Mother tosses kids to safety

Siege ends quietly

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A young mother held hostage by a bank robber in her apartment for nearly 24 hours walked to freedom Saturday night when the robber was distracted, authorities said.

The gunman then walked out of the apartment, threw down two pistols, and surrendered. He was whisked away in a police cruiser for questioning by the FBI.

The woman escaped when police brought hamburgers to her and the gunman, according to Charles McKinnon, agent in charge of the Cleveland FBI office. He said the robber "just yielded to reasonableness."

The woman, Clara Blair, 22, appeared to be unharmed. She was the last of four hostages taken Friday night following a robbery at a nearby bank.

Less than four hours earlier, Mrs. Blair tossed her two children out a second-story window to FBI agents when the gunman was distracted. A third child was released by the gunman early Saturday in exchange for $2,000 cash.

After the mother freed her children, Danielle, 13 months, and Isaac, 4, the FBI gave the gunman an additional $4,000 as sign of good faith, agents said.

The gunman, about 37 years old, identified himself variously as Ralph Moseley, Ralph Moses or John.

He took the hostages after fleeing a bank he had robbed Friday in this northeastern Ohio city. He demanded that two Cadillacs driven by FBI agents wearing only undershorts be provided for his escape. He also demanded "freedom and money," the FBI said.

Police said he told them he had "nothing to lose."

McKinnon said the gunman was in a hallway negotiating with agents when Mrs. Blair appeared at an apartment window Saturday afternoon.

Agents outside motioned for her to toss the children, which she did, McKinnon said.

Emmett Moore, a 4-year-old neighbor youth, was released about 2:30 a.m. EDT after the gunman demanded and got the $2,000. The boy had been playing outside the back door of the apartment when he was taken hostage.

At one point, the man saw television cameras and ordered that they be removed because he didn't want any pictures taken, police said.

"He seems lucid, he has his highs and lows," said Charles McKinnon,

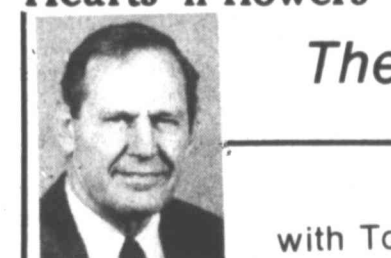

Black coach's contract cut

Big Spring High School's head basketball coach, James Griffin, has been notified that his contract will be terminated at the end of this school year.

Griffin, the first black head basketball coach in district 5-AAAA, coached the Steers to fourth place finishes the past two years.

Prince Mohammed Bin Zair Zaid, a 17-year-old from a sheikdom on the Persian Gulf coast of Trucial Oman, lives in a five-star hotel in Torquay where the rent separates his clan from a mere $2,250 a week. (That figures out to $321 a day).

If he is so inclined, he can tool about England in his own Mercedes, BMW or Pontiac. Apparently, in recent weeks, he has often been so amind.

However, young Zaid runs some agent in charge of the Cleveland FBI office.

Earlier, the gunman asked for warm milk for the infant and a tape recorder. The milk and a tape recorder furnished by a local reporter were sent up to him.

Police said they believed the gunman was armed only with the .38-caliber revolver he carried into the bank.

The episode began Friday afternoon when the man entered the Lincoln Knolls branch of the Dollar Savings and Trust Co. wearing a gas mask, said McKinnon.

He took an undetermined amount of money, fled out the back door with police in pursuit and ran to an apartment complex behind the bank. He tried doors until he found one unlocked, police reported.

Police did the same thing, and when officers found the gunman's hideout, they were greeted by one shot from the top of the stairs. There was no further gunfire.

Key nations asked to Nuke confab

WASHINGTON (AP) — Aiming to avert a spread of nuclear arms, President Carter has invited 24 key nations to help reappraise future development of nuclear energy in all aspects, including waste disposal and fuel supply.

A senior U.S. official, revealing the proposed conference in an interview, said most of the countries — each running a major nuclear program — have reacted positively to the American initiative. They include Communist, neutral and allied states with Brazil, South Africa and France among them.

At least six studies have been listed for the international review.

CRITICALLY INJURED — Mrs. Maurine Ringener, a passenger in this vehicle, was critically injured Saturday evening when another vehicle hit this car on E. 4th near Terry's Drive-In. Allen Parish is investigating the collision. The vehicle ended up far off the left side of the road after the collision.

Deputy clerk critical after two-car crash

Mrs. James C. (Maurine) Ringener, a deputy in the Howard County clerk's office, was in critical condition Saturday night after the car her husband was driving was struck by another vehicle near Terry's Drive-in on E. 4th around 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Mrs. Ringener, who was suffering from an apparent skull fracture and head injuries, was taken to Medical Center Hospital in Odessa from Malone-Hogan where she was treated in the emergency room following the accident.

Her husband was treated for lacerations and other possible injuries and hospitalized at Malone-Hogan. City Patrolmen Allen Parish, investigating officer, said the couple had apparently just pulled on to E. 4th from Terry's Drive-in when a vehicle driven by Domingo Polanco Rios struck the Ringener vehicle.

The Ringener vehicle turned over several times, threw Mrs. Ringener out in the street and came to rest over 225 feet from the point of impact on the left side of the road.

The vehicle driven by Rios, with Joe Shavareto as a passenger traveled an additional 100 feet and stopped in the far right hand lane of E. 4th.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: 'Frankenstein'

Q. "Our son is in the service overseas, and he wants to know about the movie 'Young Frankenstein.' Was it produced in color, or were both a color and black and white version made? He has a friendly bet on this, so I would appreciate an answer.

A. It's pronounced "Frank-en-shteen." The writers of the movie script, Gene Wilder and Mel Brooks, described "Young Frankenstein" as "a salute to the great horror movies of the '30's," and for this reason, the movie was shot entirely in black and white and in the same 1:85 frame size conventional in that era.

The movie is the 26th cinematic version of Mary Shelley's novel "Frankenstein." It was 54 days in the making and most of it was shot on old MGM movie sets which have since been razed for commercial development. The electrical gadgetry in the laboratory scenes were the creations of Ken Strickfaden, 78, who supplied the same type of "alarming" machinery for the 1931 "Frankenstein."

Sticking to the comedic format of the movie, the monster, played by Peter Boyle, was outfitted with a zipper in his neck.

Calendar: Museum open house

TODAY

The Big Spring Kennel Club will sponsor a Dog Show at the Dora Roberts Fair Barn at the fairgrounds Sunday. Eligibility is limited to pure bred dogs and entries are from 11 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. There will be conformation and obedience classes.

MONDAY
Permian Basin Health Systems Board will meet 7:30 p.m. at Terminal. The Coahoma Band Boosters will meet 7:30 p.m. Monday in the Band Hall. New officers will be elected. Refreshments will be provided.

Offbeat: Neat thief

A neat thief put everything back at the Honda shop at 906 E. 4th except for one motorcycle and one helmet which he took with him Friday night. It was reported to local police Saturday morning that whoever entered the shop removed the air conditioner and took a cycle and helmet out the door.

The door was closed and relocked and the air conditioner was put back in its place.

TV's best: Con game

The best on television tonight is probably "Paper Moon", a 1973 movie starring the father-daughter team of Ryan and Tatum O'Neal. It's about a widow-fleeing con man who is beaten at his own game by a deceptively innocent nine-year-old, 8 p.m. on CBS. Another interesting show is the "Father Knows Best Reunion", 7 p.m. on NBC.

DROPPED TO SAFETY — Danielle Blair, 18 months, is thrown from the second floor window of her town house apartment into the arms of Youngstown FBI Agent Gordon Johnson. Youngstown Police Chief Donald G. Baker cradles Danielle's brother, Isaac, 4, dropped only moments before. The children and their mother, Mrs. Carla Blair, were being held hostage by a bank bandit who late Saturday surrendered.

Prairie dogs winning battle

By MARJ CARPENTER

There's a prairie dog war waging on E. 21st Street and the prairie dogs are winning.

Five years ago, Mrs. J.W. Coots, 1016 E. 21st, brought home two or three prairie dogs that she had captured in Glasscock County.

She enjoyed watching them and turned them loose in her yard, feeding them scraps from the school cafeteria, which she brought home in the evenings.

During the summer months, she bought day-old bread to feed the pets.

The neighbors and the neighbor's children also enjoyed them — before they began to multiply. The children

HELLO THERE
... welcome to my house

still enjoy them, but some of the neighbor's are a little bit alarmed over the population explosion.

CHECKING THE GAS METER
... no prairie dog shortage

There are a lot more prairie dogs on 21st Street than there are in the preservation area in the state park. In fact, there got to be so many prairie dogs that the animal warden removed some of them last year.

But this didn't thwart the happy prairie dogs. They had more prairie dogs. Currently, nobody is sure of the count, but there is one that has taken up residency by the mailbox, one by the gas meter, several in the driveway and more in the back yard.

The dog across the street is having a nervous break-down. He used to bark at the prairie dogs and chase them, but nowadays, he simply lies there and growls, looking in the general direction of prairie dog town.

The prairie dogs are not timid. They will walk right out in the middle of the street and look at passing vehicles like they have no rights in their territory.

There is a brushy area behind the house, but Mrs. Coots says that for some reason, they won't move to the brush. They like civilization and they like the neighborhood.

The neighbors with lawns are not thrilled over the prospect of prairie dog holes. They try to capture the dogs as they enter their yards, but the animals head back for the hole when they sense what is happening.

Threats with brooms and rocks fail to upset the prairie dogs at all. Neighbors report that the animals think it's a game. One youth in the neighborhood said he squirted them with a garden hose and "I think they thought I was cooling them off."

The dogs are completely unconcerned over the disagreement as to their desirability. They like Big Spring, even if some of the people up on E. 21st say it has "gon to the dogs."

KEEPS SCORE — Roxanne Ritchie, a junior at MIT, tells of threats she received after a report she co-authored appeared in a student newspaper. The article rated the sexual performance of 36 men and lists them by name.

Coeds play and tell

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Two coeds have created a campus furor by publishing a "Consumer Guide to MIT Men" in which they rated the sexual performance of 36 male students by name, awarding each from four stars to none.

Massachusetts Institute of Technology President Jerome Wiesner has denounced the guide, which appeared last month as a full-page article in the student newspaper, "Thursday."

More than 200 MIT students have signed a petition protesting the article as a "very cruel commentary on a very sensitive issue."

The story, illustrated with a cartoon of a naked couple, rates the men downward from four stars to no stars, and includes descriptions of their technique, physical attributes and personal hygiene.

It was written by Roxanne Ritchie and Susan Gilbert, both MIT juniors who are not on the newspaper staff. The women said they based the ratings on personal experience.

Miss Ritchie said that her intent was to show how women feel when "expected to perform for men."

Urge white supremacy end

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Walter F. Mondale, taking off Saturday on a 10-day trip through Europe, is expected to urge an end to the era of white supremacy in South Africa.

Four days after President Carter returned from a European summit, Mondale left on a five-nation swing through Europe with Lisbon, Portugal, as the initial stop for a conference Sunday with Andrew Young, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

Young has been at the Ivory Coast meeting with U.S. ambassadors to African nations.

A high point of Mondale's second foray abroad as vice president will come Thursday in Vienna at a session with South Africa's Prime Minister John Vorster.

Administration officials say Mondale, placed by Carter in primary charge of U.S. policies in Africa, will warn Vorster that South Africa must modify its racial apartheid system or face U.S. hostility.

Rich oilfield found

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A large new oilfield was discovered off the shores of southern Mexico further boosting the country's already big natural fuel reserves, the Mexican state petroleum monopoly Pemex announced Friday.

A Pemex statement said a test well in the new field located in the Gulf of Mexico off the coast of Campeche State started producing 2,000 barrels of crude oil a day naturally, without the use of special pumping devices.

Oilmen consider a well producing 1,500 barrels daily high.

Mexico has proven crude oil reserves of 11 billion barrels, but overall possible gross reserves are estimated as high as 60 billion barrels — which would make it one of the world's biggest producers.

Most of the new reserves are the result of new finds made in the southern part of the country during the last four years.

New image for OSHA?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The new director of the Occupational Safety and Health Administration says she intends to shed the agency's image as a nitpicker and instead concentrate on hazards that threaten to kill workers at their jobs.

Eula Bingham says her hope is to turn the troubled agency into a partner of industry rather than an adversary. She thinks OSHA's continued survival depends on the success of her efforts.

"I don't want to see it go down the drain until it has had a chance to work," she said in an interview. "That means cutting out the Mickey Mouse and focusing on the truly hazardous situations that make people sick and die."

Ms. Bingham, who prefers that designation, has taken on one of the toughest jobs in the Carter administration, running an agency that has been criticized by industry and labor since its creation in 1970.

Responsible for alleviating working conditions that each year kill, injure or sicken millions of workers, OSHA's regulations, such as those requiring coat hooks in toilet stalls and advice to farmers that cow manure can be slippery, have made it the butt of numerous jokes.

Employers have charged the agency is a harassment.

Russia slaps at China

MOSCOW (AP) — Western leaders are naive if they hope to avoid "the sword of Chinese militarism" by cooperating with Peking against the Soviet Union, Pravda said Saturday.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper, in an article regarded as a major Kremlin policy statement, charged China with striving to "bring mankind back to the time of not only cold war, but shooting war as well."

Western diplomatic sources in Moscow rated the article as the strongest, most detailed and authoritative criticism of China to appear in the Soviet press since the death of China's Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung last September.

"It represents full-scale resumption of the polemics from the Soviet side," said one specialist in Soviet-Chinese relations.

Since the early 1960s Moscow and Peking have waged a propaganda war, punctuated by occasional border clashes, because of ideological differences and long-standing disputes over border territory.

The 2,500-word Pravda article was signed by "I. Alexandrov," a signature used for commentaries known to reflect the views of the Kremlin's top leadership.

Hays: One year later

BELMONT, Ohio (AP) — Wayne Hays was riding high a year ago. He was one of the most powerful men in the nation's capital and he had just wed a beautiful woman 30 years his junior.

He was enjoying the best of both worlds at age 65. Then on May 23, 1976, his downfall began. The Washington Post disclosed the story of a Capitol Hill secretary who said Hays placed her on the federal payroll at $14,000 a year — solely for sex.

"Why, I can't even type," revealed Elizabeth Ray, a 33-year-old clerk on one of Hays' congressional committees.

Hays denied, then admitted, the affair with Miss Ray. But he insisted she could type. The ensuing scandal — which later spread to include charges that he abused his power and regularly took expensive foreign junkets — quickly cost him his powerful committee posts and, eventually, the seat in Congress he had held since 1948.

A beaten man, he returned to his 200-acre farm amid the rolling hills of eastern Ohio to nurse his wounds, both mental and physical. There he remains today.

Besides the pain of disgrace, he also was plagued by diverticulitis, an inflammation of the colon. Time is a great healer, and a sadder but wiser Wayne Hays seems to have shed some of his pain — and much of his arrogance.

"I'm feeling much better," he said one recent afternoon. "My diverticulitis is no longer bothering me and I'm enjoying life here on the farm."

Tanned and fit-looking, Hays was clad in a sport shirt, cardigan and slacks — the picture of a contented country gentleman in the coal-mining hills of Appalachia.

Although he publicly feared for his new marriage during the height of the scandal, the union seems to have weathered the storm.

"Pat loves it here out in the country," he said. "She says she wouldn't live anywhere else." His 36-year-old wife had worked for him for several years, first in his Washington office and later as manager of his district office in Ohio.

The cattle situation is not so bright. Hays said he was considering selling his prize Angus herd.

"I may sell off part of my farm," added Hays, who celebrated his 66th birthday this past Friday. "The place really is too much for me at my age."

Work nearing end on spending bill

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — House and Senate negotiators thought they saw the light at the end of the tunnel Saturday in their efforts to write a compromise 1978-79 state spending bill.

Sen. A.M. Aikin, D-Paris, head of the Senate conference group, predicted the main decisions of the $15 billion plus general appropriations bill would be made during the weekend, leaving a Monday session for cleanup work.

"The price tag right now is running pretty close to the House bill," said Speaker Bill Clayton, who was around for most of the Saturday meeting. "I have been real pleased with the progress."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, who attended a number of the earlier meetings, had a top aide on hand at all times.

As the 10-man conference committee attempted to settle differences between the $15.37 billion House bill and the $15.7 billion Senate bill they generally took the lowest appropriations, or split the difference.

One knotty problem was solved Saturday when Man guilty of selling top secrets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Andrew Daulton Lee, a 25-year-old cabinetmaker accused of selling U.S. intelligence secrets to the Soviet Union, was convicted Saturday on eight counts of conspiracy and espionage.

After slightly more than a day of deliberations, a federal court jury brought back a guilty verdict that could lead to life imprisonment.

Lee, son of a prominent pathologist, had contended that in passing documents to Soviet agents in Mexico City, he was acting on behalf of the Central Intelligence Agency. Lee claimed that the information he gave the Russians was intended to confuse them.

Lee and his parents, who had attended the entire trial, listened to the verdict in silence.

Lee's co-defendant Christopher Boyce, was convicted April 28 of espionage and conspiracy charges. Boyce, a former clerk at TRW Systems, Inc. in suburban Redondo Beach, was accused of stealing secret documents and codes, passing some to the Soviet embassy in Mexico City and giving others to Lee.

However, Boyce claimed that he had been blackmailed by Lee into a life of espionage.

The documents Lee and Boyce were accused of giving the Russians concerned a secret CIA satellite communications system known as the Pyramider Project.

The prosecution said national defense was endangered by Russian knowledge of Pyramider, but Boyce and Lee contended it was a "dead project" because it had been abandoned by the CIA and that the documents would only confuse the Soviets.

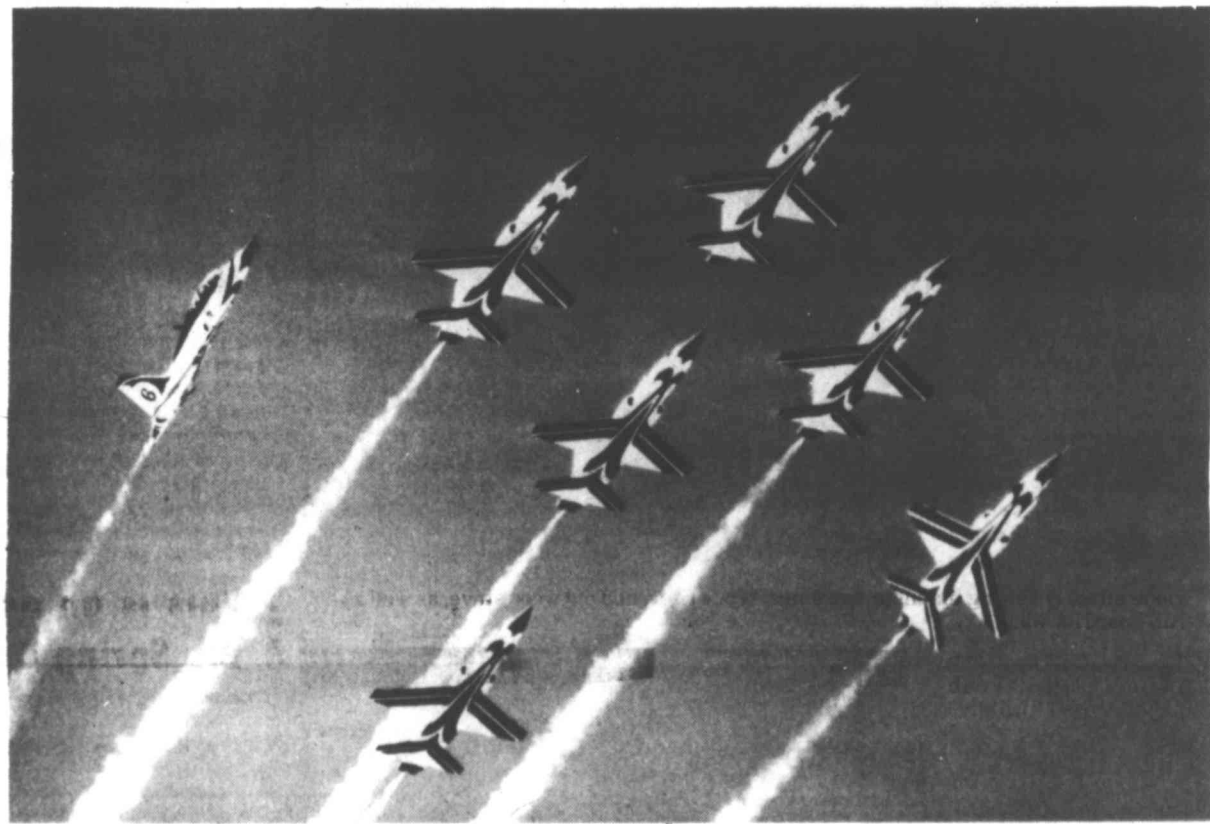

The government denied that Lee was working for the CIA. Lee was arrested Jan. 6 in Mexico City. In his pocket was a white envelope containing microfilm pictures of the Pyramider documents.

Although the system was never built, the government contended the Pyramider documents were appropriately classified top secret because they contained sensitive information about U.S. intelligence activities.

The charges against Lee included conspiracy, acting as an agent of a foreign government, and stealing, possessing and attempting to transmit government documents.

conferees decided to put a limit on the off-campus classes that many state colleges and universities conduct, usually for considerable profit. Examples given were classes conducted by Sul Ross University in El Paso and instruction given in Dallas by North Texas State at Denton.

The compromise calls for no cap or limit the next year but in 1979 state schools with off-campus classes could collect full payment only for up to eight per cent of the school's full time attendance. Off campus instruction above eight per cent would be repaid only 65 per cent by the state.

THUNDERBIRDS PERFORM HERE NEXT SUNDAY — Climaxing an open house scheduled at Webb AFB next weekend, the famed Thunderbirds will perform in the skies over Big Spring Sunday. The gates open at noon and the T-Bird show gets under way at 2:40 p.m., with takeoff scheduled at 3 p.m. Seven aircraft arrive at a show site but only five planes are actually flown during an aerial demonstration. The remaining two are piloted by the team's narrator and logistics and are always on "show ready" stand-by status.

Police beat Kids clip lawn, then employer

A man who resides on NW 7th told police that when he was paying two youths $5 for mowing his lawn, they grabbed his billfold and ran.

The billfold contained $100 and important papers. He told police he did not know the names of the boys.

In other action, at 8 p.m. Friday a man was found on the ground at NW 4th and N. Lancaster. Witnesses told police he "had been taking pills, suddenly fell over and hit his head on some rocks."

The man was rushed to the Malone-Hogan Hospital for overnight observation. Two young shoplifters, six and ten years old, were turned over to their parents after being caught in the 7-11 Store at FM 700 and Birdwell Lane.

Jimmy Hopper Toyota reported a stolen vehicle. American Motor Inn reported a theft of saws, sanders and other tools valued at $327.

Missing bicycles were reported by Patsy Gass at 1104 Douglas and Richard Deal at 106 Lincoln. Both were boy's Huffy bicycles.

Yvonne Payne at 1506A Lindberg said somebody smashed her right headlight, broke the antennae and the outside mirrors on her vehicle.

The 7-11 at 4th and Franklin said a vehicle left without paying for gas shortly after midnight.

A number of minor accidents were reported, including one at N. Scurry and NW 3rd at 10:16 a.m. Saturday. Drivers involved were Rogers McElison Brown, 601 N. San Antonio and Georgia Alexander McCurdy, 1102 N. Main No. 54.

At 10:30 a.m. Saturday, two cars collided at 5th and Gregg. Drivers involved were Ricky Dean Creswell, 500 Owen and Donald Ray Douglas, Rt. 1, Bx 513.

On Friday at 5:09 p.m., a vehicle driven by David Michael Leyva, 807 Johnson, struck a parked vehicle on Furr's parking lot.

were William Paul Darrow,

609 W. 17th and Arthur Lee Minneman, 1606 Bluebird.

At 6:31 p.m. at 1609 Harding, vehicles driven by San Juanita Martinez, 1510 Oriole and Greg Thomas Bastock, 805 Johnson, collided.

On Friday morning at 8:29 a.m., vehicles driven by Robert Bruce Bright, 609½ Bell and Gail Whitney Sutphen, 1414 11th Pl. collided at 4th and Gregg.

At 1:43 a.m. Saturday, a vehicle hit a parked vehicle at 100 NE 9th. The driver got out and fled.

When a paint job is interrupted temporarily (such as overnight) the brushes are often left standing in turpentine or similar solvent so as to keep them soft without cleaning them until you are ready to start work again. A handy emergency container for this purpose can be quickly improvised from an empty cardboard milk container. Cut the top off, then push a wire through opposite ends near the top edge of the container. This wire can be fed through holes previously drilled in the handles of the brushes so as to keep them suspended in the liquid — but make sure the bristle tips do not touch the bottom.

A full line of quality paints and painting supplies is available at HARRIS LUMBER & HARDWARE, 844 at Birdwell Lane. We feature everything to help the do-it-yourselfer with any remodeling or repair job. Let our qualified personnel help you solve your building problems. Our huge inventory includes paneling, vinyl tile, power tools, ladders, aluminum windows and doors, and all your hardware needs. Call us at 267-8206. Delivery service and parking are available. We are open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m., and on Saturdays until 4 p.m. MasterCard and Bank Americard are honored. Howard instructor gets doctor's degree

Mrs. Mary Bailey, social science instructor at Howard College, received the Doctor of Education degree (Ed.D.) in ceremonies at Texas Tech University in Lubbock on May 13.

She was one of ten students who was awarded the doctor's degree in higher education administration. Her dissertation was entitled, "Perceived Satisfaction of Adult Students with Community College Traditional Programs."

Dr. Bailey began her teaching career at Howard College in the Fall of 1966 with instruction in history and sociology. She is the wife of Donald G. Bailey, a local architect, and they have one daughter, Diane who is a student at North Texas State University.

Dr. Bailey received the bachelor's degree from Texas Tech, as well as the master's degree. In addition, she took additional work at Sul Ross and Tarleton universities.

Research for her dissertation was completed based on a study done at Howard College.

California crash kills Fort Worth truck driver

TWENTY-NINE PALMS, Calif. (AP) — One man died and another suffered second and third degree burns over 90 per cent of his body early Saturday when two trucks collided on Interstate 10 just west of the Twenty-Nine Palms turnoff, a highway patrol spokesman said.

Police identified the victim as Nathaniel Lewis, 38, of Fort Worth. Lewis' passenger, Leroy Weathersby, 37, was listed in critical condition with second and third degree burns.

The accident temporarily blocked all four eastbound lanes of the highway for about six hours. Officers in Banning said the 1 a.m. collision caused Lewis' truck and trailer to jackknife across the throughfare, spraying fuel on both trucks and on the freeway. Both vehicles then burst into flame.

Police said Lewis burned to death in the cab of his truck.

Weather — Skies reported cloudy over most of state

Powerful southerly winds pushed low level moisture into Texas Saturday and created clouds over much of the state that prevented many residents from working on their weekend sunbaths.

Some scattered showers and thunderstorms erupted in parts of West Texas, where the National Weather Service issued a tornado watch as conditions making twisters possible were created.

Winds in West Texas reached gusts of up to 30 miles an hour.

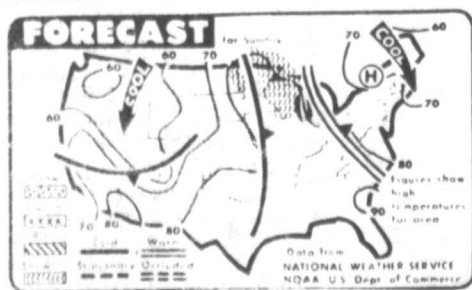

Skies in East and Far West Texas were clear.

Temperatures eased up to the upper 70s and mid 80s by mid-afternoon with Tyler reporting an afternoon high of 86 degrees under clear skies.

The forecast called for partly cloudy to cloudy skies and warm temperatures.

temperatures through Sunday, with skies expected to clear in West Texas.

Texas consumers wouldn't be helped

Last Sunday's Jack Anderson column indicates again how the regional economic warfare is breaking out.

Anderson, in a column run by the Big Spring Herald, had a short report toward the end of his always rather sensational writing that contended that the Federal Power Commission was favoring Texas utility magnates at the expense of the consumer. Anderson said:

"THE AGENCY'S tilt, in defiance of President Carter's energy plan, could cost consumers almost $200 million by the end of the decade. Carter has urged that regional electric systems hook up with each other. This would cut rates and save power by allowing electricity to move across state lines as the need arises."

"Most of Texas, however, is not connected to the nation's power system. And most of the huge private utilities in Texas want to keep it that way."

I read this with some disgust. He is referring to the large Texas Utilities System, including Texas Electric Service Co. which serves Big Spring, and the systems around Houston.

What Anderson wants is to tap onto the generating power of these strong systems to augment the weaker ones in other areas. (Not all of the weak ones are in the Northeast; some Texas and Oklahoma systems are also having serious problems.)

President Carter, too, seeks to regulate all energy, even the previously untouched intrastate systems which the courts have left out of the federal government's greedy grasp.

When Anderson says such a hookup would save consumers money, he doesn't mean us. He is not referring to consumers served by these Texas systems.

He means that it would save consumers in the rest of the nation money.

But he neglects to mention two significant points:

1) The strong generating position in which these Texas utility systems find themselves did not accidentally happen. The companies had foresight to convert to lignite coal long before most of us ever heard of the energy crisis. 2) This strong position has been paid for by consumers in places like Big Spring who were willing to pay enough for their electrical power that the companies serving them could reinvest in updated power plants for years to come.

The same options were available to every utility system in this nation, and to the consumers they serve.

THE CONSUMERS in other places chose to create political bodies which regulated and weakened the return of their systems, to lag behind in development of alternate sources of energy other than natural gas.

We did not. With the foresight of Texas Utilities and a consumer who recognized the value of having a reliable energy supply, our part of the nation has not suffered from the shortages, such as the one that left the Northeast in the dark during 1965.

Sure, our situation looks most enviable right now. We invested in adequate energy supplies, and we have them — and we now pay rates lower than in other parts of the country, even with our very adequate supply.

But Anderson and others sit back and drool at the strong position of these Texas systems.

They say that, by tapping onto these systems, generating plants might not have to be built in other areas of the nation — thus saving other consumers the costs which we have already paid.

Being federally regulated would mean that the federal government could siphon off our power to cover the self-inflicted weaknesses of other regions.

The Texas companies being referred to contend that there would be no real savings since the traditional generating plants will be needed anyway as America's energy appetite increases and as the need to build coal and nuclear plants grows.

Anderson's consumers are grasshoppers who played in summer, while our utility companies worked like ants. Now that winter has arrived, the grasshoppers are trying to vote themselves a share of our store.

They are nothing but bandits. —J. TOM GRAHAM

Evans, Novak

MADRID — Intimidating tactics by the Soviet Union against Spain as it ends 41 years of totalitarian rule by military dictatorship and seeks admission to the Western community reached a momentary peak late last year when a low-ranking Soviet commercial attaché telephoned Prime Minister Adolfo Suarez and demanded an audience — at 3 a.m.

Although warned in advance that such an untimely demand on the Spanish head of government would constitute a diplomatic offense, the Soviet diplomat — Sergio Bogomolov — refused to back off. He had his instructions in a cable from Moscow, he said, and he would carry them out.

THE INSTRUCTIONS were forthwith to inform Suarez that the November meeting of the Warsaw Pact in Bucharest had adopted a three-point political doctrine, the third point of which had invited both the telegram and Bogomolov's rudeness: that no new members were to join either the Warsaw Pact (which would have to search far for any new participants) or NATO (which Spain, rid of Franco and moving toward free elections, very much wishes to join).

In the prime minister's house early that post-midnight hour an aide angrily informed Bogomolov that his diplomatic note would have to wait till morning. At 8 a.m. Bogomolov arrived at Suarez's residence with his message from Moscow. The prime minister refused to see him and the note was left with an underling, but its impact was profound: Spain's dedicated and thus far successful drive toward genuine democratic reform after four decades of fascism is being perceived in Moscow as both a threat — and an opportunity.

Indeed, the intimidating rudeness of Bogomolov (now established here as ambassador following restoration of full Spanish-Soviet diplomatic relations) is only the tip of the iceberg of Soviet machinations to block Spain's two external objectives: joining NATO and the European Common Market.

Yet, under present conditions, the Kremlin is unlikely to have any more impact on these two goals of the new Spain than Bogomolov had in his attempt to barge in on Prime Minister Suarez at 3 a.m. But conditions in Western Europe are in a dangerous state of flux, Spain particularly not excepted. The mere fact that Moscow is making such an effort has prospective importance.

THE FIRST SOVIET scheme is to block Spain's entry into NATO. With three of NATO's Mediterranean members — Turkey, Greece and Italy — presenting varying states of political jeopardy to the alliance, the importance of Spain's future membership is brutally obvious.

Even without Gibraltar (under British sovereignty despite rising pressure here) Spain holds a key to the door from the Atlantic to the Mediterranean Sea, and the Mediterranean is home to the U.S. Sixth Fleet and the link to Greece, Turkey and the Middle East.

For now, Moscow's stick of intimidation of Spain over NATO is having no effect whatsoever, except as a possible inducement for more favored treatment by Washington.

JUMPING ROPE

Children's games come and go but one that seems to remain popular is "jumping rope." Jumping rope can be done by one or several players, is good exercise and it helps to build coordination.

You could buy single jump ropes when I was growing up but we usually made our own. Cotton window weight rope was just about the best thing to use. From a broomstick we'd cut two handles about 6 inches long. We would notch the ends of each one with a pocket knife then tie the rope to them.

Group jump ropes didn't have handles and they were usually made from heavier rope. The ends would be knotted for a hand grip.

Jumping the rope consisted of twirling the rope over your head then jumping over it as it came under your feet while you said or sang some rhyme or counted. The idea was to see how long you could go without messing up.

In group jumping one or two people turned a long rope and one or several players jumped at the same time.

Some of chants were as follows:

One, two, buckle my shoe,

Three, four, shut the door,
Five, six, pick up sticks,
Seven, eight, lay them straight,
Nine, ten, a big fat hen.

Raspberry, raspberry, raspberry jam,
What are the initials of your young man?
A.B.C.

Mother, Mother, I am ill;
Send for the doctor to give me a pill.
Doctor, Doctor shall I die?

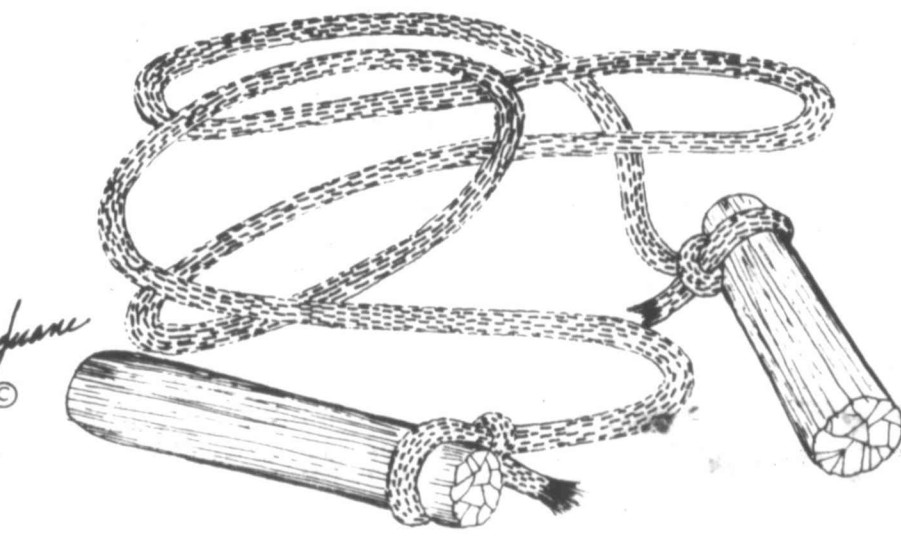

Yes, my dear, and so shall I.
How many carriages shall I have?
One, two, three.

Various words described different ways of jumping the rope. "Hot Peppers" meant to turn the rope as fast as possible to try to get the jumper to miss. "High Waters" was where you spun the rope a foot or so off the ground and the jumper had to jump much higher than usual. "Rocking the Boat" or "Rocking the Cradle" the rope swung back and forth under the feet, not over the head. In "Run Through" the player ran through the fast-turning rope, trying not to be touched by the rope.

Individual rope jumpers could run as they jumped, skip or just stand in one place. Skilled jumpers could cross their arms in front of them as the rope went around.

I have no idea what the record for jumping the rope might be but I knew several kids that could jump well above a hundred times. The chants and counting may have changed but jumping the rope is about the same as it's always been — a game of skill and fun.

She feels only 'part' woman

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a woman 21 years old. Because of my problem I feel only partly woman. I have been happily married for two years, but I can't get aroused by my husband's love-making. I get a little pleasure from his holding and fondling, but I never experience the other physical changes that I understand I should.

I feel very cheated, and what man will remain with a woman who can't return his love? What is wrong with me, and what can be done to help me? —Mrs. D.S.

You undoubtedly are all woman, but you have an obsession about your sexual response. From 20 to 30 per cent of women do not have an orgasm, yet the sex act is not necessarily distasteful to them.

You state you get some pleasure from fondling, which could be a weak orgasm response in itself. The other changes relate to a physical matter, and at any rate they are not related to whether or not you are "returning" your husband's love.

I doubt there is anything wrong that time and patience, won't correct. You are, after all, only 21.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understand that high blood pressure is a disease and low blood pressure is a symptom. Right? —Mrs. R.T.

Right and wrong. High blood pressure can exist as a disease with no discoverable cause. That's called "essential hypertension." But more often than not the high blood pressure is a sign of some other disorder causing it. Here it is a symptom.

Low blood pressure (and it depends on your definition of "low") is usually a symptom of an underlying disease, such as adrenal gland insufficiency or a wasting disease like tuberculosis or malnourishment. For a copy of my booklet on high blood pressure, send 35 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to me in care of the Big Spring Herald. It will answer other questions you may have.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Do you have any advice for us compulsive eaters, the kind who can't pass up a snack or a sweet? —Mrs. R.E.

Nothing short of suggesting the obvious alternative — self control. However, I ran across an article recently in "The Professional Nutritionist" that gave me a chuckle and also made some sense. Here's what the professionals advise, half whimsically.

Never eat standing up (eliminates snacks).

Choose one single place at home to eat — same room, same chair (further limits eating and snacking). Eat only when you can concentrate on the food alone (eliminates TV snacking, etc.).

Use small plates (makes small portions look bigger). Take small bites and chew well (extends eating time on less food).

I'm sure you can find other steps to add to this list of psychological aids to cut down on eating.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is the "Finkelstein sign"? It has something to do with my wrist bone. —Mrs. M.M.

It is a procedure used to determine a specific tendon irritation or damage in the wrist area. It is used in diagnosing DeQuervain's disease, painful inflammation of the sheath through which a particular tendon (abductor longus) passes.

The thumb is placed in the palm of the hand and is clasped by the other fingers. With a certain turning of the wrist a sharp pain results. That's the Finkelstein sign.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I notice that you often deal with the subject of marriage in your column. Why do there seem to be so many problems with marriages and families today, even among Christians? —G.Q.

DEAR G.Q.: The breakdown of family life is certainly one of the most alarming signs of our time. No civilization can last when the family unit is treated lightly or destroyed. In some parts of our nation there are as many divorces as marriages.

There are many reasons for this widespread problem. For one thing, many young people have never seriously thought about marriage and the responsibilities that go with it. I believe television and films have played a part in this, for time and time again marriage is mocked and divorce is accepted as normal. Also, the ease with which divorce is granted in many states has undoubtedly had an effect. Instead of working to solve problems in a marriage, many simply give up. Whatever the reason, bitter heartbreak and unhappiness are the inevitable result.

The basic problem, however, is that we have disobeyed God's rules, for the Bible says that marriage has been given to us by God. "Therefore shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh" (Genesis 2:24). Furthermore, marriage can be a source of great joy when we follow God's rules for it. Marriage is not simply an arrangement of mutual convenience; it is a vow taken before God, never to be broken by the partners. "Marriage should be honored by all, and the marriage bed kept pure, for God will judge the adulterer and all the sexually immoral" (Hebrews 13:4, New International Version).

I believe Christians should work diligently to strengthen family life by obeying all that God has commanded about marriage and sexual morality.

A day at the District Camporee

Attending the Lone Star Boy Scout District Spring Camporee held here Friday and Saturday means more than just camping out.

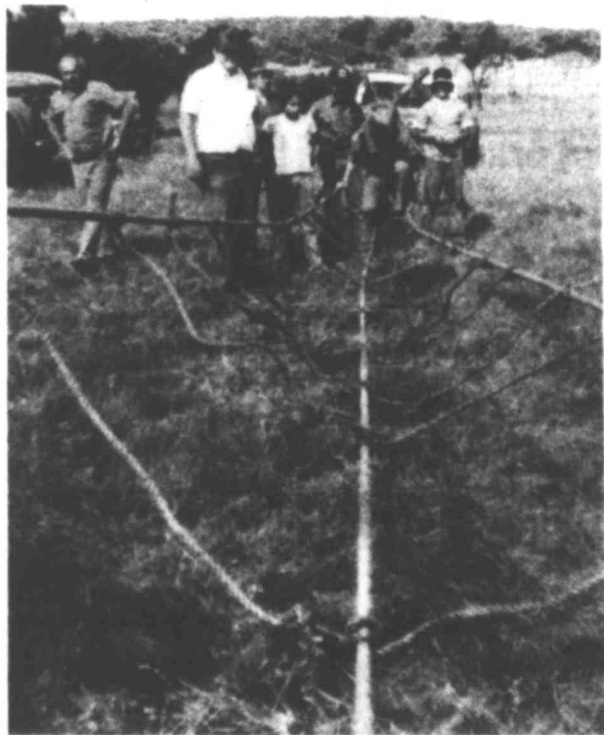

Scouts engage in competition with each other and with other patrols and troops in such things as athletic events, tracking skills, first aid and rescue, and, of course, building a campfire.

Game of bribery, cheating

'Nixon' won most marbles

SEATTLE (AP) — Eleven teenagers who played an educational game with marbles parlayed their cat's-eyes into money and power. They bought votes, bribed judges, and created laws to fatten their own pockets.

Their teacher says they acted just like adults in the real world, doing everything you'd expect from crooked politicians and capitalists.

Tom Bailey of Meany Middle School, who introduced the game to his pupils, said they seemed to be either naturally dishonest or figured "bribery is a part of surviving in this game, and bribery, on a small scale, seems almost ethical."

The game started off on an awkward note when Becky Gauff, 14, announced she wanted to be Richard Nixon.

She ended up as the wealthiest player — with 40 marbles.

Bailey served as GOD (Game Overall Director). He started the game — called "They shoot marbles, don't they?" — by choosing two "lawmakers" with a toss of the dice.

The two politicians chose a seemingly honest kid for judge, who, after the game, blurted out the truth about all the bribery that went on.

They also chose two law enforcers, who immediately began offering bribes and tried to organize the "shooters" into a labor union.

Shooters were the poor working stiffs who had to shoot at marbles on a green table to win more marbles — or lose them all, depending on luck, avarice and skill.

The only player who didn't accept any bribes also ended up with the least marbles — or money — at the end of the game.

The game spawned several laws, including an inevitable tax in which earnings over 10 marbles required a tax of three marbles. Earning 15 marbles meant a tax of four.

Then GOD announced there would be an opposition party — and the ensuing elections brought a new round of bribery, vote-buying and threats.

Canny

Americans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average American consumes about 150 pounds of canned food each year, according to the National Canners Assn. That represents more than 10 percent of total dietary intake.

The average family of four consumes about 700 metal and glass containers of food annually, the association reports. To meet the nation's canned food demand, the canning industry turns about 37 billion containers annually.

Kennel Club slates informal dog show

The Big Spring Kennel Club is putting on an informal dog show today at the Big Spring Fairgrounds and Rodeo Arena.

The show is sanctioned by the American Kennel Club, and is for both experienced and inexperienced show dogs, and handlers.

Entries should be registered with the desk from 11:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Events include Conformation; Puppy Sweepstakes, 3-6, 6-9, and 9-12 months old Open, Junior Showmanship; and Obedience; Sub-Novice, Novice, and Graduate Novice, Open and Utility.

Judges for the conformation will be Billye Sinclair, and Jimmy Helms, of Midland; and for the Obedience, Diane Vick of Denton.

Judging should start at about 1 o'clock. The show is informal, and inexperienced puppies, and people who have never shown dogs before are welcome to enter the contest.

It will cost $3 for the first entry, and $1 for each additional entry of the same dog. All puppies entered in the Sweepstakes must be entered in the Open. Spectators are also invited to attend the show.

Priest's son becomes priest

NEW YORK (AP) — The son of a Roman Catholic priest is being ordained into the priesthood. A spokesman for the Paulist order says the case may be the first of its kind since the Middle Ages.

Thomas Holahan Jr., 29, son of the Rev. Thomas Holahan, 52, is among nine members of the Paulist order to be ordained today at Manhattan's St. Paul the Apostle Church.

The Paulist spokesman said that so far as has been determined, it is the first time since the medieval period, lasting from 500 to 1500 A.D., that a priest's son was becoming a priest in the Latin (western) rite of Roman Catholicism.

The western rite requires its priests to be celibate.

However, Father Holahan, chaplain of the North Shore Community Hospital in Manhasset, N.Y., did not enter a religious order until 1968, six years after his wife's death.

The elder Holahan was ordained Dec. 20, 1975. He had worked in a bank here for the 25 years before that.

His son entered the Paulists in 1972 and for the last year has been a deacon at the campus Christian center at the University of California in Berkeley, Calif.

Although Catholic priests of the western rite were not allowed to marry in the Middle Ages, they often kept concubines and their male offspring were permitted to join the priesthood.

Worse plane crash claims 581st victim

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Another victim of the world's worst aviation disaster at Tenerife in the Canary Islands has died at the Brooke Army Medical Center, officials said Saturday.

Mrs. K. Hess, 36, of Phoenix, Ariz., died about 11 p.m. Friday night, a spokesman for the U.S. Army Institute of Surgical Research said.

Mrs. Hess was among the 12 victims brought to institute's burn center here on March 30, three days after a Royal Dutch KLM 747 jumbo jet collided on the runway at Los Rodeos Airport with a Pan Am 747.

The death count from the disaster now stands at 581.

Two more victims remain in very serious condition at Brooke. Three patients have been discharged, six have died and one other transferred to a civilian hospital in California, the spokesman said.

All 248 persons on the KLM flight died in the collision while 66 of the 396 passengers aboard the Pan Am charter flight survived.

Howard produced 42,011 barrels a day

Howard County, which has recorded production since 1925, last year produced 15,376,079 barrels of oil at the rate of 42,011 barrels per day.

Production in 1976 boosted the county's production total through the end of the year to 510,319,025 barrels.

Howard County was one of 27 counties which produced more than ten million barrels of crude oil, which represents a decrease of three counties from 1975.

Scurry County was the top producer in the state last year, with 83,071,294 barrels. Yoakum ranked second with 79,677,101 barrels, followed by Ector with 65,593,044.

Gaines with 61,016,272 and Hockley with 50,954,979.

Eight other counties topped 30-million barrels in production in 1976. They included:

(6) Andrews, 49,704,235 barrels; (7) Gregg, 48,907,825; (8) Wood, 45,981,125; (9) Refugio, 36,447,912; (10) Crane, 36,351,590; (11) Pecos, 33,643,903; (12) Brazoria, 33,186,267; (13) Harris, 31,730,710.

Gregg County, first Texas county to produce more than two billion barrels of crude oil in the history of recorded production, remains the all-time leader with a cumulative total of 2,549,507,979 barrels. Gregg's production started in 1931.

Other counties with cumulative production in excess of one-billion barrels include:

(2) Ector, 2,073,536,067 barrels; (3) Andrews, 1,803,287,631; (4) Rusk, 1,582,473,179; (5) Scurry, 1,372,606,328; (6) Crane, 1,185,983,717; (7) Harris, 1,164,398,276; Brazoria, 1,055,905,647.

Other counties which rated ahead of Howard in 1976 production included Chambers, Jackson, Kent, Montgomery, Rusk and Van Zandt.

Martin County had a production of 10,487,131 barrels in 1976 and has produced 105,220,269 barrels since oil was discovered there in 1945.

Mitchell County had its first discovery in 1920. Last year, Mitchell produced 4,934,117 barrels for an all-time total of 92,153,132 barrels.

Dawson, where the first well hit pay dirt in 1937, produced 9,941,618 barrels in 1976 for a grand total of 192,601,547 barrels.

Borden County produced 10,625,907 barrels last year. Since oil was first discovered in Borden in 1949, the county has produced 233,297,069 barrels.

Glasscock, where the first discovery was made in 1925, produced 4,148,907 barrels last year for a grand total of 118,742,261 barrels.

Texas mayor asks for strict gas controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mayor of tiny Grey Forest in South Texas has given a Congressional subcommittee his views about regulation of natural gas prices that were opposite from those given the panel by Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

After Briscoe had delivered his usual plea for deregulation of gas prices to the House energy and power subcommittee, Mayor Edwin Faust had his turn.

Faust, whose Bexar County town has a retail gas utility, told the subcommittee Friday that political leaders like Briscoe "speak for the oil and gas industry only."

Faust said the uncontrolled intrastate market in Texas has caused severe hardships on consumers as prices have risen to more than $2 per thousand cubic feet.

"The consumer can do nothing. The only relief the consumer can expect is at the national Congress level," he said.

Faust asked for strict controls on the price of gas, based on production cost plus a fair profit. He suggested that a controlled price should be well below the $1.75 proposed by the Carter administration.

That price, he said, was designed to "appease certain segments of the oil and gas industries and our legislative leaders."

Faust's remarks were echoed by former state representative Lane Denton of the Texas Farmers' Union, an unsuccessful candidate for the state's railroad commission last year.

Briscoe's comments in the hearing were closer to what Congress usually hears about gas prices from Texas witnesses.

The Carter energy program will fail, Briscoe said, unless it is changed to allow deregulation of gas prices.

Briscoe said the $1.75 level, equivalent to the price of a comparable amount of crude oil, was unrealistically low because natural gas burns cleanly and requires no refinement.

The proposed price would not provide incentives to find more gas or to persuade industry to switch to alternate fuels, he predicted. The result would be a continuing energy shortage.

Briscoe, who personally owns substantial natural gas reserves, said that it would be unfair for the energy plan to extend controls and allocation to the Texas intrastate market.

He said the adequate interstate supply that Texas consumers have bought with high prices should not be shared with consumers in other states who have had the benefit of artificially low interstate prices for many years.

Briscoe was joined in his remarks by Texas Public Utilities Commission chairman Garrett Morris and Railroad Commission chairman Mack Wallace.

Executives from Lone Star Gas Corp. and Houston Natural Gas Corp. also testified in favor of deregulation.

Texas, Mexican fire fighters battle blaze

REYNOSA, Mexico (AP) — Firemen from both sides of the border brought a fire under control early Saturday morning at the massive Petroleos Mexicanos refinery that had been rocked by at least two explosions, officials said.

No serious injuries were reported in the blaze that one McAllen fire department official said did several million dollars in damages to the Pe-Mex facility.

About 70 firefighters from Hidalgo, McAllen, Edinburg, Mission and Pharr scurried across the border to help Reynosa firemen fight the blazes that erupted after the explosions late Friday night.

A McAllen fire department spokesman said the situation in Reynosa's industrial park was "touch and go for a while" until valves on pipes bringing petroleum to the refinery were turned off.

Officials said the cause of the blaze was not immediately known.

Reynosa Mayor Raul Ramirez said persons evacuated from the area around the refinery processing unit were allowed to return to their homes after the fire had been brought under control and the threat of more explosions diminished.

SIX DEATHS — Police and firemen remove the body of one of the children of Reverend John Byner from his home after a fire destroyed the home and killed his wife and five of their children early Saturday morning. Byner and his 13-year-old son Patrick escaped the fire after awakening the family but were unable to save the rest of their family.

Man, son escape fire which kills family

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A minister escaped with one of his sons from his blazing home today, then watched helplessly from the backyard as his wife and five other children burned to death.

State Trooper Leon Hampton rushed to the scene when he spotted flames leaping high into the air and arrived to see the Rev. John Byner dash out the back door with his son Patrick, 13, close behind. "My family," the father told Hampton, "they're still inside."

The two tried to enter the house, but the heat was too intense.

"I thought for a minute I heard a baby crying in the kitchen, but then there was only silence," Hampton said later.

Efforts to douse the fire were futile and the house, in the community of Docena outside Birmingham, was completely destroyed.

Six bodies were found later, huddled in a corner of what had been the kitchen. The victims were identified as Dora Byner, 54, and children Lovie Jean, 19, Glenda, 17, Wayne, 15, Tony, 3, and Kelvin, 6 months.

Cause of the fire, which also killed a family dog, was not determined immediately.

Byner is pastor of St. John's CME Church.

UAW elects new president

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The United Auto Workers union, opening its 25th national convention Sunday, hopes for a display of unity as it elects a new president. But debates over reaffiliation with the AFL-CIO and President Carter's energy program could prove divisive.

On Wednesday, UAW delegates will gather in the Los Angeles Convention Center to elect only their third post-World War II president. Leonard Woodcock is retiring as head of the 1.4 million member UAW, largest industrial union in the nation.

The only announced candidate for the post is Vice President Douglas Fraser, a 60-year-old Scottish immigrant. He comes from the same social activist tradition as Woodcock, UAW president for the past seven years, and the legendary Walter Reuther, who headed the union from 1946 until his death in a plane crash in 1970.

Fraser, currently head of the union's Chrysler, skilled trades and political action departments, is popular with UAW rank-and-file members, and is expected to encounter no more than token opposition.

The most heated debate at the convention, which runs through Friday, likely will be on the question of whether the UAW should return to the AFL-CIO following a nine-year separation. Reuther pulled his union out of the federation in 1968 because of a personal and political feud with the more conservative AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Woodcock and Fraser are strong advocates of reaffiliation and will ask the delegates to approve a special one-day conclave in September to put the issue to a final vote.

Both men, however, have said the proposal is encountering substantial resistance among local union officials who prize their independence. Woodcock and Fraser have argued that the union has an obligation to reaffiliate in the name of a strengthened and unified American labor movement.

Carter's proposal to tax gas-guzzling cars and give rebates on fuel-efficient models also is expected to trigger much discussion. The President will have an opportunity to defend his plan on Tuesday, when he is slated to address the convention.

UAW leaders say they fear Carter's energy plan will have an adverse impact on auto sales, and thus, employment.

Also, Woodcock has

Newest watch talks to you

WASHINGTON (AP) — The modern watch is self-winding, shock resistant, waterproof and computerized. Soon it may also talk, says National Geographic.

Intersonics Corp. of New York received a patent for a vocal watch last December. The new battery-operated watch combines a numeral display with a miniature speaker and a solid state memory. At the press of a button, the watch tells you the time — literally — in any language the buyer wants.

Watches have changed a lot since their 1505 forerunner, an egg-sized timepiece that only told the hours, was made in Nuremberg.

For violent crimes

Bill would limit probation

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Punishing criminals more harshly and easing financial hardship for their victims got legislative action before legislators broke for the weekend.

On Friday the House approved, 103-26, Gov. Dolph Briscoe's bill requiring more time behind bars for criminals who use guns or who injure victims in rape, robbery, kidnapping or sexual abuse cases.

Such persons could not get probation. They would be eligible for parole only after serving 20 years or a third of their sentences. "Good time" for behaving themselves wouldn't count toward parole eligibility. And they would have to serve a minimum of two years in prison before having a chance at parole.

The same tough penalties would apply to people convicted of capital murder but who got prison sentences instead of the death penalty.

Convicts who complete their sentences without parole but who are released early because of "good time" would be placed under parole-like supervision until full terms of their sentences run out. "Good time" shortens sentences by 20 days for every 30 served.

Senators passed and sent to the House a bill creating a state fund to compensate victims of violent crimes for their medical expenses and other out-of-pocket losses, up to a total of $50,000.

The Texas Industrial

Accident Board, which administers the workmen's compensation program, would dole out the cash, raised from a $5 surcharge on court costs in traffic and criminal cases.

Another bill passed by the Senate would restore the right to vote to convicted felons who have served out all their prison, parole or probation time.

Still in the criminal area, the House passed the Senate a bill that would subject a businessman to penalties ranging as high as 180 days in jail and a $1,000 fine if he has pay toilets in his establishment.

Two major bills were passed by the House and returned to the Senate for action on amendments would:

—Raise maximum unemployment compensation benefits from $63 to $84 a week. An escalator clause would keep them rising at $7 for every $10 increase in the state's average wage in manufacturing.

—Merge the Texas Water Quality Board, the Texas Water Development Board and the Texas Water Rights Commission into one super-agency called the Texas Department of Water Resources.

Senators passed the House two bills in the law and order area. One authorizes counties to regulate nudist activities outside city limits and prohibits nudism near schools, churches and other public areas. The other allows the prison system to establish pilot programs to treat mentally disturbed sex offenders.

House members passed about 130 bills to the Senate Friday, including measures that would:

—Make all fishing licenses expire on Aug. 31 each year. They now expire a year from date of issue.

—Rank agriculture behind homes and hospitals—and ahead of industry and electrical power plants—for use of natural gas during periods of curtailment.

—Require charities—with exceptions for schools, churches, United Way, Community Chest and a few special cases—to get solicitation permits from the secretary of state. They would be required to hold their administration and solicitation costs to 30 percent or tell donors the actual percentage of their overhead.

—Radically change the state's system for dealing with persons who are determined mentally incompetent to stand trial for crimes. A district court jury now makes such a finding, then a county court just must decide whether to commit the person to Rusk State Hospital. The bill would let a single jury make both decisions.

—Require a motorist who has had an accident on a freeway to drive his or her car onto the frontage road or side street if possible before calling the police. No police investigation would be required unless there was death, injury or property damage over $250.

—Allow cities in counties of 500,000 or more population to take over and maintain abandoned or ill-kept cemeteries.

—Require doctors to list separately on their bills any charges for outside laboratory work. Rep. Jim Nugent, D-Kerrville, said some doctors were "making money off labor reports."

—Exempt church buses from sales taxation.

Penicillin resistant gonorrhea in 21 states

ATLANTA (AP) — A strain of gonorrhea resistant to penicillin has been reported in 21 states in the United States and 16 foreign countries, the national Center for Disease Control says.

From March 1, 1976, through May 2 of this year, 150 cases of the new strain have been reported in the United States and Guam, compared to 129 cases in 20 states a month ago, the CDC said Friday.

The infection, caused by penicillinase-producing Neisseria gonorrhoeae (PPNG), is believed to have originated in the Far East, said Dr. Paul Wiesner, director of the CDC VD Control Division.

Wiesner said, however, that actual declines in syphilis and the usual strains of gonorrhea were noted last year for the first time, and the decline is continuing into 1977.

Wiesner said that through May 7, there were 327,515 cases of gonorrhea reported in the United States, compared with 344,023 for the same period last year.

There were 7,455 cases of syphilis compared with 8,909 for the comparable period last year, he said.

"We're talking about a decrease, and it's real," said Wiesner. "But we still have a very high incidence of the disease that we're dealing with. We know how to approach it but it is going to take a continuing effort."

Wiesner attributed the decline to the all-out effort begun by federal and state public health authorities in 1972, including educational programs, clinics and cooperation by private physicians.

The CDC says the new strain of penicillin resistant gonorrhea also has been identified in Australia, Belgium, Canada, Denmark, Hong Kong, Japan, the Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, the Philippines, Korea, Singapore, Sweden, Switzerland, and the United Kingdom.

Grant jail escapee caught in Odessa

GRANT (AP) — A man who burned his way out of the Grant County jail in March is on his way back to New Mexico after being apprehended by police in Odessa, Tex.

Ronnie Lee Sterling was caught while trying to escape from the scene of an alleged burglary in Odessa, a spokesman for the Grant County Sheriff's Department said.

The spokesman said Sterling escaped from the county jailhouse by burning an eight-inch hole in a window made of a plexiglas-type material. He said Sterling used a roll of lighted magazines to do so.

Upon Sterling's return to Grant County, he will be charged with escaping from the jail along with the initial charges of burglary and receiving stolen property.

Owners of motor cars will greet the latest news out of Detroit with mixed emotions: Engineers have developed a motor which gets 100 miles to the gallon — but it runs on coffee.

Those who think we are too indulgent with illegal aliens in this country should remember that Americans were considered interlopers in Texas 150 years ago. Mexico owned considerable territory on this side of the Rio Grande but could not always bring those who talked treason to heel only because the lands it had to police were too vast.

Most of the Americans were renegades who gamined boldly, dramatized their cause, if indeed they had one, with the debacle of the Alamo and capitalized on the fact that they got up a little earlier one morning than did Santa Anna and his dragoons at San Jacinto.

A husband is prone to tell a wife everything he thinks she'll find out anyhow.

Despite what you've heard to the contrary, the Howard College Coliseum won't be opening before January — if by then.

Clothes designers (and those creative people who fashion the accessories) must feel at times they live on the tip of a volcano. A mood, an appearance in a mass media, a social revolution — all can often influence a style.

Take women's handbags, as an example. The sale of such accoutrements is declining in some big cities for an obvious reason. If you're not carrying a purse, how can you have your purse snatched? The muggers keep an eye peeled for little old ladies who use long straps on their purses and dangle them from their shoulders.

There are worse things than developing ulcers from a job you do well. You could fail at an endeavor and come up with the same ailment.

I know of a football player (not of Odessa) who declined the offer of a high powered motor car from an alumnus of a college, expressing fear that the NCAA might get cheeky. Told that he could skirt the rules by making a ridiculously small monthly payment on the jewel, the athlete brightened to say:

"Great! I'll also take one for my girl friend."

William Howlett wrote this epitaph during World War II, when the tiger was at the gates and there was no place to run:

They write an epitaph tonight

In some dark, blood-stained Paris street;

In sweat that runs on Libyan sands,

In faith that fires the calloused hands

To toil, to carve with rhythmic beat,

The light upon the stone.

They're writing it in quiet tears,

In prayers that come from tents at night;

In music played by factory wheels, In throbbing runs and meager meals; In silver wings that flash in flight and cast their light upon the stone

They're writing it in calm retort

To churches charred by wanton lust,

To laughter, choked by sudden fear,

To faces drawn when death is near;

To souls that sing beneath the dust

And cast their light upon the stone.

This is the epitaph they write:

"The wrong ideas of men lie here —

The hate, the greed, the selfish will;

The crown of thorns, the need to kill,

Buried by truth, shining and clear,

Which casts its light upon the stone."

If you want to find out how uncertain life can be, try betting on a sure thing.

Those who are prone to complain about the escalating costs of sports participation and sports equipment here should try playing golf on a municipal course in Los Angeles on weekends. The fee rises to $6.25 then, or $1 more than on weekdays.

Selling music in the days of yore was easier than it is today, though the caliber of the product might have had something to do with it.

In olden times, a Handel or a Strauss needed first to seek out a castle with a friendly tiler, befriend the owner and then dedicate a sonata or an elegantly-written poem to a baron or a countess. It was all more personal in those days — and more inspiring.

Today, a faceless panel of experts who rarely, if ever, meet the lyricists or the wordsmiths decides what will sell and what will not. It is as if a tone-deaf computer were calling the shots, and it bloody well might be.

Charley McCabe, columnist for the San Francisco Chronicle, says the professional classes in this country have been spoiled rotten.

"Getting a medical degree is said to be the equivalent of getting a guaranteed income of $100,000 annually," writes the acid McCabe. "And it is hardly a secret that lawyers run the legislatures of this country, and hence the country itself. The fact that Jimmy Carter is not a lawyer is likely to harm him more than help him in his efforts to run the country — so geared is our system."

Up until Thomas Edison suggested that subscribers answer their telephone by saying "hello," the telephone company was recommending that people answer their calls by loudly shouting "Ahoy! Ahoy!"

HONOR STUDENTS — Angeline Autry (left) and Ronda Corbell emerged as honor students of the Ira High School senior class this spring. Angeline, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Autry, was the valedictorian with a grade average of 92.05. Ronda is the salutatorian with a grade average of 87.24. Baccalaureate services are scheduled for 7 p.m., today in the Ira Baptist Church. Commencement will be held Friday in the high school auditorium.

Police seeking reserve recruits

The Big Spring Police Department is in the process of selecting qualified persons for appointment to the Police Reserve.

The selection will begin immediately and the appointment to the Reserves will be after completion of a 72-hour basic police course to be taught at Howard College beginning about the first day of August, 1977. The exact date will be set in July of this year.

Building awards given

The Big Spring High School Building Trades class held their banquet Thursday night, May 12, hosted by their instructor, Paul Hood.

John Hill, commissary officer, Webb Air Force Base was guest speaker and presented the awards.

"These students put forth real effort to take advantage of the opportunity to learn a trade and we are proud of them," Hood stated.

Hood also expressed appreciation for the support given the vocational programs of the Big Spring Public Schools by many local merchants and the Big Spring Herald.

All applicants for positions with the police reserve force must apply in writing on a form prescribed by the Chief of Police.

The basic qualifications for applicants are: over 21 years of age, a United States citizen, high school education or a level of education acceptable by the screening board, free of all physical defects, physically strong and well proportioned, of good moral character, never convicted of a felony and have a good driving record, (never convicted of D.W.I. or driving under influence of drugs).

All applicants must pass examinations, approved by Chief of Police, before going before a screening board consisting of five members.

All applicants successfully completing the examination shall, before selection to attend the Basic Police Course, be subjected to a rigid background investigation, a fingerprint check for criminal record, a driver license record check, a credit rating check and a rigid physical examination by a physician approved by the City of Big Spring.

Heart deaths

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Council of Life Insurance says cardiovascular diseases were responsible for half the deaths among persons with ordinary life insurance in the United States in 1975, the last year for which figures are available.

It says cancer accounted for 21.4 per cent of policyholder deaths, pneumonia and influenza for 2.8 per cent of deaths, tuberculosis for 0.1 per cent, diabetes for 1.0 per cent, and other diseases for 16.1 per cent. In all, 91.2 per cent of ordinary policyholder deaths were from natural causes.

Mrs. Taylor moved from Big Spring two years ago. While residing in Big Spring, Mrs. Taylor worked as a secretary in the high school counselor's office. Her husband, Leon, taught metal trades in the high school and served as Key Club advisor for many years.

Cong. Mahon won't retire

Cong. George Mahon, who once represented Howard County in the U.S. House of Representatives, has scoffed at rumors printed in the Star Journal that he is planning on going into retirement.

In issuing his denial, the Mitchell County native said:

Continental asks for fare cuts

Continental Airlines has applied for a reduction in fares of more than 50 per cent on many of its flights between Midland Air Terminal and Dallas and between Lubbock and Dallas.

The change should herald the beginning of a spirited fight for business among several airlines, including Texas International and Southwest Airlines. Southwest is due to start service out of Midland and Lubbock in the near future.

Continental's new rates will equal those posted by Southwest in all cities in Texas where the airlines are in competition.

The lower rates go into effect May 20. Southwest's flight go to Love Field in Dallas while Continental touches down at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Air Terminal.

Texas International does not offer direct flights from Lubbock to Dallas. However, Monday it announced that it would be charging $15 and $25 for its flight between Midland and Dallas, effective Saturday.

Odessa paper sued by DA

ODESSA — Ector County District Attorney John H. Green, claiming he had been accused of criminal acts, Thursday filed a $3.5 million libel suit in 70th District Court against the Odessa American, its publisher, Lyle DeBolt, and its editor, Olin Ashley.

Green filed a 15-page list of complaints against the defendants, alleging among other things that the newspaper had claimed Green had shook the hand of a juror in a civil suit, with the result that the case had ended in a mistrial; that Ashley had intimidated the district attorney had accepted bribes and the newspaper had printed notes taken from forged documents.

Although City Editor John Sliney, indicted earlier by an Ector County grand jury on charges initiated by Green, was not listed as a defendant in the libel suit, his name appears prominently in the petition filed by Green.

The suit asks for judgment against the three defendants of $2 million in general damages and $1.5 million in punitive damages.

The petition was filed before Judge C.V. Milburn.

Odessa Attorney W.O. Shafer and his law firm are representing the newspaper in the matter.

Key clubbers honor members

Scott Campbell, Tim Hunnicutt, Scott Sullivan, Mark Jones and Andra Hohertz received special recognition at the annual Key Club installation banquet held at the high school cafeteria Friday night.

Campbell, who is a district lieutenant governor in the organization, was presented The Garland Helton Service Award with Henry Thames, Kiwanis advisor making the presentation.

The Leon Taylor Service Award to the outstanding officer was presented to Tim Hunnicutt, named one of the 20 top secretaries in the Texas-Oklahoma region. This presentation was made by Harvey Rothell.

However, Hunnicutt was at Roswell attending his brother's graduation.

Mark Jones was presented the trophy as the most promising Key clubber with Scott Sullivan, outgoing president, making the presentation.

Sullivan, in turn, was presented a plaque as outgoing president with Thames making the presentation. Andra Hohertz was recognized with a plaque from the club as regional sweetheart for the Texas-Oklahoma District. She is also incoming sweetheart for the local club.

Outgoing calendar girls, presented red carnations by Sullivan include Beverly Beil, Cindy Burgess, Donna Carpenter, Cynthia Fierro, Kerrie Sue Knox, Jill Odom, Suanne Smith, Sheri Snodgrass, Layne Stallings, Sheri Proctor, Becky Ragan, Irene Little and Denise Crenwelge, sweetheart.

Jones, treasurer.

Outgoing officer reports were given. These officers include Sullivan, president; Kyle Wheeler, first vice president; Crenwelge, second vice president; Hunnicutt, secretary; Jones, assistant and James Burleson, treasurer.

Outgoing seniors in the club include Bill Arencibia, Burleson, Steve Evans, Steve Hughes, Frosty Reynolds, Gary Schofield, Sullivan, Wheeler, John Wrinkle and John Yater.

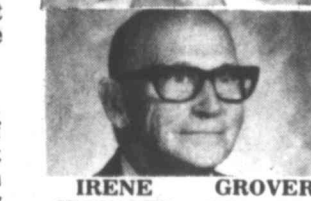

Incoming members include Ray Abelar, James Forney, Jim Griffin, Bill Hart, Jerry Holten and Alan Bristol.

Former club presidents who were guests were Brad Carr, and David Wright.

Dinner honors Grady teachers

A retirement dinner honoring Irene and Grover Springer of the Grady Independent School District will be held at Furr's Cafeteria in Big Spring at 7:30 p.m., Friday. It will be a Dutch treat affair. The event will be open to anyone wishing to attend.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Springer are graduates of Texas Tech. She has taught at South Plains school in Tarzan, Tex.; Valley View School in Stanton; and the Lenora School before it was consolidated with the Grady

IRENE GROVER SPRINGER SPRINGER
Grover began his teaching career at Tarzan in 1935. His school work has been concentrated in the Lenora-Tarzan area.

The two are interested in First Baptist Church work in Lenora. He is affiliated with the Lions Club. Scouting takes a considerable amount of their time.

The two also find the time to engage in work with the Martin County Historical Society, operate a farm, help operate a retail grocery and are called upon regularly to help in charity work.

Six graduate HC industrial class

The industrial electricity job training program graduated its second class with six men receiving certificates and completion and six semester hours of credit Friday.

This special course, tailored specifically to meet the job needs of employees of Cosden, Sid Richardson, and Cabot companies, featured a personalized, individual approach with the students going to class eight hours a day for eight weeks to complete 240 clock hours of instruction.

These men were given released time from their work and their companies paid all tuition costs involved. The course was designed to be an on-going program that could be broadened to include teaching basics to the new employees as well as teaching advanced electricity and continuing education and upgrading for other employees.

The graduates include: from Cosden — Victor Coots, Loy Ditto, Don Vaughn, and Buster Weaver; from Sid Richardson — Larry Osborn; and from Cabot — Arthur Valdez.

Bert Andries is the instructor for this course.

Four get probation

Four first time offenders were given probated sentences Thursday in 118th District Court after they pleaded guilty to burglary of a habitation.

Lorenzo Juarez, Rodolfo Hernandez, Ismael Robles, and Ronnie Paul Huff each received sentences of 10 years probation for their parts in recent burglaries.

Juarez and Robles were ordered to make restitution of $434 each to Noel David Bethea and his insurance company as a result of the burglary.

District Attorney Rick Hamby stressed that each of these men were first time offenders, and that this was the reason for their probated sentences.

"This is not a gesture of leniency," commented Hamby. "I want these men to toe the line."

Davis murder trial moved to Amarillo

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — It's official. The capital murder trial of multimillionaire Cullen Davis will start over in Amarillo.

Dist. Judge Tom Cave signed the order here Friday, but told newsmen he would retain jurisdiction over any bond hearings that might precede jury selection in the Panhandle city.

The order gives Dist. Judge George Dowlen of Potter County in Amarillo jurisdiction over all trial proceedings.

Davis, 43, is charged with two counts of capital murder, one count of attempted capital murder and one count of attempted murder. The charges stem from an Aug. 2, 1976 shooting spree at Davis' $6 million mansion here. The first capital case he will be tried on is for the death of his stepdaughter, Andrea Wilborn, 12.

Jury selection began here last February but ended in a mistrial several weeks later when Cave determined that one of the eight jurors already empaneled had expressed her opinion about the defendant's guilt to a friend not on the jury.

Farm — Most farmers now need open weather

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — More rain fell over much of Texas during the past week, and most farmers now need open weather to complete spring planting and to allow young crops to make normal growth.

Good moisture conditions except in a few western locations point to a good crop year, said Dr. Daniel C. Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. However, spring planting is generally behind schedule due to wet fields. Also, a considerable amount of cotton and sorghum has been replanted due to damage from heavy rains.

Early planted crops are generally making good progress, with sorghum beginning to boot and cotton starting to square in the Rio Grande Valley. Sorghum planting continues in full swing in the Rolling Plains and West Central Texas as field conditions permit. Cotton planting is past the halfway point in the Trans-Pecos area and will get into full swing in the South Plains as fields dry, noted Pfannstiel.

Wheat and oats continue to move toward maturity over the state, with harvesting under way in Southwest Texas (Uvalde area) as weather conditions permit. Harvesting will start in the rolling Plains in two to three weeks. Crop prospects are generally good to excellent in most locations.

Hay crops are making good growth and a good crop appears in the making due to the favorable moisture conditions, said Pfannstiel. Vegetable crops are making good progress.

Reports from district extension agents showed the following conditions.

SOUTH PLAINS: About 25 per cent of the cotton has been planted but wet fields are causing delays. Corn planting is about 90 per cent complete, and some sorghum has been planted. Wheat looks good and is heading. Onions, potatoes and sugar beets are progressing well.

ROLLING PLAINS: Wet fields have slowed spring planting, and heavy rains have caused some replanting of cotton and sorghum. Wheat is maturing, with harvesting to start in two to three weeks. Crop prospects are excellent. Some oats are being baled for hay; the first cutting of alfalfa is also being baled. Fruit trees are boasting an excellent crop.

FAR WEST: Parts of the area are still dry. Cotton planting is past the halfway point. Forage and livestock conditions are improving where rains have fallen. Sheep shearing and shipping of lambs continues.

WEST CENTRAL: Wet fields cause some delays to spring planting. Small grains prospects look good. The peach crop is making good progress. Range conditions are excellent and livestock are in good shape. Sheep and goat shearing is winding down.

SOUTHWEST: Harvesting of wheat and oats is making good progress as weather conditions permit. Corn and sorghum are doing well. Early peaches are ready to harvest, and the pecan crop looks excellent. Vegetables are making good progress. Pasture and range conditions are the best in a number of years. The kid crop is better than usual.

Local schools decide about sex education

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Members of the State board of Education made it clear Saturday that it is up to local school boards to decide if sex education is taught in the classroom.

"Sex education has always been a local option for the individual schools," said Mary Ann Leveridge, chairman of the state board's Committee on Priorities, Accountability and Accreditation. "State law requires schools to offer instruction in physiology and hygiene but that's all."

The board adopted a statement to "clarify" its position saying "The State Board of Education implements this law by requiring health instruction at both elementary and secondary levels and makes state-adopted textbooks available to local schools. The Texas Education Agency makes available suggestions for content and method of such courses that may be used at the option of local school districts."

Mrs. Leveridge said there had been some misunderstanding of the state board's stand recently, including a newspaper advertisement that accused the board of requiring sex education.

Another committee reported that Texas school districts will receive $220.45 for each pupil in average daily attendance as the revised per capita apportionment of the Available School Fund. The statewide allocation of $550,055,225 was recommended by the State Comptroller.

The revised per capita figure tops the earlier $209 estimate by $11.45.

In other action, the board approved a $213,529 allocation of federal funds to send about 20 high school migrant students to special classes at St. Edward's University in Austin this summer. The 10-week school is designed to keep children of migrant workers from dropping out of regular public schools.

A similar program for 100 students, costing $116,000, is underway at Texas A&I University.

'Land of milk, honey and money'

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While our thoughts followed the world's leaders to the summit, where high above the storm clouds they proclaimed the ideal of economic cooperation, more ordinary events continued in the rainy valleys.

—On Lexington Avenue in New York a shopper received an unforgettable lesson in why some people, despite talent and hard work, can't seem to make a living. Or was the lesson that of the effectiveness of mass production?

The shopper's quest was a metal picture frame, one foot by one foot, unassembled, for which he was quoted a price of $12, glass included.

While the proprietor measured the glass for cutting, the customer inquired about the price of a print, already matted and glass-enclosed in the identical frame.

"Seven-fifty," he was told. "Do you mean this print, along with a mat, and the frame already assembled, costs $4.50 less than an unassembled frame with no mat and no print?"

"Yes."

"Then why should I pay $12?"

"You shouldn't. We buy the frames at wholesale and the print is thrown in."

"Which leaves one wondering: While the value of volume buying is obviously beneficial, what in the world is left for the artist, whose major contribution, it seems, is to lower the price of the frame?"

—If everyone lived in the suburbs of the nation's Capital, says Albert Sindlinger, we would all be enjoying an economic boom.

Sindlinger & Co. conducts marketing and opinion research throughout the year by telephoning more than 150 households every day of the week, asking specific questions about current and anticipated economic status.

One of his telephone interviewers called his attention to an unusual set of responses from the residents of the Washington suburbs, after which the firm conducted a concentrated, 56-day study of the area that ended April 6.

It found that nearly 57 per cent of all households enjoyed an income gain in the preceding six months, and that two-thirds of household heads expected an income gain in the following six months.

Only one in 12 households had an income decline in the preceding six months and better than two of three expected business in the area to improve in the following six months.

The pattern, Sindlinger found, clashes not only with the district itself but with the rest of the country, which makes him conclude that the Washington suburban area, heavily dependent on government, is the "land of milk, honey and money."

Wives get attention

CHICAGO (AP) — Wives are getting more attention these days from firms that have decided to transfer their husbands.

"The situation today is far different than it was a few years ago when an employee was told he was being moved and that was that," says Theodore D. Bell, executive vice president of Employee Transfer Corp.

Bell, whose firm buys the homes of transferred employees and helps them find new ones, says, "More and more corporations are now giving the employee a chance to talk it over with his family, and some corporations are taking steps to sell the wife on the reasons for the transfer."

New county agent aide named in Dawson County

George Henry Kimbriel has been named assistant county extension agent (agriculture) for Dawson County, effective May 16.

Announcement of his appointment was made by County Judge Leslie Pratt and Billy C. Gunber, district agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

George was born in Gillespie County and reared on a stock farm south of Mason.

He graduated from Mason High School in 1973 and was a May graduate of Texas A&M University receiving the B.S. degree in Animal Science. While at A&M he was a distinguished student and a member of Alpha Zeta and Phi Eta Sigma Honorary Fraternities. He graduated from A&M with high honors.

As a 4-H and FFA member at Mason he was on the 4-H State winning Rifle Team, 4-H and FFA State winning livestock teams, and carried a beef project in both Ag and 4-H receiving numerous awards with beef cattle including a Grand Champion Steer at Houston in 1971.

Stretcher was state vice president for FFA in 1971 and has been active in the organization for many years.

The convention attracted between 400 — 500 high school students from approximately 90 West Texas High Schools.

Farm markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Favorable growing weather depressed prices of cotton futures, this past week, slightly improved turnover, the New York Cotton Exchange reported Friday.

At the close of trading, No. 2 contracts on the exchange were off 110 to 312 points, following a mixed performance the previous week.

Trading volume was estimated at 1,746,900 bales, for a daily average of 349,400, compared with 1,445,500 bales, and 328,700, respectively, in the previous week.

The open interest as of Thursday was 5,096,100 bales—a decrease of 15,700 bales from the preceding Friday.

Griffith is top student teacher at x-ray school

Second year student, Dale Griffith, of Malone-Hogan's School of X-ray Technology, was named as this year's winner of the Lila Brewster-Elizabeth Harrison "Best Student Teacher" award, at the third annual Faculty Appreciation party held in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Buerk Williams recently.

Griffith was selected by four first-year students, using a 50-point system based on the teaching program at the school.

The award was established last year in honor of the two retired school teachers who set up the curriculum and teaching program.

Called a pyramid teaching method, the first year students are taught in part by those who are in their second year of training, resulting in reinforcement of the learning process for both first and second year students. Included in the classroom training weekly is a film critique. It is perhaps evidence of success for this particular phase of their training that in a recent Texas State Society of Radiologic Technologists annual meeting in San Angelo, Mr. Griffith placed second out of a total of 103 contestants in a film artifacts competition.

Attending the meeting with Griffith was the school coordinator, Sisto Subia, and Susan Weaver, second year student. Also attending the event were first year students Eddie Decker, Mike Hutto, and Susan McCoilum.

Graduation ceremonies for the students is tentatively set for Sept. 3.

Raise family like a farmer farms

By WILFRID M. CALNAN,
Director Howard Co.
Family Service Center

"Duplan" is my nickname for a widely-advertised fertilizer offered to farmers across North and West Texas. Television advertisements show wide expanses of farmland and sturdy farmers praising the merits of Duplan. One man goes so far as to say that he just wouldn't farm if it weren't for Duplan.

The dedication to farming of the farmers portrayed in the Duplan advertisements is consistent with farmers as I have known them in my professional association with them over many years. It's not just the fertilizer which the farmer regards so zealously. He is painstaking about all other aspects of his farming; cultivation, weed and pest control, choice of seeds appropriate to climate and location, and methods of harvesting. Close attention to all these factors is vital because of the importance of harvest to the economy and to the people.

Would that we would give as much time, thought, and energy to people-making as we do to the cultivation and harvesting of our fields. Surely it is time to examine the family living which is the environment in which people grow. Most of us go to school for at least 12 years. We learn many things to help us in later life. How much do we learn about family living? The decision to marry sometimes seems casual or precipitous. Yet that one decision can affect the unborn to the third generation. How do we make our choice of a spouse? Is it just a happening? Why do we get married? Do we let our mates really know what we expect of them when we get married?

What kinds of plans do we make to have children? What do we do to become good parents? If something goes wrong are we strong enough to go for professional help?

We need to be as thoughtful about the human harvest as the farmer is of the food or fibre crop. Despite all that has been written and said, the family is with us to stay. It is changing and will change even more dramatically during the next score of years. It requires the attention of all, in the nation, in the local community. Given that attention, the family will yield a people crop as superior as the food and fibre harvest that comes out of our fields.

Dominguez top BSSH employee

Andy Dominguez was honored as Psychiatric Aide of the Year at the annual Employees Awards banquet held in the Allred Building of the Big Spring State Hospital Friday night.

The banquet, which featured a former member of the hospital staff, Dr. Robert Shelton, as chief speaker, attracted a full house.

Dominguez has been employed as a direct care worker at the hospital for ten years. During that time, he has developed natural, innate, professional skills in the management of patients under highly specialized conditions.

He is assigned to an admission unit. His citation said in that capacity he had demonstrated his talents many times. He also is a source of comfort to patients and their families. His co-workers say he displays good judgment, is dependable and extends his abilities to all phases of a patient's treatment plan.

Dominguez has taken advantage of all in-service offered and has proved to be an asset to the Nursing Service staff.

Andy is one of eight children. He graduated from Big Spring High School in 1960 and served in the US Air Force for four years.

Married, he and Mrs. Dominguez are parents of two children. He is a member of the Catholic Church. His interest other than his work include church activities and sports. He participates in many civic activities surrounding those interests.

His award was presented by Sharon George of Abilene, who also lauded the work of other nominees for the honor.

Shelton, now superintendent of the Rusk State Hospital, using as a theme "There is No Such Thing as a Free Lunch," urged his listeners to be self-starters.

"We want to fulfill ourselves in other people," Shelton told his listeners. "You have to please yourself first, and then God."

Shelton said that fulfillment in an individual comes from three traits — compassion, courage and common sense. He added that maintaining and cultivating one's sense of humor actually enables a person to rid himself or herself of hostility.

Dr. Shelton's hobby and one of his consuming interests is in railroading. When his schedule allows, he serves the Texas State Railroad as a conductor out of Rusk.

The banquet hall had been tastefully decorated with a railroad decor and a musical program offered by employees of the hospital sang railroad songs. Janet Frizell coordinated the musical program.

Dr. Shelton was also gifted with railroad memorabilia by a retired T&P conductor and an old friend, G.C. Ragsdale.

Dr. Ron L. Cohorn served as master of ceremonies of the program. Dr. Wallace Hunter, BSSH superintendent, offered the welcome. Chaplain Lee Butler offered memorials to Francis R. Brown, Dr. W.B. Hardy, Charles H. McCall Jr., Dr. Jack S. Oney and Dr. Gerald A. Lively.

The banquet was dedicated to the Food Service personnel for its dedicated service to patients of the hospital.

Stanton sweeps second in state

STATE SECOND CINDERMEN — Stanton High School's track team brought back the first Class A regional track title in the school's history and followed it Saturday with a second-place finish in the state meet in Austin. Pictured are,

AUSTIN — In what Coach Bob Denison called "200 per cent humidity" the Stanton track team streaked to a second place finish in the Texas Class A track finals Saturday.

The five young flyers sent for the first time to Austin came home with the laurels, including two fourth-place finishes, one fifth, and a first place in the mile relay.

"We were real pleased," commented Denison later. "It was our first time in the state meet and we were in it all the way. The boys handled the pressure real well, with no let downs."

The mile relay team, made up of Doug McCalister, Marvin Jones, Todd Smith, and Kenny McCalister, finished in front of arch-rival and best Class A team Karnak. Karnak led Stanton 50-32 points at the meet's end.

"Karnak jumped to an early lead," described Denison. "But Doug made a good hand-off to Marvin. Marvin passed the Karnak boy on his leg, and we just pulled away from there. Kenny ran a 49.9 anchor."

The winning time was 3:20.0, a personal best as well as the best in the state.

One heart-breaking moment came at 1:40 p.m. Saturday in the quarter-mile when Kenny McCalister, closing from behind, crossed the finish line with four other boys. The top four places were timed at 49.5 seconds, but McCallister was placed fourth.

Doug McCallister brought home some more family bacon when he nailed down a fourth in the intermediate hurdles with a tie of 39.3 seconds, another personal best.

In the sprint relay, fleet-footed Freddie Silva, Todd Smith, Kenny McCalister, and Marvin Jones placed fifth with a 43.3 second time, the fourth personal best of the day.

"It was a great meet," Denison summed up, "and we felt real good, especially because most West Texas towns didn't fare so well, and we wanted to hold up our end. We had great support from about 40 fans who showed up here."

Earlier talk of the state meet had mentioned several times the pressure of continued good performance on athletes unaccustomed to the big win. Denison himself had said, "The key to success will be performing to our ability. We've been winning fairly steadily since February, and our kids are on cloud nine."

Well, now they can stay there. Denison will lose a couple of his team next year, but still anticipates the challenge of a newborn tradition.

Kenny, Doug, and George McCallister (a relay stand-by) will leave Stanton after this year. Silva, Jones, and Smith will form the core of next year's Stanton thinclads.

In SWC meet

Jones comes back

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Johnny Jones of Texas got perhaps his worst of many bad starts Saturday in the Southwest Conference championship 100-yard dash but pulled ahead at 80 yards to win in 9.42.

Jones appeared to be nailed to his blocks as the starter fired an instant after saying, "Get set."

A&M's Curtis Dickey, who has never beaten Jones, exploded to a two-yard lead, but Johnny "Goldmedal," as Darrell Royal calls him, mowed him down with his seemingly effortless glide through the tape.

Both Jones and Dickey played halfback as freshmen last year. Jones will be switched to flanker in Texas' new Vee and Slot-I attack next fall.

Earlier, Jones led Texas to an SWC record of 39.54 in the 440 relay. Accustomed to botched handoffs, the Longhorns got three good ones, and Jones won by 10 yards.

Arkansas' Irish import, Niall O'Shaughnessy posted the conference's first sub-4 minute mile, with a 3:59.47, as he fought passed Texas' Canadian import, Paul Craig, who finished second in 4:00.11.

Elrick Brown of Houston won the open quarter in 46.89. Baylor's Mark Collins took the 880 in 1:50.82, barely pushing past A&M's Tony Wheeler, who held off Collins' charge on the back stretch but finished in 1:51.12.

"I don't get any personal satisfaction out of seeing my name in the paper," Jones said. "I'm not egotistical and I don't mind being in the shadows."

"Everybody on this team has a role on this team and I know what mine is."

Spencer drives in eight

By the Associated Press

Jim Spencer drove in a record-tying eight runs with a pair of homers—one of them a grand slam—and a single as the Chicago White Sox demolished the Cleveland Indians 18-2 Saturday.

Spencer hit a two-run homer and a two-run single in Chicago's seven-run second inning and slammed his fifth homer of the season and first career grand slam in the fourth to pace a 17-hit assault.

The eight RBI tied the club record set by Shoeless Joe Jackson in 1920 and equaled by Carl Reynolds in 1930. Spencer was taken out of the game after hitting his second homer.

Larry Hise drove in four runs and Dave Goltz coasted behind Minnesota's 20-hit attack as the Twins crushed the Toronto Blue Jays 13-3. Hise, who is playing out his option, doubled home two runs in the third inning and singled a pair across in the sixth to hike his RBI total to 31.

Rusty Staub singled home the tying run in the sixth inning, doubled the go-ahead run across in the eighth and then scored what proved to be the winning run on an error as the Detroit Tigers edged the Milwaukee Brewers 3-2.

Mike Flanagan pitched a five-hitter for his first major league shutout and the Baltimore Orioles scored twice in the eighth to defeat the Oakland A's 2-0.

Reggie Smith drove in two runs with a homer and single, Rick Monday also homered and Charlie Hough provided strong late-inning relief to lead the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-4 victory over the New York Mets.

Cougs win district baseball

Abilene Cooper edged the Abilene Eagles Friday 4-3 to gain the district title. Cooper will look forward to hosting Eules Trinity Tuesday in the first game of a three-game bi-district series.

The game was a hummer to the very end, with Cooper looking bleary in the seventh under a one-run deficit. Senior shortstop Barry Russell provided the right touch for the Cougars, though, by blasting a two-run homer over the left field wall to drive out Abilene's hopes.

Winning pitcher in the game was Cooper's Steve Taylor, 8-4, loser was Byron Roberts, 6-3. Abilene finished the season with a 22-5 record, and Cooper graduated with a 16-10 slate.

NO-HITTER — Kansas City Royals Jim Colborn, center, is mobbed by teammates after pitching a no-hit ballgame against the Texas Rangers at Royals Stadium on Saturday night.

Colborn gets no-hitter

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Right-hander Jim Colborn pitched the first no-hitter of the 1977 baseball season Saturday night, leading the Kansas City Royals to a 6-0 victory over the Texas Rangers.

Colborn struck out six batters, including Bump Wills three times, and walked only one.

The defense came to his aid with several outstanding plays, particularly in the late innings.

STEALS HOME — Pittsburgh Pirates Rennie Stennett (6) home safe in the second inning of the National League game at Houston Saturday night as Houston Astros' catcher Ed Herrmann (8) makes a dive at him. Stennett came home in a double steal play that sent teammate Duffy Dyer to second.

76ers say not long

Rockets still kicking

HOUSTON (AP) — The talented Philadelphia 76ers, stung once by the Houston Rockets, say they won't be caught napping again Sunday when they resume their National Basketball Association (NBA) playoff series at Philadelphia's Spectrum.

"We came out lackadaisical our first game in Houston but that won't happen again," Sixer forward George McGinnis said. "That's just the kind of team we are. We went in there just wanting a split."

"But now the situation is different. We have a chance to wrap up the series now and we won't go to sleep. We certainly don't want to come back here again."

McGinnis, still sweating from the 76ers' 107-95 victory Friday night, referred to Houston's Summit, where the Rockets beat them badly 118-94

Wednesday night.

The split in Houston gives the Sixers a 3-1 lead in the best of seven series and a loss Sunday would end the Rockets surprising season. If the Rockets win, the sixth game would be played in Houston on Tuesday.

Even Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke isn't optimistic about playing another game in Houston.

"It's just like Los Angeles' situation," Nissalke said. "There's no way the Lakers can beat Portland four straight. Maybe we could win three from Philadelphia but our guys aren't stupid, they know what the percentages are against it."

Nissalke was especially depressed because he felt Friday's game was the most important of the series.

"If we could have won tonight, I think we could have won the series and I think we could have beaten Portland in the finals," Nissalke said.

The key to Philadelphia's victory was Coach Gene Shue's decision to realign his defense and put center Caldwell Jones on Houston's rebounding whiz Moses Malone, who scored 30 points and got 25 rebounds in Houston's Wednesday victory.

Jones held Malone to five points and 13 rebounds in what Shue called the defense performance of the year.

"Our job is to give them just one shot and then get the rebound," Jones said. "That's our whole game, to get the ball and kick it out. We didn't do that Wednesday night but we did tonight. (Friday)."

Jones had only six points and 11 rebounds for the game, but he said he didn't play for personal recognition.

Stanley Cup Canadian

BOSTON (AP) — Jacques Lemaire slammed home a pass from behind the net by linemate Guy Lafleur at 4:32 of sudden-death overtime Saturday night, giving the Montreal Canadiens a 2-1 victory over the Boston Bruins and their 20th Stanley Cup championship.

The high-powered Canadiens, who lost only eight games in the regular season, retained the National Hockey League's coveted trophy with a four-game sweep over the Bruins.

The Canadiens completely dominated the overtime, and their pressure paid off when Boston defenseman Gary Doak made a fatal mistake. He kicked the puck from the corner to the area behind the Boston net, where Lafleur pounced on it and passed it out to Lemaire.

Bert Campaneris, leading off the seventh, lofted a soft fly into medium center field which Al Cowens caught after a long run. One out later, Willie Horton slugged a looping line drive to right. As the ball began sinking, Tom Poquette race under it to make a shoestring catch on the dead run.

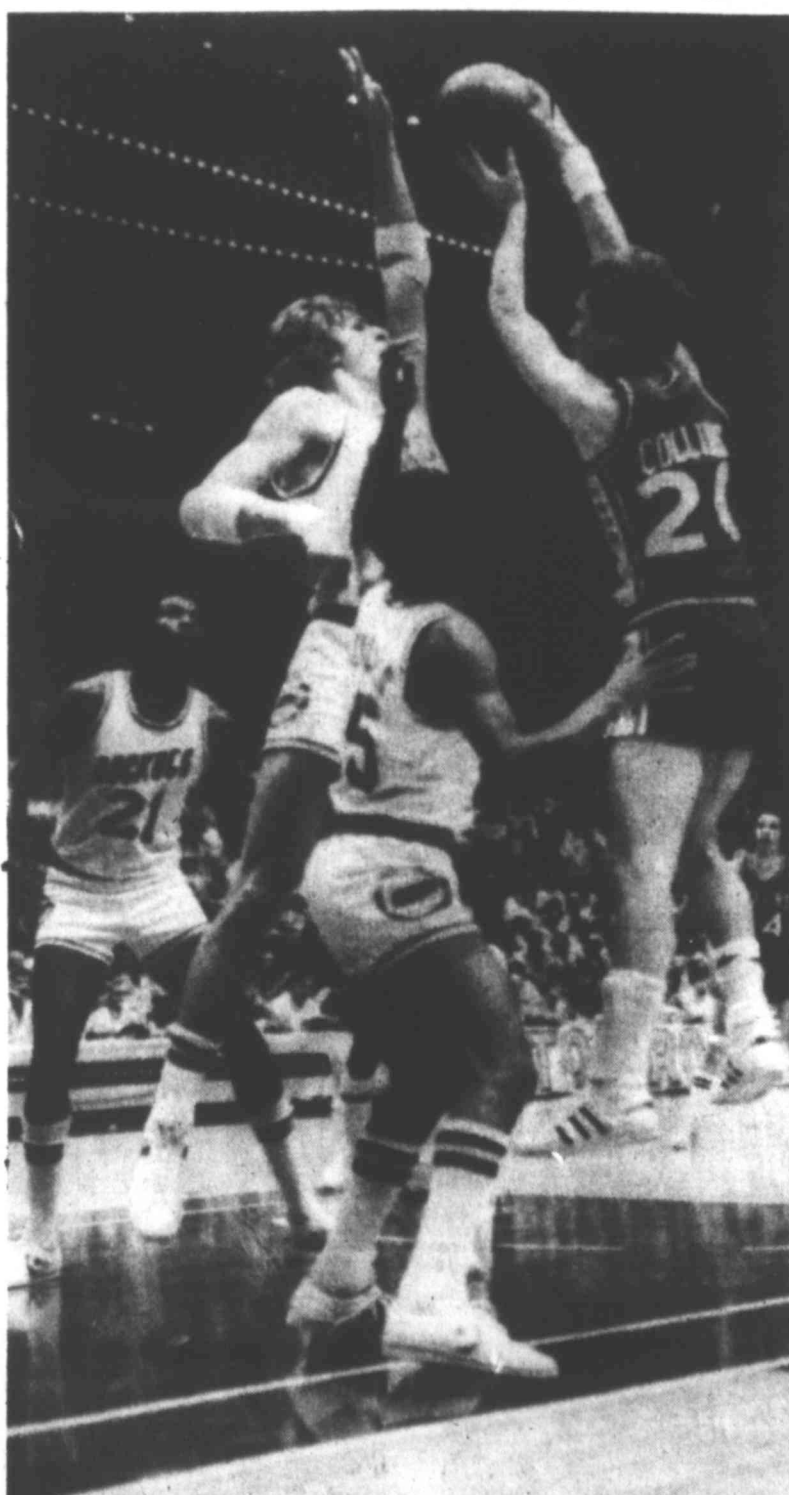

In the eighth, Tom Grieveyht a slicing line drive into center that brought the crowd of 29,578 to its feet, but Cowens snared the ball in the webbing of his glove.

Colborn's no-hitter was the first since San Francisco's John Montefusco turned the trick against the Atlanta Braves Sept. 29, 1976.

Colborn, 5-3, who entered the game with an earned run average of 2.61, tops among Kansas City starters, retired the first 14 batters before a breaking pitch in the fifth brushed Toby Harrah, sending him to first base as the first Ranger runner.

Colborn did not allow a base on balls until Jim Sundberg walked leading off the sixth. A double play ball off the bat of Juan Beniquez quickly rubbed out the runner.

The Royals mounted a 2-0 lead in the third, scored two more runs in the sixth and wrapped it up with two more in the eighth.

NOT AGAIN — Philadelphia 76ers Doug Collins tries a jump shot over the tall ones Friday night in Houston. The shot was blocked, but Houston Rockets Kevin Kunnert, 44, John Lucas, 15, and Moses Malone must put their best foot forward Sunday to stay alive in the NBA playoffs.

Calls the Bull a 'target' Ali tunes up

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Muhammad Ali, not a retiring kind of guy—at least this year—will defend the heavyweight championship Monday night against Alfredo Evangelista, a Spanish citizen called "the Bull" by Ali, other things by other people.

Evangelista is a 22-year-old native of Uruguay who has a 13-1 record with 11 knockouts, lost his last fight on an eight-round decision to Lorenzo Zanon in Evangelista's hometown of Bilbao and is ranked 10th by the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association.

"When we purchased the rights we knew what we were buying," said Jim Spence, vice president in charges of sports programming for ABC which will televise the scheduled 15-rounder from the Capital Centre.

"We were buying a heavyweight championship fight and Ali."

Spence said ABC also investigated Evangelista's ranking and could find no wrongdoing. He noted that the WBA dropped Evangelista from No. 8 to No. 10 after the loss.

"Part of the motivation was defensive," Spence added in noting why ABC took the fight. "At least one other network offered $2.9 million directly to Ali." Ali's purse will be $2.7 million for the bout, sponsored by Don King, whose United States Boxing Championships tournament was recently suspended by ABC amid charges of kickbacks, false records and tampered Ring magazine rankings.

Evangelista gets $85,000. It will be Ali's first since he won a disputed 15-round decision over Ken Norton last Sept. 26, then announced his retirement several times.

Louis looks askance; Norton gets no chance

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former heavyweight boxing champion Joe Louis took time out on his 63rd birthday to throw out the first pitch at a Kansas City Royals game and reflect on the sport that made his name a household word.

At 240, he's 40 pounds heavier than those fighting years when he set a standard by which other champions would be judged. He did so while fighting for a paycheck about one-tenth of today's going rate.

But the unscarred hands are still steady, he still stands erect, the majestic allure is still there.

Louis' birthday was Friday.

He said the current heavyweight titleholder, Muhammad Ali, who is a good friend, "is not washed up, but he's not the Ali he once was."

"I know it's hard to quit, especially when you're making millions of dollars. The thing is, every fight now he has to end as a champion or it isn't worthwhile. He looks good. I've seen him recently, but you can never tell when your legs will go."

On Ken Norton as a challenger, Louis said: "Norton has shown me nothing based on the other night (against Duane Bobick). He hit Bobick with punches a school kid should be able to get away from. He got him with punches that are almost humanly impossible to get hit with."

He said he didn't care to see Norton fight Ali again because he'd had three previous chances.

Louis called George Foreman, who has announced his retirement, the "best fighter if you come to him, like Joe Frazier. But a guy who can run on him (Ali) he can't fight no fighter who can run."

He said his paydays ranged from $52—his first fight—to $700,000 for the second Billy Conn championship bout in 1946.

"That compares with Ali's $7 million at today's prices," he said with a chuckle.

Little League results Angels halo Giants

The National Little League Angels clobbered the Giants Saturday 10-3, lifting their overall mark to 4-1. Winning pitcher for the Angels was Carey Fraser with a 2-1 record. Loser was Chad Wash.

The Angels apparently sent the hardball heavenward on a couple of occasions, with Todd McKinney and Neal Bunker each posting a double and a single, Fraser lofting a four-bagger and a single, and Kevin Morrison and Joe Bingham with two hits each.

For the Giants, whose record slumped to 1-3, Todd Daniels had a double and Matt Hunter had two singles.

Rangers sharpshoot Yanks

In National Little League action Thursday, the Rangers dropped the Yankees 9-7 to top the 500 mark with a 3-2 record. The Yankees fell to 1-3. Winning pitcher was Robert Eggleston, 1-0, loser was Kevin Watson, 0-1.

Eggleston struck out 11 Yankees enroute to his win, along with slugging two hits and scoring three runs. Clean-up batter Pete Valenzuela Jr. also had a good day at the plate, with an in-the-park homer and a double to drive in three. Lead-off hitter Rod Harris continued his big stick theories by punching out four hits in four at-bats.

For the Yankees, Mark Walker posted three hits and Scott Eggleston and Kevin Watson each had two hits.

Sports outrun Elks

The Sports sped past the Elks 17-10 Thursday in American Minor Little League action. Winning pitcher was Kenneth Whitehead, loser was Jimmy Winchester. Sammy Munoz and Todd West had doubles for the Elks. Whitehead and Harry Marquez and two hits for the Sports with Randy Harper and West posting two for the Elks.

Printers roll Tigers

Friday saw thunder in the valley as the Printers rolled over the Tigers despite rallies in the last three innings. The final score of 11-10 left the two teams tied for the National Minor Little League lead with identical 4-1 slates.

Winning pitcher was Rodney McMillan with a perfect 4-0 slate, lower is Bruce Strickland, who absorbed his first loss to drop to 2-1. McMillan struck out 14 on his way to the victory.

McMillan and Sammy Watson each had homers for the Printers and Tigers. Lanton Hamby had a triple, Tommy Rawls, Wally Morgan, and David Barnes had doubles for the printers. Shawn Eason posted a two-bagger for the Tigers.

Cards peck at Devils

The Cardinals put the Devils in a red-hot rage after leaving them behind with a seven-run fifth to squeak it out 16-15 Friday. Both teams are now 4-1 and tied for the league lead. Winning pitcher was George Bancroft, loser was Vince Coates.

Big Bats belonged to Cards Charlie Ragan, 4 for 5, and Mark Johnson, Kent Wilkins, and Bancroft with three hits each. Devils Dee Cagle, with a three-run homer, Coates with three hits, and the White brothers with five between them were also threatening.

Sparks flash Cubs

In the National Pee Wee League, the Sparks topped the halfway point to a 3-2 record by beating the Cubs 6-4 Saturday. Winning pitcher was John Moore, 2-0, loser was Rocky Shrapnek, 0-2. The Cubs are now 1-3. Cub Dean Mariotti tripled in the third inning. Five runs were walked in by Cub pitching.

"He's easy to hit," said an observer watching Alfredo Evangelista work out. "He's a target."

Reporters scribbled down the observations because the man making them was Muhammad Ali, who will be shooting at the "target" Monday night in what is considered a $2.7-million tuneup for the 35-year-old heavyweight champion.

"This guy's no Coopman," said Ali's trainer, Angelo Dundee while watching the Uruguayan-born Spanish citizen work out. "Coopman had high heels and this guy is 6-foot-2, 214 pounds."

But there is a similarity. Jean-Pierre Coopman of Belgium was a "letdown" fight for Ali Feb. 20, 1976, five months after the champ's grueling victory over Joe Frazier in Manila. Ali knocked out Coopman in five rounds.

Evangelista, 13-1-1, will be Ali's first opponent since he won a disputed 15-round decision over Ken Norton last Sept. 28 and is a scheduled first step toward a "big money" rematch with Norton or Jimmy Young, who gave an out-of-shape Ali a tough time in Landover's Capital Centre April 30, 1976, and who recently beat George Foreman.

Schroeder salvages it

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — John Schroeder salvaged a miracle par-four on the final hole and held onto a one-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $200,000 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament.

Schroeder, a four-stroke leader when play began on the humid day, was only one shot in front of threatening Ben Crenshaw and thrashing around under bridges on the wrong hole, worrying about scoreboards that were in his way and chopping up the 18th hole in Sunday duffer fashion when the national television coverage ended.

He had to make par four—which appeared all but impossible—to retain his lead.

And he made it, hitting his third shot—after taking a drop—to within 10 feet of the flag and dropping the putt that let him complete a round of one-over-par 71 and 54 holes with a 202 total.

"A helluva four," said Crenshaw, who watched the proceedings from the press room.

Crenshaw, four strokes back with three holes to play, closed to within one on Schroeder's struggles over the last three holes and a 15-foot birdie putt of his own on the 18th hole. He shot a 68 for 203, seven under par on the 7,190-yard Colonial Country Club course.

Schroeder, 31 and a longshot who has played so poorly in recent years he's entertained thoughts of quitting the tour, is the son of former Wimbledon champion Ted Schroeder.

Sunday is the final round of the tourney, worth $40,000 to the winner. Masters champion Tom Watson, victim of a quadruple-bogey nine in Friday's second round, bounced back with a 68 that left him third, five shots back of the leader, at 207.

200 m.p.h. at Indy

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Tom Sneva, who bounced back from a harrowing, fiery crash here two years ago, shattered the 200-mile-an-hour barrier at venerable Indianapolis Motor Speedway Saturday with a clocking of 200.535 m.p.h. during pole-position qualifying for the May 28 Indy 500.

Sneva, a 28-year-old former junior high school principal from Spokane, Wash., also posted a track record of 198.884 m.p.h. over his four-lap qualifying run.

Sneva, who was held back from breaking the 200 m.p.h. in practice the past week because of a blown motor and then a brush with the wall, had a first lap of 200.401, then bettered it before dropping off to the 197 bracket the final two laps.

"The first two laps I knew were good and I just wanted to get two more. The car got a little loose and I felt there was no sense in taking chances," Sneva said.

"We've got to be pleased. We had a tough week. The guys (his crew) did a fantastic job getting the car ready. We didn't get too many practice laps."

Track observers said Sneva dusted the wall coming out of the first turn after his fastest circuit.

The speeds for Sneva and his McLaren-Cosworth were far and away the fastest of a surprising slow day of qualifying. A.J. Foyt completed a run at 193.465. Al Unser averaged 195.950.

Still to be heard from, however, were defending champion Johnny Rutherford, national champion Gordon Johncock and Grand Prix star Mario Andretti.

Rutherford, Andretti, Foyt and Johncock were all members of the "unofficial" 200 club. Rutherford did it Thursday in practice with a speed of 200.624 m.p.h. Andretti and Foyt topped 200 the previous day. Johncock did it in the tests last March.

Foyt, the very first qualifier for the 1977 race, said: "The track was very slippery. And the front end was pushing so bad it killed our speeds. This is the slowest we've run all month."

The day was an reasonably good one, better than the hot, sticky 80-degree temperatures forecast. Thin, high clouds moved into the area during the early morning hours and kept the temperature, both in the air and on the track surface, down considerably.

The possibility of seeing the 200 barrier fall lured a huge crowd to the 270,000-seat facility. Estimates ranged from 200,000-250,000 in attendance Saturday.

71-208. The only others under par for three rounds were Butch Baird, Al Geiberger and Chi Chi Rodriguez at 209. Geiberger and clowning Rodriguez had 73s. Baird closed with a 68.

Defending champion Lee Trevino shot 73-210. Hubert Green was 70-212. Johnny Miller 71-213. Tom Weiskopf 72-214. Hale Irwin 70-214 and South African Gary Player 72-215.

Steinke leaves football

KINGSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — A search is underway by Texas A&I officials for a new head football coach to replace Gil Steinke, whose teams have captured three straight NAIA championships.

Steinke announced his resignation Friday but said he would remain as the school's athletic director.

Steinke's record as head coach for the past 23 years was 182-61-4, one of the best in the nation, and includes a current 39-game winning streak, the second longest victory streak in collegiate history.

His 1974, 1975 and 1976 teams led the nation offensively and last fall's squad set a national record for most yards gained during a season (6,269) and for the most offensive yards per game (569.9).

Drillers slug fan, appeal suspension

TULSA (AP) — The Tulsa Drillers will appeal the five-day suspension of manager Marty Martinez, who got into a fight at Little Rock during a Texas League game with the Little Rock Travelers.

Martinez was suspended by Carl Sawatski, president of the Texas League, after a hearing and investigation.

Texas League President Carl Sawatski said Martinez had been suspended for "conduct not in the best interest of baseball."

The suspension begins Friday and continues through May 19, Sawatski said. Tulsa has two open dates during that time.

The incident occurred in the ninth inning of a game between Tulsa and the Arkansas Travelers Tuesday night at Little Rock.

According to published reports, Martinez left his third base coaching box and grabbed a fan sitting in the front row of box seats. Martinez reportedly pulled the fan onto the field and started hitting him.

Players from both sides broke up the fight.

The fan was identified as Jerry Sterling of North Little Rock.

"I was just sitting there yelling at the third base coach (Martinez) and he came over and pulled me out of the seats and started hitting me," Sterling was quoted as saying. "While he was in the box I had asked him, 'Why don't you speak English?'"

Arkansas third baseman Jim Rigglesman told Arkansas manager Buzzy Keller that several fans in the box seats "had been on him (Martinez) all night. There was a lot of profanity and they were talking about him speaking Spanish all the time."

Joe Klein, assistant farm director for the Texas Rangers, parent club of Tulsa, will manage the Tulsa team through next Thursday.

No fine or other action was mentioned in the order by Sawatski.

Pat Mooney, general manager of the Drillers, said the club will appeal the ruling to Bobby Bragan.

KNEELS AFTER POINT — Vitas Gerulaitis, Long Island, N.Y., raises his arms and kneels before an applauding crowd Friday night at the World Championship Tennis Tournament in Dallas. Gerulaitis reacted when he won a point after losing three in a row to Dick Stockton of Carrollton, Tex. in the semi-finals. Gerulaitis still lost.

DALLAS (AP) — Jimmy Connors, overconfident or an over-the-hill, but he figures a message and tele beats scouting you on any day.

Connors, the No. 1 in the $100,000 World Championship of Tennis first prize, dusted off fiery Dibbs 6-4, 7-5 and 6-1. I'm going to get m. message and watch television."

Connors has yet to set in the tournament will hold the national televised finals at

ON TO THE FINALS — Portland rosters join in the celebration Friday night after their team defeated Los Angeles 105-101 to move into the finals of the NBA playoffs.

Blazers burn

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The Portland Trail Blazers, who before this year had never had a winning season, have wiped out the Los Angeles Lakers in four straight games to advance to the finals of the National Basketball Association playoffs.

The young Blazers, whose starters average just 2.2 years of NBA experience, delivered the knockout blow to the Lakers Friday night, 105-101.

They'll play the winner of the Philadelphia-Houston series for the NBA title.

"I've said it time and time again," Portland's jubilant Coach Jack Ramsay said. "I'm extremely proud of this team. It's a rare group of individuals."

Only five of the 12 players on the Portland roster were with the team last season, and it was two of the newcomers, Maurice Lucas and Johnny Davis, who shared the spotlight Friday.

Lucas, who came from Louisville of the defunct American Basketball Association, scored 18 of his team-high 26 points in the second half to deflate a Los Angeles rally that had given the luckless Lakers a six-point lead late in the third period.

But the Lakers' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who had a game-high 30 points and 17 rebounds, drew his fifth personal foul with 3:09 remaining in the third quarter. Although the 7-foot-2 center played the entire fourth period and didn't foul out of the game, his defense was restrained the rest of the way.

Davis, a 23-year-old rookie from Dayton University, buried the Lakers for good with 2½ minutes left in the game when he stole the ball from Abdul-Jabbar and broke free for a layup to give Portland a 103-93 bulge. Los Angeles never got any closer than the final margin.

For a time Friday night, it looked as if the Lakers finally were going to win one and send the series back to Los Angeles.

THE LAYING ON OF HANDS — Los Angeles' Kareem Abdul-Jabbar pushes Trail Blazers' Bill Walton as Walton tries to go to the basket during the NBA playoff game Friday night in Portland. Portland won 105-101 to win the best of seven series, four games to none.

But that changed when Abdul-Jabbar picked up two quick fouls and left the line-

Slaughter resigned

STERLING CITY — Sterling City High School is seeking a head coach to replace Danny Slaughter, who resigned after eight seasons here to become head coach at Aspermont.

Slaughter's teams won 48, lost 22 and tied one during his tenure here.

Slaughter played his high school football at Ballinger and his college ball at Angelo State University.

Gerulaitis, Dibbs falter Connors, Stockton meet

DALLAS (AP) — It's not that Jimmy Connors is overconfident or anything, but he figures a good massage and television beats scouting your opponent any day.

Connors, the No. 1 seed for the $100,000 World Championship of Tennis first prize, dusted off fiery Eddie Dibbs 6-4, 7-5 and 6-1 Friday night but refused to watch the other semifinal match between Dick Stockton and Vitas Gerulaitis. He would have lost a lot of sleep. The five-set marathon wasn't over until after midnight with Stockton prevailing 7-6, 3-6, 6-7, 6-3, 6-3.

"Naw, I'm not going to watch," said Connors. "I've seen those guys play before. I'm going to get myself a massage and watch a little television."

Connors has yet to lose a set in the tournament which will hold the nationally televised finals at 1 p.m.

CDT Sunday in Moody Coliseum.

"This is a biggie for me," said Connors. "I've never played here before. I had heard this was a super event and it has lived up to and beaten what I expected."

Connors laughed at speculation he should be a walk-in for the seventh WCT crown.

"I'm not infallible ... I can't win 'em all," said Connors. "But I'm eager to play I can tell you that. I like winning where I've never been before."

The Connors magic drew a record WCT crowd of 9,331 Friday night. This means over 300 people were standing because capacity in Moody Coliseum is just over 9,000.

Connors struggled in the early going against Dibbs of Miami Beach, who had ousted Rumania's Ilie Nastase on Wednesday night.

"I was letting down early in the sets and I just decided I had to quit digging a hole for myself," said Connors.

Royal honored

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Darrell Royal, the former football coach for the University of Texas, has been presented the Robert R. Neyland Memorial Award.

Royal received the award, which honors the late Tennessee coach, here Friday night.

It is presented annually by the Knoxville Quarterback Club to a coach who has made a major contribution to collegiate football.

Royal stepped down last fall after a long and successful career at Texas.

Contract not renewed Griffin notified

James Griffin, head basketball coach at Big Spring High School, received a letter of notification Friday that his contract had been terminated at the end of the school year.

Coach Griffin, the first black head coach in 5-AAAA sport when promoted in 1975, had been aware that his contract had not been renewed since March.

However, the coach said that at that time, when he asked about his status, he was told that it would be reviewed later in the school year.

Coach Griffin approached Athletic Director Donald Robbins at that time. He said Friday, "I presume the school board reviewed the decision Thursday night. All I know is they had an assistant principal bring me a letter Friday morning, telling me my job is terminated."

Griffin came to Big Spring in 1973 under Coach Bob Burris as an assistant football and assistant basketball coach.

He was promoted to head basketball coach on Burris' recommendation in 1975 following the resignation of Ron Plumlee.

During the two seasons he served as head coach, the Steers were picked for eighth place and were fourth place both years.

"Both years, we lost a number of games by only one point. We lost four district games by one point two years ago and six this year."

"Two years ago, we defeated Abilene High once and they were the second best AAAA team in the state. We also defeated the state AAA champions that year."

Coach Griffin said he has no plans at this time. "I have not decided what to do," he added.

STEER COACH JAMES GRIFFIN

SWAC meet tied in conference finals

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Texas Southern strongman Larry Edwards and Prairie View runner Johnny Miles led their teams to a deadlock at the top after three events completed in the Southwestern Athletic Conference track and field meet.

Southern's Renae Tramble hurled the javelin 140 feet to break her own conference record and give her team the lead in the women's division of the meet going into today's final events.

In the women's division, Southern compiled 16 points to 12 for Grambling, 2 for Alcorn and 1 for Mississippi Valley. In men's scoring, Texas Southern and Prairie View were tied with 20 points apiece, Jackson State had 10, Alcorn 8 and Grambling 7.

Texas Southern piled up its points with a first and third in the hammer throw. Edwards took first with a heave of 141-6½.

Miles loped over the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 9:53.3 to lead his team into a share of the lead.

Finals were completed in the women's javelin throw, the men's hammer throw and a 3,000-meter steeplechase. The rest of

Arencibias victorious

MIDLAND — Tito and Bill Arencibia took consolation honors last weekend at the Texas YMCA handball Championships in Midland.

The Big Spring pair defeated Joe Ellis and Dan Page in the open doubles class 21-13 and 21-17 to get the trophy.

City golf tourney

The Big Spring Golf Association has announced the City Golf Championship will be held May 28, 29 and 30.

The tournament will follow the same format as last year, with play on Saturday, May 28 at the Big Spring Country Club, 9 a.m. shotgun start. Play will resume on Sunday, May 29, at the Webb A.F.B. Course with shotgun starts at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. The final day of the championship will be held at Comanche Trail Golf Course with a shotgun start at 1 p.m.

All residents of Big Spring and Howard County are eligible to play in the tournament. Entry fees are $12.50 per player which includes green fees at all three courses. Participants must sign up at their own golf shop before Friday, May 27 at 5:00 p.m.

Players may choose to play in the Championship Flight and all players with a handicap of 6 and under will be placed in the Championship Flight. In the Handicap Division, players will be flighted according to their handicap and compete against other players with comparable handicaps on a scratch basis.

City, school, Y cooperate Summer Rec begins

The city of Big Spring, the Big Spring Independent School District and the Big Spring YMCA will again cooperate on a summer of fun for elementary school children. Under the directorship of Don Hise, this program will be held every morning from June 13 through July 29, Monday through Friday each week. The program will begin at 9:00 a.m. and run until noon.

The children will participate in supervised recreation that will also include Arts and Crafts. Children may participate in this program either at Comanche Trail Park or the Lakeview Branch YMCA. Under the same sponsorship a 5-day learn-to-swim campaign will be conducted from June 6 through June 10 at the Comanche Trail pool.

Registration lines are expected to form early at the Big Spring YMCA for learn-to-swim week at Comanche Trail Pool. Parents may register non-swimming children ages 6 to 12 at the YMCA through May 31. Classes will begin June 6 at 10:00 a.m. for the more than 200 youngsters expected.

Children will learn basic swimming and aquatic skills under the skilled, watchful direction of trained YMCA swimming instructors. Children will be taught proper entry into the water, floating, basic strokes and other beginning skills.

Grady athletes honored recently

Mary Lupe Perez, Frank Cantu and Leslie Wood garnered top honors at the Grady High School All-Sports Banquet May 8. Brian Hall, former field goal kicker for Texas Tech University, was featured speaker.

Sponsored by the Grady Wildcat Booster Club, the banquet honored the school's athletes in football, basketball, track, tennis and golf. About 200 GHS fans were on hand for the festivities.

Miss Perez was named "Best All-Around Girl

Athlete," Cantu won the "Fightingest Wildcat" award and Wood was named "Best All-Around Boy Athlete."

Coach Alan Wooten received two awards from his students, and Coach Richard Gibson received a plaque from his track team. Eddie Odom, former school board member and president of the booster club, Mrs. Alan Wooten, and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Harrell were awarded plaques of appreciation, as were Newell Tate and superintendent Bill Baker.

Konny's Konner

Konny Service

This week proved to be another good fishing week at Spence. A lot of fish were caught, and a lot of smiles could be found on the faces of many fishermen.

Not only was the fishing good, but the weather was not all that bad either. The humid climate lent itself well to the enjoyable water and scenery at Spence.

To top off the numerous good catches of the week was R.L. Flanagan's striper which weighed in at 15½ lbs. (R.L. is one of our local boys) Bernie Bailey of Jal, N.M. wasn't too far behind with her catch being a 14-lb. striper. Pretty nice catch, fisherman!

Ken Cole, Phil Elliott and Scott Turner, all of Texico, N.M. can give you some pretty good advice on stripers after catching 9 stripers up to 12 lbs. this week. Some other good catches made were from Ronnie Wright and Sid Wright of Lubbock. Ronnie caught a 4-lb. striper while Sid handed in a 4½-lb. striper.

Fred Parker of Sterling City enjoyed his week when he caught 12 channel cat from 3 to 4 lbs. along with his 7-lb. striper.

If your curiosity is aroused as to where the stripers can be found maybe this will soothe it a bit. The stripers this week have been found in shallow water early in the mornings and late in the afternoons. On the south side of the lake near Y.J.'s Marina straight across to the north side bank has been a good area for stripers. Top water baits are your best bet when the stripers are in shallow waters.

There were quite a few blacks also caught this week. In fact, Kirk Boyd of Midland landed a nice black weighing in at 4½ lbs. The blacks have also been caught mostly in shallow water using spinner baits and worms.

The channel cat haven't been all that sly either, because quite a few were brought in off trotlines. W.R. Richardson of Odessa caught a good sized channel cat which weighed 7 lbs. That will look nice on the table!

The crappie are in shallow water now taking after minnows. The whites are also in the picture. They aren't particular about the area though.

So here you have it. This week's picture of who done it, where they did it, and what they did it with!

Happy Fishing!

Area fishermen get Lake Spence results

Striped bass returned to the front in fishing reports from Lake E.V. Spence during the past week, but there were several good catches of channel catfish, along with a sprinkling of white bass.

The largest of the strippers reported was a 14-pounder landed by Mrs. Bernie Bailey, Jal, N.M. Another group came in with a 12-lb. specimen. Kirk Boyd, Midland, had a 4½-lb. black bass.

Reports from various concession points included: Wildcat Fish A Rama — Bill Brown, Midland, eight black bass to 4½ lbs.; Jake Moore, Leon, Jimmy, Lonnie and Dennis Slape, Earnie McDaniel and families of Hereford, 25 strippers to 10 lbs.; Ray Taylor, Monahans, eight black bass to 4 lbs., four white bass to 1½ lbs.; Ricky Holder, Midland, 2-lb. channel catfish.

Y.J.'s Marina — Bud Korkowski, Lubbock, 3½-lb. striper; Kirk Boyd, Midland, 4½-lb. black bass; Mrs. Bernie Bailey, Jal, N.M., 14-lb. striper; Curtis Murphy, Odessa, 6¼-lb. striper; Jerry Silhavy, Odessa, 4½-lb. striper; Ronnie and Sid Wright, Odessa, two strippers to 4½ lbs.; Anita McLain, Midland, 4½-lb. striper; Ken Cole, Phil Elliott and Scott Turner, Texaco, nine strippers to 12 lbs., and five white bass to ½-lb.

FUNERAL SERVICES are scheduled Monday for Barry Ashbee, the 37-year-old assistant coach of the Philadelphia Flyers who died Thursday of leukemia. A spokesman for the National Hockey League team said the services will be at 1 p.m. at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church in Huber Heights, Ontario. At the same time, a public memorial service will be held at the Spectrum here. Burial will be at Glenside Memorial Gardens in Weston, Ontario, Ashbee's hometown.

US gridders see flaws in style

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Edwin Moses, Donald Quarrie and Mike Boit, all track perfectionists, could see flaws in their fastest 1977 world times.

"It was not that good a race. I'm still making mistakes. It's in my hurdling techniques," said Moses, moments after he had won the 400-meter hurdles in 48.64 seconds for the men's only double in the Jamaica Invitational Track and Field meet Friday night.

"I could have gone faster," said Quarrie of his 20.30 in the 200 meters. "I slowed up in the last 10 yards. It almost cost me the race. I've got to start running right through the finish line again."

"I think I could have pushed harder than that," Boit said following a 1:44.7 effort in the 800 meters. "I think if (Alberto) Juantorena had been here, it would have been much tougher."

Astros baffling

HOUSTON (AP) — After a shaky start won-lost wise, Houston Astros pitcher Mark Lemongello is back on the right track.

Lemongello, 1-4, baffled Pittsburgh on seven singles and Houston blanked the Pirates, 3-0, Friday night. Ken Forsch relieved Lemongello with two outs in the ninth inning and struck out Phil Garner to record his third save of the season. Pirate starter Jerry Reuss, 0-4, took the loss as Pittsburgh fell for only the third time in their last 19 contests.

The Astros provided the rookie right-hander with all the offensive support he needed with a three run fourth inning.

After Enos Cabell singled and Cesar Cedeno was hit by a pitch, Bob Watson drilled a single to right scoring Cabell. Cliff Johnson and Art Howe also delivered run scoring base hits in the inning.

"I felt confident and relaxed," Lemongello said. "It's the first time I had more than a one run lead in any game this season. I would like to have finished the game but it's my fault that I didn't."

Willie Stargell singled off Lemongello with two out in the ninth. Rennie Stennett followed with a slow roller down the first base line which Lemongello fielded and dropped as he tagged the runner. Stennett reached first on the error and Larry Demery, running for Stargell, moved to third before Forsch retired Garner to end the game.

"Bill (Astro Manager Virdon) made the right move in taking me out," Lemongello said. "If I had just held on to the ball a little tighter, I would have had the shutout."

Virdon was impressed by Lemongello's performance on the mound. "He has pitched well the last few games but we haven't scored many runs for him," Virdon said. "In a situation like that (ninth inning and runners on first and third), you've got to go with the percentages."

Rangers go 6 for 7 with KC

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Dave Nelson, John Wathan and Pete LaCock, who had been wearing slick spots on the Kansas City bench while their team lost four in a row and seven of nine, proved ready heroes.

Thrust into the lineup for a trio of struggling stars, the three reserves rapped out two hits apiece and led the Royals to a 3-2 victory Friday night over their arch nemesis, Bert Blyleven of the Texas Rangers.

When Nelson singled and scored in the first inning he doubled the total earned runs the Royals had managed their last three encounters against the Texas curveball artist, who entered the game with a league-leading earned run average of 1.45.

When he singled home the winning tally in the bottom of the ninth it marked the end of a six-game winning streak Blyleven had enjoyed over the defending Western Division champions.

"I knew we had to do something," said manager Whitey Herzog. "It does feel good to finally get some hits, especially off that son-of-a-gun. But this is just one little battle in the middle of a great big war."

Jerked out of the lineup were catcher Darrell Porter, who had gone 1-for-17, first baseman John Mayberry, who was 3-for-30, and centerfielder Amos Otis, 3-for-2.

"Porter will catch tomorrow night," Herzog said. "But Otis and Mayberry will get some more rest."

Herzog said Otis was suffering from a jammed finger, "but he would have been out of there anyway. This just makes it easier, you know."

"As for Mayberry, it seems like we've been having him try something new almost every day. He's been hitting the ball well in batting practice, but we haven't given him enough time to develop any good habits."

How long will Mayberry and Otis, who are in the early years of lucrative long-term contracts, be benched? "I don't know," Herzog said. "We'll just wait and see."

Even though the Royals reached Blyleven for 11 hits

— a windfall compared with the way they had been swinging the bats — the decision remained in doubt all the way.

Mark Littell relieved Gura in the eighth and moved his record to 4-1.

EXCEEDS HIS GRASP — Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner takes a playful swipe at an unidentified youngster in the stands at Atlanta-Fulton County Stadium Friday night before the game with the St. Louis Cardinals. Turner's brief career as a manager ended before the game after a telegram from Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn. The Braves ended their one-game victory streak by losing to the Cards, 3-0.

Turner manages to keep streak alive

ATLANTA (AP) — Forbidden to manage his Atlanta Braves, Ted Turner said he wanted to "sleep on it" Friday night before deciding his next move. Instead he sat wide awake as the Braves lost 3-0 to St. Louis, then he summoned exiled Manager Dave Bristol back to Atlanta.

Before the game, the Braves' owner was talkative about Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's decision to ban him from his team's dugout.

But Turner left quickly after the game ended, letting his public relations staff tell reporters that Bristol would return for tonight's game.

Turner had sent Bristol on a "scouting trip," taking the manager's post himself and directing the team Wednesday night as it extended its losing string to 17 games. Bristol went home to North Carolina.

National League President Chub Feeney put a temporary stop to Turner's managerial career Thursday, and Kuhn made it official Friday.

Stanton Students place in state contest

By DEE DEE ADKINS
Five girls were selected to serve as cheerleaders for the 7-78 school year. They are: Tamala Allred, Bonnie Bludworth, Dymorie Christian, Mary Lynn Wheeler, and Loretta Young. Ten girls tried out.

Both state qualifiers from the literary contest placed in Austin last weekend. Steve Sargent earned the silver medal by his second-place prose reading. David Stroud

The band left Thursday morning on their spring trip. Two busloads of kids and luggage traveled to Six Flags at Arlington. The band returned Saturday.

In matters of undecided competition, twirlers and drum major will be elected the week after the band returns. Also, new members to the annual staff and senior positions will be announced.

An opportunity to participate in the 1977 Children's Summer Program of the Museum of the Southwest in Midland will be offered to area school children, grades three through six. There will be one session each week for six weeks. The first sessions will be June 9, 10, 11.

There will be one session each week for the next five weeks, ending July 14, 15, 16. The sessions will be as follows:

Thursday, 10 a.m.-12 — Batik, taught by Edie Luce. Edie has taught adult and children's batik classes, and of course these will be geared to children. The art of Batik might be called a contemporary version of the historic cloth-dyeing process of the Orient.

Friday, 10 a.m.-12 — Creative Images, taught by Dorothy Peterson. Dorothy is a well-known Midland artist who enjoys working with children and leading them through a series of creative adventures.

Well, the end is almost here. The end of school, that is. A large number of events has been planned for the wind-down of school.

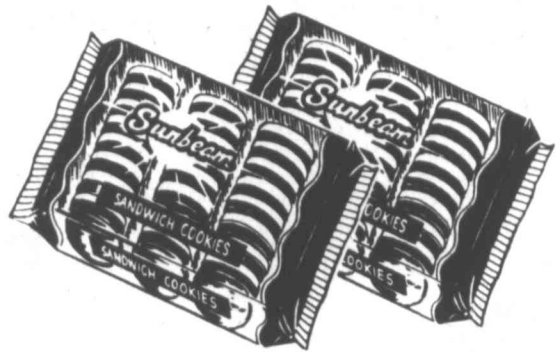

First of all, a report of the state meet. Forsan did very well in both the literary and sports events. In the literary field, Ron Roberson and Steve Cowley brought back first place in the State Debate meet. The duo defeated four teams for the crown and met the toughest competition all year. In sports, Marcia Nichols took second place in the girls' singles division of the State Tennis meet in Class B. In track, Lucy Thixton cleaned up. She took first place in the 100-yard dash and second in the 220. The relay team finished fourth, and Forsan's team wound up with 26 points, a very respectable finish in the meet.

The end of next week is going to be busy. First, Thursday night (19th), the High School Awards Banquet will be held at the tennis courts. Come prepared for

Malone-Hogan volunteers cited for hours served

By CAROL HART
Volunteers from Malone-Hogan Hospital were recognized for their hours of service during an awards luncheon Monday in the Howard College Cactus Room, located in the Student Union Building.

The Malone-Hogan volunteer organization is one of Big Spring's newest volunteer groups, having formed two months after the hospital moved to its present location near Scenic Mountain. The group has contributed toward establishing a regular blood donor day in Big Spring, and recently voted to purchase an emergency radio system for the hospital. The radio system will allow physicians to talk directly to emergency technicians while enroute to the hospital. The system will also allow communications statewide should be the town lose telephone capabilities.

The Rev. Carroll Kohl, St. Paul Lutheran, opened the luncheon with the invocation, followed by the welcome from Norman Knox, administrator.

Dr. James E. Mathews, vice-chief of staff, gave the physicians' address, followed by the president's report from Mrs. Wade Choate, outgoing president.

Volunteers and the number of hours they have donated were then recognized. Certificates and bars were distributed by K.H. McGibbon, board chairman.

Mrs. Tillie McGibbon, who stocked the gift shop at the hospital, had the most hours, numbering 938.

Mrs. Choate and Mrs. Emily Ward, director of volunteers, then presented special awards to various volunteers.

Mrs. B. Broadrick was named as the recipient of the Kate Irons Award, an award which will be an annual presentation in the future.

Mrs. Irons served as the first president of the Malone-Hogan volunteers. Mrs. Ward introduced Mrs. Irons as "the woman we've described as a woman of 'grit,' a woman whom we've described as the kind of gal John Wayne would be proud to call his own, a woman whose sense of humor has carried us through many a problem."

Mrs. Broadrick was cited for her work with the Blood Donor Center. Considered in the criteria governing her selection was her sense of humor, her commitment to the total volunteer program, and her concern for the community.

Other nominees for the Kate Irons Award included Mrs. Clyde Angel and Mrs. Jack Lipscombe.

Mrs. L.B. Paul was named as the best supporting volunteer during the awards presentation. Her work in the recruiting program was cited as being a service both to the hospital and to the community.

Other nominees for the best supporting volunteer award included Mrs. Winifred Greenless and Mrs. W.A. Moore.

Ms. Caroline Rekoff was named as the winner of the Spirit Award. Ms. Rekoff was cited for "editing the volunteer newsletter monthly, handling publicity chores for the organization, and in general helping wherever she was needed even though she holds a full-time job with Howard College."

Other nominees for the Spirit Award were Mrs. David Homrig, Mrs. Sam Watts, Mrs. Adolph Swartz, Mrs. Bernice Micallif, Mrs. Troy Fraser and Mrs. Aurora Etheridge.

James Werrell of the Big Spring Herald was cited for his support in telling the blood donor story to the community. He was presented with the Communication Award.

Knox introduced officers of the Volunteer organization who will serve for the coming year. They are Mrs. Ken Perry, president; Mrs. Marshall Cauley, vice president; Mrs. Jack Lipscombe, president-elect; Mrs. Clayton Bettie, treasurer; and Mrs. William Dawes, secretary.

Miss Paula Dodson weds David Weaver Friday

Miss Paula Dodson and David Weaver were married Friday evening in the First Baptist Church in Coahoma with the Rev. Monroe Teeters officiating.

The couple was wed before a heart-shaped arch centered with two spiral candelabra and two tree candelabra flanking the arch.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Dodson and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Weaver.

The bride wore a traditional princess-style gown, featuring candelabra knitted chiffon enhanced with matching scalloped Venise lace and bridal pearls. The fitted bodice was overlaid with lace. The portrait neckline was finished with lace and pearls. Her long, full sleeves were accented with lace motifs. The bride wore a Juliet cap fashioned from lace and covered with bridal pearls.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of daisies, feathered carnations, camellia buds, and baby's breath tied with satin streamers and bridal lace.

Mrs. H.L. Spears was matron of honor. Best man was Roger Weaver.

Ms. Sharon Dodson, and Ms. Sherrie Griffin were bridesmaids.

Serving as ushers were Danny Dodson, Billy Joe Darden and Ronnie Dodson.

Billy Joe Darden and Danny Dodson were candlelighters. Kristi Weaver and Denise Walker were flower girls.

Following a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N.M., the couple will reside in Odessa.

The bride attended Coahoma High School and Odessa College. The bridegroom attended Odessa High School and is employed with Totco, Inc.

A reception honoring the couple was held in the fellowship hall of the church. An orchid tablecloth covered the serving table. The centerpiece was an arrangement of spring colors, and held six tall white tapers. Crystal appointments were used.

The bridegroom's table was covered with a white cloth. Silver appointments were used.

Serving at the reception were Ms. Rita Foster, Ms.

Sherly Smith, Ms. Cathy Weaver and Ms. Debbie Abraham. Ms. Connie Walker presided at the guest registry.

Out-of-town guests included Norman Hopper Jr., Crowell, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pinkston, Colorado City; Mrs. Terri Jordan, Dallas; Mrs. H.L. Spears, Lubbock; Miss Sherri Griffin, Abilene; Roger Weaver, Odessa; and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Horn, Port Arkansas.

A rehearsal dinner honoring the couple was held Thursday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J.F. Bobo. Hosts included Mr. and Mrs. B.J. Darden, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hudgins and Mr. and Mrs. Bobo.

Hates Sex And Has Company

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for nearly 25 years and have six fine children. But I have lived a lie all my married life. I detest sex. I'm sure if I had had sexual relations before matrimony, I never would have married.

My husband is a very fine and considerate person. He is not demanding, but submitting to sex has always been disgusting and degrading to me.

My husband has no idea how I feel because I've never refused him, and I'm a very good actress. He seems satisfied, but I just go through the motions—feeling nothing but revulsion.

Don't suggest therapy. It's too late to change, and besides I'm really quite content with things as they are.

I'm convinced there must be other women like me who were just born with a nature that is repulsed by this kind of intimacy. Am I right?

LIVING A LIE

DEAR LIVING: Yes, there are other women who share your view, but no one is born with attitudes about sex. They are developed at an early age.

Many women (and men) carry into marriage strong prejudices about sexual relations that make it seem degrading and disgusting. This seems to be the case with you.

The physical side of marriage can be immensely rewarding and beautiful, but if you're "content" missing what you're missing, and your husband is genuinely satisfied, you have no problem.

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed BEWILDERED made reference to an abnormal child (a Mongoloid).

I am a Mongoloid. So are my parents. I was descended from a whole family of Mongoloids. My husband is a Mongoloid too, so chances are 100 per cent that our child will be Mongoloid.

The human race has been categorized into three main racial types: Caucasoid, Negroid and Mongoloid.

On behalf of more than one-third of the world's human population, may I respectfully request that you correct those who use the word "Mongoloid" to describe an abnormal condition. The proper term is "Down's Syndrome." Thank you for your time.

PHYLLIS J. KIMURA HAYASHIBARA

DEAR PHYLLIS: Your request is noted and appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing in reference to a letter from DAZED, who ridiculed her friend for spending so much money on her dog's funeral. Thank you, Abby, for saying that to some people their pets are their "children."

My beautiful Chihuahua, Chichi, died last year at the age of 14, and if I had had the money to give her an elaborate funeral, I would have gladly spent it.

When Chichi got sick, the vet told me her kidneys were failing, so I offered one of mine, but he said he could get a dog's kidney if he thought it would help.

Yes, Chichi was my "child." Actually, she was more loving than a human child. She loved me and asked for nothing in return but my love.

I know many children who don't give their parents love, but expect their parents to give them everything in creation.

So, if a person really wants love, he should get a pet and love it like a child.

ANOTHER PET LOVER

DEAR PET LOVER: We are a nation of pet lovers. It will come as no surprise to you that Americans spend more money on pet food than on baby food.

Richard Townsend
One of the secrets of good cooking is having a good soup stock. In all your food preparations keep the soup stock in a corner of your kitchen thoughts. Vegetable cooking water should be saved and refrigerated. If you have access to fresh vegetables, save the scraps and put them in a bag or container in the refrigerator until you have enough to make a good stock, about one or two pounds. Dump them in a large pot with a quart of water, and simmer covered, for 30 to 45 minutes. Strain and store the stock in the refrigerator, for use in all kinds of food.
For the finest in family style dining and fabulous cooking the place to eat is the WESTERN SIZZLER, 208 Gregg, 267-1444. Whether it be soup or chicken our menu will offer something to please even the fussiest of eaters. You will enjoy eating this meal in our western atmosphere and to top it off no tipping is necessary. Next time your family insists on trying a new place, suggest the WESTERN SIZZLER you'll love it. Open: 11 a.m.-9:30 p.m.
HANDY HINT: When preparing soup from stock, add the vegetables in the last stage so the vitamins and minerals do not evaporate in cooking.

Focus on family living Television sales may offer good buys

Sales during May and June on television sets may offer good buys to consumers who know how to find them.

Color TV is more popular than black-and-white, but black-and-white does provide the action of most programs — and at half to one-third the price.

A battery-operated set is necessary for the bathroom, laundry room, near the kitchen sink or near a grounded appliance — moisture or an electrical ground mean danger for TV sets operated by an electric current.

several sets in several stores. A wide variety of controls is available, so ask about those on each set. Automatic fine tuning on color sets is available on all sets with a one button control, or as an adjustable knob on some sets. Some consumers prefer the preset control while others like to adjust the fine tune themselves.

Some specifics for TV shopping follow:
—Compare the sets for sharpness, focus, visible detail, sound, and for lack of distortion.

—Be sure to examine the warranties.

There are variations in how long part and labor are covered. Generally warranties require taking the set to an authorized serviceman — or shipping it prepaid to the factory for repair work covered by the warranty.

—Consider location of repair and servicing before buying.

If you don't know a good repairman, it's best to buy from a reliable dealer who has his own service shop.

—Be sure any set your consider has solid-state circuitry.

Transistors in solid-state use less energy than tubes, produce less heat during operation and don't burn out the way tubes can.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett observe golden wedding anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. G.A. "Kin" Barnett, 1307 Sycamore, will be honored with a family dinner today in observance of their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnett were married Sunday, May 15, 1927 in Terrell. The ceremony was performed by the Methodist parsonage by the minister of the church. The couple was attended by W. Carroll Barnett Jr., Houston, brother of the bridegroom, Ruth Nicholson (Bird), sister of the bride; Lucille Nicholson (Frazier), cousin of the bride, and W.T. (Bill) Frazier of Pampa.

Mrs. Barnett, the former Marguerite Nicholson, is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A.T. Nicholson of Terrell. Barnett is the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. W.C. Barnett of Big Spring. Barnett attended Texas Military College and the University of Texas. He was employed by Shell Oil Company, and later entered Civil Service in the Old Age Assistance program. He subsequently became the area supervisor for Federal Public Housing, and was later R&D officer at Kelly Air Force Base in San Antonio.

The Barnetts are members of the First Presbyterian Church in Big Spring. Mrs. Barnett has worked as a Sunday School teacher for the church, and Barnett was superintendent for the Sunday School. He also served as a deacon. Both were members of the choir.

Mrs. Barnett served as president of the South Ward PTA. Barnett has been a member of the Lion's Club, the Elks Lodge, and served as president of the Eagles.

The Barnetts have one son, Gill A. Barnett Jr., Richardson; four grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Out-of-town guests for the dinner are expected to include Mr. and Mrs. J.R. Nicholson and Mrs. Ruth Bird, Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. A.T. Nicholson Jr., Baton Rouge, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Gill A. Barnett Jr., Richardson; and Mr. and Mrs. W. Carroll Barnett Jr., Kerrville.

Alliance of clubs meet at Dora Roberts center

The Big Spring Alliance of Clubs meeting was Thursday at the Dora Roberts Center. Mrs. Odell Womack presided over the business meeting.

Jerry Foresyth was present, representing the City of Big Spring.

Mrs. Womack introduced Mrs. Dan Ervin and Mrs. Glen Green, who will be food caterers and also supply noonday lunch at the center each week, Monday through Friday, beginning in June.

Mrs. Womack reminded representatives that the $25 yearly dues are to be paid before May 30.

Mrs. Womack and Foresyth mentioned several people who had donated equipment to the Dora Roberts Center.

Membership in the Big Spring Alliance of Clubs is open to any club paying the $100 initiation fee and annual dues of $25. Membership entitles clubs use of certain rooms in the Dora Roberts Center.

Additional information concerning membership may be obtained by contacting one of the officers.

Officers for the fiscal year, beginning Aug. 1, will be Mrs. Odell Womack, president; Mrs. Charles Bell, vice president; Mrs. Paul Guy, secretary; and Mrs. Tommy Hart, treasurer.

Newspaperwoman named 1977 American mother

NEW YORK (AP) — Gloria Langdon — designated "National American Mother of 1977" by the American Mothers Committee — says she prefers to be called "newspaperwoman" rather than housewife.

Mrs. Langdon, of Tonkawa, Okla., pop. 3,500 has raised five children and helps her husband, Francis, publish a semi-weekly newspaper, The Tonkawa News.

She was honored Friday at a luncheon at the Waldorf Astoria hotel along with state mothers of the other 49 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

Mrs. Langdon, 50 — who said she is not a feminist, even though she favors passage of the Equal Rights Amendment — handles the news end of the paper and her husband handles the ads.

"When you have a small paper you do almost everything — I'm the society editor and I also work in the backshop and work in the front office," she added.

She said Tonkawa is the name of an Indian tribe but also means, "We stay together."

Asked how he felt about his wife's selection, Langdon replied: "It's great! She is a very selfless person. She does things for everybody else and we love her for it."

Mrs. Langdon, a graduate of Oklahoma A&M College said she and her family are active in the United Methodist Church in Tonkawa. She is also a member of the American Legion Auxiliary, which sponsored her in the competition, held annually by the nonprofit American Mothers Committee.

The committee also gave special citations to First Lady Rosalynn Carter and the President's mother, "Miss Lillian" Carter. A letter was read from the First Lady thanking the committee on behalf of her self and her mother-in-law for "honoring me in this way."

(AP WIREPHOTO) MARRIAGE MIXUP — Fashion model Beverly Johnson, the first black woman to appear on the cover of Vogue magazine, married music publisher Danny Sims in a hometown ceremony recently in Buffalo, N.Y. The couple had forgotten about New York's mandatory 48-hour waiting period between license-issue and wedding, but Judge Samuel Green of City Court arranged a waiver of the rules.

'Cinco de mayo' celebrated here

"I am not manana (tomorrow), I am hoy (today)," said Amado Molina as he concluded his brief talk for the Spanish Speaking Program luncheon last week. He is the chairperson of Big Spring's Mexican-American Service Council.

Of the celebration, "Cinco de Mayo" Mr. Molina outlined its significance for the Mexican people. In the 1860s the French invaded Mexico and chased President Benito Juarez from the capital. A unemployed Archduke Maximilian was appointed as emperor of Mexico by Napoleon III.

Later, in 1867, President Juarez reinforced his armies from volunteers and, with his untrained Mexican forces, defeated the French. "Cinco de Mayo" commemorates Mexico regaining its independence.

"We relish our freedom," said the Naval Vietnam war veteran, "we will suffer only so long any oppression — we are human beings and must be accepted — we have a long and proud culture to defend — we will not be strangers in our own land — I am angry, I am speaking, but you're not listening — whether I remain angry or not is up to you — I am Chicano."

Mr. Molina is a graduate of Big Spring High School in '63, attended Howard College and received a bachelor degree from Hope College in Michigan following his wartime service.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Expect some delays in getting a plan in motion. Take advantage of this additional time to show you are one who can utilize it to its fullest advantage.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contact business experts so you have a greater success in your future. Plan to improve property, also. Take time out for some relaxation.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Improve conditions around you so that there is greater self-expression. Don't neglect a health matter that may be starting. Find the best way to advance socially.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Handling confidential matters and properly affairs is much easier now. Be fair where money is concerned. New contacts can be exciting.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get in touch with those who can assist you to get ahead faster in the future and gain their backing. Use sensible methods to improve your credit rating. Be careful of your wallet.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 22) Taking an active part in community affairs will bring you added prestige and success. Contact right persons early. Make new friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Consider a new environment. Interest that will give you a better perspective, but keep an open mind. Think along your lines to overcome a difficult matter. Conditions will brighten.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may be confused because of all the work ahead of you, but if you schedule it intelligently, you are more than equal to it. Personal relationships improve now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Come to a better understanding with partners and become more productive. Getting involved in a civic matter can bring you more goodwill.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Put good ideas into operation and you get tasks done on which you have been procrastinating. Improve wardrobe.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Finish work first before going out to do anything else. Show more devotion to a loved one. Be alert while driving.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Make necessary home improvements and pay attention to details. Study a new venture that interests you. Make sure you do nothing to antagonize loved ones.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Assume a positive attitude toward life and have confidence in yourself and in your affairs. Make right decisions. Try not to lose your temper.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to make sure you don't get involved in a difficult situation that could take up too much of your time. Live according to accepted principles in which you believe.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Avoid trying to get others to see things your way at any cost. You can formulate a fine plan that will give you more abundance.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Ideal time for philosophical studies that are helpful to you. Outline a plan that will help you gain your aims.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show your good friends that you are devoted to them. Take time to enjoy the quiet pleasure of the day. Express happiness.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle civic affairs that will improve your position in the community. Plan now to improve in your vocation.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 22) Do those things that will help you gain the goodwill of others. Study ways that will bring greater self-expression. Be logical.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 to Sept. 22) Your intuition is not accurate early in the day so don't rely on it until later. Show more thought for loved ones.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be more optimistic and get better results when dealing with others. Take time to engage in your favorite hobby.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study ways to have greater abundance in the days ahead. Taking health treatments to improve vitality is wise.

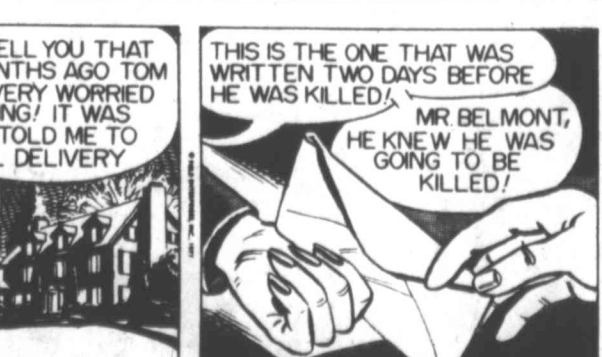

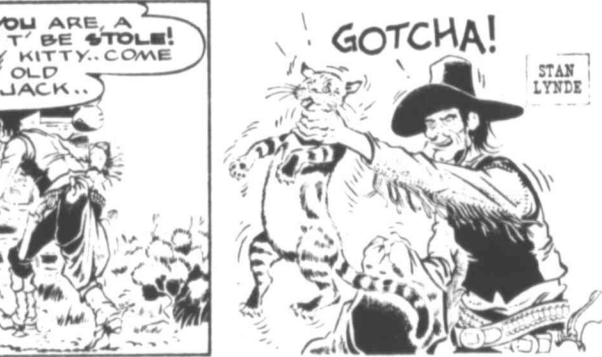

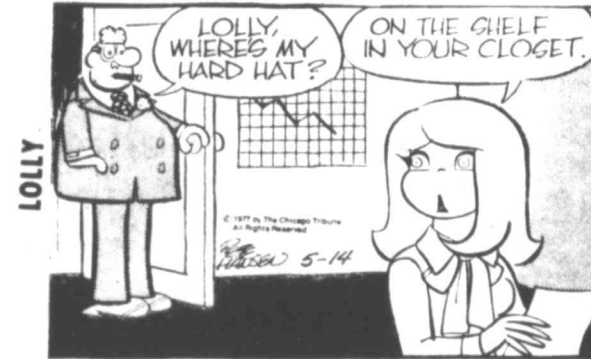

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Taking part in wholesome pleasures now can help solve a problematical affair of long standing. Be happy.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take the extra time needed to complete important work you have to do at home. Showing more devotion to mate is wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Engage in lofty philosophical studies early in the day. Take time to figure a way to put your financial affairs on a sound basis.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Put practical ideas to work in handling routine duties. The evening is fine for personal enjoyment. Be charming with others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY — he or she will be full of good ideas of a modern nature; so be sure to give a good education that will help your progeny to become successful. Be sure to give ethical and religious training early in life. Sports are a must here. The Stars impel, they do not compel. What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

ENGAGED — Mr. Mrs. Edward Jezisek, Knott Rt. 118, announce engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Marlene, to Guy Leonard, son of Mr. Mrs. Carl Leonard Rt. 1, Box 10 Midland. The couple will be married May 15 in the Reorgan Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Stanton, with the Doug Church officiating.

managing their money wisely and improving productivity.
That's one of the findings of a study released by Food Marketing Institute — at its annual convention in Dallas last week.
The institute said while profits as a percentage of sales declined, percentage of total sales went up, meaning proved return on investment for the stores. "Ap-the industry is in-

The institute cited from Forbes Magazine publicly held company reporting that represented a 9 percent return on total assets up from 7.6 percent a year earlier.
A survey by Food Marketing Institute showed that net profit represented 1.5 percent of sales in 1976, down from 1.7 percent in 1975. That $1.30 of every dollar spent at the supermarket last year was profit for the store operator.
The figure compared a 1975 net profit of 1.5 percent. Supermarket traditionally represented about 1 percent of every dollar spent at the store. They dip this level in the early years but had recovered it by 1976.

High blood pressure true-false quiz

COLLEGE STATION — High blood pressure can kill or cripple the 23 million Americans who have it — unless they're controlling it to keep the risks to a minimum, warns Carla Shearer, a health education specialist.

Some people don't even know they have high blood pressure — and many others aren't doing enough to control it, partly because they don't understand enough about it, she said.

Miss Shearer is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

To combat high blood pressure's threat, she recommends regular blood-pressure check-ups, even for young children — and following a physician's advice.

To learn more about it, she suggests trying to answer the true-false quiz below:

1) If I stay calm and relaxed, I won't have high blood pressure.

2) High blood pressure is the leading contributor to strokes, heart disease, and kidney disease.

3) I can tell when my blood pressure is high.

4) Once I have high blood pressure, it usually means I will have it for the rest of my life.

5) Headaches and dizziness are symptoms of high blood pressure.

6) There's nothing I can do about high blood pressure except watch my diet.

ANSWERS

1) FALSE — High blood pressure — or "hypertension" as it is also called — is not nervous tension. A relaxed, easygoing manner is no guarantee against high blood pressure.

2) TRUE — High blood pressure is a physical condition in which the heart and blood vessels are under a constant strain. If undetected and untreated, it may eventually lead to a stroke, heart disease, or kidney disease.

3) FALSE — High blood pressure usually has no symptoms. It is sometimes called the "Silent Killer" because it does its terrible damage without you suspecting that something is wrong.

4) TRUE — For the vast majority of people with high blood pressure the condition will be with them for life — but that's not as bad as it every day from the consequences of untreated high blood pressure.

5) FALSE — High blood pressure usually has no symptoms. It is sometimes called the "Silent Killer" because it does its terrible damage without you suspecting that something is wrong.

6) FALSE — For most people with high blood pressure, there are no symptoms, especially in the early stages.

There are many ways to lower an elevated blood pressure and to keep it low — although science hasn't found a cure for most common form of high blood pressure.

5) FALSE — For most people with high blood pressure, there are no symptoms, especially in the early stages.

In severe cases — usually in persons who have had HBP for many years but weren't treating it — there will sometimes be dizziness and headaches.

If you are told that you have high blood pressure and you don't treat it, the first symptom may be a heart attack or stroke.

6) FALSE — Although there is no cure for high blood pressure that will keep your blood pressure normal once and for all, it can be controlled with proper treatment.

ENGAGED — Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Jezisek, Knott Rt., Box 118, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Marlene, to Guy Elvin Leonard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leonard Jr., Rt. 1, Box 10722, Midland. Supermarket survey

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Supermarket profits took a smaller share of the shopper's dollar in 1976 than they did a year earlier, but the stores apparently learned to manage their money more wisely and improved their productivity.

That's one of the findings of a study released by the Food Marketing Institute — FMI — at its annual convention in Dallas last week.

The institute said that while profits as a proportion of sales declined, profits as a percentage of total assets went up, meaning an improved return on investment for the stores. "Apparently the industry is sharpening its still at managing the balance sheet," an FMI spokesman said.

The study said rising costs for labor, rent and fuel cut into profit margins, but added: "For the first time in five years, there has been a general increase in real sales adjusted for inflation per square foot, per transaction and per man-hour."

The institute cited figures from Forbes Magazine on publicly held companies in reporting that profits represented a 9 per cent return on total assets in 1976, up from 7.6 per cent a year earlier.

A survey by FMI itself showed that net profit before taxes represented 1.3 per cent of sales in 1976. Put another way, that means that $1.30 of every $100 you spent at the supermarket last year was profit for the store operator.

The figure compared with a 1975 net profit before taxes of 1.5 per cent of sales. Supermarket profits have traditionally been about one penny out of every dollar spent at the store. They dipped below this level in the early 1970s, but had recovered by 1974.

Recall now in progress

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Holland-Rantos, one of the nation's largest makers of birth-control devices, is recalling 86,000 of its Koro-Flex diaphragms because they may have holes in them.

A spokesman for the U.S. Food and Drug Administration said Friday that about 60 per cent of the recalled diaphragms were produced for distribution around the country by chapters of Planned Parenthood Inc.

The diaphragms, manufactured between June and September 1976, were recalled because some have been tearing at the juncture of the rim and rubber dome.

The recalled Koro-Flex diaphragms are identified with code symbols F6, G6, H6, or I6 on the rim.

The company said diaphragms with those symbols — even those appearing to be unmarred — should be returned.

Mu Zeta Chapter hears TA program

Mu Zeta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi met on Monday in the home of Mrs. Medena Thurman.

Plans were made for a barbeque to be held May 21 at the home of Mrs. Debbie Wegman. Plans were also made for a lake party to be held later in the summer.

The program on Transactional Analysis was given by Mrs. Donna Carey and Mrs. Cathy Caudill with Mrs. Wynelle Hale as guest speaker. Mrs. Caudill gave an introduction to the talk. Mrs. Hale spoke briefly on the different personality types involved in Transactional Analysis and how these are involved. Mrs. Carey ended the program by reading a poem expressing the feeling of TA.

A Mitzpah charm was presented to the president, Mrs. Marietta Gress, since this was her last meeting. Mrs. Gress was also given a surprise baby shower by the group.

Refreshment of cake and punch were served by Mrs. Thurman after the meeting and shower.

Miss Sherri Alexander is shower honoree

Miss Sherri Alexander, bride-elect of Dr. John Keys, was honoree of a pre-nuptial party Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Don Newsom.

Guests were greeted by the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Jack Alexander.

They were registered in the bride's book. Co-hostesses with Mrs. Newsom were Mrs. Delaine Crawford, Mrs. Ralph Gossett, Mrs. Carl Bradley, Mrs. Jim Beam and Mrs. Charles Nobles.

Guests were served in the dining room from a table laid with a green silk cloth with an overskirt in green and white. Daisies in a basket served as centerpiece.

A large number of guests registered during the party hours between 4-6 p.m.

These massive pieces owe their design heritage to the comfortable manor houses that dotted the green countryside of old England. There's a "stay awhile" feeling—a charming friendliness. Note the heavy stretchers and turnings, the soft worn edges. The tastefully distressed woods have a carefully highlighted antique finish. Tanglewood is a lasting investment in beauty. Come see.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — for the money, you still can't beat soap operas and game shows, at least until sunset.

Watching television with a more critical eye than the housewives, elderly, shut-ins and night workers, are the networks' programming vice presidents — Jackie Smith of ABC, Madeline David of NBC and Mike Ogiens of CBS, all on the job for less than 16 months.

None of the three executive suite newcomers exactly bubbles with plans for shows new and different.

True, Ogiens talks about a variety of specials — featuring the musical talent of soap opera characters — and says he's looking to a bit more serial rather than game show programming.

ITS A DAISY — Mrs. Roger Kionka, Coronado Hills Apartments, gets ready for the hot Texas summer and sends out signals to any passersby that it's obviously time to fill the pool. Needless to say, the pool has been filled since this photo was snapped, and now the entire complex enjoys the daisies.

Fate made them English instead of John Wayne British cowpokes ride dream range

EDITOR'S NOTE — During the week, they play it straight. Working, haunting the pubs with their pals. But come the weekend, they raid their closets for six-shooters, Stetsons, string ties and high-heeled boots. They're British Cowboys who would rather listen to Tammy Wynette than Tom Jones, live in America's West than London's suburbs.

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Brian Parkhouse is about as English as you can get. He lives in middle-class anonymity in Stevenage, a satellite town north of London, drives a truck five days a week and spends an hour or two in the evening at his local pub, sipping brown ale and playing darts.

But on weekends, he turns cowboy, a simulated Colt .45 slung low on his hip, the holster strapped to his thigh, a Stetson yanked over his eyes, jinglebob Mexican spurs tinkling on his high-heeled boots.

Brian's a Western freak, one of thousands of pale-faced Britons who feel fate has given them a rotten deal, dumping them onto the drab streets of Stevenage, Surbiton or Ipswich instead of into the open ranges of Texas, New Mexico or Arizona.

Each spring, these suburban cowboys make their annual pilgrimage to the cavernous Empire Pool stadium in West London for a three-day country music festival.

"My wife and I don't take vacations," Parkhouse says. "All our money goes on country shows, Western clothes or buying records. We've got hundreds. I'm converting a couple of rooms at home into Western rooms. You know, with six guns, Indian blankets, posters and things like that."

Brian, 43, and his wife, Jean are wearing matching tan denims, grey Stetsons, black string ties, black boots and their Colts in $68 gunbelts with fancy silver buckles.

"These are the best we've got," says Jean, who works during the week as a factory hand in a plant that makes pens. They have another six outfits at home.

"All our friends are country fans as well," she says. "We're part of a big family really. We've got friends everywhere."

Both she and Brian dream of going to the States, riding through Texas and visiting Nashville, mecca of country music.

"I'd live over there if I had the chance," Brian says wistfully. "I'd be a cowhand, work on a ranch, listen to country music 24 hours a day."

"But it's only a dream. It'll never happen. I guess all of us who love country music are dreamers, really. The experiences here, seeing the Nashville people perform here, dressing up like this, are second hand."

"But our lives would be quite dull without them."

Country music is a fast-developing business in Britain, Ireland and many parts of Western Europe. In Britain alone, there are more than 500 country music clubs and at least 150 pro acts who make a good living playing them.

Teeth pulled by schoolkids are OK

Across the hall, 10-year-old Pablo is learning to brush his teeth with the help of a dental hygienist, and two doors away Alberto is given an antibiotic a doctor prescribed for strep throat.

The tiny clinic is in a red metal prefab building behind the Mary Hooker elementary school on Hartford's southwest side. In the clinic, a dozen or so children watch their friends being treated. Sometimes they help.

It's part of a three-year experiment by the University of Connecticut medical and dental school to learn how to improve the health of children. A central part of the program is participation of children.

At the Hooker school, more than 70 per cent of the children are from families on welfare, and most of the kids never see a doctor or dentist unless they are very sick, says Dr. Margaret Patterson, who works in the clinic daily.

Fairy Tales are important release

By FLORENCE TYLER

Are fairy tales with all their violence "good" for children? Psychologist Bruno Bettelheim claims they are of irreplaceable importance in the education, support and liberation of emotions in children.

In his book "The Uses of Enchantment: The Meaning and Importance of Fairy Tales" Dr. Bettelheim opens up to us the real content of the great fairy tales. How, beneath their surface shimmer of palaces and princesses, fairies and witches, wishes and spells, they deal in the profoundest ways with the emotional turmoils of childhood: with feelings of smallness and helplessness, with the terrifying anxieties the child feels possessed by, with the child's deepest questions about self and about the future.

Dr. Bettelheim says "Fairy tales offer new dimensions to the child's imagination which would be impossible for him to discover as truly on his own. Even more important, the form and structure of fairy tales suggest images to the child by which he can structure his daydreams and with them give better direction to his life."

"Safe stories mention neither death nor aging, the limits to our existence, nor the wish for eternal life. The fairy tale by contrast, confronts the child squarely with the basic predicaments."

"It is characteristic of fairy tales to state an existential dilemma briefly and pointedly."

Ridin' fence

Japanese holiday observed with Marj Carpenter

At the home of William and Toshiko St. John at 3821 Connally, three silk air sock fish hung from Easter until this week.

It was all because May 5 is Boy's Day in the Orient. Toshiko, who moved here with her husband a couple years back says, "It is to make your boy strong."

MSgt. St. John explains that the fish represent carp, who are supposed to be the strongest fish because they can swim upstream.

"They believe that if you hang up the carp on Boy's Day, it will help make the boys stronger. You're supposed to hang up a big one for the father, a red one for the mother and one for each son," he added.

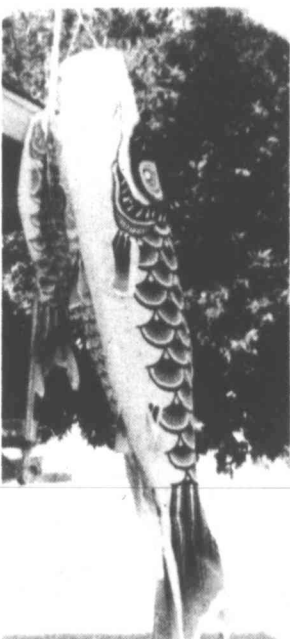

She explained that some people in Japan are upset now because they think there should also be carp hung for the daughters and in some places, they now refer to it as Kid's Day instead of Boy's Day.

Bids taken for IS 20 resurfacing

AUSTIN — Bids for the installation of asphaltic concrete pavement on spot section of Interstate 20 and US 84 in Howard, Mitchell, Scurry and Nolan Counties are expected to be included in the letting of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation Tuesday and Wednesday.

When completed, the project will provide a smoother riding surface and assist in the prevention of deterioration of the highway. Ed Vernon of Snyder is the department's engineer in charge of the work, while Abilene District Engineer Roger G. Welsch will provide overall project supervision.

The highways and limits include: Howard County, IS 20, 5.556 miles from 5.5 miles west of Mitchell County line to Mitchell County line; Mitchell County, IS 20, 7.623 miles, from Howard County line to 7.6 miles east.

JAPANESE TRADITION ... in Big Spring

The sergeant, who is originally from Pine Bluff, Ark. worked briefly for a bottling company prior to joining the Air Force. He had three separate tours at Kadena Air Force Base in Okinawa. He met Toshiko there.

Six libraries receive grants

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six libraries in five states have been awarded grants by the National Endowment for the Humanities. The grants, designed to enhance the use of libraries and library sources in humanities programs, will support exhibitions, topical booklets, library training and program planning.

The libraries include the Pierpont Morgan Library in New York City, the Grand Rapids Public Library, the Johnson C. Smith University Library in Charlotte, N.C., the school of library science at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, the Tri-county Regional Library of Rome, Ga., and the Indiana Library Association, with headquarters in Indianapolis.

He said she misses the water and so they often go to Colorado City Lake. Her sister is married to a marine in California and she really enjoyed visiting in Ocean-side.

They have two sons, Brian, 6 and Jeff, 4.

Speaking of the Kid's Day reminded me of the old Children's Day that they used to be held in May in the Sunday School.

I think it was simply an excuse for the children to put on the program, because the kid's surely didn't get any presents on that occasion. We didn't get any wind socks flown in our honor either.

I remember one miserable Children's Day. Four of us had been selected to sing. Three of them got sick. One was my brother, Walter, who was my favorite human being as I grew up. He died in high school of nephritis. The other two were Betty and Bobby Wipke. Betty is now Mrs. Jim Drawe and a happy grandmother in Raymondville.

Bob works for Exxon in the Middle East. That's one of those oil companies that some people say are making a profit. They seem to think there is something wrong with them making a profit. I sure hope they continue to and I hope the company I work for continues to make a profit — so I can work.

Who decided that profit was an ugly word? It's the very foundation of free enterprise.

Well, I didn't mean to get off on that. I was talking about Children's Day. Those three "chickens" left me all alone clutching a bouquet of honeysuckle and roses and singing "List to the Voices that Welcome the Spring." I never did like Children's Day after that.

But Boy's Day sounds like a good idea. I hope the St. John boys get strong and can swim upstream.

Folgers announces coffee price cuts

NEW YORK (AP) — An announcement from Procter & Gamble Co. that it had cut prices on its Folger ground coffee by 25 cents a pound gave consumers almost as much of a perk as a cup of fresh brew in the morning.

But the Thursday decrease in wholesale prices to $4.18 isn't expected to have much effect at the retail level — many retailers price coffee at or below wholesale to attract customers, and in one New York area chain, Folger coffee is selling for $3.79 a pound.

Robert Wunderle, an economist for the Pathmark stores, said, "We don't make any money" on the brand, but declined to say if it was being sold at a loss.

The Cincinnati-based Procter & Gamble, the nation's second largest coffee roaster, last raised prices on March 30, when it imposed a 25-cents-a-pound hike. A spokesman said the coffee carrying the $4.43 a pound wholesale price tag has not yet reached stores, however, and the lower price will affect all shipments.

The 25-cents-a-pound price cut is due to declines in unroasted coffee prices in recent weeks, the Procter &

Gamble spokesman said. He would not disclose what the company pays for green coffee or comment on retailers' reports that coffee sales have declined because of sharply rising retail prices.

A spokesman for General Foods Corp., the nation's biggest coffee roaster, said in White Plains, N.Y., it is studying the situation but has made no decision on prices.

Retail prices of coffee have tripled since a 1975 frost cut into the Brazilian coffee crop. Other factors in the sharp increase include civil war in the African coffee-growing nation of Angola, earthquakes in Central America and a drought in Colombia. World production is not expected to return to normal until 1978-79.
