President Says Reds Must Not Pass Yangtze

CANTON —(AP)— Acting President Li Tsung-jen today warned the Communists must not cross the Yangtze River if they want peace. Li then took off for Kweilin.

The acting President said a Red attack on Nanking and Shanghai south of the river would end efforts for peace negotiations.

Li's departure was much more cordial than his reception. He came here to try to persuade Premier Sun Fo and the Cabinet to return to Nanking. At first Sun appeared cold toward Li. But he and the Cabinet saw the acting President off at the airfield.

(In Hong Kong Professor Wu Yu-hao, spokesman for an unofficial Nanking peace delegation, said he and two companions hoped to accompany Sun Fo back to Nanking within three days. The three were in Hong Kong to try to lay before South China Communist leaders Sun's ideas for peace. Any "exchange of ideas" resulting from the Hong Kong visit will be reported to Li and Sun Fo, Wu said.)

The acting President's warning that a Communist river crossing would prevent any peace negotiations was made at a reception. Later Li presided over a Cabinet meeting at which he expressed confidence the government could stabilize the national economy.

"All we must do is strive for better governmental administration," Li said. He added that the entire gold yuan issue now in circulation could be redeemed with $20 million U. S.

Right wing Kuomintang boss Chen Li-fu, who came here reportedly to bolster Sun Fo's Canton bloc, said he would depart for his home at Wuhsiang, near

Rent Control Is Denounced

Members of the Pampa Real Estate Board met yesterday at noon at the Court House Cafe for their bi-monthly luncheon meeting.

The board at the last luncheon meeting decided to have a resolution drawn denouncing rent control. A copy of the resolution has been mailed to each rent control board in this vicinity.

Jim Arndt read a letter from Porter L. Oakes, executive secretary of the Texas Real Estate Association, urging members of real estate boards to write their congressmen in support of House bill 145 which "puts the teeth" in the Real Estate License Law Amendment.

The letter read in part: "Our bill was introduced in the House of Representatives in the Texas Legislature this week and will be referred to the State Affairs Committee for action at an early date . . . We cannot impress upon you too strongly the absolute necessity for thoroughly acquainting each member of the State Affairs Committee with the merits of our bill."

Oakes went on to say it is imperative that realtors impress the merits of the bill on members of the House of Representatives.

Attending yesterday's board meeting were: John I. Bradley, president, H. T. Hampton, Wade Duncan, C. H. Mundy, John Ketler, Ray Duncan, Aubrey Steele and Arndt.

Solon Group to Fight Against Weakening of Atlantic Pact

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A group of senators prepared today to fight any move which might water down the terms of the proposed Atlantic defense treaty in Senate debate.

Five members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said privately they are ready to demand individually the strongest sort of pledge possible — short of an automatic war declaration — that this country will back its friends in Europe if they are threatened by Communist aggression.

It is their view that the tentative treaty language on this point, as shown the Senate Foreign Relations Committee last week by Secretary of State Acheson, is satisfactory — if it is not weakened in Senate debate.

The exact language has remained secret but an influential Democratic senator said it will give signatory nations assurances the United States will not stand idly by in case of attack.

Some other senators said they fear the drive to get approval of the treaty by the necessary two-thirds Senate vote might bring some between-the-lines interpretations that would destroy its usefulness as a psychological weapon.

Senator Vandenberg, (R-Mich.), already has told the Senate what he thinks about the psychological value of the proposed agreement between this country, Canada, Great Britain, France, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

He said, in effect, that any country probably will hesitate to move in a military way so long as there is treaty notice that the United States will take a vital interest in any agression.

But Senator Donnel (R-Mo.) already has made it plain he will insist that there be no advance commitment—even an implied one—that this country will fight.

Donnell told a reporter he hasn't seen the language submitted to the Foreign Relations Committee. He will have to judge for himself later whether to oppose or support it, he said.

Some supporters of strong commitments may say in outside speeches before the treaty arrives formally in the Senate that this country will have to fight Russia if the Soviets move to take over Western Europe.

Senator Knowland (R-Calif) gave a hint of this when he told the Senate that this country couldn't sit back "twiddling our thumbs, so to speak," while nation after nation in Europe "was being overrun by an aggressor power."

Senator Donnell's reaction is regarded as important by Senate leaders because they believe he represents the thinking of a

Changes in Agriculture Suggested

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Hoover Commission said today reorganization of the Agriculture Department could save taxpayers at least $80 million a year. Also, it said, the changes would save farmers a lot of confusion.

In a report to Congress, the commission recommended a broad overhauling of the department—both in Washington and in the field—and transfer to it of some food and land activities now carried on by other governmental agencies.

From the farmer's standpoint, perhaps the most important recommendation is one which would unify the department's far-flung activities in each agricultural county to end what the commission called "duplications, overlappings and often conflicting policies."

The commission, a bipartisan group on government reorganization headed by former President Herbert Hoover, commended the department as a "vital and effective" agency in carrying out programs of value to farmers and consumers.

But its rapid growth has resulted, the report said, in what amounts to a "loose confederation of independent bureaus and agencies" which often "overlap and duplicate."

The commission recommended

Stinnett to Get Desulfo Plant

CLEVELAND (AP) — Construction on an automatic desulfo plant near Stinnett, Tex., will begin April 1, Stacey-Dresser Engineering Division of Cleveland, one of the Dresser industries, announced yesterday.

The plant will have a capacity of 2,750,000 cubic feet per day. It will remove excess hydrogen sulfide from natural gas. The Panhandle Producing Company of San Antonio, Tex., authorized construction, a Dresser spokesman said.

Bishop Says Youth Must Be Trained

The "invasion of some 26 million youth" since the beginning of the war can become a menace to the American way of life if church schools are not ready with facilities to train them.

That was the gist of an address last night at the First Methodist Church by Bishop W. C. Martin of Dallas. He was speaking to about 400 church members in connection with the church's campaign to raise $200,000 for a building and renovation program.

He said training in the spirit and practice of Christian virtues is indispensable, and palpably a responsibility of the church in concert with the home.

Church schools, he said, should be equal to the day schools in facilities.

Dr. Clinton Wunder, Navy chaplain commander in the war and now director of Wells Organization in Texas, spoke on the values of unified efforts of the entire church membership in the interest of community youth.

Frank M. Culberson, chairman of the campaign, presided over the informal meeting. Lee Harrah, pioneer citizen and leading church worker, cited some of the history of early Pampa and church-building. W. B. Weatherred, Building Committee chairman, unveiled an architect drawing of the proposed church education building. Present and expanded church properties will cover a whole block when completed.

The meeting followed a fellowship dinner, in the basement, Fellowship Hall, attended by around 250 persons.

School Bills Face Test In State Senate Today

AUSTIN —(AP)— The second of three bills on reorganization of the public school system faced a floor test in the Senate today.

It was Senator Ottis Lock's measure providing a minimum foundation program. Lock and the Gilmer-Aikin Committee which originated the idea say the bill would give each school child the best possible opportunity for education.

Disagreement was voiced by Senators Rogers Kelley of Edinburg and Gus Strauss of Hallettsville last week when the Senate set Lock's bill for special hearing of a 21-to-5 vote.

Both men said the minimum program bill would hurt rural schools.

Lock's measure aims primarily at making each school district contribute local funds on the basis of ability to pay, in proportion to the taxpaying ability of all other districts in the state.

Then state aid would be given to districts on basis of need. The state would continue to pay money to all schools on the basis of the number of students in the districts according to the school census.

Teachers' salaries would be hiked substantially by the bill. It sets a $2,400 minimum for teachers with bachelor degrees for a nine-month school year. Six dollars-a-month increases for year of service, with certain restrictions, would be allowed.

The Legislative Committee of the Texas State Teachers Association was charged yesterday by Rep. Jimmy P. Horany of Archer City with high-pressuring teachers to support the Gilmer-Aikin bills.

Horany said teachers have been led to believe they will get nothing at all if they do not support the measures. He believed a school bill helpful to teachers would be passed even if the Gilmer-Aikin legislation were defeated.

A bill raising the pay of the state superintendent of education from $6,000 to $10,000 was approved by the House on second reading, 74 to 43.

Horany said this was a "good test" of the lack of House support for the Gilmer-Aikin bills, one of which would abolish the elective office of state superintendent.

The pay-raise bill, by Rep. Herman Yezak of Franklin, awaits final passage before being sent to the Senate. House members refused to suspend rules yesterday

Santa Fe Railway Manager Dies

AMARILLO —(AP)— George C. Jefferis, general manager of the Santa Fe Railway Western lines, died yesterday after an illness of several days. He was 59.

Besides his duties as general manager of the Western lines, Jefferis was vice president of the Panhandle Santa Fe lines.

Jefferis was found dead at his home about 2 p.m. yesterday.

Jefferis, a native of Philadelphia, has been a Santa Fe man since 1911. In 1917 he was made division engineer at Clovis, N. M., and in 1938 he became assistant general manager of Western lines with headquarters at La Junta, Colo.

He went to Chicago in 1939 as assistant to the vice president Jefferis returned to the Southwest and settled in Amarillo as general manager of Western lines in 1942.

Surviving are his widow, a son, two daughters, a brother and a sister.

Graveside Services For Day Infants

Graveside services were conducted in the Baby Garden, Fairview Cemetery, this afternoon for the infant twin boys of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Day, 407 S. Somerville. The twins died, one Sunday, the other Monday.

Services were conducted by the Rev. Cullen Webb and burial was under the direction of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home.

THE WORLD IS HER OYSTER—At 5 months, Juanita Evans is believed to be the youngest traveler ever to fly around the world. Her father, Kenneth Evans, is a ceramics engineer in Calcutta, India. With her parents, Juanita paused halfway in her globe-girdling expedition to visit relatives in Cleveland, O. Clutching her suitcase, she examines her route — Calcutta, Bangkok, Manila, Guam, Wake Island, Midway, Honolulu, Los Angeles and thence to Cleveland. The family will return to India via Europe.

'Home Relief' Idea Raises Big Question

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Lawmakers gave this answer today to President Truman's request for a vast expansion of the social security system: some of it may pass—but not the whole thing.

The bill Mr. Truman sent to Capitol Hill yesterday proposed (a) providing direct "home relief" to all needy persons; (b) blanketing 20 million more persons under old age insurance; (c) greatly increasing the benefits; (d) raising—in some cases, tripling—the tax on paychecks and pay rolls.

It was the "home relief" idea which ran into the closest scrutiny in Congress.

Top Democratic managers of security legislation — Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) of the House Ways and Means Committee and Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Senate Finance Committee — took no position on the bill.

The program calls for an increase in payroll taxes from the present $1,800,000,000 for old age and survivors insurance, to about $6 billion.

It would boost individual payroll taxes 100 percent or more. The tax on a person making $4,800 or more could be increased from a top of $30 to $96 a year.

The expanded insurance pro-

GOP, Demos Trying to Lure South

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Talk arose in the House today of a possible compromise which would scuttle most of President Truman's civil rights program in return for repeal of about one-fourth of the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

While party leaders remained silent, both Northern and Southern Democrats gave that version of an agreement as tentatively accepted by Dixie lawmakers, who told the balance of voting power in the House.

Republicans told of offering—unsuccessfully — this counter-proposal: The GOP House members would vote against the entire civil rights program if the Southerners agreed to help them smash efforts to repeal the Taft-Hartley law.

Under the Democratic agreement, only an anti-lynch bill would get through the House. There would be no action on President Truman's request for anti-poll tax and anti-job discrimination measures. In exchange, the Southerners would vote for a Taft-Hartley repealer which actually would keep "about three-fourths" of the law.

Administration Democrats have made no secret of their concern over the fate of new labor legislation, even after forcing a change in House rules to prevent a Republican-Southern Democrat coalition from bottling up a labor bill in the Rules Committee.

Pulliam Rites Set Tomorrow

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow from the chapel of Duenkel-Carmichael Funeral Home for Edward O'Neal Pulliam, Jr., 33, who died Sunday at Fort Smith, Ark.

A Navy veteran, Pulliam was a member of the DAV, VFW and American Legion.

Surviving are his wife, a teacher in the Pampa Public Schools; a daughter, Betty Lu; sister, Mrs. Venus Collum of Pampa; parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Pulliam, Sr., of Phillips North Plant.

Pallbearers will be Otto Rice, Cecil Collum, E. E. Traywick, Ralph Erwin, Everett Day and Bill Pilgrim.

Services will be conducted by the Rev. N. S. Daniel of the Lockney Methodist Church. Burial under the direction of Duenkel-Carmichael will be in Fairview Cemetery. Military services will be conducted at the graveside.

Delegation Will Make Road Request

A elegation from Gray, Roberts and Ochiltree Counties will appear before the State High Commission Thursday in Austin.

Gray County Judge Bruce L. Parker will present the request of the group for completion of State Highway 70 from Pampa to Perryton. Twenty-six public hearings on proposed road projects are set for that day.

Demos Seek To Speed Up Labor Law

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Democrats in Congress, urged on by impatient unions, sought today to speed passage of a new labor law.

The Senate Labor Committee neared the windup of its stormy hearings with no visible changes in the views of its 13 members.

Following the hearings, which are due to end tomorrow, the committee's 8-5 Democratic majority is expected to approve—with perhaps minor changes—a bill embodying President Truman's labor proposals.

Those proposals would replace the Taft-Hartley Act with the original Wagner Act—plus certain changes such as emergency boards which could recommend settlements in disputes threatening the national health or safety.

Chairman Elbert Thomas (D-Utah), sponsor of the administration bill, appealed to the committee's Republicans late yesterday to exercise "good will" and help speed the measure to the floor even if they oppose it later in the Senate debate.

But the Republicans are pretty sure to demand their right to argue—even in the committee sessions—for certain Taft-Hartley provisions they want to tack to the Thomas bill.

"I would like to have the privilege of reasonable discussion," Senator Donnell (R-Mo) told a reporter.

Donnell especially wants to preserve a Taft-Hartley provision authorizing the government to delay "national emergency" strikes by means of 80-day injunctions.

Yesterday he clashed repeatedly on this subject with a labor witness, Byrl A. Whitney, educational director of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Donnell kept pounding away on

Guard Gets Equipment

The Pampa National Guard unit has received its first large shipment of equipment, Capt. Wm. J. Ragsdale announced at the unit's meeting last night.

Ragsdale, commanding officer of Battery A, 474th FA Observation Battalion, said that the equipment consisted of field desks, filing cabinets, tents and poles, carpenter and mechanic's tools, and gasmasks and carbines.

The enlistment of two new men to the outfit and the appointment of a full-time administrative assistant were also announced.

The enlistees are Daniel Lee Blue, 926 E. Gordon, and Billy R. Blue, Skellytown.

A. C. Stowe, Jr., formerly of Mangum, Okla., was appointed full-time administrative assistant to handle supplies and records and queries concerning the National Guard. At the present time he has a desk in the Texas Employment Commission office, 206 N. Russell.

The battery meets at its armory at Recreation Park on Monday night from 7:30 to 9:30.

Norway Rues Day the Allies Dumped Equipment Into Sea

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of four articles on Norway's defenses by Associated Press Correspondent Daniel De Luce, now on a tour of that strategically situated country. Photographs will be moved by wirephoto to accompany some of the stories.

(The subject of Norway's defenses is especially important now that Norway has decided to cast her lot with the West despite Russian pressure.)

By DANIEL de LUCE

OSLO, Norway —(AP)— Norwegian generals rue the day when the Allies dumped the captured equipment of an entire German army into the sea off Norway.

The guns and ammunition which sank beneath the waves in 1945 would have armed 350,000 Norwegians for home defense in 1949.

The Allied explanation was that retaining German weapons for liberated Norway might later stimulate a revival of the German armament industry.

Norway has not been impressed by that explanation. Since the war, she has had to spend an excessive share of her income on military purposes. It has crippled her economic recovery, while failing to guarantee her security.

Norway is now the most exposed country on the Western threshold of Russia. She has an annual military budget of $68 million — equivalent to $22 per person for every man, woman and child of her 3,150,000 population.

If an Atlantic pact is ultimately realized, American taxpayers may foot some of the defense expenditures here. Meanwhile, Norway is paying to the hilt. Dumping arms into the sea put Norway into the red.

Norway's ideas of security may irritate Russia, but Norwegians wish they didn't. Norwegians exhibit neither bravado nor impudence about the Soviets.

"If we had been as fortunate as the Swedes to survive two world wars without a scratch, we would gamble on neutrality again, as they do," a government official said.

"Or if we were wide-open, geographically, to attack, as all of Denmark is, we might consider defense a matter of wishful thinking.

"But we fought through five years of German occupation, inside and outside our country. We proved to ourselves that freedom never costs too much, no matter what it costs in blood and treasure.

Russia has a colossal military machine just across the frontier from Norway. In comparison, Norway's preparedness measures are of microscopic size.

Norway keeps a brigade of 4,000 troops in the British occupation zone of Germany. That's 25 per-

Ex-Employe Of Embassy Writes Book

MOSCOW —(AP)— The Russians have published a book under the name of Annabelle Bucar, resigned U. S. Embassy employe. It makes statements like these:

That U. S. Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith operated in the black market and ordered Russian employes in the embassy to sell for him such things as gold coins, watches and fountain pens;

That large speculators at the embassy go back to the United States with "tens of thousands of dollars worth" of art, illegally exported;

That a U. S. State Department clique is trying to foment war with Russia;

That some State Department employes are "Germanophiles."

Miss Bucar is a former Pittsburgh University coed from Clairton, Pa., who quit a year ago as administrative assistant in the U. S. Information service. In her letter of resignation she had complained embassy policy was directed against the Russians. At the same time she revealed she had been married for 13 months to Konstantin Lapshin, a Russian singer. She lives in Moscow now and is the mother of a son.

The 132-page book, published by the Literary Gazette, is called "The Truth About American Diplomats." It is dedicated "to the bright memory of my mother."

CC Committees Plan Activities

Two work committees of the Chamber of Commerce met today to transact plans for their respective activities.

The Retail Trade Commission, headed by Ben Ogden, met at 10 a.m. to set up plans for 1949 holidays along with other trade promotion ideas.

Members of the commission include John Kinard, Bob Burton, R. M. Samples, B. H. Behrman, Mitchell C. Hill, Frank Leder, W. F. Parks and Mrs. Myrtle Simmons.

At a luncheon meeting at the Schneider Hotel, members of the Legislative Committee met under the chairmanship of Ivy Duncan to consider current state legislation.

Members of the committee are James A. McCune, Knox Kinard, Art Teed, Huelyn Laycock and Dr. Roy A. Webb.

New Oil Finding Device Called Electronic Style Willow Twig

WASHINGTON (AP)— A man has patented an oil finding device which might qualify as an electronic version of the old peach or willow twig divining rod.

Many acres of arid America have been tramped by water wizards holding their favorite twigs in search of water deposits.

The oil finding device inventor, Walter Armstrong of Washington, D.C., told a reporter, "by using this method of locating oil well sites, it will be useless to drill a dry hole."

He said tests have proved reliability of the system.

Government experts, however, expressed doubt.

Armstrong claims his device measures radiant energy. Experts at the Interior Department said as far as they know, petroleum contained no elements capable of radiating any distance through the earth.

Petroleum experts said gadgets similar to Armstrong's device now exist to measure the structure and substance of sub-surface oil or shallow rock formations. They added no other method in existence uses the system patented by the Washington man.

Armstrong said he has found "petroleum radiation does exist."

His patent states:

"This invention involves the discovery that subterranean petroleum deposits emit penetrating radiant energy in amounts proportionate to the nature and quantity of the petroleum deposits and will pass through intervening rock strata to the surface of the earth."

The apparatus, the inventor said, works on an electronic principle of shielding the device from "known ionization radiations such as alpha, beta, gamma and other rays."

The patent did not state and Armstrong did not identify the radiating elements he claims for oil. He asserted the method will locate oil and accurately forecast the amount of the supply.

Armstrong is an attorney by profession. He said his method of oil discovery followed 20 years of surveys and research. He first applied for an oil prospecting patent in August, 1944.

Republican Cabinet of Bolivia Quits

LA PAZ, Bolivia, — (AP) — The Republican Socialist Cabinet of Bolivia resigned yesterday to permit President Enrique Hertzog to form a coalition of all groups which supported the revolution of 1946.

This broadly representative Cabinet is believed to have a better chance of meeting renewed threats of an extreme right wing coup d'tat.

Bolivia has been under an official "state of siege" since Saturday when the government claimed to have thwarted a plot by the Nationalist Revolutionary Movement (MNR) to seize power.

The MNR was ousted by a junta of workers, students and professors in July, 1946, at which time its leader, Dictator-President Gualberto Villaroel, was lynched in what the authoritative "Political Handbook of the World" called a "truly popular revolution."

The junta restored civil rights and democratic freedoms which Villaroel had suppressed and in March, 1947, Hertzog, leader of the Republican Socialists, was inaugurated President following free and legal elections.

Many leaders of the MNR went into exile in Argentina and Peru. Hertzog's government charged yesterday that they had continued agitation for overthrow of his regime by force from those countries.

A government spokesman said the coup was "planned on Peruvian territory with the cooperation of the Peruvian Minister of Industry Alfonso Lloza."

(In Lima, Peru, the Peruvian Ministry of Information denied that any Peruvian elements participated in the abortive Bolivian revolt.)

Carson Boys Say 'Thanks'

H. M. Nichols, Carson County agent, recently wrote E. O. Wedgeworth, secretary of the Hereford Breeders Association, on behalf of the Carson County boys who participated in the Top o' Texas Junior Livestock Show and Sale.

This is the first year Carson County FFA and 4-H Club members have been allowed to participate in the annual show. Prior to the 1949 show, only boys from Wheeler, Roberts and Gray Counties were eligible for participation.

"The 4-H boys of Carson County are greatly indebted to you and your associates for the splendid way you supported them at the Top o' Texas Junior Show just finished at Pampa," Nichols wrote. "We know the FFA boys of the county are also proud of the interest you took in them during these events."

He added the extension service wants to do everything within its power to aid the youth of Carson County.

College Approves Investing Agency

ABILENE —(AP)— Formation of a foundation to receive and invest funds for Abilene Christian College has been approved by the college Board of Directors.

The foundation will be known as the Abilene Christian College Foundation for Christian Education.

The board appointed Don H. Morris to a fourth three-year term as president of the college.

Also re-appointed were Dr. Walter H. Adams, dean; W. R. Smith, vice president; Lawrence L. Smith, bursar; and James E. Freeman, fiscal agent.

Officers of the board re-elected included B. Sherrod, Lubbock, president; Hollis L. Manly, Abilene, Richard Meggs of Dallas and L. P. Bennett of Lubbock, vice presidents; and A. C. Scott, Abilene, secretary.

Her navy has a few destroyers and submarines. Her air force has possibly half a squadron of Vampire jet-fighters, plus older Spitfires and some A-20 Bostons.

The entire strength of the Norwegian armed services on a regular footing may approximate 30,000 men. In addition, home guardsmen undergo occasional training.

As many as 100,000 home guardsmen are now scattered about the country. Each keeps his rifle in his own house. Norwegians call it the "Swiss system."

The three armed services are gathered under a single defense ministry, now headed by a go-getter Labor Party lawyer, Jens Christian Hauge, 33, who was a high figure in the wartime underground army.

Since he took over the defense ministry, three army commanders have resigned in succession after disagreeing with his short-cut, quick-step methods for reorganizing Norway's military affairs.

But he appears to get along well with the chief of staff of Norway's supreme command, 59-year-old Lt. General Ole Berg. Berg trained 12,000 Norwegian troops and 2,000 police in Sweden and led them back to reoccupy their own country in 1945.

Nearly 25,000 Norwegians fought for the Allies outside their homeland. Eleven hundred were killed on active service.

"In this time of so-called peace, Norway needs three things," Defense Minister Hauge told the Associated Press recently.

"First, a certain amount of political support to discourage thoughts of an isolated aggression against us.

"Second, physical support to build up our own defense forces.

"And third, assurance that if aggression comes, there will be help from outside quickly enough to save us from occupation."

Curling was first introduced into Canada and the United States during the early Nineteenth Century.

TEXAS LADY LOSES 47 POUNDS

The following remarkable story shows conclusively that Barcentrate DOES take off fat.

It contains nothing harmful. In fact, it contains ingredients that make you feel better. No starvation diet—no weakness—no hunger. Barcentrate, the original grapefruit juice recipe, takes off fat quickly, safely and you can eat plenty.

Here is proof

Here is what Mrs. H. P. Bishop, Route 2, Stamford, Texas, wrote us:

"I am very glad to endorse Barcentrate, so please accept my sincere thanks and appreciation for the great benefit I derived from its use. I not only lost weight, but also looked and felt better in every way.

"I had to have a very serious operation and was told that I must lose a lot of weight before the operation could be performed. I went on a diet and tried very hard to reduce, but wasn't losing much weight until I heard of Barcentrate. I began taking it and could soon tell the difference in the way I felt and the weight I was losing. I weighed 200 pounds when I started and I lost a total of 47 pounds and was able to undergo my operation. I can truthfully recommend it to others, since it did so much for me."

At all druggists

If you are overweight and want to take off ugly fat, just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonfuls twice a day. If the very first bottle doesn't show you the simple, safe way to take off weight, return the empty bottle for your money back.

Says Man Has Strange Powers That Work While He Sleeps

A strange man in Los Angeles, known as "The Voice of Two Worlds," reveals the story of a remarkable system that often leads to improvement in power of mind, achievement of brilliant business and professional success and new happiness. Many report improvement in health. Others tell of increased bodily strength, magnetic personality, courage and poise.

The man, a well-known explorer and geographer, tells how he found these strange methods in far-off and mysterious Tibet, often called the land of miracles by the few travelers permitted to visit it. He discloses how he learned rare wisdom and long hidden practices, closely guarded for three thousand years by the sages, which enabled many to perform amazing feats. He maintains that these immense powers ar latent in all of us, and that methods for using them are now simplified so that they can be used by almost any person with ordinary intelligence.

He maintains that man, instead of being limited by a one man-power-mind, has within him the mind-power of a thousand men or more as well as the energy-power of the universe which can be used in his daily affairs. He states that this sleeping giant of mind-power, when awakened, can make man capable of surprising accomplishments, from the prolonging of youth to success in many fields. Strangely, he says that this power works best while we sleep, when proper methods are used.

The author states the time has come for this long-hidden system to be disclosed to the Western world, and offers to send his amazing 9000-word treatise which reveals many startling results — to readers of this paper, free of cost or obligation. For your free copy, address the Institute of Mentalphysics, 213 South Hobart Blvd., Dept 315-J, Los Angeles 4, Calif. Readers are urged to write promptly, as only a limited number of the free treatises have been printed. adv.

"fringe" group which might swing either way on the treaty question.

If all senators voted, leaders would have to muster support of 64 of the 96 to get treaty approval.

That was the reason, it was reported, that Vandenberg and Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee rushed to reassure Donnell and those of like mind that the pact wouldn't rob Congress of its right to declare war.

to allow a vote on final reading.

Also approved on second reading in the House was Rep. R. E. (Peppy) Blount's bill setting up qualifications for the post of state adjutant general. As amended, it would require that he must have five years duty with some form of the armed service and have attained the rank of second lieutenant.

Passed and sent to the Senate were the following bills:

By Reuben Senterfitt of San Saba, removing the requirement that a married woman must sign common property deeds apart from her husbnad.

By H. G. Perry of Stephenville, changing the name of John Tarleton Agricultural College at Stephenville to Tarleton State College.

By Jack Ridgeway of San Antonio, to limit time warrants issued by commissioners courts of counties over 300,000 population to $50,000 a year.

By Doyle Willis of Fort Worth raising the state bar fees from the present $4 a year to $5. Willis first asked for $10.

By George Parkhouse of Dallas, amending the Municipal Retirement System Act to change methods of annuity payments and make it more beneficial to members.

By William S. Jameson of El Paso, providing six-year terms for school trustees in Austin and El Paso.

Rep. Preston E. Smith of Lubbock filed for introduction a bill to make state agencies hold open meetings. He would include all boards, agencies and bureaus spending state money or forming policy. He would exclude any state body expressly granted permission by the Legislature to hold executive sessions.

Smith said too many state boards are holding closed sessions to discuss matters of public interest. He wants advance notice of all meetings given to the press. Board members who failed to comply with the act would be automatically dimissed.

Senate and House committees approved a plan setting up a retirement system for state judges. They would be allowed to retire at 65 with three-fourths pay. They would contribute 3 percent of the monthly salary to help build the retirement fund.

A bill to raise salaries of most elected county officials and their deputies was sent to subcommittee for more study.

A subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee heard a Beaumont area delegation's plea for a $1 million appropriation to make Lamar Junior College a four-year college of technology. No immediate decision was made.

Hearing of Senator Rogers Kelley's bill to establish a Texas Citrus Commission was scheduled by the Senated Committee on Agriculture for 3 p.m. Monday, Feb. 28.

gram would cover a total of 50 million persons.

Members of Congress said they had no idea how far the unprecedented "home relief" program could go or what the overall cost would be.

Under this phase, the maximum payment in which the federal government would participate would be $50 a month for one person; $50 for the first additional person in a home, and $20 for each additional person. States would contribute 40 to 75 percent of the cost, according to state wealth.

Such assistance from the federal treasury's general fund, outside the insurance program, now is limited to needy aged persons, the blind and dependent children. It now costs about $1 billion a year.

The new bill proposes one other departure: disability insurance, under which employes covered by old age insurance would get short-time sickness benefits.

Doughton introduced the President's legislation. But he told reporters he did this at Mr. Truman's request and that he is not sponsoring the bill.

Like Doughton, some top Republicans—including House GOP Leader Martin and Senator Milliken (R-Colo.) — declined comment on he measure.

But Rep. Taber (R-N.Y.), who guided appropriation bills when Republicans controlled Congress, had this to say:

"As far as the Social Security Act goes, if the people want to themselves double, that's one thing; but I'm not in favor of taxing the people generally to pay any more gratuities to anybody unless it is a direct obligation of the government."

The President will send legislation to the Capitol later for a national health insurance program and for expansion of unemployment compensation. There are some estimates that the health program, with the government paying doctor bills, would mean about $6 billion in payroll taxes.

Gracie Reports

By GRACIE ALLEN

I see that the British Parliament has before it a law for a national theatre because they want British children to talk like Shakespeare instead of using American slang.

Well, from what little I know about it, it doesn't seem that British talk now is based on Shakespeare or American slang, either. I don't exactly recall Hamlet ever saying "Cheerio, old thing" to Ophelia, or seeing Othello bounce into Iago's living room asking, "Tennis, any of you chaps?"

And, of course, the British lawmakers are putting most of the blame on poor old Hollywood and American movies, which are now being held responsible for everything except the seven-year itch.

Dear me, I'm afraid the English language troubles come from seeing too many gangster and Western movies. Don't youse mugs ever take a gander at a pitcher of one of America's stars like Charles Boyer, Podner?

Senate Approves Gulf States Pact

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Steps to insure future development and use of Gulf coastal fisheries have been approved by the Senate.

The Senate approved and sent to the House a resolution giving federal consent to a proposed Gulf states fishing compact.

The resolution would create a Gulf States Marine Fisheries Commission. It would give two or more of the states of Texas, Alabama, Florida, Louisiana and Mississippi the Constitutionally required federal consent for creating a fisheries compact.

★ WE, THE WOMEN

BY RUTH MILLETT

Guests never really relax in her house because no matter how well she knows them, the moment they walk through her front door they become "company."

They aren't just friends to be made comfortable and welcome in an easy-going, relaxed sort of way. They are company who must be treated differently from the family.

The house looks good enough for the family, but she always feels she has to apologize for it to the "company."

The children's everyday manners are good enough, but she keeps after them whenever there is company so they will be sure to make a good impression.

She's a good cook, but she is always afraid there is too much salt in this, or that something else is cooked a little too long when she serves food to anyone outside the family.

WORRIES AND FUSSES

And so she worries and fusses trying to see that everything is just right for company. And then she wonders why her guests never seem to feel at ease.

If she could just treat those she entertains the way she treats her family—giving them the best she has and assuming that it will be good enough—she would be the kind of hostess she wants to be.

But guests are company, and she never forgets it, or never lets them forget it.

No wonder her guests find it hard to relax and enjoy themselves.

In attempting to aid the peoples of the world, we sometimes overlook the problems of some of our own people. The problem that confronts War Orphans Scholarships, Inc., is to aid in the education of the children of those who were killed in action in the war.

The fathers of these children gave up their lives. Their mothers in many cases have remarried, or even died, and the children need help to obtain the education to which they are entitled. I am pleased to say that the activities of this organization will expand from now on.

The U. S. Marine Corps has always been interested in this educational problem. Major General Oliver P. Smith, assistant commandant of the Marine Corps, who is a member of the board of directors of War Orphans Scholarships, Inc., assured the board that we would continue to receive for the war orphans the royalties from books that have been written by Marines.

General Smith is an auction bridge player who has never taken up contract. A real auction bridge player, however, can show you how to play the cards.

The correct line of play is to win the opening lead of the deuce of hearts in the South hand with the ace, than lead a small heart to dummy's queen. Next the ace and jack of spades are played, declarer overtaking the jack with the queen. Now cash the king of spades, which picks up East's last trump.

When West discards the three of clubs, declarer can count on East for the king. Realizing that his only chance to make the contract is to find West with the jack of clubs, South leads a club and finesses dummy's eight-spot.

East wins with the ten and returns a diamond, which is won in dummy with the ace. At this point the old auction player cashes the ace of clubs, which drops West's jack and provides declarer with a good discard.

If West does not discard the small club, declarer still can make the contract. After taking the clubs and leads the queen. East clubs and leads the quen. East may refuse to cover, in which case South takes a discard. If East does cover, the nine of clubs is established in dummy.

"I speak the password primeval —I give the sign of democracy; My God! I will accept nothing which all cannot have their counterpart of on the same terms."
—Walt Whitman.

He Saw Danger Of Dictatorship

For almost three-quarters of his life George Washington was the subject of a British crown which still granted considerable power to its monarchs. He was a soldier in the service of those monarchs. And even when he assumed the leadership of the new self-governing republic in America, it was in a world where absolutism was still the accepted and usual form of government.

It would have been easy for Washington, had he been a lesser man, to perpetuate himself in office. He was not only the first president of the United States, but the only one chosen unanimously. Though bitter political differences developed among those around him, his place in the public esteem was high and secure.

The spirit of independence in Washington's America was intense. But the spirit of democracy as we define it today was not unanimous. Considering the environment and education and habits of Americans so recently British, it scarcely could have been. Further, there was no Constitutional limit put upon the president's tenure of office.

So Washington might have made himself dictator or even king. But with a wisdom prophetic in its depth of vision, he did not. At the end of two terms he retired from office. In doing so he renounced the theory of the indespensable man. In doing so he proclaimed his faith in the principle of self-government.

He relinquished the presidency at a time when the infant republic was still struggling for recognition and survival. And his departure gave evidence of his belief that the American republic, in infancy or maturity, in weakness or strength, would find within itself the leadership that would guide it to growth and greatness.

Today the wisdom and faith of Washington are remembered in a world of new abolutism—a world of Stalin and Franco and Peron and, until recently, of Hitler and Mussolini. It is a world in which millions have accept the loss of liberty and the onerous yoke of tyranny in exchange for an escape from responsibility.

Such a bargain is not for the American people. It never has been. Only once, in time of grave crisis, has a president sought and the people granted a longer period in office than the two terms Washington chose. Now, as a tangible evidence of abiding power of Washington's example, Congress has asked the people, through their 48 legislators, to sustain by law the first president's renunciation of the theory of the indispensable man.

Half the necessary legislatures have already ratified the proposed 22nd Amendment, which would limit any president to two terms in office. It is likely that, in the five remaining years allowed, the amendment will be put in force.

If that happens, then the country will have decided that while there have been many military heroes, there has been only one in Washington, and that the instinctive wisdom that guided him had best be put into law lest some future generation choose and support a president who will yield to the temptation which Washington spurned.

BRITISH LORD DIES

BANBURY, Eng. —(AP)— Lord Saye and Sele, 64, one of whose medieval ancestors is reputed to have written the Nursery Jingle, "Ride A Cock Horse to Banbury Cross," died at his home, Broughton Castle, Friday.

Fair Enough -- by Westbrook Pegler

In both his sermon and his statement on the ordeal of Cardinal Mindszenty, Cardinal Spellman referred to phases of the Communist treachery in the United States which were exposed long ago. Although a small group of journalists and some pamphleteers did good work, the House Committe on unAmerican Activities, first under Martin Dies and most recently under J. Parnell Thomas, amassed a great library of proof. An earlier committee under Samuel Dickstein, of New York, ignored the Communist conspiracy almost entirely and concentrated on the Nazi agents and Nazi sympathizers. The principal Nazi agent, Fritz Kuhn, was fetched by Republican District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey on a charge of forgery thanks largely to Arthur F. Robertson, an unsung investigator, who also did fine work in convicting George Scalise and other union racketeers.

Unlike Dickstein, who seemed to underrate the Communist peril, Chairmen Dies and Thomas impartially went after both nazi-fascism and communism. After we got into the war, the Nazis and Fascists were pretty well in the hands of the military intelligence and "security" agencies and the FBI, which made free and effective use of the committee's files. Many Americans who continued to warn of the treachery of the gallant ally of Moscow were shamefully abused as pro-Nazi-Fascists during this phase.

I was at all times an opponent of the Communists to the extent that the weapon of information and interpretation, through publicity, could be used against them. I smelled them in the American Newspaper Guild almost as soon as I found myself a member by a sly process of assumption which was the way in which Ferdinand Pecora, now a justice of the New York Supreme Court, was taken into and made president of a similar outfit called the National Lawyers Guild. Neither of us ever applied for membership. We discussed these guilds and found that we were in. Seeing no immediate reason to object, we paid dues and acted as members.

Judge Pecora got out of the Lawyers Guild and I quit the Newspaper Guild because the Communists were in control. We knew who they were. But when we named them, we were called Red-baiters. Being a New Dealer, the judge was given lenity by the dirty press of the Communists and their fronts, including the New York thing known as PM on which Marshall Field, of Chicago, spent millions of dollars, much of which otherwise would have gone into the treasury as taxes. I got the works but I was not alone under this foul campaign of propaganda. We, the targets and victims, had no comfort of mutual support. We had no society or league of the type which Eleanor Roosevelt and her Communist friends joined so readily.

In his sermon, Cardinal Spellman said: "How long are we Americans going to allow these fiendish Communists to drug us with their propaganda and our own apathy? When will the American government, the American public, the leaders in all phases of American life, religious, educational, political, labor, industrial, communications, yes and in entertainment, when will all free men raise their voices as one and cry out against and work against satan-inspired Communist crimes?"

In his statement he said, "I warn Americans that not until every Communist cell is removed from within our own government —will America herself be safe from conquest by communism."

Skipping the "religious" and the "educational" phases referred to in the sermon, and coming to the "political," I recall that it was Franklin D. Roosevelt who, by design, admitted the Communist cells to the government. He did this impudently and mischievously and knowing full well what the Communist program was and all about the brutal cynicism and godlessness of communism.

His wife was his partner in this hospitality to Communists, and her own personal attitude toward religion is indicative. She is a slippery one who has actively associated with Communists from 1933 down to this time and actively helped Communists in specific instances. She has written that the greatest influence that was exerted on her during her most impressionable years of girlhood, next to the influence of her father who was a drunk forbidden the custody of his children, was exerted by Mlle. Souvestre, an atheist from the Paris of 1870, when the Commune took over. And, finally, while Cardinal Mindszenty was suffering his agony, Eleanor Roosevelt gratuitously published the unsupported charge of an anonymous informant that Cardinal Mindszenty was a notorious anti-Semite. This is the instinctive, the automatic accusation of all Communists against all anti-Communists and it comes gracefully from this woman who, by concealing the name of her authority and by indicating no disagreement with the charge, becomes an accuser herself.

On that point, Rabbi Benjamin Schultz, the director of the American Jewish League against communism, who has suffered greatly for his opposition, said; "I am aware of the Red propaganda that the cardinal is anti-Semitic. This is false. Every foe of communism will be similarly accused. That is an old Stalin trick."

Rabbi Schultz said Cardinal Mindszenty had hidden many Jews in his cellar to save them from the Nazis when Hitler took over Hungary.

As to that phase of American life called "labor" which Cardinal Spellman calls upon to fight communism now, the fact unfortunately is that the most conspicuous Catholic in the CIO, President Philip Murray, collaborated with the worst Communists for ten years and joined in the abuse of better Americans who denounced them. Murray suffers from great guilt in helping Communists or suffering them to develop the power which Cardinal Spellman now deplores in justified alarm. Specifically, and this is only one instance, Murray wrote a tract defending Harry Bridges and trying to discredit Americans who held Bridges to be a Communist.

"Yes, and in entertainment—" Cardinal Spellman said.

Yes, and in entertainment, a powerful magnate of Hollywood who is an intimate friend of Cardinal Spellman within the last year displaced one of the bravest men in the movie industry, a Catholic who sacrificed his whole career to go to Washington and testify against the Hollywood Communists before the Thomas committee.

Soon after those hearings a producer, one of the new Hollywood "geniuses," sneeringly assured the Communists that the sensation soon would be forgotten. Thereafter Hollywood would carry on as before.

He soon moved into the office of the patriotic Catholic witness who staked his career on his patriotism and his religious abhorrence of communism in Hollywood—and lost.

Common Ground

By R. C. HOILES

A Confused Labor Leader

This newspaper gets a service written by various writers called "The American Way." One of the writers is Maurice R. Franks. He used to be editor of one of Railway union magazines. He is now director of the National Labor-Management Foundation and editor of its official publication, "Partners." This newspaper invariably throws his articles in the waste basket, because he does not understand human relations. He does not understand the labor problem. He believes in collective bargaining by labor unions that establish the wages for others than for whom they are bargaining. Listen to this sentence:

"In simple language, this all boils down to the fact that industrial relations, when properly understood, are really human relations, for which there are no mathematical, no political, no legal formulas."

Of course, there is no mathematical formula for anybody who believes in collective bargaining with the idea of interfering with a free market—with the idea of taking from some individual his God given right to help establish values. Every union labor leader, every man who believes in labor unions with their collective bargaining—cannot set down an impersonal law by which to live. They cannot have a mathematical rule—nor any law of ethics. They are a law unto themselves. And any man who is a law unto himself can write no mathematical or legal formulas that are just.

But there is a mathematical rule and that mathematical rule is that all people have an equal right to help establish values. All and equal are mathematical terms. They have equal rights to produce anything. And they have an equal right to exchange their produce with other producers. Business is nothing but an exchange of labor and giving all people equal rights to exchange the produce of their labor is, a mathematical formula or rule. But labor unions that are formed with the sole purpose of taking from some people their God given right to be equal in their right to exchange goods and services, of course, cannot write any mathematical formula or moral law governing human and industrial relations. That is the reason this column opposes collective bargaining and all laws that gives union labor special privileges that other workers do not have.

So, of course, we throw Mr. Maurice R. Franks articles invariably in the waste basket because he uses a lot of words and does not say anything. He does not do as Lord Kelvin said: "When you can measure what you are speaking about and express it in numbers, you know something about it; but when you cannot measure it, when you cannot express it in numbers, your knowledge is of a meagre and unsatisfactory kind."

Most of our trouble in this country comes from people like Maurice R. Franks trying to write and educate other people when they themselves do not have any understanding of any moral law or any mathematical rule for human relations. They are advocating, and do not know it, the old world idea that might makes right. A newspaper that believes there is a Higher Law will not publish articles written by men who contend that there is no mathematical formula for human relations and industrial relations. There is a mathematical formula for human relations and that is simply that all men—not just some men, as the labor unions would have it—have equal rights.

It is because labor unions demand class legislation and special privileges that no union labor leader dare try to defend labor unions in open debate and agree to answer each question in 120 words without the consent of the questioner for a longer time to answer. Men who know that there is a mathematical formula for labor relations can answer each question on labor relations in less than 120 words and he will not have to contradict himself as would a union labor leader if he tried and could not evade answering questions by taking up the time by making long irrelevant and immaterial answers.

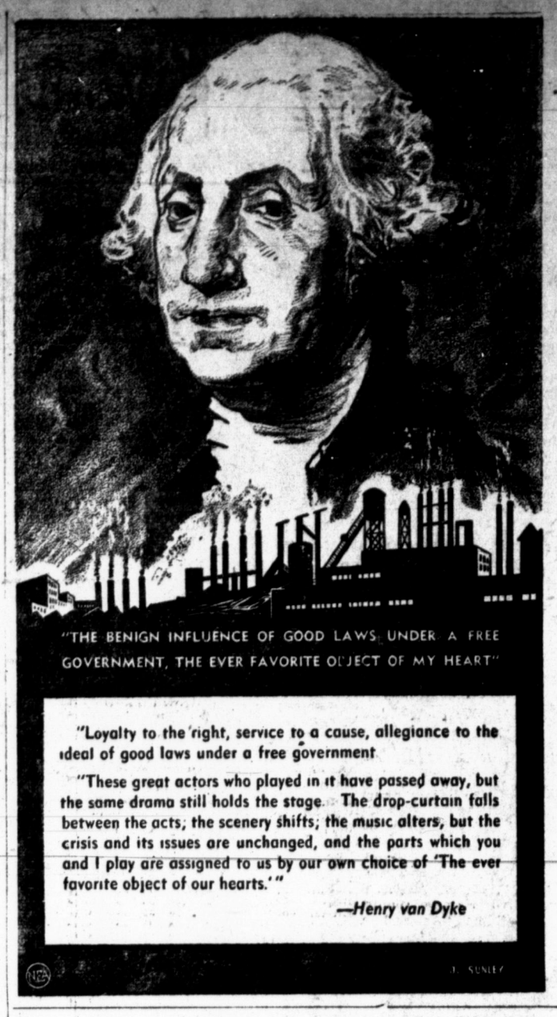

Lumber Production Above December

AUSTIN — January lumber production in Texas was 4 percent above December's, the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research reported.

Last month's total was also 6 percent above January, 1948, with weekly production averaging 196,159 board feet per unit.

Shipments were 9 percent above December but 9 percent under January 1948.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

news behind the news

By ROGER WARREN

(Ray Tucker on Vacation)

WASHINGTON — The dip in wheat and corn prices caused some worry in the farm belt, but it gave a shot of hope to Henry Wallace that he may regain greater nuisance value by exploiting agrarian gripes.

During the meeting of the National Committee of his Progressive Party here, the former secretary of agriculture and Franklin D. Roosevelt's running mate was cold shouldered by old associates and Truman bigwigs. Nevertheless Henry's reappearance is bothering the Democratic high command more than it will admit publicly.

His latest sucker bait is a tentative Wallace national budget, proposed to offset the Administration's official budget. Three billion two hundred million dollars are earmarked for agriculture in contrast to one billion six hundred million dollars for this purpose by the President.

GRIEVANCES — Mr. Truman has just tempted a few normally Republican farm states into the family. His chiefs do not want to let Henry wean them away. They remember how their own William Jennings Bryan made political hay from rural grievances and how later they themselves went to town on this issue during the 20's and in the depression.

Wallace himself became interested in farm problems in the 20's. He maintains that the present sag in agricultural prices and the continued high prices of metals are similar to the conditions of that period. "I'm flying storm signals," he says, "even though the hurricane may blow out to sea."

ELECTRIFICATION — Wallace scouts report that farmers, in conserving their money as the result of watching the fluctuations in the commodity markets, are reluctant to buy farm implements such as tractors, hay balers and other machinery, which they maintain cost too much.

One of the most noticeable effects of prolonged agricultural prosperity is the electrification of the farm. First the various needs of the barns and fields were supplied and then all sorts of appliances for the house were purchased. Henry's statisticians say that lower farm income will slow down electrification.

The Iowa Santa Claus thinks that the way to check any recession in the corn country is to pour out a new pack of Christmas presents. He proposes to provide for a combined price support and subsidy program to ensure farm income and maintain lower consumer prices.

STAMP — In addition he would recreate the Farm Security Administration for tenant and small farmers, particularly below the Mason and Dixon line, inaugurate a food stamp plan for low income groups, expand crop insurance, develop flood control in the Missouri River Basin and enlarge the conservation program.

He also would take measures to reduce soil erosion and overcome the shortage of water that is removing thousands of acres from profitable agriculture each year.

In other words, our medicine man not only would halt the fall of farm income but also promises to shower new advantages over the wheat fields.

To Doubting Thomases he retorts, "They said lots of my dreams couldn't come true, but they did. I personally started the ever normal granary. Today ever one accepts it as a permanent farm policy."

Even before the election political experts rated Wallace as an extinct volcano. Ordinarily, therefore, the ideas of a has-been would not attract attention or be worthy of comment. Moreover the lure which a red tint has for Henry is a factor in his loss of influence.

NOSTRUMS — Nearly all of Wallace's farm belt popularity long since has waned. Still he retains his old aptitude for sensing farm problems and for offering nostrums which appeal to the man on the tractor.

Henry might not win back his old rooters. But he might light a prairie fire of dissatisfaction that could fill the White House with smoke. He could make farmers sore at President Truman.

The Republicans have learned their lesson and are trying in every way in Congress to prove to the farmers that they still love them. Although Taft and Martin do not want to be associated with Wallace, they are not displeased to see him stir up trouble for the President.

Wallace is the whip which drives the Democratic Party more and more toward the left. He did it in the last campaign.

Truman "me tooed" Wallace and won the election. The President borrowed many of his ideas on civil rights and labor and social services from his former secretary of commerce. Of course, the White House recoiled from Henry's position on Russia but in many other lines it gathered fruit from what Henry planted.

"INFLUENCE" — Wallace realizes that his following has dwindled. But he boasts, "We have an influence altogether greater fluenced the domestic policies of President Truman. We shall have quite an impact on teh future decisions of the government.

The Iowan has had a roller coaster career. During recent months he has shot down deeper than the size of our vate. We inlations with Russia and the Communist world remain as strained as now, his name will be mud. But Henry has been in the dog house again and again and again. Each time some new idea of his gained popular or government support and out he came.

He himself may not come back again. But should the farm belt start worrying, the dragon seed which Wallace is sowing may yield a crop of headaches for the Truman administration.

WHITE DEER — (Special) Barbara Tucker was elected "Good Grooming Queen," Ramona Hightower, "Posture Queen," and George Eller, "Good Grooming and Posture King" at the conclusion of "Personality Week" which was observed in the White Deer High School last week.

Runners-up for the title of "Good Grooming Queen" were Betty Jane Powers, Roberta Sparks, Linda Burba, Arlene Russell, and Mary Lou Skaggs; for "Posture Queen," Helen Pope, Bonnie Swinford, Mary Lee Bednorz, Roberta Corder, and Freda Mae Taylor; and for "Good Grooming King," Harry Buchanan, Hoyt Taylor, and Ernie Bill Terry.

The activities were under the direction of Dorothy Barnett, Mary Lou Skaggs, and Roberta Corder, with Mrs. B. R. Weaks, guidance director, as adviser. They were assisted by all the girls in the Junior Class.

On Feb. 14, the girls of the High School met in the gymnasium for 30 minutes of posture and limbering up exercises; and a full-length mirror placed on the landing between the first and second floors reminded them to maintain correct posture.

Tuesday they held an all-girl assembly at which they were shown skits illustrating right and wrong posture, the right and wrong way to dress, extremes in costumes; and costumes of four ages; grandmother, flapper, mother, and daughter. Barbara Holt modeled a formal dress which she had made; and Roberta Corder, a jacket which she had made from old skirts. Bonnie Swinford, as master of ceremonies, showed the girls some lapel pins which could be made easily.

On Wednesday, in a special assembly, the winners of the contest were announced. The program began with a "personality song," with original words, sung by Dorothy Broome and Dolores Kalka and accompanied by Billy Joyce Adams. Dorothy Barnett presided. Mary Lou Skaggs and Roberta Corder presented "appropriate" awards to certain boys chosen by a secret committee as "the Clark Gable of W.D.H.S.," "the boy with the longest line," "the heart-breaker," etc.

Concluding the program a pantomime of "That Old Sweetheart of Mine" was given. Wendell Cain read the poem; Tom Horn was in charge of the lighting effects; C. A. Jensen was the dreamer; Judy Wells, Lynette Powers, and Mary Lou Skaggs portrayed the various ages of the sweetheart, while Mrs. Jensen appeared as "the living presence of that old sweetheart of mine."

During the week, movies and voice recordings of the junior girls were made.

HUNGARIAN TROUBLE ..... by Upton Close

WASHINGTON — A secretary of state has to be a hardy person who can push out of his mind at night the picture of a brewing war that will destroy the world. He has to dismiss all the thousand ideas that flit before his mind and those of his helpers—who are all too ready with ideas. He has to put them aside long enough to sleep. Those ideas are the moves he might make, the contacts, the suggestions, the schemes — thousands of possibilities — all intriguing — few good.

Take this crisis over Hungary: The secretary of state has to consider the surge of indignation sweeping the United States. He knows that the Hitler treatment of Jews provided the emotional chemical that changed Americans from isolationists or pacifists to interventionists. Moscow's throwing down the gauntlet to Christian bodies of both Catholic and Protestant faiths could spark the next war.

But there are lots of conflicting impulses. Our government is scarcely in a position to discourage indignation. But how far shall it go in encouraging it? On the one hand are people full of righteous anger. Then come the messages from sober authorities in the Catholic Church: "Anything but war! In war, and its destruction, all systems of order lose. The church loses most of all."

The pope does not want war. That's understandable. But the secretary must consider more ominous things. Messages from clerics in France and Italy, which say or hint: "Do not arouse the American people too much! We actually fear that if they were to go into war with Russia, in Europe, at this time, they might lose! We can assure you that no nation in Europe would help them! Several would be seized by Communist governments and help the Russians. The others would just cravenly look for a way to be neutral.

"—But above all, before the Americans could get over here we would be wiped out!—Church properties would be utterly destroyed!"

The secretary of state has to ponder the actions of his "enemy." Is it a feint or bluff or try-out? If he is opposed will he pull back or go on more ruthlessly?

The maker of our foreign policy has to consider things that do not get into the general press. Such as an interview given by Ivan Boldiszar, undersecretary of state in the Hungarian government, to the publisher of the pro-Communist "fact sheet" "In Fact." Gilbert Seldes, editor of In Fact, was revealed by Louis Budenz, former editor of the Daily Worker (without denial) as being part of the high Communist editorial command in this country. Seldes reported under date of Dec. 20, last, that the Communist official told him: (If Cardinal Mindszenty were arrested and tried) "the verdict would undoubtedly be death by shooting. That, believe it or not, is exactly what this medieval fanatic is praying for. No man in modern history has such a martyr —or said — complex, as Cardinal Mindszenty.

"He is begging for martyrdom; he is crying for sainthood; he is obsessed with the vision that he will become one of the great names in the history of the Catholic Church, provided we take legal action against him. A martyr immediately, and perhaps a saint some day. We are not going to oblige him."

Our secretary of state has to take note that this worldly-wise position by the Hungarian government was overruled. He concludes that Moscow overruled it —no other authority could. Why? Is Moscow ready to call a showdown?

Or is Moscow just sure of another typical Marxian victory—working both ends against the middle? While Catholic Church circles generally wax indignant, the sober, authoritative church circles say: "No, don't resort to force. Too many of our priesthood and people, too much of our property would be wiped out. It might even be that the United States would be unable to gain quick decision. That would mean chaos, perhaps wiping out of the church in America — the church's last sure land of protection and of revenue."

The secretary of state must ponder these things and recommend a line of action! — Plus, try to forget at sleeping time!

BOTH Merry and Mike were quiet during dinner, and Aunt Jane, after a swift glance at each intent young face, managed a light chatter that covered their silence but did not demand their attention or their answers.

When the meal was over, she excused herself, and Mike looked at Merry uneasily and asked, "Could we perhaps go for a walk?"

"Why not? If it isn't too hot?"

"Not for me."

She nodded, caught up a wide-brimmed hat and they left the house together. One of the charms of Marshallville, to Merry, was that you could walk a dozen blocks in any direction and be out in the country. From her own home, to the south, it was a matter of only three. Without a word, she turned in that direction now, and at the end of the three blocks, where the pavement ended, they turned into a leafy lane that revealed a narrow, winding trail that mounted the town's most ambitious hill. At the top there were wide-spreading oak and hickory trees, a few pines, and a great flat stone that offered a comfortable place to rest.

"It's a funny thing, Merry," Mike broke the silence that had held them since they had left the house. "Seeing you here in your own environment, I understand you and all the things that you feel and think better than if I had known you in New York for a lifetime. I know now why the thought of casual marriage and even more casual divorce repelled you so. You have roots deeply sunk in a real home; you grew up safe inside the walls of a marriage that was meant for life."

"And cracked up after 20 years."

"But isn't 20 good years an awful lot, Merry? How many of us can hope for anything like that? But I can see now, Merry, that a marriage, to last, as you see it, must have its roots deeply set in a home. Not just an apartment, or a rented place that you occupy for a few months or a year or so, before you move on. You've got to be part of the town."

Merry said eagerly, "Oh, yes, Mike!"

HE looked out over the town spread before them, and then back at her.

"It's a nice little town, Merry."

He frowned a little, in deep thought.

"You know something, Merry?" he said at last. "I believe now that the reason I've always been so restless and easily bored is that I've never been particularly interested in any place. Mimi tired of places, and we were always moving on. There was never time to get interested. It all boils down to this, Merry: you've got to put down roots and anchor yourself."

"Oh, Mike, I'm so glad you've found that out!"

He looked down at her for a long moment, and the color burned brightly in her lovely face and her eyes were shining. And then Mike turned his eyes away and one clenched fist struck his knee hard.

"It's no good, Merry," he said harshly. "I couldn't stay here, and see you and Tip married."

Merry caught her breath as though he had struck her, and her eyes were wide and stricken.

"Tip. Why, Mike—" Her voice caught in her throat and she was still.

"He's so right for you, Merry. I knew it from the very first moment I saw you two together. But I couldn't stay and watch, and maybe be your best friend, old bachelor Channing, looking on at hearth-fires I couldn't share."

Merry did not know that she was crying until she tasted the salt of tears on her quivering mouth, and her voice came, husky and shaken. "Oh, Mike, you blessed fool!"

MIKE looked at her swiftly. His breath caught, and for a long, shaken moment he could only look deep into her eyes and read, with a dawning incredulous wonder, the lovely message he saw there.

"Merry?" he said at last, his voice a shaken thread of sound.

"Oh, Mike, Mike," she whispered, and leaned toward him. And then suddenly was in his arms, held close and hard against him, her tear-wet cheek against his own.

For a moment that was like an eternity of loveliness, yet only a breathless second of rapture, he held her so; and then he held her away from him and looked down at her, the terrible need for reassurance in so many words causing him to burst into speech.

"Merry, don't play with me, sweetest. Merry, is it—Merry, have you chosen me instead of Tip?"

"Darling, darling, I think I chose you from the very first moment," she told him, and cared nothing for the crystal tears that slipped down her cheeks. "I was afraid, that's all."

"Afraid, sweet? Of me?"

"Of us, Mike. Because I knew for me it had to be for always, or it wouldn't be enough. I knew I couldn't belong to you for just a little while and then let you go. I'm a terribly possessive creature, Mike. I sort of cling to those I love."

His arms drew her close again, and his kiss on her mouth was the loveliest thing she would ever know: that first exquisite kiss of surrender so complete that it was almost painful.

"Oh, Merry, sweetest, I do love you so!" he said unsteadily, like a boy with his first love; not at all the deft, sophisticated, casually expert lover whose outrageous "line" had frightened her slightly.

"For always, Mike?" Her lips were against his ear, her voice so small, so faint that otherwise he would not have heard her.

"Always and forever," said Mike huskily, and his tone held an ineffable tenderness, an exquisite promise that made the words a pledge flung straight in the teeth of the future.

Groza Sets New Score Mark As Kentucky Wins, 95-40

BETTER BOWLING

By BILLY SIXTY

DROP INTO SWING: "Waiting for the ball to drop of its own weight into the downswing" is the secret of consistently impressive scoring, according to Elmer Baumgarten, an analyst of bowling form and secretary of the American Bowling Congress.

The way in which the ball starts its downward groove, regardless of the length of swing, determines control, and it is also the connecting point in the swing that means a smooth finishe at the foul line, with the body balanced for an accurate delivery.

For a second, when Baumgarten was at his top-flight bowling peak, he used to get the feeling of a distinct pause at the top of the backswing, when the arm and ball merely "hung in the air" (see illustration). There was no feeling of tenseness whatever. It was a completely loose, relaxed feeling. Then the easy falling of the ball into the arc could overtake the body in its stride and pass the left leg perfectly at the foul line for a full swing-through.

"I believe all beginners shouls concentrate on waiting for the ball," he said. The swing is the thing—pendulum action for control. Check the better bowlers when they are having a poor time—shooting badly. When their arms is off, their timing is off.

"Watch their arm action when the ball starts downward and you will see they force the swing. They PULL the ball down. What happens? The arm gets out of the arc, out of the groove, and it swings to the left, sending the ball high on the head pin. That is because their swing-through is out short."

Baumgarten has been a good bowler for a long time, so it's a good tip for you. Wait for the ball!

NEW YORK —(AP)— Kentucky's top-ranked Wildcats continued their winning habits last night, but two other members of college basketball's top ten, Tulane and Bradley, failed to follow suit.

Tulane, sixth in the rankings by virtue of 20 victories and two losses to Kentucky, lost a Southeastern Conference game to Vanderbilt, 56-54.

Bradley, No. 10 in the latest Associated Press poll fell before Drake by an identical margin, 56-54, in a Missouri Valley Conference upset at Des Moines.

Kentucky, No. 1 in the poll, won its 23rd victory in 24 starts this year, rolling over Georgia, 95-40. Big Alex Groza scored 38 points to break the Southeastern Conference individual scoring record.

The previous high was 36 points scored by Billy Joe Adcock of Vanderbilt.

Illinois and Minnesota, which are battling for the Western Conference championship, both came through their assignments, although the Gophers' victory won't count in the Big Nine standings.

The Illini trounced Iowa, 80-49, with big Dike Eddleman pouring 19 points through the mesh.

Minnesota thumped Michigan State, which isn't officially counted in Conference competition, 57-47.

Illinois is fourth in the AP standings and Minnesota is fifth.

Duquesne, 17th in the poll, triumphed over Akron, 51-43. Loyola of Chicago, No. 12, trounced Western Michigan, 66-44. Brigham Young upset Wyoming, 50-48.

In other leading games, Nebraska defeated Missouri, 47-46, in an overtime; Holy Cross downed Boston College, 66-48; City College of New York beat St. Joseph's of Philadelphia, 68-65; Michigan downed Purdue, 64-53; Wisconsin defeated Northwestern, 57-46; Indiana won over Ohio State, 65-45; Tennessee downed Louisiana state, 81-72.

WARREN'S WARMUP

By Warren Hasse---News Sports Editor

QUESTION: When and where was the first major league all-star baseball game played?

ALL-DISTRICT: Warmup will stick his neck out with the rest of the sportswriters in the district and give his selections, and the reasons for same, of an all-district 1-AA basketball team. We will undoubtedly meet with opposition, but this is the way we like them.

Starting with the center position, the easiest choice to make, Warmup will take Pampa's Derral Davis, the district's leading scorer and outstanding player in the league and state. He has a good shooting eye, is a good ball handler and a very clever player.

At one guard Warmup likes Red Hooper, Borger. Hooper played forward all season, but on this mythical team we place him at a guard post. He is a fine ball handler and deadly on a set shot. He placed fifth in the scoring, despite the fact he was stuck down in a corner most of the time with nothing but a bare basket to shoot at, no backboard to guide him. At the other guard is Jimmy Howard, Pampa Junior, also a fine ball handler and a good shot from far out. Jim is a team player, a fine sportsman, who never gives up. He is the fastest man on this team.

The forward posts are probably the most contested. Warmup likes Charley Galey, Lubbock, at one spot. He was runner-up to Davis for scoring honors. He is fairly tall, fast and a good shot. The other forward post on this team goes to Gorby of Brownfield. While playing with a very weak team, he managed to wind up third in the league scoring, mainly on his driving-in ability.

Our choice for the second five would include, at the center post Jim Wilson, Lubbock, deadly on unlockable jump shots; at the guards, Little Jack Little, Amarillo and Tommy Brown, Borger, both good ball handlers and very fine shots and very fast; the forward spots go to Jim Sexton, Lubbock, and Glen Ford, Amarillo, who played center, but would make a very capable forward. These two boys would add much height to a team made small by the size of the two guards.

That is Warmup's choice after seeing all of the teams play this season. Now we're open to complaints.

ANSWER: The first all-star baseball game was played in Comiskey Park, Chicago, in 1933, as an added sidelight of the Century of Progress Exposition.

DOTS AND DASHES: Putt must be mad at Pampa . . . At his all-district football banquet Sunday, Supt. of Schools Knox Kinard was introduced as from Plainview and Warmup was said to be from Borger . . . The only two introductory errors 'accidentally' made — Hank Luisetti, though retired from active competition as a basketball player, still works out in San Francisco and claims that, at the age of 33, he is more accurate at shooting baskets than he was in his best days at Stanford . . "I'm older, loose and relaxed,," Hank explains. "When you are a college kid of 20 you suffer tight arms and fingers." — Notre Dame's football game with Southern Methodist in Dallas next December 3 already has started a rush on the box office . . . Though tickets will not go on sale until April 1, orders have been received from every state and some foreign countries — Joe Louis, who followed Bob Hope into Miami's Orange Bowl recently, outdrew the radio comedian at the gate even though the ticket price range for Joe's exhibition was double that for Hope's appearance. Max Zaslofsky, high-scoring forward of the Chicago Stags, has been careful of his pre-game meals since high school days when he collapsed on the floor with two minutes remaining in a closely contested battle . . . The coach feared Max had suffered a heart attack but a hastily summoned physician wrote it off as acute indigestion and made Max promise never again to eat three hot dogs and two hamburgers immediately preceding a game.

National Hockey League games during the first half of the season saw 120 players participate, seven less than last campaign.

District Final Scoring Marks

The District 1-AA scoring race ended last Friday night with the completion of the Brownfield-Borger game, which Brownfield won, incidentally. The final tally shows that Derral Davis paced the field through the ten game schedule with a total of 133 points. A complete list of scorers who tallied 35 points or more follows.

Hyatt, Pampa	4	1	2	4

The team scoring honors for district play goes to the Lubbock Westerners, district champions, who totaled 441 points in the ten games. Amarillo scored 436, Pampa 406, Borger 379, Plainview 358 and Brownfield 281. The defensive honors also go to the Westerners, who held their opponents to a mere 267 points. Next best defense was Amarillo's, with 310 points scored against it. The Harvesters gave up 312, Borger 425, Plainview 473 and Brownfield 473.

Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK —(AP)— The fabulous "four minute mile" is within reach of Don Gehrmann of Wisconsin in another year or two, says Herbert Barten of Michigan, who holds a decision over the slim Badger distance star. "He'll have to learn to judge pace better and he'll need more training and stamina, but he's a great runner," Barten says.

HARVIE WARD A COMER

Experts rate Harvie Ward of the finest young amateur golfer the University of North Carolina in the nation and predict he'll win the national title soon—maybe this summer.. . . There is a strong feeling in National League circles that the hustling Pittsburgh Pirates have added enough strength this winter to outscramble the Braves and Cards in a close flag race. Rival Club owners still are pained at the Cards' cash sale of pitcher Murry Dickson to the Corsairs—without asking bids. "Whatever Pittsburgh paid for Dickson, we would have paid more if we had been given the chance," one magnate declared.

Arkansas Moves Closer To Southwest Cage Title

By The Associated Press

Arkansas' Razorbacks last night cleared the first or three hurdles in their path to the Southwest Conference basketball championship. They beat Texas Christian, 67-52.

The victory gave the Porkers eight victories against two defeats. They face Rice Saturday and end the season next week

Bob Ambler and Ken Kearns paced the Arkansas victory. Ambler got 15 points and Kearns 14.

High point man for Texas Christian was Julius Dolnics with 15.

Two games are on tap tomorrow, Texas and Rice tangle at Houston and Southern Methodist and Baylor at Dallas.

The hectic conference race reached some sort of a climax last Saturday night at Waco when a group of fans shoved referee Ziggy Sears after the Texas-Baylor game, which Texas won, 36-31..

James H. Stewart, executive secretary of the conference, yesterday termed the incident an "indictment against the supporters of intercollegiate athletics."

Stewart witnessed the action.

A group of fans surrounded Sears after the game and shoved him back against the scorers' table. Baylor Athletic Director Ralph Wolfe and Baylor Coach Bill Henderson came to his aid and escorted him to the dressing room.

Stewart said "the athletic authorities at Baylor are to be commended for their prompt control of the situation which averted a possibly more serious incident."

Pampa Sportsmen's Club Meets Tonight

The Pampa Sportsmen's Club will hold its regularly scheduled meeting tonight, Tuesday, in the County Court Room of the Court House. The meeting will start at 8 o'clock.

Club president Earl Casey said the meeting would discuss and decide upon the club's program for the present year.

Coach Al Severance rates John Weglicki as the most improved player on the current Villanova basketball team.

1—Card of Thanks

Ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned. John 16:20.

GONE
We miss her in the place of prayer,
And by the hearth-fire's light:
We pause beside her door to hear
Once more her sweet "Good-night!"

There seems a shadow on the day,
Her smile no longer cheers:
A dimness of the stars of night,
Like eyes that look through tears.

Alone unto our Father's will
One thought hath reconciled:
That He whose love exceedeth ours
Hath taken home his child.

Fold her, O Father, in thine arms,
And let her henceforth be
A message of love between
Our human hearts and Thee.

MRS. KATHERINE GROSS
We would like to take this means to express to our friends in Pampa and McLean our gratitude for their kind deeds at the time of our great loss of our beloved mother and sister-in-law.

CHECK YOUR CAR
AND CHECK THE ACCIDENTS!

We are cooperating with the National Safety Campaign, which is endorsed by the National Safety Council, to prevent accidents.

These are the mechanical features that will be examined in the Police Traffic Safety Check:

BRAKES—Do they need adjustment! How about the hand brake?

LIGHTS—Do any bulbs need replacing? Are headlights properly focussed and aimed? Are tail and stop lights in good condition?

TIRES—Are they all in safe condition? (No cuts, fabric breaks, excessive wear?)

WINSHIELD WIPERS—Do they operate satisfactory? No blades need replacing?

HORN—Does it operate easily and when you need it? Are there any safety items that need attention, such as steering, defects in glass, rear view mirror, muffler, etc.? Have these checked regularly.

Market Briefs

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Feb. 21—(AP)—Skimpy demand for stocks paved the way for a declining market today.

Final prices showed a majority of losses, mostly fractional. Numerous shares, at the same time, were either unchanged or a trifle higher.

The day's business dropped to one of the lowest figures in months. Turnover was at the rate of 550,000 shares for the full session which would compare with Friday's 690,000, also a small total.

Some marketmen took the day off entirely to take advantage of tomorrow's recess in observance of Washington's birthday.

Losers most of the time included Santa Fe, Southern Railway, Union Pacific, Pacific Western Oil, Texas Co., Twentieth Century-Fox, Allied Chemical, Philip Morris, International Paper, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel.

Making a better showing were Republic Steel, Goodrich, Montgomery Ward, Anaconda Copper, Du Pont and American Airlines.

Atlantic and Gulf West Indies common jumped 4 and the preferred 3 points during the proceedings.

Colonial Pageant

LAREDO —(AP)— A colonial pageant and a ball will highlight activities today in Laredo's 52nd annual celebration of George Washington's birthday.

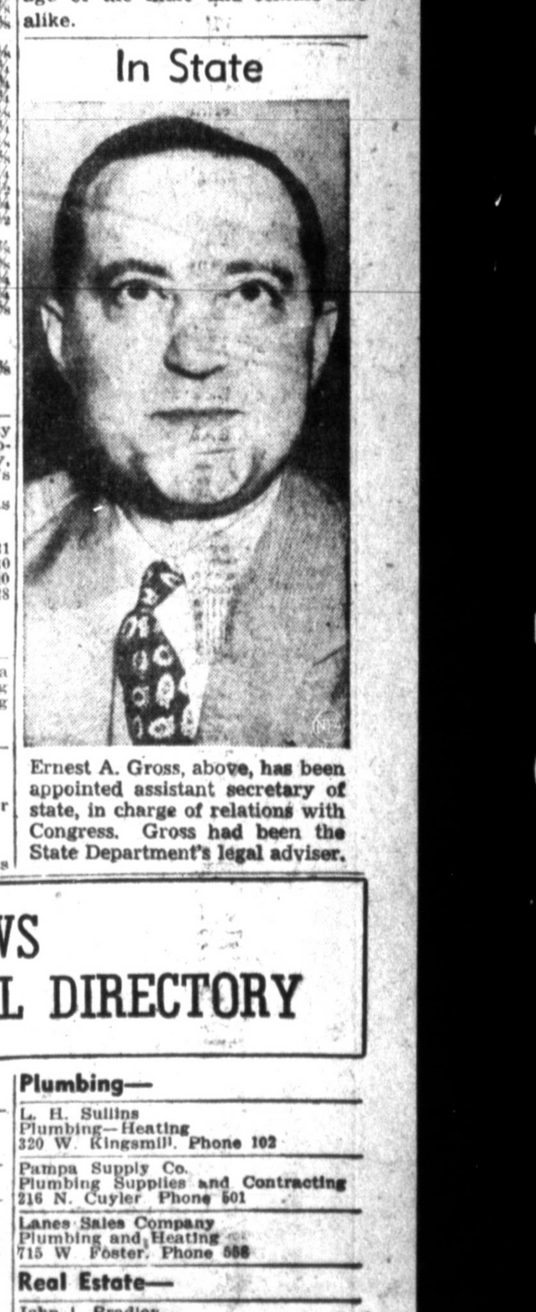

Sunday, the Pan-American Livestock Show started and a Mexican village — offering food, games, music and dancing — was opened.

BETTER MECHANICS

It requires a longer time to get an airplane mechanic's license than a pilot's license. The mechanic must have had at least two years' 'practical experience in a shop; only 200 hours of solo time is required of a transport pilot.

The wren is one of the few bird families in which the plumage of the male and female are alike.

DARING STEP

Officials of the first American railway, in the 1830's, feared to assume responsibility for carrying mail for the government, and took what officials thought was a daring step when they put on night trains to speed the mail.

RECOVERY IN GERMANY:

Industry Speaks Louder Than Politics In Quick Comeback of the 'Work Shop'

(First of a series)
By DANIEL DE LUCE

ESSEN, Germany —(AP)— Four years after high Allied statesmen glibly talked of turning Hitler's Reich into a goat pasture, Germany is on the road back.

This nation is still in political chains. Militarily, it is nowhere. But in industrial production, it is again competing for first place on the continent of Europe. Already jittery France has been equalled or outdistanced in several important production categories.

In surveying Germany's comeback, you can toss out the east zone, where 20 million Germans are under the guns and commissars of the Russian Army.

But that leaves 46 million Germans in the West. Even standing alone, they are a nation outnumbering France's 40 million and nearly equal to 48 million Britons of the United Kingdom. And this section accounted for three-fourths of the industrial production that made Germany No. 1 in Europe before the war.

Industries speak louder than politicians for West Germany today.

Coal, steel, electricity are the sinews of a modern power. West Germany has them, despite tremendous property losses by war and reparations.

Allied bombers struck strategic targets — synthetic oil refineries and ball-bearing plants, for example. They caused enormous damage to cities, which it may be impossible to repair completely in another 20 years.

But Flying Forts and Lancasters did not knock out coal deposits in the earth. Germany was second only to Britain as a producer of Europe's coal.

Nor did they pulverize the multi-ton presses and forges in the steel mills, which formerly rivalled Britain in their output and dwarfed France.

In electric power, the bombing was negligible. Excessive wartime wear and poor maintenance hurt the plants more.

Reparations are a long-range blow to West Germany's hopes. But they have not seriously crippled the recovery drive, because potential capacities are not yet fully utilized.

Production is nearing 80 percent of the prewar level of 1936. American administrators of the European Recovery Program want it to reach 110 percent by the end of 1952. Then a U. S. dole could be dispensed with. West Germany would be on its own feet, in spite of a population burden, 13 percent larger than in the 1930's.

West Germany had had only two real economic shots in the arm. One was an initial allocation of slightly more than $400 million from the ERP. The other was reform of the German currency, which Russia had been allowed to print in unlimited quantities.

West Germany's new place in the industrial hierarchy of Europe is summarized by a few statistics which are rarely given in proper juxta-position. They are the annual production rates of West Germany, France and Britain in early 1949 in four basic industries:

Hard and brown coal: West Germany 162 million tons. France, 48 million tons (plus 13,800,000 tons from the German Saar). Britain, 198 million tons.

Pig iron and ferro-alloys: West Germany, 6,200,000 tons. France, 7,200,000 tons (plus 1,300,000 tons from the German Saar). Bitain, 9,500,000 tons.

Steel ingots: West Germany, 7,600,000 tons. France, 7,800,000 tons (plus 1,400,000 tons from the German Saar). Britain, 15,600,000 tons.

Electric power: West Germany, 22,000 million kilowatt hours. France 27,000 million kilowatt hours. Britain, 43,000 million kilowatt hours.

It the Saar were reintegrated into West Germany, instead of being absorbed by the French economy, France would be a second-class industrial power in Western Europe.

West German mines have been exceeding 330,000 tons of hard coal daily — nine months ahead of the target envisioned by ERP —and may exceed 350,000 tons before December.

All this is enough to rattle the skeleton of the Morganthau Plan which conceived of postwar Germany as a land principally of small farmers and handicrafts, not the busy workshop of Europe it had been.

MAKES DIFFERENCE

Clocks run faster in high altitudes than in low, for in low altitudes the diminished gravity slows up the pendulum swing. Near the equator, the gravity pull is less than elsewhere on earth.

The average altitude of Spain is 2,000 feet, higher than that of any European country except Switzerland.
