At dawn Sunday—

Fair crop forecast

The 10th annual Taba'na Yuan'e ceremony here at dawn Sunday came up with its best crop forecast in nine years — a fair crop with chilling 30 mile-an-hour winds sweeping in from the north-northwest.

Charles Hardin, new Post Chamber president, awoke at 7:25 a.m. Sunday. Nothing unusual about that you might say. In fact, a little early to awaken on a Sunday, you might add.

But not on this Sunday. This was Taba'na Yuan'e Sunday and Charles' assignment was to help get the breakfast to be served from Jackson's cafeteria to the junior stock show pavilion at 6:30 a.m.

Obviously, he was forgiven his sleepiness because on Monday night he was boosted into the Chamber of Commerce presidency.

We bet directors meetings in future months won't be breakfast sessions with Charles at the helm.

County chooses insurance bid

By a split 3 to 1 vote, the Garza County Commissioners Court Monday accepted the bid submitted by the Texas Association of Counties for medical and dental coverage of county employees from the three bids submitted at the previous court session.

Commissioners T.D. Craft, Mike Cisneroz and Herbert Walls voted to accept the bid and Commissioner Ted Aten opposed.

In other actions, the court:

Instructed County Judge Giles Dalby to look into various possibilities for re-districting the county after the 1980 final census figures are received so that the commissioner districts will be in compliance with the Voters Rights Act.

Approved the bonds of new sheriff deputies, Troy Walker and Lonnie Gene Peel.

Only in the first year of the Chamber of Commerce-sponsored "sunrise wind ceremony" in 1972 has the old Indian legend produced as good a crop forecast. None have been better.

The crowd was halved this year to less than a hundred, due probably to the fact it was Sunday morning and that the area was just coming off three sandstorms in five days.

For the first time, the performance was moved inside the junior livestock pavilion where spectators could sit on bleachers in relative comfort. A runner brought in the wind direction from the outside at sunup to provide the north-west direction Frank (Chief) Runkles in his Indian dress pointed to dramatically.

Runkles told The Dispatch prior to the ceremony the sunrise dance was moved inside because of the strong wind. A similar wind two years ago damaged considerably Runkles' Indian costume and made it extremely difficult to light a wind direction fire by the Indian method of rubbing two sticks together.

Two Lubbock television station camera crews were on hand to film the ceremony and local shutterbugs had a field day.

Assisting Runkles with the performance were his granddaughter D'Lane Runkles of Midland, and his (See Rain dance, Page 10)

Phone complaints given GenTel at luncheon here

Two General Telephone officials hosted a group of Post city and business leaders Friday in a luncheon at Jackson's cafeteria to take note of any and all local service complaints.

O.D. Hearn, division manager for the phone firm, and Robert Pitts, division service office manager, both of Brownfield, noted the complaints and promised to look into them.

The complaints ranged from a lot of squealing in the receiver when dialing "one" numbers, disconnects from information, to having third parties connected in on a private conversation.

Hearn explained his firm likes to visit the communities they serve and note service complaints at least once a year and tries "to stay in close touch."

Chamber command change—

Hardin to helm

Charles Hardin, vice president of the First National Bank, was elected as the new 1981 Post Chamber of Commerce president by Chamber directors at a special meeting Monday night. Hardin replaces Colley Gatlin, who resigned that night because he is moving from Post to Opelike, Ala., to accept a new position at a larger plant.

Hardin has been the 1981 "president elect" of the Chamber, which means he was tabbed to become the Chamber's president 1982.

This is his second year on the Chamber board of directors.

Directors will not choose his replacement as president-elect until their next regular meeting April 13.

At the special meeting

Monday night, directors also discussed their negotiations with the Post Community Center board to move the Chamber office from its present location to the community center.

Chamber Secretary Linda Shedd would also become community center manager and the community center board would supplement her Chamber salary.

The two organizations believe this would be an ideal solution for both.

Hardin was born in Ralls, (See C of C head, Page 10)

Gatlin accepts Alabama post

Colley Gatlin, an employee of Postex Plant here for almost 23 years, will become plant engineer of the larger West Point Pepperell's sheets, pillow cases and apparel plant at Opelika, Ala. April 20.

Gatlin, who resigned as Post Chamber of Commerce president here at a board of directors meeting Monday night, formerly was employed by West Point Pepperell before coming to Post in 1958. He has been the plant engineer here.

The Opelika plant has some 700 employees.

Gatlin will be only 22 miles from the Georgia line where he was born and raised and 22 miles from where his parents live.

Gatlin also is a Garza Hospital District director and a member of the Post Rotary Club.

Ed Sawyers tells Rotarians—

117 on probation

Garza County Probation Officer Ed Sawyers told Post Rotarians Tuesday that 117 adults, most of them living right here in the county, are now on probation from prison sentences given in Garza courts.

In explaining the operations of his office, Sawyers said the operation of his entire office is paid for via state aid of 50 cents a day and probation fees of $15 monthly paid by those on probation.

No taxpayers dollars here are used for the probation program. He said even the cost of an attorney hired for a defendant is paid for by that person during his period of parole.

If the parolee doesn't pay his fees or commits another crime his parole is revoked and he is sent on to prison.

Sawyers said the Texas parole system, state-wide, saves Texas millions of dollars annually by giving convicted criminals a second chance instead of sending them to prison.

The probation officer said it takes good officers, good prosecutors, and good judges to make the system work, "but fortunately here in Garza County we have them so our program is working well."

Sawyers said there are 120,000 convicted criminals on probation now in Texas, 60,000 of them felony cases. In January, he said 649 of these paroles were revoked, 7,998 were placed on parole and 6,443 completed their paroles.

Sawyers said one new bill if enacted into law would permit the trial judge to explain the parole laws of the state to the jury considering its verdict. He cannot legally do so under present statutes so juries are kept in the dark as to how fast a prisoner can win his freedom from their sentence for good conduct.

Sawyers, who has been probation officer here for five years, is also the juvenile officer by his own choice because he believes an all-out effort must be made to guide young people in trouble back into society as good citizens.

Sawyers said he is now working on a volunteer probation help program and is interested in obtaining volunteers for such rewarding but non-paying work.

$505 cleared on pancakes

The Post Rotary Club cleared $505 from its recent benefit pancake supper for Boy Scout Troop 316.

Dee Justice, Rotary president, announced the results at the club's Tuesday luncheon in the community center.

The scout troop which has been sponsored by the local civic club for over 50 years, will use the money for equipment purchases, utility bills for its clubhouse in the American Legion hall, and for other troop needs.

Prince Zogi will saw Post freshman in half

Elena Madonado, president of the Post High School freshman class, will be sawed in half in the Post Community Center next Tuesday night.

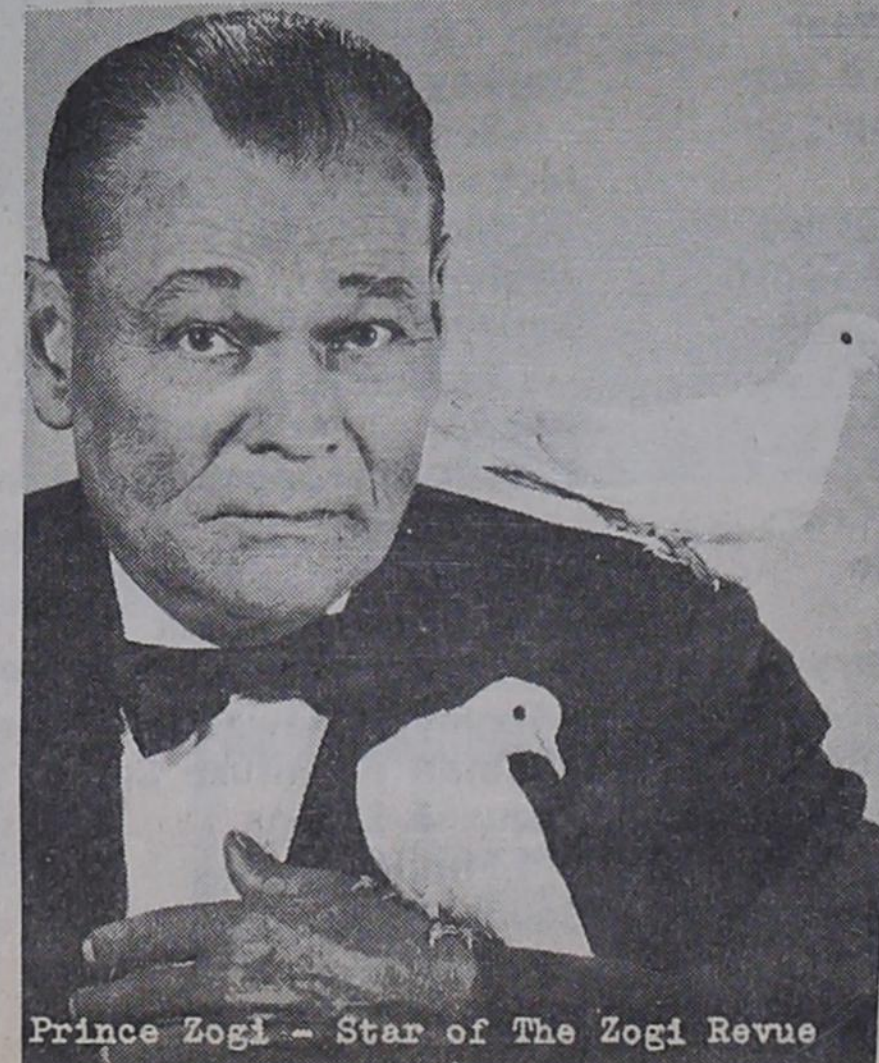

The "sawing" will be one of the many features of The Zogi Variety Revue, a two-hour show of excellent family entertainment which will be sponsored by the Post Rotary Club.

The show is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Rotarians are selling adult tickets in advance for $2.50 with the adult price at the door $3. Student tickets for those through high school ages are $1.50 with no reduction for advance purchase.

The show features 22 acts of illusions and hypnotism, including the disappearing doves and many others.

75th birthday coming up

Is Post going to have a Diamond Jubilee (75th birthday) Celebration?

Now is the time to make up our minds. The 75th birthday comes up in the fall of 1982 — and going to work on the project a year in advance certainly is none too early to start.

We recall we had just purchased The Dispatch in the spring of 1957 and were told upon arriving as the new publisher that come September Post would celebrate its Golden Jubilee (50th birthday).

That turned out to be some first year too as The Dispatch came out with a 74-page Golden Jubilee edition the day before the four-day celebration began on Friday, the 13th, no less.

The special edition with some 800 extra copies was sold out the day it came off our four-page press. We printed 40 pages in five eight page sections right here and had a 34-page tab section printed out of town.

It was the largest paper ever printed in Post and probably will always remain so because just to think of those five seven-day work weeks before the Jubilee gives us the shakes.

We have retained only one full copy of that Golden Jubilee Edition and we got it out this week to refresh our memory of that 50th birthday.

Marjorie Merriweather Post, daughter of C. W. Post, the town's founder, was invited to Post from Washington to be town's No. 1 guest for the jubilee and she staged a free barbecue on the football field at Antelope Stadium and fed and greeted most of the 3,000 who came out to eat and shake hands. It was the biggest meal in the history of the town.

Your support needed

The Dispatch extends its full editorial support to Books for Texans in its efforts to boost state funding of libraries to respectability.

Books for Texans is an organization formed by the Texas Library Association, Friends of Texas Libraries, Texans for Libraries and the Trustees Roundtable of the Texas Library Association.

Ever since the Texas State Library was organized and the Texas library law was passed by the legislature a number of years ago establishing the state library system to aid all community libraries, most of the funding came from federal aid, not state aid.

Under the Reagan economic plan to balance the federal budget, libraries can expect a sharp reduction in federal aid. The Dispatch accepts this. If the United States' financial house is to be put back in order, retrenchment at the federal level must be the order of the day for all of us.

Texas now ranks 39th in the U.S. in state library support with only 16 cents per capita. West Virginia, not a rich state by any means and certainly not as rich as Texas, has the largest state library support program at $3.61 per capita. Many of the poorer southern states, such as Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas, contribute substantially more than Texas.

The goal of the books for Texans' drive is to boost Texas state library funding to $1 per capita, something the state can well afford.

House Speaker Clayton also has a state library aid bill in the legislative hopper which will hike state spending for libraries very substantially.

The Texas Daily Newspaper Association, the Texas Press Association, and the Texas League of Municipalities all have by resolution endorsed the $1 per capita library support.

Your Post Library trustees at its March meeting discussed the matter thoroughly and each trustee is writing to his or her state senator and state representative seeking support for the library aid package.

State Senator E. L. Short has already responded to our letter and has promised to give his solid support to the new library aid proposal. State Representative Bill Heatly is reported to want to change the aid formula so that every library in the state, including all those who have not sought membership in the state library system, would be benefited.

The Dispatch is hopeful that good library patrons here will take the time and effort to support this drive to end Texans' starvation diet on books by also writing Heatly and Short.

Texas has climbed a long way up the library service ladder in the past 10 years but it still has a long, long way to go. Now is the time to speak up with your support.

$1 per capita funding sought — Drive gains momentum to boost state library aid

AUSTIN — Why should Texans be starving their public libraries?

This question is being asked by Books for Texans, an organization formed by Texas Library Association, Friends of Texas Libraries, Texans for Libraries, and the Trustees Roundtable of the Texas Library Association.

Leaders in Books for Texans are convinced that Texans will do something about the starvation diet for their libraries when they know the facts and reflect on just how important libraries are to citizens of Texas.

Texas now ranks 39th in the U.S. in state library support with 16 cents per capita. Largest per capita state aid is paid by West Virginia at $3.61, followed by Georgia at $2.47. Even states poorer than Texas pay significantly more in aid to their libraries. Alabama's state aid is 42 cents per capita; Arkansas 63 cents and Mississippi 53 cents.

As long ago as 1978, the Texas Conference of Libraries and Information convened in Austin to study library problems, recommended state support of $1.00 per capita and urged the Texas Library and Archives Commission and the Texas Library Association to go to work to seek $1.00 per capita funding "at the earliest possible date."

Wendell Mays, Jr., Austin, and Wayne C. Sellers, Palestine, chairman and secretary of Books for Texans, have noted that an appropriation of $1.00 per capita which can do so much for libraries is minuscule when compared to the total state budget.

"We can think of no appropriation which can do so much for so little," they said, pointing out that in 1979 Texas public libraries circulated 43 million items to the public, answered 7 1/2 million reference questions, hosted 3 million persons at library programs and showed films to 5 million persons.

"In many communities, public libraries are the only adult education facilities. Information ranging from performance of the stock market to how to unstop a sink or fix a lawnmower is available for grownups. One library has made it possible for 300 adults to obtain G.E.D. certificates. Others have conducted classes for adults wanting to learn to read and write. Books are provided for nursing homes by public libraries.

LUBBOCK — It is now assured that 1980 cotton production from the 25 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, in terms of 480-pound net weight bales, will exceed the two million bale mark.
 "This is still a very poor crop overall," observes PCG Executive Vice President Donald Johnson, "but it is well above some of the dire predictions made at the beginning of the harvest season."
 The High Plains planted something over 4.5 million acres to cotton in 1980, but the official figure for either planted or harvested acres won't be known for some time.
 To date USDA's four High Plains cotton classing offices in Lubbock, Brownfield, Lamesa and Levelland have reported classings of over 1,915,000 running bales. Approximately 1,885,000 bales of this total, according to USDA's Cotton Market News Director Bill Crockett at Lubbock, was grown in PCG's 25-county territory, with the other 30,000 coming from Eastern New Mexico.
 But to arrive at the 25-county estimate of running bales, PCG points out, it is necessary to add about 86,100 bales that were grown in the High Plains area but were classed at either the Abilene or Memphis, Texas classing offices.

The Memphis office estimates classing of about 41,100 bales grown in Briscoe and Motley Counties, and the Abilene office puts classings from three other PCG counties, Howard, Martin and Midland, at 45,000 bales.
 This brings the total 25-county production in running bales to around 1,971,000. And one of the area's largest compresses reports average bale weights for the season at a net 502 pounds, which makes a 104.58 percent running bale-net weight bale conversion factor.
 From this figure PCG comes up with a 2,061,272 bale net weight estimate for its 25 counties.
 Official county-by-county net weight production figures will be released later.

 "Over 80 Years Experience"

To All Concerned Voters

The education of our community's young should be one of our greatest priorities. The active interest and involvement of the entire community are our guarantees of a quality educational system. I believe:

1. A diploma should be proof that a graduate can write legibly, speak clearly, think logically and read at grade level.
2. No part of the community, especially the student, benefits from advancement without meeting grade level standards.
3. All rules and regulations should be enforced fairly and equally. Discipline is the backbone of all education.
4. Trustees should insure that raising the educational level of the school system is the primary goal of spending taxes.
5. Trustees should actively seek inputs from all citizens—parents, teachers, students, taxpayers — on the educational needs of the community.

Sorority hears of European tour

Study theme for the Gamma Mu Sorority this year has been "Around the World with Gamma Mu". Recent activities the group has participated in include a planning session at the home of Jana McCallister.

It was followed by an "International Buffet" in the home of Helen Gerner. Eight members brought different foods from foreign lands.

The recent Monday evening meeting of the sorority featured a program presented by Lucile McBride on her tour of Europe last summer. Mrs. McBride spoke on the agenda of the tour and gave a slide presentation of pictures she had made.

The tour included a trip through a wooden shoe factory in Holland, a lace factory in Belgium and a cologne factory in France. Mrs. McBride said the most beautiful country was in Austria, Belgium and Switzerland with the Alps. They spent two nights at Lake Lucerne which were highlights of her trip.

Another outstanding event on the tour was attending "The Passion Play" in Oberammergau, Germany.

The play began in the 1600's and is the original Passion Play. It is presented every ten years by natives of Oberammergau.

At the short business meeting following the program, plans were made for a bake sale on Wednesday, April 14, from nine until everything is sold out, at United Super Market. Each member is to bring two baked items.

Also, the sorority's night out was planned for April 4 with dinner and bowling in Lubbock. Carol Davis will make reservations for the evening.

Jane Mason was winner of the door prize which was given by the hostess, Sara Briley. Mrs. Briley served pudding, delight, chips and dips and punch.

The next business meeting was changed from Monday, April 20, which is during Easter break, to Monday, April 27, with Barbara Hardin as hostess.

Those attending were: Julie Hudman, Carol Davis, Jane George, Helen Mason, Debbie Mason, Kathy Fluitt, Jane Mason, Orabeth White, Mrs. McBride and the hostess.

GI dividends to be record-sized

The Veterans Administration has announced it will pay a record $619.7 million in GI insurance dividends in 1981. These annual payments go to veterans of the armed forces who have kept their GI insurance in force since being discharged from service. According to Gary Bartelt, VAC, Service Officer for Garza County, some 197,061 Texas insured veterans will receive more than $31 million this year.

As in the past years, no application is needed. Also, dividends will be paid automatically during the year, based on the anniversary date of the individual's GI insurance policy. Payments will be made in varying amounts, depending upon the type of policy, the amount in force, the insured's age at issue or renewal, and the length of time the policy has been in force.

The average amount to be paid to veterans of World War I with policies still in force is $296. The average payment for World War II veterans is $168, and for Korean veterans about $67. Disabled veterans, who have in force the service-disabled insurance desig-

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

On March 23 a special program on Energy and Solar will be presented. The "Add Solar in the 80's" program is scheduled from 2-4 p.m. in the First National Bank meeting room on Monday.

Weedon Echols, Energy Specialist, and Naomi Wheeler, Program Assistant with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service are the speakers. They will share information on 1. What's an Energy Efficient Home, 2. Life Styles and Energy, 3. Nuts and Bolts of Solar, and 4. Solar Greenhouses.

Solar hot water heating and solar heating are a couple of the energy saving areas that will be explained.

Also, there is a special tour that is planned for April 8. The tour will include a completely solar home which has an enclosed swimming pool and patio. This home can show you the maximum use of solar.

A solar greenhouse is also on the tour plan. The greenhouse was added to the home this past fall. The owners are enjoying fresh vegetables as well as the fun of experimenting with solar.

The last stop on the tour will be a solar collector in Crosbyton. This Friday they will start using the solar energy produced by the collector as an energy resource.

All of the tour stops will be interesting and very informative. Persons who attend the March 23 program will have priority in filling the 50 available tour spaces.

For more information contact the County Extension Office.

See you Monday for the "Add Solar in the 80's" program. The program has something for everyone.

Overall-Morris Memorial Hospital in Coleman. He had been a Coleman resident for 75 years.

Senior Citizens News

Well we had a wonderful time at our monthly musical Friday night, March 20. There were approximately 75 Senior Citizens there and they enjoyed the music, and singing. Things were still going at midnight. I want to thank each and everyone for the cookies and cakes that were brought for refreshments. They were great. Also a great big thank you to Bea Dodson who gets our musicians together for these programs. Couldn't do it without her help.

STUDENT VISITS

Kay Stephens, a student at South Plains College in Levelland, visited recently with her grandmother, Mrs. Wesley Stephens. Also visiting were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bowen Stephens and family. They were on their way home from a stock show.

Also thanks to the musicians, Bill and Durwood Bartlett, Esker Stone, Aubrey Ritchie, Don Travis, Sweet Sims, Bea Dodson, Mildred Stewart, Danny and Nancy Shaw, Kenneth Cook, Dwight Funk, Dr. Rodriguez, Bobcat Dunham and also our own Senior Citizens who sang as a group. We will be having more in the future. The blood pressure check is four times a month and if you have forgotten the days, just call 2998 and we will give you the dates. Don't forget the hearing aid man will be here this coming Thursday. Just call if you need something and cannot come down to the center.

We are still having lots of fun each day of the week playing games and some are enjoying the soap operas on TV. Not much interest shown in arts and crafts, but we still have them and you are welcome to come any day and pick out what you would like to make. Our meals are fantastic and you are invited to come down to eat anyday of the week with us. We are still like one big happy family down here so join us in our fun and fellowship with one another. Don't forget senior citizens we are supposed to sing at the Calvary Baptist Church on Sunday, March 29 at 2:30 p.m. so be sure and be there. Also we will be practicing our singing Tuesday at lunch and also again on Friday. Maybe we will get together some night and we will let you know if we do.

How many of you would be interested in getting a kitchen clutter band started? If you are interested let Bea Dodson know and she will try to help us get it going. This sounds like fun, doesn't it.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Young Texans waiting to buy alcoholic beverages at age 18 may find their schedule has been postponed a year by the Texas Legislature.

Last week the House approved a slightly amended bill raising the state's minimum drinking age to 19. Sponsored by Sen. Bill Sarpalius, D-Hereford, the measure was aimed primarily at high school students who go to class intoxicated.

Some lawmakers questioned whether the bill was unfair to youngsters who at age 18 are eligible to vote and serve in the military, but support from parents and teachers groups carried more weight. The Senate is expected to send the bill quickly for the governor's signature.

A freshman senator, Sarpalius has maneuvered well his first session, but last week he came up against one of the old masters, Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur.

Parker can alternately wither his colleagues with blasts of criticism or crack them up with humorous quips. The effect is sometimes mixed, as when he last week criticized Sarpalius for pushing an anti-MX missile system resolution to Congress.

Calling such resolutions a "waste of time", Parker said the legislative message would not change the mind of Congress one iota.

Jumping to the freshman's defense, Sen. E. L. Short, D-Tahoka, accused Parker of hypocrisy, arguing that if the federal government was "going to put a sewer line through Port Arthur, Senator Parker would be up here screaming his head off."

"Maybe we can get a sewer line from Austin to Washington and we can send these things (resolutions) through it," Parker shot back. "That's the quality of most of them."

The Senate voted not even to debate the proposed missile resolution.

Redistricting

The complicated process of redistricting the state's political fiefdoms began this week as both House and Senate committees announced a schedule of constituent hearings.

Official population figures are expected to arrive from Washington in early April, dropping the gate on the legislative scramble to complete the task before June.

Citizens from non-metropolitan districts are telling the Legislature this week how they want the new political fence lines built. Hearings for metropolitan areas are scheduled the last half of April.

Higher Education

The Permanent University Fund (PUF), which uses state-owned oil and gas wells to endow the University of Texas and Texas A&M Systems, jumped in value two weeks ago by some $52 million.

Sparked by a record setting sale of oil and gas leases the PUF is now worth $1.378 billion.

And now there's speculation about new attempts to divide the constitutionally protected PUF and share the money with some 19 other under-funded state colleges and universities.

An old Aggie, House Speaker Bill Clayton, has filed a constitutional amendment similar to others already in the hopper which will create a Higher Education Permanent Fund, financed by revenues from a three-cent ad valorem tax.

Clayton, however, wants "double dipping" for predominantly black schools Prairie View A&M and Texas Southern University by allowing general revenue appropriations to those two institutions. He admitted it was a way to gain support from black legislators to revise the higher education construction system.

Clements: "Baloney"

His proposal came almost at the same time Prairie View was awarding an honorary degree to Gov. Bill Clements, who was touring the facilities and promising renovating funds.

The plain-speaking Governor indicated he won't be supporting a bill by Rep. Foster Whaley, D-Pampa, to abolish Prairie View A&M. "It's baloney," Clements said.

Bullock's Fleet

State Comptroller Bob Bullock, the man who has to find the money before the state can spend it, came under fire from reporters last week for purchasing state-owned vehicles for his department with hundreds of dollars of "extras".

The purchasing office thought the auto options were so unusual it requested written justification for tape decks, mag wheels, and top-of-the-line interior and exterior trim.

Bullock fired back a press release, indicating the extras were for staff safety.

Shirt Thief

Most everyone knows Atty. Gen. Mark White can run a pretty swift political race, but last week the state's top lawyer proved he's not too bad at outrunning thieves, either.

Meeting a friend for dinner, White found out he wasn't going to get a birthday present because a man on a bicycle had stolen it. The friend had left the gift-wrapped dress shirt on top of the car, a biker came by, put it in a backpack and sped off down the street.

Only a couple of minutes behind, White decided to drive after the thief and luckily located him north of the University of Texas campus. The biker fell off while making a turn, and White chased him on foot.

Stumbling again, the man finally took the gift out of his backpack and threw it back at White, still in hot pursuit.

A winded but somewhat appeased White decided not to chase after the man. He had, after all, gotten his shirt back.

Delegate to aging meet

Mrs. Maxine Earl will be one of the representatives of this West Texas area to a State White House Conference on Aging which will be held in the Dallas North Park Inn March 29-31.

She will leave here Sunday on a special bus for conference delegates.

Some 900 delegates from throughout Texas will attend to recommend solutions for 16 major problems facing the state's older population.

Highlights of the conference will include an address by Governor William P. Clements, Jr., and a legislative hearing.

FUND RAISING

Kenneth Cook, pastor of the Church of God of Prophecy, has announced a special fund raising drive.

He, with other members and friends will do your roofing, painting, odd jobs, yard work, etc., and all checks can be made directly to the Church of God of Prophecy for your tax purposes.

The Post High Antelopes have a track and field squad of 25 entered in the AAA division of the San Angelo Relays Friday and Saturday.

Drew Kirkpatrick, Post's premier hurdler in the 300 meter intermediate stick race, will get a real test at San Angelo as to how he ranks in AAA West Texas hurdle competition.

Kirkpatrick won the event last Saturday at Levelland, but faces a real challenge from an Abernathy hurdler who has a slightly faster time. The big field also may produce other challengers not known here.

Preliminaries for the track events will get under way at 2:30 p.m. Friday with finals in the four field events also scheduled to start at that time.

Track finals will begin at noon Saturday and will conclude with the 1600 meter relay at 5 p.m., followed at 5:30 by the presentation of division champions.

Post's entries in Division II (AAA) are as follows: 400 meter Relay: Richard Cisneros, Mark Holly, Alonzo Luna and Drew Kirkpatrick.

Agriculture use cuts estate tax

COLLEGE STATION — Taxing farms and ranches according to their agricultural use rather than their fair market value can mean substantial savings to farm families on the death of the landowner.

Savings in estate taxes can be as much as 50 percent for those that qualify, said Dr. Lorence L. Bravenec at an Estate Planning Seminar held recently at Texas A & M University. The seminar was sponsored by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service of the Texas A & M University System.

The opportunity for farm and ranch families to reduce their estate taxes came about with Internal Revenue Code Section 2032 A enacted in 1976. The law set forth provisions for special use valuation for farms and ranches. Purpose of the provision was to help family farms survive financially and not be taxed out of existence, noted Bravenec, a Texas A & M professor of accounting.

For an estate to qualify, numerous requirements must be met:

1. The property must be used actively for farming and ranching.
2. The owner or a close relative must be actively involved in working the property.
3. The owner must have some "risk" involved or have an "economic interest" in the operation.
4. The property must pass from the decedent to a close relative.
5. It must be owned and used for agricultural purposes at least five years before the decedent's death.

6. The owner or a close relative must be paying self-employment tax and must work the land full-time or do all the necessary work if less than full-time.

In addition to these requirements, there are numerous other factors involved in establishing a farm or ranch estate for special use valuation, noted Bravenec. A landowner that is interested in this special IRS treatment of agricultural land should contact his tax lawyer or accountant for further details.

now in Austin would boost residential phone charges to only a few cents over $9 a month.

"That's just 30 cents a day for phone service," he pointed out.

Hearn said most of the complaints the utility receives are over the cost of special equipment or fancy phones. He compared the telephone service to buying a car. The auto firms have one price for the basic car and then a lot of additional prices for optional equipment. He pointed out it was the same way with the phone company, and emphasized that basic rates are not high.

Dispatch publisher Jim Cornish told Hearn he felt the phone company made its biggest mistake when it closed its business office in smaller towns. Cornish said the public image of the electric or gas utility is much better in smaller communities because they have retained their offices and local managers and people can walk in and voice their complaints and get them off their chests.

Dispatch publisher Jim Cornish told Hearn he felt the phone company made its biggest mistake when it closed its business office in smaller towns.

Cornish said the public image of the electric or gas utility is much better in smaller communities because they have retained their offices and local managers and people can walk in and voice their complaints and get them off their chests.

He contended good public relations was worth the price of operating such an office here.

Hearn replied that the offices were closed due to the economics of doing business, that three million dollars was saved alone in just salaries for office managers in 100 communities affected by the cutback.

Hearn said the day may soon come when the other utilities will be forced to close their community offices and that many large retail firms already have cut out all their sales clerks for the same reason.

"People are having to adjust to the lack of the old personal touch in business today," Hearn concluded.

He appeared in Post over a decade ago and drew capacity crowds to afternoon and evening shows.

Postings—

We found most of the financial record of the Jubilee was published the week after it ended.

Under the headline "Early reports show Jubilee success in all departments", the story said the four-day extravaganza had a $16,500 budget underwritten by local business men. When the final bills were in, the story said, the Jubilee might even make a little money, all of which was to be donated to the city's park fund.

The big barbecue, as we said in the editorial, was not all a gift of Mrs. Post. She gave $2,500 of the estimated $4,000 of the barbecue expenses as well as providing three of the 13 beeves which were eaten with Garza cattlemen donating the other 10.

Mrs. Loveta Josey was crowned as queen of the Jubilee and received an all expenses paid trip to Hollywood for herself and her husband from General Foods (Mrs. Post's company).

Mayor James Minor was chairman of the Golden Jubilee celebration and did a wonderful job of meshing all the gears so the big show clicked from start to finish.

The Caprock Calvacade with a cast of 350 home folks played to capacity stands at the rodeo grounds the first two nights but the crowd was well down the final night. The show grossed $4,256.01 for the Jubilee fund.

Advertising in the Jubilee program netted over $4,600. The show's only problem when it was all over was what to do with the 400 leftover souvenir plates which cost the Jubilee $600. The wooden money promotion also was something of a dud. At last report $225 of the $350 worth of wooden nickels, dimes and quarters had been redeemed at the First National Bank.

Mayor Minor had only one complaint when it was finished. Somebody had forgotten to take the stage coach back to Fort Worth and he had to make some other arrangements.

5¢ boost—

"Actually, the hometown paper ought to be worth a whole lot more than the price of a cup of coffee," Publisher Jim Cornish points out.

Inflation of course is the cause of this first price increase since 1979. Newsprint and postal costs have been jumping regular every six months or less. Salary boosts also have been granted twice annually to offset the rate of inflation.

Cornish points out the Post Dispatch readers here can save $4.50 off the new single copy price each year by subscribing to the paper and having it delivered to their home or business each Thursday morning.

A wind from the east or northeast is the one which heralds a "very good year" — or translated into cotton harvest terms, a bumper crop.

Taba'na Yuan'e is still looking for its first one of these. But fortunately, it hasn't experienced a wind from the south or southeast either which according to Indian lore would mean no crop at all.

After all, most of the time the wind blows in from the Southwest here in West Texas — and March 22 is seldom an exception.
