District Board Immune From Drownings Suit

The parents of three of the seven children who drowned in Little Bay near Rockport on May 25, 1958, cannot sue Aransas County Navigation District's board of navigation and canal commissioners since the district is a political subdivision of the State of Texas.

That was the opinion of the 13th Court of Civil Appeals of Corpus Christi which was affirmed Tuesday by the State Supreme Court.

The suit was filed by Mr. and Mrs. Balemar Torres, who lost their daughters, Susanna and Margarita, and Mr. and Mrs. Encarnacion Tomez, whose daughter, Oralia, also drowned in a deep hole.

They asked a total of $45,000 in damages, claiming that district board members R. R. Owens, Thomas D. Picton, Norvell Jackson and Ted R. Little, were negligent because they had Little Bay dredged for recreational boating in 1957 but did not follow state law which dictates that an engineer must be employed to supervise such work. The dredging resulted in the creation of a six-foot deep hole in the otherwise shallow water.

The district court decided that the navigation district was immune from liability since it is a governmental unit, and the 13th Court of Civil Appeals agreed in an opinion delivered by Chief Justice Howard P. Green.

The 13th Court said, "If it be established that in failing to employ an engineer to supervise the work in question, they (the board members) did act in violation of the law, such fact would not cause them to lose the cloak of official immunity from tort liability in this cause. If commissioners were acting within the scope of their official authority in the actions taken by them with respect to the dredging in question, they cannot be held liable in this suit, regardless of whether they may have misinterpreted or violated a law."

The parents made another appeal to the State Supreme Court, but this was refused when the Court said it found no reversible error. — C. C. Caller Times.

DISTRICT VFW MET IN SINTON MONDAY

The monthly meeting of the San Patricio County Council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars was held in Sinton Monday night. A Mexican supper was served.

A film was shown on Rural Electric Co-ops with Chet Huntley as narrator.

The business meeting was held with Commander Frank Hinze presiding.

District Commander Royce Reed reported on membership, to date. He urged that local VFW's meet the quota set for them. This district is near 1,000 members short of last years count at this same time. Veterans are asked to pay dues now.

Attending from Rockport, were: Louis Solis, Mr. Brown, Jimmy Cowan, H. C. Mullinax, Herman Johnson, Rev. Ben Bohmfalk, Chester Johnson, Dick Weekley, Charlie Garrett, N. C. Vandagriff, Frank McLeod, Green McGehee.

DR. ELLIOT TO MOVE OFFICE

Dr. H. F. Elliot announced today that he will move his office and clinic from its present location to the corner of Market and Live Oak, where the old Friend home has been completely remodeled.

In addition to Dr. Elliot's clinic, it will be occupied by a title and abstract company operated by Ted M. Anderson, Corpus Christi attorney, who is agent for Bonham subdivision, "The Bahamas," now under development on the north end of Live Oak Point.

Dr. Elliot said his former office and clinic will be remodeled and added to the Bayview Nursing Home.

Comendation Given To Chris Sorenson

One student at ACHS, Rockport, has been honored for his performance in the National Merit Qualifying Test given last spring. C. R. Barre, school principal, said that Christian Sorenson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sorenson of Rockport, has received a formal letter of commendation signed by Barre and the president of the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, John N. Stalmaker.

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation gives recognition to two groups of students who achieve high scores on the NMSQT. The semi-finalist group is composed of the highest-scoring in each state and territory of the United States. Approximately 14,000 take a second examination to establish their eligibility to become finalists and to receive consideration for scholarships.

In addition each student who is endorsed by his or her school receives a formal letter of commendation like the one received by Sorenson.

To increase their opportunities to obtain assistance if they need it, the Merit Corporation sends the names, home addresses, test scores, and proposed college majors of all commended students to the two colleges they indicated as their first and second choices at the time they took the qualifying test.

Commended students were among the high school juniors in approximately 17,000 who took the NMSQT last March. The three hour test covers five separate areas of educational developments.

New Association Is Formed Here

The Coastal Research Management Corporation was formed recently at a meeting held at Mills' Wharf with representatives attending from San Patricio, Refugio, and Aransas counties.

Purpose of the organization is to stop the dredging of shell in Copano, Aransas and St. Charles bays.

Frederick Johnson, of Sinton, was elected chairman of the group. Among those serving on the board of directors are Dr. J. E. Bauer of Refugio, and M. W. Cochran, of Rockport.

Representatives from each of the counties will include sports fishermen, commercial fishermen, motel owners, and other businessmen.

The present goal of the organization is to raise $1,000 to hire an attorney to go to Austin to help fight the permits for dredging shell from the above mentioned bays.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK TO BE CELEBRATED

Since Fire Prevention Week comes the week in which Oct. 9 falls, this is Fire Prevention Week. The art classes of Aransas County Junior High, according to custom, are preparing posters to remind all to be careful with fire which can be hazardous as well as helpful.

The posters will be on public display the latter part of this week, above the lockers.

Mrs. Charlyne L. Hunt is the art instructor for the Junior High.

FALL SESSION OF ART SCHOOL OPENS

The fall session of the Rockport School of Fine Arts opened this week. Among those enrolled for the course are Mrs. Grace Lentz, Mrs. Travis Johnson, Mrs. W. B. Porter, Mrs. James A. Jarboe, Mrs. A. Dinger and Mrs. A. M. Westbrook, all of Rockport;

Mrs. L. O. Dyer, Mrs. A. S. Glass, Mrs. A. V. Vickers and Mrs. Fred Johnson, of Sinton; Mrs. Jack Clark, Ardmore, Okla.; and Mrs. N. O. Stair, of Luling.

BANK CLOSED MONDAY

The First National Bank will be closed all day Monday, October 12, in observance of Columbus Day.

Book Drive To Be October 14-18

Mrs. Clara Brymer, Librarian, checks out a book for Mrs. Robert Landrum in Aransas County's new public library. The library now has approximately 9,000 volumes on the shelves, and is starting a book drive on October 14 to collect more books for citizens to read. All sorts of books are needed for this library, and those that are duplicates will be passed along to others. The drive, patterned after the ones staged by the Goodfellows, will distribute bags for books on October 14, and pick them up, after they are filled, on Sunday, October 18. Cash donations may be mailed to Aransas County Public Library. Checks should be made out in the same fashion.

Library Assistant Program Underway

On the basis of academic achievement, the Rockport Elementary School Library has begun its Library Assistance program for 1964-65. The students selected will work in the library before school and during their lunch period. They will hold a Library Club meeting every Friday afternoon, during which time they work on problems they may be having with their jobs, and extend their knowledge to library skills. The Library Club will sponsor a monthly newspaper this year, with the library staff doing the editing.

Twenty-nine students have already qualified for the Library Club, additional students will be eligible when their Library Science grades average 90 or better. Students from the fifth grades are: Agnes Brock and Robert Schendel from Mrs. Steele's room; Deborah Halgood, Mrs. Bradley; Shelly Patillo, Mrs. Moore; Gracie Tamez, Mrs. Moore; Mary Harriet, Mrs. Cole.

Many sixth grade students are performing in their second year of library work.

Students from Miss Oetken's class who have qualified are: Peggy Armstrong, Debra Everett, Karen Hayden, Lynn Lang, Martha Lindenmayer, Mary Nava, Julie Solis, Robbie Turner, and Beverly Young.

Mr. Lichte has contributed: Carol Hermes, Ronnie Hinze, and Debbie Wood; while Mr. Underwood's class is represented by: Phillip Dannelly, Kenneth Harwick, Diane Hunt, Lenore Irwin, Forrest Porter, Jesse Roberts, Richard Schendel, and Eddie Setterbo.

Mrs. Griffith has eligible: Jeanie Prophet, Jackie Sharp, and Dewayn Eller. Of these students, the following are "seniors" (second year workers): Martha Lindenmayer, Robbie Turner, Beverly Young, Diane Hunt, Lenore Irwin, Eddie Setterbo, Jeanie Prophet.

POLICE REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER

Chief of Police Bob Hewes reported that in the month of September, his department handled the following cases: traffic, illegal U-turn, 3; improper parking, 1; improper license plates, 2; no driver's license, 5; defective muffler, 1; failure to yield right of way, 1; and speeding, 1.

Non traffic violations were disturbing the peace, 2; intoxication, 3; violation of health ordinance, 2; vagrancy, 1; and two runaways apprehended by Patrolman Joe Dominguez. There were three traffic accidents investigated by city police with approximately $2,230 worth of damage to the vehicles.

PRE-MEDICAL CLUB FORMED AT HI SCHOOL

A new club has been formed in Aransas County High School. The tentative name for it is the Pre-Medical Club. All members are charter members and must meet certain requirements and maintain them while they are members. The requirements to be met are to maintain an 85 average in a science, be a Junior or Senior in classification, and be interested in the medical profession.

The members are as follows: Susie LeBlanc, Judy Dyson, Shelley Roaten, Vicki White, Sue Harrell, Denny Elliot, Donald Glass, Gary Stryker, Sara Eason, Hugh Morrison, Monroe Menke, Vickie Vermillion.

The purpose of this club is to promote interest in the medical world and aid those who are interested in a medical profession. The students who are members of this club are interested in pharmacy, medical technology, medical doctors, nursing, dentistry, veterinarian medicine, and research.

In order to promote interest in the medical profession, the club will take certain field trips to various places of interest.

The officers were elected for the 1964-1965 school year and they are:

President, Hugh Morrison; vice president, Monroe Menke; secretary, Vicki White; treasurer, Judy Dyson; historian, Sue Harrell; reporter, Vickie Vermillion.

A Constitutional Committee will meet this week and submit a constitution to the club to be accepted early next week.

Chairman of this committee is Denny Elliott and other members include Hugh Morrison, Monroe Menke, and Vicki White.

The sponsors of this club are E. G. Brooks; Ruthie Key, Medical Technician and H. F. Elliot, D.O.

ROTARIANS HEAR RUEL MCDANIEL

Rotarians heard former resident Ruel McDaniel discuss Judge Roy Bean and Law West of the Pecos. McDaniel has recently had another book published, and is a free lance writer of note.

Visitors were Russell Itschner, John Loftin and Dick Hatch, of Aransas Pass; Martin Pankratz, of San Antonio; Cy Grett, Corpus Christi; Bob Austin, Sinton; and Dave Tandy, of Fort Worth and Rockport.

BAKE SALE TO BE HELD BY SCOUTS

The Explorer Scouts will hold a bake sale at HEB and Ro's grocery stores Saturday, Oct. 10.

Sea Gun Invites 250 Guests For Cruise to Refuge

Approximately 250 area dignitaries have been invited to be here Oct. 18 for inauguration of a new cruise schedule for Sea Gun Sports Inn's boat "The Whooping Crane."

The sixty-five foot, diesel powered boat will leave the Mills Wharf division marina of the Inn at 1 p.m., and cruise across Aransas Bay, past Bludworth Island, and up the Intracoastal Waterway, to the Aransas Wildlife Refuge.

The five-hour cruise will traverse the eastern edge of the Refuge, past the territories where America's last flock of whooping cranes spend the winter.

Mayors, editors, city officials, directors and area Chambers of Commerce, and state and federal officials will be among the guests invited by Sea Gun Innkeeper Jerre Ledbetter on the cruise, which will be repeated throughout the year every Wednesday, Friday and Sunday.

Ledbetter says that it isn't sure that any whoopers will be present, although this may be possible.

The amazing whooper network has already gone into action, to check on these rare and widely-publicized birds. This network, composed of volunteers strung out through the length of the continent, report on the migration of the big birds with the bugle-like voices.

Pirates Journey To West Oso Gunning For Bears

Friday night the ACHS Pirates journey to West Oso for another 30AA District game. The Bears, with a three-to-go record, have lost to the Pirates during the past several years, and will be seeking revenge.

Bear backs Sims and Hill are two of the finest in the district, according to Coach John Baker of the Pirates, who says both of these boys will be remembered from last season. The Bears run from a single wing offense which Coach Baker says should be interesting to fans of the past decade.

With nine returning starters, the Bears should be tough to whip, the Rockport coach says.

The Pirates will be seeking their first win in the district and their second of the season. All personnel will be on hand, the coach says, and in good shape. Coach Baker stated that the Pirates will be trying to cross the goal line from the kickoff, and said he hoped mistakes have been eliminated and the Pirates offense ready to catch on fire.

Captains for the week will be Ray Brown and Charles Picton. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The junior varsity will play West Oso in a district game at West Oso. The local team is 1-1 for the season. Game time is 6:30 p.m.

ECKMAN APPOINTED GOLDWATER CHAIRMAN IN ARANSAS COUNTY

R. L. Eckman has been appointed local chairman of a Texans For Goldwater organization, and campaign literature, bumper stickers and speech materials are available through him.

VFW AUXILIARY TO HOLD RUMMAGE SALE

The Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW will hold a rummage sale Tuesday evening, Oct. 20, beginning at 5 p.m., at the VFW hall.

Anyone having rummage, please call Mrs. Chester Johnson or Mrs. Chas. Garrett.

Local Civic Clubs Sponsoring Drive

Final plans were laid for a county-wide book drive, and various standing committees were appointed at the regular meeting of the Aransas County Public Library Board.

Delmar Hiller, chairman in charge of the book drive, told members of the Board and Auxiliary that school authorities, Rotarians, Boy Scouts, and members of the Rockport, Seaman's and Fulton Lions clubs were cooperating in the drive, which starts Wednesday, Oct. 14, with distribution of bags to every house hold in the community, by members of the clubs and Boy Scouts.

On these bags is printed the following appeal:

"Our Aransas County Public Library needs books. You can help build a good library by giving new or old books and new or used paper back books.

C of C Directors Hold Routine Meet

Chamber of Commerce directors, at their regular meeting, heard reports from various committee chairmen, discussed a variety of subjects from a clubhouse for a square dance club to signs on the new water tower; approved purchase of a new electric typewriter; and passed a resolution asking that the bays of Aransas County be set aside as conservation sanctuaries.

Miss Lola L. Bonner, president, told directors that it had not been possible for the city to have the Toast of the Coast emblem painted on the new water tower without paying $1250 additional for the change in planning.

The contractor had already had templates made and paint purchased, with the result that it would have been necessary to scrap this material and delay completion of the tower paint job.

As a consequence, Miss Bonner said, the project had been dropped.

She also reported that the chairman of the Convention Center Committee had resigned, and asked suggestions for a new one to work on plans for financing and erecting a suitable building.

A committee from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, composed of Commander Charles Garrett, along with Herman Johnson and H. C. Mullinax, met with the directors, and asked Chamber cooperation in construction of the new VFW building. The VFW representatives said that their organization would like to take over the tourist game nights formerly sponsored by the Chamber, and to use the profits to aid in their building program.

Mrs. James A. Jarboe then reported on her recent attendance at a South Texas Chamber of Commerce meeting, and brought directors up to date on the various highway construction planned in the area now and later.

Mrs. Mary Juergens, Chamber (Continued on page 8)

SOCIAL SECURITY REPRESENTATIVE TO VISIT ROCKPORT

A representative of the Social Security Administration will be at the courthouse in Rockport on Wednesday, Oct. 14, at 9 a.m.

You may obtain information about your rights and duties under the Social Security Act. Eligible persons can secure assistance in applying for old-age, survivors, or disability insurance payments from the representative at that time.

NEXT STORY HOUR BY MRS GANN

Story Hour Saturday morning, Oct. 10, will be conducted by Mrs. Carroll Gann. There will be a story hour each Saturday morning as long as the children are interested in attending.

Contributions to purchase books may be mailed to the Aransas County Library.

"Book bags will be delivered to every house in Fulton, Rockport, and the surrounding area Oct. 14, 15, 16.

"Fill your bag with books and place it by the door. Your filled bag will be picked up Sunday, Oct. 18, between 2 and 5 o'clock p.m. by members of Boy Scout Troop 49, the Seaman's Lions, Rockport Lions, Rockport Rotary, or the Fulton Lions Club.

"Any book can be used. For information and extra bags call Mrs. Carroll Gann at the Paint Box, SO 4-6511."

In explaining the plans to the board, Hiller emphasized that any book or paper back can be used.

"If the library has the book, and doesn't need a duplicate," Hiller said, "the duplicate will be given to some other library that does need it. In the past libraries at Coliad, Victoria, Aransas Pass, Port Lavaca and Corpus Christi have been recipients of such books and we expect to continue this program. Every book will be checked, and if possible, added to the local library."

It was brought out during the discussion that the library can also use back numbers of the National Geographic, the older the better, and the same goes for back numbers of the Texas Almanac which has been published almost since Texas was a republic. These almanacs are all treasured by libraries that have them, and furnish an excellent source of historical material.

Also wanted in the periodical line are technical publications, in any field, Natural History and Nature magazines, Science, the Scientific American and similar magazines and journals.

Hiller was congratulated by other members of the Board on his thorough planning, and (continued on page 8)

Club Withdraws Request For Site For Clubhouse

At a hearing Wednesday night, members of Aransas County's Navigation Board listened to some 75 people as they presented pros and cons for and against the request by a local club to be allowed to build a club house on Navigation property in downtown Rockport.

Edward Drummond, president of the Paws and Taws Square Dance Club, outlined that club's wish for land near the Navigation District office on which to build a 50x110-foot, frame club house, which, he said, would be available for other organizations on the nights it was not used for square dancing. He was assisted in his presentation by Charles Vermillion, vice president, and various members.

V. A. Dullye, Jr., presented a protest against utilization of Navigation District property, outlining the reasons why the protest was made, and acting as spokesman for another segment of the community.

Both sides were supported in their contentions by signatures of citizens throughout the county. These signatures were apparently about evenly divided. Those of the square dance club simply said the signers favored granting of the lease; those of the opponents advanced a number of reasons for the opposition.

A number of other speakers took advantage of the opportunity presented by the hearing to register their protests, and the Seaman's Lions Club entered its request for similar property on which to build their own club house.

After a conference among its own members, the square dance group withdrew its request, rather than cause dissension in the community. The clubhouse will be built at Fulton on land owned by one of the club members.

What's Going On

At Live Oak
Country Club

Thirty-two golfers took part Sunday afternoon in the Scotch foursome played at Live Oak Country Club.

A 7-under-par took top honors. It was carried by a team consisting of Mark Tinner, Q. Darnell, Mary Fortner, N. Wingo, J. M. Attaway and Garvin Mitchell.

Two teams finished with 6-under-par and after a one-hole playoff second place went to Speck Howerly, Tom Sum-merlin, Doris Garrett, Carl Ericson and J. G. Richards.

A foursome will be played again next Sunday.

LIBRARY NOW HAS TWO VOLUMES ON FAMOUS RANGER

The Aransas County Public Library now has two books on Texas' most famous Ranger captain, John Salmon Ford, of Mexican War fame, "Rip Ford's Texas" was published by the University of Texas Press from dairies in the archives at that school.

The other, which has just reached the shelves, is by W. J. Hughes, and published by the University of Oklahoma Press.

The Texas of Ford's day demanded men of courage and versatility. Ford was such a man. He came to Texas in 1836; quickly became active in political affairs, and remained so until his death in 1897.

During his long life, Ford was a practicing physician, adjutant in Colonel Hays' regiment of Texas Rangers during the Mexican War, newspaper editor, explorer and surveyor, state senator and mayor and city marshal of Austin, Ranger captain, Indian fighter, Mexican revolutionary general, Sunday-school teacher, Confederate colonel, mayor of Brownsville, superintendent of the state school for deaf and dumb, and a charter member of the State Historical society.

He was instrumental in getting Texas into the Union; fifteen years later, at the beginning of the Civil War, he was instrumental in getting her out. After the Civil War, he helped frame the new constitution and place Texas once again in the roster of States.
He defended her frontiers in the war against the Comanches and in the South against the Mexicans. His life was one of service to his state.

His colorful and adventurous life reflects the growing pains of Texas during its formative years. Ford's life was never dull, neither are his biographies.

Letter to the Editor . . .

After picking up litter for over four years, I've come to the conclusion it's going to take more than a "Every Litter Bit Helup" slogan to help us.

We all agree, I'm sure, that we take more interest in doing what we want to do than what we are told to do.

My idea rests on the fact that if nothing is thrown down there will be nothing to pick up. I believe we can all kick the litterbugging habit by Christmas and also pick up all the clutter that is already flying loose.

Let's start 1965 with Rockport clean and resolve to keep it that way. That would give Rockport one more big reason for being "The Toast of the Coast."

Treasury Raises
Coin Quota High

The U. S. Treasury has announced an intensified program to double the nation's rate of coin production within a year and raise it by 75 per cent during the next six months.

By next June, the program will boost our coin production to an annual rate of over nine billion new coins, more than double the 4.3 billion level for fiscal 1964 and triple the three billion level for fiscal 1961.

For the last six months of this year—normally a time of peak demand for coins—the program will mean a 75 per cent increase in coin production over the same period last year, a rise to 3.5 billion new coins from the two billion produced in the last half of 1963.

This increased production will be distributed among the present five denominations of coins in about the present ratios—roughly two-thirds pennies, one-fourth nickels and dimes and the rest quarters and half-dollars.

The new program will augment the U. S. Treasury's already heightened efforts to expand the nation's coin production in the face of a growing need for coins.

Steps already taken to expand current production of coins include the purchase of rolled nickel strip for the making of all five-cent coins—thus freeing equipment for other production—and the inauguration of a continuous seven-day, 24-hour production schedule at the nation's two mints in Denver and Philadelphia.

These actions will increase production for the coming fiscal year by 600 million coins, bringing total budgeted production up to some five billion coins.

To augment these measures, the following new steps will be taken:

1. Beginning early in July, bronze strips for pennies will be purchased (in addition to the nickel strip already being acquired for five-cent coins), thus freeing all melting, casting and rolling operations for the production of more silver coins.

2. New coin presses (used to print the design of the coin) are being ordered for delivery early this fall and additional stamping machines, which can be converted for mint use, are being acquired from the surplus stocks of the Department of Defense, the General Services Administration and private industry.

3. In December, when current orders have been filled, the proof coin operation (the production of special sets of coins for collectors) will be suspended. Those of its presses that are suitable will be converted to allow higher speeds and will be devoted to the production of coins for circulation.

4. As additional presses become available, production of annealed blanks (round pieces of metal the actual size of the coin softened to take the die) for nickels and pennies will be temporarily shifted to the U.S. Assay Office in San Francisco thus permitting the mints to concentrate on the final stages of the production of all coins.

5. The U.S. Congress will be asked to continue the 1964 date on all coins indefinitely, thus eliminating any possible incentives for keeping 1964 coins out of circulation for speculative purposes.

Through these and other measures, the U.S. Treasury Department will continue to seek out ways of assuring an adequate supply of coinage with existing facilities—pending the construction of the new Philadelphia mint authorized last August.

This mint will replace the current Philadelphia mint and will be capable of producing coins at a higher rate than both existing mints combined.

However, since funds are only becoming available to proceed with construction of the new mint, its construction is nine months behind the treasury's original schedule. It will probably begin coin production in 1967, instead of 1966 as originally expected by the treasury.

Statistician
Discusses The Texas Fisheries

Orman H. Farley, chief statistician for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in Texas, took a long, long look at his figures recently, and came up with some very interesting observations of the state of Texas fisheries.

Domestic landings of headless shrimp at Texas ports in 1963 amounted to 44.1 million pounds valued at 25.6 million dollars to fishermen and/or vessel owners. This was well above the 35.2 million pounds landed in 1962 but below the 27.1 million dollars received for the 1962 catch.

Landings in 1963 were comprised of brown shrimp, 31.3 million pounds; white shrimp, 8.9 million pounds; pink shrimp, 3.4 million pounds; and seabobs and royal reds, 500 thousand pounds. Texas ports accounted for 34 percent of the volume and 42 percent of the ex-vessel value of all domestic landings in the Gulf states, but yielded the number one position for volume landings to Louisiana by a margin of 7.6 million pounds.

Texas still holds top position in value of shrimp landings by a 6.8 million dollar margin. Prior to 1963, Texas has not been seriously challenged as the leading Gulf shrimp producer since attaining this position from Louisiana in 1956.

Shrimp caught and sold by retail bait camps in Texas are not included as only Galveston Bay and parts of Sabine Lake are canvassed. There areas had one million pounds of bait shrimp valued at 1.3 million dollars. Bay systems from Matagorda to Port Isabel produce comparable quantities of bait shrimp marketed through the sport fishery in Texas.

The annual ex-vessel value per pound of headless shrimp at various ports varied quite widely in 1963. The average value per pound of Harris County was 41 cents, whereas, in the Brownsville-Port Isabel area, where no commercial bait shrimp are landed, the average value was 67 cents. The value at any given port is dependent largely upon the size composition of the catch and does not necessarily reflect price variations between ports along the coast. The following table represents landings and value of headless shrimp for specified areas in 1963:

Port Arthur-Sabine Pass, 2,906,600, $1,341,397, 46c; average; Seabrook - Kemah, 1,428,700, $589,493, 41c; Galveston area, 3,239,700, $1,674,485, 52c; Freeport, 9,467,200, $5,723,405, 60 c; Matagorda-Palacios, 882,200, $503,748, 57c; Port Lavaca-Port O'Connor-Seadrift area, 1,313,700, $669,588, 51c; Aransas Pass-Rockport area, 10,309,300, $6,325,987, 61c; Brownsville-Port Isabel, 14,504,800, $9,762,390, 67c.

Texas ports were hosts to 1,419 documented trawl vessels and 919 smaller craft completing an estimated 40 thousand trips in 1963. These craft worked a total of 3,475 shrimp trawls measuring 48 thousand yards across the lead line. Privately owned craft trawling shrimp for live bait and/or home use are not included in these statistics except in cases where live bait dealers sell shrimp to regular commercial shrimp wholesalers.

The oyster fishery ranked fifth in volume landings and fourth in ex-vessel value. The 1963 harvest amounted to 2.6 million pounds of processed meats valued at 914 thousand dollars to the fishermen. This was more than double the 1962 landings and value and established a new record for the state. The previous record annual harvest was in 1908 according to catch records dating back to 1880. The Galveston Bay system produced 81 percent of the 1963 harvest, San Antonio Bay, 12 percent; Lavaca Bay, 4 percent; and the remainder from five other bays along the coast. Two hundred and forty-one oyster dredge craft and several tong crews shared in this record commercial harvest—in addition, sport fishermen took thousands of sacks and tubs of oysters for private use.

Oyster meats were very good in quality with exception of one affected by recurring discoloration of shoked meats. This problem was not new to Texas oyster producers but had not been of commercial importance since the late 1950's. Yield of meats per Texas (92-65 pounds) was down slightly, largely from failure or dredge crews to cull closely.

Landings of edible finfish amounted to 6.6 million pounds valued at 1.3 million dollars. The finfish fishery ranked third in volume and value of the total Texas catch. Red snapper landings of 2.2 million pounds valued at 590 thousand dollars accounted for 33 percent of the catch and 45 percent of the ex-vessel value in 1963, marking the State's highest annual harvest since 1908 when 2.3 million pounds of snapper were landed. The red snapper fishery, as throughout late 1962, was plagued with small fish. Trip catches of six thousand pounds many times did not contain 500 pounds of fish weighing over three pounds per individual specimen. At the close of the year this situation was slowly improving but left much to be desired. In numbers of fish taken, the 1963 snapper fishery undoubtedly established a new record as four new units entered the snapper fleet in addition to repeated trips by out-of-state vessels enroute to distant grounds. One hundred and nineteen full and part-time units worked in the 1963 red snapper fishery. Landings of almost all other species of major commercial importance remained at the 1962 level—trout landings increased slightly, redfish and black drum practically unchanged.

Landings of blue crabs in 1963 amounted to three million pounds valued at 200 thousand dollars to the fishermen. The crab fishery ranked fourth in volume landings and fifth in ex-vessel value—far below the 4.5 million pounds valued at 20 thousand dollars landed in 1962. Four processing plants operated in the state during 1963 with a total of 70 craft fishing 9,668 crab pots.

About 40 new documented shrimp trawl vessels entered the Texas fishery in 1963, while about one-fourth this number were lost at sea by various accidents common to the industry. In addition to larger documented vessels entering the domestic fleet, shipbuilders completed construction on several trawlers for foreign flags, destined primarily for South American countries. The "backyard" boat building industry was very active along the coast from Port Isabel to the Louisiana border. Several craft in the 40-foot class were constructed, contrasting with the heretofore smaller rigs commonly derived from the State's rather significant backyard enterprise.

Two revolutionary new types of winches were developed in the Aransas Pass area in 1963. One has a complete hydraulic system using three independent drums. This new system is practically free of wearing parts, easy to operate, and has safety features far superior to conventional winches. The second type winch is a modified deep-water gear-driven rig capable of holding enough cable to work waters in excess of 300 fathoms.

Nylon, conventional and in combination with other fibers, was predominant in net shops in all major ports. Combination fiber has been shown to be more durable under given conditions, thus a complete change to one product from another would be accomplished only when all fishermen work the same area under comparable conditions for an extended period; which is highly unlikely.

Two new suction unloading devices were installed at Texas ports.

ATTEND MEETING

Mesdames Hugh Morrison, J. W. Ingersoll and Volney Cavitt were in McAllen last week, where they attended the eighth annual meeting of the Women of the South Texas Presbytery, which was held at the First Presbyterian Church there. There were 250 delegates present, representing 38 churches. The local group also enjoyed a brief visit to Old Mexico.

MRS. ADAMS IS HOSTESS TO GOOD
SHEPHERD CLASS

The Good Shepherd Class of the First Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. E. N. Adams in Lamar recently for a social and business meeting.

A supper consisting of barbecued chicken, baked beans, potato salad, deviled eggs, chocolate pie, coffee and tea was served.

Plans for a bake sale to be held in the near future was discussed. Proceeds from the sale will go to the robe fund for the Choral Choir.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. L. Hulett with Mrs. D. M. Fincher as co-hostess. The date will be announced later.

Members of the class present were Mrs. R. W. Meyer, Mrs. J. P. Keith, Mrs. M. L. Hulett, Mrs. E. N. Adams, Mrs. Chas. Garrett, Mrs. Glen Lauer, Mrs. Robert Armstrong, Mrs. D. M. Fincher, Mrs. Laura Jordan, Mrs. Barbara Rogers and Miss Lorna Sontag.

Guests were Patsy and Peggy Armstrong, Kay Lauer, Paula Rogers and Jimmy Keith.

BAPTIST MISSIONARY UNION MET TUES.

The Woman's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church met Tuesday morning for a general meeting and Royal Service program. Mrs. R. F. McKnight, president, called the meeting to order.

The call to prayer was given by Mrs. Carl Gambill. Mrs. Lillie Calvert led in prayer. Mrs. Roy Mullinax, secretary read the minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. Calvert gave the treasurer's report. The business meeting was dismissed with prayer by Mrs. McKnight.

Mrs. McKnight had charge of the Royal Service program with Mrs. John Silberisen, Jena Faye McLead, Mrs. C. O. Lutz, Mrs. M. D. McNorton, Mrs. Gambill, Miss Ruth Lipscomb, assisting her.

The following members, besides those mentioned, were Mrs. Ethel Robbins. Mrs. E. B. Crawford, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Lorene King, Mrs. Barnard Bartoo, Mrs. Lonnie Goodman, Mrs. John Huckabee, Mrs. B. T. Hardeman, Mrs. Melvin Rush, Mrs. Pat Muchulka, Mrs. Jack Wishburn, Mrs. Julian Thompson and Mrs. Johnnie Dunbar.

Fultons Were First To Search For Permanent Water

A cattle baron whose huge old house still fronts on Aransas Bay was the first man in the area to realize the importance of permanent water for Aransas County, and more than 80 years ago began the search for water now being continued by the Aransas County Conservation and Reclamation District.

George Ware Fulton, at that time a partner in the Coleman-Fulton Pasture Co., did everything in his power to supplement supplies from artificial lakes and streams in the company's pastures and as early as 1885 drilling wells had become a practice on the ranch which the company controlled.

Fulton and his sons were in the forefront of the movement to provide not only temporary relief for livestock but also a permanent supply that would increase the value of the lands on the ranch.

By 1885, sixteen windmills were in action on the ranch, with four others ready for mills and these supplemented surface water and artisan wells in a year when drought conditions were so severe that cattle shipments from this area dropped off to almost a standstill.

Ray Stephens, whose recent book, The Taft Ranch, tells of these things, said that the windmills dispersed over the ranch, which later became known by Taft name, lessened the adverse effects of the drought, and Fulton credited the high rate of survival of the company's cattle to the many wells bored in the pasture.

Presence of the wells allowed the cattle to disperse widely over the pastures where drinking water was previously unavailable, and the wells also provided for upbreeding the herds when enclosures with plenty of grass and water permitted planned breeding.

Water has always been a problem on the coastal prairies, but drilling equipment was expensive, and no one had any assurance they could locate good water. Often brackish liquid was all that resulted from extensive drilling, until a device invented by one of Fulton's sons, James C. Fulton—enabled ranchers to drill through the salt water sands to reach potable water at a depth greater than had been possible with old methods.

Stephens, who did an immense amount of research among old papers, letters, diaries and business records before he wrote his book, says that the cost of a well, complete with pumping equipment and tanks was $2,000. Today, a similar well, drilled by the City of Rockport, may range in cost from $10,000 to $15,000. James C. Fulton, operator of the Coleman-Fulton Pasture Company's drilling rig, quoted a price of $5 a foot in a letter.

James C. was the South Texas agent for the H. Woodmanse Company, of Freeport, Ill., and the man responsible for the beginning of the windmill age in South Texas. He handled towers, pumps and drinking fountains, as well as rods, pipes and tubing, and by 1887 had sold 30 mills to the pasture company, 14 to Samuel H. Smith, eight to Thomas P. McCampbell, nine to the Texas Land and Cattle Co., and four to the King Ranch.

Nevertheless, drought continued to be a problem, and 1894-94, the company lost

3,000 head during the dry winter although James C. Fulton said this loss was lighter than that of their neighbors, because of an abundance of water from the windmills.

When the Southwest was in the middle of this drought, the Federal government attempted to produce rain by setting off heavy charges of blasting powder, and George W. Fulton, Jr., was an observer of the first attempts made at El Paso, on behalf of the Coleman-Fulton Pasture Co., the King Ranch, and N. G. Collins, a San Diego rancher.

Upon hearing Fulton's report, this group of Coastal Bend ranchers invited the government to continue their experiments in South Texas, and joined in to defray the expenses. The experiments were carried out at San Diego at a cost of $2,269 of which the government supplied only $633. The rest was furnished by the Citizens Committee. Mrs. Harriet King was the largest contributor, with a check for $1,000. Fulton contributed $300.

The dynamite was carried aloft by balloons and exploded high in the air. Fifteen 10-foot balloons cost $25 each; five 12 foot diameter were priced at $35 apiece; 3600 pounds of sulphuric acid came to $47.52; a ton of iron fillings cost $10; 100 pounds of explosive (rack-areck) was priced at $16, while wire and various sundries amounted to $10. This was the material purchased with government money.

Materials furnished by the King Ranch, Fulton, and others in the Corpus Christi and San Diego vicinities included a ton of explosive, 5,000 cubic feet of oxygen gas, 120 pounds of cannon powder, 500 pounds of dynamite, a ton of iron borings, 1,500 electrical caps, and 200 feet of time fuse and caps, which cost $900.

The Citizens' Committee also paid salaries and expenses amounting to $736.

Almost everybody, including Fulton, described the experiment at San Diego as successful, although Collins expressed doubt as to the practical application of the method, because the expense would be too great.

GOOD NEIGHBOR CLUB MET WITH MRS. McLESTER

Mrs. Olga Mc Lester entertained the Good Neighbor Club at her home Wednesday, Sept. 30, with a covered dish luncheon.

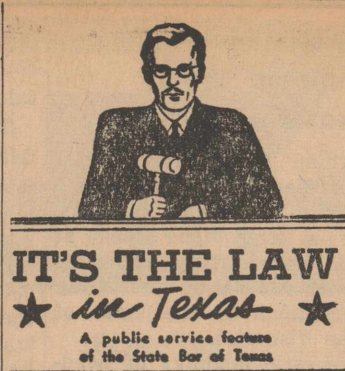

Mrs. Georgia Haynes, Mrs. K. Bartoo and Mrs. Bert Borgan joined the club.

There were 23 members and one visitor, Mrs. Perry Jones, present.

The president, Mrs. Sallie Townsend conducted the business session.

The next club meeting will be with Mrs. Fannie Townsend at the Bayview Nursing Home on Wednesday, Oct. 28 at 2 p.m.

Mrs. Haynes received the door prize.

STOP FOR SCHOOL BUSES

Thousands of school children are now trooping to school throughout Texas. Many of them will be transported by school buses. Most people are careful when approaching a school bus which may be standing beside the road or school to pick up children or allow them to alight. However, we have already had some very bad accidents this year because a child or a motorist, or both, were careless at that very time.

Most Texans are aware of the law which requires a driver to come to a complete stop when overtaking from the rear a school bus which is stopped to receive or discharge school children. After stopping immediately behind the bus, he is then allowed by law to proceed past same at a speed "which is prudent, not exceeding ten (10) miles per hour, and with due caution for the safety of such children."

What many persons do not realize is that the very same rule applies when meeting a stopped school bus. While everyone is interested in protecting our children, unthinking violators of this simple safety rule greatly outnumber those who comply. Failure to follow the law in this case can lead to fine up to $200.00 even when no accident occurs. Following an accident in which some child is injured or killed the penalties are naturally much more serious.

Although the above rule does not always apply when passing a stopped school bus in a business or residential district of a town, the necessity for extreme caution in those locations is obvious.

When it comes to overtaking and passing moving vehicles, exercise of ordinary common sense will generally keep a driver within the law. For instance, when passing a car it is only common sense to proceed on past it a safe distance before cutting back to the right side of the highway. Also, any driver would realize the danger of increasing his speed while another is attempting to pass him.

In the same category is the prohibition against passing on the right under most ordinary conditions. Of course, you may legally pass on the right in a few specific instances, such as when the vehicle overtaken is making or about to make a left turn, or upon a one-way street with two or more lanes, or upon a four-lane highway.

However, our traffic laws state that even when passing on the right is allowed, it shall be done only under conditions permitting such movement in safety. And, in no event should such passing be accomplished by driving off the pavement or main-traveled portion of the roadway.

Familiar to all are the no passing zones designated by yellow lines placed to one side of the center line on our highways. Not so well known are the restrictions against any intersection or railroad grade crossing.

A driver should never cross the center line of a highway when the left side of the road is not clearly visible and free of oncoming traffic. Generally speaking, when not engaged in passing another vehicle, one should not drive to the left of the roadway.

(This newsfeature, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

REBEKAH LODGE WILL OBSERVE PNG NIGHT

The Rockport Rebekah Lodge will honor the past noble grands at the regular meeting, Thursday, Oct. 8.

The noble grand, Mrs. Alton Younglove, presided at the meeting Oct. 1, at 7:30 p.m., with the transaction of routine business.

The bazaar to be held in the IOOF hall Saturday, Oct. 17, was discussed.

Mrs. Lawrence McLester and her committee served refreshments after lodge.

Mr. and Mrs. Buddy McLean and son of Baytown, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Simmons and family and Mrs. J. L. Deason.

MRS. L. G. WOOD HAS TUESDAY BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. L. G. Wood was hostess to the Tuesday Bridge Club at her home on Wednesday afternoon.

High score winner was Mrs. J. D. Griggs; Mrs. W. N. Sanders was second.

Members attending were Mrs. Helen Thomas, Mrs. J. D. Griggs, Mrs. James W. Hunt, Mrs. Harry L. Mills and Mrs. Chester Johnson.

Mrs. R. Roy Woods and Mrs. W. N. Sanders were special guests.

Roger Ayers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Ayers, is teaching mathematics and English at Lamar Technical College in Beaumont. He is working on his masters degree in mechanical engineering.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie C. Sorenson, who are with the Ray Seismograph, are now living in Baguio, Philippines. Mrs. Sorenson writes that she is having a wonderful time and the scenery is so beautiful. Mrs. Sorenson is the former Sue Eller.

LETTER OF APPRECIATION

October 1, 1964
Rockport Volunteer Fire Dept.
Dear Members:
We want to express our sincere thanks to each member of the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department for the help with the blood donations needed for Sandra Kay after her recent Open Heart surgery.
We especially appreciate the time and effort expended in making the necessary arrangements for the taking of the blood and transfer to Dallas. We realize this was not an easy task and appreciate your persistence in seeing this through.
We have always admired the unselfish spirit of the Rockport Volunteer Fire Department, and realize to some extent the contributions made by this fine group of men on other than fire protection. However, your value to the community now has a more personal meaning to us and we will always be grateful for your help and friendship.
Sandra Kay is improving daily and we are looking forward to her return to school and normal life, thanks to you and many more in Rockport.
Gratefully yours,
Mr. and Mrs.

WMU NIGHT CIRCLE MEETS

WMU Night Circle of the First Baptist Church, met Tuesday, Oct. 6 at the home of Mrs. R. L. Condey.
Mrs. B. T. Hardeman, called the meeting to order at 7:30 by reading prayer request. Mrs. Tom Shults gave the opening prayer.
Financial report was given by Mrs. Summerville Ballou and business meeting followed and the year's program set up. The meeting was then turned over to program chairman Mrs. Tom Shults, for Royal Service study, and was assisted by members.
Mrs. Summerville Ballou gave the closing prayer, those present were:
Mrs. B. T. Hardeman, Mrs. Tom Shults, Mrs. Sally Tawnsend, Miss Ruth Lipscomb, Mrs. Roy Mullinax, Mrs. T. H. Edmiston, Mrs. Sommerille Ballou and the hostess, Mrs. R. L. Condey.
October 13 meeting will be at Mrs. Summerville Ballou's home.
The first barbed wire was made in 1873 by Joseph F. Glidden of DeKalb, of Illinois.

Robstown Woman Collects Pitchers

Thirty years ago, Mrs. Lon Messer decided that bridge was a waste of time and in the years that followed she proceeded to sew, knit, crochet and quilt up a storm.
Even now, even though she doesn't embroider, crochet, knit or quilt anymore, she enjoys looking through her haidiwork and giving it to her grandchildren.
In her old-fashioned home in Robstown she has four chests filled with sheets, pillowcases, luncheon cloths, chair sets, dollies, centerpieces, dresser scarves and pillows and a box or two of dish towels.
"It's a job to air it all and wash it," Mrs. Messer says.
When the Messers moved to Robstown back in 1911, her husband made Mrs. Messer some quilting frames for her work, and in between cooking, she made some 40 quilts.
"I'm not the outdoor type," she says, "and while I was waiting for something to cook, I'd work away at some handwork."
Designs on her quilts range from colonial ladies, tulips and wedding rings to just plain old fashioned crazy quilts. "I saved all my scraps of material," Mrs. Messer said, "and when two or three of us worked on a quilt, we'd exchange."
A friendship quilt she made has the names of friends and relatives embroidered on each square. She also made a historic quilt, with the Alamo, the American flag, signing of early documents, Pocahontas and Captain John Smith and the Mayflower embroidered on it.
Mrs. Messer learned to knit during World War I when a Red Cross woman from Corpus Christi "taught classes on how to knit wash rags and sew night shirts."
"We had an assembly line on the night shirts. One woman cut them out, I sewed up the sides and another woman sewed on the buttons."
At the same time she started making things, Mrs. Messer started collecting pitchers, a hobby in which she has been aided and abetted by her husband over the years, with the result that shelves in her home are crowded with over 600 of them, gathered from everywhere.
There are modern and antique pitchers; big pitchers, little pitchers, middle sized pitchers and pitchers that look like Indians, people and cows, to name only a few of them.
"Friends always bring me one and relatives never have any trouble figuring out what to give me. They just send me a pitcher," Mrs. Messer said.
Born in Temple in 1891, she met her husband at a community singing at Highland, Texas. They were married in 1910; moved to a farm near Robstown in 1911 and to town in 1913. When they moved to town they took their cows, chickens and a horse and buggy which they used until 1920.
Seven years later the Messers got a Buick. Lon brought it home, parked it in the drive, and said: "Wife, here are the keys, learn to drive," and Mrs. Messer did just that.
She waited until she was alone, found an instruction book in the car and did just as it said. "I drove up and down the driveway until I caught on," Mrs. Messer said. "That's how I learned to drive."

ATTEND CORPUS CHRISTI MEETING

Mesdames S. F. Jackson, J. W. Ingersoll and J. H. Schleider were in Corpus Christi last Friday, where they attended a meeting of the United Church Women, District 13, Area D, which was held at the St. John's Methodist Church. Mrs. Ingersoll is president of the local chapter.

LUNCHROOM MENUS

President Johnson has issued a proclamation declaring Oct. 11-17, 1964 as National School Lunch Week. "School Lunch Serves Youth" will be the theme of this observance.
The local school lunchrooms always try to serve the students by providing nutritious meals which include as many "favorite" foods as possible.
Monday, Oct. 12: Spaghetti with meat sauce, seasoned green beans, carrot-pineapple-coconut salad, bread, butter, chocolate cake, milk.
Tuesday, Oct. 13: Baked ham, au gratin potatoes, fruit salad, bread, butter, apricot cobbler, milk.
Wednesday, Oct. 14: Roast turkey, gravy, cornbread dressing, buttered mixed vegetables, celery sticks, hot rolls, butter, ice cream, milk.
Thursday, Oct. 15: Frito pie, buttered whole kernel corn, tossed green salad, French bread, butter, fruit bars, milk.
Friday, Oct. 16: Salmon croquettes, catsup, parsleyed buttered potatoes, cole slaw, bread, butter, Boston cream pie, milk.
Note: These menus are subject to change without notice, depending upon availability and delivery of foods.

MRS. H. H. DICK CONDUCTS STORY HOUR SESSION

Mrs. H. H. Dick was the story teller for the Saturday morning session Oct. 3. The stories were Hurry Hurry; Bambi's Children; and McElligots Pool.
There were 14 children present. Interest is quite keen, in fact so much so, that they wanted her to read past the allotted time of 10:00 to 11:00.

'65 Chevrolet Impala Sport Sedan

'65 Chevrolet Impala

It's '65's biggest, most beautiful change. There's striking new styling. New length, width and lowness. A roomier new Body by Fisher housing an interior that's a knockout. And a more serene Jet-smooth ride with a new Full Coil suspension system. Fact is, if you overlook just one thing you can easily convince yourself you're onto a big expensive car here. And that thing is its Chevrolet price.

New Corvair Corsa Sport Coupe

'65 Corvair Corsa

There's never been anything like it from either side of the Atlantic. There's new thin-line hardtop styling for all closed models. More length and width, more entrance and shoulder room in all models. And a higher powered range of engines—with up to 180 hp available in the top-of-the-line Corsas. How for all these models. More length and width, more entrance and shoulder room in all models. Corvair that'll show you.

promised the cooperation of everyone there.

In other business Board Chairman Jack Baughman pointed out some of the needs of the library, and appointed standing committee chairmen to head committees working on these necessities.

Mrs. F. L. McCord is chairman of personnel, with the duty of arranging volunteer workers schedules so they do not conflict and so the library may have plenty of volunteer help for the librarian, Mrs. Clara Brymer, at all times.

Mrs. Robert Harrell and Harry McDow were appointed co-chairman of the committee handling bazaars, rummage sales, game nights and other money raising projects.

Mrs. George Dickey and Mrs. Gladys Gibson were named co-chairman of the committee on Auxiliary membership, and it was emphasized that it was desirable to widen such membership as soon as possible, as extra help would be needed immediately following the book drive, to prepare books for the shelves.

A person who wishes to belong to the auxiliary may do so without membership dues or other qualifications except a sincere desire to help, and may become an auxiliary member by calling Mrs. McCord at SO 4-2006, Mrs. Dickey, at SO 4-2478, or Mrs. Gibson at SO 4-2103.

Meetings of the library board and auxiliary are held the first Tuesday in every month, in the Commissioners Court room at the Aransas County Courthouse, at 3:30 p.m. The public is also welcome to attend.

Mrs. S. F. Jackson was appointed chairman of the committee to acquaint the various women's organizations in the city with the work of the library and was also appointed to the committee headed by Hiller which is working on the by-laws of the Board. Other members of the by-laws committee are Mrs. Dickey and Mrs. McCord.

SEA GUN INVITES—

tional Park, in the Great Slave Lake region of far northern Canada, to nest and raise their young, whoopers are on their way south to their winter home on Blackjack Peninsula, a 47,000 acre stretch of wilderness bordering San Antonio Bay, which was designated years ago as a sanctuary named the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge.

This migration extends over 2,000 miles and all along the way enthusiastic bird watchers report on the progress of the whoopers, which migrate in one and two and family groups of three or four.

Already a lone whooper has been spotted near Jet, Okla., apparently the advance guard of the migration.

Of course, there are mistakes, and white pelicans, sandhill cranes, American egrets, snow geese and whistling swans have all been reported by amateur ornithologists as whoopers, although there really shouldn't be any reason for this.

Even the most careless or over-eager observer ought to be able to spot a whooper without any trouble. In the first place, they are probably the biggest bird on the American continent, with the possible exception of the whistling swan, which rarely gets into whooper territory.

Their plumage is white, with black wing tips, and whoopers fly with the necks and legs stretched out. Their legs are black; their bills are yellow; they stand over four feet tall; and their wings stretch between six and seven feet from tip to tip. On top of their heads, at the base of their bills, is a red patch.

The birds, because of their highly publicized battle against extinction, have caught the public fancy, and each year more than 25,000 people visit the Refuge during the winter, to see them.

Landing Net Tip

Do you have trouble with your landing net drying out between catches so that it floats when you try to slip it under fish?

Stop this in a jiffy by dipping the net in melted paraffin before you go out. Then it will sink like a rock.

Ingleside Woman
Barrel Race Champ

Between weekdays spent as a secretary in the traffic department of the Reynolds Metals aluminum plant, Mrs. Jim Price of Ingleside is a champion lady barrel racer.

Her secretarial garb and glasses are exchanged for western habiliments and a ten gallon hat, and she trades her typewriter for a quick-stepping quarter horse.

Her father, who ran a rodeo in Aransas Pass, entered her in a flag race when she was four, and she's been at it ever since.

"There wasn't any prize money," she says, "but Dad paid another man to give me some. It wasn't very much, only about 75 cents, but I thought it was a fortune."

In 1954 she won the title of Texas' All-Around Champion High School Cowgirl at Hallettsville, and in the same year she was runner up in national competition.

Today, one husband and a six-year old son later, she's as much interested in horses and the things she can do with them as she ever was, and it's a rare weekend when she isn't riding somewhere in a rodeo or a jackpot roping event.

Her husband, who is employed in the technical department of Pittsburg Plate Glass at Corpus Christi, goes right along, for he's a tie-down roping contestant, while Jimmy, who is six, has his own pony and saddle, and just recently was one of the competitors in the Robstown Youth Rodeo, with his parents acting as his most ardent fans.

Mrs. Jim, or Nola Jane, as her friends call her, spends a lot of time training her horses for barrel racing.

"I never want to get off an old horse until I know a new one is perfected," she said. "Training a horse for barrel racing takes about two years—one of training and one of hauling."

First, the horse is walked through the pattern.

"A horse has to know what you want. Most horses will surge ahead when you try for speed," she said.

A year of hauling means taking the horse to shows. "The noise, lights, crowds, music—all this is strange. When he gets used to it you may have a winner."

Two qualities are indispensable, however, speed and a horse's ability to handle himself on the turns. No amount of training will make a winner out of a slow poke.

Mrs. Price has appeared in rodeos from the Oklahoma border to Fort Stockton, and from Houston to Brownsville. During the six, going-on seven years she has been working for Reynolds, she has won a bushel basketful of belt buckles and enough saddle equipment, such as bridles, blankets and halters to start a small saddlery shop. On top of that, she picks up enough cash to make it important.

"It costs about 50 dollars to take part in a rodeo," she said, "and unless you can win some times, you can't stay in the rodeo circuit for very long."

"If we don't win, we can't afford to go."

Mrs. Price, in between the Reynolds traffic department and barrel racing, finds time to keep her attractive home spotless, and to act as secretary of the Quarter Horse Division of the Gulf Coast Charity Horse Show in Corpus Christi and the San Patricio Horse Show in Sinton.

Driftwood
Is Fascinating

Devotees of driftwood dream beauty into twisted tree trunks, and more and more people are combing Texas beaches for grotesque pieces of wood from which they fashion articles of lasting beauty and utility.

A twisted tree from Key Allegro's shores adorns the front of one home there, looking like a leaping dolphin. In the light of a driftwood lamp in another, a table cut from massive mahogany log that drifted ashore, encrusted with barnacles, has a softly gleaming surface, waxed to a lovely brown.

And the parquet floors and some of the furniture that grace the home on St. Joseph Island built by the late Sid Richardson originally came from wood found on the island's beaches.

Indeed, driftwood demand has become so great, said Carl Krueger, whose home bears the leaping dolphin that adds a touch of the sea, that the search for bits and chunks of it is becoming more fiercely competitive than for bottles cast ashore by the sea, or for the shells fancied by other hobbyists. Production of driftwood objects on the east coast has become a million-dollar-a-year business, he said.

Actually driftwood isn't always wood that has been drifting, although most people prefer what they find by the shore. It can be one of the twisted liveoaks that grow around Rockport, that has never moved from its birthplace, but has been bent in tortured shapes by the wind. It can be a woody plant from the desert, killed and scoured by the wind that has whipped across it for decades; it can be a piece of running mesquite that has twisted gracefully in its fight to survive in some ranchman's pasture.

Once obtained, the wood is thoroughly dried, then the artisan takes over. Sometimes as the piece is surveyed for the first cut, its rough shape will strongly suggest the head of some animal, a flying bird, a leaping dolphin, or some other member of the natural kingdom.

When this happens, if in the hands of a dealer, the piece will often be set aside, to become part of a collection of natural sculptures. Some of these collections have commanded fabulous prices while individual pieces have been exhibited in museums throughout the world.

Other so-called "free-form" pieces, skillfully used as backgrounds to enhance flower arrangements, have brought honors to their exhibitors. In fact, so popular has this become that a book written by Japanese Tasuo Ishimoto has found ready sale in this country and may be found in many libraries. It is titled "The Art of Plant and Driftwood Arrangement."

SACRED HEART
PARENTS CLUB
MET MONDAY

The Sacred Heart Parents Club held its regular monthly meeting at the Parish hall on Monday evening, with about 40 members present.

Plans were discussed for a Mexican supper and game party that will be held Sunday evening, Nov. 1.

A program was presented by students of the first and second grades, demonstrating the new method of teaching math at that level.

New members are most welcome and the next meeting will be the first Monday evening in November.

LADIES AUXILIARY
HOLDS MEETING

The Ladies Auxiliary to the VFW held their regular meeting Tuesday night with eight members present.

It was voted to send $10.00 to the Houston VA Hospital.

Mrs. Charles Garrett reported on the district meeting which was held in Kingsville and the next district meeting will be held at Aransas Pass in January.

The auxiliary discussed and made plans for a rummage sale to be held Oct. 20, beginning at 5 p.m. Proceeds will be used for the new addition to the hall.

ber of Commerce manager, told the directors that the South Texas Chamber of Commerce was holding its annual meeting at Bay City Oct. 25-26, and inquired whether directors would present an invitation to the organization to hold its next meeting, or the one following, at Rockport. After considerable discussion, it was decided to extend such an invitation to the group.

Miss Bonner then presented a request from the Rockport Sportsmen's Conservation Association that the chamber endorse the sportsmen's stand on setting aside the bays of Aransas County as conservation sanctuaries. Directors gave their approval to the request.

JOY-ILES RITES CELEBRATED MONDAY

Miss Willie Iles became the bride of Joseph W. Joy, Jr., Monday morning in the chapel at the Schoenstatt Sisters of Mary in Lamar, before an altar decked with white gladioli and candles.

The bride was given in marriage by her father Dewey O. Iles. She wore a suit of white waffle pique and carried a white orchid on her Bible, surrounded by feathered carnations of the same hue.

Her veil of English illusion fell from a crown of sparkling jewels.

Miss Loretta Craig of Rockport was maid of honor. She wore a pink sheath, and a pill box hat which held her veil. Her corsage was of white chrysanthemums, as was the one worn by the mother of the bride.

Larry Iles, the bride's brother, was best man; another brother, Jerry Iles, was usher.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride.

After a wedding trip to Boston, Mass., the young couple will live in Rockport.

The bride attended Aransas County High School and is a graduate of Stevenson's Advanced Beauty College in Corpus Christi. The groom graduated from Norwood High School, Norwood, Mass.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN MET THURSDAY

The Women of the Presbyterian Church met at the church last Thursday afternoon, Oct. 1 for the first meeting of the new church year. A meeting of the executive board preceded the general meeting. Circle One, of which Mrs. J. H. Maher is chairman, served refreshments during a social hour.

The group was led in prayer by Mrs. Robert G. Little, after which Mrs. Hugh Morrison, the new president, conducted the business session.

Mrs. L. W. Hight, chairman of Christian Community Action, presented a brief outline of her plans for the year. It was announced that a family night supper will be held at the church on Sunday evening, Oct. 18 at 6:30 o'clock. W. H. Moore of Aransas Pass, chairman of church extension work of the South Texas Presbytery, will be the speaker.

Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. J. W. Ingersoll and Mrs. Volney Cavitt gave reports on the eighth annual meeting of the women of South Texas Presbytery, which they attended in McAllen on Sept. 29 and 30.

BRIDAL QUESTIONNAIRE PREPARED FOR FREE DISTRIBUTION BY PILOT

Because of the uncertainty of prospective brides about the method of announcing their engagement and weddings, the Pilot has prepared a questionnaire for brides, copies of which are available free of charge, at the Pilot office.

These questionnaires, properly filled out, make it possible for a better story to be written on the engagement and wedding, both for the Pilot and for the Corpus Christi Caller-Times.

For an engagement picture, even a school wallet picture will do. If it is desired to have the picture in both papers, two pictures are needed. These pictures and the engagement announcement should be in the hands of Mr. Baughman not less than a month before the date of the wedding.

All that is needed for the engagement announcement is the name of the bride-elect, and of the intended groom, and of the parents of each one, with their addresses. The date of the wedding can be included but is not necessary.

At least ten days should be allowed before the engagement announcement is printed for the Pilot to obtain a cut made from the picture of the bride-elect.

The wedding picture and information on the wedding should be in the hands of Mr. Baughman at least ten days before the wedding. This information is printed in the Pilot and sent to the Caller-Times as well, so it is not necessary for prospective brides to worry about whether or not the information will appear in both papers.

Here again, there should be one picture for each paper in which the story of the wedding is desired. If you only want it in the Pilot, one picture is enough. If you want it in both papers, two pictures are necessary. These should be at least 5x7 inches, and glossy. It is necessary to have these pictures and this information so the story can be prepared in advance, and so that time is allowed for the making of the printing plates.

If you don't do this, it is entirely possible that your picture and write up will reach the out-of-town papers too late for them to run. Most of the bigger papers insist that they be given ten days or a week in which to prepare such stories, and will not accept information on a wedding that is more than four days old.

The information asked on the questionnaire is the information the person making the write up needs. These questionnaires should be filled out as fully as possible. They will make it easier for the bride elect, for the people helping her, and for the reporter who writes the story.

These questionnaires are free. All you have to do is ask for one and fill it out. In case there are questions as to pictures, or other things, see Mr. Baughman. He has this information and will be glad to answer your questions.

Remember, all you have to do is ask in the Pilot office for one of the questionnaires and fill it out. They're free, and designed to help.
