Ask Us

Q. — We have the Lamesa Highway, U.S. Hwy. 180, 25th St. and East Highway running east and west through Snyder. Where does one begin and the other end?

A. — The highway is U.S. Hwy. 180 through the city. From the city limits west it is also called the Lamesa Highway. From the city limits east it's called 25th St. until it reaches Ave. H, at which point it veers slightly to the south and becomes East Highway to the traffic circle. 25th St. deadends two blocks further at Ave. F.

Jetliner wreckage yields five bodies

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N.J. (AP) — Authorities feared today that more bodies would be pulled from the smoldering rubble of five residential buildings set afire by a corporate jet and a small plane that collided over suburban New York, killing at least five people.

Four the the dead were known to be passengers. A fifth body was found under one of the planes and one man was reported missing.

The buildings set ablaze housed about 90 people, authorities said, and one police captain estimated that as many as 20 bodies could be found in the rubble.

Flames from the fuel-fed inferno were extinquished at about 11 p.m. Sunday, but firefighters were kept at bay early today by the heat of the smoldering rubble.

Minutes before the two planes smashed into each other Sunday evening the two pilots radioed that they were aware of the danger.

The corporate jet, a Falcon 50, belonging to Nabisco Brands Inc., with at least two aboard, slammed into two two-story apartment buildings, leveling them and igniting a roaring fire that engulfed three other structures.

Two victims were found in the wreckage of the other plane, a Piper Cherokee, which struck the front porch of a two-story apartment building in nearby Fairview. A mangled body was found beneath the wreckage.

At least eight people injured on the ground were treated at hospitals.

Transcripts of conversations with the nearby Teterboro Airport control tower showed the pilots of both planes were aware of each other as they cruised over the densely populated suburbs across the Hudson River from Manhattan shortly after 5 p.m. Sunday, said FAA spokesman Peter Nelson.

Stubborn Pampa defies UIL order, SHS still to march

A series of legal maneuvers by the Pampa High School band boosters organization has apparently once again placed that school in contention for the state marching contest — a slot filled at the last moment Thursday by the Black and Gold Snyder High School band.

As of Monday morning, it appeared both Snyder and Pampa were to be allowed to compete at the Austin event.

Inquiries to confirm this with state UIL officials were unsuccessful, however. A spokesman at the UIL office in Austin said state attorneys were in conference with lawyers representing Pampa and that no information could be released at this time.

Attempts to contact the local contingent of SHS band members and supporters were unsuccessful also.

The editor of the Pampa News, Wally Simmons, said he had been in contact with Pampa band boosters in Austin, and that the indication was UIL officials were to allow Pampa to march at 3:30 p.m. following Snyder's performance at 2:30 p.m.

Snyder received word it would replace Pampa at the state meet Thursday after Pampa was disqualified for marching a band member who was ineligible due to a failing grade.

Pampa band boosters, however, then successfully received a temporary restraining order against both the school district there and the UIL in Austin.

This prohibits state officials from disallowing the Pampa marchers until a hearing can be held to determine if this order is to be made permanent. This hearing is scheduled Thursday in Austin, Simmons said. It is to be before District Judge Harley Clark.

According to Simmons, the band student reportedly received a failing grade from a substitute teacher, who had indicated the student would be allowed to perform extra work to improve the grade.

This work was reportedly completed, but the failing mark was never upgraded.

When UIL officials learned the ineligible student had marched, they disqualified Pampa, which had finished ahead of Snyder at the regional competition Nov. 2 in Vernon.

Only two bands are normally allowed to represent the region. Also marching at state is the group from Keller High School.

From the preliminary competition Monday afternoon, five

Keeping WFAA derailed

Efforts to keep WFAA TV on the local cable system have been derailed by two area systems' decision to reject a five-year contract offered by West Texas Microwave System.

It was reported Monday that Landmark Cable in Colorado City and United Cablevision in Sweetwater had rejected the contract offer, following acceptance last week by cable company operators in Snyder and Big Spring.

A clause in the contract required that all four cable firms agree.

In Colorado City, Landmark Cable manager Dale Mathis said the decision was an economic one. "Landmark Cable has turned down the present contract now offered by Times Mirror Microwave Company. The decision was based upon the rate established for the four cable companies involved. The microwave company is asking $3,000 per month per system for a five year period. This is a 200 percent increase for Colorado City."

Mathis continued, "A cable system's revenues and expenses are based solely upon the number of subscribers the system serves. Colorado City has the lowest number of subscribers at 2,300. One of the other systems has a subscriber base of close to 10,000. Landmark Cable did not feel it was fair for its Colorado City subscribers to subsidize another system."

Mathis added that his firm would be willing to accept a contract for WFAA "that is fair to all parties concerned."

The four cable systems were notified in October of plans to discontinue the WFAA signal. Petitions were circulated in Snyder and sent to West Texas Microwave asking the firm to reconsider its decision.

The proposed five-year contract was a result of those efforts. In Snyder, more than 6,100 names were collected on petitions seeking to retain WFAA.

In Snyder, SCAT officials announced last week that it had accepted the contract, and no im-

In Brief

No legal basis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George P. Shultz said the government had "no legal basis" to prevent the departure of a Soviet freighter carrying a Ukrainian sailor who had jumped into the Mississippi River near New Orleans.

Despite a congressional subpoena issued Thursday for the sailor to appear before the Senate Agriculture Committee, the Marshal Koniev was allowed to sail for home Saturday with 25 year-old seaman Miroslav Medvid aboard.

Assail speech

MOSCOW (AP) — Official Soviet media, reporting on President Reagan's weekend radio address, questioned the sincerity of Reagan's call for better relations between the superpowers.

October building nears $1 million

October began a new fiscal year for the City of Snyder, and building permits broke to a fast start with almost $1 million in projects applied for.

For the month, permits totaled $955,080. For October 1984, the first month's total equaled $556,149.

The city's fiscal year ended Sept. 30 with $7.4 million in new construction for the previous 12 month period.

The single largest project applied for during October was the previously announced doctor's clinic which will houses the offices of Drs. Thomas Wiman and Nelson Brice. Approximately $400,000 is estimated for the 7,400 sq. ft. facility, being built at 5106 Trinity Blvd. just north of Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

The month's total was aided also by three applications for new single family residences and 13 applications for mobile home move-ins.

The three new homes totaled more than $257,000 in building permits and the mobile homes added almost $274,000 to this.

The three new homes will be built at 1504 Preston Trail, with the owner-contractor listed as Bob Hutson; 4105 Midland, owner-contractor Bob Hutson; and 4103 Midland, owner-contractor Bob Hutson.

The mobile home move-ins were applied for by Robert Phariss, 2001 Peyton; David Harris, 507 31st St.; John Sparks, 1201 22nd St.; Danny West, 1205 22nd St.; Caleb Vaca Jr., 2102 Peyton; D. Clayton, 1012 30th St.; Tracie Lavender, 2202 Gilmore; Karen Marr, 2011 Merrill; Jesus Hinojos, 2405 O'Neil; Mary Chavez, 3000 Ave. I; Danny Engle, 2104 Huffman; Samual Barrientez, 801 Ave. V; and Gwen Sorrells, 1211 22nd St.

Commissioners slate appraisal board vote

County commissioners are scheduled to cast the county's ballots Tuesday for nominees to the Scurry County Appraisal District board of directors.

Commissioners have changed their weekly meeting date to Tuesday due to the Veterans Day holiday Monday. Tuesday's meeting will begin at 10 a.m.

The court carries nearly 25 percent of the total vote (1,226 votes) for the five-member appraisal district board. During the nominating phase, commissioners proposed two candidates, Carl Williams and Henry Lofton.

County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth will announce election winners on Dec. 2. Elected for two-year terms, members of the new board will begin their duties in January.

On Tuesday, the court will also hear Bob McHaffey with the Department of Human Resources. McHaffey plans to discuss moving a clothing room currently located in the Senior Citizens' Center to Noah Project property.

In addition, the court will verify results of the Nov. 5 election concerning 14 amendments to the Texas Constitution.

Gramm set for conference committee budget sessions

DALLAS (AP) — For the House and Senate to compromise on proposed balanced budget legislation will be difficult because the Senate has advanced an economic proposal and the House a political one, Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, of College Station says.

"I'm not saying I'm pessimistic, I guess I'm realistic," Gramm said at a Sunday afternoon news conference in downtown Dallas.

A House and Senate conference committee will meet beginning Tuesday in sessions aimed at ironing out differences between the two versions of balanced budget proposals.

Gramm said he has drafted three or four options and has prepared compromise language in hopes lawmakers can agree on something.

"My goal is to settle this thing by Thursday so we don't have to find out what the next option is," Gramm said.

If an agreement is not reached by midnight Thursday, the federal government could shut down, defaulting on its financial obligations and sending at least 500,000 "nonessential" workers home.

The shutdown can be averted if Congress passes a stop-gap appropriations bill to fund government agencies past the expiration of the current temporary spending bill.

Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker has promised to start selling off gold reserves to provide funding for the federal government if a compromise is not reached, an idea rejected by President Reagan.

Gramm, a former Democrat, said he met Thursday and Friday with "key people on the Democratic side" and drafted a series of proposed amendments that he believes "represent compromises."

"This thing's got to be negotiated out," Gramm said. "I'm not ready at this point to put all my cards on the table, but what I've been trying to do is to work out language so if there is some break in this deadlock ... we'll have some proposals to put on the table."

The committee will dicker over balanced budget legislation sponsored by Gramm, Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., and Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., and the House version of the bill.

The bill has been approved twice in the Senate.

"If they really are concerned about getting a greater degree of flexibility in a recession," Gramm said, "there are several ways of doing that. I've tried to draft each of three or four ways of doing that so that we've got language if we actually begin to negotiate."

Medication has side effects

DEAR DR. GOTT — What information can you give me on the drug Dipyridamole? My doctor wants me to take three tablets daily for the rest of my life. This is for a very slight stroke I had a year ago. I was not disabled and I had no high blood pressure. I am 74. I also take aspirin. Can there be any effects from it? Is there any food that counteracts it?

DEAR READER — Dipyridamole is purported to improve circulation. There is no convincing proof that it helps prevent stroke; in fact, it has been classed as being only "possibly" effective in alleviating angina (poor circulation to heart muscle). It can cause headache, dizziness, weakness, skin rash and stomach upset. I do not know of any particular foods to be avoided when taking the medicine. The combination with aspirin should not be harmful.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 35 and just had a baby who is 5 months old. Energywise I feel good, but I feel like I'm in a trance all the time. I've been told that my estrogen isn't building up fast enough. My father-in-law is a psychologist and he thinks most of it is in my head. Is there anything a doctor can give me to correct the problem, or will my hormones correct on their own?

DEAR READER — Your hormones will correct on their own. Peculiar feelings after pregnancy are quite common. After all, you have a lot of responsibility and have been through a great deal. Although (male) doctors used to assume that postpartum symptoms were emotional — and some may be — most specialists recognize that pregnancy and delivery place great stress on womens' systems. It may take several months for your body to return to a pre-pregnancy state. In the meantime, check regularly with your obstetrician.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have a sore above my anklebone. The doctor used silver nitrite on it for a while, but he doesn't seem to know what the sore is. I have varicose veins and am 82. He told me to stay off my leg, but it is hard to do, as I am a housewife. What might help?

DEAR READER — You may have developed a varicose ulcer due to poor circulation in the skin near your varicose veins. This may require surgical attention. Elevate your leg when you can, use warm compresses three times a day and keep the ulcer clean. If you it doesn't improve within two weeks, ask your doctor to refer you to a surgeon for evaluation.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott in care of this newspaper at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

The United States is its largest single market and accounts for more than 50 percent of car sales, according to Jaguar. The firm says it expects to increase its 1985 production to 38,000 cars and estimates 20,000 will be sold in the U.S.

The Continental Congress enacted legislation Oct. 13, 1775, which established the forerunner of the U.S. Navy. The year 1985 marks the 210th anniversary of the American naval service.

Dear Abby

Husband's Reading Problem Is Not Just His Tired Eyes

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: After four years of marriage, I found out that my husband can neither read nor write; he can only sign his name. He admitted this after he lost his job and I had to help him fill out some job applications.

During our courting days, his inability to read or write never came up. I was a widow with two children. He was divorced. He makes a very good appearance, but has always had trouble holding down a job. Now I know why. He is very good at fooling people. He would ask me to read everything from menus to instructions to him—saying his eyes were "tired."

His mother and members of his family have known all along that he was illiterate, but they kept it from me. He has many good qualities, but I am angry because I didn't get a husband, I got a child in a man's body! Am I wrong to be mad at his family for covering up for him?

FOUND OUT TOO LATE

DEAR FOUND OUT: Don't place all the blame on your husband's family; he should have told you himself.

Millions of American adults are functionally illiterate—unable to read a help-wanted ad or directions on a bottle of aspirin, and cannot address an envelope. Somehow they manage to bluff their way through, as your husband did.

However, if he really wants to learn, there are adult basic education classes available through your local public schools. And many public libraries provide one-on-one tutoring for adults. To find out the location of free programs near you, call or write: The National Coalition for Literacy, P.O. Box 81826, Lincoln, Neb. 68501. Send a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Its toll-free number is 1-800-228-8813. The people there can also tell you how to become a volunteer tutor. "The only degree you need is the degree of caring."

DEAR ABBY: After only three months of marriage, my wife left me for another man. She refuses to get counseling to save our marriage. It looks hopeless, so I may as well accept her decision.

My question is, What should be done about our wedding presents? Should we divide them between us according to who gave them to us—all the gifts that came from her friends and relatives should go to her, and those that come from my friends and family should be mine?

Or should we return them all to the senders? What about the gifts that have been used? Thank-you cards have already been sent out for all of them.

If you print this, you may use my name. I have nothing to hide. Otherwise, sign me ...

STILL IN LOVE IN MISSOURI

DEAR STILL: The unused wedding gifts should be returned. Gifts that have been used should be divided—those from her family and friends are hers. Those from your friends and family belong to you. I'm sorry you're hurting. I wish you happiness again—and soon.

DEAR ABBY: I am an introvert. I cherish my privacy and try to protect it whenever possible. My sister-in-law is coming to town for 10 days, and she's written to tell me—not ask me, but to tell me—she is going to sleep on my couch!

Abby, the couch is in the middle of the living room, and if she sleeps there she will disrupt my privacy. She's a late sleeper, and I have to get up at 6:30 a.m. to bathe, breakfast and dress for work in the morning.

This sister-in-law lives 2,000 miles away and I barely know her. I would not want my best friend sleeping in the middle of my living room for 10 days—or even overnight!

The cost of a motel is no problem. Her brother (my husband) thinks this is OK. Am I wrong to resent it?

NO NAME, NO CITY

DEAR NO NAME: Of course you're not wrong to resent it. If you wrote to get my approval to be resentful, you have it. Get in touch with her as soon as possible and don't ask her—tell her that you're making motel reservations for her.

Offers kuchen recipe

By CECIL B. BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

PRUNE-PLUM KUCHEN

1½ cups stirred all-purpose flour (spooned and leveled)

¼ pound stick butter, cut in 8 equal pats

2 tablespoons plus 1-3rd cup sour cream

3 large egg yolks

½ cup sugar

1 tablespoon Grand Marnier

1 scant pound fresh prune-plums, pitted and halved

In a food processor fitted with the metal blade evenly distribute 1¼ cups of the flour, the butter and 2 tablespoons sour cream. Process until mixture forms a ball around the blade. Press over bottom and sides of an ungreased 9-by 1½-inch round cake pan with a removable bottom. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until tinged with gold — 20 minutes. Remove tart shell and turn oven control to 350 degrees. In the food processor, without washing bowl or blade, process together until smooth remaining ¼ cup flour, 1-3rd cup sour cream, egg yolks, sugar and Grand Marnier. Arrange plums cut side down in tart shell. Pour egg yolks mixture over plums. Bake in the 350-degree oven until edge is golden — 45 minutes. Serve warm. Makes 8 servings.

'Ella' brings back memories

AUNT ELLA STORIES. By Kenan J. Heise. Academy Chicago Publishers. 191 Pages. $14.95.

The memories of those who grew up during the Great Depression are fogged now by sentiment. They always remember the good things, rarely the bad.

And so it is with Kenan J. Heise, who gives his personal view of that time in the 22 semi-autobiographical stories that appear in "Aunt Ella Stories."

The narrator of the stories is Jo Jo. He is six in the year 1938. He lives with his mother, father, and five brothers in Ferndale, Mich., a very real place which now is considered a Detroit suburb but back then was a separate, and very nice, little town.

Linking the stories together is the feud going on between Jo Jo's father and his Aunt Ella. The father earns $16 a week working in an auto plant. Aunt Ella has no apparent source of income other than from what articles she can scrounge out of trash bins to sell or trade. Yet she seems to be surviving the Depression better than a lot of people, and the fact is driving Jo Jo's father wild.

Determined to find out how Aunt Ella is getting by, the father resorts to all sorts of ruses and tricks in his efforts to find out and each time he is stymied by Aunt Ella's shrewdness. The stories are funny some of the time and touching some of the other, but always entertaining.

In addition to doing a nice job of telling of the feud, Heise also does well in recalling just what it was like to grow up during the Depression, a time when a nickel was a fortune and a pair of long pants the most wanted thing in the world.

These are nice stories to read. For those who remember that time, they should bring a rush of memories.

A contract stolen — from partner

By James Jacoby

South's strong but artificial two-club opening was doubled by West. That double was natural and meant to be lead-directing. The bidding then proceeded until South reached four spades. Why didn't South simply raise to three no-trump when North showed a club stopper? I have no idea. Maybe South had not played a hand for several rounds and wanted to demonstrate his creative declarer play. That he did, as follows.

Declarer grabbed the king of clubs with the ace and immediately ran six spade tricks. West, who had to make four discards, selected two clubs, a small diamond and a heart. Declarer then cashed his ace and king of hearts. At this point, declarer could safely cash his diamond ace for the tenth trick, but he correctly determined that West was holding the guarded diamond king as well as the queen and jack of clubs. And so he exited with a small club. West could take the Q-J of clubs but then had to lead away from the king of diamonds.

"Did you like the way I played that one, partner?" South asked, blatantly fishing for praise, not even having the courtesy to wait for the opponents to move for the next round.

"Oh, well enough," North pleasantly retorted, "but wouldn't I have had the same chance to make as many tricks at no-trump if you had been kind enough to raise me to three? And wouldn't that have been 10 points more?" And silence reigned.

Flowers, model top meeting

Joan Prince of Friendly Flowers and Linda Lyle of Plainview are scheduled guest speakers for the November luncheon meeting of the Snyder Christian Women's Club Wednesday. Slated from 11:15 a.m. to 1:15 p.m., the affair will be held in the Snyder Country Club.

Prince plans to feature exotic flowers and fall and Christmas flower arrangements. She and her husband, "Speedy," have owned the flower shop for 10 years.

A former professional model, Lyle graduated from Baylor University with a degree in music. As a student, she was chosen "Baylor Beauty." Her daughter received the same honor 23 years later. An active Parent-Teacher Association member, she serves as president of War on Drugs and Alcohol in the local high school. She is also actively involved in her church where she sings in the choir.

She and her husband Paul, an attorney, have two children — Leela Kay, a Baylor student, and John Paul, a senior in high school.

Emily Hataway will provide music for the meeting.

Cost of the meal is $5.50 or beverage only may be purchased for $1. A free nursery will be provided. Interested persons need to place reservations or cancellations for the meal or child care by noon Tuesday by calling 573-1278 or 573-8128.

An interdenominational organization, CWC does not require membership. There are no dues.

Lady Tigers claim bi-district title

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

LUBBOCK – It took awhile for the Tigers to loosen up here Saturday but when they did they won a bi-district volleyball title with ease.

"I don't think any of us quit shaking until about the middle of the second game," said senior tri-captain Allison Adams, after Snyder's 15-6, 15-11 victory over the Dunbar Panthers.

Apparently, having the shakes is something the Tigers are experienced at.

"It happens every game. We just have to play awhile and get the feel of it," said Adams.

It might have been hard for the casual fan to detect Snyder's nervousness. The Tigers led 11-3 in both games before Dunbar rallied to put some points on the board. In fact, the Panthers led only once and that was a 3-2 margin in the first game.

Karlene Thompson stepped up to serve three straight points for the Tigers and Snyder never trailed again- ever.

The score was 5-3 Snyder when Shondra Robinson came to the line to offer up three more points, including an ace serve. Dunbar got the serve back but couldn't score, and Pam Casias served points 9 through 11 for the Tigers.

Dunbar finally came back and got three points to make a run at the District 2-4A champions, but a spike by Thompson gave Snyder the serve again.

This time Leslie Ward got into the serving act, and she kept it until the Tigers had recorded the victory.

Snyder held its momentum into the second game, going ahead 6-1 before Dunbar made a brief comeback attempt.

The Panthers managed two points, making the game 6-3. Snyder sprinted back to a sizeable lead, 11-3, but Dunbar rallied again.

"It's our usual second-game slump," said Snyder Coach Vicki Nelms. "It seems like we go through this everytime. Really, that first game was a lot easier than we thought it would be and that probably had something to do with us letting up in the second game."

Dunbar got some good net play from 5-10 junior Mish Manahan and consistant serving from Diane Melgoza. The Panthers reeled off seven straight points to put within one, 11-10, before Manahan spiked the ball low into the net and Snyder regained the serve.

The Tigers served the ball into the net, throwing away the opportunity, but another spike by Thompson got them the ball back again. Thompson then delivered a kill to make it 12-10, and Snyder got point number 13 when Dunbar hit the ball out of bounds.

Some strong net play by Adams and Donna Anderson provided the finishing touches.

"They were hitting a lot of stuff off (away from) the net," said Nelms, "and it made it a little hard on us. I thought we hit the ball well."

Snyder came across with 9 kills - 7 by Thompson - and 9 ace serves. Robinson and Ward had 3 aces apiece.

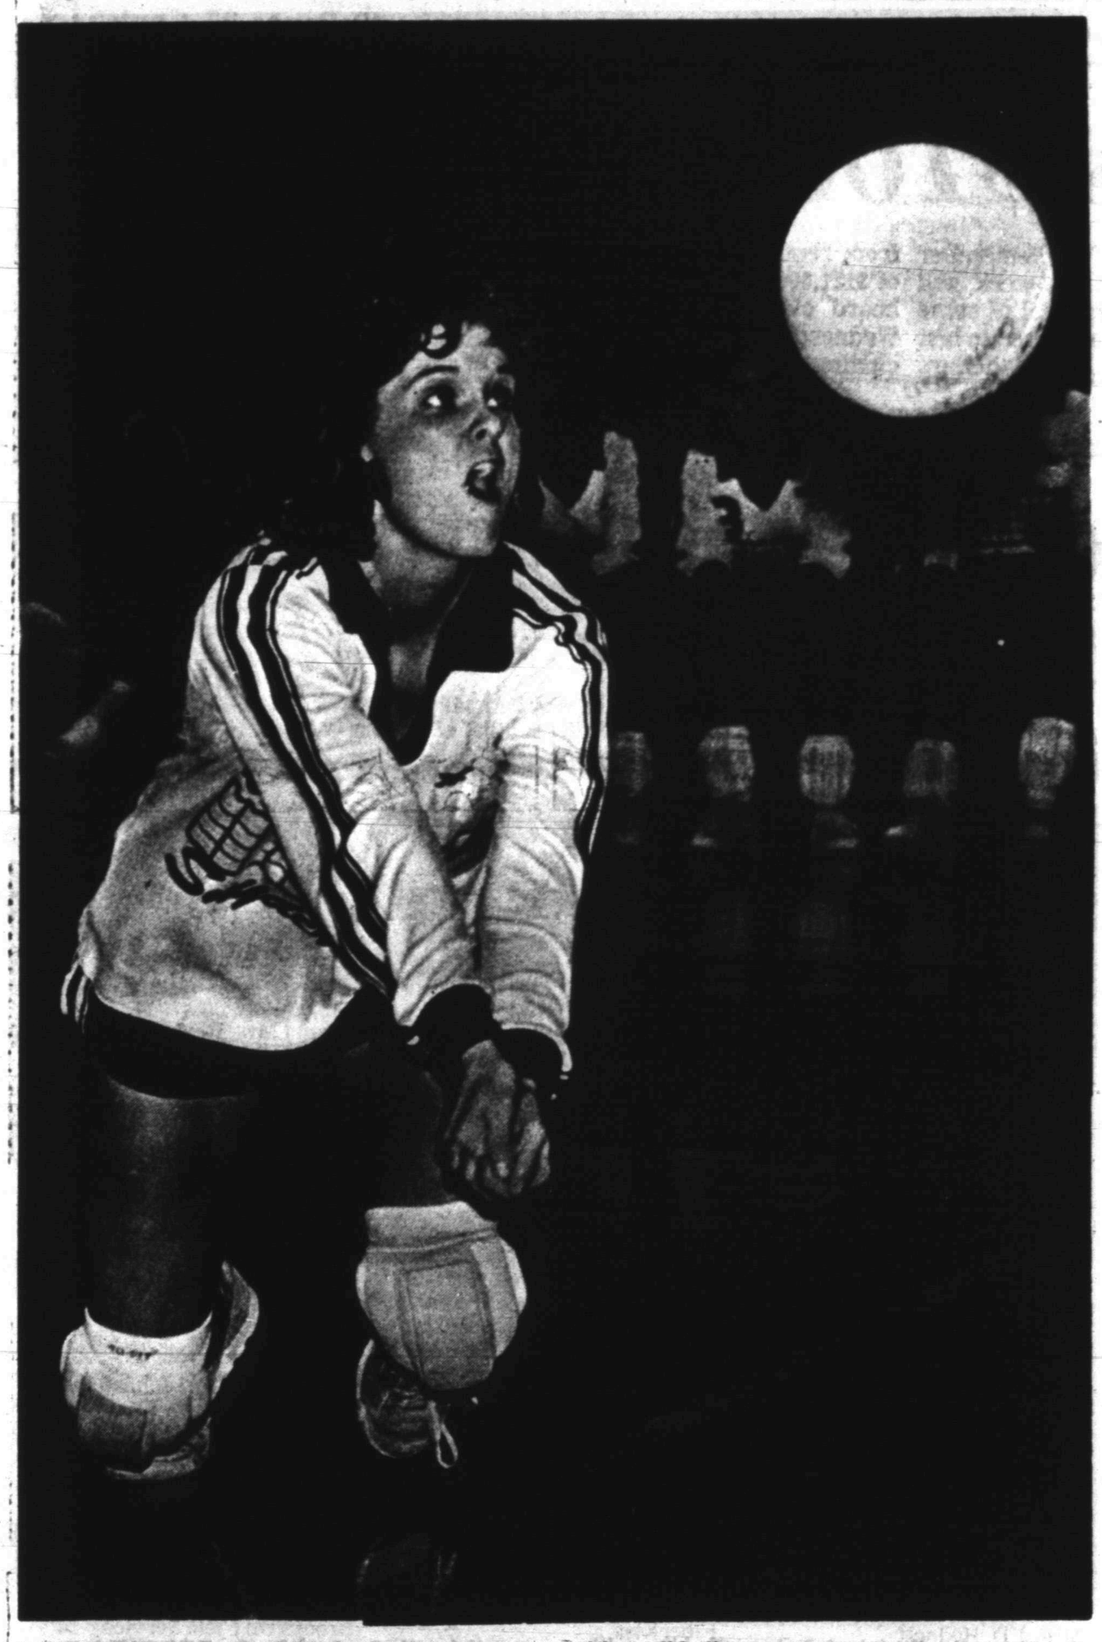

Adams thought Snyder had a chance to reach the playoffs this year, but she is still amazed about being in them.

"We knew this was going to be our year if we were going to do it," she said. "We knew we had a good chance at winning district. This is unbelievable though. Last year at this time we were finished."

DIVING EFFORT – Snyder's Leslie Ward dives to stop a ball from hitting the floor during Saturday's bi-district playoff with Lubbock Dunbar. The Tigers combined this kind of hustle on defense with a solid offense to defeat the Panthers, 15-6, 15-11. Snyder now plays Fort Worth Castleberry for the area crown. Tigers play for area title Tuesday evening

Snyder's Lady Tigers, bi-district and District 2-4A volleyball champions, will go for the area title Tuesday night in Abilene against 10th-ranked Fort Worth Castleberry.

Castleberry, the District 3-4A runnerup, defeated Crowley last week to earn its bi-district crown.

Game time Tuesday will be 7:30 p.m. at Abilene Cooper Gymnasium, 3639 Sayles Blvd.

In the other area match, second-ranked Levelland will play Azle at 7:30 on the Abilene Christian University campus - also Tuesday.

Winners of the two area matches will then clash Saturday, site and time unknown, in the regional playoff.

Westerners outlast Laredo in triple overtime, 121-118

LAREDO – Western Texas College worked finally worked its way to a seven point lead, then held on to defeat Laredo Junior College 121-118 in triple overtime at the Laredo Classic here Saturday.

"When you play a team like that with the quality of players they have at their home that's a big victory, I tell you," said WTC Coach Phil Spradling.

Western was down by three points in the second overtime, 105-102, with just three seconds left to play.

"Alvin (Hicks) was at the line and we wanted him to make the first shot and miss the second. That's the only way we had a chance to stay in the ballgame," said Spradling. "He did just that and Ed Teal came down with the rebound and went back up to score."

That tied the game at 105-all and Western took control in the third overtime for the victory.

"We knew we had it won, then. Our guys had played so hard they weren't about to lose then," said Spradling.

The Westerners went through the overtime sessions without the help of 6-6 Wally Manns and 6-9 Cliff Langford, who fouled out in regulation. James Dawn also fouled out in the first overtime.

"We had some people like Terry Ridgeway, John Lewis and George Moore who came off the bench and did a good job for us," said Spradling. "This was really a team effort."

Hicks led the Westerners with 32 points. Alvin Lee had 30, Dawn 23 and Langford 14.

The Westerners, now 5-0, will stay on the road as they head for Carthage and the Panola Classic which begins Friday. WTC is scheduled to play Navarro JC at 4 p.m.

WESTERN TEXAS (121)– Hicks 10 12 32; Lewis 1 0 2; Lee 13 4 30; Dawn 10 3 23; Teal 4 0 8; Manns 4 0 8; Langford 5 4 14; Scroggins 2 0 3; TOTALS 49 23-28 121.

Dusters defeated in finals at SPC

LEVELLAND – The Lady Texans over came a six-point deficit with about four minutes to play here Saturday to defeat Western Texas College in the championship game of the South Plains Classic.

The loss put WTC at 5-2 as the Dusters prepare for the annual Howard College Hawk Queen Classic this weekend in Big Spring.

"I think we played well. I think they played well. We shot about 50 percent from the field and they shot about 60 percent. They just shot 10 percent better than we did," said Western Texas Coach Kelly Chadwick.

Western led by six points with about four minutes to go in the game but got several calls against them which allowed South Plains to catch up.

"It just kind of broke our momentum," said Chadwick.

Western got 23 points from Brenda Welch, 14 from Pam Cox and 12 from Angela Jeans.

SPC, 4-2, was led by Penny Elkins' 15 points. Sally Walling, Shari Schilling and Stephanie Smith added 10 apiece.

"Our defense probably wasn't as good as it needed to be and their press bothered us some. We had 15 turnovers," said Chadwick. "They've got the best team they've had in the eight years I've been in this league."

Western will now play Wharton Junior College at 6 p.m. Thursday in the first round of the Hawk Queen Classic. South Plains is also entered and will play the University of Chihuahua, Mexico, at 4.

WESTERN TEXAS (50)– Quincy 0 2 2; Jeans 6 0 12; Cox 6 2 14; Welch 9 5 23; Robinson 2 2 6; Milner 1 0 2; TOTALS 24 11 59.

Dallas stuns Redskins, 13-7

WASHINGTON (AP) - Washington Redskins' owner Jack Kent Cooke passed up a luncheon date with Britain's Prince Charles and Princess Diana to watch his team play football.

It was the Dallas Cowboys, however, that did all the feasting on Sunday as they defeated Cooke's Redskins 13-7 to retain a share of first place in the National Football Conference's East.

The Cowboys, coming off a disappointing 21-10 setback in St. Louis last Monday, bounced back to drop the Redskins and hand the defending division champions their fifth loss in 10 games. The victory was the seventh in 10 games for the Cowboys, who remained tied with the New York Giants for the division lead.

"This game was awfully important to us because we played so poorly last week against St. Louis," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry, in the wake of his 250th National Football League coaching victory. "Our guys gathered together after a week of turmoil and came back to play very well."

None played better on defense than Jim Jeffcoat. The Cowboys first-round draft pick in 1983, Jeffcoat enjoyed his best game as a pro, sacking Redskin quarterback Joe Theismann five times.

Jeffcoat suprised Redskin tackle Dan McQuaid who had the uneviable task of filling in for All-Pro Joe Jacoby on the Redskin offensive line and was forced to handle Jeffcoat one-on-one.

"He was just bull-rushing me. I expected him to go inside or outside," said McQuaid, who at 6-foot-7 and 278 pounds is two inches taller and 15 pounds heavier than Jeffcoat. "He just went straight up and drove me straight back."

After opening a 6-0 lead on two Rafael Septien field goals, the Cowboys put the game out of reach late in the third quarter as quarterback Danny White hooked up on a 48-yard touchdown pass to Tony Dorsett.

"We were just hoping to get in the right situation. Danny had time to see me running down the field and that was that," said Dorsett, who had no trouble beating linebacker Monte Coleman to the end zone.

For Dorsett, the score marked his 76th TD as a Cowboy tying him with Bob Hayes as the team's all-time leader.

For White, who completed 16 of 29 passes for 245 yards, the victory, before 55,750 screaming Redskin fans, was especially satisfying.

"It's more of a thrill than anything other than the Super Bowl when you win here," said the Dallas signalcaller.

Dallas, which beat the Redskins 44-14 in the season opener, swept the season series with Washington, the first divisional foe to knock off the Redskins twice in one season since the Cowboys did it in 1981.

"The fact that we were able to beat them twice offsets a game like Detroit (a 26-21 loss) and those games that you lose that you should win," said Landry.

Redskins quarterback Joe Theismann, who was intercepted eight times in the two Cowboy games, including three on Sunday, doesn't need anyone to tell him how well the Cowboys are playing.

"They are playing as well as I've ever seen them in 12 years of lining up against the Cowboys," said Theismann, who completed 14 of 31 for 195 yards.

After spotting the Cowboys their 13-point lead, the Redskins rallied briefly in the fourth quarter behind Theismann's 11-yard scoring pass to Gary Clark.

But the Cowboy defense, which held the Redskins to just 267 yards total offense, shut the door.

United Way tackles $100,000 goal

A record $100,000 budget was recommended Wednesday by committee members for this year's United Way campaign — a drive that will see the county's dent Donny Brown, who also served as a budget committee member.

"But we thought about it and decided that with the support of presented to the full 25-member United Way board next week, will mark an increased goal of some 30 percent when compared to last year. Regarding actual dollars from requests totaling in excess of $121,000. These requests were heard over a 5½ hour session Wednesday with 10 entities — including the eight traditional Hawes, Rex Robinson, Fred Castillo and Brown.

Last year's goal for United Way was $75,830 with $91,117 eventually raised.

United Way: 'people helping people'

As the 1985 Scurry County United Way campaign begins, drive officials want to express their thanks to the fine Snyder and Scurry County firms and individuals who helped make last year's campaign a 120 percent success.

This year's drive seeks a record goal of $100,000, a 10 percent increase over funds raised last year. The majority of these extra United Way dollars will go toward two special projects taken on this year, Noah Project, a haven for battered women and their children, and SCOOP.

The eight traditional United Way agencies will be benefitted as well with like or increased dollars.

This year, as in the past, the heart of the United Way campaign is people helping people because they care. The following is a list of some of the Scurry County people who have given generously.

American Airlines plane evacuated

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Passengers aboard an American Airlines jetliner forced to return to the Metropolitan Nashville Airport shortly after takeoff spent a tense six minutes between the time the pilot noticed a fire warning light go on and the landing.

"We made a steep right-hand bank and that's when he (the pilot) told us we'd be coming back," said Joyce Moran of Wichita Falls, Texas. "That six minutes was an eternity."

Flight 449 left the airport for Dallas-Fort Worth at 1:29 p.m. CST and landed safely at 1:50 p.m. after circling the airport, said Al Becker, an airline spokesman in Dallas.

Emergency chutes and hatches were used Sunday to evacuate the 142 people aboard the MD-80, an updated version of the DC-9, after the pilot noticed the warning light.

Becker said there were no serious injuries and no smoke or flames.

"Nobody knew but that the plane might explode," said Bill Bronowski, president of Gaylord Broadcasting, which owns the Opryland USA complex. He said he was returning to Dallas with his wife and mother-in-law.

He and the other passengers were asked to remove their shoes, leave their personal belongings behind and plunge down the emergency chutes.

The unloading took only 30 to 35 seconds and was a "textbook evacuation," said Tony DeSocio, regional sales manager for American Airlines, during a briefing just hours after the emergency landing.

About 45 minutes after the evacuation, the passengers, who had milled around the terminal in their socks waiting to be rerouted, were allowed to return to the plane to retrieve their shoes and other belongings.

The Federal Aviation Administration was called to investigate the hasty landing.

"We do not know the cause of the warning light," Becker said. "As a precautionary measure he (the pilot) decided to evacuate on the taxiway. The passengers were brought back into the terminal on buses and vans."

Big water project sparks bickering

WASHINGTON (AP) — To critics, it's an overloaded pork barrel. To defenders like Rep. E. Clay Shaw Jr., R-Fla., it's "pure Sizzlean."

But both sides agree on one thing: the $20 billion Corps of Engineers authorization package pending in the House is the biggest water projects bill Congress has seen in 15 years.

Few things interest members of Congress more than federal spending in their districts, and the omnibus water project legislation is capturing the attention of members from all corners of the country.

It contains some 370 proposals for flood control and hydroelectric dams, river widenings, harbor deepenings, drinking water systems, shoreline protections and tangential items like $61 million for a pair of bridges between Kentucky and southern Ohio.

But with all these carrots is a stick: language to require local beneficiaries to pay a greater share of the cost of projects that generally have been financed mostly out of a federal Treasury now riddled by budget deficits.

When House debate began last week, no members attacked the overall package, although some objected to specific proposals, usually those outside their own districts.

For example, Rep. Bob Edgar, D-Pa., who wanted to know why Mississippi River flood control projects were exempted from cost-sharing. But Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, was quick to defend the plan.

Rep. Robert Roe, D-N.J., as chairman of the Public Works water resources subcommittee, put together a measure that would authorize the projects. But members must deal with Whitten's committee to get the separate legislation needed to provide the money.

Whitten isn't the only congressman working to protect his own district's interests in the bill.

Roe is from New Jersey, and so is James Howard, the Democrat who chairs the Public Works Committee. Their state is in line for some 27 projects worth more than $630 million. In addition, it shares five projects worth $531 million with New York.

New Jersey's list is second only to California's: some 30 projects worth more than $2 billion, including a flood protection system for the Santa Ana River, the bill's most expensive at $1.21 billion.

The Kentucky-Ohio bridges are being officially described as navigation projects. They are being unofficially described by congressional aides as going-away presents for Kentucky's Gene Snyder, the ranking Republican on Public Works who is retiring next year.

The charges of pork barrel politics are rebutted all around.

Americans are willing to try treatment

NEW YORK (AP) — About half of all Americans would try medical treatments rejected by established medicine if they were seriously ill, according to a Media General-Associated Press poll.

And half of the 1,412 adults interviewed by telephone also said that cancer clinics should be allowed to operate in the United States, even if the treatments they offer are opposed by the medical community.

A large percentage of the respondents — 41 percent — said they feared one disease more than any other. For the vast majority, that disease was cancer.

Acquired immune deficiency syndrome, or AIDS, was the second most commonly feared disease.

When it comes to serious diseases, 52 percent of the respondents said they would seek "a medical treatment that promised a cure" even when the treatment was rejected by the established medical community.

Thirty-six percent said they would not seek such treatment, and 12 percent were unsure.

Half of the respondents said clinics that treat cancer and other diseases in ways opposed by mainstream researchers and physicians should be allowed to operate in the United States. Thirty-six percent said the clinics should not be allowed to operate, and the rest were unsure.

The large percentage of people who support unorthodox treatments indicates that "people are very angry at the medical profession," said Helene Brown, vice president of the American Cancer Society and a member of the National Cancer Advisory Board of the National Cancer Institute.

Respondents in the Media General-AP poll also were asked if they believed faith healing, diet therapies, vitamins and Laetrile were effective in treating cancer and other diseases.

With diet therapies, patients are told to eat specific foods prepared to exacting specifications. Megavitamin therapy is based on the belief that high doses of specific vitamins strengthen the body's ability to destroy cancer.

Faith healing involves the use of prayer, laying on of hands and other practices that seek divine intervention to cure cancer. Laetrile is a drug believed by some to be effective against cancer but it has never been shown to be effective in scientific tests.

Thirty-two percent of the respondents said faith healing worked, while 54 percent disagreed. Twenty-three percent said diet therapies alone were effective in treating cancer, while 58 percent disagreed.

Only 15 percent believed large doses of vitamins were effective in treating cancer. When it comes to Laetrile, 14 percent said it was effective, 40 percent said it was ineffective, and 46 percent were unsure.

Memories of Enola Gay linger in West Texas town

PYOTE, Texas (AP) — It's been almost 32 years since the Enola Gay lifted off the runway at dusty, wind-swept Pyote Air Field en route to Andrews Air Force Base, Md., four months after the airfield was shut down.

The four-engine B-29 superfortress that unleashed the atomic bomb over Hiroshima lives on, however, in the memories of oldtimers.

For residents of Pyote, the Enola Gay symbolically represents the birth and death of what they called the Rattlesnake Bomber Base.

Bulldozers scrapped away mesquite and sagebrush from the sandy plains outside Pyote, a town of 300 people 50 miles southwest of Odessa, in September 1942 and replaced them with ribbons of concrete for Pyote Army Air Field.

The 19th Bombardment Group, the first heavy bombardment group to face the Japanese after Pearl Harbor, limped back to the U.S. in January 1943 to become the parent organization at Pyote.

The sleepy town that had three cafes, two stores, a post office and a seldom used train depot became a bonanza.

Soon there were 10,000 soldiers and 1,500 civilians manning the air field with B-17 Flying Fortresses and B-29s filling the sunny West Texas skies while eager Army aviators learned their trade.

German prisoners of war turned construction workers at the 2,700-acre base to free Army Air Corps men for other duties.

For Pyote, it was an economic rebirth akin to the glory days of 1928 when the city had almost 40,000 residents as oil gushers in nearby Winkler County brought fortunes. In 1928, the Pyote depot of Texas and Pacific Railroad handled more freight than Fort Worth, Dallas or El Paso.

Top-secret flight training, however, was under way by early 1945 over the desolate landscape of Windover, Utah, where B-29 pilots were honing up on how to pinpoint the drop of a single, bulky bomb on target.

Contrary to some reports, the Enola Gay had not yet been to Pyote Army Air Field, according to Pyote's retired Ward County commissioner, town historian and museum director Lenora Price.

The Enola Gay was delivered to the Air Force in May, 1945 by its builder, the Martin Co., of Omaha, Neb., and saw its first conventional combat mission in July in bombing raids in the Pacific Theater.

It was already modified at the time as a special mission craft, but its intended purpose was still secret, according to Mary Feik, a Smithsonian museum technician who poured over the Enola Gay's flight log at the request of The Avalanche-Journal.

The flight over Hiroshima, Japan, Aug. 6, 1945, by the Enola Gay had an effect 10,000 miles away on the town of Pyote. By December 1945, the once bustling air field in West Texas had only four officers, two enlisted men and 613 civilians left to man it.

The Enola Gay first came to Pyote and was displayed on the flight line to curious aviation enthusiasts in 1946, but it wasn't until Jan. 12, 1952, that she was placed in temporary storage at the field.

Meanwhile, the base became a graveyard for many of the 4,000 B-29s built from 1942 to 1946. Some were sheathed in huge plastic cocoons. Most were parked wingtip to wingtip under scorching sun. The Enola Gay was placed in a hanger.

There was a short-lived revival at the base when planes were pulled off the line and readied in the 1950s for duty in Korea, but the base officially closed in September 1953.

Most of the planes were dismantled and smelted down into aluminum blocks; buildings were torn down and timbers sold to build homes as far away as Carlsbad, N.M.; oilmen dropped by to pick up spare parts of machinery.

The Enola Gay because of her role in history survived.

She made her last flight Dec. 2, 1953, lifting off the Pyote runway en route to Andrews AFB, Md. four months after the air field in West Texas closed.

The Enola Gay was cocooned in Maryland, disassembled in August 1960 and the parts moved to Smithsonian's Paul Garber facility July 21, 1961, where restoration began in December 1984.

The Enola Gay was cocooned in Maryland, disassembled in August 1960 and the parts moved to Smithsonian's Paul Garber facility July 21, 1961, where restoration began in December 1984.

One hanger and the main runway is about all that remains today to attest to the heyday of Pyote Air Field. The West Texas branch of the Confederate Air Force keeps the runway usable.

At a four-room museum, there are old uniforms, a Norden bombsight, two dummy bombs, copies of "The Rattler" base newspaper, records of Pyote Air Field's history.

And photographs of the town's most noted resident, the Enola Gay.

The Enola Gay is now is being refurbished bolt for bolt by 16 specialized craftsmen at Suitland, Md., before being taken to the Smithsonian Institute for permanent display.

The restoration is expected to take up to five years, with each wire, gauge and bolt to be removed, scrubbed, polished and reassembled.

Smithsonian executives plan to display the Enola Gay along with the space shuttle Enterprise and a supersonic Concorde expected to be acquired within three years in proposed cavernous buildings at Dulles International Airport outside Washington.

Body believed to be of missing 11-year-old

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — The physical characteristics of a body found partially buried in wooded area match a description of an 11-year-old girl who disappeared on Halloween, police say.

The Harris County medical examiner's office in Houston completed an autopsy Sunday, but would not confirm whether the body was that of Mary Loraine Stiles.

The body was found Saturday afternoon near a mosquito-infested pond about 150 yards from the complex where the girl lived, said Baytown police Lt. James Hall.

"This is no longer a case of a missing child," he said. "It's a murder."

Hall declined to discuss possible suspects or leads in the case.

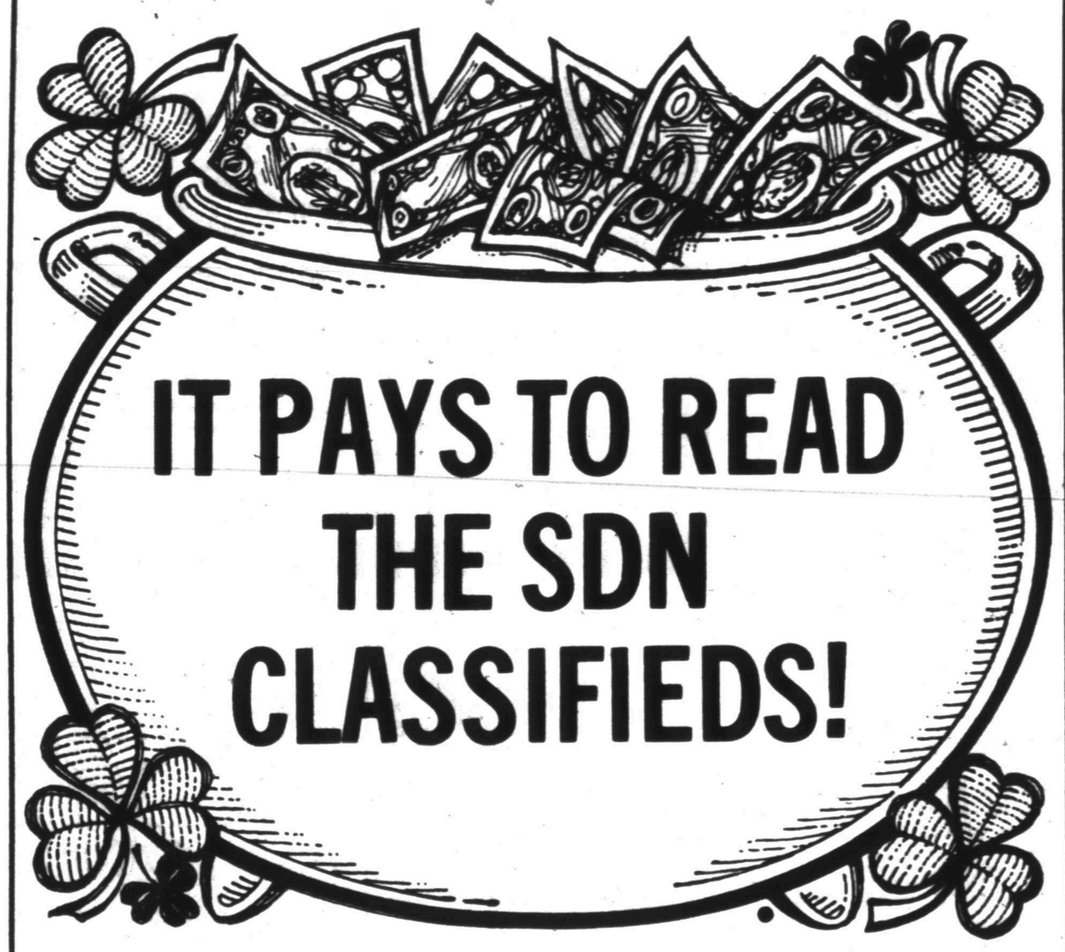

The blonde-haired, blue-eyed girl was last seen about 5:30 p.m. Oct. 31 by her older brother as she was playing outside the family's apartment. She had planned to go trick-or-treating dressed as a baby in pajamas.

The area where the body was found was searched by police the day after the girl was reported missing, said Assistant Police Chief Bob Merchant.

"It is my estimation that Mary Stiles had been dead since Halloween night. This is just based on what I saw," Hall said.

Some 30 to 40 bands of wild horses live on Sable Island off the coast of Nova Scotia, reports National Geographic World. Researchers believe horses were taken to the island in colonial times and left there to ensure that shipwrecked sailors would have meat to eat.

An embryo-transplant program at Kansas State University helps build superior herds by mating top-quality bulls and cows, then implanting the embryo in an inferior female to bear the calf. With this process, a prize cow can produce as many as 30 offspring a year.

INDEPENDENT

The restless, independent spirit that settled the west is still a vital force in Texas. Independent thinkers, people who are willing to take the risk of making their own decisions instead of following the crowd have been a basic ingredient in the history of Texas.

Since 1822 when the first Texas cotton gin was built, independent thinking cotton ginners have brought innovations and improvements that have produced major cost savings for all cotton farmers. TEXAS INDEPENDENT COTTON GINNERS are proud to be a part of the independent thinkers that have made the state of Texas great.

Competitive ginning prices and services. Telcot quotes and marketing available if you so choose. Outside buyers with top cotton prices.

Peace efforts face uncertain future

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — President Belisario Betancur's unprecedented efforts to end peacefully years of insurgency face an uncertain future following the guerrilla siege of the Palace of Justice that left more than 100 people dead, including 12 Supreme Court justices.

More than 72,000 people have been killed in guerrilla violence in Colombia during the past two decades.

But Betancur has done more than any other Latin American president this century to try to get leftist guerrillas to disband.

He pardoned rebels in jails, gave amnesty to others still fighting, became the first Colombian president to talk face-to-face with rebel leaders and fashioned a cease-fire between guerrillas and the government.

His government says it has spent $48 million trying to help former guerrillas start a new life by buying them taxis; plots of farm land, seed and equipment; and training them in technical schools and universities.

The government says 400 guerrillas of an estimated 10,000 have accepted pardons or amnesty.

Betancur's peace effort, which he began shortly after taking office three years ago, was received by guerrillas with great fanfare and joy.

White doves, the symbol of peace, were painted everywhere — on street pavement, on walls and on massive outcroppings of rocks on the Andean mountains that run alongside the east side of this city of 6 million people.

But the peace plan got a chilly reception from the army, the business sector, ranchers and the wealthy. Betancur fired his defense minister, Gen. Fernando Landazabal, who publicly denounced it.

A truce was signed last year with four guerrilla groups, but skeptics argue that the rebels probably agreed to the plan so they could regroup after having sustained heavy casualties in fighting with the army since 1978.

The guerrillas wanted the truce to build new base camps, recruit more combatants, stockpile arms and ammunition and gain more sympathizers, the critics say.

With the attack on the Palace of Justice last Wednesday by the April 19 Movement, a leftist guerrilla group known as M-19 that signed the cease-fire but withdrew from it in June, it seems likely that opponents will second-guess Betancur.

They can point out that the leader of the guerrilla raid on the palace, Andres Almarales, was pardoned last year by Betancur. Almarales went straight back to his fighting unit upon leaving jail, where he imprisoned for guerrilla activites.

Guerrillas who signed the truce wanted popular election of mayors, land reform and better housing, schools and hospitals for the poor.

One guerrilla group that looks to Cuba for ideological leadership, the National Liberation Army, refused to sign the truce, while a faction of the Colombian Revolutionary Armed Forces broke away and declared it would go on fighting.

Tom Wells has been a correspondent for The Associated Press in Latin America for 10 years, the last six of them in Bogota.

C-C is movie set now

COLORADO CITY, Texas (AP) — Residents of this West Texas City say they were unexcited when actors, actresses and camera crews arrived to begin filming a $2.5 million murder mystery.

"People are like that around here," says Pat Furlong, manager of the town's Dairy Queen and a resident in the area for a "jillion years" or so. "They just don't get too excited about anything - ball games, whatever."

Pat Poole, director and co-producer of the film "Shadows on the Wall," said the quiet nature of this city of 5,400 allows he and his cast and crew the freedom to film undisturbed.

Only occasionally does a Colorado City resident venture onto the movie set, he said.

Many resident said they are too busy to watch shooting. Janie Melendez, a waitress at Loyd's Place, where the cast has lunched twice, said she has yet to stroll down the block to the movie set.

Doyle Kiker, who works at the funeral home here and has lived in town 60 years or so, said he just has not found time to go down and watch the movie people yet.

"I stay here at the funeral home 10-12-14 hours a day, seven days a week," he said.

Poole, 38, a cigar-chomping filmmaker who grew up in Tulsa, Okla., said he has "always had a feel for this country. It's a filmmaker's dream to be out in this part of the country.

"It's open and the people are friendly."

Penny Solomon, Chamber of Commerce director, said Poole has promised to open the set up to spectators occasionally during the month-long shoot.

"Shadows on the Wall" was inspired by the once-popular, now-dilapidated Baker Hotel. Poole and his family were returning from a Dallas film conference last summer when they stopped off in the town and noticed the hotel.

Poole said he quickly wrote a script for a film set in a town he named "Crowder City" and, with financing from executive producer E.K. Gaylord II, assembled cast and crew and began shooting.

Two weeks of the six-week shooting schedule were spent in Mineral Wells and Dallas. The cast and crew went to Mineral Wells to shoot at another Baker Hotel, this one a 14-story structure. The Baker Hotel in Colorado City is only five floors high.

The movie group, arriving in Colorado City last weekend, began filming in the town's old savings and loan building and closed-down Palace Theater. A few residents were hired to help, including 23-year-old David Martin, who is a stand-in for lead actor Gary Swanson.

Swanson has portrayed a latter-day Chicago newspaperman investigating a murder committed 46 years earlier.

Woman believes mob killed her husband

HOUSTON (AP) — A northwest Harris County woman says she believes organized crime figures from Miami, Fla., killed her husband because he did not repay a $250,000 debt.

"He knew they were going to kill them. He told me they were going to kill him," said Sandy Baker, whose husband, Edward Gerald Baker, has been missing since Thursday.

Authorities were trying to identify a badly charred body found Friday in Baker's burned sports car, found in a field in northwest Harris County.

Mrs. Baker, 49, said she believes the body is her husband's because his ring was found in the vehicle.

Baker, 52, was discovered missing about 9:15 a.m. Thursday when his gardener found the couple's home had been burglarized, authorities said.

Mrs. Baker said she last spoke to her husband, whom she married six months ago, early Thursday.

Baker, who is chairman of Vanguard Groups International Inc. of Houston, told his wife "that he might die, and if he did, I will be strong. He said, 'You'll hurt at first, but you'll be OK,' " Mrs. Baker recalled.

She said her husband had sent her to her daughter's Austin home two days earlier because he feared she was in danger.

Police investigate weekend accidents

Three minor trafic mishaps were reported in Snyder over the weekend.

Involved in the first — at 2:52 p.m. Saturday on the parking lot of Munden's Discount Center — was a 1975 Ford driven by Wilma Gleghorn of 301 N Ave. N which struck a parked 1975 Plymouth owned by Theodore F. Lott of Fort Worth.

The parking lot of Allsup's Convenience Store in the 3900 Block of College Ave. was the scene of the second mishap at 10:49 p.m. Saturday.

Involved in it were a 1971 Pontiac driven by Rhonda Lynn Mayle of 406 35th St. and a 1984 Mercury driven by Joyce Lorene Feist of 2213 43rd St.

The weekend's third mishap was logged at 4:01 p.m. Sunday at the C&W Food Store at the intersection of U.S. Highway 84 and Huffman Ave..

Involved in it was a 1978 International Flatbed truck driven by Benito Rodriguez Jr. of 315 34th St. which struck the store building.

No injuries were reported in any of the weekend collisions.

Clarification...

Last Tuesday, the SDN reported a female suspect — Audrey Jean Williams — had been indicted by a Scurry County grand jury for tampering with a government document.

She is not to be confused with Aubrey Gene Williams, a local farmer and carpenter.

Prevention should be key to child abuse research

CHICAGO (AP) — Violence toward children has dropped sharply over the past 10 years in part because couples are having fewer children and because of improved of economic conditions, according to a study.

A decade of efforts in preventing child abuse has resulted in a sharp decline in the number of children suffering "very severe" mistreatment — those who are beaten, hit with something, or threatened or assaulted with a gun or knife, according to the study be presented today at the Seventh National Conference on Child Abuse and Neglect.

While 3.6 percent of all children between the ages of 3 and 17 were severely abused in two-parent families in 1975, only 1.9 percent of that age group were similarly victimized this year, according to researchers at the University of Rhode Island and the University of New Hampshire.

The study by Dr. Richard J. Gelles and Dr. Murray A. Straus said that at least 1 million children are abused each year, representing a decline of 705,000 incidents in 1985, compared to 10 years ago.

The study, funded by a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health, is one of several being presented to more than 500 leading authorities on violence against children from every state, Canada, Mexico, Australia and Europe.

It was based on a telephone survey from a sample of 4,032 child abuse cases, of which 1,428 were two-parent households.

The researchers attributed the decline to significant changes in family organization. They said couples were marrying later, waiting longer to have children and having fewer children. The number of unwanted pregnancies has dropped and economic conditions have improved over the past decade, they said.

The researchers, citing Harris Surveys, said 90 percent of the public consider child abuse a serious national problem, compared to only 10 percent in 1976.

Another study to be presented, part of a three-year effort by the National Center on Child Abuse and Neglect, concludes that more than half of parents who abuse their children mentally or physically are likely to do so again, even after treatment for abusive tendencies.

Daro acknowledged that some progress is being made in cutting down on repeat offenders.

finalists from Class AAAA are to be chosen to advance to the finals.

These are scheduled to begin at 8 p.m. Monday in Memorial Stadium on the campus of the University of Texas.

Cold brings 2 fire calls

The onslaught of cold weather here Sunday contributed to two of three fire calls answered by units of the Snyder Fire Department.

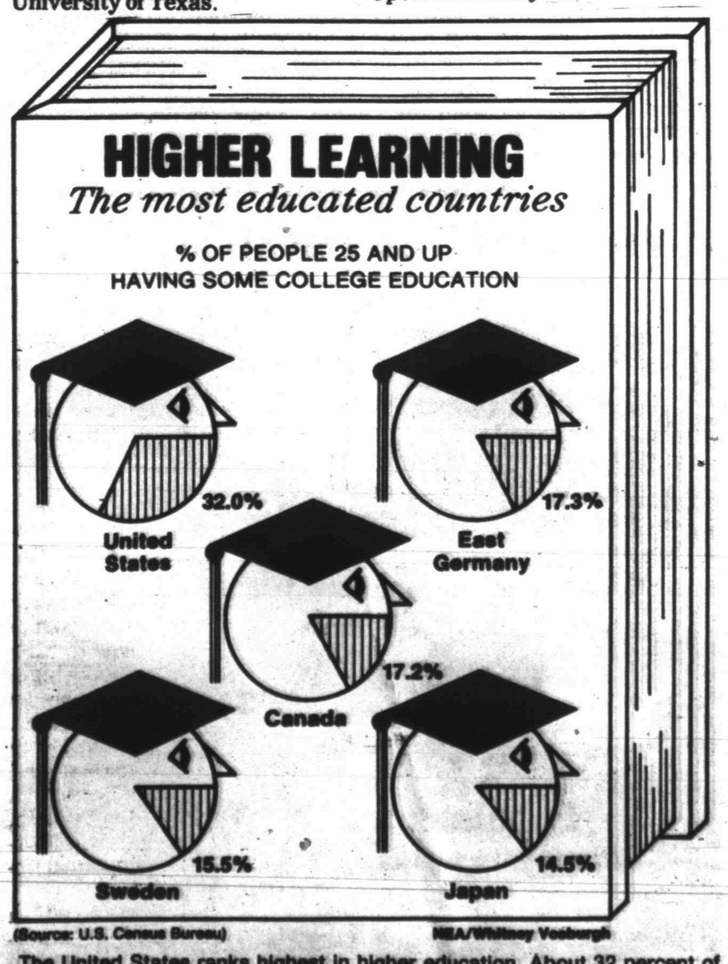

At 6:42 p.m. Sunday, firemen were dispatched to the Dick Norris residence at 2208 43rd St. where they found a clogged chimney had caused smoke to back up into the house.

Firemen were called to the Ruby Brownfield residence at 2901 Westridge Dr. at 7:42 a.m. Monday.

A new heater unit at that residence was reported smoking but no fire was found and no damage was reported to the residence.

In addition, firefighters extinguished a heater treater fire southwest of the Monsanto Gas Plant in far southwestern Scurry County at 4:14 a.m. Monday.

Owner of the damaged treater unit was listed as R.E. Smith Operators of Snyder.

The United States ranks highest in higher education. About 32 percent of U.S. adults have at least some college education — nearly twice the percentage of East Germany, which ranks second.

Son's name to be listed on memorial

WASHINGTON (AP) — No other war memorial is so personal as the long black wall that reflects the names of the dead with the face of the visitor.

Pilgrims come daily to the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, searching for the name of a friend, acquaintance, loved one. They leave flowers and letters. But most important, they see the name, or touch it.

The memorial was built with private donations, but the military provided the names.

"Last summer, maybe in August or September, a year ago, we had some friends that were going back to Washington, D.C., so we asked them to look up my son's name on the memorial," said Leo Broadhead, who lives in Edmond, Okla. "They did, and they found out it was not on there, so they told us about this, that it was not on there."

His son, Air Force Lt. Larry Broadhead, was killed in 1969 when his bomber crashed as it was taking off from Guam for a combat mission.

"So my wife wrote to the Department of Defense. We figured well, it was just a mistake," Broadhead said in a telephone interview.

It was not a mistake.

"We got letter from the secretary of the Air Force's office stating he was not eligible to be on the memorial because it was just an aircraft accident and he wasn't killed in the combat zone."

Larry Broadhead was flying his 88th combat mission, said his father. He was co-pilot on a B-52 loaded with over 100 bombs and a full supply of fuel.

"About 15 seconds after takeoff, it rolled over and went into the ocean," Broadhead said. The crew of six was lost.

Leo Broadhead, a retired Air Force lieutenant colonel, had served with his son and the rest of the crew — James L. Sipes of Kansas City; Russell Platt, Las Cruces, N.M.; Maurice E. Lundy, Kansas City; Thomas R. McCormick, Johnson City, Tenn.; Howard Deal, Detroit.

Before Broadhead retired from the Air Force, he spent six months in Thailand. He used his influence to get his son's crew sent there.

"We spent 45 days together. He was flying B-52 combat missions and I was flying KC-135 combat missions," Broadhead said.

At the end of their stint in Thailand, he dropped Larry off in Guam and went on to Hawaii.

"They notified me about 2 o'clock in the morning in Hawaii that he was dead," said Broadhead.

"Anyway, we got this letter back from the secretary of the Air Force. It was a very, very cold letter just stating he wasn't eligible to be on it (the memorial). Of course, when I read this letter I was furious about this thing and I'd made up my mind at that time I was going to do something about it."

Last month, the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, the private organization that built the memorial, announced that 96 names, including Larry's, would be added next Memorial Day.

The Defense Department expanded the eligibility to include those killed on missions en route to or from the combat zone, not just those killed inside the zone.

Larry Broadhead's widow, Barbara, lives in Houston with the couple's two children, a boy and a girl, now 16 and 18. Mrs. Broadhead was pregnant with their son when Larry was killed.

"I just hope it gets done," she said after she learned that the names would be added. "It means a lot to my children."

Nation observes Veterans' Day

By The Associated Press

The nation saluted its soldiers on Veterans Day with parades for those who fought and lived and wreath-layings for those who fought and died, while Vietnam veterans remembered the war with events in snowy Colorado and Spokane, Wash.

Parades were planned today in Los Angeles, Boston and New York, where a gay veterans group was excluded from the march sponsored by the American Legion.

"We wouldn't have minded them marching as individuals; we have gays in our organization. But we didn't want them coming in with signs about AIDS," said John Morahan, a spokesman for the New York County American Legion.

John Paine, president of the Gay Veterans' Association, denounced the legion's decision and two court rulings upholding its action.

In West Hollywood, Calif., a largely gay community, former Russian Army soldiers from World War II joined with gay Vietnam veterans Sunday at a local park following a parade through the recently incorporated city.

"America is for everyone," California Secretary of State March Fong Eu told the crowd, a place where people are not judged by "their heritage or lifestyle ... or the person with whom they sleep."

In Tarzana, Calif., restaurateur Tuan Vinh, a former South Vietnamese Army officer, offered free beer to about 30 American veterans who came to sing songs, swap tales and see slides of Vietnam. "We always remember the time we were in the service," Vinh said. "It is ingrained in our daily thinking and nightly dreaming. We may suffer with it, but we are proud of it."

One Texas town planned to observe the day with a real bang, repeating a 67-year-old tradition that began as a way to spread the word of the Nov. 11, 1918, armistice that ended World War I.

The American Legion post in Hamilton was sponsoring the anvil shoot, a pasttime that involves pouring gunpowder inside a heavy anvil, then placing a lighter anvil on top and lighting a trail of powder. The explosion, which sends the lighter anvil flying, can be heard several miles away, said John Sanders, vice commander of Legion Post 222.

In St. Louis, a flag-raising was planned to mark the founding of the American Legion in that city. A memorial plaque was being unveiled at the site where 1,100 World War I veterans gathered in May 1919 to put together the organization's preamble.

Memorials to the nation's fallen were dedicated in Spokane, Wash.; Graham County, Kan., and Nashville, Tenn. Sunday's ceremony at Vietnam Veterans Park, which includes a 50-foot wall listing the 1,289 Tennesseeans who were killed or listed as missing in the war, drew more than 1,000 people to the state Capitol grounds.

"Every single American owes a huge debt to every single veteran for fighting and dying and living to give us the greatest and the freest country in the world," Gov. Lamar Alexander said.

In Spokane, the Inland Northwest Vietnam Veterans Memorial — a bronze statue of a seated soldier holding a letter and gazing into the distance — was dedicated at a park along the Spokane River. "No man we are met this day to honor shall ever be lost in memory or myth," said Steve Mason, national poet laureate for the Vietnam Veterans of America. "Theirs will be a place for which tomorrow will make room."

At Fort Collins, Colo., a four-day Vietnam veterans' reunion drew about 1,000 despite icy, snow-swept roadways throughout the region, but the weather forced the cancellation of a Veterans Day parade in Loveland.

"The important thing is to separate the war from the warriors," said Medal of Honor winner Gary Wetzel of St. Francis, Wis., one of those who attended the gathering.

Services for O. D. McGlaun, 87, of 2402 Avenue M, will be at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday at Bell-Cypert-Seale Chapel with the Rev. James Merrill, pastor of Trinity United Methodist Church, officiating. Burial will follow at Snyder Cemetery under direction of Bell-Cypert-Seale.

He died at 1:30 p.m. Sunday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. He was born Dec. 22, 1897 in Roberson County, Tex. He had lived in Snyder since 1908.

He was a Baptist and was married to Effie Riley Oct. 2, 1929 in Snyder. She survives.

He is survived by a daughter, Joy McGlaun of the home; four sons, Donald E. of Wichita Falls, Loyd of Big Spring, Douglas of Ft. Worth and Jack of Snyder; six grandchildren; 10 great-grandchildren.

Rev. H. Williams

Services for the Rev. H. Williams of Snyder will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Lee Chapel of the A.M.E. Church in Brownwood.

He died Saturday. He served as minister of the Allen Chapel of the A.M.E. Church in Snyder for four years.

He is survived by his wife, Leona.

Envoy receives phone call

LONDON (AP) — An aide to the archbishop of Canterbury says an intermediary in Lebanon is trying to set up a meeting between the kidnappers of six Americans and the archbishop's special envoy, a veteran negotiator in hostage situations.

Eve Keatley, spokeswoman for Archbishop Robert Runcie, said Sunday the intermediary telephoned special envoy Terry Waite after a letter from four of the American captives to Runcie was delivered Saturday.

She did not identify the intermediary or reveal the nature of the telephone conversation, but told The Associated Press: "This is quite encouraging."

Runcie, head of the Anglican Church of England, appealed for an urgent meeting between the kidnappers and Waite. Mrs. Keatley said Waite had been in touch with the intermediary regularly during most of the summer, but communications later broke off.

The contents of the hostages' letter to Runcie, which was marked confidential, have not been made public.

The letter and one appealing to President Reagan to negotiate with the kidnappers were among 12 letters and notes from the hostages delivered Friday to The Associated Press bureau in Beirut.

WFAA contract said rejected mediate rate increases were planned. In Big Spring, customers would pay 35 cents a month more for WFAA.

Without acceptance of the new contracts, Friday would be the last day WFAA would be carried on SCAT.

Ten charged with weekend

Police logged 10 misdemeanor arrests over the weekend.

A reported fight at the Pal-O-Mar Motel on the East Highway led to four arrests around 1:30 a.m. Sunday.

Two men were arrested there for disorderly conduct, one for public intoxication and one for possession of marijuana in a quantity less than 2 ounces.

In other action, police arrested three subjects for public intoxication, one for driving while intoxicated and one for having no drivers license or insurance.

The weekend's 10th suspect was arrested on warrants issued for unpaid Department of Public Safety traffic citations.

'Arab flag' will fly

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein told military cadets that the "Arab flag" will soon fly over Jerusalem, and warned of a crackdown against Syrian rebels in an overture to the Arab neighbor that opposes his plan for peace with Israel.

Meanwhile, Palestine Liberation Organization chairman Yasser Arafat, who has joined with Hussein in proposing the plan for peace with the Jewish state, said in an interview broadcast Sunday in Abu Dhabi that the Palestinian people will "never let the gun fall from their hands."

Mild weather keeps gas prices climbing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pleasant autumn weather that sent motorists to the road also forced up gasoline prices, which were rising anyway because of the cost of reducing lead in fuel, oil industry analyst Dan Lundberg says.

Gas prices nationwide jumped an average 0.30 of a cent a gallon for all grades in the two-week period ending Nov. 8, Lundberg said Sunday. He surveys 17,000 gasoline stations in 50 states bi-weekly for his Lundberg Letter.

"The increase reflects a fairly strong Indian summer consumer demand as well as the growing increase in refinery costs in phasing down lead content," Lundberg said.

"Should a cold snap occur, this could turn things around, but so far the pleasant driving weather is maintaining strong consumer demand," he said.

The average price for all grades of gasoline nationwide was $1.207.

At self-service stations, which account for 77 percent of all sales, the average price for leaded regular was $1.085 a gallon. The average price per gallon for unleaded regular was $1.161, and premium unleaded was $1.29.

Saratoga crew hailed as heroes in hijacking

HAIFA, Israel (AP) — Aboard the USS Saratoga, they are already taking orders for T-shirts sporting President Reagan's warning to terrorists: "You can run, but you can't hide."

The 4,700 crewmembers of the "Super Sara," as they fondly call the aircraft carrier, are now heroes to many other Americans for their role in the Oct. 10 interception of an Egyptian plane carrying four Palestinian hijackers of the Achille Lauro cruise ship.

"People pat us on the back when we go in for shore leave. They tell us, 'Thanks for a job well done,'" Lt. C.E. "Skip" Burdon, a ship spokesman, said Sunday in the northern Israeli port of Haifa, where the carrier is currently docked.

Four F-14 fighters from the carrier, supported by eight other Saratoga aircraft, carried out the nighttime interception over the Mediterranean.

Chemical Pump Service serves many oil patch needs

Chemical Pump Service, owned locally by Tom Machen, serves the needs of the oil patch, by carrying a full line of Texsteam Electric Drive Injectors. The 4100 Series Texsteam Injectors are positive displacement, plunger-type pumps which are gear-driven and utilize electric motors, V-belts or other rotating drives as the power source. The unit's gear drive is housed in a precision-bored, heavy cast iron case with anti-friction bearings on the high speed shaft. The output gear, made of high strength alloy iron, is supported in a special bearing arrangement assuring extremely long life with maximum rigidity.

The entire worm-gear drive mechanism runs in a lubricant bath for longer operating life, even under the most adverse operating conditions.

The Texsteam 4100 Series can be used for chemical injection and for handling corrosive fluids.

Because these units can be equipped with from one to eight heads, a wide range of additives may be accurately handled from one installation. This versatile pump has found wide acceptance for use in refineries, LACT units, salt water floods, tank batteries, process plants and in water treatment for boilers.

The Texsteam 4100 Series Injectors are easy to install. No expensive foundation or piping is required. These pumps will give you many years of economical and trouble-free service.

In addition to Texsteam Electric Drive Injectors, they also carry Western, Calgon and Percision Pumps and Bendix, Wico, Fairbanks Morse and American Bosch Magnetos.

Also ask about Magneto sells and repair as well as Poulan and Shindaiwa chain saws and all types of chain saw sharpening. See Tom Machen, 315 East Hwy. Call 573-5219 or 573-6562 for all of your Chemical Pump needs.
