SEX-CRAZED MAN IS BEING SOUGHT IN MURDER CASE

BY ROBERT MYERS
Associated Press Staff Writer

LA JOLLA, Calif., Sept. 2—A few strands of brown hair provided police today with their main hope of solving the seaside attack-killing of Ruth Muir, 48-year-old socially prominent welfare worker.

Convinced the slaying was the work of a sex-crazed assailant, officers turned their investigation away from La Jolla, aptly named "jewel town" of the southern California coastland, and searched in San Diego for the killer.

Most Are Released

More than a score of men who had previously been arrested on morals charges were picked up here and closely questioned as to their movements Monday night, but virtually all of them were released before dawn.

The body of Miss Muir, former San Antonio, Tex., society girl, was found yesterday in a grassy ravine on La Jolla's famed beach front.

Her head had been beaten, as if by a rock. In her hand were several wisps of human hair.

The hair will be sent, along with samples plucked from the heads of several suspects, to Pomona, Calif., college for tests.

"We may be able to find out something about the slayer from these hairs—his type, for instance," an officer explained.

Clotted blood found under Miss Muir's fingernails also will be sent to Pomona for analysis, along with three soggy paper towels, believed blood soaked, which were found in a La Jolla oil station Monday night.

Ships Are Warned Today As Fierce Storm Sweeps Over Lanes Of Atlantic

HURRICANE DESCRIBED AS DANGEROUS; COAST POINTS WILL RECEIVE RAINS AND SQUALLS

(By The Associated Press)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 2—The weather bureau warned ocean craft in the North Atlantic shipping lanes today that a fully developed tropical hurricane was sweeping upon that area.

The storm was described as "large and dangerous." Weather observers said it will pass well to the east of Bermuda and the worst that British isle off the Carolina coast may expect is rain and possibly squalls.

At midnight the weather observers said the hurricane was between 400 and 500 miles southeast of Bermuda, still moving northwestward at about 15 miles an hour. Winds of 80 miles an hour or more were whirling around its center, they reported.

The forecasters figured the disturbance will move upon the trans-Atlantic shipping lanes used by craft bound to and from Wilmington, Norfolk and Baltimore today and later its effect will be felt in the New York-Boston-Philadelphia transoceanic routes.

The storm is far at sea, however, and at present offers no threat to land areas.

Allred Declares Powers Misused

PROBLEMS OF PAROLE FOR CONVICTS ARE BEING DISCUSSED

(By The Associated Press)

GALVESTON, Sept. 2—Governor James V. Allred, opening the first southwestern states parole conference, said today that "too often the power of clemency by those in authority was misused."

"Throughout the country," he said, "the public conscience has revolted at crime committed by felons with a pardon in one hand and a smoking pistol in the other."

Seek Better Understanding

Addressing representatives of six states, the governor said the object of the conference was a full discussion and a better understanding between states with similar interests on the subject of parole.

"I am sure that every governor comes to the conclusion that the question of clemency is the most trying, if not the most important problem to be dealt with by society in general," he said.

"It seems to me that our ultimate objective should be this: To

SUBSIDY PLAN IS STUDIED

NAVAL OFFICERS AND LABOR LEADERS ARE BEING MENTIONED

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2—Two high ranking naval officers and two labor leaders were mentioned in an official quarter today as possible presidential selections for membership on the new maritime commission.

A list of 100 or more names under consideration was believed to have been narrowed to not more than 15. Of these, five eventually will be chosen to administer the new ship subsidy program at salaries of $12,000 a year.

Possible Appointees

Advanced as possible appointees from the navy department were Admiral William H. Standley, acting secretary and chief of naval operations, and Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, chief of the bureau of construction and repairs.

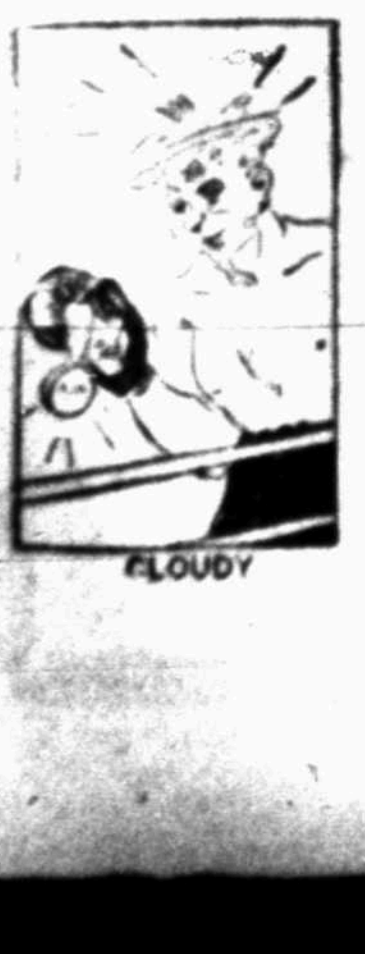

Possibilities from the ranks of organized labor were listed as Paul Scharrenberg, legislative representative of the International Seamen's Union, and Victor Olander, secretary-treasurer of the Illinois state federation of labor who formerly served the union in the same capacity.

To Be Navy Man

That one member of the commission will be a navy man is generally conceded. Until the resignation a year ago of Admiral Hutchinson I. Cone, the present shipping board has always included someone from the navy department, on the theory that at least one member should be versed in the technical requirements of adapting the merchant fleet to

INCREASE FOR TONNAGE IS ANNOUNCED

JAP STRENGTH TO BE ONE THIRD HIGHER THAN AMERICA'S

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 2—Japan, in a formal note, today announced it intended to retain 15,598 tons of submarines in excess of the United States and Great Britain.

That will make Japanese submarine strength one-third superior to that of the other two naval powers.

Reply To Britain

The Japanese move was taken in reply to Great Britain's recent invocation of the escalator clause of the London naval treaty of 1930 under which the British announced their intention of keeping 40,000 tons of overage destroyers in excess of the 150,000 tons allowed by the treaty.

Under the terms of the pact Japan had it desired could have added 28,000 tons in destroyer strength. Instead the Japanese elected to substitute retention of 15,598 tons of submarines which were due to be scrapped as overage at the end of the year.

Increase Strength

Under the treaty Britain, the United States and Japan are allowed 52,700 tons of submarines each. But by today's proposal, the Japanese will increase their submarine strength to nearly 68,300 tons.

Under the escalator clause any signator to the treaty feeling its national security to be jeopardized may increase its naval strength in any classification by notification to the other signers who in turn are allowed to make proportionate increases.

The question arose here today, however, whether Japan was entitled to transfer its tonnage increase from the destroyer to the submarine class.

Advice To Parents Of School-Age Children

FAITH IN SCHOOLS ASSISTS LEARNING BUT CRITICISM HURTS STUDENTS' CONFIDENCE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

A CHILD can easily be turned away from school by hearsay, or listening in on disparaging conversations of other people.

It may be about the teacher or the principal, or any of the school personnel. The teacher may be new, or young or foolish, according to the gossips. Or as one mother said, not bothering to move out of range of her small son's ears, "I never thought I should live to see the day when one of that Smith crowd would be teaching my boy."

Mrs. Barton

Can you see how this child's faith and respect for his teacher is undermined before he even sees her? Miss Smith is as she may be and very likely a good teacher, but the harm done is not to her as much as to this boy himself.

Criticism Harmful

Then there are other matters that may shake his faith in school. For instance if he hears older folk knocking the whole system and saying what should be done and what not. It is a fatal mistake we make these days to criticise methods used in local schools and to compare them with what is being done somewhere else, or perhaps with new progressive or experimental schools.

Once Johnny gets the idea that he isn't being done right by he is likely to take one long look at the building on that first day and vow to himself that he isn't going to try in a place that is all wrong anyway. Maybe it is. Maybe it is the worst school on earth, where they only teach the three R's and make the children mind, but that isn't any reason why the boy should not get at least that much, and get it well.

ANOTHER matter that comes up every now and then is the democracy of the classroom. As time goes on there is a tendency to decry the different kinds, creeds, races and nationalities in districts. And to add that it is a shame our dear little Johnny has to go daily among them. This is one huge mistake. The public school is for the purpose of educating everybody and elevating the underprivileged. Mr. Big Taxpayer may resent it and think his child should have a special room to himself but it won't do for him to talk about it in the child's hearing because in time this same youngster won't feel that he is in the right place and therefore won't work.

Child Needs Confidence

There are still other matters of like kind that will easily affect the pupil's attitude toward school. But one thing stands out—the more he hears against the system the building, the room or his teacher and fellow classmate the less he will enjoy his school life. A secret conviction that things are wrong will crumble his confidence, and without it he cannot be at his best. Confidence in school life is as important as confidence at home. Actually the child wants to like his associates, and will take the whole business philosophically if we let him alone. How unfair it is to handicap him with our opinions and worries, even though we may be entitled to air them.

The child who goes to school supported by home approval, well-rested, nourished, groomed and unfettered by private troubles, has the best chance to succeed.

TRADE REPORT IS RELEASED

SALES OF DEPARTMENT STORES OVER TEXAS INDICATE TREND

DALLAS, Sept. 2 (AP)—Sales of department stores in the principal cities, showing an increase of 23 per cent over July of last year, is used as the barometer of business in the monthly business review of the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas, released today.

Sales declined from June to July by less than the usual seasonal amount, the review says, but "wholesale distribution in most reporting lines of trade reflected a further expansion in July."

Collections Vary

While retail collections declined seasonally, the report adds, collections by wholesalers showed a noticeable increase. The volume of debits to individual accounts of reporting banks was three per cent above that in June, and exceeded by two per cent the large total in July last year.

The value of building permits issued at principal cities, although recording a seasonal decline from the June volume, the review says, continued materially higher than in other recent years. The July figure was nearly double that for a year ago and the aggregate for the seven months was 130 per cent larger than the total for the comparable period in 1935.

Crops Improved

In agricultural and livestock, the review notes "a general improvement in the condition of growing crops occurred the past month as a result of the rains which fell over the major portion of the district in late June and early July."

The department of agriculture in its Aug. 1 report, it says, placed the condition of growing crops above that of July 1, and in most instances production estimates were increased.

The indicated production of cotton in the eleventh Federal Reserve district, on the basis of the Aug. 1 estimate of the department of agriculture, is considerably larger than the 1935 harvest, due both to increased acreage and higher prospective yield per acre.

Range conditions improved in July and livestock was maintained in good condition. The generally favorable agricultural outlook Aug. 1, however, has been tempered by the unusually high temperatures and hot winds prevailing over most of the district. Commercial reports indicate considerable crop deterioration occurred.

Loans Increased

The loans of reporting member banks in leading cities increased $10,219,000 between July 8 and Aug. 12, the review says, but their investments were reduced $3,406,000 during the same period. The combined total of loans and investments Aug. 12, was $87,772,000 higher than a year earlier, the increase being about equally divided between the two classifications.

Member banks borrowings at the Federal Reserve bank increased further between July 15 and Aug. 15, and the relatively small volume outstanding on the latter date was slightly larger than a year ago.

Brazil's federal council for foreign commerce is studying creation of an officially directed monopoly to plant and export tobacco.

Tenants' Heaven

CHICAGO — For at least ten years that he knew of, 81-year-old William Ihde told Justice Justin F. McCarthy, none of the tenants in the six-flat building where he lived paid any rent — because nobody knew who owned it.

But Mrs. Delphina Lance charged that Ihde posed as the owner and tried to have her evicted for non-payment of rent.

When Ihde admitted he was not the owner and didn't know who was, Judge McCarthy fined him $100 and ordered an investigation of the mystery building.

Back in 1933 hundreds of these hogsheads packed full of mild, ripe tobacco were rolled into our warehouses to age.

Everybody knows how ageing improves fine wine. Well, ageing improves tobaccos the same way —adds aroma and flavor.

Now three years later, these same mild ripe tobaccos are being made into Chesterfield Cigarettes.

Finals In Tourney Are Slated Tonight

THREE TEAMS LEFT IN PLAY FOR CHOICE OF DISTRICT CHAMP

LITTLEFIELD Sept. 2 Special—Tulia plays Abernathy and the winner meets Dickens-Kinney here tonight in what is hoped will wind up the stormy District 7 amateur softball tournament.

The first game is scheduled for 8 o'clock under the lights at Littlefield's park, and the second will start as soon as possible thereafter.

The Post Centennials, actual winners of the tournament as a result of defeating the Lubbock entry Monday night in what had been scheduled as the championship game were disqualified as a technicality Tuesday by State Softball Commissioner Harold B. White. White also ordered investigation of the Lubbock team, hinting ineligibility of several players.

Game which Post and Lubbock had won, therefore were forfeited according to Mr. White's orders, and the six teams thus reinstated were asked back for more softball.

The tournament continues Wednesday night with the Texas Utilities team of Abernathy playing Tulia at 8 o'clock on the Littlefield park. The winner meets the Dickens-Kinney club at 9 o'clock in the championship game, and the winner of that game will be designated to represent the district at the state tournament starting Friday in Fort Worth.

Tulia Beats Spur

Tuesday night's game, Spur vs. Tulia, lost to Post and protested, was definitely removed by the Tulia entry defeated by Post in the first round. The score was 5 to 4 in Tulia's favor, came back into the tournament.

Spur	010 000 0	4	7	3
Tulia	220 001 x	5	8	1

Warner and Brown; H. Toler and T. Ross.

The Dickens-Kinney team, which had been eliminated by Lubbock after defeating a Littlefield team in the scheduled tournament met and defeated Grassland, which had lost to Lubbock in the first round, score was 11 to 2, as Richard Cooke's pitches for a Lubbock team a year ago got right.

Grassland	400 000	7	11	6
Dickens-Kinney	000 200	0	2	2

Cooke and Burton; Pharr and Young.

Cooke's pitching was a big factor in the game, he struck out 12 batters, walked only two and allowed but four hits. Cooke struck out a total of 31 men during the two games and hit three home runs in the last.

Dickens-Kinney	214	00	3	12
Post	010	100	2	4

Cooke and Burton; D. Hair and Dodson.

Dutton, Dickens-Kinney pitcher, came here to Lubbock was waiting for Post to bring in additional evidence in support of its protest against Post's State Commissioner White telephoned from Post Monday saying:

Post and Lubbock softball teams are disqualified for using ineligible players. All games these teams have won are to be forfeited and a playoff arranged for the remaining team.

Pitcher Is Suspended

There is to be no further argument regarding the question of the Post pitcher's eligibility. His name is a familiar one to me as a player in the Big-Evening district and he is ineligible to compete in baseball. This is according to Section 4 of Article XI in the constitution and by-laws of the Amateur Softball Association of America.

Post after winning its preliminary game defeated Lubbock's entry 6 to 5 in what was supposed to have been the final game Monday night.

With the disqualification of both teams, the state commissioner it was necessary for six teams previously eliminated to be re-bracketed for play-off.

Post players, sponsors and business men of the city were making plans for taking the team to Fort Worth for the state tournament beginning Friday when news of the club's disqualification came through. The team was to be equipped with a lot of new uniforms and was to march on Fort Worth "in style."

More Protests

Action on Post's appeal from the protest decision was taken from the hands of the district commissioner who had ruled in Post's favor on two previous protests.

Tonight's resumption of the tournament was not without its argument and protest. At the outset the Dickens-Kinney team protested eligibility of a Grassland player. They were to play in the first game, but the contest was held up pending decision from Lubbock. The protest was based on supposition that a Grassland player had competed in a baseball tournament at which cash prizes were offered. No grounds for complaint on this count were discovered by the district official.

SEASON DUCATS TO TECH GAMES SELLING FAST

Indicating a lively pre-season interest, football fans of the town swooped down on the down-town ticket agency yesterday and took away more than 400 season tickets for Texas Tech's 1936 home games.

Athletic Business Manager Bo Williams was definitely pleased with the first day's sale, the tickets going on sale for the first time yesterday.

"Season tickets will be on sale for only nine more days," Williams pointed out, "unless they're all sold before then. At the rate they were going yesterday, the limited number will be sold before the time expires."

The season ticket books will be taken from the racks next week and individual ducats for the Texas Tech-Texas Christian university game, scheduled Sept. 26, will go on sale.

Walton's Men's Shop is the downtown ticket agency this year.

FIRST ROUNDS IN CUP PLAY

FRANCIS OUIMET NOT TO TAKE PART IN WALKER MATCHES

PINE VALLEY, N. J. Sept. 2 (AP)—Captain Francis Ouimet directed his American forces from the sidelines today as Britain's youngest team in history battled against odds, tradition and golfing class to get a grip on the Walker cup that always has eluded England's grasp.

Fleeting himself from the competitive front for the first time with the simple explanation that he didn't feel capable enough, the gallant Boston veteran also withheld Johnny Fischer of Cincinnati and George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, but sent the rest of his squad out for the first skirmishes—foursome play.

Carry U. S. Banner

Carrying the American banner as the number one doubles combination were Johnny Goodman, of Omaha and Scotty Campbell, the Canadian bombed from Seattle.

Two of Texas greatest amateurs, Reynolds Smith, of Dallas and Ed White from Bonham, who teamed up with a record-breaking 66 with alternate shots Monday drew leading British duo in Jack McLean, rated as England's best amateur next to Thompson, and the 18-year-old schoolboy sensation, John Langley.

ROPES AND ANTON TO MEET FRIDAY

ANTON, Sept. 2—(Special)—High school grid squads of Ropesville and Anton aren't just fooling around with ordinary workouts—they're playing football.

Clubs of these schools played what is thought to have been the first game of the season when they met here last Friday. The game was rained out in the fourth quarter. Now the teams are ready to play what likely will be the second interscholastic contest of the season. Anton was leading 13 to 0 when rain interfered with last Friday's proceedings.

Dissatisfied with the turn of events, both clubs have agreed to meet this week and play it off.

The lighted field of Levelland High school has been selected as a neutral site. Teams of Anton and Ropesville will kick off at 8:30 o'clock Friday night in their second engagement of the season.

Neither game counts in the Class C title race, the clubs being in separate divisions of the district.

Noted Rushaway To Return To Battle

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—After a long rest, A. G. Tarn's Rushaway, famous for his victories in the Illinois and Latonia derbies on successive days, returns to competition today in the mile and a sixteenth of the $3,000 Warren handicap at Narragansett park.

The black gelded son of Haste meets nine other three year olds, including Faust, a stablemate. Although assigned top weight of 121 pounds, from five to 17 more than his rivals, Rushaway is strictly the horse to beat as reports from the stable say the veteran Canadian owner and trainer has his charge razor sharp.

MANAGER BILL TERRY PULLS FAST ONE

CHARLEY GRIMM FINDS SELF "ON SPOT" BY GIANT STRATEGY

BY SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill Terry must feel today like the poker player who fills an inside straight.

BILL TERRY

He pulled the longest kind of a long shot out of the hat yesterday but his master-minding (if such it was) paid dividends as his Giants battered the Cubs 7-4 in the windup of their "crucial" series to move four full games in front of the National league pack.

The Giant jinx, Curt Davis, was back on the hill for the Cubs for the first time in nearly three weeks, recovered from a stomach ailment, and he was having his usual fun stopping the New Yorkers.

Grimm Put On Spot

Terry apparently realized that with Davis in there tossing them up, the Giants weren't particularly bright.

Terry's idea apparently was to put Manager Charley Grimm on the spot, and virtually force him to remove Davis. The thing was simple enough. In the Cubs fourth inning, the first two men up were walked in a hurry. This would have brought up Davis but Terry relied on Grimm to do the logical thing and yank him for a pinch-hitter.

Grimm did, and a Chicago run resulted, but Davis was out. In the next inning, the Giants showed him how much they thought of his relief: Bill Lee by banging him and two other Cub throwers for four runs to put the game on ice.

Cards Rained Out

With the Cardinals rained out after three innings with the Dodgers the win for the Giants — third in the four-game Cub series — made them certain of at least a two-game lead when they return home from the current western swing.

In the American league while the pace-setting Yanks were idle, along with the Chicago White Sox, their first-place margin was boosted to 17 games by the third straight defeat for the second place Cleveland Indians at the hands of the Boston Red Sox.

The fast-traveling Senators pulled up in a fourth-place tie with the White Sox by clipping the Browns 5-3 behind Earl Whitehill's six-hit hurling.

Schoolboy Rowe produced the day's best pitching, a two-hit job for a 4-1 win over the Athletics. The Pirates pounded the Bees for the third straight day, coming out with a 3-1 decision behind Jim Weaver's tight twirling.

This department is one year old today. . . . And thanks to all the boys who've helped keep it going. . . . Too bad the McPherson Oilers and the Hollywood Universals will bust up. . . . They're the joint combination which won the Olympic basketball championship, you remember. . . . In recognition of this the boys have received so many attractive offers they've decided to cash in. . . . The professional urge seems to be catching. . . . Dorothy Poynton Hill has followed Jesse Owens' lead and is going out for what it takes. . . . Reports say Alice Arden, the high jumper and one of the best lookers on the American Olympic team, and Betty Robinson, of the winning 400-meter relay team, also have their ears cocked for offers.

SPORTOGRAMS
by COLLIER PARRIS

FLETCHER SLED ALLEN is sort of shooting the works tonight, huh.

Nice grappling darc the old maestro has lined up for his Auditorium.

Folks have been wanting to see that main event for a long time. They are due to see plenty tonight. We expect to get a personal wallop out of it when Sailor Tex Watkins ties into the four-flushing Buck Lipscomb, the Hoosier Hotshot who used to parade as Don Kent.

This is one time old Sailor Kirby will have the fans on his side, no matter how mean he gets. He'll have this fan, for sure, although ordinarily we can't give Sailor Watkins a thing—except a report of his victory.

Lipscomb or Kent, belongs to the same school of wrestling as Danny McShain and Sailor Watkins. They are three of the worst and toughest ever to hang around these parts. Lipscomb shows possibilities of being about the worst. McShain and Watkins mix in a lot of showmanship with their rough stuff, although they by no means pull their punches. Lipscomb has not developed great showmanship. He doesn't seem to care whether he pleases anybody or not, as long as he can do bodily harm to an opponent.

Month ago, this department expressed a wish for the time when Tex and Buck would meet in a main go. This is the night, unless Lipscomb discovers he has unfinished business elsewhere.

McShain is with us tonight, also, and sympathy is with Dory Detton. Here's where the crowd will see red. One of the most colorful of fan antagonizers, Danny is at his worst when his opponent is a clean scrapper. Detton is mighty popular. You can guess the rest.

Welcome, Yaqui Joe, back to the local ring. You've been away some time now, and we've wondered where you were and why you didn't come back. You used to be mighty good, perhaps the best "leg wrestler" Lubbock ever saw, unless John La Rue's long limbs are counted for value.

Joe meets Ace Abbott, the improved youngster from Abilene. Ace has been on the west coast this summer doing a lot of wrestling, and he is much, much better than he was last spring.

It'll be a relief to watch somebody else wrestling tonight; we've had our share for the past eight days.

They're still playing softball at the Littlefield tournament, fina games scheduled tonight.

This makes the third time final games scheduled tonight, in this tournament. First time was last Saturday night, but it rained Friday night and caused postponements. There were other holdups, and the finals were booked again Monday night.

Post and Lubbock got together in the final game protests hanging over the heads of each, and Post won.

Now what this person wishes to put over to one and all the teams concerned is this. So far as the district commissioner is concerned, the softball tournament ended Monday night when Post defeated Lubbock, and Post is the district champion! Post won the tournament on the field, taking each of its games. Lubbock won all but its last one. And that's that.

But State Commissioner Harold B. White and the amateur law makers have a different idea, and they are running things.

To our disappointed friends at Post and Lubbock, let it be clearly understood that the district commissioner did not act upon protests which resulted in disqualification of those teams.

The district commissioner was, however, waiting for evidence regarding Spur's protest of Post, just sittin' here waiting and hoping that things could be worked out, and doing a lot of heavy moping, sweating and growing gray hairs.

Then over the wires from Fort Worth came just about the most relieving statement we've ever heard. It was Mr. White, and he said "I understand you're having a lot of fun with the district tournament. Well, you may rest easy. Protests have been filed with me and I have acted upon them."

He went ahead to explain then, that Post and Lubbock were disqualified. This was somewhat disappointing, naturally, because we like to see athletic contests and championships decided on the field of action. Furthermore we are convinced that the finalists in the tournament were the class of the tournament, and deserved to win according to ability.

It is just too bad that the teams concerned could not measure up to the amateur requirements.

That's the straight of it, and for verification you are at liberty to contact State Commissioner White, who, after all, is The Boss.

Now our Post friends are of the opinion this agent is the lowest snake in the grass, and that is regrettable. We however, had nothing to do with causing the ineligibility of Post's star pitcher. Even had Post been declared official winners of the district tournament, evidence on the pitcher having not been sufficient, the team would have been barred as soon as it reached Fort Worth for the state tournament. Mr. White, it seems, has a habit of gathering and filing the dope on softball players.

Barring other protests and counter protests, and if it doesn't rain, the tournament should be over tonight. It will be too late to protest any more, because the state tournament starts right away.

GRID GAME IS SET TONIGHT

ALL-STARS TO TANGLE WITH DETROIT CREW EVEN WITH RAIN

CHICAGO, Sept. 2 (AP)—The college all-stars and Detroit Lions collide tonight at Soldier field after a 24 hour postponement caused by last night's steady rain.

The "dream game" battle between the former college and university aces and the world professional grid champions will get under way at 7:30 p. m., Central standard time wet or dry, sponsors declared.

Many Tickets Sold

Eighty thousand tickets have been sold approximately 15,000 to out-of-town fans, many of whom were forced to return home when the game was put over.

The postponement, however apparently did not dull the keen edge of the two crack grid squads. Head Coach Bernie Bierman, while disappointed at the delay, said he believed a firmer turf would aid his brilliant collection of 51 stars, while George (Potsy) Clark, coach of the Lions, remarked "the comfort of the fans was the big issue—our boys will be just as ready tonight."

EASY TO BUY?

FINE DISH OF FIGHTING TO BE SERVED

WICKED ACTION BEING PROMISED FANS OF AREA TONIGHT

They may grow with tougher hides and fiercer tempers in the jungles, but it is improbable that they put as much fury and force into their death struggles than three of the "gentlemen" wrapped up and ready to serve out to local and South Plains wrestling fans tonight.

Promoter Sled Allen is really serving up a choice wrestling dish to fans who like high, wide and wicked action in athletic contests. He has lined up those three adventurous villains, Sailor Tex Watkins, Buck Lipscomb and Danny McShain, to share honors on a card with two popular scientific grapplers.

The fans heresbouts have long since demanded a main event between Sailor Watkins and Buck Lipscomb. Watkins has been ruling the roost as the toughest and meanest for a long time. Then young Lipscomb came back, and tried to do Watkins one better. He became extremely unpopular, and the fans said, "feed him to Watkins!"

So it'll be Watkins and Lipscomb, and if you have ever seen a couple of tigers battle to the death in their native habitat, or if you've seen actual pictures of a panther-boa constrictor duel, you'll have some idea of what to expect when Watkins and Lipscomb, Tex and Buck, clash in tonight's main.

Danny McShain, the rapidly aging villain from Oregon, climbs up a notch in importance tonight, meeting Dory Detton on the semi-final. McShain initiated his local comeback campaign last week, meeting and severely beating Ace Abbott in a storm of illegal fighting in the prelim. He'll try to do the same to Dory Detton, the peace-loving Mormon who knows nearly all the tricks, tonight, but he won't get by as easily.

Indian Joe Returns

Abbott is to serve as cannon fodder for another well-known wrestler tonight, and Lubbock fandom welcomes Yaqui Joe back to the ring. The veteran Indian has been passing the town, up for more than a year. He was in ill health for a while, but recovered to do some main event wrestling in El Paso last spring and considerable more in his native Mexico this summer.

Yaqui used to be fairly clean and gentlemanly, although never shirking a good fight. Abbott, rapidly improving youngster from the Abilene district but who has spent most of the spring and summer in California doing a lot of wrestling, will give Yaqui a reasonable test tonight. If the Indian gets by Abbott, he'll qualify for a higher spot on the card.

Because it's an all-round unusual attraction and because it costs considerably more money to stage, Promoter Allen is boosting the women's and children's general admission price to 25 cents, from the usual dime. All other prices remain the same.

STANFORD HAS A NEW ROLE

THORNHILL'S TEAM IS TO BE DARK HORSE IN GRID DRIVE

PALO ALTO, Calif., Sept. 2 (AP)—Stanford university, western selection in the last three Rose Bowl football classics, finds itself in the interesting role of "dark horse" this season after many years' designation as "the team to beat."

Not even Coach C. E. "Tiny" Thornhill will hazard a guess as to the "when, where and how" of the Stanford team of 1936 but if the big fellow has any worries over the prospects he is keeping them strictly to himself.

Nine Regulars Out

Nine of the eleven regulars who helped whip Southern Methodist last New Year's day in Pasadena, passed out of competition under the three-season rule. In the general exodus of gridiron talent were sixteen of 23 lettermen.

To Stanford followers the loss was a terrific shock. To Coach Thornhill it was "just one of those things. We'll find somebody to replace them."

The man who turned out three top bracket teams in as many years as head coach, is confronted with the job of putting together a winning combination from seven returning lettermen and some fifty other candidates. A few have had limited varsity experience. Bright prospects from the 1935 freshman squad are sprinkled throughout the group.

Texas League Goes On Scoring Bender

SCOREKEEPERS STILL DIZZY FROM COUNTING 79 RUNS SCORED IN FOUR GAMES TUESDAY

(By The Associated Press)

Texas league scorekeepers were still dizzy today counting the 79 runs scored in the loop's four games last night.

The Galveston Buccaneers rose in all of their might to smite the league-leading Dallas Steers 16 to 4. The Bucs piled up an eight run lead in the first inning and coasted to an easy win.

Hal Patchett, Tulsa centerfielder, stole home with two out in the ninth to give the Oilers a 10 to 9 decision over the San Antonio Missions.

The Fort Worth Cats went on a scoring orgy to trounce the second-place Houston Buffs, 17 to 8, in a mild contest that developed 29 hits, nine errors, 11 bases on balls and an assortment of wild pitches and passed balls.

Six runs Oklahoma City counted in the first inning went for naught as the Beaumont Exporters went on to win, 9 to 6. Bill Ehrensberger, rookie hurler, relieved Gill in the first and limited the Tribe to three bingles in eight and a third frames, and got three for five at the plate.

EIGHT REMAIN IN JUNIOR TOURNEY AND ANOTHER ASSAULT ON PAR SET FOR TODAY; CHAMP STAGES A RALLY

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 2 (AP)—Eight survivors in the Texas junior golf tournament were ready to renew an assault on par today in the third round of their quest for the junior crown.

Arthur (Buck) Luce of Austin, the defending champion, had to rally to survive the second round. Two down at the thirteenth, he won four holes in a row to eliminate Houston Cole of Ranger, 2 and 1.

Medalist Remains

The medalist, Lee Brandt, jr., of San Antonio, remained in the running with a 2 and 1 victory over Milton Ward of Beaumont.

Bill Glasgow of Beaumont, last year's runnerup, was one over regulation figures in eliminating George Gist of Port Arthur, 3 and 4.

Billy Bob Coffey, Fort Worth city champion, defeated Joe Moore, 14-year old San Antonio youngster, 1 up.

Simon Ray Alexander of Corpus Christi bested Henry Hauser of Kerrville, 2 up.

Coasts To Victory

Jack Thurmond of San Antonio coasted to an easy 8 and 7 win over Tom Miller of Austin.

Vernon Willoughby of Port Worth eliminated Carl Letscher of Port Arthur, 1 up, and Jimmy McBride of Port Worth upset Roy Sherrill of Temple, 2 and 1.

Today's pairings:

Luce vs Willoughby; Thurmond vs Glasgow, Brandt vs McBride, and Coffey vs Alexander.

Lou Ambers Seeks Canzoneri's Title

NEW YORK, Sept. 2 (AP)—Tony Canzoneri, considered one of the really great little men of the ring, stakes his future against the title aspirations of Lou Ambers of Herkimer, N. Y., tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden.

Tony, who has been fighting for more years than even his printed record shows, has just about reached a turning point in his career. If he can dispose of Ambers, much improved since he was beaten by Tony last year, there will be only one serious contender left in the 135-pound division. In that case Canzoneri may decide to go after Barney Ross' welterweight crown.

Matty Is Enthused Over Monday Game

DALLAS, Sept. 2 (AP)—Coach Matty Bell confided today he was enthused over prospects of the Centennial All-Americans defeating the professional Chicago Bears' eleven here Monday night.

"When this game was first talked about," he said, "I was a little dubious about the all-stars getting ready and beating such a strong pro team as the Bears in such a short space of time, but I'm getting really enthused now that I've seen the contingent of our boys already in camp."

BAD TEETH AS HEALTH BAR

MANY AILMENTS SAID TO BE CAUSED BY DECAYED MOLARS

DALLAS, Sept. 2 (AP)—Bad teeth are breaking the health and future possibilities of an amazingly large percentage of American children, Dr. Ernest A. Branch of Raleigh, N. C., here for the joint convention of the Texas and Oklahoma State Dental societies, said.

Tuberculosis and ailments of the kidneys and heart are the maladies most frequently produced in children from neglect of decayed teeth, said Dr. Branch.

Perfect Incubator

"Being dark, soft and warm the mouth is a perfect incubator for germs and rotten teeth provide the perfect culture media within it," he explained.

Picturing mouth hygiene as one of the most important factors of health work among children, Dr. Branch said that a larger percentage of decayed teeth are being found among children at present than ever before and also a larger percentage of cases of serious maladies that result from these infections.

A process for re-enameling teeth with porcelain and rebuilding them to a natural appearance was explained by Dr Paul K. Hill, Tucson, Ariz., as an application of the art of ceramics, or pottery making, to dentistry.

Look Natural

This work includes the placing of crowns, inlays and such on teeth in such fashion that the replacements look like natural molars.

Dr. W. S. Philip, McAlester, Okla., was named president-elect of the Oklahoma State Dental society at a business meeting of that body. Dr. O. F. Sinks, Tulsa, was named treasurer and Dr. O. W. Boyer, Perry, was elected secretary.

Dr. A. B. Rivers, Okmulgee, who was named president-elect last year, was installed as president. Dr. C. B. Ball, Frederick, is the retiring president.

BODIES OF THREE LOCATED IN MINE

FULTON, Mo., Sept. 2 (AP)—Overcoming deadly carbon monoxide gas, rescue workers Tuesday claimed the bodies of three brothers who gave their lives in an heroic attempt to save another brother and his father-in-law from a coal mine.

The bodies of the trio were brought up from the shallow shaft of the Meta mine three and one-half miles northwest of here by Raymond Penton and M. S. Woods, Columbia, Mo., firemen. The rescue work was directed by Fire Chief T. M. Walden of Columbia, and Arnold Griffith, state mining inspector.

Walden, wearing an oxygen mask, went down into the hole where Louis Meta, 32, owner of the mine, was killed instantly and his father-in-law, T. J. Wolfe, 52, was overcome by escaping fumes from a gasoline engine.

At the bottom he found the bodies of Meta' three brothers, Freddie, 19, Ernest, 28, and Harry, 23, who had entered the narrow 30-foot shaft in an effort to save their brother.

Wolfe remained in a hospital here in a critical condition.

FARMERS CHEERED BY RAIN IN AREA

A fairly heavy dew this morning, following the shower of late Tuesday, brought cheer to farmers in the immediate vicinity of Lubbock that wilting of growing crops would be checked by weather conditions.

Rainfall at the state experiment station was reported by Don L. Jones, superintendent, as .08 of an inch. He also reported a dew this morning that was the heaviest in a long time.

Fall over the city yesterday afternoon was lighter than at the experiment station although no gauge was available. To the west fall was much lighter.

Railroad dispatchers said the fall was "local," that no points on their divisions had received rain.

Heavier Downtown

The fall was heavier downtown than at Texas Technological college, where there is a gauge. At Tech the streets and curbing were dry 15 minutes after the rain had ceased.

A rainbow was seen in the eastern sky, hanging low over the horizon and partly obscured by clouds.

The runoff in the downtown area was slowed by trash and leaves filling man-holes. In places gutters were overflowing.

Temperature was reduced slightly. The day's maximum was 103 degrees at 2:05 o'clock in the afternoon, the minimum 68 at 7 that morning. Reading at 7 o'clock at night was 90 degrees.

Four Men Are Dead In Highway Mishap

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 2 (AP)—Four WPA workmen were killed and five injured late Tuesday when a highway bridge collapsed about five miles from Richmond in Chesterfield county.

Three white men died immediately when the span gave way beneath their truck and hurled them to the bottom of a 15-foot ravine. A negro worker riding with them died three hours later in a Richmond hospital.

Vance Breese was paid $8000 for flying three miles. In testing a plane for the government, he dived from a height of 20,000 feet to 4000 feet.

ANNOUNCING...

2 more Reductions in Long Distance Telephone Rates

EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 1 long distance telephone rates are reduced as follows:

1.

On calls to points over 234 miles distant, the charge for a 3-minute conversation is reduced by amounts ranging from 5 cents to $1.50, depending upon the distance.

2.

Overtime charges on "person-to-person" calls are reduced after three minutes of overtime to the lower "station-to-station" overtime rate. (Overtime charges begin after three minutes of conversation.)

This is the seventh time in ten years that voluntary reductions in long distance rates have been made. It is estimated that the new reductions will save telephone users in Southwestern Bell territory $1,100,000 a year.

These lower rates, of course, do not yet appear in the long distance table in your telephone directory. Ask "Long Distance" for new low rates to points you may want to call.

Questions that Some Folks Ask About Cardui

BENEFIT FOR MAL-NUTRITION

Thousands of women testify Cardui has helped them to overcome malnutrition which may cause many of the functional pains of menstruation.

"What is meant by helping to overcome malnutrition?"

Cardui contains extracts of two plants which are classed among the "bitters" in medicine because they are known to increase the flow of digestive juices to improve digestion—so there is a better supply of sufficient food for the body's needs and by their action more energy (or strength) is obtained from the food eaten. The food of course brings the additional strength, but Cardui serves as the means to this end by its good influence on the digestive system.—Adv.

A cullud boy of about 28 dropped into the office of a Lubbock attorney.

"Mistah Jedge," he asked, "how much do I owe to kill a niggah?"

The lawyer shifted his feet from one side of his desk to the other and shot a startled stream in the general direction of the cuspidor.

"What do you mean, How much do I charge to defend a man of a mixed color?"

"Yessah, Dats what I means" "Well about $500."

"Thanks, Jedge," he said and went out.

Approximately ten days later he came back into the office and laid a wad of bills on the lawyer's desk.

"Here you is, Jedge," he said. "Now I'se gone to kill him."

It had to happen. It had to. For years and years The Plainsman and every other newspaperman has been wondering why somebody, somewhere, didn't write something about that one peck the typographic error.

Now somebody has.

At whatever staff member of the Knoxville Express has written as follows: "The sins of the fathers are visited upon the children."

The typographic error is a slippery thing, all right.

You can't find it. You are there, but it somehow escapes you.

That typographic error, too small for human eyes.

Till the ink is on the paper when it grows to monumental size.

The boss he glares with horror then he grabs his hair and groans. The copy reader drops his head upon his hands and moans.

The explanation of the error may be what an operator ate, Or maybe a typesetting error is the culprit, we state.

It's about a doctor by the name of C. E. Collins who was known in Lubbock some years back.

The Plainsman has wracked what brains he has and can't remember any such man dying here during the past 13 years. Was there one before that?

Bert Pinson, the elongated pill roller, got the following letter the other day after a magazine printed a story about his winning a contest sponsored by the magazine.

"Saw your name in Modern Mechanix magazine. I wonder if you know of a Dr. C. E. Collins that was killer there in Lubbock a few years ago. I never did know very much about it, but often wondered how I could find out. If you know or could give this letter to the editor of the paper there I would thank you very much. Dr. Collins was my brother.

"F. T. Collins, P. O. Box 171, Jacksonville Beach, Florida."

Anyone remembering any such case is invited to tell. The Plainsman, who in turn will write the Florida Mr. Collins.

You may, as Ripley might say, believe it or not, but the "copy paper" on which we write things down here at The Journal reacts to changes in weather.

The copy paper is the same stock upon which these lines may printed before you. In fact it is cut from the "stubs" of the big rolls which go to The Journal press. So if ever you wish to check up and see if The Plainsman is telling the truth, save a few papers and place them where the air can get to them. Then you'll see.

That how the "copy paper" is extremely dry and brittle because there has been little or no moisture in the air for quite a spell. If one handles it hurriedly or roughly it will crack and split.

During our infrequent rainy spells the paper sucks some of the moisture from the air, bends easily and even rough treatment doesn't tear it easily.

When a sandstorm is blowing the paper picks up electricity. The Plainsman has seen many times when a hand held close to the paper as it curls from a typewriter will draw the paper up or down, as the case may be.

All this may sound like hokum—but it is true.

That Man on Avenue Q says hate has never injured an enemy but it has ruined the liver of many a hater.

* * *

The recent furore about gambling here reminds The Plainsman of a story that has long gone the rounds about a fellow who just had to play poker, come what may. He was a regular addict. He never missed an opportunity. He'd play with anybody and everybody.

If You Are Trying To Get An Idea From Gracie Allen, You Have To Talk To George Burns; Is Closely Guarded

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 2.—For Gracie Allen, life is just one big bewildering benevolent conspiracy.

As mistress of the unwise-crack she never has to groan for repartee. The stupider she seems, the more amused are her listeners. She never has to express herself on the Future of the Cinema, Marriage vs. Career, Gallantry of the American Male or any of the other trite and trying topics that most stars have to discuss without yawning.

In fact, Gracie is closely guarded against interviewers. She has been taught to answer all questions with, "You'll have to talk to George about that."

Miss Allen has no part in thinking up the bland insanities—or insanities depending on how you feel about them—which have skyrocketed her and her husband, George Burns, into the important-money branches of radio and movies.

Here in Hollywood she isn't allowed to see a script, although it is generally conceded that she would be able to read one. Nor do they let her know what a screen story is about, for fear she might try to act.

Burns teaches her the lines for a scene just before it is to be filmed. She learns quickly but does not always put the right touch of goofiness into her delivery. Burns coaches her very critically in these matters, and she never ventures any disagreement.

They are working in "The Big Broadcast of 1937," and for the first time in all their 10 feature pictures have a part which is faintly relevant to the story. "Before this," said Burns, "we'd just write a little continuity of our own and it would be tossed into the picture gratuitously. Well, not exactly gratuitously; they paid us.

"We got more big pictures after this. 'Hotel Haywire' is one. Very funny. 'Beach of Dreams' is another. It'll kill you. We'll write our own parts for them. Very funny, too—I hope.

Hire Own Gag Men

Burns didn't mean that Gracie does any of the writing. An autograph is just about as much as she can manage. They hire writers. After two years single-handed of trying to keep his wife on an intellectual level with the Jukes girls, George was getting gray and jittery ripe for a padded suite in the pokey. So he bought some help.

He bought a man named John P. Medbury. Mr. Medbury had been a professional gag writer for many years. He is probably the only gag man who ever had a gag man working for him. This second individual was Harvey Helm, a large person given to composing silly little rhymes.

So George Burns also bought Harvey Helm. Next he hired his own brother, Bill Burns, who functions as manager of the company and as gag-tester.

When anyone thinks of a joke, he tries it on Bill. If Bill reacts at all, even by a blink or a sigh, they know the joke is very, very funny and include it in the show.

Not Funny, Just Simple

Miss Allen accepts the presence of all these people with good grace and behaves just as they tell her to behave. If someone asks, "How's your brother, Gracie?" she'll cautiously respond, "You better ask George about that."

She isn't funny at parties or while sitting around the set and never tells stories. But people laugh at her just the same. Offer her a cocktail and when she says, "No, thanks," everybody will go into spasms of hilarity. At dinner the guests whoop when she says, "Please pass the rolls."

Gracie puts department store salesgirls into stitches when she says, "I'd like to look at some plain linen handkerchiefs."

It's All So Bewildering

Such eager responses are so bewildering to Miss Allen, that the last time she went into a store to buy a pair of gloves, she purchased an end table and a vacuum cleaner instead.

I asked Miss Allen whether she really enjoyed this sort of thing—never being able to make a serious or even a trivial remark without throwing everybody into convulsions. She thought for a long minute and then answered, "Well, I guess you'd better talk to George about that."

TODAY'S JOURNAL EDITORIAL

GOVERNOR DAVEY AND "JEAN VALJEAN"

Turning to the Scriptures for his guidance, Governor Martin Davey, of Ohio, with the admonition "Go, and sin no more," has declined request by the governor of Oklahoma for return of a man who 2½ years ago escaped from the Sooner state reformatory.

According to information from Ohio, the escaped man has lived an exemplary life since becoming a resident of the Buckeye state. In making his decision on the Oklahoma extradition request, Governor Davey said that in his opinion there is "no possible good to be done society by my sending this man back."

From the humanitarian standpoint, doubtless Governor Davey is right. In the particular case of the ex-Oklahoma convict, his decision may be for the best.

But what kind of a precedent is the governor of Ohio setting? That's what is important.

His action, without doubt, will spur many an incarcerated man today to try to escape from his cell. Refusal of extradition is a suggestion—even an invitation—to others to try to escape from prisons, gambling all against the wee chance that years will pass and then succor will be offered so that imprisonment may be forgotten.

After all, the man in the Ohio-Oklahoma case, no matter how well he may have conducted himself during the period of his freedom, was sentenced for an armed, daylight bank robbery. And the Ohio governor's Scripture quoting to the contrary, notwithstanding, armed bank robbery is not a crime to be taken lightly.

Dutcher's News And Views OF WASHINGTON

(Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Political headquarters in national campaigns are queer hodgepodges of extreme optimism, sporadic pessimism, nerves, jealousies, strokes of genius, prima donnas, sprinters racing in circles, overworked competent employes assisted by many folk who "had to be taken care of," rumors, and almost uncanny absences of coordination.

Many things get done and somebody always wins the election, but meanwhile almost any politician will tell you:

"Sure our headquarters is a madhouse but thank heaven it isn't as screwy as the other party's."

The Democrats have their national headquarters in New York City. Republicans have theirs in Chicago and also an important eastern headquarters in New York under Congressman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, with as much office space as the Democrats have.

Everyone in the metropolis gets excited over grapevine reports from Chicago that G. O. P. national offices are in bad shape with jealousy and bickering. The Eastern headquarters doesn't seem any too sure of where it stands, either.

But the Democratic general staff seems at least equally far from efficiency. Personalities enter in when it appears sometimes difficult to get good men to work there because of a belief that when you work under Jim Farley you tend to become a sort of glorified office boy, with little or no authority.

G. O. P. Counts On Digest Poll

One rumor, accepted in both camps, is that tabulation of the first 50,000 votes in the Literary Digest presidential poll will show Landon leading Roosevelt by a much more substantial majority than in any other sizable poll thus far.

Republican leaders greet this report with delight, especially because they are sure that a strong Landon showing in a major poll will have a valuable psychological effect. They are preparing to ballyhoo such figures.

The Democratic staff, on the other hand, is poo-poohing the Digest poll results in advance and will present various purported reasons why the G. O. P. implications shouldn't be accepted.

Secretly, the Democrats rely heavily upon the theory that none of the polls accurately covers a certain group of voters in the very low income groups, which should be expected to vote heavily for the New Deal.

Polls have transformed political campaign thinking. They are mentioned usually "off the record," at practically every press conference held by Martin or Farley.

Bank On Hurja's Poll

They are watched closely by Emil Hurja, assistant to Farley, who keeps a private poll for the Democratic committee and whose associates think his survey is the most accurate of the lot.

In 1932 and 1934 Hurja established a reputation for amazing accuracy in vote forecasts right down into the individual congressional district. This year with the contest now apparently close, his unique reputation as a scientific political prophet is at stake.

The Hurja poll is highly confidential, but it is reported that it now gives Roosevelt a slight edge, with indications of a future trend which should produce a substantial electoral college majority.

Even Democratic leaders privately admit that Roosevelt's big 1932 majority will be materially cut.

Another "Fear" Campaign

Watch out for a new organization which will profess to have sprung up spontaneously and which will announce it has been formed to defend the federal deposit guarantee system.

This will simply be part of a new Democratic effort to meet the "fear campaign" of the Republicans (taxes, preservation of the Constitution, personal liberties, and so on) with another "fear campaign."

It seems that in 1933 Landon denounced the deposit guarantee proposal before the American Bankers' Association as "a greater blow to the ultimate welfare of the American people than the wildest inflation of the currency could possibly be." He wired Senator Capper, urging him to fight the measure.

So there will be a Democratic effort to build up a bogey to the effect that Landon would seek abolition of the FDIC and presumably cause a great national run on the banks in so doing.

System In No Peril

This, of course, is just as cockeyed as some of the Republican bogies. The plain fact is that Roosevelt himself opposed deposit insurance, but didn't feel up to vetoing it when Congress insisted on it.

Neither he nor Landon nor anyone else in his right mind would dare try to get rid of the system now.

The Democratic "scare campaign," however may become so formidable as to force Landon to declare himself. Republican strategists (each side always seems to know what the other is going to do) have discussed the best way to bang it down.

RUNAWAY BRIDE

By Helen Welshimer
© 1936 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Two hours before the time set for her marriage, MARCIA CUNNINGHAM overhears her fiance, BOB HASKELL, saying to SYLVIA GRAHAM, "Certainly, I love you, Sylvia, but I can't afford to marry you. Marcia's father is giving me a job."

Marcia lets them know she has heard the conversation, then goes to her room. Shocked, bewildered, she slips out of the house and goes to the home of her friend, WENDA ANDREWS. She tells Wenda the marriage is off, asks her to break the news to Marcia's parents.

After Wenda leaves Marcia gets into a cab, suddenly remembers she has the tickets for the honeymoon trip to France. Impetuously she decides to sail. A young man who is a stranger helps her get on the ship just before the gangplank is raised.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER II

There were flowers in the living room of the cabin which Marcia entered—red roses and yellow roses and iris and narcissi and daffodils. There were small trays of canapes and plates of sandwiches and a big bowl of stuffed olives and another tray of olives wrapped in bacon. The cabin, quite patently, expected a party. Standing in the center of the room, warm and comfortable with rose-shaded lights and rose-upholstered chairs that were deeply inviting, Marcia realized the room had been prepared for the brief and gala entertainment of the wedding party and its guests before the boat sailed.

There had been no wedding, no wedding party, no guests. No bridegroom. She went into the bedroom and sat down on one of the twin beds whose silken sheets were so carefully turned back.

A maid came in and offered to unpack. Marcia watched her for a minute. Then she took off her hat, ran a comb through the tawny curls, powdered her tilted nose and outlined her lips with deeper red. She put on her hat again and went to the quarter-deck. Leaning against the railing, music coming from another deck where people danced their way to sea, she watched the skyline beyond grow small in the dark distance. The white buildings whose lights had made the night bright for a long time faded at last. A wind came up and with it there was a touch of rain. She began to walk around and around and around the deck. If she could grow tired she might be able to sleep. The orchestra had burst into a "swing" tune. The trumpet was improvising as it flung its wild music down to the sea. She might have been dancing there with Bob—

Marcia went downstairs, turned on the shower, let the icy needles fall across her lithe young body, put on the flesh-colored silk nightgown with the real Chantilly lace and climbed into bed. There was one time in the night that she wakened and thought she had been dreaming. She was in her room at home. Tomorrow was her wedding day. She turned over sleepily. Then she heard bells ringing and remembered. Ship's bells. She was sailing alone on her wedding night. The tears that had been so far away all evening came then in a hot, swift storm. When they ceased she lay back, quiet at last. She slept until the stewardess called her in the morning.

"Perhaps Mademoiselle will breakfast in bed?"

Marcia stretched lazily. Why not? There was nothing for which to get up. Nothing. Her body was weak and tired, as though it could be moved only through supreme effort. Yet if she stayed in bed she would think.

"I'm going to the dining room, thank you," she said.

Half an hour later, dressed in a yellow flannel sports frock whose big wooden buttons matched the brown of her polo and felt sports hat, she came into the dining room and sat down at her place at the first officer's table. She was late and only two or three diners remained. She had sent a cablegram to her family and had paused to watch the sunlight on the blue water. A man and woman at the table exchanged glances as Marcia was seated. She gazed at them curiously before she ordered a double orange juice, toast and bacon, and coffee.

The "Ocean News" was by her plate and she picked it up. Funny the way that news was radiogramed to ships at sea so that people might be kept informed with the news happenings in the world that they had hoped to escape—at least some of them had hoped to escape it—by going to sea. You didn't have to read the paper, of course. She put it down.

Breakfast over, she went on deck, sat down in her chair, and sent a deck steward for magazines and books. Someone paused in front of her and Marcia raised lazy eyes. It was a friend of her mother's, a woman who had been invited to the wedding, who had a tongue for gossip.

"Mrs. Jameson, I didn't know you were sailing on our boat," Marcia became aware of the plural pronoun when it was too late.

The woman sat down in the next chair. "It's the last place anyone would have looked for you, Marcia Cunningham. But they might have known. Nobody believed you were in the conservatory with the pink eye."

"Pink eye?" Marcia murmured. "I hadn't thought of that."

"Don't think you can escape the public, Marcia. The story came over the radio—it's in the 'Ocean News' and the whole ship's buzzing. Tell me—why did you do it?"

"What did the paper say about it?" Marcia countered.

Mrs. Jameson went on asking questions and Marcia went on dodging them as though they were arrows shot from a vocal bow. When she saw a girl and two men coming down the deck she wished that she knew them and could ask them to rescue her. One of them was familiar at that. A bronzed face, long legs—the man of the elevator. Hardly knowing that she did it, Marcia raised her eyebrows imploringly. Then she remembered that she didn't know the man. He was equal to her request, though. He excused himself from his companions, stepped up, hat in hand.

"Good morning, Mrs. Jameson. I didn't know you were on board. I'm sorry to intrude. Miss Cunningham, can we interest you in some deck tennis? Or would you prefer to throw quoits?"

"You can!" Marcia answered determinedly. "You won't mind, will you, Mrs. Jameson? Deck sports are one of my chief reasons for taking a sea voyage."

When they were out of ear shot she laughed softly. "Did you take a vow to do a good deed every day or is Sir Galahad on your family tree?" she asked the young man. "This is the second time you've rescued me."

"Neither," he answered, and she saw that his voice and smile were sure and slow. "I happen to know Mrs. Jameson!"

The morning went faster than she ha hoped it would. There were a few people on the ship whom she knew casually. They were polite but curious. She became aware of the eyes that watched her, the voices that stopped when she came near. She felt her cheeks burn and her eyes smart. After all, if she wanted to walk out on her wedding, it wasn't the whole ship's business. She became defiant and threw the quoits so expertly she won the set.

She wondered what the people would do if she should suddenly announce that she was sorry she had run away, that she loved Bob—and Bob loved lots of people? Only of course one didn't do such things. One tossed one's head high, put on a prettier dress, and had tea served on the deck, dropping in two lumps of sugar and carefully choosing canapes and hot sausages on toothpicks, as though it were of great importance what

CHIANG IS IN FORTY-NINTH YEAR BUT CHINA IS SURE HE IS FIFTY

NANKING, Sept. 2 (AP)—China this year is celebrating the 50th birthday of its first citizen, General Chiang Kai-Shek, although the redoubtable general has not passed the half-century mark.

In the seventh month of the 13th year of Pataranggo Toro, better known by his Chinese dynastic name of Emperor Kuang Hsu, a son was born to one Chiang, a salt merchant and monopoly comptroller, in the Fenghua district of Chekiang province. According to western ideas, the infant's age count was zero at birth, but under the Chinese system the baby was one year old on the day he first saw the light of day.

Infant Chiang's advance to the age of two was rapid. For five months after his birth a lunar calendar new year rolleda round, and with it an added year of age for every one in China. So before he actually was six months old China's future generalissimo was two, thanks to the vagaries of the moon and Chinese custom.

The Emperor Kuang Hsu, uncle of the present Emperor Kang Teh of Manchoukuo, ascended the Dragon Throne in 1875. His 13th year corresponded to A. D. 1888, birth year of General Chiang Kai-Shek, who will be 49 this September. But this is not interfering with China's celebration of his 50th birthday, for 400,000,000 Chinese can't be wrong.

litical activities.

Father Coughlin has issued an apology for terming the president "a liar and betrayer in an address before the Townsend plan convention in Cleveland. He said he spoke of "Candidate Roosevelt" and not of the president of the United States.

The recent visit to the pope of Bishop Michael J. Gallagher of Detroit, Father Coughlin's ecclesiastical superior, gave rise to reports that the radio priest might be reprimanded.

However, Bishop Gallagher, following his audience with the Holy Father, declared the pontiff had not so much as mentioned the Coughlin case.

Vatican prelates, nevertheless, have stated the Holy See was far from pleased with the incident.

Father Coughlin was in New York to greet Bishop Gallagher upon his return from Rome tomorrow. He has told reporters that whatever the wishes of the Vatican might be he would be "only too happy" to accede to them.

Moreover, under the new program, the importance of the merchant marine as an arm of defense is to be stressed even more.

The belief that the president will name a representative of labor to the board is based on the numerous problems affecting labor bound to rise under the new program.

The ship subsidy act directs the maritime commission to investigate employment and wage conditions in ocean-going shipping, and to incorporate in all contracts between the government and subsidized operators minimum manning and wage scales and provisions for reasonable working conditions.

GERMAN EXPERT HOPING TO CROSS SOUTH ATLANTIC WITH A BALLOON

HAMBURG, Germany, Sept. 2 (AP)—Dr. K. Zinner's dream is to cross the South Atlantic in a free balloon.

Zinner, a German balloonist, wants to conquer the 3,700 odd miles between Casablanca and the mouth of the Amazon by about the only way left to conquerors outside of swimming the stretch. The airplane and dirigible tamed the winds over that span of water long ago.

By utilizing Northeast trade winds, he hopes to be the first human to float across. He thinks his hazardous plan is possible and that he can accomplish it in from five to eight days.

He is now trying to raise the $12,000 necessary before the venture can take place. He wants a bag that will hold 5,000 cubic meters of hydrogen. It would have a basket inflatable rubber so that it would float in case it came down on water and he wants to take radio and meteorological apparatus along.

Dr. Zinner is a veteran at handling balloons. He has made many ascensions, the most notable from Germany to England over the North sea and twice over the Baltic sea to Sweden.

The German also believes that it is possible to cross the North Atlantic from North America to Europe by free balloon. This was actually tried twice around 1875 and both times the enterprise ended in disaster long before open water was reached. But the science of ballooning then wasn't what it is today.

IDENTIFICATION OF TWO PERSONS IN LUBBOCK JAIL IS TO BE ATTEMPTED

Identification of two persons held in Lubbock county jail for investigation into an attempted hijacking and shooting at midnight Monday of the George liquor store 15 miles north of Guthrie and a later hijacking at a second establishment east of Guthrie will be attempted here this afternoon upon arrival of King county authorities.

One of the men held here was charged in five cases of liquor law violation in March to which three pleas of guilty were entered and is now under bond on a charge of robbery with firearms, according to J. T. Trigg, justice of the peace, in whose court the latter charge was filed.

Reports from the Associated Press from Haskell last night indicated that officers of three counties were seeking at least two other men.

Arrest of the two men here was asked by the sheriff of King county, who told Wichita Falls newspapermen, however, that there were no clues and no arrests had been in that county.

J. A. George, 58, was shot three times at the first scene when he rushed to the assistance of his son, B. G. George, who grappled with one of the bandits. The men fled after the son wrested a shotgun from one of the bandits, the Haskell report said. The injured man was taken to a Paducah hospital in a serious condition.

In two automobiles similar to those which drove up to the first establishment, bandits pulled a gun and pistol on W. T. Ward and Homer T. Melton of Benjamin at the store near Guthrie. Thirty-two cases of beer, a rifle, a revolver and $12 in cash were taken after the two proprietors had been bound and gagged.

Deputies Sheriff Bedford F. Carpenter and Grady Harrist arrested the men in custody here.

Both had been charged with possession for sale of malt liquor after two raids conducted last night by Deputies Sheriff Bedford F. Carpenter, Grady Harrist, and Cap Moore, and Ross Berry, deputy constable.

MAN PREPARED SEVEN TIMES FOR THE ELECTRIC CHAIR AND THEN FOUND TO BE INNOCENT NOW SEEKING DAMAGES

MORRISTOWN, N. J., Sept. 2 (AP)—Gus Langley, charging that justice in North Carolina "is based on a man's bank account," said today that he felt the state should bolster his account because it prepared him seven times for the electric chair and then found he was innocent.

Convicted of a holdup killing in Asheville four years ago, Langley was paroled.

Marked For Life

"I was in jail two and one half years," he said, "sentenced to the death chair seven times; had seven reprieves. It left me in a condition I'll never get over. It's blackmarked me for the rest of my life. I feel I should get a good, healthy sum."

A petition was being circulated in Anderson, N. C., asking the legislature to compensate him for the time he spent in prison for painting done while there for the mental and emotional strain and for the handicap he has labored under since his release.

"If you have money you can get away with it," he said in describing crime and its penalties in North Carolina. "There isn't any justice there. Justice is based on a man's bank account."

DEATH VALLEY SCOTTY IS JUBILANT AT HALF MILLION DOLLARS IN POKE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 2 (AP) — Death Valley Scotty breezed into town today looking ten years younger and all smiles.

"I've got half a million in poke and am going to finish the castle," he said.

Gone Five Weeks

The Monte Cristo desert rat of the most desolate region in America has been out in the rocks for five weeks.

In the middle of July this year Scotty came to Los Angeles after weeks of travel through the state and announced that he had completed purchase of a new string of mules.

"I'm heading back to the rocks," he announced then. "You know I've got about $700,000 back there in the rocks. You'll see some gold when I come back."

Today he was jubilantly back.

To Finish Castle

"Now that I've got the half million, I figure I might as well finish building the castle. It'll take 100 men 20 months to finish it. Got to finish the big walls around the swimming pool and put in those thousands of tile on the outside walls.

Born Walter Scott in Cynthiana, Kentucky, sixty years ago, Scotty first came to Death Valley when 11 years old. In 1906 he amazed the world in chartering a special train and making a record run to Chicago, spending money like water.

Rainfall is often 25 per cent greater in wooded land than in open spaces.

on all occasions.

One night he was sitting in a game and had been losing steadily.

No matter what he picked up or what he drew to fill with, he invariably lost when the pots were big.

There was a rap on the door and a "sweater" answered it. The man at the door asked for the losing player, who went out into the hall to talk to the visitor.

"Joe", said the man who had called him out, "you're a darn fool. This game is crooked. You can't beat it. Everybody knows it's not on the up-and-up. Why don't you quit before you lose any more?"

"Aw", said Joe, "you're not telling me anything. I know the game's crooked, the cards are marked and stacked and everything else. But I'm not going to quit until I'm broke. You see, this is the only game in town!"

HERE AND THERE: Margaret Turner, The Journal society editor, accomplished a feat never before accomplished by a Lubbock girl. . . . Last Sunday she had a date with the Masked Marvel for a ball game, a golf tournament and dinner. . . . That's the first time the Hooded Hoodoo has ever even looked cross-wise at a fem in these parts. . . . Lubbock school officials worried about finances in regard to the local system can feel better when they learn this: repairs on Chicago's public schools prior to the year's opening will cost in excess of $3,000,000. . . . At the outbreak of the current difficulties in Spain Madrid loyalists seized the Ford plant there and since have turned out 20 armored cars from it. . . . Dr P W Cawthon and his assistant Professor Dutchy Smith are putting the finishing touches on the remodeled stadium, which is a credit to the college and the community. Some of the down-town coaches aver that Tech will take at least three lickings this year—and maybe more. They think the TCU Centenary and Loyola-Los Angeles games already are 'in the bag' for the opposition. The Plainsman will lay a little—a very little—on the line that the Matadors do not lose all three of those tilts.

In the last three years Arkansas has paid 9 1-2 millions of federal taxes and has received from the government in relief etc. 303 millions. . . . That's a feather in the cap of Joe Robinson. Does anyone in Lubbock remember "Old Man Singer" whose store is said to have been the first building in Lubbock county? The Plainsman would like to get a little information about the gentleman. . . . Folks who have been down there recently report that Abilene, one of the hardest hit of all West Texas towns during the worst of the depression, has made a humdinger of a comeback. The sign business must be good in Lubbock. During the past few months there have been a lot of new ones—electrical, neon and otherwise—put up here.

The young man, whose name was Phillip Kirkby, drew up a chair and chatted with her at teatime. He was an electrical engineer, just back from the Pampas where he had been assisting in a bridge construction job. He was big, not handsome, but well-built. His hair was rough and dark and his eyes were strikingly blue against the browned face. When she looked away, Marcia tried to imagine that it was Bob who sat near her—Bob whose hair was dark also and whose eyes were blue—Bob who would have covered her hand with his, and made a ceremony of dropping lumps of sugar into tea-cups—Bob whom she had left waiting for her in a room all sweet with palms and flowers and music.

She thought about him as she dressed for dinner. Dusk had swept the sea of all color and Marcia was lonely. Maybe she could have made him love her! That thought made her weak and she sat down to consider it. To have had a chance and tossed it away—to have seen a spire in paradise and refused to believe that a whole city of turrets waited beyond.

"Stop!" She stamped a foot in a fragile golden slipper. Bob was probably driving along the Long Island bay tonight, with a white moon in the sky, wash of waves against the shore and somebody who might be Sylvia or anyone else at his side. Bob would get over it. —What does it matter whom I marry?

She wanted to sink back on the bed and cry, but she didn't. Instead she went down to dinner; a slim, graceful figure in a gypsy-skirted dress made of layers of gold and brown mousseline, with a bodice of gold and half a dozen golden bracelets dangling on her arms. This night when the trumpet and the clarinet and the drums swung into it she danced, too.

Marcia laughed lightly as she went from one pair of arms to another. She knew that the men were giving her appraising looks. She was heartless in their eyes! She had left one of their kind at the altar. She had insulted their sex. They wanted to punish her, but they wanted to kiss her first. All but Phil. He was steady, reassuring, gay, and kind. She was glad when he cut in.

There were acres and acres in which to stroll on the deck. There were squash courts and there was a swimming pool; there were lounges and salons, and the sun shone on bright blue water all the way. More than once, Marcia thought that she might forget in time. More than once she reminded herself that she couldn't forget—that people couldn't run away from anyone who had set up a residence in their heart.

"In time, young lady, though your heart will turn over like a pancake when he passes, you may get back your appetite," she told herself. "That's something. After all, you used to be fond of lots of things—caramel pie and spaghetti and banana fritters and shrimp a la Newburg—" She laughed with a sense of lessening tension.

She mentioned Bob to no one until the last night out. For the sixth time she had donned a dinner dress from the trousseau. A molded one of pale lavender silk this time. The music was softer tonight, softer and sweeter as the boat neared the coast of France. It began to rain, too, and the thunder made a background for the drums, when there were drums.

She was dancing with Phil when he said, "Let's go on deck. I need to breathe. Tomorrow I'm going to see Camilla!"

They sat in their chairs, watching the rain play darkly on the water save when the lightning made a quick green path through the sky. They were comfortable.

"Camilla?" Marcia took up the theme.

"The girl I've loved since I knew that women had other purposes than having their hair pulled and interrupting games. I've proposed regularly and been given hope. When I came back from the Pampas the other day I found that the young lady had gone off to Paris, and the tabloid columnists are saying that a young Austrian count, an officer with the embassy at Paris, is the reason. I'm dropping in to see—"

"And if it's true?"

"I'll drop out again. I'm due back in the Pampas in September anyway."

Suddenly Marcia wished that she was due somewhere, anywhere.

A deck steward came by, calling Phil's name. "Radiogram for you, sir," he said.

Marcia sat quietly, while he excused himself and read it by the flare of two matches. A radiogram. Already the only friend she had at sea was being drawn gently but surely into the world on shore.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas blows up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

Laxatives are only makeshifts. A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else. 65c.
