School Census Begins March 1

All Ochiltree county residents who have children of School age should be sure that their children are enumerated in the school census which will start on Tuesday, March 1.

Children who reach their 6th birthday before Steptember 1, 1949 are included in the census.

Questionnaire cards will be distributed to the children now in school, stated Supt. Gilbert Mize, and Joe Erickson, enumerator for the census, will contact others.

The state per capita apportionment for school children is $55, so it is very important that every child of school age be enumerated. Parents of children who will start to school this fall may receive questionnaire cards either at the superintendent's office or at the Erickson and Bell firm on south Main street.

Clue Found In Case of Missing Notla Piano

A clue which may be important in solving the case of the missing Notla piano has been revealed by Sheriff Ray Phagan. Analysis of a paint specimen from a truck in Canadian has been found to be of the same chemical composition and material as the paint sample from a post at the Notla schoolhouse where the piano thieves knocked down a gate the night of the theft.

Phagan said that he had notified Canadian officers to be on the lookout for a truck with a green bed, and that he had inspected hundreds of green grain beds in the past few weeks. A truck was located in Canadian which had suspicious marks on the bed, and Phagan scraped off a sample of the paint, sending it together with a chip from the post to the Department of Public Safety laboratories.

However, the owners of the truck say it couldn't be the one used to haul off the piano, because the truck won't run.

Phagan had made arrange-

Bacon Shoot Is Scheduled Sunday

The Wolf Creek Sportsmen's Club will hold a bacon shoot at their trap located at the county fair grounds on Sunday afternoon, Febuary 27.

Packages of premium sliced bacon will be awarded to winners, and the shoot will begin at 1 p. m.

This is the first trap shoot to be held in several months, because of the bad weather, and a good crowd is expected Sunday if the weather is favorable.

Need 45 Rooms for Visiting Young People

Sleeping accomodations for approximately 90 young people are needed for Friday night, March 4, when the district 1 and 2 World Youth Fellowship meeting will be held in Perryton. Those with rooms that can be used on this night are requested to call Mrs. C. L. Schell or Charles E. Boatman, pastor of the Christian Church. The Christian Church expects around 200 persons at the two-day meeting, and have placed 110 for Friday night.

Promise Better Truck Service North, East

Greatly improved freight service from Perryton to points north and east is promised by the Texas-Oklahoma Freight Line, which purchased the Davis Truck Line recently.

Sam Gibson, general manager of the T-O line, visited in Perryton Tuesday, getting acquainted with local merchants and determining their needs regarding freight service to Wichita, Kansas, and points east.

Gibson stated that the T-O line would deliver freight from Wichita to Perryton, giving one day service, and the same service would apply on freight shipped out.

The Texas - Oklahoma Motor Freight Line operates from Amarillo to Wichita, serving Guymon, Liberal, Meade and other Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas cities en route. Their line to Perryton will be operated through Liberal as a branch of the main Amarillo-Wichita line.

The firm has made arrangements for a temporary office with the Chamber of Commerce office for outgoing freight. It is planned to establish an office here as soon as space can be secured, stated Gibson.

Clovis Man is New Manager at Goodyear Store

Announcement has been made of a change in managership of the Goodyear Service Store. Dick Martin, formerly of Clovis, N. M., has replaced Dick Sauer as manager of the local concern.

Martin was with the Goodyear concern one year in Clovis, and worked for the Poe Motor Co. of Albuquerque, N. M. for four years prior to the war. Just before the war, he travelled for the Commercial Investment and Trust Co. of El Paso.

During the war he served as a pilot with the Ferry Command.

Martin is married, has three children, and is a member of the Methodist church.

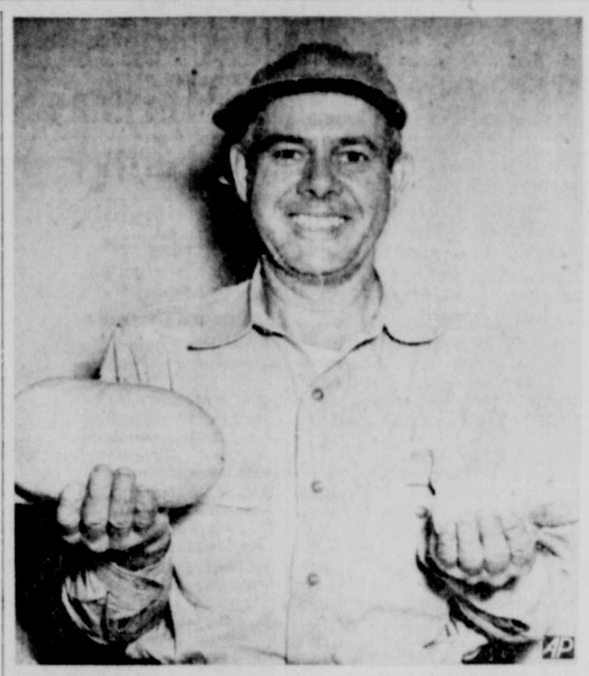

Sauer, who has operated the store for the past year, will go to Oklahoma City for another assignment with Goodyear.

GI Insurance Rebates Due In Near Future

Local World War II veterans are due GI insurance premium rebates in the near future, according to Tom Davis, county service officer. Some checks may be mailed as early as June, but most will come in the latter part of the year, he said.

Veterans will receive from 20 to 25 per cent of the premiums they have paid into National Service Life Insurance.

Meeting Thursday Night

Concerts May Be Brought to Perryton for Fall Season

Would Perryton like to see a series of top-flight concerts brought to the city?

This question will be answered at a public meeting to be held Thursday night in the senior high school study hall at 7:30 p. m., when the possibilities of such an undertaking will be discussed.

Charles Thomas, representative of the Lucius Pryor Concert Service of Council Bluffs, Iowa, will be present to discuss details of bringing these concerts to Perryton. Thomas has been in Perryton for several days, meeting with civic clubs about the project.

If those attending the meeting decide to have the concerts, a board of directors will be elected. A campaign date will then be set, probably next week, and a membership drive launched. The prices of membership are $4.80 for adults and $2.80 for students.

All music lovers and those interested in bringing this type of entertainment to Perryton are invited to attend the meeting tonight.

There will be no underwriting of the expense, and the concert groups will not demand a guarantee. The local board of directors will select the number and type of concert programs to be presented in Perryton, if the plan meets approval.

The concert programs would start next fall, when the new school auditorium is available.

Artists available for the fall season, according to Thomas, include Raymond Lewenthal, 22-year-old pianist whose concert appearances have drawn favorabel notices in New York City; Anne Bollinger, Metropolitan Opera Association soprano who has appeared as soloist with Stokowski and the Hollywood Bowl Orchestra; Henry L. Scott,

Revis on All-District Cage Team for 1949

Johnnie Revis, Ranger basketball center, won all-district honors for the second straight year when the all-star team was announced at the close of the district 1-A tournament Saturday night at Dalhart. He was the only Perryton player selected. The 1949 All-District team is as follows: Dale Schuman and Ray McKnown, Dumas; Billy Henderson and Billy Hughs, Phillips; Roy Hubbs, Dalhart; Joe Abbot and Richard Walters, Canyon; Bob Patterson, Hereford; Eddie Behrends, Tulia, and Johnnie Revis, Perryton.

Carter Seeks Post of Mayor

With the city election set for April 5, C. C. Carter is the first candidate to announce for a city office. Mr. Carter authorizes the Herald to place his name before the voters of Perryton as a candidate for mayor to succeed Rufus Bolerjack, incumbent. Saturday, March 5, is the deadline for filing for city office with the city clerk.

C. C. is truly a pioneer citizen of Ochiltree county, coming here 43 years ago. He engaged in farming and ranching until 1926 when he entered the farm implement business. He is now associated with T. J. O'Dell in farm implement and real estate.

Mr. Carter is a Spanish-American war veteran, serving a three year hitch, two of the years being in the Philippines. He has never sought or held Registered Hereford Sale to Start Today at 1:30 p. m.; Calves to be Sold at 10 a. m.

While a building full of spectators watched, three judges determined Wednesday afternoon the 1949 winners in the Ochiltree Junior Livestock Show and the registered Herefords in the Third Annual Registered Hereford Show and Sale. The 4-H Club and FFA calves will be sold this morning at 10 a. m. and the Registered Hereford Sale will begin at 1:30 p. m. in the Ochiltree county warehouse, site of yesterday's shows.

When the sifting and shuffling was through, Cecil Regier's 975-lb. Angus calf was given the coveted rosette as Grand Champion of the 1949 show. The Reserve Champion was an 870-lb. Hereford shown by Dale Hoover, who exhibited the Grand Champion last year.

Winner in the lightweight class was Dickie Hall, with Verle Downey placing second. Dale Hoover's calf won first in the middleweight class with Gary Conley's second. Cecil Regier's calf was first in the heavyweight class with Neal Flathers second.

Dickie Hall won a halter for first prize in the showmanship contest, while Max Pearson placed second and Cecil Regier won third, both receiving halters.

Hereford Winners

Club Calf Prizes

For winning the Grand Championship of the Junior Livestock Show, Cecil Regier received $25 and a rosette from the Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the show; $10 from the American Aberdeen-Angus Assn.; a registered Angus heifer from Percy Powers and an Angus steer calf from Daniel Newman.

Prizes in the lightweight, middleweight and heavyweight divisions were as follows: 1st, $20; 2nd, $17; 3rd, $15; 4th, $12; 5th, $10; 6th, $7; 7th, $5, with ribbons for each animal.

The American Hereford Assn. added one-fourth of the above amounts on all Hereford placings.

(Ed. note: This is the first of a series of articles about employees in the Perryton Post Office.)

He Learned First to Fix a Car

Arvle Hale, acting postmaster of the Perryton office, learned all about motor vehicles long before he ever thought about learning the Postal Regulations or becoming a postman. He was a skilled mechanic, an automobile dealer, operated a wholesale oil agency, owned a variety store, farmed a little, clerked in a general mercantile and grocery store before putting on the blue uniform and thick-soled shoes of a postman.

He is a native of Stephenville, Texas, but moved to a farm near Tyrone, Okla., with his parents when he was a child. His father homesteaded on a farm near Tyrone, and there's where Arvle grew up. They homesteaded in 1904 and lived on the farm until 1911 before returning to Stephenville.

Arvle attended the Stephenville schools, and entered the U. S. Army in the fall of 1918, shortly before the Armistice was declared ending World War I.

When November 11 came, Arvle and his buddies in the Motor Transport Corps were stationed on a ship in New York Harbor, preparing to sail for France. They did.

"If we'd known the war was over, there might have been a bunch of us over the side," says Arvle. "But we didn't even know about it until it was too late."

He sailed for France a few days after the war was over, and spent the next year in Bordeaux, France, assembling and repairing motor vehicles for the

Expect Over 200 Young People at World Youth Fellowship Meeting Here March 4-5

Young people from 41 Texas Panhandle and South Plains counties will come to Perryton on Friday and Saturday, March 4-5, for a bi-district meeting of World Youth Fellowship. Young people of the Perryton Christian church are hosts for the meeting.

At least 200 are expected, stated Charles E. Boatman, Christian church minister, and if the weather is favorable, this number may be exceeded.

Program arrangements are in charge of Allen Lynch, minister of the First Christian church of Plainview, assisted by Dick Clayburn of Borger. Principal speaker for the meeting will be Travis White, pastor of the First Christian church in Lubbock.

Registration starts at 4:30 p. m. Friday, and the highlight of the Friday program will be the banquet that evening at the school cafeteria, followed by a recreation hour in the gym.

The Saturday program will be devoted to discussion groups on the World Fellowship theme, with the annual election of officers following.

TEXANS IN WASHINGTON

BY TEX EASLEY

(AP) Special Washington Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — Probably the busiest office on Capitol Hill is that of Texas new Senator Lyndon B. Johnson.

Hundreds of letters pour in daily from all parts of Texas, and as many as 2,000 on a single day have been received since he took oath Jan. 3. He has a staff of 16 employes to help him hew close to a self-set rule that every ieter be answered within 24 hours.

Johnson took over the same three-room suite occupied by his predecessor, former Senator W. Lee O'Daniel, but he has rearranged things.

The large center room which served as a reception office for O'Daniel has now been taken over completely by Johnson's Administrative assistant, John Connally of Floresville, and the latter's own staff of stenographers and legislative trouble-shooters.

Among those in the latter unofficial category are Walter Jenkins of Wichita Falls, Glynn Stegall of Graham and Warren Woodward of Coleman. All experienced men in the ways of Washington, having served with the senator when he was a member of the House, they handle innumerable queries by getting on the telephone and contacting the proper federal officials.

Visitors enter the suite now in the smaller end room which heretofore was occupied by O'Daniels's secretaries and stenographers. Miss Mary Rather, formerly of Sugarland and Austin and for many years a secretary to Johnson, usually welcomes them.

When Miss Rather is engaged in other matters, Mrs. Dorothy Nichols, Jr., of Cotulla or Doris Seeliger of Lockhart may be the ones to welcome the visitors.

Behind a desk at the back of the reception room sits Horace Busby of Fort Worth, former Texas newspaper and radio man, who serves as Johnson's press relations official. He is the one to whom the reporters first go with their queries. If he can't supply the answers, or if for any reason the newsman wants to see the senator, he gets prompt admission into the inner sanctum.

An analysis of the huge volume of mail Johnson receives, says Busby, shows that more than half is from individuals asking for aid in their own personal problems which have a connection with the federal government. The remainder is largely from individuals expressing their views on matters such as pending labor or social security legislation.

Others on Johnson's staff include: Mrs. Henry Long, Lubbock; Mrs. Christine Moore, Dallas; Mrs. Goldie Ruth Brians, Bryan; Barbara Cunningham, Austin; Sarah Jones, Humble; Norman Heine, Lampasas; Bob Brill, Austin, and Walter Bayer, Dime Box.

Congress appropriates funds to pay for a senator's staff, and the amount each is allocated depends partly on the population of the state he represents. Every administrative assistant gets a fixed salary, which with a cost-of-living bonus approximates $10,000 annually. For the rest of his staff, Johnson receives about $56,000 yearly. Salaries range upward from approximately $250 monthly received by some of the stenographers.

Around the Capitol:

One of the most impressive receptions this winter in Washington was one given in honor of Speaker Sam Rayburn by Rep. and Mrs. Clark Thompson of Galveston. Numerous Cabinet members and others high in the government, including General Omar Bradley, attended.

Former Dallas Mayor Frank W. Wozencraft and Mrs. Wozencraft now residents of Washington, have just returned from New Haven, Conn., and a visit with their son Frank M. The son has been chosen editor of the Yale Law Review for the last half of the school year.

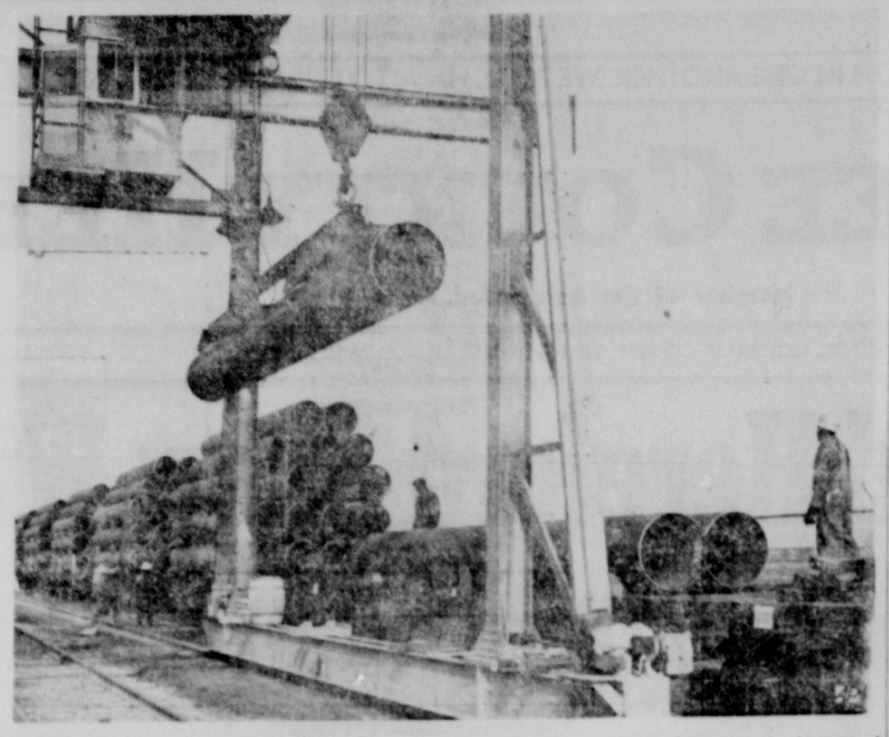

Gib Sandfer, former manager of the Hardin-Simmons University Cowboy band, is promoting a tour of the U. S. A. Air Force Band throughout the nation. He is writing to heads of civic organizations in various cities inquiring whether they wish to sponsor the Air Force band's appearance in their localities. Last year Sandefer managed a tour of the U. S. Navy band.

Austin Anson, manager of the Texas Citrus and Vegetable Growers and Shippers Association, testified in opposition to the 75 cents per hour minimum wage at the House Labor Committee hearing on the subject.

He started off his testimony by stepping up to the committee chairman and laying down grapefruit and a cabbage.

Then he started a graphic description of the output of Texas farms and citrus groves. Shipments from the state last year totaled 22,065 box cars of citrus and 48,106 cars of vegetables, and in addition, 20,314 cars equivalent by truck.

He said the proposed increase over the present 40 cent minimum would have to be absorbed by either the grower or consumer.

PIPE ENROUTE TO TEXAS—A magnetic hoist loads the longest trainload of pipe in the history of the Santa Fe railroad aboard cars at California. One hundred cars were in this shipment. Consigned to the Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation of Texas for construction of the world's longest pipeline, from Texas to New York, this initial shipment of 30-inch diameter pipe is the first of approximately 20,000 car loads. READY TO RIDE—Hugo Koblet, Swiss six-day bike racing ace, is training for the big internation journey to nowhere to be held in New York next month. Fifteen teams, representing nearly as many foreign nations, will vie in the race. Koblet and his partner in the coming grind, Walter Diggelman, rode their bikes to Miami recently to improve their indurance and now are working on speed tests. Both are expert skiers and soccer players.

Austrians Rap Military Toys

VIENNA (AP)—An appeal to the people of Vienna, asking them not to buy "military" toys for their children this Christmas has been made by Lord Mayor Dr. Theodor Koerner and representatives of the three Austrian political parties.

The appeal referred to the misery suffered by the victims of the last war and asked the population not to "plant the seed of future misery in the souls of our children."

Famous Red Heads, Girls' Cage Team, Booked March 29

The famous Red Heads, nationally known girls' basketball team, has been booked for a game with the American Legion five at the school gym on Tuesday night, March 29. This is a different team from the one that played the Legion team last year.

This is the number one team of the three girls' teams originated as Olsen's Red Heads. They are managed by C. M. Olson of Cassville, Mo., and are now playing on the coast, in Oregon, Washington and California.

Advance publicity on the team states that the seven girls put on a clever show, including such stunts as finger ball spinning, fancy dribbling, piggy - back stunts and other clowning acts. Their star is Red Mason, a girl six feet two inches in height, who has hands large enough to hold a basketball in each hand.

Legion Trims Stinnett 44-42 In League Game

The Legion basketball team found stiffer opposition than they had counted on in a stubborn Stinnett team that fought all the way before going down before the locals, 44-42, Thursday night.

Perryton had vanquished the visitors rather handily earlier in the season, but Stinnett played a closer game this time. With Womble, fast breaking forward, leading the way, Stinnett was ahead 10-8 at the end of the first quarter.

The Legion took the lead at the half, 23-19, made it 35-28 at the end of the third period, then saw their lead whittled away until Stinnett was ahead 38-36 with three minutes to play.

Scheil, McWilliams and Pletcher dropped in four fast goals, however, while Stinnett could make but two, and the game ended with the two point margin.

High point man for the evening was Womble of Stinnett, with 18. For Perryton, Lindsay McWilliams canned 11 points, Bob Scheil 10, and Tommy Pletcher 9, to lead the locals.

ryton Sorosis Club Starts te Birth Registration Drive

Perryton Sorosis Club, e Home Economics De- as originator, has a project which, if en- to law, will affect the very child born in Texas. an amendment to laws g birth registration to birth registration card of the customary certif- by of birth certificate. irth registration card would have only the name, date and place of birth, and a serial number corresponding to the original birth certificate.

The Perryton club believes this will protect the illegitimate child from a stigma which is certainly not the child's fault.

Since the local club has adopted this project, it has been approved by other Sorosis clubs, and has been favorably received in state headquarters. A resolution calling for the introduction of a bill into the Texas Legislature will be submitted at the district meeting of Federated Women's Clubs by the local club. If approved by the district and state organizations, it will eventually reach the Texas Legislature.

In commenting on the project, Mrs. Lloyd Phillips, chairman of the Home Economics department, stated, "The reason for the registration card is that it protects the illegitimate child from the heartless cruelty to which he is subjected. There is no such thing as an illegitimate child—only illegitimate parents.

"Picture yourself as a child born without the sanction of the church or state through the marriage vows and you are ready to start to school, and must show your birth certificate, as is required by law in this state. And you have a teacher who isn't exactly broadminded or the Christian type person who should be in that position. You have made a wrong start right there, and is it your fault?"

"Again how about other children who have learned of this certificate marked 'illegitimate' and childlike make those stinging remarks which only a child can make to another. Yet you the so called illegitimate, are blameless but you get all the heartache.

"The Home Economics department has introduced this project to the General Sorosis and it has been adopted by the club. The B&PW club and Beta Sigma Phi have endorsed the project and it is to be presented to the Federation of Women's Clubs in Texas. After which, through combined strength we hope to get the bill passed by the legislature.

Baseball, Golf Swings Alike—DiMag

NEW YORK (AP)—Joe DiMaggio, while anything but a golfer, explained during his first personal appearance on television that he gets the same thrill as golfers get when they hit a long ball.

"I feel the power in my left arm on home runs," said the Yankee slugger when interviewed by golf pro Johnny Farrell during his weekly show, "Swing Into Sports."

DiMaggio also explained that to press at the plate means loss of timing. The same applies to golf.

Debate Teams to Meet Canadian

Perryton high school debate teams will compete against Canadian high school at the school study hall Thursday afternoon, March 17. Subject of the debate is "Resolved, That the Severance Tax on Natural Resources Should Be Increased."

Perryton girl debaters are Marian Day and Clara Revis: boys are Jerry Key and Jerry Ward.

Mrs. Rose Powell is coach of the debate teams, the first Perryton high school has had in several years.

Switzerland, which covers about 16,000 square miles, contains the headwaters of four great European river systems—the Rhine, Rhone, Po and Danube.

Saint Bernard dogs are named for a mountain in Switzerland near which the breed was developed and where the dogs were used to help rescue travelers lost in the snow.

Army Recruiting Team to Visit Here Thursday

A U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force recruiting team composed of Master Sgt. Otis S. Cook and Staff Sgt. Charles W. Honaker will be in Perryton on Thursday, March 3, to interview applicants for enlistment in the Army and Air Force.

Although enlistments are frozen at the present time, applicants may be placed on the priority lists for future openings. The recruiting team will come in the Recruiting Service van, to be parked in downtown Perryton.

Filing Deadline For City Office Is March 4

C. C. Carter, veteran implement dealer, became the first to file for city office in the April 4 election when he submitted his name as a candidate for mayor. No other candidates have filed for city clerk, mayor or the two vacancies on the city council.

No candidates have filed for the three vacancies on the Perryton Independent School District board of trustees.

Both elections will be held in April, with the city election coming on April 4 and the school election on April 2.

Deadline for filing for city office is Saturday, March 4, thirty days before the election.

The terms of mayor Rufus Bolerjack, city clerk Milam Cudd, aldermen Howard Holt and Giltner LaMaster will expire this year. On the school board, the terms of S. D. Key, L. D. Stinson and E. W. Hearn expire this year.

Candidates for city office may file with the city clerk, while candidates for the school board may file with superintendent Gilbert Mize.

Man Confesses to Jan. 17 Burglary Of Steak House

A prisoner in the Hollis, Okla., jail has signed a statement admitting the burglary of the Russell Steak House on January 17, according to Sheriff Ray Phagan, who took the statement Tuesday in Hollis.

Phagan stated that he had arrested the man for questioning the day after the burglary but had released him because of lack of evidence. Later developments caused him to send out a pick-up order for the suspect, and he was made available when Hollis police caught him last week burglarizing a Hollis firm.

According to Phagan, the man admitted breaking a window pane in the Russell garage building, entering the building and cutting the back screen door of the Steak House in order to enter the building. Approximately $85 was taken from a desk in the cafe.

He will be brought to Perryton and tried on the burglary charge when he is released by Oklahoma authorities.

Mothers Club Gathers Clothing For Europe Relief

The Mothers Club of Perryton will gather clothes to be sent to needy families in Europe, beginning Tuesday, March 1, Mrs. Lawrence Ellzey, president of the club has announced.

Contributions may be brought to Mrs. Ellzey's home, 621 S. Elton, or by phoning 355-W, one of the club members will call for them.

occupation forces.'

We assembled over 1,200 new cars and trucks," says Arvle. "And rolled them out into the mud when they were ready. When we pulled out of France in 1919, these vehicles were taken over by the French, who appreciated them greatly, no doubt."

When his unit finally left France late in 1919, Arvle returned to Stephenville for a few months, then went north to Tyrone to make the 1920 wheat harvest. After harvest, he took a job as mechanic with the Durham and Son garage, working there for the next four years.

On November 11, 1923, he was married to Miss Rose Hamm of Pratt, Kansas. They have two children, James, who finished Perryton high school in 1946, and Beverly, a high school student.

From 1923 to 1926, Arvle worked as a clerk in the Murphy Mercantile Co. in Tyrone, leaving there in 1926 for Pratt, Kansas, where he had purchased the Oldsmobile automobile agency.

It was in 1927 that the Hale family came to Perryton. They opened the Hale Variety Store, which was located in the 300 block of Main street, where the Music Bar is now.

In 1928, Arvle went back to his original trade, taking a job with the Walker Motor Co., then located where the Perryton Motor Co. now stands, and owned by Creed Walker, now retired. He worked there until 1929, while Mrs. Hale operated their variety store.

In the fall of 1929, the Hales moved back to Tyrone, where Arvle got his first taste of the post office business. He worked in the Tyrone office, a third class office, but left after a year to operate the Sinclair Wholesale Oil Co. in Tyrone. He had taken the civil service examination for postal employees in August, 1930, and his appointment came through in November for the Perryton post office.

"I thought I'd have it made if I could get a permanent civil service position with Uncle Sam," says Arvle. "So I quit that profitable oil business and came to Perryton."

Disillusionment about the attractive civil service position was not long in coming after the Hale family arrived in Perryton. Arvle started work in the Perryton office on November 17, 1930, the era after the stock market crash, and at a time when low wheat prices had put a damper on Perryton business conditions.

He started out as a substitute carrier and clerk, meaning that he worked only five or six hours a day at 65 cents per hour. For a man with a wife and baby—for their son, James, was but a few months old at that time—it was just as hard, or more so to make a living in government service as anywhere else.

Civil service had lost some of its glamour for Arvle. Substitute carriers and clerks had no sick leave, no vacation time, and of their 65 cents an hour, two and one-half percent went into their retirement fund.

"So," says Arvle, "I had to put in my extra time washing cars and humping for odd jobs to make my income meet my outgo."

It took seven years as a substitute before he gained a permanent position in the post office. His regular appointment came in October, 1937, and he took up his full-time duties at the front window of the office.

Another eight years went by, and on July 1, 1945, he was appointed assistant postmaster. When the late M. R. Coffee resigned as postmaster in November, 1946, Arvle was elevated to acting postmaster, the position he now holds.

In reminiscing about his years in the Perryton post office, Arvle said that only Arch Talley, rural carrier, remains of the force that was there when he arrived. Of course, Leroy Hartman, whose appointment as substitute carrier nearly coincides with Arvle's, is still in the office.

One thing Arvle is proud of—and rightly so—is that during his employed years, beginning when he came home after the first World War, he hasn't missed a day of work, in spite of his moving around to different jobs.

"In fact," he says, "I didn't even miss a day of work when we were married. We were married on Sunday, and Monday morning I was back on the job."

When asked about his ideas on civil service as a lifetime career, he has this to say:

"You won't get rich working for Uncle Sam in a post office. I'll say that. You get your pay on time, and when times are hard, the job gets pretty good because it is permanent. In times of high prices and rising costs, though, the government workers are caught in a terrific squeeze. If you think raises come easy from Uncle Sam, you've got another think coming."

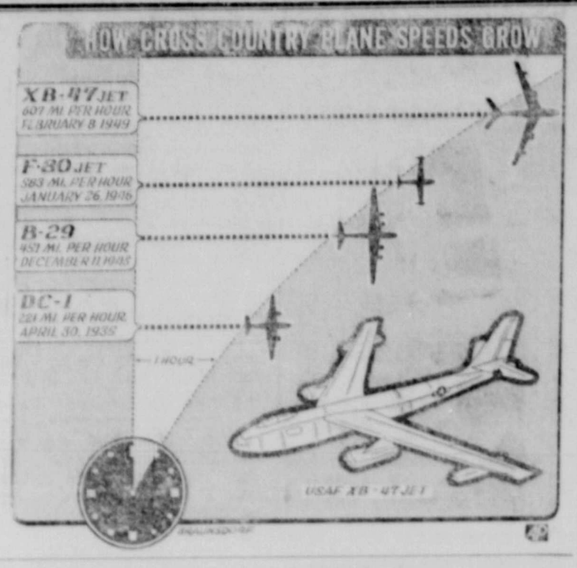

"Since he joined the Perryton office, he has seen the yearly receipts rise from $11,000 to last year's record breaking $35,000. The volume of mail has tripled, Perryton has grown, demands on the office are greater than ever before, yet they work in the same amount of space, using in many cases the same equipment installed there twenty years ago.

"We can't give service without something to give it with," says Arvle. "People don't realize these things when they complain at times about the way we handle the mail."

Eventually, things will improve, thinks Arvle. Meanwhile, the post office force will do the best they can with what they've got.

Still think a postman has an easy job?

Space In County Library Doubled After Remodeling

The county library re-opened Wednesday after being closed for a week for a remodeling program which doubled the space of the library. The ladies lounge was moved to the Club Center in the courthouse, and the library has expanded two rooms to the west.

New shelves have been added around the walls in these two rooms, and new tables and chairs have been added, affording a reading room. The tables in the front part of the library which formerly contained books, have been cleared out, making much more space for readers.

The library now contains 4,467 books, plus hundreds of magazines. Besides being inconvenient, the crowded condition of the library was actually hard on the books, reports Mrs. W. C. May, librarian, because they had to be jammed into the shelves where there was not enough room.

There are 1,951 registered readers who checked out 15,654 volumes last year.

Now that there is more room, it is planned to add more volumes, particularly reference works, to the library.

Extra-Point Kickers Show Extra Grit

By JACK STEVENSON

(AP) Newsfeatures

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Physical disabilities failed to stop a couple of Phoenix College boys from earning football letters.

The two, Bill Small and Jack Farmer, formed the school's point after touchdown kicking set. Bill did the booting and Jack the holding. The combination hit eight out of ten attempts and Coach Chink Coleman blames one miss on a poor pass from center.

Coleman likes to tell the story of the boys who "couldn't play football" yet through grit and determination got into the game.

It was during early fall practice that a husky fellow interfered with practice sessions and without invitation sat in on secret meetings of the Phoenix Bears.

Coleman finally asked him to leave. His name was Bill Small and the six-foot-one 197-pounder had been a prep gridder earlier, but a tractor accident left his left leg partially crushed. He told the coach he could only kick. Chink gave him his chance.

Phoenix at that time hadn't erected its goalposts, so Small practiced kicking at the small basketball backboard. It proved so effective that he continued to drill with the smaller target.

His holding buddy, Farmer, suffers from a spinal injury. He reported for the squad but doctors made him give up the sport.

He asked Coleman if he needed an assistant student manager.

"We've already got one," Farmer was told, "but if you want, you can hold the ball while that fellow kicks."

TRAMP PILOTS FLY WHERE THE CARGO GOES—There's a new exclusive group of pilots flying the airways today. They are the "cargo corps", an inner circle of pilots and co-pilots, many of whom welcome the change from clockwork passenger flights over routes that have become as familiar as the postman's. These fellows fly anywhere, any time, and visit any port of call. Shown above, a crew loads up at Miami, Fla., bound for Barranquilla, Columbia. They are carrying—of all things—a load of brassiers. On the way back, they'll bring a load of bulls to be delivered for bullfights in Caracas, Venezeuela.

Picturesque Sage and Cactus Costs Texans Millions of Dollars in Lower Production

By Robert E. Ford

(Advance)-Dallas (AP)—You've heard those songs about bloom on the sage. The travel ad pictures of cactus are pretty, too, aren't they?

Enjoy them folks. They're costing you dough, whether you live in the Bronx, Savannah, Chicago or Amarillo.

Cedar and mesquite alone are costing Texas ranchers $115,000,000 (M) a year. Add the sage and cactus, and the liveoak, spanish oak, red oak, post oak, blue oak, cresote, tarbrush, whitebrush, blackbrush, agarita, yaupon, catclaw, hog, plum, persimmon, huisache, ganjeno, brazil bush, soapbush, false willow, McCartney rose, blackjack oak, retama and prickly pear and the toll is terrific.

These plants are adding millions annually to the nation's food bill. Whenever they grow, they reduce the number of cattle that can be grazed. That means higher meat prices.

Some experts estimate these noxious plants are costing the ranchers as much as $300,000,000 (M) a year in Texas alone. Almost a third of Texas rangeland is infested with them.

The reason these plants are so costly is that where they grow, grass can't. When these plants destroy the grass, the soil washes away. Soon the topsoil is gone and the land is worthless.

A recent publication by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Coollege Station says that if only cedar and mesquite were eradicated, Texas meat production would increase 400,000,000 (M) pounds annually.

The authors, Vernon A. Young, Frank R. Anderwald and Wayne G. McCully, estimated these two plants alone cost ranchers $115,000,000 (M) every year.

Members of the department of range and forestry at A. & M. College, the authors point to these facts: Texas ranchers' cattle graze 93,500,000 (M) acres of rangeland. Some 65,000,000 acres are infected by noxious plants; 37,000,000 acres are seriously affected.

In 1870 the U. S. Department of Agriculture yearbook, speaking of range opportunities in the Southwest, said: "Farmers upon land (in other areas) costing $20 to $200 an acre, in climate requiring four or five months of winter feeding, cannot compete with stock raisers operating under a sky that demands no shelter and upon soil yielding perennial supplies of green food where land is so cheap that a single stock farm includes a whole country."

"Unfortunately," says the A. & M. Faculty members, these pictures no longer exist."

Before the white man came, millions of acres of Texas land were covered with knee high forage grass. The grass was so thick that the undersirable plants couldn't grow well.

Then severe drouths and cold weather damaged the grass. Great areas were burned off. The ranges were overstocked. Floods, windstorms, animal and birds spread the seed of malignant plants, which took hold in the damaged rangelands.

These rob grasses of water, soil food and sunlight. It's a vicious cycle that finds grasses always the losers.

Some ranchers claim that in times of severe drouth, a few cattle can survive on mesquite beans and cactus. Ranchers burn off the cactus spines and cattle eat the plants.

Bah, answer the A. & M. experts. If the mesquite and cactus weren't there, the grass would have the water these plants stole. And cattle would have two and a half times more forage than they could get from mesquite beans, cactus and what little grass these plant allow to grow.

The problem seems simple. Why not just cut down the trees, bushes and plants?

Do that and you're in for more trouble. The mesquite possesses a root bud which has eyes like a potato. Cut down a mesquite bush and you may have 50 or more in its place—a new plant growing from each eye.

Cut down a cactus or prickly pear and chop it into pieces. Wherever a piece lands, a new plant will grow.

Burn the range and you may not kill the plants. But you certainly will kill the grass and will leave the land open to more infestation.

Texas ranges specialists are fighting back, but it's slow, rugged work. They've developed power machinery to dig out the root bud of the mesquite. These plows are fairly effective. But there are about 55,000,000 (M) acres infested with mesquite. The equipment is expensive.

Chemestry is taking a hand. But methods developed so far generally require individual treatment for each plant, a tremendous task. Kerosene, various other fuel oils, ammonium sulfamate, sodium compounds are effective but hard work to apply.

The newest hope is the chemical agents 2,4-D and 2, 4, 5-5. These compounds are hormone-type sprays which control growth. They don't kill the root bud of a mesquite. However, forestry and range experts believe they are the most fertile field for research in sight. If they can be developed so they will prevent regrowth, then cheap, mass application will be profitable.

Golf course shelters, unless properly rodded, can be dangerous targets for lightning.

District Wheat Identification School Is Scheduled March 16

Grain buyers for country elevators, flour mills and sub-terminals as well as county agents, high school vocational agriculture teachers and certified wheat growers all will have another opportunity to study wheat variety identification at a district school to be held March 16 in the Spearman Baptist church. Chairman of the school will be Zack Jaggers, Hansford county agent.

The school will start promptly at 9:30 a. m. and close at 4 p. m.

Ten of these district schools are scheduled in wheat territory of Texas and New Mexico under the direction of the Texas-Oklahoma Wheat Improvement according to Keats E. Soder, director. "We had so much interest and such good attendance at our variety schools last year we're offering them again," explains Soder.

The first school of this type in this area was held last year in Perryton.

At the close of the school tests are given and those who pass are given a "Certificate of Merit."

Program for the one-day school includes study of the principal variety groups under the direction of Fred Dines, the national variety authority employed by Tex-o-Kan Flour Mills at Amarillo; a review of individual variety samples by Keats Soder; a discussion of field characteristics, yields, test weight, and disease resistance, by a representative of Texas A & M College Experiment Station: plus an open forum discussion of methods of wheat handling and storage at country points needed to collect the premium prices now being offered by terminals and mills.

Two 2-day schools are scheduled for Fort Worth and Amarillo, the first day will be the same as the other district schools, while the second day will be advanced training for experts.

The school will be open to all who wish to attend, but is designed to help local grain buyers prepare for the day wheat exports stop and the buyers in some areas will be forced to offer two prices for wheat at country points, concludes Soder.

In the city the terms of Mayor Rufus Bolerjack, City Clerk M. M. Cudd and Aldermen Howard Holt and Giltner LaMaster expire. Holdover aldermen are Otis Burk, Jack F. Todd and R. B. Orrill. Candidates for city offices are required to file at least 30 days before election, making the deadline for filing with the city clerk, March 5.

Every single office to be filled in these two elections is important . . . especially when one considers the possibilities of a great expansion in the Perryton area during the coming few years. Most Americans are pretty good citizens until they're faced with the responsibility of holding public office. A good citizen should be proud to serve in public office, even though it be a minor one. Honorable and efficient service as a public official is an obligation of citizenship.

You've got to hand it to the government (and we mean all government . . . city, school, state and national) for efficiency . . . in collecting taxes.

Success in business is more often achieved through observance of simple, obvious rules than through uncanny shrewdness and deep cunning.

They are asking that the person or persons who borrowed them, please return at once.

Perryton Rotarians and their guests at last Thursday's luncheon are indebted to Henry Hertner of Amarillo for the showing of the film "Prairie Wings". This movie, filmed by Ducks Unlimited, is being made available to Panhandle audiences through the courtesy of Gene Howe, publisher of the Amarillo News-Globe. Mr. Howe, the Panhandle's No. 1 sportsman and wild life authority, purchased the film so that people of this section could see the wild bird refuge at Grand Prairie, Ark., famed as the largest concentration of wild game birds in North America.

Guests of the Rotary Club last Thursday in addition to Mr. Hertner were Eldon Gray, Amarillo; Hood Wills, J. R. Thomas, O. C. Rogers, and Harold Kershaw, Perryton; Dean Cook, Canadian; T. L. Evans, Clovis, N. M.; and W. E. Davis, Spearman.

There is no question but what these are the most successful livestock events ever held in Perryton . . . that is from quality, number, attendance and general interest. The auction this afternoon may tell another story from the financial angle. It is our observation that this the finest bunch of animals ever shown here . . . there is no question but what they're in much better show condition than in years past. Our heartiest congratulations go to the Hereford breeders and to the F.F.A. and 4-H boys. A job well done.

Colene Schell To Compete In Oratory Meet

Colene Schell, Perryton high school sophomore, will represent Ochiltree county in the American Legion High School Oratorical Contest. She will compete against entries from 20 other Panhandle counties in the district contest at Amarillo March 4.

The top national prize in the Legion contest is a $4,000 scholarship to any college in the nation. The Amarillo News-Globe is awarding an additional prize of a one-year scholarship to West Texas State College for the winners in the district contest.

The contestants will give a prepared oration on some subject dealing with the United States Constitution and then will be tested with a shorter extemporaneous speech.

Miss Schell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Schell, is the drum majorette of the Ranger band, and is an accomplished baton twirler.

She will broadcast her oration over KEYE Wednesday night from 9 to 9:15 p. m.

French Students May Go to India

NEW DELHI (AP)—The government of India has decided to award nine fellowships to French graduates for research work and teaching in Indian universities in 1949. A government press note said that this has been done with a view to strengthening the cultural bonds between India and France, and in response to the interest shown by the French government in cultivating the study of Indian languages and lectures among the French people. The value of the Indian fellowships has been fixed at $150 per month for two years, plus the cost of second class return passage to France.

Twenty Year Options on Cotton Bowl Seats on Sale for $50

High interest has been created throughout the Southwest by an announcement from the Board of Directors of the State Fair of Texas, through President R. L. Thornton, that a plan has been adopted that would provide additional seats in the Cotton Bowl Stadium.

The public will be offered options for seats in a new addition to be built in the Cotton Bowl Stadium, provided sufficient options are sold by February 28, 1949.

Options will sell at $50.00 each, giving the purchaser the privilege of buying one ticket for each reserved seat event in the Cotton Bowl stadium over a period of twenty years. The option is not a bond, but strictly an option right. Its only purpose is to provide the option holder with the right to purchase a reserved seat for twenty years, in the Cotton Bowl stadium.

The State Fair of Texas may stop the sale of these options before February 28, 1949, if a sufficient number of options have been sold to construct additional seats on the east side of the stadium.

Mr. Thornton announced that there will be an annual drawing of seats for option seat holders on the east side just as it is done for those holding bond options on the west side.

The program as planned would call for the project to be financed by February 28, 1949, and every effort made to start construction not later than April 1, 1949, with completion date not later than September 15, 1949.

The schedule for football games in the Cotton Bowl Stadium to date for the 1949 season is as follows:

Oct. 1—SMU-Missouri University
Oct. 8—Texas-Oklahoma
Oct. 15—SMU-Rice
Oct. 22—SMU-Kentucky
Oct. 29—SMU-Texas
Nov. 12—SMU-Arkansas
Dec. 3—SMU-Notre Dame
January 1, 1950—New eYar's Day Cotton Bowl game.

The officers and Board of Directors of the State Fair of Texas are hopeful that this plan of financing will permit the building of a sufficient number of new seats on the east side of the stadium to meet at least a part of the excessive demand for seats.

Checks and applications should be sent to the State Fair of Texas, Dallas 10, Texas, and checks should be made payable to the State Fair of Texas. The name and address of the applicant should be printed. The applicant should definitely specify the number of options he wishes and enclose his check to cover that number.

One Jail Inmate Nets Profit

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—The city jail is rid of its most complacent prisoner. He was an aged brown mule that munched city hay for ten weeks.

Police found the old fellow on a vacant lot and advertised him in a lost and found column but nobody claimed him. So finally on order of Police Chief L. J. Campbell an auction was held in front of the jail.

Auctioneer E. M. Lupre proclaimed that the mule was "good and strong and would cost $75 anywhere else." The two bidders examined the animal's teeth and agreed he was more than 14 years old.

The bidding started at $5 and ended at $25. As the mule strolled away with his new owner, a policeman commented:

"That was a $2.60 profit. He ate up the rest of his price in hay and mule feed."

DEMAND Minimum Standards for Your Health

THE next time you call a doctor of medicine, osteopath, chiropractor or naturopath — how can you be sure he is competent to treat you?

You cannot be sure, as things stand now in Texas. The answer?

DEMAND MINIMUM STANDARDS FOR YOUR HEALTH

A just, practical minimum standards law for Texas is now pending before the State Legislature. This law would simply require that anyone who wishes to practice any branch of the healing art must prove that he possesses at least fundamental knowledge of the human anatomy, disease, the effect of drugs, and other basic sciences.

In other words, the bill — just as its name implies — sets up minimum standards in the basic sciences common to all branches of the healing arts. A practitioner of any branch of the healing art would be required by law to meet those minimum standards. If he does not meet those standards, your health would be endangered in his hands.

No such legal protection is guaranteed the people of Texas today.

An examination would guarantee that an applicant meets these minimum standards. It would be given by a qualified and impartial board. No partiality or preference would be shown by the board because its members would not be practitioners of any branch of the healing art, but instead would be science teachers from the staffs of our own leading Texas schools such as Texas, Texas A. & M., Texas Tech, Rice, S. M. U., Baylor, T. C. U., and so on. The Governor would name the examining board from the people who teach these subjects. What could be fairer?

The Minimum Standards Bill is not against anyone. It is for the public. It will help guarantee to you that all future practitioners prove they are basically qualified to treat you when your life may be at stake.

For your health's sake, urge your State Legislators to vote for the Minimum Standards Bill.

Christian Science

Corner S. W. 7th Ave. and S. Colgate

"Christ Jesus" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, February 27.

The Golden Text is: "There shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow out of his roots" (Isaiah 11:1).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "The Lord thy God will raise up unto thee a Prophet from the midst of thee, of thy brethren, like unto me; unto him ye shall hearken;" (Deuteronomy 18:15).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus was the offspring of Mary's self-conscious communion with God. Hence he could give a more spiritual idea of life than other men, and could demonstrate the Science of Love—his Father or divine Principle" (page 29).

Uncle Sam Says

Many thousands of wise fathers, husbands and sons know there is no more thoughtful Christmas gift than a U. S. Savings Bond. So put your dollars into Savings Bonds because they are the safest, soundest investment you can make for those you love. Every dollar is guaranteed by the government and the value increases steadily. For every $3 you pay today returns $4 in just ten years. You should be enrolled for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or if self-employed, for the Bond-a-Month Plan where you bank. Either way you will be choosing a winner.

Veterans' NEWS

Ochiltree county veterans are served by county service officer Tom Davis, whose office is in the courthouse annex. The daytime phone number is 36 and at night or in an emergency, the phone number is 487. Veterans who need assistance in any way are urged to make use of the services provided by the county service officer.

County service officer Tom Davis has application forms for any veterans that entered service in Louisiana during World War II. These applications are for the state bonus recently enacted.

Payments range from $250 for those with overseas service down to $50 for those who served 90 days or less in the U. S.

A Veteran's Right to Elect Training Under Public Law 16 or Public Law 346

A veteran who has a disability rated as service-connected for which compensation is payable may be eligible for either vocational rehabilitation under Public Law 16 or education and training under Public Law 346. SUCH A VETERAN MUST E L E C T WHICH BENEFIT HE W I L L TAKE. He is cautioned that to begin training under Public Law 346 is an election to take training under that law, and that he will not thereafter have the right to elect training under Public Law 16. It further follows that if the veteran elects to take training under Public Law 16, he will not thereafter have the right to elect training under Public Law 346.

A veteran in training under either law has already exercised his election, provided he was eligible to train under both laws when he commenced his training.

This will emphasize the fact that a veteran should not commence a course of training under either law as a matter of convenience if he desires to continue his training under the other law. In the past, this procedure has been followed to a considerable extent in that a veteran with a service - connected disa... would start training under P... Law 346 expecting to be allo... to change over to Public La... at some later date. It must ... clearly understood that in s... conditions, the veteran sur... ders any future election rights.

The Veterans Administration, however, may permit a vet... to CHANGE HIS TRAINING ... one law to the other if it appe... to be for the best interest of ... veteran, or the government, ... both. Each case will be indi... ually handled and all decis... rest entirely with the Veter... Administration.

Takes Up Dead Son's Work With Children

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — At the age of 73, Louis H. Reynolds thought his life's workdays were behind him, until he remembered the work his son left when he died. Thinking back over the things Police Capt. Golden Reynolds had told him about the juvenile aid division, the retired railroad man offered his services free to the juvenile court's probation department. Today he's a volunteer worker in the Marion County Juvenile Center.

"I was always so busy rearing a family that I didn't have time to consider the problems of unfortunate children," Reynolds said.

The son had built a reputation as a friend of neglected children while he served as head of the juvenile aid division. Six weeks after Capt. Reynold's death, his mother died. Louis Reynolds, letf alone, remembered what his son had said:

"There are so many kids who never had anyone who really and honestly cared about them."

Father Reynolds found he got along fine with the boys at the juvenile center. He'd been a school teacher before he went into railroad work.

"Maybe I can get them straightened out-again," he said.

He was given hearty welcome in his new job. Juvenile Court Judge Joseph O. Hoffman and Charles Boswell, chief probation officer for Marion County, issued a joint statement:

"We feel that the more association the delinquent children have with mature persons, the better their chances of getting straightened out." Reynolds is happy just to "carry on for Golden."

Indigenous Personnel Now 'German'

BERLIN (AP)—The U. S. Army says that henceforth Germans in its employ are going to be called Germans and not "indigenous (native) personnel."

A notice in the official "Daily Bulletin" says: "Wherever formerly reference was made to 'indigenous' Personnel, reference will now be made to 'German' personnel in future directives. All signs containing the word 'indigenous' will be changed to read 'German'."

There were no official explanation for the change, but an officer in the division responsible for carrying it out, said:

"That word 'indigenous' has been with us as long as military government existed. Top-side didn't tell us why they were changing, but I suppose that now the term is considered objectionable."

Austrian Schools Get U. S. Supplies

VIENNA (AP) — Supplies and equipment valued at more than $20,000 have been purchased by American Army Headquarters here for Austrian schools in the American occupied zone. Purchases were made from a congressional appropriation for the rehabilitation of education in Austria.

The equipment includes seven film projectors, 15 sewing machines, 10 wood working and 10 metal-working lathes, 97 desk and chair units, and 28 other types of classroom furniture.

El Salvador Teachers Get Houses

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)—School teachers in this Central American capital now have one less worry—there is a good roof over their heads.

President Salvador Castaneda authorized turning over to them 30 houses built by the social welfare department. The teachers will pay for them on a long range basis, according to their salaries. To settle the question of who gets a house first, lots will be drawn.

Moscow Plans New Buildings

MOSCOW (AP)—It has been officially announced that nearly 1,000 buildings are scheduled to go up in the Capital this year. This is about twice as many as were built last year, when Moscow exceeded the peak pre-war construction pace of 1940.

Roughly the same rate of progress is scheduled also for other branches of municipal economy, such as improvement of housing, streets, and the transport services.

A highlight of the building development is the laying of the cornerstone for the new Moscow University.

The university will be located on the Lenin Hills, the highest point around Moscow.

Leading College Golfer of Texas To Become Pro

Little Gene Towry, one of Texas' better collegiate golfers, is going to turn professional this summer.

"I don't intend to play on the pro circuit," he said today. "But I'd like to get an assistant professional job at some country club so I can really learn the inside of the golfing trade."

Towry, 130-pounder with a terrific drive, intends to compete in the national intercollegiate matches the latter part of June. He'll probably turn pro after these.

He's won six top-flight tournaments in the last two years and has helped North Texas State College to a clean sweep in most of its team matches.

The 20-year-old Dallasite graduates in May. He'll receive a bachelor's degree in business administration.

Towry, Buster Reed, L. M. Crannell and Palmer Lawrence will form the nucleus of the North Texas State golf team this season. Gerald Waterhouse, A. J. Triggs Jr., Jimmy Thomas and Bill Houck will add to the team's strength.

Titles held by Towry include the Texas State Junior crown (1946) Dallas Junior (1945-46), Marshall invitation (1947), Ranger Invitation (1948), Glen Garden invitation (1948), and the Palestine invitation (1948).

North Texas will probably open team play this year at the Fat Stock show tournament in Fort Worth on March 19. The Eagles have won the Lone Star Conference championship for six straight years.

Towry said he probably would not compete in very many open amateur tournaments this year. His plans to turn pro will eliminate him from many of the late summer meets.

Another reason for turning his golfing ability into a pay check is a date at the altar. It'll take place some time this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Leatherman and Mrs. William Kuder arrived Friday from California to visit Mr. Leatherman's and Mrs. Kuder's parents Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Leatherman. The Leatherman's also visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burl Bohling, Gray. They plan to leave the last of the week.

Who Pays For Advertising?

Not the newspaper reader, because he saves both time and money by shopping the wide selection of honest values offered through the advertising columns.

Not the advertiser, because advertising always returns a profit when it is used correctly and consistently.

Not the publisher, because of the hundreds of firms who profitably invest hundreds of thousands of dollars in newspaper advertising.

Every line of advertising in our paper is paid for by the FELLOW WHO DOESN'T ADVERTISE!

The business which the non-advertiser loses pays the cost of advertising, and ALSO returns a nice profit to the fellow who DOES ADVERTISE!

The merchant who does not advertise is the man who PAYS for advertising. He pays for it in the volume of business he loses—in the number of customers who buy elsewhere. Good advertising does not cost. Good advertising brings back the original investment with profit dollars along with it. Almost every store wants more business than it is getting. Hoping for more business is not as effective as inviting more business.—Newspaper Advertising.

Move to Conserve Our Natural Gas

The Legislature should give all-out consideration to the resolution by Rep. W. R. Chambers of Brown County relating to the conservation of Texas natural gas. The resolution very sensibly recognizes both current emergency and long-time aspects of the situation.

The Federal Power Commission has been granting practically all applications for pipelines to export Texas natural gas to other states. And the applications are coming in endless succession. To meet this immediate situation the resolution directs the Railroad Commission of Texas to appear at hearings in oppostion to the granting of further applications. Members of the Railroad Commission have been divided in their attitude. Legislative admonition would have a healthful effect.

The deeper problem is the lack of definite information as to the exhaustibility of Texas reserves, the relative powers of national and state regulatory bodies, avoidable waste of gas reserves through "flaring" gas in oil-gas fields and the legal angles on restriction of interest commerce. To meet this situation the Chambers resolution demands of the Railroad Commission a complete report on the situation involving gas reserves, production and waste. Without such information a wise and consistent state policy is not possible.

Through the haze produced by conflicting testimony, the following is evident: Texas' greatest industrial asset—natural gas—is being piped out of the state at such an increasing rate that supplies will be exhausted in the not distant future. In the much nearer future the supply will be reduced to a point where the market price will be pushed above the level of use as an industrial fuel.

Export to states without a substitute is justifiable. But much of the present export is to the great coal fields of the North and Middle West. Some of the authorities of these states console us Texans by telling us that, when they have exhausted our cheap natural gas supplies, they will manufacture gas from their coal and use the same pipes to ship it to us—at ten times the price they are now paying for our gas.—Dallas News.

BABSON DISCUSSES CHURCHES

ROGER W. BABSON, Editor-in-Chief

BABSON PARK, Fla., Feb. 18—When reading the newspapers or magazines the past month containing the Reviews of 1948, I have found no reference to churches. All other subjects—such as railroads, manufacturing merchandising, shipping, etc.,—have been fully reported, but I find no reference to church news.

Why is Church News Neglected?

Certainly the churches of each community are not neglected by their local newspapers. These newspapers give more free space to the church news than to any owners are churchgoers themother group. Most newspaper owners are churchgoers themselves, and they realize the importance to their communities of the churches. Furthermore, most of the intelligent reading public attend some church and are interestedi n the news thereof.

Why then do I find all other "industries" reviewed in detail by the large city newspapers without any reference to the church industry? Perhaps it is due to the ignorance or neglect of those who write up reviews of these other industries. If so, these men should be awakened to what is going on in the religious world. Religious work is not only moving, but it is moving in the right direction. This was not always true, but it is true today.

Importance of Church Industry

There are about 200,000 church buildings in the United States. These churches have an aggregate membership of about 60,000,000. These church organizations expend upon salaries, benevolencies, new buildings, repairs and missions about $1,000,000,000 per year. The value of the church property alone is estimated at $5,000,000,000 and this is constantly increasing. Therefore, I claim this represents an industry that is entitled to at least an annual review equal to that given other billion dollar industries.

I am not claiming greater recognition in view of only the property and money involved. The Church has made its greatest grogress when it was poorest; the Church will lose its greatest power when trying to imitate "big business." Rather, I have in mind what all legitimate industries owe to the churches. In fact, without the churches great industries could not exist. The importance of honesty, industry, thrift, and good habits, which all churches preach, is fundamental to banking and all forms of credit which provide the incentive, causing men to work for the genetal good. The Church is the father of faith, without which we could not exist. To preachers, school teachers, and inventors, we owe almost everything.

What About 1949?

During the recent World War religious interest declined. Our youth could not "make sense" out of being taught by the Army to fight and kill; and, at the same time, being taught by the Church to be kind, honest and constructive. As the government had the power and the money to spend on its propaganda, the Church temporarily was obliged to take a back seat. Since 1946, however, the returning soldiers have so seen the futility of war that they feel they were mislead by their Army Officers. These veterans now conclude that their officers were wrong, and that War does not settle anything. The interest which young people are taking today, in the World Federalists movement shows the way the wind is blowing.

As a result of this change in sentiment, most churches had a good year in 1948, and are entering 1949 with the best of hopes. Looking back on 1948 I not only have in mind the great international gatherings at Amsterdam and elsewhere, but such wonderful meetings as took place at the Cathedral of St. John, New York City, last fall. There, an unknown English Rector brought together 10,000 people for many nights. It seemed like the old Billy Sunday enthusiasm carried on in a dignified manner with a sane doctrine. I could mention many great leaders, but especially have in mind Father Rex Wilkes of Grace Church, Baltimore; Dr. Lewis of Trinity Parish, New York City; and Dr. Stanley Jones, who is now touring the country in the interests of church union. The Youth Movement which is holding large meetings every month in the leading cities had a constant growth throughout 1948, and also looks forward into 1949 with even more power and hope.

Wolf Creek Philosopher

Here's the Lowdown on The Russian Situation

(Ed. note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher seems to be in a solemn mood this week. He'd probably be as well off worrying about the state of his own farm instead of the world, but somebody else can tell him, not us.)

Dear editar:

For months now I been neglectin by plannin for harvest just to study the Russian situation, combin this area thoroughly for every newspaper that turned up, even includin yours, as I was desperate to figure out what the trouble is, and after considerable meditatin and reflectin I have come to the conclusion that while nobody knows what's happenin, Russia is out-smartin us for the time bein, in a diplomatic sort of way.

That is, we don't know what Russia is gonna do, don't even know what we're gonna do, but Russia knows what we're gonna do and herself to boot.

That is, we got different systems. Before this country could declare a war, we got to think it over and debate it in Congress and find out how everybody feels about it, which is a good thing, but in Russia it's different. Over there the people can wake up some mornin thinking about spring plantin and turn on their radios and discover they are at war. Just one man, or two or three at the most, has to make up his mind over there.

Russia knows, for example, that we ain't gonna start no war. We ain't gonna attack nobody unless they jump on us first. But Russia ain't got no such rules.

For that reason, Stalin figures he has a marked deck and is playing the game like he pleases. For example, there ain't been a newspaper editorial writer or a radio commentator or any statesman yet, who can explain to me why, if the United States wants to haul food into Berlin, which we captured, from a hundred miles away, it has to do it by airplane at the risk of American lives instead of haulin it in by truck or train, just because Russia says the ground belongs to her. I'll admit after weeks of careful study and thought on this problem, at the neglect of my entire farmin program, I can't figure it out, and I haven't found anybody else who can tell me why this country can't just load up some trucks and tear out for Berlin.

It seems to me it would be a good opportunity to find out who's bluffin, and I'll bet my next year's crop against next year's loan to England that Russia wouldn't start no shootin war, and if she did, now's a better time to find out she means bullets than later on. But I'm sorry to say this country seems to be bogged down in diplomatic maneuvers which don't mean nothin to you and me, although one commentator did hint this country might, if driven to it, stiffen its backbone and take the extreme step of ignorin for six weeks a Russian diplomat in Washington, not even invite him to tea parties, to teach his country a lesson.

It's out of my province, but if you ask me, this is a good time to throw away them diplomatic top hats and silk gloves and polite sneakin around and use hard common sense. There ain't nobody left to fight but Russia. If we have to fight her, which I doubt, now's the best time on earth to find it out. If a man is bent on causin trouble, I'd rather find it out while he's out of breath than after he builds up his strength and resources by hoggin half my farm.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Q. I am an honorably discharged World War II veteran. At present, I am in prison for a minor offense. May I receive a correspondence course under the provisions of the GI Bill?

A. Yes. The Veterans Administration makes contracts with approved schools and will pay for accredited courses, but no subsistence allowance will be paid.

Q. I am a World War I veteran and have been working out my income tax report. Do I have to show my compensation from VA?

A. Disability compensation is exempt from federal income tax. However, this is a matter within the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Q. I would like to know why the pension I had been receiving under the law is now called compensation?

A. Public Law 494, 79th Congress, provided that the term "compensation" be applied to all service-connected [illegible] or death benefits paid by Veterans Administration.

Q. What income [illegible] provision is attached to [illegible] sion I will get as the [illegible] a soldier who died in a [illegible] prison?

A. No income provision [illegible] applicable to compensation [illegible] able for service connected [illegible]

Washington Letter.

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Since the Federal Works Agency (FWA) sprouted the noble idea of paying folding money "to encourage creative thinking and submission of practical suggestions from all its employees," it has saved itself some dollars.

For instance, Thomas C. Mercer, a laborer for FWA's Public Building Administration (PBA), suggested that flexible metal coupling connections be installed at the ends of the hose on portable vacuum cleaners. Cleaning offices in the Pentagon, he found the hose was always breaking at these points, delaying his work.

He applied the metal connections to the hose of his machine and has not had a break in more than 17 months. Ordinary hose, FWA says, lasts from nine to 12 months, and PBA has a yearly breakage of 350 hose lengths, costing $9,030. Mr. Mercer received $150 for his idea.

Then Herschel E. Dishner, a PBA operating engineer, came forth with an idea. The air-conditioning system in the Department of Justice building is one of his major responsibilities. He was awarded $130 for suggesting certain mechanical adjustments to reduce the vibration that caused leakage in the building's air-conditioning system.

Mr. Mercer's ideas have been adopted and will save the government an estimated $3,600 annually in tube replacement and refrigeration leakage. And, says FWA, his suggestions can be applied with no added expense.

Felix L. Hartman, a principal electrician for Federal Works Agency, used to toss burned-out flourescent light tubes into a barrel and run to safety before they crashed into smithereens.

When his boss warned him that this method was dangerous he started breaking them under water in a sink but got splashed.

He tried to do the trick in a burlap bag, suffered a lot of minor scratches from flying splniters.

He fooled around with all sorts of ideas until he finally found he could do good riddance with safety and ease by using a tube crusher which he rigged up. It's made of metal and is something like a covered trough, 54 inches long, four feet deep and 12 inches wide. Tubes are inserted and broken into small pieces by tongs fastened to either side of the lid when the lid is closed.

Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, FWA administrator, gave Mr. Hartman $250 for his suggestion. He said "the estimated value of the tube crusher cannot be determined in dollars and cents."

Range Planning Pays Dividends to Texas Ranchers

COLLEGE STATION — About 40 percent of the Texas agricultural income is derived from livestock and livestock products. Some 93.5 million acres or about 60 percent of the total area of the state is devoted to the grazing of livestock, says A. H. Walker, extension range specialist of Texas A. M. College.

Range demonstrations have shown that livestock live longer and produce bigger offspring when plenty of good grass is available for them.

Programs are now underway that have as their objective a sound and practical approach to the problems of range management. Two range management schools for county agents were held by the A. & M. department of range and forestry the past two summers, and the class rooms used were the ranges where something was wrong. Demonstrations have been established to show what can be done if proper stocking rates are observed and if the good grasses are given a chance to reseed.

The record drought has forced many ranchmen to reduce their herds from 25-75 percent and still supplemental feeding is necessary. Too many livestock for too long has caught up with the livestock man and this added to the recent drought has further aggravated the situation. Those demonstrators who have practiced good range management still have pastures that are in good condition.

Brush control and eradication demonstrations are underway. These include mechanical and chemical methods. Some results have been good but more information is needed on cost and practicability before practices can be recommended.

More ranch operators are practicing deferred and rotation grazing for range recovery and this coupled with adequate watering places, proper stocking rates and plenty of fences should add to the ranch income, concludes Walker.

Reds Claim Role In U. S. Discoveries

MOSCOW (AP)—A recent book by a Russian geographer claims that in the exploration and settlement of America Russia played "no small role."

The book, "From The History of Russian Expeditions In The Pacific Ocean," was written by A. V. Efimov and published by the Military Publishing House of the Ministry of the Armed Forces of the Soviet Union. It claims that "immense areas of northwestern America were discovered, investigated and described by Russian navigators and only by them, and then by right of discovery and settlement Alaska was united to Russia."

The book states that "the role of Russian people—state figures, scholars, travellers, sailors, soldiers—all those who by heavy labor conquered the elements, battling with death, discovered new routes, new lands, the role of those who in the most direct sense discovered America from the West—cannot be exaggerated."

Polish Farm Schools Push Collectivization

WARSAW, Poland (AP)—A series of agricultural schools are being set up in Poland to teach would-be farm experts the meaning of Socialism and the application of farm collectivization.

A national convention of leaders in agricultural education held here recently declared "agricultural schools must become centers of socialism and every student must become a fighter and a builder of the new social structure."

Informed sources say a primary aim of the schools is to drive home to students that all farm production in Poland must be socialized in conformity with dictates of the Cominform. But Hilary Minc, minister of industry and commerce, has declared that he did not expect the collectivization scheme to affect more than one percent of the nation's farms in 1949.

In some past geologic times, it is believed, there was little difference between the types of plants which grew in widely separated parts of the world.

Smokes in Bed Are Burning Issue

NEW YORK (AP)—A New Jersey Hotel posts the following instructions for guests who plan to smoke in bed.

"1. Call the office and notify the management where you wish your remains sent, as it is a matter of record that a very high percentage of hotel fires are caused by this careless practice.

"2. Notify guests in adjoining rooms of your intention of endangering their lives, so that they may take necessary precautions to protect themselves.

"3. Go to the corridor and locate the nearest fire escape, so that if you are fortunate enough to escape your room, you may reach safety.

Arkansas, Not Oklahoma, Is Where Early American Speech is Heard

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD—Hey, now, Oklahoma, wait a minute. As a source of early American folk speech, you're a Johnny-come-lately. Your next-door neighbor, Arkansas, is where folks use colorful old expressions—like "corn squeezing's" for whiskey.

Leastwise, so I'm told by Arkansas natives Lum 'n' Abner. Radio's rustic store-keepers read a news item the other day about 15,000 Oklahoma words and phrases. They were collected by Dr. E. H. Criswell, arts and science dean of the University of Tulsa.

"Clever" was cited by the professor as an Oklahoma synonym for "helpful." "Never heard of it," snorted Abner. "Lorate" was given as an equivalent of "relate." "Never heard of it," snapped Lum.

"If that's a sample," croaked Lum, "the professor's collecting just slang expressions, colloquialisms." Abner chimed in: "If he wants real true folk speech, he should go to Arkansas."

Lum 'n' Abner—in real life Chester Lauck and Norris Goff, respectively—cited these terms

"Hope." Past tense of "help", as in "I hope him with his harvest." Said Abner, "That's not hillbilly talk, it's the purest form of Anglo-Saxon, brought in by the early settlers. Chaucer could carry on a conversation today in our mountain areas."

"Poke," meaning "sack." "That's Old English, too," bragged Lum. "So is 'you-uns' Old English," asserted Abner.

"I guess your folks are all stout?" — meaning well and hearty. "Are you feelin' as good as you want to?" for "How are you feeling"?" If unwell, you reply, "I've been sorta on the funeral list the last couple weeks."

For overnight guests you may "shake down a pallet"—a bed on the floor. The front porch is the "front gallery."

Lum 'n' Abner say they've studied rural dialect for 18 years.

"Oklahoma's a comparatively new state," Lum argued. "How could they expect to have genuine folk speech?" Crowed Abner: "Arkansas is the cradle of early American English."

Mrs. John Foster and son, Johnnie, visited last Saturday in the home of Mrs. Foster's mother, Mrs. Mrytle Collingsworth.

Two Acre Tract Pays Big Dividends To State Coffers

AUSTIN — Land Commissioner Bascom Giles, has found a 'steady customer' for a small tract of school land in Pecos County.

The Commissioner has received payment from an oil company covering rental on the tract for the next one hundred years, making the present lease effective until the year 2049.

The tract, less than two acres in size, is one of the smallest in the School Land Board's records. However, it has paid off in man-sized hunks—$20,000 to the Permanent School Fund in cash bonuses and $217,398.00 in royalties.

The 100-year rental payment is without precedent, Giles stated.

However, added the Commissioner, the lease may be forfeited unless production is maintained and unless all regulations of the School Land Board are conformed with.

Octopus, Eagle Feature Escape Stories

MOSCOW (AP) — Two stories have been reported here recently of narrow escapes by Russians from an octopus and an eagle.

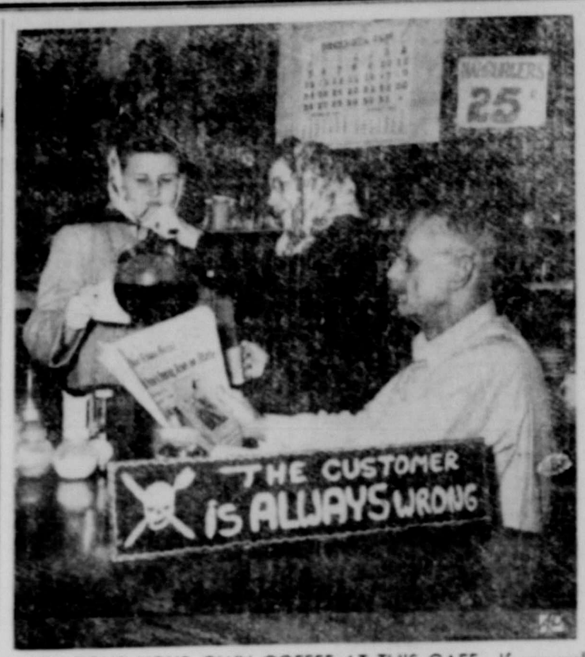

A Tass dispatch from Sakhalinsk told how one diver, Nikolai Chrednikov, got entangled with the octupus and fought him under water for three hours.

He had gone below removing a motor from a sunken ship when, according to the message, a large octupus grabbed his feet. For three hours he struggled to get away. He was not successful until another diver, Yakov Karpenko, came to his aid.

Karpenko was also entwined by the octopus, but by now the second diver was slashing out with a large knife. He fought his way to Chrednikov and freed him enough so he could get at his knife. Then the two of them finished the octupus.

The second story was a Tass dispatch from Nikopol. It related how hunter Andrei Azgrynni, while hunting ducks, fired at a 50-pound eagle and wounded him.

Although wounded the eagle attacked the duck hunter, and, according to the dispatch, started to claw his gun. Again a friend came to the rescue. Together they killed the bird. It had a wing spread of about eight feet.

YOU POUR YOUR OWN COFFEE AT THIS CAFE—If you walk into John Crenshaw's cake in Meridan, Tex., don't expect him to throw down his paper to wait on you. You will probably pour your own coffee as these two customers are doing. Crenshaw, shown above reading his paper, has gained fame for heckling his customers, most of whom go to the kitchen, wait on themselves and pay on the way out. The help yourself service started during the war, and Crenshaw said he kept it up because it made it so much easier for him. (AP) Photo

Russia Plans Study For Teachers

MOSCOW (AP)—The Ministry of Education of the Russian Republic has now decided that all school teachers who have not had pedagogical education must take special courses.

The courses given the teachers will not interrupt their teaching and will be partly correspondence courses. Special attention, it is stated by Tass, will be given to biology teaching. The decree provided that teachers with under 15 years work must take the specified courses while those with over 15 years of work to their credit would be expected to study by themselves to improve their qualifications.

Mrs. Myrtle Collingsworth spent several days last week in Hardesty, Okla. visiting in the home of her son, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Collingsworth. While there she attended a bridal shower for her granddaughter, Mrs. Wayne Hawkins.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

ROAST CHICKEN with PRUNE STUFFING

Select a 3-1/2 to 4-lb., ready-to-cook roasting chicken (allow 3/4-lb. per serving). Rub inside of cavity with salt and stuff lightly with Prune Stuffing, using 2 to 3 cups of dressing. Truss the chicken and rub the skin with melted, usalted fat. Place breast side down on rack in roaster. Cover with a thin cloth dipped in melted fat. Roast in a moderate oven (350 degrees F), allowing 40 minutes to the pound. When half done, turn bird with breast side up, re-covering with the cloth. Baste drippings over the cloth if it becomes dry while roasting.

PRUNE STUFFING

5 cups stale bread cubes
1/2 cup melted fat
1/4 cup minced onion
1/4 cup minced celery
1-1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
1/2 cup cold wateh
1 cup chopped, cooked prunes

Complete Menu

1. There are numerous ways to serve chicken. Have it fried crisp and golden brown, roasted succulent and juicy, broiled to a delicate brown, cooked with noodles in a well flavored stew, barbecued, seasoned with curry, or in gala salads.
2. Poultry helps furnish the greatly needed vitamin B group in the diet.
3. Poultry products are easily digested when properly prepared.
4. An easy way to have jelled tomato salad is to substitute hot tomato juice for hot water and use with lemon flavored gelatin.

Fine Arts Dept. Art Exhibit is Well Attended

The three day art exhibit which was sponsored by the Fine Arts of the Perryton Sorosis last week closed on Sunday February 20.

The featured exhibits were works of twenty-three nationally known artists of the Las Cruces Art association. The work included oils, water color, and pastels.

On Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 an informal tea was given in the exhibit rooms. The serving table was covered with a linen cloth and held an artistic floral arrangement which carried out a George Washington color motif. Coffee and cookies were served throughout the afternoon. Mrs. Cecil Dodd, chairman of the tea, Mrs. S. P. Whippo, and Mrs. Vance Apple served alternately.

This is the first exhibit of this type in Perryton for several years. However, local attendance reached 200 and many visitors neglected to register. Visitors from neighboring towns were numerous.

Although the plans are only tentative, the departments hope to have an exhibit of similar quality next year.

Mrs. Dewey Allen, chairman of the exhibit committee, has expressed her thanks and appreciation to all who assisted with the exhibit in any way.

Race Unity Seen For Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP)—A university sociologist forsees the day when Hawaii, the melting pot of the Pacific, will have no racial groups. There will be no Causasians, Japanese, Chinese, Filopinos of Koreans, the groups that now compose the Islands' population, one of the most heterogeneous in the world.

In an address, Dr. Andrew Lind, of the University of Hawaii, said there is already evidence of a growing tendency towards building a single people."

"The time is not far off," he remarked, "when it will not only be impossible to maintain racial distinctions, but will be desirable to use a different basis for classification." Even now, he said, it is becoming increasingly more inaccurate to refer to separate racial groups.

Estimates of the territorial board of health gave the following breakdown of Hawaii's 525,477 population on July 1, 1947: Caucasian, 32.9 per cent; Jananese, 32.7; part-Hawaiian, 12.8; Filipino, 10.3; Chinese, 5.8; Hawaiian, 2; all others, 3.5. But current calculations, Dr. Lind points out, indicate that more than half of Hawaii's population within the next half century will be mixed. This because of an increase in inter-racial marriages.

Twenty-five years ago only about 14 per cent of Hawaii's marriages were between persons of different races. Today inter-marriages equal about 39 per cent. Hawaiians, Dr. Lind commented, have intermarried more than any other group; Japanese and Caucasians the least.

Oklahoma A & M Graduates Go to Goodwell March 9

GOODWELL, Okla. (Special)—Oklahoma A. & M. College graduates and former students will hold their District 21 meeting including Texas, Beaver, and Cimarron counties at Panhandle A. & M. College Wednesday evening, March 9.

The meeting, announced jointly by M. C. Hamilton, PAMC faculty member and district director, and A. O. Martin, Former Students association secretary of Stillwater, will include a discussion of things pertinent to A. & M. alumni and former students of the area.

A dinner meeting, at $1 per plate, will give Aggies in the Panhandle area of Oklahoma a full evening of visiting, meeting other Aggies in the area, and catching up on the most recent changes of interest to A. & M. alumni.

Also included in the agenda of business to be discussed at the district 21 meeting will be election of officers for the coming two years, Martin said. A. & M. alumni and former students elect officers in the odd numbered districts in odd numbered years and officers for the even numbered districts in even numbered years.

India's Governor Urges Joint Festivals

NEW DELHI (AP) — Governor-General C. Rajagopalachari has appealed to "the people of various communities in India to maintain the old fashion of sharing and taking part in the festivities of communities other than their own."

On the occasion of the Hindu Divali (Festival of Lamps), Rajagopalachari said: "Taking moderate part in one another's festivities, irrespective of religion or community, is the highest national wisdom."

He added "outstanding intellectual and artistic achievements apart, a nation's vitality depends on what gives joy to the multitude of people. Festivals have come down from time immemorial as a national instrument for popular joy."

CAMERA NEWS

TEEN-AGE WINNER—"Flying Hoofs," by Ted Rozumalski of Milwaukee, took second prize in the action class in the Graflex Photo Contest. There's a competition each year.

By IRVING DESFOR

Sure as shooting (snap . . that is), somebody forgot to tell Congress what's going on in the photo world this month. Else why hasn't February been designated "Photo Activities Month?"

Let's look at the schedule as I see it on my ground glass.

The month started off early with the annual ball and high jinks of the New York Press Photographers' Association at the Waldorf-Astoria. This event has always amazed me with its one rigid rule—"No Photos Allowed!" I'm equally amazed that some photo bug who has heard the news lensman's motto—"Get that picture . . . no matter what!"—hasn't circumvented the rule.

Photo Winners

Then came the announcements of the winners of two major national photo contests. There were at least 52,018 pairs of ears perked up to hear how $60,000 in prizes were distributed in the Popular Photography contest. There were that many entries. They didn't count the number of photos submitted in the 1948 Graflex Photo Contest, but it'll give you a rough idea to know that they'd make a stack at least 40 feet high! The prize winners here hailed from 38 cities in 17 states with two from Canada. The Popular Photography winners were awarded at five simultaneous exhibitions across the country, each of which featured 110 prize winning photos plus numerous local award winners.

Next the long awaited news photography exhibit of Edward Steichen opened at the Museum of Modern Art. The significant results of 100 years of camera reporting are shown in about 300 pictures that took years of planning and months of actual preparation.

National Show

On the 19th, the National Photographic Show of 1949 is making the 71st Regiment Armory in New York the mecca for camera fans. The New York Press Photogs have chosen this photo carnival as the scene of their annual exhibition but have added a little twist. Instead of having the usual assortment of distinguished judges choose the best pictures, they are going to let the public do the picking.

Catches Pheasant On City Walk

LONGMONT, Colo. (AP)—Harold Dawson was walking along a downtown street when something struck his hat. He made a quick grab for the hat, missed it, and felt his land close around a struggling feather leg.

The leg belonged to a pheasant which had somehow been flushed from the doorway of a store across the street. No one was able to explain the bird's mysterious business in this city, but Dawson said later: "It cook ed up just as nice as a country pheasant."

Czechs Set Up Government Firms

PRAGUE (AP)—The Czechoslovak nationalization program has extended to the railways, post office and airlines, which have been operated as state concerns. They're going to have to operate as business concerns, and preferably show a profit.

Bills have been prepared for Parliament to set up the post office and transport organs in business. The employes have approved the proposal. In addition to operating with a board of directors, just like any capitalistic country's industry, the new corporations will be subject to taxes and its board of directors—one third of which is to come from the enterprise's trade union organization — will be answerable to business discipline.

The government will name two-thirds of the board of any new corporation and will contribute financially only to an outlay on productive investment. Further, it will pay for the things only that it proposes and only if the outlay wouldn't otherwise produce sufficient return. The state will not guarantee deficits.

Norway's Big Game On Increase

OSLO (AP)—There have been great changes in Norway's fauna in recent years, according to one Norwegian expert, Dr. O. Olstad. While some wild animals have increased rapidly, others are becoming rarer.

Among the wild beasts now becoming more numerous are the bears. The wolves are also increasing and moving towards the southern part of the country. From time to time complaints are heard that the wolves have attacked reindeer herds or sheep flocks in the mountains. In most cases only "lonely wolves" are observed, but in the northern province of Finmark, where the Lapplanders are breeding thousands of reindeer, there is a permanent stock of wolves, Dr. Olstad said in an interview.

Among other animals which have been increasing in number are the elk and the wild reindeer. Also the lynx and the marten are now more frequently seen in the deep forests.

Couple Killed By Tiger

KOTA TINGGI, JOHORE, Federation of Malaya (AP) — While their three terrified small sons huddled inside their thatch hut, a Malay and his wife were killed by a tiger in a Malay settlement recently.

The man heard a commotion among his fowls outside the house one night and went to investigate. The tiger jumped on his back. His screams brought his wife, who courageously struck blow after blow at the animal with a parang (Malay knife), but the beast killed both of them.

Neighbors later found the tiger in the jungle, writhing from the wounds inflicted by the woman. They shot it.

Swiss, Austrians Have Border Talks

ROSCHACH, Switzerland (AP)—Negotiations were begun here between Switzerland and Austria recently for the removal and amendment of agreements for control of the 20-mile reach of the Rhine River forming the Swiss-Austrian frontier.

Swiss and Austrian delegation opened a preliminary discussion of the manifold problems involved in the control of traffic across and along the river and supervision of the frontier.

A full-scale Swiss-Austrian conference to settle these problems is expected to open in Vienna early next year.

Police Rescue Fish

VEVEY, Switzerland (AP) — Whether they like it or not Swiss police in this area are going fishing. A dry fall left the streams in this region so low that the bigger trout are finding it difficult to stay in water deep enough to support them. The police have been ordered to catch them alive and set them free in the Lake of Geneva where there is plenty of deep water.

WHAT IT MEANS:

Truman's New Aid for the World Plan

By CLARKE BEACH

WASHINGTON—A bit gap in the program of the United Nations (UN) to aid underdeveloped areas would be filled by President Truman's "Point 4."

Officials of United Nations' agencies here point out that nine of UN groups have extensive programs concerned with labor; food and agriculture; education, science and culture; civil aviation; health; telecommunications and so forth.

But when you want to help out the underdeveloped countries by increasing their food supply, or improving their health, labor or educational conditions, you invariably trip on one stumbling block. That is, little can be done in any of these fields unless you simultaneously begin to build up the countries' roads, railroads industries, docks, power plants, etc.

The UN has no agency directly concerned with the latter field. The nearest thing to it is the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development. But the bank's funds are very limited.

Mr. Truman's proposal in his inaugural address was for a plan which would encompass the whole field of development—"a bold new program for making the benefits of our scientific advances and industrial progress available for the improvement and growth of underdeveloped areas."

Secretary of State Acheson explained a few days later that it was not a program of heavy government expenditures. The idea was to use technicians and various specilists to teach other countries to help themselves and to create conditions which would encourage the investment of private capital.

This is the technique which the United Nations and its affiliated units have been using for a long time. Teams of experts from various countries go out into an area which has requested advice and assistance. After a plan has been agreed upon, one or another organization does what it can to put it into effect.

Most active in this field has been the Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), which seeks to increase the food supply by helping countries to improve their farming techniques. When irrigation, hydroelectric power or roads are essential to improve agricultural methods, the FAO technicians have at times joined the financial experts of the International Bank to determine whether the bank could finance the necessary construction.

The UN General Assembly at its session in Paris last fall took a step to broaden the field of development work. It instructed its secretary-general to organize teams of experts to advise member governments on economic development programs. It provided fellowships for study outside the country involved and training for local technicians within the country.

The plan is large in concept but limited in application. The General Assembly provided only $288,000 to carry it out.

The International Trade Organization, a UN affiliate, in the charter which it drafted at Havana last March, pledged itself "to foster and assist industrial and general economic development, particularly of those countries which are still in the early stages of industrial development, and to encourage the international flow of capital for productive investment."

The United States has taken a leading role in all these projects to foster economic growth, for this country alone has sufficient capital resources and technical skills to provide substantial assistance. Besides working thru UN agencies, we have done much of this kind of thing on our own. We have made loans through the Export-Import Bank. We have sent technical missions to the Philippines, Brazil, Bolivia, Greece, Turkey, Syria, and other countries. Some 65 nations have sent representatives here to study our soil conservation problem alone.

As an extension of our good neighbor policy in Latin America, two organizations function under the State Department to promote the interests of the other American Republics (which are among the lands rated as underdeveloped). They are:

1. The Institute of Inter-American Affairs, which assists the sister republics to plan, finance and execute projects in the field of public health, agriculture, education, etc.

2. The Interdepartmental Committee on Scientific and Cultural Cooperation, which works with the other republics in the interchange of knowledge and skills and in rendering certain technical services.

The idea isn't new to Mr. Truman. He said at a recent press conference that he had been thinking about it for two years, ever since aid to Greece was first studied.

When the plan was made Point 4 in his inaugural address, however, it became a major American diplomatic policy for the first time.

Moscow Sees New Plays

MOSCOW (AP)—Moscow theatres are putting on a number of new plays this season.

One of these is an American Drama, "All My Sons" by Arthur Miller. It is being given by the Vakhtangov Theatre. Among other new plays are "Mother" adapted from a novel by Gorky, "On the Other Side" dealing with the war in Manchuria by first-time author Baryanov, "They Didnt Wait" by Boris Polyakov, "The Nobleman's Nest' adapted from the novel of the same name by Turgenev, and half dozen other new plays mostly dealing with contemporary Soviet life or war experiences, some of them by new authors.

Dragonflies feed on small insects, which they capture and eat on the wing.

So-called petrified forests are found in Egypt, New York, Alabama, Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Utah, California Yellowstone National Park and elsewhere.

Famed British Gym Folds

(AP) Newsfeatures

BRIGHTON, England—The historic boxing gymnasium above the Pelham Arms public house here has been closed because of a boxing slump in the town.

More world champions trained here than in any other British gym, boasts this English Channel resort city.

Gus Lesnevich, former world light heavyweight champion from the United States, trained here for three fights since the war.

Other boxers who used it for tuneups were America's Maxie Rosenbloom and Joe Baksi; Hawaiian Dado Marino, and Freddie Mills of England, now world light-heavy-weight champion.

Billy Sinclair, Brighton promoter and sportsman, has been proprietor of the gym — well liked by the ring fraternity because of its proximity to the pub bar which must be passed going up and down the stairs.

Texas Retail Sales Reveal Slight Drop During January

AUSTIN, Texas. — Texas retail sales, estimated at $321 million for January 1949, dropped 6 per cent under figures for January 1948, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported.

Apparel stores, with sales decreasing less than 1 per cent, food stores, with sales declining less than 2 per cent, and department stores, with sales dipping 3 per cent, recorded the smallest declines over this 12-month period. Lumber and building materials sales, showing the greatest fall in business for January 1949, tumbled 28 per cent from the January 1948 figures.

Greatest gains for 1949 in retail sales placed family clothing stores and men's and boys' clothing establishments at top with 5-per-cent jumps over January 1948, and drug stores, filling stations, and florists with 2-per-cent rises. General merchandise, eating and drinking places, and restaurants maintained nominal increases of less than 1 per cent over January 1948.

Christmas influenced retail sales for December 1948, when sales stood 80 per cent above those for January 1949 in jewelry, 49 per cent in family clothing stores, 53 per cent in men's and boys, clothing stores, 48 per cent in hardware stores, 58 per cent in department stores, 49 per cent in apparel, 47 per cent in women's specialty shops, 50 per cent in general merchandise, and 43 per cent in shoe stores.

January sales of durable goods stores fell 26 per cent from December and 11 per cent from a year earlier, while nondurable store sales slid 44 per cent from December and 2 per cent from January 1948.

Minute of Peace Found in Club

OGUNQUIT, Me. (AP)—If you need a minute's peace in a hectic existence, you might join a club here that glorifies that very thing. The "Minute of Peace" Club is going strong—and placidly—in its 15th year as a haven for harried Ogunquit men.

Wives of the 45 members can't call up their peace-loving spouses because—by design—there's no phone in the clubroom. A large placard, resposing in the window, proclaims in triumph: "Men's Club. Minute o fPeace. No Telephone Conn."

George Ramsdell, fisherman and lobster dealer, started the club but the wife of a member uttered a phrase which still lives in the organization's name.

Mrs. Burton L. S. McAfee, who had two lively children in the early days of the club, often was heard telling them "When you are grown up I may get a chance to have a minute of peace."

One day when her husband left the house their daughter, Anne, five, asked "Where are you going, Daddy—to get a minute of peace?"

McAfee related the incident to fellow clubmembers, and they decided the phrase would suit them perfectly for a name.

It's in the winter season, when this exclusive summer resort has little for men to do, members say, they seem to get "under foot" in their homes and head for the club quarters. There they find peace for as many minutes, or hours, as they care to spend at the club's cribbage and checker tables.

ON WAY TO TOP — Peggy Kirk of Findlay, Ohio, is determined to make her way to the top in women's golf. Peggy, an amateur, played in 22 tournaments last year, winning the Ohio state championship.

Sicily Plans Railway Project

ROME (AP)—A ten-year program costing 33,458,000,000 lire ($55,763,000) to bring Sicily's outdated and war-shattered railways up to modern standards was disclosed recently by the Transport Ministry.

The new project includes electrification of the whole Sicilian railway system. Some 398 kilometers of track must be replaced.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Penn of Willow Springs, Missouri who have been visiting Mrs. Pearl Bolerjack left Tuesday for their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Beagley and family of Rosston, Oklahoma spent Saturday and Sunday visiting Mrs. Beagley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Gidley.
