Apartment fixup help promised by Congressman

By NOBLE B. YOUNG
SDN Staff Writer

Promising to give the situation his personal attention, U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm of Stamford spent about 45 minutes Wednesday listening to complaints from tenants of the federally-subsidized Park Village Apartments here.

Problems at the South College Ave. complex — built in 1973 with money borrowed from the Federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) — surfaced publicly in October when Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell ordered electrical service to one of the complex's six buildings shut off.

This action followed a small electrical fire in the building and the discovery of water in the conduit carrying electrical wiring.

Earlier that month, tenants had complained to the city about leaking roof problems. These complaints had prompted city officials to warn the develoment's owners of their intent to issue citations for local building code violations.

Three tenants were still living in the apartment building where electricity was ordered shut off. It remains vacant with power shut off.

Stenholm's visit to the complex Wednesday was prompted by letters from the remaining residents of the complex asking for his assistance in getting HUD to intervene with the property owner — listed as W.J. Sheppard of Big Spring.

The federal government, through HUD, is the lein holder on the development and the complex has served to provide low income housing for a number of elderly residents through rent subsidies administered through HUD.

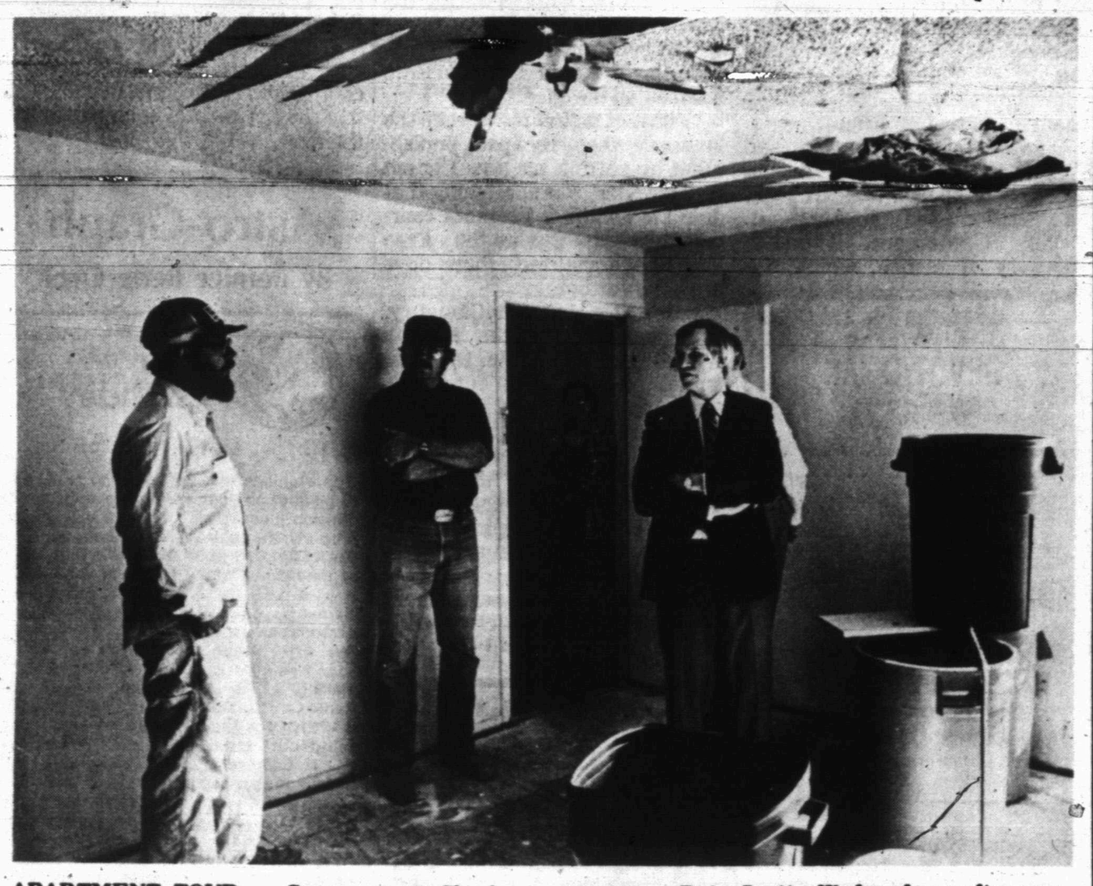

Tenants of the Park Village are, according to manager Pat Scott, currently paying rents ranging from $56 per month — a single woman with social security income of some $300 per month — to $300 for a non-subsidized family in a three-bedroom apartment.

Stenholm first met with a group of tenants and the resident managers of the complex to hear complaints about a lack of repairs to the buildings.

Scott told the congressman that only 34 of the complex's 62 units are now rented due to the leaking roofs.

She also told the congressman that a number of the currently occupied units would likley not be rented again after the current residents move out.

Committee slots sought...

Stenholm-O'Neill will meet

By DONNY BROWN
SDN Managing Editor

U.S. Rep. Charles Stenholm — the "Boll Weevil" Democrat who has publicly challenged Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill for his speaker of the house position — said here Wednesday he would meet with O'Neill Friday in an attempt to gain "concessions" from the Boston-based Democratic leader.

Stenholm said he would attempt to gain from O'Neill "a share of the committee assignments" for his fellow Democrats who, in his words, "believe as I do, in fiscal responsibility."

The local representatives from the 17th Congressional District called this "a must," adding "Otherwise, we'll go ahead with our plans for Monday."

This was a reference to the caucus of House Democrats slated Dec. 3 which will result in the election of leaders for the coming Congressional session.

Stenholm referred to current committee assignments in the U.S. House as "stacked." He said O'Neill, who was first elected speaker in 1977, has loaded the membership of such powerful groups as the Energy Committee, the Budget Committee and the Ways and Means Committee with elected officials "contrary to the philosophy of the 17th District."

Regarding his own chances of defeating O'Neill next Monday, Stenholm asked then answered his own question by saying, "Where are we today — very short on votes."

He likened the process to "paddling up stream with a mighty short paddle," but assured the crowd "I am not alone" in the effort to unseat the speaker.

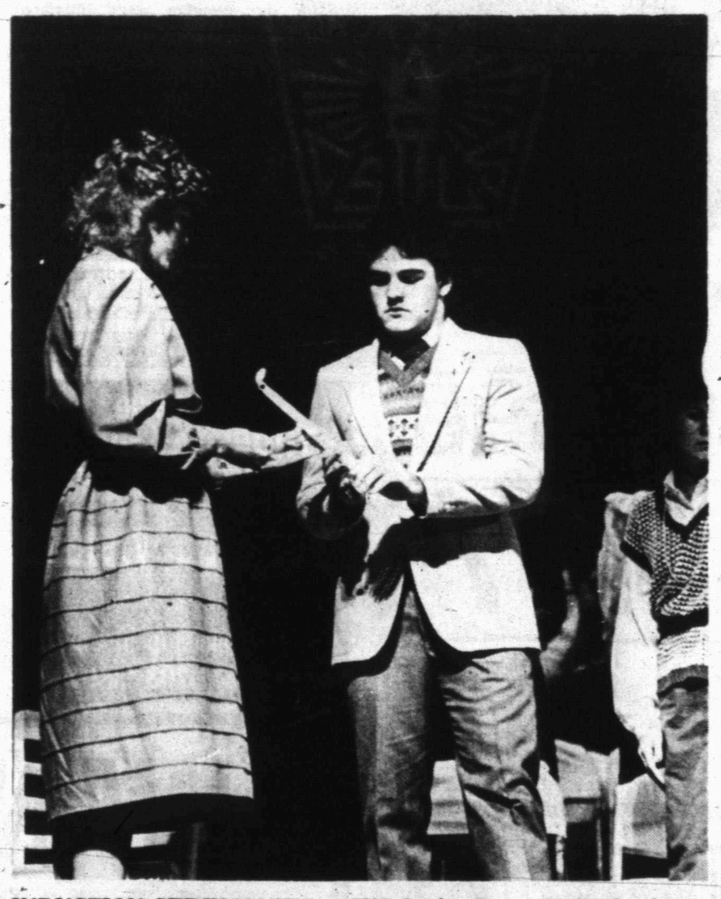

"Others in Congress have said, 'we agree with you, but...,'" Stenholm said.

He noted references to O'Neill's announced plans to retire in two more years and a general attitude of "wait and see."

But Stenholm echoed his original intent with a reference to

32 new members inducted by NHS

Thirty-two Snyder High School students — 28 juniors and four seniors — were inducted into the SHS National Honor Society Wednesday.

The honorary membership recognizes both the student's scholastic ability — to include at least a 4.0 average (90 or above) — as well as the qualities of character, leadership and service.

The 32 inductees now join 20 fellow members of the NHS, all seniors.

At Wednesday's ceremony, Jeff Featherson, president of the SHS chapter, served as master of ceremonies.

An "explanation of qualifications" was first offered by four current NHS members. Topics included "character," given by Shana Hart; "scholarship," by Kevin Boyd, "leadership," by David Jackson; and "service," by Wendy Lunsford.

Other NHS members on the program inclued Bob Spikes and Sue Smylie, who sang accompanied by Sonya Adams on the piano, and Sabrina Sullivan, who offered the closing prayer.

The presentation of new members was completed by Becky Gray, vice president of the chapter; and Janetta Pylant, secretary.

Senior inductees were Teresa

Planetarium show Sunday

"A Christmas Star" has been scheduled for two showings Sunday in the planetarium at Western Texas College.

Shows are scheduled for 1:30 and 2:30 p.m. A third show will be given at 3:30 p.m. if there is sufficient demand.

There is no charge for admission to the planetarium. Those wishing to attend are reminded they must be seated before each show begins and are to remain throughout the 30-minute show.

The planetarium presentation is part of the Scurry County Museum's Christmas Happening which gets underway at 1 and continues until 4 p.m. The Diamond M Museum will present "A Musical Christmas" from 1 until 5 p.m.

State fund formula 'moot' for local ISD

A new state fund formula approved Monday by the finance committee of the State Board of Education has drawn favorable responses from area administrators, but school officials here note it would not affect Snyder.

The formula applies for schools eligible for "minimum foundation funds" through the state, and at least one published news report Thursday indicated it might spell as much as $476,000 more in state funds for Snyder.

Superintendent Bob Hawes noted Thursday morning, however, that the report was inaccurate since Snyder — due to its being classified as a budget balanced school — does not qualify for such funds.

Using figures which follow the proposed new formula — which would not be implemented until the fall of 1985 — area newspaper reports indicated Snyder might go from $1,356 per student to $1,487. This would then be applied to a "weighted" student count of 3,635 students.

"It's a moot point," Hawes noted, "since we don't qualfiy for these funds anyway."

A budget balance school district classification basically means the district is supported through local tax funds alone — a designation based upon its ability

The feller on Deep Creek says, "A frustration of the times is finding out it's absolutely impossible to economize without doing without something."

Dennis Chisum and Ray Max Grimmett have been working around the clock trying to get the finishing touches on their new motel and restaurant, Willow Park Inn.

It was hoped that the facility, located on the U.S.84 Bypass, would be opened by the end of November. Like many projects, the finish working is taking longer than expected.

You can be assured, the facility is going to be nice. Such a large project is not without its stressful times, therefore both Chisum and Grimmett have had to look for humor in order to maintain sanity.

A couple of weeks ago, just an event happened. For some reason, however, Chisum enjoyed the humor better than Grimmett.

Dennis was talking with one of the subcontractors who responded to Dennis, "That's not what your father told me."

"My father? He doesn't work around here," said Chisum. "Who are you talking about?"

"Oh you know, that graying fellow named Ray."

We noticed that Cabbage Patch dolls are again the hot item for Christmas. Some folks have said to be on waiting lists since last March. And those who have the dolls can now send them to summer camp and there's a woman in Dallas who has opened up a beauty salon just for the Cabbage Patch group.

In case you're not into dolls, there are a variety of Trivia games popping up. In our case, we hope to get a new tie and some clean socks.

We did, however, find the perfect gift for ole what's-her-name. In view of her cooking ability, it's an ideal selection...a self-flushing oven.

Ask Us

Q. — What is the current status of the Snyder High School track field?

A. — Contractors for the project have told school officials that if the weather holds through the weekend, the resurfacing project could be completed by Sunday.

In Brief

Note decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's main economic forecasting gauge declined 0.7 percent last month, marking the first time since the recession year of 1981 that it had dropped in as many as three out of five months, the Commerce Department reported today.

Similar series of declines have sometimes preceded recessions — as in fact happened in 1981 — but Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige has noted that long strings of falling indicators have also sometimes been followed by a mere slowing rather than a halt in economic growth.

Baldrige called today's report on the Index of Leading Economic Indicators "disappointing," but he also said he expected improvement next month and declared, "We are not heading into another recession.

Pick leader

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Rodolfo Felix Valdes, the soft-spoken Communications and Transport Secretary, has been named the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party's candidate for governor of northwestern Sonora state in a tough election scheduled for July 5.

The party's state executive committee chairman, Daniel Acosta Cazares, made the announcement at a news conference at the state capital of Hermosillo, saying Valdes was chosen Tuesday at a secret caucus of the party leadership.

Gulf summit

KUWAIT (AP) — Arab rulers in the oil-rich Persian Gulf plan to set up a joint high command and military force, under the leadership of Saudi Arabian generals, to guard against spillover of the Iran-Iraq war, officials said today.

The Gulf News Agency said the plan was aimed at the "ultimate unification of all armed forces" of Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Qatar, the United Arab Emirates, Bahrain and Oman.

Trespass trial ends in legal landmark

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — It was a routine trespassing charge when 26 political protesters occupied a congressman's office, but the protesters and the jury that cleared them turned the case into a legal landmark.

To the charge of unlawful trespass, the 26 had a simple answer: We know it was against the law, but we had no choice.

A necessity defense, it's called in the courtroom. Breaking the law is justified if committed to prevent a greater evil, the argument goes.

Usually, though, juries aren't persuaded.

In this case, the jurors did agree. After an emotional five-day trial that featured debates on the First Amendment and international law, the jurors acquitted the 26 of wrongdoing in their March protest of U.S. involvement in Central America.

Some applauded the trial and the verdict as an affirmation of freedom of speech and the right to petition the government. Others condemned it as a mockery of justice, which will become a stumbling block for law enforcers and encourage civil disobedience.

"This was awfully good for Vermont and hopefully it will be good for all of us," said former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, a New York lawyer who was a defense witness during the trial.

"It's certainly not a good situation," said Kevin Bradley, who prosecuted the case.

"The fact is that they broke the law and then escaped punishment by putting the government on trial. That was something that didn't belong in a Vermont courtroom," the Burlington Free Press editorialized four days after the verdict.

Vermonter John McClaughry, a former aide in the Reagan White House, evaluated the trial's impact in a futuristic, tongue-in-cheek op-ed page article in the Free Press.

He predicted "a veritable carnival of trespassing" that would begin with anti-abortionists taking over health clinics and hospital obstetric delivery rooms to stop all abortions.

"And so it went, with every organization in the city busily organizing sit-ins and demonstrations to protest or shut down various activities they found repugnant," McClaughry wrote.

The protesters' case began eight months ago when about 50 people took picket signs and their anger over Central America to the Winooski office of U.S. Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt.

They were told they could occupy the suite in a posh business complex for the weekend, but that Stafford would not meet with them.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I was raised in a good Christian home. There was no drinking, no smoking, no cursing and no dirty talk. I was brought up to avoid people with bad habits, but the man I married had me fooled with his sweet talk and the God-fearing act he put on.

A year after we were wed, I learned that he was being unfaithful to me. I was already pregnant, so there was no leaving him. I forgave him and had four more children, and now, after 52 years of marriage, he is no better, he's worse. He drank a good bit, which put a stone wall so thick between us that I couldn't get over or through it. His foul mouth, vile temper and cheating ways are shown only in private.

He has never shown me one bit of tenderness or consideration. I am just a convenience for him, but I took a vow to stay with him till death do us part, and with God's help, I will.

I am starved for love, but I just get on my knees and ask the Lord to keep me strong enough to keep from killing him.

Abby, this man preaches the gospel of Christ! He sins all week and preaches on the Sabbath. He is well-respected in the community and is good at fooling people because he preaches the word of the Lord. How do I handle this mess? I'm 69 and he's 74.

ON MY KNEES IN SOUTH CAROLINA

DEAR ON: You seem able to handle "this mess" very well. If prayer and your faith in the Lord keep you strong, keep right on praying. Come Judgment Day, that gospel-preaching hypocrite will have to face his Creator and account for his actions.

DEAR ABBY: I have some advice that might help some parents. Don't push your children through school too fast. I did, and now I'm sorry. Our oldest son graduated from high school when he was barely 17. Now he's gone away to college and his room is empty. What was our rush?

He was always a fine student and ahead of his classmates, but I'm afraid we encouraged him to skip grades because we were so proud of him. If I could turn back the clock, I would have kept him in classes with children his own age.

I don't expect to see this in print, Abby. I guess I just needed someone to hear my heartache.

DAVID'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Perhaps you shouldn't have sent him away to college at such an early age, but please don't regret not holding him back in school.

Children who are far ahead of their classmates intellectually become bored. To have kept him in classes with children his age wouldn't have been fair to him.

DEAR ABBY: I think my husband is an alcoholic, but he says he can't be because he doesn't drink "hard liquor"—only beer. Abby, that man puts away from five to 10 cans of beer at one sitting. He's been drinking beer at that rate for the last 20 years, and I can see him changing before my eyes.

Please ask your experts if a person who drinks only beer can be an alcoholic. And put your answer in the paper because I'm sure there are a lot of people who think drinking beer is harmless.

MRS. L. IN OLD BRIDGE, N.J.

DEAR MRS. L.: The alcoholic content of one 12-ounce can of beer (regular, not "light") is equal to the alcoholic content of one "shot" (1 1/2 ounces) of 80-proof whiskey—or 5 ounces of table wine.

So one who drinks a six-pack of beer has consumed as much alcohol as he would have had he drunk six drinks of bourbon or vodka—or six cocktails, meaning martinis, old-fashioneds, margaritas or whatever.

And yes, a person who drinks only beer can be an alcoholic as surely as the person who drinks only whiskey.

Speaker warm to horse racing

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — House Speaker Gib Lewis says he is warming to the idea of horse race betting in Texas because of the current state revenue crunch and the boost it would get from the state's share of pari-mutuel betting.

At the same time, the Fort Worth Democrat said he's not as sold on the merits of a state lottery.

Lewis' comments to reporters came after a conference for new legislators Wednesday at the capitol.

State Comptroller Bob Bullock issued a warning Wednesday that falling oil prices could cut state income and intensify the search for budget cuts or new taxes.

Lewis said new taxes are "totally out of the question," the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported. Instead, he said, he is looking for several ways of raising revenue that would not involve tax hikes.

A pari-mutuel horse race betting measure failed by two votes in the House in 1983, and some lawmakers have introduced lottery bills as a potential revenue raiser.

"I'm not as warm to a lottery as I'd like to be. Pari-mutuel, I'm pretty warm to, because not only would the tax revenue we would receive from pari-mutuel be significant, but (so would) the side products from that industry," Lewis said.

The "side products" include additional tourism and new business for the feed industry, he said.

While some lawmakers have said increased taxes will be necessary in Texas soon, Lewis has contended the budget can be cut enough to avoid new taxes on top of the $4.8 billion tax bill passed in July.

"It's not going to be easy. No one said it was going to be easy," Lewis said.

Lewis said he is looking at several other partial solutions to the revenue crunch besides horse racing.

One is a proposal called the Cavness Plan, which would allow the direct expenditure of part of the oil and gas income from state lands dedicated to public schools.

The income now flows into the Permanent School Fund for investment. Bullock has estimated the plan would make about $591 million available for spending in 1986-87.

Get the most for your money

By James Jacoby

If winning one out of two finesses will bring in a slam contract, then it's worth bidding. It's even better if you can improve those chances.

When South heard his partner bid four clubs, that was enough for him to try a slam, despite the lead-directing double from East. Because of that double, declarer did not even consider taking the club finesse on the opening lead. Instead, he rose with the club ace, played A-K of spades and led a heart to the king. Next he trumped a low spade in his hand, felling the spade queen. South then returned to dummy to discard his losing club on the established spade jack. If the diamond finesse had worked, there would have been an overtrick.

Even without the double of four clubs, declarer should refuse the club finesse. There is always the chance that the queen of spades may fall on the third round. Even if it does not, declarer will be able to ruff out the spades before exiting with a club. Then if West has the club king, he will be forced to lead diamonds into declarer's A-Q. If East has the club king, declarer has lost nothing, since he will still be able to fall back on the diamond finesse.

Copycat duck sauce good served with other foods

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Food Editor

DEAR CECILY: When my husband and I bring food home from a nearby Chinese restaurant, there are always packets of Duck Sauce included. Can you copycat the Duck Sauce? We enjoy serving it as a relish with dishes other than Chinese ones, and I should like to try making it at home. — EXPERIMENTAL.

DEAR EXPERIMENTAL: I, too, have a Chinese restaurant in my neighborhood that also includes packets of Duck Sauce with take-out dishes. After reading the ingredients listed on the packet of sauce, I asked some friends who are professional cooks to duplicate it. Here is their recipe. It results in a sauce that is a golden color and has mild flavor, like the commercial one in the packet. — C.B.

COPYCAT CHINESE DUCK SAUCE

20-ounce package frozen peach slices, thawed and well drained
2-3rds cup water
½ cup dark corn syrup
1-3rd cup cider vinegar
¼ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground coriander
¼ teaspoon ground ginger
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
¼ teaspoon onion powder
⅛ teaspoon ground allspice
⅛ teaspoon crushed dried red pepper

In a 2-quart saucepan stir together peaches, water, syrup, vinegar, sugar, salt, coriander, ginger, garlic powder, onion powder, allspice and red pepper. Stirring occasionally over medium heat, bring to a boil and boil gently for 15 minutes.

In an electric blender, puree half the fruit mixture until smooth — about 1 minute; return to saucepan. Repeat with remaining half of fruit mixture. Stirring occasionally, cook over medium heat until syrupy — about 15 minutes. Cool. Store in tightly covered containers in refrigerator.

Makes about 2½ cups.

Note: When fresh peaches are available they may be substituted for the frozen ones. In this case you will need about 1¼ pounds ripe peaches — peeled, pitted and sliced to make about 2½ cups.

Doctor deplores demand

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A Lufkin doctor says he is astonished that a Fort Worth hospital required a guarantee of payment from another medical center before accepting premature twin girls whose parents had no insurance to pay for medical care.

The tiny girls were born about 15 minutes apart starting at 4 a.m. Tuesday at Woodland Heights Hospital in Lufkin. The hospital was not equipped to care for the babies, said Dr. George Thannisch, the pediatrician who delivered the babies.

Thannisch said he spent three hours after the birth trying to find a neonatal intensive care unit that would take the infants, who were born about 12 weeks premature.

Six hospitals in Louisiana and Texas rejected the tiny infants, he said, and Fort Worth Children's Hospital accepted them only on the condition that Woodland Heights guarantee payment of the medical bill.

"I've never heard of that happening before in almost 30 years as a doctor — having another hospital guarantee payment," Thannisch said.

The other hospitals he called "all said they were full, but I doubt that," he said. "I guarantee you, if they had had money, somebody would have had space," Thannisch told the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The twins, Sasha and Natasha Landrum were born to Willie and William Landrum of Groveton, both 17 years old, with no money and no medical insurance, the newspaper said.

Sasha weighed 2 pounds and one-half ounce, and her twin sister Natasha weighed 2 pounds and 2 ounces, Thannisch said. Each requires an individual nurse 24 hours a day, Ms. Harper said.

Dr. Michael Stanley, medical director for the neo-natal intensive care unit at the hospital, said the care could cost up to $100,000 each for 12 weeks of care.

Exercise can flatten stomach

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am 23 and have had four children. When I had my last child two years ago, I put on a lot of weight. I have been exercising and not eating much food ever since. I've done very well, but I just can't seem to flatten my stomach. It really sticks out like a sore thumb. Do you have some exercises that could help me lose this bulge? I know I'll never get it as flat as it was before, but is there any hope of flattening it a little so it doesn't look so bad?

DEAR READER — Of course you can do something about it. You have lost weight, but you may still have excess body fat. It seems there are special places that are the hardest to reduce, and the waistline is one of them.

If you still have any fat under your skin, such as a roll around the waist, you can lose fat and help reduce your abdomen. You can do this with a combination of a diet to control calories and a major increase in exercise. Walking is a good exercise for using calories. Build up to walking as much as you can every day. You can do other exercises, too, but moderate exercise like walking, which you can do for a long duration, is often the most useful in helping a person lose weight.

You need to do sit-up exercises. Do these with your knees bent, or put your feet up on a chair or couch. That way, you will use your abdominal muscles rather than your hip-bending muscles. Many people who do sit-ups either tuck their feet under something to hold them or have someone hold them. The result is that the hip-bending muscles are used to sit up, rather than the abdominal muscles.

Leg lifts are particularly useful for the lower abdomen. These can be too much for people with a weak back, so be careful in doing them. Keep your knees bent as you raise your knees up toward your chin. Don't try to lift your feet up with your knees straight, at least when you first start. You also need to do exercises to strengthen the muscles in your back, which help you to hold your posture upright without any slumping of the spine.

I have discussed these exercises in The Health Letter 17-12, Winning the Battle of the Bulge, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a deviated septum and the specialist would like to operate. He said I should consult a plastic surgeon if I also wanted my nose straightened. Now I'm confused. Can either doctor straighten my septum? The septum is deviated so much that the opening is very narrow and my nose dries out, sticks together and blocks my breathing.

DEAR READER — Both ear, nose and throat specialists (who are all surgeons) and plastic surgeons operate on the nose. Many ear, nose and throat specialists do cosmetic surgery on the nose, such as straightening or shortening it. Some do not care to do cosmetic surgery, but will operate to correct deviated septums or other abnormalities.

A plastic surgeon who does cosmetic surgery usually will also be able to correct the deviated septum. I suspect that your ear, nose and throat specialist was trying to tell you that if you want an improved appearance by straightening your nose, you should have a plastic surgeon perform both operations at the same time, but if you just wanted the septum straightened, he would do that for you. The choice is up to you, based on how much you want done.

Boosters offering weight clinic here

Snyder Booster Club is sponsoring a Strength, Conditioning and Motivation Weight Clinic here Saturday from 8:45 until 4:30 in Scurry County Coliseum.

Directing the clinic will be Dr. Greg Shepard, president of Bigger, Faster, Stronger, and conditioning coach of the Utah Jazz.

The clinic is open to the public. Those attending should be prepared to come for the entire clinic. There will be a 30 minute lunch break and everyone is urged to bring a sack lunch.

Registration will be at 8:45 a.m.

Dr. Shepard's list of credits includes president of Bigger, Faster, Stronger since 1976; coached Brigham Young to the 1973 weight lifting championship; 1976 Utah Coach of the Year; former strength coach at Oregon State, Brigham Young and the University of Oregon; and current conditioning coach for the NBA's Utah Jazz. In addition, he has been consultant to numerous professional, college and high school athletes.

Dr. Shepard will instruct on weight lifting techniques, nutrition, motivation and will set up individual weight lifting programs for each person.

He will also have discussion periods and answer questions concerning lifting, goal setting, diet, speed, agility, injuries, etc.

Tourney set here Friday, Saturday

Snyder will host the boy's Snyder Junior Varsity Basketball Tournament here Friday and Saturday at the high school gym.

Coach Bud Birks' Cats open the tourney by playing Odessa Permian at 2:30 Friday.

In other first-round action, Midland takes on Big Spring sophomores at 4, Lubbock Monterey meets Midland sophomores at 5:30 and San Angelo tries Big Spring junior varsity at 7.

Winner of the Snyder-Permian tilt plays the Monterey-Midland winner at 1:30 Saturday. Losers of the two games vie at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Western hosts NMMI in conference match

Western Texas College's Westerners are at home for the final time in 1984 tonight, taking on New Mexico Military Institute in an 8 o'clock conference ballgame at the coliseum.

The WTC Dusters also play tonight, but are in non-conference action at Weatherford. Tip-off for that game is 6.

Western Texas teams finish the 1984 portion of the season by playing in Big Spring on Monday and in Odessa on Thursday.

The Westerners take an 11-1 record into tonight's contest with the Broncos, picked as one of the stronger teams in the Western Athletic Conference this season. The Broncos are 6-1.

Both teams won their WJCAC openers earlier this week. NMMI topped Frank Phillips 73-66 while Western defeated South Plains, 95-83.

Western has used its depth to average five players in double figures. The Westerners, averaging 90.9 points a game and hitting 57 percent of their field goal attempts, are led by James Dawn's 16.8 points and 7.5 rebounds. Floyd Singleton is averaging 15.9 points, Alvin Hicks 12.1 and Victor Spencer 10.4. Lorand White had been putting up 12.1 points, but is still out with an injury.

WTC is giving up an average of 77 points.

NMMI is keyed by Johnny Wilson's 20 points, Chase Brown's 19 and Eric Adams' 11. Wilson is averaging 11 rebounds and Brown 7.6.

Coach for the Broncos is Dave "Soupy" Campbell.

The Broncos are averaging 75 points a game while shooting 52 per cent from the field. They are giving up 61.1 points.

"They are one of the stronger teams in the conference," said WTC Coach Phil Spradling of the Broncos. "We're in for a real battle."

The Westerners certainly won't be looking ahead to Monday night's game with Howard College, but it could be hard for the Dusters to keep from doing so.

"I don't really think it will be a problem," said Coach Joe Cushing, whose Dusters are 13-2 on the season, 1-0 in WJCAC play. "We're planning on taking one game at a time. Weatherford has the kind of team that can beat you if you're not ready for them."

In other men's WJCAC action tonight, Odessa is at Amarillo, Howard is at Frank Phillips, Clarendon is at NMJC and Midland is at South Plains. Women's games have Odessa at Amarillo, Howard at Frank Phillips and Clarendon at NMJC.

SDN Sports Editor

A lot of basketball fans have asked about the Canyon Reef Tournament which begins here next Thursday, Dec. 4.

A bracket for the three day tournament is pending, depending on the outcome of Friday's Jayton-Higgins six-man football contest. If Jayton wins the football game, it won't be able to attend the tournament. However, if they lose, they'll be here.

Regardless, Snyder is scheduled to open at 4 p.m. Thursday in the coliseum, against Big Spring.

Snyder basketball teams, that is the two college programs and the high school varsities. have a combined record of 27-6, which makes for a pretty good season of cage action by itself.

The college, off to another strong start in 1984, is 24-3 together.

By the way, those planning on getting out to see some Westerner basketball will note that tonight's 8 o'clock game with New Mexico Military Institute is the last home WTC game until January 14. The event is a "single-header" as Coach Joe Cushing's Dusters are in Weatherford tonight.

After this week, the Westerners and Dusters are on the road to Big Spring and Odessa next Monday and Thursday, then begin a month-long holiday break. They don't play again until early January and aren't at home until the 14th when they host Clarendon.

The Snyder Booster Club is sponsoring a weight clinic Saturday. The clinic starts at 8:45 and lasts until 4:30 with a 30 minute lunch break.

The clinic is open to anyone. Coaches are stressing, however, that those interested should plan on attending the entire clinic. It is not a "come and go" affair and it is for those who are seriously into - or at least seriously interested in - weight training, conditioning and nutrition.

The clinition, Dr. Greg Shepard, who is conditioning coach for the NBA's Utah Jazz, will also be setting up the weight training system for the off-season program at Snyder High School.

As you probably have heard, Snyder's Tony Degrate has been named to the Kodak All-America college football team. The elite squad is picked by the American Football Coaches Association.

Degrate, a Lombardi candidate as a defensive tackle for the University of Texas, was named along with teammate Jerry Gray from Lubbock. Also chosen was Texas Christian running back Kenneth Davis, from Temple.

Snyder's Brewster claims Youth Finals Rodeo title

FORT WORTH – Snyder's Adam Brewster won the bull riding championship at the Youth National Finals Rodeo, held in the Fort Worth Cowtown Coliseum over the weekend.

Brewster, who has won at numerous high school and American Junior Rodeo Association events over the past two years, was the first bull rider to ride four bulls in the competition.

The competition pits the top two cowboys and cowgirls in each category from various associations such as the AJRA, Lone Star High School Rodeo Association, the Oklahoma and North Texas Rodeo Association, the Western States Junior Rodeo Association and the Little Britches NRA.

Brewster was second nationally in the AJRA this year.

The teenager's top competition was AJRA champion Jim Sharp of Kermit. Brewster went into the finals winning second place. Sharp bucked off in the finals but Brewster stayed aboard to cop the Youth National Finals Rodeo title.

Overall, the AJRA won the championship for the third straight year. The AJRA National Finals Rodeo is held in Snyder each year.

Kingsville native Mike Carrillo, a student at Western Texas College, won second in the bareback competition at the YNFR here. Carrillo will be competing on the WTC rodeo team next semester.

Bliss Mayhan, from Kim, Colo., also a WTC student, won the first-go in the bareback but was bucked off in the fourth go-round.

Girls set for Crane tourney

CRANE -- Coach Ken Housden's Lady Tigers hope to extend their winning streak to four games as they enter competition in the Crane Tournament here Friday.

The Tigers, 3-0, are scheduled to play Canutillo at 3:30 p.m.

Winner of the game will play at 10:30 a.m. Saturday against either Crane or Van Horn. The loser vies at 9 a.m. Saturday.

Boys to entertain Bobcats

Coach Larry Scott's Tigers tee it up here again Friday night, taking on San Angelo Central at 8 o'clock in the coliseum.

No junior varsity game will be held in conjunction with the game because the underclassmen will be hosting the Snyder Junior Varsity Tournament.

The Tigers are 0-3 on the season but have shown improvement each time out.

Coach Scott said San Angelo's Bobcats are tall, but not as quick or fast as some of the Tigers' previous opponents.

Spieker squad plays Friday

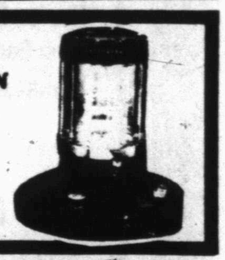

Coach Clarence Spieker, formerly at Hermleigh High School, will be helping direct New Castle against Abbott in the six-man football playoff action at 7:30 Friday in Commanche.

Bell dies

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Ricky Bell, a standout running back at the University of Southern California from 1974-76 who later played six years in the National Football League, died of a cardiac arrest, a spokeswoman at Southern Cal said. He was 29.

William Ruckelhaus leaving EPA post again

WASHINGTON (AP) — William D. Ruckelshaus, who was the first head of the Environmental Protection Agency and then returned when it was foundering, is abruptly leaving again, contending "the ship called EPA is righted and is now steering a steady course."

Several important Democratic members of Congress said they weren't so sure it is a friendly departure, citing the simultaneous departure of Ruckelshaus' top aide and the prospects of potential EPA budget cuts by the Reagan administration.

But Ruckelshaus, interviewed on the NBC-TV "Today" show this morning, said his resignation was "very straight-forward" and had nothing to do with the agency's budget, with White House environmental priorities or with any desire on his part for another job in the administration.

Ruckelshaus said "I haven't decided what I'm going to do" and will ponder his future over the next several weeks.

Earlier, White House spokesman Larry Speakes said he expected Ruckelshaus' successor to be announced "in the next few days."

Speculation on a replacement began almost immediately and three people were said to be in the top tier: Henry Diamond, a Washington lawyer and former aide to New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller; Ann McLaughlin, deputy secretary of Interior, and Lee Thomas, a career federal employee who is the assistant EPA administrator in charge of the "superfund" toxic waste dump cleanup program.

Two sources, speaking on condition they not be identified, said Thomas was Ruckelshaus' candidate for the job.

Ruckelshaus had been back at the EPA since May 1983, when he was summoned by President Reagan to set about rebuilding morale and getting staffers back to work amid unprecedented turmoil over the controversial policies of his predecessor, Anne Burford.

In his letter of resignation, Ruckelshaus said he was leaving with "both regret and a sense of accomplishment."

In accepting the resignation "with great regret," Reagan told Ruckelshaus, "You have made absolutely clear our commitment to wise stewardship of the environment" and added that Ruckelshaus had "justified fully the faith which I and so many Americans have in you."

Ruckelshaus said "the ship called EPA is righted and is now steering a steady course," with "first-rate presidential appointees" in place and momentum behind its programs.

A top agency official, who spoke on condition that he not be identified, said after learning of the decision, "This is not a Saturday night massacre," referring to Ruckelshaus' first resignation from the government in 1973.

On that occasion, Ruckelshaus resigned as deputy attorney general rather than fire special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

A close associate of Ruckelshaus said Wednesday night, "He is not leaving with any sense of discontent or disillusionment. He really does feel good about it. He feels he's accomplished what he set out to do."

Others noted that Ruckelshaus had always stressed that he had no commitment to stay beyond the presidential elections.

Charles II of England and Scotland was crowned at Scone in 1651. His coronation came two years after his father had been executed by the parliamentary court.

to tax.

The minimun foundation funds were added in late 1940s as a means of adding additional state funds for school districts with smaller natural tax bases, Hawes noted.

Snyder ISD does receive state monies, but these are derived from the Permanent School Fund and are paid based upon the number of students attending class.

Misdemeanor drug arrest here

Police jailed six suspects on various misdemeanor charges Wednesday.

Two local men were jailed for misdemeanor possession of marijuana late Wednesday night. In addition, three others were taken into custody on misdemeanor warrants issued for various unpaid fines.

One man was jailed for public intoxication.

Reopen missing couple investigation

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Several months after reopening an investigation into the mysterious 1957 disappearance of an El Paso couple, a lawman says he has "a good idea" who may have killed them.

But chances are slim he can ever get a grand jury indictment, since he doesn't have a confession, and the bodies of W.D. "Pat" Patterson and his wife, Margaret, were never found, he said.

Sheriff's detective Capt. Fred Bonilla emerged Wednesday from a meeting with Assistant District Attorney Bill Moody and said the case is "definitely not ready" to go to a grand jury.

"We requested their assistance and asked that if we have trouble getting witnesses to talk that they subpoena them and bring them to grand jury," Bonilla told the El Paso Times.

Bonilla reopened the case in January after receiving new information about the March 6, 1957 disappearance of the Pattersons. Bonilla declined to say what the new information was.

Detective Lt. Garry Gabbert, who is helping in the investigation, said the information that prompted the reopening of the case came from a witness who "was not close to the Pattersons and is completely removed from the case."

Moody said he doubts that a county grand jury will ever hear evidence of murder in the case. He would not even consider a murder indictment, Moody said, unless investigators could dig up the bodies, get a confession to the killings or find a witness who saw the Pattersons dead.

"Without one of those that I just mentioned, there's no point of taking it to the grand jury," Moody said.

But Bonilla, who said he has none of the three, said he is sure the Pattersons were murdered "and I've got a good idea who did it."

Bonilla said sheriff's detectives will begin searching soon for the bodies on Crazy Cat Mountain, which is in the back yard of the former Patterson home.

"If they're not in this location, then forget about the bodies," he said. "As for a confession, we can't even talk about that."

In 1964, a court declared the couple dead and divided their $74,000 estate among 15 heirs, the Times reported.

Gabbert and Bonilla are critical of the way the El Paso city and county handled the investigation in 1957. The Pattersons were not reported missing for five months, they said.

"They should have started immediately with the house. I would have found plenty of evidence to show that the Pattersons had been murdered," Bonilla said.

"A logical place to look for the bodies is right behind the house in that mountain area. But in 27 years, there's been a lot of construction. Possibly the bodies will never be found."

The investigators say they have found nothing suspicious inside the Patterson home.

Help promised at apartments

Brad Kaelin — a 14-month resident of the complex serving as spokesman for the tenant group — told Stenholm he had been told by longtime residents that the roofs have leaked water since first built.

Stenholm told the group he had contacted HUD officials in Washington about their problems and to expect an inspection of the complex by HUD officials in the near future.

He told the residents that the apartments appear to be too nice a development to simply abandon.

Stenholm also offered an assurance that he would personally take charge to see that all possible solutions to the problem are examined.

An option mentioned by Stenholm following the meeting with residents would be for HUD, acting as the lien holder on the complex, to intervene and directly take over the management and administration of the complex.

Parking lot wrecks occur

Two minor traffic mishaps were reported in Snyder Wednesday, both on College Ave. parking lots.

The Sonic Drive-in was the scene of the first mishap at 4 p.m.

Involved in it were a 1982 Chevrolet driven by Cody Bryan Foster of Memphis, Tx. and a 1984 Chevrolet driven by William Sterling Jennings of Snyder.

The Safeway parking lot was the scene of the second accident at 8:19 p.m.

According to police reports, a parked 1979 Chevrolet owned by Benny Castillo of 1404 Ave. K was struck by a 1974 Mercury driven by Christopher Thompson 812 32nd St.

the Friday meeting. "If I do not receive sufficient assurances, I intend to go to the floor and take what votes I can get."

Stenholm was speaking to a combined gathering of Snyder civic clubs and interested individuals. Clubs whose members were represented included the Lions, Rotary, Kiwanis, Golden K and Jaycees.

Room A of the Scurry County Coliseum was filled to capacity to hear the 46-year-old Stenholm. A crowd in excess of 200 was estimated.

Store announces two local winners

Town and Counry Food Stores has announced the Snyder prize winners in the 100th store promotion completed in October. A drawing for 104 prizes from approximately 112,000 registrants was held in San Angelo recently.

Snyder winners and their prizes are David Brooks, 100 gallons of gasoline and Fred Morales, $100 in cash.

Mike Rodriguez honor reported

The National Secondary Education Council has announced that Michael Rodriguez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Rodriguez of Snyder, has been named an Academic All-American. He is also the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Melchor of Snyder.

The NSEC has established the Academic All-American Scholar Award Program in order to offer deserved recognition to the superior students who excel in the academic disciplines. The AAA scholars must earn a 3.3 or better grade point average.

Rodriguez was nominated by Brenda Otto, English teacher. He currently attends Western Texan College.
