ATTACK MADE ON PRACTICE OF EXPERTS

METHOD OF USING TAX EXPERTS BY COUNTY OFFICIALS FLAYED

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Jan. 6.—The farming out of tax assessing and collecting of "tax experts" as practiced in many Texas counties was termed a "form of legalized huckstering" by W. O. Kinsolving, president of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce and publisher of the Corpus Christi Times and Caller, in a speech prepared for delivery before the agricultural club here today.

The address was the first in a campaign in which the chamber hopes to enlist public sentiment for legislative enactment, barring tax experts. He asserted the chamber held nothing against tax experts per se, but insisted the practice is flagrantly abused in many districts.

"There may be many cases," he said, "where it is advisable for county authorities to seek special aid, but we contend such aid should be on a per diem, not a per dollar basis. We are going to do everything we can to see that the practice is abolished. We want to turn the spotlight on tax experts so

TWO MEN DIE IN RUM ROW ON BORDER

MANUEL ZAMORA HELD FOR DEATHS; YOUTH IS CREMATED

(By Associated Press)

MCALLEN, Jan. 6.—Rum runners seeking vengeance for a liquor hijacking killed Juan Gonzales and Salvador Bruno, whose bodies were recovered from the Rio Grande, and possibly a third youth, officers believed today.

Two murder charges were lodged against Manuel Zamora, a second man thought to have escaped across the river into Mexico, was sought. Meanwhile, the waters were being dragged for the body of Cipriano Ybarro, missing from home and believed to have been a third victim of the outlaw guns.

Found Submerged

Bodies of Gonzales and Bruno were found submerged near a blood stained section on the river bank littered with empty pistol cartridges.

Assistant District Attorney Rogers Kelly, who filed the complaints against Zamora, declared the Mexican had told others he "would give even with them for hijacking our liquor." A few days before the slaying, Kelly added, an attack on liquor caravan in the vicinity had been successful, the raiders having made off with a quantity of contraband.

TEXANS TOLD OF NEED FOR FARM RELIEF

FARM BOARD CHIEFTAIN DECLARES UNITED UNIT NEEDED

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 6.—Texas cotton farmers must organize themselves into a central agency before they can share in the relief offered by congress through the federal farm board.

This was the message brought by Alexander Legge, chairman, and Carl Williams, cotton member, of the board, in conference today with Governor Dan Moody, heads of certain Texas colleges and representatives of farmers' and bankers' associations.

Board to Aid Work

It would be possible for the farm board to furnish speakers and educational matter, and possibly lend money toward a campaign to organize the farmers of Texas by districts. Williams said, replying to a question from C. S. E. Holland of Houston, representing the Texas Bankers' association, who expressed belief that the only way to get relief would be to undertake the task of educating the farmers to the real meaning of the farm board act. He said he believed this would require several years.

"It is absolutely necessary that the farmers group themselves into a thorough organization if anything is done," Williams said. "The Federal Farm Board was created by congress to aid the farmers in helping themselves."

Must Be Centralized

He declared there must be a centralized agency to "absolutely control the flow of the product to the markets of the world." He said one Texas cooperative organization had been able to handle only three or four per cent of the cotton after nine years work.

"We cannot reach the other 96 per cent individually, since the board must deal solely with cooperative organizations," Williams said.

MARTINEZ IS GIVEN TERM

ACCOMPLICE OF LEAHY MUST SERVE FIVE YEARS IN PEN

(By Associated Press)

GEORGE WEST, Jan. 6.—Robert Martinez today faced five years in the penitentiary for his part in the slaying of Dr. J. A. Ramsey, Mathis physician, for whose death Harry J. Leahy was executed several months ago.

The verdict was returned by a jury here Sunday, after the case was given to Saturday. Martinez has been in jail since 1925.

Driven To Leahy

Martinez, according to a confession, enticed the physician from his home the night he was slain on the pretext he was to visit a sick woman. Instead he was driven to a place where Leahy waited.

After Leahy had forced Dr. Ramsey to sign several papers, Leahy struck the physician over the head with an iron bar, the document continued. When Ramsey showed signs of life Leahy cut his throat and dumped the body into a shallow grave.

Martinez claimed he did not know Leahy intended to kill Dr. Ramsey and that after the slaying he became frightened and left this section. He was arrested at Laredo and led officers to the grave.

Board Of Managers Will Convene Wednesday And Thursday

Plans Made To Discuss Problems Of Congress Of Mothers And P.-T. A. s

The legislative program of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations for the coming two years will be discussed at the annual January meeting of the Board of Managers of that organization scheduled to take place in the State office of the Congress in the Capitol building in Austin January 8 and 9, according to Mrs. Hayes Darling Smith, state president. Other matters to be taken up are election of board of trustees, plans for district meetings, recommendations of executive committees, plans of special committees, and such other business as may come up for consideration.

Only such legislative measures as directly affect children either in the schools or elsewhere are sponsored by Congress, according to Mrs. Smith. The children Code Commission which originated last year was authorized by the Congress to create the commission which took as its chief objective the codification of the laws relating to children with a study of the same having the end in view of finding out which laws were really aids in the work of child welfare. This committee is at work and after mature deliberation will make recommendations to the Congress.

Sponsor Bills
The Texas Congress as a unit sponsored several bills in the last legislature and aided in securing their passage. Among these was the bill that allowed Texas to take her place with the other states in the union in allowing school children to enter her schools at the age of six instead of seven. One of the bills which Governor Moody signed this year is in possession of the Texas Congress. Mr. Morris valued the cooperation of the members of the Parent-Teacher associations in the passage of the bill and wrote a letter stating his appreciation.

The letter addressed to Mrs. Smith, president, follows:
"The rank of Texas in public education as compared with the other states of the union has been a matter of great interest to the entire citizenship since the first statement was made that her rank was 39th. One of the important elements which enters into the determination of the rank of states is the attendance in public schools of children between the age of 5 and 18. Since Texas would not permit her five year old or six year old children to enter public schools free, she was handicapped in the matter of attendance as compared with other states. Prior to January 1, 1929, Texas was the only state in the union that required her children to wait until they were 7 years of age to attend a free school. The forty-first legislature lowered the free school age to include the six year old children, and this act will take effect September 1, 1930.

"I wish to thank you and the 60-600 members of the State Parent-Teacher associations for the valuable assistance given in the passage of this much needed legislation.
The pen which the governor signed the bill was presented to the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher association by Mr. Morris to be preserved as a memento of the occasion.

While Mister Bear kept riding round and making snow tracks on the ground, his owner kept right after him a-shouting, "Hey, there stop! The wheels will slip in that deep snow and if they do, right down you'll go. Don't ask for sympathy from me if you do take a flop."

The Tinymites meet some monkeys in the next story.

The Tinymites still behind a tree decided they could safely be right out where they could plainly watch the very funny chase. "Come on," said Scouts, as he ran. "I think we can help the man catch Mister Bear. We might as well join in this funny race."

So out they scampered, one by one, to take part in the thrilling fun. The bear man saw the happy lads and shouted, "Hi there, boys! Please help me make my big bear stop. Excite him so he'll take a flop. Perhaps he'll get befuddled if you make a lot of noise."

"You bet we will," one Tinymite cried. "We'll gladly help you and his ride. We want the bike because it's ours. I was good old Santa's gift. Your bear is riding round in play, but we must soon be on our way. In order that we get the bike, we'll gladly give a life."

But ere they said a chance to run the big bear stopped. His trip was done. His master ran right up to him and caught him by the nose. "I ought to spank you now," said he, "but if you do some stunts for me I'll let you go. Please do the sort of tricks you do in shows."

The bear said, "Anything you like! And soon, indeed, right back on the bike. He then did very funny tricks. The whole bunch laughed in glee. Said Clowny, "Goodness, he is good!"

General Motors Have Increase In Profits

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP).—Retail sales of automobiles manufactured by divisions of the General Motors Corporation in the last quarter of 1929, so far as can be estimated at the present time, somewhat exceeded the corresponding quarters of 1928. Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president, said in a letter sent stockholders today. "Furthermore," he added, "although complete figures are not available, our total retail sales for 1929 were practically the same as our record performance of 1928."

The letter further said General Motors would distribute to its common stockholders more than $13,000,000 representing the extra dividend declared last November. With the payment of this dividend stockholders will have received an aggregate of approximately $166,000,000 applicable to 1929 earnings. This compares with 174,704,739 for 1928.

TREATY BETWEEN GREAT SEA POWERS LOOMS IN LONDON PARLEY

DELEGATIONS OF NATIONS GATHERING

U. S. PARTY TO LEAVE THURSDAY; FRANCE'S AID IS SOUGHT

BY BYRON PRICE.

(Associated Press Staff Writer)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—The basic considerations which are to guide American diplomacy at the London Naval conference, now definitely established after weeks of preparation, are directed unwaveringly toward the original ideal of a treaty signed by all five of the great sea powers, limiting every type of warship.

President Hoover's final consultations with the American delegates, who leave next Thursday for London, are taking into account the obstacles which have arisen since the pre-conference discussions began, but in no case are these obstacles recognized as insurmountable.

Look Toward France
In its present form, the plan to be followed by the delegation looks hopefully toward French signature of the proposed treaty, despite indications from Paris that she is hesitant to take so positive a commitment. Disclosure over the weekend that the French statesmen are willing at least to limit construction in the near future is taken as a most promising sign after the recent strong pronouncement of French national policy. The Americans will go to London holding to the faith that it will be possible to translate this promise into actual treaty terms.

The American plan also foresees a way of adjusting the cruiser demands of Japan on a basis satisfactory to all concerned, and it almost takes for granted that the troublesome details of party between the United States and Great Britain can be reduced to terms regarded as mutually acceptable.

Neither President Hoover nor members of the delegation have gone the length of supposing, however, that they can draw up beforehand a scheme of procedure guaranteed to meet all difficulties. The plan of the delegation is flexible enough to permit adjustment to the changing contour of the negotiations. The delegates will communicate freely with the white house as the conference progresses and Mr. Hoover himself will remain in a position to guide instantly the important decisions of American policy.

Such parting guidance as the president can give at the present stage will be imparted to the delegates tomorrow at a white house breakfast. Then, accompanied by his advisers, the delegation will leave Washington on Thursday morning on a special train for New York and will sail that afternoon on the steamer George Washington. That will mean three days in London before the conference meets two weeks from tomorrow—a period Secretary Stimson as head of the delegation proposes to turn to advantage in personal consultation with the representatives of Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy.

Opening negotiations for the United States at the first session on January 21, Mr. Stimson will speak in general terms of the great expectations of his government for naval limitation and the advancement of peace. He will expound no diplomatic bombshell, as Secretary Hughes did in opening the Washington conference in 1921. Instead he will counsel a patient examination of the whole field of possibilities before an effort is made to draft definite agreements.

In succeeding discussions, the American delegation will be expected to follow certain general lines of policy, laid down after weeks of consultation here. They include:

Sincere invocation of the Kellogg treaty, outlawing war, not as an absolute guarantee of security, but as a moral commitment to frank and open dealing around the conference table.

Non-involvement in the purely European aspects of the discussions and avoidance of any proposal which would put enforcement of the conference decisions into the hands of the league of nations.

Retention of the battleship as the backbone of the American navy, at least for the present, but with battleship construction sharply restricted pending the next conference in 1936.

Maintenance of an American cruiser strength based on the necessity of protecting the nation's developing trade routes.

LOVE LOSES SCHOOL SUIT

DISTRICTS MAY NOT BE LIMITED FOR FEES ON NON-RESIDENTS

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Jan. 6.—School districts lawfully may not be limited to $7.50, the amount fixed by the legislature, in tuition fees for non-resident students, the fifth court of civil appeals has ruled in reversing a case prosecuted by State Senator Thomas B. Love, sponsor of the state law containing the limitation.

The court found fault only with that part of Love's educational law restricting fee collection to $7.50, and suggested that the objectionable sections in the law be severed without defeating other objects sought in the bill.

In its decision the court held that to limit a district to an amount less than the actual cost of tuition for students—which facts disclosed was the case in Dallas—would be unconstitutional, in that the district from which the non-resident student came would benefit at the expense of the high school district.

Judge of the court characterized the decision as of far reaching importance to Texas school districts. Should Senator Love seek to carry the case further, a rehearing will be asked, and in the event it is denied, the case might be taken to the Supreme Court.

Pay Roll Builders-Believers In Lubbock

LUBBOCK IS JUSTIFIED IN SAYING 'HAPPY NEW YEAR' WITH RECORD BUSINESS

Bank deposits, postal receipts, freight and express business in Lubbock during 1929 have justified the united expression of "Happy New Year."

Deposits in the three banks of the city at the close of business December 31, 1929, exceeded those of the same period of 1928 by $335,423.35. Total deposits of the institutions are $5,584,947.29, as compared to $5,249,523.29 for 1928.

Postal receipts at the end of 1929 approximated $115,900.10, exceeding the business of 1928 by $15,565.64.

Satisfactory liquidation of loans and a seasonal response to increased diversification have placed economic conditions in the Lubbock area on a substantial basis, bankers say. They also point out that the business perspective of the area will enter 1930 in the face of reasonable security.

While the year just past has been considered a prosperous one for Lubbock and the South Plains, expressions of prominent business and professional men of the city indicate that 1930 has a far more prosperous outlook and that conditions throughout the section will be greatly improved.

Outlook Bright
With building permits for 1929 decrying the greatest expansion program ever witnessed in the city, the consensus of opinion is that 1930 will experience even greater activity in this line.

Colonization of the unsettled territory also comes in for attention with oil activities receiving considerable interest. The old standby, agriculture, seems destined to come into its own again, according to forecasts made and prices this year will greatly exceed those of 1929, assuring the farmer a living wage for his products. This fact is pointed out through the interest taken by the federal government in its efforts to aid marketing conditions and by the age-old law that prices run in cycles. Market peaks were reached in 1924 and since that time it has been pointed out, prices have varied with only slight increases. Diversification is cited as one of the greatest booms to the modern farmer, living at home with poultry and cattle as a means of livelihood, while crops come in as a profit.

Thought For Today

Trust not in lying words—Jeremiah 7:4.

Lies are the cause of all the sins and crimes in the world—Epictetus.

Without Bars

In the province of Ontario there is a prison the like of which can not be found anywhere in the United States.

It is a prison without any walls or guard houses; a prison where no guard carries a gun or a club, where any prisoner could escape at any time simply by walking away.

It includes in its list of prisoners some of Canada's most "dangerous" men—there are, for instance, more than 100 criminals in prison.

Yet it is conducted without any trouble. It has never had a riot or anything approaching one. It keeps its 700 convicts and has an average of only two escapes a year. Not one of its prisoners has ever been tried for escape.

This contrasts so amazingly with most prisons south of the international border—with Auburn, Danmore and Canning City, for instance—that it is worth a good bit of consideration.

The prison is located at Guelph, and it was instituted a quarter of a century ago by Dr. Fred Leonard, who had been warden of the Ontario State Reformatory but those plans for conducting a prison were "too idealistic and visionary" for the hard-headed Ontario.

It is handled along very simple lines.

There are 850 acres of prison land, divided into farms, dairies and orchards. In addition there are woolen mills, a cannery, a wood working factory, a bed factory and a quarry, all operated by the prisoners.

Thus there is a full-time job for every man in the prison. There is no idleness. Every man is kept busy.
Every man has a good place to sleep and good food to eat.

Every man, in short, is treated as though he were a decent human being. And—let those Americans who object to the "coddling" of prisoners consider this—every man responds to this sort of treatment.

There are no riots. There is no discontent.
There are no more escapes than there are in the average heavily-guarded prison in the United States.

Most important of all, no prisoner staying there comes to feel that society is his oppressor, his enemy.

There is a great lesson in that Ontario prison for the authorities south of the border; a lesson for the authorities, and a lesson for the rest of us as well.

If you give decent treatment you will get a decent response—whether you're talking with ordinary mortals or with criminals.

We might try to remember that.

Scandal Remains

The District of Columbia grand jury, as might have been expected, finds that it cannot indict anyone on the basis of Senator Brookhart's revelations concerning the "big party" which certain Wall Street gentlemen put on for a group of U. S. senators.

It report points out that the lack of evidence and the extraordinary lapse of time between the alleged violations and the revelation of facts make it impossible for the grand jury to act.

This, of course, was to be expected.
Senator Brookhart's service in speaking as he did—for we believe that in so speaking he did perform a service to the nation—lay in the emphasis which he put on the hypocrisy that is so prevalent at Washington. The prohibition law is violated frequently there, and the violations are witnessed to say the least—by the very men who are sworn to make, and uphold, our laws.

The grand jury's failure to indict doesn't alter that situation.

Some of the Christmas drinks make it seem almost impossible that anybody ever could be arrested for selling liquor on the strength of such evidence.

THE PLAINSMAN

That Girl on Broadway says the man who gets through married life without a cross word is a puzzle.

Word from the city hall that progress may be soon expected on the municipal airport, is cheering.
The Plainsman has felt for some time that despite the admittedly ragged bond market the city's airport bonds should be sold and an effort made to get Lubbock a place in the airway sun.

It is doubtful if there is another city in the United States the size of Lubbock which has as poor airport facilities as we have and which has done no more than Lubbock has to take advantage of the air era.
Just dawning. Air lines are not going to come in here without some encouragement. You can mark that down on your cuff. Further than that, there are plenty of cities with adequate airport facilities which are literally crying for airlines. The boys with the planes don't have to come to Lubbock and they won't come until we make the right arrangements for them.

West Texas is almost daily becoming more air-minded. Abilene may now fly to San Angelo, for instance, on the regular line now operating between those cities. attend to business, see their friends and fly back, saving a great deal of time and trouble. Amarillo may fly to Wichita Falls or to Clovis and likewise save time for business.
But nobody can fly to Lubbock and no one here can fly anywhere unless a special plane is chartered and that's almost too expensive for everyone.

The Plainsman is of the opinion that Lubbock people will do well to watch more closely the rise and expansion of aviation. We've fooled around so long about it that we're liable to find ourselves left out in the cold.

That Man on Avenue Q says every woman has seven ages—her real one and six guests.

It doesn't hurt anybody to be thrown on his own resources. The trouble comes if he hasn't any.

The Plainsman has a letter from Emil L. Klett, president of the Lubbock Community Chest, announcing that the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, operators of the local exchange, has pledged $200 per year to the chest fund as long as Lubbock has a community chest. The $200 per year is to be paid $50 per quarter. Commending that the man who sure your paper will be interested to receive news of this splendid example of community service on the part of one of our non-resident corporations.

This column second Mr. Klett's commendation on the part of the phone company. Manager Tom White is active in many kinds of civil work, realizes to the limit that his corporation has a part to play in the affairs of this city, in which it has a considerable investment.
The Plainsman is glad to report the donation.

Add to the happiness of others and you add to your own.

There is a story in every girl's face and the chances are she made it up herself.

While, the great unwashed of the "common herd" waited more or less impatiently, the Belgian royal family, under heavy guard arrived in Rome for the prenuptial attendant to the approaching marriage of the prince and princess of the two nations. Riding in the most magnificently appointed private train in England, the bride-to-be and her kinsfolk travelled from Belgium to Rome but the Plainsman will bet they didn't have nearly as much fun as they would have had if they had been ordinary people.

This business of being in the royalty may be o. k. if you like it but we have always figured that it might grow a little monotonous.
It's hard enough in this vale of tears, to enjoy one's self. The Plainsman imagines it must be impossible if you amount to anything.

A good percentage of Lubbock citizens are today and tomorrow balloting on directors of the Board of City Development.
From a list of 200 or more individuals twelve men will be selected to carry on the organization's work in 1930. The task is not as easy as it looks and The Plainsman hopes every voter will exercise care in the selection.

Planes Tested

LONDON.—If there's another war, the Royal Air Force expects to be able to go into battle with fighting planes that will do 200 miles an hour with full military loads. It has tested a new plane of such speed capacity that has landed and taken off from the decks of battleships.

Trees Have Use

know what to do with Christmas trees after Christmas.
A headquarters at a house in Manhattan tells them to plant the trees in back yards and erect in them feeding boxes for birds.

issued by the United States Women's Bureau says a large proportion of families living in cities depend largely upon the earnings of women and in many homes the entire income is earned by wife or daughters.

Expansion Of Rail

FORT WORTH, Jan. 6.—Expansion of the Trinity and Brazos Valley railway, extending from Waxahachie to Houston, is planned after the road goes out of the hands of a receiver some time this year. It was announced here last night by John A. Hulen, president and receiver. Announcement of definite plans for expansion was permitted by probable opposition from other roads.

Eielson's Plane Is Heard, Report Says

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 6 (AP)—A dog team driver today brought word to Nome that a plane was heard soaring over Flieger Springs, 75 miles north of here in a mountainous district, at midnight on November 9, the day Pilot Carl Eielson and Mechanic Earl Borsland disappeared while flying to the fur trading ship Nanuk, ice bound at North Cape, Siberia.

The tallest elephant ever known was 11 feet 6 inches in height.BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6.—Billions of dollars will be spent in America during 1930 on construction and expansion work which might have been held up had not President Hoover forcibly warned industrial leaders and public officials against the danger of a serious slump.

The periodical tendency to curtail operations and production in a cautious attempt to guard against the inevitable recession after the stock market crash appears to have been checked to a substantial degree by vigorous White House intervention.

No one can make an accurate tabulation of the money involved in the prosperity campaign to which Hoover gave the impetus, but it is a fact of great importance that that various important industrial groups have joined with federal, state and municipal governments in stimulating outlays not only larger than contemplated but considerably in excess of expenditures for similar purposes last year.

Big Sums Are Involved

A total expenditure of $12,000,000, 600 proposed by five large groups was recently estimated by the Management of Wall Street to represent a gain of 15 per cent over 1929, showing that the increase may be reckoned in billions.

The railroad plan to spend $1, 600,000,000 on construction and equipment in 1930, nearly half of it in the first six months.

Public utilities figure on spending at least another billion dollars on construction and maintenance, more than 80 per cent of which will be devoted to construction.

Building and construction agencies estimate $1,100,000,000 in highway construction and predict $2, 000,000,000 or $3,000,000,000 in new building and modernization work.

The federal government is speeding up work on a $500,000,000 program of construction and New York City is actively promoting one involving about $1,000,000,000.

Reports are not yet in on the results of various conferences of public officials planning to push state and municipal programs, but Dr. John M. Gries, head of the new Department of Public Construction in the Department of Commerce, says he is confident that the volume of this work will be in excess of last year's.

Two of the most active governors following dispatch of telegrams urging speed-up from the White House are those of Ohio and California. The governor of Ohio called in the county commissioners of 88 counties and recently it was announced that business men and officials in and around Cleveland had decided to proceed with $100,000,000 in improvements during the next few months.

Federal aid and encouragement may result in the building of up to $200,000,000 in ships.

The Mississippi flood control program, involving hundreds of millions of dollars, will be speeded and the government, which added $100, 000,000 to its public building program, will also make a similar amount available in its program of co-operative highway building with the states.

Tax Cut Also Important In this summary should also be counted the $100,000,000 tax cut for 1930, for the money saved to the taxpayer will be available to business and individuals for other purposes.

While it is impossible to say just how much money will be devoted to the nation-wide intensification of efforts toward prosperity, which trough not have been spent had Hoover not acted in concert with business and other governmental agencies, it is pointed out that the $400,000,000 which railroads plan to spend in the first six months is $140,000,000 more than for the first six months of 1929. The public utilities, with their $800,000,000 in new construction, say this is an increase of $65,000,000. And the 1930 highway construction is estimated by contractors to be in excess of

In New York
With
Swan
Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK, Jan. 6.—"Little Lord Fauntleroy" has a thousand or so very modern little brothers in Manhattan.

To be sure, in this day and age they do not wear curls and velveteens. But for juvenile foppiness New York is hard to beat.

There is, for instance, one swanky and very expensive shop in the Fifth Avenue district where lads of 14 or thereabout run charge accounts and are catered to above all others. They are the sons of the Park Avenueites who "absolutely must wear the right clothes."

And because they "just must," since they attend the smartest boarding schools, they walk into the shops with that "man-of-the-world" air about them and order from four to half-a-dozen suits.

"One for each occasion. Traversa" they remark to the valet, who has accompanied them from the waiting limousine outside.

Just the other day, when prowling timidly through a shop which I never dare to enter unless they have a "holiday sale" of tweed suits such a youngster came in and with all the assurance in the world ordered himself—"one for winter sports, you know—and a three school suits." He didn't even take the trouble to give his size or try them on. Everyone within speaking range was bowing and scraping. It seemed that the suits are sent to his home on trial and can be just as easily sent back if found undesirable.

And it sent me thinking back to the days in Michigan when I was a kid. In my "gang," one suit of clothes was sufficient to start a fight. A youngster of that day and age literally battled against having a new suit of clothes put on him.

But mothers being mothers, then as now, my mother would explain how well "her little man" looked in the clothes. And rather than hurt her feelings, you'd put on the suit and with all the assurance in the world ordered himself—"one for winter sports, you know—and a three school suits." He didn't even take the trouble to give his size or try them on. Everyone within speaking range was bowing
and scraping. It seemed that the suits are sent to his home on trial
and can be just as easily sent back
if found undesirable.

When mothers' compensation laws were first passed by the various states, all sorts of checks and restrictions were written into the laws because employers and insurance companies did not know what such legislation was going to cost. Every attempt to amend or liberalize these laws has to meet the same issue.

Few laws as originally passed provided for compensation for occupational diseases. In the first place the subject was not well understood, and second, the friends of such legislation were glad to get even the most conservative and restricted acts passed.

In the gradual liberalization of compensation legislation which has been going on for 10 years or so, 11 of our jurisdictions have included compensation for occupational diseases.

There are three ways of covering occupational diseases in the various laws. One is by listing the specific diseases which are to be held compensable; another is to blanket all occupational diseases; and the other is to use the word "injury" instead of "accident" in the compensation act.

And if, from conditions inherent in an industry a man loses wages because of an illness contracted by reason of and in the course of his employment he is just as much entitled to compensation as if a flywheel split in two and injured his arm.

It is estimated that there are more than 10,000 mineral springs in the United States, of which nearly 1000 have produced waters in commercial quantities.

"I have found the right medicine at last for my stomach trouble and digestive troubles," said Mrs. Sam Thomas of 700 Avenue O, Brownwood, Texas, while at her home the other day, while talking with the Orgatone representative.

"I have had stomach trouble for five years, and have suffered terribly and got to where every time I ate anything I would be in miserable for hours afterward. I had dizzy and bloating spells until at times I could hardly stand up and had to hold to something to keep from falling.

"I was very nervous and got hardly any sleep at night and was going down the hill more and more every day. I had severe headaches and was just down and out and was so tired at times and had no energy to do anything.

Orgatone was advertised so highly recommended by everyone and so many people were taking it, I bought a bottle. I have just taken one bottle and am surely improving and started right after the first few doses. Orgatone has been a big help to me and I am more than glad to recommend it."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store.

CHICAGO GRAIN
CHICAGO, Jan. 6. (P)—Enlarged clearance of wheat from north America tended to make wheat here average higher early today.

"I have had stomach trouble for five years, and have suffered terribly and got to where every time I ate anything I would be in miserable for hours afterward. I had dizzy and bloating spells until at times I could hardly stand up and had to hold to something to keep from falling.

"I was very nervous and got hardly any sleep at night and was going down the hill more and more every day. I had severe headaches and was just down and out and was so tired at times and had no energy to do anything.

Orgatone was advertised so highly recommended by everyone and so many people were taking it, I bought a bottle. I have just taken one bottle and am surely improving and started right after the first few doses. Orgatone has been a big help to me and I am more than glad to recommend it."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Lubbock at Bowen's Drug Store.

"GHOST TOWN" OF GOLD CAMPS LIVES AGAIN FOR BRIEF DAY OF GLORY; WHERE FIRST STRIKE IS MADE SCENE OF RUSH

BUTTE, Mont., Jan. 6.—The worn-out old ghost town of Pioneer, where Montana's first great gold rush began three-quarters of a century ago, is about to come to life again.

Its vacant streets, grass grown and weeds, are peopled with busy men, motor trucks and puffing tractors. The ruins of old buildings are housing live workers once more instead of the ghosts who have occupied them for decades. Things are looking up.

For there is still gold in the sands of Pioneer, and men are assembling modern machinery and building a new highway so that they can get it out.

But, in the process of coming to life, Pioneer is to pass out of the picture forever. Its decayed buildings will shortly be torn down, and a new town—to be called New Pioneer—is to arise three miles away. The gold deposits underlie the townsite itself.

Old-Timers Recall Town's Day of Glory

Mose Desell, one of the few old-timers who stayed in Pioneer after the boom collapsed, can still remember the old days. So can J. P. Slaughter, another who remained. But few others know anything about the days of Pioneer's glory, except by hearsay.

In 1852 a half-breed trapper named Benetsee panned the first gold in this region. Six years later Granville Stuart, famous explorer of the northwest, built a cabin here and began prospecting. News of his discovery traveled fast, and by the early '60s a rip-roaring boom town mining camp had sprung up with a bank, saloons, dance halls, gambling joints and all the other paraphernalia of a wild western mining town.

Business was good until the early '80s. Then the sands played out and the prospectors moved away. A few miners remained to work the old tailings with hydraulic methods, and Pioneer had a brief revival. Then this method became unprofitable and the town died again.

Then came the Chinese, proverbially frugal and industrious. Headed by an astute celestial named Tim Lee, several hundred Orientals made Pioneer their own. Their patient care brought them rich veins of sands that the whites had abandoned. Tim Lee became rich, and his underlings prospered too.

Gamblers Take Chinese Gold Winnings

But Tim Lee, like others of his race, loved to gamble, and although he took a fortune out of Pioneer's sands, he died penniless a short time ago. The gamblers long since had taken all of his great winnings.

Pioneer died again. Then, in the late '90s, a syndicate of Englishmen came in and prepared to use modern dredges on the old placer claims. The syndicate became involved in litigation over the old mining claims, however, and finally went broke without having turned a shovel of earth. Their abandoned dredge still remains in a gulch near the old town.

Then Pioneer died in earnest. Desell, Slaughter and a few others still lived there, but there was no mining. Houses fell to pieces. Owls and mountain rats inhabited the old dance halls and saloons.

Dredges to Seek Overlooked Gold

Now, however, Pat Wall, well-known mining man of Butte and Spokane has taken over the old claims, and is preparing to begin dredging them in the early spring. The old bang has been turned into a restaurant for the 100 men who are building a new road to connect the town with the main highway. The bank's vaults, this once held millions in gold dust are now full of canned food. The old city hall is a bunkhouse. Pioneer is alive again.

It won't be long though. Next spring the town will move three miles down the gulch, and the dredges will rip through a hundred years of the ground they occupy. This revival with the aid of modern machinery will be Pioneer's last—forever.

TRAGEDIES

and the son drew a revolver and began shooting.

The elder Schumm died almost instantly, but the youth's mother ran into the kitchen and her son followed her. She disarmed him and tossed the pistol away, running to a neighbor's apartment where she found she had been wounded, was in the hip.

The student called a family friend, told him what he had done, and then picked up the revolver and fired in his father's automobile. He fired the weapon into the Missouri river and went to the friend's home, where he was persuaded to await police.

FOUR PERSONS DIE IN TWO TRIPLE TRAGEDIES

CINCINNATI, Jan. 6, (P)—Two triple tragedies involving murder and suicide cost the lives of four persons in greater Cincinnati during the week-end.

Covington, Ky., just across the river from here, was the scene of three fatalities, witnessed by only a 14-year-old boy, Bert Watson, 49.

Angered police said because his wife Mrs. Gladys Watson obtained a restraining order preventing him from molesting her during her divorce suit against him, entered his former home and shot her to death. He also killed Mrs. Greta Schroeder, 42, who was talking with Mrs. Watson, and then committed suicide.

Worried over unemployment, Albert Wiegand, Cincinnati, 60, violinist, shot his sister Anna, 59, with a hatchet, and then killed himself. The sisters are in a critical condition.

"All about the Covington murder," shouted Frank Bowman, 19, a new boy, as he ran down a street, holding papers. Then he glanced at headlines and read the story. "My mother," he cried, Bowman was the son of Mrs. Schroeder by a previous marriage.

organizations, and we cannot afford to distribute relief in the way of advances on cotton to only three or four per cent to the exclusion of the other 96 per cent," he said.

Chairman Legge told the conference that if the attitude of "wondering what the 'fool' farm board is going to do" continued the real relief will not be much.

Quit Competing

"It is necessary that the farmers get together and quit this thing of being competitors of one another," he said.

He pointed out that there could not be a "cut and dried" program, but declared the varied situations that existed peculiar to as many communities made it imperative that the board maintain a "flexible" policy insofar as it could under the law which created it.

There are no two states in harmony on this thing, they all seem to be competing," Legge said.

DR. HORN TO GIVE CITY'S PETITION

Armed with data in support of a campaign for Lubbock as a cotton concentration point, Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of Texas Technological college, is at Austin today to attend a conference with Governor Moody in connection with Alexander W. Legge, of Illinois, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, Carl Williams, of Oklahoma, member of the board, college friends and bankers.

Statistics revealing the productivity of the South Plains were prepared by H. J. Bower, professor of agronomy at Texas Technological college, R. L. Hardett, senior student of the college, and J. K. Wooten, junior student. The report was prepared for purpose of using to obtain a marketing unit of the board in this city.

The figures show that 106,648 bales were produced in the South Plains, of which Lubbock is the trade center during 1928-29.

CONGRESS MEETS

elections, in which all the house and one-third of the senate must be chosen. The elections will get underway before many months with primary campaigns in several states, and these always serve as a lively prelude to the campaigns to come later.

The London naval conference, for which members of the American delegation will leave in a few days, aroused interest at both sides of the capital. Whatever agreement may be reached at the parley ultimately must come before the senate for approval, and if appropriations or the curtailment of funds already authorized should become involved, the house will be called upon for action.

Tariff Holds Spot

Senate leaders have decided the tariff will have preference in that chamber, and this is expected to occupy much time. Once the measure is acted upon, it must be returned to the house, which will ask for appointment of a conference committee, and this group, as it has in the case of previous tariff legislation, must thrash over the rates in controversy between the two houses.

While the prohibition question is expected to arouse much discussion, the question of house approval of the administration's request for a joint commission to consider reorganization of the dry law enforcement machinery is looked upon as the first prospect of action. Approval of the creation of this commission, already sanctioned by the senate, is regarded as a foregone conclusion.

Adjournment Uncertain

Leaders in both houses were dubious as to when the session would close. In recent years, regular sessions seldom have terminated before mid-June and frequently have extended into July. None of those in control in either house would hazard anything definite concerning the possibility of adjournment, but all indicated the new refrigerated ventilation system would see much use before the legislators cease work.
