Justice Department probes House scandal

■ Special counsel is conducting criminal inquiry into collapsed bank.

By David Johnston
N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — In an action that could lead to yet another round of battles over the House bank, the Justice Department has subpoenaed all financial records of every House member's transactions there for a 39-month period from 1988 to 1991.

The subpoenas were first disclosed in a letter that Speaker Thomas S. Foley of Washington State sent to his House colleagues Friday.

Foley did not indicate whether the House leadership would comply with the subpoenas, which were issued on Tuesday.

But the speaker, disclosing a series of private meetings between House leaders and Justice Department officials, said he had rejected an informal request for most of the same records by Malcolm R. Wilkey, the special counsel who is conducting the department's preliminary criminal inquiry into the bank.

"I could not in conscience comply with the sweeping and unprecedented scope of his documentary request," Foley wrote of the informal request for documents, including those of 170 lawmakers who never overdrew on their House checking accounts.

Foley's letter, faxed to many lawmakers who were in their districts Friday for the spring recess, said he had been unwilling to voluntarily turn over the records because House rules required consultation with other lawmakers before doing so.

The speaker said Wilkey, a retired federal appeals court judge, had proposed conducting his investigation as an "open-ended and undefined inquiry into the general financial activities of all members of the House of Representatives."

Foley's letter, hinting that the lawmakers might want to fight the subpoenas, seemed to be a holding action until the House reconvenes Tuesday, two days before the date for compliance with the demand for documents.

Upon the lawmakers' return, Foley said, he will seek advice from Democratic and Republican leaders about how to respond to the Justice Department.

Still, Foley's unwillingness to turn over the records voluntarily seemed virtually certain to ignite a still

Bush honors Midlander's volunteerism

Hearst News Service

WASHINGTON — Bobby Trimble of Midland whose "Christmas in April" helps to repair the homes of people who cannot do so for themselves, has been recognized by President Bush as his 755th daily "point of light," the White House announced Friday.

Trimble, 62, "is committed to making sure that everyone in his community has a decent place to live," a statement issued by White House Press secretary Marlin Fitzwater said.

Appropriately, today is the official work day for Christmas in April in Midland.

The "point of light" program is an outgrowth of Bush's speech to the 1988 Republican National Convention in New Orleans in which he praised volunteerism across the country as "1,000 points of light." The White House selects a worthy program six days a week for presidential commendation.

Kraft Foods recalls 4 ice cream brands

Staff report

Several brands of chocolate ice cream sold in the Western states, including Texas and New Mexico, may contain a peanut protein that could trigger a fatal allergy and should not be eaten by anyone allergic to peanuts, an industry official said.

A peanut product containing the protein may have been inadvertently added to the ice cream batches, which are being recalled by Kraft General Foods, company spokeswoman Linda Eatherton said.

Symptoms include swelling in the mouth or throat, followed by hives. But reports said those not allergic to peanuts could eat the ice cream safely.

The ice cream is sold under the brands Knudsen, Stater Bros., Stater Bros. Deluxe, and Breyers. The recall also includes Knudsen Nice 'n Light ice milk. Kraft also produces some Albertsons

Big bang discovery may link traditional foes

By David Briggs
Associated Press writer

■ Analysis

The momentous findings supporting the "big bang" theory of creation provide a common ground for two old antagonists — religion and science — in the eternal debate over whether the universe is the work of a majestic guiding hand.

The discovery, indicating that an explosive birth billions of years ago led to today's expanding cosmos of stars and galaxies, reinforce religious themes that order was created out of chaos by divine intervention, some scientists and theologians say.

"Christian cosmology and the big bang are very compatible understandings of the arrow of time," the Rev. Frederic B. Burnham, a science historian and director of the Trinity Institute in New York City, said Friday. "There was a beginning and there will be an end."

Astronomers announced Thursday they had discovered distant, wispy clouds or ripples of matter that indicate how matter that was uniformly spread

Bunton issues judgment in Williams crash lawsuit

By Michael Kashgarian
Staff writer

Mitsubishi Heavy Industries has been ordered to pay Williams Aviation Co. $307,768 or 68 percent of the value of a plane that crashed on Valentine's Day 1990 near Putnam, U.S. District Judge Lucius Bunton III ruled Friday.

The remaining cost of the 1980 Mitsubishi MU-2 turboprop — $144,832 — will be paid by Clayton Williams Jr., owner of Williams Aviation, Bunton ruled.

The judge's decision reflects that of a seven-person jury which heard testimony earlier this month.

Jurors determined that the aircraft was flawed in design and unfit to fly in icy conditions and as a result Mitsubishi was 68 percent at fault for the crash that killed all five on board.

In addition, pilot error amounted to 32 percent of the cause of

RULING: Judge issues decision

(From 1A)

the crash, jurors concluded.

Value of the aircraft was assessed at $452,600. Williams Aviation sued Mitsubishi to recover costs of the aircraft. Wrongful death suits filed by families of those killed are currently pending in the 193rd District Court in Dallas.

During the trial at the federal courthouse in Midland, Mitsubishi maintained the crash was entirely pilot error while Williams Aviation argued the defendant was negligent in the manufacture, design and lack of testing of a deicing system that ultimately contributed to the crash.

Jurors concluded that the aircraft was flawed in design but not in its manufacture or marketing and was fit to fly, but not in icy conditions.

Jurors were not asked to determine why pilot error contributed to the crash, if theyconcluded that it did. But defense testimony indicated that the pilot, Kenneth Mardis, 51, had a .05 blood-alcohol level and may have been drinking the night before the early morning flight.

A probable cause report released in Sept. 1991 by the National Transportation Safety Board indicated the crash was the result of "improper planning/decision by the pilot." That report was not admissible at the trial.

Lubbock woman injured in wreck

Staff report

A 64-year-old Lubbock woman remained in undetermined condition at Odessa Medical Center late Friday after the car she was in overturned several times just north of Odessa on Highway 385 earlier that day, according to the Department of Public Safety.

The woman, Mary Poteet, was a passenger in a 1991 Chevrolet Suburban driven by her husband, Freddy Poteet.

Poteet, traveling northbound, was towing a trailer that began to sway because of the wind. As a result Poteet lost control of his car, which went off the pavement and overturned several times.

The wind and a slick substance on the roadway contributed to the accident, officials said.

PROBE: Justice official seeks bank records

(From 1A)

hotter debate over the bank, despite the speaker's assertion last week that the release of the names of 252 current members and 51 former lawmakers who had overdrawn on their accounts had brought the issue to a close.

A spokesman for the Justice Department declined to comment on the subpoenas Friday. But in a letter to Foley that accompanied the subpoenas, Wilkey said he wanted access to the microfilmed bank records because "nothing less than a complete look at the records — with reference to the criminal law — will satisfy the American people."

Wilkey said that "it would be impossible to obtain an accurate picture of the bank's overall operations without full access to its records."

Wilkey said lawmakers themselves had spoken of "gross irregularities" at the bank. Noting that it was closed last December, he said that "customarily when a bank is closed because of such allegations, investigators have access to the complete records."

Justice Department officials have declined to specify what possible violations are under scrutiny, and no allegations have been made against any member.

But criminal defense lawyers and tax experts said the inquiry is likely to center on whether any lawmakers who used the bank engaged in tax evasion or fraud or violated campaign finance laws.

The fight over the records appeared to thrust lawmakers, already in a fever of anxiety over the political repercussions of their banking practices, into the unwelcome posture of trying to thwart federal officials investigating whether there was criminal wrongdoing at the bank.

At the same time, Foley expressed the fear that a Republican administration might be exploiting the political furor over the bank in the Democratically-controlled House for partisan advantage in an election year.

He said he had told Attorney General William P. Barr and Wilkey that he hoped the investigation "would respect the most basic principles governing the relationship between two co-equal branches of government — particularly where each branch is controlled by a different political party and the inquiry will be conducted during a presidential election year."

A legal battle over the subpoenaed bank documents pits the Justice Department, an executive branch agency, against the legislative branch in a potentially high-stakes constitutional battle.

At issue is the separation of powers, including the unsettled question of how far one branch, the Justice Department, may go in examining the activities of another, in this case Congress.

"A possible concern under separation of powers is when you have the attorney general sitting as a general inquisitor on the financial affairs of the entire House of Representatives," said Steven R. Ross, the House counsel.

Foley's letter suggested that other legal issues are in play. One is whether prosecutors can demand House records in a wide-ranging investigation of the lawmakers' transactions at the bank when there has not been a specific allegation of criminal wrongdoing by a member.

The letter also cited the lawmakers' rights under the Right to Financial Privacy Act, which permits bank customers to seek to quash government subpoenas issued to financial institutions if they can show that the material is not relevant to an investigation.

Foley appeared somewhat exasperated, saying that the Justice Department acted "precipitously" by issuing the subpoenas when Congress was not in session. He said the subpoenas were "unhelpful" in resolving the issue of the House bank management.

He emphasized the breadth of the subpoenas, which seek the microfilm and microfiche records of all banking transactions over the 39-month period examined by the House ethics committee in its examination of the bank.

The subpoenas ask for every check, deposit slip and monthly statement recorded by the bank.

Rep. Bob Michel of Illinois, the House Republican leader, said in a separate letter sent to lawmakers Friday said Wilkey should be given records of all lawmakers who overdrew their accounts.

The records sought by Wilkey include every check written by all users of the bank, without regard to whether they overdrew their accounts, said Foley, including "employees, members of the press, members' spouses, and even some members of the public."

There were two identical subpoenas. One was served on Rep. Matthew McHugh, Democrat of New York and chairman of the House ethics committee, which has custody of the bank's documents.

The second was served on Werner W. Brandt, the House sergeant-at-arms, the officer who usually receives such demands for House records.

Wilkey said in his letter that he told the House leaders at the meeting he needed all 41 rolls of microfilm and microfiche because they are not separated by lawmaker and list the transactions of the bank in chronological order.

Wilkey said he told the House officials that the data on the 170 members who had not written any overdrafts would be returned to the ethics committee as soon as it was separated from the records of lawmakers who had overdrawn their accounts.

AIDS: Dolph warns audience of HIV hazards

(From 1A)

And like many other college-age youngsters, Ms. Dolph isn't sure what she wants to do with her life, but maybe something in the public health field.

"I think of myself as average," she said.

There is something special about Ms. Dolph, though.

And sometimes when talking to youngsters, she keeps that a secret — for about a half hour.

"If I told them at first, they would not listen to the basics," she said.

"At the end, I tell them I'm HIV positive," said Ms. Dolph, who often lectures to youngsters about AIDS.

Ms. Dolph contracted the AIDS-causing human immuno-deficiency virus from her then-boyfriend during her senior year in high school. He was her second sexual partner and no one had told her about being at risk of getting the disease.

Today, she's telling others what she never learned.

"That everybody's at risk. The problem is still that it hasn't got in everyone's head," said Ms. Dolph, who has talked about the disease on several nationally televised programs.

A juvenile outreach coordinator for the AIDS Foundation in Houston, Ms. Dolph spoke about the disease Friday evening to Midland youngsters who have completed a sexuality class by CLER Ministries.

Ms. Dolph said she temporarily refrains from revealing her condition so as not to distract her audience and to let them know she is a normal person. Otherwise, youngsters are more interested in how and when and where she contracted the virus.

On a personal level, Ms. Dolph said she tries to think positive and doesn't worry about developing AIDS.

"The worse thing is knowing I'm not going to have 50 years to look forward to," she said.

Another thing about having the virus that bothers Ms. Dolph comes from a misconception about the disease.

"That it means a bad person. That you did something wrong instead of being a victim. I can't stand that."

PEANUT: Kraft recalls several ice cream varieties

brand ice cream, but none is distributed locally, the company said in an internal memo made available to the Reporter-Telegram.

Local grocery stores that stock the brands reported checking their shelves for the recalled ice cream.

Spokespersons for Furr's Supermarkets and M Systems Food Stores said Midland stores would remove particular dates of Breyer's ice cream, the only affected brand reported stocked by the two chains. Flavors with the peanut protein include chocolate, chocolate chip and vanilla, said Jack Brannock, grocery merchandising director for Furr's Corp. in Albuquerque, N.M.

"There may not even be any of those particular code dates out there," Brannock said Friday. "I haven't heard about any yet."

According to the Albertson's memo, only Breyer's brand chocolate flavored items including neapolitan, chunky chocolate and rocky road are affected.

"Generally, we'll take it off the shelves until we get word from Kraft," said Baugh Lewis, president of M Systems. "We're working on that right now."

Kraft issued the recall Wednesday after engineers discovered the possible mixup.

The recall should be complete by May 15. Consumers with questions can call toll-free 800-551-0190.

Teaching mostly men from a congregation that included a number of elderly widows, he saw the opportunity to put the men's talents to use helping the widows maintain their homes. The main workday is a Saturday in April each year, but Trimble works year-round to secure materials needed for the maintenance and to help with emergency repairs.

The Midland chapter of "Christmas in April" has 3,000 volunteers who repair over 250 homes each year with support from corporations, civic organizations, foundations and religious work.

In 1988, the program established a national headquarters. There are now "Christmas in April" chapters in 210 cities in 28 states that help mobilize volunteers to repair the homes of people who are physically or financially unable to do so.

The White House said that Trimble was being saluted by Bush for exemplifying his belief that, "From now on in America, any definition of a successful life must include serving others."

New sewer chief blames blast on gasoline spill

Associated Press

GUADALAJARA, Mexico — The new head of Guadalajara's sewer system said Friday that a gasoline spill appeared to have caused the massive sewer line explosions that killed at least 181 people.

"Gasoline apparently is the origin of the problem," Jose Luis Macias said in an interview carried on local radio stations.

The body of latest victim, a 9-year-old boy, was pulled from the debris as his father watched Friday afternoon.

Employees of Pemex, the state oil company, found a leaky pipeline leading to a storage plant in the city on Thursday. But the company said Friday that spill was unrelated to the blast.

"The review Pemex has made ... indicates that no Pemex installations had a leak before the explosions," said Ricardo Franco Quiroz, Pemex spokesman in Guadalajara. Leaks found by work crews were "caused by damage to the pipes as a result of the explosion," he said.

Immediately after Wednesday's explosions, Pemex issued a statement saying they were caused by an explosive industrial solvent from La Central cooking-oil factory. La Central has denied responsibility.

If the investigation determined Pemex is to blame, high-level federal and state officials could be fired.

Residents of Guadalajara's Reforma district were up in arms over the government's failure to respond to their complaints of gas leaks before the explosion, and the government has promised a prompt investigation.

President Carlos Salinas de Gortari ordered Attorney General Ignacio Morales Lechuga to pinpoint blame for the disaster by Sunday, and investigators questioned officials through the night and into the early hours Friday.

Guadalajara Mayor Enrique Dau Flores and Macias' predecessor, Gualberto Limon, announced Thursday night they would step down temporarily.

The city council granted Dau Flores' request for a leave of absence during the investigation. About 400 onlookers — most of them supporters of the mayor — chanted "No, no, no!" but became quiet after a council member called for a moment of silence for the dead.

In the ruined district, civilians and soldiers, wearing face masks against dust and possible infection, stood shoulder to shoulder passing plastic buckets of debris out of the ruins.

Pennzoil opens negotiations to develop Azerbaijan oil field

By Anne Pearson
Hearst News Service

HOUSTON — Pennzoil Co. is negotiating to develop a second field in the former Soviet Union, a project that could be the company's biggest to date.

Pennzoil President James L. Pate told shareholders Thursday during Pennzoil's annual meeting that the company is holding preliminary talks with the government of Azerbaijan to develop the Guneschli field.

The field, about 30 miles offshore in the southern Caspian Sea, holds an estimated 600 million to 700 million barrels of recoverable reserves, Pate said in an interview after the meeting.

"We think it's a real good opportunity," Pate said. "If we get this done, it would be Pennzoil's biggest field."

Pate said a potential United Kingdom-based partner — which he refused to identify — has the rights to conduct a feasibility study of the field.

"We expect to have the study done by June," Pate said. "We should have a better handle on it at that time."

He added that another study is being conducted of whether there are pipelines able to carry the oil from the field.

It is too early to say how much it would cost to fully develop the field, he said. He also declined to say how many partners might be involved in the project and what percentage Pennzoil might take.

The aim is to minimize upfront capital outlays by first trying to increase production from existing wells. That would provide cash to develop the rest of the fields, he said.

Pate said about one-third of the field already has been developed; it currently is producing about 160,000 barrels a day.

Pate said the development would be a fairly simple job. "This isn't stretching the limits of technology," he said. The field lies in water depths of 300 to 600 feet, and the existing wells are roughly 9,000 feet deep.

The proposed project in Azerbaijan and another already underway in Western Siberia are the first major steps in Pennzoil's recent shift toward international exploration and development.

"Things are tough in the oil industry," Pate said. "You can either sit around and hold your breath, or you can try to find windows of opportunity and capitalize on change."

Results from Pennzoil's first appraisal well drilled in the Tyumen region of Western Siberia look very good, Pate said.

"There's more pay than we anticipated, and we're preparing to drill our second well," he said.

The Siberian project, called the West Mogotlorsk field, has reserves of about 45 million barrels. It should produce as much as 15,000 barrels a day at its peak, he estimated.

Turning to domestic issues, Pate said Pennzoil recently completed a review of its assets and may consider selling some non-core holdings "when market conditions make that possible." There are no immediate plans for a massive company restructuring, however, Pate said.

"We're not in a position where we've got to sell assets," he added.

LINK: Science, religion may find common ground

(From 1A)

out in the newborn universe may have started clumping together to produce stars.

That the announcement was greeted with Christian equanimity is indicative of the new state in the relationship between religion and science.

Many Americans still believe strongly in a traditional biblically based creation. In a 1991 Gallup Poll, 47 percent of respondents said God created man pretty much in his present form at one time within the last 10,000 years, while 40 percent said man has developed over millions of years, but God guided this process. Only 9 percent said man evolved without God, while 4 percent had no opinion.

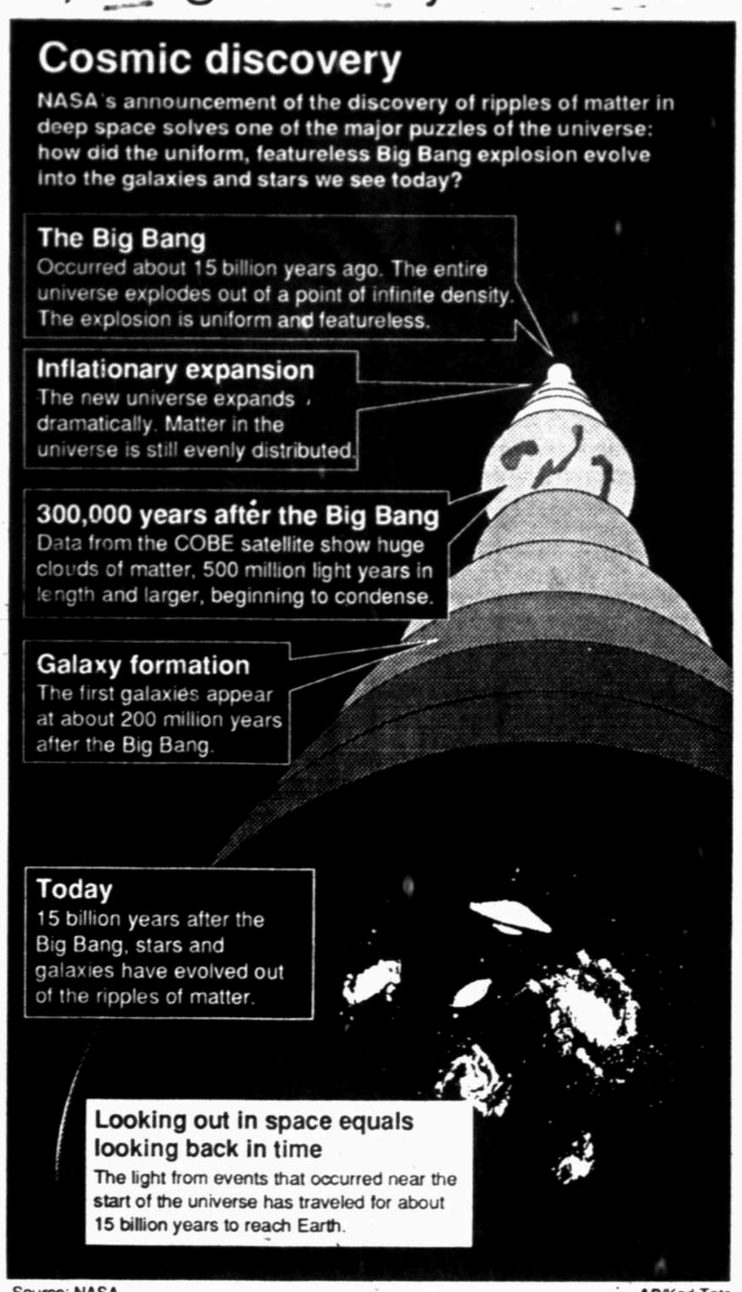

Few minds will be changed by the latest discoveries, said Hershel Shanks, editor of Moment, a magazine of Jewish culture and opinion.

"The importance of the biblical story stands on its own regardless of the scientific facts of the origin of the universe," Shanks said.

On a more formal level, relations between religion and science have improved. Advances in biblical scholarship have for some discredited literal interpretations of the Genesis account that the world was created in a week. And some scientists have concluded that the first moment of creation is beyond the domain of science.

Centers for the study of science and religion were established at prominent universities in the 1980s. In December 1987, the Lutheran Church in America and the Lutheran World Federation sponsored a conference for scientists and theologians at Cyprus. Since that conference, an Ecumenical Roundtable for Science and Technology has been meeting yearly in the United States, Burnham said.

In making Thursday's announcement, research team leader George Smoot, an astrophysicist at Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory and the University of California, Berkeley, said: "If you're religious, it's like looking at God."

Many scientists would consider the idea that God created the universe "a more respectable hypothesis at this point in time than at any time in the last 100 years," Burnham said.

Religious views of the big bang theory are varied.

Henry Morris, president of the Institute for Creation Research in Santee, Calif., said it was too early to evaluate the new findings. The conservative institute holds that the weight of scientific evidence supports the biblical record that the world was created in six days sometime within the last 10,000 years.

The Rev. Stanley L. Jaki, a scholar in theology and physics at Seton Hall University who won the 1987 Templeton Prize for Progress in Religion, said Friday that establishing the first moment of existence is a matter of philosophy and theology since it can never be established by science.

"To me, it's absolutely irrelevant whether the big bang stays or doesn't stay," he said.

But Burnham said many theologians will find having another confirmation of the big bang theory to be very compatible with the belief that God created the universe out of pre-existent chaos.

"Both the contemporary scientific account and the age-old biblical account assume a beginning," Harvard astronomer Owen Gingerich told a 1990 colloquy on origins at the Episcopal Church's Washington National Cathedral.

"And its essential framework, of everything springing forth from that blinding flash, bears a striking resonance with those succinct words of Genesis 1:3: 'And God said, Let there be light.' "

John Mather, NASA's chief scientist for the Cosmic Background Explorer spacecraft, which made the discovery, said Thursday he would encourage even creationists who do not believe in the big bang to see the scientific pursuits in a less hostile light.

"This is the universe that God gave us to look at, and we might as well find out what it is and how it works," Mather said.

Texaco makes first donation to Museum of the Southwest

Staff report

Texaco USA is the first company to make a pledge to the Museum of the Southwest's 1992 fund-raising campaign.

Charles Spence, campaign chairman, said Texaco's $5,000 is for sponsorship of an upcoming exhibition.

Charles Rentz, public and government affairs manager of Texaco's Midcontinent Region, said he hoped other companies and businesses would be encouraged to follow in contributing to the museum during the drive for operating funds.

Exhibition sponsorship is one of the ways support can be given. Texaco's exhibition choice, to be announced later, is likely to be one of the Southwestern Artists Series the museum has been developing, said a release from Enid Davis, the museum's administrative assistant.

Texaco previously sponsored the John James Audubom "Birds of America" exhibition and Marian Blakemore Planetarium programs.

Other sponsorship opportunities include Summer Sundays Lawn Concerts, Museum School and planetarium programs.

Campaign '92 continues through April. Approximately 30 participants including museum trustees and community leaders are assisting in the drive to contact 500 businesses and individuals to raise $350,000.

An Abell-Hanger Foundation matching grant will give $50,000 to the museum if $100,000 is raised in new or increased dollar support, the release said.

A benefit to those who give as little as $250 is use of the museum facilities for a company function, reception, employee party, dinner, or family event such as an Easter egg hunt or picnic.

"Two hundred and fifty dollars entitles the donor to one use of the facility," Mrs. Davis said.

For information about participating in Campaign '92, call Susan Zellars, campaign manager, at the museum, 683-2882 or 570-7770.

District, county clerks meet for spring training

Staff report

District and county clerks from 23 West Texas counties attended the Area III 1992 Spring meeting of the Texas County and District Clerks Association on Friday in the Midland County Courthouse, according to Midland County Clerk Rosenelle Cherry.

Attendance at this and similar regular meetings on judicial matters is required for clerks to obtain and maintain judiciary-related certification.

"I don't think they can do anything to you (as an elected official) if you don't get certified," Ms. Cherry said, "but I don't know of any" clerks who don't maintain certification.

Sessions included those on new criminal justice laws by John Jordan of the Texas Department of Public Safety in Austin; on legal research by Midland County Attorney Mark H. Dettman; a drug-sniffing-dog demonstration conducted by Glenda Cummings of Sweetwater, and sessions on district clerks by Tom Green County District Clerk Sue Bramhall of San Angelo and on county clerks by Howard County Clerk Margaret Ray of Big Spring.

Midland lawyer-humorist Mary Lou Cassidy gave a book review for the clerks at the luncheon in the Midland Hilton.

The association's Area III takes in 30 counties from El Paso on the west to Taylor on the east and from Andrews on the north to Brewster on the south.

Islamic guerrillas control much of Kabul, rebels say

By Edward A. Gargan
N.Y. Times News Service

KABUL, Afghanistan — Thousands of Islamic guerrillas from six major rebel groups have entered Kabul and firmly control many of the city's sprawling neighborhoods, government and rebel leaders said Friday.

Afghanistan's disintegrating government now holds sway over only the center of the capital.

Rebel groups have moved swiftly throughout poorer neighborhoods, setting up offices, establishing street patrols and manning checkpoints on city streets.

Unchallenged, young guerrillas stroll along potholed streets, past shops and houses, brandishing assault rifles, light machine guns and shoulder-fired rockets with the panache of small-town heroes.

It now seems that it can be only a day or so before the rest of the city succumbs to the growing influx of rebel forces and before a government led by the "mujahedeen," or holy warriors, as they call themselves, is established in Kabul.

What still remains murky, though, is what the composition of that government will ultimately be.

In Pakistan, leaders of six Afghan rebel groups announced the formation of an interim council and said it would take over from the government in Kabul within days.

Farid Mazdakh, the leading figure in the Watan, or Homeland Party, council, which now runs what is left of the Afghan government, said Friday night that it would only be two or three days before a "mujahedeen government" would be in place in Kabul.

At the same time, however, there were signs Friday of frantic plotting for a last-minute coup.

Across Kabul, jeeps filled with army officers sped through the capital's rutted, empty streets, some darting into government compounds, others into military garrisons.

Colombia falls out of touch as workers cut phone links

BOGOTA, COLOMBIA (AP) — Striking telephone workers have shut down all domestic communications and phone links to the rest of the world from this South American nation, which already was suffering from electricity shortages.

Workers jammed the central computers Wednesday night, severing telephone lines between Colombian cities. Financial, commercial and news gathering organizations were virtually paralyzed.

The workers were protesting a government plan to privatize Colombia's telephone company, Telecom. The 14,000 Telecom employees fear losing their jobs if the government gives up its monopoly on telephone communications. Authorities declared the strike illegal and vowed to arrest the organizers.

The strike comes at an especially bad time for the nation of 32 million. For the past month, federal authorities have been rationing electricity because of a shortage of hydroelectric power blamed on mismanagement and a prolonged dry season.

About 200 soldiers and police in anti-riot gear broke into the Telecom Building through a window late Wednesday and forced the workers to leave. Outside, thousands of Telecom employees shouted anti-government slogans.

The government sent Colombian and foreign technicians inside to repair the computer system, but by Friday the lines still had not been restored.

Labor leaders promised to keep up the strike until the government withdraws its privatization proposal submitted to Congress.

The RCN and Caracol radio networks broadcast private messages. They alerted people to deaths in the family, issued urgent pleas for medicine, announced cancellation of wedding plans.

Communications Minister Mauricio Vargas castigated workers for sabotaging the telephone network during the energy crisis, when electricity is restricted to eight to 10 hours a day throughout Colombia.

"It a crime to take advantage of the rationing in order to leave the country incommunicado," Vargas told reporters.

He called the strike "pure blackmail."

Officials say placing Telecom in private hands will bring modernization and greater efficiency.

Telecom president Francisco Navarro told reporters the strike was costing the company $2 million daily.

Importers and exporters, unable to call abroad, were hard hit.

"We're not only losing sales. We're losing clients," said Javier Diaz, president of the National Exporters' Association. He spoke on the 24 Hours TV news program.

Fresh coup rumors abound in Philippines

By Robert H. Reid
Associated Press writer

MANILA, Philippines — President Corazon Aquino's government was born in a military mutiny and shaken by repeated coup attempts. Now, fresh coup rumors abound as her administration draws to a close.

Since last week, Manila's media have been filled with reports that various groups from military rebels to disgruntled candidates are conspiring to seize power before or after the May 11 national elections.

Coup rumors have frequently swept Manila since Mrs. Aquino took office in a 1986 popular uprising, touched off by a military coup attempt against the late President Ferdinand Marcos.

Disgruntled soldiers have mutinied against the government seven times, most recently in October 1990.

Last Saturday, well-informed sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said the presidential staff went on "red alert." It was unclear whether it was a training exercise or preparations for a coup that never came.

The capital has been so jumpy that radio stations interrupted their programming Wednesday to report that the Cable News Network had flashed a report in the United States that a coup was in progress — in the Philippines.

CNN's Manila bureau said no such report had been broadcast, and no one ever figured out the source of the rumor.

Mrs. Aquino's staff has inadvertently fueled the rumors. On Thursday, reporters submitted a written question to the president asking if there was any truth to the rumors the military had uncovered a plot.

The press secretary's office then released a statement, attributed to Mrs. Aquino, that said simply: "The fact that the military has already uncovered the plot is the best assurance that the coup will not take place."

Does that mean the president is confirming a plot, reporters asked? Press Secretary Horacio Paredes insisted it did not. Nonetheless, several newspapers reported Friday the administration had "confirmed" a conspiracy.

The rumors generally follow two scenarios. According to one version, idealistic soldiers have concluded the upcoming election will be so ridden with fraud that they will strike, either just before or just after the balloting.

Another version contends the administration itself, in connivance with the armed forces and Mrs. Aquino's own candidate, former Defense Secretary Fidel Ramos, will try to prevent the election for fear they will lose.

That claim was made Friday by Brig. Gen. Edgardo Abenina, who faces charges in connection with coup attempts in 1987 and 1989.

"In my view, it appears that they are preparing for something," Abenina said on TV. "The armed forces, the police and this government are using this to cover up their plot because the candidate of this administration is very weak," meaning Ramos.

Ramos' staff denies such a plot and say surveys show their candidate tied for the lead in the seven-member field, which includes Marcos' widow, Imelda.

Alex Magno, a political science professor, dismissed the coup talk as rumors generated by a society unused to the peaceful transfer of power.

Rights officials claim Saddam poisoned men

LONDON (AP) — Two opponents of Saddam Hussein are being treated for thallium poisoning, London's Guy's Hospital said Friday. Opposition and rights officials said it appeared they had been poisoned by Iraqi security agents.

The hospital said Abdallah Abdelatif and Abdel Karim al-Masdiwi, former Iraqi military officials, were "stable and in good spirits, although physically weak," after arriving in Britain Thursday night for tests.

The London-based Campaign for a Free Iraq said in a statement that thallium is often used by Iraqi security forces to slowly kill Saddam's opponents.

"Those men are lucky to be here," said an Iraqi physician, Dr. Mohammed Alrubeai. He described thallium as "a standard method for the poisoning of opposition."

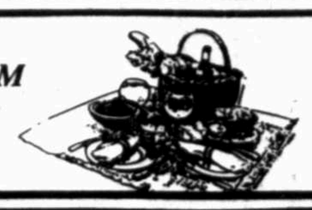

Dr. Najid Alyassiri of the Iraqi Opposition Committee told British Broadcasting Corp. television the men were "leading members of the Iraqi opposition; they have been targeted by Saddam Hussein's security agents for quite some time because they have been involved in anti-Saddam activities."

The British Foreign Office said the British Embassy in Damascus issued the two men emergency visas when they arrived in Syria after being freed from prison in Iraq.

Thallium is absorbed by fatty tissue in the body and causes nerve deterioration, hair loss and kidney failure.

In New York, Middle East Watch cited Iraqi dissidents in London as saying that Saddam's elder son, Qusai, warned the two men a month before they were poisoned that they should cease their activities and leave Iraq.

Missionary fires faxes to North Korea

PARIS (AP) — Fed up with a regime she claims harassed and expelled her for passing out Bibles, a French missionary is bombarding North Korea with protests — via fax.

Chantal Sobkowicz prays someone will receive the faxes she sends from Paris to hotels, post offices, colleges and government offices in the North Korean capital, Pyongyang.

"I'm not doing this in any systematic way," she said in an interview. "I do it when the spirit moves me."

Working from her home in Paris, where she and her husband operate a translation agency, Mrs. Sobkowicz has faxed Christian teachings and news articles critical of North Korean leader Kim Il Sung.

Though she detests the hard-line Communists she accuses of turning North Korea into a "dead world," her motive in sending the faxes is to communicate with North Koreans.

It was something she found difficult to do when she lived in Pyongyang for eight months, until she was expelled on Feb. 24 on charges of distributing illegal religious material.

A French Foreign Ministry spokesman, speaking on condition of anonymity, confirmed Mrs. Sobkowicz's account of her expulsion and said the government had filed a protest with the North Korean legation in Paris.

Mrs. Sobkowicz arrived in North Korea last June after writing officials to say she'd be willing to take any job.

Even though she had distributed Bibles during a trip in 1989, Mrs. Sobkowicz was granted a one-year contract translating propaganda articles for North Korea's Foreign Language Publishing House.

"I really don't know why they accepted me," she said. "They must have made checks. Every man there is a policeman."

She entered the country with Bibles, pamphlets, T-shirts and cassettes and tried to distribute them privately in her off-hours. She was not sent by any church.

Mrs. Sobkowicz said her problems started when she tried to discuss differences between communist ideology and Christian teaching with co-workers.

AIDS virus can be transmitted in breast milk, researchers say

LONDON (AP) — One of the largest studies of mother-to-baby transmission of the AIDS virus found that breast-fed babies were more than twice as likely to get infected than bottle-fed babies, researchers said Friday.

This confirms the AIDS virus is transmitted in breast milk, they said.

Researchers also found premature babies were nearly four times more likely to get infected than full-term babies.

Dr. Marie Newell, coordinator of the European Collaborative Study said, "the finding about the premature babies was the most surprising, but the breastfeeding link has the most public health significance." She said infected women should be urged to bottle feed if they have access to safe formulas.

The study included 721 babies born to 701 infected women from 19 European centers.

Dr. James Goedert, AIDS coordinator in the viral epidemiology section of the National Cancer Institute in Rockvile, Md., said the study was "superbly conducted."

He said the findings "validate some of the preliminary findings indicating there are probably opportunities to reduce the proportion of infants who become infected with HIV, such as babies who can be safely bottle fed."

The findings are published in today's issue of The Lancet, a British medical journal.

Investigators collected data between Dec. 1984 and Aug. 1991 from centers in Germany, Italy, United Kingdom, Spain, the Netherlands, Sweden and Belgium.

By 18 months of age, 104 babies had been infected with the AIDS virus and one baby died.

Babies who were breast fed were about 2.25 times more likely to get the virus than to bottle-fed babies.

Babies born before 34 weeks of pregnancy, considered premature births, were nearly four times as likely to get the virus compared to babies born after a longer pregnancy.

Investigators speculate premature babies are more likely to get the virus because they lack a strong immune system. Full-term babies have stronger immune systems because they absorb infection-fighting substances from the mother during the last weeks of pregnancy.

The study also found that babies born by Caesarean section were slightly less likely to get the AIDS virus than babies born by vaginal delivery.

This study, along with previous smaller studies, suggests the virus may be transmitted more often in the birth canal during delivery rather than through the womb during pregnancy.

However, until further studies compare the risk of Caesarean vs. vaginal delivery, doctors should not advise all infected pregnant women to have Caesarean sections, Newell said.

Overall, the study found that pregnant infected women have about a 14 percent chance of transmitting the virus to offspring. Previous smaller studies showed rates of transmission ranging from 7 percent to 39 percent.

Russians cage confessed killer; spectators swoon during testimony

ROSTOV-ON-DON, Russia (AP) — The man said to be the world's worst serial killer stood silently inside a steel cage Friday, while spectators at his gruesome trial swooned and one was taken to the hospital.

Andrei R. Chikatilo, a 56-year-old former schoolteacher, kept his shaved head bent forward and his eyes on the floor as a judge read details of one of the 53 acts of murder, mutilation and cannibalism attributed to him.

"I understand why you cannot look into the eyes of the families of the victims. But I order you to look at the pictures," Judge Leonid Akubzhanov said as photographs of a girl's corpse were held up to Chikatilo's 6-foot-square cage.

The trial, now in its second week, has attracted attention not only because of the number of grisly killings involved, but also because of the amazing double life that Chikatilo allegedly led in this southern Russian city.

It also has spotlighted defects in Russia's legal system, which long placed ideology above public safety.

The murders began in 1978, during the pre-glasnost era when crime was considered a capitalist phenomenon and was seldom publicized in the Soviet Union.

As a result, Rostov residents were not warned for more than five years that a maniac was killing young women and children in their city of 1.4 million people, about 600 miles south of Moscow.

And in their desire to stop the killings quickly and quietly, Russian authorities now acknowledge, they executed the wrong man before arresting Chikatilo near a murder scene in November 1990.

Chikatilo has confessed to raping, slaying and partially cannibalizing his 53 victims: 21 boys, 14 girls and 18 young women. That's more than London's "Jack the Ripper," New York's "Son of Sam" or any other lone serial killer on record.

Throughout the 12-year killing spree, Chikatilo was married, raising a family and employed as a Russian language teacher and office worker. He was even a Communist Party member — then the ultimate sign of respectability in Soviet life.

Psychiatrists in the case say Chikatilo acted out of rage, stemming from sexual inadequacy. In his pre-trial interrogation, he testified that he never felt shock or remorse, Yandiyev said.

In some cases, Chikatilo allegedly gouged out his victims eyes. In others, he has said he cut off fingers, breasts and genitals, and ate some of the flesh.

The three-judge panel has ordered paramedics to sit in the courtroom and an ambulance to wait outside, because of the impact of such testimony on victims' families.

On Friday, the ambulance crew rushed into the second row of spectators to take the blood pressure of an elderly woman who had sobbed for nearly two hours, then fainted. They gave her an injection and took her to a hospital.

Both the judge and the spectators clearly were exasperated by Chikatilo's silence.

If convicted, Chikatilo faces death by firing squad or incarceration in a mental hospital. Akubzhanov said the trial is expected to last several months and include more than 400 witnesses.

Group names leading U.S. companies as high-tech suppliers to Iraq

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leading American computer companies were identified Friday as suppliers of high-technology equipment for nuclear and other military programs in Iraq.

The list of companies, including Hewlett Packard, Unisys Corp. and Honeywell Inc., was compiled from Commerce Department documents from 1985-'90 by a private group seeking to slow the worldwide arms race.

Last year, the Commerce Department said it would tighten export controls to countries suspected of developing nuclear, chemical and biological weapons, as well as missiles.

However, President Bush on Thursday announced a relaxation of trade restrictions on computers and other high-technology products to Western Europe, Japan and Australia. Such items could easily be re-exported from there, critics say.

The U.S. role in building Iraq's military might became clear after the Gulf War when the Commerce Department — under strong public pressure — admitted it had allowed U.S. firms to sell Iraq some $1.5 billion in dual-use high technology, meaning items with both military and civilian use.

U.S. firms that sold dual-use equipment to Iraq have typically said they were told the items would have a non-military use and had relied on Commerce to check the sales for any problem.

"We got all the required approvals," said Marlene Somsak, a spokeswoman for Hewlett Packard, which is listed as selling Iraq items worth nearly $2 million.

"We did sell equipment to Iraq, which was a U.S. ally for more than 10 years," she said.

Two other well-known computer firms — Unisys Corp. and Honeywell Inc. — also were named with licenses worth $2.6 million and $353,000 respectively.

A spokesman for Honeywell, Kevin Whalen, said in response:

"What we sold was an air-conditioning control system. This is not military related."

Honeywell and Unisys also received Commerce Department approval to sell computer equipment to Iran, which is on the U.S. list of countries that support terrorism, classified documents obtained earlier by The Associated Press show.

Honeywell also got licenses to sell equipment to Syria, another country on the list of supporters of terrorism, the documents show.

The names of most companies exporting under such licenses have been kept secret because of a law protecting the proprietary interests of U.S. business firms.

Those newly disclosed were compiled from Commerce Department shipping licenses obtained by Gary Milhollin.

Austin restaurant, shop features Texas-grown, processed food

AUSTIN (AP) — A restaurant and shop featuring only Texas-grown or -processed foods and beverages has opened, with a boost from state Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry.

"With their virtual bounty, our state's farmers and ranchers make it easy to build entire menus around Texas foods and beverages," Perry said Friday.

The Great Taste of Texas' menu includes Po-Boys from Antone's of Houston, sausage wraps from Earl Campbell's of Austin, and barbecue sandwiches featuring Guadalupe Smoked Meats of New Braunfels.

It also has a salad bar and cooked vegetables featuring locally grown produce, Texas fruits in season, and a bar with Texas beers and wine.

One-third teachers consider leaving profession

DALLAS (AP) — Working conditions have improved for Texas teachers in the past two years, but one-third are still considering leaving the profession, a study released Friday found.

"Texas can do better for its teachers," Ollie Besteiro, president of the Texas State Teachers Association, said after the group released findings of its biannual survey.

The survey found 35.2 percent of the teachers were thinking of quitting their career. That's the lowest level since the survey began in 1980 and a sharp drop from the record 45.1 percent two years ago.

In addition, more teachers than ever, 43.1 percent, thought the quality of teaching had gotten better since 1990, the last time they were asked. About 28 percent said it had gotten worse and 29 percent said it stayed the same.

A record number of teachers, 46.3 percent, were the principal breadwinners in their home. And the average age for teachers, 43.6 years, was the highest since the survey began.

"We're losing the competent, bright, young professionals," Besteiro said. "That's who we're losing, and that's who we need to retain."

The average salary for Texas teachers increased $1,606 to $28,444 during the past two years, the survey found. But health insurance premiums rose even more during the period, about $1,728 for the typical teacher.

About 20 percent of the state's teachers have no health insurance, the survey found.

It also showed record support for the no-pass, no-play rule — 79.2 percent. That support has gradually risen from 54.4 percent in 1986, a short time after the rule took effect.

Many teachers take an extra job in the summer or moonlight during the school year to make more money.

Cowboys, Oilers gear up for draft

Dallas always willing to trade

By Denne H. Freeman
AP Sports Writer

IRVING — Trader Jimmy stands poised on draft day to roll the dice again with his bonanza of picks. When it comes to dominating the NFL grab bag, nobody has been able to match Cowboys coach Jimmy Johnson recently.

The Cowboys must have defensive backs, a middle linebacker, a tight end and a placekicker and they've got the draft pick ammunition to load up in every position.

Dallas has two picks in each of the first three rounds Sunday.

The Cowboys own the 13th pick in the first round, courtesy of the Herschel Walker trade with Minnesota, and the 24th pick on their own.

Johnson, who has made 34 trades in his three seasons with the Cowboys and has moved them from a 1-15 club to a playoff team, stands ready to trade up or down if he can find another team to play craps with him.

"The chances are good we won't do anything until draft day," Johnson says. "We'll look at all the possibilities. We could trade up or down."

Owner Jerry Jones said the Cowboys have a reputation of being traders and gamblers.

"Teams understand we're receptive to trades and we won't be hesitant about it," he says, "It's real heartening we have that reputation. Never in my life have I been reluctant to make a deal."

The Cowboys took Troy Aikman with the top pick overall in 1989, Johnson's first draft. He sent his second-rounder to the Raiders along with a No. 6 for second, third and fifth-round choices.

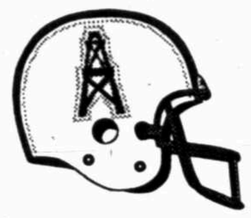

Johnson did not have his own first-

Receivers on Houston agenda

By Michael A. Lutz
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON — The Houston Oilers' Plan A for Sunday's NFL draft will be to replace Plan B wide receiver losses that include all-time leader Drew Hill.

Hill joined former Oilers coach Jerry Glanville with the Atlanta Falcons after failing to reach a contract agreement with the Oilers, who also lost wide receivers Tony Jones to the Falcons and Alex Johnson to New England.

They'll have to find replacements without a first round selection for the second straight year. Houston's first pick will be in the second round, the 50th selection overall.

Oilers general manager Mike Holovak doesn't plan to trade up in the second round or to make a deal for a first round pick, given to San Diego last year for defensive end Lee Williams.

"I'm hopeful that someone will mess up and leave a player there that we're really interested in," Holovak said. "The only problem with moving up in the second round is you don't know for sure your guy will still be there."

Holovak filled needs in the defensive secondary last season without a first round pick and he expects to find some receiver gems still available after the first round is completed on Sunday.

He won't be able to pick from the elite list of wide receivers such as Michigan's Desmond Howard, Tennessee's Carl Pickens or Jackson State's Jimmy Smith, projected first round picks.

But San Diego's Patrick Rowe, South Carolina's Robert Brooks or Rico Smith from Colorado or Orlando McKay from Washington could be available or even

Playoffs on line as 'Dogs host Permian

■ Midland High tries to stay in the baseball postseason running as it hosts Odessa Permian at Angels Stadium.

By Bill Price
Staff writer

An ideal scenario for both Midland high school baseball teams has Odessa Permian losing its last three games.

That's the only way Midland Lee has a mathematical chance of tying the Panthers for second place in District 4-5A, and it certainly wouldn't hurt Midland High's chances of making the playoffs.

Of the two Tall City teams, though, MHS has the best chance for postseason play, and it's only marginal at that. The Bulldogs have to win their last two games — today against Permian at 2 p.m. in Angels Stadium, and Tuesday at league leader Abilene Cooper — and hope Permian suffers a second defeat just to tie the Panthers for second place.

Should that happen, the Bulldogs and Permian would battle in a district playoff.

Meanwhile, Lee heads to Odessa High today for a 2 p.m. game, hosts Abilene High Tuesday then closes the regular season at San Angelo. Today's other district game features Abilene Cooper traveling to San Angelo, while AHS hosts San Angelo Lake View in a non-district doubleheader.

For the Bulldogs (10-13 overall, 6-4 in district), Mario Rodriguez will get the pitching start today. The last time he faced Permian, Rodriguez (1-1) held the Panthers to one run in a 2-1 MHS victory. Brian Bavousett threw in the first meeting for Permian (11-12-1 and 7-2) and is expected to return to the mound today.

Lee (10-10 and 4-5) is coming off an open date Tuesday.

Angels snap 6-game losing streak

■ Midland comes back with four runs in the the ninth for a 6-5 win.

By Terry Williamson
Sports editor

A scraggly, unshaven J.R. Phillips, in danger of becoming a Bert Blyleven clone, has a meeting with a razor blade today after saving the Midland Angels from extending a Texas League losing streak to seven games.

Phillips capped a four-run Angel ninth inning with a two-run, no-out single off San Antonio reliever Ray Calhoun to hand the Missions a 6-5 loss. The key single kept Midland from going zero-for-the-homestand as the Haloed Ones earned their first home victory of the season just in time to skip town for Wichita today.

"Now I can shave," Phillips said after the game winning hit. "After we lost four games in a row, I said I wouldn't shave again until we won a game. I was getting a little concerned that I was going to look like (bearded Angel pitcher) Bert Blyleven if we didn't win pretty soon."

Phillips must like to maintain the clean-cut look because he was a big reason the Angels ended their six-

Jordan's 46 lifts Bulls over Heat

Defending champs take first game in best-of-five series

Associated Press

NBA Playoffs

CHICAGO — These are the playoffs, also known as Michael Jordan time.

"I told you this is what I've been waiting for. I've been excited all week. This is fun time," Jordan said Friday night after scoring 46 points as Chicago began defense of its NBA championship with a 113-94 victory over Miami.

Showing no ill effects from the back spasms that bothered him earlier in the week, Jordan scored 15 points in the second quarter when the Bulls went ahead to stay, and 15 more in the third quarter when they pulled away to an 87-73 lead. Jordan also had 11 rebounds and nine assists.

"He was keyed up, this is his special time of the season," coach Phil Jackson said. "He was anxious to get started and he made a great statement."

The best-of-5 series continues Sunday in Chicago Stadium before shifting to Miami next Wednesday and, if necessary, Friday.

Both Jordan and Jackson said they were pleased to get the first game of the playoffs out of the way, especially since Miami played so well in the first quarter.

"We got No. 1 out of our system," Jordan said. "I had to follow the flow of the game and implement my game accordingly. Today it was offense. I don't know what Sunday will bring."

Jackson blamed the Bulls' slow start on being "very nervous — no, very anxious."

"The suspense of the playoffs was laboring in the back of our minds. We tried to do too much too quickly in the first quarter," Jackson said.

"I have no complaints, I wasn't displeased," Miami coach Kevin Loughery said. "We just didn't score. That's a great defensive club."

As for Jordan, Loughery said, "He's got several levels at which he can play. It's another level which he rises to for the playoffs."

Will Perdue scored 16 points, 14 in the second half, Horace Grant had 15 and Scottie Pippen 11 for Chicago. Steve Smith led Miami with 19, Glen Rice had 17, Brian Shaw 15 and Rony Seikaly 14 before fouling out in the final period.

It was a close game in the first half before the Bulls began pulling away.

The Heat led most of the first quarter. Smith gave Miami a 7-4 lead on a three-point play and the Heat gradually pulled ahead 20-14.

The Bulls went on a 10-3 run with Jordan scoring eight points to take a 24-23 lead but Smith scored the final four points to put Miami ahead 27-24 at the end of the quarter.

A three-point play by Pippen and a basket by Jordan put Chicago ahead 29-27 but two 3-pointers by Keith Askins gave the Heat a 35-31 lead.

There were three lead changes and six ties in the second quarter, the last at 43-43.

Knicks 109, Pistons 75

NEW YORK — The New York Knicks played lost and found with the Detroit Pistons.

After losing to Detroit 72-61 12 days ago, the Knicks found the basket, blitzing the Pistons with a 23-2 third-quarter spree that lifted New York to a victory in their first-round playoff opener.

Mark Jackson scored 14 of his 18 points in the third period, 12 of them during the decisive spurt that turned a 51-44 advantage into a 74-46 blowout.

Patrick Ewing had 24 points and 12 rebounds for the Knicks, who lost sole possession of the Atlantic Division title by losing five of their last eight regular-season games.

Joe Dumars scored 13 points and John Salley 12 for the Pistons, who were held to their lowest playoff point total in team history. The previous low was 78 against Boston in 1988.

It also was the fewest points ever given up by the Knicks in a playoff game and the second biggest margin of victory by New York in the postseason. The previous low for a Knick playoff opponent was 78 by Boston in 1973. The most lopsided playoff victory in New York history was a 36-point win over Milwaukee in 1970.

Isiah Thomas scored three points, 15 under his regular-season average, on 1-for-9 shooting for Detroit, which faces the Knicks again in Game 2 of the best-of-5 series Sunday.

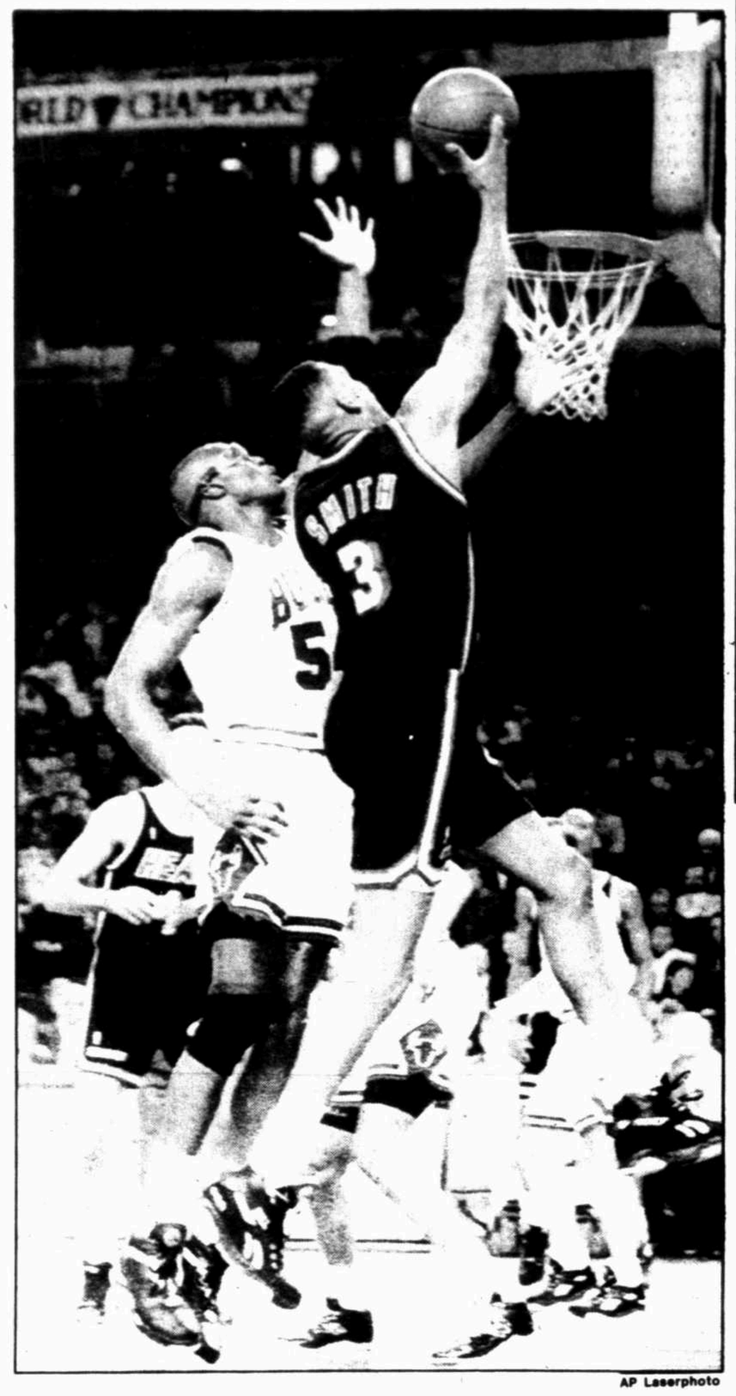

New York outscored Detroit 32-15 in the third quarter, outshooting the Pistons 52 percent to 36 percent and outrebounding them 18-5.

The Knicks took an 81-53 lead into the fourth quarter and led by as many as 40 points in the final period.

Ewing scored nine points in the game's first eight minutes, and with the Pistons missing 9 of their first 12 shots, the Knicks opened a 15-8 lead with 3:38 left in the first period.

Trailing 22-16 going into the second quarter, Detroit tied the score on a basket by Dennis Rodman and two jumpers by Dumars. Kiki Vandeweghe's 3-pointer gave the lead back to New York and started a 27-14 spurt that gave the Knicks a 49-36 advantage with 2.7 seconds left in the half.

But Salley got open for a long pass under the Detroit basket, leading to a foul and two free throws that left New York with a 49-38 halftime margin.

Suns 117, Spurs 111

PHOENIX — Dan Majerle's two free throws with 31 seconds left broke a 111-111 tie, and Phoenix defeated stubborn San Antonio in the opener of their playoff series.

The victory wasn't secured until Jeff Hornacek scored after an inbounds pass went off Donald Royal's hands with 19 seconds left. The Suns then played keep-away until Hornacek was fouled with 7.8 seconds remaining and made both free throws for a 115-111 lead.

Terry Cummings had 30 points and 12 rebounds for the Spurs, but was unable to prevent the Suns from taking a 1-0 lead in the best-of-5 series.

Kevin Johnson and Majerle scored 11 points apiece in the third quarter when Phoenix outscored San Antonio 39-23 to take the lead for the first time since the opening seconds.

Majerle scored 25 points for the Suns, while Johnson had 24 and Hornacek 21. Sean Elliott had 22 points, Rod Strickland 20 and Antoine Carr 19 for the Spurs, who kept the game close despite the absence of David Robinson, still recovering from thumb surgery.

Ameel signs at Tech

LUBBOCK — Elizabeth Ameel, a Midland High product who has played the last two years at Tyler Junior College, has become Texas Tech University's first 1992 tennis signee.

Ameel, who in 1988 was ranked No. 1 in Girls 18 singles in Texas, is ranked nationally in both singles and doubles.

Tyler traditionally plays a strong schedule with many matches against Divison I schools.

Ameel, No. 20 in the nation in singles with a 20-12 record this spring and No. 7 nationally in doubles with a 12-12 record, is Tech coach Kathy Vick's first recruit of the year. One of Ameel's singles victories this spring was over the No. 10 nationally-ranked player.

As a senior at Midland High, Ameel reached the state Class 5A semifinals.

Koch's America3 takes 4-1 lead over Conner

SAN DIEGO (AP) — By Tuesday, Bill Koch could be the America's Cup defender and Dennis Conner could be beached.

America3 made tremendous surges sailing into the wind on the third and seventh legs and went on to defeat Conner's Stars & Stripes by 3 minutes, 31 seconds on Friday to take a 4-1 lead in the defender finals.

Koch, the multimillionaire president and skipper of the America3 Foundation, needs to win three more races to clinch the best-of-13 series. There is no racing on Monday, so two weekend wins plus one on Tuesday would end Conner's underdog bid to reach his fifth straight America's Cup match.

The final margin on Friday was lopsided because the wind fell off to three knots nearing the finish and Conner went off to the right side of the course hunting for a breeze.

Still, America3 improved to 12-4 against Stars & Stripes in this regatta, including victories in six of their last seven matchups. Conner's only win in this round was a wire-to-wire effort on Thursday.

America3 covered the 20.03-mile course in 2 hours, 53 minutes, 23 seconds.

The race oscillated during the first three legs. Unlike in past races, though, America3 did a better job of covering Stars & Stripes' wind.

After an even start in a westerly breeze of about six knots, Stars & Stripes took the lead early on the first beat to windward, only to see America3 go ahead about halfway up the leg.

America3 led by 10 seconds around the first mark. As Stars & Stripes approached the buoy, Stars & Stripes was set up to raise a gennaker as America3 did, but Conner noted that the wind had increased to 10 knots and called for a spinnaker. Spinnakers are better in heavier wind and are easier to move from side to side than gennakers as a yacht changes course while sailing downwind.

The move paid off when Stars & Stripes went ahead halfway down the leg and led by 16 seconds at the marker.

Conner headed toward the left side of the course on the next leg upwind, then tacked over to the right ahead of America3. With Buddy Melges at the helm, America3 took the left side, gained on each tack and finally went ahead. America3 led by 45 seconds at the mark, representing a turnaround of 61 seconds on the leg.

"We wanted him to go to the right and we wanted to go to the left," Melges said. "The left side has been sweet the whole time we've been here."

Koch steered America3 through the three reaching legs before Melges took the wheel halfway up the seventh leg into the wind. America3 gained a full minute and lead by 1:38 at the seventh mark.

Conner has sailed in the last four America's Cup finals dating to 1980, winning three times and losing once.

Before that, he was the starting helmsman and tactician aboard Ted Hood's victorious Courageous in 1974.

TENNIS: Tournament comes to a close today

(From 1B)

progressed Friday "almost exactly as I thought they would."

The tournament — which concludes today at two locations — will be the final junior college tennis event ever held at MC. The school's board of trustees voted last month to discontinue the tennis program because of decreasing opportunities for competition and increasingly stringent student scholarship guidelines.

In women's action Friday, MC's top five women had little trouble dispatching the MCC women. Only No. 5 singles player Caroline Reynolds faced a bit of a struggle before finally winning in three sets, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3, over Elissa Lopez.

On the men's side, all five singles players won in straight sets, although David Draper had a bit more trouble than anticipated, winning 6-2, 7-5 over Rogalia Garcia, Temple's top player.

"Cooke's kind of beat up," Williams said of the MC women's finals opponents today. "We could struggle at No. 3 singles and No. 6 doubles if it gets that far."

The MC-Cooke women's match begins at 1 p.m. at the MC courts. Cooke defeated OC, 5-2, to advance to the finals.

The MC men will meet McLennan, which downed New Mexico Military, 5-1. The men's championship match will be played at the Midland Racquet Club beginning at 9 a.m.

Third place matches at MC will begin at 9 a.m. at MC. The men's match pits NMMI-Temple, while the OC-MCLennan women do battle.

Waltrip leads Chevy charge

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — Darrell Waltrip, winning his first pole position in 99 races, Friday led a front-row sweep by the much-maligned Chevrolet Luminas in first-round qualifying for Sunday's Hanes 500.

Dale Earnhardt, another driver showing signs of life after a slow start this season, took the outside spot on the front row.

Waltrip, whose last pole came at Talladega Superspeedway in July 1988, turned a lap of 92.956 mph, short of the Martinsville Speedway record of 93.097, set in April 1989 by Geoff Bodine.

It was the 58th pole of his career, breaking a tie with Bobby Allison and giving Waltrip sole possession of fourth on the all-time list.

GOLF: Chaparrals advance to nationals in Arizona

(From 1B)

nior College Athletic Conference title at the tournament, defeated host Odessa College by nine strokes. MC shot a team total 868; OC was in at 877.

The win was MC's third regional title and qualifies it for the NJCAA tournament held in June in Scottsdale, Ariz. OC will also make the trip to Arizona by virtue of its second place finish.

"My putter was so lame today, it was just incredible," said Amrstrong, whose stroke escaped him on the back nine. "I was nervous at the first tee. I think there was a glass cover over the holes."

Golfers were hampered in the morning by damp air and fog which created limited visibility, something Armstrong said reminded him of his home in Scotland. By mid-morning the fog had lifted, but in came the winds, which gusted upwards of 35 mph for the remainder of the day.

MC's Grant Thomson was third medalist with a 216, following his final round 2-under par, 70.

"These guys have played really well, MC golf coach Delnor Poss said. "They won 10 tournaments this (school) year, and I don't know of anyone else whose ever done that.

"Steve was absolutely fantastic. He hadn't played the last three weeks before the Texas tournament two weeks ago. He's just a great player.

"Steve was a lot like (former MC golfer) Dean Robertson. He was an average golfer when he got here, but he's gotten better every month, and I expect him to continue to improve."

Poss said initial plans had MC red-shirting Armstrong for the spring semester so he would retain a full year's eligibility next year. The plans were scuttled and the OC tournament turned out to be Armstrong's final JUCO event in Texas. The Edinburgh, Scotland native went out with a bang, claiming his first ever top medalist honor as a JUCO player at the Odessa event.

MC, which hosted last year's NJCAA tournament at Green Tree Country Club, will return to the event hoping to improve on last season's second place finish behind hot-shooting Brevard, Fla.

"It's difficult to compare this team with last year's," Poss said. "We have more depth. In all the conference tournaments we played, we've used six different lineups, so we do have the depth."

Arsmstrong said this year's Chap team is "not as strong" as the one from last year. "We miss the influence of Andrew Coltart, but I think we can play really hard, we can do well."

Texas clears Larkin to play

Associated Press

AUSTIN — University of Texas officials have cleared the way for outfielder Stephen Larkin to play baseball despite his heart condition.

Larkin, 18, and his parents signed a waiver that releases the school from liability if he is injured or dies as a result of medical problem, a newspaper reported Friday.

Larkin, the brother of Cincinnati Reds shortstop Barry Larkin, suffers from hypertrophic cardiomyopathy, an enlargement of the heart's walls that restricts blood flow into the pumping chamber.

Viola gets first win in 3-1 defeat of Texas

Associated Press

BOSTON — Frank Viola got his first victory for the Red Sox, allowing three hits as Boston beat the Texas Rangers 3-1 Friday night in a game shortened to 5½ innings by rain.

Viola (1-2) struck out three and walked three, winning his first American League game since Minnesota traded him to the New York Mets on July 31, 1989. He left the Mets in the offseason to sign with the Red Sox as a free agent for $13.9 million over three years.

After Mo Vaughn singled in the sixth, breaking an 0-for-19 slump, the rain began. Umpires called the game after a 62-minute delay.

Jose Guzman (1-2) gave up eight hits, struck out five and walked two as Texas lost its fourth straight.

Boston, which climbed back to .500 at 7-7, combined two walks, two hits and a sacrifice fly for all its runs in the third.

Brewers 5, Indians 0

CLEVELAND — Dan Plesac pitched 5 2-3 scoreless innings in his first start and Greg Vaughn hit Milwaukee's first home run in nearly two weeks as the Brewers beat Cleveland.

It was the fifth shutout against the Indians in 18 games and Milwaukee's second straight win in bad weather. The Brewers beat Boston's Roger Clemens 3-2 Thursday night in Milwaukee, also in a cold, steady shower.

Plesac (2-1) gave up two hits, struck out a career-high seven and walked two in his first start after four relief appearances.

Blue Jays 4, Royals 3

TORONTO — Juan Guzman won for the 13th time in 14 decisions as the Toronto Blue Jays beat Kansas City and sent the Royals to their eighth consecutive loss.

Guzman (3-0) allowed four hits in 8 2-3 innings, struck out seven and walked one. He took a two-hit shutout into the ninth, but allowed doubles to Keith Miller and Wally Joyner.

Tom Henke relieved and gave up a two-run homer to George Brett, his second. Henke then retired Kevin McReynolds on a flyout for his third save.

Tom Gordon (0-2) allowed three runs and seven hits in seven innings as Kansas City dropped to 1-15. He struck out five and walked one.

Roberto Alomar went 3-for-3 with two RBIs for the Blue Jays, who have the best record in the American League at 14-4.

White Sox 9, Tigers 1

DETROIT — Jack McDowell became the first American League pitcher to win four consecutive games, allowing two hits in seven innings as the Chicago White Sox beat the Detroit Tigers.

AL Roundup

The defeat left the Tigers 0-7 at home for the first time since 1949, which is as far back as club records go. The Tigers lost their first six home games in 1959, then won their next.

McDowell matched a season-high with six strikeouts and walked two. He took a no-hitter into the fifth inning, but Mickey Tettleton ended hit a leadoff homer, his fifth and the Tigers' major-league leading 27th.

Detroit starter Walt Terrell (0-3) lasted only 3 1-3 innings. He was tagged for seven runs and five hits and walked four.

Yankees 5, Orioles 0

NEW YORK — Andy Stankiewicz hit his first major league home run and drove in two runs as the New York Yankees beat Baltimore and stopped the Orioles' seven-game winning streak.

Greg Cadaret (2-0) allowed three hits in seven innings, walked four and struck out two, extending his scoreless streak to 18 innings, the longest for a Yankees pitcher since 1989.

Twins 6, Athletics 5

MINNEAPOLIS — Brian Harper hit a sacrifice fly in the 10th inning as the Minnesota Twins came from five runs down and beat the Oakland Athletics.

Mark McGwire hit his major league-leading ninth home run for Oakland. The record for home runs in April is 11 by Willie Stargell, Mike Schmidt and Graig Nettles.

Tom Edens (1-0) got the victory for getting the last out in the top of the inning.

John Smiley, who is 0-2, made his fourth start for the Twins.

Astros stay in first; Dykstra returns for Phils

Associated Press

ATLANTA — The Houston Astros, playing their first road game of the year, kept winning Friday night when Luis Gonzalez hit a three-run homer to beat Atlanta 4-2 in Otis Nixon's return to the Braves.

The surprising Astros went 9-6 in their season-opening 15-game homestand, and stayed in first place in the NL West with their seventh victory in eight games. Darryl Kile outpitched John Smoltz, sending Atlanta to its third straight loss and ninth in 11 games.

Nixon made his 1992 debut after a 60-day suspension last Sept. 16 for cocaine use. He drew a standing ovation from the crowd of 40,666 when he led off the game for the Braves.

Nixon was hitless in four at-bats. He managed to score the Braves' first run in the third when he reached on an error, stole second and came home on Terry Pendleton's single.

Kile (2-1) limited the Braves to two runs on four hits in eight innings. He struck out three and walked one. Doug Jones finished for his sixth save in seven tries.

Gonzalez hit the first regular-season home run off Smoltz (1-2) since last July 31 when Mike LaValliere connected, a span of 118 1-3 innings. Gonzalez began the game batting .105 (4-38), but doubled in the second inning and homered in the fifth following singles by Craig Biggio and Steve Finley.

Smoltz went seven innings, allowing six hits, walking two and striking out nine.

Phillies 4, Mets 3

PHILADELPHIA — Dave Hollins singled home the winning run with the bases loaded in the ninth inning and the Philadelphia Phillies, with Lenny Dykstra back in the lineup, beat New York and stopped the Mets' four-game winning streak.

With one out in the ninth and the score tied at 3, Jim Lindeman and Dykstra drew walks from Wally Whitehurst (0-1). Mariano Duncan then extended his hitting streak to a career-high 11 games with a bloop single beyond shortstop Dick Schofield's reach.

NL Roundup

The Mets pulled in their infield and outfield, and Hollins hit a hard grounder between first baseman Bobby Bonilla and the bag. Bonilla had moved in to play first base after Eddie Murray, who hit a tying, two-run double in the eighth, was removed for a pinch runner.

Dykstra went 1 for 3 with a double and two walks in his first game since opening day.

Pirates 3, Cubs 2

CHICAGO — Roger Mason and Stan Belinda held off Chicago for the final two innings as the Pittsburgh Pirates won for the 10th time in 11 games, beating the Cubs despite hitting into four double plays.

Pittsburgh broke a 2-all tie in the eighth when Bob Scanlan (0-1) walked Steve Buechele, Don Slaught singled pinch-runner Gary Redus to third and Jose Lind grounded into a double play.

Mason (1-0), the fourth Pirates pitcher, threw 1 1-3 innings and Belinda got three outs for his fourth save.

Cubs starter Danny Jackson allowed two runs and 11 hits in seven innings. Pirates starter Vincente Palacios gave up one run and three hits in 5 1-3 innings.

Jay Bell and Slaught had three hits each for the Pirates, who had 12 hits in all.

Jerome Walton, playing his first game of the season, was caught stealing at second for the final out of the game by Slaught. Walton was running for Mark Grace, who had walked.

Pittsburgh, which at 13-3 has the best record in the major leagues, went ahead in the fifth when Jeff King tripled and Bell hit his third straight single.

Chicago tied the score in the sixth when Sammy Sosa doubled off Palacios and Andre Dawson hit an RBI single off Dennis Lamp.

Barry Bonds hit a run-scoring single in the seventh, but the Cubs tied the score in the bottom of the inning an a two-out RBI single by Grace.

Cardinals 4, Expos 3

ST. LOUIS — Ray Lankford doubled home the tying run with two outs in the ninth inning and scored the winner on Ozzie Smith's single as the St. Louis Cardinals rallied to beat the Montreal Expos.

The Cardinals stole five bases, including one in the ninth, and stopped their three-game losing streak.

John Wetteland (0-1), the fifth Montreal pitcher, was one out from the save when pinch hitter Milt Thompson singled. Thompson stole second without a throw and scored when Lankford bounced a double over the left-field wall. Smith followed with a sharply single to right.

Omar Olivares (2-2) allowed three runs in the first two innings, then shut out Expos the rest of the way. He gave up eight hits, struck out six and walked one.

Trailing 3-2, the Cardinals threatened to tie it in the eighth when Todd Zeile and Pedro Guerrero singled. With one out, pinch-hitter Gerald Perry hit a drive that was caught at the wall by right fielder Larry Walker, whose throw doubled off pinch-runner Tim Jones at first.

The Expos scored in the first on a single by Ivan Calderon with two outs and a double by Walker. The Cardinals tied it in their first as Lankford led off with a single, stole second, took third on a groundout and scored on a single by Guerrero.

Baylor sweeps TCU in twin bill

Associated Press

FORT WORTH — Sean Severides had a bases-loaded triple Friday as Baylor scored seven runs in the eighth inning to beat Texas Christian 7-2 in the second game of a Southwest Conference twinbill. The Bears also won the opener, 6-4.

SWC

David Elsbernd (7-1) got the victory for Baylor (27-15, 15-15), while Jeff Zimmerman (2-4) was the loser for TCU (23-25, 12-17).

Severides led off the fourth inning of the first game with his fourth homer of the season and Ray Hammond was 2-for-3 in the game.

Brian Carpenter (8-4) gave up for runs on six hits, walking one and striking out two Horned Frog batters. Jon Mock (3-2) pitched only 3 2-3 innings, allowing five runs on seven hits, walking two and striking out three. Four of the runs were earned.

Texas A&M 4, Houston 2

HOUSTON — Tim Holt drove in two runs in the ninth, giving Texas A&M a 4-2 victory over Houston.

Holt was thrown out at third.

Jeff Granger went six-plus innings, striking out two for the Aggies (32-16, 16-12). He was relieved by James Nix (8-4), who got the victory.

Reliever Justin Dorsey (3-2) took the loss for the Cougars (21-25, 9-19) after taking over from starter Jeff Wright. Jeff Haas replaced Dorsey in the ninth after Dorsey walked the tie-breaking runner to open the inning.

No. 5 Texas 10, Texas Tech 9

LUBBOCK — Brooks Kieschnick batted in three runs to help No. 5 Texas hold off a late Texas Tech rally.

Texas took a 6-0 lead during the eighth inning, but the Red Raiders followed with four runs. Texas came back to the plate for four more runs, unearned to take lead 10-4 into the ninth.

Texas reliever Jay Vaught then issued three-straight walks and the Red Raiders scored five runs.

The Longhorns improved their records to 24-6 in the Southwest Conference.

game losing skid. He had an RBI single in Midland two-run second before his ninth inning heroics.

Actually, Phillips was just trying to tie the game up in the ninth.

"With no outs and runners at second and third, I just wanted to pull the ball and make sure we get the runner in from third base," said the lefty hitting Phillips. "I wasn't even looking for a base hit."

Even though it's early in the season, Phillips admits that the six-game losing streak was beginning to play on the minds of the Angels.

"You try to block those things out when you are a professional, but it does stay in the back of your mind all the time," Phillips said. "It seems like we score a run and the opposition comes back and scores two. It's been mind-boggling. If you look back at the last few games, we've had runners on base in the ninth inning. We've got a team that can come from behind and win."

The Angels started the ninth when Jeff Kipila struckout, but reached safely when Mission first baseman John Deutsch couldn't handle a throw from catcher Mike Piazza. Walt McConnell then singled to chase San Antonio reliever Bill Bene.

Calhoun, who had a victory and three saves for the Missions, came in to give up a run scoring single to Matt Stark, a run scoring double to Bobby Rose and the game winning single to Phillips to take the loss.

The Missions got a solo homer from Piazza in the first inning for a 1-0 lead, but Midland answered by sending seven men to the plate in the second. However, the Angels got only two runs out of the inning off Mission starter Balvino Galvez.

Galvez went on to hurl five hitless innings at the Angels before giving way to Bene in the eighth. The Missions looked to have the game in hand by breaking a 2-2 deadlock in the sixth with three runs off Angel starter Steve Peck. Billy Ashley did most of the damage with a two-run double and Deutsch drove in the other run with a sacrifice fly.

Nixon 0-for-4 on comeback

ATLANTA (AP) — Otis Nixon returned to the Atlanta Braves lineup Friday after completing his 60-day suspension for using cocaine and went 0 for 4 in a 4-2 loss to the Houston Astros.

"Seeing how the team is playing right now, a spark of any type could trigger this club," Nixon said. "Whether it's me or whatever. As far as me coming back, I hope it's a spark. I'm happy to be back."

Nixon, who missed the final three weeks of last season, the playoffs and the World Series, batted leadoff and played center field, with hot-hitting Deion Sanders starting in right and batting No. 2.

Nixon provided a bit of a spark in the third inning when he stole second after reaching base on an infield error, then scored on Terry Pendleton's soft single to left.

NHL PLayoffs

ST. LOUIS — Brian Noonan batted in a rebound shot for the game-winner at 5:04 of the third period as the Chicago Blackhawks beat the St. Louis Blues 5-3 to even their first-round playoff series at two games apiece Friday night.

Jeremy Roenick skated in untouched, slipping past defenseman Rick Zombo, and took a shot from point-blank range that was stopped by goalie Curtis Joseph. Noonan's first rebound attempt hit the crossbar, but he knocked in the puck while it was in midair on the second.

Noonan's goal, his third of the playoffs, quieted a St. Louis rally. The Blackhawks led 3-1 and had outshot the Blues 24-6 at the game's halfway point before St. Louis rallied for power-play goals by Curt Giles and Brendan Shanahan to tie the score.

Mike Hudson made it 4-2 with 4:45 to go when he skated around Giles near the Blues net and beat Joseph with a backhander.

The Blackhawks outshot the Blues 37-19 in reclaiming the home-ice advantage they had relinquished in losing Game 2 in Chicago on Monday. Game 5 is Sunday night in Chicago.

North Stars 5, Red Wings 4

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. — Todd Elik, who had missed all but 21 seconds of the NHL playoffs with sore ribs, deflected the puck past Tim Cheveldae with 8:33 to play, giving the Minnesota North Stars the victory and a 3-1 series lead over the Detroit Red Wings.

Minnesota can wrap up its second first-round upset in as many years when the best-of-7 series returns to Detroit on Sunday night. The first-place Red Wings finished 28 points ahead of fourth-place Minnesota in the Norris Division standings.

The North Stars, who became the first home team to win in the series, also finished fourth last season before stunning Chicago and going on to reach the Stanley Cup finals.

Jets 3, Canucks 1

WINNIPEG, Manitoba — Goaltender Rick Tabaracci kicked out 30 shots as the surprising Winnipeg Jets continued their mastery over Vancouver, beating the Canucks to take a 3-1 lead in their Smythe Division semifinal.

The Canucks, the regular-season Smythe champions, were unable to find a solution to the disciplined, tight-checking game Winnipeg has used to frustrate their attack in the best-of-7 series.

Evgeny Davydov, Phil Housley and Thomas Steen scored for Winnipeg, which had the backing of another high-power crowd.

The 15,568 fans, dressed in what has become traditional playoff white, were four short of a playoff attendance record for the Jets.

Kings 4, Oilers 3

EDMONTON, Alberta — Paul Coffey second goal in a 1:50 span broke a tie with 6:58 remaining in regulation and the Los Angeles Kings evened their Smythe Division semifinal series at two wins apiece by beating the Edmonton Oilers.

Coffey's power-play blast from the left point off a pass from Wayne Gretzky beat Bill Ranford to put the Kings in front for the first time in the game.

OILERS: Houston already restocking via Plan B

(From 1B)

Notre Dame's Tony Smith.

"He's come a long way in a non-passing offense," Oilers scout Glen Cumby said of Smith. "At 6-1, 194, he's not your typical run-and-shoot receiver but he's tough. I'd like to have him on our football team."

Cumby also scouted Brooks.

"The problem he has for us, he's not the elusive guy that does something after the catch," Cumby said. "He doesn't have the blazing speed but I think he'll play in the league in a different scheme."

Rowe has the speed that Brooks doesn't.

"He can stretch a defense right now," Oiler scout Frank Bush said. "That's his forte, getting down the field."

Washington's Mario Bailey would fit into the Oilers' run-and-shoot, Bush said.

"He's not as fast but he's as quick as any I've seen," Bush said. "He can do a lot after the catch that a lot of other receivers can't do."

The Oilers already have started restocking their receivers. They signed Green Bay Plan B receiver Jeff Query, free agent Manny Hazard, who led the nation in receiver at the University of Houston, and they resigned Gary Wellmon from their practice squad.

The Oilers must replace Hill's 90 catches for 1,109 yards. The two-time Pro Bowl receiver is the Oilers' all-time leader with 480 catches for 7,477 yards.

The Oilers had three second round picks in 1991, safety Mike Dumas of Indiana, cornerback Darryll Lewis of Arizona and center John Flannery of Syracuse and all played last season. Third round pick cornerback Steve Jackson of Purdue also contributed.

Flannery, despite arriving late as a contract holdout, started nine games at guard following an injury to veteran Doug Dawson.

COWBOYS: Johnson's trading habits well known round pick in 1990 after the Cowboys took Steve Walsh in the supplemental draft the previous year. So he sent a No. 1 he obtained from Minnesota for Walker, plus a No. 3, to Pittsburgh to get into the opening round, where he grabbed Emmitt Smith. The running back from Florida led the NFL in rushing last season.

That same year, Johnson traded a third, fifth and seventh-rounder — only one of them originally belonging to Dallas — to the Patriots for third, sixth and eighth-round selections. In the third round, Johnson grabbed Jimmie Jones, who has become a starting defensive tackle. The wheeler-dealer also got an extra No. 5 from the Raiders for five lower round choices and made deals for extra picks in the '91 draft.

Last April, Johnson maneuvered Dallas to the top of the draft, sending to New England a No. 1 (from the Vikings for Walker), a No 2 and three defensive players who haven't been missed. Johnson took Russell Maryland, whom he recruited to the University of Miami and should be a force on the defensive line for years.

Later in the opening round, with his own pick, Johnson got Alvin Harper of Tennessee, a nice complement to All-Pro Michael Irvin at receiver. And Johnson dealt with Detroit to get extra second, third and fourth-rounders.

Plus, he traded Walsh during the 1990 season to New Orleans and secured another 1991 first-round pick and a third-rounder. Not one to sit still, Johnson dealt that first-rounder to New England for a No. 1 and a No. 4 from the Patriots.

"I'd be disappointed if the picks we make this year don't make a significant contribution over the next few years," Jones says.

The Cowboys have been busy figuring all the angles. They even flew in 20 of the top prospects in the country for one-on-one interviews.

The Cowboys covet defensive backs Troy Vincent of Wisconsin, Terrell Buckley of Florida State, Dale Carter of Tennessee, Darryl Williams of Miami and Kevin Smith of Texas A&M.

Dallas needs defensive backs because of what run-and-shoot teams like Houston, Atlanta and Detroit did to the Cowboys last year. The Lions destroyed the Cowboys in the playoffs because their defensive backs were not fast enough.

Linebackers Mark D'Onofrio of Penn State, Robert Jones of East Carolina and Quentin Coryatt of Texas A&M also are high on the Dallas list. But Coryatt might be gone in the first two or three picks.

Tourney record may be in jeopardy at Legends

Associated Press

AUSTIN — After taking a one-shot lead with partner J.C. Snead in the Legends of Golf on Friday, Bobby Nichols said the tournament record of 39 under par may be in jeopardy.

"It's going to take a lot of birdies to win," Nichols said.

Nichols, winner of the 1964 PGA Championship, and Snead added a second-round 63 to their opening 61 for a 20-under-par 124 in the two-man, better-ball event.

Alone in second were Jim Colbert and partner Tommy Aaron, who also shot 63 and stood at 125.

"I didn't expect to be 19 under, but if I did I'd have thought we'd have a sizeable lead. But we're behind," Colbert said.

Defending champions Lee Trevino and Mike Hill were third with an 18-under 126.

Nichols said Snead's play, particularly on the back nine, kept them in the tournament.

"J.C. played extremely well. He kept us in the ball game. I wasn't real helpful," he said.

The leaders birdied nine holes, including all the par 5s, which Nichols, himself a long hitter, attributed to Snead's driver.

"As long as he's hitting it, he's reaching the par 5s with a medium iron," Nichols said.

The tournament record of 249 over the 6,777-yard Barton Creek Country Club was set in 1990 by Dale Douglass and Charles Coody.

Blackmar leads field at Greater Greensboro

Associated Press

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Phil Blackmar was strong to the finish Friday, and that was good enough to get him ahead of the pack at the Greater Greensboro Open.

After a first-round fade on the closing holes left him in a six-way tie for first Thursday, Blackmar turned in a 6-under-par 66 for a two-day total of 133 and a two-shot cushion over Mike Reid.

"I played as well as I did yesterday for the first 12 or 13 holes, except I played well all day today," Blackmar said.

"I hit a lot more 3-woods off the tee," he said. "Yesterday, I was carrying a different driver and it wasn't feeling that well on the back nine. Today, I carried my wooden driver and I hit it sparingly."

Blackmar had three birdies on the front nine, hitting his iron shots close to the pin for two of them and blasting out of a sand trap to within 5 feet for the third birdie.

He opened the back nine with a three-putt for bogey, but his 3-wood saved him on the following hole and he got that stroke back.

Trio shares Sara Lee lead

Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Dana Lofland, Tracy Kerdyk and LPGA rookie Florence Descampe tamed the Hermitage Golf Course on Friday, tying the course record with 7-under-par 65s to share the first-round lead in the $525,000 Sara Lee Classic.

Lofland battled late afternoon winds and displayed a deft putting touch from long range, Descampe shook off a spell of homesickness and Kerdyk, who twice ran off strings of three consecutive birdies, finished in a light rain.

Kerdyk started on the back nine and birdied her first three holes.

A bogey 5 at the 14th was offset by an eagle 2, which came when Kerdyk one-hopped a 6-iron shot into the hole from 137 yards out on the par-4, 360-yard 15th.

After making the turn at 4-under 32, Kerdyk strung together birdies at the third, fourth and fifth holes and thereafter matched par as she battled high winds and rain.

Descampe, 22, made the turn at 1-under 35 over the par-72, 6,242-yard course before shaving five shots off par on the back nine to match the course record shared by Nancy Lopez, Rosie Jones and Amy Alcott.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

WHAT IS STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE?

Stockquote Hotline gives you the latest stock prices direct from the wires of the Associated Press. Over 9,000 stocks are listed from NYSE, AmEx, and OTC sources; all available 24 hours a day. You can receive up to 10 quotes with one easy phone call.

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE:

1) Call the Stockquote Hotline at 560-2400; enter the category number which is 9988.

2) You will be asked to enter your stock ticker symbol. These are based on industry-standard symbols, which can be found in a Standard & Poor's Ticker guide, or by calling your local stock broker.

3) Once you've entered the numerical code for the ticker symbol, press the Star Key (*) and you will hear the current price and net change from the last Associated Press update; which is a few minutes behind market activity.

4) After the stock is quoted, you will be asked to enter another ticker symbol. You now have 2 options:
- You may request a quote for another stock by repeating steps 2 & 3.
- You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more pressing the Star Key (*).

Now the volume, high and low will be given, and then you will be asked to enter another ticker code.
- You may enter up to 10 ticker symbols per call.

5) To exit Stockquote Hotline, simply hang up the phone.

Pilgrims commemorate Catholic evangelism

By Mitch Mitchell

CROCKETT (AP) — One man in a group of Knights of Columbus members who trekked here recently said his walk was a small sacrifice to make to honor his faith.

The group that walked into Crockett last week is part of two larger groups that will relay two replicas of the cross Christopher Columbus brought to the New World. People representing those two groups will meet in Bastrop on April 30.

After joining up in Bastrop, the two groups will march into Austin on May 2 to commemorate the 500th anniversary of Columbus discovering the Americas, the beginning of the evangelization of the Americas by the Catholic Church and the 300th anniversary of El Camino Real — The King's Highway.

The pilgrimage is to commemorate the first known trans-Texas journey, the Governor Teran-Fray Massanet expedition of 1691.

"As far as the kids understanding the significance of what we're doing, I don't think so," said Jose Landin, a participant in the pilgrimage and a native of Jacksonville.

"We have to show its importance by example and by doing these kinds of things. It's easy to drive 20 miles, but the walk makes you live the trail."

It was a small group making the journey into Crockett, but the historical significance they were trying to recreate is not small.

Three hundred years ago a group of missionaries, the provincial governor of Texas-Coahuila and 50 Spannish troops crossed the Rio Grande River into uncharted territory as they blazed an eastern trail for travelers who would follow, a release from the Knights of Columbus said.

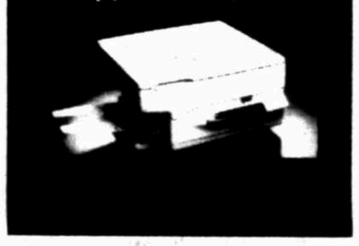

The trail became the El Camino Real, and roughly follows the route of Texas 21, U.S. 57 and Interstate 35.

The two groups will march into Austin on May 2 for the Knights of Columbus State Convention, Palestine District Deputy Jerry Ballard said.

The El Camino Real is important to Texas history because it served as a commercial route, a conduit for troops, a military road connecting a string of forts and as a communications network.

Hill Country rivers pose dangers after rains

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Recreation along the Guadalupe River and other Hill Country streams can be dangerous the next few days because heavy rains have left the rivers full and fast-moving, officials say.

Three people drowned last weekend in the Guadalupe in separate incidents.

This is the season when the prime recreational stretch of the river — between Canyon Lake and New Braunfels — begins to see heavy use from tubers, canoeists and swimmers.

But officials are warning fun-seekers this weekend.

Release gates will be opened wide at Canyon Lake for the next several days. The section of the river below the dam will be flowing at about 5,000 cubic feet per second.

"That is wholly uncontrollable and dangerous," said Jim Clifton, executive officer with the Comal County Sheriff's Department. "Even when it looks like it's safe ... you're taking a chance. It's flowing a lot faster than you think it is."

Clifton helped coordinate the search for a canoer who drowned last weekend after he fell out of his canoe. Clifton said the man was sucked into a culvert that under normal conditions is well below the bridge of the Rebecca Creek low-water crossing.

Guadalupe River users north of Canyon Lake need to be careful, too, because the flow of the river there is considerably above normal, authorities say.

"The river hasn't gone down since December," said Capt. Ray Crooks of the Kerrville Fire Department.

Other area rivers, including the Frio to the west of San Antonio, have been swift the past several days, posing problems for tubers, canoers and other recreationists.

Eddie Martin, manager of the river outfitter Whitewater Sports along the Guadalupe, said he will not rent equipment when the river is high unless it is a guided trip.

"The majority of the people who get into trouble are inexperienced," Martin told the San Antonio Light. "They just jump in and go down the river. They don't have any idea where they're going."

Capt. Don Zercher of the New Braunfels Fire Department said alcohol is a major factor in many river accidents.

"Half of these people who are floating down the river are drinking," he said.

An even higher percentage do not wear life jackets, figuring they can just swim to the river bank. But that's not easy when currents are swift, he said.

Parents meet to discuss need for investigation

ARLINGTON (AP) — Federal authorities will go to schools next month to check out charges by parents that the district has subjected hundreds of black students to a "racially-hostile environment."

About 40 parents and their children discussed the treatment at a meeting Thursday night.

Frank Musuibile said a sixth-grade teacher punished his son by making him write an essay on "how he's not going to amount to anything."

The regional civil rights division of the U.S. Department of Education plans to meet May 4 with the parents, who have filed a class-action claim of racial discrimination against the Arlington Independent School District.

A district official called the claim unfounded and said the parents had not gone through normal complaint procedures because they "didn't want their allegations reviewed."

School board member Carlton Lancaster said the board recognizes the concerns and is relying on a minority task force to look into allegations and come up with recommendations.

"That committee has been studying these particular items for months and they are going to bring forward recommendations to the school board," Lancaster said.

The Rev. Luther Felder of Grace United Methodist Church, where Thursday's meeting was held, urged parents to report problems.

State reports record number of murders

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas had a record number of murders and a large jump in other violent crimes last year as compared with 1990, state law authorities reported Friday.

Despite the significant hike in violence, overall crime increased only 2 percent, and the rate of crime per 100,000 people actually fell by a fraction, officials said.

"We're pleased the overall number of reported crimes in Texas grew only slightly last year, but we're very concerned with the jump in violent crime, which was 12.7 percent," said Col. James Wilson.

"All enforcement agencies in Texas face a tough challenge," he said.

The DPS statistics show 2,651 murders were reported in Texas last year, compared with 2,388 in 1990 — an increase of 11 percent. The previous murder record in Texas was 2,463 in 1982.

Aggravated assault grew by 13.8 percent; rape cases by 5.9 percent; and robberies, 12.1 percent.

"The news was a little better in the property crime category," Wilson said. Overall, property crime increased by 0.9 percent; motor vehicle theft increased 6.1 percent; and theft, 0.4 percent. Burglary decreased by 0.6 percent.

A total of 1,356,451 major crimes were reported in Texas in 1991, compared with 1,329,339 in 1990, according to the statistics that are compiled by the DPS from local law enforcement agencies.

The crime rate fell 0.1 percent from 7.825 per 100,000 people to 7.818 per 100,000 people, the DPS reported.

The 1991 crime rate is based on a Texas population of 17.35 million people, while the 1990 rate was based on a population of 16.99 million.

The total number of arrests increased 0.3 percent from 999,940 in 1990 to 1,003,081 last year.

The report said 10 Texas law enforcement officers were killed in the line of duty last year, and four others died in duty-related accidents. Assaults on Texas officers decreased 3 percent from 5,059 in 1990 to 4,905 in 1991.

Among the state's largest cities, Fort Worth had the biggest increase in total crimes at 15.7 percent. The total number of crimes fell in Houston by 2.5 percent; Dallas, 0.9 percent; El Paso, 12.5 percent; and Austin, 1.5 percent. In San Antonio, crime increased 0.6 percent.

But even in those large cities that saw a decrease in total number of crimes, many of the violent crime categories are up.

The largest increase in crime for any city in the report was Victoria at 27.7 percent, while Mesquite recorded the greatest decrease at 21.6 percent.

Richards says she's due federal income tax refund

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards paid too much federal income tax last year and has filed for a $2,087 refund, according to her tax returns.

"She paid taxes just like everybody else," Bill Cryer, her spokesman said Friday. "She paid too much taxes."

Richards reported taxable income of $84,131 after deductions, and had $26,065 in federal income tax withheld from her pay.

The amount withheld was $4,174 more than she owed, according to her returns. She has asked for half that amount in a refund, and the other half to be applied to her 1992 federal income taxes.

Richards makes her tax returns available because "it's the public's right to know," said Cryer.

In her campaign for governor in 1990, Richards criticized Republican opponent Clayton Williams for not releasing his income tax returns.

Many believe that Williams' admission in the closing days of the campaign that he did not pay income taxes in 1986 helped Richards win.

In her 1991 return, Richards claimed herself as a dependent, and reported $87,112 in salary; $10,704 interest income; $1,635 dividend income; and $2,182 in capital gains from the sale of her former home.

Her adjusted gross income was $101,633.

She claimed $17,502 in deductions, the bulk of which came from her mortgage interest, $11,449; property taxes, $2,195; and $1,800 in charitable contributions. She reported selling her house last year for $225,000 after moving into the governor's mansion.

Black leaders propose summit

DALLAS (AP) — Hispanic leaders on Friday considered an offer to meet with their black peers in a "reconciliation summit" to heal what some see as a growing rift between the city's largest minority communities.

Black leaders proposed the summit Thursday. It would be the first of its kind in Dallas since 1986, but no date has been set.

The idea grew after a recent flap involving a black school administrator accused some Hispanic principals of incompetence and asked whether it was a cultural trait.

Similarly, anger rose two months ago between a black and a Hispanic member of the City Council after DART awarded an $18.6 million contract that included no black firms.

Allegations of racial insensitivities have divided minority leaders in Dallas "as wide as I've ever seen it," said Adelfa Callejo, attorney and former member of the Dallas Area Rapid Transit board.

City Council member Domingo Garcia said he believed there is truth in the allegation that Anglos play blacks and Hispanics against one another.

"I know of overtures made to the Mexican-American community to use them as a buffer against blacks in political situations," Garcia said.

Car shows no evidence of mechanical failure, New York police say

NEW YORK (AP) — No mechanical problems were found Friday in a car that mowed down dozens of people in a crowded Greenwich Village park when its driver said it inexplicably accelerated.

Four people were killed and 27 injured Thursday when the car driven by 74-year-old Stella Maychick of Yonkers raced into crowded Washington Square Park, smashing benches and sending people flying.

Twelve people remained hospitalized Friday, with six listed in critical condition.

"We have found no evidence of a mechanical malfunction. We found no evidence of sudden acceleration," said Lt. Frank Lagano, of the Police Department's Accident Investigation Squad. "It is possible it could have been human error."

But the Washington-based advocacy group Center for Auto Safety called on the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration to reopen an investigation of certain General Motors cars, including the Oldsmobile model that crashed.

Clarence Ditlow, the group's executive director, said he would push for a recall of several GM models.

"It's so frustrating to us to see this kind of accident," Ditlow said. "We should not have to produce dead bodies to get the government to protect consumers."

Investigators also tested the car's brakes and found they were working. They found no steering fluid in the car's fluid reservoir, but said it could have leaked out after the crash.

Maychick, who was treated at a hospital Thursday and released, hasn't been charged.

"We agree with the Police Department's opinion that no charges are warranted at the time. However, the investigation is continuing," said Barbara Thompson, a spokeswoman for the district attorney's office.

Maychick told police she shifted her 1987 Oldsmobile Delta 88 from park to drive and put her foot on the gas when it suddenly raced into the park.

The day was warm and sunny, and the popular park, adjacent to New York University, was packed with people.

The car sent people flying, knocking some out of their shoes, before it crashed into a railing.

The dead, all New Yorkers, were identified as Carlos Oyola, 19, a pre-med student at NYU; Reubin Perez, 29; Carol Trocchia, 73; and Ruth Zimmerman, 76.

A day after the deadly crash, many people around Washington Square remained stunned as workers hosed away blood stains.

"There's just complete shock," said Gladys Krasner, who heads the nearby Caring Community senior center where Trocchia and Zimmerman were members.

"May their souls rest in peace," said Danny Benitez, who runs a Greenwich Village leather shop.

A sign in one NYU building reminded students to call their parents and let them know they were OK.

The type of car that crashed was the target of a voluntary General Motors recall in May 1988 after a problem with sticking throttles was discovered.

Police find boy's skull in N.J. marsh

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (NYT) — A skull found Thursday in a vast marsh in Edison, N.J., has been identified as that of Timothy Wiltsey, a 5-year-old boy whose mother reported him missing at a carnival 11 months ago, the Middlesex County prosecutor said Friday.

The prosecutor, Robert W. Gluck, said at a news conference here Friday that the boy's death would be treated as an "apparent homicide," instead of a kidnapping or missing persons case. But he would not comment on how the boy might have been killed, or where, or when.

He said that the search had turned up other skeletal remains and scraps of clothing that matched the outfit the boy was last seen wearing. He said additional laboratory analysis would be needed before the authorities could speculate on the circumstances of his death.

In the absence of forensic results, Gluck said he was investigating the case as a homicide because of the account originally provided by the boy's mother, Michelle Lodzinksi, a 24-year-old secretary from South Amboy.

Ms. Lodzinski told the police her son had vanished from the grounds of a traveling carnival in Sayreville last May 25 while she waited in line to buy a soda.

Neither Gluck, nor his predecessor, Alan A. Rockoff, said they had ever been able to fully corroborate her version of events, or to verify beyond doubt that the boy was at the carnival that day.

An extensive search failed to turn up any trace of the boy, and hundreds of sightings of Timothy reported in the United States and Canada were checked out and proved false, Gluck said.

Asked at a news conference Friday if Ms. Lodzinski was a suspect, Gluck repeated what his predecessor had asserted over many months: that he would rule no one out. But he said no one was being questioned at the moment, and no arrests were imminent.

Ms. Lodzinski, he said, was called to Sayreville Police headquarters on Thursday and told of the discovery, and she was also questioned again about the boy's disappearance. Gluck declined to characterize her response or to discuss the nature of her discussion with the police.

Ms. Lodzinski remained in her house in South Amboy throughout the day as clutches of reporters roamed up and down the street while children tagged along on bicycles.

Once Ms. Lodzinzki opened the blinds and shook her head "no" when a reporter approached the house.

Jim Ryan, the captain of the South Amboy First Aid Rescue Squad and the founder of Friends of Timmy, a group that helped publicize the boy's disappearance, went into the house Friday afternoon.

Later, talking to reporters, he seemed distraught when he said: "What kind of society do we live in that a 5-year-old, an innocent 5-year-old could be taken? I just pray that he's in a better place than he was."

He did not discuss Ms. Lodzinski's mood, except to say, "What would you expect at a time like this."

Timothy's father, George Wiltsey, lives in Iowa, and according to the police, had not seen his son in years.

The search that turned up the skull was undertaken on Thursday at the urging of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which recently joined with other law-enforcement agencies in re-evaluating the case, Gluck said.

The site, about nine miles from Sayreville, where the carnival sets up its rides in the spring, is an undeveloped portion of the Raritan Center industrial park, a three-square-mile area that was once the Raritan Arsenal, a major World War II staging area.

Near the end of the park's main road, Raritan Center Parkway, an intersecting concrete strip called Olympic Drive stretches several hundred yards into a marsh of cattails and streams and then stops.

U.S. shows progress in reducing gases, report shows

N.Y. Times News Service

A new analysis by the federal government says that American emissions of gases believed to cause global warming may stabilize by the year 2000 at 1990 levels because of steps to save energy or reduce pollution that are already planned or under way.

The analysis is significant because the Bush administration has consistently opposed signing an international agreement that would commit the United States to achieve such a goal, partly because of concern about costs.

But many of the actions analyzed in the new report are being undertaken to save money. "These are things you would do because they make good sense to do," said Eileen B. Claussen, director of the Office of Atmospheric and Indoor Air Programs at the Environmental Protection Agency, which collaborated with the Department of Energy, the State Department and other agencies to produce the analysis.

The analysis says the steps that have been planned or already taken will reduce emissions of manmade, or "greenhouse," gases by 7 to 11 percent by the year 2000 below what they would otherwise have been.

The main gas created by human activity is carbon dioxide, but smog, methane from landfills, nitrous oxide from combustion processes and chlorofluorocarbons used for refrigeration and other purposes also contribute to the problem.

Scientists believe global temperatures are rising because increasing levels of such gases will trap and retain heat from the sun in a process similar to what happens in a greenhouse. The new federal analysis endorsed this theory. Global warming could cause sea levels to rise and disrupt the earth's biological system.

In negotiations under the auspices of the United Nations that are scheduled to resume next week in New York, several European nations are seeking a pledge to freeze emissions at the 1990 levels by the turn of the century.

That would mean a reduction of about 12 percent for the United States, according to Rafe Pomerance, a climate change expert at the World Resources Institute, a non-profit environmental organization based in Washington.

The steps analyzed by federal scientists include an initiative by the Environmental Protection Agency to have companies use more efficient lights and motors; provisions of the National Energy Strategy, now before the Congress, to improve the efficiency of energy use and increase the use of natural gas, which produces less carbon dioxide, and research and development of renewable energy sources.

The total reductions are estimated at 125 million to 200 million metric tons in the year 2000. The carbon reduction is put at 87 million to 121 million tons, which could put carbon dioxide emissions below 1990's levels.

Alden Meyer of the Union of Concerned Scientists, which has been active in issues involving global climate change, said the United States had a great deal to gain by promising to do what it was likely to do anyway because its willingness to sign a treaty would lead other nations to sign.

White House eases liability of banks in pollution cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration on Friday eased the liability of banks for toxic pollution caused by business operations financed with their loans.

The rules change, issued by the Environmental Protection Agency and promoted at a White House news conference, was represented as an effort to encourage skittish lending institutions to offer more credit to commercial property buyers.

The move is among a series of steps President Bush says will reduce regulatory hindrances to economic recovery.

"Excessive regulations add billions of dollars of costs to the American economy each year. We've got to do something about these costs," the president said in a brief appearance at the White House press room.

The EPA rules shift lifts most liability of lenders for cleaning up toxic waste sites under the 1980 Superfund law.

The law provided federal money to clean up polluted sites but allowed the government to sue those responsible. It originally exempted lenders who acquired properties because the original owners went bankrupt or defaulted on loans.

However, court rulings in recent years have eroded the exemption and some banks have refused to lend to businesses where even a possibility of future contamination existed.

Owners of businesses such as factories, dry cleaners and gasoline stations complained it was virtually impossible to get a loan.

Bankers had pushed strongly for the rule change, but environmentalists hardly were pleased.

"It will undercut the current incentive for lenders to carefully examine borrowers for environmental misbehavior," said Doug Wolf, an attorney with the National Resources Defense Council in New York.

F. Henry Habicht, EPA deputy administrator, said the new regulation, under development since August 1990 and formally proposed 10 months ago, is aimed at preserving a liability exemption for lenders unless they take an active role in a property's management or become involved in decisions on the disposal or cleanup of toxic material.

Pharmaceutical company pleads guilty to charges of lake pollution

N.Y. Times News Service

A major pharmaceutical manufacturer pleaded guilty Friday to violating the federal Clean Water Act by discharging chemicals that polluted a lake in Syracuse, N.Y.

The manufacturer, Bristol-Myers Squibb Co., was fined $3.5 million and, as part of its plea agreement, said it would build a wastewater-treatment plant that federal and state officials estimated might cost as much as $30 million.

Several officials said the fine and the cost of the treatment plant represented the biggest penalty imposed for a pollution violation since Exxon Corp. was ordered to pay $125 million to settle criminal charges stemming from the Exxon Valdez oil spill, which devastated Alaska's Prince William Sound in 1989.

"It is a very, very large fine," said Daniel J. Weiss, director of environmental quality for the Sierra Club in Washington. "A fine in the tens of millions of dollars is very large for a violation of the Clean Water Act. They tend to be in the hundreds of thousands or the very low millions."

The case centers on Onondaga Lake, one of the nation's most polluted bodies of water.

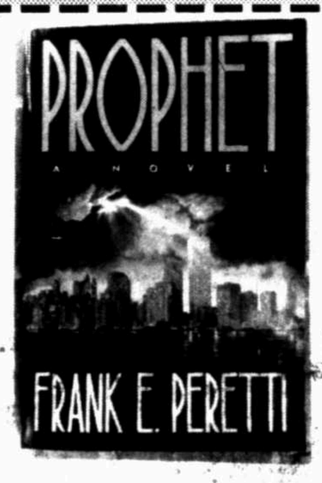

The investigation of Bristol-Myers Squibb began in 1988, after an environmental specialist who worked for the company quit in frustration because her recommendations for complying with the Clean Water Act were not heeded, said a federal prosecutor, Craig A. Benedict.

Top guns direct tactics in Buffalo battlefield of abortion war

By Catherine S. Manegold
N.Y. Times News Service

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Several days into a long-planned struggle over abortion rights in Buffalo, leaders of the national anti-abortion group Operation Rescue took stock of the battlefield and saw less than a victory.

The skirmishes in Buffalo did not bode well for their next major target, the Democratic Convention in New York City this July.

So they called in reinforcements.

"We got the word," said a regional director from the West Coast. The other side was using a strategy to defend the Buffalo clinics that had been successfully used in California.

"So they called us in as tactical team," said Dave Conrardy, a field coordinator with Operation Rescue's Los Angeles office.

Their mission: counter clinic defenses coordinated by Katherine Spillar, the Los Angeles-based national coordinator of the Feminist Majority, who six weeks earlier had come to Buffalo to instruct abortion-rights advocates on the lessons learned in other states.

So far, those defenses have held. Though hundreds of anti-abortion protesters spilled into Buffalo through the week, willing to go to jail to make their point, Operation Rescue did not shut down any abortion clinics this week.

Even so, both sides in the debate say the real showdown should come today.

With the U.S. Supreme Court hearing arguments this week about a Pennsylvania law that would impose restrictions on abortions and possibly give the court an opportunity to reverse the abortion rights established by Roe vs. Wade in 1973, Buffalo has become the human battleground in the emotional debate.

Protesters on both sides of police lines believe the resolution of the abortion issue will set the course for a broad spectrum of future political decisions varying from the rights of homosexuals to the definition of pornography.

As a result, the top guns on both sides of the debate have descended on this gritty northern city, tying up phone lines and dominating the nightly news.

A National Organization for Women board meeting was hastily moved from Florida to the front lines in Buffalo.

NOW's past president, Eleanor Smeal, shuttled between her Washington office and defense lines outside the Buffalo clinics. Elizabeth Holtzman, the New York City comptroller and a candidate for the U.S. Senate, made the shorter trip from New York.

In a week of protests a small army of praying, chanting and crucifix-bearing supporters have snarled traffic in parts of Buffalo, put the city's collective nerves on edge and attracted the attention of television cameras and reporters from across the country.

More than 250 people have been arrested, including more than 70 anti-abortion protesters who were arrested Friday. Most of those arrested have refused to post bail and are still in police custody.

For both sides, the issue is an extravagant, moving chess game that shifts from city to city.

Rights leaders blast Gates; jury retires without verdict

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Civil rights leaders blasted police Chief Daryl F. Gates on Friday for suggesting that racial unrest would be touched off in the city if four white officers are acquitted in the beating of a black motorist.

"Once again, Daryl Gates has pitted himself against the leaders of the African-American community," said Ralph Sutton, a spokesman for the Brotherhood Crusade.

"Never have we suggested to anyone that we would take the law into our own hands. ... that would be suicide and we're not suicidal people," he said.

Gates said in a videotaped message played at police roll calls Thursday that some leaders in the community might try to stir up trouble if the officers are found innocent in the beating of motorist Rodney King.

"Your job is to go out and maintain order, maintain peace, maintain a calmness, maintain maturity, maintain a professionalism," Gates told officers in the five-minute videotape.

Cmdr. Robert Gil, a spokesman for Gates, defended the message.

"The chief did what he thought was appropriate," Gil said Friday. "He put it out in good faith. If someone wants to read things into it that's their prerogative, I guess."

Jurors in the trial deliberated for a second day Friday in the Ventura County city of Simi Valley. They retired for the evening without a decision and were to resume today.

Sgt. Stacey Koon, 41, and Officers Laurence Powell, 29; Timothy Wind, 31; and Theodore Briseno, 39, were charged with assault in the March 3, 1991, beating of King. They each face four to 7½ years in prison if convicted.

John Mack, president of the Los Angeles Urban League, said he believes the black community will respond calmly if the officers are acquitted, but he said there was some concern of unrest.

An acquittal could fuel the outrage blacks felt last summer when a judge sentenced a Korean merchant to probation for killing a black teen in a dispute over a $1.69 bottle of orange juice, he said.

Arizona House votes to switch to lethal shot for executions

PHOENIX (AP) — State House members, disturbed by graphic accounts of the slow death of the first man executed in the state's gas chamber in 29 years, have voted to switch from gas to lethal injection.

The change to a method presumed more humane passed the House 41-7 and now goes to the Senate. If approved there the matter would be put before the voters in November as an amendment to the state Constitution, which specifies the use of gas.

The change was proposed early this year, but didn't gain significant support until the April 6 execution of triple murderer Donald Eugene Harding in the gas chamber at the state prison in Florence.

Harding wasn't pronounced dead until 10 minutes after two cyanide pellets were dropped into a bowl of sulfuric acid beneath his chair. Witnesses described a gruesome scene of Harding gasping, shuddering and desperately making obscene gestures with both strapped-down hands.

The campaign for change gained momentum this week when neighboring California had its first execution in 25 years. Robert Alton Harris had to sit strapped in the gas chamber chair while his last appeal was rejected. Then, like Harding, Harris took 10 minutes to die.

Arizona, Maryland and California are the only states where gas is the sole method of execution. North Carolina and Mississippi use gas or injections.

Clinton, with Pennsylvania's Wofford at side, hits Bush on health care

By John King
Associated Press writer

PHILADELPHIA — Democrat Bill Clinton tried out a formula with proven Pennsylvania appeal Friday, criticizing President Bush for failing to enact a national health care plan and promising one early in a Clinton administration.

"I'm going to put it at the forefront of our campaign," the Arkansas governor and likely Democratic nominee said after touring the neonatal center at The Pennsylvania Hospital with Sen. Harris Wofford.

Wofford won a stunning upset last year over Republican Dick Thornburgh, Bush's former attorney general, after a campaign in which Wofford put health care at the top of his agenda.

On Friday, Wofford said Bush was "holding hostage the health care issue" with unfulfilled promises to offer a comprehensive plan.

Clinton, the senator said, "is the kind of a man who I believe can turn that right of affordable health care into a reality." Clinton advocates a "pay or play" approach in which employers either provide health care coverage or pay into a government insurance pool.

Former California Gov. Jerry Brown also has stressed health care on the Pennsylvania campaign trail. He favors a centralized system like the one in Canada, where the federal government pays the bills.

The two Democrats face off Tuesday in the state's presidential primary, with Clinton leading preelection polls. Brown on Friday took a few jabs at Clinton as he walked in the rain in Aliquippa, a western Pennsylvania town devastated by the closure of LTV Steel operations in the 1980s.

He said he agrees with Pennsylvania Gov. Robert Casey's belief that Clinton cannot win against Bush.

"Everyone I've talked to knows that voting for Clinton is like taking out a ticket on the Titanic," Brown said. "It's going down."

Clinton on Friday picked up the endorsement of two big unions, the 900,000-member United Auto Workers and the 200,000-member United Mine Workers of America. Many unions initially were reluctant to support Clinton because of his spotty labor record at home in Arkansas.

But UAW President Owen Bieber said his union was "entirely comfortable with Clinton's ability to force the Bush campaign to expose its weaknesses on the issues that will determine our national future."

UMW President Richard Trumka said, "Coal field families deserve a president who's going to stand up to protect our health care and we think Bill Clinton is that man."

Clinton cuddled a tiny, premature baby inside the Philadelphia hospital and appeared with Wofford in an outside courtyard, where both lashed out at Bush for inaction on health care.

"If I'm elected president of the United States — we pass a national health care plan," Clinton said. "We will never provide both comprehensive coverage and control health care costs until we have some national system."

A particular emphasis of his plan, Clinton said, would be universal access to prenatal care for pregnant women. He said it would cut premature and low-weight childbirths in half and save millions of dollars along the way.

"America spends more money than it would if we did the right thing on the front end," said Clinton, who repeated the theme later in the day during a satellite appearance, just before Bush, to a conference of Hispanic journalists in New Mexico.

"The cost and availability of health care is crippling the American economy and tearing the heart out of American society," Clinton said.

SATURDAY, APRIL 25, 1992

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Something that seems elusive is actually within your grasp. Put your faith in those who have aided you in the past. The personal touch helps your career dreams come true in September. Take a good look at your financial situation when December rolls around. Once you gain the full confidence of your employer early in 1993, the sky is the limit for job success. Give romance a second chance next March.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actor Al Pacino, jazz singer Ella Fitzgerald, newsman Edward R. Murrow, basketball star Meadowlark Lemon.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A day of ups and downs. Trust your instincts in family affairs. Diplomacy will help you make up a midafternoon tiff. Do not let an older person influence you too much.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Admit a mistake and promise to do better in the future. You are ready to pursue your goals more diligently. Reach out to those who share your aims. New alliances flourish.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Be more sensitive to a loved one's needs. Follow through on a promise you made yesterday. Your goals may need reappraisal. Do not sacrifice long-range gains for a short-term advantage.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): The confines of home could bring you down; you should try to steal away. Go exploring with a favorite companion. Be wary of romantic entanglements tonight.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Going to extremes would be a mistake now. Take things easy, especially in personal matters. Create some beauty around your home by decorating with cut flowers.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22: Foreign places and contacts attract your attention. A family relationship will improve when you show greater understanding. A second job could be the answer to a temporary cash shortage.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Refuse to let anyone rattle your cage today. Working solo will probably prove more rewarding than joint endeavors. Your love life looks very promising. Do not try to do too much.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Good financial news is in store for you. Become a smart shopper. A timely agreement promises long-term benefits. People at a distance are eager to hear your ideas. Observe all traffic rules.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Powerful energy is in the air. Do not stay cooped up at home — activity, fresh air and friendly chats keep your spirits up. Evaluate real estate proposals very carefully.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Someone you have long admired expresses approval of your ideas. You suddenly become more convincing. Emphasize what you hope to achieve and other people jump on your bandwagon.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Household and job tasks flow smoothly; complete them now while you can. New career developments or business information could mean lasting financial success.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lucrative business deals still seem to be your strength. You make a wise decision where a legal or travel matter is concerned. Try a little tenderness to appease a loved one.

TODAY'S CHILDREN: Peer approval means a lot to these eager-to-please youngsters. Help them choose pals who have good values. These Taureans' honest, straightforward manner will make them well-respected in business. They love the land and are likely to find special success in real estate or farming. No one is better in an emergency than these quick-thinking children. Beautiful, comfortable surroundings are very important to those born on this date. They are willing to pay top dollar to have the best.

Director Spike Lee earns first history maker award

BOSTON — Filmmaker Spike Lee has been chosen for the first National History Maker Award by Boston's Museum of Afro American History.

Lee and 32 recipients of the Men of Vision award were recognized for their contributions to the social, political and cultural well-being of the city's African-American community.

Lee

The History Maker Award pairs the recipient with a historical figure whose philosophies, achievements and contributions to black life parallel their own.

Lee was paired with William Monroe Trotter, an educator and social activist who was jailed in 1915 for his protest of the film "Birth of a Nation," a silent film epic which many felt glorified the Ku Klux Klan.

"Lee has made an effort to make real the images of African-Americans — socially, culturally, politically," said the museum's Melanie Dyer. "He gives his audience a window into Afro-American life and culture."

Other recipients include: Derrick A. Bell Jr., on leave from the Harvard Law School faculty to protest what he says is a lack of blacks on the faculty; and Henry E. Hampton, producer of the public television series "Eyes on the Prize."

The recipients were chosen by a selection committee made up of community members and museum officials.

LINCOLN, Neb. — Art Linkletter, an institution to a generation of television watchers, said his philosophy isn't complicated.

"Things turn out best for the people who make the best of the way things turn out," Linkletter said Thursday. He spoke at the University of Nebraska on "Making Positive Decisions in Life."

Linkletter

Linkletter said people must train their minds "that there are going to be tough times but that you're going to tough them out."

Positive attitudes are not the same as "Pollyanna" thinking, he said.

"It's not a case of the 'I'm OK, you're OK' theory," he said. "Positive thinking is giving attention to good things while recognizing the bad things." Linkletter sees the breakdown in the American family as a cause for social problems. "When the family starts to break down, the country breaks down. Sick families make sick children that make a sick country," he said.

TULSA, Okla. — S.E. Hinton, author of the best sellers "The Outsiders" and "Rumble Fish," will be honored at the University of Tulsa.

Ms. Hinton, who graduated Tulsa in 1970, will be inducted May 1 into the university's chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, the honor society open to liberal arts students.

Ms. Hinton wrote "The Outsiders," her first book, when she was a student at Will Rogers High School in Tulsa. Her books have sold more than 8 million copies.

Both books were made into movies by director Francis Ford Coppola.

LOS ANGELES — A judge allowed Michael Oliver, 10-year-old star of "Problem Child," to proceed with a court battle against Universal Pictures over his $250,000 salary.

Judge Dzintra Janavs refused Thursday to dismiss a countersuit by the boy.

Universal claims Oliver and his mother, Dianne Ponce, forced the studio to renegotiate his "Problem Child 2" contract as filming was to begin. His $80,000 slary was raised to $250,000 after he threatened not to perform, Universal said.

"I think he has been damaged because he is (now) considered to be a problem child, and he is anything but," said Ms. Ponce. "He's a really smart, funny kid."

NEW YORK — The Cleveland Orchestra sued Michael Jackson Friday for allegedly using its recording of a Beethoven symphony on his "Dangerous" album.

The copyright infringement lawsuit in federal court seeks at least $7 million from Jackson and his company, MJJ Productions. Also named are his record label, Epic Records, and Epic's parent company, Sony Music Entertainment Inc.

A 67-second choral snippet from Beethoven's "Symphony No. 9," "uniquely interpreted and conducted by the late George Szell," is heard at the beginning of Jackson's song, "Will You Be There," according to the lawsuit.

"We respect Michael Jackson's innovative efforts to integrate pop and classical music," said Thomas Morris, the orchestra's executive director.

But he charged the ensemble received no credit or compensation. The orchestra recorded the symphony in 1961 for Columbia Record's Masterworks label.

Jackson's attorney, Bertram Fields, said he didn't know which recording of the symphony Jackson used.

KENT OIL, INC.

KENT KWIK CONVENIENCE STORES

WHY KENT OIL COMPANY?

Kent Oil (operating Kent Kwik convenience stores) is a West Texas-based company, thirty five years old and still growing. We offer many benefits to our employees. These benefits include:

- Company-assisted medical, dental and life insurance
- Paid vacations
- Sick pay program
- Tuition reimbursement program
- Special incentive programs for all employees
- Profit-sharing and retirement plan
- Intensive new hire training
- Structured continual management training
- Flexible scheduling
- Full and part time hours available
- Work close to home
- Affiliation with Odessa 66 credit union

We attempt whenever possible to promote from within. All of our current store managers, middle and upper management started with the company at the entry level. It is possible to move up quickly based on your experience and level of education.

Working in a convenience store is both exciting and challenging. You have to be outgoing and enjoy serving the public, while at the same time be a self-starter, as you receive very little on the job supervision.

If you are considering a career in the retail industry, give Kent Oil your consideration. Apply at your nearest Kent Kwik.
