too much trouble in winning both.

It could have been "weak opposition" that made the Dons play as they did. Oft times a good team has trouble in hitting their stride against a much weaker team.

Favorites Fall In Tourney

The favored teams found rough sleeding in the just completed state tournament.

In the five divisions only one of the pre-tourney favorites came through which means, as we pointed out earlier, that the favored teams have "two strikes against them" before the tourney even starts.

We're still wondering how Palo Duro escaped with the favorite tag but they did and it probably meant much smoother sailing for the Dons by going to the tourney un-heralded.

Buna, the defending champion in Class A, was the only favored team to come through.

In the other divisions, North Dallas was favored in Class 4A which was won by Laredo; French of Beaumont was the 3A favorite but Palo Duro easily emerged with the title; Webster was picked to win the 2A division but didn't even reach the finals and Jacksonville picked up the chips; and the same held true with the Class B favorite, Avoca, who didn't get to the finals. Central of Pollok won the Class B crown.

Laredo, perhaps, was the surprise of the tournament. Two teams were rated over Laredo in the 4A field, North Dallas and Milby of Houston. Laredo won this division the hard way by defeating both ND and Milby enroute to the state title.

We have played in one state tournament and have seen six others but we've never seen a better dribbler and ball handler in any of these state tourneys as Laredo's Andy Santos of the newly crowned champions.

Santos made "monkeys" out of the ones who tried to guard him with his fakes and dribbles. In the state title game against North Dallas, Santos no less than a half-dozen times left his defender sprawling on the floor with his dribbling antics without even ever touching the defender.

Santos Was Crowd's Favorite

Santos was easily the favorite among the crowd of 7,500 who watched the televised championship game Saturday afternoon.

The All-District 1-AAA selections as you probably noted, was released in yesterday's edition of the News. But through an oversight, the complete details of the all-1-AAA selections was omitted from the all-district story.

Santee Squabble Hits Full Steam

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—You can't tell the players without a program, so here's a rundown on the principals in the strangest track and field case in American history:

Wes Santee—America's No. 1 miler. Suspended for life by the Amateur Athletic Union for accepting excessive expenses after being cleared by his own district association on the same charges. A temporary injunction enabled him to run in the Knights of Columbus Columbian Mile last Saturday. His winning time was 4:12.8.

Charles P. Grimes—Santee's attorney, and off the results thus far, a mighty successful one. He obtained the injunction, then fought off an AAU appeal.

Pinky Sober—Cheif of the AAU's track and field committee, who wrote the report that convicted Santee. He acts as announcer at Madison Square Garden meets and only he knows how he felt when he was forced to announce Santee as an entry in the mile.

Dan Ferris—The big man in the AAU, who usually says nothing that might get him in trouble on any side. This time he thought he was on safe ground, though, and warned meet promoters that they'd be thrown out of the AAU, if they had any truck with Santee. The courts decided otherwise and he had to back down.

Avery Brundage—Here's the key man. All-powerful in Olympic circles, athletes, coaches and governments fear him. To put it mildly, he is no admirer of Santee.

Santee's temporary injunction runs out Friday and a hearing will be held in New York State Supreme Court to determine if it should be made permanent. If it is made permanent, then the miler is an amateur in good standing no matter what the AAU says and he'll go in the Milwaukee Journal Games Saturday.

Before the Columbian Mile, Brundage thundered from his California retreat:

"If I were those amateurs, I wouldn't run against Santee."

That was enough for anyone. Most of the other big names ducked out. They ran in a "special" mile, won by Ron Delany in 4:11.4.

The rest of the K. of C. meet was buried under the Santee controversy, but there were some fine performances, namely Don Bragg's 15-15¼ pole vault and George Syndor's 6-1 60-yard dash. Bragg's effort was the highest ever in the Garden and Syndor's clocking equaled the world indoor record for the distance held by numerous runners.

Other winners were Charlie Pratt of the Army in the 60-yard high hurdles (7.2), Charlie Jenkins of Villanova in the 600 (1:10.5), Horace Ashenfelter of the New York A. C. in the two-mile (9:05.3) and Frank McLaughlin of St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in the 1,000 (2:14.1).

ET Loop Nears Reality

LONGVIEW (AP)—Greenville announced it is ready to operate in a new Class C or D baseball league and six other cities were listed as strong possibilities at a meeting yesterday.

The prospective other members of the East Texas loop are Tyler, Longview, Marshall, Texarkana, Henderson and Gainesville. Several of the cities asked for additional time to make their plans.

J. Walter Morris, Dallas, who has agreed to head the league, asked Barney Smith, who has done most of the preliminary organizing work, to contact the cities again by Wednesday.

Another meeting will be held in Greenville Sunday if the response is favorable.

Bonneau Peters, president of the Texas League Shreveport Sports, said the club could furnish players for a team in the new league. Buddy Hancken, Pittsburgh Pirates scout, said several major league clubs would have surplus players this year. He did not think a new league would have any trouble securing players.

There are about 130,000 toy-train hobbyists in the United States, says the National Geographic Society.

DeMarco 10-7 Over Smith

BOSTON (AP)—Lightweight champion Wallace (Bud) Smith and leading welterweight contender Tony DeMarco will be fighting a "war for vindication" tonight in last the scheduled 10 rounds.

a non-title scrap not expected to

The Boston Garden bout between the 135-pound ruler from Cincinnati and the lethal-punching DeMarco from Boston's North End will not be televised or broadcast.

On the strength of his one-punch, take-out powers, left-hooking Tony is rated a 10-7 favorite.

Smith, seeking fatter purses in the welter class after a relatively poor paying six years of professional effort, will be out to erase the memory of last month's loss to newcomer Larry Boardman.

Lost Verdict

After winning his title from Jimmy Carter here and defending it against Carter in his home town, Smith lost a verdict to Boardman in the Garden ring. Boardman was substituted when DeMarco contracted flu which forced the relisting of Smith-DeMarco for tonight.

DeMarco has even more at stake than Smith in this one because he's looking beyond to a third shot at the welter crown he held for 70 days a year ago. He wants the winner of the March 14 Carmen Basilio-Johnny Saxton title match.

Four Boxers Try Comebacks

By MURRAY ROSE
The Associated Press

This is comeback week for lightweight champion Wallace (Bud) Smith, ex-welterweight boss Tony DeMarco, and middleweights John L. Sullivan and Jackie LaBua. All four lost the last time out and barring draws, two of them should be back on the winning trail again.

Smith, of Cincinnati and DeMarco, of Boston, clash in the top bout of the week at the Boston Garden tonight. The non-title 10-rounder won't be telecast.

The chunky, hard-hitting DeMarco is making his first start since he was stopped for the second time by welterweight champion Carmen Basilio. The last one was on Nov. 30. Smith was edged on a split decision by young Larry Boardman in an overweight bout at Boston, Feb. 7.

Sullivan and LaBua meet in a middleweight 10-rounder at the Syracuse N.Y., War Memorial Auditorium Wednesday night (ABC-TV, radio, 10 p.m., EST). Sullivan, a body-blasting Briton from Preston, England, lost a close decision to middleweight contender Rocky Castellani in Madison Square Garden, Feb. 24. LaBua, a rangy 160-pounder from East Meadow, N.Y., dropped a decision to Gil Turner in Syracuse, Jan. 20.

Tonight's television bout (DuMont TV, 10 p.m. EST) matches welterweights Gene Poirier, Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Danny Jo Perez, New York, in a return 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. Poirier outpointed Perez in July in the same arena.

Cameron, HCJC Open Juco Tournament

AMARILLO (AP) — Top-seeded Cameron State of Lawton, Okla., meets defending champion Howard County in the opening game of the Region 5 Junior College Basketball Tournament today.

Eight teams will contest for three days, with the winner going to Hutchinson, Kan., to play in the National Junior College Tournament.

Cameron and Howard County play at 2 p.m. Clarendon plays Arlington State at 4 p.m., Phillips meets San Angelo at 7 p.m. and Decatur Baptist takes on Amarillo at 9 p.m.

Aggie Nine Opens With Two Victories

The Texas Aggies, defending baseball champions of the Southwest Conference, got off on the right foot in the new season last week by winning two games.

The Aggies clipped Sam Houston State 6-3 and University of Houston 7-6, showing power at the plate.

Monday SMU and TCU meet at Dallas, then shift to Fort Worth Tuesday.

Wednesday A&M plays Sam Houston State at College Station.

Friday and Saturday SMU hosts Centenary, Baylor opens the season against Sam Houston State at Huntsville and TCU engages Texas Lutheran at Seguin.

Metro, Overmire To Guide Charleston 9

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Charley Metro, manager of Detroit's Triple-A farm club, the Charleston Senators, has selected Frank (Stubby) Overmire to coach the American Assn. team.

Overmire, 35, has spent most of his 15 years in baseball with the Tigers organization, as player, manager and coach. He and Metro were teammates with Beaumont of the Texas League 14 years ago, as a team managed by coach Tony Cuccinello beat Red Kress' team 13-9.

Willie Mays, 1955 major league leader with 51 homers, was up to his old tricks in a New York Giants intrasquad game at Phoenix, Ariz. He poked one that traveled a good 400 feet over the left field wall.

The Milwaukee Braves' intrasquad game at Bradenton, Fla., produced two homers by rookies—Wes Covington and Felix Mantilla. Harmon Killebrew Lyle Luttrell and Rudy Tanner provided the homers in the Washington Senators' workout while rookie Frank Robinson belted out a homer, double and single in Cincinnati's first intrasquad game of the season.

On the pitching side were three innings of no-hit, no-run hurling by Al Curtis of Washington.

A quick look at some of the other training camps:

Yankees completed their roster with signing of Billy Martin and Jim Konstanty for a reported $20,000 each . . . Dave Philley came to terms with the Orioles for a reported $23,000 . . . Ted Kluszewski had recovered enough from a wrenched leg muscle to work out with the Redlegs. Hank Sauer of the Cubs also returned to action. He had been sidelined Saturday with a twisted ankle.

Hitters Hit Early Stride In Camps

By ORLO ROBERTSON
The Associated Press

This is the time of year when the pitchers are supposed to be ahead of the hitters but you never would guess it from the reports from the major league training camps.

It's still a week before exhibition games begin but yesterday veterans and rookies alike slammed the ball to all corners of the lots in intrasquad contests. Pitchers, for the most part, took a mauling.

Rudy Regalado, who was the talk of the 1955 exhibition season and then failed to make the grade with the Cleveland Indians, led the barrage of homers.

The 25-year-old first base candidate, who hit .316 for Indianapolis before being recalled near the end of the season by the Indians, hit three home runs, including one with the bases loaded. His circuit drives accounted for eight runs

Mayfield Wins Tournament

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Shelley Mayfield, a three-stroke winner in the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open, today headed for his Los Angeles home and a visit with his new daughter.

Mayfield dropped a 22-foot putt for a birdie on the par-four 17th hole yesterday, then sank a six-footer for another birdie on the last hole to pull away from Jimmy Demaret after the two were even for 16 holes.

The blond, sun-tanned Californian, chalking up his first victory on the winter tour, finished with a 3-under-par 69 over the 6,450-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course. He had a 277 total and won $2,200.

Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., had a par 72 and fell into a five-way tie for second at 280 after 72 holes. Mayfield and Demaret shared the lead at the three-quarter mark.

Deadlocked with Demaret were Doug Ford, also of Kiamesha Lake; Walter Burkemo, Franklin, Mich.; Freddie Haas, Claremont, Calif.; and Fred Hawkins, El Paso, Tex. Each won $1,046.

Ford and Burkemo both finished with 68s. Hawkins had 70 and Haas 71.

Mayfield was asked about his plans. He replied:

"I'm going to Los Angeles. I had a new daughter two weeks ago and I want to spend some time with her."

ETBC Puts Two On All-Conference 5

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Champion East Texas Baptist College placed two men on the six-man All-Big State Conference basketball team announced today.

In a poll of the conference coaches, Charles Cone, center, and Don Upshaw, guard of East Texas Baptist were selected on the first team. Cone, only a junior, was picked for the second straight year. He lacked one vote on being unanimous.

Jim Brown of Pan American was the only unanimous selection. Brown, who was the individual scoring champion, was named at forward.

Ron Bella of St. Edward's, forward, and guards Don Bice of Texas Wesleyan and Joe San Miguel of Southwestern were the others picked on the team.

Laredo Fans Honor Team With Welcome

LAREDO (AP)—Laredo gave its Tigers a rousing welcome yesterday when they came back with the Texas Schoolboy Basketball Championship. But it was no great surprise here that the Tigers had come through.

The youngsters had been preparing for a long time—about a decade. They started playing basketball at the age of seven. They kept it up through the Boys Club League and Laredo High School.

Saturday, when the Tigers beat North Dallas for the Class AAAA championship of the Texas Interscholastic Lleague at Austin, they had played together four years.

Take Andy Santos, who dazzled the fans with his ball-handling, dribbling and play-making. Andy played his first basketball at the age of seven in a Catholic parish league. He became a Boys Club League player at 11. There he played with the youngsters who were with him on the team that beat North Dallas Saturday night.

Laredoans also give a lot of credit to Bill Batey, who has had a habit of producing winning teams wherever he coaches. Batey, a Texas A&M graduate, first coached at Moulton High School in 1950. He had a Class B district champion. He then coached at Alice and produced a district champion in 1951. He came to Laredo in 1954 and in 1955 had a district champion. The Tigers lost to Waco in the bi-districts but this year they swept Wichita Falls aside in the drive to the state tournament.

There are seven seniors on this year's squad and they did all the playing. That means they'll be starting all over again at Laredo next winter. But they think there'll be another winner coming up.

Laredo Guard Named Most Valuable Player

AUSTIN (AP)—Guard Andy Santos of Class AAAA state champion Laredo was named outstanding player of the weekend tournament in a poll of sports writers covering the basketball meet.

Santos led with 12 votes. James Mellard of Buna, champion of Conference A, was runnerup.

Others receiving votes were: Gene Arrington of Palo Duro Amarillo, Conference AAA champions; Max Williams of Avoca; Jimmie Johnston and James Cone, both of Conference AA champion Jacksonville; and Phillip Trammel of Laredo.

Longest field goal kicked by a player from UCLA last season was the 35-yarder booted by Jim Decker in the Washington game.

4 Berths Open In NCAA Tournament

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press

Only four berths remained empty today in the sprawling, 25-team NCAA championship basketball tournament, and two of the vacancies may be filled by tonight.

All four spots are reserved for conference champions—the Southeastern, Big Ten, Big Seven and Ohio Valley.

The SEC is putting its entry to a vote. Alabama, already in possession of its first title since 1934, ordinarily would get the berth. But because the Tide's five regulars are four-year men and ineligible under NCAA rules, the SEC members must decide whether to send Bama's second team or Kentucky, which wound up second in the conference.

Iowa can collar the Big Ten title and tourney berth by getting past Indiana tonight at Iowa City.

The Big Seven could be decided tomorrow night with a Kansas State victory over Kansas.

Western Kentucky and Tennessee Tech meet in the first phase of a three-way playoff for the Ohio Valley title Wednesday. The winner then meets Morehead Ky. Thursday for the crown.

Five teams gained berths by winning conference crowns over the weekend:

N.C. State swept through the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney as Vic Molodet set a three-game playoff record by scoring 79 points clipping Wake Forest 76-64 in the final.

West Virginia repeated in the Southern, defeating Richmond 58-56 in its tourney finale on Hot Rod Hundley's layup with 43 second left.

Dartmouth won its first Ivy crown in 10 years after losing three of its four league games. The Indians rallied and capped a nine-game winning streak by beating Brown 90-79 in double overtime.

Houston, though idle, won its first Missouri Valley title as Oklahoma A&M eliminated St. Louis 52-49.

UCLA clinched the Pacific Coast title by sweeping California in a pair 85-80 and 84-62.

Billy Maxwell Mexico Champ

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Sandy-haired Billy Maxwell, young pro from Odessa, Tex., was crowned Mexican National Open champion after a tournament record-breaking 264 for 72 holes on the 6,500-yard Chapultepec Golf Club course.

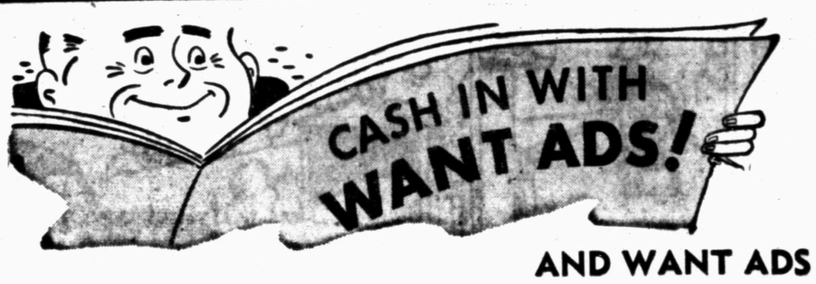

Maxwell, 1953 amateur champion of Mexico, edged out defending champion Robert de Vicenzo of Argentina. De Vicenzo staged a last-round rally, scoring a 65 today for a total 266, after trailing Maxwell by six strokes at the end of the third round.

The Texan went into the final round with three straight 65s, and kept the pace in the first nine. He tensed on the back nine, completing in par 36.

60 Rescued From Icy Alaskan Gulf

SEATTLE (AP)—Its forward section wrenched off by high winds and mountainous seas, the freighter Washington Mail sank in the North Pacific minutes after the 60 crewmen and passengers had taken to lifeboats.

Within a short time, the transport Gen. H. B. Freeman, brought to the scene by the freighter's first SOS, dropped rope ladders to the bobbing lifeboats and the 60 survivors scrambled up to safety.

"All survivors aboard, uninjured and in good health," the Freeman radioed.

The dramatic account of the "almost unbelievable" rescue in the storm-swept Gulf of Alaska some 700 miles northwest of here Saturday was radioed late last night by Capt. Robert T. Fulton, Tacoma, Wash., skipper of the rescue ship.

The Freeman, with the 51 crewmen and nine passengers from the Washington Mail, was plowing through heavy seas to Kodiak, Alaska, today. The survivors will be flown to Seattle.

The Washington Mail and the Freeman sailed from here last Wednesday, both bound for the Orient, the freighter with a cargo of flour and lumber and the Freeman with troops being sent to the freighter included two Roman Catholic missionaries.

In his radio message, Fulton said pounding seas snapped the forward section of the Washington Mail at 3:15 p.m. Saturday.

Thirty minutes later, the forward section plunged to the bottom, leaving the derelict at the mercy of seas and winds.

The winds carried away the radio antennas. For 33 minutes the hull wallowed helplessly. At 4:38 radio operator Perry Harrison, Seattle, got his emergency equipment in operation and sent out his SOS.

Fulton said he immediately ordered the Freeman to the northwest and radioed Capt. Dudley A. Durrant of the Washington Mail that rescue was 65 miles away.

"The Freeman increased to the best possible speed in high winds, seas and swells, winds of 45 knots and frequent snow squalls," Fulton said.

At 6:15 p.m., still two hours from the sinking freighter, Fulton established radio communication with Durrant, who reported the freighter's boiler room bulkheads were giving away and the derelict would not survive the night.

At 7:20 a blip appeared on the Freeman's radar screen and 45 minutes later the ship spotted the hulk dead ahead.

Fulton swung his ship in a wide arc and ordered fuel oil poured on the seas to calm them enough for a lifeboat to survive.

The Freeman pulled 3,000 feet to the windward of the sinking ship and waited as the first lifeboat was lowered.

The boat hit the water, disappeared for a minute, then reappeared.

At 9:04 p.m., the second boat was launched.

As both bucked through the heavy seas toward the Freeman, someone shouted "She's gone," and the hull sank.

Five minutes after the freighter went to the bottom, the first lifeboat reached the side of the Freeman, and passengers and crewmen scurried to safety. At 9:43 the second boat pulled alongside.

The wildcat blew out at 752 feet, caught fire and burned an estimated 20,000,000 cubic feet of gas daily before being snuffed out.

Woman Rescued After 39 Hours In Bathtub

BOSTON (AP)—Mrs. Stella Crowley, 72, today was found to have suffered no ill effects after spending 39 hours in a bath tub.

She became ill while bathing Friday night and was in the tub until yesterday when her daughter, Mrs. Mary Hawkins, found the doors locked on her usual Sunday visit.

The daughter called firefighters, who entered the house and helped the elderly woman into bed.

Mrs. Crowley's only complaint after her rescue was: "I'm hungry."

Syngman Rhee Renominated By His Party

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — President Syngman Rhee's Liberal party renominated him for a third term today. The 80-year-old President replied that he did not want to run, but observers took it as a political gesture rather than an outright refusal.

Rhee cited his age and said he wants to retire.

Eight hundred Liberal delegates named Lee Ki Pong, chairman of the National Assembly, for vice president. Elections must be held by July 15.

A move to draft Rhee, both by the public and his Liberal party members, was expected to form soon.

Rhee sent a statement outlining his reasons for not wanting to run to the party convention. At no time did he reject the nomination outright.

The statement said:

"I do not want to run for a third term. I am about to complete my second term. I want to sit back and help a better man than I am.

"I am 80 years old and, not because I am unable to do the job, I hope a more vigorous man than I will come forward."

He said he regretted the country was still divided. He said he felt responsible for this. He concluded:

"I want to retire."

Despite his statement, it was generally believed he would take the nomination eventually.

The old veteran's re-election is considered by most to be a certainty. There have even been suggestions that the opposition Democratic party, at its nomination convention late this month or early in April, won't even bother to name a presidential candidate.

Chief interest in the election will center on the vice presidential race, which is run separately from that for the presidency. Because Rhee's age, the winner will be viewed as his likely successor.

11 Violent State Deaths Are Reported

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic killed 11 persons to raise the weekend violent death toll in Texas to 17.

Part of the blame for the heavy traffic toll was laid to the beautiful weather which covered most of the state Sunday and lured greater numbers of drivers onto the highways.

Late deaths reported to the Associated Press, which started its count at 6:30 p.m. Friday, included:

J. K. Bride, 71, believed to be from Mason, was killed Sunday night when a dump truck went off the road 34 miles west of Ozona.

Mrs. Elizabeth Foster, 19, of El Paso died Sunday in an Ozona hospital of gunshot wounds. Authorities were investigating.

David Harrison, about 4½, drowned Sunday while wading in Cherokee Lake near Longview while on a picnic with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Harrison of Longview.

Calvin Fields, 61, retired Austin carpenter, died Sunday after being struck by an auto in Austin.

Marcias Geromino, 32, of Santa Barbara, Mexico, and Jesus Lara, 39, of San Benito, Tex., were killed Sunday in a two-car collision in Harlingen.

A Ft Hood soldier from Arkansas, B. W. Wyatt, was killed in a car crash about 25 miles north of Houston Sunday.

Mrs. Stella McDuffy, 77, was burned to death Sunday in a fire in her home in Wichita Falls.

Oscar Moore of Edinburg drowned in Lake Edinburg Sunday while fishing with his sons, George, 12, and Billy, 11. One of the boys fell from the boat and Moore jumped in to save him. The boy swam safely to shore but the father disappeared. The body was recovered by a diver six hours later.

Dumas Man Sentenced To Life Imprisonment

HEREFORD, Tex. (AP)—A jury convicted Harold Roberts of Dumas yesterday of kicking his 17-month-old daughter to death while drunk and sentenced him to life in prison.

The jury received the case late Saturday.

Roberts heard the verdict with no apparent emotion. His seven sisters wept loudly.

In an earlier trial, Roberts was sentenced to death for the Aug. 21, 1954, slaying of the child, Lena Marie. The Court of Criminal Appeals reversed the verdict.

Roberts denied the charge. He and his wife both accused each other of abusing the child the night she died. They said they had been drinking heavily. He testified she beat the child with a belt. She testified her husband kicked the child with his boot, as the state contended.

HAUL FURNITURE FROM BLAZING HOME—Neighbors braved intense heat to help save furniture from a nine-room home in Worthington, Minn., engulfed in this spectacular fire. The George Boyer family, occupants of the house, carried out most of the first floor furniture, assisted by the friends. One of them, foreground, carries out an end table and an upended lamp. Loss was estimated at $12,000. The house was demolished.

Snyder's Canyon Electric Specialists Have 58 Years Of Combined Experience

More than 58 years of combined experience of the three electrical service specialists is one of the outstanding features of Canyon Electric, located across from the city hall on Twenty- sixth Street.

Ted Wright, motor and electric equipment service specialist, has had 28 years experience in all phases of the electrical service, installation, and repair field.

One of his chief jobs with the firm is rewiring and repair of electric motors of all sizes and types, either alternating or direct current types, alternators, controls switches, voltage regulators and all other electrical equipment.

Wright's services are available either in the shop or on the location of any electrical equipment.

Frank Pinkerton and Bill Mapes, who together have had more than 30 years experience in the electrical field, are the wiring specialists with the firm. They specialize in installation, service and repair of all types wiring jobs from the biggest to the smallest. Hundreds of new homes in Snyder have been wired by the service men of Canyon Electric, and many of the industrial, commercial and oil field wiring jobs in this area have been done by members of the firm.

Dick Watson owner of the firm, employes a total of five men in the firm including himself, all of whom are experienced in their field.

"One of the ideas we always feature in the repair of any electrical equipment is to remedy the cause of the trouble as well as repairing the trouble itself," Watson said.

"Removing the cause of any electrical trouble is actually more important than repairing its damage, because operating equipment on circuits which are inadequate or in bad repair can be very dangerous to the lives of persons in the building or operators of the equipment—in addition to causing a quick repeat failure of the equipment being used," he said.

In the electric motor service and repair department Canyon Electric uses modern equipment, large baking ovens and guaranteed parts and repair items to assure the customer of always getting a job which will be just as good as new.

The firm even uses its own lathe and other shop equipment to make bearings and bushings for replacement in motors to assure that the jobs it does will be done right.

"By making our own bearings we can always be sure that good materials are used, and can always give a perfect fit," Wright said.

"Perfectly fitting bearings are essential in electric motors, because the electric motor, unlike a combustion engine, does not have a warm-up or break-in period, but has to start from the beginning at running speed and with the full load it is to carry in most cases," Wright said.

Although the firm does not solicit repair jobs on electric motors as small and delicate as electric shaver motors, there are usually some electric shavers being repaired in the shop at most times.

Suspects Are Tracked Down By Villagers

DANBURY, Wis. (AP)—A posse of 100 armed villagers and officers of five counties tracked down three men yesterday after a gun battle that followed three burglaries.

Dist. Atty. Clive Strang of Burnett County said the trio would be arraigned today after he determined the charges.

Held overnight in the county jail at Grantsburg were Eugene Morrissey, 33, and Francis Raymond Crosby, 33, of St. Paul, Minn., and Herbert Eisenzimmer, 31, Minneapolis.

One man was found hiding behind a barn three miles west of here. He was unarmed and surrendered quietly.

The other two, also unarmed, were captured after a conservation warden in a light plane spotted them trudging along railroad tracks seven miles north of Danbury.

The only one hurt in the early morning gun battle was Deputy Sheriff Con Linehan, 45, who suffered a minor shotgun wound in the arm.

The gun fight began after Gregory Johnson, 40, operator of a supermarket, got a call from a friend before 4 a.m. telling him there were men in his store.

Johnson went to the scene with a rifle and saw three men coming from a grocery near his. He waited while his wife summoned help. Meanwhile, the men raided a hardware store.

Linehan arrived as two of the strangers walked toward their auto. The gunmen opened fire, wounding Linehan. The deputy and Johnson riddled the auto as it departed. The auto stopped near the hardware for the third man and then rolled out of town.

The car returned while Johnson and Linehan were at home getting more ammunition. Undersheriff Emil Stusek surprised the men in a used car lot. They fled on foot. Then the posse was organized.

Johnson said about $30 was taken from his store and "a few dollars" from the grocery.

Life Insurance Firm Denies Story Of Sale

AUSTIN, March 5 (AP)—J. H. Oates of Austin, executive vice-president of the American Empire Life Insurance Co. said today it has not been sold to Lincoln Income Life Insurance Co. of Louisville, Ky., as reported yesterday in a Louisville dispatch.

Oates said only a portion of American Empire Life Insurance Co.'s "industrial business" was sold to the Louisville firm.

"American Empire Life Insurance Co. was not sold and it is not for sale," Oates said. The company's home office is here.

GOP Is Talking Of Ike Campaign

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Top Republicans have begun talking about the kind of re-election campaign President Eisenhower should wage. And the discussion so far indicates he'll be urged to make personal appearances in some key areas.

The question was discussed yesterday in separate television interviews by three Republicans — National Chairman Leonard Hall and Senators Knowland of California and Goldwater of Arizona.

All three indicated they foresaw Eisenhower forays into at least a few major cities. And Knowland said he personally would ask the President to go into some areas where Republican candidates face strong opposition.

Among the Democrats, Sen. Estes Kefauver had more to say yesterday about his position on Eisenhower's health as a campaign issue — a position that conflicts with the one taken by Adlai Stevenson.

Kefauver said yesterday he doesn't plan to make an issue of the President's health. The Tennessee Democrat added that he has "never questioned anyone's physical condition or his looks."

Stevenson, one of Kefauver's rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination, has said he views Eisenhower's health as a "compelling issue."

Talking to newsmen at Manchester, N.H., Kefauver said he doesn't think Stevenson is wrong in taking this position — "it's just that I'm running my own campaign."

Another Democrat, Sen. Fulbright of Arkansas, said today he fears discussion of Eisenhower's health will overshadow what he called "the really important issue"—foreign policy.

"While we talk about the President's health and whether there is lasting prosperity, we may be losing Asia to the Russians," he told a newsman.

Stevenson, in a speech prepared for a farmer audience at Marshall, Minn., said today the Eisenhower administration has tried repeatedly to cripple soil conservation programs. He said Democrats in Congress will "flatly turn down such schemes."

The question of how much Eisenhower should campaign was discussed yesterday in separate television interviews by three Republicans — National Chairman Leonard Hall and Senators Knowland of California and Goldwater of Arizona.

Knowland, the Senate GOP leader, said he personally would urge Eisenhower to "get out beyond merely television broadcasts from the White House." He said Eisenhower should make a few campaign appearances in areas where Republican candidates might be in trouble.

Eisenhower has rejected any suggestion of a "barnstorming" campaign and Knowland said he

Goldwater, however, predicted Eisenhower would do some "barnstorming" because "he's a campaigner at heart."

Hall said he believes any presidential campaign trips would "be at a minimum"—limited perhaps to a few flying visits to major cities. He said he foresaw no cross-country train trip.

Since Eisenhower said "yes" to a second term bid, a big question among Republicans has been who his running mate will be. Eisenhower has been noncommittal.

Hall said everyone seemed concerned about this except Vice President Nixon. And he predicted, as he has before, that Nixon will be renominated.

Friends of the vice president said Nixon won't give up second place on the ticket if the choice is his. They expressed doubt he might prefer moving to a Cabinet or other high post.

In Nixon's home state, the California Republican Assembly yesterday approved a resolution which "enthusiastically endorses" re-election of both Eisenhower and Nixon. The assembly is a volunteer party organization.

An Associated Press poll of GOP governors, state chairmen and national committee members showed that 35 per cent of those responding favor renomination of Nixon. An additional 9 per cent were for Nixon if Eisenhower wants him and less than 3 per cent favored another candidate. Fifty-four per cent did not comment or were noncommittal.

Meanwhile, Stevenson and Kefauver were campaigning in two states holding presidential primaries later this month. Kefauver was in New Hampshire, which holds its primary a week from tomorrow, and Stevenson was in Minnesota, where the vote will be taken March 20.

Kefauver showed up at a Democratic women's club dinner at Manchester last night and touched off a row with Sevenson supporters. Mrs. Madeline Gladu, Democratic state vice chairman, accused the senator of "crashing into" the affair. He said he had been invited by the club's president.

Dallas Chest Official Is Invited To Sweden

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) — Fred M. Lange, executive vice president of the Dallas County Community Chest, has been invited to visit Sweden to explain the Dallas Community Chest program.

The invitation was forwarded through the American Embassy at Stockholm and announced through the office of Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex).

Big Diamond Is Discovered By Housewife

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Mrs. A. L. Parker of Dallas, whose hobby is working with uncut gems, found a 15½ carat diamond with an estimated value of $15,000 dollars at the nearby Crater of Diamonds yesterday.

The mine is the only diamond mine in North America.

"I didn't believe it, it was so large I didn't think it could be a diamond," said the 40-year-old Dallas housewife. But she said she knew it was a diamond when she first saw it.

But rules of the mine, she will be able to keep all but 25 per cent of the appraised valuation of the diamond. She must pay the 25 per cent to the manager of the mine.

Tourists pay $1.50 for the right to search the unworked mine for diamonds, and may keep all stones that are five carats or less.

The wife of the manager, Mrs. H. A. Millar, said she thought it was the largest surface diamond ever found in North America.

Mrs. Parker's stone is 1⅝ inches long, about ⅝ of an inch wide and about ¼ of an inch thick. Mrs. Millar said it was a blue-white diamond. She estimated its value at $15,000.

Mrs. Millar said recent heavy rains probably brought the stone to the surface. She said it was found 150 yards to the left of the tourist entrance of the 72-acre crater. Mrs. Millar said the diamond is "a perfect gem without a flaw."

Mrs. Parker is the wife of a Dallas oil producer. Her husband, Arthur, said at Dallas friends had invited his wife to make the trip. He stayed home with the two children.

"She didn't want to go on this outing, but I told her to go ahead," he said.

Parker said he and his wife buy rough gems of various types and clean, cut and polish them in a home shop.

Terror Fills Happy Sunday

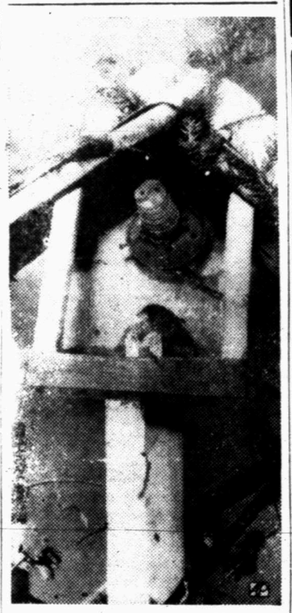

PITTSBURGH (AP)—In a few terror filled seconds a happy Sunday afternoon turned into one of horror near here when tons of steel rods from a careening truck slammed into a combination store and home and killed two of the three women in the dwelling.

The trucker driver, 46-year-old Anthony Marsilli of Pittsburgh, escaped unhurt.

Killed instantly were Mrs. Helen Clark, 52, of RD 1, Coraopolis, and Mrs. Susan Druga, 45, of Imperial, visitors in the home.

Mrs. Fran is Kaelin, 49, who lived there, suffered lacerations and shock.

State police said Marsilli told them he swerved his truck to avoid hitting an auto. The truck jack-knifed and slammed into the building. The big steel rods hurtled from the truck into the living quarters, pushing the three women out through an opposite wall into the backyard.

North Carolina Minister Has New Position

PARSONS, Kan. (AP) —A tall, gentle-voiced clergyman from North Dakota is spending his first Lent in an unusual new offshoot of the ministry—as a psychiatric chaplain.

The Rev. Mr. Sigurd Peterson, a native of Kenmare, N.D., in the Middle West for some 20 years, the most recent in Racine, Wis., but he said today he found his present job "the most satisfying of my life."

He serves as full-time chaplain at the Parsons State Training Children. He is a Lutheran.

In preparation for the task, he took a rigorous nine-month course in psychiatry at a Topeka, Kan., hospital. He is convinced religion has much common ground with that branch of medicine.

At the Parsons hospital, which does some pioneer work in the field of mental retardation, the chaplaincy is on an equal basis with other clinical services.

Nearly 500 mentally handicapped children and young people between 6 and 21 are at Parsons.

The minister's religious message is painstakingly adapted to the children's limited understanding, as well as to their individual needs.

Consequently, it is short on theology and abstract notions, long on emotion and simple faith.

"I stress God's love," he said. "The youngsters have very great emotional needs, and I find them profoundly responsive to this aspect of religion.

"One of the things religion has to say to these children is that they are significant in spite of their handicap—that they count equally in God's sight."

The chaplain conducts two services each Sunday morning, one for teen-agers and one for younger children. A priest says Mass for the Catholic youngsters.

Wednesday night there is a service in the form of hymn singing and Bible stories illustrated with slides.

The hospital's psychiatrists are pleased with the way the chaplain's religious work — which also includes a huge schedule of personal counseling — dovetails with their own therapy. This aims at resolving a child's emotional conflicts, developing his mentality as far as possible, and creating a personality adjusted to its handicap.

His work with the mentally handicapped, the minister said, "has tremendously broadened my understanding of people. If I should undertake another pastorate, I think I'd be twice as good a pastor as before."
