Emergency grazing on CRP

The Agriculture Department has approved a request for emergency grazing of established CRP land in Bailey County, according to the Bailey County Farm Service Agency office.

The emergency exemption does not include cover crop for new CRP acreage.

For more information, contact the Bailey County FSA at (806) 272-4538.

Marriage was up in the air

WASHINGTON, Iowa - When a tornado cut a quarter-mile path through this small town on May 15, it destroyed Michael and Carla McCandless' home and sucked up their marriage license in its 200 mph twisting winds. They had no idea it was missing in the chaos until a close friend, Don Bayliss, surprised the couple with their priceless certificate.

A fellow farmer had discovered it in a pasture — more than 80 miles away. ''My husband thought I was crazy for laminating our marriage license,'' said Carla McCandless, who married her high school sweetheart 28 years ago. But the plastic coating protected the license from several inches of rain dumped on southeastern Iowa.

Vermont's first family

WINOOSKI, Vt. — To have one valedictorian in a family is an honor. But five? That's the story of the Brosseau family. Aimee Brosseau, 17, graduated from Winooski High School at the top of her class, the fifth child in the brood to do so. ''These kids didn't get any freebies,'' said their dad, Roland, a social studies teacher at the school for 29 years.

''Working hard does pay off when you have to earn it.'' The family trend started with Monique, who graduated as valedictorian in 1977. She was followed by Carole, in 1978; Robert, in 1982; Patrick, in 1986, and then Aimee. Two other Brosseau children got high honors. What's the secret to raising such a litter of literati? Mom said it's all in the planning.

'You have to be very organized and set your priorities,'' said Gloria Brosseau, herself the valedictorian of her class at Mount St. Mary's High School in 1955. ''We can't ask something of our kids if we don't do it ourselves.''

County, city officials urging ban on fireworks

City and County officials are urging residents to refrain from using firecrackers because of extremely dry and dangerous conditions.

Without any significant rainfall since March, grasslands in Bailey County and across the South Plains have turned into a tinderbox according to Bailey County Sheriff Coy Plott.

"We know we can't legally stop people from setting off firecrackers, but if they are going to light them, we'd like for them to at least use common sense," said Plott. "We've been lucky so far because we haven't had any significant grass fires. But every day we get more hot, dry weather increases the chances."

The heat wave is expected to continue this week, with temperatures well above 100 degrees, and little chance of rain, according to the National Weather Service in Lubbock.

Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox said the county missed the state deadline to issue a firecracker ban.

"It's extemely dangerous right know," Cox said. "With all the CRP land and pastures being so dry, it's like a powder keg waiting to go off."

City ordinances prohibit the lighting of firecrackers within city limits. Muleshoe Police Chief Don Carter said his department plans to enforce the rules.

City Manager James Fisher said residents should just settle for the city fireworks display on July 4th in the park.

"We don't need somebody shooting off a bottle rocket and starting a fire that burns from here to eternity," Fisher said. "Just come out to the park, relax and enjoy the entertainment and fireworks. It is good, family fun and a safe way to end the holiday."

Play attracts large crowds with its powerful message

By EMILY CRAWFORD
Special to the Journal

With its stark confrontation of mortality and the consequence of personal choice, "Heaven's Gates & Hell's Flames" draws a powerful reaction from its audience.

The evangelical drama, which has attracted crowds of more than 700 during its first two nights at the Bailey County Coliseum, consists of a series of vignettes in which modern-day characters either accept or reject Jesus as their personal Savior. Each character then encounters death and its immediate consequence — either Heaven's gates of hell's flames.

Such a potentially disturbing portrayal of death and the afterlife has caused critics of the play to claim it relies on "fear tactics" or inaccurate doctrine to sway its audience.

Jim Watson, pastor of First Baptist Church of Lazbuddie, believes the play "strictly goes along with the Scriptures: there's one way to God and that's through Jesus Christ. It's the love of God that delivers us from the fate of eternal separation from God.

"This is the most powerful evangelistic tool for winning lost souls that I have ever seen in person."

Watson invited the presenters of the play, Reality Outreach Ministries, Inc., to Bailey County.

A non-denominational organization, the ministry has more than 40 teams which present the play in the U.S. and abroad. Richard and Pam Brown, a husband and wife team from Dallas, who felt called to this ministry six years ago, coordinated the production.

The Browns have witnessed many people become believers through the play.

"In Lawton, Oklahoma, two thousand people were saved in about two weeks," Pam Brown said. "That's just unbelievable. We consider all [experiences like of

Hospital board weighing options

By RICK WHITE
Managing Editor

Muleshoe Area Hospital District officials are keeping their options open on the location of a proposed new nursing home.

Initial plans had called for building a 90-bed, $3 million facility with an Alzheimer's unit on donated land at the new city park. District officials are now considering an on-site facility.

"Surveys showed there was a lot of interest in building the nursing home adjacent to the hospital," said MAHD administrator Jim Bone.

Bone said he also was interested in building on the hospital district property. "Having all the district agencies in a single place helps bring attention to all the services provided by the hospital district."

Graduate students from the Texas Tech College of Architecture are currently doing site analysis and developing conceptions for an 80-100 bed on-site facility. A preliminary report is due the first of July.

The location of a potential on-site facility is a two-block section north and west of the Muleshoe Area Medical Center.

One board member was strongly in favor of an on-site facility during Thursday's meeting of the hospital district board.

"I think we should make every effort to do it right here," said hospital board vice-presi-

Rain just delays inevitable for many cotton farmers

By SHAWN WADE
Plains Cotton Growers

Dryland cotton producers across the Texas High Plains were dismayed last week by delays in the release of drought affected acreage following the first measurable rainfall to visit the area in over six weeks.

The rains only delayed the inevitable for many growers.

Because of the rain some will have to wait a full two weeks before they can receive an appraisal of their acreage.

For growers that received rainfall, appraisals will not resume until June 21 in counties with June 5 final planting dates or June 26 in counties with June 10 planting dates. Growers that did not receive any rainfall between planting and the final planting date continue to receive timely appraisal service.

PCG officials are taking the lead in the effort to make some aspects of this year's appraisal deviation permanent and to include clearer language regarding final planting dates and requirements.

PCG is seeking permanent changes that would immediately release drought affected cotton acreage the day after the final planting date when no moisture is received on the crop between planting and that date. If moisture is received between planting and the final planting date PCG is recommending a seven day waiting period to allow the crop time to emerge to a stand.

"We think this will significantly improve producer satisfaction with the insurance protection they are buying since it provides a quick response when conditions warrant and builds in adequate protection for Federal Crop Insurance providers to determine if an insurable stand is going to be realized as the result of last-minute weather events," explains PCG executive vice president Steve Verett.

Muleshoe teen dies in rollover

A 19-year-old Muleshoe man died in a one-vehicle accident Sunday near Amherst.

Jose Luis Orozco was driving a 1990 GMC pickup on FM 37 one mile south of Amherst at about 1:35 a.m. when he lost control, according to a spokeswoman for Texas Department of Public Safety in Lubbock. The pickup truck skidded across the highway and rolled over once. Orozco was pronounced dead at the scene.

A passenger in the vehicle, Ricardo Mendoza Muniz, 16, was listed in good condition at Lamb County Medical Center in Littlefield later Sunday.

Neither occupant was wearing a seat belt according to the DPS spokeswoman.

Orozco worked for TJ's Dairy in Amherst while Muniz is listed as a farm laborer.

dent Victor Leal. "I think for the sake of the family it's important to have the facility right next to the hospital. It would be a whole lot easier from all aspects."

Board member Mike Miller felt just as strongly about building off-site.

"I'd like it a whole lot better if we were out there," Miller said about the proposed city-park site. "I think the facility would be a whole lot nicer."

Bone said the district is still in the early stages of locating funding for the project. He said the district has learned an important lesson while applying for grants.

"What we're finding is many foundations are looking to see the financial commitment of the community as proof of endorsement of the proposal," Bone said.

But the hospital administrator said it is too early in the process to ask for a commitment.

"We need to know exactly what kind of facility we're going to build and have a definite site and cost before we can go to the community," Bone said.

Also during Thursday's meeting, comptroller Sharon Novak reported that because of a one-time bookkeeping adjustment, the district showed a loss of $30,000 in May.

The change resulted in no Medicaid revenues being reported at the nursing home in May, although about $78,000 was actually collected. Bone said the hospital district is doing well and is nearly $170,000 ahead of budget projections.

"Despite a lot of changes in healthcare over the last year, we're in a good position, especially heading into the slower summer months," Bone said.

The hospital board also approved the purchase of a unit that cleans surgical equipment from South Plains Biomedical Services, Inc. in Lubbock. The previously owned unit will cost $4,570.

TAKING A CLOSER LOOK

Muleshoe Area Hospital District administrator Jim Bone provided the following 12-month review for board members during Thursday's meeting.

■ Purchased land, facilities and equipment occupied and used nu the District from West Plains Medical Center, Inc. for $164,000 on June 12, 1997, with a note from Muleshoe State Bank

■ Paid off two loans at 1st Bank totaling approximately $72,000.

■ Submitted application, which was approved, to continue participation in the Medicaid Disproportionate Share Program.

■ Dr. Pete Gonzales, neurologist from Lubbock, began an outreach, outpatient clinic once a week at the hospital.

■ Board appointed a citizens advisory committee to review and assist in strategic planning for the nursing home, comprised of Jane Reeder, Melvin Griffin, David McIntire, Robert Lepard and James Fisher, which reported to the Board in December.

■ Purchased a handicapped equipped van for the nursing home.

■ Replaced the roof on the nursing home and home health, and repaired sections of the roof on the hospital.

■ Implemented a swing bed program, and received Medicare certification.

■ Assumed operation of the former Texas Tech/Texas Department of Health clinic as an outpatient services clinic of the hospital, and a Title V subcontractor.

■ Reworked the internal paging system and added home health and the nursing home to the systems

■ Board interviewed grant writing consultants and reached agreement with Kay Peck to develop grant applications, with two submitted for a total of $400,000

■ Established a compliance committee for the District, and the Board endorsed development of a compliance plan based on U.S. Department of Health and Human Services OIG guidelines, as did the Medical Staff.

■ Purchased a refurbished portable X-ray machine to replace one which did not pass state inspection.

■ Reviewed and revised District personnel policies.

■ Amended Medical Staff By-Laws to include provision for allied health professionals: i.e. nurse practitioners, physician assistants and certified registered nurse anesthetist.

■ Received a favorable audit report.

■ Hired new chief financial officer (controller).

■ Had a Department of Health survey and received no deficiencies.

■ Conducted a survey of nursing home resident families, civic organization and citizens for input on nursing home project.

■ Board held a public forum for input and suggestions relative to nursing home project.

■ Reached agreement with Texas Tech College of Architecture, community resources center, for evaluation and development of concepts for utilization of district sight in construction of a new nursing home.

■ Provided Internet access for District employees.

■ Placed or replaced computers in several departments, including Medical Records, Surgery, Central Supply, etc.

■ Replaced ventilator for Respiratory Therapy.

■ Renewed three year management agreement with Lubbock Methodist Hospital System.

No Gifts Please.

In a double ring ceremony Friday, June 18, 1948 at 10 a.m., Miss Joyeline Stearns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Stearns of Manitou and Laing, OK, became the bride of Joe. K. Costen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenner B. Costen of Snyder, OK. The vows were solemnized by Rev. Walter Hargraves in the First Christian Church of Snyder.

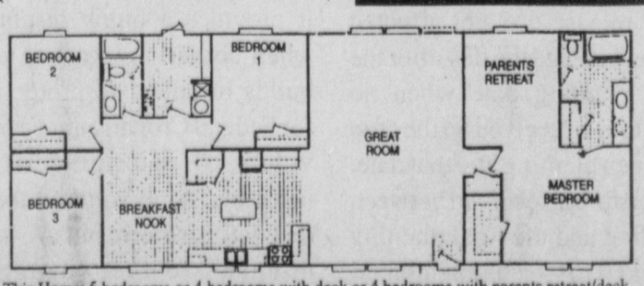

The bride is a graduate of Laing High School and received her degree from the Oklahoma College for Women at Chickasha. The groom graduated from Snyder High School and served two years in the Army during World War II. Most of this time was spent in the Pacific theatre.

The couple chose June 18 as the wedding date because it was the wedding anniversary of both parents.

that] miracles."

Wherever the drama is performed, the teams depend on local citizens to serve as the actors and stage hands. About 50 people from seven Muleshoe area churches participated in the preparations and rehearsals that began Friday evening and continued throughout the weekend.

Kayla Kimbrough, 14, of Lazbuddie portrayed a teen who, after mocking the idea of needing Jesus as her Savior, died of a drug overdose and consequently went to hell.

"I want to get more people to know Christ," said Kimbrough, who saw the play in Plainview last year.

At Sunday's performance, the first of three (at press time), the hour-long drama was prefaced by praise songs and an offering.

The play's scenarios were spotlighted in the foreground of the stage. After the characters reached a decision about believing in Jesus, they immediately died in a tragic accident.

Upon death, the stagelights rose to reveal the gold and silver gates of Heaven. If the character chose to believe in Jesus in life, Jesus and white-clad angels admitted him or her into Heaven. If not, then a masked, cackling Satan dragged the character into hell.

During one poignant scene, a non-believing mother was taken from her grieving, redeemed daughter. Another issue addressed was that a person who decides to believe immediately before death is admitted into Heaven, forgiven of sins committed prior to that point. Also, no matter how "good" one is or how religious one's family members are, a person must make a personal choice to believe in order to reach Heaven.

At the conclusion of the play, Richard Brown invited those in the audience to the stage who wished to accept Jesus or re-dedicate their lives to Him.

Several hundred people, many of them in tears, joined Brown at the stage and followed him in a prayer of repentance and acceptance of Jesus. Many still in the audience also participated in the prayer, spurred by the message of the drama that death may occur at any time, so each must decide his or her fate now.

Muleshoe native receives Extension Service promotion

Muleshoe native Holly Bills recently accepted the County Extension Agent-Family and Consumer Sciences position in Concho County.

Holly Bills

Bills is the daughter of Lyndon and Linda Huckaby of Muleshoe. She is a 1990 graduate of Muleshoe High School and was active in 4-H while growing up in Bailey County.

Bills will work out of the new Extension Complex in Paint Rock.

"We are all happy Holly has decided to remain in the District," said District 7 Extension Director Scott Durham. "Her knowledge and can-do attitude are real people motivators that will benefit both her programming areas and the citizens of Chonco County."

She had been Taylor County's Assistant County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Sciences.

Bills earned a bachelor's degree in food technology from Texas Tech University in 1994. She was also involved with 4-H, Alpha Zeta (agriculture fraternity), Block and Bridle, the Food Technology Club, and the College of Agriculture's Council at Tech. Bills also attended West Texas University, where she majored in agricultural business.

While a Bailey County 4-H member, she was a winner of both the Jimmy Dale Black Showmanship Award and State Food and Nutrition competition. She also held every county level 4-H officer position and served on her district's 4-H Council.

Tooley, Gladden honored at state 4-H banquet

Joshua Tooley of Maple and Jill Gladden of Muleshoe were winners during the 52nd annual Texas 4-H Roundup held June 1-5 on the campus of Texas A&M University in College Station.

Tooley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tooley, also received a $10,000 Houston Livestock Show & Rodeo Scholarship at Tuesday's awards ceremonies.

Tooley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tooley. The scholarship was presented based on 4-H activities, community service projects, financial need and a personal interview.

Later in the week, Tooley won first place and a $750 scholarship from Morrison Milling Co. in the state 4-H food show. Competition was based on a three-minute presentation about the foods and nutrition project, nutrition knowledge, a prepared dish and display and taste of the dish.

Jill Gladden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Gladden of Muleshoe, attended Roundup as a member of the Texas 4-H Council and served a leadership role by participating in various assemblies and roundup activities such as registration, dorm greeter and donor hostess. She also participated in the fashion and fabric design contest receiving second place for her accessory design. She received a $125 scholarship from Wrangler. Her entry included a design of a silk scarf, a detail sheet, a questionnaire, and an interview session. As a state fashion show participant, she won first place in the construction casual category receiving a $200 scholarship from McCall Pattern Company, Mike Benet Formals, and Wrangler. Because her garment was 100% cotton, she was eligible and was judged in the natural fibers contest. She received first place in the cotton construction contest receiving a $200 savings bond from Texas Cotton Producers, Inc. She also won the overall cotton contest and received an additional $200 savings bond and a $50 cash award from Texas Cotton Producers, Inc. The entry included the construction of a complete garment of city shorts, top and jacket, record forms, construction worksheet and an interview with a panel of three judges.

Josh Tooley of Maple, pictured with Chad Magee of Morrison Milling Co., won first place in the state 4-H food show.

Jill Gladden of Muleshoe was a multiple winner at the 52nd annual 4-H Roundup June 1-5 in College Station.

Gladden also participated in the pork method demonstration contest, placing sixth. The Texas Pork Producers Association, Inc. sponsored the contest.

Christi Adrian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Adrian, participated in the 4-H fabric and fashion design contest in the apparel division. She submitted a design of a blue formal and was interviewed before a panel of three judges. The entry included the fashion design, a detail worksheet, a questionnaire and an interview.

Hellen Adrian of Muleshoe served as a Fashion Design judge in the textile category and as a tabulator for the State 4-H fashion show.

Howard and Jan Tooley attended with Howard participating in the Volunteer Leaders Association of Texas meeting.

Gail Gladden, Bailey County Extension Agent-FCS also attended.

Cattle on feed up by 8 percent from last year

Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in Texas feedlots with capacity of 1,000 head or more totaled 2.64 million head on June 1, up 8 percent from a year ago. According to the monthly report released by the Texas Agriculture Statistics Service, the estimate was up 9 percent from a year ago and up 68 percent from the April, 1998 total.

Texas commercial feeders marketed 505 thousand head during May, up 1 percent from a year ago. Monthly marketings were down 8 percent from the April, 1998 total.

On June 1 there were 2.14 million head of cattle and calves on feed in the Northern High lains, 81 percent of the state's total. The number on feed across the area increased 9 percent from last year and increased 10 percent from the May total.

May placements in the Northern High Plains totaled 603 thousand head, up 68 percent from the April total. Marketings were down 10 percent from last month at 393 thousand head.

Cattle and calves on feed for slaughter market in the United States in feedlots with capacity of 1,000 head or more totaled 9.70 million head on June 1, 1998. The inventory was 1 percent above June 1, 1997.

Placements in feedlots during May totaled 2.03 million, 9 percent above 1997. During May, placements of cattle and calves weighing less than 600 pounds were 305,000; 600-699 pounds were 392,000; 700-799 pounds and greater were 627,000. Marketings of fed cattle during May totaled 1.95 million, 5 percent below 1997 and 1996.

Feeders in the historical seven monthly states with feedlots having a capacity of 1,000 head or more reported 8.29 million head on feed June 1, up 1 percent from last year and 14 percent above June 1, 1996.

May replacements totaled 1.74 million head, 8 percent more than last year and 34 percent more than 1996. Marketings during May, at 1.68 million head, were 6 percent below 1997, and 4 percent below 1996.

Tips for using gas grills

Spring and summer are the major outdoor grilling seasons all over the Lone Star State. And the Texas Railroad Commission, the state's chief energy agency, wants consumers to enjoy safe grilling.

As propane grill owners prepare for the cookout season, the Railroad Commission has issued a "top ten list" of grilling tips:

■ Previously used grills should be checked for problems such as worn hoses and proper air adjustment. Worn or defective parts should be replaced. And maintenance should be dome according to the manufacturer's instructions. Similarly, new grills should be assembled according to the manufacturer's instructions, and new owners should familiarize themselves with proper grill operations and safety instructions.

■ Do not use a propane gas cylinder if it shows signs of external damage, such as dents, gouges, bulges, fire damage, corrosion, leakage, or excessive rust. During grilling, the cylinder must be secured to the grill in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions. After grilling, the propane gas cylinder must not be stored within an enclosure.

■ Always open the grill hood before lighting, and light according to the manufacturers instructions.

■ Never use gasoline or kerosene to start the fire.

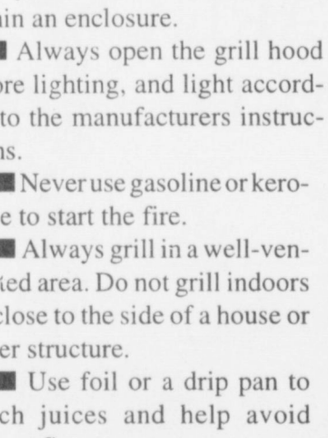

■ Always grill in a well-ventilated area. Do not grill indoors or close to the side of a house or other structure.

■ Use foil or a drip pan to catch juices and help avoid grease fires.

■ To avoid food sticking, preheat the grill for 5 to 10 minutes; do not turn food until half done, or lightly coat food with olive oil or other vegetable oil.

■ Since a hot grill is easier to clean than a cold grill, clean with a wire brush or scraper immediately after cooking, then wash off.

■ To measure the amount of propane in your cylinder, run a wet finger down the side of the cylinder. Water will evaporate faster over the empty part of the cylinder.

Clinton to sign ag research bill

President Clinton today is scheduled to sign the Agriculture Research, Extension and Education Reform Act of 1998 (S. 1150) during a morning White House ceremony.

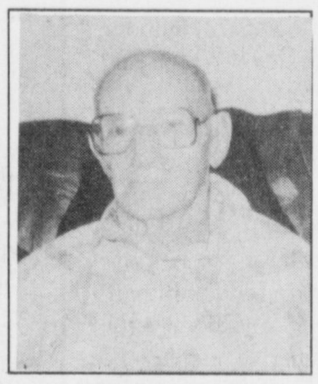

The bill was the subject of much controversy last month when House Republicans threatened to derail the package by insisting on separating its individual proposals.

The soon-to-be law includes $600 million in funding for agriculture research projects, $619 million in restored food stamp benefits for legal immigrants, $485 million in partial funding for the Federal Crop Insurance Program and $100 million for the Fund for Rural America.

J.C. Shanks

J.C. Shanks was born April 24, 1917 in the central Texas county of Brown. J.C., his eleven siblings and his parents moved to Mills County when he was 3 years old and then settled in Bailey County by the time he was 11 years old.

Mr. Shanks attended school in Baileyboro but didn't get to finish his studies. He went to work driving a tractor and breaking land for his dad on the family farm.

Mr. Shanks spent many years farming for himself and other people in this area. However he is really a "jack of all trades," spending time working at Bailey County Electric, delivering gas, driving transport trucks and working with the Highway Department.

J.C. married Odessa Vaughn of the West Camp area on January 14, 1940. Mrs. Shanks passed away August 7, 1996. The couple parented two sons: Donald of Arkansas and Gerald of Muleshoe. Mr. Shanks has 4 grandchildren and 3 great grandchildren.

J.C. enjoys writing and collecting poetry. Why poetry? It helps him sharpen his typing skills. This has come in handy since he is busy writing a book about his memories and his family's history. He affectionately calls it "PaPa's Memories." The book was started after his grandchildren showed interest in their family history and came to J.C. to tell them the "tales" of the Shanks family. According to J.C., this interest "broke me out of my shell."

Mr. Shanks also enjoys singing and is part of the Muleshoe Singers, a group that performs at the nursing home once a month. He is a member of the First Baptist Church.

About M.A.H.H.A., J.C. says that he appreciates what they've done for him. He's well on his way to recovery after hip replacement surgery.

Muleshoe Cattle Market

SATURDAY, JUNE 20, 1998

REPRESENTATIVE SALES

656 cattle, 212 hogs and 422 sheep & goats.

Market still struggling with drought-like conditions on the range. Fat cattle holding at 64-65 & grain prices rising. Placements in the feedyard were 130% from a year ago, so that doesn't help either. It could be a long summer. Remember - NO SALE JULY 4TH.

The Muleshoe Cattle Market is brought to you each week by Muleshoe Livestock Auction, located east of Muleshoe on U.S. 84. Muleshoe Livestock conducts sales every Saturday, beginning with hogs, sheep and goats at 10 a.m. and cattle following at approximately 12 noon.

MOVING IN

Marty Hernandez of Muleshoe carries a case of laundry detergent into the new site of the Dollar General Store on American Boulevard. The Dollar Store is relocating from Main Street to its new location across from McDonald's. Store officials hope to open the new store by this weekend.

USDA investing $17 million to boost rural economies

WASHINGTON,. D.C. — Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman today Monday that more than $17.2 million in loans and grants are being awarded by USDA to support the development or expansion of rural businesses in 19 states.

The projects are expected to create or preserve 3,758 rural jobs.

"Even though the nation's unemployment levels are at record lows, in many parts of rural America there is still a critical need for good jobs," Glickman said.

The $17.2 million in USDA funds will be used to leverage an additional $83.8 million from other private and public sources.

Glickman cited a $600,000 loan being made to a North Carolina plastics manufacturer as a good example of the way these business loans will stimulate small business and rural communities.

"This new company will create 17 new jobs," Glickman said. "A $750,000 loan to a West Virginia sport aircraft manufacturer to buy new machinery will create 50 new jobs and help preserve 72 existing jobs. A $400,000 loan for a new industrial building in rural Tennessee will create an additional 124 jobs and help protect 70 current jobs."

The funding is being provided through the Rural Economic Development Zero Interest Loan and Grant program, administered by USDA Rural Development. Under this program,

USDA provides funds to Rural Utilities Service borrowers — typically rural telephone or electric cooperatives — which in turn provide zero-interest loans to rural businesses in their service area.
