Plains Line Is Definitely Put At Givens Farm

Predictions of Record News Verified in Washington Dispatches

BEYOND CHILDRESS

First Announcement Made As to Where Road Leaves Parent Line

Two projects for extensive railroad construction in the west were laid today before the Interstate Commerce commission.

The first application, though filed under the name of the Fort Worth and Denver South Plains indicated that the Colorado and Southern system intends to provide about 190 new miles of line for its system in Texas. The Fort Worth and Denver City company, which is a subsidiary of the Colorado and Southern, formally asked permission to build from Carey to Plainview with branches extending to Silverton and Lubbock, all points in Texas. No estimates of cost were filed on either project.

The Denver and Rio Grande Western asked authority to build into the Uintah Basin, Utah, by carrying a branch 181 miles from Soldier Summit, Utah.

Lower Panhandle and South Plains citizens were elated when the Record News flashed this story Monday evening. It was the first announcement from Washington and the very first information as to where the new railroad, the Fort Worth & Denver South Plains, would leave the parents line. It also confirmed the story published by the Record News some 20 days past that the new railroad would leave the parent line at the Givens' farm six miles west of Childress. Carey, the point named, is a little village seven miles west of Childress and the grade stakes have been placed a mile east of the town.

At Work Sunday.

Sunday afternoon the No. 2 corps of engineers were working five miles northwest of Northfield, in the northeast corner of Motley county. The survey crossed Wind river at this point. The survey is following closely the line of Motley and Hall counties. It is believed the survey will now swing to the northwest as the stakes for the bridge are running in that direction. This would bring the new railroad near Flomont, thence to Turkey and Quitaque and onto the caprock.

The announcement from Washington also conveys the fact that branch lines will be constructed to Lubbock and Silverton. These branch lines will leave the new railroad after it is above the caprock. The distance to either cities is short and over ground almost as level as a billiard table. The branch into Silverton would enter from the southeast, therefore would not interfere with the Santa Fe's plan for a road from the west into Silverton. However, the Denver's line would get the lion's share of tonnage, due to its line carrying direct to tidewater without a back haul.

North of Lockney.

The branch to Lubbock would start north of Lockney, passing through that prosperous Plains city thence southwest through Petersburg into Lubbock. This territory is without rail facilities and the Denver road is the first to apply for a permit to build in that direction.

The building of this railroad and branches is going to prove of inestimable value to Childress and Wichita Falls. Childress is going to advance rapidly to a city of 10,000. Wichita Falls and Childress are working in harmony and the Gate City of the Panhandle is anxious for Wichita Falls' wholesale and industrial concerns to make locations there. By combining the business and banking interests, both cities can do much good in the development of virgin territory below and above the caprock.

At this time the Wichita Falls chamber of Commerce is planning a good will trip through the section to be traversed by the new railroad. Fred B. Haskett, assistant manager, has recently returned from a trip to Childress ,and states the merchants and business interests are anxious for a visit. Last week prominent merchants, cotton men and bankers visited in Wichita Falls and another delegation is expected this week, states Mr. Haskett.

FORT WORTH, April 13.—An unidentified man and woman were shot to death on the Dallas pike just outside the city of Arlington about 10 o'clock tonight. The couple were in a small machine when killed and the shots were fire from a high-powered car which sped away.

The man was killed instantly but the woman was still breathing when picked up by persons attracted to the spot. She died in Arlington a few minutes later. Examination of papers found in the car led officers to believe that the couple was from Arkansas. The man was about fifty years old and the woman about thirty-five.

Scores of heavily armed officers both from Dallas and Fort Worth are searching the country between Fort Worth and Dallas in search of the slayers.

ADKINS, KILLED IN DALLAS, IS WICHITAN'S KIN

Mrs. C. H. Lewis, Alamo School Teacher, Leaves For Dallas Monday

SISTER IS CRITICAL

Conditon of Dead Boy's Mother at Dallas Reported to Be Grave

The merciless attack by negroes near Southern Methodist university, Dallas, which resulted in the death of Ryan Adkins, 28, and brutal injuries to his companion, Mrs. Mary Steer, 30, Sunday night brought its horror to Wichita Falls through fact that the murdered youth has relatives here.

Mrs. C. H. Lewis, 1701 Huff and a teacher at the Alamo school, is an aunt of Mr. Adkins, and left Wichita Falls Monday morning to be at the bedside of her sister and Adkins' mother, Mrs. W. H. Adkins, in Dallas.

Leaves for Dallas.

Mrs. Lewis was unable to give any details of the murder of her nephew before she left for Dallas, knowing nothing of the case other than facts she had read in the Record News.

From Dallas come reports that the assault and murder was one of the most brutal in the criminal records of that county. Persons in touch with the brutalities of the black, Roy Mitchell at Waco two years ago, declare that the crime perpetrated in Dallas, even approaches the crime of the McLennan fiend in its horror. Associated Press reports from Dallas last night stated that although city and county officers are following every clue obtainable, they admit they have thus far failed to find any evidence pointing directly to the two negroes. Five negroes are in custody, but the authorities stated that they do not believe any of them to be the ones sought.

Pick up Trail .

Detectives found the trail of the negroes leading to the scene of the tragedy and where they apparently lay in wait for their victims. A hammer and piece of an automobile spring were found at the place where Adkins was beaten to death.

The attack was on a road a short distance north of Southern university campus about 8:30 o'clock Sunday night. Mrs. Steer is in a hospital. Her condition is critical, an attending physician said.

Bridge Fund to Pay For Holliday Paving

Payment of the county's share of the new Holiday street paving project will be made from the roads and bridges fund, which will be reimbursed by precinct one, through which the new highway is to run.

This was decided Monday afternoon when the county commissioner passed an order instructing that this method be taken for financing their $47,000 share of the better tha n$90,000 improvement.

Through this action, each of the four precincts in Wichita county will share the burden of the improvement but will be paid back by precinct one, which is to derive the benefit of the improvement.

The Holliday paving will extend from Eleventh street to the city limits and is being improved jointly by the city and county.

Motor Officer Hurt Near Wichita Falls

J. A. Haigwood, a member of the city police department's motorcycle squad, is in the general hospital suffering from a badly cut and bruised leg as a result of an upset at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon several miles out on the Lake Wichita road. His left leg sustained a gash 4 inches long, his hand was badly skinned and bruised and he suffered other cuts and bruises about the body.

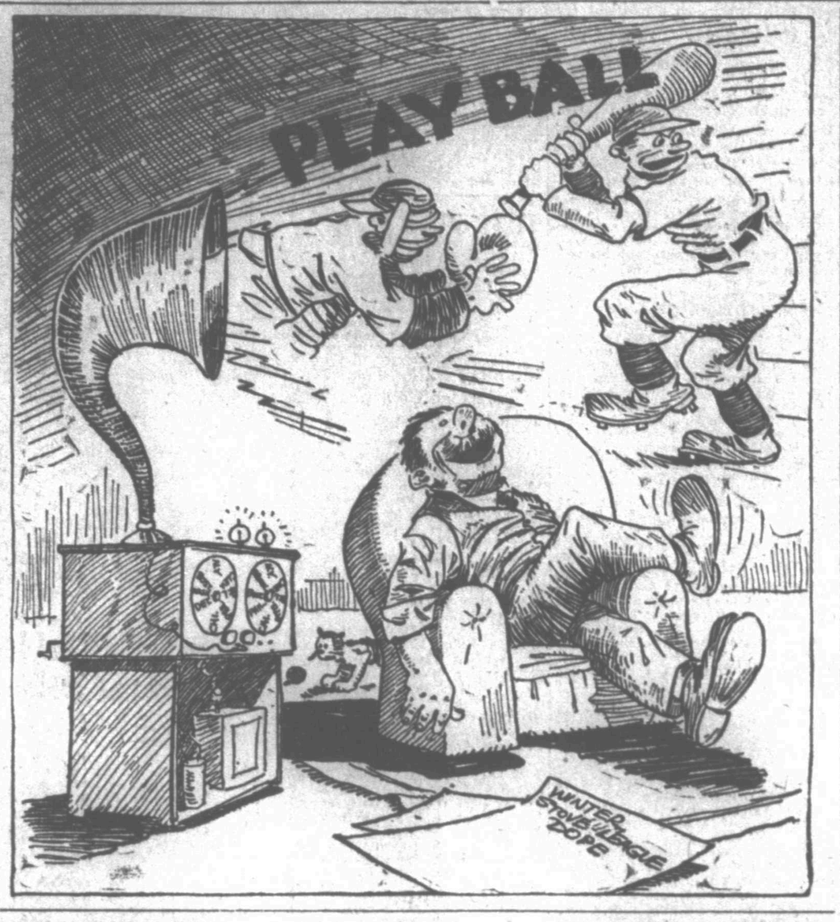

His machine was badly damaged.

Haigwood was chasing a speeder, he reported, when he lost control of his speeding bike and it upset. The accident happened at the point where the Rosemont burial park road leaves the main paved highway, about half way between the lake and the fair grounds. The officer will be laid up in the hospital for several days, physicians reported.

W. F. HOGAN IS KILLED WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

Salesman For Langford Co. Crushed in Sixth And Holliday Accident

W. F. Hogan, 802 Seventh, salesman for the Longford Motor company, was fatally injured Monday afternoon, shortly after 6:30 o'clock in a collision between a touring car in which he was driving and a touring car driven by J. R. Myers, 1504 Seventh, at the corner of Sixth and Holliday streets.

Mr. Hogan was badly crushed in his chest and died a few minutes after arriving at the General hospital. The injury to his lungs was caused when he was crushed under the heavy car as it turned over after the collision.

The accident occurred, according to eye-witnesses, when Hogan, coming west on Sixth met Myers, going down Holliday to the business section. Seeing too late that a collision was inevitable, Hogan attempted to turn out and drive in front of the other machine, instead of hitting it in the center, which would have probably resulted seriously for both parties. The effort was unsuccessful and the Hogan car was knocked against a telephone post, turning over. Two women companions of the injured man, and Mr. Myers and a small boy with him, escaped injuries other than minor bruises.

Mr. Hogan never lost consciousness until his death, about a half hour later. He had no statement to [illegible] in regard to the accident, other than "I did my best."

The body is being held at the Hines Undertaking company, pending the completion of funeral arrangements by his brother who arrived a few minutes after his death, from Granfield, Okla., where he had been notified. The deceased is survived by his mother who also lives at Granfield.

BASEBALL KING AGAIN AFTER A WINTER SIESTA

Fires go Out in Hot Stove With Diamond Grass Once More Green

NEW YORK, April 13.—Eight immaculate baseball fields are ready for war and 16 well conditioned armies await the zero hour on the morrow.

America's national game, buried under football gridirons and board tracks during the winter months bursts forth once again in all its glory—the sun pouring into the bleachers, the fans cheering and hooting at once and the players, grime crusted, sweating in seething conflict.

West meets West and East meets East in the jousts tomorrow the first of a warfare which will endure for six months. The ranks in the early days will be depleted by injuries and illness, but will come to full strength when the sun is warmest.

Quarter Million Watch

As this seasonal conflict gets under way, the eyes of a quarter million enthusiasts will be upon the foes. The Yankee Stadium in New York baseball's greatest structure, is expected to receive the largest throng, for there the world champions of 1924—led by the indomitable young general, Stanley Harris—will do battle with the Yankee of New York for the three preceding years champions of the American League and of the world in 1923.

Meanwhile, the National league's champions, the Giants, ebcounter the Braves of Boston at the gigantic park in Boston, where another enormous throng is predicted.

The opening games are as follows:

American League: Washington at New York; Chicago at Detroit; Cleveland at St. Louis; Boston at Philadelphia.

National League: New York at Boston; Pittsburgh at Chicago; Philadelphia at Brooklyn and St. Louis at Cincinnati.

For the second time in four seasons the campaign will be started without the greatest of home run hitters, Babe Ruth, in the line-up of the Yankees. Three years ago Ruth was disciplined by Commissioner K. M. Landis for participating in barnstorming excursions after the regular season. He appeared after several weeks of the schedule had flown. Today the Yankee outfielder lies on a hospital cot suffering the after-effects of influenza, which twice had sent him toppling into unconsciousness.

Cobb Is Ill

Tyrus Raymond Cobb for nine years the American league's leading batter, is also a victim of illness, while the inimitable Walter (Rabbit) Maranville, formerly of the Braves and Pirates

AT the close of the war between the states, the livestock industry was the principle industry of the older sections of Texas. There were vast herds in the coast country. There were vast herds in south central Texas. There were vast herds in what is now known as the Magic Valley. There were vast herds in all the territory between San Antonio on the south and El Paso on the west.

There were thousands of newcomers to Texas, men from other states who had worn the grey uniform and had followed almost to the death the flag of Lee and his great commanders. They came to Texas to recoup their fortune, to build new homes in the wilderness, to escape the horrors of reconstruction and the political

Every Body Happy When All Pledge Selves To Hard Work

TAKE THEIR OATHS

Canvass of Returns Show Shepherd, Jones, Patton And Queisser Win

The old order changed and the new made its bow in Wichita Falls Monday night when, with considerable gusto, newly elected and newly appointed municipal officials took their oaths of office at the city council meeting and launched out on their tasks of civic administration.

It was about the most glorified session the village dads ever had. Everybody congratulated every body else. They passed verbal boquets; offered individual and collective felicitations and drank figuratively to the future health and prosperity of The City That Faith Built. In doing it, though, they took recognition of the fact that hard work and careful consideration will be necessary, and to this, each member of the council as well as other city executives pledged themselves anew.

Canvass Returns.

Much of the business of the evening had been cleared away before the council got down to the canvassing of returns of last Tuesday's election. Tally sheets certified as correct by judges of the three voting boxes were checked up and it was officially declared R. E. Shepherd was elected mayor; Oral Jones, finance commissioner; Frank Queisser, police and fire commissioner, and J. H. Patton, park and health commissioner.

The official totals of the voting were given as follows: For mayor, R. E. Shepherd, 2,503; R. E. Huff, 1,517; for finance commissioner, Oral Jones, 2,839; Walker Hendricks, 1,-126; for police and fire commissioner, Frank Queisser, 2,429; J. B. Fitts, 1,223; R. N. Wells, 306; for park and health commissioner, J. H. Patton, 2,043; J. W. Hunt, 1,959. Total vote 4,089.

Oaths Administered.

With this formality dispensed with Mr. Shepherd, Mr. Jones, Mr. Queisser and Mr. Patton stood and received the oath of office, read by City Clerk W. E. McBroom. It stipulated that each would serve in his respective office to the best of his ability; that neither had contributed any money or anything of value to any one as an inducement to obtain election; and it contained the time honored but otherwise non-essential clause that neither of the men had fought a duel with deadly weapons or aided or abetted in any way, the fighting of such a duel by any other person.

No sooner had the oaths been administered than Chief of Police George Hodgins kicked the door open and strode in with a huge basket of pink and white carnations which he presented to Mayor Shepherd "with the compliments of the Wichita Falls Rotary club." The mayor has been a long and active member of that organization.

Speeches in Order.

Speeches, of course, were in order and Mayor Shepherd broke the ice. The council room was packed with officials, semi-officials and others on hand for the occasion. County Judge B. D. Sartin with a brand new straw hat, held down a seat in the front row and led the vociferous applause that greeted the remarks of each man.

Mayor Shepherd's brief talk was a key-note for all the others and was representative of the sentiments expressed by all the succeeding speakers. He opened by bidding J. T. Young, retiring police commissioner, and Rhea Howard, retiring finance commissioner, a sincerely regretful farewell. He told each that the counsel, advice and assistance they had lent him and done much to smooth his path, and he declared the city was losing two able and loyal public officials with their retirement. These two men had held their seats at the table until the returns were canvassed. They then moved out and their successors became the official councilmen, although custom was retained and Mr. Young and Mr. Howard remained around the board for the balance of the night.

In his remarks, Mayor Shepherd officially welcomed Mr. Jones and Mr. Queisser to the city's directorial family and re-welcomed Mr. Patton, who started his second term last night. As to the future, Mr. Shepherd pledged his unremitting effort, his deepest thought and his constant attention to the affairs of Wichita Falls.

"Willing to Work."

"I'm more than willing to work," he declared, "and I want to reiterate I want to be the mayor for every body. No task will be too small to claim my attention when needed; anything that has to do with Wichita Falls 'advancement and progress will find me attentive to it. I want to serve you all to the best of my abilitp; and I am sure that each and every one of us will work heartily as units and as a council for the advancement of this city we have come to love."

Commissioner Patton was next in line, and after he had echoed Mayor Shepherd's sentiments and pledged himself anew to another term of service, J. T. Young called Chief of Police Hodgins into the room and presented him as "one of most loyal and conscientious public officers I ever knew." He publicly thanked Chief Hodgins for the way in which the latter had served as chief of police during his (Young's) administration, and said he was retiring from the council with a feeling of deep gratitude to his chief. Mr. Young then called in Fire Chief J. L. McClure, veteran head of the city's fire department, and commended the services of "Pa" as being above question and above reproach.

Oral Jones, the genial guardian of the municipal exchequer who was

Quick-Sand Bed Is Found As Engineers Seek Solid Foundation for Building

A PART of Wichita Falls' business district, at least, is built over a quick-sand bed of unfathomable depth, engineers on the new Perkins-Snider building at Ninth and Indiana have found in their explorations for a solid foundation for the big structure.

Alterations have been necessary for the plans of the building as a result of the sand strata encountered some 15 feet below the surface. The big edifice will not be changed in any important particular, word from the builders indicates, but considerable will be added to its cost.

Originally it was planned to erect the masonry pile on concrete piers sunk to a solid setting in the ground. In digging for these, however, a quick-sand bed was encountered and although no very concerted efforts have been made to plumb its depth, 18-foot sucker rods thrust through the hard earthen crust above it promptly sank out of sight.

To meet this problem, a solid bed of concrete will be poured on the stable ground above the sand. This, engineers declare, will provide a foundation of ample strength to bear the weight of the building. The bed will be laid only under the portion of the structure that is to raise six stories high. The balance, which will be but one story, will be carried on foundations of the usual type.

Rasputin Slayer Sues To Recover "Lost" Paintings

Russian Nobleman Says That He Borrowed Money On Them

NEW YORK, April 13.—Echoes of the Russian revolution were heard in the supreme court today at the opening of the trial in the suit brought by Prince Felix Youssoupoff, one of the most picturesque figures of pre-revolutionary Petrograd, to recover from Joseph E. Widener, of Philadelphia, two Rembradt paintings worth between $750,000 and $1,000,000.

Prince Youssoupoff acknowledged leader of the band of noblemen who killed the Monk Gregory Hasputin, in December, 1916, seeks to recover "A gentlemen with a high hat" and "A lady with an Ostrich feather." He claims he turned them over to Widener as collateral for a loan of 100,000 pounds sterling in August, 1922, reserving the right to cover them by payment of the principal with 8 per cent interest. Mr. Widener in the preliminary of the suit in October, 1924, testified he had bought the paintings, giving the prince the right of repurchase on conditions which he said had not been fulfilled.

consequence which has been forced upon them by the placing of the ballot in the hand of the black.

At a Low Ebb.

Of course, the livestock industry was at a low ebb. There were vast herds of cattle, with no transportation facilities, and a glutted market in the larger cities of the far north. It was then that the famous cattle drives took place from the ranges of of Texas to the cities or towns of Kansas and Missouri, where rail transportation to the big markets were accessible.

Those Texans who wielded the plow and the hoe were wedded to the cotton crop and but little else. They were found in east Texas, in the black land counties, in central Texas and in the territory between Austin an Houston. Thus it was that the live stock industry became the first basic industry of the commonwealth, and the coming of railways made that industry all important and created large fortunes for the kings of the ranges.

In the good old days when the grass was free there were no boundary lines on the ranches of the west. Then came the invention of the barbed wire and John W. Gates was the first man to introduce the new fence to the astonished lords of the range. Indeed, the barbed wire fence sounded the first death knell for the kings of the open spaces.

An edict was sent forth that landed proprietors must fence their possessions and beyond that they should not go. This led to the free grass war of the 80's and after many bitter battles the champions of free grass were overwhelmed. This opened the country west of Fort Werth to the men with the plow and the hoe and the covered wagon or prairie schooner sent terror to the heart of the king of the range.

Were Wise Men.

There were wise men among them. They saw the importance of ridding the ranges of the longhorn steer. There was no market for the brute in the most consuming cities of the nation. Like the buffalo and the wild horse and the dodo, the steer had his day. Pedigreed bulls and cows were introduced in large numbers and in a few short years the long horn had disappeared.

Now Texas is first in the live stock industry, but the vast herds of today are of noble lineage and the wealth represented by cattle alone is estimated at more than $600,000,000. Texas produces more hides than any American state. There isn't a tannery in the state or a manufacturer of shoes on a broad scale.

West Texas is the home of the wool and mohair producing tribes. It wasn't so in the long ago. Texas sheep produce the finest quality of wool and shares honors with the wool producers of Ohio and Wyoming. Texas mohair is graded finst in the markets of the world. There isn't a woolen factory of any note in Texas, and as for Texas mohair, it is sold to the Boston buyers who in turn sell it to the mills of New England and Old England.

Sheep Substituted.

Pedigreed sheep were substituted years ago for the wild native stock and angora goats which produce the finest mohair in the world, became the successors of the scrub goat who had his beginning in Texas when the Spanish flag covered a third of this continent.

In those days of "law west of the Pecos" was the law of the west. Hardy rangers rode the ranges, and the picked men of the organized counties were the sheriffs who enforced law and order with their winchesters and their sixshooters. They enforced the law of the land, written and unwritten. There is no doubt of that.

The coming of the iron horse revolutionized the livestock industry and it revolutionized conditions in the west. In the 70s the Texas and Pacific railroad was built from Texarkana to El Paso, and in later years the Fort Worth & Denver tracked the broad prairies and the mountains from Fort Worth to the imperial capitol of the Centennial state. This placed the livestock kings within easy distance of the markets of the world. Later along in the 80's the cities of Dallas and Fort Worth, rivals then and rivals today, saw the advantages of packing house centers and then the fight began in earnest. Fort Worth won and the Chicago packers planted their stock yards and immense meat establishments in that city.

John S. Armstrong of Dallas played the game alone, and founded the packery and stock yards which bear his name in the city of Dallas. Houston caught the spirit and then began the establishment of home markets for the kings of the range who were interested in meat production for the stomachs of men the world over.

NEW CITY

swept into office by a landslide vote that give him a greater majority than any other man on the ticket, told the council he deemed it a great privilege to be associated with them in the service of the city. He paid a warm tribute to Mr. Howard, whom he succeeded, and declared it his wish to serve Wichita Falls to the best of his ability.

Commissioner Jones, by the way, was a victim of an unwritten law that any member of the council who puts his brogans on the council table shall be assessed the penal sum of five simoleans. He did, and paid off, but in view of his unfamiliarity with council etiquet the fine was remitted at the close of the meeting.

Queisser Is Next.

Frank Queisser followed Mr. Jones and declared that he, too, deemed work with the council a privilege and honor. He voiced an intention of "putting his shoulder to the wheel" and serving as best he knew for the city's welfare.

Appointments were next in order and Mayor Shepherd submitted the name of W. E. McBroom as hold-over appointee for the important office of city clerk. It was moved and carried unanimously, after which Commissioner Queisser offered the names of George H. Hodgins as chief of police and J. L. McClure as chief of the fire department. These were also approved unanimously and after the three men had made brief speeches of acceptance and pledged their best efforts for Wichita Falls, they were sworn in by Mayor Shepherd. C. B. McConnell, desk sergeant of the police department, also took the oath with them.

BASEBALL

will be unable to take his position with the Chicago Cubs having suffered a broken leg in training. Denver Grigsby of the Cubs has a broken collar bone; Joe Hauser, first baseman of the Athletics has a broken knee cap; Fred Heimach of the Athletics has a sprained right shoulder and numerous smaller injuries will handicap the clubs at the start.

Another face that has been familiar to baseball followers for many years, will be missing—that of Stuffy McInnis, first baseman with the old Athletics brilliant outfit, and a player who went through an entire season with only one error.

McInnis has been released unconditionally by the Boston Braves for his refusal to accept a cut in salary and report to the training camp.

But there will be new figures, Jim Poole, slugger of the Pacific Coast league has come from Portland to take the maimed Hauser's place with the Mackmen and Gordon Cochrane, Boston university graduate will be catching for the Athletics. Dick Cox may be in the Brooklyn outfield; Frank Walker in the Giant's gardeus and Al Coombs, injured a year ago, will be alongside Bob Meusel in the Yankees' out defense.

Minors Contribute

The Ubillies in an endeavor to step out of the second division have added several minor league stars among whom is "Chicken" Hawks once a sub-first baseman for the Yankees. Brooklyn has purchased a clever American association left-hander in Jess Petty. The Cubs, to fill the shoes of Maranville have obtained Jim McAuley of Los Angeles.

Close followers of the game appear to agree in the opinion that the Yankees, Senators and Tigers will fight for the American league pennant, with the possibility that George Sisler will bring fire to a smouldering St. Louis club. In the National league the Giants, Pirate and Dodgers with again a threat from St. Louis are expected to race neck and neck down the stretch.

—to build up Weight!

ANY WOMAN, any man, can now have a well-developed face and form. The whole, simple secret of a well-developed form is in the number of blood-cells in your body. You can now forget all the theoretical talk about diet, exercise, fad treatments, food-fats and fat-foods. Nothing is of any use, after all, except blood-cells!

Thin, run-down men and women, with bony necks, sunken cheeks, bony shoulders—all these are suffering from one thing—too few blood-cells. Science has proved that S.S.S. helps to make the rich red-blood-cells, which you need. Your blood is starving for these new blood-cells! Give your blood the blood-cells it needs—take S.S.S. the great scientific blood-cell maker. S.S.S. has done marvels, too, in making beautiful complexions, clearing the skin, making lips rosy red, the cheeks full and plump—because it rids the blood of impurities which cause pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash and rheumatism, too. As the medicinal ingredients of S.S.S. are purely vegetable, it may be taken with perfect safety. This is why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Start taking S.S.S. today and your great problem, that of your personal appearance, can be solved.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Rich Student Ends His Life "Of Falures"

Physical Illness Thought To Have Been Cause Of Suicide

CHICAGO, April 13.—Robert Preston, 21-year-old Northwestern university student and son of a wealthy Oak Park family, ended what he considered "a life of failures" with a strange death in Lake Michigan yesterday.

A bullet wound in the head and a brief case of diaries strapped to him and weighted down with three heavy pieces of iron were the conclusions the youth apparently drew from his self-confessed philosophy—"when you get to the end of your rope, tie a knot and hang yourself."

Coroner's physicians described the diaries as amazingly frank revelations of the phantasies of a modern youth. The doctors found a tragic story in the lad's confessions of his struggle against an incurable diabetic condition and in his consequent abandon and indulgence in the things which a rigorous diet forbade him.

While a studet at Northwestern and for a short time previously at the University of Illinois he had suffered almost continuously from the disease, his parents said.

In a note to his parents which he left in his room in Evanston young Preston wrote:

"Dear Folks:

"I'm sorry I'm causing you all this trouble, but you are working for my good and I am too. I am only sorry that I could not show my appreciation for what you were doing for me; for I do appreciate it. I've thought it all out and am not acting on the spur of the moment. Please let the matter drop by knowing that I am at last contented."

The youth's father, William H. Preston, is district manager for the Corticelli Silk company.

Building Activities in City Stay on Increase as Totals Rise.

Nine building permits with a total valuation of $28,930 were issued Monday by Building Inspector Fred A. Smith as a start on the week's construction business. This is regarded as a fair day's average.

All the other permits were for smaller buildings, mostly residences.

Bandy was arrested in connection with the theft of a valuable suitcase filled with clothing and other articles, taken from an automobile owned by W. E. Brown of Megargel. It was stolen December 9, last.

Postmaster Is Swamped With Replies After He Advertises for a Wife

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill., April 13. C. H. Spilman, postmaster here, said today he would have to hire a stenographer to handle replies to a letter published in a local paper in which he is interested for D. B. McCracken of Waldron, Ark., who stated that "I desire a nice Christian woman for a life companion."

MacCracken, who explained that he owned a 270-acre, well stocked and improved farm in Scott county, said he was a widower of 68, "but in looks I am 40," and that he wished to marry a woman who would live on a farm.

More than 100 letters deluged the little postoffice immediately after the publication several days ago and have continued, Spilman said. Among replies was one which read:

"I am 58 years old, feel 16 and look a 2-year-old. I try to be a good Christian and have lived on a farm all my life."

Oil Accounting Suit Involves Local Men

A suit for accounting which involves 15 Wichita Falls business men who at one time were partners in a Wichita county oil lease was started Monday before Judge P. A. Martin and a jury in the 89th district court. It is styled E. S. Carey vs. T. T. T. Reese.

The lease was one of five acres that at one time was a valuable producer but which later failed with about $50,000 indebtedness against it. Some of the original partners now deny liability for this and the suit is one to straighten out the entanglement.

He Says He Cut Her Throat in Jealousy

LONDON, April 13.—A sorry story of fatal jealousy was told in police court today when Ernest Rhodes, 18-year-old valet, appeared to answer a charge of murdering Grace Blakailer, pretty 16-year-old actress and dancing instructress, who died Friday from the effects of a slash in the throat. A statement was read into the records alleging Rhodes had cut the girl's throat with a razor.

The fatal act as recorded in the statement was committed impulsively in a fit of jealousy as he was bidding the dancer good night outside her home, on their return from a motion picture theatre and she chaffed him about other boys she might see during the Easter holidays.

Gulf Coast Crude Gets Two-bit Cut From $2 Price

Texas Oil Concern Lops 25 Cents Off From Over Production

HOUSTON, April 13.—A cut of 25 cents on both grades of coastal crude oil was announced today by the Humble Oil and Refining company, making the price $1.75 for grade A and $1.50 for grade B.

Over production is the reason assigned by officials of the company for the reduction in price.

Trade Considers Oil Is on a Sound Basis

NEW YORK, April 13.—The oil situation is considered in the trade t obe on a sounder basis than statistics would indicate. Although all grades of crude are showing slight increases, the gain, it is pointed out, is in heavy or non-gasoline crude while production of light oil, the source of gasoline supply, has declined more than 102,000 barrels daily on the level of ten weeks ago.

The decrease in light oil production in the Mid-Continent field is expected to have a stabilizing effect on prices.

Business of the Independent Oil and Gas company for the first quarter this year shows improvement over the same period in 1924, net income having increased to $1,020,960 compared with $794,372 a year ago.

Kiwanis Club To Meet Each Day During Campaign

Special Luncheon Will Be Held Each Noon At Wichita Club

The Kiwanis club will meet each day during its three-day drive for the Wichita Falls Day Nursery New Home, at the Wichita club at 12 o'clock. At that time captains of the different teams will report their progress and a daily bulletin will be issued, showing how contributions are coming in.

The 15 teams were given cards Monday at the regular luncheon of the club and told to start work immediately. Judge A. H. Brittain and Mrs. J. A. Kemp made short talks to the workers, in which the former stressed the need for a new home for the children, whose mothers work in the day time and cannot care for them. Mrs. Kemp gave a brief resume of the Day Nursery as it was in its beginning several years ago.

At a late hour last night no definite check could be made on the amount taken in during the first afternoon of the drive but it was known that several large contributions had been taken. Members expressed the hope that the Tuesday report would show the club well on the way to their unselfish goal, a new modern home for Day Nursery children.

The following were named on the 15 teams:

A. C. Camp, captain, assisted by V. E. Wratten and Guy Jones; J. G. Dixon, captain, Dave Shepherd and E. T. Riley; E. P. Harding, captain, Dave Paul and Joe Pate; R. M. McCullock, captain, O. E. Nichols, and M. D. Fuller; Jean Montgomery, captain, L. E. Noble and Eli Morgan; R. H. Peterson, captain, Grover Monroe and Abe Marks; Walter Robbins, captain, J. C. Crane and K. Bebbs; H. F. Sanderford, captain, J. A. Kemp, Jr., and W. F. Ivers; Ira Cain, captain, W. R. Couch and E. R. Cline; Clinton E. Smith, captain, C. K. Dodge and G. G. Golden; J. M. Williams, captain, J. M. Baber and Julian Bobo; O. W. Wilson, captain, J. M. Bonner and W. H. Caldwell; H. D. Wolff, captain, Luther Hoffman and William Young; Fred Woolsey, captain, Harwood Stacy and E. C. McMontel; A. J. Naylor, captain, J. S. Carvell and N. D. Stephens.

The following women will lend their aid during the drive:

Mesdames R. J. Goodale, E. T. Duck, G. D. Anderson, J. A. Kemp, W. E. Cohen, G. D. Riggs, C. J. Barnard, Charles Pogenpehl, Eugene Liepold, C. B. Jetter, E. W. Wade, Carlisle Norwood and W. S. Tyson.

THREE TYPES OF AESTHETIC DANCING ARE EXPLAINED BY THE MILLION DOLLAR BRIDE

By GLORIA GOULD BISHOP.

The twelfth of an exclusive, novel series of articles on dancing. By Glorious Gloria Gould Bishop—America's "Million Dollar Bride."

Today's lesson will be devoted to three very beautiful types of aesthetic dancing, the polonaise, the schottishe and the gavotte.

The first of these, the polonaise, is not only beautiful in its many graceful positions, but carries with it a rich legendar, background.

It is known as the original court dance of Russia in the days of tyrant Czars and court intrigues. It was always a regular feature of court functions and the gentlemen and ladies of the court attired in their brilliant silks and satins made an exquisite picture before the glittering thrones of the Czar and Czarina, and walked sedately through the figures of this diginfied dance.

Miss Gould in a Relaxed Graceful Position

The Polonaise consists of what the French call "plier battlement" meaning, as I say to my pupils in my classes, "Step-step, bending the supporting knee while the other foot is extended forward."

The courtiers and their ladies, two at a time, would approach the throne of the Czar, doing the Polonaise step I have just given you, curtsey to the Czar ,and separate, the ladies going in one direction, the courtiers in the other.

As the music proceeds, the couples again approach the throne, but this time after the curtsey, one couple goes to the right of the throne, the other two to theleft. This is followed by the same procedure with four couples approaching the throne, and in the final figure, eight couples abreast complete the dance with a curtesy.

As I teach the Polonaise step in its original form. I try to surround it with all the romance of its origin. It helps the pupils to learn it more quickly and enables them to get into the spirit of the dance with much more accuracy.

I find that if there is an extra pupil in the class, and she takes turns with the other children in being the Czarina on the throne (we trump up a cold for the Czar to explain his absence, or in an extremity either Miss Barker, my partner, or I take the part of the Czar) the children get some fun as well as instruction out of the lesson.

I always teach the Schottishe, another charming dance, with the Polonaise, since it is very simple in its technique. The step consists of:

Slide to side—cut—step—swing.

Transfer weight—step—cwing—hop

The Schottishe, a delightful and amusing little dance seldom used nowadays, except as a part of the Minute, has some charming features. If my pupils make progress with the Schottishe and Polonaise, I give them the steps of the Gavotte, which are very simple.

This dance was originated in the province of Dauphine, located in the upper Alps. It is a brisk and lively dance in character, and the children get a great deal of fun out of doing it. It is a matter of several quick steps, capering and kissing. For the other children the dance is a little more dignified, and instead of exchanging kisses, the dancers present each other with miniature bouquets of flowers.

Beg Your Pardon

Editor Record News:

Please refer to your issue of Sunday, April 12, wherein you have paragraph reading as follows:

"Texas Company Loses Suit." "Jury Returns Verdict Against Refining Concern."

"Answers which favored the defendant in all particulars were returned Saturday afternoon by a jury in the 78thh district court in the case of William Guthrie vs. The Texas Company. The plaintiff was suing for damages on grounds that oil and salt water from leases operated by the defendant near plaintiff's home on Beaver creek were polluting the waters of the stream and making it unfit for domes."

Wish to advise that you are entirely in error and would thank you to run the following correction:

"Answers of Jury Are Favorable to The Texas Company."

The jury in the case of William Guthrie against The Texas company in which the plaintiff sought damages in excess of $25,000 returned a verdict late Saturday afternoon. Answers made to the special issues upon which the case was submitted are believed to be favorable to the defendant.

The plaintiff sought judgment for alleged permanent damages sustained as a result of the contention that The Texas company in operating its property near the banks of Beaver creek permitted salt water and waste oil to flow into the stream.

The jury found that in all instances the defendant company was operating its lease in an efficient and careful manner and that it had expended large sums of money to construct tanks and catch basins to impound the waste oil and salt water.

Yours truly,

J. L. McMAHON, Gen. Supt.

County Schools On Final Home Stretch

"Down the home stretch" is a true pupils and teachers of the county are singing these days as the end of the scholastic year draws nearer each day. The schools will close their 1925 sessions four weeks from next Friday, and attention is already being paid to the wind up of the long grind.

Only a few changes will be made in the teaching personnel during the summer, County Superintendent of Schools Burl Bryant said Monday. A few faculty members, of course, will not return, by far the larger majority have already indicated their intention of being back.

One rural school, Prairie Cottage will close for the year next Friday. All the others will run on for one more month.

HAVE A HEART!

For many years sanitarians have been advocating what they call periodical health examinations. A health examination is a complete physical inventory of an individual, whether apparently well or not, made by a competent doctor of medicine in order to detect physical and mental impairments with a view to their correction.

Every sensible person should go at least once a year to a reputable physician (of which there are still a goodly number) and have an appraisal of his stock of health. If he is discovered to be in perfect health, so much the better for his peace of mind. If, as often happens, organic disease in an incipient stage is found, he is also better off, because he may take immediate steps to remedy a condition which, if allowed to proceed unchecked, will be infinitely more troublesome and expensive to treat later.

Thus he saves himself future pain and financial expenditure, besides prolonging his life.

It used to be that tuberculosis exacted the greatest toll among men. Now heart disease does. Periodic health examinations serve to detect heart disease in time for something to be done about it. No layman can ascertain the condition of his heart merely by the way he feels or thinks he feels.

The importance of the heart disease problem is shown by the fact that in recognizable form this malady interferes with the industry, recreation and comfort of at least two million persons. It kills more persons than tuberculosis, kidney disease, cancer or cerebral hemorrhage and apoplexy. Two per cent of all applicants for life insurance are rejected because of it, and four per cent of the men in the draft army were rejected for the same reason. Out of some million deaths annually from all causes, almost 140,000, or 13 per cent, are due to it.

Some diseases are almost prevalent among persons of low economic status, that is, "poor people," but heart disease is not one of them. It shows no favoritism whatever.

Indolence after forty-five, not an uncommon malady these days, is declared by Dr. Haven Emerson, president of the New York Heart association, to be a potent factor in its development.

The heart must have a certain amount of exercise and when poor habits of personal hygiene stand in the way the owner pays the penalty. Here is something to take to heart.

HIGH SURTAXES A MENACE.

Garrard B. Winston is under secretary of the treasury. He made a remarkable address in the city of Richmond in the month of March. In his foreword he quoted from the messages of two presidents. This excerpt from the message of Coolidge, "the method of raising revenue ought not to impede the transaction of business. It ought to encourage it. I am opposed to extremely higher rates, because they produce little or no revenue; because they are bad for the country; finally, because they are wrong."

This an excerpt from the message of Woodrow Wilson and sent to congress in 1919. "There is a point in which in peace times higher rates of income and profits taxes discourage energy, remove the incentive to new enterprises, encourage extravagant expenditures and produce industrial stagnation witlf consequent unemployment and other attendant evils."

This under-secretary then remarked that taxation is an economic and not a political question and we do well if we approach the subject exclusively from an economic or business standpoint. He insisted we should not raise more revenue than we need.

He inveighed against the federal inheritance tax as well as other taxes, saying if income tax rates are placed so hight that capital and productive business no longer gives a net return commensurate with a risk capital will go out of productive business, lie idle, go abroad, go into tax exempt securities or find other ways of avoiding the tax.

And this is just what has happened in the United States. With surtax rates as now exist, tax exempt securities outstanding exceeds $13,000,000,000 and are increasing at over a billion dollars a year.

The treasury plan would reduce income tax rate; it would reduce the high surtax rate first; it would repeal the federal inheritance tax law and permit the 48 American states or their lawmakers to handle the subject in keeping with sound public policy and the wishes of the people of each sovereign commonwealth.

President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon are awaiting for the coming of December when a new congress will tackle these problems which so vitally concern the American people and their pocketbooks.

FIRST IN TEXAS.

Houston is to have a labor bank in the near future, the first in Texas. It will open with a capitalization of $125,000 and H. McBroom of that city is chairman of the board of trustees.

Just before he died Samuel Gompers warned the labor leaders and their followers to move slowly in the organization of banks, as banking is a business that requires cautious men of character and experience to avoid going on the rocks of disaster.

This new venture is to be backed by the Labor temple of Houston. What will the harvest be?

SPEAKING OF GAS.

Gasoline consumption in the United States is now at record figures. February of 1924. There was a gain of 15 per cent in exports of gasoline. Of course, 1924 was a busy gasoline year, but a gain of 26 per cent was shown in the total of gasoline consumption in America for the first two months of 1925 over the same period of 1924. Long haul trucks were busy; long haul busses were busy and in many sections of the south the tractor was busy.

DUST.

When I go along the crowded street I am greeted everywhere by whirls of dust.

I find my shoes covered with it. Horses kick it up and it is everywhere, even in my lungs.

This dust, however, is a remarkable thing. Out of it comes all that grows; the trees, the flowers and the crops all spring from it.

What is it? The decayed and disintegrated results of former life. All that lives must find its final abiding place in dust. The death of all things, however, is not so remarkable as the birth of new things out of this common element.

I myself am a product of dust, for He who created me made my body out of the dust of the ground. A man is just as much a growth of the soil as a tree. His evolution has only been a little longer. By and by he must return to the dust from which he came.

This dust, therefore, contains in itself the potentialities of all being. In it are the trees, birds, flowers and men of the future.

It is a symbol of myself. For what is personality but a something or other composed of things, we know not what?

What are ideas and thoughts but things that have found lodgment in us and have floated to us from somewhere?

I have no original ideas. The very words I use are the detritus from others' ideas. And the very passions of my body and soul are but a temporary grouping of certain sensations that belong to the human race.

It is an interesting spectacle to watch human beings and all the growths that surround them, whether of plants or animals, rythmically rising from the dust and settling back again. All life and growth, as we know it, is but an episode. If there were no new births, all things would go speedily back to the dust from which they came.

Dust, therefore, is a remarkable substance, containing in itself not only the death of all living things, but the potentialities of their regeneration.

LAMENT OF AN AGRICULTURIST.

Geo. B. Terrell is state commissioner of agriculture. As state commissioner he views with grave concern the reduced appropriations of the legislature, coupled with the vetoes of Governor Ferguson relative to the future of the pecan and citrus protection work.

He sees disaster. He says the pecan work and the citrus canker work will be entirely eliminated on account of these vetoes, leaving the great citrus industry in the Rio Grande valley without any protection against the importation of the citrus canker and other dangerous diseases and insect pests, which may destroy the entire industry causing the loss of millions of dollars.

Furthermore, he says his department will probably have to close the cotton seed laboratory and suspend the operation of the pure cotton seed breeders law and give the farmers no protection against the seed bootleggers because the funds to pay the salary of a capable man to administer this work were cut out.

Commissioner Terrell is a farmer. He was born on a farm. He owns a farm. He has been identified with farming all his life. His verdict is that no other department of the state government has had its appropriations reduced in proportion to the reductions made in the department of agriculture. What are the farmers of Texas going to do about it?

JIM REED'S WARNING.

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri has warned the state legislatures and congress against the piling up of unnecessary laws. He says the statute books of the 48 American states contain 18,000 laws and that at least 15,000 of them are either useless or detrimental. This is the verdict of the Missouri scorpion, "imagine talking about a free people that has 18,000 statutes governing its conduct." Where is the use? Why worry?

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.
According to Your Ability.

It is not only idle but harmful for those who write on success to declare that anything is possible to hard work and determination.

Hard work and determination are both necessary to the right kind of success. But there are countless thousands of people who have employed both, and have never either piled up fortunes, or got their names into the hall of fame.

No young man without talent can ever become a distinguished pianist.

The average person might work and study for fifty years, and never produce a single line of literature as great as any of the lines in Shelley's "Skylark" which that great genius wrote without any effort at all.

The investigating mind, powerful physique and abounding energy that made Thomas A. Edison one of the foremost men in the science of electricity do not occur together in one among a million people.

The best that any one can do in this world is to use his ability for all it is worth.

That may not lend him to swing mighty bridges across wide rivers, to write great novels, or to make inventions which will add to the comfort of joy of living.

But it will do more for him than will the all too common habit of sitting around and waiting for the chance that never seems to arrive, and never will arrive as long as one sits down to wait for it.

It is not necessary for us all to be geniuses. Indeed a world where they averaged ten or twelve to the dozen would be a pretty uncomfortable world for the rest of us. Geniuses are peculiar. They need a deal of waiting on. One of them, Napoleon, made so much trouble in the world that millions of people would have throttled him, if they could, in infancy, had they known what he was going to do with his brilliant gift for military leadership.

But the common average man will be astonished at what he can do with the very ordinary equipment he brings into the world if he takes the trouble to get all its capabilities out of it.

He only needs to try as hard as he can, to use his ears and eyes and his brains, to accomplish a great deal of good for himself and incidentally for others.

Most people use about half their mental capacity, because they have never taken the trouble to develop the other half.

Few know what they can really do, because they have always been too indolent to try.

Nobody expects all young men and women to get their pictures in the magazines that tell of great fortunes or great achievements.

But the world has a right to expect of any healthy, sound minded person a great deal more than it is likely ever to get from him.

That is because of the prevalence of the greatest mental vice, which is a sturdy and rooted dislike to doing a half hour's more work a day than is absolutely necessary to the holding of a job.

Irrigation

BORDERS.

In irrigating new lands, or lands which have not been properly levelled it is often the practice to throw up small dikes at intervals. These dikes parallel the rows of irrigation furrows. Their purpose is to prevent the water flowing laterally beyond the limits set by the dikes.

Such dikes are built at intervals of from 30 to 150 feet according to the conditon of the field and the judgment of the farmer. They are from six inches to over a foot higher than the general level of the field. Such dikes are called borders.

On a well levelled field devoted to row crops borders are not needed and should not be used as they take up a lot of land which should be growing crops.

Where a field is to be seeded for pasture or hay borders are often an important aid to irrigation. Hay fields are first corrugated and irrigated through the corrugations. After a few years these corrugations fill up and the only to water is by flooding. Then is when the borders prove their usefulness as they confine the irrigation water to definite areas and greatly aid the Irrigator in making an even distribution.

Borders are generally built by throwing up several plow furrows and then dragging a devise shaped like the letter "V" with the angle cut off. It is dragged big end foremost up the small ridge formed by the plow furrows. The wide end gathers up the dirt and as it passes through the small opening at the rear is left in the forme of a ridge.

Sometimes borders are built with a fresno by scraping dirt from high parts of the field and heaping it up in ridges.

Borders are very useful but waste a lot of land which could be growing crops. They should not be used except when necessary.

POEMS THAT LIVE

FAITH.

Better trust all and be deceived,
And weep that trust and that deceiving,
Than doubt one heart that if believed
Had blessed one's life with true believing.

Oh, in this mocking world too fast
The doubting fiend o'ertakes our youth;
Better be cheated to the last
Than lose the blessed hope of truth.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

Aries.

The aspects of today are quite unfavorable and do not encourage any effort of a fresh character of any departure from ordinary routine or customary duty. They do portend that unless a great deal of self-restraint is exercised, must disappointment and worry will be caused. Care should, therefore, be taken to establish poise and deliberate carefully and to think well before doing or saying things which you many otherwise be very sorry for. The signs today denote that although commercial lines may not be productive of bad results, it were well to abstain so far as possible from any mechanical or scientfic field or enterprse.

Towards the evening the indications are that there will be a constant feeling of irritation, and quiet reading or harmless recreation is the best course to adopt in order to prevent the consequences of any such untoward tendencies.

A child born today will enjoy exceptionally normal health during the period of infancy, and will be practically free from those ailments to which all children are subject. This does not mean, however, that there should be any less care or vigilance taken, and the very good health promised will invite this child to take chances which others would reject; this course may, unless proper watching is exercised, lead to unfortunate results.

In dispositions this child will be happy-go-lucky and will go its sweet way rather regardless of the feelings or wishes of others. Its character will be more obstinate than strong, and it will show a great deal of determination to accomplish any end it may have in view, nothwithstanding the opposition it may encounter. It will be very necessary to inculcate in this child's mind the benefits of unselfishness and careful consideration for the wants and desires of others with whom it is brought in contact.

Is April 14th your birthday If so, your disposition is a very sympathetic and agreeable one, your preception is very keen, your intuition is more reliable than the judgment of others and you have in addition, a clear, healthy mind. You are by no means theoretical, nor are you a dreamer, but look on everything from a practical point of view, and after having made up your mind as to the best course to pursue, do it quickly and efficiently.

You have not benefitted very much by the studies that you have undertaken, as you are always disposed to set aside that which you deem persiflage and rush to arrive at the absolute practical truth.

You are very inflexible in your love, and constant and faithful. In addition to this, you are very demonstrative, even to the point of extravagance in manifestation, but this is not rebuffed at by the recipients of your affection: Hence, your happiness in the home circle is unalloyed.

More Truth Than Poetry

PURE REASON

I do not like a cat to cross
  Ahead of me upon the street,
I would not shoot an albatross
  Though I had nothing else to eat.
No fear of the unseen have I;
  These traits are in my disposition,
And vigorously I deny
  That they proceed from superstition.

My cigarette I'd not permit
  To flicker through a match's flame,
If two already had been lit
  When some acquaintance struck the same.
And though I have an appetite
  Extremely hearty, hale and able,
I could not eat a single bite
  With thirteen people at the table.

If, by mischance, the salt I spill,
  I gaze upon the stuff aghast,
And suffer from a chronic chill,
  Until at least a year has passed.
And as I'd fear the gleaming teeth,
  Displayed by an athletic adder,
I'd fear to take a step beneath
  The apparatus called a ladder.

But tales of spirits leave me cold—
  No ghost that walks on land or sea,
No apparition, young or old,
  Could ever wring a yell from me.
But I do know that certain things
  Are lucky, or are unpropitious
Alike to commoners or kings—
  You couldn't call that superstition!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

ADVICE TO A PLAIN AND SENSIBLE BUSINESS GIRL ON HOW TO VAMP HER FIANCE—WHY MOTHERS ARE HAPPIER ALONE THAN WITH MARRIED CHILDREN—AN UNPARDONABLE SIN

Dear Miss Dix—My fiance tells me that he is attracted to me because I am a business girl, and am plain and sensible; but, at the same time, a gay, laughing, stylishly dressed girl can vamp him away from me, and he is always telling me how beautiful and attractive some painted-up doll is.

Now, I love this man. What shall I do to hold him? Become the kind that can vamp him or just be natural and perhaps lose him?

DISTRESSED DAMSEL.

Answer—My dear girl, there are two things that you must always take with a liberal pinch of salt. One is a man's ideal of the perfect woman, and the other is his assertion that he wants you to be always perfectly frank and truthful with him.

He believes, poor dear, that he is speaking the truth, but any woman who takes him at his word loses out.

Virtually every man believes that he admires a plain, sensible woman who does not use any paint or powder, or permanently wave her hair, and who remains just as homely as God made her.

He also believes that he admires the woman who does not waste her time and money, and thought on foolish frills and frivols, but who buys stout serviceable clothes, with a view to their lasting qualities and not their looks and becomingness.

But every motfier's son of them flees from his ideal woman as he would from the plague, and the more a woman dolls herself up and the more like a fashion plate she looks the more he runs after her.

The hand they want to hold is the soft, white one with manicured nails, not the hands that have corns on them from working for them. The cheek they want to lay theirs against is the one that has nice painted roses on it, not a cleanly scrubbed one. The lips they kiss are the lip-sticked ones. The only women who ever trample over men do it in high-heeled satin slippers.

So, if you want to keep your man, smlie sweetly when he tells you that you attract him by being plain and sensible, but go forth and buy vampy clothes. The only sensible women that men really admire are the women who have sense enough to be the thing men really want, instead of the thing that they think they want.

Furthermore, never believe a man when he tells you that he wants you to tell him the truth. He only wants you to tell him pleasant truths. Go that far and lock the balance in your own breast. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a woman of 60, and live alone in a first-flcor apartment. A young couple with a baby live upstairs. They go out to parties, to the movies, auto riding and to chuch on Sunday, leaving their baby alone. On their way out they call to me to take a look at the baby if she cries too hard. Often they don't get back until after 12 o'clock at night, and that keeps me up, as I never like to go to bed for fear something might happen to the child. Don't you think this inconsiderate of them?

My married daughter would like me to come and live with her, but as long as I am in good health, don't you think I am better off by myself?

MRS. G.

Answer—Indeed I do. I think you set an example of good sense and independence to many other mothers, and that for her own sake and her children's sake every woman should stay in her own house and keep her own home as long as it is possible.

It is very hard for a woman who has been the head of her own house to submit gracefully to being second fiddle in somebody else's, even if it is her own child's. She has her own ways of doing things, and she cannot help interfering and suggesting when she sees a different plan of management in vogue. She has been accustomed to being busy and time hangs heavily on her hands. And it makes her moody, and morbid, and querulous.

Good daughters are always urging their mother to break up their homes and come and live with them, and take life easily.

But nine times out of ten mother would be far happier if she would stick to her own home and her own things, even if she did have to work at little hard.

As for the young couple who so shamefully neglect their baby, they deserve to be reported to the society to protect children from cruelty. They have no right to lay their burden on you, and you should not hesitate to tell them that you are no nurse girl and that they will have to do their own baby tending. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I know a little family consisting of husband and wife and baby that is about to be broken up by a young woman. The man has become madly infatuated with this girl and his wife knows it, and has left him, but I think she would come back and the family might be reunited if the young woman could be got rid of.

Can you not say something that would make this girl realize what a dreadful thing she is doing in breaking up a home and making a child an orphan? Do you not think that this girl would do an honorable and noble deed if she would go away where the man cannot see her? Do you not think God would bless her if she went away and saved the wife's home for her?

FRIEND.

Answer—I certainly think that a woman who has any part in the breaking up of a home commits an unpardonable sin. I also believe that a curse follows her for doing so, and that she never finds any happiness in a love to which she had no right.

But why blame all the fault on the girl? Why ask her to go away and make whatever sacrifices the occasion demands?

Surely the man who forsakes his wife for another woman is more blameworthy than the woman is, because the preservation of his home was his business, and he had more duty to his wife than the strange woman has. It was he who had taken an oath before God and man to be true, and faithful, and loyal.

The woman thou gavest me, she did it, is the excuse of every weakling from Adam down, and small faith is to be put in any man who can only be kept straight by having attractive women run away from him. DOROTHY DIX.

SOCIETY

THE spacious home of Mrs. M. J. Bashara at Van Buren and Tenth was opened Monday afternoon to the women of the Church of the Good Shepherd.

The decorations were lavish and lovely. Palms, ferns and spring flowers of roses and carnations were used in the reception and living room suite. Large floor baskets of roses and carnations were placed here and there while palms and ferns were so disposed as to make a charming setting for the sixty women who were present. The mantle in the dining room was a bower of roses and greenery. The refreshment table was covered in maderia and lace with a candlebra of light colored candles burning dimly. Roses and carnations were banked around the candlebra and at each corner of the table a lighted candle in a pretty holder was placed.

The women in the receiving line were light colored afternoon dresses to carry out the spring color affect. Those in the party were Mesdames Bashara, J. M. Sammon, E. T. Crawford, H. A. Allen, Nat L. Inge and R. J. Goodale.

The following program was given: Readings, Miss Juanita Kinsey; instrumental solos, Mrs. Harwood Stacey and Miss Catherine Weeks; Mrs. Walter Priddy, accompanied by Mrs. Harwood sang several numbers; Miss Elizabeth Langford, accompanied by Miss Catherine Weeks on the piano, gave several readings, and Little Miss Sadie Bashara gave a reading.

Following the musical program the Lenten money bags were collected and the names were called and each responded with some sort of a verse.

COOK-SMITH NUPTIALS SATURDAY

A pretty home wedding was the climax of social affairs for the Sibley-Taylor community Saturday evening when Miss Flora Smith of Normangee, became the bride of R. E. Cook, son of Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Cook, at the home of the bride's brother, Tom Smith, 2218 Burnett. Rev. W. D. Cook said the impressive ring ceremony.

The home was beautifully decorated with pot plants and cut flowers, and in the center of the room in which they were married a lovely wreath of roses and honeysuckles was suspended from the light. Miss Blanche Beckner played the violin solo "Love's Old Sweet Song," with Miss Juanita Hamersley at the piano after which Miss Beckner played "Lohengrin Bridal Chorus."

EMIL HERMAN SPEAKS TO WOMAN'S FORUM.

Hard work, continuous work imagination, patience and the love of the work are the old traditions that have been tried and true of a real artist, said Emil Hermann to the members of the art department of the Woman's Forum and their friends Monday evening at the Y. W. C. A.

He said that one must feel it, love it and live it before it can ever amount to anything. This applies to any kind of work Mr. Hermann says. Nothing is really worth the while that is not worth working for.

Mr. Hermann sketched two pictures, explaining to the people the coloring, the line in it, how to get the best effect and what is produced after it is all finished.

He explained the primary colors and what they must be mixed with before they are as they should be for certain kinds of art. He told the horizontal lines in a composition denoted the peace, rest and tranquility and the other lines showed storm and wildness.

Following his lecture and demonstration Mr. Hermann asked the art lovers to let him know anything that they didn't understand and that he would explain it. When the people left his lecture their minds were clear and they understood more about art than ever before for they had asked him anything they didn't understand.

THERE'S A TIME AND PLACE FOR QUARRELING

One of the best definitions of a lady is that of a girl who never causes other people embarrassment if she can possibly avoid it.

And yet many girls, who are right up to the mark in dozens of other ways, antagonize and annoy their friends by staging grand quarrels in the presence of other people.

Grace was a charming young thing—and quite the lady as far as the little social graces went, but she had her awful failing.

It didn't matter whether she was attending a dinner party at the Ritz, or was just spending the evening at bridge in some good friend's house—if her poor escort roused her wrath, she let him have a large unpleasant piece of her mind, immediately, in spite of numerous listeners.

When she became engaged to Tom, and they went out together, Grace found it impossible to wait until she was alone with him, to tell him just exactly what she thought of his outrageous flirtation with Mrs. Ostergren.

The matter was on her mind, and she wouldn't be happy until the situation was cleared up, so into battle she went, no matter what the scene, no matter how great a group of spectators.

This is of course one of the worst breaches of good taste to be found.

Each of us has a duty to our hostess, no matter how informal the affair she may be conducting—and we should all do the best we can to make things run smoothly for her and for the other guests.

No matter how bitter and resentful we may feel, when our particular man in the presence of others, makes a remark which gives away the fact, perhaps, that he's been deceitful about some situation or other—we've just got to swallow our indignation, and smile—for the sake of the rest of the party.

Sometimes the girl with whom we've chummed for years, says something rather catty which directs unfavorable attention to ourselves.

Oh! What a temptation it is then, to stage a grand old battle with her. It is so galling to have to sit and take this particular form of medicine, without making the slightest effort to retaliate.

And yet, we can't very well tell her just what we think of her, without becoming a bit violent. And we simply can't become violent, at the risk of embarrassing other people. That is—we can't if we're ladies.

However, the reward will come when you hear boys complaining about other girls: "Gosh, Virgie certainly loves to pick a fight, doesn't she? Honestly you can't take her out any place that she isn't at it hammer and tongs with some one. I wish all the girls were more like you—you've got good manners enough not to battle at a party. Certainly is a treat to step out with someone who knows there's a time and place for quarreling—and it's not when other people are about."

NOTE: It's so nice to get your letters, girls—and I am glad to try to help solve your perbolems for you. But so many of you have written to me for advice or my pamphlets "Food for Conversation" and "How to Overcome Self-Consciousness" without enclosing a stamped addressed envelope. Usually I can't find your address so I have no way of answering.

HOW IT STARTED

The "Bogie Man."

The great fear of children is the "bogie man," and many grown-ups have bogies of various forms. The word has an interesting derivation, having had its origin in Wales, that land of myths and does of old.

"Bogie" is really a corruption of "bogle," which is derived from the Welsh "bogwl," meaning a specter or goblin. The verb "baggle," which means to waver or hesitate, to manifest alarm, also enters into the story of our bogie man. For in Wales a horse that shies in fear of something is called a "boggle."

So although we do not "boggle" or show signs of being "possessed," we fear no goblins or witches, we do have our bogies today, pet fears and superstitions that are different merely in their nature from those old time counterparts whose name has survived in the modern word "bogle."

HAVE A HEART!

For many years sanitarians have been advocating what they call periodical health examinations. A health examination is a complete physical inventory of an individual, whether apparently well or not, made by a competent doctor of medicine in order to detect physical and mental impairments with a view to their correction.

Every sensible person should go at least once a year to a reputable physician (of which there are still a goodly number) and have an appraisal of his stock of health. If he is discovered to be in perfect health, so much the better for his peace of mind. If, as often happens, organic disease in an incipient stage is found, he is also better off, because he may take immediate steps to remedy a condition which, if allowed to proceed unchecked, will be infinitely more troublesome and expensive to treat later.

Thus he saves himself future pain and financial expenditure, besides prolonging his life.

It used to be that tuberculosis exacted the greatest toll among men. Now heart disease does. Periodic health examinations serve to detect heart disease in time for something to be done about it. No layman can ascertain the condition of his heart merely by the way he feels or thinks he feels.

The importance of the heart disease problem is shown by the fact that in recognizable form this malady interferes with the industry, recreation and comfort of at least two million persons. It kills more persons than tuberculosis, kidney disease, cancer or cerebral hemorrhage and apoplexy. Two per cent of all applicants for life insurance are rejected because of it, and four per cent of the men in the draft army were rejected for the same reason. Out of some million deaths annually from all causes, almost 140,000, or 13 per cent, are due to it.

Some diseases are almost prevalent among persons of low economic status, that is, "poor people," but heart disease is not one of them. It shows no favoritism whatever.

Indolence after forty-five, not an uncommon malady these days, is declared by Dr. Haven Emerson, president of the New York Heart association, to be a potent factor in its development.

The heart must have a certain amount of exercise and when poor habits of personal hygiene stand in the way the owner pays the penalty. Here is something to take to heart.

HIGH SURTAXES A MENACE.

Garrard B. Winston is under secretary of the treasury. He made a remarkable address in the city of Richmond in the month of March. In his foreword he quoted from the messages of two presidents. This excerpt from the message of Coolidge, "the method of raising revenue ought not to impede the transaction of business. It ought to encourage it. I am opposed to extremely higher rates, because they produce little or no revenue; because they are bad for the country; finally, because they are wrong."

This an excerpt from the message of Woodrow Wilson and sent to congress in 1919. "There is a point in which in peace times higher rates of income and profits taxes discourage energy, remove the incentive to new enterprises, encourage extravagant expenditures and produce industrial stagnation with consequent unemployment and other attendant evils."

This under-secretary then remarked that taxation is an economic and not a political question and we do well if we approach the subject exclusively from an economic or business standpoint. He insisted we should not raise more revenue than we need.

He inveighed against the federal inheritance tax as well as other taxes, saying if income tax rates are placed so hight that capital and productive business no longer gives a net return commensurate with a risk capital will go out of productive business, lie idle, go abroad, go into tax exempt securities or find other ways of avoiding the tax.

And this is just what has happened in the United States. With surtax rates as now exist, tax exempt securities outstanding exceeds $13,000,000,000 and are increasing at over a billion dollars a year.

The treasury plan would reduce income tax rate; it would reduce the high surtax rate first; it would repeal the federal inheritance tax law and permit the 48 American states or their lawmakers to handle the subject in keeping with sound public policy and the wishes of the people of each sovereign commonwealth.

President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon are awaiting for the coming of December when a new congress will tackle these problems which so vitally concern the American people and their pocketbooks.

FIRST IN TEXAS.

Houston is to have a labor bank in the near future, the first in Texas. It will open with a capitalization of $125,000 and H. McBroom of that city is chairman of the board of trustees.

Just before he died Samuel Gompers warned the labor leaders and their followers to move slowly in the organization of banks, as banking is a business that requires cautious men of character and experience to avoid going on the rocks of disaster.

This new venture is to be backed by the Labor temple of Houston. What will the harvest be?

SPEAKING OF GAS.

Gasoline consumption in the United States is now at record figures. February of 1924. There was a gain of 15 per cent in exports of gasoline. Of course, 1924 was a busy gasoline year, but a gain of 26 per cent was shown in the total of gasoline consumption in America for the first two months of 1925 over the same period of 1924. Long haul trucks were busy; long haul busses were busy and in many sections of the south the tractor was busy.

DUST.

When I go along the crowded street I am greeted everywhere by whirls of dust.

I find my shoes covered with it. Horses kick it up and it is everywhere, even in my lungs.

This dust, however, is a remarkable thing. Out of it comes all that grows; the trees, the flowers and the crops all spring from it.

What is it? The decayed and disintegrated results of former life. All that lives must find its final abiding place in dust. The death of all things, however, is not so remarkable as the birth of new things out of this common element.

I myself am a product of dust, for He who created me made my body out of the dust of the ground. A man is just as much a growth of the soil as a tree. His evolution has only been a little longer. By and by he must return to the dust from which he came.

This dust, therefore, contains in itself the potentialities of all being. In it are the trees, birds, flowers and men of the future.

It is a symbol of myself. For what is personality but a something or other composed of things, we know not what?

What are ideas and thoughts but things that have found lodgment in us and have floated to us from somewhere?

I have no original ideas. The very words I use are the detritus from others' ideas. And the very passions of my body and soul are but a temporary grouping of certain sensations that belong to the human race.

It is an interesting spectacle to watch human beings and all the growths that surround them, whether of plants or animals, rythmically rising from the dust and settling back again. All life and growth, as we know it, is but an episode. If there were no new births, all things would go speedily back to the dust from which they came.

Dust, therefore, is a remarkable substance, containing in itself not only the death of all living things, but the potentialities of their regeneration.

LAMENT OF AN AGRICULTURIST.

Geo. B. Terrell is state commissioner of agriculture. As state commissioner he views with grave concern the reduced appropriations of the legislature, coupled with the vetoes of Governor Ferguson relative to the future of the pecan and citrus protection work.

He sees disaster. He says the pecan work and the citrus canker work will be entirely eliminated on account of these vetoes, leaving the great citrus industry in the Rio Grande valley without any protection against the importation of the citrus canker and other dangerous diseases and insect pests, which may destroy the entire industry causing the loss of millions of dollars.

Furthermore, he says his department will probably have to close the cotton seed laboratory and suspend the operation of the pure cotton seed breeders law and give the farmers no protection against the seed bootleggers because the funds to pay the salary of a capable man to administer this work were cut out.

Commissioner Terrell is a farmer. He was born on a farm. He owns a farm. He has been identified with farming all his life. His verdict is that no other department of the state government has had its appropriations reduced in proportion to the reductions made in the department of agriculture. What are the farmers of Texas going to do about it?

JIM REED'S WARNING.

Senator James A. Reed of Missouri has warned the state legislatures and congress against the piling up of unnecessary laws. He says the statute books of the 48 American states contain 18,000 laws and that at least 15,000 of them are either useless or detrimental. This is the verdict of the Missouri scorpion, "imagine talking about a free people that has 18,000 statutes governing its conduct." Where is the use? Why worry?

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

According to Your Ability.

It is not only idle but harmful for those who write on success to declare that anything is possible to hard work and determination.

Hard work and determination are both necessary to the right kind of success. But there are countless thousands of people who have employed both, and have never either piled up fortunes, or got their names into the hall of fame.

No young man without talent can ever become a distinguished pianist.

The average person might work and study for fifty years, and never produce a single line of literature as great as any of the lines in Shelley's "Skylark" which that great genius wrote without any effort at all.

The investigating mind, powerful physique and abounding energy that made Thomas A. Edison one of the foremost men in the science of electricity do not occur together in one among a million people.

The best that any one can do in this world is to use his ability for all it is worth.

That may not lead him to swing mighty bridges across wide rivers, to write great novels, or to make inventions which will add to the comfort of joy of living.

But it will do more for him than will the all too common habit of sitting around and waiting for the chance that never seems to arrive, and never will arrive as long as one sits down to wait for it.

It is not necessary for us all to be geniuses. Indeed a world where they averaged ten or twelve to the dozen would be a pretty uncomfortable world for the rest of us. Geniuses are peculiar. They need a deal of waiting on. One of them, Napoleon, made so much trouble in the world that millions of people would have throttled him, if they could, in infancy, had they known what he was going to do with his brilliant gift for military leadership.

But the common average man will be astonished at what he can do with the very ordinary equipment he brings into the world if he takes the trouble to get all its capabilities out of it.

He only needs to try as hard as he can, to use his ears and eyes and his brains, to accomplish a great deal of good for himself and incidentally for others.

Most people use about half their mental capacity, because they have never taken the trouble to develop the other half.

Few know what they can really do, because they have always been too indolent to try.

Nobody expects all young men and women to get their pictures in the magazines that tell of great fortunes or great achievements.

But the world has a right to expect of any healthy, sound minded person a great deal more than it is likely ever to get from him.

That is because of the prevalence of the greatest mental vice, which is a sturdy and rooted d'slike to doing a half hour's more work a day than is absolutely necessary to the holding of a job.

Irrigation

BORDERS.

In irrigating new lands, or lands which have not been properly levelled it is often the practice to throw up small dikes at intervals. These dikes parallel the rows of irrigation furrows. Their purpose is to prevent the water flowing laterally beyond the limits set by the dikes.

Such dikes are built at intervals of from 30 to 150 feet according to the conditon of the field and the judgment of the farmer. They are from six inches to over a foot higher than the general level of the field. Such dikes are called borders.

On a well levelled field devoted to row crops borders are not needed and should not be used as they take up a lot of land which should be growing crops.

Where a field is to be seeded for pasture or hay borders are often an important aid to irrigation. Hay fields are first corrugated and irrigated through the corrugations. After a few years these corrugations fill up and the only to water is by flooding. Then is when the borders prove their usefulness as they confine the irrigation water to definite areas and greatly aid the irrigator in making an even distribution.

Borders are generally built by throwing up several plow furrows and then dragging a devise shaped like the letter "V" with the angle cut off. It is dragged big end foremost up the small ridge formed by the plow furrows. The wide end gathers up the dirt and as it passes through the small opening at the rear is left in the forme of a ridge.

Sometimes borders are built with a fresno by scraping dirt from high parts of the field and heaping it up in ridges.

Borders are very useful but waste a lot of land which could be growing crops. They should not be used except when necessary.

POEMS THAT LIVE

FAITH.

Better trust all and be deceived,
And weep that trust and that deceiving,
Than doubt one heart that if believed
Had blessed one's life with true believing.

Oh, in this mocking world too fast
The doubting fiend o'ertakes our youth;
Better be cheated to the last
Than lose the blessed hope of truth.

What Today Means To You

By MARY BLAKE.

Aries.

The aspects of today are quite unfavorable and do not encourage any effort of a fresh character of any departure from ordinary routine or customary duty. They do portend that unless a great deal of self-restraint is exercised, must disappointment and worry will be caused. Care should, therefore, be taken to establish poise and deliberate carefully and to think well before doing or saying things which you many otherwise be very sorry for. The signs today denote that although commercial lines may not be productive of bad results, it were well to abstain so far as possible from any mechanical or scientfic field or enterprse.

Towards the evening the indications are that there will be a constant feeling of irritation, and quiet reading or harmless recreation is the best course to adopt in order to prevent the consequences of any such untoward tendencies.

A child born today will enjoy exceptionally normal health during the period of infancy, and will be practically free from those ailments to which all children are subject. This does not mean, however, that there should be any less care or vigilance taken, and the very good health promised will invite this child to take chances which others would reject; this course may, unless proper watching is exercised, lead to unfortunate results.

In dispositions this child will be happy-go-lucky and will go its sweet way rather regardless of the feelings or wishes of others. Its character will be more obstinate than strong, and it will show a great deal of determination to accomplish any end it may have in view, nothwithstanding the opposition it may encounter. It will be very necessary to inculcate in this child's mind the benefits of unselfishness and careful consideration for the wants and desires of others with whom it is brought in contact.

Is April 14th your birthday If so, your disposition is a very sympathetic and agreeable one, your preception is very keen, your intuition is more reliable than the judgment of others and you have in addition, a clear, healthy mind. You are by no means theoretical, nor are you a dreamer, but look on everything from a practical point of view, and after having made up your mind as to the best course to pursue, do it quickly and efficiently.

You have not benefitted very much by the studies that you have undertaken, as you are always disposed to set aside that which you deem persiflage and rush to arrive at the absolute practical truth.

You are very inflexible in your love, and constant and faithful. In addition to this, you are very demonstrative, even to the point of extravagance in manifestation, but this is not rebuffed at by the recipients of your affection: Hence, your happiness in the home circle is unalloyed.

More Truth Than Poetry

PURE REASON

I do not like a cat to cross
Ahead of me upon the street,
I would not shoot an albatross
Though I had nothing else to eat.
No fear of the unseen have I;
These traits are in my disposition,
And vigorously I deny
That they proceed from superstition.

My cigarette I'd not permit
To flicker through a match's flame,
If two already had been lit
When some acquaintance struck the same.
And though I have an appetite
Extremely hearty, hale and able,
I could not eat a single bite
With thirteen people at the table.

If, by mischance, the salt I spill,
I gaze upon the stuff aghast,
And suffer from a chronic chill,
Until at least a year has passed.
And as I'd fear the gleaming teeth,
Displayed by an athletic adder,
I'd fear to take a step beneath
The apparatus called a ladder.

But tales of spirits leave me cold—
No ghost that walks on land or sea,
No apparition, young or old,
Could ever wring a yell from me.
But I do know that certain things
Are lucky, or are unpropitious
Alike to commoners or kings—
You couldn't call that superstition!

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

ADVICE TO A PLAIN AND SENSIBLE BUSINESS GIRL ON HOW TO VAMP HER FIANCE—WHY MOTHERS ARE HAPPIER ALONE THAN WITH MARRIED CHILDREN—AN UNPARDONABLE SIN

Dear Miss Dix—My fiance tells me that he is attracted to me because I am a business girl, and am plain and sensible; but, at the same time, a gay, laughing, stylishly dressed girl can vamp him away from me, and he is always telling me how beautiful and attractive some painted-up doll is.

Now, I love this man. What shall I do to hold him? Become the kind that can vamp him or just be natural and perhaps lose him?

DISTRESSED DAMSEL.

Answer—My dear girl, there are two things that you must always take with a liberal pinch of salt. One is a man's ideal of the perfect woman, and the other is his assertion that he wants you to be always perfectly frank and truthful with him.

He believes, poor dear, that he is speaking the truth, but any woman who takes him at his word loses out.

Virtually every man believes that he admires a plain, sensible woman who does not use any paint or powder, or permanently wave her hair, and who remains just as homely as God made her.

He also believes that he admires the woman who does not waste her time and money, and thought on foolish frills and frivols, but who buys stout serviceable clothes, with a view to their lasting qualities and not their looks and becomingness.

But every mother's son of them flees from his ideal woman as he would from the plague, and the more a woman dolls herself up and the more like a fashion plate she looks the more he runs after her.

The hand they want to hold is the soft, white one with manicured nails, not the hands that have corns on them from working for them. The cheek they want to lay theirs against is the one that has nice painted roses on it, not a cleanly scrubbed one. The lips they kiss are the lip-sticked ones. The only women who ever trample over men do it in high-heeled satin slippers.

So, if you want to keep your man, smile sweetly when he tells you that you attract him by being plain and sensible, but go forth and buy vampy clothes. The only sensible women that men really admire are the women who have sense enough to be the thing men really want, instead of the thing that they think they want.

Furthermore, never believe a man when he tells you that he wants you to tell him the truth. He only wants you to tell him pleasant truths. Go that far and lock the balance in your own breast. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a woman of 60, and live alone in a first-floor apartment. A young couple with a baby live upstairs. They go out to parties, to the movies, auto riding and to chuch on Sunday, leaving their baby alone. On their way out they call to me to take a look at the baby if she cries too hard. Often they don't get back until after 12 o'clock at night, and that keeps me up, as I never like to go to bed for fear something might happen to the child. Don't you think this inconsiderate of them?

My married daughter would like me to come and live with her, but as long as I am in good health, don't you think I am better off by myself?

MRS. G.

Answer—Indeed I do. I think you set an example of good sense and independence to many other mothers, and that for her own sake and her children's sake every woman should stay in her own house and keep her own home as long as it is possible.

It is very hard for a woman who has been the head of her own house to submit gracefully to being second fiddle in somebody else's, even if it is her own child's. She has her own ways of doing things, and she cannot help interfering and suggesting when she sees a different plan of management in vogue. She has been accustomed to being busy and time hangs heavily on her hands. And it makes her moody, and morbid, and querulous.

Good daughters are always urging their mother to break up their homes and come and live with them, and take life easily.

But nine times out of ten mother would be far happier if she would stick to her own home and her own things, even if she did have to work at little hard.

As for the young couple who so shamefully neglect their baby, they deserve to be reported to the society to protect children from cruelty. They have no right to lay their burden on you, and you should not hesitate to tell them that you are no nurse girl and that they will have to do their own baby tending. DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I know a little family consisting of husband and wife and baby that is about to be broken up by a young woman. The man has become madly infatuated with this girl and his wife knows it, and has left him, but I think she would come back and the family might be reunited if the young woman could be got rid of.

Can you not say something that would make this girl realize what a dreadful thing she is doing in breaking up a home and making a child an orphan? Do you not think that this girl would do an honorable and noble deed if she would go away where the man cannot see her? Do you not think God would bless her if she went away and saved the wife's home for her?

FRIEND.

Answer—I certainly think that a woman who has any part in the breaking up of a home commits an unpardonable sin. I also believe that a curse follows her for doing so, and that she never finds any happiness in a love to which she had no right.

But why blame all the fault on the girl? Why ask her to go away and make whatever sacrifices the occasion demands?

Surely the man who forsakes his wife for another woman is more blameworthy than the woman is, because the preservation of his home was his business, and he had more duty to his wife than the strange woman has. It was he who had taken an oath before God and man to be true, and faithful, and loyal.

The woman thou gavest me, she did it, is the excuse of every weakling from Adam down, and small faith is to be put in any man who can only be kept straight by having attractive women run away from him. DOROTHY DIX.

SOCIETY

EMIL HERMAN SPEAKS TO WOMAN'S FORUM.

Hard work, continuous work imagination, patience and the love of the work are the old traditions that have been tried and true of a real artist, said Emil Hermann to the members of the art department of the Woman's Forum and their friends Monday evening at the Y. W. C. A.

He said that one must feel it, love it and live it before it can ever amount to anything. This applies to any kind of work Mr. Hermann says. Nothing is really worth the while that is not worth working for.

Mr. Hermann sketched two pictures, explaining to the people the coloring, the line in it, how to get the best effect and what is produced after it is all finished.

He explained the primary colors and what they must be mixed with before they are as they should be for certain kinds of art. He told the horizontal lines in a composition denoted the peace, rest and tranquility and the other lines showed storm and wildness.

Following his lecture and demonstration Mr. Hermann asked the art lovers to let him know anything that they didn't understand and that he would explain it. When the people left his lecture their minds were clear and they understood more about art than ever before for they had asked him anything they didn't understand.

THERE'S A TIME AND PLACE FOR QUARRELING

One of the best definitions of a lady is that of a girl who never causes other people embarrassment if she can possibly avoid it.

And yet many girls, who are right up to the mark in dozens of other ways, antagonize and annoy their friends by staging grand quarrels in the presence of other people.

Grace was a charming young thing—and quite the lady as far as the little social graces went, but she had her awful failing.

It didn't matter whether she was attending a dinner party at the Ritz, or was just spending the evening at bridge in some good friend's house—if her poor escort roused her wrath, she let him have a large unpleasant piece of her mind, immediately, in spite of numerous listeners.

When she became engaged to Tom, and they went out together, Grace found it impossible to wait until she was alone with him, to tell him just exactly what she thought of his outrageous flirtation with Mrs. Octagram.

The matter was on her mind, and she wouldn't be happy until the situation was cleared up, so into battle she went, no matter what the scene, no matter how great a group of spectators.

This is, of course one of the worst branches of good taste to be found.

Each of us has a duty to our hostess, no matter how informed the affair she may be conducting—and we should all do the best we can to make things run smoothly for her and for the other guests.

No matter how bitter and resentful we may feel, when our particular man in the presence of others, makes a remark which gives away the fact, perhaps, that he's been deceitful about some situation or other—we've just got to swallow our indignation, and smile—for the sake of the rest of the party.

Sometimes the girl with whom we've chummed for years, says something rather catty which directs unfavorable attention to ourselves.

Oh! What a temptation it is then, to stage a grand old battle with her. It is so galling to have to sit and take this particular form of medicine, without making the slightest effort to retaliate.

And yet, we can't very well tell her just what we think of her, without becoming a bit violent. And we simply can't become violent, at the risk of embarrassing other people. That is—we can't if we're ladies.

However, the reward will come when you hear boys complaining about other girls: "Gosh, Virgie certainly loves to pick a fight, doesn't she? Honestly you can't take her out any place that she isn't at it hammer and tongs with some one. I wish all the girls were more like you—you've got good manners enough not to bottle at a party. Certainly is a treat to step out with someone who knows there's a time and place for quarreling—and it's not when other people are about."

NOTE: It's so nice to get your letters, girls, and I am glad to try to help solve your problems for you. But so many of you have written to me for advice or my pamphlets "Food for Conversation" and "How to Overcome Self-Consciousness" without enclosing a stamped addressed envelope. Usually I can't find your address so I have no way of answering.

HOW IT STARTED

The "Bogie Man."

The great fear of children is the "bogie man," and many grown-ups have bogies of various forms. The word has an interesting derivation, having had its origin in Wales, that land of myths and does of old.

"Bogie" is really a corruption of "bogle," which is derived from the Welsh "bogwl," meaning a specter or goblin. The verb "boggle," which means to waver or hesitate, to manifest alarm, also enters into the story of our bogie man. For in Wales a horse that shies in fear of something is called a "boggle."

So although we do not "boggle" or show signs of being "possessed," we fear no goblins or witches, we do have our bogies today, pet fears and superstitions that are different merely in their nature from those old time counterparts whose name has survived in the modern word "bogie."

TEXAS Is Particular

Every day finds more families in Texas enjoying perfectly baked pies, cakes, biscuits, muffins, etc., because the housewives are particular about the baking powder they use, and they always insist upon having

CALUMET
THE WORLD'S GREATEST BAKING POWDER

There isn't an ingredient used in baking that is as vital to success as baking powder. Remember, one spoonful of an inferior leavener can ruin a dollar's worth of other ingredients.

You save when you buy Calumet because the pound can contains full 16 oz. Some baking powders come in 12 oz. cans instead of 16 oz. cans.

You save when you use it because it goes farther than many other brands—lasts longer—makes more and better bakings.

Don't risk ruining your bakings all because of a change of baking powder.

POVERTY BARS PAROLE.

Old Age and Penury Prevents Freedom to Him After 22 Years in Pen.

SACRAMENTO, Calif., April 13.—Barriers of old age, solitude and penury stood between William Simpson, 90-year-old confederate war veteran and his freedom when his application for parole from Folsom state prison was considered and denied by the state board of prison directors at a meeting last night; Simpson, one of the oldest convicts at Folsom prison is serving a 40-year term for robbery. He was sent up from Placer county 22 years ago.

Members of the board were inclined to grant the parole until it was discovered the man was penniless and helpless and virtually would be lost if turned out of the prison.

WITH the WOMEN of TODAY

BY MISS MILIAN CAMPBELL

FOR the second time in the history of the United States diplomatic corps a woman has passed the government examinations. The first woman to pass the test was Miss Lucille Atcherson of Ohio, who is now on duty in the state department at Washington. The latest aspirant to diplomatic honors is Miss Patty Field, a charming Colorado girl. She was one of 20 to pass the examinations out of a class of 120 persons.

Although as far as is known no American woman has received appointment as minister or secretary to a foreign embassy, Miss Ann Hillery of Milwaukee, Wis., is chief clerk of the American embassy in Buenos Aires. She is believed to be the only woman who holds such a position in the service.

English women may not vote, according to law, until they are 30 years old, but they may run for office as members of the London County council, the legislative body that makes the laws for the metropolis of London. Miss Thelma Cazalet, 25 years old, was elected to the council recently. English women electors would far outnumber the men if they could vote when they became 21.

The tiny shop which was the original of the "little dar kshop" that Sir John Tenniel drew for Lewis Carroll's classic, "Through the Looking Glass," is still in existence in Oxford, England. It was this little shop in which Alice "looked all around" in spite of the cross old sheep with the knitting needles.

A steadily decreasing birth rate in Norway has alarmed the government authorities and they have appealed to the physicians on the faculty of the Royal University of Oslo to decide what can de done to solve the problem. According to recent figures, the birth rate has declined since 1900 from 32 per cent per 1,000 of population to 24 per cent per 1,000, while in the city of Oslo it has declined in the same period from 40.44 per cent per 1,000 to 11.71 per cent per 1,000. In the meantime the population of the city has grown from 95,000 to 270,000.

Miss Patty Field.

Miss Hilda Hechle of London is the only woman mountain painter in the world. She is happiest when she is making wonderful pictures of the Alpine heights.

Fencing is part of the curriculum of the co-eds of Northwestern university, Evanston, Ill., and they adopt it with enthusiasm.

Rum Runners Are Arrested After Failing In Bribe

Two Members of Rum Row Are Held And Two More Sought

NEW YORK, April 13.—Two alleged agents of rum row were held in $2,500 bond for grand jury action by Federal Commissioner Rasquin in Brooklyn today on a charge of violation of the prohibition act. At the same time police began a search for two others, supposedly their confederates in a conspiracy—which failed—to bribe coast guard officers to bring liquor from rum row in a government boat and smuggle it to bootleggers ashore.

The men who gave their names to the commissioner as Harry Murphy and J. C. Maloney both of Manhattan, were trapped when officers of the coast guard boat CG-203 pretending to accept the scheme, went to Rum Row under the agents' guidance, took on board between $100,000 and $150,000 worth of whiskey and champagne and returned to New York delivered both agents and liquor to federal officers.

Captain E. V. Jacobs, commander of the New York coast guard division revealed that Rum Row representatives have recently made numerous attempts to bribe coast guard officers to assist them in getting the liquor ashore.

The supply ship from which this load of liquor was taken escaped to the high seas after the two agents were caught, officers learned today when they returned to Rum Row intending to attempt to capture the ship. Its name ewas withheld but officers said it flew the British flag.

The CG-203 met the agents by appointment in a motor boat in the bay and was guided by them to the "mother ship" from which the liquor was taken.

Through A Woman's Eyes

WHAT NEED FOR FURTHER WARNING?

A glance over one newspaper shows these headlines: "Girl Kills Lover When He Attacks Husband," "Infatuated With Married Man, Girl Shoots Fiance." In the same paper are almost identical stories of two girls on trial for their lives for murder which followed entanglement with other women's husbands.

A woman who murdered a married man wants to be an evangelist, to go about telling her story to the world, to warn other girls and prevent them from straying the same way that set her feet on the path of misery and degradation.

The strange thing is that there should be any need for further warnings. Look again over those headlines from one day's news—how eloquently they shout the inevitable toll, the unceasing and relentless suction of the quicksands of deceit, the certain downfall of any hope for happiness that is built upon a rotten foundation.

Like the curse that followed and overtook the ring of the stolen Rhinegold, there can be no happy end to anything that is stolen, whether it be gold or love. The world is a small place when one wants to hide, and stolen love, even if it would otherwise endure, cannot bring happiness.

The certainty, the relentlessness of it, seems almost weird — uncanny. But it is so clear and logical. Every thief is sooner or later a jailbird — they all get caught. The girl who gets luxury, and, as she thinks, love, through breaking up another woman's life should know that a man so easily lured from the woman to whom he owes love as well as respect and loyalty, will be no more faithful to another. The girl who sees a man brutally humiliating the mother of his children must know that his honeyed tunes to her must sooner or later change to the same raucous tone.

It is all plain and logical as the three R's, but inexorable as the forces of the cosmos. Everybody knows it—it's proven every day. What need, then, for further warning?

Big Lake Gets the Second Reagan Well

SAN ANGELO, Texas, April 13.—Big Lake Oil company's No. 18, in block 9 of section 25, was drilled in at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, making the second producer this week to enter the pay sand in the Reagan county field. It was drilled in at 2,800 feet.

The Pete Hoffman wildcat near Big Lake was reported to have struck a small showing of oil Saturday but no official announcement of this showing had reached oil men here.

The Big Lake No. 18 increased the daily production of the field 4,500 barrels for the week, continuing the 3,000-barrel well of the Texton Oil and Land company No. 5, which was drilled in Thursday. Two other wells, Texon No. 9 and Big Lake No. 16, are expected in by the first of next week. Big Lake No. 1* was pulling eight-inch casing Saturday and was about ready to drill in, officers of the company said. The Big Lake company will let No. 18 set where it is for a while at the present production. Later the depths of the new well will be increased, officers announced.

Officers Seeking "Grass Profiteer"

AUSTIN, April 13.—Farmers and merchants are warned by J. H. Del Curto, of the state department of agriculture, ordinary "meadow fescue" grass is being offered for sale by salesmen as newly discovered drouth resisting grass. The low-priced seed is sold for several times its real value, Mr. Del Curto said. Efforts to trace the salesmen are said to have been futile.

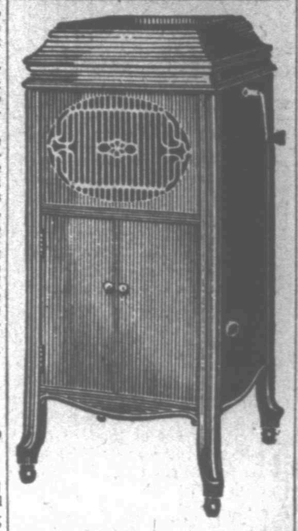

Numerous complaints have been received from both dealers and farmers who have bought the seed under the impression that it was a secret variety which had the quality of being highly drouth-resisting, but that samples of the seed indicate that it is meadow fescue, which is declared to have little of this characteristic.

"The state department of agriculture has been warned in letters from other states, particularly Kansas and California, to be on the look-out for these so-called salesmen. We have also received letters from Texas A. & M. college that every effort is being made to have them apprehended. This is difficult because salesmen take orders and make shipments later and it has been impossible to find trace of the concerns named at the point of shipment," Mr. Del Curto said.

TO SURVEY STATE LINE.

Engineer Is Employed to Set Off Boundary Between Col. and N. M.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Arthur D. Kidder, associate supervisor of surveys in the general land office of the interior department, was appointed today by the supreme court as commissioners to survey and mark the line which the court recently declared should be the boundary between Colorado and New Mexico. At the same time the court issued its decree putting into force its recent decision announcing where the boundary should be located.

Spuds Shreveport Bound Today

ENTIRE TANNER FORCE OFF FOR SEASON OPENER

Skipper More Optimistic Than Ever Before He Says

OSBORN FIRST PITCHER

Staff Handicapped by Sore Arms—Team Has Punch

By BLONDY CROSS

Twenty-one Spudder athletes, the entire 1925 Tanner cast, are slated to set sail this afternoon at 2:25 for Shreveport where Wichita Falls will open the Texas league flag scramble Wednesday with the Louisiana member.

The Spudders are billed for a quartet with the Sports and then a pair in Fort Worth Sunday and Monday with the five times Texas league pennant winners, returning Tuesday for the Wichita Falls opener with Shreveport again at Athletic park.

This six-game slate appears to be a severe test for the Spudders right at the start, for both Shreveport and Fort Worth especially are doped as two of the most powerful clubs in the league this year.

"But that's what we want," said Skipper Tanner last night. "We want 'em hard to begin with and then we'll know just about what we're up against the rest of the way.

"I have never felt any more confidence in my life than I do now. And one of the things that tickles me most is the way our left-handers have been hitting left-handed pitchers this spring. In fact, the club on the whole hasn't been getting fooled any by these pitchers, and they have seen quite a bit of good hurling, too.

"If our staff will give us at least fair to middling pitching I look for a great year, because the team has already demonstrated that it certainly has the punch.

"You can talk all you want to about ball clubs not caring so much about winning these exhibition affairs, but this club certainly stayed in there and fought for every game, and it's that spirit that should carry the Spudders up in the race this summer. Every ball player likes to win ball games whether or not it is an exhibition. The other Texas teams have been trying, too, no doubt, but you know our record for the spring," grinned the midget master.

Wichita Falls lost four exhibitions out of the 17 played, a better record than any club in Texas made, which should be good cause for Tanner's confidence. Exhibitions, you may say, don't mean anything, but, brother, don't ever think for a second that the clubs the Spudders have hooked with were not in there trying their best to win.

Staff in Poor Shape

Tanner, when asked about the status of his infield, what he probably will do with the extra player he is now carrying, merely smiled and said: "The way Freddy Dorman is going in there, he can't be kept out of the line-up. Who will leave if we keep Dorman isn't worrying me right now. I have until May 5 to cut the squad. If he keeps up his present clip or somebody else looks better, or anything else like that, all right we'll attend to that May 5, but not until then can I say for a certainty who has cinched a job. Nobody is positively sure of his position yet."

Tanner will start Bob Osborn, big right-hander, on the mound in the first game, he said. Who will follow in the second contest, he is not sure this early because of the condition of his corps. Wheeler is out for the time being with a sore arm. Carl Williams hurt his pitching wing again yesterday during batting practice. Lefty Brown has a kink in his elbow. The rest of the staff is in fair shape, but not the best by a long shot.

Six infielders, including the skipper, four outfielders, three catchers, and eight pitchers will embark this afternoon. The traveling roster: Tanner, White 2b, Distel ss, Dorman 3b, Golvin 1b, Turgeon 2b, Bodie lf, Fitzgerald cf, Callaghan rf, Metzler lf, Cochlin c, Query c, Roche c, Drake p, Brown p, Morgan p, Wheeler p, Reid p, Osborn p, Pigg p, Williams p.

Turgeon, who is still handicapped by a sore ram, is not expected to be able to start in the Shreveport series. However, he may be in condition for the third or fourth game.

Phils And Macks Look Better And Hope For More

Both Teams Much Improved In Spite of Training Injuries

PHILADELPHIA, April 13.—Despite injuries to their players, both Philadelphia major league baseball teams are in good condition for the opening of the season. Both have added new players and are confident of improving their standing in the race for the pennants. Connie Mack's Athletics will open the American league season in their renovated park. The visiting team will be the Boston Red Sox. The Athletics have added a new battery that is reputed to have cost $150,000. It is composed of "Lefty" Groves from Baltimore, and Gordon Cochrane from Portland. To offset the injury to Joe Hauser, who broke his knee-cap in the spring series with the Phillies, Manager Mack has signed Jim Poole of Portland. The American leaguers also have several rookies of promise including Fox, a young catcher, Smith, a shortstop and French and Bagwell, outfielders.

New Men

The Phillies also have several new men, Manager Fletcher being much impressed with the work of Huber at third. He is planning to use Fonseca at second base. In the outfield George Burns, formerly of the Giants and Reds, has won a permanent berth in the local line-up.

"I am confident that my team is better than last year's combination and hope to make a real fight for a first division berth," said Fletcher, after winning the city title from the Athletics.

Connie Quiet

Connie Mack was rather reluctant to make predictions, but is looking forward to a good season.

"Last year, I figured on second place and was forced to be satisfied with a second division berth," said Mack.

"This year we are not making any predictions, but we are planning to go out and win enough ball games to make the fans forget the years we spent in the cellar."

Braves Release "Stuffy" McInnis

BOSTON, April 13.—"Stuffy" McInnis, first baseman of the Boston Braves who refused to go south with the National league club this spring on account of a salary cut, has been unconditionally released, Emil E. Fuchs, vice president of the club, announced tonight.

In making this announcement tonight, Judge Fuchs said: "In view of the long service of 'Stuffy' McInnis and in order that he may give his services to any club which shall offer him the best terms and to his best advantage and interest, the Boston National league club has today given player John P. McInnis his unconditional release."

The contract sent to McInnis at his home in Manchester, Mass., this season mentioned a smaller figure than was paid him in 1924 and he insisted that the former salary be restored.

McInnis played with the Braves for two seasons, coming from Cleveland.

CHAMPS KEEP THEIR HEADS

McGraw and Crew Sees to It That Harris Et Al., Are Taken Down.

Also, it remains to be seen as to whether or not Clark Griffith and Stanley Harris, bosses of the Washington Senators, pulled a boner when they arranged the long series of spring games with the New York Giants. These games have proved disastrous to the world's champions as far as showing their superiority over their rivals of last fall was concerned.

But many a championship ball club has gone into its second season too full of confidence, only to be knocked silly and off its stride with a run of defeats early in the campaign. These trouncings that the Senators have been taking will help them keep their feet on the ground as the regular campaign gets under way.

MAYBE IT WAS LUCK.

Maybe Though It Was Johnson in That Last Game and Maybe McNeeley

McGraw reiterates the statement that the Giants were outlucked in the world's series with the Washington Senators last fall. Luck had something to do with it. Then there was that superb job of relief pitching by Walter Johnson and that hit in the twelfth inning by Earl McNeeley.

Christians Defeat Texas Aggine 8-7

FORT WORTH, April 13.—A pinch double by Johnny Washmon in the ninth inning with a man on second and Punk Baker's poor throw to first in the tenth allowed the Horned Frogs to overcome a one-run lead stacked up by the Texas Aggies in the last two innings, allowing the Christians to win by a score of 8 to 7.

Young Blood To Be Injected In Boston Lineup

Six New Regulars Feature Cellar Team's New Batting Order

BOSTON, April 13.—Liberal injections of new and younger blood resulting in a 50 per cent better showing by both baseball clubs on the southern provings grounds this spring give promise that, in the major league season opening on Tuesday, Boston's cellar and near cellar performances of recent years may be succeeded by an upward swing.

Pitchers Better

Lee Fohl, manager of the Red Sox said that his pitching will be probably better than a year ago and that the team's third base and shortstop defenses will be improved.

Manager Dave Bancroft of the Braves said:

"We have added youth and speed to our team in so many new positions that we are sure to be a more colorful, more interesting and, I hope, more successful team than last season when we finished last."

Six New Players

The Braves will start six new regulars in the outfield and the infield and have little left to remind them of the failures of other years. The new outfield includes Neis of Brooklyn, in left; Harris of the Piedmont league in center, and Jim Welsh, who cost the Braves $50,000, when he came from Seattle, in right. The infield, Fred Lucas, former pitcher is playing second. Marriott from Mobile is at third and Dick Burrus at first. Jess Barnes, Cooney, Genewich, Graham, Kamp, Marquard, Benton and McNamara are the pitchers.

For virtually every berth the Red Sox have mustered two men. Ernie Vache of Dallas, is a notable addition in left field. Bill Rogell of Salina is fighting Connelly for second base. Ehmke will head the pitchers, who include Quinn, Ferguson, Ross, Wingfield, together with Ruffing and Lucey and Kallio, newcomers.

McTigue Signs To Meet Berlenbach

NEW YORK, April 13.—Mike McTigue, world's light heavyweight champion tonight signed a contract to meet Paul Berlenbach, New York light heavyweight, in a 15-round match at the Yankee stadium, May 29, as the headliner for the annual milk fund bouts, Tex Rickard made the announcement.

The match will be for the world's championship and will make the first since 1925, when McTigue fought Young Stribling in Georgia that the 175-pound champion has parted the ropes to defend the title won by outpointing Battling Siki in Dublin, March 17, 1923.

McTigue met Rickard this afternoon and immediately came to terms accepting a far lower percentage of receipts than reported he would demand, Rickard said. Berlenbach, he said, signed a contract for the match Saturday.

Rickard will take the match before the state athletic commission tomorrow to seek official approval. McTigue was recently reinstated by the commission after a year under the ban for his refusal to accept a challenge filed against him by Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion. His reinstatement was brought about with the stipulation that he would meet any opponent the commission selects within 50 days of the reinstatement.

SPUDDERS RUN WILD IN FINAL EXHIBITION, WINNING 18 TO 9

Pigg and Reid Take It Easy Behind Huge Lead Stored Up During Early Rounds

Spud bludgeoners wound up their spring exhibition schedule Monday at the Harvey plane in the well known and oft talked about blaze of glory. The gang went wild against Des Moines' so-called Demons of the Western league, and busted loose for an explosive 18 to 9 victory.

Skipper Tanner used only two heavers, Pigg and Reid, while Joe Mathis sent three to the sacrifice altar, Jasper, House and Moon. The trio was wild and walks were issued by the wholesale.

Des moines found Pigg in good form, but he let up in the third behind a 10-run lead.

The Spudders counted twice in the first frame. Callaghan doubled to right. Distel and Fitzgerald walked. Bodie bit over second, but Mathis took the drive, stepped on the bag and doubled Ping off at first with a perfect snap throw over his left shoulder. Callaghan scored on the play. Dorman and Golvin walked, filling the bags. White walked, forcing in Distel. Query went out short to first.

Eight more counters were run over in the second canto. Pigg went out second to first. Callaghan singled to left. Distel flied out to right. Fitzgerald and Bodie walked, filling the bases. Dorman walked forcing in Callaghan. Golvin cleaned the bags with a long double to right. White walked and Jasper flagged it to the showers. House took up the duties on the mound. Query walked and filled the bases. Pigg singled to center scoring Golvin. White scored when the centerfielder heaved one bad to Lingle. Query went to third and Pigg to second. Callaghan slashed a single to center scoring Query and Pigg. Distel flied out to right.

Five in Third

Two hits and a sacrifice netted two for Des Moines in the third inning. Spudder hitters again opened a long siege on the Des Moines offerings that was good for five additional tallies. Fitzgerald singled to center and went to third on Bodie's double. Dorman scored both with a long double to right. Moon took the mound at this point. Golvin singled to right scoring Dorman, the hit taking a mean hop over Mathis, who was all set for the play. White skied to Langford. Query dropped a single back of first. Pigg beat out a bunt, filling the bases. Callaghan hit to Rader who forced Golvin at the plate. Distel smashed a double to left scoring Query and Pigg. Fitzgerald skied to center.

The visitors counted three more in the fourth. Cline flied out to Bodie. Fielder singled to center. Haworth batted for Lingle and walked. Moon took kthe third strike. Rader walked and filled the bases. Mathis shot a double to left scoring Fielder, Waworth, and Rader. Langford popped to Distel.

Roche Makes Fluke One

A double by Dorman, singles by Golvin and Query, and a pass to White netted the Tannerites a pair in the fourth.

A single by Griffin and a double by Stuvengen put over another for the visitors.

Moon tightened up in the next three frames and blanked the homelings althogh he was occasionally in the hole.

Reid and Roche took up the Spud battery duties in the sixth. Haworth and Moon singled to right and left, respectively, and Rader singled through the box, filling the bases. Mathis doubled to right scoring all three baserunners. This was scored off Reid in the four innings he worked.

The final Spudder tally came in the eighth. Golvin towered to center. White walked. On the hit and run, Roche threw his bat at a wide one and sent to over the infield into right for a single. White taking third. Reid forced Roche at second, Mathis to Rader, White scoring on the play.

Des Moines holds a morning workout today at 10 o'clock before leaving for Tulsa to open the season.

KERR TO COME BACK

Dicky Kerr, little left-hander, who "made" the Chicago White Sox win two games he pitched in the lamented world's series of 1919, will be eligible for reinstatement in organized baseball after July 14. He will have served his year away from playing with ineligible players at that time. Kerr personally visited Commissioner Landis some time ago and was told that he would be welcomed back into the good graces of O. B., but not until he has stayed out a year. The southpaw is now in St. Louis, where he will keep his arm in shape with the semi-pros. He is still the property of the White Sox, which club he bolted several years ago because of salary grievances

GOLF

As Champons Play It.

By BILL STRACHAN.

Many golfers fail to get a good shot because they stand too far behind the ball. This is a more serious fault than one might think, as the club head gets precious little chance to do its work. When a golfer develops a slice and finds it difficult to correct, the chances are he is teeing the ball too far out in front as this is exactly what the professional means when he tells you that you are standing too far in back of your ball.

The ball should be teed back far enough to permit the club to do its work properly. When the ball is too far advanced the follow through cannot be long and the result is that the arms must necessarily pull the club-face across the ball, causing it to swerve to the right in its flight.

BOXING

American Legion, Wichita Theatre

THURSDAY NIGHT, APRIL 16

Clyde Hull (St. Paul) vs. Sid Young (Tulsa)

12 ROUNDS

—Both boys have outpointed the popular Duke Trammel, and there is little doubt but that this scrap will prove one of the best ever staged in the Southwest. Trammel will take on the winner next week.

Tabby Levine (Wichita Falls) vs. Eddie Murray (Tulsa)

8 ROUNDS

—Levine has been going great guns the past several weeks, but Murray who is a main event boy in Oklahoma, expects to show the Texan more leather than he ever saw before. This bout should be just as good as the windup battle.

THERE WILL BE OTHER PRELIMINARY BOUTS

Cincy Looks Much The Same As She Did Last Season

Reds Might Be A Little Stronger Than 1924 Team

CINCINNATI, April 13.—The Cincinnati Reds embark on the 1925 championship season with a club whose strength is virtually the same which carried the team to fourth place last year.

The shade of difference favoring this spring's outfit is due to the smoothly working quartet of infielders, Bressler, Critiz, Pinelli and Cavesy, generally conceded to rank with the best in the league and due to bear the brunt of the coming race. Defensively that infield promises much and Bressler and Pinelli are heavy hitters.

Look the Same

Otherwise the Reds look much as they did in the midst of the 1924 scramble. Manager Jack Hendricks has at his disposal the same assemblage of capable pitching material, Mays, Rixey, Donohue nad Benton, who went last summer's route in good fashion, and with good reserve material available for the rough spots should be able to handl the season.

The outfield headed by Captain Eddie Roush, is excellent but the Reds are starting the race with an admitted deficiency in reserves. In Zitsman and Walker, Hendricks has two fast, clean-hitting outfielders and a valuable addition to the batting order is Elmer Smith.

Barring difficulties, Hargrave and Wingo are amply capable of handling the work behind the plate and come back from the training season in fine condition.

BETTER'N YOU THINK, IS THIS TABBY LEVINE

Wichita Falls Youngster's One of Best In Texas

YOUNG DUE IN TODAY

Gobs of Pugilistic Activity At Hall These Days

By BLONDY CROSS.

There's one fisticuffer Wichita Falls fans fail to give much credit. Possibly it's because Tabby Levine is a home boy that local ringworms can't see him as the clever youngster that he is.

Tabby, we believe, and there are others who'll agree with us, is one of the best boys at his weight in Texas. His recent draw with Norbe, Vance, the Wewoka Wildcat, in Vance's home bailiwick, boosts the Wichita Falls lad's stock greatly. And had Tabby followed up his advantage earned in the third round when he knocked Vance down he may have stopped the Wildcat.

Tabby's bout Thursday night here with Eddie Murray of Tulsa will be watched with interest by a number of close followers of the glove sport, for here are few of the wiser heads who believe the youngster is a comer.

Murray is a main eventer in Oklahoma, and comes with quite a rap. If Levine can hurdle this obstacle there will be little doubt as to his class. They are billed for an eight-rounder.

If Tabby loses we venture to say that it will be by a very narrow margin. Wichita Falls fans don't seem to realize just how good he really is.

Sid Young, Tulsa welterweight matched with Clyde Hull in the 12-round main event in the Thursday card, and Murray are expected to arrive in the city today.

There was quite a heavy run of pugilistic activity Monday in the legion hall. Wildcat Monte, Frankie Tucker, Duke Trammel, Clyde Hull and several lesser lights romped through a series of strenuous workouts.

Hull is leaving nothing undone in his preparation for the tiff with Young.

Trammel is working away with expectation of getting a whack at either Young or Hull next week.

Monte is training for a scrap with Rusty Cahill in Breckenridge Thursday. Monte, if he can sting Rusty several times early, no doubt will come away the victor. But if he stands back and lets Cahill carry the milling to him the dusty noe who packs no mean wallop, by the way, more than likely will slow our wild kitten up.

What the Neighbors Are Doing

Jim Pendry had a patch of corn as fine as ever grew. It stood up straight and tall and stout and all the season through Jim worked the patch with might and main to keep it free from weeds, for from this field he calculated he would pick his seeds. Then one sad night some stock broke in and ruined Pendry's corn. They trampled down the rows so straight—a sad sight, most forlorn. The neighbors thought of course he'd sue the owner of the stock, but Pendry's conscience hurt him and nary suit he brought. For when he fenced that field of corn he had been asked to try the creosote kind of posts that don't lay down and die. Jim Pendry took the money the law suit would have cost and bought himself some Long-Bell posts and since then never lost an ear of corn, an hour of sleep, his crops are safe from harm—he's glad he found a post at last that makes it safe to farm.

While names given are not actual the incident above related is based on experiences at some of our lumber yards.

"BAREE, SON OF KAZAN," a Vitagraph Picture, With Wolf, the War Dog, is an Adaptation of This Story

SYNOPSIS

What Bush McTaggart, the factor, intended, had come about. Baree, the dog, his old enemy, following the factor's trap lines, and, stripping them of food, had walked straight into a "nest" that had been laid for him, and was a prisoner. McTaggart found him there and gloated over his misery. Baree snarled back but was helpless. And then came along a human stranger. "You poor devil," he said sympathetically, to Baree. "An outlaw! Well, they haven't played you a very square game!"

He rose and faced McTaggart.

"I had to set a lot of traps like that," the Factor apologized, his face reddening slightly under the steady gaze of the stranger's blue eyes. Suddenly his animus rose. "And he's going to die there, inch by inch. I'm going to let him starve, and rot in the traps, to pay for all he's done." He picked up his gun, and added, with his eyes on the stranger and his finger ready at the trigger, "I'm Bush McTaggart, the Factor at Lac Bain. Are you bound that way, M'sieu?"

"A few miles. I'm bound upcountry—beyond the Barrens."

McTaggart felt again the strange thrill.

"Government?" he asked.

The stranger nodded.

"The—Police, perhaps?" persisted McTaggart.

"Why, yes—of course—the Police," said the stranger, looking straight into the Factor's eyes. "And now, M'sieu, as a very great courtesy to the Law I'm going to asks you to send a bullet through that beast's head before we go on. Will you? Or shall I?"

"It's the law of the line," said McTaggart, "to let a trap robber rot in the traps. And that beast was a devil. Listen——"

Swiftly, and yet leaving out none of the fine detail, he told of the

"You poor devil," he said, the smile going out of his face. "You poor devil!"

weeks and months of strife between himself and Baree; of the maddening futility of all his tricks and schemes and the still more maddening cleverness of the beast he had at last succeeded in trapping.

"He was a devil—that clever," he cried fiercely when he had finished. "And now—would you shoot him, or let him lie there and die by inches, as the devil should?"

The stranger was looking at Baree. His face was turned away from McTaggart. He said:

"I guess you are right. Let the devil rot. If you're heading for Lac Bain, M'sieu, I'll travel a short distance with you now. It will take a couple of miles to straighten out the line of my compass."

He picked up his gun. McTaggart led the way. At the end of half an hour the stranger stooped, and pointed north.

"Straight up there—a good five hundred miles," he said, speaking lightly as though he would reach home that night. "I'll leave you here."

He made no offer to shake hands. But in going, he said,

"You might report that John Madison has passed this way."

After that he travelled straight northward for half a mile through the deep forest. Then he swung westward for two miles, turned at a sharp angle into the south, and an hour after he had left McTaggart he was once more squatted on his heels almost within arms' reach of Baree.

And he was saying, as though speaking to a human companion:

"So that's what you've been, old boy. A trap robber, eh? An outlaw? And you beat him at the game for two months! And for that, because you're a better beast than he is, he wants to let you die here as slow as you can. An outlaw!" His voice broke into a pleasant laugh, the sort of laugh that warms one, even a beast. "That's funny. We ought to shake hands, Boy, by George, we had! You're a wild one, he says. Well so am I. Told him my name was John Madison. It ain't. I'm Jim Carvel. And, oh Lord—all I said was 'Police.' And that was right. It ain't a lie. I'm wanted by the whole corporation — by every danged policeman between Hudson's Bay and the Mackenzie River. Shake, old man. We're in the same boat, an' I'm glad to meet you!"

CHAPTER XXVIII

Jim Carvel held out his hand, and the snarl that was in Baree's throat died away. The man rose to his feet. He stood there, looking in the direction taken by Bush McTaggart, and chuckled in a curious, exultant sort of way. There was friendliness even in that chuckle. There was friendliness in his eyes and in the shine of his teeth as he looked again at Baree. About him there was something that seemed to make the gray day brighter, that seemed to warm the chill air—a strange something that radiated cheer and hope and comradeship just as a hot stove sends out the glow of heat. Baree felt it. For the first time since the two men had come his trap-torn body lost its tenseness; his back sagged; his teeth clicked as he shivered in his agony. To this man he betrayed his weakness. In his bloodshot eyes there was a hungering look as he watched Carvel—the self-confessed outlaw. And Jim Carvel again held out his hand—much nearer this time.

"You poor devil," he said, the smile going out of his face. "You poor devil!"

The words were like a caress to Baree—the first he had known since the loss of Nepeese and Pierrot. He dropped his head until his jaw lay flat in the snow. Carvel could see the blood dripping slowly from it.

"You poor devil!" he repeated.

There was no fear in the way he put forth his hand. It was the confidence of a great sincerity and a great compassion. It touched Baree's head and patted it in a brotherly fashion, and then—slowly and with a bit more caution—it went to the trap fastened to Baree's forepaw. In his half-crazed brain Baree was fighting to understand things, and the truth came finally when he felt the steel jaws of the trap open, and he drew forth his maimed foot. He did then what he had done to no other creature but Nepeese. Just once his hot tongue shot out and licked Carvel's hand. The man laughed. With his powerful hands he opened the other traps, and Baree was free.

For a few moments he lay without moving, his eyes fixed on the man. Carvel had seated himself on the snow-covered end of a birch log and was filling his pipe. Baree watched him light it; he noted with new interest the first purplish cloud of smoke that left Carvel's mouth. The man was not more than the length of two trap-chains away—and he grinned at Baree.

"Screw up your nerve, old chap," he encouraged. "No bones broke. Just a little stiff. Mebby we'd better—get out."

He turned his face in the direction of Lac Bain. The suspicion was in his mind that McTaggart might turn back. Perhaps that same suspicion was impressed upon Baree, for when Carvel looked at him again he was on his feet, staggering a bit as he gained his equilibrium. In another moment the outlaw had swung the pack-sack from his shoulders and was opening it. He thrust in his hand and drew out a chunk of raw, red meat.

"Killed it this morning," he explained to Baree. "Yearling bull, tender as partridge—and that's as fine a sweetbread as ever came out from under a backbone. Try it!"

He tossed the flesh to Baree. There was no equivocation in the manner of its acceptance. Baree was famished—and the meat was flung to him by a friend. He buried his teeth in it. His jaws crunched it. New fire leaped into his blood as he feasted, but not for an instant did his reddened eyes leave the other's face. Carvel replaced his pack. He rose to his feet, took up his rifle, slipped on his snowshoes, and fronted the north.

"Come on, Boy," he said. "We've got to travel."

It was a matter-of-fact invitation, as though the two had been travelling companions for a long time. It was, perhaps, not only an invitation but partly a command. It puzzled Baree. For a full half-minute he stood motionless in his tracks gazing at Carvel as he strode into the north. A sudden convulsive twitching shot through Baree; he swung his head toward Lac Bain; he looked again at Carvel, and a whine that was scarcely more than a breath came out of his throat. The man was just about to disappear into the thick spruce. He paused, and looked back

"Coming, Boy!"

LEGAL NOTICE

CITATION BY PUBLICATION
THE STATE OF TEXAS

To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county, greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon C. A. McDonnell by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 78th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the courthouse thereof in Wichita Falls on the first Monday in May A. D. 1925, the same being the 4th day of May A. D. 1925, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 26th day of January A. D. 1925 in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 16533-B, wherein Emil Michna is plaintiff and C. A. McDonnell is defendant, and said petition alleging: That on July 6, 1921, defendant made, executed and delivered to Adolph Michna, his certain promissory note for $4,000, dated on said date, bearing interest therefrom at the rate of 8 per cent per annum from date until paid, payable to Adolph Michna at Wichita Falls, Wichita county, Texas, due on July 6, 1922, providing for 10 per cent additional upon principal and interest as attorneys' fees if placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, whereby defendant became liable and bound to pay said Adolph Michna the sum of money in said note specified, teether with all interest and attorneys' fees due thereon according to the terms thereof; that after the execution of said note and prior to the maturity thereof said Adolph Michna transferred, assigned and endorsed same to plaintiff and plaintiff thereby became the owner and holder thereof and is now the owner and holder thereof; that said note is now past due and unpaid and that defendant, though often requested, has hitherto failed and refused and still refuses to pay same or any part thereof, to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $6,000; that because of defendant's failure to pay said note he has placed same in the hands of Kenley, Dawson & Holliday, attorneys of Wichita Falls, Texas, for collection and has contracted to pay them the 10 per cent additional stipulated for in note as attorneys' fee, the same being reasonable and the usual and customary fee; that at the time of the execution and delivery of said note defendant executed his certain deed of trust to W. F. Weeks of Wichita county, Texas, as trustee for use and benefit of said Adolph Michna for the purpose of securing the payment of said note, whereby he conveyed to said W. F. Weeks the following described property situated in Refugio county, Texas, to-wit: "Being all of my undivided interest in and to all of the real estate situated in said Refugio county, Texas, and being all of the interest which I now own or may hereafter be entitled to in and to all of the property inherited by me from the estate of my mother, Mrs. Elizabeth McDonald, in said Refugio county, said property being fully described in the probate proceedings in the probate court of Refugio county, Texas, to which reference is here made for a full description."

That at the time of the execution of said deed of trust C. A. McDonald owned and thereafter became by inheritance from his deceased mother, Elizabeth McDonald, the owner of the following described tract of land in said county, being one of the tracts of land covered and intended to be covered by said deed of trust:

"All that certain tract or parcel of land consisting of 270 acres lying and being situated in Refugio, Texas, and being a part of a tract of 17,552.4 acres conveyed by T. D. Wood to W. C. Johnson and Geo. B. Pugh by deed dated November 19th, 1907, and recorded in Book U, page 129 of the deed records of Refugio county, Texas, and being further described as the south 270 acres of even width of the south half of section No. 38, according to a map or plat of said tract of 17,552.4 acres of record in book J, page 3, Map Records of Refugio county, Texas; said property being described by metes and bounds as follows, to-wit: "Beginning at a stake at the southeast corner of 370 acres sold to F. F. Duderstadt. Thence with the west line of subdivision No. 25 south 10 3-4 degrees west 802 varas to a post, the southeast corner of subdivision No. 38 and the northwest corner of subdivision No. 14. Thence with the north line of subdivision No. 13, north 79 1-4 degrees west 1900.8 varas to a post, the northeast corner of subdivision No. 2, and being also the northeast corner of 4907 1-2 acres conveyed to W. C. Johnson and Geo. B. Pugh by T. D. Wood by deed dated January 2, 1907. Thence with the east line of subdivision No. 39 north 10 3-4 degrees east 802 varas to the southwest corner of said 370 acres. Thence with the south line of same, south 79 1-4 degrees east 1900.8 varas to the place of beginning; being the same land conveyed by B. McDonnel and wife, Elizabeth McDonnel, to Emil Niemann by deed dated June 27th, 1913, and recorded in volume Y, page 172, of the Deed Records of Refugio county, Texas."

That by said transfer and endorsement of said note by Adolph Mincha to Emil Mincha this plaintiff became and is now the owner of all right, title and interest in and to said deed of trust and said lien and is entitled to the benefits thereof; that plaintiff does not have description of other property covered by said deed of trust but reserves the right to hereafter file proper suit and subject same to the claim and indebtedness of this plaintiff. Wherefore plaintiff prays that defendant be cited to appear and answer this petition and for judgment for his debt, interest, attorneys' fee and costs of suit and for foreclosure of his lien on the above described land and that the same be decreed to be sold according to law and that the sheriff or officer executing said order of sale place the purchaser thereof in possession thereof within 30 days after the day of sale, and for other relief, special and general, in law and in equity.

Herein fail not, but have before said court at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 30th day of March A. D. 1925.

A. L. KERR, Clerk.
District Court, Wichita Co., Texas.
(Seal) By EUNICE JACKSON, Deputy.

"It is just like a woman," says Molly, "to buy a dress because it is marked down to $3.98 and then pay $15 for a hat to match it."

"Why! He's Nothing But Skin and Bones"

"Marry Him? Never"

"Quit kidding me, Agnes: when I get ready to land a man he's got to be a real man with plenty of good healthy flesh on his bones."

"Of course, I dance with Ed; he's a good enough fellow and I just feel sorry for him, but no skinny, hollow cheeked, spindle shanked lath is going to sail the voyage of life with me."

Cheer up, Ed—things aren't as bad as they look to you right now. Many hundreds of skinny, gaunt, emaciated men looked even worse than you do till someone told them about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets (the new way to take Cod Liver Oil) and how it would put pounds of good firm, healthy flesh on their bones in just a few weeks.

Nothing like these health creating, weight producing tablets for skinny, underweight men, as thousands can testify. Start to take them today—60 tablets—60 cents at Smith Drug Co., Tipton Drug Co., or any real druggist anywhere in North or South America.

And listen; If they don't put 5 pounds of good flesh on you in 30 days, get your money back—that's fair enough, but be sure—very sure that you get McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—the original and genuine.—Ad

NEW YORK, April 13.—Filling price tendencies characterized the opening of the new week in the stock market. The demand centered largely in th specialties and the motors, several of the latter attaining new peak prices for the year. Further weakness cropped out in the northwestern rails, but the selling of these issues failed to unsettle the rest of the list. For the fourth full session since election, total sales fell below the million mark.

Strength of the motor issues was predicted on reports of heavy spring sales. Maxwell Motors "B" was bid up nearly 4 points to a new high record at 67⅛ and then sagged about 1⅛ points from the top. Maxwell Motors "A" duplicated its recent high of 104, but slipped back later to 103 for a small fractional loss.

Hudson was bid up over 3 points to a new top at 47⅝, while net gains of a point or two were recorded by Jordan, Pierce Arrow preferred, Willys-Overland preferred, Stromberg Carburetor and Nash the last named reaching the record figure of 357 and then reacting to 352.

Strong buying support made its appearance in American Can, which was bid up 5 points to 171, closing just below the top. Strength of United States Steel common which closed a point higher at 115⅛ attracted considerable attention because of the heavy shrinkage in filled orders last month.

Baldwin closed more than 2 points higher at 115⅛. Strength and activity of American Sugar which jumped 4 points to a new record high for the year at 71, was in anticipation of higher commodity prices and dividend resumption.

Ludlum Steel responded to reports of increased earnings by advancing 2 points to 38½.

Revival of selling in Chicago and Northwestern which was hammered down to a new low at 47⅝ took place in the face of reassuring statements regarding the safety of the dividend by officials of the road. Weakness of this issue brought about sympathetic selling of other western carriers. Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Chicago Great Western and the Western Pacific issues closing fractionally lower. Ann Arbor preferred was bid up over 3 points to a new 1925 peak at 51⅝, reviving unconfirmed reports of early dividend action. Good buying also was noted in Pittsburgh and West Virginia.

Call money opened at 4 per cent and then dropped to 3½. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady.

Foreign exchange trading was extremely quiet because of the widespread observance of the Easter holiday abroad. Rates held relatively firm, demand sterling being quoted just under $4.78 and French francs around 5.17½c.

"Caricatures Of The Real Thing," Says Evangelist

Rev. Will Hogg Tells Women That We Are Only Part Christians

"We're 'caricature Christians'" Dr. Will Hogg, evangelist, declared before a packed audience at the Floral Heights Methodist church Monday evening which resembled very much an old time Puritan meeting in that the two center sections were filled only with women, and the outer sections with men. Women's night was observed by the circles of the missionary society who turned out in full force with their friends.

Only Caricatures.

"We're not the real thing," Dr. Hogg told his audience, "we're only caricatures. Many of us want to be religious and try to be, but very few of us really are religious.

"The trouble is that we don't follow Christ. We follow society, the world, selfishness, booze, crookedness, gambling, deceit and carelessness.

"Christ said 'Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men'—but you don't look like it, and you don't act like it," Dr. Hogg fired at his audience. "Many of you never pray or work for the life or soul of another. You don't take your children off in a quiet corner to pray with them and talk to them about their lives.

Little Thought of Soul.

"Some of you mothers spend more time getting your girl ready for a dance, fixing her hair and clothes attractively, than you'd ever think of spending with her on her soul—her eternal life. You fathers talk to your sons about making a lot of money and being a business success but never talk to them about their lives, their morals and their souls with relation to God and righteousness."

The evangelist declared that when a person really became converted, he renounced his whole life and habits, taking them up anew according to God's will, and that his Christianity became spontaneous and natural, that peace and joy filled his life, and that he became a soul winner.

Cleanse Your Life.

"Conversion doesn't depend on feeling, it depends on faith. God can cleans your life and give you a clean heart free from the old desires. I don't understand just why God wants to save sinful men, but I know that he does. Sin is the same in silk or in overalls, and I thank God that religion goes into every walk of life," Dr. Hogg said.

A woman's quartette composed of Mesdames T. C. Brownell, J Browne Hopkins, Fred Schmann, and Louella B. Thompson furnished special music at the service, with Mrs. Bernard Miner at the piano.

Jeff Wall, song leader for the evangelistic party, is expected to arrive in the city Tuesday morning to begin his work.

Believe It Or Not--We Don't Say

As in days past, The Record News does not vouch for the authenticity of this tale, but it passes it along on the strength of established custom which has made Lake Kemp snake stories as necessary as the biggest yarns each spring.

The Lake Kemp region has a more or less unsavory reputation as regards its reptillion characteristics. Rattlers seem to thrive there at certain periods of the year and reports now coming in from the wide-open spaces have been telling of diamond-backs and others of their specie many inches in length.

A story was floating around the courthouse Monday to the effect that one man who went to the lake Sunday for a period of recreation put in the day killing 45 snakes.

Bought five carloads of pipe of various sizes for the use of the city water department.

Called for an inventory of all city property as of April 1.

Was instructed by Mayor Shepherd to take under consideration the need of a new sewage disposal plant here.

Use of Oil Funds Is Left to T. U. Regents

AUSTIN, April 13.—(AP)—Whether or not the University of Texas will test the constitutionality of the law permitting them to use oil royalties for building purposes, was left up to the board of regents land committee at a meeting of the board today. It is proposed that the board mandamus State Treasurer W. Gregory Hatcher to force him to accept royalties from Land Commissioner Robison without designation and apply them to the available fund.

The bill passed by the 39th legislature transferring the royalties from the permanent to the available fund was held unconstitutional by Attorney General Dan Moody, but was signed by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson when she claimed Mr. Moody had made a "hairline distinction."

5,000 PERSONS ATTEND LA GRANGE SPRING FAIR

LA GRANGE, April 13.—Approximately 5,000 persons attended the opening of the spring fair and rodeo here today, staged by the Fayette County Fair association and the chamber of commerce.

The Old Home Town

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Cranford and Mrs. Herman Alexander of Childress are in Wichita Falls. They are stopping at the William Mary hotel.

Only one marriage license was issued Monday by the county clerk's office. It went to Jesse H. Tackett and Mrs. Mattie Dickerson, both of Wichita Falls.

Two members of the city motorcycle squad are laid up with illness. They are C. E. Griffin and Clyde Bentley. A third member, J. A. Haigwood, is in the hospital with an injured leg as a result of a spill on Grant street early Monday afternoon.

Tom Sampson left Monday afternoon on a short business trip to Dallas and Fort Worth. He will return Wednesday.

The city police court blotter Monday morning was well filled. A round dozen cases were listed for trial, all of which accumulated during the Saturday and Sunday work of the department.

Wichita county this year will allow expenditure of funds up to $1,000 by the Texas Children's Home and Aid society for the care of orphaned youngsters, the county commissioners decided Monday in approving an order for that amount.

Alleged defects in irrigation canals, which allow water to seep out on to public roads, should be corrected at once, the county commissioners court has informed the irrigation directors here. A letter will be sent by the court at once to the irrigation officials, calling their attention to water running over county roads at a few points and asking that the trouble be remedied.

Viaduct Needed In North Of City Believes Sartin

County Judge Says That It Is Means of Curing Traffic Ills

An ornamental viaduct to span the Wichita river and the railway tracks in north Wichita was suggested Monday night by County Judge B. D. Sartin as a solution for the troublesome grade crossing problems north of the city. Judge Sartin, appearing before the city council on other matters, spoke of the necessity of action soon to come on the subway issue. He said a number of engineers would be in Wichita Falls the atter part of this week to study this question and asserted that elimination of dangerous grade crossings was a thing the city would have to face in the near future.

Wagon Bridge Old.

Judge Sartin said the wagon bridge now crossing the Wichita river and which bore all traffic for the Burkburnett and Electra roads was obsolete and would have to be replaced in a short time. Because of this, he thought it would be about as cheap to build a substantial viaduct, starting say at the foot of Indiana, crossing the river and then branching out in a Y form, one crossing the Katy tracks and giving outlet to the Burkburnett road and the other continuing across the Denver tracks and terminating on the Eelectra road.

He said this was merely a suggestion, of course, but was one that might be feasible. He also asked the council to consider a viaduct under the Wichita Valley tracks where they cross Holiday street. This highway is slated for paving in the near future, and with the opening of the city's new park and golf club south of town and the building of a road on to Lake Wichita, this road will bear exceptionally heavy traffic in a short time.

Congratulates New Members.

Judge Sartin congratuated the new members of the council on their succession to office and stated on behalf of the county commissioners court he courted their co-operation and help in matters that affected the citizens of Wichita Falls and Wichita county.

Health Officer Notes Increase in Rabbies

A noticeable increase in rabbies infection in dogs has been noted over Texas in recent years, Dr. N. F. Williams, state veterinarian of Texas, told members of the city council Monday night in a brief address. Dr. Williams is in the city for a short time in connection with the finding of a number of cases of rabbies here.

He said that scientific investigation had shown the need of vaccinating dogs against a possible infection of the malady if a city was to be absolutely safe from the rabbies scourge. Wichita Falls, he declared, had shown remarkable resourcefulness and efficiency in handling its problems of health and sanitation during the recent years of its tremendous growth, and he attributed this to theskill and enterprise of those men at the head of its health department.

Substation Will Reopen Soon At Van Buren, 10th

Hodgins Announces An Expansion of Police Department

Reopening of the sub-station at Tenth and Van Buren streets and an expansion of the entire force are to be undertaken by the city police department at once, Police Commissioner Queisser and Chief of Police George Hodgins announced Monday. The growth of the department has been found necessary in view of the increasing territory officers here are finding necessary to watch.

The sub-station, operated for some time at Tenth and Van Buren and later discontinued because of lack of funds, will be started again as needed protection in a thickly settled part of the residential section. It will be run only at night and will be a base of operations for two motorcycle officers and two plainclothesmen.

Motor Cops There

Charlie Carlyle and Frank Watson are to be the plaincolthes officers to be maintained there, while two of the six motorcycle officers will be detailed for duty there each night.

The personnel of the entire police department now will be as follows: Chief, George H. Hodgins; assistant chief, Will Allen; day desk sergeant, C. B. McConnell; night desk sergeant, T. F. Below; plainclothesman, S. H. Minnick; detectives, Luke Hart, C. W. Jensen, Will Bryan, J. M. Allen, E. H. Carmichael, J. B. Robertson; patrolmen, D. D. McIver, W. A. Ogle, M. Davis, A. Spencer, M. Old Suspended Sentence To Be Held Against Boy After Second Forgery

Billy Fleming, a Burkburnett youth, has a four-year stretch in the state penitentiary hanging over him as a result of his pleading guilty Monday to a forgery charge lodged against him in the 30th district court. He was sentenced to two years for the offense on which he was last indicted, and in addition to this, Judge H. R. Wilson revived a four-year suspended sentence assessed against him on February 12 for a similar offense.

At that time Fleming was given four years in the pen but was released under the provision of the suspended sentence law and upon his pledge to "go straight." His plea of guilty on the last forgery charge, made a week ago, automatically cancelled this suspended sentence.

Judge Wilson, however, stipulated that the two sentences should run concurrently, thus allowing Fleming a possible two-year reduction in the time he must serve.

Fleming is 18 years of age and both checks he forged were for small amounts.

Rural Schools Name Trustees For Next Year

Trustee elections were held in all but a few of the rural school districts of the county last Saturday and results were sent in Monday to County Superintendent Burl Bryant. In the few districts where no report has as yet been forthcoming, old trustees will either continue service or new ones will be appointed.

Members of the school board were elected as follows: J. D. Cooper, district two; D. E. Hooks, district three; E. A. Dale, district four; J. Tom Haynes, county-at-large Trustees from the various districts were named as follows: Bacon, C. H. Hemme; Deep Creek, J. J. Burman and G. W. Russey; Valley View, W. L. Hodges, J. W. Yarbrough, P. C. City Attorney To Attend Rail Hearing On Gas

Meeting Will Be in Sherman And May Effect Wichita Falls

City Attorney W. E. George will go to Sherman the latter part of this month to "listen in" on a state railroad commission hearing that may have a bearing on gas charges in Wichita Falls.

The Municipal Gas company is seeking to increase its ready-to-serve charge in Sherman from 50 cents to $1, and has indicated that success there will be followed by attempts to do the same thing in other Texas cities, including this one. The railroad commission, which has power to fix gas charges, will hold a hearing in Sherman either the 17 or 24 and pass on the justice of the gas company claim.

Wichita Falls gas users are now assessed 50 cents as a service charge and the city council is prepared to battle long and valiently in opposition to an increase. For this reason, Mr. George will go to Sherman as an unofficial observer to pick up points which may be of use later on.
