GRAND CHAMPION

Harlan Carson Shows Champion; H. B. Carson Is Champ Breeder

FAT LAMB

Grand champion calf of the Olton FFA, FHA and 4-H Club Stock Show this year was exhibited by Harlan Carson, a senior FFA boy.

The big black Aberdeen-Angus which walked into the winner's circle was bred by Harlan's father, Herschel Carson.

Harlan realized 75 cents a pound for his fine animal. Investors Security Mutual Life Insurance Company of Lubbock paid $768 for the grand champion.

Mr. Carson breeds Aberdeen-Angus exclusively.

Harlan is a Lone Star Farmer and has been outstanding in chapter work. He has fed calves for the Olton show since he was a small boy.

4-H BOY

Ronald Oursbourn, 10-year old 4-H Club boy, exhibited a winner his first year out. His Hereford calf stood second to the Carson calf in the heavyweights and then went on to stand reserve champion, beating out a fine lightweight Hereford shown by Nancy Brigrance.

Nancy's calf was first in its class.

Ronald's calf brought 50 cents per pound and was purchased by Western Cotton Oil of Plainview. This was Ronald's first show as an exhibitor.

Donald Oursbourn, Ronald's brother, showed the second place lightweight calf. It also was a Hereford.

Moore Wins

Grand champion fat barrow was shown by Jerry Moore, Olton FFA senior.

The grand champion was a Hampshire produced from Jerry's own breeding stock and sired by a boar owned by Carl Nafzger.

It sold for 76 cents per pound to McClain Fuel Injector of Lubbock. Jerry is president of the FFA chapter.

Reserve champion barrow was shown by Roy Neal Jones. It was a Poland China which represented an outstanding feeding job. It weighed only 31 pounds when Roy Neal put it on feed November 15. It weighed 191 pounds at show time and sold for 64 cents per pound to Olton Co-Op Gin.

Roy Neal is a sophomore FFA boy who also exhibited the grand champion lamb of the show.

The 91-pound Southdown sold for $1.25 per pound to Olton State Bank—buyer of the grand champion lamb at the Olton show for many years.

The lamb was donated for the

Texarkana Firm Contracts Cucumber Acreage At Olton

HALE CENTER MAN GIVES GLOWING REPORT ON CUKES

Olton will grow some 250 acres of cucumbers this year to be processed by a Texarkana firm.

Three representatives of Brown-Miller Co., processors of Rainbo pickles, met with about 60 farmers and businessmen at Olton High School Tuesday night and accepted contracts for growing of 165 acres.

They left blank contracts with Joe Wood, Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture manager, to be filled out by growers and forwarded to Texarkana.

The three representatives here included George Klumb, general manager of the Texarkana plant; L. L. Coleman, field manager; and Tom Wells, Mr. Klumb's assistant.

Brown-Miller Co. contracted to take 75,000 bushels of cucumbers—said to be the normal crop on 250 acres.

The firm also contracted prices. Number one cucumbers—fruit an inch in diameter—will be purchased at $5.00 per hundredweight. The price scale goes all the way down to 50 cents per hundredweight for number four cucumbers.

Mr. Klumb said checks to the growers will be forthcoming when loads are delivered to Olton and samples taken for grading.

He said farmers can expect immediate pay for their cucumbers.

The cucumbers will be picked up and paid for at Olton, Mr. Klumb declared.

Olton farmers heard a glowing report from Willie Teeter of Hale Center who raised cucumbers for another firm last year.

Mr. Teeter said he netted $150 per acre on the 10 acres he planted. He said his father did even better, netting about $200.

He went on to point out some of the pitfalls he encountered in his first year in the cucumber business.

For the merchants of Olton it will mean a financial shot in the arm in a time of need—the heart of summer.

Mr. Klumb said picking will begin in early or mid-July and will continue through August. About 500 hands will be needed to harvest Olton's crop.

Olton Chamber of Commerce & Agriculture is in contract with some hybrid seed companies who are interested in Olton as a seed producing area. A meeting of farmers and representatives of these firms is expected in the near future.

Beverly Eby, Margie Henderson Bring Most Money In FHA Contests, Sale

Beverly Eby led the list of winners in the FHA division of Olton's stock show here last week-end, with a take of $22.50 in prize money. Co-incidentally, Beverly is FHA president.

The next four highest winners were Oneta Yates (FHA superintendent), $10; Jessie Thomas, $8.25; Hazel Smith, $7; and Margie Henderson, $6. Margie's

URGE PARENTS TO PROTECT CHILD'S VISION

(Published in the interest of better vision by the Texas Optometric Association.)

Many parents are surprised and often quite upset to receive a note from the teacher or school nurse asking that their youngster have a visual examination. Of course the teacher or school nurse is not to blame when "Johnny Can't Read." It is the parent's duty to make sure the student's eyes are able to take the load of school work.

Comments by parents such as these are very common and natural: "But Johnny hasn't complained about his eyes" or "How can there be anything wrong with his eyes when he makes such good grades" or "Only last year the doctor examined his eyes and said they were all right."

Teachers and school nurses are to be complimented for their alertness in detecting as many visual problems in the early stages as they do. It is here that a well planned "Preventive" visual program can be worked out to the best advantage by the Optometrist.

Human eyes are primarily adapted for distant seeing. In these modern times, however, the emphasis and stress on vision is placed at the closer distances—those within arms length. This is certainly true of the students of today who must read a minimum of 432 books during the 12 years leading up to graduation from high school.

Frequently lenses and visual training are necessary to enable a student to accomplish in school. If visual training is necessary, it is the parent's duty to provide it. After all, a youngster depends on his vision to learn in school and he will depend on his learning to make a living for the rest of his life.

So be thankful that our schools of today have modern alert teachers and well qualified school nurses who are constantly on the lookout for early signs of visual problems. However, parents should not place this responsibility on the teacher or school nurse. They should not wait for a note from the school concerning their youngsters' vision.

It's the parents responsibility to have their child's vision examined each and every year to

Outer Space Theme Dominates Banquet Here Monday For Lamb County Teachers

"America is the only country the world has ever known which was founded on an idea."

W. F. McCurdy, public relations director for Sears-Robuck & Co., Dallas, made this statement Monday evening to 260 teachers and guests at the quarterly Lamb County Teacher's Banquet here.

McCurdy, former athlete, ex-pilot and eloquent after-dinner speaker, likened American ideals to those kindled in Moses' burning bush and on Mt. Sinai.

"The same two forces met in Moses and Pharaoh 3,000 years ago," he compared, "that meet today in freedom and communism. Is man the property of the state, or a free soul under God?"

"Pharaoh gave the same answer as the communists give: God chose Moses. We must choose God."

Decorations for the banquet, held in the school lunchroom, symbolized an "outer space" theme. They were prepared by Olton students and teachers. Sputniks and rockets of all sizes were suspended from the ceiling. Centerpieces were formed of tiny rockets and explorers.

Decorative center of interest was a mural of a satellite painted in pastels by Mrs. Carl Macon. In the lighter vein, Harry Ford, master of ceremonies, launched a miniature rocket, which "went about as high as did the first one the United States sent up," he laughed.

Following the speech, Mr. Ford, out-going president of the organization, presided at a business session. New officers were elected, to include James Pirkey, Littlefield, president; Myron M. Crawford, Spade, first v-president; Mrs. Eldon Nichols, Sudan, second v-president; and Mrs. W. P. Stone, Amherst, secretary-treasurer.

The nominating committee also announced that delegates to the District IV convention in Odessa March 7 will be selected as follows: Littlefield, two; Olton, two; Springlake, one; Sudan, one; Amherst, one; Spade, one; and Jerry Lumsden, county superintendent will be the ninth delegate. All delegates are to be appointed by the school superintendents.

Dinner music was furnished by the Blue Notes, directed by Fred Stockdale. They also presented special music after the meal, including a cornet trio.

The invocation was said by H. A. Carter. The welcome was given by Noel Johnson, with response by Mrs. Elizabeth Ayers of Littlefield. Visitors were recognized, including various trustees of the Olton School Board, and Dr. Thomas Spencer, president of South Plains College, Levelland, and of the Texas Association of Junior College. The benediction was offered by Gene Mayfield of Littlefield.

The meal was served by seventh-grade boys and prepared by Mrs. Ray Slatten and lunchroom workers.

Library Week Is March 16-22

"Wake Up And Read" is the slogan chosen for the observance of National Library Week March 16-22, according to Mrs. C. S. Silcott, who is a member of the Lamb County Library Board of Directors.

Events for the week will include poster contests, in which winners will be selected from each town, then from the county, and finally for the state. Girl scout troops are expected to assist with arrangements, as well as a chain department store. Open house will be held at the County Library in the basement of the courthouse, Littlefield, on March 19.

Further details for the local poster contest will be announced later.

Saunter With Sue
BY SUE MAY

When Korkye started writing her column, "Ironing Things Out," she was a mommy and housewife—jotting down little ideas and thoughts that came into her mind during her daily chores of housekeeping.

And when my "Saunter With Sue" began, I was just "fresh" out of high school and my "saunter" consisted of teen-age happenings!

Now Korkye is writing full-time again at the Enterprise and I'm a society editor-housewife-mother. (Sounds busier than I am!)

But the catch is—if everytime Korkye or I do something different and we changed our columns' titles—folks would be a confused lot and so would we!

So, as far I'm concerned, we'll just stick to "Saunter With Sue" for awhile—after all, "Sweeping With Sue" or "Scrubbing With Sue" sounds kinda stupid, I think!

Say now, the Bykota Style Show is Tuesday night, February 25, at the school lunchroom. The theme, "Around the World in 80 Days," will be carried out in a very lovely manner. Don't miss it!

And the P-T-A play is Friday week, February 28. And the men, we hear, have made the stage props. Should be an entertaining night for the family!

Has everyone seen "Peyton Place"? It was terrific! (Definitely an adult movie, though!)

The thing that impressed me the most was the "true-to-life" ness of it—especially the small home-town.

Sometimes a small town is too prone to judge and gossip about things they know nothing about. I'll guarantee you that if you see the movie, you'll cry or get all choked up during the doctor's testimony in court at the end of the story.

It was a pathetic true-to-life drama. But good—real, real good. I'll bet it gets several academy awards this year!

Some people have a belief that every tree, when it burns, gives back the colors that went into its making—they see in the flaming logs the red of many sunsets, the purple of early dawns, the silver of moonrise and the sparks of the stars. So it is with us: what we have accepted into our hearts and made a permanent part of ourselves is given back in times of trials.

Some time ago, we started a campaign for a "little theatre" or drama club. I would still like to see one organized here.

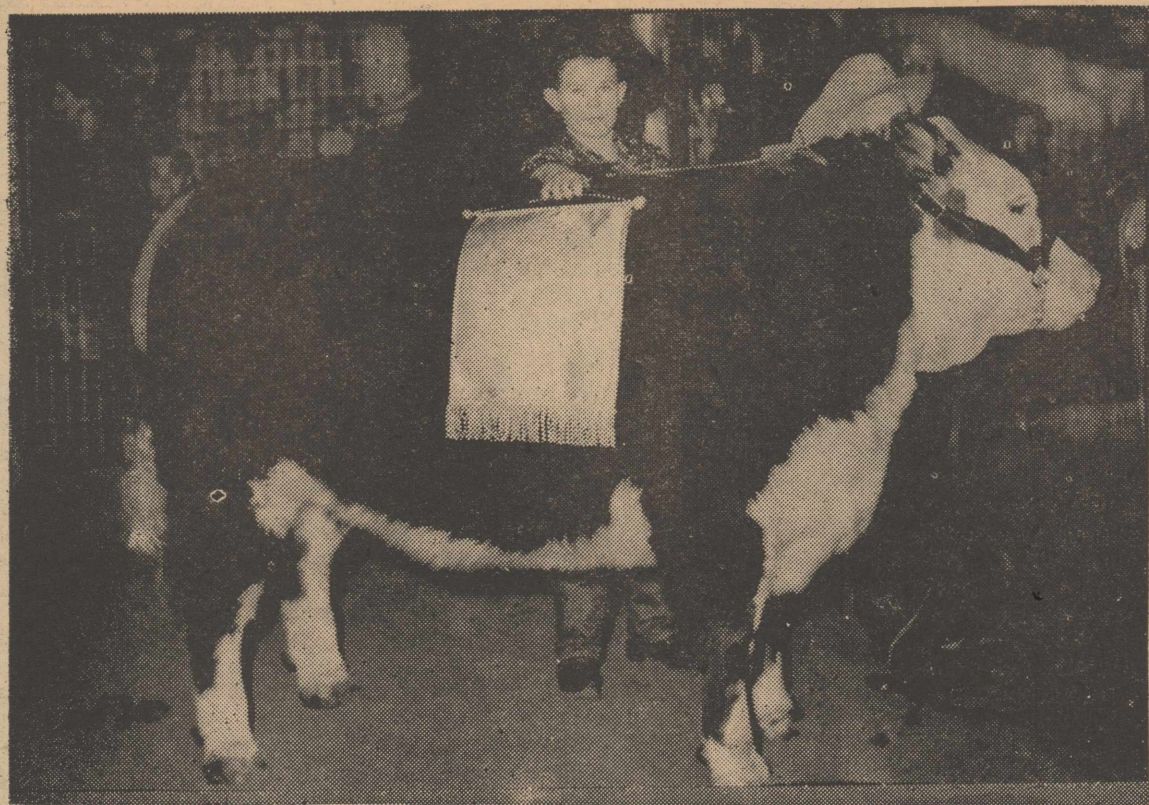

To put on a Broadway play in Olton would be a real thrill for the actors and quite a fete for Oltonites and surrounding communities.

If you like to play-act, talk it up—we could have a wonderful educational thing in a "little theatre."

One way to get rid of your worries is to let them die of neglect.

Yes, we're a little, shall we

RESERVE CHAMP

ROY NEAL JONES was in the winners circle twice at the annual stock show last week. He is shown here with his reserve champion fat barrow. He also showed the grand champion sheep.

M-Sgt. Starkey Is In Alaska

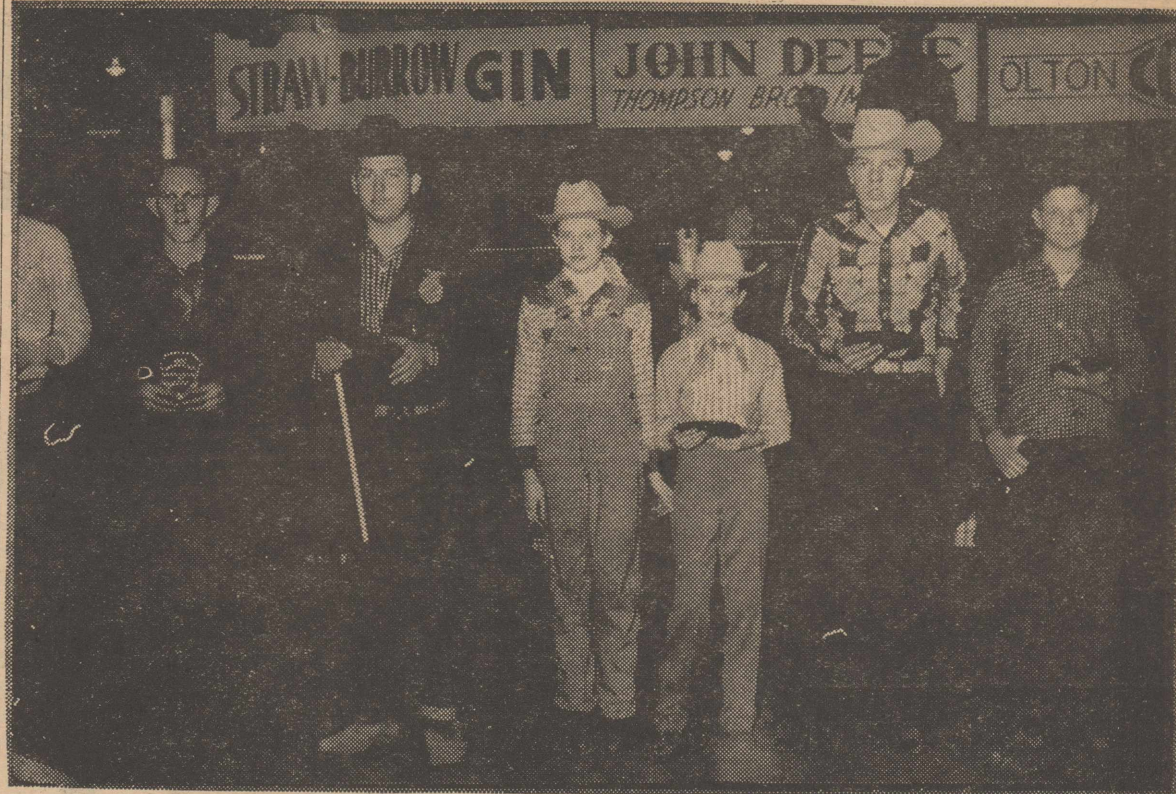

Army M/Sgt. Andrew Starkey, 34, of Springlake, is participating in maneuvers with the 15th Artillery at Fort Greely, Alaska, one of the coldest spots on the North American continent.

The maneuvers consist of simulated combat situations in which mobility on snow and training in tactics are being stressed.

Sergeant Starkey, son of Andy Starkey, Star Route, is regularly assigned as first sergeant of the artillery's Battery B. He entered the Army in 1941 and was stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., before arriving in Alaska in August 1956.

The sergeant attended Springlake High School.

OUTSTANDING

THESE YOUNGSTERS took personal honors in the Olton FFA, 4-H Club and FHA stock show last week. The youngsters, along with awards, include from left, Darryl Dennis, sheep showmanship; James Carson, swine showmanship; Nancy Brigrance and Sharon Brigrance, neatest calf exhibit; John Lynn Burrow, neatest sheep exhibit; and Randolph Schaefer, neatest swine exhibit. Not pictured is Houston Hamby, winner of the calf showmanship award. The awards are offered annually by the Olton Chamber of Commerce. "These awards are principally responsible for the neatness of the show barn and good grooming and showing of animals," declared Vocational Agriculture Instructors J. C. Lane and Harold Warren.

ANGEL ON SKIS by Betty Cavanna, published by William Morrow and Co., $2.95.

The name of Betty Cavanna is a familiar one to most young people for she has been writing books for young moderns since 1943. She was graduated from the New Jersey College for Women where she majored in journalism. While working for the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education in Philadelphia, she became interested in writing for teen-agers and has since made an outstanding contribution to the field of juvenile literature. In private life she is Mrs. George Russell Harrison and lives in Belmont, Mass.

The heroine of the book is a girl named Angela, and according to the blurb on the book, Angela wanted more than anything else in the world to enter the "white world of snow and speed and excitement"—the skiing world.

"When her mother moved to Vermont to support the family by running a guest house for skiers, Angela knew there wasn't a penny to spare for buying skis. But that did not lessen her almost fanatic determination to learn to ski. How she really did learn is a major theme of the novel. Because the author is intimately acquainted with skiing techniques, it is completely authentic. Because she knows so well how to re-create the breathless wonder of the ski slopes, it is enchanting. But that is not all. Miss Cavanna's story is warm with the glow of happy family life, and shining with romance; for the ski trails lead Angela to the glory of first love." (End of quotation from jacket.)

money has been pretty tight with us. And Bill has been saying we just couldn't afford a new car now. Well, he gave me the surprise of my life today. He drove home a big new FORD! It's a Custom 300 Sedan and the prettiest car you ever saw. It drives like a dream, Mom! And just listen to this—Bill bought it for less than the similar model would have cost us last year. Be sure to tell Dad about this... and maybe you'll get one of these grand new Fords, too.

Results Of Tests With Castor Beans High Plains Station Announces

Tests were conducted at the High Plains Station of Texas Research Foundation in cooperation with Baker Castor Oil Company to determine the highest yielding varieties and nitrogen needs of castor beans in this area.

Twelve varieties of castor beans were planted June 8 in four-row plots, 100 feet long, at the rate of ten pounds of seed per acre. There were four replications of each variety placed at random in the field so as to eliminate differences due to soil and watering variations.

No fertilizer was applied prior to planting and 50 pounds of nitrogen per acre as anhydrous ammonia was side-dressed June 28. Due to the rainfall during the spring of 1957, no preplant irrigation was applied.

However, four post-plant irrigations were made, making a total of 12 inches of applied water. There were 17.4 inches of rain during the period of April 1 to October 1 making a total of 29.4 inches of water which could be considered available to plant growth.

Earlier Planting
It appears that earlier planting and at least one additional irrigation would have appreciably increased the yield of all varieties.

TABLE 34. Response of two varieties of castor beans to nitrogen fertilization in 1957.

Table 1 shows the varieties included along with yield obtained. In this test a difference of less than 105 pounds per acre between any two varieties is not significant.

Castor beans are considered to be heavy feeders on nitrogen. Therefore, a nitrogen test with four rates of nitrogen on each of the two varieties was conducted to determine the nitrogen needs of castor beans.

Treated Same
Other than differences in fertilization, these plots received the same treatment as did the variety test. The two varieties used were Baker 296 and Dawn with each receiving four rates of nitrogen as anhydrous ammonia.

These rates were (1) no fertilizer; (2) fifty pounds N at planting; (3) one hundred pounds N at planting; and (4) fifty pounds N at planting with fifty pounds N sidedressed July 10.

Table 2 shows no significant increase in yield due to fertilizer application. However, this test was on Pullman clay loam which had previously been dry-land farmed and the available nitrogen may have been sufficient.

Soils which have been heavily cropped under irrigation should show increased yield with the use of nitrogen.

Hart P-TA Has Founders Day Observance

A Founders Day program was presented at the meeting of the Hart P-TA Monday evening, February 10, with Mrs. Pyeatt in charge.

A skit on founders day was presented by various members. A. R. Bostick, elementary school principal, and J. V. Westcott, high school principal, talked on "Partners in Education," stressing the fact that the child, the parents, and the teacher are partners in education.

A monologue was given by Carolyn LeMay, followed by three musical numbers by Mrs.

Maybe it wasn't what he was looking for, but Green Henderson bagged a seven-foot mountain lion while hunting in Arizona recently.

Henderson was visiting his son, Charlie, and family in Payson, Ariz., recently, and was on a hunting trip with his son when they spotted the lion. The cats feed on young calves in that area, and the county gives a bounty of $75 to hunters who eliminate one of the lions.

The men made about 50 cents on the pound for their kill.

REASON FOR LIVING
Sometimes I get to thinking, as my labors I review

That I should like a higher place, with greater task to do
But I come to the conclusion, when the envening is stilled
That the post to which God sent me is the post he wanted filled

So I plod along with patience in the hope when day is through
That I'm really necessary to the things God wants to do.

And there isn't any service I can give that I should scorn.
For it may be just the reason God allowed me to be born.

I LIKE HART—

(BY BILL H. SHELBY)

Why do I like Hart?

The editor has graciously asked me to write the initial editorial on this subject. I had not previously analyzed my personal reasons for liking Hart. I like it, and had not bothered to ask myself why. On contemplation, I find there are many reasons why I like Hart.

First of all, I like the people of Hart. They are friendly and very courteous. It is a place where, after a week's time, one feels as if he had lived here always.

Next come the churches of the town. They are all active, and every Sunday the community worships at the churches of its choice.

Third, I like the school. Ours is not a large school, nor is it outstanding in scholastic merit; but it supplies the basic and fundamental needs of the students. The factor which makes Hart's school outstanding is the school spirit. Typified by the good citizenship of its students and their devotion to the alma mater, made manifest by the perseverance and ethical sportsmanship displayed in athletic contests; (of 36 boys in high school, 31 participate in athletics) the school spirit is such that the community may be justly proud.

Also, I like the town proper, the various business enterprises and the civic organizations. I like the way in which all of these agencies work together, cooperating for the mutual good.

The easiest way to say "why I like Hart" would be to say—it is a community of good people, good churches, and a good school.

Hart Pair Writes Home Of "Storyland" Cruise To South Seas On Ocean Liner

Fire-walkers, glow-worms, coconuts and cobras are just a few of the spectacles being experienced by Mrs. Ralph D. Perry and her daughter, Susan Linton of Plainview and Hart, these days.

The ladies are on a 72-day cruise of the South Seas and the Orient aboard the SS Lurline, a 580-passenger ocean-liner.

A highlight of their tour so far, according to letters received here by their friends, was witnessing firewalking on their visit to the Fiji Island. Mrs. Perry writes:

"They had a pit filled with stones with burning logs piled on top and burning for several hours. They dragged the logs off, pulled some of the hot stones on top around to the edges. The bottom stones were loosely piled so the hot ashes could sift down between them.

"The firewalkers kept us waiting about 30 minutes, then the men walked in and stood about five minutes. Firewalking is one of the rare things done by only one tribe, and why remains a mystery. They get badly burned but do not appear to be hypnotized nor in a trance."

The first landing of the passengers was at Papeete, Tahiti, on January 15. This island is described as "being like a park everywhere with coconuts and cobra being the principal industries."

The group visited the homes of Robert Louis Stevenson, Paul Gauguin, Nordoff and Hall on the island of Tahiti.

Mrs. Perry boasts that the Lurline is air-conditioned and affords many types of entertainment, from ping-pong and shuffleboard to movies and educational lectures.

She says that about half of the 580 passengers are over 70, but "have young ideas—we've seen 30 or 40 of them taking rhumba lessons and swimming or sunbathing, regardless of shape."

Mrs. Perry and Susan have met many interesting passengers, among them two couples from Amarillo, the E. B. and M. T. Johnsons, and a mother and her daughter who live only two blocks from the Perry home in Denver, Colo.

Glow worms abound on New Zealand. Mrs. Perry explains that they are "The larvae of a fly which attaches itself to the ceiling of a cave. They light up their tails to catch insects for food."

"From a boat on an underground river, we saw hundreds of them and had to remain perfectly quiet in the utter darkness, because the worms put out their light at any sound."

The couple also saw the New Zealand geo-thermal project. The people have tapped an underground steam supply which comes out of a mountain near Waireki with a continuous roar, and they use the heat for industrial power.

In Australia, the group flew from Sydney, to Melbourne, to Cranberra and back. Cranberra, Mrs. Perry says, is a planned new city of about 30,000 people, "the most beautiful little city I ever saw."

From Australia, the party was to have stopped at Port Moresby. Additional information will be available next week.

Jack Shelley, Hale Center, Tex., says: "I put down Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia on my irrigated cotton and got an average of 847 pounds of lint per acre. This compared to a yield of 633 pounds on a check plot. My increase netted me $54.85 an acre. I got more well matured, five-lock cotton bolls, too."

Other Southwestern farmers have discovered that the 82% nitrogen in top quality Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia helps them to get more profit per acre, through higher yields and lower production costs.

They have found that, by using Phillips 66 Agricultural Ammonia, they get more cotton that grades out higher at the gin; yields of sorghum grain and ensilage are increased; more marketable vegetables are harvested, and profits on wheat are increased through better forage, and higher yields of grain.

The above was simply a camouflage way to tell you that Arno Hall has a new car and that he was with Judy Ogletree Sunday evening. (It's different anyway.)
