

Twinkles

Like the amateur buffalo hunter who caught a buffalo by the tail and couldn't turn loose, we waded into Hauptmann trial and can't let go. But be as patient as possible; it'll be over before foot-ball talk starts next fall.

Elephant bones and teeth 60,000 years old (more or less) have been found near Borger. It must make that city feel exceedingly babyish by comparison.

By the time the Young Democrats grow up, there probably won't be any democrats.

With the G. O. P. lambasting him for going too far and Labor for not going far enough, Mr. Roosevelt must feel that he is on the right track.

Well, we're a legal voter and the West Foster grouch isn't. He says the liquor question was always a mess and always will be, so he doesn't care to carry the experiment further in any direction, wet or dry.

Musing of the moment: The real reason why we couldn't afford to join the World Court is that we're babes in the woods in international diplomacy and we were afraid to join. Even the Russians can teach us a trick or two. We're not even good horse traders. But we won't learn much by building a fence around our borders. Our bankers will break over and make more foolish loans anyway, in all probability.

Brevitorials

IT IS NOT too early to begin planning the recreational activities of the hundreds of Pampa children next summer. Everyone who has studied the situation knows that opportunities for wholesome recreation in this community are very poor during summer months. The result is reflected in problems of juvenile delinquency, which are far more serious here than many persons—including parents—realize. The youngsters are no worse in motive and impulse than those of previous generations, but their temptations are greater. The energies of growing children must have outlets.

THE TEXAS TAX RELIEF committee writes that the owners of homes, farms, ranches, and other real estate in Texas paid $150,000,000 in state, county, city, and district taxes in 1932. In 1933, collections from the same sources amounted to $120,000,000. Colossal savings of millions of dollars. Legislation for 1934 will show a still further decline, due partly to the exemption on the first $3,000 of homesteads. This array of statistics is given as an argument in favor of the sales tax. This is in sharp disagreement with figures produced against the sales tax from the standpoint of the sufficiency of state revenues. Opponents of the tax look at the millions of unpaid, delinquent taxes as a source of revenue to remove the state deficit. Land and home owners and real estate men say that much of this delinquent tax account is hopeless and that to collect most of it would amount to confiscation of property.

THOSE WHO HOPE to escape the sales tax belong to the same group which hopes that there will be no social legislation—such as old-age pensions, which would require new revenue. In this they are in the same group with salaried workers who oppose the sales tax as a levy on wages. Yet the latter are scrapping for the old-age pensions. It all adds up to about this: Real estate taxes must be increased if we are to have continued appropriations and social legislation. Where is that additional revenue to come from, if not from property taxes? A sales tax? Or what?

SMALLPOX can be eliminated as a cause of illness and death if every person could be vaccinated against this disease at least every five years, writes Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer. There were almost 800 cases reported to the state department of health in 1934.

Smallpox occurs most frequently among young children under 14 years of age. The incubation period averages from 8 to 14 days, and the disease begins suddenly with a severe headache and a high fever. The severe headache and high fever, pain in the loins, back, and extremities are more characteristic of smallpox than of any other disease occurring in temperate climates. At the end of 3 or 4 days of these preliminary symptoms, an eruption appears which, within a few hours, becomes distinctly raised above the general level of the skin. With the appearance of the eruption the fever subsides and the patient becomes more comfortable. In contradistinction to chickenpox, the eruption does not occur in crops, but goes through its development in a characteristic fashion nearly simultaneously all over the body.

At present there is an increasing lack of vaccination among school children, and they contribute a menace to the state. It is right to sit complacently by and allow this disease to gain a foothold, when a very simple weapon is in a position to make the occurrence impossible? Every community is in a position to determine the amount of smallpox it wishes to have. Vaccination is an economical measure easily within the reach of all and brings protection. The disease is within human control and our advice to the people of Texas is to get vaccinated if you have not been within the last five years.

Britain Threatens To Isolate Germany By Defensive Air Alliance

DEFENSE CLAIMS FISCH TOOK MONEY

HITLER WOULD BE VICTIM OF OPEN TREATY

UNITED STATES ASKED TO COOPERATE WITH GREAT POWERS

LONDON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Great Britain has informed all other interested powers, including the United States, that unless Reichsfuehrer Hitler's response to the Anglo-French proposals is favorable, Germany will be isolated by defensive air alliances.

A check of all foreign embassies today disclosed that the British foreign office has communicated with them verbally, removing all doubt that an Anglo-French air alliance at least is definitely agreed upon, even should Germany reject the proposals.

The British government has asked the United States through Ray Atherton, counselor of the United States embassy, to agree to repeal the military clauses of the separate peace treaty signed between the United States and Germany, provided settlement of Europe's problems is reached on the basis of the Anglo-French proposals.

The military clauses of the Versailles treaty were duplicated in the American pact.

Aside from this, it was explained, the only active part the United States is expected to take in carrying out the new formula is to join in a disarmament convention.

It is understood that there are no secret agreements between France and England. It was understood that this same assurance has also been given to Germany.

'COMMUNIST' IS BEHIND BARS IN ARKANSAS JAIL

Sharecroppers' Head Fined For Calling Men Together

LEPANTO, Ark., Feb. 5 (AP)—Described by the city's prosecutor as "communist" in nature, Ward H. Rodgers, 24-year-old college graduate and former federal relief educator, remained behind jail bars here today awaiting continuation of testimony tomorrow in his trial on a charge of battery by inciting litigation.

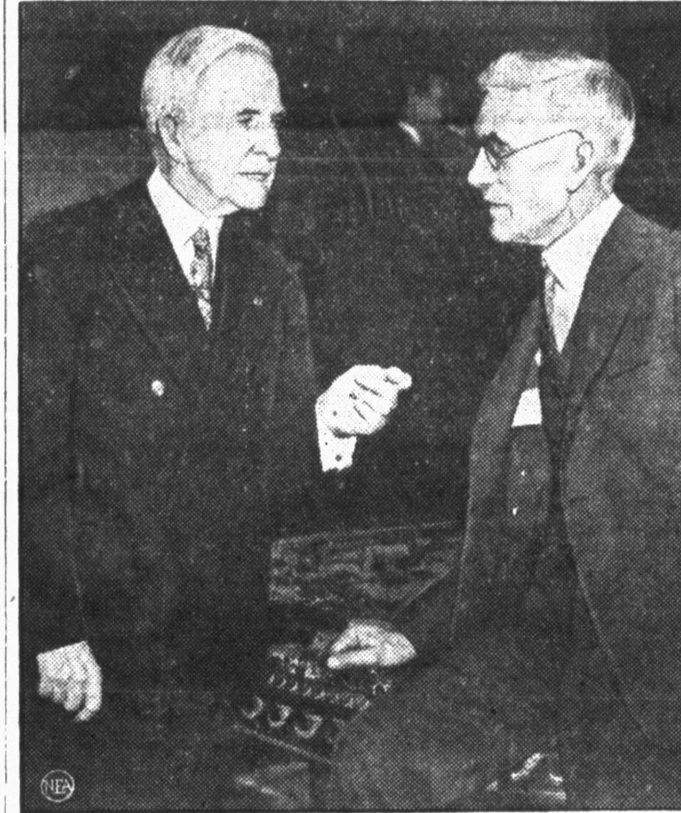

In the cell with him was Lucien Koch, 27, director of Commonwealth college of Mena, Ark., facing a similar charge as the outgrowth of activities of the two in the organization of east Arkansas tenant farmers. His trial is scheduled to follow that of Rodgers.

Each was fined $50 by Mayor M. P. Smith yesterday on charge of obstructing streets and alleys of Lepanto with a rally of sharecroppers here Saturday. The barratry count also was filed as the result of Saturday's meetings.

Federal Housing Program Praised By Hardware Men

FEBRUARY 19 TO BE DATE OF COMING B. C. D. BANQUET

Mystery Program Described As 'Startling' In Some Of Its Aspects.

Mark February 19 on your calendar of events as an evening to give to Pampa.

That is the request of the Board of City Development, which will have its quarterly banquet on that date.

Gilmore N. Nunn, a member of the board, will be toastmaster. The time and place will be announced later. The event will be a follow-up of the industrial banquet held a few weeks ago.

Reports will be heard concerning committee work on plans for this year. The banquet will amount to a "planning session" for the city.

But that's not all. Part of the program will remain a mystery until the banquet begins. It will contain a few projects which cannot be revealed for reasons that will be obvious, he made public now.

Pampan's Father, Retired Preacher, Dies at Phoenix

The Rev. S. J. Upton, father of the Rev. S. J. Upton of Pampa, died suddenly Monday at his home in Phoenix, Ariz. Rev. Upton had been in ill health for some time, but his sudden passing was a shock to his family.

Rev. Upton, a superannuated Methodist minister for many years, was a member of the Northwest Texas conference. He served churches at Plainview, Lockney, Tahoka, and Roscoe. In 1923, Rev. Upton was transferred to the West Texas conference and was pastor of Trinity church, San Angelo, for two years. In 1925, he was transferred to the Arizona conference. He retired from the active ministry three years ago on account of failing health.

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 5 (AP)—The diamond in the engagement ring he gave Grace Brandon was the same jewel he bought for Mrs. Zenana Shepard, the wife he is accused of murdering, Maj. Chas. A. Shepard testified today.

Vallee's Wife 'Most Disloyal' Lawyer Shouts

Rudy Is First Witness To Take Stand Against His Estranged Spouse, Faye.

BY HOMER MCCOY.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—An attorney for Rudy Vallee, shouted today in supreme court that Faye Webb Vallee, estranged wife of the orchestra leader "was the most disloyal woman ever married to a man."

Brought into open court after a day of fruitless conferences, the case remained closed to the public in keeping with the order of Justice Salvatore Cottito that admission be limited to newspaper reporters.

Outlining the defense case in Mrs. Vallee's action to invalidate a separation agreement whereby she gets $100 a week, Hyman Bushel said:

"We will show that Mrs. Vallee was the most disloyal woman ever married to a man, that she did not deserve a nickel, that she got $100 a week too much."

The alleged romance between Mrs. Vallee and Gary Leon, an adagio dancer, was injected into the case by Bushel.

"We will show that she carried on with Leon Garfield Leon, otherwise known as Gary Leon," Bushel said.

Justice Cottito frequently had to urge him to be less oratorical.

"This is not a summation," Justice Cottito told Bushel.

Bushel spoke of records made of telephonic conversations between the follower of telephonic and the plaintiff, the contents of which, when made public last winter, caused a "major sensation." The attorney said that when Vallee found out how "disgraceful his wife had acted," she called after her father, Clarence E. Webb, police chief of Santa Monica, Calif., that Webb listened to the record and took his daughter away with him.

Thomas I. Sheridan, counsel for Mrs. Vallee, told the court that he would prove that his client was induced to sign the separation agreement by "tricks and artifices," and that she did not have the advice of an attorney.

"We will show," Sheridan said, "that Rudy Vallee, a singer, for a period of years earned upward of $350,000 a year, that the $100 a week is clearly inadequate."

In a surprising move, Vallee was the first witness Sheridan called to the stand. He gave his name as Hubert Prior Vallee.

The records of the Mrs. Vallee-Gary Leon conversations were brought into the court.

City Purchases Old Bonds, Ending Interest Costs

City commissioners last night entered an order purchasing $16,000 in outstanding water and sewer bonds, series of 1922, out of surplus in the bond interest and sinking fund.

The bonds bore interest at the rate of 6 per cent, hence by finding holders willing to sell the $16,000 worth of the city, topped interest with a resultant saving of hundreds of dollars. Interest on the amount bought had been accumulating at the rate of $960 annually.

With the purchase, the city over the last several years has obtained half of the outstanding bonds. The remainder of $40,000 may be cut down later. The list of the bond maturities will end in 1962 unless earlier purchases are arranged.

Tax collections last month were gratifying. A total of $2,650.40 in delinquent taxes was paid. Current taxes paid totaled $10,234.43 bringing total collections to $12,928.83 for the month.

The next quarterly city tax payments are due on or before Feb. 28.

Local Chorus in Charge of Name

The name of the organization is the Philharmonic chorus, instead of choir.

Change in name was voted, according to John Skelly, president, because of the misunderstandings which had been noted. Because of the name originally taken, the organization was often connected with some church, whereas it is a community chorus.

The group has begun rehearsals of "Pinafire," the comedy opera written by Gilbert and Sullivan about "the lass that loved a sailor." With costumes, lighting effects, and a realistic setting, the production is expected to be attractive to the general public.

Shepard Testifies Diamond He Gave To Grace Brandon Was Bought For Zenana

TOPEKA, Kan., Feb. 5 (AP)—The diamond in the engagement ring he gave Grace Brandon was the same jewel he bought for Mrs. Zenana Shepard, the wife he is accused of murdering, Maj. Chas. A. Shepard testified today.

The 63-year-old retired army tuberculosis specialist, facing a federal court jury for the second time after a previous conviction had been set aside, said he did not give the ring to the blond Brooks field stenographer, now nearly 29, until several months after Mrs. Shepard's death at Fort Riley, Kan., June 15, 1929.

The major said he bought the jewel in Los Angeles for his second wife and learned after her death she had pawned it in Omaha while the major was stationed there. He redeemed it for $280 and interest, he said in reply to questions of his chief counsel, C. L. Kagey.

Major Shepard, who began his testimony as first defense witness yesterday, denied flatly the testimony of Miss Brandon, key witness for the government, that he wrote her at the outset of Mrs. Shepard's illness that she could not get well. At first, he said, he expected her to recover.

Relating his home life with Mrs. Zenana Shepard, the major said he and his wife had lived apart for six years and at some times she kept the door of her room locked. Major Shepard denied he had written Miss Brandon that Mrs. Shepard

JONES URGES AN 'AUTHORITY' FOR GAS FIELD

ASKS GOVERNMENT TO FIND USES FOR GAS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Representative Marvin Jones of Texas, chairman of the house agriculture committee, has been buying himself lately with a quiet campaign which he hopes will lead to creation of an "authority" for the vast gas field in the Texas Panhandle.

However, the practicability of actually launching a drive for such an authority will await passage of the president's work relief bill and his revelation of the manner in which the huge sum will be spent.

"The potential power in this vast field is greater probably than all the water power that is being used in the United States," Jones told John W. Finch, director of the bureau of mines, in a letter, "and I was hoping that some provision might be made similar to the Tennessee valley authority which would make possible rural electrification."

"Gas can be had in unlimited quantities in this field at from one to two cents per thousand," he told Donald R. Richberg, executive director of the national emergency council. "The usual price in the field is about two cents, but the amount available is so great that it can be contracted on a scale at much less than this figure. Gas at this rate is cheaper than would be the cost of shoveling coal in the boiler if the coal were delivered free to the furnace door."

He sent a letter from Tom Currie of Amarillo to Secretary Ickes which Jones said "gives some further indication of the tremendous natural gas resources in the Panhandle section."

"As I have indicated previously,"

ROGERS' PLAY POKES FUN AT FDR PROJECTS

Father Rogers Would Undoubtedly Call Play 'Ornery'

BY MARK BARRON.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Will Rogers would call it "ornery," and undoubtedly Broadway witnessed its "orneryest" first night when it saw his 19-year-old daughter, Mary, make her New York stage debut in "On to Fortune."

Ornery, in this case, means something both bewildering and paradoxical.

Mary Rogers, in her role of an ingenue, proves to be a fetching, eager trouper. In her part, as the fiancée of a wavering banker's son, she is romantic, calm, collected, and much prettier than the "Follies" girls who used to compose a background for her father.

As for the "ornery" side of the play, it has several facets which do

San Angelo Man Named Regent Of Texas University

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 (AP)—Governor James V. Allred today appointed George Dillon Morgan of San Angelo to the board of regents of the University of Texas. Morgan would succeed Charles I. Francis, of Houston.

J. E. Josey of Houston was reappointed to the board of regents of State Teachers colleges.

Asked about a reported offer by Senator Claud Westfield of Dallas to abide by the wishes of a majority of the Dallas Bar association on the appointment of Mrs. Sarah T. Hughes as district judge, Allred pointed out that the constitution said nothing about bar associations helping to make appointments.

3 SKIRMISHES WON BY STATE BEFORE JUDGE

REILLY NOW ASSERTS FISCH OBTAINED MONEY

By WILLIAM A. KINNEY.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 5.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense today produced a witness who testified he saw the late Isador Fisch jump over a wall at St. Raymond's cemetery, the Bronx, on the night the $50,000 Linderberg ransom was paid there.

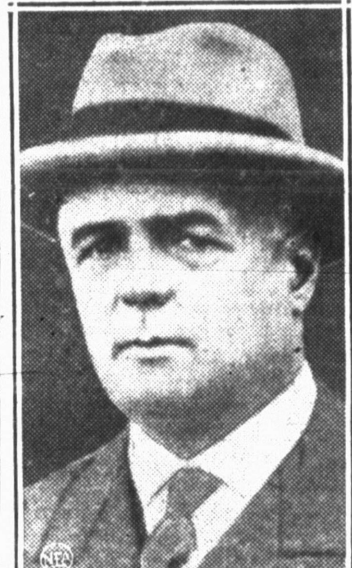

The testimony was given by Benjamin Heiter, 24, who identified himself as a writer now employed as a restaurant cashier.

He said he was in a parked car with a young lady, who later married another man and who is now dead, and saw Fisch leap to the sidewalk from the cemetery wall on the night of April 2, 1932.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 5 (AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann's defense lost three legal skirmishes today and openly accused the dead Isador Fisch of collecting the $50,000 Linderberg ransom.

The court ruled out an effort by the defense to show that Fisch visited a woman late in 1933 at Bay-side, Long Island, bearing certain packages.

Faces Revolt

His government threatened with overthrow, President Gabriel Terra of Uruguay, above, is fighting several rebel groups which are moving toward the capital, Montevideo. A veteran of years of guerrilla warfare, Basilio Munciz, is leading the attack by the insurgents. Terra is serving his second four-year term as president.

MUCH 'FLU' AND 'BAD COLDS' IN CITY REPORTED

Sale Of Remedies In New High At All Drug Stores

Pampa, in common with most of West Texas, is in the grip of "bad colds" and influenza, with a noticeable increase in communicable diseases which largely affect children.

Some cases of the flu have been severe enough to confine patients for several days. Several weeks ago there was a marked tendency for the flu to be followed by pneumonia. This tendency apparently is abating, according to local physicians, but kidney trouble is a prevalent complication of the disease.

Uneven temperatures, insufficient ventilation, over-eating while taking no outdoor exercise, and similar things are known to contribute to the spread of the flu and colds. A warm dry winter with spread of bacteria through dust storms, is always to be dreaded, said Dr. W. Purviance, county health officer.

Dr. R. A. Webb, city health officer, said that fresh air, sunshine, light exercise in the open, drinking of plenty of water, moderate diet, and a well-regulated system could do more than any thing else to avoid serious illness at this season. Sufficient rest is important, and it is always wise to go to bed at the first sign of a "bad cold." Physicians should be consulted before real danger arrives.

Drug stores report that their sales of cold remedies and physicians' prescriptions are near an all-time peak, with some sales passing the best previous record within a week.

Dr. Webb pointed out that the season of typhoid is not far off. Those unable to buy the serum may obtain free immunization by calling at his office. The serum is furnished by the state health department. He also has free diphtheria toxoid.

There are several cases of scarlet fever and measles in the community.

Kiwanians Are to Present Program For Rotary Club

Pampa Kiwanians will be guests of the Rotary club at the First Methodist church tomorrow, and will present the program.

There will be no meeting of the Kiwanis club on Friday.

Tomorrow's program has been arranged by a committee headed by Alex Schneider.

EDITORIAL

LOOK UNDER THE HOT-OIL CHIP

Some weeks ago a nationally distributed magazine published an article by a Texas writer of national prominence describing the "hot oil" racket in the East Texas field. The writer told a simple enough story of the business of running illegal oil in the great new field, and how that business is robbing the law abiding operator and landowner, how it is taking out millions of barrels of oil without paying into the lean State Treasury the tax required by state law, and how it is creating such chaos in the Nation's greatest industry that ruinous prices are inevitable unless the racket can be scotch-

The writer also paraded, in a somewhat sensational manner, the charges that are flying everywhere by word of mouth of corruption of public officials and enforcement agents by the hot oil racket. He rather badly intimated that hot oil continues to flow because there is a pocketbook interest shared by a sufficient number of state officeholders and agents standing high enough to balk enforcement of oil regulation while appearing to be working for enforcement.

The article in the magazine, Collier's Weekly, by the Texas writer, Owen D. White, stirred an uproar in the state capital. Mr. White had quoted an unnamed hot oil baron as asserting that state senators had been bought at $500 a head to defeat a certain bill which would have stopped the racket. Some members of the Senate grew incensed at this aspersion on that body, and demanded that Mr. White appear and give names. It was indignantly asserted that the story was not true, and it was pointed out that the number of Senators which the story reported bought at $500 a head was larger than the number required to beat any bill, and that the particular bill mentioned in the story, instead of being one which threatened the hot oil racket, was actually of little importance to it. Mr. White's story was accordingly disbelieved in its particulars.

But no one has been able to deny that the general picture of East Texas oil field conditions drawn by Mr. White was accurate enough. It showed the continued existence of a great hot oil racket in the face of the many considerations which demand its suppression, despite the many laws enacted to further those considerations, and despite the publicly proclaimed purpose of officeholders and agents to stop it.

Now comes another national publication, the New York Times, to make, in clearer fashion and with less sensationalism, the same charges made by the earlier publication. The New York paper quotes the same assertion of a hot oil baron that legislators could be bought at "$500 on the hoof," without restricting the charge to members of the Senate. But that story is unimportant as to its details. What is important is the implication that officeholders in many grades are being influenced by hot oil money to lay down on the job of protecting the public interests.

The public in Texas does not take much stock in the story of bought legislators. But it does realize that there are "big shots" in the hot oil racket who talk just the way the writers in these two publications reported them as talking. The public knows that the hot oil racket has built up these "big shots" who regard the law and the public interest as nothing. The public knows there are men in the hot oil racket who are boastfully confident that they can continue to trample on public and private rights and upon the law as they have done in the past. And the public has the uneasy feeling that there must be reasons why these law-breakers and law-defiers can be so arrogantly confident.

The public knows that millions of barrels of oil are being illegally produced, not only by the means of the various devices for mechanical evasion of allowables in the field, but through wily use of the processes of the law itself. The public knows that law-abiding land and royalty owners have been and are being robbed by hot oil production, and that the needy State Treasury has lost hugely in tax payments evaded. The public knows that there are plenty of charges as to the political influence of the hot oil barons, and hears repeatedly of their activities at Austin between and during sessions of the legislature. In the last campaign the public heard repeated reports of large campaign expenditures of hot oil money.

The Texas public knows all these things, and the legislature should know them—the things that exist in fact and the things that are being said. Now through the attention of such publications as Collier's and the New York Times, the nation knows them also. There exists in the hot oil situation in Texas enough of facts known to all, leaving aside all charges which may or may not be founded in fact, to call for a thorough inquiry by the legislature which stands as the final protector of the public interest.

The legislature owes it to itself and to the public to lift the hot oil chip and see what sort of creatures are sent scurrying by the light of day.

The legislature in justice to itself should find out not only what there is to the boastful claim that a certain number of legislators were bought for a certain sum, but whether any state legislator has sold out for any sum.

The legislature owes it to the dignity of the law to er any servant of the public has been lured away from his allegiance and his duty by hot oil gains, received or promised.

The legislature owes it to the dignity of the law to hale before a court of inquiry those boastful racketeers who brag that they are above the law, who publicly place price tags on members of the legislature and other state officials.

The legislature owes it to the sanctity of the ballot box to sift the truth of the repeated charges that huge sums were spent to further the interest of certain candidates for office, and to find out why these sums were spent—if they were spent.

And, aside from these charges, the legislature owes it to itself and to the public to go to the bottom of the record of state regulation of oil production, to examine its many failures and to determine if there is anything that has worked secretly to defeat the very object of regulation.

With the nation resounding with charges that the hot oil barons are in the saddle in Texas and riding roughshod over the public interest, with or without collusion of those the public has placed on guard to protect its interests, it is time for a thorough investigation of all the ins and outs of officialdom's oil relations.

The record of the Railroad Commission should be brought under the closest scrutiny. The record of the Attorney General's office, lately occupied by the present governor, should be subjected to the closest inspection.

If there are personal breakdowns in oil law enforcement, these are obviously the fountainheads of such breakdowns—the one being the order-issuing agency and the other the enforcement agency.

It is a time when every official who has anything to do with oil, or who has had anything to do with it, is under obligation to show clean hands and good faith. —Star-Telegram.

TEXAS HISTORY

Brushing Up on Facts You Ought to Recall

Hurried preparations were being made for the big dinner and ball which was to be given in honor of Stephen F. Austin, who had arrived in Velasco only three days before from Mexico. Never had there been such excitement in San Felipe and the other colonies. Brazoria was honoring him with the dinner—a committee had met him soon after he arrived, requesting his presence at the public dinner, where the people might "express their approval of his public services and their respect for his private virtues." A similar group from San Felipe was waiting his pleasure to go back to his colony.

Austin's return meant that all political parties would likely become a unified group, under his wise counsel. During his absence, the restless and law-fearing citizens had agreed on a general consultation (since Santa Anna objected to the word convention as being indicative of revolution) to be held in Washington on the Brazos October 15. Whether Austin approved of the plan decided their course of action. He was to make a speech at the dinner, giving his ideas.

The grand ball and dinner was never to be forgotten. Enthusiasm was easily contagious, and the gaiety and genuine friendliness which prevailed made the evening the most momentous occasion ever held in Texas. Dancing began immediately after dinner, and fiddle bows swung harmoniously over strings until the sun rose. Writing to Mrs. Mary Austin Holley, her brother said, "At least sixty or eighty ladies who danced the sun up, and the Oyster Creek girls would not have quit then had not the room been wanted for breakfast. You never saw such enthusiasm."

"The only thing I did not like," her brother wrote, "was the $7 a head for ball and supper and $30 more for a decent suit of clothes which I had not and could have done without." According to his report, covers were laid for sixty people, and the table was filled three times by men alone. What a glorious event it must have been!

A climax to the entertainment was Austin's speech. Very heartily he recommended the consultation. The cheers and cries of approval, and the joy of unburdened hearts, must have meant much to Austin. He assured them that only in a meeting of the sort planned could the people decide whether they wanted the centralized form of government. In spite of Santa Anna's professed friendship for Texans, the shadow of war was fast creeping over Texas, which was to result in their independence and ultimately in the centennial celebrations of 1884.

Once more Austin's frail shoulders were heaped with too many duties, for he was made general director of the entire citizenry.

About New York

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Lineup!

A dozen "dicks," hats down over their eyes, are seated in a darkened room in police headquarters in Center street. They are facing a raised platform upon which powerful lights beat mercilessly. This is the Grand Promenade where felons and suspects walk the plank every morning.

The lights are so arranged that the "dicks" can study the suspects intently but the suspects can't see them. All they get is a murky void.

It is 9 a. m. "Bring 'em in," says the officer in charge. "Bring 'em in," relays a subaltern.

The door opens and at once the chafes chain forward in their chairs. They want to "photograph" the features of these birds for future identification. They want to have them so well in mind they will know them anywhere—in a mob, on the subway, at a soda fountain.

Eight prisoners shuffle in. There are five men and three women.

They blink stupidly in the glaring light. It is an old experience to two or three. Others have never been there before. The old hands slouch indifferently, but the first timers are nervous and don't like it. The first in line is a man who could be 30 or 50, or both. He doesn't look like a criminal. He has good features and mild blue eyes. But the books show he has a record as long as a copper's foot.

The next is a girl who says her name is Mabel. "So she won't talk, will she?" Mabel decides she will talk after all. She is not bad looking. She is about five feet three and seems to have been poured into that red sweater.

The "dicks" give Mabel plenty of attention. She's liable to bob up in most any place, and they want to be able to know her when she does, whether it's a day, a month, a year from now. Too, there's been a killing over on the west side and a moll is believed to be mixed up in it. The "dicks" are just looking at her now, but she will have plenty of questions to answer before she gets out of there.

After Mabel came two other girls. They don't know each other but they cling together in an instinctively feminine gesture of defense. It's their idea no man in that room is going to be anything but gruff and tough, and they feel better lined up against somebody of their own sex. They aren't pretty. They aren't ugly.

The next two guys are old timers and the cops don't waste much time on them. They park their orbs on a little man with enough whiskers to scare Russia. They think he is tied up in the narcotic traffic but aren't sure. He's been brought in on some pretext so the boys can look him over. Their eyes drill him, trying to imagine those whiskers shaved off. Finally it is over.

Epilogue: Five days later one of the "dicks," on a hurry call, grabs a cab. A soft feminine voice asks, "Where to, mister?" The "dick" is flabbergasted at the sound of that voice. He thinks he recognizes it. He takes a quick look and sees a not bad looking girl in a tight red sweater.

"Pet catfish!" he shrieks. "It's Mabel!"

LICENSED FOOTBALL FANS WILL BE YELLING FOR REVENGE THURSDAY NIGHT

CAGERS WORK TO PENETRATE ZONE DEFENSE

ATHLETIC RIVALRY IS BACK TO MID-NOVEMBER FORM

Amarillo's Sandie cagers who strangely have won only two games away from home this season and have not been defeated on their own floor, will not only face a bunch of Harvesters burning with a passion for revenge here Thursday night, but a house full of fans who will be yelling for blood—and lots of it.

Recent boasts originating in Amarillo which indicate that the Sandies are chummy beyond computation because of their 1934 gridiron prowess, have inflamed the athletic rivalry that exists between the two towns to mid-November form here. The dyed-in-the-wool football fans who have missed most of the basketball games here this winter will be out to see the massacre—for it will be that regardless of which team wins.

Jerry Malin answered. A local spokesman for the "bean-ent-on-Butler-Field" type of fan had a comeback for Jerry Malin, arch-Sandie brain-truster and publicity agent, who bragged this morning in connection with the report that Plainview and Lubbock wanted to withdraw from district one football competition, that Amarillo would play and beat all the teams in the district on any Thanksgiving day.

Said the Pampa man, "Why not take on Alabama the same day in a night game and work out with Stanford before breakfast? Only two things are worrying us in Pampa. One is that Amarillo will refuse to play us at all in 1935, so fast is the Sandie ego growing, and the other is that Amarillo who is now admittedly recruiting stars from Masonic homes, Hereford, White Deer, and other places in preparation for the 1936 Butler Field game, will come over to Pampa and offer our potential stars big jobs and penthouse apartments which we can't afford in Pampa."

Lubbock has filed application to join the Sweetwater district. The dissatisfaction with district one came after Lubbock failed to get the Thanksgiving game with Amarillo. Plainview wants to join the Childress district.

Lynch Objects. The Sandies suffered their latest defeat at Clovis, N. Mex., 29 to 13. The News-Journal of that city said of the game: "It was a rough and tumble game, with many collisions and 21 fouls called. The Amarillo News Globe yesterday explained that the 'Sandies were running true to form, displaying their usual ragged style of play on foreign courts.' But the opinion of basketball fans here was that the Amarillo cagers weren't used to having the game called so closely. They became angry and rattled when Referee 'Gabby' Stratton adhered strictly to the rules of the game, and their play suffered accordingly. The Sandies' coach, Howard Lynch, was likewise volatile in his protests—so much so, in fact, that Stratton had to threaten to call a technical foul because of it. . . . Peterson, guard, went out with four personals against him."

Yesterday Coach Odey Mitchell began laying a plot to trap the Sandies. The Amarillo team uses a zone defense—one of the few still in existence in the Panhandle. Pampa uses a man-to-man defense. Mitchell had his seconds use the zone defense and the first string run plays against it. The boys improved miraculously on the road trip, especially Nash and Stokes Green. When the latter is "on" his loops the most difficult baskets imaginable. Nash has developed into a first-class forward. Scott, regular guard with Dunaway, who has been ill resumed practice with the squad yesterday. Rose was in the starting lineup as guard during the illness of Scott.

In the Amarillo lineup will be Peterson, Stidger, Harlow, Bufkin, all stars on the Amarillo state championship football team. The game will start promptly at 8 o'clock. Admission will be 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for children. On Friday night, the Harvesters will play Lubbock here, and Saturday night, Borger at the Bulldog court.

COURT RECORD

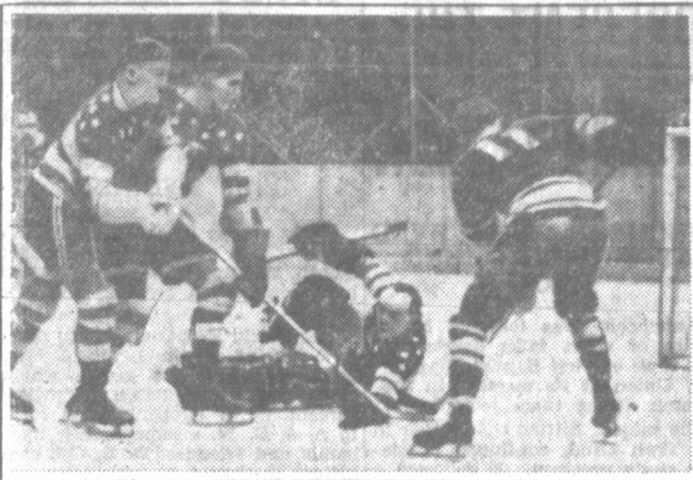

Up to mid-morning, no additional testimony had been presented today in the suit of H. R. Beardmore against the Southern Underwriters in 31st district court. Attorneys were conferring.

The next suit set for a hearing is that of W. F. Mottin against the Texas Employers' Insurance company. After that, the suit of A. B. Naive of Childress against John Bowers is to be begun.

According to the annual report of County Auditor R. C. Wilson, receipts in the road and bridge fund of precinct 1 in 1934 amounted to $23,019.06. Of this, $3,208.92 was from taxes, $19,408.19 from vehicle registrations, and $401.95 from the gas tax refund.

Disbursements were as follows: Machinery extras $38.01, fuel and oil $1,349.28, bridge work $2,379.20, road machinery $8,094.67, engine and grader men $4,415, lumber and culverts $2,160.64, smithing $101.65, treasurer's commission $361, drayage $497.65, labor $270.05, gravel and cement $150.50, assessing taxes $156.62, insurance $78, dirt work $156.62, and $156.62.

Worters, the Go-Getter

One reason little Roy Worters is classed as the greatest goalie in the National Hockey League is that he can go after that puck to either side. Despite his heroic work at the net, the Maroons won, 2-0.

$22.29, transfer $5,550, total disbursements $26,383.46. The balance on January 1, 1934, was $8,598.16 and that on December 31, 1934, was $5,233.76.

PLAYING THE HUNCHES

ERIE, Pa.—Harry Keller, of Long Island, N. Y., came before Alderman Paul Watson on a charge of swindling his landlady and made this plea: "I have no money, your honor."

"Take out your false teeth," was Watson's reply. As Keller did so a $50 bill fell out and the case was settled in a hurry. "It was just a hunch," said the alderman.

THE WRONG WAY

UNIONVILLE, Conn.—Workmen tried to thaw water pipes in the Humphrey house here by means of electricity, but set fire to a house across the street instead. The current traveled along a water conduit and so heated a cable in the other house that a blaze resulted.

CLAIM DIZZY CANNOT TAKE BABE'S PLACE

PROSPECT RIDICULED BY CLUB OWNER OF AMERICAN

BY ALAN GOULD, Associated Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Dizzy Dean has replaced Babe Ruth in the baseball headlines this winter, up to and including the Dizzy One's sudden inspiration to become a "hold-out," but the great Cardinal pitcher has yet to come within gunshot of the Babe's position as a drawing card or box office attraction. In the opinion of major league baseball men.

"All this talk about Dean replacing Ruth as the big magnet for the cash customers is just so much hokum," remarked a club owner who is in a particularly good position to discuss the subject.

"We in the National league only wish it was the truth. Ruth is fast becoming a popular figure, no doubt, but in the first place, you can't compare a pitcher who works only once or twice a week with a player who may be out there every day from the standpoint of drawing power.

"In the second place, the fans have not been breaking down the gates to see Dean pitch, even when it was advertised well in advance. The Cardinals tested this by trying a three-day build-up for Dizzy during the last pennant season but on one occasion only 1,100 cash customers appeared."

This does not mean the elder Dean, as a soloist or in combination with Brother Paul, will not become an increasingly big attraction, especially if he continues his sensational speed ball pitching, but Old Man Ruth, if he decides to have another part-time fling this year with the Yankees, will likely have an easier time getting a $25,000 contract than Dizzy.

The Babe won't be home for another month to reveal whether he has changed his mind. Meanwhile, the impression grows that he will feel the old urge for action, like a fire-horse, and sign to go south once more with the Yankees.

Boston Braves' Future Will Be Taken Up Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—The future of the Boston Braves in regard to ownership and management will be taken up today as club owners of the National league confer with President Ford Frick on various matters, including assignment of playing dates for the 1935 season.

Conflicting reports had it that Emil Fuchs, president of the club, has succeeded in obtaining sufficient funds to make a satisfactory adjustment of the club's affairs. On the other hand it was said Fuchs would resign the presidency and the Braves' management would become the lot of either Vice President Charles F. Adams or Team Manager Bill McKechnie.

Lee Commences Title Defense

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—Edward Lee, New York's 26-year-old national amateur three-cushion billiard champion, faced an uphill battle today in defense of his title.

Having dropped the first match of the tournament to 50-year-old Edward Spitz, of Boston, last night, Lee faced Gene Beardsford, of St. Louis, in his second game. Spitz, playing his first national tournament after winning the Boston sectional championship, was booked to match strokes with Leon Radler, New York, who fell before Beardsford's fine stroking last night.

Vic Hurt May Be Named Assistant Coach Of S. M. U.

DALLAS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Vic Hurt, Oklahoma Baptist university director of athletics, may soon be appointed to the post of assistant football coach at Southern Methodist university.

Hurt has not been offered the position, but it was known that Head Coach Madison Bell favors his appointment. Bell said he probably would decide today or tomorrow on the assistant vacancy. Bell and President Charles C. Sealeman of Southern Methodist conferred with Hurt yesterday. Hurt has been at Oklahoma Baptist 14 years.

Baby Farm Deaths Stir State Quiz

Wholesale deaths of babies have occurred at this maternity home in Beulah, Mich., authorities charge, and court investigation directed by Attorney General Harry S. Toy has been launched. The home is conducted by Dr. E. L. Brooks, Sr., said by Toy to be under indictment in Chicago, and officials say that improper reports have been made on the numerous deaths. One of the mothers whose baby is said to have died there is Evelyn Frechett, sweetheart of John Dillinger.

CAPITOL CHATTER

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Jan. 31 (AP)—Speaker Coke R. Stevenson has organized a "cabinet" to advise him on matters affecting the house.

Composed of three of the younger members, Stevenson has dubbed it his "kitchen cabinet." The group includes Rep. Homer Leonard of McAllen, chairman of appropriations, Rep. Sidney Latham of Longview, chairman of oil, gas and mining, and A. M. Alkin Jr., of Paris, chairman of education.

All worked indefatigably in Stevenson's campaign for the speakership. Stevenson appointed them to his "cabinet" and listened attentively to their suggestions in selection of committee personnel and other organization matters.

Latham, in his middle 20's, made one of the main nominating speeches for Stevenson. As chairman of the oil and gas committee he occupies one of the most important and, at the same time, most arduous positions in the house.

Leonard, formerly a newspaper publisher, is a "reconverted" democrat. Several years ago during the political controversies that racked the Rio Grande Valley, Leonard divorced himself from the democratic party and joined the Good Government league. The fights between the democrats and the Good Government group were many and bitter and are history in the valley.

Leonard was twice elected to the house. His political opposition succeeded in keeping his name off the ballot in one general election but Leonard conducted a whirlwind campaign and won a "write in" victory by a substantial margin. The Good Government league joined hands with the democrats last year and Leonard sought the democratic nomination. He won handsily and in the general election, despite the controversies in which he previously was involved, received more votes than any other candidate.

Alkin, a youthful lawyer, won his spurs in the last session on school legislation. He led the campaign the resulted in an increased appropriation for the rural schools.

The speaker's quarters in the capitol will be remodeled. The speaker will not be forced to take a cold shower in the morning and may cook his bacon and eggs before beginning his day's work.

Rep. Bob Calvert of Hillsboro, whom Stevenson defeated for the speakership, drafted the resolution authorizing the improvements. In discussion on the proposal Calvert is credited with the best wisecrack of the session:

"You can't accuse me of having a selfish interest in this thing—you know."

GOLF TOURNEY IS POSTPONED IN DOWN-POUR

OAKMONT MEET TO BE FINISHED NEXT MONDAY

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN, Associated Press Sports Writer.

GLENDAL, Calif., Feb. 5 (AP)—The golfing gentry turned its back on the unfinished Oakmont Nassau championship tournament today and headed for Mexico to compete in the Agus Caliente sweepstakes beginning Thursday.

Henry Picard, young Hershey, Pa., professional built up a 2-point lead in the event here yesterday in a heavy down-pour which forced postponement. Next Monday the last two rounds of match play will be played with the winner's share of $2,500 prize money and the title awaiting one of the nine remaining competitors.

Splashing his way through the rain, Picard, north-south champion, won decisively from three of his four opponents, picking up a maximum of 6 points from each. But he bowed to Harry Cooper, Chicago, in the other match. Cooper, a great match player, was second with 16, followed by MacDonald Smith, leader of the 72-hole medal play with 15. They collected $100 prize money each by virtue of setting the medal pace for two rounds.

Bunny Torpey, Kansas City, was fourth with 14; followed by Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles, 13; Horton Smith, Oak Park, Ill., 12; Ky Lafson, Chicago, 9; John Revolta, Milwaukee, 7; and Jimmy Hines, Long Island, 4.

The Agus Caliente championship at 72 holes medal for $5,000 also will present something new in golf tournaments—pari-mutuel betting on each round of 18 holes.

METHODIST CIRCLES, BAPTIST LUNCH ARE WELL ATTENDED

FEB. 12 WILL BE DATE FOR BIRTHDAY TEA

STUDY STARTS UNDER THE DIRECTION OF NEW LEADERS

Yearbooks were distributed and study in a new book, Japanese Women Speak, was begun in the four circles of First Methodist Missionary society yesterday afternoon, while women in McCullough and Harrah churches studied Bible lessons.

February 12 was announced as the date of a silver tea which will observe the 25th anniversary of the society. It will be at the home of Mrs. C. T. Hunkapiller from 2:30 to 5:30 that afternoon, and all Methodist women here will be invited.

New study leaders, elected last month, were in charge of the lessons. The new book, in which various chapters were written by Japanese women prominent in different fields, proved unusually interesting.

Guests Are Present.
Circle one met at the church with Mrs. R. A. Baker as hostess. Mrs. Joe Shelton conducted the devotion on the topic, "What Can We Do to Carry the Kingdom?" Mrs. Frank Shotwell was program leader.

Two guests, Mmes. Stine and Townsend, were present with 13 members.

Mrs. Fred Cary was hostess to circle two. Mrs. A. C. Green presided for a short business session and Mrs. Hunkapiller led the lesson.

Mrs. P. A. Wampler, a guest, and 18 members were present.

At the home of Mrs. John Hodge, 17 members of circle three responded to roll call. Mrs. Wilder led the opening prayer and Mrs. Lee Harrah conducted the devotion from Romans 10:11-16.

Circle Plans Tea.
Mrs. Paul Jensen reviewed the first chapter of the text. The meeting was dismissed by repetition of the Lord's prayer.

Mrs. Hunkapiller, Mrs. Hodge, Mrs. Siler, and Miss Hodge, served a dainty plate in Valentine motif. Guests were Mmes. Robert Hart, Art Siler, J. C. McWilliams, W. S. Dickson, and Beulah Abbott.

A Japanese tea was planned for the next meeting of circle four, which started the study course at the home of Mrs. Crawford Atkinson.

Members also planned to make a scrapbook of current Japanese events to assist them in the study.

Mrs. Gaston Foote gave the invocation and Mrs. J. A. Montgomery presented a devotional lesson from Psalm 19. Mrs. Harry Nelson was elected silver custodian from this circle.

Twenty members including Mrs. C. W. Barrow, a new member, were present.

Study Bible Lessons.
Circle five, the McCullough circle, met with Mrs. C. D. Harrah for a short business session and study conducted by Mrs. H. L. Wallace.

The subject was, "Getting Acquainted With Jesus." Members were interested in inspecting the literature provided for newly organized circles.

Refreshments were served to 12 members and three new members, Mmes. E. C. Burba, J. D. Mitchell, and V. N. Osborn.

Circle six met at Harrah Chapel for a Bible lesson on the topic, "Who Were Jesus' Friends?" Material was from the four gospels.

After planning to serve refreshments at the next meeting and arranging for a mission study course, the group joined in a hymn and prayer.

Large Crowd Is Expected Sunday At Singing Meet

Preparations to entertain one of the largest singing conventions ever held here are under way by members of Central Baptist church. The Plateau Singing Convention of Gray county will meet there Sunday.

Visitors are expected from all parts of the county and from surrounding counties. A business meeting is to be an important event of the day, and officers for 1935 will be elected.

The church was selected as the convention place when it was host several weeks ago at an all-day singing to which members of the organization were invited. That event was a success, attended by large crowds, and as many are expected for the meeting Sunday.

Dionnes Stretch Necks In Chicago
CHICAGO, Feb. 5. (AP)—Flashing delighted grins to their welcoming party, Mr. and Mrs. Olive Dionne, parents of the quintuplets, completed their trip from Callander, Ont., at 8:10 a. m. (Central Standard Time), today.

The newcomers, sent by Mayor Kelly, presented Mrs. Dionne with a bouquet. Evidently prepared for a decided change from the biting cold of her Canadian home, Mrs. Dionne topped her ensemble of brown fur with a chic straw hat. A fresh fall of snow, however, had restored the winter scene to Chicago.

The mother of the world's most talked about babies looked about happily at her first glimpse of an American city and chatted in rapid French with members of her party, Mrs. Joseph Rochon of North Bay, a cousin of the father, Leon Dionne, brother of Olive, and Leo Kervin, the couple's advisor.

Linked to Hauptmann Alibi

Esther Ellison, above, pretty 19-year-old Bronx, N. Y., girl, became one of the crucial characters in the Lindbergh kidnap trial when she was named by Elvert Carlstrom, young Swede, in offering an alibi for Bruno Hauptmann on March 1, 1932. It was to see Miss Ellison who lived a few doors away, he explained, that he went to the bakery where he saw Hauptmann dining.

Montana Rides Again

SYNOPSIS: Brother Pascual has come to the camp of Mateo Rubiz, the bandit. Mateo is not the usual bandit; he steals only from those who can afford to lose. And Brother Pascual is not the ordinary friar, for he has come to get Mateo's aid in recovering the emerald crown of Our Lady, stolen by the Governor from the church itself. Mateo says alone he can do nothing, but that if "El Keed" were with him, it might be possible to recover the crown.

Chapter Four
"EL KEED"
"Ah, Mateo, is this 'El Keed' the only man? This gringo you hate?"

"Ay, this man I hate is the only one. But I also love him, and he loves me. Hal, Pascual think that I had him under the muzzle of my gun. That his life was like this in my hand to crush. And there lay Tonia, the traitor—Pascual, keep me from speaking about it."

"But I let them both go free because Tonia loves me, even while he is wearing another name and speaking another speech. And Montana I saw was the second man in the world. Rubiz, then, El Keed. There is no third."

"I could not kill him. I left the house. I took his hand. We spoke quietly. We were friends. For a little while, as I went away, my heart was so full with my friend that I could forget how I had lost Tonia through him."

Brother Pascual knew very well that famous tale of how the Montana Kid, by means of a tattooed birthmark, had insinuated himself into the Lavery household in the place of the son whom Rubiz, to repay the whip-stroke, had stolen twenty years before; but then some stroke of conscience had driven the Kid south into Mexico to find the real heir, whom he had seen there in his wanderings.

He knew how Montana had fought to take young "Tonia" away, and how Rubiz, who had raised the boy to love him and hate the "gringos," had resisted desperately and then pursued the pair north towards the Rio Grande. Now Tonia was restored to his blood and his family; he had been sent off to Europe to put some distance between him and his terrible foster father, Rubiz; and the Montana Kid—El Keed in Mexico—remained on the Lavery ranch about to marry the daughter of the family.

Rubiz blew his nose with a great snoring sound.

"Now I am better," he said. "This Montana who stole Tonia—"

"Be silent!" shouted Rubiz, with the face of a madman.

"If he were with you, might you not steal back the emeralds, even from Port Duxbury and General Estrada? And if you went to El Keed, might he not remember how you once spared him? Might he not ride with you in spite of the danger?"

"He is to marry the sister of Tonia. How can I make him leave her?"

"Mateo, it is not for us to doubt. Let us go north towards the land of the gringos. Let us cross the river. When we have come to the place, God will surely show us the proper way. He will bring even Montana into our hands."

Rubiz, at this, had stopped his pacing. His heart began to lift higher and higher.

"Pascual," he said, "who can tell? Perhaps it is true. Perhaps it is true! I feel that the thing shall be. We shall ride together; we shall work together; and what will walls of stone be, what will soldiers be, when we two are side by side?"

"But he is gringo—and ah, the pity of it!" said the friar.

"Ay," groaned Rubiz, "the pity of it! But only his skin is American and his heart is pure Mexican!"

In the corral the blood-bay mare was being drawn to the snubbing post. And that great rider of outlaw horses, Tombstone Joe, was

MISS MANN IS MARRIED JAN 5 TO GRID STAR

MARRIAGE TO MONROE OWENS ANNOUNCED THIS WEEK

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Mann announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jean, and Monroe Owens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Owens, solemnized on Jan. 5 at Sayre, Okla.

The couple was accompanied by Miss Claudia Atchery and Buck Mundy, who witnessed the wedding. It has been kept secret until this week.

Mrs. Owens is a popular student in Pampa high school, and will continue her studies. Mr. Owens has been a stellar member of Harvester football team in recent years. He was named all-state end in 1933, and was captain of the team for the 1934 season.

He has been employed since the first of the year with the Cabot companies, and the couple will be at home here.

How To Keep Colds UNDER BETTER CONTROL

When Colds THREATEN
VICKS VA-TRO-ROL
At the first sneeze or nasal irritation, quick a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-rol. Its timely use helps to prevent many colds, and to throw off colds in their early stages.

If a Cold STRIKES
VICKS VAPORUB
At bedtime, massage the throat and chest with Vicks Vaporub, the mother's standby in treating colds. All night long, by stimulation and inhalation, Vaporub brings direct relief.

To Build Resistance to Colds: Follow the rules of health that are part of the clinically tested Vicks Plan for Better Control of Colds. (The Plan is fully explained in each Vicks package.)

P-TA Officers

Mrs. Cecil Lunsford, above, as president of the Band Mothers club in B. M. Baker school, will have charge of a benefit program scheduled for March 8 at the school. She is serving her second year as head of this group, and is also secretary of B. M. Baker Parent-Teacher association. Mrs. C. E. Simmons, below, has been an active member of the association for several years and is also a member of the Band Mothers club. She is treasurer of the PTA, an office she has held for the last two years.

"If you get me there, you'll operate on me and if anything happens to me you'll cut me up." I promised her I wouldn't.

He flatly denied that the first time he took Grace Brandon to a theater he told her she was the "sweetest, most wonderful girl in the world."

Q. Did you think so at that time?
A. I did not.

Kagey then turned to the government charge that Shepard mixed a highball for his wife a few moments before she collapsed.

"I could never fix them to suit her. I couldn't get them right for her. I tried several times."

He denied also that he wrote Grace Brandon telling her of the highball, as she said.

He once bargained with his wife to drink a cocktail with her each evening if she would give up her secret drinking. He abandoned the idea, however, when she broke her half of the agreement.

Q. Major did you ever poison or attempt to poison your wife at any time?
A. I did not.

Cross-examined by the U. S. district attorney, Shepard was asked when he first learned to use liquor.

A. I don't know when I first took a drink. It was long ago.

EX-SHERIFF DIES
STAMFORD, Feb. 5 (AP)—B. F. Roberts, 79, former sheriff at Sterling City, died at the home of a daughter, Mrs. L. B. Cole, in Stamford Monday after a short illness of pneumonia. Burial will be in the Mountvale cemetery near Sterling City this afternoon, after a funeral service at the graveside.

The Pony Express line, which linked Missouri with the Pacific coast during pioneer days in the west, had 80 riders, 420 horses, 190 stations and 400 station workers.

SHORT TALKS PRESENT THE WMU LESSON

LUNCHEON IS SERVED AT CHURCH DINING ROOM

Luncheon was followed by a series of short talks developing the topic of First Baptist Missionary Union at its meeting in the church dining room yesterday.

The subject, Lifting the Banner in Our Own Land, continued the mission study program. It followed a business session in charge of Mrs. E. L. Anderson, when reports were made by circle chairmen.

Mrs. F. L. Anderson gave the invocation at lunch, and Mrs. L. H. Green the prayer that opened the program. Mrs. Ernest Fletcher conducted a devotional lesson. Mrs. R. W. Tucker was director of the program.

Program Topics
Topics were presented as follows:

THREE A. A. U. W. STUDY GROUPS TO MEET SOON

World Events Club Meeting Called This Evening

Study groups in the A. A. U. W. are starting work in earnest this month. Meetings of the three classes have been called for the next few days.

The World Events club is to meet this evening at the home of Mrs. J. B. Massa. This group, which plans monthly meetings to review current world happenings, is open to A. A. U. W. members, their husbands and friends.

Mrs. Earl O'Keefe has called a meeting of the French class in room 207 of the high school building just after 4 o'clock Thursday. An interesting course for the spring has been planned for this division, and the leader announces that a surprise is in store for those who attend the meeting this week. All members interested in French are urged to attend.

The Book Review club, scheduled to meet Friday, has postponed its meeting to Tuesday of next week because of a conflict with other club meetings.

English Class in Visit to NEWS

The NEWS in its many departments was made the subject of study this morning by a Junior high school English class, room 64, taught by Miss Doris Strader.

Talks were made to the class by Gilmore N. Nunn, general manager, and Olin E. Hinkle, managing editor. The class is preparing a long list of questions to ask the newsmen at a regular class period soon.

The class is studying the newspaper business both as an English exercise and as an example of community service.

Pains That Cardui Helps
For monthly discomfort, tired nerves, run-down women ought to try Cardui. So many who build up with the help of pure vegetable Cardui overcome periodic pains. At times I would cramp and feel mighty bad," writes Mrs. M. L. Brady of Swanton, S. C. "I knew this helped something to help me. My mother had taken Cardui and had told me about it. It helped me. I find it a very good tonic as well as a help for pain and nervous condition."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU consult a physician.

UTILITY BILL IS CRITICIZED BY OPPONENTS

PLAN CALLED 'EIGHTH WONDER OF WORLD' BY W. E. POPE

AUSTIN, Feb. 5. (AP)—Administration-sponsored legislation to regulate public utilities held the spotlight of the Texas legislature today. Sharp opposition mingled with warm defense of a bill written for Governor James V. Alfred by Dr. R. H. Montgomery, University of Texas economics professor, at the initial committee hearing. Representative W. E. Pope of Corpus Christi, staunch defender of the Ferguson administration, developed as the outstanding opponent. Committee-men and members among the 73 who signed it rose to its defense.

The initial meeting indicated several days will be consumed in committee argument, with all utility control bills likely to be sent to a sub-committee for re-drafting. Pope termed the administration bill the "eighth wonder of the world," and charged it was the type welcomed by utilities which Montgomery defended the bill as effective "if it is humanly possible to regulate utilities." He added the threat of punitive legislation and possibly government ownership unless utilities "set their financial houses in order."

Meanwhile, the committee approved, 9 to 8, a bill to abolish the "ready to serve" charge of gas utilities. Representative Charlie Tennyson of Wichita Falls declared utilities enjoying monopolies should not be permitted to make an additional charge for ability and readiness to serve.

Final disposition of the senate's answer to a house resolution calling for publication of names of employers was likely in the house. The senate substituted for the short requirement, a 12-page order for an investigation of unparalleled scope into official conduct of legislators and state officers.

House sponsors, believing the senate's plan was devised to kill the original resolution, planned to reject it and then adopt a resolution applicable only to representatives. The senate bided time for a showdown on the nomination of Representative Sarah T. Hughes as a Dallas county district judge. Governor James V. Alfred's message nominating her will be submitted today. Senator Claude Westerfield of Dallas has announced opposition to confirmation, unless the Dallas bar will approve it.

The way was cleared for prompt action by the senate on the final nomination remaining from the administration of former Governor Miriam A. Ferguson. The committee on governor's nominations recommended confirmation of Guy L. Waggoner of Fort Worth to continue as chairman of the Texas racing commission.

It was understood the secret vote was six to one, with one not voting, a majority indicative of likely confirmation by the senate.

POND AND TERRACING BODY TO MEET IN AMARILLO ON FRIDAY

Broken Promise Charge Is Thrown By Senator Glass

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. (AP)—The Roosevelt administration's plan to clothe the federal reserve system with vast new powers over America's banking system faced prospects of a momentous fight today as Senator Carter Glass charged that a pledge had been broken.

The Virginia democrat, specialist in banking legislation, hurled his accusation at Marriner S. Eccles, new deal governor of the Federal Reserve board which, in the opinion of trained observers would be given many of the powers of a central bank. Glass said:

"The governor of the Federal Reserve board, Mr. Eccles, voluntarily came to my office and told me that he would show me the amendments before he showed them to any one else. He did not keep his word."

As for the plan, which was sent to Capitol Hill last night in the form of a tentative draft of the "banking act of 1935," Glass would only say:

"I do not care to make any comment on something I have not seen. It is known that the senator, who wrote most of the original Federal Reserve act as chairman of the house banking committee in 1913, is opposed to changes in the Federal Reserve in this session. The capital has understood for some time that he would fight to the end any amendments which would place additional control in the hands of officials here."

House Declines To Ask Regents To Hire Murray

AUSTIN, Feb. 5. (AP)—The Texas house of representatives declined today to request the University of Texas regents to make former Governor W. H. Murray of Oklahoma a professor in the school's department of government.

Representative Clarence E. Farmer of Port Worth, author of the resolution, said a recent talk by Murray before the house showed him to be a deep student of government and a man who would grace the faculty.

"Do you think a 45 minute speech sufficient to show a man's qualifications to teach in the university?" some one shouted as Farmer lauded Murray.

Another suggested that the resolution be amended to ask that Murray be made a member of the faculty of Texas Christian university, located at Fort Worth.

Representative George B. Butler of Bryan set up an amendment proposing that Murray be appointed dean of the University of Texas law school.

"I simply know that if Murray were on the faculty of the department of government, there would be on it a man who always would stand for the people of Texas," Farmer said.

Hundreds of persons from all sections of the Texas Panhandle-Plains region, the Oklahoma Panhandle, and Southwestern Kansas are expected to attend a rally in Amarillo Friday under auspices of the Great Plains Farm Pond and Terracing association.

Purpose of the meeting is to discuss the practical and feasible methods of preventing the recurrence of wide-spread losses from drought in this region through the building of small ponds on every section of land and the terracing of all farm and ranch properties.

Meet at Auditorium.

"Hold the moisture where it falls," is the slogan of the newly organized association designed to serve the entire Great Plains area.

The all-day party will be held at Amarillo's municipal auditorium, beginning at 10 a. m. The general public is invited.

Many outstanding specialists on agriculture and rehabilitation are scheduled to address the meeting. Among those expected to speak are the following:

Judge W. H. Sewell, Pollett, president of the association.
C. M. Evans, regional advisor, rural rehabilitation, Southwest states, Marshall.

Harley A. Daniel, acting director of the experiment station, Goodwell, Okla.

H. H. Fennell, agronomist, department of the interior, Daltart.
J. B. Keely, chief engineer, Texas Relief commission, Austin.

W. H. McPheters, extension engineer, Stillwater, Okla.
W. R. Bentley, terracing specialist, A. & M. college of Texas.

J. E. Gaston, tree planting and highway beautification, State Highway department, Austin.

Oil Production Shows Decreases

TULSA, Okla., Feb. 5. (AP)—The three major producing areas of the nation, Texas, Oklahoma, and California, led the general decrease in crude oil production last week sufficient to bring the daily average down 115,827 barrels, from 2,587,211 to 2,471,404 barrels a day, the Oil and Gas Journal says.

Texas had a decrease from 1,049,832 to 1,038,739 barrels, with East Texas showing a drop from 467,127 to 455,203 barrels.

In Oklahoma the month end slack period showed a reduction from 509,950 to 441,325 barrels a day.

The California decrease was from 509,100 to 477,300 barrels a day. Kansas production fell from 140,075 to 137,225 barrels daily; eastern production, including Michigan, dropped from 137,636 to 137,084 barrels, and in the Rocky Mountain area the output declined from 96,190 to 93,630.

Dog fanciers of Seattle sponsored a show at which only animals from the far north having a wolf strain could be entered, including huskies, malamutes and mush dogs.

President Roosevelt To Be Heard Friday Evening In National Broadcast

Boy Scouts of the Pampa area will be allowed to plan their own observances of Scout week, which begins Friday. The local office will assist them in arranging their Father and Son banquets and similar activities.

There will be no general assembly of Scouts during the week. The next council-wide gathering will be at the big Scout circus, to which most attention now is being directed. The circus, to be held here, will bring hundreds of Scouts and parents to the city.

With a program of activities on a nation-wide scale, the Boy Scouts of America will open the celebration of its twenty-fifth anniversary on February 8. The program of celebration continues through to February 14, with a schedule of events at other times throughout the year.

The Scout movement was incorporated on February 8, 1910, in Washington, D. C., formally launching the movement in the United States. On Scout Sunday, February 10, services for Scout groups will be held in churches of all religious bodies. Scouts will attend as troop and patrol units and as individuals.

All Scout troops in the United States, numbering 30,000, will meet on the evening of February 8, to renew again their Scout pledge by repeating with their leaders the Scout oath and law. This ceremony will be synchronized by a nationwide radio program.

Scout day in the schools will fall on Monday, February 11, when special exercises will be held in public and private schools commemorating of Scouting's silver anniversary.

On February 12, Scouts will celebrate pioneer day, with tributes to the great pioneers who contributed to the settlement and growth of America, and an outdoor demonstration, pilgrimages and similar events. In communities where Lincoln's birthday is celebrated the pioneer day ceremonies will be merged with the Lincoln day celebration.

Local Scout organizations in all parts of the country will have special exercises, and activities including pilgrimages, hikes, Father and Son dinners and other similar events to commemorate the quarter century anniversary and these will take place at various times during Boy Scout week.

The celebration of the anniversary will continue after Boy Scout week with a number of events during the year, reaching a high point in the First National Boy Scout Jamboree to be held at Washington, D. C., August 21-30. This Jamboree will bring 30,000 boys together in the greatest boy encampment ever held in America.

Several outstanding events will mark the Jamboree. A grand opening review, in which all the 30,000 Scouts at the Jamboree will participate, an American Youth congress, and a mammoth Sunday afternoon meeting and a grand closing pageant and camp fire will be included.

The anniversary of the first publication of Boy's Life by the Boy Scouts of America will be celebrated in March, Sunday, May 12, is Mother's day. Scouts plan an outstanding ceremony on that occasion, when mothers of Scouts will be decorated with a miniature Scout pin of the rank held by the Scout sons. Mrs. James Roosevelt, mother the president, was recently decorated as a Scout mother by Dr. James E. West, the chief Scout executive.

An elaborate program is being arranged for the silver anniversary meeting of the National Council of Boy Scouts, which will be held in May.

On Flag day, June 14, the national flag will be flown at the Jamboree will be formally presented at Independence hall, Philadelphia, with local presentation, at many points, to contingents which are to attend the Jamboree of the flags they are to carry to Washington.

Groups of Scouts will be invited to participate in all local July 4 celebrations wherever held, and the program will include an expression of loyalty to American ideals by groups of Eagle Scouts.

Thanksgiving day will give an opportunity for local Scout organizations to make public expression of their gratitude to the organizations which cooperate to sponsor and support of Scout movement.

Special programs of winter camping relative to the anniversary will be conducted during the Christmas holidays, 1935.

A colony of 15 rural rehabilitation homes has been started near Marshall, Tex.

HAUPTMANN'S TRIAL DUE TO END IN WEEK

FIVE WITNESSES FOR DEFENSE FAIL TO SHOW UP

BY WILLIAM A. KINNEY.
Copyright, 1935, by The Associated Press.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 5 (AP)—Attorneys for Bruno Hauptmann pushed his case rapidly toward completion today, calling 15 more witnesses in an effort to establish his alibi for the nights on which the Lindbergh baby was kidnapped and on which $50,000 ransom was paid.

Hauptmann's counsel said they would rest their testimony within the next few days, making it probable that the case would go into the hands of the jury about a week from tomorrow. Tuesday will be a court holiday as it is Lincoln's birthday.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz pressed a brief state rebuttal, with only about seven or eight witnesses to be called. Both sides hoped to begin summations to the jury on Saturday.

The trial is costing Jersey about $800 a day, with expenditures already in excess of $25,000.

Before the state concludes its prosecution of the defendant, it became virtually certain that Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow would be called in an effort to clear the name of Violet Sharpe, the maid in her home who committed suicide subsequent to the kidnapping.

The state's tentative decision to call Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's mother-in-law is the result of defense maneuvers to cast suspicion on Mrs. Sharpe and her husband, Hauptmann's dead business partner.

In the event Mrs. Morrow appears as a rebuttal witness, it was not expected she would be long on the stand. The testimony sought by the state is that Mrs. Morrow was at home at the time Hauptmann witnesses declared they saw some one resembling her at a Jersey ferry slip in New York with a blond baby and two men.

A controversy created yesterday when five of the defense alibi witnesses failed to show up. Chief Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly explained their failure to appear was based "on various reasons."

The missing witnesses recalled today were:

Walter Manley, to testify to seeing Hauptmann leading a police dog in the Bronx at the time of the kidnapping.

Hans Mueller, Hauptmann's niece, an alibi witness for establishing his whereabouts at the time the ransom money was paid over in St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx.

Otto Schoeffel, Mrs. Hauptmann's brother, to account for Hauptmann's whereabouts the kidnapping night.

Phillip Moses, Bronx taxicab driver, who announced outside court he would "break this case wide open" in attacking the stories of Dr. John P. ("Japsie") Condon, ransom intermediary, and John Perrone, another Bronx car driver.

Moses said there were four men present when Dr. Condon discussed ransom negotiations with "John" the first time, and added he would controvert Perrone's story of delivering a ransom note to Dr. Condon from "John."

From Col. H. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of New Jersey state police, Reilly yesterday adduced testimony that a duplicate of the kidnapping ladder had broken when subjected to the weight of a state trooper weighing 180 pounds, and that it had broken in the same place the actual kidnapping ladder cracked.

The state police head, appearing as a defense witness, said the experiments showed that a man weighing "up to 170 or possibly 175 pounds could have gone up, but with the added weight of the Lindbergh baby" the ladder would have broken when he came down. The baby, he testified, weighed 30 pounds.

The defense, insisting Hauptmann weighed 182 pounds at the time of the kidnapping, declared the defendant therefore could not have ascended the ladder successfully.

OUR POLITICAL PRIMER:

The original plan of having the terms of one-third of the senators expire every two years has been adhered to throughout the years, and the arrangements are not dependent upon any functioning of the law of averages.

As each new state was admitted to the Union, its senators drew lots to determine the class to which they should be assigned. The classes for which they drew naturally varied from time to time.

For example, when Oklahoma was admitted in 1907 the senators from that state drew for six-year or two-year terms. The next two states admitted, New Mexico and Arizona, and their senators were admitted upon the same day, April 2, 1912.

The senate adopted a resolution providing that the four men should draw lots, that two should receive six-year terms, one a four-year term, and one a two-year term. The resolution was so phrased that neither state could receive the two six-year terms.

The drawing resulted in Senators Ashurst of Arizona and Catron of New Mexico receiving six-year terms, Senators Smith of Arizona a four-year term, and Senator Fall of New Mexico a two-year term.

No states have been admitted since that time.

Inasmuch as the senate provided for the drawing on each occasion when one was required by adopting a separate resolution, it was possible to have the new senators draw for six, four, or two-year terms as needed to preserve the balance of the senate.

STUDENTS WILL TALK AT AAUW

Will Speak To Other Clubs On Current Topics

Georgia May Rogers and Charlie Johnston will speak at an A. A. U. W. meeting at the home of Mrs. J. B. Massa this evening at 7:30. They are among the students trying out for extemporaneous speaking.

Speakers will be provided for any clubs desiring them, according to Miss Ruth Siddons, who is in charge of the contestants.

Topics being studied by the students all center around the National Recovery Administration and include the CCC, TVA, RFC, AAA, and NRA.

Charlie Johnston will speak this evening on social conditions in the Tennessee valley leading up to the TVA, and Georgia May Rogers will outline the objectives of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Extemporaneous speaking is one of the interscholastic league speech events.

CONGRESS IS TUNING UP ITS FIRST FIDDLE

MacCRACKEN DECISION IS UPHELD BY COURT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP)—Congress, after nearly two years of playing second fiddle, was stretching somewhat hesitant hand toward first violin today.

A growing tendency, noted by many observers, to debate, change and, in one notable case, even to reject the plans and desires of the executive is fast becoming an outstanding phenomenon of this second new deal congress.

The atmosphere on capital hill these days is markedly different from the early days of the administration when, with a banking collapse to cope with and an acute emergency to face, the legislators passed administration bills swiftly and without many questions.

Along with this re-wakening of a spirit of criticism have come two supreme court decisions re-asserting traditional powers of congress. They have served to call attention again to the powerful role assigned to the legislative branch under the constitution.

The latest was the MacCracken decision yesterday, putting beyond doubt the senate's right to jail a man for contempt. Senators, notably Wagner (D., N. Y.), looked upon this as a "healthy thing," strengthening the senate's hand in investigations.

A decision with much bearing on the relations between the legislature and the executive was the one wiping the oil clause from NRA as too broad a delegation of authority from congress to the president.

To the senate has fallen the leading part in the renaissance for congressional criticism—If such it should turn out to be. It was that branch which, against the desires of the president, rejected American adherence to the world court in a quick shift of sentiment which surprised observers.

It is in the senate, too, that the Roosevelt $4,380,000,000 work and relief bill is facing delays despite the pleas of administration officials that fast action is necessary to replenish relief coffers. Senators Glass (D., Va.), who with some other senators, dislikes some provisions conferring wide powers on the administrative branch of the government, only yesterday said there was "no doubt" the bill would be "modified" in committee.

The house had passed the bill swiftly, though only after "revolving" members had obtained some relaxation of what they called "gag rule," as well as some other modifications.

RAY HAMILTON ESCAPES TRAP IN GUN FIGHT

HIS BROTHER, FLOYD ALSO DODGES 200 BULLETS

DALLAS, Feb. 5 (AP)—Unnecessarily, Raymond Hamilton, the southwest's ranking bad man, and his brother, Floyd, slipped through a police ambushade blazing shotgun fire at an apartment house here last night and remained at large today.

Hamilton, former lieutenant of the late Clyde Barrow and Bonnie Parker, dead outlaw couple, and a fugitive from the Texas electric chair for slaying a prison guard, sped away from the scene in a stolen light service truck.

Afoot his brother, wanted by federal authorities, raced down an alley, slipped through a dozen officers, and vanished. Both were believed wounded. Officers believed it an impossibility for the pair to have escaped bullet wounds as two hundred shots were fired at the fleeing men.

The pair drove up to the apartment house, where officers earlier in the day had arrested Mrs. Mildred Hamilton, Floyd's wife, and another woman. Floyd alighted from the car and walked to a window.

"Hello, hello," he said as he tapped the pane. Six city detectives inside commanded him to throw up his hands. He didn't hear them. They repeated their command and he backed away and reached for a pistol.

The six officers opened fire simultaneously with sawed-off shotguns and pistols. Bullets riddled the car in which Raymond sat, but the youthful desperado tumbled from the machine and joined his brother in flight down an alley.

Their escape was miraculous. City and federal officers were scattered over the vicinity. Raymond rushed into the garage of the Dallas Gas company, jumped into a service truck and sped away. Floyd, afoot, was lost in the darkness.

Officers Encircle City State highway patrolmen, federal officers, city detectives and sheriff's deputies encircled the city. Not a trace of the red truck was seen.

Policeman J. F. Daniel was shot in the hand by the single shot of gunfire from the fleeing brothers. Officers linked the pair with the $1,093 robbery of the First National bank at Carthage, Texas, early yesterday, when license plates from a machine stolen at Carthage were found in the abandoned car.

A receipt for a gas bill addressed to Floyd Hamilton and a letter from the Anderson county district attorney to a Dallas attorney discussing Floyd Hamilton's record were found in the apartment. Insurance papers bearing Floyd's name also were found.

Mrs. Floyd Hamilton and the other woman arrested were trapped by police several hours before the shooting when they entered the front door. Officers said one of the women pulled a pistol but was quickly subdued. They were taken to jail and the officers remained at the apartment.

Mrs. Hamilton was turned over to federal authorities. She is under indictment for harboring and concealing Barrow and the Parker woman.

Raymond Hamilton made a daring escape from the state prison at Huntsville on July 22, 1934. With five other prisoners, they shot their way out with small caliber guns. He is the only one still at large. Three of the men were shot down from the prison walls. Joe Palmer was captured later in Kentucky and Irvin (Blackie) Thompson, was slain by Amarillo officers.

Linked With Robbery Hamilton had been sought throughout the day as a possible participant in the Carthage robbery. Three roughly dressed men participated in the robbery. Two of them entered the bank, flashed automatic pistols, forced Cashier A. L. Ross to unlock the vault, collected all the available cash, and fled with their companion, waiting outside in the machine.

They abandoned the car 16 miles west of Carthage and changed to another machine. The trio had been reported camped near Carthage for several days with a woman. Officers found in abandoned car here blankets, sheets, household utensils, women's clothing, two automatic shotguns, two rifles and several hundred rounds of ammunition.

Early yesterday afternoon officers warned residents of the neighborhood to "stay inside" after nightfall for a shooting was expected.

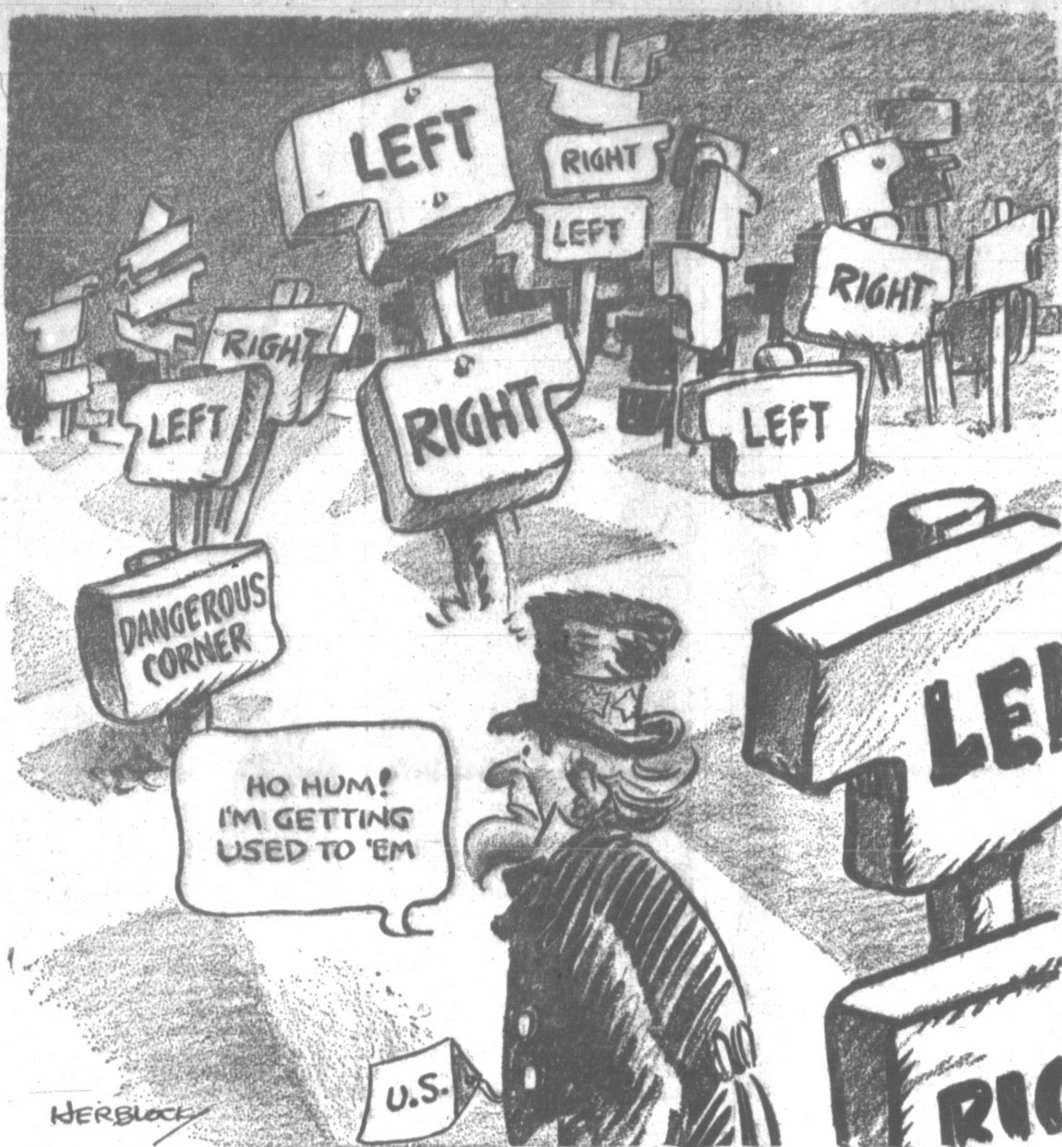

Authorities received a tip several days ago that the Hamiltons were using the apartment as a hide-out. The place was put under surveillance and, when additional information led officers to believe the Hamiltons had robbed the Carthage bank yesterday, a trap was set.

Shot full of holes, the antiquated car in which the Hamiltons had been transporting their arsenal was abandoned in their headlong flight. Although there were no blood stains found on the car or where the Hamiltons dashed away, officers said they couldn't conceive of the fugitives escaping being wounded in the face of the barrage of gunfire laid down by the officers.

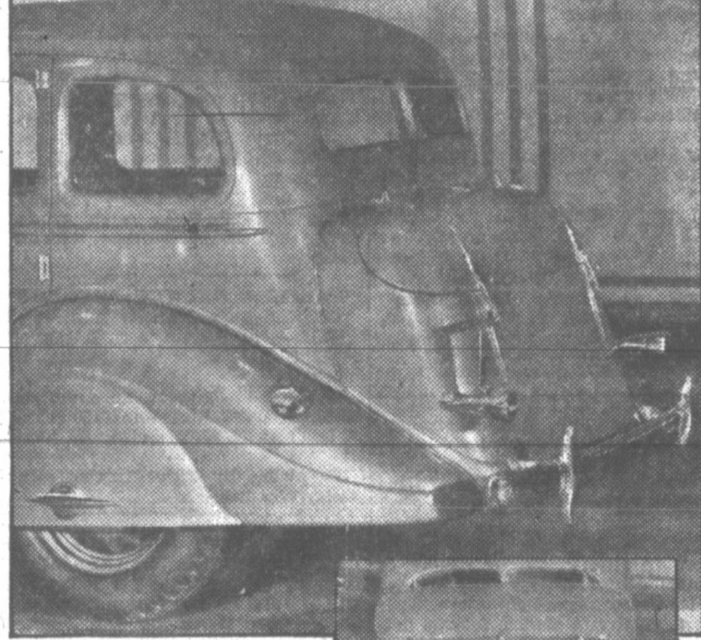

era when so many banks were closing, but it also pokes fun at the new deal policies of NRA and Roosevelt. Sitting in the opening night audience were Anna Roosevelt Boettger and her new husband, John Boettger. Mrs. Boettger laughed heartily at all the sallies at the projects of her father.

HUDSON AND TERRAPLANE TRUNK DESIGN

An entirely new type of trunk is being offered this year for Hudsons and Terraplanes. The lines of the trunk not only blend with those of the body but the trunk itself opens directly into the generous tire and luggage space at the rear, giving a tremendous amount of room while actually enhancing the appearance of the car.

Just to illustrate the capacity of the new trunk designed for Hudson and Terraplane cars, here is one with the cover open showing four full-grown standard size milk cans in place and there is plenty of room behind them for the spare tire.

Senate Passes

Brazos Bill By 28 to 1 Ballot

AUSTIN, Feb. 5, (AP)—The senate, without debate, passed, 28 to 1, a bill by Senators Albert Stone of Brexham and W. R. Ponce of Waco to establish a master Brazos river conservation and reclamation district, a public authority to develop the stream.

Leaders of a congressional steering committee on the district's application for $500,000 to finance the hydro-electric, flood control and reclamation project said the state act was necessary.

It would eliminate requirements for expenditure of funds to develop the stream for navigation, make rights of the district subject to prior water rights, and establish a 21 member board of directors with overlapping terms.

Senator Weaver Moore of Houston removed any possibility of interference with an application of the lower Colorado river authority for a PWA loan and grant of $4,500,000 to complete Buchanan dam, an unfinished Insull project.

Moore said in view of a house committee action killing a bill to prohibit payment of any fee or commission for procuring the loan or properties he would let a similar bill die in the senate.

Administration sponsors delayed senate action on a bill proposed by Governor James V. Allred to establish a Texas planning board to coordinate state and federal recovery efforts and to formulate state plans for best utilization of federal funds.

he said, "the potential power of this, the largest known gas field, is greater than the potential water power of the United States."

Fineh, in reply, told Jones that the bureau was "greatly interested" in the conservation and economic development of the gas resources of the Panhandle and added that "under present conditions more than one billion cubic feet of this gas is being blown into the air each day and a plan for conservation and commercial use of the resources of this field is of great importance."

Rieberg suggested that when the program of work relief projects is organized, Jones' suggestions might well be considered by those placed in charge and also suggested that the matter be laid before the national resources board, which he said he thought would be "extremely interested."

The problem of gas wastage attracted the attention of the Cole oil investigating subcommittee of the interstate and foreign commerce committee of the house on a recent trip across the country and only three weeks ago Secretary Tamm at a press conference made a vicious attack on the gas waste.

MAJOR KILLED IN NIGHT CLUB CELEBRATION

CLAIM OFFICER SLAIN WHEN THROWN OUT OF PLACE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 5 (AP)—An army major was fatally injured and two other officers slightly hurt in a night club fight that climaxed a gay party in celebration of their regiment's birthday here early today.

The dead man was Major Charles A. Ross, battalion commander of the 90th Infantry, stationed in the Presidio. He was pronounced dead on arrival at Central Emergency hospital after either falling or being thrown down a long flight of steps at the entrance to the night club.

Major William F. Lee, one of his companions, suffered a bruised left eye, and Lieut. Winfred Skelton, a cut lip in the brief scuffle that preceded the tragedy.

Held in connection with death of Major Ross were Clem Gavotti, well known in San Francisco night life circles, and two of his aides, Joe Vasselli and Sam Erlich. The three were booked on manslaughter charges after two hours' questioning by police. All denied being involved in the fight.

Major Ross and five companions—Major Lee and C. M. Easley; captains Thomas N. Stark, and Earle M. Miner, and Lieut. Skelton—arrived at the Club Cairo shortly after 1 a. m., witnesses said, and a quarrel with club attendants began at the door.

"I checked my hat and coat," said Major Easley, "and on returning saw the other officers quarreling with Gavotti, Vasselli, and Erlich. I tried to calm the club attendants and told them not to take the major seriously about anything as he was only kidding. But they insisted on throwing him out."

A scuffle ensued. Major Easley said Major Ross was "manhandled to the head of the stairs and thrown down." The major told police that the club employes further manhandled Major Ross outside the building by kicking him.

Major Ross was a native of Michigan and had been in the army since 1918. For several years he was a member of the central staff school at Washington, D. C. He leaves a widow and two daughters, one of whom is married and lives in Washington, D. C.

Most Of Letters Sent Hauptmann Are Sympathetic

PLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 5, (AP)—Sixty-two letters came for Bruno Hauptmann, received today—an average return from the 50 to 75 letters daily since he entered the Hunterdon county jail.

C. Lloyd Fisher, one of Hauptmann's attorneys, said the prisoner's mail includes notes from school girls, predictions from astrologers, conversion appeals from clergymen and laymen, autograph requests, notes of encouragement, and various odds and ends.

One letter contained an invitation to a barn dance in Arkansas with the qualification—"when New Jersey learns you are not responsible for the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby."

"The strange thing about Hauptmann's mail is that very little of it is condemnatory in tone," Fisher remarked. "Most of it is sympathetic, and some of it contains boasts to his success in the current trial."

Stalcup Special Venire Exhausted LUBBOCK, Feb. 5, (AP)—Exhausting a special venire panel, selection of a jury to try Virgil Stalcup, West Texas badman, for the slaying of Sheriff W. B. Arthur, of Dickens county, was delayed in 90th district court this afternoon until an additional venire of 30 men could be summoned.

Court adjourned until 2 p. m. while the bailiffs scurried over the county summoning the additional veniremen. Eight jurors had been selected when court recessed.

UNDER the doctor's care, or in the hospital, you would get a liquid laxative. And the liquid form is what you would use at home, if you knew what a doctor knows!

A liquid laxative can always be taken in the right amount. You can gradually reduce the dose. Reduced dosage is the perfect of real and safe relief from constipation.

The right liquid laxative gives the right kind of help, and the right amount of help. When the dose is repeated, instead of more each time, you take less.

Once you have experienced this comfort, you will never return to any form of help that can't be regulated to suit the need.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains natural laxative ingredients and these are natural laxatives that form no habit—even with children.

Dr. Caldwell's SYRUP PEPSIN

action is gentle, but sure. It will clear up a condition of biliousness or sluggishness without upset. You'll like its taste, and like its action. It's pleasant to take, and won't sicken you like a violent cathartic.

So, try Syrup Pepsin. Take regulated doses until Nature restores regularity. Those who have made the "liquid test" know why most doctors favor a liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Get a bottle today.

BE CAREFUL If any laxative makes you thirsty, affects your appetite, seems to burn, or requires larger doses than when you first began its use—change to a liquid laxative!

as a woman and masqueraded around the neighborhood?"

"No, sir. It disclosed no such fact."

"Did anybody in official life, in Washington from the president, not this present president, but the president then, stay your hand toward Dr. Condon?"

"Never in the slightest way that I know of, no sir."

In cross-examination Wilentz asked Seykora:

"Is it not a fact that Dr. Condon was known throughout the Bronx as a leader in Boy Scout, Girl Scout and other civic movements and as a patriotic citizen?"

"Yes, sir."

Mrs. Hoff Testifies

With a view to showing that Fisch was the collector of the ransom, the defense put on the stand Mrs. Bertha Hoff, who testified that she was visited about November, 1933, by Fisch and a farmer named Budreau who lived at Lebanon, N. J., 20 miles from the Lindbergh estate.

The visit, she said, was at her home at Bayville, L. I.

Reilly, fighting to get into the record testimony that Fisch carried bundles at the time, declared hotly:

"During the day if I can get my witnesses here from New York I hope to prove Isador Fisch was the man who jumped over the cemetery fence; that he received the money from Dr. Condon."

Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon testified for the state that Hauptmann leaped over a cemetery fence to meet him and that he subsequently paid to Hauptmann the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom.

Hauptmann's defense, denying that he was the man who collected the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom on April 2, 1932, used the testimony of a Bronx taxi driver in an effort to show there were four mysterious persons near St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx at the time of the payment.

Taxi Driver Is Witness

Phillip Moses, who had been quoted as saying his story would "burst this case wide open" testified he picked up three fares shortly after 8 p. m. April 2, 1932, and drove them past the gate of the cemetery where Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Condon said he paid Hauptmann the ransom money while Colonel Lindbergh waited in an auto.

He said he drove the three men two blocks past the gate. They jumped out, he said, and met a fourth man, whereupon the quartet huddled for a conference.

Then they got into a gray car which stalled, he said, and he helped them to get it started.

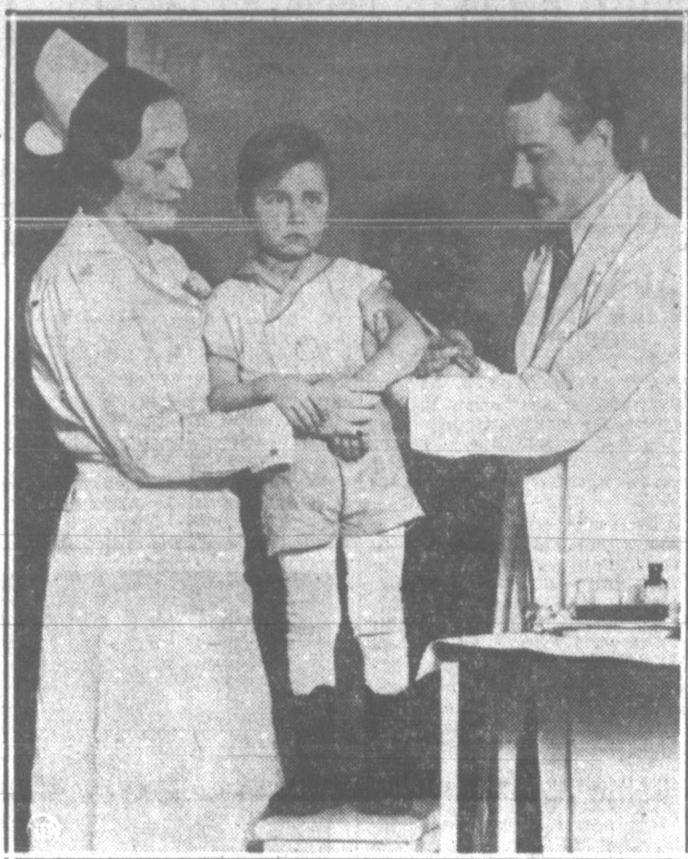

Moses was not allowed to testify to something he said one of the men had told him.

Another alibi witness followed the taxi driver. Mrs. Maria Mueller Hauptmann's niece, testified he was at his home for a birthday party on the night of November 26, 1933, when a theater cashier says he proffered a Lindbergh ransom bill in payment for a ticket.

The defense lost, at least temporarily, a battle to force Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey police, to reveal what he told newspapers during the investigation of the Lindbergh kidnappings.

Hauptmann's defense also sought through a Bronx taxi driver to offset the adverse story of another taxi driver who said Hauptmann gave him a dollar to deliver a ransom note to Dr. John F. (Jafsie) Con-

First "Shot" in Paralysis War

This scene marks the dawn of a new era in the prevention of infantile paralysis, Robert Kolmer, M.D., the first patient of the Kolmer clinic at Temple University medical college in Philadelphia, is about to be inoculated against the disease by Dr. George Klug. The clinic is the first opened to make available to the public the vaccine recently perfected by Dr. John Albert Kolmer.

don. Through the same witness, Phillip Moses, the defense attacked the story of Dr. Condon who said he paid the $50,000 ransom to Hauptmann in St. Raymond's cemetery in the Bronx on the night of April 2, 1932.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, ruling against the defense on its effort to make Schwarzkopf produce his press releases, allowed Hauptmann's attorneys to reserve the right to argue the point later.

A petition on the police head's behalf was presented at the opening of court. He asked to be released from a subpoena duces tecum through which the defense sought to make him produce all his press releases from the date of the kidnapping to November 1 of the same year.

Assistant Attorney General Joseph A. Lanigan argued the Subpoena was "too indefinite and uncertain." Schwarzkopf was on the stand as a defense witness yesterday. He couldn't recall that he had ever said in one of the releases that the suicide of Violet Sharpe, a maid in the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, virtually solved the kidnapping, and added that he was sure he had made no such statement.

One of his press releases after the maid's suicide, as printed in the newspapers of the time, said in part:

"The suicide of Violet Sharpe strongly tends to confirm the suspicions of the investigating authorities concerning her guilty knowledge of the crime against Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr."

Attorney General David T. Wilentz argued that the records asked would be "a truckload." C. Lloyd Fisher of defense counsel retorted they could be brought to court in a briefcase.

"This is one of the major factors of the case bearing on the question of criminality involved," Fisher told the court.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz expressed surprise the taxi driver Moses had this knowledge that he had been a radio dancer, runner in Wall Street, plumber's helper, farmer and many other jacks of trade.

He also said he impersonated Will Rogers in a Flemington, N. J., radio broadcast, and to show how he did it he pulled his hair down over his forehead. The gesture filled the court with merriment.

The attorney general also produced an autograph book to show Moses' name among others of trial celebrities.

He asked next for Mrs. Hoff.

Mrs. Bertha Hoff, a little woman in a brown hat and black dress, came to the stand. She told of living in Brooklyn, but said she never lived in Manhattan or the Bronx.

Q. Did you spend some time on the farm of a man named Budreau?

A. Yes, in the summer of 1931.

The woman said she and her children spent about four weeks on the Budreau farm, near Lebanon.

Lebanon is about 12 miles north of Flemington, and approximately 20 miles from the Lindbergh Hopewell estate.

A witness told of moving to Germantown, L. I., after the summer on the Budreau farm.

Q. Now do you remember being visited in some part of 1933 by Budreau and another man?

A. Yes.

Q. When was it?

A. October. It was around Thanksgiving.

Q. But Thanksgiving is in November?

A. It must have been November, for we talked of Thanksgiving.

Q. Did you know the man who came with Budreau?

A. No.

Q. How long did they stay?

A. About half an hour.

Q. Is that the man who came with Budreau, chewing picture of Fisch?

A. Yes.

Q. Do you know the man?

A. Yes, Isador Fisch.

Q. Now, Mrs. Hoff, there is no doubt in your mind that Isador Fisch was the man?

A. No, sir.

Q. Did Isador Fisch have any bundles with him that day?

Wilentz objected that the "bundles" were not material to the case.

Reilly asserted that the defense sought to prove that Fisch tried to get rid of his "bundles" in some other place.

Wilentz interposed, asserting that the testimony had no relation to the package Fisch allegedly left at the Hauptmann home.

Reilly, flushing, said, "We may as well have the issue out right now."

"During the day if I can get my witnesses here from New York, I hope to prove Isador Fisch was the man who jumped over the (Woodlawn) cemetery fence; that he received the money from Dr. Condon."

"I am going to prove how he tried to dispose of that money. I am going to trace every connection of Fisch with that money until he took a boat for Germany."

His voice rising, Reilly declared he would bring out that Fisch sought to leave the money package "with this witness and others" before he finally placed it in Hauptmann's custody.

Wilentz remarked dryly as he finished, "I can find nothing wrong in the counsel's statement, but the state is confident he will never prove anything like that."

"I can find no fault with counsel's assertion he is going to prove it," Wilentz interrupted, "but the question is the materiality of evidence of a woman who never saw Fisch before and didn't know what the bundles contained."

"I failed to see the materiality now," ruled Justice Trenchard.

Reilly asked permission to withdraw the witness temporarily, while he developed another way of presenting the testimony.

MARKET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Feb. 5. (AP)—The stock market was still burdened with gold clause doubts today and the list, as a whole, drifted to further lower levels. The utilities and some other leaders showed fair resistance, but they were unable to lift themselves very far out of the rut the close was rather heavy. Transfers approximated 550,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 5. (AP)—Grain prices today touched new low marks of the current downturn and in some cases of the season in a market weakened by the steady pressure of small selling orders. A break in the Liverpool wheat market was followed by liquidation here but later Chicago prices firmed to slightly above the previous close.

Prevailing uncertainty pending issuance of the supreme court's gold clause decision limited activity to cautious operations.

Wheat closed 1/4 lower to 1/2 higher compared with yesterday's finish.

May 94 1/2, and corn was unchanged to 1/4 up, May 82 1/2. Oats were unchanged to 1/4 up, rye 1/4-1/2 lower and barley unchanged to 1 cent down. Provisions were steady.

Girl He Wood Turns on Accused

The girl to whom Maj. Charles A. Shepard is alleged to have written about their anticipated marriage only a few hours before his second wife died will be a star government witness when the retired U. S. army officer again goes to trial on a poison murder charge in Topeka federal court Jan. 28. She is Grace Brandon, left, Brooks field, Tex., stenographer whom Shepard is said to have showered with gifts. Shepard is shown at right with his third wife, formerly Mrs. Alice J. Watt, wealthy Denver widow. Shepard was convicted in his first trial, but won a U. S. supreme court reversal.
