

WANTED TO 'SAVE HUMANITY' FROM 'RELIGIOUS PROPAGANDA'

Painter In Priest's Robes Attempts To Kill Pope Paul

MANILA (AP) — The painter in priest's robes who tried to kill Pope Paul VI with a foot-long knife says he wanted to "save humanity from the religious propaganda of the Pope" and had been planning to slay him for "many years."

The 73-year-old pontiff, on the third stop of an eight-nation tour of Asia and the Pacific, had just stepped off his chartered jetliner in Manila Friday when a man in clerical garb lunged out of a crowd of 3,000 and tried to stab the pontiff with a long curved knife he had concealed beneath a golden crucifix.

Police and dignitaries around the Pope stopped the man and threw him to the ground. The assailant managed to hit the pontiff on the chest as the knife went astray, but the Pope was not hurt. The attacker was bleeding from the head as police carried him away.

'RELIGIOUS FANATIC'
Officers identified the attacker as Benjamin Mendoza y

Amor, 35, a surrealist painter from La Paz, Bolivia. They said he was a "religious fanatic."

Vatican officials traveling with the Pope issued a statement today that said:

"It has been found without any doubt that a certain man, Benjamin Mendoza y Amor, of Bolivian nationality, dressed in clerical attire, approached the person of His Holiness with marked violence."

"Showing a crucifix in his hand, when he was near His Holiness, he pulled out a dagger and attempted to stab His Holiness. But he was immediately stopped by the security men surrounding the Pope."

NO IDEA
"The Holy Father was not aware of what was going on, and he continued to greet the rest of the guests with a smile."

Stephen Cardinal Kim of South Korea, who was at the Pope's elbow during the attack, came away with blood smeared on his white cassock. He said later that he had not been cut by the attacker's knife and had no idea how the blood got there.

Eyewitnesses said the bloodstains might have come from the wounds inflicted on the attacker by police.

The Pope had just been greeted by Philippine President Ferdinand E. Marcos and was walking a red carpet toward a dignitary who had knelt to kiss his ring when the attacker lunged.

There were conflicting reports over who stopped the attack.

Marcos' chief security officer, Col. Fabian Ver, said Marcos "parried the man" and pushed him back, where security police pounced on him.

STRIPPED OF ROBES
Bishop Juan Velasco, in charge of press relations for the Manila archdiocese, who was about four feet away, disagreed. He said a missionary, Msgr. Anthony Galvin of Borneo, Malaysia, blocked the attacker and hurled him to the ground.

After police subdued the attacker, they carried him bodily to a jeep and stripped off his gray robes and Roman collar. Then they took him to Camp Crame, headquarters of the Philippine national police, for questioning.

Capt. Francesco Jose of the Manila airport police said the suspect pointed to each policeman interrogating him and said: "I want to save you; I want to save you."

DURING INTERROGATION — A man identified by police as Benjamin Mendoza y Amor, a Bolivian free-lance painter, frowns during interrogation by police at Manila police headquarters today. Police arrested him after an attempted attack upon Pope Paul VI shortly after the pontiff arrived at Manila airport.

BURLESON DUE Open House Set Sunday For Library

Congressman Omar Burleson will be on hand Sunday when the new Howard County Library is formally dedicated. The ceremonies will be held at 2:30 p.m. on the front steps of the remodeled post office building on Scurry.

County Judge Lee Porter will deliver the welcoming address and Robert W. Whipkey, Herald publisher, will introduce Congressman Burleson. County commissioners, Mrs. Edna Nichols, librarian, and members of the Friends of the Library will also be present.

After the ceremonies, to be held outside if the weather permits, guests and dignitaries will go inside the library where the Permian Basin Chamber Music Society four-piece string ensemble will perform "Emperor" Variations by Haydn.

The Friends of the Library will serve as hostesses for the dedication guests and will furnish refreshments. Guests will be shown around the new facilities by the Friends and the staff of the library.

Holiday Toll Nearing 200

By The Associated Press

The nation's traffic death toll for the Thanksgiving Day weekend reached 195 at 11 a.m.

Rain dampened highways in the Southwest, the Pacific Northwest and the Great Lakes region, and snow fell in scattered areas from the northern Rockies to the northern Great Lakes.

The count of traffic deaths began at 6 p.m., local time, Wednesday and will end at midnight Sunday.

Hoover Cites Anarchists' Plot To End U. S. Bombing

WASHINGTON (AP) — An East Coast anarchist group led by two imprisoned Roman Catholic priests plotted to blow up underground power lines of the nation's capital and to kidnap as hostage a high federal official, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover disclosed today.

The purpose, Hoover told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee, is to "disrupt federal government operations" and to use the kidnapping as a lever to demand an end to U.S. bombing operations in Southeast Asia and the release of all political prisoners.

The principal leaders of the plot, Hoover said, "are Philip and Daniel Berrigan, Catholic priests who currently are incarcerated in the Federal Correctional Institution at Danbury, Conn., for their participation in destruction of Selective Service records in Baltimore, Md., in 1968."

Hoover said a White House staff member's name had been mentioned as possible victim of the kidnap plot.

Hoover cited the alleged plot of the anarchist group as an example of the increased willingness among extremists groups "to employ any type of terrorist tactics."

He said the group is known as the "East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives" and has described itself as being composed of Catholic priests and nuns, teachers and former students "who have manifested opposition to the war in Vietnam by acts of violence against government agencies and private corporations engaged in work relating to U.S. participation in the Vietnam conflict."

Hoover also said increasing ties between Arab terrorists and the Black Panthers "raise the ominous possibility that militants may seek to ape Arab tactics, including airplane hijackings, to gain release of jailed Panther members" such as Bobby Seale.

Hoover said the Panthers have "substantial connections with hostile foreign elements, notably the Communist regime in North Korea and Arab terrorists in Algeria."

He added Arab guerrillas reportedly are heavily subsidizing the Panthers and testified a new "international office" of the Black Panther Party was opened in Algiers in September under the leadership of Eldridge Cleaver, whom he described as a Black Panther fugitive.

Hoover said the "incipient plot" of the so-called East Coast Conspiracy to Save Lives had recently come to light and an intensive investigation now is being conducted by FBI agents.

Hoover, making one of his rare appearances at the Capitol, asked the subcommittee for a supplemental appropriation of $14,150,000 to provide for an additional 1,000 FBI agents and 702 more clerks for field operations.

Dayan Outlines New Plan For Cease-Fire

By The Associated Press

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has outlined a new plan for a Middle East cease-fire, and Western sources in London have reported moves to get peace talks going again before the end of the year.

Dayan said in a state television interview in Tel Aviv Thursday that he favored thinning out forces on each side of the Suez Canal to create a more relaxed atmosphere for negotiations.

He said it would be easier for Egypt and Israel "if they both want to get ahead with peace talks" to operate with the knowledge that neither side is planning or is in a position to attack the other.

NO DETAILS
He gave no details, saying these would have to be negotiated with the Egyptians.

Dayan stressed that his proposal does not call for withdrawal—as some of his critics charge—but for "a new cease-fire agreement."

The minister said the U.S.-sponsored truce that went into effect last August was broken by Egypt's missile buildup in the canal zone, and that since chances of a missile rollback were small, a new agreement was needed, so that Israel could resume talks under U.N. peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring. The negotiations have been dormant since September.

High Western sources in London reported that secret talks are under way to revive the Jarring mission by around Christmas. They said the United States and Israel are conferring with the British and French being kept informed of what is going on.

NAIL DOWN
The Nixon administration is again expected to seek Soviet cooperation to nail down the shaky cease-fire, due to expire in February along with endorsement of its efforts by the British and French, the sources said.

Egypt warned today, however, that it will not accept another extension of the cease-fire at "a mere make-believe attempt by Israel that it is resuming contact" with Jarring.

Mahmoud Riad, Egypt's vice premier for foreign affairs, charged that Israel is playing for time "to freeze the situation and consolidate its occupation (of Arab territory) as an accomplished fact."

Riad commented in an interview with the newspaper Al Akbar that was distributed by Cairo's official Middle East News Agency.

Riad was also quoted in the interview as calling the Dayan plan "deceptive."

"Israel, which had rejected all ideas of reopening the Suez Canal in the past, aims by such a project at transforming the cease-fire along the canal into a permanent status quo . . .," he said.

"It is the duty of our forces and missiles to move forward, to liberate occupied lands, not to withdraw backwards."

Meanwhile, Syrian Prime Minister Hafez al-Assad and Egyptian President Anwar Sadat agreed Thursday night in Cairo to a "consolidation" of military action by their armed forces, an official announcement said. It did not say what the term meant, but it apparently referred to a revival of the Arab eastern front of Iraq, Jordan and Syria to support Egypt's Suez Canal front against Israel.

'ARABIZATION'
The authoritative Cairo newspaper Al Ahran warned the leaders of Jordan and Lebanon against fitting into what it called an American scheme for "Arabization" of the Middle East conflict.

The paper's editor, Muhammad Hassanein Heikal, said in his weekly editorial that the main objective of U.S. policy is to turn the Arab-Israeli fighting into "war between Arab and Arab" on the lines of the "Vietnamization" plan in Southeast Asia.

Al Ahran also reported that Egyptian Deputy Foreign Minister Salah Gohar reacted with dismay Wednesday to an American response to charges that U.S. U2 planes are spying on Egyptian military positions.

The contents of the U.S. reply were not revealed, but the paper's report indicated that Washington had rejected the Egyptian charge and a subsequent demand for halting what it called "spying missions on behalf of Israel on the pretext of supervising the cease-fire" in the canal zone.

Al Ahran said Egypt is preparing a second memorandum for America's chief diplomat in Cairo, Donald C. Bergus, containing "important evidence of all operations undertaken by the American spy planes."

Warplanes Struck Before POW Raid

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. warplanes struck North Vietnamese anti-aircraft and troop positions near the Son Tay prison camp during the unsuccessful effort to free American war prisoners, the Pentagon disclosed today.

This was the first time the U.S. government made known there were any such air strikes close to the camp in North Vietnam during the dramatic landing by a small force of U.S. Army and Air Force men who found the camp empty of prisoners late last week.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Daniel Z. Henkin acknowledged the nearby air actions under questioning at a news briefing, portraying the strikes as part of the rescue operation.

In disclosing the Son Tay raid last Monday, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird mentioned only diversionary dropping of flares by Navy planes along the North Vietnamese coast, but said nothing about any associated air-to-ground attacks.

Henkin told newsmen that "protective actions were taken" to safeguard the rescue party. He said they occurred "in the immediately adjacent area" of the camp, which is 23 miles west of the North Vietnamese capital of Hanoi.

The Pentagon's top spokesman said some fixed-wing aircraft were involved and indicated there was strafing and bombing of enemy troops and anti-aircraft positions.

UNITED FUND OVER $100,000

Gifts from several sources put the United Fund over the $100,000 mark today. The new total is $100,065.52, putting the drive within $9,910 of the goal.

Campaign chairman Ken Perry has called a Dutch-treat luncheon for his division chairmen at the Holiday Inn, when progress reports will be made, and plans will be shaped for a final clean-up push.

Ran Over Her Body After Shotgunning

WACO, Tex. (AP) — An argument during a Thanksgiving Day dinner ended in the shotgun slaying of Irma Clay at her Waco home, police reported.

They said a man accused of killing her dumped the body in the street and ran over it with a car after the shooting. He was held without immediate charge.

HEART PATIENT HOME — Bill Lyons figured he had more than enough to be thankful for Thursday when he made it home for Thanksgiving after his fourth open heart surgery operation in 22 months. Lyons (second from left) and his family looked over a computer bill for blood totalling $1,975. It was one of many big expenses paid when the Port Orchard, Wash., community rallied to the family's aid.

Hanoi Has Yet To Say Word About 37,000 Red Prisoners

SAIGON (AP) — Last week's attempt to free U.S. prisoners from North Vietnam points up a sharp contrast in attitudes: While Washington is obviously concerned over the well-being of some 450 captured Americans, Hanoi has yet to say a word about the nearly 37,000 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops being held in South Vietnam.

Military officials say 28,166 Viet Cong and 8,335 North Vietnamese regulars are held in six South Vietnamese prisoner-of-war camps. Also held are several hundred "regroupes," or South Vietnamese who joined the Communist side.

meaning Hanoi does not want its captured soldiers back.

The officials point out that Hanoi has been reluctant so far even to accept North Vietnamese soldiers released unilaterally by the South Vietnamese.

165 DISABLED
The Saigon government has freed a total of 165 sick and disabled enemy troops in five groups. The last group, 62 prisoners, was released at sea off North Vietnam on July 11.

International Red Cross teams visit each POW center every three months. The teams file reports to the Red Cross headquarters in Geneva, which in turn submits recommendations to the Saigon government with a copy to the U.S. State Department.

U.S. forces hold no prisoners. Any enemy soldier captured by Americans is turned over to the South Vietnamese.

U.S. military officials say the last two Red Cross reports—one filed in June and one in October—were somewhat critical of conditions in South Vietnam's POW camps.

DRUGS, KIDS, DEAR ABBY

"If I could give today's parents some advice it would be to let your child know that he can come to you with ANYTHING without being made to feel guilty or ashamed."

With this approach, Abigail Van Buren devotes today's entire column on Page 3-A to a carefully researched and warm-hearted discussion of a subject that is uppermost on the minds of so many parents and youngsters. Don't miss it!

MINOR COMPLAINTS
But American officials insisted that the camps are generally well run and noted that U.S. advisory teams are permanently stationed at each because of America's "moral responsibility."

The June report complained that each prisoner did not have a personal towel or was missing some article of his uniform. The October report listed a variety of minor prisoner complaints.

BILL MIGHT BE REDUCED BY 25 PER CENT

Cheaper Colleges? Take Heart, Dad

WASHINGTON (AP) — Take heart, Dad, if you still have youngsters at home with college aspirations. The bill might be reduced by 25 per cent if present thinking in some higher education circles bears fruit.

Some university presidents agree the time is ripe to make changes that will cut school time 25 per cent for the four-year bachelors degree and possibly two years for the lofty Ph.D.—bringing down the cost to both parents and the schools themselves.

TIGHT MONEY
Referring to the tight and gloomy financial condition of most universities, both private and public, Dr. Glen Terrell of Washington State said:

"I think that fiscal conditions... will make it necessary to do something like this. It will force us to do innovating that we are not inclined to do."

Terrell was commenting on a Carnegie Commission for Higher Education report released this week that called for a restructuring of the degree system, largely untouched for 80 years, to require fewer years in the classroom.

TWO NEW DEGREES
The report also suggested creation of two new degrees between the B.A. and Ph.D.

—Master of Philosophy after five or six years, qualifying the recipient to teach in high school and lower division in college.

—Doctor of Arts, envisioned as equal to a Ph.D., but with emphasis on a broader field of basic knowledge and less on research as required by the Ph.D. It would prepare the recipient for teaching at the university level.

Authorities say the need for changing the degree structure already is well recognized and about 75 universities either have or are studying the possibility of creating a degree between the bachelor and doctoral degrees.

Yale University, for example, has revised its curriculum for a Master of Philosophy degree that qualifies the recipient for teaching but does not require the additional two years for the thesis that leads to a doctorate.

ALREADY IN USE
Commenting that new degrees already are in use and spreading, Dr. Byrum E. Carter, chancellor of the Bloomington campus of Indiana University, said:

"I don't think there is any doubt there are a substantial number of Ph.D. programs that take an excessive number of years."

Some educators are calling for even more radical reductions in the time spent in school, especially for an expensive medical degree.

While a Yale spokesman did not foresee shortening the time to obtain a degree, he noted that each year Yale admits about 50 students who are given sophomore standing because tests have shown they have acquired knowledge in three or more subjects beyond what is offered in freshman courses.

TIME REDUCTION
The Carnegie Commission report, prepared by a panel that included presidents of such schools as Notre Dame, Harvard and the University of North Carolina, said reduction in the time spent in school can be accomplished "without sacrificing educational quality."

To achieve this goal, it suggested accrediting high schools to give first-year college work to high school seniors and remedial summer school for those who don't complete the work.

Stressing his point, commission chairman Clark Kerr declared, "The last year of high school is now largely wasted." Washington State's Terrell said awarding the B.A. degree in three years "is not cheapening the degree but is pressing part of the training down to the high school level."

OTHER SAVINGS
Edward H. Levi, president of the University of Chicago, likewise is calling for shortened time in the classroom and is asking for a college degree in general education after two years of study.

If the shorter time in college is realized, Dad, you might see other savings besides college fees.

The commission estimated it would save $3.5 billion to $5 billion a year in university operating costs and another $5 billion in construction costs in the next 10 years. And a good chunk of those totals would be tax dollars.

Wrecks Take Eight Lives

By The Associated Press

Deaths on Texas streets and highways were comparatively few during the fore part of the Thanksgiving weekend, but officials feared the toll would rise before holiday trips end.

Automobile accidents had claimed eight lives by early today.

The tabulation by The Associated Press will cover the period from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday.

These were among the victims:

Paul A. Lyons, 19, of Dallas and killed Thursday as his motorcycle struck the back of a car making a turn on a Dallas street.

Henry D. Hull, 18, of Houston died Thursday when his small foreign automobile overturned four times while being towed by a pickup truck in Harris County.

Diago Mendez Vasquez of Ferris, near Dallas, died Wednesday night after a car struck him on U.S. 75 near Dallas.

James M. Graham, 25, and Tom H. Green, 22, both Vega laborers, were killed Wednesday night when their car ran off Interstate 40 and crashed near Vega in the Panhandle.

Jowe Felipe Hernandez, 27, and Leo Reyes Castillo, 29, were killed when their car and a truck collided near Falfurrias in South Texas Wednesday night. They resided in Corpus Christi.

LIGHTS BLAZE AGAIN — The 100,000 multi-colored lights which illuminate Kansas City's famed Country Club Plaza shopping district during the Christmas season had just been turned on Thursday night when the photographer caught this view. It would almost appear the blaze of lights had frightened the horse and rider but it's only statutory at the entrance of the Plaza. This is the 46th Christmas season in which the lights have distinguished the Plaza area.

Police Arrest 17 Negroes After 2 Officers Wounded

ROANOKE, Va. (AP)—Police arrested 17 young Negroes Thursday night in a raid on a "black power headquarters" after two policemen were wounded while responding to a telephone report of a murder.

Police used tear gas to flush the young blacks from the apartment, described as a headquarters for black power advocates, then seized "a considerable number" of weapons, mostly rifles and shotguns and ammunition. Investigators said photographs of black militants adorned the walls.

Police Chief M. David Hooper said officers had been to the apartment several times during the day in an attempt to serve a misdemeanor warrant on the occupant, who was not at home at the time of the raid.

Hooper said the officers who were wounded were responding to a telephoned report of a murder at the house. He said they knocked on the door of the apartment and were met by shotgun blasts.

The two patrolmen, W. E. Richardson and G. W. Sutherland both suffered minor wounds of the hand, face and chest as the shotgun fire splintered the door, Hooper said. Police, who quickly surrounded the house, were met by more gunfire, Hooper said. Patrolmen did not shoot back, he said. The young blacks, mostly teenagers, surrendered when tear gas grenades were hurled into the apartment.

Hooper said one of the youths arrested was wanted by police for malicious wounding in connection with a stabbing.

The police chief said those involved were part of a loosely knit group and that only one had ever identified himself as a member of any militant organization.

Claims Young Becoming New Social Class In U.S.

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — Young, college-age persons are becoming a new social class in America, two University of California at Santa Barbara sociology professors believe.

After three years of studies, Milton Mankoff and Richard Flacks say the large concentration of youth in schools, colleges, military camps and urban areas during a time of "unprecedented cultural crisis" has led to a "collective consciousness" akin to "class consciousness."

'The Good Things In New York'

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Helen Hayes and writer Anita Loos were volunteer waitresses at the Salvation Army's annual Thanksgiving dinner for 1,500 needy in a downtown cafeteria. Miss Hayes said she and Miss Loos were working on a book about "the good things in New York," and their service at the dinner was one way of doing research.

She said they apparently went unrecognized by the customers.

The main factor of cultural crisis "which is uniting youth is 'a decline in the vitality of traditional values' over the past several decades, they say.

This decline, the sociologists assert, has been brought about by "the impact of general affluence and large-scale bureaucratic organization on allegiance to the 'Protestant Ethic' and other traditional values."

Major institutions seem to operate at cross-purposes, they say, as the mass media promotes hedonism and indulgence while other institutions continue to uphold self-discipline.

"In the absence of a coherent value system appropriate to an affluent and technological society," Drs. Mankoff and Flacks contend, "youth increasingly turn to each other in the quest for coherence and identity."

The professors studied young people at UCSB and the University of Wisconsin. A paper on their research is scheduled for publication next spring in a volume on international student protest of The Annals of the American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Truck Missing

It might be considered difficult to miss a 4½-ton truck, but Jordan Turner, FM 821, six miles southeast of Coahoma, discovered Thursday that he was in that predicament. The vehicle is described as a tan and white International truck that might have "Turner Brothers" painted on the doors. The theft is being investigated by Howard County Sheriff's officers.

Pollard Hits A Hundred-Whiskers Go!!

BIG SPRING. Forty-one days into one of the costliest strikes in history, the morale began to sag among the sales force at Pollard Chevrolet, reports Harold Mounce, Sales Manager at Pollard. Mounce went on to say, "We had to do something... we had plenty of cars on hand at the time, but the customers were staying away in droves, maybe fearful that we were holding the price up which certainly was not the case."

In any event a quota was set of the selling of 100 new and used cars... along with a sales gimmick that none of the salesmen were to shave until the quota was reached. Everyone took it good naturedly at first... but as the whiskers began to itch, the good naturedness began to fade. But soon the whiskers were up and in the form of a full beard and too the salesmen were up and selling!

"But it was a tough battle," Mounce said. "We were getting the shoppers but as we neared our goal the stock was dwindling... it was like the carrot in front of the horse." The strike darkened... but a ray of light was beginning to shine through. Some area dealers had thrown in the towel and Pollard Chevrolet was able to purchase some of their stock, thereby building up the inventory for the final push to the one hundred mark.

NOW ALL ARE CLEAN SHAVEN AND WILL GIVE YOU A DEAL AS SLICK AS THEIR FACE AND THOUGH VERY TENDER SKINNED THEY ARE READY TO FACE THE NEW YEAR AND NEW MODELS AND WORK TOWARD WHAT IS TO BE PREDICTED A RECORD YEAR FOR POLLARD CHEVROLET.

BENJAMIN O. DAVIS SR.

First Negro General Dies

NORTH CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — Benjamin O. Davis Sr., the first black general in the U.S. armed forces, has died in Great Lakes Naval Hospital at 93.

Hospital spokesmen said the cause of death Thursday was believed to be leukemia.

Davis retired with the rank of brigadier general in 1948, the year most racial barriers were ordered dropped by the Army, after a career that took him from service in the ranks to the staff of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower in World War II.

DROP OUT

His son, Benjamin O. Davis Jr., rose to lieutenant general in the Air Force before retiring. He now is chief of federal guards on commercial airlines.

In the last four years, since the death of his wife, the elder Davis had been living in Chicago with a daughter, Mrs. Elnora D. McLendon. He entered the hospital Nov. 19.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to wind up whatever has been left undone that needs to be gotten out of the way. Later afternoon and evening are splendid for getting into new ideas, new schools of thought and for planning travel and other expansion to be put into effect in the near future.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) You should collect much data before starting those new projects, conditions that will improve your present operation. One whose ideas are different from your own can assist your upswing easily now. Listen carefully.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) Carry out promises made to creditors and you show you appreciate their goodwill. Later in the day have a delightful time with mole. Showing true devotion is fine, gets right results.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Any differences you may have had with a partner can now be adjusted properly. You can then make better arrangements for the future. Know what it is others expect of you. Don't go it so much on your own.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You have many duties to take care of today, so get an early start and they are soon behind you. Then off to more interesting activities. Find the right accessories for your wardrobe.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You are able to have a fine time with people you really like at whatever hobbies you please you the most today and in p.m. Showing more willingness to do what mate desires is wise. Harmony should be the keynote now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find out how you can improve relations with kin and make those little changes at home that are necessary. If you get rid of the cause of trouble, you do a wise thing. Get to bed early in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Pleasing persons who expect much from you is possible now, so get on early start clearing the decks of other duties. Garner data and handle correspondence wisely, as well as any plans for travel.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Fixing property so that you add to its value as well as safety is good in a.m. Later you can discuss with business expert how to increase present income. Think big now that you have such fine common sense. Make the future very bright.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Showing others you are really a charming person and amusing those who can do you big favors in the future is fine. Take those exercises that add to present health, make you feel strong, capable. Take it easy tonight!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Sit in the quiet of your study and figure out ways to work more efficiently and profitably in the future, add to your income. Stop analyzing so much. Expert you know can help you to solve problems if you ask.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Ideal day for sociability, so get together with congenial people you really like and have a grand time. Make the effort to meet new individuals who attract you. Much good can come of this soon.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Handling those credit matters you have not yet completed is fine today. Then look into new career matters. Discuss with influential people ways in which they can assist you to get ahead. Avoid extravagance.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Will you please tell parents what to look for in their children to know for sure whether they are on drugs or not. We are worried sick over this. ILLINOIS PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: That's a tall order. Insofar as marijuana is concerned, it is practically impossible to identify a user by his appearance or behavior.

If one is on barbiturates ("downers," sleeping pills, tranquilizers, pain killers, etc.) the following symptoms could be present: The tendency to sleep more than usual, drowsiness, inattentiveness, slurred speech, lack of coordination. The withdrawal symptoms are vomiting, tremors and diarrhea. (Unfortunately, these are also symptoms for any number of illnesses.)

One who is on amphetamines ("uppers," speed, bennies, methadine or diet pills) will appear hyperactive, exhilarated and talkative. His speech will be rapid and he may shift abruptly from one subject to another. He is apt to be short-tempered, irritable and snappish. He will also suffer a loss of appetite.

Those who use hallucinogenic drugs (LSD, mescaline, psilocybin) are not identifiable, unless of course they are on a bad "trip" and begin to behave irrationally. (Some become "wild" and fear they are going insane.)

The paraphernalia will vary, depending upon what drugs are being used. For heroin or some forms of "speed," a hypodermic needle, eye dropper, syringe, matches and spoon are usually stashed away. "Grass" (marijuana) looks much like ordinary tobacco, only a darkish green, and when smoked, smells like burning leaves. Kids usually buy raw grass and roll their own in cigarette papers.

Almost all adolescents who are hooked on drugs will spend a great deal of time alone in their room, or away from home. They are usually always broke and borrowing money. You may notice that many of their prized possessions have disappeared. An addict will sell anything (tape recorder, musical instruments, radio, television, even his automobile) in order to support his habit — which can run into several hundreds of dollars a day. If he is hooked on heroin, Many resort to stealing.

But parents, far more important than knowing the "symptoms" — is knowing your child! Get involved with your children at an early age. Encourage open and frank dialogue with them. Know their doubts, their fears, their frustrations, ambitions and beliefs. I cannot express too emphatically the importance of listening to your children. Even if you violently disagree with their "far out" philosophies, listen anyway. Then try, really try, to understand them.

Most kids have given up trying to talk with their parents because they know from experience if they express views contrary to those held by their parents it will mean a fight. And kids never win. Once young people know that their parents will actually listen, and will not punish, ridicule or put them down for their beliefs, they will begin to talk freely and honestly.

If I could give today's parents some advice, it would be to let your child know that he can come to you with anything without being made to feel guilty or ashamed. I would urge parents not to over-react or label their child a "dope fiend" if they learn that he has experimented with pot or drugs. Not all drug users are "hooked." (And let's be fair, we adults have our "drugs," too.)

Most adults are surprisingly ignorant about drug abuse. But they need not be ashamed of their initial ignorance because the drug culture is relatively new. However, they need not remain ignorant.

Parents should familiarize themselves with the present laws on drug possession and use, and become active in groups which would change those laws, if indeed they feel the laws need changing.

Young people who are able to talk frankly and freely with their parents are not likely to blow their minds on drugs. Drugs are an escape. For kids, it's usually an escape from lack of understanding and the hard-to-swallow hypocrisies at home.

STILL IN THE SWIM AT 80 — Steve Petrick, who celebrated his 80th birthday Thursday and does 30 or 40 pushups every morning, poses beside the pool he patrols as lifeguard at the Mission Inn in Riverside, Calif. Petrick also does 30 or 40 deep knee bends each morning followed by a swim of about a quarter-mile.

Thanksgiving Is Quiet, But Police Keep Busy

Holidays down at the police station are usually a little more hectic than regular working days, but this Thanksgiving police found things a bit quieter than other recent holidays.

A few arrests were made for drunk in public and disorderly conduct incidents, and two fights were reported, one at the corner of East Eighteenth and Benton, the other at a residence.

Police were called to investigate an anonymous phone call about 5:15 p.m. Thursday that indicated a bomb had been placed in Hall-Bennett Hospital. No bomb was found when police searched the hospital.

A case of aggravated assault is being checked, following an incident in which Clemente Guzman, 312 NE 9th, was reportedly beaten with a tire tool, causing injuries that were treated at Cowper Clinic. A witness told police that two men repeatedly hit Guzman after he walked out of the lounge.

A similar incident was reported to have occurred about 15 minutes later as Tommy Taylor, Paducah, and Mackey Hyllis, San Antonio, walked out of the I'll Do Lounge No. 2. Taylor and Miss Hyllis were treated for head wounds at Medical Center Memorial Hospital, and released.

Chosen Advisor

WASHINGTON — James W. Vitamin C Sales Increase, Local Pharmacists Report

By HOWARD SIMMS

A survey of local pharmacists today shows that sales of vitamin C, ascorbic acid, have increased this week, and the boost is probably due to the announcement of Linus Pauling, Nobel Prize-winning chemist, that vitamin C is good for colds.

Surveys in Abilene and San Antonio this week showed spectacular sales increases of vitamin C, and an effort on the part of a few pharmacists to take advantage of the situation with bigger counter displays. None of the local pharmacies reported a change in their displays, and two owners said the vitamin is not on display, but more people have been asking for it.

All said their sales were up, and they were getting more inquiries from people who said they had read the article about Pauling's press conference.

As Pauling plugged his forthcoming book, "Vitamin C and the Common Cold," he said last week he is convinced that if properly used vitamin C is effective in preventing and curing colds.

He suggested cold sufferers take about one-half teaspoon of the powder form of ascorbic acid each day until the cold disappears. When a person first catches a cold, he said, about one gram of ascorbic acid should be taken each hour.

A local pharmacist and the owner of a local health food store said that although they had sold more vitamin C than usual this week they have been recommending it and supplying it to their customers for a long time as an inexpensive way to stay healthy.

Pauling estimated that using the doses he recommends a year's supply of ascorbic acid would cost about $5 a person and would be more economical than most other cold remedies.

More Money

CHICAGO (AP) — City governments, along with federal and state taxing bodies, are pulling in more and more money.

Revenues of all city governments totaled $29.7 billion for fiscal 1968-69, an increase of 11.9 per cent of $3.2 billion from the previous year.

City-imposed taxes yielded $12.4 billion, more than one-half of all general revenue of city governments. Property taxes still lead as a city revenue source at $8.3 billion, Commerce Clearing House said.

Other sources include sales and gross receipts taxes, $1.3 billion; selective sales taxes, $761 million; and licenses and miscellaneous taxes, $2 billion.

WOMEN ON PILL SHOULDN'T GET HET UP, SO HE SAYS

LONDON (AP) — Women on the pill shouldn't row with their husbands or get het up slaving over a hot stove, a scientist warned today.

If they do, they're running the risk of a heart attack. But if they can't stop themselves they should try smoking a cigarette.

Women who take contraceptive pills and worry about day-to-day affairs are more likely to have a thrombosis than their pill-less sisters, said Dr. Kitty Little of the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority.

Her conclusions, published in the authority's newspaper Atom News, found that too much cortisol, a substance occurring naturally in the body, acted with the contraceptive pill to form blood clots.

Hickel Plans Dec. 2 Talk

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walter J. Hickel, fired by President Nixon as secretary of the Interior, has let it be known he'll say nothing about the ouster until Dec. 2—the day he is scheduled to address the National Press Club.

Hickel reportedly spent a quiet Thanksgiving with his family here. His sudden firing Wednesday, in Nixon's office, has not left Hickel overly depressed, aides said.

Nixon has selected Rep. Rogers C.B. Morton, R-Md., to be Hickel's successor. The nomination of Morton, who also serves as Republican National Chairman, is not expected to be sent to the Senate for consideration until the 92nd Congress convenes in January.

Under Secretary Fred Russell will serve as acting secretary in the interim.

Following the 11 a.m. mass the CYO members will sell tacos, and beginning at 5:30 p.m. in the church hall, they will sell burritos, tacos, hot

HAPPY TIME FOR WOLVES

PARIS, Mo. (AP) — Effective Dec. 1, the Monroe County Court will cease paying wolf bounties until further notice, the court announced.

The court said its wolf-bounty budget has been exhausted by an unusually heavy kill of six to 14 animals a week in late summer and fall and the fact that for the past year the state has failed to pay its half-share of the $15 bounty.

Monroe County is in northeast Missouri.

Teen, Toddler Gunfire Victims

AUSTIN (AP) — A teenager and a toddler were killed in separate gunfire incidents in the Austin area Thursday.

Another teenager was in serious condition from a shotgun wound he received late Wednesday. Sean Gross, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Gross of Austin, died with a pistol wound in his shoulder. Police said the boy had been playing in his back yard with a pistol brought to the Gross home Thursday by a friend of the family. A playmate, 4, said: "Sean came outside with the pistol and then pointed it to himself and shot himself."

Randy Eugene Lane of Rockdale, son of Eugene Lane of Rockdale and Mrs. Dennis Lange of Midland, was removing a .410 shotgun from a car when the weapon discharged. The boy was flown to a Temple hospital but was dead on arrival.

James Wall, 18, of Austin, was shot with a .410 shotgun late Wednesday outside a drive-in theater after a confrontation between two groups of teenagers. A boy, 16, was held.

DEATHS

Ralph Stewart, Lamesa Resident

LAMESA (SC) — Ralph Stewart Sr., a retired farmer who had been a resident of Dawson County 55 years, died Wednesday in a Lubbock hospital.

Services were to have been at 2 p.m. today in the First United Methodist Church with the Rev. Newton Starnes, pastor, the Rev. Jack Thompson and the Rev. Jordan Grooms, Big Spring, officiating. Burial was to have been in Lamesa Memorial Park under the direction of Branon Funeral Home.

Survivors include his wife, Dr. Merial Stewart, head of the English department at Angelo State College; one son, R. A. Stewart Jr., Austin, and one sister, Mrs. Tom King, Vernon, two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. Pallbearers were to have been nephews.

Mrs. Farrar, Relatives Here

Mrs. M. D. Farrar, 83, aunt of Mrs. Carl Grant, Truett Thomas and R. C. Thomas of Big Spring, died at 6 p.m. Thursday in Clyde.

Services are pending at Clyde, where the rites will be held at the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Farrar was the last surviving member of the family which included L. H. Thomas, prominent Howard County farmer.

Auto Sales Down One Million Cars

DETROIT (AP) — U.S. auto sales this year are down some one million cars below the totals at the same point in 1969.

The figures issued by the major manufacturers this week indicate that up to Nov. 20 new car sales stood at 6,575,343 compared to 7,621,917 at the same time last year.

The Big Three automakers—Ford Motor Co., General Motors Corp. and Chrysler Corp.—all reported declines in sales. Only fourth place American Motors Corp. reported a gain.

Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford's North American operations, said: "The climate of the GM strike and reflects on all of us."

Imported car sales, on the other hand, were reported well ahead of their 1969 levels. A record setting 903,143 imports were reported sold thus far compared to the previous high of 753,647 sold at this point last year.

Volkswagen again dominated the import field with 430,340 cars sold so far in 1970, contrasted with 368,715 for 1969.

Safer In Vietnam

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — David J. Foster, 21, died Wednesday of injuries received in a car wreck here Nov. 6. A former Marine, Foster survived a mine explosion during Vietnam combat duty.

11 Days Remain Until Auto Strike Deadline

DETROIT (AP) — With just 11 days remaining until a Dec. 7 strike deadline, negotiators for Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers met again today in an effort to reach settlement on a new contract.

Bargainers for both sides met for about two hours Thursday in subcommittee sessions.

Sidney McKenna, director of labor affairs for Ford, has predicted a settlement by the deadline and board chairman Henry Ford II has said he expects the contract reached will be within the framework of the agreement between the UAW and General Motors Corp.

The GM contract will raise the average $4.02 hourly wage to over $5 by 1973. It also provides unlimited cost-of-living wage increases and improved early retirement benefits.

More than 130,000 salaried GM employees will get a pay boost next Tuesday roughly paralleling the new contract increases to hourly rated workers. GM chairman James M. Roche outlined the pay hike in a memo to lower echelon management personnel. White collar GM workers are not union-organized.

Negotiations were also to resume today at Chrysler Corp., where bargainers took the holiday off. The UAW has set no strike deadline at Chrysler.

Meanwhile, GM is continuing the complex task of getting back into full production after the 10-week strike shutdown. The firm has said it expects most of its 394,000 production employees in the United States to be back on the job by Monday.

In Canada, negotiations on a contract covering 23,000 employees of General Motors of Canada, Ltd., are to resume Sunday.

Arms Conviction Socks Rich Guy

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Dr. Dieter Buehrie, multimillionaire head of Switzerland's largest arms making company, and five of his company's officials were convicted by the Supreme Court today of illegally exporting large quantities of war material to international crisis spots.

The biggest shipments went to South Africa, Israel and Egypt.

The 49-year-old Buehrie, sometimes dubbed the "Swiss Krupp," was sentenced to a suspended term of eight months in prison, and a fine of $4,000.

Gabriel Lebedinsky, 56, chief of the arms sales division and a personal friend of Buehrie, received an 18-month sentence.

The four others, also employed by Werkzeugmaschinenfabrik Oerlikon Buehrie A.G., Zurich, drew terms ranging from 16 months to a suspended three-week sentence.

Buehrie, who concedes he is probably the richest man in Switzerland, was found guilty of violating a 1949 government decree under which embargos are imposed on arms deliveries to countries at war or threatened by conflict. He was acquitted of charges of complicity in falsifying documents used in the shipments.

Charges against him had been limited to involvement in the sales to South Africa. They made up almost two thirds of the total illegal dealings, which were valued at $20.5 million and included sales of cannon and ammunition. The shipments were made between 1963 and 1968.

Lebedinsky, Vice Director Dr. Alexandre Gelbert, and Confidential Clerk Max Meili had pleaded guilty to charges of forgery and violating the federal decree in arranging all illegal exports, including sales to Saudi Arabia, Nigeria, Malaysia and Lebanon.

Under Swiss law conviction on charges of forging official documents can carry up to five years at hard labor. There is no appeal against a supreme court verdict.

Biologist To Talk About Ecology

LUBBOCK — National Science Foundation Director William D. McElroy, an internationally known biologist with a reputation for speaking his mind on public issues, will be the fifth lecturer in Texas Tech's University Speakers Series.

Dr. Elroy will discuss the ecology and other aspects of national health problems in his talk on "Science and the New Generation" at 7:30 p.m. Dec. 3 in Lubbock Municipal auditorium. The address will be open to the public without charge.

Prior to becoming chief administrator of the National Science Foundation (NSF), in July, 1969, McElroy was chairman of the Department of Biology at Johns Hopkins University.

His scientific contributions won him election to the prestigious National Academy of Sciences (NAS) in 1963 and membership on the NAS Council in 1968.

Man Released On $1,000 Bond

Alfred B. Green, 710-A Willia, was released from county jail Thursday on $1,000 bond.

Green is charged with aggravated assault in connection with the beating of his daughter Theresa, 2½. Theresa was treated at Webb AFB Hospital and released. City police arrested Green Wednesday at the Webb guardhouse and transferred him to county jail Thursday.

Bond was set by Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter.

Program Focuses On Petroleum

LUBBOCK — An "Honors Day Program" designed to acquaint high school and junior college students with careers in the petroleum industry will be conducted on the Texas Tech University campus Dec. 5.

Tech petroleum engineering Prof. Phil Johnson, honors day coordinator, said three speakers will be presented as highlights of the program to be held in the Coronado Room of the University Center. Registration begins at 9:30 a.m.

Auto Stolen

A car belonging to Tonn's Auto Sales was reported stolen from the 1300 block of Barnes about 1 a.m. today. The car was reportedly stolen after Pete Sanderson, an employee of Tonn's, parked the car at his home at 1305 Barnes.

Sugarbeet Prices, Wages On Agenda

One of a series of public hearings on wage rates and prices for 1971 crop sugarbeets will be held Dec. 14 at 9:30 a.m. in San Antonio, at John F. Kennedy High School Auditorium, 1922 South General McMullen Drive, according to Cecial Allred, chairman of the Howard County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) Committee.

Any person who wishes to may present his views on sugarbeet wages and prices for the 1971 crop, Allred said. "This definitely includes farm workers, as well as producers, processors, and any other interested person," he said.

To be heard on the matters under consideration, a person needs only appear at the time the hearing opens and say that he wants to testify.

'I Don't Think There's A Fox Left In Country'

PEAPACK, N.J. (AP) — The Jersey gentry turned out for the traditional Thanksgiving Day foxhunt, but the fox did not. "I don't think there's a fox left in the country," muttered Larry Belton, the stable master. "Flying across country for several hours maybe. Well, there's just nothing like it."

Organized in the Orange Mountains of Essex County in 1872 the Essex Fox Hounds offers subscribers its own land and 150 miles of private estates on which to hunt. It also has kennels, stables, a club house, an ice rink and tennis courts.

Some of the participants in previous hunts were minerals millionaire Charles Engelhard, magazine publisher Malcolm Forbes, former Secretary of the Treasury C. Douglas Dillon, art collector Charles Mellon III, and Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis and her children Caroline and John Jr.

Ministry Opening To Women Slowly

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A young woman, the Rev. Elizabeth Platz, this week became America's first ordained Lutheran minister, dramatizing what seems to be a fast-developing acceptance of the idea of women in the clergy.

It is the women themselves who have fired the trend by acquiring the academic credentials for the new role, and then appealing for a chance to make full use of their qualifications.

GLIMMER OF HOPE

"For the first time, there's a glimmer of hope that women have a future in the ministry," says Suzanne Hiatt, of Minneapolis, an Episcopalian who has completed seminary training and is seeking ordination in that church.

The Episcopal Church, through a technicality maneuvered by male clergy, this fall narrowly defeated a move to admit women to its priesthood, but lay representatives and bishops favored it, and foresee approval ahead.

Almost at the same time, the American Lutheran Church opened the way for ordaining women, following that same step earlier this year by the Lutheran Church in America, in which the Rev. Miss Platz, 30, of Pittsburgh, was ordained at College Park, Md. Sunday.

She'll serve as a campus pastor at the University of Maryland.

WAITING IN LINE

Numerous other young women are waiting in line seeking ordination, with scores of others now in seminary preparing for it, including 22 in Episcopal seminaries.

"Ordination of women must become a part of the church's life," declared a report this fall of the official dialogue commission of the Roman Catholic Church and the Reformed-Presbyterian churches in this country.

"There is a growing consensus... among Roman Catholic as well as Reformed theologians that there is no insurmountable Biblical or dogmatic obstacle to the ordination of women."

The national convention of Roman Catholic diocesan liturgical commissions last month advocated a study be made of women becoming priests. The Catholic Canon Law Society of America also has recommended changes to insure "equitable consideration of all persons regardless of sex" in church laws.

BLAME ST. PAUL

Altogether, 70 denominations around the world, out of more than 250, now allow women in the ministry, says a recent survey of the World Council of Churches. Newly unified denominations almost always provide such rights for women.

The barrier to women ministers grew out of some of St. Paul's writings, such as his admonition for women to "keep silent" in churches. Theologians now conclude his advice meant simply that Christians should heed cultural customs of the day regarding women, and did not reflect basic Christian teaching.

THE SOUND OF SACRED MUSIC — Verle and Bev Whitesel, Arlington, will present an evangelistic program through music and testimony Sunday through Wednesday at the Highland Church of God.

Gospel Duo Featured At Highland Church

Gospel music combining vocal solos and duets and instrumental solos and duets will be presented Sunday through Wednesday at the Highland Church of God.

Verle and Bev Whitesel will present "The Sound of Sacred Music" at 11 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. Sunday, and at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday at the church. The Whitesels are from Arlington.

They have brought Christian witness through song and spoken testimony in their concert, revival and crusade appearances for more than 20 years.

Included in the Whitesels' program are hymns, gospel songs and spirituals. It is a program designed to appeal to all age groups.

Before moving to Arlington, Whitesel was the music director for Youth for Christ of Greater Houston for three years. Mrs. Whitesel is a native of Houston, and has sung for Houston churches, crusades and Youth for Christ.

The public is invited to attend the services which celebrate the Advent of Jesus Christ.

Bible Week Focus On Simpler Texts

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK (AP) — Bible

reading, which used to demand struggling with a lot of archaic words and old-English quirks of style and meaning, now is much easier.

And this Sunday, countless thousands of Americans will begin doing it, on a special basis.

The occasion is National Bible Week.

Although this oldest book of books is packed with profundities that have engrossed scholars through the ages, stirred endless research and filled libraries with studious volumes of analysis, it also was meant for ordinary people.

And today, it is available to them in quantity of copies and in translations into modern, everyday language, to an extent unequalled before.

Several crisp, lively new translations have come out lately—the Catholic-sponsored New American Bible and Jerusalem Bible, and the Protestant-sponsored New English Bible—that make reading it a fresh experience.

All these translations involved Jewish-Catholic-Protestant cooperation, as did the relatively recent Protestant-sponsored Revised Standard Version. Others, such as the American Bible Society's popular "Today's English Version of the New Testament," also put the ancient truths in clearer, contemporary language.

National Bible Week, through which people are urged to join in a recommended sequence of daily Scripture readings, is sponsored by the Layman's National Bible Committee, the American Bible Society and the Catholic Biblical Association of America.

It used to be a more limited affair, the start of which generally is credited to the lay committee of Protestant, Jewish and Catholic businessmen in 1941, but the roots go back much further. In 1967, the Bible Society joined its support to the effort, as did the scholarly Catholic group last year.

The new interdenominational solidarity in boosting the Bible, as well as the surge of new, clearer translations, contrasts greatly with bygone situations, when copies were turgid or scarce, and the Bible itself was a cause of contention.

Controversy over it had been a main factor in the 16th century Protestant break with Roman Catholicism, but the book now has become a major basis of accord through Catholicism's increased emphasis on it.

Ohio Woman Prepares To Become A Rabbi

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — During the week, miniskirted Sally Priesand attends to her studies, her dates, horse races and the theater—as many other college coeds do.

But every other weekend, she dons a royal blue robe and enters Jackson's Temple Beth Israel as she prepares to become America's first woman rabbi.

Miss Priesand, 24, of Cleveland, attends Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion at Cincinnati, and travels to Jackson for her weekend duties.

Sally expects to be ordained in June, 1972, when she completes her nine-year program of studies.

Sally said she decided to be a rabbi while in the 10th grade, and her rabbi permitted her to help out in services.

"I think that Judaism fits very well into our times," she says. "One of the basic principles is that you have to have deeds with words, and that's what the young people want today."

Move Untimely To Flower Sellers

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Indian flower sellers were blocking the pavement in suburban Rosebank, so the city father ordered them to move into newly built wood and brick stalls.

The Hindu vendors consulted their religious calendar and decided the hour was not auspicious for a move. So officials sighed and let them stay another week until the time of the full moon at the end of the month of Sraven and the beginning of the month of Bhadrapad.

Pair Observe Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mims were honored with a reception on their 50th wedding anniversary Nov. 22 in the Cap Rock Electric auditorium at Stanton.

Hosting the affair were the couple's daughter, Mrs. Maxine Howard, Tarzan; and their sons and daughters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Mims, Stanton; and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Mims, Lubbock. They presented their parents with gifts of jewelry.

The Mims' were married Nov. 27, 1920, in Abilene. She is the former Carrie Lesly. They lived near Abilene until 1929 when they moved to Martin County where they now reside in the Courtney community and are engaged in farming. The Mims', who are members of the Church of Christ, have seven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The serving table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with gold mums and an open Bible cake decorated with white roses and gold leaves. Appointments were silver, gold and crystal.

Assisting with serving were Mrs. Joe Camp, Miss Ellen Camp and Miss Carla Camp and Miss Deanna Mims, all of Lubbock; Mrs. Marshall Meeks, Odessa; Mrs. Butch Howard, Lubbock; Miss Judy Mims, Stanton; and Miss Nancy Seely, Ackerly.

Assisting the couple in receiving guests were Billy Howard and Danny Howard, both of Tarzan; Butch Howard, Lenora; and Johnny Howard and Donnie Camp, both of Lubbock.

Miss Jo Mims presided at the register table. Among those attending were Mrs. Mims' sisters and brothers-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Winn, Mr. and Mrs. Garvin McClure, Mr. and Mrs. Daw Vinson and Mrs. Irene Reynolds, all of Abilene; and Mr. Mims' sister, Mrs. Viola Cornes, Stamford. Other friends and relatives attended from Sweetwater, Hawley, Lueders, Big Spring, Midland, Odessa, Andrews and Lubbock.

Secretaries Give Christmas Cards

Mrs. Frank Long presided at the National Secretaries Association dinner meeting Tuesday at the Ramada Inn. Mrs. John Paprskar asked members to bring Christmas cards with envelopes to give to patients at the Veterans Administration Hospital to send.

Members took an educational quiz entitled, "Your Day In Court — You Are The Jury." It was announced that Dec. 1 is the deadline to register for the certified professional secretary examination.

The next meeting will be a Christmas party and gift exchange at 7 p.m. Dec. 14 in the home of Mrs. Aubrey Bryan.

Kentwood WSCS Holds Luncheon

Mrs. Marvin Dixon, 1702 Alabama, was hostess and Mrs. Charles Richards, cohostess, for the Women's Society of Christian Service, Kentwood United Methodist Church, meeting Tuesday. Members had a salad supper served in Thanksgiving motif. Mrs. Larry Lee presided and asked that sewing materials be brought to the next meeting to donate to Westside Community Center. A luncheon will be held at 1 p.m., Dec. 8 at Furr's Cafeteria for the next meeting.

Eagles Auxiliary Planning Supper

The Eagles Auxiliary raised $50 at its November salad supper, it was reported at Tuesday's meeting in Hotel Settles. Mrs. Francyse Gatiliff presided, and the next salad supper was scheduled for Dec. 11 at the Settles. A Christmas turkey will be given away, and funds raised to provide holiday meal baskets for needy families. Eight members are planning to attend the district convention in Crane Dec. 5-6. The next regular meeting will be Dec. 8.

HD Events Planned At Luncheon

Mrs. Delaine Crawford, county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Florence Rhoden were guests at the Center Point HD Club Thanksgiving luncheon Tuesday at Furr's Cafeteria.

The club made plans for Christmas parties and will participate in the HD Council party Dec. 7 with a five-minute skit, as will each of the clubs.

Mrs. J. R. Petty presided, and Mrs. Alden Ryan gave the invocation. The club will hold its Christmas luncheon at 11 a.m., Dec. 8 in the home of Mrs. C. T. Lindley, 1405 E. 19th. Members are to bring salads and gifts for the exchange.

Coordinate Linen Throughout Home

New coordination goes from bed to table. Tablecloths, matched in design with bedspreads, sheets, and towels are being introduced by a leading linen manufacturer.

Made of cotton and polyester blends, the tablecloths are the same weight fabric as the bedspread counterparts — and just as easily machine-laundered. Available in 72-inch and 90-inch rounds, patterns include floral prints, a stripe, and solid jacquard weaves.

Move May Not Help Asthmatic

Persons with severe respiratory conditions such as asthma usually suffer more when they live in highly polluted city areas.

However, Dr. Murray Dworetzky, a noted allergist and past president of the American Academy of Allergy, recommends using caution before moving to another geographical area. The change of environment may not help enough to warrant the drastic, expensive move.

Avoid Soaking

Never leave a knife soaking in water. It can ruin the cutting edge.

Rebekah Lodge Has Thanksgiving Dinner

Big Spring Rebekah Lodge 284 organized the dinner. After the members were joined by their families for a Thanksgiving turkey dinner with all the trimmings Tuesday at the IOOF Hall. Tables were festooned with paper turkeys, pumpkins, fall leaves and a centerpiece of chrysanthemums in autumn shades. Mrs. A. G. Hall

The regular business meeting followed the supper, and Mrs. E. V. Cockerham presided. She appointed December refreshment committee members who are Mrs. W. A. Majors, Mrs. C. D. Herring, Mrs. Logan Grider, Mrs. W. N. Wood and Mrs. Margaret Stewart. The 30 present reported 37 visits to the sick. The next meeting will be Tuesday.

NCO Wives Meet

The NCO Wives Club met Tuesday evening for a social and games night at the NCO Club. Members brought white elephant items as prizes. They will meet Dec. 8 to finalize Christmas projects and plans for a party.

TALK TURKEY — President Nixon has a furrowed expression as he talks with guests over their Thanksgiving dinner at the White House yesterday. More than a hundred servicemen and women from Washington-area hospitals ate turkey with the first family. With the President are Army Sgt. Corris Sworn of Pompano Beach, Fla., and Air Force M.Sgt. George R. Wagner, right, a native of Grafton, W.Va.

Red Forces Renew Thrust, Shatter Defense Network

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces battered a South Vietnamese command post on the Cambodian border, made fresh gains north of Phnom Penh and battled government forces 23 miles southeast of Saigon, military spokesmen reported today.

While heavy fighting flared on the three fronts, U.S. forces in Vietnam saw little action since they are mostly in a defensive posture. The U.S. Command said field reports indicated there were no Americans killed in action Thursday for the second successive day.

In a pre-dawn attack Thursday, North Vietnamese forces moving behind a heavy mortar barrage blasted the headquarters of the South Vietnamese 52nd Task Force just inside Cambodia, triggering the heaviest border fighting in three weeks.

GUNSHIPS HELP

After the night-long battle near the town of Krok, about 85 miles northwest of Saigon, 10 South Vietnamese soldiers and 48 North Vietnamese troops were reported dead. Twenty South Vietnamese troops were wounded.

The South Vietnamese task force, made up of infantry and armored cavalry elements of the 18th Division, has been poised along Highway 7 to block North Vietnamese infiltration southward along the Saigon River corridor.

Meanwhile, other South Vietnamese forces fought North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops 23 miles southeast of Saigon and claimed killing 33 of the enemy with the help of helicopter gunships. Despite the claim of 33 enemy killed, only six rifles and a quantity of equipment were reported captured. The only South Vietnamese casualty reported was one man wounded.

ISOLATING ARMY

In Cambodia, North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces renewed their thrust southward toward Phnom Penh today, shattering much of the capital's defense network and isolating huge portions of the government's army.

Only one of the country's seven most important highways was open.

The government ferry at Prek Kdam, 20 miles north of Phnom Penh, was closed to all traffic because there was no government security on Highway 6 north of the Mekong River, military sources at the site reported to the land route to the entire northern area of the country.

FRESH PUSH

The fresh enemy push further isolated much of the Cambodian army in numerous pockets in the north.

Enemy troops were seizing some minor strongpoints along a 32-mile segment of Highway 7 about 50 miles north of Phnom Penh. At nearby Taing Kauk, where the government's biggest task force of the war is stalled, government forces also were isolated by lack of security.

The enemy apparently picked up about 20 more miles of Route 6 north of Phnom Penh during the new push. The Cambodian high command also reported that troops from the North Vietnamese 1st Division had launched a heavy attack on the district capital of Srang, 27 miles south of Phnom Penh.

The town had been hit four times previously in the enemy offensive.

HEAVY ATTACK

The high command also reported a heavy attack aimed at splitting government forces defending the Siem Reap provincial capital and its airport in the Angkor region, 150 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

Air strikes were needed to break up the daytime assault only one mile west of Siem Reap.

The airport—which remains closed—was attacked during the night but without any enemy gains or damage to the runway, a command spokesman said.

The high command's public confidence remained uncracked despite the new assaults. A spokesman, as he has for weeks, said the Communists were woefully short of supplies, especially ammunition.

Hope To Cure Absenteeism, New Dropouts

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors and the United Auto Workers are planning a joint attempt to cure two galloping socio-economic plagues—absenteeism and new employee dropouts.

The joint endeavor is provided for in the new multibillion-dollar contract between GM and the UAW, under which the company estimates wages of hourly workers will advance to between $12,000 and $13,000 a year in 1973.

Details of the corrective programs still are to be worked out. But GM Vice President Earl Bramblett and UAW President Leonard Woodcock said it is planned for newly hired workers to be led through an orientation program before being assigned a job.

Absenteeism has doubled over the last 10 years to an average 5.5 per cent. Much of it occurs on Friday and Monday, when it may top 15 per cent.

Absenteeism causes increases in manufacturing cost and product quality problems.

When there are unfilled stations along the assembly line, workers must be pulled from regular jobs to which they are accustomed to fill the blanks, and their speed at the strange job may be so slow that it affects the line's pace.

Absenteeism also causes some plant managers to employ larger work forces than might be necessary to be sure enough personnel always are on hand.

College students sometimes are hired during the summers just for Fridays and Mondays, when absenteeism peaks.

Chrysler of Canada, Ltd., says it finds one of every 10 new employees quits within 10 days.

Texas Heat Wave Rules

By The Associated Press

A fresh norther cooled the Panhandle-Plains sector but a late fall heat wave kept its grip on the rest of Texas today.

Forecasters looked for the colder air to spread slowly over the rest of the state's northern half tonight and Saturday. Little effect was foreseen elsewhere.

By early morning the leading edge of the new front stretched along a line from just south of Wichita Falls to Wainwright.

Its collision with warm air billowing into the state from the Gulf of Mexico failed to produce any moisture. Scattered showers or thunderstorms were predicted by evening in Northeast Texas, however, and a chance was seen for a few showers in the south central and southeast portions of the state.

Temperatures nose-dived in parts of the Panhandle, where the cooler air started arriving Thursday afternoon. Perryton saw the mercury plunge to 21 degrees after recording a high of 67 the day before. At Amarillo, where the high reached 78, thermometers slid to 27.

A Devotion For Today . . .

"They hear what you say, but they will not do it." (Ezekiel 33:32, RSV)

PRAYER: Eternal God, who calls us into the fellowship of the church, teach us to worship and serve You in spirit and in actuality. Forgive us for our coldness of heart. Raise us into that new life in Him who loved us and gave Himself for us. Amen.

Why Construction Is Hurting

The most recent report by the Texas Business News, the publication of the University of Texas' Bureau of Business Research, showed October construction dropped by 12 per cent from September levels. The seasonal adjustment reflected a 7 per cent drop.

Obviously, construction is meeting with substantial if not massive resistance. The Bureau's report points up some rather obvious facts — the trade is pricing itself out of the market, or at least out of the immediate market.

During the period from 1957-65, all construction costs rose only .7 of one per cent; from 1965-70, the increase was 18 per cent.

Many far exceeded this level — like copper tubing 55 per cent, hardware 22, pine 22. Against the 18 per cent materials cost, the general cost in living was up 8 per cent for the five-year period.

While manufacturing labor costs rose 29 per cent from 1965-70, construction labor costs went up 40 per cent. The result is that residential construction cost rose by 37 per cent in 1965-70; non-residential building up 38 per cent; highway construction up 35 per cent.

Nor is this all the story. Perhaps an even greater factor was the jump in financing, a key factor in substantial construction. A jump from the once-standard 6 per cent to 8 per cent (which was not at all easily had) is 33 per cent. A more realistic figure likely is around 40 per cent.

The wonder is not that construction has been retarded, but rather that it has held up as well as it has. Obviously, something has got to give. Right now it appears relief in financing may be the first, but this alone can not restore or resurrect a cost-sick industry in a faltering economy.

Economy And The Heartbeat

The heartbeat of many individuals is linked to the heart beat of the economy, a Yale University study has found.

M. Harvey Brenner, assistant professor of public health and sociology at Yale, reported to the American Heart Association that deaths from heart disease begin rising within a matter of months after the economy goes into a slump.

The study charted changes in heart disease death rates between 1900 and 1967 and then compared them with changes in employment rates in the U.S. as a whole and in non-farm workers in New York state.

The precise link between the economy and heart disease deaths was not established. Brenner thought the most likely relationship was the increased psychological and social stress on persons out of work or whose income had been reduced. A feeling of inability to afford adequate medical services during times of joblessness may also be a factor.

In any case, the study confirms a suspicion that more than the pocketbook is affected by an economic setback.

Poor Management In The Government

WASHINGTON — Rumors have been published lately that certain members of the President's cabinet are about to resign and go back to their professions. This doesn't help the morale of the career men in the government departments. In a private business, policies are made by the top officials and some of their experienced subordinates, and there is no feeling that "temporary" executives are actually making the decisions.

FOR 50 YEARS now, there has been growing up an intermediate barrier between the department heads and the President. It has caused all kinds of problems. The cabinet officers are consulted. It is one thing, however, to be called in occasionally or to attend a cabinet meeting once a month, and another thing for an adviser to be adjacent to the President's office and see him every day if necessary.

Between the cabinet and the President stands a group of half a dozen or more counselors who have ready access to the President. They get information from department heads, prepare papers on various subjects and help him make decisions.

THE TRUTH is the government of the United States has become the biggest business in the world, but it has made little progress toward a system of management that would instill throughout the organization a feeling of unity. Instead, the permanent or career officers — as they serve under one administration to another — are supposed to adapt themselves to the policies of a new administration. When a cabinet secretary serves a year or two and a successor is appointed, the question is often reopened: "What changes are coming?"

PRESIDENT NIXON likes to get his advice in written form. He may select one of his advisers to notify a department or departments to work out a program and come back to him with a proposal as to what steps should be taken. It is often difficult for the experienced men in the different departments to get an opportunity to express themselves. Frequently the appointees at the top positions are politically minded, and they are thinking about public policy in a political sense rather than in objective terms.

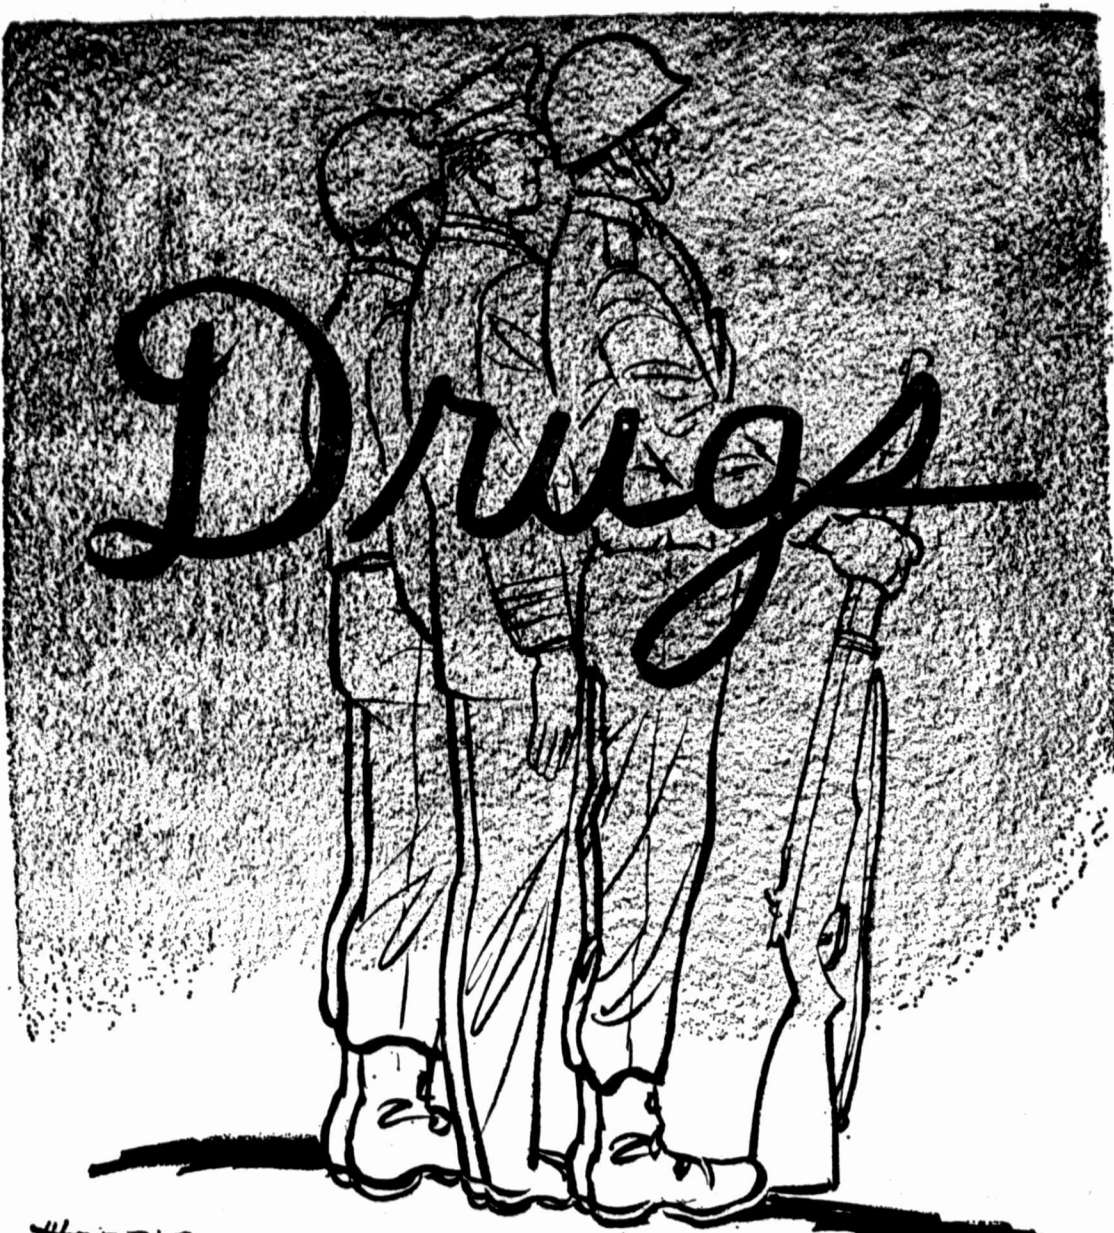

PROBABLY ONE of the most conspicuous examples of confusion in the operations of the executive branch of the government has arisen in the handling of the school desegregation problem. The Department of Justice had certain things to say. The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare had funds to allocate. Informal conferences were held with local authorities. Administration policy itself was not clearly stated at the outset, and, of course, the Supreme Court decisions were somewhat ambiguous and needed clarification. The net effect was harmful. Many of the riots and disturbances in cities were due to bitter feelings stirred up by mishandling of the desegregation or integration orders of the courts. Theoretically, this was an administrative question, but actually it became a matter of political inter-pretation.

THE EXECUTIVE branch of the government needs experienced executives to take care of the numerous problems facing different departments of the government. Cabinet officers ought to be selected for four years with an understanding that they would serve throughout that period.

Attempts To Rescue Prisoners

Editor's Note: The following look into the dramatic U.S. attempt to rescue American prisoners of war based on public announcements and private interviews, was written by John Lengel, who spent 2½ years as an Associated Press war correspondent in South Vietnam.

By JOHN LENGEL
(Substituting for John Cunniff)

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has added only tantalizing shreds of detail to the prison raid at Son Tay, opening fertile areas for speculation, but leaving the chief questions unanswered.

For instance, leaders of the commando force, an Air Force brigadier and an Army colonel, were both stationed at Eglin Air Force Base in Florida.

Was, then, the force raised and rehearsed in the states, or, say, in the Canal Zone, and taken as a unit to a staging area at the last moment for security purposes?

"It was a rather elaborate operation," said Pentagon spokesman Jerry Friedheim. "There was meticulous training and the training occurred at several places."

Why isn't further detail provided? The idea of assaulting a prison camp was disclosed by Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. While surprise is important, isn't there room for detail on such things as the size of the camp and eyewitness accounts from some of the men who took part in a raid that is now history?

"There are some pretty severe security problems involving the men who went in and the prisoners," Laird answered. "It would compromise intelligence sources and the safety of those involved."

This much of the picture has been supplied by official accounts and questioning in the last two days.

Army and Air Force volunteers—one report suggests a force of 40—sped in helicopters across the North Vietnamese delta to the compound at the Red River bank town of Son Tay, 20 miles west of Hanoi.

The raid was a complete surprise. It was 2 a.m., with only a quarter moon. A chopper was purposely crashed in the compound to make sure the force got inside.

At least 30 missiles were fired at the helicopters. There was some ground fire, too. Somehow a guard tower was destroyed.

The volunteers fired their weapons when they had to, perhaps killing some of the compound defenders. One volunteer was nicked by an enemy rifle round.

The force was inside for less than an hour, ripping open cells with chain saws, cutting torches and lock snips, finding crude conditions but no Americans.

Probably the force met at a point outside the compound for helicopter pickup. Since a "large percentage" of the 459 official prisoners of Hanoi were hoped to be rescued a much larger attack force probably was ready. Delicate coordination would have been needed so as to not bunch up helicopters in the danger zone. Evidently it can be supposed the helicopters kept close to the ground to avoid radar detection as long as possible and make antiaircraft fire less effective.

It is more likely the choppers came from over the mountains, perhaps from bases in Thailand. This would provide more radar security. Navy carriers would provide more initial security but the choppers would be more detectable once they were airborne.

Air Force Jolly Green Giant rescue choppers, armored and with a long range, could have reached speeds of 100 miles an hour.

These suppositions are supported by the fact an Air Force officer, Brig. Gen. LeRoy J. Manor, was in over-all command.

'Eat Turkey Or Starve'

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals this time of year is what to do with leftover Thanksgiving turkey.

In the old days when a family often had as many as 10 or more children, it wasn't so much of a problem. The children, told sternly "eat turkey or starve," could munch their unwilling way through a turkey carcass in less than a week.

Today, no matter whether the turkey weighs 10 pounds or 40, the task of disposing of its left-overs becomes increasingly acute. The more you get rid of the more there seems to be left.

The problem is one that is hard to solve by either brute force or by culinary cunning. After all, when a desperate mother has converted it into hash, made it into a souffle, boiled it into a soup, and smuggled it into a fake pizza pie, what else can a mother do with leftover turkey?

She cannot even give it to the deserving poor, because they feel they deserve something better. Cash is, leftover turkey?!

Desperate situations sometimes require desperate measures. Here are a few extreme ways to get rid of leftover turkey if conventional methods fail.

Dig a hole in your neighbor's back yard some black midnight and bury it there. Don't worry about his dog uncovering it. Your neighbor's dog is as tired of leftover turkey as yours is.

Buy a weather balloon, tie the turkey to it, and send it aloft. The odds are several million to one that it won't come down in your block.

Hack it into as many pieces as possible. Wrap half of them in old newspapers and secretly toss them down sewers some distance from your own neighborhood. Wrap the others in gift papers labeled, "Don't Open Till Christmas," and mail them anonymously to your favorite enemies.

Move to another apartment leaving the turkey behind in a locked closet. You may end up by having to face a lawsuit filed by your former landlord or the new tenant, but that's a risk you simply have to take.

And now may I close with a personal plea? Whatever you decide to do about that leftover turkey, please don't ship the stuff to me. That wouldn't be sporting, would it, considering all the free advice I've given you.

Anyway, if you try to play such an unfair trick, guess what you'll get back by return mail besides your own leftover turkey?

My leftover turkey.

To Your Good Health

It Wasn't A Cold, It Was Orange Juice

By G.C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You gave the right answer to the mother whose son seemed to have a cold all the time — that he should be checked for an allergy.

My grandson was the same way, had a runny nose and never got over what seemed to be a cold.

Finally he was checked for allergy, and was found to be allergic to orange juice, which he drank like water. After stopping that, both his nose and complexion cleared up. —Mrs. J.S.

Thanks for the object lesson in what is, too often an overlooked answer to the "chronic cold."

A word of warning. Orange juice isn't a very common offender, but that's the insidious thing about allergy: the most innocent item can affect some people. Egg milk green vegetables, wheat, strawberries, all sorts of ordinarily good foods can be allergens for some unfortunate individuals. So can ordinary house dust, flowers and other plants, animal danders, metals, soaps, perfumes — you name it. Hunt long enough and you'll probably find somebody who is allergic to it.

I am terribly frightened of this operation. Members of my family also have varicose veins but they are older. Please advise if there is anything else that can be done? —Mrs. R.E.

Main question is why you are so "terribly frightened" over having the veins stripped. It is anything but a dangerous procedure. At your mention of the veins being inflamed, I would, instead, be afraid to have them stripped out, because that inflammation could develop into phlebitis, or contribute to leg ulcers, or even the risk of blood clots.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 14 and started to menstruate about seven months ago. My periods have been very irregular and I have waited a long as seven weeks between periods. Do you find this abnormal? And is there any danger in a girl my age using tampons? —C.

First question: no, such early irregularity is quite common. Second question: no danger.

Diverticulosis is a bulge in the digestive tract. To become more familiar with the subject, write in care of the Herald for my booklet, "Don't Let Diverticulosis Throw You," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Thank Heavens For Fullbacks

A woman drove up Scurry Street Thanksgiving morning with a seat belt hanging out the right front door, with the buckle bouncing along the street, and for a few moments it sounded like the approach of good old Santa Claus.

THE QUOTE of the year comes from the New York Times. In a story about integration of schools in Poplarville, Miss., it quotes one resident saying to another: "I'll lay you two-to-one by the end of next season you're going to thank the Federal court for giving us that fullback."

Saw a bumper sticker on an Okie car reading: Eat Beans & Rabbit Stew Beat Nixon In '72

MY PRICELESS cousin, Price Everett, Bridgeport, writes: "There's nothing better to remind you of a happy boyhood on the farm than the aroma from passing a three-deck cattle truck freshly loaded." As a Durant city boy, I'll take your word for it. Just be careful not to halt alongside one at a stop light.

MYRON SCARBROUGH, Indianapolis, writes: "Say, have you ever run into that fellow Otto Biography who is always writing about himself?"

The eerie silence you hear from the Northeast is being made by the Penn State football team.

It is remarkable how much easier it is to register strong disapproval of the vices in which I no longer have the vigor to indulge.

MY BRIGHT cousin, Dr. George Ladd, is remaining neutral in the argument over women's liberation, but he concedes he always thought a woman who wore falsies was a sham-dame.

Remember when to err used to be human?

There's a sign on the marquee of an office equipment firm in Tulsa reading:

We Arrange Office Affairs

TEN-FOOT POLE department: A group of delegates walked out of a women's caucus in Washington because (and I quote the Associated Press here verbatim) the caucus was "more interested in their security than in broad social issues."

Bob Rogers, golfer-backshop boss (among other things), is thinking of promoting a golf match — as soon as he gets to feeling better — between penitentiary inmates and some of the regular money players. He's going to bill it as "The Pros and the Cons."

A Test For Family Assistance

WASHINGTON — Because of a record increase in the number of Americans on relief, the Federal government will have to spend $1.5 billion more than budgeted for welfare this year. This may explain why President Nixon's forward-looking Family Assistance Plan (FAP) is in such tough shape on Capitol Hill.

THE NIXON plan is the most progressive step toward welfare reform in history. It would guarantee a minimum annual income of $1600 to families of four, supplement wages of the working poor, and require welfare recipients to register for work or job training. In other words, FAP would aid the real needy and workers whose wages are too low to meet dollar outgo, and at the same time force the bums to help themselves.

But with relief costs at a record high, the Nixon administration at this writing is still opposing proposals by numerous members of Congress, notably Sen. Russell Long, D-La., that the program be tested before it is applied nationally. That is, that Congress should enact experimental programs to try to discover any bugs in the plan.

TOP NIXON people, including Health, Education, and Welfare Secretary Elliot L. Richardson, argue that the testing would set back welfare reform by at least four years, unless a specific start-up date for a national program was approved. Even if this is so, is that bad?

I put the question after digesting some of the arguments against FAP by officials of something called the National Welfare Rights Organization before unofficial hearing chaired by Sen. Gene McCarthy, the professional maverick. NWRO demands a guaranteed income of $5500 for a family of four, and no work requirement.

SUCH ARGUMENTS and the administration's reluctance to accept testing programs must raise suspicion in the kindest of hearts. NWRO's position is that of the young loafers who clutter the streets of most big cities, pausing in their frolickings only to catch a cab and ride over to pick up their relief checks. They are not about to exchange their lives of ease to enroll in a system that would force them to accept a job or at least take lessons in working.

IT IS TRUE that most relief money is disbursed in the category of Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC). With almost 13 million people on relief in the U.S., nine million of them are unmarried or abandoned mothers with small children. They need help, and they have a case when they plead that they not be forced to leave their children to go to work. Heaven knows many of those children are poorly cared for even with their mothers at home.

BUT WITH relief costs rising every month, Congress cannot be blamed for eyeing skeptically a plan that would also benefit the professional loafers. The working stiff's money is involved here, and he has a right to suggest that FAP be given a trial run to weed out those able-bodied youths who make a cushy career out of the dole.

'Hot' Sculpture

His Best Art Rusting Underground

PLAINVIEW, Tex. (AP) — Some of Tom Warren's best art is rusting under the ground.

For Warren is a flame sculptor — the only one as far as he knows. He starts with a great chunk of metal and works from that.

It wasn't always that way. He became a welder and worked on pipeline jobs. Warren spent spare moments working detail into steel pipe.

IN FACT, he says, "some of my better work is aging and rusting underground."

As a boy, Tom related to Jerry Huddleston of Station KVOP, Plainview, he carried a chisel in his pocket at all times. As he walked, he would find stones and with the chisel, he carved busts of men from the soft rocks.

During his schooling in Plainview, a teacher sent a note home to the boy's father urging that the father enroll the boy in an art school to develop his creative drawing ability.

Says Tom, "But in 1933, money was tight and the thing my dad had in mind was not spending money to send me to some art school."

TOM TURNED to welding to make his living. He trained at the National Defense Welding School in Plainview.

In 1958, he took two pieces of steel plate, welded them together around the outside edge, drilled holes on either side and then welded the inside to the other back plate. From this procedure he developed his first art model in steel.

Warren now spends hours at a drawing board working on sketches which will eventually be turned into real models of art.

After the drawing is complete, he buys a block of steel and cuts it into a rough form such as a man, bunkhouse scene or animal.

Heat is then applied to the full form in preparation for the detailed work which must be done by using small welding tips. The form must be kept white hot at all times so that the job can be done.

ASSISTANCE from a sharp pointed chisel is used sometimes to make a buttonhole or other minute mark on the statue, but nearly all of the task is accomplished with the torch.

"The initial cost of the steel is not the big thing," says this West Texas native. Warren estimates that about $100 worth of oxygen and acetylene go into the average model along with about 150 manhours.

According to Warren, the big problem is heat. Acetylene contains carbon which when applied to the model form makes the model become hard. Constantly heating the object tempers the metal and each time it is allowed to cool, it takes that much more time to reheat it again.

IT IS FOR this reason that Warren allows so much time when he sets down to work. When a few hours of work have gone into the object it has to stand overnight to cool in most instances.

"I like to work in the winter in a metal shed. That way, I don't need a heater to keep me warm. On a summer day, I try to stay away from it, but when I have got to work, the work goes outside under a shade tree because with that sun beating down and that flame thrower in my hand, it sure makes you work up a lather."

In 10 years, Warren estimates he has made about 100 objects. Some he has given away to friends, others he has sold. The top price he has received for one of the items is $300 and the lowest $150.

Among customers have been actor Dale Robertson and Civil Appeals Court Judge James A. Joy of Amarillo. Joy is an art critic himself and says he is amazed at the ingenuity displayed by Warren.

WARREN says: "I hope eventually to devote full time to working on these articles and selling them. Unlike some of the past masters of their arts, I sure would like to be famous before I die. I would like to see some of these things become collector's items."

Darrell Royal Frets Over Many Injuries

By The Associated Press — "I can remember," the Texas Longhorns coach said Thursday after a 28-14 victory over Texas A&M, "that I have never seen so many injuries in my life. It's the most costly victory in the history of the Longhorns."

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

In Jesse Olague, the Big Spring High School basketball team may have the finest ball handler since Danny Clendenen. Olague is the kind of floor magician the team has been needing for a long time.

If the Steers don't win another game (and they're going to win some, you can bet on that), they're worth the price of admission to see. They hit the floor running and they never let up. The way they consistently took the ball away from Palo Duro the other night was something to behold.

Palo Duro had the armor to force the Steers into retreat but Big Spring's press forced the Dons into too many turnovers.

Football players are a lot more daring than they used to be because of hard helmets and face masks. So says Duffy Dangler, the greybeard coach of the Michigan State Spartans.

He attributes the rash of injuries to the equipment and advocates a return to leather head gear. Plastic helmets were introduced because of the suspension element that is supposed to reduce head injuries.

The way the hats are built now, however, they're about as devastating as a battering ram.

Occasional indifference robbed Odessa Ector of much of its basketball strength last year but, from all indications, ex-Forsanite Albert Oglesby has another fine team this year.

Some of the Eagles who suited out here the other night had been out only one day, having played football last Friday night.

Oglesby does well in a situation where a white coach does not always prosper.

In six seasons at Odessa Permian, Gene Mayfield has guided his team to 59 wins, compared to only nine defeats and two ties. In district competition, the Panthers have lost only four times while achieving 29 wins and playing one tie.

Abilene Cooper has administered three of the defeats to the Panthers.

Only five big league baseball players have hit more home runs over the past four seasons than Houston's Jimmy Wynn.

Willie McCovey (151), Henry Aaron (150), Frank Howard (172), Harmon Killebrew (151) and Carl Yastrzemski (147) have been more productive than the Toy Cannon in that period.

Wynn has delivered 123 circuit clouts in the four seasons and, in so doing, has outmuscled such celebrated swatmen as Richie Allen, Tony Perez, Ron Santo, Boog Powell, Willie Stargell, Frank Robinson, Rico Petrocelli, Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays.

Those who have seen the Astrodome will agree that the Houston showplace is not the easiest place in baseball to reach the fences.

A headline in a St. Louis newspaper immediately prior to the recent Dallas-St. Louis NFL game read: "Dallas Won't Hold Back."

The headline had reference to coach Tom Landry's remark that the Cowboys would go full throttle against the Cardinals. The Cowboys showed one weakness in the game. They forgot where the goal line was.

At Arizona State, there are 62 players on the varsity football squad and 75 out for the golf team.

Waco High School, once the scourge of Texas high school football, may have to retreat from Class AAAA to AAA circles next season.

The school which gave to the football world such greats as Boody Johnson, Jake Wilson and Weidon (Speedy) Mason now has an enrollment of less than 1,000.

Don't be surprised if Emory Bellard, the former San Angelo mentor who has had much to do with the success of the University of Texas' Wishbone T offense, is tapped for one of the head coaching jobs in the Southwest Conference.

HC Decks Cowley In Kansas Tourney

GARDEN CITY, Kan. — Howard County JC and Paris, Texas, square off in the semifinals of the annual Garden City Holiday Basketball Classic here at 7 o'clock this evening.

HCJC hung on to edge Cowley, Kansas, 96-94, in its first round game while Paris bowled over Lamar, Colo.

In tonight's other semifinal contest, down for 8:45 p.m., Northeastern of Sterling, Colo., opposes Garden City, Kansas. Northeastern measured Panhandle of Oklahoma in its first round game while Garden City was winning by one point over Northern Oklahoma.

Championship finals will be at 8:45 p.m. Saturday. Should the Hawks lose tonight they will return to play at 7 o'clock Saturday evening, at which time they will contest for third place.

The Big Spring team built up a comfortable bulge over Cowley before the Kansas adjusted to JC's press. At half time, the Hawks were out front, 50-36.

The Hawks' shooting improved. They hit 33 of 66 from the floor for 50 per cent and 30 of 50 at the line.

Melvin Perez particularly played well for HC, connecting nine times in 11 efforts from the floor and adding three of four at the line for a total of 21 points.

Cowley pressed a 6-8 freshman named Charles Kennedy, who attended high school at Wichita East, Kansas, and Kennedy scored 27 points, all in the last half.

Lawrence Young again was HC's top rebounder with 11, although he fouled out late in the action. Kennedy Neal played well for the Big Springers, scoring 18 points. Decell Lewis had 17 and Archie Myers 16.

Maynard Stucky also had 27 for Cowley while Randy Adams chipped in with 12.

The win evened Howard County's record at 3-3.

Army And Navy Meet Saturday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Army and Navy play the second half of their seasons Saturday and, for a change, neither figures to be too badly over-matched.

As far as won-lost records go, they rank with the poorest teams in the history of either service academy.

Army is 1-8-1, winning its opener from Holy Cross, which has yet to win a game, and then dropping eight in a row, longest streak in history, before tying heavily-favored Oregon. Army's poorest previous records were 1-7-1 in 1940 and 2-7 in 1951, the latter in the wake of the infamous cribbing scandal.

Navy took its opener impressively from Colgate but has lost nine straight since. The worst Navy teams were 0-8-1 in 1948, 1-8 in 1946, 1-7-1 in 1947 and 1-9 just a year ago. The 1948 squad, however, played that glorious 21-all tie with an unbeaten Army team.

IN CRANE TONIGHT Longhorns Seek Third Victory

Enheartened by the showing his team has made in its first three starts, coach Ron Plumlee takes his Big Spring Steers to Crane tonight for an 8 o'clock start against that school's Golden Cranes.

The Longhorns have won two of three assignments against what is regarded as very respectable opposition. The locals have beaten Amarillo Palo and Odessa Ector and lost to Plainview.

Crane is coached by Arlen White, who grew up in Forsan, starred in basketball at Howard County JC and coached at Sandes.

Class AAA Fort Stockton defeated AA Crane, 68-51, in a game played earlier this week in Fort Stockton.

Crane still has Terry Neal, however, and he's a threat anytime he gets beyond the ten-second line. Tom Washington is also a threat for Crane.

Big Spring faces a rough schedule next week. The Steers go to Lamesa for a contest Tuesday night and then take part in the Plainview tournament starting Thursday.

Quite likely, Plumlee will start a lineup consisting of Richard Bullard, Jesse Olague, Mike Randle, David Carter and Ted Smith against Crane.

In three games, oddly enough, 56-0.

Big Spring and its opponents have scored exactly the same number of points. Each has 277. That averages out to 93.3 points a start.

Plumlee says he's going to have to spend more time working on his delayed game. At one time against Ector the other night, the Longhorns had a 17-point lead but almost blew it in the final minute simply because they couldn't shift gears.

Junior varsity units of the two schools clash at 6:15 p.m. After three starts, Bullard leads the Steers in scoring with a 22-point norm. Olague has averaged 21.

Jayton And Wall Collide Tonight

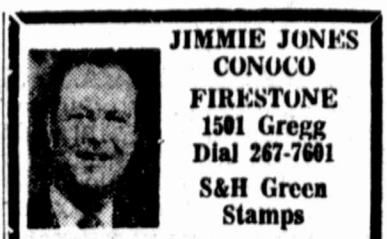

COLORADO CITY — Jayton, football champion of District 5-B, and Wall of 6-B clash in bi-district competition at 7:30 p.m. here tonight.

Both teams are undefeated. The teams met common opponents in Forsan, Loraine and Hawley.

Wall defeated Forsan, 27-0; Loraine, 50-0; and Hawley, 48-0. Jayton turned back Forsan, 28-6; Loraine, 35-0; and Hawley, 56-0.

Blancas Tops Links Field

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — "You may have saved my life," Pete Dye told Homero Blancas just after he'd finished his first round in the $100,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

"If it weren't for you, these guys might be looking for me with shotguns."

Blancas, a swarthy veteran of six years on the pro tour, had just managed a one-under-par 70 and was the only man in the field able to best par on the incredibly tough layout that architect Dye and associate Jack Nicklaus cut out of the South Carolina swamp.

"Easily the most demanding course we play, anywhere," defending champion Arnold Palmer said of the ocean-side, 6,655-yard, par 71 Harbour Town Golf Links. He had a 73, with two bogeys and no birdies.

"I've never seen a course to compare with it," said Jimmy Jamieson, one of five tied for second place at 71. "That was the best round I've ever played," he said. Sharing second were Frank Beard, John Jacobs, Roy Pace and Jim Wiechers.

A group of 10 were bunched at 72. They included national amateur champion Steve Melnyk, Don January, Mason Rudolph, Terry Wilcox, John Miller and Bunky Henry.

Nicklaus, who desperately wanted to win this one, was bitterly disappointed after a 75. He bogeyed five of the last six holes he played, mostly from the traps and trees.

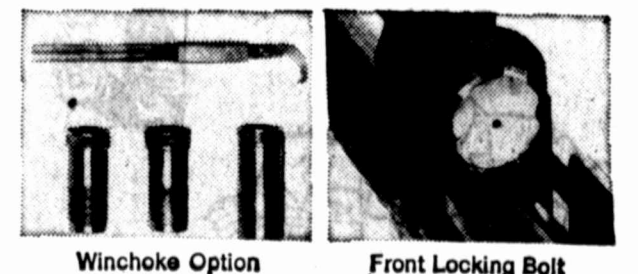

The scoring was among the highest on the tour this year. And the playing conditions were good. There was practically no wind. The numbing cold that marked the practice rounds abated. And still the scores went up.

The Quail Kit

Quail shooters know that they've got to have a smooth swinging, reliable shotgun that practically points by itself. That's why they're turning to the light, effortless upland guns made by Winchester — the 1400 automatic and the smooth, fast-shucking 1200 slide action. Both of these fine shotguns have lightweight, rust-proof aluminum receivers for a lifetime of trouble free use and both have an exclusive front locking bolt head that meshes steel bolt with steel barrel. They're both built by professional shooters — people who shoot and know what a shooter wants.

And for fine upland shot shells — there you have a happy choice, too.

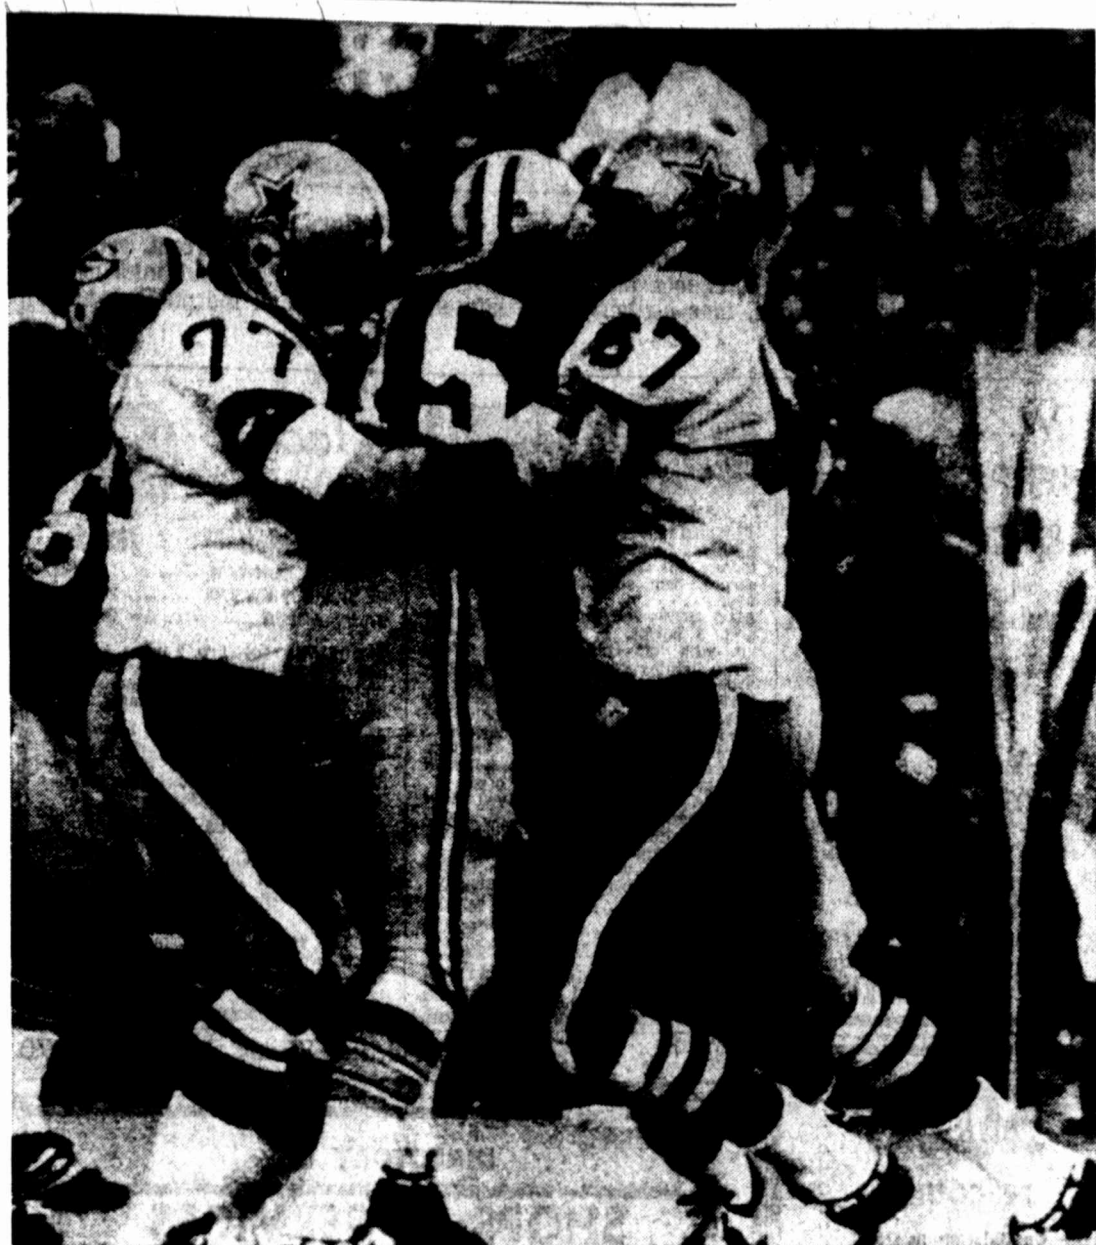

Take all the power you'll need with either Western Xpert or Winchester Ranger low brass shot shells. The plastic Mark 5 collar protects pellets through the barrel to keep shot round for truer, denser patterns. The unique Sealed-Gas Chamber prevents blowby and patchy patterns. Team either of these fine loads with a 1200 or 1400. They work better together. You'll do better with them.

COWBOYS CORRAL STARR — Dallas Cowboys Ron East (77) and Pat Toomay (67) lock up Green Bay's Bart Starr (15) on a fourth down attempt in the closing seconds of the game in Dallas on Thanksgiving Day. The ball went over on downs as Starr was stopped short of a first down effort and the Cowboys won, 16-3.

Cowboys, Lions Post Big NFL Victories

By The Associated Press

From Detroit to Dallas, Thanksgiving Day was a movable feast for the National Football League.

Greg Landry of Detroit out-pitched an NFL super passer for the second time in five days and Tom Landry of Dallas outfoxed Green Bay for the first time ever in Thursday's holiday attractions.

Detroit's Landry fired three touchdown passes as the Lions roared from behind to topple Darryl Lamonica and the Oakland Raiders 28-14.

Dallas Coach Landry, no relation to the Lions' second-year quarterback, called offensive signals from the sideline as his Cowboys finally overcame a longstanding Green Bay hex and pounded the Packers 16-3.

The victories enhanced the Lions' and Cowboys' playoff hopes while endangering Oakland's perch atop the American Football Conference's Western Division and dropping the faded Pack below the 500 mark.

Kansas City's defending Super Bowl champs, now just one game off Oakland's pace in the AFC West, can tie for the lead with a victory over visiting San Diego Sunday.

Detroit is virtually out of reach of first place Minnesota in the National Conference's Central Division. But the Lions' 7-4 record keeps them in contention for the playoff spot which goes to the second place club with the best won-lost mark in the NFC.

Dallas, also 7-4, could contest Detroit for that post-season berth ... if the Cowboys are unable to overtake front-running St. Louis, 7-2-1, in the NFC Eastern Division race.

The Lions spotted Lamonica two first-quarter touchdowns passes to Fred Biletnikoff, then stopped the AFC's leading passer-cold while Landry mounted an overwhelming counter-attack.

He hit Albie Taylor with a 12-yard scoring pass and flipped 20 yards to Charlie Sanders, who made a diving catch, for another touchdown to knot it at 14-all before the halftime break.

Then he tossed a six-yard go-ahead pass to Sanders, who made another acrobatic grab, in the final quarter before sending Mel Farr 11 yards on the ground for the wrap-up score.

Landry, who had eclipsed San Francisco's John Brodie, top passer in the NFC, with three TD passes in a 28-7 victory over the 49ers last Sunday, finished with 10 completions in 15 attempts for 104 yards and scrambled seven times for 77 more.

Lamonica was only 7-for-20 before giving way to 43-year-old George Blanda in the last quarter and, for the first time in a month, the miracle worker was unable to rescue the Raiders, 6-3-2 after the severance of a seven-game unbeaten string.

Dallas' Donsday Defense stymied the Packers after a first-quarter field goal and Mike Clark booted three field goals for the Cowboys before Charlie Waters' fourth-quarter interception set up the clinching touchdown, a 13-yard end-around dash by Bob Hayes.

Green Bay beat the Cowboys seven times in as many meetings, twice in NFL title games, before Landry finally got back at them.

Dallas was all but counted out after a 38-0 loss to St. Louis 10 days earlier, but they bounced back to whip Washington 45-21 last Sunday before downing the Packers.

Sands Enters 3 Tourneys

ACKERLY — Winners in their first two games, the Sands Mustangs will return to action Monday in a contest here with Westbrook.

The Mustangs, defending district titlists and participants in the state meet last season, will compete in tournaments at Garden City, Gail and Sterling City.

Sands will open 8-B competition as early as Dec. 1, at which time it clashes with Borden County in Gail.

The schedule:
N 30—Westbrook here.
D 1—Borden County at Gail; D 4—New Home; D 7—Forsan here; D 8—Loop here; D 10-11-12—Garden City tournament; D 14—of Forsan; D 15—Union Terry here; D 17-18-19-Borden County tournament at Gail; D 29-30-31—Sterling City tournament.
J 2—of Wellman; J 8—Dawson here; J 12—of Flower Grove; J 15—of Klondike; J 18—Borden County here; J 21—of Loop; J 26—of Union Terry; J 29—Wellman here.
F 2—of Dawson; F 5—Flower Grove here; F 9—Klondike here; F 12—Borden County at Gail; F 16—Loop here.

FS's Bad Guys Fail To Stop Cougar Club

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Frustration was enormous on the Florida State bench as bad guy Nick Holm of Houston blazed up the sideline with an interception.

Holm saw an open field until a mysterious leg extended from among the idle Seminoles to make an illegal tackle.

Dirty Dan Whitehurst strikes again.

"If you hadn't got him, I would have," said Whitehurst's sideline companion, linebacker Bill Lohse. "That boy wasn't going for any touchdown."

Holm's troops already owned a 39-21 lead when the incident occurred Thursday night in the fourth quarter. Later, it got to be a 53-21 rout. But, the junior from Victoria, Tex., was irate.

"I got so mad I threw the ball at that No. 50 when he tried to hide," said Holm. "I thought the play might go all the way and then, zap ... I was looking up at the lights."

Whitehurst received no chiding from his coach, Bill Peterson, over the play destined to go into the book of football infamy alongside the off-the-bench tackle by Alabama's Tommy Lewis against Dick Moegele of Rice in the Cotton Bowl almost 20 years ago.

"I felt like doing it myself," said Peterson.

Whitehurst wasn't entirely proud of his deed, but he seemed impressed that ABC-TV showed the re-run of his bogus tackle four times.

It wasn't the first time for the 215-pound sophomore linebacker from the farming community of Adel, Ga.

"I did it in high school against Camilla, Ga., one time," he recalled. "They gave the runner a touchdown that night."

All Houston received was an extra 15 yards for an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty.

The tackling incident tended to even overshadow the record-smashing pass catching of Houston's Elmo Wright.

The 190-pound senior from Brazoria, Tex., caught scoring tosses of 12 and 13 yards from Gary Mullins to give him 33 touchdown receptions in his career.

Wright's total surpasses the 32 touchdown catches of Howard Twilley at Tulsa in 1963-65.

Eagles Likely To Take Lumps In Card Contest

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League spotlight focuses this Sunday on the two Western Division races with a showdown struggle between Los Angeles and San Francisco in the NFC and a key game between San Diego and Kansas City in the AFC.

In addition, Cleveland and Pittsburgh tangle in an AFC Central battle involving first place and NFC East leading St. Louis takes on a suddenly strengthened Philadelphia team.

But there's no doubt here about the winners—San Francisco, Kansas City, Cleveland and St. Louis. And here's a closer look at all of them (all games Sunday unless otherwise noted):

San Francisco 24, Los Angeles 17—John Brodie, 49ers' quarterback, will have to escape the Rams' Front Four, No. 1 in the NFC in sacking the passer, but he's got the weapons. Los Angeles' offense is sputtering, and both touchdowns in 17-7 victory over Atlanta were scored by defense.

Kansas City 27, San Diego 24—Chiefs' pass defense No. 1 in AFC should be able to cut down John Hadl's strikes to Gary Garrison and Lance Alworth while Ed Podolak runs through a Charger defensive line that is the worst in the conference against the rush.

Cleveland 31, Pittsburgh 17—Bill Nelsen is back at quarterback for the Browns, and was impressive last week against Houston. Browns lead Central race at 5-5 to 4-6 for Steelers and Bengals, and need this head-on clash to prove supremacy.

St. Louis 34, Philadelphia 10—Eagles surprised Giants last Monday night and seem to be improving at this late stage. But, in the Cardinals, they face the No. 1 offensive team in the NFC. St. Louis also has not allowed a touchdown in four games.

New York Giants 35, Washington 17—Ron Johnson should find the Redskins' line easier to crack than the Eagles' and the Giants should be able to rebound and keep title hopes alive in AFC East. Washington playing without top receiver Charley Taylor.

Minnesota 24, New York Jets 21—The Vikings are 9-1, the Jets 3-7, but that's misleading. Jets No. 1 defensively, No. 3 offensively in AFC. The Vikings, however, are just too sound and quarterback Al Woodall probably will experience difficulty with Minnesota Front Four.

Baltimore 28, Chicago 14—Old Johnny Unitas needs something to celebrate his new contract with the Colts, and nothing pleases a football player more than a victory. Injury-riddled Bears now without quarterback Bobby Douglass.

Denver 34, Houston 17—Oilers down to rookie runners because of injuries, and Broncos are No. 1 against the rush in AFC. Take away the rush and you take away the pass. That doesn't leave Houston much to work with.

Buffalo 27, Boston 10—Quarterback Dennis Shaw making strong bid for Rookie of Year honors with Bills and hitting Marlin Briscoe consistently. Patriots have been going nowhere, and will continue to do so.

Cincinnati 24, New Orleans 17—Bengals riding three-game winning streak on heroics of scrambling quarterback Virgil Carter, re-awakened running of Paul Robinson.

MIAMI 38, Atlanta 21—Bob Griese is clicking again for the Dolphins, who need this one to retain chance to catch Baltimore in AFC East.

CALLS SELF REVOLUTIONARY — Soft-spoken Fay Stender of Berkeley, Calif., is an attorney who calls himself a revolutionary and a lawyer for radicals and The Movement. Her principal client at the moment is George Jackson, one of the so-called "Solead Brothers," three Negro convicts awaiting trial on murder charges in the beating of a white guard at Solead Prison last Jan. 16.

Hunt For AEC Employees Killed In Plane Crash

BOULDER CITY, Nev. (AP) — Using sonar equipment and special television cameras, searchers are probing the depths of Lake Mead for the bodies of Atomic Energy Commission employees killed when their light plane plunged into the lake.

The plane sank after the Wednesday crash in depths from 344 to 374 feet—too deep for scuba or hardhat divers, AEC spokesman Henry Vermillion said today.

A U.S. Navy diving bell or a two-man submarine may be used to recover the bodies if they are located, Vermillion added.

The hunt for the bodies began Thursday after the sonar equipment and television cameras were installed aboard boats of the National Park Service, which administers the Lake Mead National Recreation Area.

One man survived the crash, Charles Roland, 53, the pilot of the single-engine plane. He remained in critical condition at the Rosa de Lima Hospital in nearby Henderson.

Killed beside Thompson, 52, were his special assistant, Jack Rosen, and Bill Smith, head of the visitor's bureau operated by the AEC at its Nevada Test Site 75 miles north of Boulder City.

The men were flying over the Lake Mead area to the test site when the plane nosed straight down into the water, apparently as the result of a sudden down-draft.

Women Drinking

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Both sides have taken an argument over serving women drinks at the bar to the Court of Appeals, which will rule later this year.

Meantime, a lower court ruling allowing women to do so is in force through an injunction. The state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board is trying to keep the current prohibition on the books.

Thugs Escape After Taxi Driver Shot

NEW YORK (AP) — Cab driver Robert Goodwin told police he was resigned to the robbery when his two passengers pulled a knife and a gun. All he asked was that they leave him his coin changer.

But they refused, so Goodwin, 45, charged from the cab. He told police the gunman pulled the trigger and his gun misfired, but the second time the shot went off. Goodwin was hit in the stomach.

At Harlem Hospital where he was reported in fair condition, Goodwin told police he picked up the two young men at 42nd Street and Eighth Avenue Thursday night and took them to West 130th Street.

He said that as the men got out, "one said to the other, 'Pay the man.'" They pulled out the gun and knife and ordered Goodwin to hand over his money and the coin changer.

As the pair started to walk away, Goodwin told police, he said "Listen, take the money guys, but leave the changer." He said they appeared startled at the request and started to flee. Both escaped after the shooting.

Signs Of Upturn Forcecast By Nixonites Still Fuzzy

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The economic experts, with whom I have been meeting quite regularly here, indicate that the last half of the year will definitely see the economy turning up."

That was President Nixon speaking, at a July 20 news conference.

"Our year-end report and our congressional testimony gave the clear indication of a picking up in the rate of expansion in the second half of the year. I think that's still a good bet."

That was Paul W. McCracken, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, in an April 16 interview.

"ECONOMIC UPTICK" Since early in the year, the Nixon administration almost daily has come out with optimistic forecasts of an economic upturn in the last part of this year — or as is fashionable — an "economic uptick."

The end of the year is nearly at hand, and signs of the "uptick" are neither clear nor definite. In fact, some economists indicate, the opposite may be true.

Industrial production, one of the broadest indicators of the nation's economic pace, dropped by a stunning 2.7 per cent in October, steepest decline in the third quarter. It was modest growth, not as much as the indicator of industrial activity. The gross national product, broadest measure of the nation's output in terms of goods and services, rose 1.4 per cent in the third quarter. It was modest growth, not as much as the administration had expected.

There was no question, back early in the year, that the administration saw a definite upturn in this part of 1970.

President Nixon was reported to have told a visiting business group on April 28: "I'll tell you what is going to happen: You will begin to see, in the third quarter of the year, the economy leveling off. It will begin to turn, then in the fourth quarter you will begin to see more encouraging signs of the upturn."

Nixon's words were relayed by a member of the visiting business group. In a May 28 meeting with some of the nation's top businessmen, the President said the economy was strong and emphasized he expected an economic upturn in the last half of the year.

The administration's economic "game plan" was simple. To cool off an overheated economy, it applied gradual and moderately vigorous restraints to hold down inflation, including tight money and curbs on spending.

The inflation rate, as measured by the consumer price index, slackened during the summer months — then rose sharply in October, just the time the administration had hoped for a big decline. Meantime, the unemployment rate, reflecting the pressure of tighter money policies, climbed steadily upward, reaching 5.6 per cent of the labor force in October.

When the September unemployment rate reached 5.5 per cent, the administration played down the figure, saying the calculation was a "statistical wobble" caused by the fact figures were compiled before college students returned to their campuses.

The General Motors strike has smashed much of the administration's hopes for a strong upturn. At the same time, however, not all of the decline in economic activity, as reported by the indicators, has been attributable to the strike.

For instance, only half the drop in industrial production in October could be blamed on the strike. But while the strike was going on, many administration officials remained confident of an immediate upturn.

VERY SHALLOW George P. Shultz, head of the Office of Management and Budget, said in Hot Springs, Va., on Oct. 16 the economy "is on the threshold of a healthy expansion, so we should make sure that it stays healthy and does not regenerate all the inflation that is now being brought under control."

The bidding:
South West North East
1 ♠ 2 ♠ 2 ♠ Pass

Opening lead: Four of ♠ The blind lead of a singleton against a suit contract in the hope of obtaining a ruff is a risky procedure and is not recommended unless the player has a sure trump trick, or else is convinced that his partner has the ace of the suit led. Today's hand, where South was the declarer at a contract of four spades, is a good case in point.

West chose to open the four of diamonds. North played the deuce and East's ten forced out declarer's ace. Trumps were drawn in three pulls and South led the king of clubs. West played the ace and returned the queen which declarer ruffed. South returned the king of hearts and West was in again with the ace. He exited with a heart and the next two tricks were taken by North's jack and declarer's queen.

South had lost two tricks so far — one heart and one club. If the diamonds are divided three-two, then he would have only one loser in that suit. West's opening lead had all the earmarks of a singleton however, and the declarer had taken out precautions to cope with that possibility.

The three of diamonds was led from the closed hand and when West showed out, the eight was played from dummy. East was in with the jack, however, on the return he must surrender a trick. If he led a club or a heart, it would give the declarer a ruff and discard a diamond. A diamond return however would eliminate South's loser in that suit.

If West had chosen some other suit for his opening lead, it is reasonable to suppose that the declarer would have gone set — although he can still succeed by stripping out the side suits and then leading a small diamond from his hand and covering West's four with North's eight.

Black Voters Registration Wins Offices

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The executive director of the non-partisan Voter Education Project Inc. says the registration of 212,000 new black voters during the past two years in the South paid off with the election of 75 new Negro officeholders.

Their election Nov. 3, Director John Lewis said in a report, brings to 665 the number of Negroes now holding elective office in the 11 Southern states. Thirty-five incumbents were re-elected, he said.

"The substantial voter registration increase that has taken place over the last five years is now returning dividends," he said. "The election of black people, especially on the local levels, has strengthened the political power of a people who were long denied the right to participate in the democratic process."

"While the nation still gropes with domestic and international turmoil," he said, "the Southern region of this vast land appears to be laying a foundation of bringing people together — new alliances to assure all its citizens a voice."

"We are witnessing, particularly with the 1970 elections, the power of the ballot," he said. "While many segregationists still insist on antiblack platforms to win votes, it is becoming increasingly evident that the position of keeping blacks down and out of the political process cannot endure."

For the first time in modern history there will be blacks in the legislatures of Alabama and South Carolina, the report said. Three were elected in South Carolina, two in Alabama.

This leaves only Arkansas among the states of the Old Confederacy with no black legislators, the report said.

It said black representation in the legislatures of Florida, Georgia and North Carolina increased and three more Alabama counties — Lowndes County among them — elected black sheriffs.

"In Lowndes County, which was the scene of bitter civil rights struggles during the early sixties, there was not a single black citizen registered to vote as late as the summer of 1965," said Lewis.

Lowndes County is in central Alabama between Selma and Montgomery.

In addition to local elective gains a second black legislator was elected in Florida; a 15th in Georgia and a second in North Carolina.

Two Persons Die, Four Injured WACO, Tex. (AP) — A collision 20 miles east of here in Central Texas took two lives and left four other persons injured about 12:30 a.m. today.

Officers said the two vehicles collided on U.S. 84 near a side road leading to the Prairie Hill community.

They listed the dead as Randy Griffin, 17, of Prairie Hill and David Smith, 19, of Gatesville. Two of the injured — Michael Barr, 19, and Dennis Smith, 21, both of Gatesville — were reported in serious condition.

Officers said the vehicles were driven by Barr, who was accompanied by the other Gatesville residents, and by Sammy Griffin, 26, of Prairie Hill. Attendants said the other injured, Sammy Griffin and his mother, were in good condition.

CRASH AND COLLAPSE — One woman was fatally injured when two cars crashed and one hit a cleaning shop in Tulsa, Okla., causing a corner of the roof to collapse. Dead was Mrs. Martha Jean Payne of Fort Worth.

East, West Germany Open High-Level Talking Today

BERLIN (AP) — East and West Germany began high-level talks today for the first time since West German Chancellor Willy Brandt and East German Premier Willi Stoph held their historic meetings in May.

Foreign Minister Michael Kohl of East Germany and Egon Bahr, special aide to the chancellor of West Germany, met in the East German Council of Ministers building in the Communist sector of Berlin.

They were expected to talk mainly about procedural questions and to set the date for the next meeting.

On the eve of today's talks, an East German leader declared in Budapest that his country will never consider reunification with Bonn as long as West Germany remains an "imperialist" nation.

The two Germans are "inexorably drawing apart in all areas," Friedrich Ebert, a member of the East German Communist party politbureau, told the 10th congress of Hungary's Communist party Thursday in one of the toughest statements his government has ever made favoring the permanent division of Germany.

Ebert described the talks in East Berlin as an exchange of opinions on questions whose solution would serve the cause of relaxation in Europe.

He said the talks are the result of East German initiative. The meetings earlier this year
