

THE ARTESIA ADVOCATE

HELPING TO BUILD A GREATER ARTESIA

ARTESIA, NEW MEXICO, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 28, 1950

NUMBER 95

VOLUME FORTY-SEVEN

POT POURRI

There has been considerable comment about things which were said at Hobbs Thanksgiving Day during the Bulldog-Eagle game by Hobbs fans, some of whom used considerable profanity in describing our Bulldogs.

And there has been further comment about remarks by an announcer on the Hobbs radio station, which were anything but sportsmanlike.

The Hobbs station certainly would not have been heard by so many people, had it not been for the northern which closed in shortly prior to game time, which drove members of some Artesia parties to their cars, where they listened in while waiting for the other members of the parties. Most of the Artesia people who stayed home undoubtedly listened in on KSPV, over which all remarks were in good taste and sportsmanship in spite of a tension which was felt in the stadium at Hobbs.

The Hobbs announcer is purported to have referred to our Coach Jack Tinson as "acting like a 5-year-old," among other things. And it is understood that when the coach met players coming off the field, gave them the customary pat on the back, and sometimes shook hands, he was congratulating them for clipping, according to the announcer.

It is true the game was pretty well out of hand, when the referee had to caution the boys on both teams. But we hardly agree with the Hobbs announcer that you couldn't expect anything else from Artesia, or words to that effect, implying that the Bulldogs were a dirty lot.

Artesia fans are agreed that the Bulldogs were tough and perhaps a little rough. But after all, they were playing football. And so were the Eagles.

It is recalled that two years ago, when Ken Lance was coaching the "B" squad for Artesia, he took the boys to Hobbs. But he brought them home again after the first half, forfeiting the game, when he thought unfairness was being shown and when, as he alleged, "A" squad players were being run in.

Contrary to what the Hobbs announcer said over the air, Artesia High School teams are not known throughout this section for lack of sportsmanship.

We can't say as much for Hobbs, for we've always had trouble there.

We received a beautiful booklet from Germany the other day, advertising printing presses, which surely do a marvelous job of printing.

We were happy to look through the book and admire the work, we were happy to get the German stamp, and we were somewhat impressed by the precautions taken on the envelope to make sure that no matter who handled it on the way it would have care, for in large letters was the message in seven different languages. They read:

"Kunstruck—Nicht Brechen.

"Impression d'Art—Priere de ne pas Plier.

"Konstryck—Tørde ej Vikas.

"Stampe d'Arte—Non Piegare.

"Impresos Artísticos—No Doblar.

"Impresos de Arte—E Favor Noa Dobrar."

And, of course: "Color Prints—Do not Fold." Which we were able to understand.

The Little Argus of the Carlsbad Daily Current-Argus informs us that it looks as though the big race of the century is off.

That is the one we have been watching for for you, to have been run about this time of the year between Frank Kindel and W. A. Cloman of Carlsbad from the Cavern City to Clouderoff in their new cars for a purse of $500.

The Little Argus goes on to say: "Kindel cites a number of reasons for calling off the race. They did not specify which Thanksgiving they would run the race, he said.

"It may be Thanksgiving of 1952. He said the race was prohibited this year by the racing commission, the U. S. racing commission, he said Kindel and Cloman are taking off in Kindel's private plane for Kansas City, where Cloman will visit a brother and Kindel will join his wife visiting friends.

But we'll bet the real reason is that the racers heard about our remarks as to what might happen to them when they hit Petty's puddle at Fourth and Main Streets in Artesia.

Perhaps, if they stage the race in 1952, we won't have Petty's puddle any longer.

Beware, For Dog Poisoner Is Busy Again

Once again the dog poisoner is on the job, apparently with no pity for the victims and no thought of the danger to small children, who might pick up poisoned meat or candy and eat it.

On Friday reports were made of three dogs in the 500 block on South Seventh Street, which were dead or dying.

Similar reports have been made every few weeks for a number of months.

Nor are dogs the only victims, for the death of at least one cat recently has been attributed to poison.

If dogs are bothersome—and they can be—the police should be notified and they will do their best to co-operate.

Should the bothersome dogs be licensed, owners will be warned to keep them on home premises, while unlicensed dogs will be impounded and ultimately destroyed, if not claimed.

Barbecue Served 500 Saturday in Annual Affair

Second annual affair of its kind, the barbecue held at noon Saturday on the lawn of United Veterans Club was attended by 500 persons, according to Tom Hymmer, office manager of Artesia Alfalfa Growers Association.

The barbecue, which included barbecued beef, pork, mutton, beans, potato salad, coffee, and soft drinks, was sponsored by Artesia Kiwanis Club, of which Justin P. Newman is president; Central Valley Electric, Paul L. Frost, manager, and the alfalfa association, of which Artie McAnally is manager.

Beef served was from the grand champion animal exhibited by Marshall Martin, Artesia 4-H Club, at the annual junior livestock show in Carlsbad. Artesia Kiwanians had purchased the calf.

Association members, their families, and farmers and families from this part of the county were guests.

Deer Contests Close, While Phillips Kills Biggest Without Winning Prize

Winners in the three local deer contests have been determined, with their closing Saturday by the participating stores.

But the hunter who killed the heaviest buck did not win a prize. He was Bill Phillips, Sr., whose big deer was the heaviest reported locally, but who had failed to register before going hunting.

His drawn buck weighed in at the Artesia Locker Plant at 205 pounds, exceeding by 14 pounds the prize winner killed by Ed Havins. Both were nine-point deer and were killed in the Guadalupe Mountains.

Havins' prize was a hunting and fishing buck given by Baldwin's for the largest buck killed by a hunter having registered before going hunting.

Brainard-Corbin Hardware Company also required registration, but limited possible winners to those having killed bucks with no more than six points. Cecil Lunsford won the prize there of a sleeping bag for his five-point buck, which weighed in at 137 pounds. It was Lunsford's fourth hunt and first buck.

Evans Hardware somewhat reversed things, offering a sleeping bag for the lightest legal deer weighed in. No registration was required.

Mrs. Alex McGonagill was the lucky hunter in that contest with her 68-pound deer.

Phillips killed his big buck on the XT Ranch, where he has hunted the last few years and he did not get him until near the end of the season.

Other hunters were amazed at this, for the buck is supposed to be "Old Grandpa," a huge buck for which hunters have been gunning for years, but who is so wary no one ever before managed to get an open shot at him. And an old-timer like "Old Grandpa" is usually hard to kick out of hiding after the first cap is popped come big-game season.

The big deer was not wearing as big a rack as in some past years, but hunters say that whereas a buck's antlers are likely to increase in size and perhaps points for a few years, they do not grow so large when the deer reaches a certain age. This year's spread was high and about 20 inches wide.

The greatest number of points reported this season was 26, on the antlers of a cactus buck killed by Pablo Alvarez on the east slope of the Guadalupe.

One of the most successful parties reported hunted in Mule Canyon and the six hunters had six deer hanging in camp by 6 o'clock the first Saturday of the season.

The members of the party, points and weight of their deer:

E. P. Bach, 4, 125; Emil Bach, Jr., 4, 125; Charles (Cotton) Pittman, 3, 75; Albert Bach, 5, 140; Bill Case, 10, 160; Harold Hough-taling, 5, 100.

Among the other successful hunters, not previously reported, were:

Earl Schneider, 8, 160, Pinon; Faundo Nunez, 8, 195, Pinon; Bill Martin, Sr., 9, Glasscock ranch; Bill Martin, Jr., 3, Glasscock.

Stewart Compton, 6, Sacramentos; Lew Williams, 10, Sacramentos; Herman Jones, 9, Sacramentos; Harold Adams, 135.

Hunters, who switched back to shotguns for the quail season, which opened at noon Saturday, reported many birds this year and a great number of them filled their bag of eight. The possession limit is also eight and the season limit is 40.

The quail season will continue through Dec. 10, except that it will be illegal to hunt quail before noon on Dec. 2, the opening time of the Community Chest Drive for $9280 to Start Wednesday

Eighty workers are due to report at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning in Masonic Temple for the Artesia 1950 Community Chest campaign. It is hoped to attain the $9280 quota in one week. A report meeting is slated for Wednesday morning, Dec. 6.

Landis Feather heads the three-team group on the big gifts portion of the campaign: Bert Jones, the five-team merchants group, and Mrs. Helen Bartlett, residential.

Questions and answers on the campaign are to be heard in a program over radio station KSPV at 8 o'clock tonight.

Rev. Ralph L. O'Dell is president of the Artesia Council of Social Agencies under whose sponsorship the campaign is being conducted. Chuck Aston is campaign chairman.

Purpose of the movement: "The national organization," says Rev. O'Dell, "has told us that the only way for a community to cover its need is for all charitable organizations to combine their efforts thereby cutting out duplication and stopping the constant din of solicitation aimed at business men."

"We now have 37 co-operative organizations in Artesia. This means 37 units doing some kind of social work. Each of the organizations has appointed a delegate and all these delegates constitute the social agencies council."

"The need has been growing for years for a Community Chest that is specifically set up for community needs.

"Motto for this year's campaign: 'Artesia Community Chest for Artesia's Needs.'"

Headquarters for the organization, as well as for the public welfare department, Red Cross, and state health department, is 511 West Main.

Preliminary plans for the campaign were outlined in a luncheon held at noon last Monday in Masonic Temple.

Bob Koonce, budget committee member, made a talk in which he cited the trend toward consolidation to end the wearisome drive after drive.

The group recommended appointment of representatives from the various clubs to the council with one of the representatives serving at least three years to end the ceaseless orientation that must otherwise be standard operating procedure.

Here are the allotments in the campaign quota:

They are $1800 for family service, traveler's aid and allied tasks; $200 for city recreation fund; $1200 for rental on the health and welfare center at 511 West Main; $480 for center utilities; $300 for campaign expenses; $900 for salaries of welfare worker and council executive secretary and $2600 for the Girl Scouts.

Two Burglary Reports Probably From Same Job

Two reports of burglaries at Cape's Grocery & Service Station on the north highway about 10½ hours apart, but it is probable there was only one burglary.

The first was reported by D. L. Batie, who lives next door, at 11:06 o'clock Saturday night, when he discovered a carpenter shop at the rear had been entered.

The second report was at 9:25 o'clock Sunday morning when it was found the grocery store had been burglarized and that $20 to $30 had been stolen from the cash register and two packages of cigars were missing.

Police investigating after the first report found the shop had been entered by breaking a bar that held the door. It appeared there had been an attempt to get into the grocery store from there by removing a glass in a door.

At that time nothing was missed. After the report of Sunday morning of a burglary in the grocery store, it was theorized that the burglar or burglars had entered at the same time the shop was broken into and that they had left by a rear door, on which there is a night latch.

Two Tires Among Loot Stolen From Sanders Station

A burglary at the Sanders Chevron Service Station was reported to police Thanksgiving morning.

Missing were two 6.00x16 tires, still in their wrappers; two gallons of anti-freeze, and five quarts of motor oil.

Police said entrance was gained by breaking a glass in a window, then cranking the window open. It appeared a door had then been unlocked from the front office to the service room.

Betrothal of Miss Archer Is Told at Tea

Mrs. T. L. Archer gave a beautiful tea Friday afternoon of last week at her home announcing the engagement of her youngest daughter, Teddy Jane Archer.

The guests were greeted at the door by the honoree, who was wearing a black lace dress with a high neckline and short swing bolero. Her corsage was of orchid chrysanthemums in a Chinese arrangement. Her mother was wearing a crepe dress of royal blue. Her corsage was a dyed Fuji pom-pom.

The tea table was laid with a beautiful handmade aqua organza cloth and was centered with a particularly lovely arrangement of orchid chrysanthemums and white pom-poms in a low silver bowl.

Rising from the center of the floral arrangement was a large white maine fan bearing in silver letters the announcement, "Teddy and Jerry, Dec. 23." This was backed by a cathedral grouping of white whip tapers in silver holders. On the scalloped organza flounce which fell to the floor were smaller white maine fans with orchid chrysanthemums and white satin shower ribbons. All appointments of the tea table were carried out in silver and crystal. The small cakes were centered with white orange blossoms.

Mrs. Howard Gissler and Mrs. Fred Jacobs, mothers of long-time friends of the bride-to-be, presided at the tea service during the two tea hours. Others in the house party were Mrs. A. L. Hewitt and Mrs. D. D. Archer, aunts of the honoree, and Mrs. Leland Wittkopp and Mrs. Charles Denton, sisters of the honoree. All wore gardenia corsages.

Fifty-five guests signed the guestbook.

The wedding will take place at 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Dec. 23, at the First Methodist Church.

Marines Recall Commerce Teacher

(From Artesia Hi Beacon) By Juanita Hernandez

Did you catch the smell of coffee lingering through the hall of A.H.S. on Thursday, Nov. 9?

Some of our women teachers were making coffee for the farewell party the faculty gave for Mr. Warren Johnston, the commercial teacher, who as a Marine Reserve, was called back to duty. Mr. Johnston left for California to take his physical examination.

All the teachers were sorry to see him go, for he was a swell teacher and friend.

All the teachers met at 4 o'clock Thursday, Nov. 9, in the Home Ec. room. Doughnuts were served with the coffee.

Mrs. Bildstone presented Mr. Johnston with a gift from the faculty. Which goes to show that he was not only a favorite among students but also among all our teachers.

Hoquiam, Wash. (AFPS)—Fred Miller decided to go deer hunting. All day long he tramped through the woods in search of the elusive game. When he arrived home, he found his wife sitting beside a 100-pound, two-point buck. She shot it when it wandered into her garden.

Clay Sees World Destruction Without Education

(From Artesia Hi Beacon) By Ivan Clay

The wind sweeps down through the ruins of a once great city. There are weeds growing in the streets and through the sidewalks. The buildings are in ruins, some from fire and others from old age. There was no life to be seen anywhere in the city, but on a hill far to the north was a small group of people, not the proud race of people that built the city, but the ones that destroyed it.

We look from one country to another, it is the same, ruins, where once there were buildings. In some places where two groups of people have met there are fights one to keep the other from destroying them.

You say, "It looks like they had an atomic war." But look first at the ruins of the city with the walls of the buildings caving in from old age, weeds and grass taking over the streets and sidewalks. No, this was not an atomic war that caused this.

Now look at the small group of people on the hill, they are short, about 5'5" in height, heavily built and strong, for only the strong can live here.

No, this was not an atomic war. It was something that was much slower but just as destructive.

It began when a government took over that did not want any schools, but those of military importance. Soon all schools were closed that had anything to do with machines, science and thoughts of freedom.

In about 25-30 years the people that knew anything about machines, science or freedom were dead. Each generation of people after these people became more and more ignorant, all they knew was to "kill or be killed." Time moved on to the scene that we saw before us.

The great world that man had built was gone. The buildings such as the churches were gone. The schools were gone. There stood in their place, ruins, a symbol of the degeneration of the people.

All this because some fool thought that he could make the world his kingdom by making the people ignorant. But he only brought about this—the world's destruction.

Education is something that is not extended to all people of the world. It is something in which we should take pride, and never allow it to be taken from us, but stand up and fight for it. Because this could happen.

Uncle Sam Says

It is time for every American to ask himself what he can do to help keep his country strong and free. There is much to be done for here's what we must do to support our defense forces and to end aggression in the world: Produce the materials and equipment needed for defense; raise the money to pay the cost of increased defense efforts; do all we can to prevent inflation. Buying U. S. Savings Bonds helps do all of these. Enrolling for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work means you are providing for your own financial security and at the same time helping your country. THAT IS SOMETHING EVERYONE CAN DO.

By BROWNIE EMERSON

Holocaust in Hobbs or Heave Another Christian to the Lions!

There was a Thanksgiving prayer heard over the public address system at Eagle Stadium just before the Thanksgiving Day Artesia-Hobbs football game.

It was a sincere prayer but it was the last iota of peace that afternoon. From then on it was war on the gridiron and war in the stands.

Football is no pink tea. It's rugged enough without unnecessary roughness.

But if football is to degenerate into a 1950 version of throwing Christians to the lions, the game does no good for the boys, the schools or the towns involved.

If there are fans who are satisfied with nothing less than massacre why not satisfy them by not having a football game but a gang war with the inhabitants of one town moving en masse against the inhabitants of the other.

The near-riot that occurred in the game reflects credit on no one. If two towns can't have a football game between their high schools without all this bickering, name calling, penalties for unnecessary roughness, it would be better to call the whole thing off.

No Joy Rides

The Artesia Bulldogs know just how rugged the opposition can be. Games with Tucumcari, Roswell, Alamogordo, and Carlsbad weren't any joy rides.

Yet despite the reported radio statement from a Hobbs station that inferred the Bulldogs played "dirty" football, Artesia had and I think will continue to have good relations with those towns.

There was and will continue to be rivalry but there was not and there never will be any such "kill 'em" attitude displayed by these towns against Artesia as seemed to be manifested by some Hobbs fans against Artesia on the game played on the day that is supposed to have peace, goodwill, and understanding as its fundamentals.

Yes, we got licked by Carlsbad, too, and we still want to play Carlsbad again. Carlsbad wanted to win over Artesia every bit as much as Hobbs wanted to but I didn't hear any "kill 'em, slay 'em, the blank-ety-blanks," comments over there. Carlsbad beat Artesia fair and square, and it walloped Roswell, on the same basis. More important than that it set an example of sportsmanship in its treatment of Artesia fans and team that Hobbs could well imitate.

As to the reported remarks of the Hobbs radio station concerning Coach Jack Tinson:

What kind of a coach would he be if he didn't back his boys? Tinson is a hard taskmaster for football isn't any drop the handkerchief sport. It's rough and tough and you have to be in condition to play it.

When the chips are down you'll always find Tinson in there battling for his boys. What kind of a coach would stand idly by when he saw something he judged as an unfair decision and say, "it's all right, push us around, we like it?" He's mighty proud of his Bulldogs and the Bulldogs are mighty proud of him.

Good Show

Jerry Brown, sports editor of the Daily Current-Argus, Carlsbad, admits his chagrin at being taken in by Coach Jack Tinson, in Brown's column, "Much Ado."

Captioned, "Six Semper Tinson, or he knew we were coming so he baked a fake." Brown tells of his taking pictures of some Bulldog first stringers just before the Nov. 17 classic.

Brown learned of the stunt after the game when an Artesia player told him how a half-hour before his arrival, Tinson had rushed into the locker room with plaster, splints and tape.

"We're gonna fool that Brown," he announced. "And he did. But good. But we're ready for next year."

It seems that "the cast was a real production number . . . the real article."

The Bulldogs were not in top form for the Carlsbad battle though they might not have been in as bad shape as the "production number" indicated.

Carlsbad can be thankful the Bulldogs weren't in the condition on Nov. 17 they were on the date the Bulldogs played Roswell.

All Deserve Credit

From the Las Cruces Sun-News comes this editorial comment on the unsung heroes of football, the line, which is equally and especially apropos of the Artesia High School lineups:

"There is always considerable said in the news stories about the boys on the football squad who carry the ball."

"A few words should be said about the boys in the line. They deserve credit, too. It is the line that makes it possible for the backfield to be successful. Without the line they could not function."

The Artesia Bulldog line probably more than made up for its inactivity in the state this past season, and most of the time they were also a minor irritant. Coming in with team on bus to field. Driver J. H. Raleigh managed to park Bus 123 after much shunting about.

Then I made tour of field seeking a gate leading to press box, only to return to starting point, lift my aging body over a fence, and crawl to the Eagle press box.

Mustang Athletic
Chief to Help Plan
National Cage Tilt

Raymond J. Brancheau, athletic director at New Mexico Western College, Silver City, has been named to the New Mexico-Arizona-West Texas district for the National Association of Intercollegiate basketball.

His committee will arrange the district tournament and designate teams to represent the district in the national NAIB cage tourney at Kansas City. The committee will meet at Albuquerque in the early part of December.

Brancheau came to New Mexico Western in 1934 after graduating from Notre Dame University, South Bend, Ind. He has served NMW continuously since that date except for wartime service during 1942-46 in the United States Navy, wherein he was an athletic officer, deck court officer, welfare officer, senior security officer and executive officer, attaining the rank of lieutenant commander, and for sabbatical leave in 1949-50 at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Mich.

The NMW athletic director coached football from 1934 to 1948 basketball 1934 to 1936 and tennis in 1948. His native home is Monroe, Mich.

Hornets 0, Eisenhower 26; Hornets 0, Alta Vista 6, Hornets 0, Alta Vista 6, Hornets 7, Roswell 24.

The safest car drivers are between the ages of 40 and 49.

The Coyotes will play Hope in Roswell on Dec. 12. Artesia at Artesia on Dec. 19.

Van Witt, Roswell coach, was a pupil of Hank Iba. In practice to date he has emphasized the sinking defense, playing tight on the ball.

Coyote basketeers include Noel Westerfield and Bob Worrell, guards; Gene Balderice and Wayne Brown, forwards; Ben Hodges, center, with Bill Payne, Sam Hammons, among the reserves.

Roswell invitational tourney will be played Jan. 26-27, district tourney, Feb. 23-24.

New Basketball Zoning Approved

By a four to one vote the New Mexico High School Athletic Association has approved a basketball referendum under which there will be five more district tournaments, and four regional tournaments from which winners and runners-up will go to the state meet.

District tourneys will be held the week end of Feb. 24. Winners and runners-up go to:

Four regional tourneys, composed of three or four districts, week end of March 3. Winners and runners-up of those tourneys go to the state tourney in Albuquerque March 10.

Reason for the new plan is to eliminate the crowded unwieldy condition prevalent in past tournaments. It cuts the number of state championship finalists from 20 to eight.

Artesia will be in the Artesia-Carlsbad-Roswell region which has number four. District number is five. Teams are Artesia, Carlsbad, Dexter, Hagerman, Hope, Lake Arthur, New Mexico Military, and Roswell.

Yellow Jackets Twice Sting Weed

Hope High School basketball team has the record of being the first high school quintet in this area to have started its season play.

The Yellow Jacket A and B teams raised the curtain in a double header recently at Weed, winning both tilts.

In the first game, the score was Hope 54, Weed 23; in the B contest, Hope 24, Weed 9.

Clarence Forrester, only senior on the Hope starting five, was high point man with 25. Lynn Harrison was runner-up with 10. Score at the half was Hope 20, Weed 5, at the end of the third quarter, Hope 38, Weed 13.

Tilt With Lovington Opens REA Cage Season

A game with Lovington there on Dec. 7 is to open the 1950-51 schedule of the Rural Electrification Administration Travelers, famous local basketball aggregation.

The schedule, as yet tentative, includes 19 games, of which only three are here. This is due to the fact that the Travelers could not make arrangements for use of the Artesia High School gymnasium and therefore substituted the gymnasium at the Atoka school, six miles south of Artesia.

Probably the REA will have an entry in the Artesia basketball league if one is formed, this season.

In pre-schedule play, the Travelers have already had two games defeating Hope 62 to 23 at Hope on Nov. 15 and on Nov. 22 vanquishing Walker Air Force Base 60 to 34 at Walker, near Roswell.

Coach of the Travelers is G. C. (Red) Goodwin, pupils of the famous Hank Iba, of Oklahoma A. & M. College.

Players
Coach Goodwin made known a list of players he expects to see in action this season for the Travelers, naming eight cagers, former Collegiate players.

One of the eight is uncertain. He is Ray Ellefson, 6 feet 9 inch, one time All-Missouri Valley conference, Oklahoma A. & M. salient on both offense and defense.

Ellefson is a possible addition. So too are two other college stars provided a schedule can be arranged to warrant the additional men.

The others on the list:
Don Heathington, 6-4, All-American, Baylor, Traveler captain.

Bill Johnson, 6-2, Baylor, all conference.

Nick Stallworth, 6-7, All-American, Idaho, high scoring pivot man.

Dee Nutt, 6-3, Little All-American, Abilene Christian, clever ball handler and dribbler, leading scorer in Texas colleges last two seasons.

Bill Hamm, 6-3, All-Border conference, New Mexico Aggies, with Aggies 1947-48, leading scoring in circuit his last two seasons.

Ralph McGuire, 6-4, New Mexico Highlands, New Mexico conference.

Pete Hatch, 6-3, New Mexico Highlands, good on rebounds.

The tentative, incomplete schedule:
Dec. 7—Lovington, there.

Dec. 11—Lovington, here.

Dec. 16—El Paso, there.

Dec. 18-20—Chihuahua, three games, there.

Dec. 22—Holoman Air Base, there.

Dec. 23-30—New Mexico Highlands tournament.

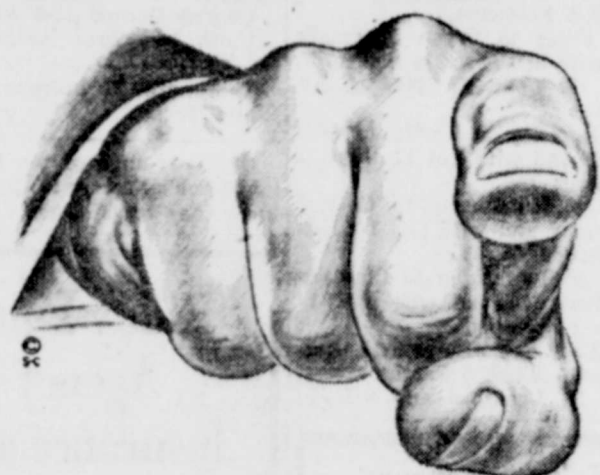

Jan. 4—Lovington, here.

Those pesky ants, which seem to be more on the move in the fall than at any other time of the year, can be kept under control by using chlordane sprays and dusts.

Homemakers should paint all entrances to the house with a 2 per cent chlordane spray and dust all around the house with a 5 per cent chlordane dust. A good job of this will control ants for some time.

The ants that move around and give much trouble in the fall are trying to find and store up food for the winter.

When the utensils aren't in use they should be stored on metal racks in the milking, and always in an inverted position to help protect it against contamination.

Give plenty of water to hogs which show symptoms of flu. Sick pigs should be given plenty of dry bedding and well ventilated houses and above all keep plenty of water available. You'll have speedier recoveries if you take your sick animals off corn for awhile, and put them on oats. Coughing may be relieved by adding guaiacol to their drinking water. The chances of secondary pneumonia will be cut if you add some of the new sulfa mixtures with the water. Flu usually lasts about 4 to 6 days.

According to a recent Kansas City Board of Trade bulletin, the Pure Food and Drug Administration has made some new regulations regarding the shipment of grain for human consumption. If unfit grain is shipped with the intent to defraud, the shipper can get up to three years' prison sentence. Even where there is no intent to defraud, the shipper can still get a sentence of one year.

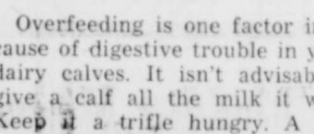

County operators whose elevators are full often have no choice but to load grains as it is received, and ship it as soon as the car is full. In such cases, it is almost impossible to prevent uneven loading and spots of bad grain in some cars.

Shippers caught in the circumstances should send a letter to their terminal representatives stating that the car is unevenly loaded and explain why. This should at least establish that there was no intent to defraud and, if the car is condemned, may forestall any criminal prosecution.

Overfeeding is one factor in the cause of digestive trouble in young dairy calves. It isn't advisable to give a calf all the milk it wants. Keep it a trifle hungry. A large healthy calf can take more milk than one smaller, or one that is not so strong. For small, healthy calves, one quart of whole milk per feeding is sufficient for the first week. Large vigorous calves may be given as much as a quart and a half per feeding during this same period. Beginning with the second week, the amount of milk is gradually increased, if the calf is doing well. Many good calf raisers limit small calves to two quarts of milk and large calves to two and a half quarts per feeding, regardless of age. Do not guess at the amount of milk fed. Either weigh or measure it accurately. For feeding pur-

Many Farmers In State Have Cotton Classed

About 5400 New Mexico cotton farmers in nine improvement groups are having their cotton classed this season under the Smith-Doxey Act, reports William B. Lanham, Western area cotton branch manager, U.S. Department of Agriculture's Production and Marketing Administration, Bakersfield, Calif.

Also, they receive USDA market news reports showing the prices of different grades and staples are selling for in various markets.

With the official USDA grade and staple classification and current price quotations, both of which are furnished by USDA without cost, they will know what their cotton is worth, Lanham said.

These farmers planted 183,472 acres to the improved variety which they selected earlier in the season when they organized into groups. These acres should produce about 185,000 bales of better quality cotton, if yields measure up to the state's last 10-year average.

Co-operating with these improvement groups in promoting better quality cotton are 60 New Mexico gins.

New Screwworm Remedy Is Now Being Used

A new treatment for the control of screwworm, the most destructive livestock insect pest in Southern states, has been announced by the U.S. Department of Agriculture. This new treatment, to be known as EQ 335 screwworm remedy, will replace the department's EQ 62, known to stockmen for the past decade as the most effective of all remedies for screwworm control.

The screwworm is the maggot stage of a parasitic fly that lays its eggs on wounds of any warm-blooded animal, including man. It caused heavy losses to stockmen in many areas of the country for years.

The new remedy contains lindane, a powerful new insecticide. The formula requires by weight three parts of lindane, 35 parts of pine oil, 42 of white mineral oil, 10 of an emulsifier, and 10 of a silica gel. It is applied to wounds with a small paint brush. The treatment kills maggots deep in the wounds, young maggots as they hatch from eggs, and flies attracted to the wound to feed or lay more eggs.

The killing of flies attracted to a wound is an attribute new to department screwworm remedies. This will help reduce the number of animals attacked by the flies.

Department entomologists say the new remedy has many points of superiority over EQ 62. It will not deteriorate upon standing. Exhaustive tests show one application of EQ 335 usually lasts for seven days, while two treatments of EQ 62 are required to protect wounds for the same period of time. Wounds treated with the new remedy heal quickly. Lamp black and other coloring chemicals that stain clothing, wool, or hair, have been omitted from the new formula.

The department points out that this new screwworm remedy is not the entire answer to screwworm control. Prompt use of the remedy, proper livestock management and constant watching for infested animals are the only means so far available to stockmen to save their animals from the pests. There is

When necessary to dehorn, brand, or perform operations of this sort, the new remedy should be applied promptly. Hagerman News

(Edna Burck)

Union Thanksgiving services were held on Thursday morning at the First Presbyterian Church of Hagerman, with the Rev. G. H. Woolf bringing the inspiring Thanksgiving message. Excellent music by the choir, with Mrs. D. N. Aiken director and Mrs. McKinstry accompanist, was enjoyed. Rev. Russell, pastor of the Church of the Naarene, who was to have preached the Thanksgiving sermon, was unable to be present because of illness.

A wedding of interest to Hagerman friends was solemnized Nov. 11 at Cupid's Wedding Chapel, Yuma, Ariz., when Miss Yvonne McWilliams of Santa Ana, Calif., became the bride of Sgt. Utah Dennis of Hagerman. S-Sgt. Joe Winters was best man and Mrs. Winters was matron of honor. The bride was lovely in a rose-colored costume and the bridegroom and best man wore dress uniforms of the Marine Corps. After the ceremony the couple flew to Santa Ana in the bridegroom's plane. Sergeant Dennis is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Dennis of Hagerman. He graduated from Hagerman High School with the class of 1946 and entered the air wing of the Marine Corps soon after graduating. He has bought a home at Santa Ana, where Mrs. Dennis will live while he is stationed overseas. At present he is at Barber Point, Honolulu, Hawaii.

Mrs. L. E. Boyce, Mrs. Charles Criddle, and Elton Thompson of Roswell returned Tuesday of last week from El Paso, where Mr. Thompson had taken his mother, Mrs. Boyce, for treatment by an eye specialist.

A number of Hagermanites were hospitalized this week, including Richard Ables, owner of the Hagerman Locker Plant, at Denison, Texas; the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sidney Bailey, in a hospital at Roswell; Barbara Stewart, daughter of Vail O. Stewart, at the Artesia General Hospital, and Jack Langenecker, young Hagerman farmer, at a hospital in Roswell. All are reported to be improving.

The senior 4-H Clubs held a meeting recently, at which 12 pins were awarded for completed projects. Officers were elected for the coming year and Mrs. D. C. Dennis, who has been a leader the last two years, was given a lovely vase in appreciation of her assistance.

Mrs. E. A. Watford, who had been visiting her son and Hagerman friends left Wednesday for Oklahoma City, where she planned to spend Thanksgiving at the home of her son, Paul Watford, and family before going to her home at Norman. While in the valley Mrs. Watford also visited the Wesley Sperry family and Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Menefee of Artesia.

Miss Joan Graham, who is attending Texas Tech, came home for Thanksgiving. She was accompanied by Rossie Stiles and Carolyn Chick, also of Texas Tech, who were Thanksgiving guests at the Wayne Graham home.

Bert Utterback of Oklahoma City is visiting his brother, W. E. Utterback, and family this week and while here the Utterback brothers are enjoying a hunting trip.

Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Holloway were guests at a delightful Thanksgiving dinner Thursday, serving turkey and all the trimmings. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Bradley of Roswell, who have spent each Thanksgiving day at the Holloway home for a number of years; Mr. and Mrs. Chalmers Holloway and daughter, Katherine, of Roswell, and Mrs. Chalmers Holloway's mother, Mrs. J. M. Case, of Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam McKinstry were week end visitors at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth Osborne and daughter of Hobbs. On Sunday they were joined by the Howard

for Sinus Trouble

Sinusitis is often caused by a depletion of nerve force flowing from the brain to the delicate mucous membrane lining the sinus cavities. This nerve block is brought about by a subluxated (misaligned) vertebra pressing on the spinal cord and spinal nerves. Using the Neurocalometer and X-ray, the Chiropractor can locate the exact point of the trouble and the degree of misalignment. Chiropractic adjustments are given to remove the nerve pressure, thereby removing the CAUSE of sinus trouble.

Stamp Collector Tells of Rare Swedish Issue

By C. GOTTFRIED FINKE

Private sale of the three skilling banco-yellow of Sweden recently caused talk of another rarity.

Sweden issued its first stamps in 1855 in a series of five. These were used for two years then reissued several times to meet postal needs.

Thirty years later a Stockholm schoolboy, George Backman, was visiting his grandmother in the country during Christmas.

He saw the stamps on his late grandfather's mail. Although not a stamp collector the boy recognized their value and asked his grandmother for them.

Reluctant Buyer
Back in Stockholm the boy examined the lot. He was unfamiliar with stamps but did know dealers were offering seven kroners for examples of the three-skilling.

Most of his stamps were ordinary but he did find one banco-yellow three-skilling that he took from the envelope and showed in Lichtenstein's stamp shop.

The dealer overlooked the three-skilling at first, as it was the same color as the eight, instead of the correct blue. He offered a trifle for the lot.

Dejected the boy pointed to the one stamp sought by other dealers, the dealer looked at it a second time and reluctantly bought it for seven kroners, or $2.

Alert Baron von Ferrari in 1894 bought the stamp through an agent for $2000, a great price at that time.

In 1892 the French government seized and sold the Ferrari collection. Baron Erik Leijonfud examined the stamp and defined it as authentic. He bought it at auction for $3500.

The Swedish baron sold the stamp to C. A. Tamm, Stockholm engineer, in 1926 for $7500. Tamm sold it two years later for $10,000 to Dr. John Rabberg, Swedish lawyer.

King Is Purchaser
In 1937 Dr. Rabberg sold the stamp through a London concern to an anonymous buyer. The stamp next appeared in the collection of King Carol who paid $25,000 for it

Salute to the Bulldogs

ARTESIA LOVES THE BULLDOGS. They did not achieve the goal for which they and the community were striving, but they did a gallant job throughout the season just closed.

We have seen teams in the past which had a poor attitude, played as though they didn't care whether they won or lost. We have seen teams, control of which the coach or coaches lost. And we have seen teams, the members of which as individuals displayed everything but good sportsmanship and who refused to keep in training.

But we feel that the Artesia High School Bulldogs of the 1950 football team have just displayed one of the greatest instances of co-operation, training, fight and sportsmanship in the history of the school.

To Coach Jack Tinson and his assistants goes their share of the glory, for surely without good leadership and know-how, the Bulldogs could not have run up the great record they did.

In the Carlsbad game, a 99-yard run won for the now state champion Cavemen. But that run was achieved through good football. In nearly 999 cases out of a thousand, a team, backed up to its one-yard line, would not have taken a chance on a two-point safety, especially with the score tied. So the natural procedure would have been to kick on the first play.

But the Cavemen elected to take a great gamble. And they won. The fact that one of the fastest high school boys in the state was carrying the ball merely clinched the play, after he cut through. The good football lies in the use of the unexpected and making it click.

Then with the championship practically assured Carlsbad, the Bulldogs, suffering many injuries, went to Hobbs and put up a splendid battle. And they battled hard until the final gun, even though it appeared for many minutes before the game ended that only with the best of breaks could they expect to do more than tie the score. And the chances of that were slim.

The boys played their hearts out for Artesia High School and for Artesia.

They had the greatest of help from Coach Tinson and his staff and the Bulldogs gave them the greatest of co-operation.

And so we salute them—Artesia's champions, even though they are not the state champions.

May their spirit continue year after year, win or lose.—A.L.B.

Halt the Rackets

WITH THE PROPER CO-OPERATION of business people in the community many of the various campaigns for funds for outside projects and many of the rackets being worked on our business people can be halted.

Every community has its own programs, movements and projects for which funds are needed. Campaigns are conducted for these projects and oftentimes it is difficult to raise all the funds needed and that could be used.

But every week or so there are solicitors from the outside coming into this community and other communities soliciting funds. And in most instances they not only get more money than they should receive but the collectors get far too great a percentage of the funds collected.

Every week sees salesmen from the outside coming into our community taking business which belongs to our local merchants. There are various kinds of rackets and advertising schemes worked—most of them have no value and no merit. They are donations and contributions.

Oftentimes we find it a little difficult to donate or to contribute to these causes and these movements. We have never learned to say, "No."

Yet if we would work and co-operate together; if we would demand these outsiders request approval and letters from our Chamber of Commerce before they start their solicitation and if we would require them to show these approvals when they seek our gifts—many of them would never work our community.

The Chamber of Commerce certainly would not approve many of these undertakings and movements which call for them to solicit funds in our city. We also would find it much easier to turn them down and to refuse to give unless they were approved.

If we would develop the habit of asking these solicitors and these donors to show us a letter of approval before we give and buy we would find that many of the calls which are now made would never be made.

All that it will take to stop some of these schemes and rackets, which are being worked on us now, would be for a little co-operation on the part of all of us.—O.E.P.

We're Still Waiting

WE ARE STILL WAITING for a candidate for Congress to promise to eliminate all of the government waste and extravagance and unnecessary expenditures by the federal government on public relation activities.

We haven't heard that promise made. But we are firmly convinced it is time to eliminate the spending of the taxpayers' money for publicity for various bureaus, agencies and departments of the U.S. government in order to perpetuate the office holders in that office.

That is the purpose of the public relations men today employed by government agencies for the most part.

It is not their work and job to hand out information to the public but only to hand out the information which makes the agency look good and which helps convince the public those in charge of the office are doing a good job.

That is their purpose—to hand out political propaganda not only during the campaign season but during every week in the year.

The taxpayers pay the salaries and provide the materials, the Post Office Department provides the free postage and delivery service and the newspapers of the nation provide the space.

It has even reached the point now where these so-called public relations officers and employees want to tell the newspaper where and how they will run their articles and items.

About nine-tenths of these public relations releases not only have no value, but they are not properly prepared. Yet the higher-ups constantly working on the various local agencies of these various agencies to get more and more of their propaganda in the papers.

We have little space for this propaganda and we are hoping the

BULL IN THE CHINA SHOP

What Other Editors Are Saying

PRACTICE NOT LEGAL

There has been carried on in this county in past elections a practice which is definitely illegal and which should be halted if our information is correct.

We feel certain that neither the Democratic nor the Republican parties want the law violated in any respect. We feel sure they want the law followed in voting just as they want the law followed in the registering of only those qualified and eligible to be registered.

The illegal practice is that of assisting voters to cast their ballots. If our information is correct only three types of people can be assisted in casting their ballots.

These are those who are physically handicapped and unable to vote; those who cannot read English or cannot read Spanish—ballots are printed in English and Spanish.

In the event the individuals do qualify for assistance in casting their vote they must request this help and they must be accompanied by a representative of both parties into the booth when they cast their vote.

We understand it has become a common practice here to help certain individuals in casting their vote. Sometimes this help is not requested and a representative of both parties does not accompany the individual into the booth.

As we stated, we are sure that both parties desire that the law be followed and they desire that no one take advantage of any one else.

We feel sure that both will observe the law concerning the above practice and will see that only those qualified and seeking assistance are given assistance.

We also know that in some instances individuals who are registered at one polling precinct have been permitted to vote at others. If this has been done it should be halted and only those whose names appear on the pollbooks or who can produce their certificate of registration showing they are qualified to vote at the precinct where they present themselves are permitted to ballot there.

Violations of the election laws, of course, are time will come when all newspapers refuse to use it and insist on getting their own information.

And we don't know of a better place for Congress to start effecting some savings than to abolish all of these public relation agencies in the federal government and halt them from adding to the Post Office Department's deficit by cluttering up the mails with their free releases.

Certainly it is something that could be saved and it probably would surprise us to know just how much of our tax money is used for political propaganda by the various bureaus through their public relations.—O.E.P.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

Julia Marlowe

NEW YORK—The death of Julia Marlowe the other day, in an age she never made and with most of her friends and contemporaries long gone from the American scene, served to remind one once again how infinitely easy it is to lose yourself in New York.

It likely is true that the 15,000 or so policemen who blanket the town in the grim pursuit of their tasks, writing tickets, blowing whistles and frightening small children, go to make up the most effective law-and-order force in the world.

And yet, criminals long since have learned what Miss Marlowe discovered many years ago: "If you want to vanish like a cigar ash into a Persian rug, this is the place to come."

Julia Marlowe was, of course, one of the classic Shakespearean actresses in history. The English-born player was married to E. H. Sothern, and when he died 17 years ago they had left their mark on the theater as a husband and wife team even more noted than Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne.

Ten years ago, having sold or given away her collection of costumes, books and other theatrical appurtenances—in 1944 she gave the Museum of the City of New York 17 trunks of Sothern-Marlowe costumes—Miss Marlowe settled down in the Hotel Plaza to run out the string of her life.

She wasn't what you would call a genuine recluse, the kind that enters a hotel room as if she were taking final vows and never emerges into the outside world again, but she came close.

ONCE A DAY, IF THE WEATHER WAS GOOD, Miss Marlowe emerged into the New York sunshine, to be wheeled around the block or, briefly, through the park. She had a much younger woman named Ernestine Carreau for a companion, and Miss Carreau was virtually the only person she saw for days on end.

Miss Marlowe was aging and sickly and, I am told, highly nervous in the last couple of years. She never gave interviews.

A girl I know once saw the inside of her suite in the Plaza, for some reason that remains cloudy to me now, and I spoke with her today about it.

"It was like walking into another world, of 25 or 50 years ago," she said. "There was a living room and two bedrooms and a small pantry."

"The furniture all was late Victorian and there were photographs everywhere, of Miss Marlowe and Mr. Sothern. None of the pictures, incidentally, showed her after she had become old."

"There was an overstuffed couch and ornate lamps, a heavy rug and a huge portrait of her in a white evening dress. The suite faced Central Park, and on winter days I imagine Miss Marlowe could have looked down and seen the ice skaters or the kids throwing snowballs. But it was as if the clock had stopped, in those rooms."

THE BEAUTIFUL MISS MARLOWE was a prime example of disappearance in the city, of the once-famous diamond dropping into the pool of water and sinking out of sight. As stated, she didn't concentrate on being a recluse, but just lived out her life in the Plaza quietly.

She didn't go to the saloons and clubs, and her performing days were over long ago. City editors and drama critics knew she still existed, but she no longer was great news. The city had swallowed her.

This happens in every large city and even in some small ones, but never so completely as in New York. New Yorkers were past the stage of saying "What ever became of Julia Marlowe?" That, they said 15 years ago. As of this year, they would have said, if they said anything at all: "Julia Marlowe? Who was she?"

There have been a hundred Julia Marlowes here in this cauldron of eight million souls. If you are old enough, you remember David Warfield, or if you are not quite that old, you remember your father and mother talking about David Warfield and how wonderful he was in The Music Master.

Like Miss Marlowe, David Warfield vanished into the depths of the city. How? By doing nothing. By living quietly in an apartment on Central Park west—a luxuriously-appointed, elegant apartment that, like Miss Marlowe's, suggested yesterday or a hundred years ago.

Today David Warfield is old but mentally vigorous, a man who will be 84 in a week, a man who listens to the radio occasionally, goes for a drive around the park each day with his chauffeur of 31 years, a man who doesn't believe in birthdays but maintains that what matters is "how you live every day, every week, every month of the year."

David Warfield was a famous man. Some time he will die, and the city will give him up once more, for a day, to the headlines. "David Warfield?" they will say. "Who was he?"

Thanksgiving Eve. The dinner was served to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clady, Mr. and Mrs. Boone Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Douglas, and the Vandagriffs.

Mrs. Garland Stuart and small daughter, Garlene, were complimented with parties at the Stuart home on Saturday evening and Monday afternoon in honor of their respective birthday anniversaries.

The Ford Foundation was set up in January, 1936, on funds supplied by the late Henry Ford for the betterment of mankind. There is no known region where it never rains.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

A CUTE young thing in a brand new convertible was flagged by an indignant traffic cop. "Young lady," he said, "do you realize that you were doing 85 miles an hour?" The young lady registered incredulity. "Isn't that just wonderful, officer," she said, "especially when you consider that I only learned to drive yesterday?"

One of the country's leading magazines recently asked a cross section of its readers, "When you yearn for a favorite dish, what is it?" The following nominations received the most votes:

1. Roast beef and mashed potatoes.
 2. Fried chicken.
 3. Spaghetti and meat balls.
 4. Ham and eggs.
 5. French fried potatoes.
- My own favorite dish is Anne Baxter.

Protect Stored Grain From Insect Damage, Extension Agent Advises

"Clean up your storage bins before storing sorghum grains," advises County Extension Agent Dal-
Rierson. "Sorghum grain is practically free of insect infestation as it comes from the fields. Insects that infest it while in farm storage come from the woodwork of bins in which they have lived over from the preceding crop and from trash and old grains outside the bins."

"Insects living in farm grain bins eat or destroy 5 per cent or more of our nation's stored grains and cereal products every year. They cause an annual estimated loss of at least 300 million bushels of grain," Rierson adds. "You don't need to share in that loss, provided you act promptly to prevent insect damage in stored grain and adopt a year-round program for control."

Rierson offers the following suggestions for a successful year-round control program of insects attacking stored grains:

Build bins tight, to make fumigation easier and effective.

Thoroughly clean your empty bins before refilling them with new grain.

Before refilling your empty storage bins, spray the floors and inside walls with an oil solution or water suspension containing 2.5 to 10 per cent DDT, at the rate of two gallons per 1000 square feet. An ordinary garden sprayer can be used.

Clean up trash or old grain from outside your bins.

Don't keep bran, shorts and other milled feeds or empty feed bags near your stored grains. These often harbor insects and can easily start infestations.

Have your grain as dry as possible when you store it.

Have your grain free as possible from broken grains and dirt.

Stored grains should be inspected every few days during fall and spring.

If evidence of insect damage shows, fumigate as soon as possible.

"One of the best and safest fumigants for killing insects in grain bins is a mixture of one part of volume of carbon disulphide and four parts of carbon tetrachloride," the county agent says. "This can be purchased ready-mixed under several trade names. There are also several other grain fumigants on the market that are effective. These fumigants will not hurt grain for use as food, feed, or seed."

The county agent tells how to fumigate:

Level off the surface and leave at least six inches of side wall extending above grain. This will prevent gas from overflowing and will insure uniform penetration.

The preferred grain temperature is 65 to 75. Satisfactory results cannot be obtained if the temperature is below 60 degrees.

Moldy layers should be broken up and raked off to permit penetration.

Apply the fumigant evenly over the surface. A sprinkling can can be used.

In steel bins use two gallons of the four-to-one mixture of carbon tetrachloride and carbon disulphide per 1000 bushels of grain, double this amount in wooden bins.

After the fumigant is applied, cover the grain with a tarpaulin or paper.

Precautions must be taken in using fumigants, the county agent adds. "The more generally-used fumigants act as anesthetics and are dangerous to handle," he explains. "Extreme care must be ex-

State Law Says Council Meetings Must Be Public

(This is the third in a series of articles on the libel laws as they pertain to the press.)

By KEEN RAFFERTY

New Mexico is one state which has a law specifically providing that all meetings of city councils shall be open to the public, as well as all records of the meetings. "The public" means the newspapers as well as individual citizens.

The New Mexico law is quoted in a 6000-word discussion of the law of the press, made for the New Mexico Press Association by Joseph C. Ryan, of the W. A. Keleher law firm, Albuquerque.

Ryan is the son of a New Mexico judge, the late Raymond A. Ryan of Silver City, and of Mrs. Helen Chandler Ryan, a director of the Harwood Foundation, Taos.

The city council law which Ryan quotes is in part as follows: "The city council . . . shall determine the times and places of holding their meetings, which shall at all times be open to the public . . ."

The law, Ryan points out, was cited by Attorney General Joe L. Martinez in an opinion prepared for Mayor Floyd T. Kennedy of Portales. Mayor Kennedy had engaged in a dispute with a Portales newspaper, attempting to close meetings of the Portales city council, the paper charged, so that the newspaper would not have access to the meetings.

The attorney general's statement said that "it is my opinion that the vote of the (Portales) city council to hold executive sessions is contrary to . . . the statutes of New Mexico, and all meetings must be held at all times open to the public."

Moreover, Martinez said, the record of the proceedings of meetings must be open to public inspection.

The Gregorian calendar gains slightly more than 44 minutes every century, making an error of one full day in about 3261 years.

Aggie College Seeks Sponsors Of Scholarships

Service clubs looking for projects to sponsor are offered a suggestion by J. B. Munson, dean of students at New Mexico A. & M. State College.

He tells how the Las Cruces Kiwanians offered two $150 scholarships per year to the college for worthy high school graduates from Dona Ana County who could not otherwise attend college.

This past spring Santa Fe Kiwanians provided a $500 scholarship to the college for a deserving Indian girl and tiny Questa, as a community project, raised $300 to provide the way for a good boy from a family of 12 children to come to college.

"They hope," says Dean Munson, "that he will graduate from college and return to Questa to set up a vocational agriculture program in their school."

"We are finding ways to help this boy earn the rest of his expenses here in college."

Concluding his letter to Artesia Chamber of Commerce the dean says this kind of project is a good one for service clubs over the state.

Should you want us to help someone in whom you are interested to attend New Mexico A. & M., he promises, "you will find us a ready and willing to try and supplement the help you give."

Regional Manager To Address Annual Artesia CC Banquet

D. Hodson Lewis, Dallas, manager of the Southwestern division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, has tentatively agreed to be the speaker at the Artesia Chamber of Commerce annual banquet to be held sometime next spring.

Exact date depends on the arrangement of Lewis' schedule. Albuquerque wants him to address a banquet there and Portales is also seeking his appearance.

CONCERNING NEW MEXICO
By Will Robinson

The Silver City Enterprise, whose word is questioned only occasionally in Grant County, tells how Mrs. Bill Daniels went along with her husband to hunt in Copas Canyon. Finding a hitchhiking spot to suit him, he went out to spot a nice fat buck, while Mrs. Daniels just rested and read her Sunday school lesson. After a while she happened to look up and there was a dandy buck a few yards away, just begging to be shot. Mrs. Daniels obliged. This good yarn is made still better by the fact that exactly the same thing happened last year, while the mighty hunter, meaning Bill, never even saw a deer, fitten to be slain, neither season.

New Mexico will get quite a little gob of money to be used in goosing up the various irrigation projects before the first of July next. The Carlsbad project will get $47,266 to be so used and will spend about $25,000 of it practically rebuilding the historic flume at Carlsbad, once the largest of its kind in the world. A couple of millions will be spent at Fort Sumner and Tucumcari, and Rio Grande points will be tending along. The biggest spend is for a joint project with Texas, to cost over a million. Most of the irrigation money was lopped off by the war economists.

Over 2,000 fishermen wet their lines in Lake Maloya, the new Sugarite Canyon fishing hole east of Raton, this year so far. These gents led out 3266 trout which made up in energy what they lacked in weight. The water company charged 50 cents a rod, catch 'em or not.

Many persons who thought they were wise guys in the matter of New Mexico highways got a jolt last week when they read of the plans of the administration to spend $250,000 for an extension of Highway 47 from Veguita to La Joya. Also they read of another letting from Bosque to Veguita. Much of this is to blacktop and there will be several substantial bridges.

It helps some to know that the spots are in Valencia and Socorro Counties, and is partially solved when the seeker is able to find Highway 47 at all. In order to continue the treasure hunt, find it yourself on the excellent state highway map. Maybe so you can trace it out with a red pencil, maybe not. New Mexico is grand in its isolation and some of the most remote of these are along the Rio Grande.

A 17 per cent rent increase has been granted Santa Fe County landlords, according to Mrs. Grace Guiterrez, rent controller at the capital. The raise comes in two jumps, one of 15 and the other of 2 per cent, both of which mean the same thing to the tenants, and ends turned loose by the deer season comes from Dona Ana County, where one Ignace Costello claims to have killed a four-pronged buck that just did weigh 50 pounds, though healthy and fat! Balance this against the 300-pounder alleged to have been bagged in Colfax County. One who has done a bit of hunting can't help but wonder who is telling the truth these deer days.

The latest report from Santa Fe are to the effect that New Mexico collected $13,225,623 in state gasoline taxes during the first 10 months of 1950, a hike of 35.3 per cent. This is another case in which the dear people can think and say anything they like.

Buddie Jarvis of Clovis, now saving the world from communism or something in Berlin, favors with clippings about the nicker moving pictures that are now attracting hundreds of thousands of Berliners. The pictures are some of them excellent "silents."

Another enclosure from Buddie Jarvis at Berlin contains some more interesting dope about the 5-cent movies now taking the ancient City of Kultur. It seems that there were thousands of films which had been stored and were overlooked when the field was wiped up at the close of the war.

An enterprising Yankee located them and rigged up a bill of sale, more or less phony, unearthed some old Powers projectors and proceeded to gather in the sheaves. The subjects are "silents," for the very good reason that talkies had not been invented when these films were made, and with decent projection they are quite seeable.

Incidentally Buddie recalls the days when movies were 10 and 20 cents a head in Roswell, three decades ago, when hand-powered Powers machines did the shooting. This writer, among others, used to get a kick out of "speling" for these ancient pictures, something more than the titling being acceptable to the patrons.

One of the most interesting legends turned loose by the deer season comes from Dona Ana County, where one Ignace Costello claims to have killed a four-pronged buck that just did weigh 50 pounds, though healthy and fat! Balance this against the 300-pounder alleged to have been bagged in Colfax County. One who has done a bit of hunting can't help but wonder who is telling the truth these deer days.

The most refreshing suggestion is one that before Americans are shipped to Korea that they be stationed at Otto for a while to get hardened to the cold!
