AN EDITORIAL:

Vote Saturday To Help West Texas!

DOWN THROUGH the years, West Texas has been the "whipping boy" of Texas politics.

Until very recent years, West Texas hasn't had sufficient votes to be "important" to candidates for state offices—especially since West Texans have never "centered their fire" by voting, largely, as a unit. Politicians have been wise to our relatively light voting strength in the past, and also to the fact that we hadn't learned to stand together, politically speaking.

Now, however, the vote in West Texas is a relatively large one and is growing larger, every year. This the politicians know. What they also know—from checking the vote in the governor's race last month—is that when West Texans become aroused, and stand together, they are a force which must be recognized.

Let us remember this.

Let us realize that if we expect to get anything resembling a square deal from down-state politicians, we must stick together to reward our friends and swat those who have proven they are not our friends.

Until we do this, we shall continue to be what we always have been: the redheaded, freckle-faced stepchild of Texas politics.

WE WEST TEXANS have an opportunity to do a job next Saturday which will be beneficial to all of Texas, and which will benefit us of the West by showing future down-state candidates that they can't kick us in the pants and get away with it.

On Saturday, we can vote for Lyndon Johnson for the U. S. Senate and thus help all of Texas, because he is the best man for the job; and,

We can show Coke Stevenson, and all the rest of the politicians in this state, that we know how to retaliate when a candidate promises us one thing and then, after election, does the opposite of what he promised.

WHEN Coke Stevenson was running for governor, he did a lot of talking out here about how he, if elected, would see that the state was re-districted from the legislative standpoint. He was going to see, he said, that West Texas got the representation in both House and Senate that the Constitution guarantees, but that the conniving, selfish, down-state politicians have kept West Texas from getting for a quarter century.

But after he did his talking, Mr. Stevenson was through. Never a man of action, he gave his finest performances of "sitting on the lid," and of "letting the coffee cool" in the re-districting matter. As governor, Mr. Stevenson knew he could force re-districting, as Pat Neff did more than two-score years ago, by calling a special legislative session for the purpose. As governor, Mr. Stevenson knew he was the only man who could do the right, the just, the constitutional thing. But, in typical Stevenson "sit-on-the-lid" fashion, he did nothing.

He just sat down and puffed his pipe, "calculatin'" that West Texas would forget that "he didn't do nuthin'" in full keeping with his political philosophy.

WHEN Mr. Stevenson came out here running for the various offices he has sought in the past, he was a self-styled "great and good friend of Texas Tech."

He was, he said, going to do everything he could for Texas Tech.

Well, he said that—and then he went back to his coffee-cooling, his lid-sitting, his pipe-puffing, his doing-nothing. Calculating that nobody in West Texas would find it out, he made a statement seeking to placate the University Gang, then fired at him. He said Texas Tech shouldn't share in the countless millions of dollars the University of Texas annually gets from West Texas oil lands, and then throws around on skyscraper libraries and "first editions" of books to place under glass.

A great "friend" of Texas Tech he is, and has been!

WHEN South Plains voters, on July 24, gave Lyndon Johnson a very respectable lead over Coke Stevenson, eyebrows went up wherever politicians gathered. This area had been "2-to-1 Stevenson country" in the past and the politicians knew there must be a reason.

They looked a little farther down the ballot, saw where voters in this section practically wore themselves out scratching Beauford Jester—and their blood pressure went up. "Better watch the West," they told themselves and each other, "if you're going to seek state office in the future. Those folks are getting wise to the run-around they've been getting and they're getting ready to do something about it."

So let's do something—let's do something in a big way—next Saturday.

Let's stand together, vote together, begin fighting together by helping elect Lyndon Johnson to the U. S. Senate because he is the best man for that post. And let's show "Calculatin' Coke," and the rest of the down-state politicians, that the days when they can kick West Texas around are gone forever!

ONLY ONE BATTLESHIP ON DUTY

Anti-Sub Training Pushed By Navy Since New Developments

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—In another week, the Mighty Mo will be this country's last battleship on active duty.

But a light aircraft carrier and eight destroyers are coming out of mothballs for a stepped-up program of anti-submarine training.

The Navy in announcing this last night said the reason is the series of revolutionary developments in underwater fighting since war's end.

Thus by retiring the battleship Iowa about September 1, the Navy plans to release more men and money for the anti-sub program. The Iowa will join 13 other battlewagons laid up in the reserve fleet.

That will leave the Missouri—the vessel on which the Japanese surrender was signed — the only battleship actively afloat.

The 11,000-ton carrier Cabot will be reactivated in about a month, and the eight destroyers will begin rejoining the fleet in January.

Meanwhile, the Navy joined the Air Force and the Army in a public declaration of new harmony

U. S. Offices In USSR Will Be Shut Down

Sharp Action Is Result Of School Teacher Incident

(By The Associated Press)

MOSCOW, Aug. 25.—The Russian government, reacting sharply to the expulsion of the Soviet consular general from New York, chopped off all consular ties with the United States today.

The action entails the closing of Russian consulates in New York and San Francisco, the closing of a United States consulate in Vladivostok and the voiding of an agreement granting the United States the right to open a consulate in Leningrad.

Recall Asked By U. S.

It grew out of what has become known as the Kosenkina affair, the case of a Russian school teacher, now in a New York hospital, who has been the subject of an international tug-of-war on the highest diplomatic levels.

The U. S. State department, on Aug. 19, asked the Russian government to recall Jacob M. Lomakin, the Soviet consul general in New York, because of his activities in the Kosenkina case.

(Lomakin is scheduled to start home Saturday. The U. S. note informed the Russian government that Mrs. Kosenkina would not be turned over to Russian authorities against her will and rejected contentions that she had been kidnaped. In the hospital she has refused to see Soviet authorities. She scheduled a news conference yesterday but it was cancelled when she became exhausted by the preparations.)

Claims Are Rejected

The Soviet reply, as published by Tass, categorically rejected the United States contention that Lomakin and other Soviet officials had exceeded their legal rights in the cases of Mrs. Oksana Kosenkina and Mikhail I. Samarin, another Russian school teacher in the United States.

(Both teachers were in the United States as instructors of children of Soviet officials and decided against returning to Russia.)

"The actions and statements of the Soviet government and its official representatives in the United States in the affair of Kosenkina and Samarin fully correspond to the lawful interests of the Soviet union in defense of its citizens from criminal infringements on their freedom and civil rights," the note said.

The note said such actions as New York police "invasion" of the Soviet's New York consulate Aug. 11—the day Mrs. Kosenkina jumped from the building—had made it impossible for Soviet consulates to fulfill normal functions.

"In view of these circumstances," the note continued, "the

Heat Wave In State Broken

(By The Associated Press)

Temperatures had dropped and the weather was back to what the weather bureau called normal for this time of the year in Texas today.

Cloudy skies and scattered thundershowers brought the break in the heat wave.

Only five spots which report regularly to the weather bureau had temperatures 100 degrees or above yesterday. They were Seymour with 104, Henrietta with 103, Presidio with 102 and Haskell and Waxahachie with 100 each.

Showers Are Scattered

Rainfall in the state yesterday was concentrated at Victoria, but showers were scattered all along the coast and up into the central portion of Texas.

Victoria had 2.61 inches of rain yesterday afternoon. San Antonio was cooled by 1.04 inches. Houston received .25, Beaumont .29 and Corpus Christi .05, San Marcos 1.10, Cuero one inch and Mount Pleasant .61.

For the first time since July 5 drizzling rain fell this morning at Bryan and skies were heavily overcast. The maximum temperature at Bryan yesterday was 92, the lowest since July 5.

Amarillo Is Coolest

The temperature did not rise above 85 at Houston and Galveston yesterday afternoon. The coolest spot in the state in today's early morning hours was Amarillo with a 64-degree reading.

Water Hydrants In Jacksboro Go Dry

JACKSBORO, Aug. 25 (AP)—Drinking water poured into parched Jacksboro this week via the Rock Island railroad.

The town's hydrants ran dry as the regular supply practically disappeared. More than 100,000 gallons of drinking water in ten tank cars pulled into town Monday and things were damper.

The water came from Bridgeport, which receives its water supply from Lake Bridgeport.

Rankin Winner In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 25. (AP)—Rep. John E. Rankin, veteran of 28 years in Congress and a loud voice of white supremacy, won renomination in Mississippi's Democratic primary.

Rep. John Bell Williams, one-armed Air Force veteran, also won renomination in yesterday's voting. Reps. William M. Colmer and Thomas G. Abernethy held commanding leads over their opponents on the basis of incomplete returns.

Foes Admit Defeat

Rankin captured a strong majority in his northeastern hill country's first congressional district, and forced a quick admission of defeat by two young opponents.

The 66-year-old Rankin won 13,923 ballots against 5,579 for Judge Raymond Jarvis and 4,335 for Claude F. Clayton, a war veteran, in unofficial returns from 202 of 224 boxes.

In the seventh district race, Williams had 16,750 to 4,405 in 208 of 320 precincts for State Senator Decatur P. Butler.

In the sixth congressional district, the Gulf coast and Tung oil region, Rep. William M. Colmer streaked ahead of his only rival, Grover C. Doggette.

Colmer had 19,509 votes to 12,604 for Doggette, in returns from 258 of 340 ballot boxes. Colmer has been in the House 15 years.

Rep. Thomas G. Abernethy held a commanding margin of 9,308 to 2,858 votes over his fourth congressional district opponent, John E. Adridge.

RESULTS OF NEW YORK BALLOTING ANNOUNCED

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (AP)—Late returns today swelled to decisive margins the victories scored by most of New York state's incumbent congressmen, state senators and assemblymen who had contests in yesterday's primary election.

The eight members of the House of Representatives challenged for renomination won handily in light balloting. They are:

Daniel A. Reed, of Dunkirk; W. Sterling Cole, of Bath; Mrs. Katharine St. George, of Tuxedo Park; John C. Butler, of Buffalo, and Clarence Kilburn, of Malone, all Republicans; and Donald L. O'Toole, James J. Heffernan and Joseph L. Pfeifer, New York City

Woman Claims Life Ruined By Red Brutality

Death Of Son And Disappearance Of Husband Related

By MARTIN ROGART
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 — Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina said today she jumped from a third-floor window of the Russian consulate because she wanted to escape.

She said in an interview from her bed in Roosevelt hospital "I jumped to escape, not to kill myself."

The 42-year-old Russian school teacher added she did not want to go back to Russia.

Doesn't Agree With Stalin

Mrs. Kasenkina said, "I don't agree with the policies of Josef Stalin. I love my people and my country. But I cannot agree with the regime in the Soviets."

Mrs. Kasenkina told reporters that when she was returned to the Soviet consulate here from the White Russian refugee farm at Valley Cottage, N. Y.:

"I knew that since they did not permit me to leave the consulate, I would not be able to escape in Russia either.

"I Wanted To Escape"

"Therefore I jumped out of the window to escape. I didn't want to kill myself. I wanted to escape."

She said that Soviet Ambassador Alexander Panysuhkin and Consul General Yakov M. Lomakin "both told me what to say to reporters" at a press conference held in the Russian consulate on the day she was taken there from the farm.

They told her, she said, that "through my message I would become a heroine."

In answer to the question of what was in the letter she sent to Lomakin from Reed farm she said she told the entire story of her life in Russia. She said she also told Lomakin the story of her son and husband.

Mrs. Kasenkina's answer, as paraphrased by an interpreter, said the Russians considered her a true teacher even though her husband was destroyed. She said they believed her knowledge as a teacher would be useful to the Soviet Vice Consul Leaving "For Good"

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (AP)—Soviet Vice Consul Zot I. Chepurnyhk left the Russian consulate shortly after 3 p. m. today and told reporters he was leaving "for good." He said he was on his way to La Guardia airport.

Chepurnyhk emerged from the consulate with three other men and entered the consulate station wagon, calling out to reporters:

"Goodbye."

"Are you going?" he was asked.

"Yes," he replied.

"For good?"

"Yes."

"Where from?"

Soviets Clever In Hoodwinking Allies

By IGOR GOUZENKO
Ex-Russian Agent in Canada
INSTALLMENT 10

The "dissolution" of the Comintern, as announced by Moscow in 1943, was hailed by the Allied world as a profoundly significant move in the direction of better understanding between the Soviet and democratic worlds. Yet it was, in reality, one of the shrewdest pieces of international hoodwinking in historical record.

You will recall that the late President Roosevelt had flatly denounced the Comintern as being an "important barrier" to mutual trust and cooperation. He had stressed that, the maintenance of a Comintern—abbreviated form of "Communist International"—with the avowed purpose of fomenting revolution abroad and establishing Communist states, placed a severe strain on ties of friendship.

So the Comintern was "dissolved," and the misguided democratic world rejoiced.

They Became Viceroys

Actually, the Comintern was never dissolved. Its leaders were kept for wider Soviet plans. They became the viceroys of the new Soviet Empire. Dimitrov became dictator of Bulgaria. Beirut became president of Poland. Togliatti became top Communist in post-war Italy. Thorez and Duclos, of course, did a thorough Red job in France. It also became apparent in the Canadian spy trials that the Soviet, even without an official Comintern, had a way of getting things done in the trusting democratic countries.

During the year of maneuvering that led up to the Comintern's "dissolution," I occupied a ringside seat at Intelligence Headquarters, to which I had been assigned after completion of my cipher course in April, 1942.

Fulfilled Double Task

Up to 1943, the Chief Intelligence Headquarters of the Red Army fulfilled a double task. It directed Intelligence work abroad and at the fronts. Because of the increased activities abroad and the great importance placed on this work, the Soviet Government in March, 1943, officially divided this organization into two bodies, Stra-

Delay Granted In Theft Case

A postponement until 1:30 p. m. Thursday was granted late this morning by 72nd District Judge Dan Blair in the case of William F. Tarpley, 65, charged with theft over $50 from Hemphill-Wells Co.

The court's announcement followed a morning in which Burton S. Burks, of the firm of Burks & McNeil, filed a lengthy motion asking for a continuance in the case, and in the alternative for a two-day postponement.

Exception To Ruling

Burks took an exception to the court's ruling that only one day's postponement would be granted.

The defense contended, as it had done in an earlier motion, that the state had made it impossible for the defendant to prepare for trial, inasmuch as state's counsel had refused to supply the defendant with a list of witnesses who will testify again him.

The motion was opposed by District Attorney Lloyd Croslin and his assistant, E. G. Pharr.

The first motion for continuance also charged that Tarpley had been arrested before a charge was drawn or a warrant issued and that the state refused to tell the defendant the names of witnesses, other than those who appeared before the grand jury, to be used in

Borger Ball Club Sale Is Approved

BORGER, Aug. 25. (AP)—The board of directors of Borger's class-C baseball club in the West Texas-New Mexico league, today approved sale of the club to Dr. Marshall Dykes, Borger, for an estimated $10,000.

Completion of the deal is pending a meeting of the city park board, which must approve the renting of Huber Park to Dykes.

Dykes, a graduate of the University of Minnesota and the Los Angeles school of optometry, pitched one year with Minneapolis of the American Association. He will take over the club immediately if the deal is completed.

Texas Demo Chief Raps Threat Of Suit

Move By States' Righters Is Called "Act Of Desperation"

(By The Associated Press)

HILLSBORO, Aug. 25 — Robert W. Calvert, chairman of the Democratic state executive committee, today described a proposed suit to force seating of States' Rights delegates to the state convention Sept. 14 as "an act of desperation."

"The people threatening to file it are trying to judge my future conduct by their past conduct at the convention in Dallas in 1944," Calvert declared. "This they have no right to do."

Calvert said he could not know what delegations will be seated at the September state convention in Fort Worth, but that that he would appoint a sub-committee on credientials at the proper time.

J. Hart Willis of Dallas said last night that an application to file a suit before the Texas Supreme court asking the court to order Democratic party leaders to seat States' Right delegates to the state convention will be made "presumably Thursday."

Sixteen Killed Last Night In Hawaii Mishap

Four Others Make Escape As Plane Hits And Explodes

(By The Associated Press)

Twenty-nine men were killed when United States Air Force planes collided with the other craft and crashed Tuesday in Germany, Hawaii and near Newton, N. J.

Sixteen airmen died Tuesday night in the twisted, burned wreckage of an Okinawa-bound Superfortress that crashed at Hickam field, Hawaii, in one of the islands' worst peacetime air disasters. Four others were burned seriously.

Collided With B-25

Near Newton, northwest New Jersey community, six U. S. Air force enlisted men, en route to a religious conference, and three crew members of a C-47 transport were killed after the big plane swooped out of a cloud bank and collided with a B-25. The disabled C-47 plummeted to the ground and burned. The B-25, a wing-tip sheared and its three-man crew unaware of the disaster, returned safely to its Stewart field, N. Y., air base.

Two C-47 transports supplying Soviet-blockaded Berlin collided in murky skies 20 miles east of Frankfurt, Germany, killing four unidentified American airmen. The crash brought to nine the number of American airmen who have died in "operation vittles" since the West began supplying Berlin late in June due to the Soviet ground blockade.

Only Three Identified

Only three of the 29 who died in the three crashes had been identified this morning. They were the crew members who died in the creash near Newton, N. J. Bolling field officials announced names of the crew members as: Capt. William D. Beety, jr., 30, pilot of Bideford, Me., assigned to Bolling field; Capt. John B. Fitts, jr., 26, of Linkhorn Park, Virginia Beach, Va., and Tech. Sgt. John Edmond Stringer, 31, of Washington, aerial engineer. The six enlisted men, not immediately identified by Air Force officials, were lay leaders of religious thought in their units. They were going to a religious meeting at West Redding, Conn.

Crewmen of the B-25 which returned to its New York base said they had been cruising at an altitude of about 7,000 feet when the transport zoomed out of a cloud. They reported a "not too severe jolt." Eyewitnesses said the C-47, in apparent trouble, flew over the farmland area at about 400 to 500 feet before going into a tailspin and crashing in a "ball of smoke." Wreckage and the charred, mangled bodies of the victims were

Liquor Seized In Raid Here

Police said at 1:55 p. m. that they, joined by officials of the Liquor Control board, had seized "so much liquor in a raid in the negro section that three cars had to be dispatched to haul it in."

There was no immediate check of the amount of contraband seized, nor was it announced whether there had been any arrests.

Vagrancy Fines Assessed

Officials said fines of $15 each had been assessed against 14 more men arrested for vagrancy. None was able to show any "visible means of support," police said.

A pair of binoculars valued at $35 was reported stolen from the car of Arthur Gamble of 101 North Uvalde.

A bike was reported stolen from Eddie Gomez of 1621 Sixteenth.

A. F. Herron, operator of a Shallowater service station, told Chief Dep. Sheriff George Eubank that someone had burglarized his station had stolen about 10 cartons of cigarets, two boxes of cigars and taken 150 pennies from

Interest Turns To Bulletins From Zoo

Politics Get Back Seat When Elephant Is Born In Moscow

(By The United Press)

MOSCOW, Aug. 25.—The average citizen on Moscow's "Main street" was more interested today in the latest bulletins from the local zoo than he was in Kremlin conferences.

International affairs and the Berlin crisis have taken a back seat for a baby elephant.

Three weeks ago the baby pachyderm arrived at the Moscow zoo. It was the first ever born in captivity in the Russian capital's 800 year history.

Since then Muscovites have stopped worrying about politics and started worrying about the proper care and feeding of the new infant.

Maybe their concern with an old Russian saying used by peasants when something phenomenal happed. They would nod their heads gravely and say: "an elephant was born."

Anyway Ivan the factory worker took the new zoo citizen to his heart with the proper pride of a first-time

Action Against ITU Is Sought

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. (AP)—The NLRB general counsel's office today asked that the International Tyrographical Union be held in contempt of court for insisting on closed shop contracts.

The union is under a five-month-old injunction against negotiating such agreements, outlawed by the Taft-Hartley act.

In a critical move against the ITU in its fight to keep the closed shop, the National Labor Relations board's prosecuting agency charged the union's top officers with having disobeyed and disregarded the injunction.

Issued March 27

The restraining order was issued March 27 by Judge Luther M. Swygert at Indianapolis. It was there that Robert N. Denham sent his formal petition that the union be cited for contempt.

The petition asked that the AFL union be stopped immediately from giving any further support—including all-important strike benefit payments—to the striking printers on Chicago and Hammond, Ind., newspapers. The ITU members there have been on strike since last November 24.

Papers are printed without ITU help by using a new photo engraving process, for typewritten copy. How long the Chicago strike could continue without the aid of the International union is a question.

The issue before the court today had been raised originally by the American Newspaper Publishers association on behalf of more than 800 newspapers which have contracts with the century-old ITU.

The ITU for decades has fought for closed-shop conditions in its working establishments. The Taft-Hartley act, however, forbids employers to discriminate against a worker for not belonging to a union.

Corporal Was Flabbergasted But He Still Has Big Appetite

Soldier Hubby Flies From Germany To Attend Funeral; "Dead" Wife Greets Him With Kiss

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 25. (AP)—Cpl. Marion Williams returned home today and was greeted by his "dead" wife, whose funeral he had been sent home from Germany to attend.

His wife rushed out to meet him as he pulled up in front of their home in a cab. He threw his arms around her and kissed her.

"Honey, I was flabbergasted," Williams said. "I didn't know what to think. For five whole days I thought you were dead."

Williams, 33, was with the Army in Germany when he received a cablegram from the Red Cross that his wife had died. Williams learned yesterday, when he arrived by plane on the east coast, that the message had been intended for Cpl. J. C. Williams, of Kenefick, Okla., whose wife died.

Wife Becomes Worried

Williams had been scheduled to arrive home last night. When he failed to show up, his wife became worried. She thought that the shock of finding out she was alive might have "made him collapse somewhere."

Williams said his trip home took longer because he took a bus instead of a train. He said he couldn't afford train fare.

After greeting his wife, they sat down to a huge breakfast she had prepared. The meal included green beans, a gallon of jello with bananas, a gallon of potato salad and a dozen roasting ears, which Mrs. Williams prepared last night.

"I'm a good cook," Mrs. Williams explained.

Williams nodded in agreement.

"But I don't want any of the corn," he said. "Not for breakfast."

He said he was tired after his long trip.

"I didn't get much sleep on the bus, and I'm still a little nervous after all this business. I'm going to take a bath and go to bed."

Mrs. Williams said she was "very happy" to have her husband back and was glad the incident was over.

"Marion doesn't say much when things like this happen," she said. "He keeps his feelings to himself."

Tech Professor To Do Research Work

Floyd L. Williams, assistant professor of mechanical engineering at Texas Tech, will do graduate research on internal combustion engines at the University of Oklahoma during the 1948-49 academic year as result of a $1200 fellowship he has received from the Ethyl Gasoline corporation.

Williams, a 1940 Bachelor of Science graduate of Tech, received news of the fellowship Tuesday from Dean W. H. Carson of the University of Oklahoma college of engineering.

Williams will be on leave of absence from Tech while studying at the Oklahoma school, and will be accompanied by his wife and young daughter, Katrina. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Williams of 2123 Eighteenth.

Plans For Little Theater Discussed

Plans for the 1948-49 season of the Lubbock Little Theater were outlined at a meeting of the group and interested persons in the court house last night.

No definite dates for productions were set but it was announced that casting for the first play, "You Can't Take It With You," would be held early in September with the production to be staged early in October.

The theater movement, in the "breeding" stages for several years, is being launched this year under the sponsorship of the Lubbock Optimists club. The Little Theater is an incorporated movement with all profits derived from productions going back to build the theater's resources.

Plans Are Outlined

Mrs. Robert Newell McGinnis, member of the theater group, outlined the plans to the group.

She said a card file would be kept on all persons who have displayed interest in the movement and that these persons would be called upon to carry out various duties such as acting and production.

She said castings for all plays would be on a competitive basis with the selections being left up to the director. She emphasized that there are many other important duties to be carried out, including costuming, stage prop supervision, lighting and make-up.

The movement will be financed by three classes of members, whose contributions will be in addition to ticket sales. Patron members are those who contribute $25 or more and are willing to assist the club financially when the need arises. Sustaining members pay $5 and are entitled to season memberships and reserved seat tickets. Active members are those sustaining members who take an active part in production.

Winston Clark, president of the Little Theater movement, presided at the meeting. Other officers are Mrs. C. C. Caldwell, first vice president; Weldon George, second vice president; Mrs. Charles Musson, secretary and Bert McGinnis, treasurer.

Rites Pending For Lubbock Resident

Henry Tucker, 72, who lived here with a son on Slaton highway, died at West Texas hospital about 10:15 this morning. He formerly lived at Olney and moved to Lubbock in 1947.

Mr. Tucker had been in ill health since Aug. 11 and was admitted to the hospital last Sunday.

The body will be taken overland to Olney where funeral services will be held. Burial will be in the Olney cemetery. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Surviving are his wife, five sons, Clyde, Claude and Leroy, all of Lubbock; Carl, Spearman and Clarence, Olney; one step-son, Benton Lowrn, South Bend; three daughters, Mrs. Ernest Genty, McGargle; Mrs. R. C. Parrish, New Castle, and Mrs. Sidney Miller, Fort Worth; three brothers, F. V., Hobbs, N. M.; Joe, Graham, and Grover, Dallas; two sisters, Mrs. Lela Easley and Mrs. May King, both of Weatherford; 25 grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Kiwanis Members To Visit Lubbock

Members of the Downtown, North Side and West Side Kiwanis clubs of Fort Worth are to pay a visit to Lubbock Thursday and present a program at the luncheon of the Lubbock Kiwanis club at Hotel Lubbock at noon.

Approximately 25 members of the three clubs are scheduled to arrive in a special Pullman at the Santa Fe station at 7:30 a. m. Thursday. They will be met by a delegation of Lubbock Kiwanians and carried to the hotel for breakfast at 8:30 a. m.

Remainder of the morning will be spent in carrying the visitors on an automobile tour of Lubbock. The luncheon program, which the visitors will present, will continue until 1:30 p. m.

The Fort Worth men will return to their homes by train Thursday night.

OUT OF HOSPITAL

ROME, Aug. 25. (AP)—The American singer Hildegarde is out of the hospital today. She suffered an attack of bronchial pneumonia for more than a week. She said her physician had told her she should not attempt to fly home and that her plans for recording and radio work in London are out.

Funeral Set Friday For Lubbock Woman

Mrs. Kate Cannon, 64, of 2716 Ruby, a resident of Lubbock for the past 28 years, died at noon today in Lubbock Memorial hospital. She had been under treatment there for one week.

Funeral services will be held sometime Friday afternoon at the Primitive Baptist church. Interment will be in Lubbock cemetery under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Survivors include three sons, Elmer and J. D. Cannon, jr., both of Lubbock, and Bill Cannon of Roswell, N. M., and two daughters, Mrs. M. B. Bray and Mrs. R. H. Long, both of Lubbock.

Services Set For Tom Ivey

Christian Science funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Thursday in Rix Funeral home chapel for Tom C. Ivey, 72, who died as result of a heart attack about 4 p. m. Tuesday at his home, 1801 Main street. A pioneer West Texas rancher and Hereford breeder, Ivey was one of the most colorful early settlers of the Panhandle and South Plains.

Interment, under direction of Rix, will be in Lubbock Memorial Park cemetery beside the body of his wife, who died early in 1947.

Moved To Plains

Born in Shackelford county on Jan. 15, 1876, he grew up with a love of cattle, spending his early manhood in the Indian territory.

Married in Mobeetie, Wheeler county, in 1900, he and his wife moved to the South Plains in 1905. He was believed to have settled in Gaines county on the T-4 ranch, and later on another ranch, the Running M, near Plains.

In 1917, he settled on a ranch nine miles east of Hereford, the old Brownfield-Ivey ranch on Tierra Blanca creek, and bought a part of the Cudgell and Simpson herd of cattle from the firm of Jowell & Jowell.

Built Home In Lubbock

In 1920, another cattle firm bought his herd and leased the ranch for three years. Mr. Ivey moved to Castro county, seven miles northwest of Dimmitt, where he remained until the lease on the Tierra Blanca ranch expired.

Moving back to the old ranch in 1923, he was in business there until early in 1948.

He and Mrs. Ivey built the family home at 1801 Main street in Lubbock in 1925, and Mrs. Ivey lived there until her death. Mr. Ivey continued, however, to spend most of his time on the ranch near Hereford.

Mrs. Ivey died January 28, 1947, and Ivey sold his ranch about a year later and moved to the family home in Lubbock.

Survivors include three sisters, Mrs. J. M. Elliott of Memphis, Mrs. Ollie McKinney of Fort Worth and Mrs. Elsie Honeycutt of Del Rio; and a number of nephews and nieces. One nephew, John M. Elliott, jr., is a resident of Lubbock.

Jacksonville Having Some Snaky Feelings

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 25. (INS)—It's a snaky feeling to have a cageful of snakes, ranging from boa constrictors to rattles, loose in a town.

And Jacksonville residents won't get over the feeling until the snakes are rounded up.

Last June, a carnival's cageful of the reptiles either escaped or were turned loose while the carnival played in Jacksonville.

The carnival obtained replacements and went on.

Recently, a man spotted a boa constrictor while he was searching for a cow. A thorough hunt by policemen and firemen, including burning a considerable amount of grass, failed to turn up the one-time carnival performer.

A six-foot rattler also has been killed in the same northwestern part of town. Since rattlers are uncommon in this area, the carnival episode was blamed.

The people in northwestern Jacksonville are just a little careful where they step these days.

Little Wyandotte "All Egged Out" After Two-Week Laying Spree, 14 In One Day

HUNTSVILLE, Aug. 25. (AP)—A four-pound white Wyandotte hen has Walker county residents shaking their heads.

Her owner, eight-year-old William Kennedy and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Kennedy, claim the hen went on a two-week laying spree that began with 14 eggs in one day.

Two weeks ago William saw his hen lay an egg in the yard of the Kennedy home, three miles from here. A short time later the hen laid another egg.

Close Watch Kept

Mrs. Kennedy came out to investigate—and stayed. In the next four hours, she says, the little hen laid 12 more eggs.

William and his mother kept a close watch on the white Wyandotte after that.

The next day the hen laid seven eggs, then she skipped a day. The day after that she came through with four eggs. After that she laid one and two eggs each day until a week ago Sunday when she laid three. Last Tuesday it was six.

On Wednesday, only one egg was laid and the little hen looked tired and worn out.

"I was worried about her, so I took her to a feed store in Huntsville," Mrs. Kennedy said.

Since then the hen hasn't laid a single egg but she seems to be picking up strength and the Kennedys have hopes of another egg-laying spree.

Lady's Arm Was Bent Up Double Like A Jack-Knife

One lady recently stated that her arm used to become doubled up like a jack-knife. She couldn't move her arm up or down because her muscles were stiff with rheumatic pains and the joints of her elbow and shoulder were swollen. She said she was ashamed to leave her house because people would stare at her. Finally she got TRU-AID and says she now can raise her arm above her head and the swelling left her elbow and shoulder. She is enjoying life once more and feels like "some other woman" since taking this New Compound.

TRU-AID contains Three Great Medicinal Ingredients which go right to the very source of rheumatic aches and pains. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get TRU-AID. Sold by All Drug Stores here in Lubbock. Adv.

How to save Time on a party line...

When you're waiting for someone else to finish a call, jiggling the receiver won't help you get the line any faster. Every time you pick up the telephone it interrupts the conversation . . . and that may prolong it. You will save time in the long run if you give the other person a chance to finish his call.

The thing to do is hang up quietly and wait awhile before you try again.

Your party-line neighbor will show you the same consideration the next time he picks up the receiver and hears you talking.

Courtesy on a party line pays off in better service for all of you who share it.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Is Observed At Reception

When Mr. and Mrs. George C. Wolffarth celebrated their Golden Wedding anniversary Tuesday night with a reception in the home of her sister, Mrs. W. A. Bacon, 1802 Broadway, scores of friends and at least 100 relatives called to wish them happiness.

The pages of the golden satin-backed register, topped with ribbons and satin roses, if they could be typed would read like a record of early days on the South Plains. Friends and kinsmen who met for the first time in weeks and months and even years stayed to chat and to reminisce.

Early in the evening Mrs. Lottie B. Hilton sang "When Your Hair Has Turned To Silver" and Dr. L. N. Lipscomb, former pastor of First Methodist church, presided for a brief ceremony in commemoration of those first vows spoken fifty years ago Tuesday.

Children And Grandchildren

The smiling couple stood surrounded by their sons and daughters and twelve grandchildren as Dr. Lipscomb spoke. This group was made up of Hubert Wolffarth, Helena, Mont.; Irvin, Dwight and Donal Wolffarth and Mrs. W. B Abbott, jr., of Lubbock and Mrs Russell Myrick of Las Vegas, N. M. The sons-in-law and daughters-in-law also were in the "bridal" party and the grandchildren were Russell George, Horace and Donald R. Myrick, Kenneth Abbott and George Neely and H. E. Wolffarth, jr., Patricia Ann and Margaret Hunt Myrick, Evelyn and Martha Lynn Wolffarth and Nancy Bert and Carolyn Sue Abbott.

Bouquets of yellow roses, of gladioli, chrysanthemums and carnations were placed at vantage points about the receiving rooms. Two items of interest of the "first wedding," Mrs. Wolffarth's wedding gown and a silver caster, were displayed in one of the rooms, along with many gifts sent by friends and relatives.

A five tiered white and gold decorated cake centered the serving table and at one end was a punch bowl, an heirloom in the Myrick family, served with a ladle made of coin silver.

Assist In Hospitalities

Greeting guests at the front door were Mesdames W. A. Bacon, Russell Myrick and Elmer Conley of Big Spring and at the east door were Mesdames Lawrence Bacon, W. B. Abbott, jr., and John Jarrott.

At the register during the evening were Mesdames Dwight Wolffarth, A. G. Hunt, Roger Q. Pierce and O. E. Wilcox of Plainview.

Hostesses in the dining room were Mrs. Ernest Conley and Mrs. Rufus Rush.

The cake was cut by Mesdames Ewell L. Hunt, Albert Taylor, James B. Vickery and Opal Penney Johnson and alternating in presiding at the punch bowl were Mesdames J. W. Jackson, Howard Hunt, Riley Ham and Lottie Hilton.

The gift display was presided over by Mrs. Howard Wheelock and Mrs. C. E. Hunt.

Assisting in hospitalities during the evening were Messrs. and Mesdames Homer Hunt, Alvin Hunt, Horace Humphries, Will Wheelock, Clinton Kirkpatrick, Lindsay Telford, E. B. Wheelock, J. W. Jackson, Bill Edwards of Big Spring, L. E. Hunt, Ted Tipps, George R. Bean, Carl Hunt, Glenn Hunt of Pecos, P. B. Penney, George M. Boles, Dr. and Mrs. M. C. Overton, Dr. and Mrs. Abner Roberts of Clovis, N. M.; Mesdames I. L. Hunt, Margaret Wheelock, Stella Wolffarth, Lou Stubbs and Clara Abney.

Also Misses Patricia Myrick, Mary Smith, Evelyn Wolffarth, Charlotte Barrier, Carol Conley of Big Spring, Peggy Joyce Starling of Seminole, Mary Jarrott and Carol Hamm, Dr. Ewell L. Hunt, Lawrence Bacon, A. G. Hunt, Lewis Hunt, Howard Hunt, John W. Jarrott, Elmer Conley, Russell Bean, Albert Taylor, Rufus Rush, James B. Vickery, O. E. Wilcox, Elmer Conley, C. E. Hunt and Howard Wheelock.

Out-of-town guests registering were Mrs. J. W. Aynes of Crosbyton, Mr. Wolffarth's sister; Mrs. Annell Grogan, Crosbyton; Mr. and Mrs. Coke Fullingim, Crosby county; Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Price, Big Spring; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Beall, Lamesa; Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Starling, Seminole; Mesdames Betty Knight, Plainview; Gus Robertson, Slaton; A. E. Whitehead, Slaton; Elnora Merritt, Colorado City; Bonnie Phelps, Hale Center; Bill Yeatts, Fort Worth, Messrs. MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL . . .

Girl Born In Parents' Middle Age Experiences Emotional Difficulties That Are Worsening

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My sister Lorna, nine years old, is facing emotional destruction unless we can help her; but my parents seem baffled and I feel the same, therefore I beg your counsel.

I was 14, and my parents were both 46, when Lorna was born. Mother has a nervous temperament and it was a great shock to her to have a child in middle-age.

Lorna, too, is a nervous little thing and although not an unruly child, she is trying to mother's nerves. She has a sweet disposition and is for the most part eager to please everyone. But if she fails to give instant obedience mother nags her; and then she may run to the neighbors' for the whole afternoon, purposefully ignoring mother's voice, until she is marched home with promise of a good switching.

However, the real problem is that Lorna doesn't get along with children her age. They play with her for a while, then tire of her and hit her, call her names and otherwise mistreat her. Also they make fun of her clothes, when in fact she has more attractive clothes than most of those poking fun.

PLAYMATES' SCORN BREAKS HER HEART

INSTEAD of coming home when snubbed by the gang, she smiles at them and stays to play. Then if they won't have her, she strolls off to another part of the house or lawn, but still within range of their jibes.

Father has told her to fight back when they hit her, which would be a sensible reaction, if "unlady-like," but she will not fight back. She merely smiles; then, on arrival home, she breaks down in uncontrollable sobbing and begs us to tell her what is wrong, why "the kids" don't like her.

She gets above-average marks in school; and is there anything that we, as a family, can do to help her overcome her emotional difficulties? Or are they natural to her temperament? Is this something she herself must fight alone? All of us will appreciate your views.—Signed E. W.

GIRL'S MALADJUSTMENT FOSTERED BY MOTHER

DEAR E. W.: Loran's bewildered outcast status in relation to other children perfectly mirrors her soul's experience in relation to her mother, the architect of her personality, whose heart has been frozen against her almost from the time her life was conceived, on the theory that her advent was an embarrassing, unmitigated nuisance.

Every detail of your letter points up the fact that Lorna has overwhelming reason to feel, intuitively, unwanted and indeed impatiently shunted to a position of sufferance in relation to the key figure in her young life, namely, her mother.

Loran's pathetic eagerness (for the most part) to please has its emotional origin in this outcast-conditioning; which also accounts for her hurt, smiling, stock-still reaction to concerted attacks of cruelty from playmates.

MAY THIS DISCUSSION PIERCE MOTHER'S HEART

THE CHILDREN'S candid savagery, their flashes of irrational unprovoked hostility, are of a piece (in her experience) with her mother's more subjective, more subtle rejection of her—and feeling heartsick, supplicant and help less in the face of the mother's performance, naturally she feels the same in relation to her playmates when they turn against her.

Children have a clairvoyant "knowing" about each other, also a primitive predisposition to make life miserable for the weakling in their midst; and Lorna's playmates, having spotted her wistful sick spirit, instinctively feel it "fair game" to show her no mercy, thus completing a vicious circle of injury being done her.

Your intelligent concern to find help for your sister is a God's-blessing in the circumstances, and let's hope our discussion pierces your mother's heart and jolts her into constructive action that pulsates with love of this greatly wronged child. To get her bearings she should read, "The Rights of Infants," by Dr. Margaret Ribble, published by the Columbia University Press, which tells the part that "good mothering" plays in creating wholesome character.—M. H.

IN THE MAIL

FROM MADRID, SPAIN—Mrs. R. W. Tucker, Tech foreign language instructor who is touring Spain this summer, writes a delightful letter, all in Spanish, about her experiences and observations there, saying "La humanidad es la humanidad en todas partes, (People are the same everywhere) but there are many differences between the life and customs of Spain and those of the United States." She goes on to say that some people rise at 9 a. m., but many sleep until 10 or 11 o'clock before getting up for a light breakfast. The traditional lunch hour is at 3 or 4 p. m., and supper is served at 10 or 11 p. m.

"Beauty seems to be an obligation to Spanish women," says Mrs. Tucker, who describes their femininity and their expert use of small hand fans. All Spanish women wear "medias de cristal" (nylon hose) even if they do cost from $7 to $10 (American money) per pair.

After telling about the siesta hour in Madrid, when all shops are closed between 2 and 5 p. m., the traveling instructor sends her regards to all of her former Spanish students.

FROM DALLAS — Barbara Surman writes to say she will not return to Tech this Fall, but will attend Rutherford Business college in Dallas. She says none of her friends would know her because she has stopped wearing glasses and has had her hair cut very short . . . Barbara adds that Judy Pollard, who will attend the University of Texas this year, has her name in Dallas society columns lately. Judy is seen often with Dallas' nice-looking young men . . . Barbara saw Jayne Thompson in Dallas recently.

FROM CALIFORNIA — Jerry Thrush writes his friends that he and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Thrush, and his little brother, Jimmy, will probably stop in Colorado for more swimming and fishing on their way home from California. They have visited the Hollywood Bowl and Jerry has taken seven rolls of pictures to help in describing his trip to his friends. They will return to Lubbock Friday.

TOWN AND AROUND

JIM JOHNSON was in town recently. While here he took Bettye Thompson to a morning church service . . . Lucy West and Owen Hamilton have gone to San Angelo for the day to take his grandparents home . . . Louis Adams and Nelle Frances Campbell of Liptonville, Tenn., have gone to New Mexico to attend a rodeo and to go through the Carlsbad caverns. . . . Billie Hopping and Cameron McKinnon were seen recently at the Amusement park . . . Barbara Hazelwood is celebrating because she at last has her driver's license. . . . Ronald Bennett and Patsy Montgomery are still seen together . . . Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Rushing have been to Rosebud, where they visited relatives. They will return today . . . Johnny Trout gave Kate Moore a sweater as a gift on her 20th birthday. Kate will attend Austin college in Sherman this Fall.

LOVE,
LOU.

Berlin Settlement Only Would Mean Truce In Russia's Eyes

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Foreign Staff Writer

The latest conference between Premier Stalin and the Western ambassadors is said in diplomatic quarters to encourage hope for an East-West settlement of the battle of Berlin.

If we took this as a basis for speculation, we would be entitled to believe that a settlement of the whole German imbroglio might be achieved. Indeed, a well informed source in Moscow suggests as much. And with such a start we could keep on pyramiding until all the differences were ironed out and we had world peace.

However, if our analysis isn't going to run away with us we first must recall the fundamental basis of the quarrel between Soviet Russia and the Western world. That is the declared detremination of Moscow to carry out world revolution for the destruction of "capitalistic" governments and for the establishment of Communism in all countries.

Peace Is Not Wanted

We must start from that premise. We must recognize that Moscow doesn't want peace, for the reason that it would stymie Bolshevism's aim of communizing the world. The Reds might make truces from self interest, but these would only pauses in the global revolution.

John Foster Dulles, foreign policy adviser to Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Republican presidential nominee, laid down a very clear statement about Communism in a speech yesterday at the assembly of the World Council of Churches in Amsterdam. Said he:

"The Soviet regime is not a regime of peace and, indeed, it does not purport to be. It may not, and I hope that it does not, want international war. But if so, that is a matter of expediency, not of principle. Violence and coercion are the accepted methods, class war being, however, usually preferred to national war.

Peace Rejection Inevitable

"It is inevitable that orthodox Communism should reject peaceful ways, except as a matter of temporary expediency, because it rejects the moral premises that alone make possible the permanent organization of peace."

That strikes me as a fair summary. So we must arrive at the conclusion that any agreement about Berlin or Germany as a whole will be merely a truce, and not a step towards general peace, so far as Russia is concerned.

Why a truce at all? Well, the Russians aren't in a particularly happy position. As I have pointed out in previous columns, their offensive aimed at the conquest of Western Europe has bogged down. They are up against determined democracies, reinforced by the Marshall plan.

Reds Finding Difficulties

Moreover the Russians are finding difficulties in consolidating their gains. Among other things the Soviet zone in Germany is suffering from a shortage of food and fuel. The Red revolution in Greece is being crushed. Marshall Tito of Yugoslavia is openly defying Russia. There is anti-Communist ferment in numerous satellite states.

Then, of course, the rock-ribbed stand which the Western allies have been making against Red hostilities like the savage Berlin food-blockade has had its effect in showing Moscow that the democracies mean business. Russia doesn't want war and intends to halt short of anything which might cause it.

So it wouldn't be surprising to see the Muscovites "pause for consolidation" in Europe. Meantime they suddenly have launched a widespread offensive in southeast Asia under direction of a Cominform headquarters at Bangkok, Siam.

It looks as though eastern Asia might be the armageddon for the stand against Communism.

Wife Of Speedboat Racing King Dead

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25. (AP) — Mrs. Murien Wood, wife of the speedboat racing king, Gar Wood, is dead.

She succumbed to an unexpected attack of heart disease yesterday while visiting in Hollywood with her sister, Mrs. P. M. Davies.

Her husband, Detroit and Miami Beach, Fla., manufacturer, was reported cruising in Georgian Bay Michigan, and upon being notified planned to fly to Los Angeles. Their son, Gar jr., flew from his home in Tulsa, Okla.

Mrs. Wood, who was about 62, was born in California but spent most of her childhood in Duluth, Minn. She and Wood met in Duluth and had lived in Algonac, Mich., since 1914.

Funeral arrangements were expected to be made today.

Stars Confess Shortcomings Of Worst Pictures They Made

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Film stars seem to enjoy naming their worst pictures.

The psychology boys might call it mental relief. Or the idea of "I said it and I'm glad." Whatever it is, most of the picture people have delighted in telling the AP Hollywood forum what movie they were worst in. Their eyes light up as they recall those turkeys of yore that they would most like to forget.

Haunted By Titles

Here's the latest compilation:

Alan Ladd: "'Blue Dahlia' was pretty awful. We made up the story as we went along. I never did figure it out."

Evelyn Keyes: "'Before I Die' was my worst picture. What was wrong with it? Me!"

Bill Holden: "My worst was 'Young and Willing.' I suppose I dislike it most because it followed me all over the world during my army tour."

MacDonald Carey: "Mine was 'Salute For Three,' for the same reason. Everywhere I went in the Marine corps, it would follow me. It was originally scheduled to be shot in four or five weeks. We made it in 20 days."

Mustache Troublesome

Edmond O'Brien: "'Powder Town,' in which I appeared with another fellow and nine RKO girls. When I read the story I told the studio it was no good. I left for New York. They wrote and said the script had been rewritten. So I returned and found out all they did was re-type the script. We made it anyway, and I'd certainly like to forget it."

James Stewart: "The one I'd like most to forget is 'The Last Gangster.'" I had to wear a mustache and I refused to grow one myself. It was a lot of trouble to put one on every day and it tickled when I talked. The preview audience agreed with me about the mustache. They were laughing at it in my most dramatic scene."

DEATH KNOT FOR SNAKE

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—A dead brown snake found at Benjeroop, near Swan Hill (Victoria,) had apparently strangled by its own coils. W. Davey of Benjeroop found the head and about a foot of the snake's body protruding from its hole. He dug out the body and found the snake tied in a tight knot just below the ground. The snake apparently had tucked its head through its coils when it began to move out of its hole and the harder it had struggled, the tighter it had pulled the death knot.

Johnson Heads Drive Toward Austin; Stevenson To Dallas

(By The Associated Press)

Lyndon Johnson headed his U. S. senatorial runoff campaign today toward Austin. The path of Coke Stevenson, his opponent, was toward Dallas, with several stops enroute.

There were three days left—including today—before balloting in the Aug. 28 second Democratic primary election.

Stevenson, fresh from four days campaigning in the lower Rio Grande valley, planned to make one of his two statewide broadcasts before election day from Dallas tonight. The other is scheduled Friday night from Austin. He is to speak Thursday before the Texas Association of Venetian Blind Manufacturers at Dallas.

Johnson Speaks From Austin

Johnson makes his customary 12:45 p.m. radio speech—he has one daily — from Austin. He is also placing emphasis on final organizational meetings to encourage his followers to bring him additional votes.

He met in San Antonio last night with 300 precinct managers; planned similar meetings in Austin today, and at Dallas Thursday.

He is to close his campaign in San Antonio with a Friday night rally, to which he said auto caravans would bring supporters from surrounding points — including Corpus Christi, Giddings, Taylor, Laredo, and Johnson City.

One development as the two campaigned yesterday was a statement from Jeff Hickman, chairman of the CIO's political action committee in Texas, who said the CIO has "not openly or secretly" taken a position in support of either candidate.

"Nobody knows that better than Coke Stevenson and Lyndon Johnson," the statement said.

"Both Johnson and Stevenson are trying to prove to the voters of Texas that the CIO is supporting the other. They are making the CIO and the Taft-Hartley law paramount issues.

"Actually, neither is an issue. The position of both candidates on the Taft-Hartley law is substantially the same. Both of them think it is a good law . . ."

Members Make Own Choice

Hickman said also: "CIO members will take their choice like all other Texas citizens. Some will vote for one, some for the other. For many, it will be like going to the meat counter late on Saturday —a sorry choice."

Johnson told reporters yesterday he had forced Stevenson to change campaign tactics completely the last week.

"The best evidence I know that the man is beaten and desperate is his conduct since his speech at Conroe last week," Johnson said.

Committee Turns Up With 106 New Words

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 25 —Your words are being watched.

Mamie J. Meredith, University of Nebraska English instructor, is the only woman member of a sleuthing committee organized to discover new words which creep into American speech.

She and seven other etymologists turned up 106 new words and phrases last year, including "cold war," "flying saucer," "baby sit" as a verb, "spic," which means a small-time black-marketer or racketeer, and "umptee," which means a trainee under the universal military training program.

HERE'S A REAL SYSTEM

DULUTH, Minn. (U.P.)—A six-member Duluth family has a system for using the family car. Because of its heavy demands on the car, the family worked out a schedule that on one particular day carried its members on 57 separate trips. The fact was confirmed by highway department interviewers who incredulously checked during a survey.

BLACK AND WHITE

MELROSE, N. M. (U.P.)—Mattie Black was married to H. E. White in a ceremony at the Melrose Methodist Church here.

STILL KICKING—Mrs. Alice King may be 94, but there's plenty of life in the old gal yet. The Chicago widow was haled into court, charged with beating on some youngsters with her purse, and otherwise creating a disturbance in a movie theater. Munching a plum, she told the judge, "Nobody has manners any more."

Treason Case Goes To Jury

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25. (AP)—After 11 weeks of trial, a jury is expected to begin deliberating today the fate of Tomoya Kawakita, Japanese-American accused of treason.

Final arguments were completed yesterday and the court was to instruct today the jury of three men and nine women, one a Nisei secretary.

"American prisoners of war were beaten, starved and abused by this strutting defendant," U. S. Attorney James M. Carter told the jury in closing his argument. "Kawakita tried to serve two masters. Esau sold his birthright for a mess of pottage; Kawakita sold his for a bowl of rice."

Jap Citizenship Claimed

Morris Lavine, counsel for the diminutive, California-born Kawakita, said his client held Japanese nationality during the w and so could not be guilty of treason against the United States.

Twenty-five former prisoners at the Oeyama camp in Japan testified to 13 alleged acts of brutality which the U. S. government charges were treasonable.

Prosecutor Carter made no mention of a penalty, as the jury has no voice in its determination. Minimum sentence is five years' imprisonment for treason, but the death penalty may be imposed.

Mae Will Testify In $100,000 Suit

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 25. (AP)—Mae West was scheduled to take the stand late today or tomorrow in the $100,000 plagiarism suit filed against her by writers Edwin K. O'Brien of New York and Michael Kane of Hollywood.

The buxom Mae is accused with producer Michael Todd of using material written by O'Brien and Kane in her play "Catherine Was Great" in 1944, without paying them.

Lawyers estimate the trial may last three weeks. Mae has been sued before over the play and in a similar suit she testified she invented the story "out of my own head" and did not draw upon other writers or stories for material.

Todd was not in court, nor was he represented by counsel. He was reported to be in New York.

TEMPERANCE UPHELD

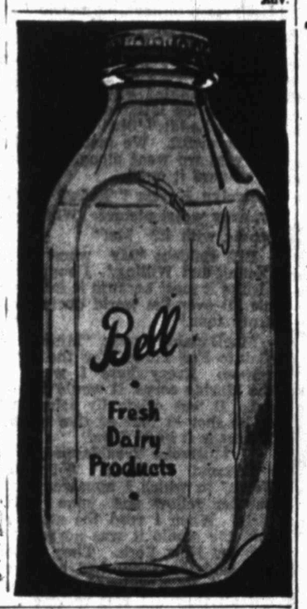

NEW YORK (U.P.) — Minimum charges on the consumption of liquor alone in night clubs has been declared illegal by the state liquor authority. The minimum must include food as well as liquor if it is to be legal. The authority announced that it made the move to "promote temperance."

Coal Mining Is Made Easy By Streamlining In Utah Fields

By MURRAY M. MOLER
United Press Staff Writer

DRAGERTON, Utah, Aug. 25.—Modern methods and equipment almost make coal mining a pleasure at one of America's most modern mines, the Geneva Steel Company's "Horse Canyon" mine near Dragerton.

The mine was opened during the war by the government as part of the $250,000,000 Geneva Steel project to supply plates for Pacific Coast shipyards.

Geneva now is mining an average of 5,600 tons of soft coal a day from under the brown hills in Central Utah.

The Horse Canyon mine has a potential capacity greater than that of any coal mine west of the Mississippi. The vast Central Utah coal fields have known reserves said by geologists to be large enough to supply the entire country for at least 30 years.

No Pick And Shovel

The general superintendent of mines for Geneva Steel is Frank V. Hicks, a miner, first in "hard rock" metal mines, then in coal shafts, for more than 35 years.

"These modern machines almost make coal mining fun," Hicks said as he stood by a long conveyor belt carrying coal to the loading chutes from the mine tipple.

"The days of pick and shovel mining are gone. When it was first developed, our mine was the most modern in the country. Other western mines are now using the same methods, though, and it's good for the whole industry."

All coal in the Horse Canyon mine is blasted from the seam, which is a uniform 14 feet thick, by flamless powder. Big power scoops load it onto small conveyors. They feed longer belts and they in turn carry the "black gold" to the tunnel entrance.

Only A Few Mules

A few mules are still seen around the Geneva mine, but they work in small, isolated tunnels. Some electric tramcars also carry pay loads around the mine but most of the coal flows on the endless belts.

About 700 men work in the Horse Canyon tunnels on two shifts. Hicks says it's the men who give him most of his headaches because "they're only human."

Biggest "headache" for the mines superintendent is that of personal safety for his men.

"New men don't recognize some of the dangers that are always present in a mine," Hicks explains. "They sometimes get careless. That's when they get hurt, although accidents in our mine have been compartively rare."

Fire Hazard Feared

The next biggest worry for Hicks is the threat of fire. One broke out inside the Horse Canyon workings this summer. It was promptly sealed off. But when the seals were opened more than two weeks later, the flames roared again.

"We'll have to go in there with water and douse the coal, then haul it out and throw the burned stuff away," Hicks explained. "That'll take a lot of time, but it has to be done."

The seals cut off air from the burning coal. When they're opened, the fire "just follows the oxygen right toward the surface." Crews combatting the blaze have to wear special safety equipment and carry their own oxygen supplies.

Comics Deplorable, Youth Expert Thinks

BOULDER, Colo., Aug. 25 (U.P.)—One of America's leading writers for young people thinks the effect of comic books on young minds is "deplorable."

Mrs. Florance Crannell Means of Boulder said comic books give youngsters too glamorized a picture of the adult world. Problems, she contended, are solved too easily in comic fiction.

Mrs. Means conducted a workshop in juvenile literature at the University of Colorado's writers' conference. In 1945 she received the award of the Child Study Association of America.

Eight-Year-Old Girl Brave During Fire

DALLAS, Aug. 25. (INS)—Eight-year-old Janet Cullum of Dallas refused to get all heated up over a fire and her cool action is credited with probably saving the lives of four younger children and a baby.

The home of Janet's mother, Mrs. H. L. Cullum, caught fire from sparks blown to it from a burning house a block away.

The front door was latched. Inside were the children, the youngest, two-and-a-half weeks old; the oldest five years.

While Mrs. Cullum and another mother frantically attempted to force open the door, Janet went to the rear of the house.

Entering the unlocked, but burning, back doorway, she dashed through the smoking house and opened the front door in time for the children to be taken to safety.

41 Are Sentenced For Demonstrating

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 25 (AP)—Prague newspapers said today three persons were sentenced to four years in prison and 38 others received lesser terms for participating in an anti-semitic demonstration in Bratislavia Friday.

All were charged with "inciting and violation of public order." Additional charges of violating the law of the defense of the republic may be preferred against all those sentenced.

During the demonstration, marchers called for violence against the Jews, threw stones through windows in the Jewish sector and damaged a canteen for former Jewish concentration camp inmates.

New Zealand Town Ripped By Tornado

AUCKLAND, N. Z., Aug. 25 (AP)—At least three persons were killed by a tornado which ripped through the town of Hamilton today and six others are believed buried in debris. The twister, which cut a swath 50 to 100 yards wide through the town in 15 minutes, left hundreds homeless and at least 17 seriously hurt. Hamilton, a town of 20,000, is 86 miles south of Auckland.

Prime Minister Peter Fraser flew to the scene and relief supplies were rushed.

MAN OF ACTION

SINGAPORE (AP)—There's at least one man here who believes in rushing to the door when opportunity knocks. When Major-General L. H. Cox, retiring G. O. C. of Singapore District, made his farewell broadcast recently, he warmly invited anyone from Malaya going to England to visit him at his home there.

Scarcely had the broadcast ended when Radio Malaya got a phone call. "I wonder if you could give me Major-General Cox' home address?" the caller asked. "I plan to accept his invitation."

Umpires Pelted With Rotten Eggs By Irate Lubbock Fans

Between . . . The Lines

— By JOE KELLY —

One night's not bad enough: it has to be two in a row that the spectators have had to sit through the unpleasant aroma of bad umpiring at Rosenthal Field. And two nights in a row the spectators have had to see their manager ejected from the game merely for exercising his right as manager to enter a protest with the umpire. The exhibition last night was even rawer, in many respects, than the one the night before.

It was apparent, from the time Jackie Sullivan refused to go to the plate before the game for the customary meeting with the umpires, that the fans were in for something interesting. For a little over four innings, nothing happened. Then it hit. Umpire Jim Brockwell of Tulsa, behind the plate, called four balls on two batters in succession, balls that curved and, in the opinion of all seated behind the plate, cut part of the plate. After the second walk, Jackie called time and went in to talk with Brockwell.

Before he had taken four paces, Brockwell held up his hand in a gesture of halt to the oncoming Sullivan. The manager took no heed and continued his walk. After approximately two minutes, Brockwell pointed to the Hubber dugout and that obviously was all for Sullivan. He continued to delay the game, of course, talking with Umpire Lefty Craig and his players, but time finally ran out and he left the playing field.

After the game we asked Jackie what he had said to call for his banishment. He contended that he had done no more than to state that, as manager, he had a right to inquire whether the umpire was calling the pitched balls because they were too high, too low, inside or outside the plate. He said that Brockwell obviously had made up his mind to boot him out of the game if he so much as said one word to him. Even before he could speak, he said that the umpire told him to get back to his position. Jackie asserted that as manager he had the right to know why he was calling the pitching as he did.

Brockwell allegedly said that he did not have to tell him, that he would not, that he was delaying the game and that it was none of his business. To this Jackie protested, stating again that he was the manager and definitely had a right to know, so that he could advise his pitcher. With no further word of warning, Brockwell kicked him out of the game.

It was as raw a piece of dictatorship as has been seen outside the iron curtain or since the days of the late Adolph Hitler. The umpire was entirely outside his rights. He overstepped the boundary, apparently with malice aforethought. If ever a man seemed to be waiting for such an opportunity, Brockwell was the man. Herschel Martin of Albuquerque had gotten away with more here this season than Jackie committed in two minutes. Grover Seitz has been pretty irate at times; Art Bowland had his good days; Eddie Carnett wasn't the picture of politeness on more than one occasion; but the inconsistency of the umpires has been underlined more than ever by the actions of the last two nights.

Brockwell has been a thorn in the side of West Texas-New Mexico League managers all season. In fact, the rumor circuit has it that a certain group of officials met at Abilene with the sole intent of securing his ouster, unanimously, from the umpiring staff of the loop. Milton E. Price, league president, refused, we understand, to hear the complaints against him. It would have been better had he listened more attentively at that time.

Incidentally, John Bottarini was the victim of robbery at home plate last night in a decision that actually went for the Hubbers. John came sliding into the plate on a single to the outfield and despite Gene Hixson's beautiful peg, made such a good fadeaway that Floyd Walker wasn't able to get down to him until after Bottarini's hand had covered half the plate in passing. Brockwell, standing directly above the play, called him out. Well, such are the vagaries of umpiring and playing baseball in the league this year.

One thing that we can' overlook was the throwing of rotten eggs at the umpires. We can't justify that with sportsmanship, we think it was in bad taste. Why must physical abuse be instituted, when it does no possible good and might cause harm? It justifies no adverse decisions, it settles no problems, it does no good. Just as letting air out of the car tires couldn't get the decisions reversed. Venting personal feelings orally is bad enough, but stooping to physical violence doesn't add up in a sport-minded community. Let's not have any more of it, no matter what. Remember what happened when some fool let his temper get the best of him following a TCU-Texas Tech football game. Tech's still suffering from that incident.

The Hubbers, with unexpected reserve strength, came through last night before 2,227 fans at Rosenthal Field.

The local nine upset the Pampa Oilers 10-8, even though they played the last four and a half innings of the game with Pitcher Chris Haskins on first, Catcher Don Moore on second and Manager Jackie Sullivan in street clothes in the stands.

Climb On Oilers

The victory enabled the Hubbers to climb back to within percentage points of the Oilers and also made up a game on Amarillo, the Gold Sox losing to Borger, 12-8. They also gained ground on Albuquerque the Dukes suffering a surprising walloping by Clovis, 21-6. And Lamesa couldn't stand prosperity, dropping an 11-8 decision to Abilene.

At that, the Loboes almost sneaked under the wire with a six-run rally in the ninth. Going into the final frame, the Loboes trailed 11-2 and most of the fans thought the game was over. But they reckoned without the cellar-dwellers, who staged one of the more uproarious rallies of the year to threaten and then fall short.

Jim Sweet pitched the victory for the Blue Sox, while Chet Zara took the loss. Ernie Falappino had a home run for the winners.

Rotten Eggs In Season

At Rosenthal Field, rotten eggs were in season and the targets were Umpires Jim Brockwell, Bill Tiemann and Lefty Craig. Brockwell was the bullseye and the majority of the slightly malodorous yolk landed on him.

The fans were feeling less contrite than the night before, for Sullivan was thumbed from the game again and for the second night in a row also in the fifth inning. This time he didn't protest a decision, he was merely trying to learn whether Brockwell called balls against Royce Mills because they were too high, too low, too much inside, or too wide.

He didn't get far. In fact, Brockwell tried to prevent his getting into the plate, but he succeeded in reaching his destination. After a couple of minutes, Brockwell raised his hand, pointed a finger and chased the manager.

Air Let Out Of Tires

After the game, fans met the umpires with a barrage of rotten eggs and, when the umpires went to leave the park, discovered that all the air had been let out of their car tires. There also was a rumor to the effect that sand had been placed in the gas tank.

Despite sickness of Virgil Richardson, which left him sidelined, the enforced departure of Sullivan and the substitute-riddled lineup, the Hubbers had enough to win. They made sure of the victory by one of the best possible ways; they hopped on Howard Bass for eight runs in the first three innings and a long lead.

Pampa kept whittling away, but couldn't get the margin lower than 10-5 until the ninth. Then they staged a rally that sent three runs across the plate. Mills tightened to fan Tony Range and got Bob Belford on a fly to Gene Hixson.

The even split in the series sends the Hubbers on a four-game road trip, with two games against Lamesa and a pair with Abilene. Cotton Russell probably will face the Loboes tonight.

Millers Will Play Methodists Tonight

Economy Mills of the Industrial league and the First Methodists of the city loop will clash at 7:30 o'clock tonight at Jumbo Webster park in the decisive third game of their first round Shaughnessy playoff series.

The Millers took the opener of the Tuesday night play off twin bill from the Methodists, 13-6, and evened the game count in the series at one-all.

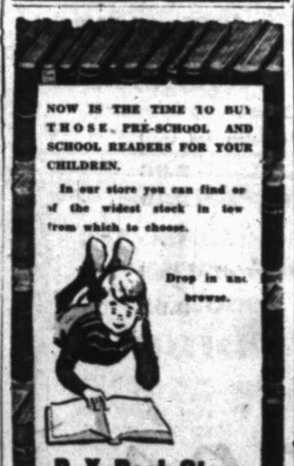

Sanders Motor eliminated the First Baptists from the race for the championship with an 8-5 victory in the nightcap Tuesday. The Motormen won the Monday night setto with the Baptists, 11-10, and the second loss last night dropped the church nine from the title chase.

Leeman Branch was credited with the mound win.

Vern Stephens Sparks Bosox

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Vern (Little Slug) Stephens is making a serious bid for the coveted most valuable player award as he strives to spark the Boston Red Sox to an American league pennant.

STEPHENS

The timely hitting shortstop sent the Sox back into first place last night when he poled a ninth inning home run with one mate aboard to give Boston a 9-8 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

The Red Sox knocked out Satchel Paige with a two-run rally in the third.

In the ninth hits by Dale Mitchell, Bob Kennedy, Ken Keltner and Joe Gordon put Cleveland ahead 8-6.

Dom DiMaggio lashed a double off Spec Kleiman to open the last half of the ninth. After Johnny Pesky singled, Ted Williams flied deep to left, scoring DiMaggio. Boudreau brought in Russ Christopher, a righthander, to pitch and Stephens whacked the first pitch high against the left field screen and the Sox were in first place.

The Boston Braves increased their first place lead to three and a half games over runnerup St. Louis, defeating the Cardinals at St. Louis 9-3. The victory also put the Braves four games ahead of the third place Brooklyn Dodgers, who were whipped by the Pirates, 9-1, in Pittsburgh.

Sain Has Easy Time

Johnny Sain had an easy time winning his 16th game as the Braves pounded Harry Brecheen and three relievers for 18 hits.

Ralph Kiner walloped his 33rd home run and Wally Westlake his 13th to help the Pirates subdue the Dodgers. Jackie Robinson, Dodger second baseman, was banished from the game for the first time in his major league career for heckling Umpire Butch Henline.

The New York Giants remained in a virtual fourth place tie with Pittsburgh, six games off the pace, by defeating the last place Cubs in Chicago, 7-4.

The third place New York Yankees failed to better their two-game deficit in the American league when they were nosed out by the cellar-dwelling Chicago White Sox, 6-5, at the Yankee stadium.

The Detroit Tigers drove Lou Brissie from the mound with a six-run attack in the third inning and went on to defeat the skidding Athletics, 7-4 in Philadelphia.

The St. Louis Browns checked a ninth inning rally after Washington scored four runs and beat the Senators, 6-5, in the Capitol City.

Cincinnati and the Philadelphia Phillies were not scheduled.

Pee Wee Cardinals Beat Yankees 19-11

The Pee Wee League Cardinals gained a 19 to 11 triumph over the Yankees Tuesday afternoon in the last regularly scheduled game of the season. The Jaycees downed the Exchange Club nine, 16 to 6, in the Junior loop's last tilt.

Jerry Daniels paced the Card attack with two triples and a single and George Jones aided the losing Yank cause with his single and double in four.

In the Junior affair, Morgan Hall banged out a homer and two singles for the winning Jaycee nine. Billy Breedlove and Duayne Ramphy each got a single and a double for the Exchangers.

Lubbock And San Angelo Teams To Tangle For Softball Crown

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 25. (Special)—The Bluebonnet Sunbeamers softball team arrived here today to meet Ragsdale of this city in the opening round of the Texas Softball League's Shaughnessy playoff series for the championship.

Ragsdale and the Bluebonnet-Sunbeamers will play a pair of games tonight here and will meet in another pair of tilts Saturday night in Lubbock. The champion ship series will be a three out of five game affair and if an additional game is needed after Saturday, the teams will flip a coin to see where it will be played.

The local club has been bolstered considerably by recent acquisitions of players and is expecteing to give the first-place visitors a tough fight for the championship. Ragsdale boasts one of the strongest teams in the state.

Ragsdale's Hurling Strong

Like the Lubbock nine, Ragsdale has built their offense around the strength of their hurling and in Bert Hester they have one of the better Texas pitchers. Hester won one of the two semi-final games from Baldridge Bakery Saturday night and drove in the winning run himself.

The other mounsman the local softball club will face, in all probability, is Jim Hays, who won the second game Saturday night to clinch a finals berth for Ragsdale.

Against these two chuckers the Bluebonnet - Sunbeamers will throw Jackie Neel and G. W. Warden, two of the outstanding hurlers in Texas softball circles. Both have had great seasons, both have been spectacular. Neel is the more brilliant of the two, the more consistent, but Warden, when he is right, is almost as hard to beat.

Neel Has Won Three

Neel won three of four games he hurled in four nights at the recent A.S.A. tournament in Wichita Falls, while Warden won the other Sunbeamer victory. The two hurlers have a good opportunity to turn in a pair of victories tonight.

Four of the players currently attending summer sessions at Texas Tech will fly down to San Angelo late this afternoon in order to be on hand for the games tonight.

Rod Fenton, Dory Detton To Tangle

Tough Rod Fenton of Edmonton, Canada, and popular Dory Detton of Amarillo will tangle in the feature bout of a double main event tonight at Sled Allen's arena.

Rowdy Pat O'Dowdy of Big Spring and George Curtis, a Vicksburg, Miss., product, are slated to meet in the first spotlight setto. Both main events will be two of three falls, one-hour time limit matches.

Detton, a speedy wrestler who is a favorite of West Texas mat fans, will renew an old feud with Fenton in the feature clash of the weekly mat card. The two men first battled in bouts during the 1930s, when both grapplers were beginners in the grunt-and-groan circuits, and have kept their "feud" at the boiling point with clashes in recent years.

O'Dowdy and Curtis are familiar figures at the local arena, having appeared on numerous cards here in the last year. O'Dowdy is a rough opponent, but the clean-cut Curtis will have the support of most of the local fans in the setto.

Karl Gray of Millwaukee, Wisconsin, and George Lopez of Tampico, Mexico, are scheduled to meet in the 20-minute preliminary.

Tickets went on sale at 9 o'clock this morning at Wylie's drug.

Kattmann Matches To Open Thursday

Ten of Lubbock's top links aces will compete against a strong visiting team in the annual Kattman Cup matches which will be played Thursday and Friday at Lubbock Country club, Pro Herb Schroeder has announced.

The Kattmann Cup event is usually an opening feature of the Lubbock Country club Invitational meet, but the Invitational will not be held this summer. The club officials decided, however, to stage the Cup matches as a separate program.

Lubbock golfers who qualified for the Cup team will be announced in The Morning Avalanche Thursday, Schroeder said. The local team will be captained by Raymond Marshall.

COMPLETE ROSTERS ANNOUNCED

All-Star Playoffs For Juniors Start

Stellar players from the Lubbock Boys club Pee Wee and Junior baseball leagues will open the annual All-Star playoff series at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the club diamond.

The Pee Wee league All-Stars will tangle in the opening tilt of the two of three games series at 3 o'clock this afternoon, with the Junior league standouts opening their playoff tussle at 5:30.

The All-Star team members were selected from the group of 316 boys who competed in the two Boys club leagues this summer, with eight teams in the Pee Wee circuit and four in the Junior loop. A total of 62 games were played by the Pee Wees, while 60 games were reported by the Juniors.

Walker Heads List

Heading the list of All-Star players is Carroll Walker of the Jaycees, who has won 11 games and lost three on the mound this summer. Truman Jones hurled the American Business club nine to 12 wins while absorbing six defeats, and Charles Brewer of the Exchange club has a 7-5 won lost record.

Bobby Craig from the Exchange club leads the All-Star hitters with a season average of .608, followed by Donnie Presley of the Jaycee's with a .515.

The complete rosters:

Pee Wees: Dodgers, Yankees and Red Sox—Glenn Higginbotham, Bobby Welch, Don Dunnigan, Roy Day, Gary Pruitt, Dane Allen, Butch Hall, Cecil Thompson, George Dawson, George Nelson, George Jones, Bobby Haygood, Charles Biggs, Jimmy Watson and Maxwell Noland.

White Sox, Cardinals and Tigers—Ronald Hall, Jackie Branch, Gregory Garcia, Jerry Shipp, Ray Lee Tunnell, Paul Sikes, Bobby Tyner, Don Kerr, Wray Clark, Tommy Sewell, Billy Bittick, Luis Chavez, Bobby St. Clair, Kenneth Johnson and Raymond Stephens.

Junior League: American business club and Exchange club—Truman Jones, Charles Brewer, Duane Rampy, Lindle Bailey, Bobby Craig, Bobby Tollison, Leslie Cross, Ernie Sullivent, Billy Breedlove, Hulen Haley, Dickie Lowrey, Charles Wright, Frank Wright and Ray McLarty.

Jaycees and Methodist Men—Dub James, Billy Presley, Carroll Walker, Don Presley, Jimmy Crawford, Jimmy Stanford, Charles Lackey, Ira Owens, Donnie Washington, Ross Craig, Jerry Martin, Noland Vincent, Ralph Murphy and Jerrell Crawford.

The name Arizona has been included in the titles of 56 different motion pictures.

Juniors Play In Semi-finals

Dormon Mitchell, one of the top entries in the youngest age group of the annual Lubbock Junior golf tournament, was upset by Carlos Hedgcoth, one-up in 18 holes, in quarter-final competition Tuesday at Lubbock County club.

The near-par shooting of the middle division of boys 13-15 stole the meet spotlight, however. Teddy Black, who has shot consistently in the 70s during the tourney, defeated Marvin Gordon 8 and 7; while Roland Adams, another stroker in the 70s, ousted Jimmy Sexton, 9 and ".

In other middle bracket matches Johnny Tatum eliminated Bill Averitt, 4 and 3, and Frank Mitchell dropped Charles Moore, 4 and 3.

Tatum Beats Mitchell

Black will meet Tatum and Adams will clash with Mitchell in the semi-final tussles at the club today.

Bill Tatum, defending champion in the oldest age group of boys 16-18, won a 3 up decision over Clyde Mitchel in a match that was conceded by Mitchell at the thirteenth hole. Ross Mitchell, runner-up in the division last year, trounced Armstead Smith, 7 and 5. Other flight results included a victory by Tommy Mills over Carl Gordon, one-up, and a 4 and 3 win by George Canon over Jack Alderson.

In the semi-final settos today Tatum will battle Mills and Mitchell meets Canon for places in the final match for the championship.

Semi-Final Pairings

Hedgcoth's surprise triumph over Dormon Mitchell featured play by the youngsters 12 years old or under, but other top strokers in the group came through with wins. Richard Hill defeated Roy Dell Thurmond, 6 and 5; James McDoe ousted John Adams, 9 and 7; and Tommy Mandrell dropped Jerry Tisdell, 6 and 5.

Semi-final pairings in the division today send Hill against McDoe and Hedgcoth against Mandrell.

The tournament, sponsored by Walter Granberry and the Holsum Bakery company, is directed by Jimmy Goldman.

Texas League Record Is Set

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

A new Texas league attendance record for one club was in the books today as the circuit rolled through the final three weeks of the campaign with only one playoff spot apparently undecided.

Houston's Buffs, crowding Tulsa for second place, drew 5,540 fans last night to bring the season home total to 386,817—4,542 more than Houston drew all last season in hanging up the record.

Play 4-4 Tie

Houston and Oklahoma City played to a 4-4 tie on "Happy Chandler night," with the baseball commissioner and other baseball notables as special guests.

Meanwhile Shreveport was dropping a full game back in its fight for fourth place and a spot in the play-offs. The Sports lost to the league-leading Fort Worth Cats 7-1, while San Antonio was moving a game and a half ahead of Shreveport by downing the second-place Tulsa Oilers 3-1.

Dallas licked Beaumont 6-3 in the other game of the night.

Houston and Oklahoma City had to quit with the game deadlocked, so they could catch a train for Oklahoma City.

Grant Belts Homer

Charley Grant belted a homer with two on base in the sixth to bring San Antonio its victory over Tulsa.

Dwain Sloat scattered five blows as Fort Worth strapped Shreveport to sweep the three-game series. Irv Noren and Dick Williams each blasted a homer for the Cats.

There was another good pitching exhibition at Beaumont where Floyd Giebell set the Exporters down with four hits. He didn't give up a hit or run after the third inning.

Coach Pleased As Westerner Squad Displays Lots Of Pep

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 25. (Special)—Head Coach C. R. (Pat) Pattison sent his Lubbock High charges through their second day of grid training here today in broiling heat, but the mentor expressed satisfaction at the progress of the squad. "If the Westerners can keep their enthusiasm as high after the first four games this season as it is right now, we just might do all right," Pattison said.

The boys are enjoying their camp on the Cameron Junior college campus, where the gridders sleep in dormitories near the practice field and eat three hearty meals a day in a campus cafeteria.

Coach Pattison announced that he was "tickled to death" with the setup.

As for the town of Lawton—well, the boys haven't seen it yet. Very likely they won't have an opportunity to look it over until the training grind here ends Saturday night, and by then the youngsters may be too tired to enjoy it.

Day Starts At 5:30 A. M.

The candidates are on a rugged schedule that gets them up at 5:30 o'clock each morning for a two-hour session on the practice field. The boys, working out in shorts, are sent through drills on pass pattern plays, conditioning and timing of plays during the early period.

By 8:30 the Texas schoolboys are ready for breakfast, then it's back to bed for the 36 Westerner grid aspirants. At 11:15 each morning there is a "skull practice" session, followed by the noon meal at 12:30.

The gridders listen in on another blackboard drill from 2 until 3 each afternoon, then at 4 the prospects don full equipment for a rough workout until 6:30. The heat has been terrific and the heavy work must be planned carefully. About 15 minutes of hard scrimmage is a good day's work, but the boys are holding up very well.

Grid Movies Shown

After practice the boys head for the showers and are ready for supper at 7:15. Between 8:15 and 9 o'clock each night the squad watches football movies through the club's own projector. Bedtime is 9:30 and the boys are usually more than ready for "lights out."

Coach Pattison said today that the same schedule will be followed through the final workouts Saturday, with the squad returning to Lubbock Sunday by chartered bus.

Three Major Loops Is Chandler's Idea

HOUSTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler suggests an expansion plan for the major leagues that eventually would create three loops of eight clubs each.

Here to attend "Happy Chandler night" at Buff stadium, home of Houston of the Texas league, Chandler declared that proposals for enlarging the big leagues are under constant study but that such expansion would be slow.

In an interview, he cautioned against optimism for including such cities as Houston, Los Angeles and San Francisco any time soon but said that the continued expansion study had resulted from the rapid growth of these cities along with Milwaukee, Montreal and others.

His plan would increase each of the two major leagues from eight to 10 clubs each and "then see if it works."

"If it works, then expand to 12 teams and then, perhaps, split the 24 teams into three major leagues," he said.

Ball Park Stands Destroyed By Fire

HENDERSON, Aug. 25. (AP)—The Henderson baseball club's wooden stands and dressing rooms—and its players' street clothing—were destroyed by fire last night.

The players were traveling in uniform to a Lone Star league game at Longview and had left their clothes and some equipment in their lockers.

Tyler, another Lone Star league club, saw its stands burn on the night of Aug. 5.

The Henderson fire was discovered just inside the main entrance to the park at about 7 p. m with a stiff wind whipping it, the blaze destroyed the stands in about 30 minutes.

The park was built in 1946 at a cost of about $35,000. The stands seated about 2,500 people.

A game scheduled between Henderson and Marshall here tonight was expected to be transferred to Marshall.

32 Caddies Tee Off In National Tourney

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 25 (AP)—Thirty-two caddies chasing a free college education teed off today in the second round of the third national caddy golf tournament.

Prize to the winner of the tournament is a $4,000 scholarship and the lads who carry golf bags for spending money are scrambling wildly for it.

"I'LL KNOCK THE FRENCHMAN OUT IN FIFTH ROUND"

Tony Zale Expects To Get More Than $8,000 Per Minute In His Bout With Marcel Cerdan

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—Tony Zale, world middleweight champion, expects to receive more than $8,000 a minute for defending his title against Marcel Cerdan at Jersey City, Sept. 21.

He has been guaranteed $120,000 by the Tournament of Champions, Inc.; and he predicted confidently today, "I'll knock out Cerdan in the fifth round."

Less Than 15 Minutes

In other words, the Polish slugger from Gary, Ind., believes he can dispose of the French challenger in less than 15 minutes of fighting.

Zale's knockout prediction was received with respect by reporters at T. of C. headquarters as they awaited today's scheduled arrival of Cerdan by plane from Paris—an arrival that already had been delayed two days by bad weather and by Marcel's yen for sleep.

The sports writers recalled that 34-year-old Tony had predicted a third-round knockout over Rocky Graziano for June 10, and that Tony made this forecast come true by belting out Rocky at 1:08 of the third round that June night in Newark, N. J.

The statuesque, light-brown-haired belter is unique among boxers because he maps every fight in advance, round by round as nearly as possible. When he makes a prediction, it's not just a shot in the dark nor mere wishful thinking; it's the result of several imaginary bouts with his opponent.

He said of Cerdan, "I've never seen the Frenchman fight, but I know he's good. He's a great combinatoin puncher—throws four or five hooks in a series from different angles. He's fast on his feet and a good blocker. I figure he's fast enough to give me a lot of trouble for about three rounds and keep away from me while he's doing it. But then I'll begin coming to close quarters and tearing him down with shots to the body. And I'll put him away in the fifth. It won't take long after I get to him."

How did he compare Cerdan with Graziano?

Tony said Cerdan was a better all-round fighter than Rocky, but that the Rock was probably a harder puncher.

Kirkpatrick Meets Don Riffle Tonight

CLIFFSIDE PARK, N. J., Aug. 25 (Special)—J. D. Kirkpatrick of Petersburg, Tex., promising young light heavyweight, will make his first metropolitan appearance in several weeks tonight.

Kirkpatrick will face Don Riffle of New York in a six-round main event in the Jamaica Arena. The fight will be televised. Riffle is an experienced puncher with a good record, while Kirkpatrick has established a string of victories.

The last time the Texan fought was in Lubbock, when he won by a technical knockout.

Southwest Coaches Plan For Gathering

DALLAS, Aug. 25. (AP)—The annual meeting of the Southwest Football Officials' Association will be held here Saturday and Sunday followed by sectional meetings in 17 cities. Matty Bell, head coach at Southern Methodist and the southwest's representative on the National Rules Committee, will conduct a rules interpretation Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

There now are 727 members of the association—the largest officials association in the nation. Maxey Hart of San Antonio is president.

Sssions will be held at the Adolphus hotel with the general business meeting at 4 p. m. Saturday and with group meetings for referees, umpires, head linesmen and field judges at 8 p. m.

Sunday morning at 10 o'clock the officials will have their field work at Dal-Hi stadium. Rules and manual examination will be held in the afternoon starting at 1 o'clock.

Sept. 5 sectional meetings will be held in Dallas, Kilgore, Paris, Wichita Falls, San Angelo, Lubbock, Childress, Beaumont, Houston, College Station, San Antonio, Waco, Corpus Christi and Conway, Ark. Sept. 12 sectional meetings will be held at Abilene, Midland and Austin.

BERT BELL'S PREDICTION

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25. (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell, just returned from a tour around his National football league domain, predicted today the 1948 race will be so tight there may be three-way ties in each division.

SPORTS EDITOR DIES

EL PASO, Aug. 25 (AP)—Oscar W. Williams, 31-yar-old assistant sports editor of the El Paso Times, died in a hospital here late yesterday.

Rumors Of Attack On Mexico's President Are Denied By Aide

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 25 (AP) — President Miguel Aleman's private secretary, Rogerio De La Selva, told the Associated Press today "there is no foundation whatever" for the rumors of an attempt to kill the president.

De La Selva said the president will not make any statement "about such idle talk" but he authorized the Associated Press to quote him as denying them.

Attacker Said Killed

The rumors varied but the main one was that a man shot at the president, Aug. 9, wounded Aleman in an arm and killed the president's chauffeur. The president's bodyguard, this version had it, killed the assailant.

The attack was said to have occurred as the president's car pulled out of the entrance to "Los Pinos," the presidential residence.

The rumor was not published here but it circulated widely and bankers said it and much political gossip probably kept international business firms out of the exchange market the past few weeks, awaiting a possible further fall in the peso.

Pastor Is Speaker At Exchange Club

Members of the Lubbock Exchange club meeting for luncheon today at Hotel Lubbock heard Rev. Travis A. White, pastor of the First Christian church, speak briefly on managing personal relations.

"The greatest shortcoming of the world today," Rev. White asserted, is in human relations." As remedies, he suggested physical fitness, positive mental attitudes, professional proficiency and unselfish service to others.

The group also heard C. W. Ratliff, Avalanche-Journal managing editor, and Roy Finley of Kuykendall Chevrolet Co., tell of their experiences at the national Soap Box Derby race held recently in Akron, O. Finley pointed out that of the 153 cities which held Derbies this year, Lubbock had the second largest number of entries.

Mrs. Fred Atkins issued an appeal for "substantial donations from Lubbock's civic organizations' to aid in the establishment of a nursery for negro children of pre-school age.

Dr. Jim Reynolds presided. Al Marcus was introduced as a new member. Invocation was by Roger Kuykendall.

among the services.

The occasion was a meeting of 300 top planning officers to hear reports on the weekend Newport, R. I., meeting of the joint chiefs of staff.

That session was devoted largely to a clarification of the role of the Navy and Air Force in strategic aerial warfare.

Secretary of Defense Forrestal told yesterday's gathering that under the new understanding the Air Force is "not merely to permit but to seek all the help it can get from naval air."

But Forrestal insisted that means "neither a victory for the Air Force nor a defeat for the Navy." Rather, "if followed through with sincerity and tenacity, (it) will means a victory for the country."

Some Air Force officers had voiced concern lest the Navy was trying to edge into its field of strategic—as distinguished from mere support—warfare and might want to launch atom bomb-carrying planes from a new super aircraft carrier now abuilding.

Air Force To Cooperate

General Hoyt Vandenberg, Air Force chief of staff, told the assembled officers yesterday that each service had been adopting something of a defensive attitude to prevent possible encroachment. But he pledged an end, so far as the Air Force is concerned, to any such "unhealthy, perhaps on occasion even unfriendly, contest."

Admiral Louis Denfeld, chief of naval operations, reported that at Newport each service had had to retreat "from an extreme position."

General Omar Bradley, Army chief of staff, declared:

"If there is a job to do and if someone else can do it better than the Army, then it's up to them to do it and take the job over from us. And if we can help them in any way, then that's what we are here for."

Drills Held Daily By Westerner Band

Marching drills by the Lubbock High school Westerner band are being continued daily, from 6:45 to 7:45 p. m., on the drill field south of the high school, it was announced today by Paul M. Branom, band director

Former band members and those interested in joining are asked to report each day. Branom said only 29 reported at the first drill period Monday but he anticipated increasing interest and attendance as vacation season draws to a close.

The director said he is anxious to get in as much drill as possible in preparation for the first football game of the season, scheduled with Odessa on Sept. 10, which is Friday of the first week of school.

Four Polio Patients Are Out Of Hospital

Only one youngster remained in Lubbock Memorial hospital this afternoon for treatment of polio. Four others were dismissed this morning. And the remaining patient, 7-year-old Jerry Lee White, son of J. L. White 222 Ave. P, was reported by an attending physician to be doing very nicely.

Polio patients dismissed from the hospital this morning include Thelma Raindl, 21 months, daughter of J. F. Raindl of Veterans village; Charles Revier, 4, son of Frank F. Revier, jr., of 2407 Thirty-second; Carl Shuman, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Shuman of 2823 Walnut, and Jerry Boyd Hutson, 7, son of J. B. Hutson of Lubbock route 1.

Plane Crashes

strewn over several hundred yards.

Flew In All Directions

"Pieces of the plane like silver flew in all directions," said Mrs. Elizabeth Snover, who saw the crash from the porch of her home.

The crash of the Superfortress in Hawaii occurred after one of the big bomber's four engines conked out three minutes after it took off from Barker's Point on another leg of its far eastern hop from the 98th bomber group's base at Spokane, Wash.

The pilot was ordered to land at the municipal airport, which adjoins Hickam field.

The superfort came in at an altitude of 150 feet and missed the municipal airport. The pilot banked the plane in an attempt to circle and bring it back in but a wing caught a transport plane parked on a Hickam field taxiway.

Crashed And Exploded

The Superfort crashed into a concrete power substation and exploded. The crash put out all of the field's lights momentarily but emergency lights flashed on as firefighters reached the flaming wreckage.

Witnesses said the four survivors either jumped or were thrown free from the wreckage. They were rushed to Tripler Army General hospital where doctors said their condition was serious.

The superfort hit with such force that one engine was thrown 100 feet ahead of the main fuselage and wreckage was scattered over a 100-yard square area.

The Frankfurt accident preceded an announcement that American fliers set another record with 395 flights with 2,020 tons of cargo in 24-hour period. Air Force investigators said that one of the C-47 transports with two crewmen aboard was circling and awaiting orders to land at its base when the second dipped out of a cloudy and struck its tail.

Two men were known to be aboard each plane and it was believed no hitch-hiking passengers were aboard.

Names of victims in the Hawaii and Germany crashes were withheld pending notification of kin.

Democrats.

The 72-year-old Reed, a member of the House since 1919 and dean of New York's 45-member delegation, beat Robert J. Sullivan, Dunkirk lawyer, by approximately 4,000 votes.

Rep Vito Marcantonio, left-wing American Labor party congressman, won his party's nomination without opposition in the 18th district on the upper East Side of Manhattan.

JAMES HARE WINS IN SOUTH CAROLINA

COLUMBIA, S. C., Aug. 25. (AP) —James B. Hare, son of a former congressman, is the Democratic nominee as U S. representative from the third South Carolina district.

Almost complete returns from yesterday's runoff primary showed he polled 38,440 votes to 20,419 for John C. Taylor of Anderson.

The runoff, in which 40 general assemblymen also were nominated, ended a summer of hard campaigning in South Carolina. In the first primary two weeks ago, Senator Burnet R. Maybank won renomination. Other congressional nominees are, Reps. Richards, Rivers, Bryson and McMillan, and a newcomer, Hugo S. Sims, jr., of Orangeburg.

Stock Market

BALANCE IS KEPT

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (AP)—The stock market just about managed to keep its balance today.

Closing prices showed a close mixture of small gains and losses, with the rail division doing better than others.

Rising tendencies in early trading failed to develop a carry-through.

Turnover was at the rate of about 550,000 shares, below yesterday's sluggish 620,000.

Higher a good part of the time were Santa Fe, Northern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio, Atlantic Coast Line, Illinois Central, Caterpillar Tractor, Lockheed, Schenley, American Telephone, Consolidated Natural Gas, American Can, Owens-Illinois, American Woolen and Wheeling Steel.

On the losing side off and on were U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet, United Wall Paper, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, United Aircraft, American Smelting, General Electric, Philip Morris, Pacific Western Oil and Twentieth Century-Fox.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (AP)—Cotton futures were steady in dull trading today. Hedge selling was light partly due to the fact that futures were below the loan levels.

Dealers also believed mills were buying spot cotton mostly for immediate shipment, eliminating the necessity for hedging.

Weather continued favorable in the cotton belt.

Late afternoon prices were unchanged to 65 cents a bale higher than the previous close. Oct. 30.65, Dec. 30.70 and March 30.70.

Futures closed 15 to 55 cents a bale higher than the previous close.

Grain Market

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Aug. 25. (AP)—Damage to corn in Iowa and demand for wheat from cash houses supported an upturn in grains today. In an active trade, prices spurted as much as 3 to 4 cents a bushel at times.

Some selling toward the close reduced earlier gains.

Other commodities moved along with grains for a good part of the day. But toward the close easiness again developed in fats and oils. Lard dropped below the previous close. Soybeans barely held small gains.

Wheat closed 1⅝ to 4 cents higher, September $2.23¾-⅞, corn was ½-1½ higher, September $1.59⅝-¾, oats were ½-⅞ higher, September 72⅞, rye was 1½ to 2 cents lower, December $1.48½, and soybeans were ¾-1½ higher, November $2.45.

Johnson Endorsed By Former Official

HOUSTON, Aug. 25. (U.P.)—Will L. Clayton of Houston, former undersecretary of sate, today endorsed Rep. Lyndon B. Johnson for the U. S. Senate.

In a statement released by Johnson headquarters, Clayton said that Johnson's experience and training were needed in the Senate.

"The nation," said Clayton, "faces a period of emergency which requires a leadership in the Senate."

Roy Hofheinz, south Texas campaign manager for Johnson, said that headquarters considered Clayton's endorsement "one of the most important developments in the campaign."

"Iron Curtain"

tegic Intelligence and Tactical Intelligence.

Yet even as loud praise poured upon the Soviet from abroad we in the "inside" were informed that Headquarters would now concentrate its major forces on Intelligence abroad. The division within Headquarters' circles also anticipated future specialization of Strategic Intelligence, the enlargement of the system, and the placing of the most able and dependable people within that system. Some idea of the magnitude of this new Intelligence set-up supplanting the "dissolved" Comintern, may be gleaned from the fact that there were approximately 5,000 people employed in Moscow headquarters!

Took Over Old Chores

Military Intelligence took over the old chores of the Comintern. It became an active part of the Soviet Fifth Column in democratic countries. Its ultimate aim, as outlined in black and white on our "confidential" forms, was the undermining of democratic countries from within and the designing of a plan for delivering major crippling blows when and if ordered to do so by the Soviet Government.

The Information Branch became the largest of all Intelligence branches. It employed hundreds of specialists working on material from abroad received through agents or other sources.

Particularly keen, as I frequently had it proven to me, were the astonishing array of experts from every kind of technical and scientific institution. Arrivals of drawings, formulae and the like always caused excitement in the ranks of the experts, as reflected in the flood of queries and replies we had to handle when new drips and drabs of information were needed to fill in blank spots.

Patience Was Rewarded

The persistence and patience of the experts seldom failed to get the wanted information, and that is a point which should be born in mind by nations who believe their secrets are burglar-proof.

Often we would send out the same telegram to twenty or more addresses in various parts of the world. One "urgent" query of this nature asked for an item of information about some scientific innovation in the United States. Neither of two agents in the United States could enlighten the experts, but complete and identical information on the American development was received from agents in Canada and England!

Often, very often, a distinguished personage travelling in another Allied country, or a talkative embassy worker, would drop secrets kept under closest censorship in their own countries. That is why the "mass production" espionage system of the Soviet Intelligence seldom fails to pay off when something is wanted urgently.

Few Aspects Unknown

For that reason, I doubt very much that any aspect of atomic-bomb production or behavior is unknown to the Soviet at present. If there are any blank spots, it is certain that dogged digging is now proceeding, not only in the United States, but in all other nations which might have a drib or drab of helpful data.

Sometimes information of a politico-economic character was passed on to the Academy of Science or to the Institute of World Politics and Economy. From this type of data, the Academy and Institute frequently published reports or pamphlets dealing with conditions in various countries. Depending on their nature, such reports or pamphlets had either "strictly confidential" circulation in highest Communist Party and Government circles, or were issued for public consumption.

In dealing with these two types of releases Soviet ingenuity was strongly manifest.

Releases Were Distorted

The releases for public consumption were frequently distorted, elaborated or totally altered. Many critics in democratic countries have seized on this type of jazzed-up and perverted article to prove their contention that such tactics were awkward and obvious. But the same critics have no way of seeing the "strictly confidential" releases. I have handled many of them. There was nothing awkward or obvious. Facts and precise details keynoted such releases.

It is foolhardy for any nation in the world to underestimate the force and ingenuity of the Soviet Intelligencee as a gleaner of information and dispenser of forceful propaganda. The main thing to remember is that whatever they want Soiet citizens to believe, they can make them believe, through complete control of all information.

What is even more of an achievement, however, is that much of what Soviet Intelligence wants to have believed abroad is, thanks largely to co-operative Communist sympathizers or misled writers and commentators, largely believed there too.

Customs Are Strange

Russia is a land whose people and whose customs have always been strange to the Western man. There is often a basic ignorance of both the Russian people and their history. It has been possible for the Soviet to exploit this ignorance in propaganda, by creating a "make-believe" Soviet paradise out of an unknown Russia, which would never be accepted of a country better known.

It was and still is a source of never-ending wonder to me how otherwise intelligent people in the West, who exert the greatest skepticism when told things about countries they either know or whose people they have met, still believe the wildest assertions made by the Soviet.

By withholding honest research and checking of facts, Russia managed to relegate most arguments to the free choice of opinion for lack of facts. These tactics were propagated cleverly and energetically by a fifth column adroitly planted in every country particularly well covered by Soviet agents. When I worked in the Special Communications branch, the vast majority of the telegrams came from England and the United States.

"How is it" I once asked, "that the authorities of America and England are unable to uncover our agents when there are so many of them?"

Our section chief smiled warily. "The large number of our agents in those countries are our strength. The authorities nip one while nine agents stay free."

Later the same afternoon, he returned to my desk to add:

"We are also materially aided in our work by influential friends of the Soviet Union." He showed me a still coded telegram. "This is information from an American who holds a high post in the United States government. He not only supplies our Military Attache with any data, on request, but is also in a position to influence questions of national political importance. A man like that is worth twenty agents to us."

Identity Not Disclosed

The identity of the friendly American of influential stature was never disclosed to me, but it is quite apparent that he could be one of several government figures who are frequently quoted in the press on matters of beneficial interest to the Soviet cause.

Are such personages "paid off" to contribute aid?

I don't believe so. Many individuals obviously following the Communist Party line are men of considerable personal wealth and business affiliations. Many, I would also suggest, would strenuously oppose the transforming of America into a Communist state. Then why do they preach and promulgate the Soviet cause so vigorously and frequently?

One answer, I learned through experience at the Soviet Embassy in Ottawa, lies in flattery. The "understanding friend" is invited to receptions. He is fussed over and praised. His ears become attuned to skilled comment which, although he may not realize it, is strictly along the Party line.

There are astonishing numbers of prominent people who are amazingly eager for the spotlight. What better way have recent years provided to win the spotlight than pumping for causes in the interest of "our gallant Allies of the Soviet Union," making speeches on "Let's understand Russia," or organizing branches of "Friends of the Soviet Union?"

Such a personage is, in reality, a most valuable Soviet agent.

the trial, until this morning, when the trial was slated to commence. It charged that subpoenas for four trial witnesses were issued by the state after 4:30 p. m. Tuesday, which would deprive the defense of the right to inform itself what those witnesses would testify against Tarpley.

Supplement To Affidavit

A supplement to the state's controverting affidavit to the defendant's first motion for continuance charged that two witnesses, T. Fain and J. D. Hassell, officials of Hemphill-Wells Co., had been "tendered to the defendant" late this morning, but charged that neither was "under process; that no application for subpoena for them had been issued."

The defense claimed that set of circumstances would deprive the defendant to the right of a fair trial.

Tarpley, who was nightwatchman for the store, is charged in two indictments with theft from Hemphill-Wells Co. A woman similarly is charged in two indictments.

Judge Blair ordered that a jury panel report back Thursday.

Woman's Story

Soviet union.

Was Called Enemy

In discussing the letter she said: "I love children. During the two years in America I found I was becoming more and more dissatisfied (with Russia)."

She added the Russians called her "an enemy of the state" and she was "persecuted in many picayune ways."

These persecutions she protested, she said, by failing to appear on several occasions at the school in New York where she was teaching Russian children.

Mrs. Kasenkina said that in her letter she asked to be released from her teaching assignment and to move to a hotel.

"Since they wouldn't let me do it," she added that she decided "I would, myself."

Were Not Human Beings

She said she wanted to talk to the Russians "as human beings, but they were not and perfunctorily they arrested me."

Asked what Ambassador Panyushkin discussed with her at the consulate the day she was returned to the consulate, Mrs. Kasenkina replied:

"I spoke with Panyushkin for five minutes. I had written a letter to the consulate which brought Panyushkin into the picture.

"I thought these people had a semblance of human mercy in them and would converse with me. Panyushkin said he would not speak to me and that I would go downstairs and tell reporters this and this and this."

The interpreter interjected that at this point Mrs. Kasenkina's voice became "very serious" and that she then said:

"Panyushkin and Lomakin both told me what to say to reporters and that through my message I would become a heroine."

Beads of perspiration formed on Mrs. Kasenkina's forehead and she smiled wanly as questions were asked her. She lay in the hospital bed, head propped slightly, one leg injured in her leap suspended in a traction pulley.

Asked what motivated her to decide not to go back to Russia, she said:

"When I was still in Russia I thought that if I got to America I would be able to remain there and not return to Russia.

"The reason I wanted to escape from Russia was that in 1937 they took my husband. I had no idea where he had gone to. I left Sloviensk in the Ukraine to visit my son in Moscow.

"He was a first-year student at the university. When war broke out, he was not a military man, and not a member of the Komsoluo (a young Communist league), and not a member of any political party. Therefore, the Soviets looked upon him as an enemy of the state. They took him into a storm troopers division without any training whatsoever. In Leningrad, on January 12, 1942, he was killed."

Mrs. Kasenkina's voice was hesitant at times, she sighed frequently, and a nurse dabbed her forehead with a piece of gauze.

"They have destroyed my entire life since I spent all my life on my son and my husband," she said.

"Neither of the two were political people. My son was a student and my husband was a teacher, as was I."

Lubbock Man Chosen Nurseryman Officer

FORT WORTH, Aug. 25. (AP)—Steve Brady of Fort Worth was elected president of the Texas Association of Nurserymen today.

Brady succeeds Raymond Mosty of Center Point. Murray Ramsey of Austin was chosen vice-president and Don King of Lubbock, secretary-treasurer.

Consular Ties

Soviet government has taken the decision:

"A. To immediately close both Soviet consulates in the United States—in New York and San Francisco.

"B. In correspondence with the principle of reciprocity, to consider as immediately closed the American consulate at Vladivostok.

"On the same basis, the earlier arrived at agreement between the governments of the United States and the Soviet union on the establishment of a consulate at Leningrad is to be considered as having lost its force."

The note repeated Soviet accusations that the Federal Bureau of Investigation was implicated in the Samarin and Kosenkina cases.

"The American government," the note said, "has at its disposal a sufficient quantity of information . . . (to) affirm the facts of the kidnaping of (Mrs.) Kosenkina and M. I. Samarin, the participation in this affair of the bandit white guard organization — the Tolstoy fund—and also the connection of the Federal Bureau of Investigation with this affair."

The note added:

"Inasmuch as Kosenkina at the present time is being held in hospital, factually under conditions of a prison regime and free communications with her by Soviet representatives are not permitted, declarations ascribed to her cannot be recognized as deserving any attention whatsoever, especially taking into consideration the serious condition of her health."

The Russians further protested that "up to the present time we cannot receive any information on the fate of Samarin and family." The note demanded access to both Samarin and Kosenkina and rejected accusations by the State department that Lomakin had abused his diplomatic prerogatives in dealing with the Kosenkina affair.

"The actions of Consul General Lomakin," the note said, "were directed exclusively in defense of the rights of Soviet citizens."

Baby Elephant

father.

Every edition of Moscow's daily newspapers carried bulletins and photographs—giving the Russian public the inside story on the care, education, and feeding of the baby elephant.

Only one detail was unannounced—the baby's sex.

Finally this week the three-weeks old infant was shown to the public for the first time. Tens of thousands flocked to the zoo.

There was no name on the cage of the new elephant. So now the zoo is conducting a city-wide contest to find a suitable handle for the youngster.

The latest newspaper report from the zoo said the father of the infant became infuriated the other day because he wasn't allowed to see his first-born.

Appropriately enough the mother elephant trounced him thoroughly and sent him back to his own cage to sulk.

It looked as if Muscovites might start worrying about the family relations of the grown-ups as well.

vert issued the folowing statement this morning:

"I do not and cannot know what delegations will be seated at the state convention where contests are involved. I have neither the right nor the power to prejudge the merits of controversies between contesting delegations. In keeping with long-established custom and usage, I will appoint a subcommittee on credentials at the proper time. It will be the duty of the sub-committee to hold hearings on all controversies and to make a report to the committee at the meeting Monday, Sept. 13. The committe will then consider the report of the sub-committee and make recommendations to the convention."

He added: "Any such suit as that indicated is an act of desperation. The people threatening to file it are trying to judge my future conduct by their past conduct at the convention in Dallas in 1944—this they have no right to do."

Aid For Palsy Center Urged

Progress and needs of Lubbock's cerebral palsy treatment center, which opened this week in temporary quarters, were outlined briefly at the Rotary club luncheon at the Hilton hotel today, and wives of Rotarians, many of whom attended, were asked to organize to fill the need for help at the center.

The treatment center, co-sponsored by the club and the Crippled Children's council here, needs volunteer help in several phases of operation, the group was told by Dr. Bill Gordon, program chairman.

Needs Are Outlined

He introduced Miss Esther Snell, director at the center, who outlined three specific needs. These were toys of particular type to help in muscular coordination in individual cases help in achievement tests which show progress of the patient, and people for typing to assist with records, correspondence, etc.

Miss Snell said that in the two days the center has been in operation, 44 cases have been in the clinic. Another group of 12 from the area, and who may eventually enter the clinic, already are under treatment at other places.

An appeal on behalf of the center was made by Charles A. Guy, who said that five or six years ago inquiries were received from 287 families in this part of Texas and eastern New Mexico concerning such treatment. He said that it is reasonable to assume that now there are probably 350 to 450 such cases in the area.

In Temporary Quarters

The treatment center is in temporary quarters in the 1300 block of Tenth, while plans move forward on a building project.

Kansas Swindling Will Involve More Than Murdered President

By WILLIAM F. CHAPMAN
United Press Staff Writer

EMPORIA, Kans., Aug. 25 — State officials said today that "three or four other men" helped Herbert J. Kindred swindle his city finance company of $550,000 before he apparently hired someone to kill him.

Chairman Jeff Robertson of the Kansas Corporation commission said "it took more than one man to juggle the company's books—three or four men were implicated by our preliminary audit."

But Robertson refused to say who the "three or four men" were.

The corporation commission was scheduled to hold a meeting at Topeka today to decide whether the firm should be allowed to remain in business. A hearing will be held in district court here tomorrow on a petition by company officers for receivership.

Bullet-Riddled Body Found

Kindred's body was found on a farm road near Florence, Kans., last Wednesday. He had been shot several times. Investigation has led officers to believe that he hired professional gunmen to murder him so his family could collect his insurance.

A subsequent audit of his firm's books revealed the large-scale fund manipulations.

George A. Russell, jr., Kindred's son-in-law, said that he could not understand how any other were implicated in the fraud and forgeries since Kindred did all of the firm's bookkeeping.

Meanwhile, H. C. Davis, who was elected to take over direction of the firm after Kindred's death, told reporters he couldn't help in the state investigation because "the stench is too strong."

Investors Will Lose

"I told the state auditors I was glad they were going through the books because I wanted them audited," he said. "I stayed with them from Thursday until Saturday. Then I couldn't take it any more. The stench was too strong."

It was Davis who estimated that investors in city finance would lose $550,000 on Kindred's dealings. He said that at Kindred's request last year he sold $21,000 worth of preferred city finance stock to his friends.

"Several little people here in Emporia will be hurt by this," he said. However, auditors have said that large banks and corporations were the heaviest losers.

Russell said Kindred's books were audited once a month by a local accountant who was out of the city today on vacation.

Davis described Kindred as a home-loving, hard-working executive who lavished gifts and affection on his 11-year-old son, Lynn.

Forgeries Discovered

"In the last two weeks or so, Kindred got so he would stare off into space quite a bit," Davis said. "That was the only indication I saw that anything was wrong."

George Miller, chief of the state auditors checking city finance's books, revealed that several small notes were "kited" by forging in an additional cipher.

Police still held William A. Gayer, 29, who has been charged with killing Kindred. Gayer has admitted that Kindred offered him $1,000 "to do the job" but said he refused. He claims Kindred hired someone else to murder him.

The case took an ironic turn yesterday when Kindred's widow said that if her husband's insurance were sufficient she would turn the money over to authorities to repay those who suffered losses from the "widespread defalcations" blamed on her husband.

Youth Finds Money While Rescuing Cat

NEW YORK, Aug. 25. (AP) — Eight-year-old Benjamin Myron got an unexpected prize for rescuing his own cat from a rafter in the family garage.

He found $2,200, probably hidden there by a previous tenant, police said.

If the money is not claimed within 90 days, the Myrons may keep it, police said.

Efforts Of Immigration Agents To Expel Communists Confused

By MAX HALL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The long, plodding campaign of the Immigration and Naturalization service to expel people from the country on grounds of Communism has been thrown into confusion.

And it looks like the confusion may continue for a long time.

Here is the reason:

Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough has ruled that the service's method of holding hearings—presided over by immigration inspectors—is illegal under the administrative procedures act of 1946.

He ordered it not to go any further in deporting Gerhard Eisler, Irving Potash, John Williamson, Ferdinand S. Smith, and Charles A. Doyle unless it changes its methods and starts over.

This is the same Judge Goldsborough who fined John L. Lewis in connection with two coal strikes and later upheld the legality of Lewis's pension plan for miners.

Ruling Under Appeal

His ruling in the deportation cases came on May 5. It jolted immigration officials so they only now are beginning to recover from their astonishment.

They insist that the administrative procedures act does not apply to immigration hearings.

For a time they stopped all hearings entirely

Disagreeing with Judge Goldsborough, they have no intention of changing their whole system unless forced to do it. They have appealed the ruling. But it will take more than a year to get a Supreme Court decision Meantime, what should they do?

Apparently they have resolved to proceed cautiously in other cases, following their traditional method—even though, if Goldsborough turns out to be correct, all their work will be overturned.

They were somewhat encouraged because of a ruling here July 28 by another federal district Judge, Alexander Holtzoff. This was in a different case, which did not involve charges of Communism. But it did involve the legality of immigration hearings, and Holtzoff said the administrative procedures act doesn't affect them.

New Case Scheduled

Holtzoff's ruling does not change Goldsborough's injunction in the Eisler-Potash - Williamson - Smith-Doyle case.

Nevertheless immigration officials have decided to hold a hearing Monday at New York in the case of a man known as J. Peters. It will be the first deportation hearing on Communism charges since the Goldsborough ruling.

Peters, like Eisler and the others, is an alien.

Against all these people the immigration service has charged: (1) That they are Communists; (2) that the Communist party advocates the violent overthrow of the government.

The immigration law provides for the expulsion of aliens who belong to organizations which believe in violent overthrow.

House Group To Act

Peters, who was arrested by immigration agents on a sidewalk in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., several months ago and is out on $5,000 bond, is wanted by the House committee on un-American activities for testimony. This committee says it will send someone to the New York hearing to serve a subpoena on him.

The immigration service has taken many setbacks in trying to prove its claim that Communist membership is sufficient reason to deport an alien from this country.

The biggest setback was the Harry Bridges case. In 1945 the Supreme Court held that the government had not proved Bridges was a Communist. Therefore it did not feel compelled to rule on whether the Communist party has violence on its mind.

The Supreme Court has never made a clear-cut ruling on that issue.

Former Aggies Will Hold Meet Tonight

Former students at Texas A. & M. College are asked to attend a picnic meeting tonight of the South and Central Plains ex-students associations, to be held at Mackenzie park here, starting at 8 o'clock.

Plans have been completed under supervision of D. W. Sherrill of Lubbock, president of the South Plains group, and Harvey Pool, of Levelland, head of the Central Plains group

Principal speaker is to be Dick Hervey, executive secretary of the association of former students. Other guests are to include Bill Carmichael, A & M. athletic director; and George G. Smith, new president of the alumni group.

Those attending are asked to enter the park from the west entrance (Fourth street), where they will see signs directing them to the location.

Rail Service End Delayed

DALLAS, Aug. 25. (AP)—An Interstate Commerce commission examiner's recommendation that the Texas Electric Railway company be allowed to abandon its interurban service was kept from becoming final today by exceptions filed by a Dallas packing plant and a transportation union.

ICC examiner Lucian Jordan had recommended that the company be allowed to abandon its 168 miles of trackage between Denison, Dallas and Waco.

Exceptions were filed with the ICC in Washington yesterday — one day before the deadline—by local 1043, united transportation workers, an affiliate of the CIO Utility Workers of America, and George A. Hormel and company.

Objection Stated

The transportation workers argued that employes should be cut in on benefits from salvage of the trackage.

The packing company asked that service be continued until other trackage could be run into the plant, now served exclusively by TERC.

C. F. McAuliff, TERC vice president, said the company had no statement to make. Officials will await a final ruling from the ICC on Jordan's recommendation and the exceptions before going ahead with plans to stop service, he said

Refund On Income Tax Refused Vets

FRANKFORT, Ky., Aug. 25. (INS—Kentucky World War II veterans today were refused a refund on state income tax they paid on service salaries.

State Finance Commissioner John W. Manning announced the refusal. He held that the state constitution forbids the state to refund a legally levied, legally collected tax.

A bill which would have returned the money was passed by the 1948 legislature.

The act exempted wartime military income from state income taxes. The measure also provided that veterans who already had paid such taxes could claim a refund or deduct the amount paid from money earned in later years.

Whisky Is Stolen From Control Board

PARIS, Aug. 25. (AP)—State Liquor Control board inspectors are investigating the theft of 170 confiscated cases of whisky from a warehouse of the board's Paris office.

District Supervisor Aubrey Cartlidge said yesterday that the stolen whisky was worth $6,300. He said 200 other cases were left in the warehouse.

The whisky had been seized in the Paris district by Liquor Control board agents during the last six months, Cartlidge said.

Lack Of Rain Hard On Crops And Livestock

AUSTIN, Aug. 25. (AP) — Last week's hot, dry weather was tough on crops, pastures and livestock in Texas.

The United States Department of Agriculture reported today that moisture was adequate for plant growth only in the northern Panhandle.

Its weekly survey, reflecting conditions through Aug. 23, said:

Cotton harvest progressed rapidly throughout central, south-central and east Texas as the dry hot weather hastened maturity and caused some premature opening.

Bolls Opening Rapidly

Bolls were opening rapidly in north Texas but some further deterioration of late plantings resulted from the lack of moisture.

Cotton was in good condition and fruiting heavily over most of the high plains and low rolling plains. Moisture conditions have been favorable in these areas except in the area south and east of Lubbock where the cotton was beginning to suffer.

Grain sorghums made excellent progress in the northern Panhandle area where early planting were heading, but in some southern high plains counties rain was needed badly.

Late sorghums were suffering from the dry weather in all areas except the favored northern Panhandle counties.

Cotton Harvest Progresses

Corn harvest made rapid progress in central, southern and eastern counties, and was underway in northeast and north-central Texas.

Peanut harvest was expanding into the later districts as some of the early crops were finished. Yields in all areas were uniformly light because of the continued dry weather.

Rice harvest was active. Early crops were furnishing fairly good yields but all late crops were badly in need of rain as water for irrigation was short. Pecan prospects continued favorable but shedding was becoming more general as a result of the heat and dry weather.

Plant losses continued to increase in the full-crop vegetable area in the extreme southern counties, particularly in the Rio Grande valley where temperatures ranged from 100 to 105. Tomato plant losses in the Eagle Pass district was extensive and progress of all plantings was retarded.

Pastures Deteriorate

Ranges and pastures continued to deteriorate due to lack of moisture except in the north high and low rolling plains counties, where grasses were supplying excellent

Local Man Has Raised Rabbits As Hobby For 18 Years

One Thousand Backyard Rabbit Breeders In Lubbock Would Help Solve Problem Of Meat

By OPAL DIXON
Journal Staff Writer

"We could use a thousand backyard rabbit breeders in Lubbock so they could help supply themselves and others with meat," said Guy L. Trow of 2010 Twenty-fifth, who has been raising rabbits 18 years.

He raises rabbits in an air-conditioned rabbitry in the backyard of the Trow home as a hobby with the aim of producing good breeding stock. All of his senior rabbits are registered with the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders association, Inc.

Reach The Trow Table

All rabbits do not meet the specifications required of registered stock, and those reach the Trow table about twice a week in the form of rabbit sausage, baked rabbit, barbecued rabbit, fried rabbit, rabbit pie or in other forms.

"I never get tired of them. You can fix a rabbit any way you can a chicken and lots of ways you can't fix a chicken," said Trow.

Rabbits need to be pure bred for eating, he believes. Pure bred rabbits are "good, big, healthy rabbits," he said. "If the stock is not good, one has little runty rabbits."

All White Meat

"One of the good points is that all pen-raised tame rabbits are white meat," he added.

Sometimes, when there are more "culls" not meeting specifications for registry than the Trows can eat, he sells the extra ones to butcher shops.

"If we have a surplus, we take them down to the store. I always have a sale for any I can't use myself," said Trow.

Such sales are purely incidental, but whether or not raising breeding or show stock, rabbit raisers are in the meat business, because of the number of culls, he explained.

A bird, fish, snails, frogs and a dog are other creatures at the Trow home.

Everything Is Trained

"He has everything trained," said Mrs. Trow, who is principal of Dupre school. "Every time I open the refrigerator the bird makes a certain noise if he wants lettuce," she said.

In the backyard, she tapped the side of a shallow cement pool. Fish came up to the edge, as they had been trained to do by her husband.

Trow began raising rabbits after he became crippled. He uses a wheel chair. He goes back and forth to the rabbitry at the rear of the backyard except when weather prevents. At those times, Mrs. Trow feeds the rabbits.

The rabbits live in air-conditioned comfort. "They have a fur coat that they can't take off—and that gets mighty hot," said Trow.

They Have Sun Porches

They also have "sun porches," places on the outside of the rabbitry joined by small openings leading from the hutches within.

Sandy, cocker spaniel owned by the Trows, goes in and out of the rabbitry, comfortably at home with the white rabbits.

There's not but one kind of rabbit as far as Trow is concerned, he said. That's the New Zealand whites. Such rabbits, he said, have a top weight of 12 pounds.

One doe can produce about two and one-half times her weight in rabbits every 90 days, he said.

Trow helped organize and formerly was president of the South Plains Rabbit and Cavy Breeders association, of which L. E. Settle now is president.

Show Plans Made

Last year, Trow sold all his rabbits in order to build a new rab-

One-Hour Test Made On Deep Andrews Well

Humble No. 1 Ferguson, central-west Andrews county deep wildcat, four miles east of the Nelson field, and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 12, block A-49, psl survey, ran a one-hour drillstem test in the top of the Ellenburger at 11,411-445 feet.

Recovery was the 1,500-foot water blanket; 60 feet of gas-cut drilling mud and 270 feet of gas-cut, muddy sulphur water. There were no signs of oil. The venture is to make more hole.

Abandonment Planned

Some observers picked the top of the Ellenburger at 11,410 feet. Elevation is 3,394 feet.

H. L. Hunt No. 1 Donald L. Schwab, northeast Hockley county prospector, 660 feet from south and west lines of labor 17, league 735, state Capital lands, had drilled to 7,579 feet in dry lime.

It was running a Schlumberger and a gamma ray survey, and was then slated to be plugged and abandoned. No indications of oil or gas have been reported from this exploration.

Gaines Drilling Continues

Shell Oil company, Inc., No. 1 Hawkins, slated 12,500-foot wildcat in south-central Gaines county, 15 miles south of Seminole, and 1,983 feet from north and 665 feet from east lines of section 8, block A-23, psl survey, had progressed under 7,112 feet in dolomite and lime in the lower Permian, and was continuing.

Guy Mabee Drilling company No. 1 McCrea, 12 miles northwest of Seminole, in northwest Gaines county, and 660 feet from south and west lines of northwest quarter of section 372, block 9, CCSD-&RGNG survey, had reached 5,730 feet in dry lime, and was boring ahead.

Airborne Division Slates Convention

CHICAGO, Aug. 25 (U.P.)—Former paratroopers and glidermen of the famed 101st Airborne Division will meet here Sept. 3-4 for the division association's third annual convention.

The 101st was the first full division in U. S. Army history to receive a distinguished unit citation The division was honored for its defense of Bastogne, Belgium, during the Battle of the Bulge.

Past members of the 101st, now with the 82nd Airborne Division, will be flown from Fort Bragg N. C., for the meeting.

Maj. Gen. A. C. McAuliffe, association president, was the officer who replied "nuts" to a German surrender demand during the Bastogne defense.

Cruelty Of Parents Is Aired In Court

Youngsters Forced To Pull Weeds From Dawn To Dark Without Drink Of Water

ATLANTA, Aug. 25 (AP)—A father and step-mother accused of forcing their two small children to pull weeds from 7 o'clock in the morning to six o'clock at night without a drink of water will have to answer in court.

Juvenile Judge W. W. Woolfolk placed Mr. and Mrs. William S. Cox in $500 bond yesterday for an appearance in Fulton county court on charges of cruelty to children.

The judge also took custody of the children, Martha Ann, 7, and her nine-year-old brother Donald.

In addition to the weed pulling, the parents were charged with leaving Martha Ann stretched on tiptoe in an apple tree with her head fixed in a crotch so that if she relaxed she would choke.

They inflicted this punishment, a report to the judge said, because they claimed the child stole 25 cents from a housekeeper.

The record also said the step-mother wore out two switches on Martha Ann and beat her with a slab from an apple crate. The couple was also accused of lowering the child into an open toilet pit and pouring water on her.

Sen. Joe McCarthy Takes To Wheat Fields As Hired Hand

By LEE NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

LEFOR, N. D., Aug. 25 — The unshaven man in overalls and straw hat shouted above the roar of the grain combine.

"Hold her!"

The man on the yellow tractor pulling the combine yanked his machine to a halt, cut off the motor and said:

"Well, I guess that does it for today. Let's head for chow."

Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R., Wis.) wiped the dust from his face with a bandana and climbed aboard the truck loaded with wheat and highballed it for the North Dakota farm house where he was spending his "vacation"—harvesting wheat as an ordinary hired hand and finding out about farm problems at first hand.

Reporter Goes Along

On Monday morning, Aug. 9, two days after the special session of Congress ended, Senator McCarthy hopped a bus for Appleton, Wis., where he picked up his car and drove nearly 1,000 miles in 20 hours to Dickinson, N. D. I went along to see how a senator harvests wheat.

At the farm of Jake Lefor jobs as plain "harvest hands" had been booked for us through the efforts of Sen. Milton R. Young (R., N. D.) who pledged to keep our identity a secret.

Jake is the nephew of Adam A. Lefor, an early German settler of the state who founded the one-store town of Lefor.

We went to work the morning we arrived but it took a little while to learn how to operate a combine, which cuts wheat in 15-foot swaths, threshes it and pours the grain into a bin ready to truck away.

It was hot, dusty work but Dorothy Lefor, pretty wife of

SEN. JOE McCARTHY

Jake's son, Harry, brought out lunches featuring fried chicken, which made the wheat harvesting easier.

Harvesting lasted until dark and we were glad to roll in a bunkhouse shared with two other hired men by 10:30 p. m.

The Lefor's and their hired men laughted at Senator McCarthy's constant stream of wisecracks and he clicked as a hired man.

Then came another Lefor brother from Oregon, a politician who recognized the senator. On Monday he got a special delivery letter from Washington requiring his immediate return.

Dull With Joe Gone

Now, as Harry Lefor put it, "it

Cost Of Living At New Record Level In U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25. (AP)—Your living costs have skyrocketed to a new record high, the government said today.

This means an automatic, three-cents-an-hour pay hike for some 265,000 General Motors employes. But for them and other wage earners the price picture painted by two federal agencies also means that:

1. It took $21.68 in June to buy the same food items that cost $10 back in 1935-39.

2. For a family of three that amounted to a $705 yearly "market basket" outlay as compared to the $695 rate in January and the World War I peak of $615 in June 1920.

New Top Is Hit

3. The price chart of all the things that make up the daily budget hit a new top of 713.7 on July 15. This is the consumers' price index figured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics on a 1935-39 base of 100. It now stands 9.7 per cent higher than a year ago, 30.3 per cent above June 1946, when most OPA controls were abandoned, and 76.2 higher than pre-war August 1939.

The BLS reported that the main increases in retail foods were for meats, poultry, fish, dairy products and eggs.

At the same time the Agriculture department reported that the farmer's share of that $705 market basket total was 51 per cent, or $339. The rest went to the processor, transporter, wholesaler and retailer for "marketing charges."

Meat was the biggest single item in the family food budget. The June outlay for three persons averaged about $213 of the $705 yearly rate. In May it was $202.

Nebraska Poultry Production Drops

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 25 (U.P.)—Nebraska is lagging in the economical operation of chicken farms, according to Prof. F. W. Mussehl of the University of Nebraska.

Six million pounds of chicken were imported into Nebraska last year, he said, primarily from Delaware, Maryland, Arkansas and Virginia. The easterners have found a way to hold operating costs at a minimum and yet raise large flocks, he said, while the operation is more of a gamble in the Cornhusker state.

Many chicken producers have left their Nebraska farms, heading for the city and a more sure, substantial income, Mussehl said. As a result, the state's poultry and egg production has dropped 10 per cent from last year's level.

Air Force Doing Its Best To Provide Air Warning Network

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (U.P.)—Air force officials said today they are doing the best they can with what they have to provide the nation with a radar warning network.

But what they have is inadequate and does not constitute a system capable of detecting all approaches by foreign planes, they said.

The statements were made in response to questions about a report that international tension had forced a reorganization of the nation's radar defenses.

Spokesmen said the air force is doing its best to use World War II equipment in some key positions to protect vital defense spots. Details of this system are considered among the top military secrets.

Committee Makes Study

A committee of the nation's leading scientists headed by Dr. Vannevar Bush is engaged in a careful study of improvements in radar that could lead to an adequate air warning system.

Any disclosure of how the proposed system was organized and where the stations are would be secret military information of high value to any nation that wanted to attack the United States.

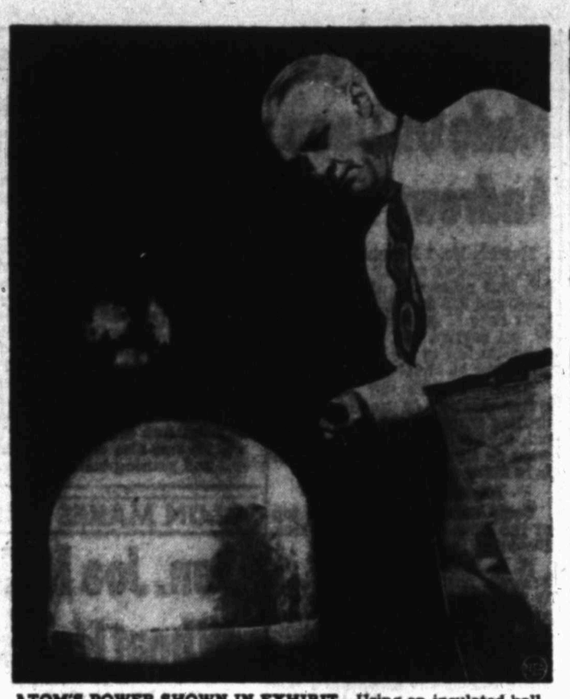

When the Bush plan is completed it is expected to result in a request to Congress for legislation and an appropriation. Experts estimated the needed equipment would cost at least $250,000,000. About 25,000 men would be needed to operate an adequate radar network.

The air force is studying a placement of radar stations and fighter interceptor stations in Alaska. Canadian and United States defense officers are reported discussing a radar network "roof" over the North American continent along the Arctic circle.

Officer Outlines Needs

A high air force officer says an adequate radar system must include:

1. Radar and other early warning stations at overlapping points spreading out from all the borders of the United States in the Atlantic, Pacific and toward the North pole.
2. Radar and other early warning stations extending in depth into the United States.
3. Communications systems to link these warning stations together and to defensive forces.
4. Fighter plane bases strategically placed to intercept the enemy's attacking bombers.
5. Anti-aircraft artillery and guided missiles to intercept enemy bombers.
6. Enough men to man this system 24 hours a day.

ATOM'S POWER SHOWN IN EXHIBIT—Using an insulated ball-topped rod, Dr. Richard C. Hitchcock, director of the Westinghouse atomic energy show, draws a six-inch spark from the dome of a miniature atom smasher in Pittsburgh, Pa. The exhibit will move to New York, where it will be featured in the Golden Anniversary celebration.

Winners Of Story Contest Are Named

Finals in the city-wide story telling contests for children were held Tuesday night at the barbecue pit in Mackenzie State park under direction of Mrs. Gladys Sims, story-telling specialist for the City Recreation department. More than 65 parents attended the contests.

First place winners in the story telling contests held last week at city parks and community center at Sixth and Ave. B competed in the championships.

Winners were:

Group I: Pat Power, Pioneer park, first; Suellen Stone, Wagner park, second, and Gerald Dwayne Hood, Burns park, third.

Group II. Elaine Tierce, Wagner park, and Kathleen Kammerdiener, Carlisle park; tie for first; Joy Kinslow, Burns park, second, and Ruby Thomas, community center, third.

Group III: Albert Jackson Roberts, Burns park, first, and Karl Dockray, Wagner park, and John Kammerdiener, Carlisle park, tie for second.

Other contestants were Roxie Peth Hughes, Carlisle park; Sharon Ann Gcwin, Carlisle park; Peggy Joyce Owen, and Tommie Sue Kirk, community center, and Doris Poarch, Pioneer park.

Entertaining between group contests were Minyon Jones who sang several songs with dramatization, and Ruby Marie Tyler from Booker T. Washington park who told a story.

Judges were Mrs. C. M. Kaigler, Mrs. C. E. Wginton, and Mrs. Frances Lee Tolbert.

Ribbons were awarded to winners of first, second and third places.

23rd Annual Tech Catalog Available

The twenty-third annual Texas Technological catalogue started coming off the Tech press production line Tuesday morning, and is now available to students in the registrars office in the Administration building.

Copies of the new book of college information for the academic year 1948-49 will be mailed to those who have made inquiries about the college and to high school libraries all over the state as soon as enough copies have been completed to supply the demand of the students now in college, W. P. Clement, registrar, said Tuesday afternoon.

10 Divisions Included

The 1948-49 catalogue is divided into 10 divisions, including a calendar of events; official directory of college officers and employes; general information; historical statement on buildings, grounds and facilities, government and organization and information for ex-service men and women; information for students on admission, expenses, scholarships and students' aids, regulations, academic requirements, student organizations and requirements for graduation; curricula and courses of study in eight divisions including the Division of Extension and the Military Science and Tactics division; a description of all courses offered; enrollment and statistical data; regulations governing teachers certificates, and the act of the state legislature which established the college in 1925.

Clement said that the class schedule bulletins will not be ready for the students before the second week in September, due to changes in the faculty which affect the curriculum which can be offered.

Baby In Fort Worth Has Plenty Of Shoes

FORT WORTH, Tex., Aug. 25 (U.P.)—Warren Ward isn't one for doing much walking right now. But when he gets around to it, he'll have plenty of shoes.

Master Ward is currently near his first year's birthday anniversary, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Ward. Besides some wooden slippers which his father brought back from Belgium, there are about 300 other shoes.

However, they are miniature shoes, collected by Mrs. Ward and about equally divided between rights and lefts. Many were sent back from Europe by Mrs. Ward's husband, who was an Army captain.

Movie Stars Impressed With Texans' Sharp Oil Ventures Join Search For Black Gold

By VIRVINIA MACPHERSON
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 25.—Yachts and airplanes and fancy cars are okay for ordinary actors, but you aren't anybody in Hollywood these days if you don't own an oil well.

Maybe it's the Texas influence. A lot of gents with 10-gallon lids and 10 times 10 million bucks have taken to dropping in on Hollywood parties.

Speculation Helps On Tax

They get to talking with our movie he-men about their oil wells. And first thing you know the boys are taking to the hills in their Cadillacs looking for a spot to start drilling.

Whether they strike it rich or not, it helps come income tax time. If they hit a gusher they get to keep 27½ per cent tax free. The rest they put back into another oil well.

If they drill down into dry sand they write it off as a loss. Bound to put a too-rich actor down one bracket, at least.

Charles Boyer, Greta Garbo, Hedy Lamarr, James Gleason, Joel McCrea, Fred MacMurray, and Cecil B. De Mille are all sitting around waiting for their wells to come in any day now.

Like Nervous Hens

So are Dennis O'Keefe and Randolph Scott, movieland's newest victims of black gold fever. They're the nervous owners of an oil well near Bakersfield, Calif., and they mother-hen it every minute of the day.

"We're only 1,400 feet away from where oil is," O'Keefe says. "That is, from where we figure oil oughtta be. The boys'll give us a call when they expect to hit that wonderful stuff so we can be there for the big moment."

Meanwhile, the two "oil men" go around jabbering about "bits" and "whip-stocks" and "sand porosity" and 'rock faults." You'd think they worked their way up from the rigging crews instead of the golf-playing elite of never-never land.

Roughneck Amazed

"First time we drove up to the well we took my Cadillac," O'Keefe grinned. "A big, grimy roustabout looks us over and squirts out a stream of tobacco. 'Well, I'll be --- -----,' he says. 'Movie stars.' He spits some more and says, 'wish I'd brought my camera'."

The new owners are willing to put up with that. All they ask is a chance to hang around on the edge of their derrick and watch. And maybe spend the fortune that's only 1400 feet away.

They haven't met Wally Wallace, but he's chortling at all of 'em. He's a sound man who makes $150 a week at MGM. His little old oil well came in last week like a house afire.

Second Trial To Be Set In Two Deaths

BOWLING GREEN, Ky., Aug. 25 (AP)—A second examining trial will be scheduled here this week for a mother and daughter charged with murder in connection with the buttermilk poisoning of the younger woman's husband.

Mrs. Kate Goad, 72, and her 34-year-old daughter, Mrs. Katherine Lee, were bound to the Warren county grand jury without bond yesterday on a charge of murder stemming from the death Aug. 14 of Mrs. Lee's husband, Allie S. Lee. Both women waived their case to the grand jury.

County Attorney William H. Natcher said he was awaiting a laboratory report on the contents found in the stomach of 52-year-old James A. Croslin. An examining trial will be set when the report is received.

Natcher said the two men died shortly after eating a meal at the Lee home. Poison was found in Lee's stomach, the attorney added. He said he believes it was slipped into buttermilk the men drank.

Mrs. Lee and Mrs. Goad have denied any connection with the deaths of the two men.

THINGS TO COME—Get a grip on yourselves, men. While Paris fashion designers secretly guard details of their fall styles, this is one of the "tendency" sketches they've issued, hinting of things to come. Designer Carven says this is the way the New Look is going.

St. Louis Family Finds Many New Friends But Losing One Thing They Desire Most

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 25 (AP)—The James J. Burns family has found a lot of unknown friends, but the one thing they want most apparently is lost.

Their son, Larry, 20 months, was born with cancer. He is expected to die within the next few months from the disease which has spread from an arm to his chest.

With medical bills mounting and Burns staying home from work to be with the pain-racked boy, a spontaneous fund for the family has risen to $4,300. The fountain pen company for which Burns works has continued his salary.

Children Aid Family

Many contributions were raised by children setting up lemonade stands and similar projects after newspapers told of the family's plight.

"I'm amazed at the way folks have helped us out," Burns said. "It hits me so hard I can hardly talk about it."

Mrs. Burns is due home from hospital today with a daughter, born Sunday. They have another son, James, jr., 4.

Semi-Nude Beauty Contests Assailed

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 25. (AP)—Archbishop William Duke of Vancouver assailed last night the "rapidly growing practice of semi-nude beauty contests for every imaginable objective."

Addressing the sixth annual convention of the Canadian Federation of Convent Alumnae, the Roman Catholic archbishop said beauty contests are barred to Catholic women "who realize in conscience" the danger that "they could be occasions of sin to others."

"You would have to be an iceberg," he declared, "to be in the same room with a semi-nude woman and not be subject to immoral ideas."

Demo Precinct Heads To Hold Meet Friday

In preparation for the second Democratic primary Saturday, precinct chairmen of the party in this county are to meet with L. C. Ellis, county Democratic chairman at 3 p.m. Friday in the courthouse here when election supplies will be distributed, it was announced yesterday by Ellis.

The county chairman stressed that the proposed changes in precinct lines that would add several precincts to the county will not take effect until next year, and that voters are to go to the same places as in the first primary balloting.

Ellis urged that every eligible voter go to the polls Saturday and cast a ballot in the runoff contests.

Pay Of General Motors Union Boosted With Cost Of Living

DETROIT, Aug. 25. (AP)—An additional three cents an hour goes into the pay envelopes of 265,000 General Motors corp. workers Sept. 1 because of the rising cost of living.

The wage increase results from announcement by the Bureau of Labor statistics that its consumers price index reached an all-time high on July 15.

Under an agreement reached with CIO employes last spring, GM hitched its wages to the price index. The contract provides one cent an hour extra for every 1.14 point the BLS figure rises from a base of 169.3.

Salary Adjustments Set

Today's Labor department announcement placed the BLS figure at 173.7 for the three month period ended July 15.

The corporation also announced it wil pay 68,000 salaried workers a $25 cost-of-living adjustment in September and another $15 or $40 in all for the period Sept. 1 to Dec. 1.

This is the first wage adjustment since the UAW-GM contract went into effect. Wages will be adjusted again Dec. 1, either upward or downward, depending on the BLS index next Oct. 15. However, wages can not be cut more than five cents during the contract.

Employes Not Fooled

The three cent boost is in addition to an 11 cent hike granted the CIO United Auto workers when the contract went into effect last May 29. It brings average hourly auto production wages at GM to about $1.64 an hour.

T. A. Johnstone, director of the UAW-CIO General Motors department, described the wage increase as "welcome." However, he added that GM employes are "not kidding themselves as to its true significance.

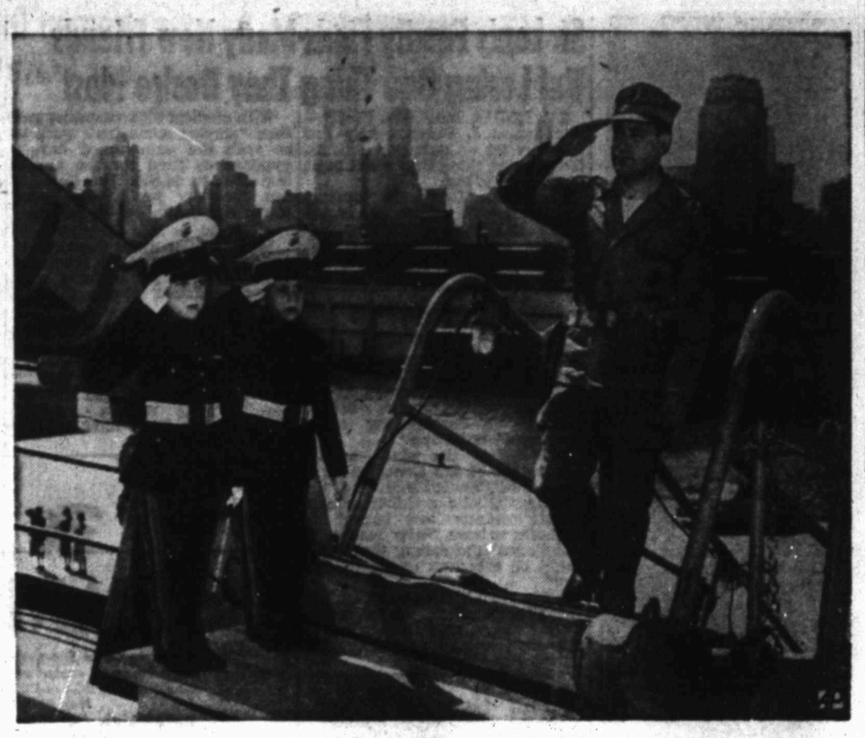

"They know it does not raise their living standards," he said.

"They know that although there will be more money in their pay envelopes, it will not buy more at the grocery store. Above all, they know that the cost of living rise from which this wage increase flows marks another defeat for all American consumers in the long fight against inflation."

Australia will sell Japan $25,600,000 worth of goods in 1948-49, two-thirds of the export to be wool.

Two Men Trapped By Flames Die In Crash

McKINNEY, Aug. 25. (AP)—Two men, trapped by flames, died in a cattle truck which caught fire after it was in collision with two gravel trucks on the Trinity river bridge north of here yesterday.

State Patrolman Leon Roberts identified them as Robert A. McHorse, about 40, and Billy Lefty, about 20, both of San Saba.

One gravel truck, driven by Roy Henry Johnson of Tyler, was towing the other, in which Andrew Wilson was at the wheel. Both trucks were owned by the Monte Del Montel concern of Tyler.

Roberts said all the cattle escaped injury and scattered out through the river bottom.

Three Boys Found Tied Up In Room

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 25. (INS)—Three small boys were found today bound by a clothesline around their necks to a single bed in what police said was filthy downtown Indianapolis house.

Police said the boys, two, four, and six years of age, were suffering from malnutrition.

A welfare worker found the boys in the room on the hottest day of the year in Indianapolis. Police said the room was "stifling."

The boys' mother, Mrs. Virginia Hawks, 28, and her common-law husband, Nathaniel Greene, 42, were arrested by police and held on vagrancy charges. They were out of the house when the boys were found.

Police said John, 6, James, 4, and Sammy, 2, were tied so they had enough freedom to reach a makeshift toilet.

Mrs. Arvenia Green, yin mother of Nathaniel, told police she thought the youngsters were fed last night, but she was not certain. She said they were tied up sometime last week because they disobeyed.

Owners Claim Dog Is A $2,050 Pooch

DENISON, Aug. 25. (AP)—It looked like just another dog, but the animal Denison police shot is rated by its owners as a $2,050 pooch.

At least that's the sum asked by the owners, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar T. Steen, in a suit filed in district court at Sherman against Mayor W. E. Marsico and Patrolmen H. C. Ross and William E. Collins.

The plaintiffs ask $550 actual and $1,500 exemplary damages, claiming that the dog, Mack, could do tricks and was valuable as a watch dog.

Police said the canine overdid his watching and nipped them while they were in the neighborhood on a call.

Irish Premier To Receive Cocktails

OTTAWA, Aug. 25. (AP)—The question was: Should the city of Ottawa serve Irish Prime Minister John A. Costello tea, coffee and cakes at a reception when he visits here next month, or cocktails?

City Controller Grenville Goodwin was on the side of tea, coffee and cakes but other members of the civic board of control voted him down. So, it'll be cocktails at Landsdowne Park Sept. 4.

Acts Of Younger Generation Not Yet Explained By Science

'Teen-Age Cult In America Out Of Control; It's Time For Parents To Rise And Revolt

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON—This is a call to arms for every mama and papa with a 'teen-age offspring:

Now is the time to revolt, comrades, against those bright-eyed, super-charged young darlings who are pushing us oldsters into a corner . . . making us creak before our time.

Anybody who gets misty-eyed in the presence of tender, helpless youth had better wake up to the stern facts of life in the year 1948. Don't let that starry look and fuzzy cheek fool you.

This younger generation is no more like you in your youth than a buzz-saw is like a kitten.

Just the other day the papers carried a story of a 12-year-old child—pardon me, young woman—who returned to Ohio from a hunting trip in the Belgian Congo.

Teen-Agers Closing In

This eighth-grade Diana with nerves of iron had invaded darkest Africa and shot down: two elephants, seven buffalo, five leopards, three hippopotami, two rhinoceroses, four crocodiles, and other wild game too small to mention.

A few weeks ago, an 18-year-old boy from Georgia was in Philadelphia as a delegate to the Democratic national convention.

These two events may appear to be entirely unrelated. But don't be disarmed. The 'teen-agers are losing in on us. And Congress had better investigate.

My own suspicions were aroused when my 16-year-old daughter began: (1) wearing my best shirts; (2) merely tolerating me and my friends; (3) Taking over the lone bathroom as her private dressing room; and (4) Conspiring by telephone with her friends.

The 'teen-agers already have tied up the telephone communications in the nation's residential areas—and there is danger they will spread this paralysis into the business areas, too.

Signs Of Mutation

I have observed my daughter's telephone technique closely. She starts a conversation at the telephone table normally enough. Soon, however, her body is twisted into a pretzel shape. (I guarantee it will shut off both circulation and respiration if you try it. Both feet are entwined in the rungs of the chair while she eats a large cheese, ham, lettuce and tomato sandwich as a pre-supper snack.

(Eating, I find, does not interfere with the steady conversation of the 'teen-ager, a physiological phenomenon which science has not yet explained.)

When I return to the room two hours later, she is stretched on the floor sipping a soft drink, her feet propped against the wall above her head, the telephone cradled on her shoulder.

Other parents confirm this is the usual posture 'teen-agers assume in slowly strangling telephone communications.

Survival Rules Given

While we've been looking the other way, a regular 'teen-ag. cult has grown up — devoted to the beauty, wit, charm, intelligence and emancipation of its own members. It has its own newspaper, radio and magazine propaganda, and doesn't depend on us old folks for counsel and advice.

But before this thing goes too far, comrades, we'd better lay down some rules to protect ourselves:

(1) Mama and papa demand equal rights in the bathroom.

(2) We refuse to be treated like children by our children.

(3) We demand a return of our telephone rights.

(4) We demand our offspring act their age so we can enjoy our own.

(5) Unless these demands are met, we'll reopen the woodshed or a reasonable facsimile.

COLLEGE ROLLS SWELLING

NEW YORK (U.P.)—Registrars of the four city colleges, Hunter, Brooklyn, Queens and City, predict a new high enrollment of 29,150 this fall. Veteran students will be fewer, but the drop will be more than offset by new civilian entrants, it was predicted.

New Students Are Slow In Registering

Registration of Lubbock high school students who have not previously attended Lubbock schools is progressing slowly, due to lack of response on the part of prospective students, High school Principal Floyd Honey reported last night.

Registration for these students opened Monday morning at Honey's office in the high school building and will continue through next week. The registration schedule is Monday through Friday and hours are from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Students who have not attended Lubbock schools must bring their report and book cards with them, Honey said. The book room will not open until next Monday.

The registration is for students in grades 10 through 12.

Recently the government issued the first approval to a jet engine for commercial transport use.

Dust Is Threat To California Valley

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Aug. 25 (U.P.)—The winds this year have been threatening to make a dust bowl of the lower part of the San Joaquin Valley, weather bureau records show

Eleven dust storms were recorded last month—more than were reported during any entire previous year.

E. E. Wilson, chief forecaster, said that the increase was attributed to two causes—extreme dryness, a winter drouth, and large new areas of plowed land.

Abilene Woman Dies In Truck-Car Crash

FORT WORTH, Aug. 25. (AP) — Mrs. Pearl Malone, about 45, of Abilene was fatally injured and three other persons were hurt in a headon truck-car collision two miles west of here late yesterday.

Mrs. Malone, driver of the car, was dead on arrival at a Fort Worth hospital.

Hospital attendants said her daughter, Patsy Jo Anne Malone, 15, was in serious condition.

Richard Prince, 17, of Marshall, Mrs. Malone's nephew, and R. E. Brown, 29, the truck driver, were treated for injuries described as "not serious."

More than 172,000 forest fires occur annually.

THAT LISTLESS, LETDOWN FEELING
Often, it comes from a Borderline Anemia*
When you get up mornings tired and "tuckered out" — when a weary, let-down feeling makes you wonder how you'll drag through the day — it may be because your red blood cells are too small and faded.
Yes, people who look pale and act listless may sometimes suspect a Borderline Anemia, due to a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency. Medical studies show that up to 68% of women—many men and children — have this tiring blood condition.
Weariness and pallor have many causes — always consult your doctor regularly. But if you have this Borderline Anemia, remember: Ironized Yeast Tablets can help you reclaim your vitality and healthy good looks. They are specially formulated to help build up faded and fagged-out blood cells. To feel better — look better — act alert and alive—try IRONIZED YEAST TABLETS!
*Due to a ferro-nutritional blood deficiency, a condition for which Ironized Yeast is specially formulated.

Three Win Vacation At Company Expense

Three of the local staff of State Reserve Life Insurance company's district office here, including C. N. Kennon, manager, have been announced as winners of a vacation trip at company expense.

Other winners were Alvin Griffin and A. L. (Chuck) Hawkins, and all will be privileged to take their families on the company-sponsored trip to Monterrey, Mexica, leaving here Sept 1. The award, for the club year which closed July 31, is for outstanding achievement with the company during the year, the announcement said.

TODAY'S POME

If you wish a man
To think you wise
Praise his opinions
To the skies!

WE sympathize with Lauritz Melchior in his efforts to keep the New York Metropolitan Opera company functioning, despite difficulties with union labor which threaten to keep the "Met" locked up.

We like to see people have all sorts of healthy entertainment. We like to see groups which like opera satisfied, along with groups who like wrestling, baseball and squash.

But Mr. Melchior is in opera, himself, hence his view of the Metropolitan's difficulties is apt to be prejudiced. Certainly, his remarks concerning the Met's troubles indicated prejudice.

Mr. Melchior says the Metropolitan "belongs to the people," and since it "belongs to the people" it long since "should have been subsidized by the federal government."

We can't go along with lusty Lauritz on either of those claims and doubt if many other people will—aside, of course, from those who happen to like opera.

The "Met" does not and never did "belong to the people." It belongs—as it should—to those opera fans whose donations and patronage have kept it functioning in the City of New York.

The "Met" should not be subsidized by the government any more than baseball, prize-fighting, the legitimate stage, the movies, polo, or quoits—whatever "quoits" are, or is.

If opera can't stand on its own hind legs by way of ticket sales and donations—and apparently it cannot—then it ought to fold because it is evident that not enough people are interested in it to support it with their money and presence at performances

THE majority of the people in the U. S. would rather be "beat over the head with a dead rabbit" than have to suffer through what to them is a lot of non-sensical yowling in a language they do not understand.

To force them to pay taxes to keep up the opera, in which they are completely disinterested, would be taxation without representation at its worst.

If it shall become a national policy to subsidize opera for opera fans, there shall begin a vicious circle without ending. For such a policy would lead to subsidization of everything from stamp-collecting, carving boats in bottles and adagio dancing to balancing toothpicks on top of beer bottles.

We aren't hostile to opera—so long as we don't have to attend.

We think it will be fine if the "Met" and the unions work out their difficulties, or if Wagnerian Tenor Lauritz Melchior hits upon some other plan to keep opera going. We think people who want to hear opera should have the opportunity to do so—even if we don't quite understand why.

But to hang the expense of opera on the already sagging shoulders of the American taxpayer is wrong in principle and should not be counterbalanced.

If the opera horse is dead, tax money rammed down its throat won't bring it to life.

SUDDEN Thought: Much more needed than a common world language is some form of communication which would bridge the enormous gulf that exists between most parents and their teen-age children.

For awhile, we thought Henry Wallace was making a monkey of himself. Now we think he's making three monkeys of himself.

That Man on Avenue Q says like gold, truth is rarely found in pure form.

The person who accepts free bread also obligates himself to be led around by the hand that extended the bread.

APPARENTLY seeking to change our mind, a reader, anonymously, has sent us an editorial from "Capper's Weekly," signed by Sen. Arthur Capper, of Kansas, in opposition to compulsory peacetime military training and to military preparedness, in general.

While we appreciate the interest of readers in sending us clippings and other material bearing upon public questions, to us the selection of Senator Capper as a spokesman on our present-day military problems was a poor one.

Senator Capper is an octogenarian, living in the past.

The world and the nation have so passed him by that he finally decided not to seek re-election this year because his best political friends of years standing told him they could no longer support him. They said his period for service in the Senate was past—something which all those who have seen Senator Capper in Washington in recent years already knew.

It is no crime to be old.

It is no crime to be nearing 90. In fact, most of us hope we'll live so long as to some day be nearing 90, ourselves.

But it is pretty generally agreed, we think, that a man deep in his 80's usually cannot adjust himself to rapidly changing times such as these; that in both public and private life the "race is to the swift." Certainly, the nation may not safely look for leadership to those whose best days, mentally and physically, have been gone for years.

THE aged Kansas Republican has had a long and honorable—if not exactly an outstanding—career in the U. S. Senate. From that career we would not detract, even if we could do so.

Further, we give Senator Capper—who was writing editorials long before we were born—the right to his opinions and the right to state them.

But to today's alive Americans—those who know that this is the jet plane era, far removed from the horse and buggy—Senator Capper's views on what we should or should not do to protect ourselves cannot carry much weight.

Better he write about Kansas agricultural problems; how to boil soap in the kitchen, if, indeed anybody every boils soap any more; or the art of blacksmithing in the 1870's.

Daily events prove that we've got to stand up to the Russians before we can ever sit at the peace table with them.

SOMETIMES when our doctor friends are speaking so learnedly between themselves, tossing those jawbreakers around discussing some of the new medicines and injections, we are reminded of the story of the death of King Charles, II, of England.

According to the medical report, handed down to this day the regiment of physicians waiting on the king acted as follows.

"A pint of blood was extracted from his right arm, and a half-pint from his left shoulder, followed by an emetic, two physics and an enema, comprising 15 substances; the royal head was then shaved and a blister raised; then a sneezing powder, more emetics and bleeding, soothing potions, a plaster of pitch and pigeon dung on his feet, potions containing 10 different substances, chiefly herbs, finally 40 drops of extract of human skull, and the application of bezoar stone; after which his majesty died!"

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN: JUSTICE DOUGLAS IS NEARLY KILLED IN TRUCK ACCIDENT

Yank Sergeant Pinches Speeding Russian Officer

(ED. NOTE—While Drew Pearson is on a brief vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen.)

WASHINGTON—Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas had a very close brush with death the other day.

Vacationing in Washington state, the brilliant justice accompanied a friend who was trucking four horses across the Cascade mountains. While ascending a steep canyon road, the rear wheels of the truck suddenly began slipping on loose dirt from a recent slide.

Before the friend and Douglas could do anything about it, the heavy truck had skidded out of control and was hurtling backward wildly. After some distance, the truck finally crashed upside down against some trees, scattering the occupants over the landscape.

Miraculously, neither the men nor the animals were injured.

After he had regained his breath, Douglas punned, "in legal parlance, that's what would be called a 'violent descent' (dissent)."

Eye-Poppers

The preliminary budget estimates submitted by the army and navy for next year are eye-poppers.

The two services are asking for approximately $5,000,000,000 more than the $16,000,000,000 Congress voted them this year. The navy wants over $11,000,000,000 and the army more than $10,000,000,000.

This stupendous $21,000,000,000 total does not include air force estimates. They are still to come and are sure to be not less than $7,000,000,000.

The 1949 budget is already in preparation. It will be submitted to the new Congress in January by President Truman, whether he is re-elected or not. If they win, G. O. P. leaders are privately planning to demand a voice in the preparation of the budget.

IN THE supercharged Berlin atmosphere, Russian speeding is a constant headache to U. S. authorities. Traffic regulations mean little to the Reds, particularly officers. Once in an auto, they know only one speed—wide open.

But they are slowly learning. This is the way they are being taught:

A sergeant and a trooper of the crack U. S. constabulary flagged down a racing Russian colonel. He stopped, but refused to identify himself. The sergeant, courteously, ordered him out of the car. The Russian not only refused, but wound up his windows and locked himself in the car.

"I guess we had better call an officer," the trooper said. "This bird's looking for trouble."

"Officer, hell," snorted the sergeant. "What kind of an army do you think you're in? This is the U. S. army, soldier. I don't need an officer to handle this guy. If he's looking for trouble, I'm the cookie to accommodate him—all legal and proper."

The sergeant sent for a wrecking truck. The front wheels of the Russian's car were jacked up, with him still sitting locked glaring in it, the truck started dragging the car to an M. P. station. Whereupon the enraged Russian started his engine and throwing it into reverse tried to tear himself loose.

He not only had no luck, but by the time he arrived at the station his rear tires had been ground to shreds.

Sheriff Michael F. Costello, Providence, R. I., is a unique enforcement officer.

The husky, ruddy-faced Irishman spends his own money to find living places for evicted families. He has even incurred the ire of a judge for refusing to evict a family until it could find another place to stay.

Costello pays for frequent newspaper "ads" in his search for homes for needy families. One ad was headed, "remember last Sunday's gospel, 'thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself'." The ad listed a number of low-rent residences that Costello had personally found and which he announced were available to distressed families. Another ad urged tenants to pool their resources and "organize community building clubs."

"If we can do something to build the security of the family," Costello says earnestly, "then we will be doing a truly wonderful thing."

MINNESOTA G. O. P. chiefs are strongly pressing Gov. Earl Warren to bring his whole family to the state to give a much-needed hand to Sen. Joe Ball. He faces a tough fight against young, aggressive Mayor Hubert Humphrey of Minneapolis. Newspaper polls have shown him leading Ball.

Republican leaders are laying great emphasis on Warren's bringing his family with him. They feel the Californian's handsome brood of boys and girls will be big vote-getters.

Meanwhile, usually very talky Elmer Benson, Wallaceite chieftain, is being strangely coy about whether he'll enter the hot senatorial fight. With Benson in the race, the advantage would be with Ball. Anti-Wallaceite liberals are making strenuous undercover efforts to dissuade Benson from running.

General MacArthur doesn't know it yet, but he's due to get some political straphangers hand-picked by Harry Vaughan, the president's two-starred, bully-boy military aide.

Vaughan not only designated his cronies for the Jap occupation jobs but rammed them down the throat of the army when it objected. The beefy White House functionary forced the army to accept his friends. He has also planted other cronies in good-paying department posts.

THE 15-YEAR-OLD rift between U. S. oil companies and Mexico may soon be healed. Quiet negotiations are in progress that may again open up Mexico's huge oil resources to U. S. consumers. Both sides are giving every evidence of wanting to come to terms.

The oil companies are frantic for new sources of supply, particularly as handy as Mexico. The Mexican government, in dire financial straits, is equally anxious for new revenues. But it has to tread delicately at home as the ex-appropriation of the once Yankee-owned oil properties is still celebrated as a national holiday.

True Story Of Fiction Yarn And How It Saved One Home

A TRUE Tale of a Fiction Yarn—There were many letters. Every day now brings hundreds. The secretaries had piled them classified—personal, fan, inquiry and—by far the most—press agent.

This one was midway in the grist of the vary-sized and vary-humored ones from readers—praising, scolding, inquiring, suggesting. It asw hand-written, in a woman's chirography. I read:

"Dear Sir—Are you the same Jack Lait who, 23 years ago, was writing fiction-stories which would have been published in this part of the country? If you are I can tell you how one of your short novels saved a woman, a home, a family, perhaps a soul."

It was from a small burg in a mid-Western State. You will see why I cannot identify the writer or the village.

I buzzed for the amanuensis and dictated:

"Dear Madame—I am the same Jack Lait who wrote short stories in the period you mention. I tried to make my fiction interesting, but I rarely found it to be useful. If one of my tales helped a fellow-human I should be proud and happy to have the full details."

* * *

THE mail was heavy again. I did not recognize the handwriting. I just got to it in the course of scanning them all. And here it was: Dear Mr. Lait:

How does one write an author? Stammer and stutter through.

She is blonde—has a good figure—wears tailored clothes also a wedding ring for ten of her thirty-six year. Has a well-appointed home—a daughter—garden—fish pool—and two dogs. The pattern of her days is unvaried as grains on an ear of corn. Husband twenty years her senior—good povider. Uninterested in music, shows, radio, dancing or guests in the home. Off work, a beer—the newspaper and so to bed.

Had known him most of her life—accepted his peculiarities and admired his grit. For more than a year, I had seeen little wisps of discontent rising from her conversation—resentment of deadly monotony—craving for excitement—the little attentions all women adore. This Spring it happened! The big man from the South. All the wolves rolled into one.

But tricks, old and original, clandestine appointments have been kept while my role of "Anthony" has added wrinkles to my heart. One morning she called to say she had definitely decided to leave the old homestead. I told her it was the time for her to read a story. From beneath the paper in a dresser drawer I drew forth a yellowed copy of the Arkansas Democrat, Sunday, September 13th, 1925, one page of which is "Au Revoir," by Jack Lait.

When again she called it was only to say between sobs, "I've read the story—three times."

Later, in my home, the inevitable question: Why had I clung to this tale through the years? Mine but to quote, "There was a gal—a copper-haired, curvaceous gal—whose heart wandered far . . ." She, like you, married to an older man, "hating the parallel lines through which she must walk with discontent, pacing, pacing slowly by her side—met HIM." As she was about to wreck several lives, this story appeared as if the hand of God had touched her shoulder. Verily she was saved from an abyss of "black and brutal treachery"—saved by a writer catering to supply human interest articles.

Whew; "Au Revoir," 1925. Almost 23 years ago. And that one had come as from heaven into Arkansas.

The guy who wrote that piece should be proud of it, should remember it well. But the weird part of this is, I don't recall it at all.

I have written for publication more than 1,500 complete short stories, each with a conclusion, some with a point, seldom with a moral.

Somewhere in a trunk in the basement of a huge apartment house where I sleep and breakfast, I suppose "Au Revoir" reposes, with others. My wife used to put them away. I conjecture she stored that one with the rest. She is in California right now and I'm no hand for going through old trunks.

SO I must accept the blessing of the deed—though I haven't the remotest notion of what it was.

I have the woman's two letters and a copy of my answer to the first in my files. You can understand now why I can't use her name or that of the tiny town from which she wrote. The subject must be some one near and dear to her—a daughter, perhaps, or a close neighbor. If the situation was trembling on the edge I dare not endanger it now by throwing it in the husband's teeth or exposing the tempted wife to others who know her but do not know of her problem.

To the kindly, Christian lady who wrote me of her, and who will read this, I send my thanks for finding in me, a hard-boiled chronicler of American life, an inspiration toward virtue and right, to read as a parable to rescue a wavering wife . . . Again thanks . . . and Au Revoir!

Is It Hot Enough For You?

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

AT a recent conference on women a group of women who consider themselves experts on the the subject came forth with the startling news that the modern postwar husband cooks, minds the baby, cleans, washes and irons almost as much as his wife does.

MILLETT

Just where Mrs. America might ask, is this modern male?

How old is he? And what type of woman has managed to snare him for a mate?

Mrs. America would really like to know. She's not married to him. She thinks she is lucky if her spouse occasionally offers to dry dishes or take over the baby-minding while she is getting a company dinner prepared.

Her husband doesn't mind the baby half of the time he is at home. He certainly doesn't do half the cooking. Why, if she doesn't get up to cook his breakfast, more than likely he grabs a cup of coffee at a counter restaurant.

He wouldn't know how to pitch in and clean a house. And though he may have, in a real emergency, put a bunch of clothes through the electric washer, he has never been seen at an ironing board.

THE "MYSTERY MAN"

AND the same goes for the husbands of her friends. So just what husbands are the "experts" describing when they talk about the postwar male?

The only possible answer is that he is a product of wishful thinking. He is the kind of husband the experts think the modern postwar male ought to be.

"Try And Stop Me"

ILKA CHASE tells of a day Mrs. Teddy Roosevelt, wife of the late general, left New York on a Long Island commuters' special, and arranged for her husband to call for her at the Syosset station. As the train neared Syosset, she suddenly discovered there was no stop scheduled there.

She dashed to the back platform. As the train tootled past the station, she got a hurried glimpse of General Roosevelt standing there, and frantically threw him a note she had scribbled. The general hurried to pick it up. The note was very helpful. It said, "This train does not stop at Syosset."

Devoted Body Of Men Guards West's Mountain Heartlands

McCALL, Idaho—William James, America's great philosopher, wrote about the need of mankind to find a moral equivalent for war. He was speaking of the need to find, in time of peace, some great unifying force that would release all of man's energies or creative goods they are released in war or destruction.

CHILDS

Something approaching that is the United States forest service. If ever I have seen men dedicated to a cause, and faithful and efficent in that dedication, it is in the guardianship of the mountain heartlands of the west which under law rests on this service.

It is a service as decentralized as any government organization could be. Forest supervisors and rangers have a lot of independence and authority. They make the decisions on which the well-being of forest and river and valley depend.

Since it is part of a large bureaucracy, the Department of Agriculture, it has some of the blights of bureaucracy. The red tape, manifested in innumerable records, often seems excessive. Lumbermen and stock growers frequently accuse the service of arbitrary and dictatorial decision.

Would Side With Service

But seeing the vast devastation that has been worked by fire and erosion and the narrow margin of security, I think I would incline to side with the service in any such argument. Without the water from the watersheds which are protected by the forest service, the livelihood of thousands upon thousands of families in the west would disappear. And that would be only the beginning of a chain of consequences fatal to the empire of the west.

From the high protected watersheds, the mountain streams run down into the rivers. The flood water from melting snows in the spring is stored in reservoirs built by the Bureau of Reclamation. Then during the growing season this water is released to farmers in the valleys through an elaborate irrigation system.

It works a magical transformation. Land that supported only sagebrush and sparse grass blooms with rich crops. While the hills are brown and desert-like, the valleys are green and fruitful.

This fruitfulness begins in the smallest rivulet high in the wilderness of the national forests. The precious water must be guarded and guided from the stream bed at eight thousand feet to the irrigation canal in the floor of the valley.

FIRE is the most menacing enemy. The forest service is geared to fight it with modern weapons. Fire jumpers—the paratroopers of peace—are vigorously trained in the technique of parachuting out of planes to put out fires before they can spread.

By radio and telephone from a network of lookouts comes the warning of the first small blaze. It is plotted on the map, a dispatcher sends out a plane and soon the forest service paratroopers are dropping on the fire with equipment to fight it.

Supervisor John T. Mathews of the Payette National Forest, with headquarters in McCall, has a force of 60 smoke jumpers. For these 60 summer jobs he had 482 applications from young men prepared to undergo the stern training and then to drop from a swiftly moving plane in a fire area.

An almost equally menacing enemy is the destruction of soil caused when too many sheep and cattle graze in the mountain meadows. At this point politics of an explosive variety enters in.

Service Has Cooperation

Here in Idaho the Forest Service has had considerable cooperation from ranchers and stockmen. They did not join with livestock associations in Wyoming and Nevada in a move that seemed to have as its ultimate goal the removal of public forests from federal guardianship. The scarcely concealed objective was to turn these lands over to the states and hence, in all probability, to private ownership and exploitation.

But that move backfired. Farmers, sportsmen, and conservationists were quick to see that it threatened everything they valued including the base of permanent development in the whole region. Frightened politicians, who had fallen in with the move, hastily tried to run to cover.

The men of the forest service—the full-time personnel is only about 2500—are dedicated to the concept of a permanent growth of the forest or what remains of it. They are at war with the cut-and-get out loggers who leaves nothing behind; closes down his mill;

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Announcement that Stanolind Oil and Gas Co. has suspended construction after two years of work on a huge synthetic gasoline and chemical plant in Garden City, Kan., might justify serious thinking in many places among many groups. The ordinally estimated $50,000,000 cost has been doubled in two years, Stanolind officials said.

True enough, the suspension may not do any great harm nationally—though it must be a terrific blow to Garden City—if no other construction projects are affected and no others follow this example. But if a considerable number of builders, large and small, who are disturbed by rising costs, should take a similarly drastic step, the result certainly would be serious in terms of employment and builders' supplies sales.

Perhaps great alarm is not justified at this time. But the possibility remains disturbing that Stanolind's action could be the first turning of the worm in a paralyzing protest of skyrocketing building costs.

bitry. He later restocked, but in the meantime the South Plains Rabbit and Cavy Breeders association had conducted a rabbit show at the Panhandle-South Plains fair for the first time. Plans are being made for another show this year.

He does not raise rabbits for show purposes, but "I've sent a few around now and then to try to keep up and see what I have," he said. "I always place. My purpose is not show stock. My purpose is raising good breeding stock." He has exhibited at Houston, Dallas, Indianapolis, Ind., and Roswell, Portales and Lovington, N. M., and at table shows of the South Plains Rabbit and Cavy Breeders association.

He calls his rabbitry the South Plains rabbit ranch. An ear of each of his registered rabbits is marked with the letters S. P., for South Plains, and the number of the rabbit. Before eligible to be registered, one of his rabbits must meet various specifications. Each must represent at least three generations of pedigrees. Ears must be less than 5½ inches long, weight not over 12 pounds or under 10, and other specifications must be met. They must have no defects. "They can't even have a colored toe nail," said Trow.

He formerly owned a grand champion buck rabbit, which he had not raised but had bought after it won a grand championship at Binghamton, N. Y. To be a grand champion, a rabbit must be placed first in three official shows by two judges recognized by the national association.

He said McCarthy had done a good job. Both he and his father, Jake, agreed that Joe was one of the best hired hands they ever had.

"It was a fine thing for him to do. I wish more of these high officials in Washington would do something like that once and see our problems at first hand—such as the difficulty of getting parts and getting our grain moved away."

grazing. Some supplemental feeding was being done in a few central and southern counties. In these parts of the state and in east Texas, there was some continued shrinkage of stock where grasses were short and dry. Stock water was still adequate over most of the state but was becoming short in a few localities in central and east Texas.

Hem Of Handkerchief Is Used By Wife In Landing Big Bass

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25.—The rod, reel, hook, line and sinker folks who sell fishin' tackle may not like his story.

But it's proof, of a sort, that some people can match the entree for supper without a lot of expensive, feathered tackle.

This is a story, mostly, about a lovely brunette named Frances Clunet, who snared a toothsome fish with the hem of a handkerchief. But we're getting ahead of our story.

Victor Clunet, Fran's hubby, is a district manager of the Phelps Dodge Copper Products corp. He called the other afternoon and said he was sick and tired of looking at reports of copper sales, and let's go fishing. His private lake in Virginia is almost within casting distance of humidity-wet Washington. Frances, Vic and I put out in a skiff.

Threads His Line

"I know doggone well there are fish in this lake," Vic said as he threaded his line through the jeweled trappings of a $225 rod. "I put 'em in here. Trouble is, I feed 'em too well. They're never hungry for this high-priced phony bait."

The host tied a $2 river runt sinker to his line. He cast the black and white thing with three hooks on the end and it slid through the water, making a poor immitation of a little fish.

All of a sudden, Vic's hand jerked. He had a bite. He reeled like mad as his rod doubled and then snapped back to normal and the raveled end of the line showed up. His bait was gone.

Next, he pulled a cork popper, so-called, out of his bait box. It was a $1.25 gimmick consisting of a round cork worth about a nickel on the open market and with a long, ugly looking hook strung through the middle. The fisherman pitched it out half a dozen times and finally got a strike. He started giving his $95 reel the come-back-to-daddy works and wound up with a hook, but no cork—and no fish.

"For heavens sake, clumsy," said Frances, giving her helpmate a wifely sneer. "Give me your handkerchief."

Vic, fearing his delicate little woman was about to come down with a spell of sneezes as is her habit in August, whipped it out.

Wife Prepares Hook

Fran calmly took a pair of shears, cut about four inches off the hem of the handkerchief, spiked it into the hook her bossman had reeled in, and flipped the business into the drink. She tried the home-made lure four or five times and the 'kerchief part wriggled just like a minnow but looked more like a pork rind. On the next pitch, there was a violent pull on Fran's line. This was followed by a five-minute battle between lady and fish.

The gal won. Vic, who spends $100 a year for bait and fancy tackle, looked a little foolish as she hauled a five-pound, large-mouth black bass into the skiff.

Fran and I thought it tasted fine. Vic wasn't very hungry.

Lady of the Woods, the only lava rock sculpture in the west, was carved by a lonely Army engineer years ago when the federal government was building the first auto roads in Crater Lake National Park, Ore.
