Nixon: Many Responsible

The SDN Column

The senior high school held a "drug awareness" session that lasted all day Wednesday and the two junior high schools held similar events on Thursday.

This is a continuation of the program launched several weeks earlier by local schools to comply with a state law that now requires all public schools to develop a program on drug awareness and crime provention.

The sessions in the schools the past week may lead to another community-wide session. One of these was held a few weeks ago at the Snyder High School Cafeteria. Parents and other interested adults participated, and school officials were surprised over the turnout—something over 700 when they had hoped for 400 at best.

Anyway, there is now plenty of evidence that pupils in the schools believe their parents should become acquainted with the same type of information that the youngsters are getting in these "awareness" sessions. One of the more surprising results of the school sessions came at Travis Junior High. As the day's activity drew to a close, Principal Jack Gorman was presented with a statement signed by 194 of his pupils urging that their parents become involved in the drug education program.

This has been interpreted by school officials, medical doctors and others who participated in the school workshops as a definite indication that many youngsters are anxious to establish improved communication with their parents concerning problems such as the use of drugs.

Some things that are difficult for small-town, non-experts to understand:

How the federal administration can profess so much concern over a 25-cents per barrel increase in the price of crude oil when its own tax reform bill a year ago, plus other factors abetted by the government, increased the actual cost by about 35 cents per barrel.

And why the railroad companies, the unions and federal government did not become more concerned about the railway labor contracts until more than a year after the old contracts expired and even then not until the nation was threatened with a nation-wide strike.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Sunday, Dec. 13, the 347th day of 1970. There are 18 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1577, the English navigator, Sir Francis Drake, began his history-making voyage around the world.

On this date:

In 1781, a day of prayer and thanksgiving was observed in the United States to mark the end of the Revolutionary War.

In 1862, Union troops were defeated by Confederates at the Civil War battle of Marye's Heights, outside Fredericksburg, Va.

In 1916, during World War I, some 9,000 Austro-Hungarian troops were killed by an avalanche in the Alps.

In 1918, also in World War I, troops of the U. S. 3rd Army crossed the Rhine River at Coblenz, Germany.

In 1937, Japanese soldiers captured Nanking, China, and began looting the city.

In 1944, in World War II, a Japanese suicide plane crashed into the U. S. cruiser Nashville, killing 133 crewmen.

Ten years ago - Members of Ethiopia's Imperial Guard tried without success to overthrow Emperor Haile Selassi while he was out of the country on a state visit to Brazil.

Five years ago - The U. S. Supreme Court rejected an appeal to permit voluntary nondenominational prayers in public schools.

One year ago - A military government took over in Dahomey in the West African nation's sixth coup in nine years.

2 Dead In Road Mishap

Two youths from Dallas were killed and another was seriously injured in a one-car crash north of Snyder shortly before noon Saturday. The dead were tentatively identified as James Randall Allen, 18, and Michael Earl Williams, about the same age. Allen was pronounced dead at the scene, and Williams was pronounced dead on arrival at Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Suffering serious injuries in the mishap in which a 1970 Buick cracked up, was Horace Mark Wheeler, about 20, also of Dallas.

Highway patrolmen who investigated, said that the automobile left U. S. Highway 84 about eight miles north of Snyder. It cleared a culvert before crashing. The vehicle was headed north.

Wheeler was transferred from Cogdell Memorial Hospital to Hendrick Memorial Hospital at Abilene early Saturday afternoon. Williams' body was at Bell-Seale Funeral Home here, and Allen's body was at Bolger Funeral Home.

FATAL ROAD CRASH — Two Dallas men were killed and another person was injured when this 1970 Buick crashed shortly before noon Saturday on U. S. 84 about eight miles north of Snyder. Investigating Highway Patrolmen said the vehicle cleared a culvert as it left the road and then crashed beside the highway.

IN POWER-STARVED BRITAIN

Queen Proclaims Emergency State

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II proclaimed a state of emergency tonight giving the Conservative government wide powers to safeguard the "essentials of life" in power-starved Britain.

An announcement said the queen signed the proclamation at 5 p.m.—11 a.m., EST, at a meeting of the Privy Council—her top advisory body—in Buckingham Palace.

The action came on the sixth day of a go-slow by 125,000 workers in the state-run electricity industry, which has plunged huge areas of the country into spasmodic blackouts.

Prime Minister Edward Heath's first move under the royal-given emergency powers was to ban the use of electricity for advertising and display lighting. The order comes into force Monday.

Parliament was expected to receive the measures Monday, with a request to approve them or an initial period of up to 28 days. They could be renewed later.

The last declaration of a state of emergency was on July 16 this year, as a result of a National dock strike.

Christmas lights, store windows, advertising signs, street lighting and power used by nonessential industries could be cut off or rationed so that hospitals, homes and important industries can be served.

Employment Minister Robert Carr met for five hours Friday with representatives of three electrical workers' unions, then said: "I don't think there can be any further progress."

Union leaders called the meeting "a waste of time." Frank Chapple, head of the Electrical and Plumbing Trades union, said: "The differences between us are too great to be bridged."

Labor is seeking at least 25 per cent raises, averaging $13.92 a week more than the current $57.60 average. The government-controlled Electricity Council is offering $4.80 and is willing to go as high as $6.

Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative government says anything more than that would be inflationary.

The unions claim the government is making them scapegoats in the anti-inflation battle. But a nationwide backlash appeared growing against the workers today.

Kenya Launches U. S. Satellite

By C. C. MINICLIER
Associated Press Writer

FORMOSA BAY, Kenya (AP) — The first American satellite ever launched by scientists from another country went into earth orbit today, opening up millions of miles of uncharted space to X-ray research.

A 40,000-pound rocket named Uhuru—"Freedom" in Swahili—was launched by an Italian crew at 5:54 a.m. EDT. Scientists said the Quito, Ecuador tracking station picked it up 66 minutes later, exactly on schedule, indicating the ship was in orbit.

The rocket was named Uhuru because it was launched on the anniversary of Kenya's independence from Britain.

Gray clouds hung over the launch pad, a modified oil rig in the Indian Ocean off Kenya, as engineers from the University of Rome aerospace center checked out the four-stage rocket and eight American engineers checked out the 315-pound spacecraft.

The Italians launched the satellite by remote control from another platform 500 yards away.

Scientists said the spacecraft is expected to collect more data on X-ray sources in space during its first day of operations than has been collected in the eight years since X-ray astronomy began.

American experts helped scientists from the Italian government and the University of Rome assemble the satellite and its 73-foot Scout rocket on ar. Italian-built launch platform in Formosa Bay, 18 miles north of the town of Malindi in Kenya's Coast Province. The job of firing the satellite into orbit was left to the Italians.

The operation is part of the San Marco project, a $17 million Italian program of space exploration. The space capsule, the 42nd in the U.S. Explorer series, is called the Small Astronomy Satellite, of SAS-A, and the National Aeronautics and Space Administrations says it is the first satellite equipped to detect high-energy X-ray sources in space.

The Formosa Bay site was chosen because it is close to the equator; the SAS-A is the first U.S. satellite to be fired into an equatorial orbit. Other launches in the SAS series will follow.

Today's launch coincided with the seventh anniversary of Kenya's independence.

"When correlated with radio and optical astronomy findings," NASA says, the information the satellite gathers "will give astronomers a new dimension for understanding the mysteries of the high-energy phenomena of our galaxy and those which govern the principal physical processes of the universe."

Circling the earth for six months at the height of 348 miles, the SAS-A, or X-ray Explorer, will have a secondary mission of measuring radioactivity in the Van Allen belt—the concentric layers of radiation which extend from about 400 miles to 40,000 miles above the earth and which must be considered in satellite navigation and communications.

Ira Girl Wins VOD Contest

Annette Erwin of Ira High School won the "Voice of Democracy" contest sponsored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars here Friday night.

Placing second was Kathie Martin of Snyder, and placing third was Obie Crawford of Ira.

Miss Erwin will receive a $100 bond from the local VFW post to apply on a college scholarship. Also, she will be entered in the VFW District VOD contest, where over $1,000 in scholarships will be awarded to the winners.

The Voice of Democracy program was taken over from the government by the VFW 24 years ago shortly after World War II.

The program is an effort by the National VFW organization to promote a continuation of the true feeling of Americanism in high school students. Over four million high school students have participated in the program over the past 24 years. The VFW has shown its appreciation by awarding a million dollars in college scholarships and expense-paid trips to the nation's capital to the winners.

The local VFW post will honor the three winners here at an awards dinner at a later date.

Two Bodies Are Found In Rubble

NEW YORK (AP) — Police and firemen searching through the rubble of a Park Row building leveled by a massive explosion and fire Friday discovered two bodies this morning.

One was that of an unidentified man but the second was charred so badly that authorities could not immediately determine the sex.

They continued to search the charred debris of the three-story building opposite City Hall Park for other possible bodies.

Five persons were reported unaccounted for after the blast and blazing inferno Friday afternoon in which more than 60 persons—many of them customers in a ground-floor tavern in the building—were injured, 11 critically.

Police said the missing persons normally worked in the area but it was not known whether they were there at the time of the explosion.

The blast, touched off by a gas leak, occurred at about 2 p.m. Glass, debris and equipment from the bar, including a heavy cigarette machine, were flung across the street.

Mayor John V. Lindsay, who heard a "thunderous uproar" from his City Hall office, went to the scene as did Fire Commissioner Robert O. Lowery and other officials.

They found a crowd gathering as patrons, dazed and bloodied, staggered from the tavern, Ryan's Bar and Grill.

Flames shot 30 feet into the air and rescuers had to grope through the building in search of victims as 200 firemen fought the blaze.

The injured lay groaning on the sidewalk waiting for ambulances. One man told reporters: "I was just sitting there in the bar and all of a sudden there was an explosion and the floor collapsed.

"I grabbed the bar and pulled myself up and kept from falling into the basement."

One man ran from the tavern, his clothes afire. Two policemen beat out the flames with their hands.

Patrons who had been in the bar told of noticing a smell of gas just before the explosion and said the manager and an unidentified employe had gone down to the basement to investigate. The employe was not seen again.

Fire officers said the source of the gas had been found and sealed early in the evening. They did not give details.

Most of the injured suffered burns, bruises, fractures and cuts.

For Moral Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today rejected the conclusion of his Commission on Campus Unrest that he bears the major responsibility for providing the moral leadership to end divisions in American society.

In a letter to William W. Scranton, chairman of the commission, Nixon said moral authority in a nation as great and diverse as the United States resides in many others besides the President.

"There are thousands upon thousands of individuals—clergy, teachers, public officials, scholars, writers—to whom segments of the nation look for moral, intellectual and political leadership," Nixon said.

The President's lengthy letter was his first official comment on the controversial report of the commission which, when issued Sept. 26, was met with immediate criticism from other administration spokesmen.

A principal commission finding that was strongly opposed by many administration supporters was its conclusion that the first step in preventing future campus violence and creating understanding rests squarely with the President.

"Only the President has the platform and prestige to urge all Americans, at once, to step back from the battle lines into which they are forming," the commission report said.

Nixon said over the past decade during which disorders have troubled the nation, many leaders outside the government have condemned violence and disruption as instruments of change in a free society.

"High in that category I would place the Vice President of the United States," he said.

"History will look favorably, I believe, upon these men and women. It may well look severely upon those others—on and off campus—who for whatever reason refused or failed to speak out forthrightly against the inequities visited against the academic community."

Nixon also took exception to the report's analysis of the "youth culture," as consisting of an alienated generation.

"I have seen personally," Nixon said, "thousands, indeed tens of thousands, of young people who do not in the slightest conform to the predominant description of students and young people in this report."

Nixon said the younger generation does contain a "tiny minority of violence prone that you rightly condemn," but it also contains a vast majority who represent the hope of the country."

Nixon agreed with many of the findings of the report and said its recommendations concerning the use of the National Guard to quell campus disorders and its suggestions dealing with law enforcement activities have been turned over to his Cabinet for review.

He reiterated his often-expressed conviction that responsibility for disruption of a university campus rests squarely on the shoulders of the disrupters.

Defining his role as President in relation to the issue of campus disorders, he said it has been one of the issues to which he has directed much attention and concern. The appointment of the Scranton Commission is but one measure of that concern, he said.

Nixon defended his administration's record in dealing with the issues of importance to students that the commission report listed as underlying causes of campus unrest.

He said the administration has tried to end poverty through its national Family Assistance Program, has tried to expand educational opportunity for all young people, to equalize the draft, and to combat discrimination.

"We have reordered the nation's priorities," he said. "We have redirected American foreign policy.

Crash Kills Dr. Moseley

HOUSTON—Dr. James L. Mosley, 28, was killed Friday afternoon in the crash of a two-engined private plane at the Hobby Airport here.

Dr. Moseley was the son of Mrs. Ruby Anderson of Snyder and was a graduate of Snyder High School.

Dr. James T. Doster III, 33, of Columbus, Miss., was taken to a Houston hospital with head and internal injuries.

Witnesses said the plane was taking off and did not seem to be developing enough power to climb. It skimmed the tops of several houses and crashed onto an open field just west of the airport.

Following graduation from Snyder High School, Dr. Moseley attended Texas A&M University where he did his undergraduate work and then received his doctor of veterinary medicine degree.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Anderson, who is a teacher in the Stanfield Elementary School here, and his wife, Mary Ann Moseley. Funeral arrangements were pending Saturday morning.

COMBAT VETERANS — These men were in the thick of the fighting in Italy and Germany during World War II. They were members of the Snyder National Guard unit when it was federalized into the 36th Division. They were present at the Scurry County Library Friday when a book written by the late Maj. Gen. Fred L. Walker, their commander during wartime service, was presented to the library by S-Sgt. Donald Walser of the local National Guard unit on behalf of the general's widow. The men are, from left to right, seated, L. M. Kruse, K. O. Pitner, Don Adams, and Leonard W. Spence; and, standing, W. J. Hudson, Robert L. Swint, R. C. Rainwater, Ches Horsley, J. D. James, J. C. Williamson, H. D. Moreland, C. T. Merritt, John C. Portis and Lester Hanback.

RECEIVES BOOK — S-Sgt. Donald R. Walser, administrative technician, SE, 231st Engineer Company, Snyder National Guard unit, presents a copy of the book, "From Texas to Rome," to assistant librarian Frances Pitner. The book is a gift to the Scurry County library from Mrs. Fred L. Walker, widow of the late Maj. Gen. Fred L. Walker, who commanded the famed 36th Division during World War II. The book tells of the battles and campaigns of the Division during the war.

Oil Industry Plagued With Headaches

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —Many oilmen helped elect President Nixon but his first two years in office have been tough ones for the petroleum industry.

Congress contributed its share of headaches on tax matters and such but the 10-day period ending Dec. 4 was particularly upsetting to oilmen because of a sequence of events originating at the White House level.

Nixon himself started the sequence Nov. 25 by firing Interior Secy. Walter J. Hickel, thus clouding the status of the Alyeska or Trans-Alaska pipeline and the Dec. 15 Western Louisiana offshore lease sale.

Five days later, the president's council of economic advisers issues an "inflation alert" challenging November crude oil and gasoline price hikes and questioning production allowable actions taken by Texas and Louisiana regulatory authorities.

The shocker came Dec. 4 when Nixon, with an objective of rolling back the price hikes, ordered the Interior Department to relieve individual coastal states of the responsibility of regulating production on undisputed federal offshore leases. He also opened the way for overseas import quotas to be used to import more Canadian oil.

Nixon's orders were abrupt and without warning.

Only days earlier, two top industry spokesmen reportedly had conferred with him and departed with confidence they had done a good job in outlining the need for higher prices to offset higher costs and to stimulate explorations for additions to dwindling oil and gas reserves.

There is not too much concern the order will cause a flood of offshore oil in that reserve producing and reserve pipeline capacities are limited. The order was upsetting, however, in that it abruptly terminated years of federal-state cooperation on offshore regulatory matters.

The Western Louisiana sale apparently is to be held on schedule but the status of the $1.3 billion Alyeska project still is very clouded.

After reports it would be cancelled or the 127 tracts involving 600,000 acres would be greatly reduced, the lease sale still is set for Tuesday in New Orleans.

At the time of his firing, Hickel had indicated he was just days away from certifying that the 800-mile pipeline to move oil from the North Slope-Prudhoe Bay area to Alaska's south coast can be built without endangering the environment. He also had indicated construction could start by spring.

The project seems dead now until Hickel's successor, Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, R-Md, takes office. There has been indication a public hearing then will be ordered, thus delaying further the project originally proposed in February 1969.

Stewart L. Udall, Hickel's predecessor under former President Lyndon B. Johnson, threatened in early 1967 to have the Interior Department assume jurisdiction over undisputed offshore areas.

Udall planned for the order to become effectively July 1, 1967, but several matters delayed and eventually sidetracked the plan.

A gasoline price hike shortly after Udall's announcement prompted a showdown between industry executives and Undersecretary Charles F. Luce. Acting on instructions from the President's council of economic advisers, Luce threatened to import military jet fuel and boost offshore production unless there was a price rollback.

The five-day Israeli-Arab War provided further complications, along with a five to seven-cent boost in crude prices.

Udall conferred at length with Texas and Louisiana officials and still had not activated his order by the end of the Johnson administration.

Meanwhile, Sen. Russell Long, D-La., introduced a bill to give adjacent states jurisdiction over Outer Continental Shelf production but it died when the 90th Congress adjourned.

SAYS AMERICAN DOCTOR

POWs Suffer Malnutrition

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The only doctor in the recent U.S. rescue-raid on a war-prisoner camp near Hanoi says the typical American POW has severe malnutrition, shrinking arm and leg muscles, and bruise-prone skin.

Estimates based on information from "various intelligence sources" and World War II Pow-camp experiences, Lt. Col. Joseph R. Cataldo adds, are that 25 of 100 prisoners "might have active tuberculosis, about 50 of that 100 would certainly have intestinal parasites."

"All have lost a tremendous amount of weight, from 20 to 30 per cent of it; some are probably extremely ill and are not getting proper medical care," he told reporters Friday after he briefed the Army surgeon general's staff about medical aspects of last month's operation.

"I think it was a well-planned mission," he said, and, while it failed to find American prisoners, "tactically, it was a success." He recommended more be conducted, and said he was willing to "go tonight on the same mission knowing there would be" greater risk.

He said a typical POW "will be probably somewhat disoriented because some of them have had absolutely no physical contact whatsoever in five years —not even touching another human hand, just sitting around ... in a cell."

Elsewhere Friday there were these developments on the POW matter:

—The State Department said a list of 203 U.S. servicemen missing or being held captive contains "significant and new information." The Hanoi government compiled it at the request of Sweden's Prime Minister Olaf Palme, U.S. officials said they were told by the Swedish government.

American officials handling the prisoner matter said about one-fourth of those on the list were in North Vietnamese prisoner-of-war camps—and families previously received letters from them. Some three-quarters of those listed were described by Hanoi as "never captured," although the U.S. had these men recorded as missing.

—On Capitol Hill, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., clashed over whether the Son Tay raid might have been conducted for reasons other than to free prisoners.

Abundance Problem Preferable

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Nobel Peace Prize laureate Norman Ernest Borlaug says mankind might face a fight against problems of abundance because of the "green revolution" he spawned.

But the American biochemist Friday night told an audience that included King Olav V of Norway that this is preferable to being forced to fight hunger, contrary to the claims of his detractors.

Surveying his work in the traditional Nobel lecture, Borlaug said the achievements of the green revolution are modest since half the people in the world suffer from malnutrition and probably 65 per cent from poor nutrition.

"Our target must be to produce enough food to eliminate all hunger and at the same time to correct faulty diets," he said.

Borlaug said he thinks the green revolution will give humanity "a breather" of about 30 years, "But the problem is not only to increase the production. It is also to distribute the food to the enormous masses of unprivileged with no or little purchasing power."

Unless economists, sociologists and politicians solve the problems on a large scale, Borlaug said, the human race will die like the dinosaurs.

"The green revolution is a change in the right direction," he said. "It has not changed the world into a utopia, but it has created a solid basis."

The Peace Prize winner said life requires in addition to sufficient food supplies opportunities for education and work, homes, clothes and medical services.

"If we can't cope with this, man will degenerate sooner of environment sicknesses than of hunger," he said. But "because man is a rational being, I have confidence that during the next 20 years humanity will understand that it is on a self-destroying course, and that man will adjust the population growth to a level which gives a proper standard of living for all peoples."

Borlaug, 56, accepted the Peace Prize of $80,000 and a gold medal at the Nobel Institute in Oslo last Thursday.

Two Mishaps Logged Here

City Police investigated two motor vehicle mishaps Friday.

The first one occurred at 3:53 p.m. on Avenue S at Eleventh Street. Damage to the 1963 Model Ford of Concha Rivera Valanos, 2900 Avenue G, was set at $5. Damage to the 1970 Model Ford truck of David Terry Sands, Box 1297, was negligible.

The other collision occurred in 2800 block of Thirty-eighth Street at 7:55 p.m.

Involved were the parked 1969 Model Osdsmobile of Jack Kerbow, Sonora, and the 1960 Model Chevrolet of Sheryl Ann Cargile, 505 Thirty-third Street. Damage to the parked car was placed at $150, and damage to the other one was estimated at $350.

New Anesthesia Method Aids Pets

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — An Ohio veterinarian says older dogs have a 50 per cent better chance to survive surgery than was possible 10 years ago.

Dr. W. H. Crago, of Youngstown, spoke to members of the Mississippi Valley Veterinary Medical Association during a convention.

He said new developments in inhalation anesthesia are encouraging veterinarians to attempt operations on older pets which would have been unthinkable previously. The new anesthesia methods replace the older and very dangerous practices which depended on ether.

Crago estimates he treats about 6,000 dogs a year. He said the major problems today are congenital because more purebred dogs are being born.

Copy Of General's Book Is Presented

A copy of the non-fiction book, "From Texas to Rome", written by the late Maj. General Fred L. Walker, was presented to the Scurry County library by SSgt. Donald R. Walser, Administrative supply technician SE, 231st ENGR CO, Snyder, National Guard Unit, Texas Army National Guard, in behalf of the general's widow.

Mrs. Walker, who now resides in Alexandria, Va. donated sufficient copies of the general's autobiographical book so each of the 55 Texas cities which furnished a unit of the famed Texas 36th Infantry Division for service during World War Two would have a library copy.

The books are being presented to the libraries in memory of 36th Division units and personnel who entered service at the time of the division's mobilization in 1940.

"From Texas to Rome" is the account of the intensive fighting encountered by the T-Patch Division as the United States struck the underbelly of Europe to start the fighting on the continent which eventually led to the collapse of Hilter's armies. It is the story of the Texas division during the rugged and costly fighting in Italy during which time General Walker was the division commander.

General Walker took command of the 36th for World War Two, in Louisiana during 1941 and held the reins through intensive fighting at the Rapido River through the prolonged drive which moved the Texans north of Rome. He left the division to become commandant of The Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga. in July, 1944.

After retirement from the Army, the veteran officer served for more than a year as commander of the Texas Military Forces under Governor Beauford Jester from 1946 to 1947 and was instrumental in the post-war reorganization of the Texas National Guard. He was appointed a lieutenant general by the late Governor Jester.

General Walker was a native of Ohio and a career Army officer who saw service in two wars.

He died last October in Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C.

Heavy Attacks Beat Off

By JOHN T. WHEELER
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Cambodian forces beat off heavy enemy assaults today in hand-to-hand combat 38 miles northeast of Phnom Penh. But field reports said a large number of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops remained in the area.

A high command spokesnan in Phnom Penh said four Cambodians were killed and 50 wounded in the nine-hour fight. Ten enemy troops were left dead on the battlefield at Prey Totung, he added.

Prey Totung is the last major stronghold on the Cambodian northern front where 1,000 Cambodian soldiers have been reported killed or wounded during the Communist command's current five-week-old offensive.

In an action 25 miles northeast of Phnom Penh enemy rocket fire sank four government vessels on the Mekong River, killing 11 Cambodians and wounding another 76, according to an informant in close contact with Premier Lon Nol. The nine-vessel convoy was attempting to bring supplies and reinforcements to Kompong Cham.

'Homecoming' Set For Yarborough

There will be a Homecoming Appreciation dinner for Sen. Ralph Yarborough at 7 p.m. Tuesday in the Austin Municipal Auditorium, according to information received here. Tickets to the event will cost $5 each.

The program will be held in both Spanish and English.

Former vice president Hubert Humphrey and his wife will be present along with Sen. Harold Hughes of Iowa and Sen. George McGovern of South Dakata.

Gov. Preston Smith is honorary chairman of the sponsoring committee.

Boy Is Held In Stabbing

HOUSTON (AP)—Police held a 15-year-old boy after the fatal stabbing of Nancy Ogg, 12, Friday afternoon.

Officers said the girl was slain in her home. They said the boy would be turned over to juvenile authorities.

The girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Ogg, was stabbed in the upper chest and back, officers said.

Ferry Cargo Permit Granted

AUSTIN (AP)—Mac Helicopters, Inc., received a Texas Aeronautics Commission permit Friday to ferry cargo and passengers between Houston Intercontinental Airport and seven points in Southwest Houston.

Aztec Airways won approval of plans to drop Stephenville from its list of cargo flights but continue service to Fort Worth, Mineral Wells, Abilene and San Angelo.

This is a scene in one of the classes which have been moved from the main building to the new structure. "Open House" will be observed at the new building from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday.

Professors Seek Ways To Tame Tornadoes

LUBBOCK (AP) — Two professors at Texas Tech, who believe tornadoes are electrically driven, are seeking ways of making them harmless.

Dr. Marion Hagler, assistant professor of electrical engineering, and Dr. Magne Kristiansen, an associate professor in the same department, conducted experiments last twister season to test their theory.

The hope their methods may be useful one day in tracking the paths of such storms and providing a warning system for those in danger.

Hagler and Kristiansen had a former Tech engineering student, Lary Hanes, design an instrument package for a recording magnetometer to record the magnetic field generated by a tornado. The result, Hager said, was a black box which it was hoped could detect a twister within a few miles.

They gave it its first test April 17 when a flock of twisters attacked the Lubbock area. Hagler says that the storm that then roughed up Hale County was more intense than the tornado which struck Lubbock iteslf May 17, killing 26 persons and causing perhaps $200 million in damages.

The detector recorded on tape that ripped through Hale County.

Hagler said it was "an extremely strong tornado, more brutish than the one that hit Lubbock." But it spent itself through lightly populated areas.

"The storm was unusual in that it stayed on the ground for a very long time and travelled mostly in a straight line," Hager said "Most tornadoes don't travel in a straight line, but this one did for miles.

"It came within three miles of our detector and we hoped to be able to see how the magnetic field's strength fell off as the distance of the tornado varied."

But Hager never got to study the data that time. Haden Moore, a Hale Center High School science teacher, left the tape on his desk one day and it fell to the floor. It was swept up and burned with other refuse.

Hager is now waiting for another storm to come along, so he can measure its electrical field. His plan is to place five or more detectors in strategic locations about Hale County in the hope of getting more data next year.

His main problem is that you can't just go out and measure a tornado, because you never know when and where one will strike.

Hager's theory is that if a storm is really "plugged in" electrically—and he is convinced tornadoes are—then gases could be shot into it to soak up its energy.

"But we can't speculate on that until we are sure it would work," he said.

Meanwhile he's on the lookout for a tornado.

Movie Blood Is Stainless

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Ever onward and upward—techpologically, if not always financially and artistically—the movies have a new fake blood.

Its virtue: It doesn't stain costumes.

"In black-and-white pictures they used chocolate syrup, which photographed beautifully and washed out easily," says veteran makeup man William Tuttle, tracing the history of film gore.

"When color movies came in, we'd go to a soda fountain and get some cherry syrup, which we'd thicken with a little cornstarch," Tuttle said.

"In 'Mutiny on the Bounty' we tried a red toothpaste made in England. The trouble with all of these, and other concoctions by makeup people, was that they stained the wardrobe. Most red pigments have a staining quality like dye."

Makeup men finally consulted the Motion Picture Research Center, an organization subsidized by major studios and in touch with chemical manufacturers. Ninnesota Mining & Manufacturing Co. devised the new blood specifically for movies.

"Almost microscopic red spheres of red plastic are suspended in a liquid, probably glycerine," Tuttle explained. "Spill some on a white shirt and it rinses right out under cold water, without any soap."

Tuttle, for 21 years MGM makeup chief, expects the substance to save studios thousands of dollars by preventing ruin to costly costumes.

'Kickback' Charged

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Witnesses before a Texas House committee charged Friday that unethical bail bondsmen here often pay a "kickback" to jailers for helping them get business from prisoners.

Some charged that some lawyers here—professionally barred from soliciting business—are practicing bondsmanship more than they are practicing law.

Eighteen witnesses appeared before the House Interim Committee on Bail Bond problems. They urged passage of strict regulations for licensing and covering bondsmen's activities.

Several said bonds are being set "extraordinarily high" in many cases here in Bexar County.

State Rep. David Evans, committee chairman, asserted during the four-hour session, "Bexar County is unique—bail bondsmen are not only hustling business at the jail, but they represent their clients in court, even pleading them guilty."

The two other committee members—Reps. Paul Moreno and Tati Santiesteban, both of El Paso — expressed surprise that a 24-hour magistrate system is not in effect here.

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A state education official says only one of the state's 120 county school systems has enough school buses to seat all pupils.

Trees Going To POWs

PLACERVILLE, Calif. (AP) — Fifty Christmas trees hopefully are on their way to Hanoi for American prisoners of war in North Vietnam.

Carl Borelli, a restaurant operator rebuffed last year in his efforts to send Christmas trees to the prisoners, mailed the trees Friday after receiving a telegram from Hanoi which he interprets as saying the trees will be delivered.

The telegram, in stilted English, details arrangements Hanoi announced earlier this fall for families to send parcels to prisoners and said the parcels would be delivered as part of Hanoi's "humanitarian policy" concerning American prisoners of war.

Two Districts Report Discoveries

AUSTIN (AP) — Exploration successes were concentrated in only two districts the past week, the Texas Railroad Commission reported Saturday.

All six gas discoveries were in the Corpus Christi District, and the three wildcat oil wells were in the Midland District.

The commission said 93 oil and 30 gas wells were completed during the week, bringing the year's totals to 4,733 oil and 1,733 gas wells. Comparable figures a year ago were 4,826 oil and 2,293 gas wells.

A total of 161 wells were plugged, including 51 dry holes.

Tigers Nip Hereford 54-50 In First Round

There were some real "barn-burners" in the opening round of the 16th Annual Canyon Reef Basketball Tournament, and the host Snyder Tigers found themselves right in the middle of one of the close battles of the evening.

The Tigers put on a tremendous third-quarter surge to overtake the Hereford Whitefaces and then managed to hold on for a 54-50 victory.

This took place after Phillips had decisioned Brownfield, 59-45; Lubbock Dunbar had been forced into overtime before edging Seminole 60-59, and Lubbock Estacado barely nudged Big Spring, 93-91, in what veteran observers declared were some of the best matches in the history of the local Tournament.

Snyder was down, 6-15 at the end of the first period, as Hereford's stubborn defense played havoc with the Bengals' offensive game. The Whitefaces led by 29-21 at half-time and then in the third period the Tigers put on a 20-point spurt to take the lead. The hosts actually got an 8-point advantage with 1:27 left in the third, but Hereford reacted vigorously to a brief stalling effort and rapidly cut the gap to two points, 41-39 before the quarter ended.

Tommy Washington paced the Tigers with 18 points, while Dubby Preston had 12 and David Thompson 10. Hereford also had three men in double figures, with Keith Kitchens leading with 14. John Sparks had 13 and John McNey 12.

Donnie Harris pumped in 34 points to pace Estacado by Big Spring in a free-wheeling encounter. Mike Randle roped 23 for the Steers.

Seminole scored 23 points in the fourth period to pull up even with Dunbar at 56-56 in regulation play. The Panthers from Lubbock finally won it in overtime, 60-59. Jerry Williams had 20 points for Dunbar, but the top scorer of the game was Seminole's Donald Roberts who canned 34 points.

Phillips and Brownfield opened the tournament with the Blackhawks from the Panhandle leaping out to a 14-5 lead in the first period. They were never headed, although Brownfield made a battle of it in the third period. Randy Jarnigan, Phillips' 6-8 senior, scored 31 points, while Jones had 19 for Brownfield.

Second round play was under way Saturday morning, with the finals set for Saturday evening in the Scurry County Coliseum.

Barry, Jones Star In ABA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rick Barry's back from a broken foot and Steve Jones played with an injured eye.

But they were just a couple of pain-in-the-necks for the opposition in the American Basketball Association Friday night.

Barry, who sat out most of the early season with a broken foot, continued the show the way in his fourth straight game with 27 points in a 128-99 victory over Kentucky.

Jones, who sat out most of the first half after hurting his eye, scored 19 points in the third quarter and 29 overall to lead Memphis to a 102-100 victory over Denver.

Indiana beat Carolina 155-143 in double overtime; Virginia turned back Texas 146-136 and Utah slugged Pittsburgh 129-100 in the night's other games.

In the NBA, Detroit beat Boston 121-118; Chicago tripped Atlanta 87-86; San Francisco stopped Philadelphia 102-101; Milwaukee drubbed Cleveland 134-92; Portland defeated Buffalo 129-105, Los Angeles tripped Seattle 126-118 and San Diego downed Phoenix 110-104.

Barry, playing in his fourth game in four nights, hit a jumper with 4:36 gone in the game and gave the Nets a 14-13 lead they never relinquished. Bill Melchionni added 20 for the Nets. Dan Issel led Kentucky with 27.

Jones' last field goal, a 16-footer at the final buzzer, was the winning margin for Memphis. Larry Cannon had hit a three-pointer for Denver to tie the game for Denver, but then Jones hit the winning shot. Denver's Byron Beck led all scorers with 32 points.

Charlie Scott shrugged off a slow start and gave Virginia a needed late lift with a 38-point performance. Ron Boone led Texas with 27 points.

Bob Netolicky scored 30 points and Freddie Lewis, 27 to lead the Indiana scoring. The clubs wound up the regulation game tied at 127 and in the second overtime, the Pacers scored 11 of their 17 points from the foul line. Joe Caldwell paced Carolina with 40 points.

Utah took advantage of Pittsburgh's cold 33 per cent field shooting. Zelmo Beaty led the winners with 23 rebounds and 18 rebounds. John Brisker scored 20 points for Pittsburgh.

NEW YORK (AP) — A compendium of current information on boat and yacht design and construction in the marine aluminum alloys field has been presented to the Westlawn School of Yacht Design by the recreational and marine committee of the Aluminum Association.

The work was authored by John G. Kingdon, Rumson, N.J., naval architect. It will become an integral part of the Westlawn correspondence course in naval architecture.

The book is titled "Marine Aluminum Design and Construction."

CHERRY HILL, N.U. (AP) — John Dale reports the sale of the last mare and the complete dissolution of the Regal Farm. The owners—Sidney Davis of Fort Lee, N.J., Seymour Weinberg of New York City and Albert Castelli of Pittsburgh, Pa. —will race as individual owners.

Regal Farm was unique in that it was formed through an ad placed by Dale in the Wall Street Journal. The eventual partners answered the ad and a total of $150,000 was invested to form the stable.

Dale was a jockey agent in the 40's, handling such riders as Bobby Permane, Arnold Kirkland, Job Dean Jessop and Joe Regalbuto. At present he acts as agent for Herb Hinojosa.

Adm. Tom Hamilton, Pacific 8 commissioner, was regarded as one of the nation's best triple threat backs in 1926 when he played for Navy. He kicked, passed and ran with skill. That was the last time the Middies were unbeaten in football.

LA Dodgers Acquire Sims

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The anjo-hitting Los Angeles Dodgers have added new muscle to their attack for their 1971 run at the National League pennant.

Duke Sims, a 29-year-old catcher-first baseman-outfielder, was acquired Friday from the Cleveland Indians in a trade for Dodger Pitchers Alan Foster and Ray Lamb.

Sims, a left-handed hitter, slugged 23 home runs for Cleveland last season while disenchanted with the Indians' management. He also hit .264 his major league high over seven years.

Houston Oilers In Spoiler Role?

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —The crippled Houston Oilers hope for the spoiler's role Sunday when they meet the surprising Cincinnati Bengals in the Astrodome.

A Houston victory could knock the Bengals out of at least a share of the American Football Conference Central Division lead.

Houston suffered two crushing blows last week. Cleveland defeated the Oilers Monday 21-10, to eliminate them from the Central Division title race.

Two days later, the Oilers disclosed that starting quarterback Charley Johnson would undergo knee surgery.

Jerry Rhome, the former Tulsa passer, will quarterback the Oilers as they try to gain their second victory of the season over the upstart Bengals. Houston won at Cincinnati, 20-13.

The Oilers (3-8-1) need a victory in one of their last two games to assure finishing ahead of their worst season in history, 3-11 in 1966.

Cincinnati, generally picked to finish last in the division, has a 6-6 mark.

The Bengals are propelled by veteran quarterback Virgil Carter, the running of Paul Robinson and Jess Phillips and the receiving of Eric Crabtree, Speedy Thomas and Bob Trumpy.

Rhome will be throwing to Jerry Levias, Mac Haik, Charlie Joiner, Jim Beirne and Alvin Reed. Reed is the top Oiler receiver with 44 catches for 568 yards.

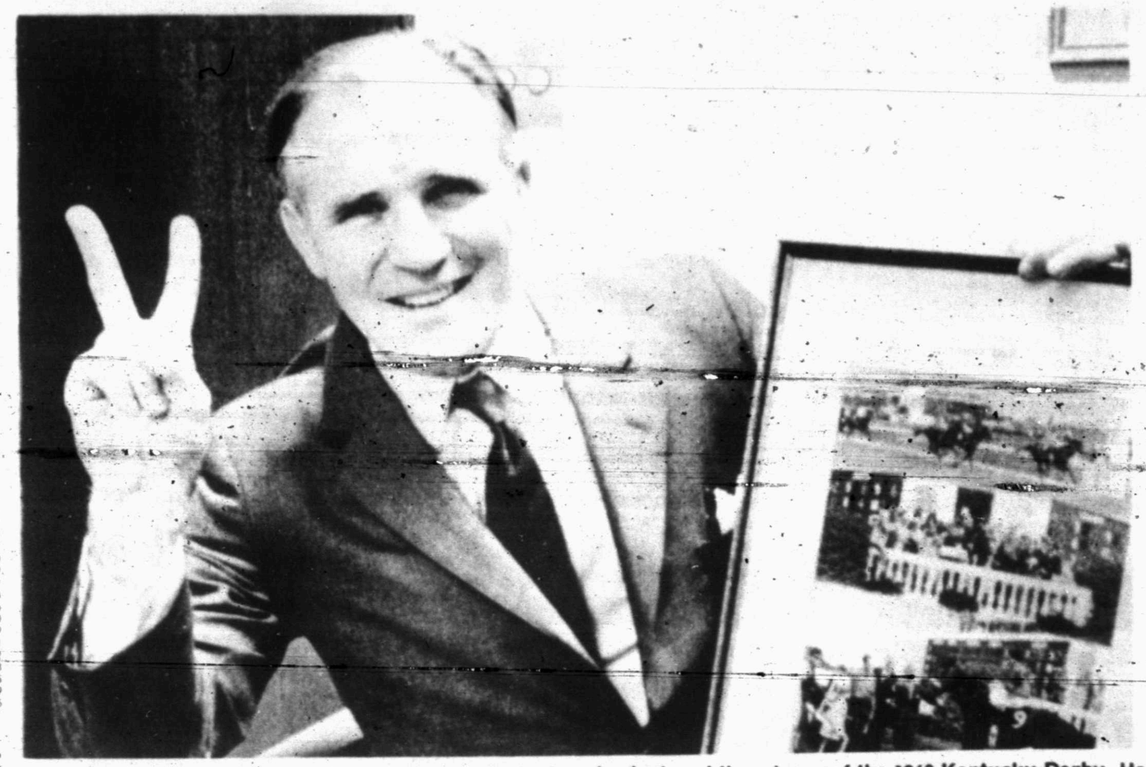

Mike Richardson, Joe Dawkins and Roy Hopkins head the Oiler running attack. Dawkins is the leading rusher with 358 yards on 100 carries.

The Oilers hold a 2-0-1 series edge over Cincinnati with the Bengals' best showing being a 31-31 tie in 1969.

A crowd of about 35,000 is expected for the 1 p.m. (CST) kickoff.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank Howard was in a slump but hitting .292 during the waning weeks of the American League season, Elio Rodriguez was batting .257 and second baseman Dave Nelson was hitting .191 when Manager Ted Williams of the Washington Senators said:

"Howard, Rodriguez and Nelson are fellows no other team can have."

DERBY WINNER AT LAST — Boston auto dealer Peter Fuller, owner of Dancer's Image, flashes a victory sign in his office Friday after hearing the Kentucky's Circuit judge's decision that his colt should be declared the winner of the 1968 Kentucky Derby. He is holding a winner's circle photo taken after the colt won the Derby. (AP Wirephoto).

Dancer's Image Wins 1968 Kentucky Derby

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — In 1968, Peter Fuller's Dancer's Image sped to an apparent 1½-length victory in the Kentucky Derby.

But Fuller, a Boston businessman, had to wait more than two years before his horse, which was disqualified because of the presence of an illegal medication in his urinalysis, was awarded first-place money.

Dancer's Image was awarded the prize Friday in a ruling here by Franklin Circuit Court Judge Henry Meigs, who held there was insufficient evidence to deny Fuller's colt the winner's purse.

"I'm awfully pleased," said Fuller. "As a matter of fact, I'm thrilled. It means the full recovery of the purse and interest. It means the Kentucky Derby Cup, and it means that my horse is the undisputed winner of the Derby and shares the glory with nobody but himself."

However, Meigs' ruling may be the first step in what could be a long progression of court decisions.

The Kentucky Racing Commission, which upheld Churchill Downs stewards and decreed Jan. 6, 1969 that the urinalysis showed the presence of phenylbutazone, will meet Wednesday afternoon at its offices in Lexington, Ky., to determine whether to appeal the Franklin Circuit Court ruling.

Meigs ruled that tests on which the commission chemist, Kenneth Smith, based his finding were "inadequate and contradictory."

The judge said the purse, which now amounts to $133,273 because of interest, should be distributed to the original order of finish — Dancer's Image, Mrs. Gene Markey's Forward Pass, Francie's Hat and T.V. Commercial.

Meirs also stated Fuller should recover the costs incurred in his effort to receive the winner's purse—which Fuller says amounts to $155,000.

"We'll get a little money back," said Fuller, "but it ain't the money—it's the principle.

Mrs. Markey, owner of Calumet Farm at Lexington, was unavailable for comment. The commission had awarded the first-place purse of $122,600 to Forward Pass after Dancer's Image was disqualified.

Jockey Bobby Ussery, who rode Dancer's Image in the 94th Run for the Roses, said from Tropical Park in Florida that he wasn't surprised with the ruling.

"Naturally, I'm glad," he said. "My guess is that I'll be getting it (his money) any day now."

Both Ussery and trainer Lou Cavalaris Jr. would get 10 per cent of the purse.

To Sail Again

BUCKLERS HARD, England (AP) — Sir Francis Chichester, who won a British knighthood for his solo voyage around the world in 1967, has set out on another sailing feat.

Chichester, 69, will attempt to sail between Bissau, Portuguese Guinea, and San Juan del Norte, Nicaragua, in 20 days—4,000 miles at 200 miles a day.

Chichester, with his son, Giles, and a crew of friends, started his Gypsy Moth V Friday down the Beaulieu River toward Plymouth, the English port from which he'll sail for Portuguese Guinea.

Piston Rally Snaps Boston Streak At 10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The mer of the second—that was Bob ier and Chet Walker in the National Basketball Associatic .

There were 11 seconds left in the game and Detroit was trailing the Boston Celtics 106-102 Friday night. Lanier then scored and nine seconds later fed Terry Driscoll for a layup that sent the game into overtime where th Pistons came out on top 121-118, snapping Bostons winning streak at 10 games.

With 37 seconds remaining Walker hit a 35-foot shot to break an 84-84 tie and then with 15 seconds to go added a free throw to give the Chicago Bulls an 87-86 victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

Joe Ellis and Jeff Mullins waited a little longer to pull out a victory for the San Francisco Warriors. There were 96 seconds left when Ellis and Mullins went to work, hitting field goals for a 102-01 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers.

In other NBA action, Milwaukee smashed Cleveland 134-92, Portland topped Buffalo 120-105, Los Angeles tripped Seattle 126-118 and San Diego beat Phoenix 110-104.

In the American Basketball Association, the New York Nets took Kentucky 128-99, Virginia outlasted Texas 146-136, Indiana edged Carolina 155-148 in two overtimes, Memphis nipped Denver 102-100 and Utah mauled Pittsburgh 129-100.

Lanier, who opened the overtime period with two quick goals, finished with 26 points, 14 in the fourth quarter and six in the extra period. His teammate, Dave Bing scored 33. John Havlicek scored 32 for Boston.

Walker's winning three points gave him a total of 27. Atlanta was led by Pete Maravich with 17.

Mullins ended with 25 points, one less than Ron Williams, for the Warriors. Archie Clark and Billy Cunningham each had 18 for Philadelphia which lost its ninth game in the last 12.

Cleveland simply was no match for Milwaukee which was led by Lew AlCindor's 34 points. Walt Wesley topped the losers with 18.

Rick Adelman scored 12 points in the second quarter to spark Portland to its victory over Buffalo. Geoff Petrie led Portland scoring with 25. Bob Kauffman paced Buffalo with 23.

Four starters poured in more than 20 points in Los Angeles' victory led by Jerry West's 37. Gail Goodrich had 25, Happy Hairston 24 and Wilt Chamberlain 22. Don Kojis led Seattle with 24.

Elvin Hayes hit a 10-foot jumper with 4:50 left, breaking open the game and sending San Diego to its triumph. The Rockets went on to score 11 of the next 15 points. hayes finished with 33 points. Connie Hawkins had 26 for Phoenix.

Chi Cheng Takes It Easy

BANGKOK (AP) — Sprint queen Chi Cheng of Nationalist China, taking it easy because of pulled muscles in both legs, finished second Saturday in a preliminary heat of the women's 400-meter run at the Asian Games but easily qualified for the finals.

Miss Chi spent seven hours under treatment before racing away with a gold medal in the 100-meter dash Friday.

After the 400 meter heat, she went back to the doctor. She was to run in the 200-meter semifinals Saturday afternoon.

Avlin Balass of Israel took an early lead and won the first 400-meter heat in 57.1 seconds. Miss Chi, staying behind the other three runners until the halfway point, suddenly turned on a burst of speed and finished second in 57.5. The Asian Games record is 56.3, set by M. Rajamani of Malaysia in 1966, and Miss Chi's best is 52.6.

The 26-year-old Chinese girl, holder of four world sprint records, again ran with bandages around both legs.

Bruin Coach Is Hard To Please

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

The UCLA Bruins, the country's top-ranked college basketball team, may be getting overconfident from their success.

Johnny Wooden, coach of the national collegiate champs who have compiled an amazing 123-4 won-lost record in their last 127 games, thought his players were "too lax" in whipping U. of Pacific 100-88 Friday night.

"There was too much one on one stuff," commented the Wizard of Westwood after the Bruins had upped their current winning streak to eight, including 3-0 this season.

"The defense was effective in spots, but over-all they were too lax," Wooden said.

Dick Edwards, the UOP coach, saw the game at UCLA's Pauley Pavilion in a different light.

"What can I say but that UCLA is a marvelous team," Edwards said. "I thougfit we played very well. We made some mistakes and we paid the price."

Pacific led 20-19 early in the game, but with Curtis Rowe leading a balancd attack, the Uclans were ahead 57-42 at the half. Rowe finished with 28 points. John Gianelli led UOP with 22.

Southern California and Villanova, No. 9 and No. 10, respectively, in this week's Associated Press poll, also won. So did No. 18, Oregon. Army, No. 14, was the only team in the AP Top Twenty, to lose.

Led by Paul Westphal's 32 points, Southern Cal crushed Brigham Young 101-65. Villanova routed Murray State 97-63 behind Tom Ingelsby's 24 points.

Stan Love, 6-foot-9 star of the Ducks, scored 24 points and led Oregon over Texas A&M 94-71 in a first round game of the Bluebonnet Bowl. Houston beat Tulane 91-60 and will meet the Ducks in the final tonight.

Army went down before West Virginia 74-71 in the first round of the Mountaineer Classic. Sam Oglesby's 23 points paced the Mountaineers while Doug Clevenger got 26 for the Cadets. Virginia whipped Boston College 79-69 and will play West Virginia in the final tonight.

In other games Wichita State took Kansas State 64-51, Arkansas State overcame Oklahoma 88-73, Nebraska outlasted Texas Christian 69-64, Baylor tripped Arizona 101-91, Dayton drubbed Miami of Florida 91-77 and Long Beach State won the final of the International Classic by beating Los Angeles State 81-73.

In the first round of the Cable Car Classic Weber State defeated San Francisco 79-65 and California humbled Santa Clara 77-63.

In other games, Oregon ripped Texas A&M 94-70 in the Houston Classic and Nebraska outlasted Texas Christian 69-64 at Fort Worth.

SWC Wins One Of 3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Southwest Conference went one for three in non-conference basketball battles Friday night with Baylor's 101-91 victory over Arizona the only scalp collected.

Junior college transfer Bobby Thompson made four buckets in the last four minutes as Baylor broke away from an 81-81 deadlock with the Wildcats.

William Chatmon was the big gun for the Bruins, hauling down 22 rebounds and scoring 27 points. He hit 11 of 22 from the floor. Thompson finished with 22 points and guard Tom Stanton got 16.

Baylor is now 3-2 for the year.

Nebraska made 19 of 23 free throws in the second half to hold back hard-charging Texas Christian.

The undefeated Cornhuskers, who have won all four of their games this season, were paced by 6-foot-10 center Chuck Jura, who made 22 points.

TCU, now 1-3 for the season, was paced by Simpson DeGrate with 16 points and Eugene Kennedy with 15.

Broncos Smash Buffs 49-8 In Class A Tilt

Petersburg isn't undefeated anymore. In fact, they absorbed a sound country whipping administered by Sonora, 49-8, in Tiger Stadium Friday night. And the Broncos rule as Class A semifinals champions. They meet Pflugerville for the state championship this week with a 12-1-1 record. The Buffaloes exited from the playoffs with a 13-1 record.

Sonora scored by land and air; and, one presumes, that if there had been any water around, they would have scored that way too. Sonora racked up 10 penetrations, compared with only one for Petersburg.

The Broncos aren't a one-man team, either. Before the game was over, they divided the rushing chores among 10 different backs.

On its first possession, Sonora went 69 yards in three plays. The payoff was a 52 yard pass and run play, quarterback Eddie Sutton to lanky left end Mike Taylor. Operating at midfield, Sutton hit Taylor one step behind the safetyman at the 20 and Taylor loafed it on across the goal. Taylor also kicked the extra point with 9:42 remaining on the clock.

With 1:43 remaining in the first stanza, halfback Arnold Samaniego took an inside pitch and romped 54 yards to pay dirt. He cut right, then to the left into the clear and breezed down the west sidelines. Taylor's kick was wide.

Sonora drove 53 yards in 11 plays late in the first period and early in the second one for its third touchdown. Fullback Milton Noel crashed over right guard from the one for the six points, then he swept right end for two bonus points as the count soared to 21-0.

With 2:52 remaining in the half, halfback Scott Jacoby burst over guard and went 15 yards to the goal. The touchdown capped a two-play 23-yard drive set up when Ben Snodgrass made an interception. Taylor's kick was accurate as the halftime score went to 28-0. Petersburg crossed midfield only once, going from the 30 to the 43, in the first half.

Sonora halfback Sammy Perez fielded a punt at his own 40 early in the third quarter and retreated to the 20. He was hit about four times but managed to keep his footing and break into the clear along the west sidelines. He had clear sailing the remaining 80 yards to the goal, and Taylor's kick made it 35-0 with 8:31 remaining.

On their next possession, the Broncos went 61 yards in seven plays. The payoff was a 47 yard pass and run play, Eddie Sutton to Mike Taylor. Henry Mata kicked extra point as the score went to 42-0 with 4:17 remaining.

A brief time later, the Broncos recovered a fumble at the Petersburg 37 and drove the remaining distance in four plays. Three of them were passes with substitute quarterback Eddie Cade hitting James Noel and Bruce Kerbow with passes for 22, 14 and 9 yards. The last one was for a touchdown as Kerbow leaped high into the end zone to spear the pass. Mata's kick was accurate again, and Sonora had a 49-0 lead with 1:43 remaining in the third stanza.

Petersburg spanned 52 yards in four plays early in the last quarter for its only touchdown. Big plays in the march were a 36 yard pass, Mike Perry to Joe Robertson, and an 11-yard gallop by Larry Martin. Jay Thompson crashed over left guard from the one for the touchdown, and Martin added two extra points with 11:16 left on the clock.

At this point, the Broncos began substituting second and third stringers. They almost scored again, but substitute back Tyron Fields was stopped at the one on a fourth down play. Mercifully, it was over.

Sonora may have a championship team. They have a hard-hitting line, slashing runners, an accurate passer and a glue-fingered end.

Limey Ready To Mine Gold On U. S. Tracks

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Victor Henry Elford, a salty Britisher who has spent 10 hard years knocking down fences in Europe, is ready to mine gold full time on American race tracks.

"I think the future of racing is in the United States, at least from the standpoint of financial security," the sports car veteran, from Heston, Middlesex, England, said on a recent visit here.

"Denis Hulme is a good example of what a chap can do in American racing, with the right equipment. Denny won a world Grand Prix championship, has driven just about every type racing car, and he is very good at it.

"But Denny has made more money on one single circuit in North America than probably all his other racing combined. Prize money, you see, doesn't compare anywhere else in the world with equal effort in the United States.

"American exposure makes your services more valuable—in Europe or anywhere else. Make a name for yourself here, in any kind of racing, and you can name your ticket overseas. And particularly if you happen to be a European."

Hulme, at 34 a year younger than Elford, won the 1970 Canadian-American Challenge Cup series of road races for the second time in three years. The New Zealander who now lives near London collected $161,098 from the 1970 Can-Am and is near the $400,000 mark in four years of the series.

Elford, whose string of triumphs since 1957 includes such big events as the 1,000 kilometers of Nuerburgring twice, the Daytona 24-Hours and the gruelling Targa Florio in Sicily, drove much of the year for the Porsche works team in endurance racing.

But he also got his hand into the Can-Am near the end of the season, driving Jim Hall's controversial "vacuum sweeper" ground effects car. He finished 15th in the final point standings, worth $12,700.

The 6-foot-2, 175-pounder also got some action on the Trans-American circuit for small sports sedans. Driving a Camaro for Hall, he showed his versatility by winning one of the 11 races and finishing high enough in three others to pocket about $10,000.

But Elford says he wants a steady job, not only in the Can-Am and Trans-Am but also in the United States Auto Club championship series. That circuit includes three 500-milers in 1971, worth a minimum of $2 million.

That's the mine Elford would like to work regularly. For one thing, the compact 12-race series would give him time to drive in other machinery, including most of the 1971 endurance races. U.S. star Mario Andretti will divide his time this way in the new season.

Having driven some in Grand Prix and Formula 2 cars— machinery similar to Indianapolis types—the Britisher feels he could make the transition from one open cockpit car to another easily enough.

He also feels he has enough engineering ability to be valuable to American builders-owners. Few drivers have his technical background.

Elford, ruggedly handsome with a shock of black hair, is a close friend of Britain's Graham Hill and raced often against the late Jimmy Clark, both of whom won Indianapolis. But he has never had an Indianapolis ride.

"I'm open for assignments," he said. "I'd like to race somewhere every week. Even in stock cars, if I could get a good one. But in America, if possible."

Pflugerville 'Steals' Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It will be Sonora versus Pflugerville and Iowa Park against Refugio respectively in the Class A and Class AA state high school football finals next week.

Sonora romped into the finals Friday night with a 49-8 rout of Petersburg while Pflugerville "stole" a 7-6 victory from White Oak.

Iowa Park edged Haskell 14-13 and Refugio clubbed Friendswood 26-7.

In Class 4-A semifinals today, Odessa Permian and Dallas South Oak Cliff meet at 2 p.m. in Lubbock, and Port Arthur Jefferson and Austin Reagan play at 2 p.m. in Houston's Rice Stadium.

The 3-A semis find Brownwood and Plano colliding at TCU's Amon Carter Stadium at 2:30 p.m. and Ennis and Cuero meeting in Austin at 8 p.m. tonight.

Pflugerville advanced on the toe of Keith Weiss who kicked the winning point after Dennis Luedtke scored on a one-yard run with 3:21 to play. Tackle Douglas Greinert stole the ball from White Oak quarterback Mike Barber on the Pflugerville 19 in the waning moments of the game to preserve the victory.

Barber ran five yards for White Oak's only touchdown earlier.

Sonora rolled up 500 yards total offense in blitzing Petersburg. Quarterback Eddie Sutton completed 6 of 9 passes for 185 yards, including a 52-yard scoring bomb to Mike Taylor, who had five catches for 175 yards.

Defending 2-A state champion Iowa Park won its 29th consecutive game behind all-state halfback Jeff McDonald who made 170 yards on 37 carries. McDonald scored on a 13-yard gallop.

Charley Franklin of Haskell gained 137 yards on 19 carries and scored on touchdown runs of 5 and 13 yards.

Halfback Byron Shaw scored on two 10-yard touchdown runs as Refugio won its 14th consecutive game. Shaw rushed for 163 yards.

Friendswood's lone touchdown came on a 23-yard run by Danny Bailey in the third quarter.

A. J. Foyt Plans For Sixth National Title

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The little wrinkles are beginning to show around his eyes, the hair line is receding, the sun-tanned face is dappled with white from burns received years ago.

But A. J. Foyt, a month short of 36, plumpish, rich, apparently mellowed, and up to his neck in a new role as a cattle baron, already is laying plans to win Indianapolis again next year. And with it, naturally, his sixth national driving title.

The silent, brooding, morose, abrupt, tough, quick-tempered, heavy-handed Foyt of the past smiles a lot now—meaningful smiles, those of a successful business and family man and, still first and foremost, the "best damned race driver around."

Next year oldtimers at Indy may see the emergence of an entirely new concept of a Foyt in racing.

Though he was one of the last of the top drivers to switch to the rear-engined cars, A. J. very well could show up at the "Brickyard" next May with a radical new reverse ground effects machine on the order of the controversial Chaparrel 2J road racer of Jim Hall, another Texan and one of Foyt's closest friends.

Foyt won't talk about his new car ideas, for they still must be approved by USAC's competition board. But there is a gleam in his eyes when the subject is mentioned.

"There's a lot of prize money floating around next year and I want my share of it," says the man who has pocketed at least $3 million in purses in 11 years of major competition—including three Indianapolis triumphs and a record 41 championship victories.

He will say that he'll be the only driver on the Foyt team next season. "We spent too much time last year looking after two or three other cars," he said. "We'll concentrate on one —mine—in 1971 and I think we'll be better off."

Foyt himself doesn't admit that he has changed radically. He's still a 16-hour-a-day man. He still drives his crew to exhaustion at times. And he still doesn't tolerate a lack of enthusiasm on the part of anyone around him.

And he admits he probably remains termpemental and hot-tempered when things don't go to suit him.

"Racing is still my business and like anything else there is no room for errors—either the driver or the crew," he says forcefully.

Some of his associates, however, say he is mellowing—however slightly-and is less hard to reach and easier to work with.

Even that would be a change from the Foyt of the past.

The "old" Foyt at times gained more press from his garage area capers than he did for winning. After coming to USAC's professional ranks in 1958, Foyt parted with some of the best mechanics in the business—some of them abruptly and in the middle of the night.

"Foyt has an unshakable faith that he is right and everybody else is wrong," says one former employe. "He tolerates no errors, lack of judgement or failing enthusiasm. And, though I quit him because I couldn't live with the tension that always was a part of his operation, you have to admit that he was mostly always right."

Another former associate describes Foyt as "probably the original fish-or-cut-bait man. You either play his way or you don't play. To him the race is his from the start and everybody else is running for second place."

"When he loses," another says, "you know he is going to suffer until the next race, and so will everyone around him."

Still another observer of Foyt during his top racing years says, "Racing is his food and drink. Without it he would die. With it, he will perhaps do the same. But he is sure he will survive until he is ready to quit.

"He has been seriously hurt several times, but he is sure he will not be hurt again, for he is the total master of his fate on the race course. He has to drive to live, and win to be happy."

Though he was once fined for unsportsmanlike conduct, Foyt is considered honest and fair on the race course. "He just drives to the sound of his own drummer," is the way one driver put it.

Foyt himself has no illusions about the business he is in.

"Racing is dangerous," he said recently. "You're alone out there in the car. A mistake back in the garage or in the pit could end it all for you.

"I'm not anxious to hurry death along. I want to be happy when I go. That's the name of the game, being happy. And you're happiest when your car is performing well, when you know that the crew and yourself have put everything together right.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers drew 934,820 fans for their first American League campaign last season.

The Brewers, managed by Dave Bristol, will open their 1971 home season against the California Angels on Saturday, April 10. A total of 81 home games will be played in 76 dates in the 45,768-seat County Stadium.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Frank Haraway of the Denver Post won the annual pennant picking contest sponsored by the National Association of Baseball Writers.

The veteran sports writer picked the outcome of the 1970 divisional races, the winners of the two playoff series and the winner of the World Series.

In 1969 Haraway was second in the overall selections.

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — When Army's split end Joe Albano caught 13 passes against Syracuse the West Caldwell, N.J., gridman broke the academy record of 43 receptions set in 1959 by All-America end Bill Carpenter.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers will play 37 night games at home during the 1971 baseball season. The team that moved from Seattle last spring will open the American League season at home against the Minnesota Twins on April 6.

NEW YORK (AP) — Bullpen, a 23-minute 16mm sound and color film documenting the role of relief pitchers, is available for group showings on a free loan basis. Write Panasonic, PO Box 3062, New York, N.Y. 10017 with dates desired.

The film stars relief pitcher Tug McGraw of the New York Mets and highlights such veteran relief hurlers as Johnny Murphy, Joe Page, Hugh Casey, Elroy Face, Ron Perranoski and Hoyt Wilhelm, still a major league pitcher at 47.

During the 1970 major league baseball season relief pitchers appeared in more than half of all games played. Forty years ago starting pitchers completed nearly 90 percent of the games.

NEW YORK (AP) — Dolph Porrata of Hato Rey, P.R., and Duane Felton of Staten Island, N.Y., are co-captains for the City College of New York basketball team.

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — Mrs. John O. Burgwin, who has been breeding thoroughbreds at her Barberry Farm near Sewickley, Pa., since 1958, bought Bonnie Google, dam of Bonnie and Gay, in 1959.

She later sold her but bought her back for $40,000 in 1965.

In 1971 Bonnie Google goes to Najinsky because Mrs. Burgwin is a member of the $5,440,000 Najinsky breeding syndicate.

Textile Career Scope Large

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: The textile industry interests me but I don't know too much about specific opportunities. If there is any information in booklets I could write for, I would greatly appreciate it. — S.S., Forest Park, Ohio

In the 1950's and 60's, the textile industry underwent an automation revolution comparable to the mechanical revolution of some 200 years earlier. In the last 10 years alone, this industry spent a bundle — 5½ billion dollars — on new plant and equipment.

EXECUTIVE CAREERS. Automation and instrumentation has decreased the need for low-skilled workers, but boosted opportunities for the well-trained. If, for example, you're aiming for the executive level, plan on a college education. No, it is not essential to major in textiles, but this curriculum is a good choice.

Baccalaureate textile programs are found at: Auburn U., Clemson U., Georgia Institute of Technology, Lowell Technological Institute, North Carolina State, Philadelphia College of Textiles and Science, Southeastern Massachusetts U., and Texas Technological College. The Fashion Institute of Technology in New York City offers a 2-year associate degree program. (Check a college guide for addresses, write to schools. Some textile programs emphasize the business administration side, others emphasize the engineering - technology aspect.)

COLLEGE MAJOR. If you don't want to take a specialized program at one of the above undergraduate schools (or, at one of several institutions offering graduate work in textiles), choose your major at any college or university in the area closest to your interest; for example, chemistry for textile chemist, or art/design for fabric designer.

MANUFACTURING PLANTS. There are nearly a million persons employed in the textile industry in the U.S., most of whom are blue-collar workers. About 7,000 textile plants are located in 42 of the nation's 50 states — concentrated from New England down through the Middle Atlantic States, into the Southeast, and also in the Southwest. The carpet industry extends all the way to California.

OUTLOOK. Profits are down, but while the job market is a little tighter this year, executive-level textile specialists appear to be finding jobs. (One textile school said it had no trouble placing all of its June graduates, some of whom had multiple offers. The personnel director of a major textile corporation said his firm recruited and hired only somewhat less new personnel this year than last.)

The outlook for the textile mill products industry depends on the performance of the general economy, on imports — which have been rising — and, on how well the industry is able to meet foreign competition. As the population rises, so does the need for textiles, although no one can know what products and new fibers will be in demand tomorrow. (For an economic report on the textile industry, see: "U.S. Industrial Outlook 1970" published by the U.S. Dept. of Commerce. Available in libraries and at Commerce Dept. field offices.)

SPECIFIC OPPORTUNITIES. The scope of careers in textiles is immense — management, research, sales, engineering, clerical — there's a niche for nearly every vocational interest. The Philadelphia College of T. & S. reports average starting salaries for their graduates this year: management and marketing executive trainees, $9,000; textile engineers, $9,300; textile chemists, $9,500; fabric designers, $8,600.

(2) "Your Executive Career in Textiles," single copy free. Send stamped, self-addressed long white envelope to Philadelphia College of Textiles and Science, School House Lane and Henry Ave., Philadelphia, Pa. 19144. (3) You may address specific questions about a career in textiles to the American Textile Manufacturers Institute, 1457 Broadway, New York, N.Y. 10036.

Vote Near On Stamps Bill

By ROBERT A. HUNT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is nearing a crucial vote on conflicting versions of a food-stamp bill. A key issue is how much the poor should be required to pay for the cash-substitute stamps.

The bill backed by the Nixon asministration would require that each person receiving food stamps pay at least 50 cents a month. The substitute version, sponsored by Reps. Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., and Albert H. Quie, R-Minn., would permit free stamps to households of four with monthly income of $30 or less.

"The administration has advised us the substitute is wholly unacceptable," says Reps. W.R. Poage, D-Tex., and Page Belcher, R-Okla., senior members of the Agriculture Committee, which endorsed the administration proposal.

Foley and Quie claim the committee version "would seriously cripple the present program."

Their conflicting views are outlined in "Dear Colleague" letters circulated among House members as the leadership scheduled the bill for action Monday or Tuesday.

The Senate, almost 15 months ago, passed its own food-stamp bill, which goes beyond either of the two proposals to be considered in the House.

While the congressional letter-writing campaign goes on, church groups and anti-hunger organizations have been busy buttonholing members, seeking support for the Foley-Quie package, which will be offered as a complete substitute for the bill approved by Poage's committee.

About 8.8 million persons are enrolled in food-stamp programs, more than double a year ago, according to Agriculture Department officials. The program, started in 1964, allows eligible persons to exchange money they normally spend for food on an allotment of higher-value coupons.

Under the committee version, no specific spending ceilings would be set, leaving this up to annual congressional appropriations. The Foley-Quie package would authorize $2 billion this year, $2.5 billion in fiscal 1972 and $3 billion the third year. The Senate bill sets the ceilings at $2 billion this year and $2.5 billion the next year.

"Space" Foods Lack Nutrition

TORONTO (AP) — Children who go around chewing freeze dried "space" food instead of eating their ordinary meals are not getting proper nutrition, a researcher from the Hospital for Sick Children in Toronto said. Dr. David Turner told the Ontario Hospital Association that scientists with the United States space program learned that freeze-drying destroys most of the vitamins in food.

THE BOGART BOAT — The Akrican Queen, after which the movie was named, sits in Eugene, Ore., where her new owner, Hal Bailey, is planning her restoration. Bailey says exterior is already "antiqued, you might say." He says he will have boat restored and take it to Central Oregon river for excursions. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

UT Seeking Minority Group

DALLAS (AP) — The University of Texas Southwestern Medical School is trying to attract more Negro and Mexican-American students by aggressive recruiting.

Although enrollments from two minority groups rose by more than 50 per cent, officials consider this inadequate since it only represents an increase of three students in the past year. There are now five altogether.

"We are sensitive to the problem of the need for increased participation of minority groups in the medical profession," said Daniel Foster, chairman of the admissions committee, "and we are doing something about it."

Under his plan the message of career opportunities for Negroes and Mexican-American in the medical profession will be taken to high school level in cooperation with the Dallas County Medical Society.

Charles C. Sprauge, dean of Southwestern's Medical School, said the fact that scholarship and support funds were limited put the school at a disadvantage in trying to attract more minority students to its classes.

Butler Joins Custom-Car Ranks

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Frank Osgood Butler, II, a member of the wealthy Butler family, has pursued a life-long interest in sports — swimming, skydiving, bicycling, surfing, trampolining — and now is joining the custom-car building ranks. He plans shops in Oak Brook and Knoxville, Tenn.

Butler said he owned his first gasoline-powered vehicle when he was five. It was a gift received in 1933. Butler operated the miniature car on the polo grounds on the family's 3,000-acre farm west of Chicago.

"At one time, I had a stable of eight cars," Butler said. "But I had more fun installing gimmicks and was more concerned with how a car looked than in racing."

"The Chicago area provides a ready source for equipment," he said. "But the milder winter in Tennessee will enable us to test cars during months when it will be impossible in the north."

The United Nations was originally called the Associated Powers.

Student's father image shattered

By Abigail Van Buren

(C 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 years old, and enrolled in a creative writing course at school. My main purpose in taking this course was to get courage to express my feelings. I have been writing all my life, but have never shown anyone my work. Well, I loved this course as well as the teacher. He was one of the nicest men I have ever known. One day I expressed my feelings in the form of a poem and gave it to him. It went like this:

"I dreamed you were my father
This dream did make me weep.
I dreamed you were my father
My love for you runs deep.

I dreamed you held me in your arms
And told me I was good.
I dreamed that you would punish me
Each time you thought you should.

I dreamed you were my father
This dream did make me weep.
I dreamed you were my father
Tho I was not asleep."

Abby, I never had a father, and in this poem I was trying to tell my teacher how much he meant to me. Well, after he read it, he never even looked at me again. He won't call on me in class, and he turns his head when he sees me in the hall. I feel so embarrassed and ashamed. I don't want to go to his class any more, and I don't think I will ever show my work to anyone again. Was it corny of me to have expressed my feelings in poetry? I hate being rejected, and believe me, I've been rejected a lot. HURT

DEAR HURT: I think your poem was good, and I urge you not to let this unfortunate experience discourage you from writing, and sharing your work with others. Your teacher appears to be strangely insensitive for one who teaches creative writing. He cannot be expected to know the battles you are fighting in your personal life. [And you know nothing of the battles he could be fighting in his.] The feelings you expressed obviously turned him off. But I think he was more frightened than displeased.

DEAR ABBY: It is so difficult to know what is morally right and what is morally wrong these days. What used to be considered wrong 25 years ago is suddenly "right." How is a person supposed to know how to behave? BIG DILEMMA

DEAR BIG: Let your conscience be your guide. For some strange reason, we now have about 20 million laws trying to enforce the Ten Commandments.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

Welfare Reform Plan Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Governors and key officials from nine states have told President Nixon that, unless some sort of welfare reform plan emerges from the current session of Congress, their states will go bankrupt.

The White House gathering was organized by Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, who told reporters Friday, "Either we go bankrupt or we stop funding welfare."

Besides President Nixon, Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson and several of his top aides were on hand to hear the governors plead fiscal poverty.

Among the governors was a Democrat, Gov.-Elect Milton Shapp of Pennsylvania, who said, "Bankruptcy is nonpartisan."

Others came from New Jersey, North Carolina, New Hampshire, Delaware, Iowa and Texas, along with the Massachusetts lieutenant governor.

Only Democratic Gov. Preston Smith of Texas voiced any hint of opposition to Nixon's family assistance plan, now attached as a rider to a Social Security bill in the Senate.

He said the reform plan, which provides a $1,600 base underpinning the earnings of the poor, was not enough. "We propose that they take up the full responsibility for funding and welfare," he said.

Meanwhile, The Washington Post quoted administration sources as saying Nixon told the governors he is considering summoning a special session of the lame-duck Congress if the welfare reform plan isn't passed.

After the meeting, New Jersey Gov. William T. Cahill said the states are "going down the drain" one by one for lack of funds.

Civilians To Give Driving Test

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Starting next year, State Police will begin to use civilians instead of troopers to give driver licensing tests, thereby freeing more uniformed employes for highway patrol.

Five Get ACC Scholarships

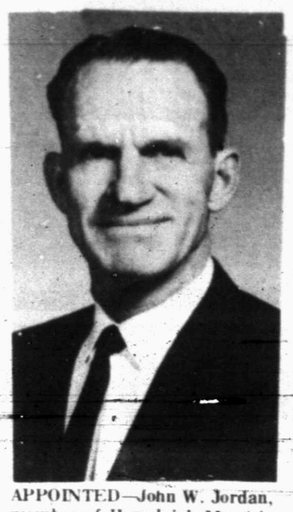

ABILENE — Five students from Snyder are among over 900 scholarship recipients at Abilene Christian College this semester.

They are John Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Anderson of 2409 Gilmore; Wes Bishop, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Bishop of 3209 Ave. A; Loretta Bryce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Bryce of 108 Chesnut; Jose Coronado, son of Mr. and Mrs. Pablo Coronado of 1904 Scott; and Brenda Fetherston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. K. Featherston of Route 2, Box 80.

Scholarships are awarded on a basis of academic achievement, character and need.

Suspicion Confirmed

BOURNEMOUTH, England (AP) — Martin Law scoffed when he was told that a ticking in his bedroom wall forecast a family death. But two months after the noise began in his Hampshire home, Law's grandmother died suddenly and the ticking stopped. "It's completely unaccountable," he said.

APPOINTED—John W. Jordan, member of Hermleigh Masonic Lodge No. 987, has been appointed District Deputy Grand Master by Joe Steed of Mount Pleasant, newly-elected Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Texas.

The tidal current in San Francisco Bay reaches a peak of 10 million cubic feet a second, half again the flow of the Amazon, National Geographic says.

Bus Bombers Indicted Again

NACOGDOCHES, Tex. (AP) — Two men convicted this fall of bombing the Longview school bus fleet last July 4 have been indicted again.

Fred Loyd Hayes, 43, Longview catering firm owner, and his employe, Kenneth Ray McMaster, 42, were indicted Friday by a Nacogdoches County grand jury on charges of possessing a bomb.

The pair was convicted in federal court in Tyler in October on charges of conspiring to deny Negro children of the Longview Independent School District their civil rights and also of conspiring to obstruct a federal court order under which the East Texas city's schools were to be integrated.

Both Hayes and McMaster pleaded innocent at their Longview trial and have appealed to the U. S. 5th Court of Appeals in New Orleans. U. S. Dist. Judge William Wayne Justice sentenced each to 11 years in prison and fines of $11,000 each.

The two Longview men have remained free on appeal bonds of $25,000 each.

Nacogdoches police allege that Hayes and McMaster placed two flashlamps, loaded with dynamite in a predominantly black area of the city. There was testimony during their federal court trial that Hayes and McMaster went to Nacogdoches with two other men after rigging the booby-trap bombs in the shop at Hayes' catering service, and they planted the devices in spots frequented by Negroes.

Two young Negroes who found the bombs became suspicious and called police. One Negro youth testified he worked the switch on one of the flashlamps several times and that it failed to explode. A Nacogdoches police officer testified that he was called to a residential street corner in a black neighborhood and defused the second flashlamp.

Hayes and McMaster posted bonds of $25,000 each Friday after their arrests by Nacogdoches County sheriff's officers.

No trial date has been set.

Swearing Laws Are Requested

LEEDS, England — Yorkshire comedians have asked local authorities if they could use swear words on stage. They are fed up with laws that allow four-letter words in shows like "Oh! Calcutta!" and "Hair," yet threaten comics with heavy fines for using similar language.

GOOD IN EVERY WAY—All of the ingredients in virtuous Scripture Cake are referred to in the Bible. This delicious spicecake is topped by a syrupy sugar glaze and whole blanched almonds.

Let There Be Scripture Cake

The beautiful Scripture Cake, devised by an unknown angel who loved the Bible, and delicious cake, is an all-time favorite recipe of many homemakers. If this is your first encounter with this culinary gem, it is called Scripture Cake because all the ingredients are taken from biblical references. While it isn't specifically a holiday recipe, what better time than Christmas to make such a special cake for gifting? We suggest that you bake several, package them prettily and enclose decorative file cards with the recipe written on them. Or you may prefer to make the cake for your own edification at New Year's, right about the time you may be making cake and new resolutions.

In any case, it's a cake to share, as are all sweets. Since sugar is man's most pleasurable food, sweets of any kind are the perfect make-and-give treat — everyone loves Jeremiah 6:20.

Those of you who enjoy scripture will doubtless want to browse for the references. In any case, here are the scriptural verses nuggeted with the ingredients list:

Genesis 18:8 —"And he took butter, and milk, and the calf which he had dressed, and set it before them."

Jeremiah 6:20 —"To what purpose cometh there to me frankincense from Sheban, and the sweet cane from a far country?"

Isaiah 10:14 —"And my hand hath found as a nest the riches of the peoples; and as one gathered eggs that are forsaken, have I gathered all the earth."

Leviticus 24:5 —"And thou shalt take fine flour, and bake twelve cakes thereof."

II Kings 2:20 "—And he said, Bring me a new cruse, and put salt therein."

Amos 4:5 "—And offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving of that which is leavened, and proclaim free will offerings and publish them."

Exodus 30:23 —"Take thou also, unto these the chief spices: of flowing. myrrh five hundred shekels, and of sweet cinnamon half so much."

II Chronicles 9:9 —"And she gave the kind a hundred and twenty talents of gold, and spices in great abundance."

Judges 4:19 —"And he said unto her, Give me, I pray thee, a little water to drink; for I am thirsty. And she opened a bottle of milk, and gave him a drink."

Genesis 43:11 "—Carry down the man a present, a little balm, and a little honey, spicery and myrrh, nuts, and almonds."

Jeremiah 24:5 "—Thus saith Jehovah, God of Israel: Like these good figs, so will I regard the captives of Judah, whom I have sent out of this place into the land of the Chaldeans, for good."

II Samuel 16:1 "—And when David was a little past the top of the ascent, behold, Ziba the servant of Mephibosheth met him, with a couple of asses saddled, and upon them two hundred loaves of bread, and a hundred clusters of raisins."

Genesis 24:25 —"And before I had done speaking in my heart, behold Rebekah came forth with her pitcher on her shoulder; and she went down unto the fountain, and drew; and I said unto her, Let me drink, I pray thee."

Cream Genesis 18 with Jeremiah 6. Beat in yolks of Isaiah 10, one at a time. Sift together Leviticus 24, II Kings 2, Amos 4, Exodus 30 and II Chronicles 9. Blend into creamed mixture alternately with Judges 4. Beat whites of Isaiah 10 until stiff; fold in. Fold in chopped Genesis 43, Jeremiah 24 and II Samuell 16. Turn into 10-inch tube pan that has been greased and dusted with Leviticus 24. Bake in 325 degrees F. oven 1 hour, 10 minutes, until cake is golden-brown and cake tester inserted in cake comes out clean. Cool 10 to 15 minutes; remove from pan and cool completely. Serve drizzled with Burnt Sugar Syrup and decorated with whole Genesis 43.

Makes one 10-inch tube cake.

Burnt Sugar Syrup

1½ cups Jeremiah 6:20 (sugar)
½ cup Genesis 24:25 (water)
¼ cup Genesis 18:8 (butter)

Melt Jeremiah 6 in heavy skillet over low heat; continue cooking until syrup is deep amber. Add Genesis 24; cook until syrup is smooth. Remove from heat; add Genesis 18 and stir until melted. Cool.

Makes approximately 1¼ cups syrup.

¾ cup soft Genesis 18:8 (butter)
1½ cups Jeremiah 6:20 (sugar)
5 Isaiah 10:14, separated (eggs)
3 cups sifted Leviticus 24:5 (all-purpose flour)
¾ teaspoon II Kings 2:20 (salt)
3 teaspoons Amos 4:5 (baking powder)
1 teaspoon Exodus 30:23 (cinnamon)
¼ teaspoon (each II Chronicles 9:9 (cloves, allspice, nutmeg)
½ cup Judges 4:19 (milk)
¾ cup chopped Genesis 43:11 (blanched almonds)
¾ cup finely cut Jeremiah 24:5 (dried figs)
¾ cup II Samuel 16:1 (raisins)
Whole Genesis 43:11 (blanched almonds)

Swedish Apple Pudding

Swedish Apple Pudding is probably the top favorite among all the Scandinavian desserts. But alas, recipes for this delicious offering are inclined to be disagreeably vague.

Here, for example, is how these recipes usually run: "Layer applesauce, whipped cream and buttered bread crumbs in a pudding dish, finishing with whipped cream and a few grains of nutmeg."

A cook who appreciates exactitude is likely to ask, "What kind of applesauce, homemade or canned? Should the cream be sweetened? What kind of crumbs—fine dry or fresh soft? And how much butter goes on the crumbs? What size dish is it practical to use? Should the pudding be chilled before serving?"

When we complained to a home-economist friend about such sloppy receipes, she offered us one she had worked out to the last detail. This recipe is based on several from Swedish cookbooks, translated by our friend's Swedish neighbor.

When we tried this Swedish Apple Pudding at our house, we found the recipe a delight: easy to follow, delectable result. We also liked the fact that the dessert could be prepared well ahead of serving. As a matter of fact, a portion of the pudding that was leftover still tasted good after an overnight stay in the refrigerator. However, to have the crumbs at their crispest, the pudding should be served the same day it is made.

SWEDISH APPLE PUDDING

12 thin slices white bread
½ cup (¼ lb stick) butter
6 tablespoons sugar
2½ cups chilled homemade applesauce (see recipe below)
1-3rd cup chopped (medium fine blanched almonds
1 container (½ pint) heavy cream (1 cup)
½ teaspoon vanilla
Raspberry jam

Trim crusts from bread; with fingers tear bread into small crumbs; there should be about 5½ cups, not packed down.

In a 10-inch skillet over low heat, melt ¼ cup of the butter. Add half the crumbs. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons of the sugar. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly with a fork, until crumbs are browned—about 5 minutes. Turn crumbs out of skillet onto a flat surface to crisp.

In skillet melt remaining ¼ cup butter; add remaining crumbs and 2 tablespoons of the sugar; brown as before; turn crumbs out of skillet as before. There should now be about 2½ to 3 cups crumbs.

Stir almonds into applesauce.

Beat ½ cup of the cream until it begins to thicken. Gradually beat in 1 tablespoon of the sugar and ¼ teaspoon of the vanilla; beat until thick.

Spread 1 cup of the crumbs in the bottom of a 1½-quart souffle dish or similar straight-sided dish that can be brought to the table. Spread with half the applesauce, the with half the whipped cream.

Add another cup of crumbs, remaining applesauce and remaining whipped cream. Spread with remaining crumbs. Chill.

Just before serving, beat remaining ½ cup cream until it begins to thicken. Gradually beat in remaining 1 tablespoon sugar, then remaining ¼ teaspoon vanilla; beat until thick. Place spoonfuls of whipped cream on top of pudding. Add a dab of raspberry jam to each mound.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

APPLESAUCE
(For Swedish Apple Pudding)

3 pounds cooking apples
¼ cup water
½ cup sugar

Wash apples and quarter without peeling or coring. Cut away blossom ends and any brown spots. Place in a large saucepot. Add water, cover and cook over medium-low heat until apples are soft—about 20 minutes. Stir occasionally so apples don't scorch. Drain off any water in pan.

Spoon apples, one-third at a time, into a food mill placed over a bowl or saucepan. Strain, discarding peel left in mill after each straining. Stir in sugar. if applesauce is very juicy, place in food mill over a bowl and let excess liquid drain off.

Makes about 2½ cups. Use as directed in Swedish Apple Pudding.

Fall Furnishings: Anything Goes In Floor Coverings

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeature Writer

Anything goes with anything now applies to floor coverings.

The soft floor picture includes shags, Orientals, fun rugs and stylized traditional designs.

The transformation has gone from go-with-anything no-pattern gray, beige and other dark solid colors to the brightest and wildest designs.

Time honored patterns of stained glass, Oriental, plaid and tile are used in modern decorating. Contemporary use is inspired by changes in color or slight variations of pattern in the timeless motif, and sometimes through technological break-throughs that permit textural effects that can change the look of a pattern,

The comeback of Oriental rugs is one exanple. You couldn't give them away in the thirties when the modern vogue spawned wall-to-wall carpet instead of the dark, multi-color tones of the oriental. The Oriental rug has made a smashing return, but there weren't enough good ones to go around. Now, some companies are reproducing them. Instead of re-designing the old patterns, Edward Fields and his design department gathered fine documents of old orientals "took out a lot of the goulash, contemporized the colors and introduced them with a new 1970 color spectrum," he explains.

Oushaks, samarkands, and many of the Caucasian designs lend themselves beautifully to reproductions and special coloring in the more cheerful ranges, he says.

Such rugs with their classic geometry and contemporary colors have become a unifying force for decorators in the eclectic theme, where a combination of furniture periods and ideas may be used.

Another trend may be the many patterned room. One might find a flamestitch paper on the wall used with a checkerboard pattern area rug on the floor. One such room setting showing the rug in the new fiber didn't look overwhelmed by all the design.

Designer Raymond Wing Jean varies lacing sizes of a basketweave design that is in different levels to provide a handsome contemporary effect.

Wools are being updated so that an extra krimp in the fiber may change the characteristics of a carpet design.

A new area rug by karastan looks quite modern even though the inspiration for it came from a decorative wall tile motif found in the home of El Greco. Flamestitch has been around a long time, but a new geometrical treatment gives carpet a new look.

Shags are available in a great range of colors and printed, and these are made to fit into any area of the house. Printed carpets are making great headway, particularly in kitchens, bathrooms, family rooms, and carpet tiles—one new one is in a moorish shape—have great appeal to do-it-yourself.

In the fun-rug picture, one new giant fuzzy foot 22 by 42 inches of polyester and modacrylic, machine washable and dryable, should certainly charm little people. It is available in black, white and 8 colors.

Altar Society Makes Plans

St. Elizabeth's Altar Society held it's monthly meeting Thurs., Dec., at 7:30 p.m. in the basement meeting room of the church.

Mrs. Lloyd Raschke, president, presided over the meeting.

The club voted to have the following projects for the month of December; collecting clothing for the Goodfellows, to have a pot luck supper Sunday, Dec. 6, honoring new comers, participate in a Christmas Party for the elementary students to be held Wednesday, Dec. 16 at 7 p.m. at the church, provide funds for flowers for the Christmas Church Services.

Refreshments were served to Mmes. Jim Moss, Lloyd Raschke, Alvin Wimmer, Jimmy Kubena, Jim Durbin, Alfonse Wimmer, John Voelkel, Lanny Wadleigh, Etoy Ortiz and guest Marquita Ortiz by Mrs. John Black.

Cotton To Head Legacy Program Of Cancer Society

The Board Members of the Scurry County Unit of the American Cancer Society announced that Dan Cotton, local attorney, has accepted the chairmanship of the Legacy Department of the local unit.

Legacies have become a significate part of the Crusade aspect of the American Cancer Society, in that it is a much needed area in fund raising for research purposes.

An increasing number of persons are making legacies to the American Cancer Society.

Legacies offer the thoughtful individual an investment in the future and the satisfaction of knowing that he has helped to control and eventually eradicate the disease.

Fund left as legacy will be applied to the project of the individaul's choice. Many types of legacies can be developed. This kind of giving, as well as for the other donations on this list, the local chairman and the American Cancer Society should be consulted to assure achieving the plan for the individual's best interests.

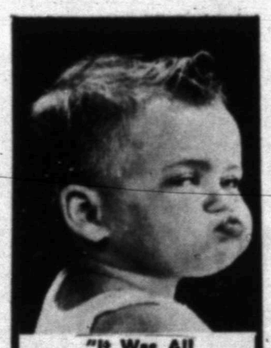

Expansion is this area does not just happen by itself. Public concern, along with the constant awareness of the American Cancer Society and its programs, is the single most important factor in the development of the legacy program, state, local cancer officials.

The expansion of all activities of the American Cancer Society must be accelerated. A need for a wider range of educational information dissiminated in Spanish and low income, hard-to-reach areas, in the state is of vital importance. Complacency has no place in the American Cancer Society, if the goal for the 70's "A World Free Of Cancer," is to be reached.

Those interested in the legacy program of the organization should contact Dan Cotton at his office 1926 Twenty-sixth Street or at his home 3774 Denison.

Poach a fresh pear in canned apple sauce that has been dashed with a bit of sugar, lemon juice and a little port wine. Use low oven heat and poach by covering the whole or halved skinned pear with the apple sauce mixture. Bake until the pear is easily pierced with the tines of a fork. Delicious either chilled or hot.

Place a scoop of vanilla, or your favorite flavor ice cream, over canned apple sauce in a serving dish. Top with a spoonful of molasses and garnish with chopped nutmeats or a shaving of chocolate. Delicious ending to a meal–and extra nutritious.

MRS. MICHAEL L. GRAVES

Miss Pittman, Mr. Graves Are Wed In Amarillo

Deborah Lynn Pittman and Michael Lynn Graves were united in marriage December 4 at 3 p.m. in the Polk Street Methodist Church, Amarillo. Dr. Browers officiated in the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Pittman of Pampa, Texas and Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Graves of Lubbock, formerly of Snyder.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white street length gown with a shoulder tip veil. The bridal bouquet was a cascade of white flowers centered with yellow rose buds.

Miss Sharyn Nan Pittman, sister of the bride was maid of honor. Her costume was a yellow street length dress with a nose gay of yellow roses.

Mr. Joe Harrington of Lubbock served as best man and Danny Rimer of Amarillo and Randy Jordan of Pampa were ushers.

Organ music was by Mr. Wayne Pitner of Amarillo, formerly of Snyder.

A reception was held in the parlor of the church following the ceremony.

After returning from their wedding trip to Ruidoso, New Mexico, the couple will be at home at the El Dorado Apartments in Amarillo.

The bride is a graduate of Pampa High School and attended West Texas University in Canyon. She is presently employed at First Supply Company.

The groom attends West Texas University at Canyon where he is a candidate for graduation in May, with a degree in education. He is a member of Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity and is serving with a "Special Forces Reserve Unit."

HERE' HOW

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Is it foolhardy to furnish a house on the installment plan, asks a young wife. The couple is in debt—they have a 30-year mortgage, a student loan, a 3-year car note. They fear it would be 10 years before they can buy a large sofa for cash.

One reason we now have a truth-in-lending federal law is that many people bought time purchases in a willy-nilly fashion. They didn't understand the interest rates or full implication of the agreement.

The important thing to avoid while incurring debts is that one might become vulnerable for a property lien because of insolvency. People who have suddenly lost their income have gotten into such difficulties.

But installment plans have been a blessing for many, provided they are fully aware of financial drawbacks, and know where they can borrow funds in an emergency from friends or relatives. Here are some viewpoints:

"We wouldn't have had a dishwasher or washing machine if we hadn't been able to use time payment plans," says one woman. "I honestly think we would have frittered the money away on unnecessary things, if we hadn't had to meet payments each month."

Another installment buyer found one danger of such purchases is that you overextend yourself.

"I let a salesman talk to me into all sorts of things I didn't need. We became so burdened by the payments that we couldn't sleep and we weren't eating properly. We finally borrowed money from my folks to pay off the whole debt, and they're giving us time to pay them."

She had been amazed to find that the 1½ per cent monthly carrying charge came to 18 per cent annual interest. Credit agreements now carry this explanation in compliance with the federal law.

Women have more courage than men do when it comes to running up such bills, says one husband, whose wife has him in such a bind that "we couldn't pay off our debts in 102 years considering future bonuses and raises." He admits that might be a slight exaggeration but she does have charge accounts with nine stores, installment plans with three companies, loans at two banks and is borrowing on charge cards.

Fortunately, they have a big income. He would take over running the finances, but she has been able to juggle everything so far, and has managed to keep all debtors happy, and he hesitates to upset the pattern. "But if something happens to that old paycheck, we'd be sunk," he says.

The sunk-bit was experienced by one couple, who had decided that the wife would work until they paid off furniture debts. Everything was bought on a two-year plan, and they were doing fine for three months. "But then Betty broke her leg skiing, and when her company began lay-offs, she was the first to go. Fortunately, they were waiting three months for the furniture and canceled the order.

One older couple found that installment buying is great when you don't have to scrimp for payments. You must have a cushion of savings, and you should have an accrual money system, even if accruals are small.

One bride has been forbidden to buy anything on time plans—her husband's mother kept his family in debt, he says—but she insists her home doesn't measure up to those of her friends who enjoy now and pay later.

"And I don't honestly think we save the money. We spend a lot of time away from our barely furnished home, and that can be expensive," she says.

The world's most deadly animal may be the sea wasp, a five-inch jellyfish which drifts with the waters off northern Australia. Swimmers brushed by its trailing tentacles usually die within five minutes from cobralike venom. There is no known antidote.

Plants Are Unusual Christmas Gifts

COLLEGE STATION, — Still wondering about a Christmas gift for a friend that has everything? Consider a tree or shrub for the garden, or a houseplant, recommends Everett Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist at Texas A&M University.

New homeowners would especially welcome a tree or shrub gift. Select a plant that can be used in the home landscape design. It should also be native or adapted to the area.

Some of the ornamental plants that would make a good gift include the many varieties of holly, deodar cedar, pyracantha, elaeagnus, magnolia and pine, Janne says. The local nurseryman or florist can help you in the final selection.

If you are considering a house plant gift, Janne suggests such foliage plants as philodendrao, English ivy, Christmas cactus, or even a potted azalea or camellia. Other plants popular for indoor landscaping, particularyly during the holiday season, are poinsettia, Jerusalem cherry, Christmas pepper and chrysanthemum.

You can easily make an attractive package from a house plant or tree. Just wrap the base of the plant with Christmas paper and tie with a bright colored bow.

While you are plant shopping, Janne adds you may want to select a living Christmas present for your own family. A balled and burlapped, or container-grown evergreen can be used as the family Christmas tree. If care is taken to prevent the ball of soil from drying out, it can be placed in the home landscape after the holiday season.

Marketing Report

COLLEGE STATION — Economical buys for the holiday season can be found in all areas of the market, from fruits and vegetables to meats, reports Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist.

Large supplies of ruby red and golden yellow apples, oranges, tangerines and tangelos are now available. Other good buys include pineapples, Emperor or Ribier grapes and persimmons and pomegranates. To make the most of your money, buy bags or small fruit sizes.

Dried fruits are also good holiday buys. They are good mixers plus they are nutritional. Raisins and prunes are the most popular dried fruits, followed by dates, figs, apples, apricots, pears, peaches and currants.

Most plentiful and reasonable of the fresh vegetables are potatoes, carrots, yellow onions and celery. Sweet potatoes and cabbage are also reasonable.

Fryers continue in good supply in most stores. Whole and cut-up birds and fryer parts are marked with attractive prices, as well as roasting hens.

Pork is featured frequently in local markets. Look for specials on loin cuts, shoulder roasts and a variety of hams. In addition to featured pork cuts, good meat buys are found on beef roasts, steaks and ground beef.

Balloon-Launched Note Answered

LAKE BLUFF, ILL. (AP) — Monica Donnelly, 11, had all but given up getting an answer to her balloon-launched note.

The note, carried by three balloons, was kept dry in a plastic bag. It asked that whoever found it write back to her and send a picture of himself.

Then she received an answer from a seven-year-old boy, Clinton King of Hartford, Mich. He included a photo of himself.

"I found this note while hunting with my father," his letter said. "P.S. My mother wrote this note for me."

Monica saved the cost of a stamp and a trip to the mailbox with her system, but she does not believe it will ever replace the United States Post Office.

"You never know where the note's going to land," she said. "But that's the fun of it."

Author-Actress Enjoys Pursing Two Careers

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Some people must pursue two careers in order to enjoy the one they prefer, says blonde, blue-eyed Joanna Barnes, author and actress, who has made the beauty and brains combination pay off.

That statement may sound like doubletalk, she admits, but it works, if you stick to your own "last." It works for her—she was a Phi Beta Kappa English major at Smith, and she has been acting and writing simultaneously since graduation.

"For example, acting and writing feed each other. Writing is essentially a lonely occupation—but it can be balanced with acting which is social—you are out there with the other folks. Acting is interpretative rather than creative, so—I am never bored. When I'm beginning to feel confined at writing, I take time out for acting," she explained.

Before writing her novel, she had been a book reviewer for the Los Angeles Times for five years, a syndicated columnist with the Chicago Tribune and New York Daily News and author of a book on decorating.

The recently published novel, "The Deceivers," has been well received by critics. In addition, she is a glamorous movie star—eight films—and a television actress—17 shows. She also has conducted her own talk show.

"When I begin a writing project, I rent an office without windows or telephones. There are no distractions and I have nothing to do but write. I paw over two full drawers of notes each time I began a chapter. As the heap of paper grows smaller, I feel a sense of relief ... "

She wrote a 22-page outline and never deviated from plot, chronology, characters, which were "cooking on a back burner" of her mind all the time, she says. Organization was part of her training. She studied story writing at Smith in classes taught by Alfred Kazan and Robert Gorham Davis.

Her work day is long and she needs a lot of rest, so social life is limited to early dinners with good men friends, attending hockey games where she has learned to whistle through her teeth and relaxing with needlepoint, sewing, textile painting, or making little miniature oil paintings for friends, She walks her miniature Yorkshire terrier, Bozo, and he travels with her.

A jolly beautiful girl, she had moments of stark terror, when she finished the book, she says, worrying that no one would buy it. She has been reassured that it is a good book even by strangers,

Her Hollywood break came by accident. Just before her final exams at Smith, she had arrived in New York to apply for a researcher's job with Time Magazine, hoping they would hold it until she returned from a short visit to the Coast. A friend suggested she might have fun saying a line or two in a movie while out there. She looked up some east coast movie representatives to inquire about it and before the day was over she had offers of three movie contracts.

Though her novel is on a subject that bugs her—"power" people who can succeed in hiding the facts of a big story from the media and others, Joanna has her own little secret; her age.

"I look so much younger than I really am, but people can guess it if they know the age of the liberationist, Gloria Steinem. We were classmates," she says laughing.

But they may be in cahoots. When Joanna met Gloria on a shopping spree recently, she sidled up to her and said, "Tell me—how old are we this year."

Joanna is not interested in women's lib. No man is competing with her, she points out, but she thinks it would be sad to be liberated at the cost of womanliness.

"Many liberationists are handling themselves so stridently, it is a big turnoff," she says.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

Snyder Service Unit will have its annual Open House at the Redwine residence on Tuesday, Dec. 15, at 9:30 a.m. at 4109 Denison.

A Service Unit meeting will be held at this time. Our District Director, Mrs. Jewel Jennett, will be here from the Abilene office.

All leaders and their assistants are urged to attend this important meeting and get-together!

Junior Troop 327 (Mrs. G. J. Nunley, Jr. and Mrs. B. J. Hunter) has been active the past month. Along with Badge work, the troop prepared a Thanksgiving basket and took it to a family.

The troop planned and had an overnight in the Scout Hut on Dec. 4. We also had our Christmas tree and exchanged gifts, played games, and sang songs. Food and fun were enjoyed by twenty-eight girls.

The troop voted to donate $5.00 to the Goodfellows and each girl will take toys to Goodfellows.

Troop 327 had its last meeting before the holidays on Dec. 8.

The girls and leaders wish everyone a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

WEST TEXAS ROUND-UP, the publication of the West Texas Girl Scout Council, will reach a new and larger group in 1971.

Following a study of the needs of the Council and the most effective use of the Bulletin, the decision was made to mail the Bulletin to parents of all Scouts in the Council.

"This is an effort to involve the parents in the Girl Scout program," said Beth Nowotny, Executive of the West Texas Council. "Perhaps the Bulletin will help inform them of our goals, activities, and purpose."

Flower Talk

By HERSHEL HINSHAW

CHILDHOOD FLOWERS

Which flowers do you recall from your childhood? It is surprising how many people remember the simple ones—such as the Morning Glory. Most everyone had Morning Glories, and it was common practice to run strings along the porch for them to climb. Early in the morning there was no more beautiful sight than the blue and purple morning glories in full bloom.

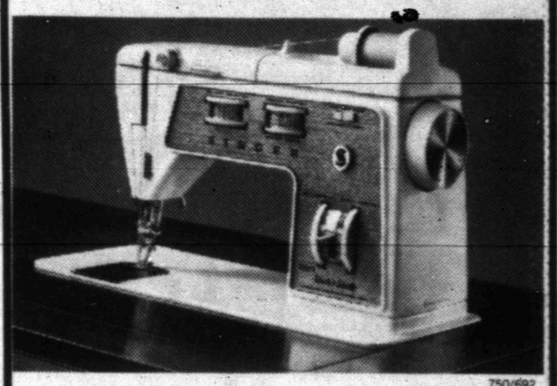

Other remembrance flowers are the lilac and the geranium. The geranium bloomed in abundance in pots on porches, and had a special place in the spare room during the cold winter months, and you always wondered whether they would make it through the cold days.

We can't return to our childhood, but our flowers are just as beautiful, and just as fragrant as you remember them from days gone by.

Resolution time is close at hand.

You know—the time when we decide what we will or will not do in the coming year that we should or should not have done in the passing year.

Not that we keep even a few, if any, of the resolutions. It just makes us feel good to know that our intentions are good.

Instead of the usual list of suggested resolutions for the year ahead, how about just one? Something like this:

"In working on any do-it-yourself project, I will not be impatient."

Why that one? Because of a long-standing belief that the greatest obstacle to the successful completion of a handyman task is impatience. It may take us a long time to get started on a planned job, but once we begin, the urge to see the result is so compelling that we take shortcuts, telling ourselves that it won't make any difference.

But it does.

When you are painting a house, inside or out, do you carefully prepare the surface, knowing that, in most cases, this is more important to a good result than the actual application of the paint?

When you are using a clear finish and the directions say to wait at least eight hours between the first and second coats, do you begin the second coat in two hours because the first coat seems completely dry?

When using an adhesive, do you immediately join the surfaces even though the instructions for that particular type of glue say to wait until the material has become tacky?

When something must be driven into place, do you use a wrench or the nearest tool because you have mislaid the hammer and don't want to spend a few minutes looking for it?

When you are working on a ladder, do you stretch a little too far because it's too much trouble to descend and move the ladder a couple of feet to the proper place?

When using a power tool, do you ground it according to the instructions that came with it are neIglect this step because you are going to use it for only a few minutes?

When you are driving a screw, do you select a screwdriver of the right size or do you use the one that is close at hand because the proper one is in another room?

When you have finished painting or varnishing, do you take an additional five minutes to clean the brush or roller carefully, even though you are aware that skipping this procedure will make the brush or roller unusable the next time around?

And on and on and on.

(How to handle more than 30 of the most common household problems is explained in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," which can be obtained by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Painting Workshop To Be Held Here

Ken Gore, East Gloucester artist, began his art training in 1937 attending Meinzinger Art School, Detroit, Michigan, augmenting this with study with George Rich, a pupil of the famous American painter Robert Henri. He later attended criticism classes with Aldro T. Hibbard.

Ken returned to Meinzinger Art School as instructor-co-director from 1944-48, teaching color theory, composition, design, anatomy, drawing and perspective.

Teaching afforded little time for painting, so he left the school to spend the summer of 1948 painting on Cape Ann in Massachusetts. He found in New England a wealth of subject matter and moved there in January, 1949 where he painted many out door scenes.

Mr. Gore has appeared on radio and TV and before many art associations and business groups as lecturer-demonstrator of his palette knife technique. He has been featured artist for a number of art groups, such appearances often in association with one-man exhibits of his work.

Ken has received many awards and his paintings are collected by museums and private individuals.

Mr. Gore will be in Snyder May 3-7, 1971 for a one week outdoor painting workshop.

LEMON PECAN COFFEECAKE

This delicious offering comes from Hungarian cuisine.

1 cup sifted cake flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ cup (¼-pound stick) butter
¾ cup sugar
2 large eggs
Grated rind of 1 large lemon (1 tablespoon)
2 tablespoons lemon juice
¼ cup chopped pecans, medium-fine
2 tablespoons sugar mixed with ¼ teaspoon cinnamon

Sift together the cake flour, baking powder and salt. Cream butter and sugar; thoroughly beat in eggs, 1 at a time. Gradually stir in the flour mixture, then lemon rind and lemon juice; fold in pecans. Turn into a greased and floured square cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches). Sprinkle batter with sugar-cinnamon mixture. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean—about 30 minutes. Cut in squares in pan; serve warm or reheat.

Rain Situation Critical In Many Texas Areas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Dry, open weather has permitted Texas farmers virtually to finish their harvest.

But, said John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, rain is needed in every section of the state and the situation is critical in many areas.

Grains and pastures are suffering and stock water supplies are becoming critical over widespread areas, Hutchison added. Drought has curtailed grain grazing and dry forage on ranges is being supplemented by increased feeding all through the state, he said.

Livestock are in fair to good condition and increased marketings are being noted, the director said.

District agents reported:

Moisture is short in most Panhandle counties. Ranges are below average; livestock are being fed except on irrigated wheat pasturage; and most are in good condition. Some bloat is being reported in livestock on irrigated wheat. All harvests are complete.

The South Plains (Lubbock) cotton harvest is about over. Some gins have completed work, others are fast catching up. Winds, warmth and drought have damaged grains and wheat pastures are being irrigated. Livestock on wheat and stubble fields are generally in good condition. Stock water is at the critical level in some areas.

Moisture is badly needed in all 22 Rolling Plains (Vernon) counties. Grains were poor to fair and providing little or no grazing. Ranges were poor to fair. Livestock are being fed and water is badly needed. Harvesting of cotton is about complete.

Most of North Central Texas needs rain and grains and pastures are suffering. The cotton harvest is about complete. Ranges and livestock are in fair condition. Some feeding is needed. It's too dry for much growth on grains.

Moisture in Northeast Texas is generally short but grains are still providing good grazing. Harvesting is about complete. Pastures are about average. There is plenty of dry grass but rain is needed for cool plant growth. Livestock were in good condition, with some feeding and normal marketings.

It is very dry in Far West Texas and a general rain is needed. Days are warm and nights are cold. Some cotton is yet to be harvested. Otherwise crops are out. Livestock are generally in good condition and feeding is increasing. Ranges are generally good but very dry. Irrigated grains are providing good grazing and more cattle are now on these pastures than ever before. Good gains are being reported. It has been too warm for the best deer hunting and some meat has been lost.

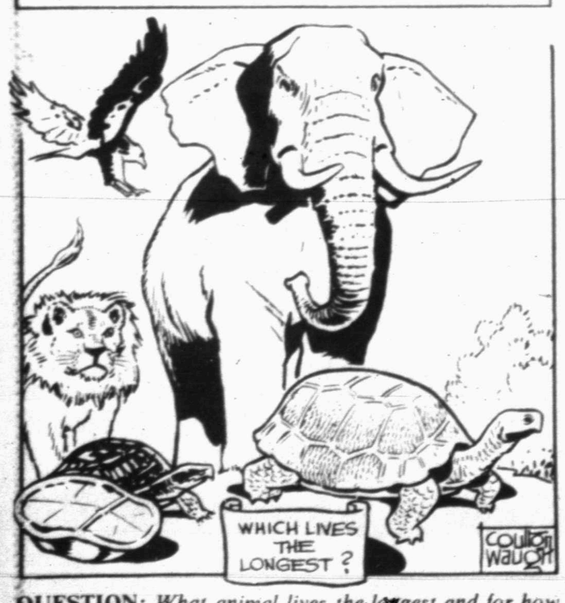

Soil all through West Central Texas is short to very short and the situation is becoming critical. The cotton harvest about over and most dryland yields were around a half bale. Most pecans have now been harvested and sold for good prices. Yields were below average. In drier counties, grains are dying from the drought and stock tanks are low. Range fires again are a real hazard. Livestock were listed in fair to good condition with feeding increasing. Marketing of fat cows and calves was brisk. Calving and lambing are on.

Drought in Central Texas is becoming critical. Grazed down grains are making little or no regrowth, ranges declined and stock tanks are low. All major crops are harvested. Feeding was a major activity.

Moisture in East Texas is generally short. Grains provided good grazing but need rain. Pastures were average and cover crops made good growth but need rain. Livestock are in fair to good condition. Calving is active and feeding is needed.

Southeast Texas has very short to adequate moisture, in coastal counties. All harvests practically are complete. Grains need rain and ranges are about average but dry. Livestock are in good condition and marketing is about normal.

Junior Editors Quiz on TURTLES

QUESTION: What animal lives the longest and for how long?

* * *

ANSWER: Over the long, long ages behind us, many kinds of animals have arisen. Many kinds have vanished, leaving no descendants living today. Others have left descendants changed in character, and a few have remained unchanged for very long periods. This last is the case with the turtles, which have lived practically unchanged, according to the scientists, during the last 175 million years. Probably their hard shell gave them protection. When head and legs are drawn inside, what predator can get at them? For the same reason, no doubt, the slow, stolid land turtles or tortoises are the animals which live the longest. One authority claims that the huge Galapagos tortoise can live up to 400 years; but another claims the common North American box turtle is the champ, with a record of 123 years. We're sure the turtles won't worry as to which gets the palm. As to the other animals, the elephant may expect to live to 60 years, the lion from 20 to 25 and the condor to over 50.

Firm Is Recycling Product

HOUSTON (AP) — Anchor Hocking, which produces many of the glass containers used in America, is busy buying back its products from consumers here.

"We're not doing this for a profit," says Floyd Barker, head of the firm's reclamation center here. "Our feeling is that it is the only sensible thing to do in light of current environmental drives. It's better to recycle rather than bury glass."

The firm started the drive nationally April 1 and in Houston since the first of August. Most of the other 75 to 100 glass making concerns around the country are doing the same thing, Barker said.

So far, the company here has bought about three tons of glass at a penny a pound. Baker expects more as more people learn of the project.

When the glass is brought in it is weighed, put through a crusher and then into one of two furnaces which have a capacity of 250 tons. One is for clear glass, the other for amber glass.

The crushed glass is then tested to 2,700 degrees and made into containers again.

Barker says it is less expensive to use raw materials than used glass.

"It costs up to $20 a ton for cullet, but $15 a ton for raw materials. We're losing a little bit of money on this recycling center," he said.

Anchor Hocking in Houston sold 60 tons of glass, mostly waste glass, to the University of Missouri.

Barker said they are studying the feasibility of "glasphalt," rather than asphalt as a paving material for roads. However, where limestone is cheaper, a limestone aggregate pavement is better, he said.

"We're waiting to see how this 'glasphalt' holds up," Barker said.

Courts Have More Cases Pending

CHICAGO (AP) — Federal courts have more cases pending for processing than ever before, says Commerce Clearing House, a law authority.

Cases pending before U.S. Courts of Appeals at the end of fiscal 1970 climbed to a high of 8,812 — up 963 from the prior year and marking the 12th straight year of an increase.

Filings for appeals totaled 11,662 cases in 1970, a 14 per cent increase over last year.

There were 10,699 cases processed during the year, 1,685 more than last year.

District Court civil case filings totaled 87,321, 10,000 more than last year. There were 80,435 civil cases closed, more than 7,000 above the number disposed of in 1969.

Texas Gets Grants For Crime Control

AUSTIN (AP) — Nineteen action grants totaling $475,587 and one planning grant of $17,727 to the Central Texas Council of Governments at Belton were approved Friday by the Texas Criminal Justice Council.

The grants are made with federal funds allocated to Texas for crime control.

The action grants were:

Baytown, $2,800 to send five policemen to the Southwestern Law Enforcement Institute at Southern Methodist University, Dallas.

Lower Rio Grande Valley Development Council, McAllen, $21,658 to support a regional law enforcement officer training program.

Port Arthur $2,784 for four policement to attend the four-week supervisory school at Southwestern Law Enforcement Institute.

San Antonio, $23,317 for a personal bail bond program.

North Central Texas Council of Governments, Arlington, $43,777 to support staffing of the Dallas Metropolitan Area Criminal Justice Council, and $41,667 to modernize the North Texas police teletype network.

Texas Department of Corrections, $78,839 to establish a research division.

McLennan County Adult Probation Department, $28,717 for a training and placement program for probationers.

Bowie County, $40,523 for a tri-county juvenile probation program.

Dallas, $50,592 to buy equipment for a police alert system to maintain contact with key persons in the department when away from headquarters and base stations.

Lubbock, $30,551 for "Project New Directions," a day care program for pregnant "pre-delinquent" and delinquent girls who are not permitted to attend school.

Grayson County, $5,536 to expand the adult probation department and improve pre-sentence investigations.

Fannin County, $3,600 for a juvenile service officer project.

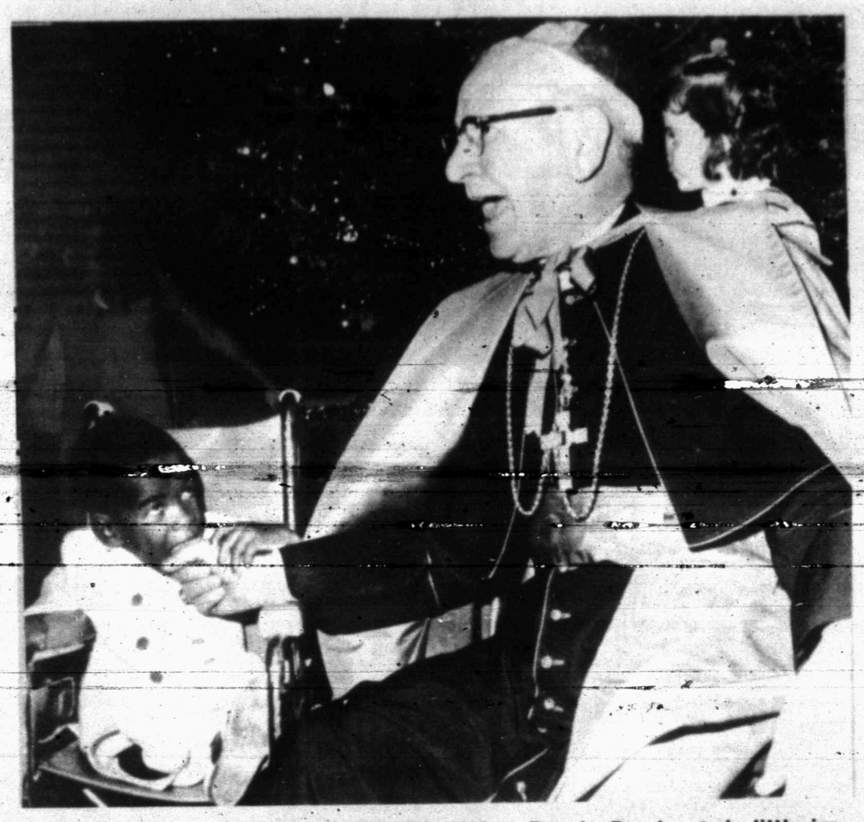

Big Spring, $1,894 to buy videotape recording equipment.

Texarkana, $19,869 to establish a juvenile division in the police department and $20,498 to expand the police department's community relations unit.

Texas Police Association, Austin, $15,474 for a series of eight seminars for police administrators.

Travis County Commissioners Court, $37,800 for a program of alcoholism services to probationers.

Paris, $5,891 for additional riot control equipment, "requested because of a recent servere riot situation."

BITING THE HAND THAT BLESSES HIM — Ronnie Brooks, 3, is little impressed with the dignity of a Cardinal and so nips the finger of Philadelphia's John Cardinal Krol, who had been chucking lad under the chin at annual Christmas party the Cardinal gives for handicapped children. No Trace Of Tate Lawyer

SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP) — Ronald Hughes vanished into the wilderness two weeks ago, and Ventura County sheriff's department say they still can't find a trace of the Sharon Tate murder trial defense lawyer.

"We have found nothing," said a deputy after searchers returned from a "beating the bush" quest Friday in the rugged Sespe Hot Springs area 130 miles north of Los Angeles.

Friends and officials say Hughes may have been killed in torrential rains over Thanksgiving weekend.

"I'm sure we'll go out again," said Capt. Jim Richards, but he said the search probably wouldn't resume until after the weekend. "We need any new information or new leads we can get."

In Los Angeles, the Tate trial is recessed until Tuesday to allow a new lawyer time to catch up on the case.

Better Before Law Changed

LONDON, Canada (AP) — Canada's new abortion law is too restrictive and abortion procedures are worse than before the law came into effect, the president of the Ontario Medical Association said. Dr. Bette Stephenson said before the law was passed sensible procedures were being developed. She said Women's College Hospital in Toronto had performed therapeutic abortions for 12 years prior to the law being changed.

Groups Halt Sale Of UNICEF Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Claiming UNICEF Christmas cards give aid and comfort to the enemy by sending money to North Vietnam, anti-Communist groups have halted the sale of the cards in St. Petersburg's main post office.

UNICEF, the United Nations International Children's Emergency Relief Fund, sells the cards to benefit children in underdeveloped nations.

"I can't accept the idea of people denying children, especially children who have nothing," said Marjorie Yingst, who for five years has set up a UNICEF card booth in the post office.

She said she was told by St. Petersburg Postmaster Robert K. Harwood that he "had received telephoned threats that pickets would come to the building and he wouldn't let us have space this year unless specifically authorized by higher authority."

Asked if he had denied the UNICEF group space, Harwood replied, "The only thing I can tell you is that they did it last year and we just got the devil from veterans organizations and other agencies. We didn't have the space, so they were not permitted this year."

Two weeks ago in Lakeland, 40 miles to the east, a minister led a group of 10 pickets in front of the federal building to protest the sale of UNICEF cards.

The Rev. Morris McDonald, pastor of Faith Bible Presbyterian Church, said he organized the picketing to protest sending aid to North Vietnam.

"The UNICEF folder says aid goes to North Vietnam, and although it says American dollars aren't directed there I feel such donations open a way to give aid or comfort to an enemy," he said.

McDonald said he also believes the money could be used better in the United States.

Postmaster George P. Branley Jr. of Lakeland said he "got wind the pickets were coming and told the UNICEF people to stay home for a day."

Mrs. Yingst said UNICEF card sales in St. Petersburg would continue through church organizations.

"Five boxes of cards means 85 medicine droppers in an underdeveloped country," she said, adding that she was bitter about the post office's action.

Jaycees To Give WTC Scholarship

Snyder Jaycees approved a $500, two-year scholarship fund for a Western Texas College student at their regular meeting Friday.

The scholarship will be for a vocational or academic student from Scurry County.

The Jaycees also approved a resolution supporting efforts to secure FM Road 2763 south of the Western Texas College campus, connecting State Highways 208 and 350.

In other business, Gary Sutton reported on the Jaycee family Christmas party held Thursday night and Bill Gilliland reported on the annual Jaycee Christmas Lighting Contest now in progress. Gilliland told the club that there are two divisions — outdoor lighting and religious. The first prize in the outdoor lighting contest will be an electric yard light installed at the winner's home. The light was donated to Jaycees by Texas Electric Service Co. First prize in the religious division will be a $25 savings bond. There also will be second and third prizes in each division.

To enter, a contestant should call the Snyder Chamber of Commerce. Entries must be in before Dec. 22 when they will be judged.

Gilliland also reported on the Jaycees' annual Santa Claus Night. He said that it had been set for Thursday, Dec. 17, from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Jimmy Farmer reported on the annual Christmas Shopping Spree set for Saturday, Dec. 19. Farmer reported that 20 disadvantaged children from elementary schools would be given $5 each to spend as they please, and after the shopping spree the Jaycees will have a small Christmas party for them. The children are chosen by principals of the elementary schools.

Tommy Cotton reported that the first issue of the Snyder Jaycees Newsletter would be out this month.

Guests at the meeting were Jerry Helms, Ben Falkner and Pete McElrath. The invocation was given by Eddie Peterson and the Jaycee creed was led by Gerald Pullig. President David Burkett presided.

January Draft Call Higher

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources say a January draft call to be announced next week will total about 17,000, highest monthly call in nine months.

This will be the first draft call since September, when 39,000 men were notified to report. However, the September draft was spread over a four-month period, with 12,000 men called for September, 12,000 for October, 8,000 for November and 7,000 for December.

In disclosing the January figure, Pentagon sources said January draft calls usually show an upward trend from December, when the number is down because of lower requirements and holidays.

Monthly draft calls are influenced by the re-enlistment rate and the number of men volunteering for duty.

The Pentagon disclosed Thursday that its re-enlistment rates have dropped to their lowest level in 15 years. The rate for all services was 30.5 per cent in the fiscal year ended June 30, lowest since a 27.2 percent rate in fiscal 1955.

Earlier January draft calls were 12,500 in 1970, 26,800 in 1969, 34,000 in 1968 and 15,600 in 967.

A total of 163,500 men have been drafted this calendar year, and, while no figure has been disclosed for 1971, the total is expected to run about 100,000.

Right On Red?

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A Louisville motorist, W. Paul Dodge, approached an intersection recently and although the light was green, there was a car stopped in his lane.

Dodge, a bit perturbed, gave a slight beep on his horn. The woman driver in front of him turned around and pointed to a sign reading: "Stop—Turn Right On Red."

Sure enough, as soon as the light turned red the lady took a right turn and went merrily on her way.

Rail Talks Scheduled

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the nation's rail systen operating again after a 24-hour strike, railroad and union representatives are ready to resume negotiations on a new contract for 400,000 workers.

C.L. Dennis, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Airline Clerks, one of four unions involved, said agreement on a negotiations schedule was reached Friday. The parties are expected to sit down at the bargaining table early next week.

Asst. Secretary of Labor W.J. Usery Jr., who met with the negotiating teams, said the tenor of the meeting was "much, much better than previous meetings .... I don't think either party wants to go back to what they went through these last few days."

Meanwhile, Postmaster General Winton M. Blount lifted a mail embargo imposed hours before the strike—limiting movement of vital freight and Christmas packages.

The four unions ended their strike Thursday after Congress passed a law barring a walkout before March 1 and a U.S. District Court judge ordered fines of $200,000 a day unless the workers returned to their jobs by midnight Thursday.

Congress sweetened the back-to-work order by giving the four unions a pay raise.
