November 11, Board heard rival bids of San Antonio and Dallas as site for the new dental school. Houston, Austin, Lubbock, Amarillo and Temple all want the next medical school. Board's staff recommendation to bring campuses at Arlington and Denton under a single "urban university" governing board received strong criticism.

Faculty Aid Explored
Whatever the Coordinating Board decides, Texas obviously will need more teachers for institutions of higher education. To get those, and to keep the ones now teaching, a senate committee headed by Sen. D. Roy Harrington of Port Arthur will propose state payment of moving costs for new faculty members; group disability income insurance; free tuition for faculty members' families and free parking space.

If just a few of the proposed changes in education come about, you can see new taxes will come about, and not the least of the taxproving proposals will be a public school teacher pay raise of $1,800 over the next two years.

Money-Saving Ideas Laid Out
Senate Committee on Economy in Government, chaired by Rep. Bill Patman of Galveston, is looking at ways to save taxpayer dollars. Texas Research League, a non-profit state helper, already has given the committee a few suggestions:

1. Centralize all janitorial, mail messenger, office supply and duplicating services, instead of allowing each agency to budget them separately.

2. "Look at" state employee travel costs, and allow air travel when it would be cheaper than auto transportation.

3. Convert McKnight State Tuberculosis Hospital near San Angelo into a school for the mentally retarded, and allow their TB hospitals to take indigents for illnesses other than tuberculosis.

4. Save $4 million a year in prison and welfare costs by providing a more efficient system of parole.

5. Classify more "realistically" highway and road construction.

6. Save close to $93,000 a year by abolishing the Board of County and District Road Indebtedness and letting the treasury take care of that function.

7. Develop a more meaningful information network than the present proliferation of electronic data processing equipment.

Schools Funds Received
Texas Education Agency has been allotted $10 million in federal funds for elementary and secondary schools and programs for handicapped.

More than $8.4 million will go to finance supplemental education facilities statewide. Grant of $1.2 million will help strengthen state administration and identify needs. About $1.2 million will go to programs for handicapped. Smaller grant of $29,405 will help strengthen arts and humanities programs in public schools.

Water Use Report Ready
Water users along the Rio Grande between Falcon and Alamo reservoirs can now examine the water use report and photographs of the area at county clerks offices in Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr, Zapata, Webb, Maverick, Kinney and Val Verde counties.

Texas Water Rights Commission has completed its study of this area in preparation for adjudication of water rights. Hearings will begin next January after notices to all water users and publication in newspapers of Zanata, Jim Hogg, Webb, Maverick, Kinney, Kinney, Edwards and Val Verde counties.

Commission, in first test of a new law, will then enter determination of rights which will be appealed automatically to district court. Report shows all types of water uses by farms, industries and cities.

SWPC To Construct 69,000 Volt Line South Of McLean

Electric power supply for the eastern Panhandle will be "firmly" with the construction of a 69,000 volt transmission line from the Alameda substation of Southwestern Public Service Co. to West Texas Utilities Company's Shamrock substation.

Construction on the H-Frame line will begin in February, with completion scheduled for June, prior to the summer peaks for electric power consumption in the area.

The new transmission line will provide two principal benefits to the area. The first advantage is that a larger line will make it possible to move bigger amounts of power to the area from Southwestern's generating facilities in the northern and central Panhandle. This power availability from large, efficient generating machines is a more economical method of firming up the electric resources of the region than the installation of small generating units in the immediate area to be served. In addition, the new line will provide a two-way feed over 69,000 volt lines to customers of both companies in the Wheeler county region. The line will run south of McLean.

Construction crews from Southwestern Public Service Co. will build the new facility, with both companies sharing in the cost.

Register Firearms Under 1968 Gun Law
Detailed procedures for registering machine gun, sawed-off shotgun, sawed-off rifle, silencer, deactivated war trophy and other destructive devices were announced today by B. Frank White, Regional Commissioner of Internal Revenue for the Southwest Region.

The Gun Control Act of 1968 requires that weapons and devices of this type must be registered with the Internal Service by December 1.

Mr. White said that copies of Registration Form 447 are available at Alcohol and Tobacco and other IRS offices.

The forms are prepared in three copies, two of which should be mailed to the Director, Alcohol and Tobacco Act Division, Internal Revenue Service, Washington, D. C. 2024. The third copy may be kept by the owner of the firearm or destructive device.

Firearms or destructive devices should not be brought to an IRS Office to be registered, Mr. White said.

Under the new law all firearm and destructive devices requiring registration must be identified by a serial number. If a firearm or device does not have a serial number, the owner should phone, visit, or write the nearest IRS Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Office and a number will be assigned.

After obtaining the number, the owner is responsible for affixing it to the firearm or device before completing the registration form. Additional information may be obtained by contacting the nearest Alcohol and Tobacco Tax or other IRS Office.

Christian Crusade Set In Amarillo
When Pete Seeger appeared as the "chief" of the folk singers before the World Council of Churches in Uppsala, Sweden this past August, it was only another indication that the tides of Council opinion are still in left field.

The Amarillo meeting will be held on Sunday, November 24 at 7:00 p.m. in the Grace Baptist Church, 4003 Bonham. Area Residents May Be Unaware Of SS Benefits
Many persons in the Panhandle may be losing valuable social security benefits. Despite recent publicity about changes in the law regarding disability benefits for some widows, the Amarillo Social Security office is still finding persons who are unaware of how these changes affect them.

Until this year only disabled workers and persons disabled in childhood could receive social security benefits of disability. Now a widow who is age 50 and disabled can receive benefits on the social security record of her deceased husband. To qualify, her husband must have been insured at the time he died. The widow must be severely disabled and unable to work because of the disability. There will be a reduction in her benefit up to 50 percent depending on how near she is to age 60 at the time she becomes entitled to benefits.

Apparently many widows are relying on information they got from the social security office at the time their husbands died. They were told then that widows could not receive disability benefits on their deceased husbands social security. Because they were told this many believe the new provision does not apply to them.

Any widow between age 50 and 60 who is disabled should check with the social security office to verify whether or not the new provisions of the law applies to her. The local social security office is located at 1006 Adams St., Amarillo.

Tigers Lose To Clarendon 20-8

Editors Note: We as well as everyone in McLean have enjoyed the fine football stories turned in by Mike Haynes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Haynes, this year. Thank you Mike!

The McLean Tigers gave it all they had last Friday night in an attempt to win the District 2-A championship outright, but tough breaks and Clarendon's best effort of the year gave the Broncos a 20-8 decision, throwing the district into a 3-way tie between McLean, Clarendon, and Wheeler.

On Saturday morning, officials of the three teams met at the high school here for a coin-flip to determine who would represent the district in the state play-offs. The toss was won by Wheeler, giving them the right to play Gruver in the bi-district game.

McLean had won a similar toss two years ago. This year's toss came about after the Tigers whipped Wheeler 26-9, Wheeler upset Clarendon 15-7, and Clarendon defeated McLean 20-8, giving all three teams 4-1 conference records. The Tigers ended the season with a 7-3 mark, and will receive a gold football as tri-champions.

The game at Clarendon was certainly pressure-packed. Clarendon had to win to even have a shot at the title, and the Tigers needed it to remain undefeated in district play. The contest, which was closer than the score indicates, was typical of District 2-A battles, particularly McLean-Clarendon clashes. The district seems to be one of the most exciting in the state. In the past four years, McLean-Clarendon scores have been 28-22, 6-0, 8-9, and 8-20. With these close scores, and Wheeler thrown in to complicate things, District 2-A resembles a high school Southwest Conference.

The score was close most of the way Friday night. Neither team reached the end zone in the first quarter. Clarendon's Steve Land broke the ice in the second period with a 1-yard plunge capping a 61-yard drive. Phillip Longan kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead. The Tigers came right back driving inside the Bronchos' 20 before intermission, but they failed to score, leaving the 7-0 margin at half-time.

Clarendon drove 57 yards for their second score in the third quarter with Land, who carried most of the load during the game, going over from the one. Longan again kicked the conversion. The Tigers then showed championship credentials as they marched 72 yards in seven plays for a touchdown. Faced with a fourth-and-long situation around Clarendon's 30, quarterback Joel McCarty passed to Mike Darsey for 13 yards and a first down. Soon after, McCarty hit David Brown, who made a great catch at the goal line and went in to score. The ball was fumbled in the end zone, but Earnest "00" Smith fell on it. McCarty kept and just made it across for 2 points, and with 2:14 remaining in the third quarter, the Tigers were right back in the game, trailing 14-8.

McLean held Clarendon, forcing a punt, and the Tigers were on the move again. They drove from their own 6 to the 28, but the ball was lost at that point, giving Clarendon a big break.

Clarendon gained momentum in the final period, and drove to the McLean 5. The Tigers held them to 1 yard in 3 plays, but Charles Lewis swept left end to score from 4 yards out. The conversion try was bobbled, and the score read 20-8 with eight minutes left in the game.

The Tigers didn't let down, and attempted to score in the final moments. Thacker Haynes threw 17 yards to Earnest Smith on a fake punt, not quite making a first down. With little time left, Dick Back attempted a pass. It was intercepted by Jim Moore around the McLean 35, but Mike Darsey hit him and he tried to lateral to a teammate. Tiger David Brown stepped in, took the pitch in mid-air, and almost broke loose, but was tripped up at the 39. The game ended with the score 20-8.

The Tigers had a very successful season in 1968. With a mediocre 2-2 mark, they came on to win five in a row and put themselves in contention for a district title. They outscored their opponents 180 to 118, rolled up over 2,100 yards rushing, gained over 400 yards passing, ran punts and kickoffs back for much yardage, and stopped opponents cold with a now traditionally tough defense. But these statistics are of little importance. The significant factor in any football team is the pride taken by players and coaches alike. Touchdowns don't just happen. It takes a lot of character to outplay and defeat teams which are bigger, faster, and more talented than you are. The 1968 McLean Tigers had this character.

Playing as Tigers for the last time in the Clarendon game were several outstanding seniors. They are: Dick Back, halfback; Clinton Corbin, halfback; Mike Darsey, end; Jerry Dwyer, guard; Gary Ellison, tackle; Thacker Haynes, fullback; Joel McCarty, quarterback; Brad Parker, tackle; and Earnest Smith, halfback. They didn't win the coin toss, but they did win a championship trophy and a lot of respect.

Hunters Should Know Their Targets

"Don't pull the trigger until you identify your target—it may be your best friend," says Robert G. Mauermann, deputy director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

"Every year, in Texas and the rest of the U.S. hundreds of persons are killed or injured when they are mistaken for game. The 1967 Uniform Hunter Casualty Report from the National Rifle Association indicated 189 persons were killed or injured in the U. S. because of this mistake," Mauermann said.

According to Mauermann, many of these injuries could have possibly been prevented by the victim himself.

"A blaze orange hunting vest could mean the difference between life and death," he said. Hunters shouldn't overlook this important piece of clothing when they take to the woods this season. A blaze orange vest makes it less likely that the hunter will be mistaken for game."

According to the National Shooting Sports Foundation, Inc., four states — Massachusetts, Iowa, Maine and Colorado — have made blaze clothing mandatory for certain types of hunting.

The Foundation says blaze orange stands out better than any other color at the critical times of dusk and dawn when other colors fade. For instance, many shades of red turn to black in shadows or periods of low light.

Nearly a dozen manufacturers have come out with caps, vests, capes, wrap - arounds, Sam Browne belts and even blaze-tipped boot socks to make hunters more visible.

"If more hunters will wear blaze orange," says the Foundation, "hunting accidents can be reduced greatly in two categories, the mistaken-for-game and walking-into-line of fire accidents."

National Safety Council Launches Accident Program

The National Safety Council is launching a Tractor Overturn Prevention and Protection "TOPP" program, a nation-wide, all-out attack on farm tractor upset accidents.

Statistics gathered by the privately supported non-profit organization show that each year more than 600 persons in the United States are killed in farm tractor upset accidents. An additional 5,000 are injured.

Leon J. Urban, manager of the Council's Farm Department, estimates that three of four persons now killed in tractor upsets could be saved if their tractors were equipped with protective frames or crush-resistant cabs and safety belts.

Urban says these devices are now available for many makes and models of tractors.

"If," says Urban, "you are thinking of buying a new tractor, ask your dealer about having it equipped with a protective frame or crush-resistant cab. It might save your life."

The Chicago-based safety organization recommends the use of a safety belt along with these safety devices.

The operator, Urban says, can do much to prevent overturn or any other kind of tractor accident by observing the following basic rules:

"Read and be familiar with the instruction manuals for your equipment."

"Keep yourself in good physical and mental condition by getting enough rest, dressing comfortably, working at a pace within your physical abilities, and taking mid-morning and mid-afternoon rest breaks."

"Avoid operating on steep slopes, and stay clear of ditches, embankments and the like."

"Drive slowly on rough or muddy surfaces and slopes, or when visibility is poor — such as when moving in high grass."

"Reduce speed when turning or near ditches."

"Keep guards and shields in place, and shut off the power before unclogging or servicing machinery."

"Avoid dropping a wheel off on a soft shoulder or in the ditch."

"Don't use 'boy-sized' tractors for 'man-sized' jobs."

"When on the road, display the Slow-Moving Vehicle 'SMV' emblem. It is becoming universally recognized as designating a vehicle, such as a farm rig, traveling at less than 25 miles an hour."

Social Security Information

Children of women workers who are deceased, retired or disabled may now be eligible for social security benefits on the mother's record, even if they were previously found ineligible, according to Travis C. Briggs, social security district manager in Amarillo.

Until recently, the child of a woman worker could receive benefits only if the mother had worked under social security at least one-and-one-half years out of the three years prior to her retirement, disability or death, or if she were actually contributing at least one-half of the child's support, Briggs said.

Under the 1967 social security amendments, however, a change was made in this requirement of either recent work or current support. If the mother has worked long enough under social security to be fully insured, her children are deemed to be dependent upon her and may qualify for benefits.

Briggs said that children who may qualify can include minor children under age 18, full-time students between 18 and 22, and adult children who have been totally disabled since before age 18. A child must be unmarried to qualify.

Further information may be obtained by contacting the social security office at 1006 Adams Street, Amarillo, Texas.

Gasoline Produced From Coal

Lenwood E. Johnson, a research technician at Humble Oil & Refining Company's Baytown (Tex.) Refinery, holds a sample of gasoline produced from coal. Pulverized coal was liquefied and hydrogenated into a product of molecular weight easily converted into finished gasoline. Humble has built a plant at Baytown in an effort to develop conversion techniques which can produce the synthetic fuel at costs competitive with the processes used to manufacture conventional gasoline from crude oil.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Medical Costs You Can Deduct

Filing his income tax return, Johnny's father took a deduction for the cost of the boy's clarinet lessons. When the government challenged this item, the father explained:

"Johnny has a severe bite problem, and his orthodontist said playing the clarinet would be a great help. Therefore I consider these lessons a medical expense."

After a court test, the argument was upheld and the deduction accepted.

The case illustrates that "medical expenses," which are allowed "within limits" as a tax deduction, may take in a wide variety of costs. Deductions have been permitted for everything from the upkeep of a seeing eye dog to a wig prescribed for the mental health of a girl who had lost her hair.

But the expense must be closely related to a specific medical problem—not just vaguely "good for you."

Accordingly, deductions have been denied for diaper service, tooth paste, and bottled water. In each case, although there was a healthful aspect to the expenditure, no particular ailment was involved.

Nor can you deduct expenses in which the medical benefit is merely secondary to the non-medical benefits.

Thus a deduction was denied for a telephone which had been installed in a sick woman's home. True, the telephone did enable her to summon her doctor in an emergency. But it was also available for everyday household use.

What about travel? An ailing taxpayer who took a trip to Florida, just to perk up his morale, was held not entitled to deduct his expenses. The court ruled that the tax laws were not intended to subsidize vacations taken simply to make a taxpayer feel more cheerful.

On the other hand, a man was allowed to deduct the money he spent getting to and from meetings of Alcoholics Anonymous. Noting that he had joined the organization on the advice of a doctor, the court commented: "Membership was necessary for the treatment of a disease."

BLOWIN' Out the CORNERS

Most of us think our lot in life should be a lot more than the other fellows.

At least two things comes to the man who waits, his monthly bills and whiskers.

Making the same mistake over and over again could be called doing one thing well.

Just as sure as some one lets you have the honest truth straight from the shoulder, so to speak, it will almost surely be something bad.

One thing about avoiding temptation is that the older we get the more it starts avoiding us.

The more we live on the square, the easier it will be to find it everywhere.

About the only cute thing one can say about anger is the arch in a cat's back.

Miss Ruth Fite, our shut-in friends from Childress sent in some thoughts including the following verse from a birthday greeting. It is called "Hope Your Birthday's Wonderful."

It's not enough to say you're nice. . . . Though people often do. . . . Lots of folks are nice, of course. . . . But they're still not quite like you. . . . Wonderful. . . . That's better. . . . For you really are you see. And therefore that's exactly how your birthday ought to be.

It might be just wonderful to put the above on a little birthday note to someone. . . . It might turn out better than just plain nice. . . .

Producers can transfer cotton allotments by lease or sale within the county again this year. Both parties to the transfer would notify this office and sign a transfer document by December 31. Any producer who wishes to lease, sell or to buy cotton acreage may enter his name on our register in the county office and it will remain available at the counter for interested persons to review.

Newsman Leads Scout Explorers River Trip

BLUFFTON, INDIANA — They're remodeling and refurbishing the "Scimitar", whose home port of Bluffton is some 150 miles inland.

The land-locked raft-houseboat, built by the Scouts of Bluffton's Explorer Post 2144, is being readied for its 1969 trip down the Ohio and the Mississippi to New Orleans.

Last summer the 3 1/2 ton raft took its crew of 18 Scouts and their four adult leaders to Tiptonville, Tennessee, on the Mississippi — a trip of approximately 600 miles.

An abandoned rock quarry near Bluffton, flooded by rains and seepage, is the testing basin for the 16 by 30 foot craft, on which the Scouts erected the enclosed galley, storage area and pilot house.

The forty-four 55-gallon drums which provided flotation, are being replaced by steel pontoons, according to Explorer Advisor Mike Thoele, of the news staff of the Bluffton News-Banner.

The twin outboard motors are being replaced by an inboard power plant, and paddle wheels. And, Thoele said, he hopes to add an LP-gas refrigerator to the galley equipment, which already consists of a full-sized LP-gas kitchen range, including an oven. "Chief" of the galley was Bob Spaulding, a former Navy quartermaster and veteran camp cook, and one of the four adult leaders aboard the Scimitar.

The Scimitar, after its "maiden cruise" on the quarry pond, was disassembled and trucked to Marion, Indiana, where it was launched on the Ohio.

Next year, said Thoele, it is planned to truck the raft to the Ohio river at Evansville, Indiana. The LP-gas equipment was furnished by the Blue Flame Gas Corporation of Bluffton, which also trucked the Scouts' vessel from Bluffton to Marion, and from Tiptonville back home.

Huck Finn never had it so good.

U. S. AG EFFICIENCY CONTINUES Today one farm worker in the U. S. provides the food for himself and more than 42 others, a tribute, explains John G. McHaney, Extension economist, to the ever-increasing efficiency of our agricultural industry. With the U. S. population expected to increase 100 million over the next 30 years, McHaney feels America's farmers can meet the challenge. Our efficient agricultural industry has been the foundation of our economy and has helped Americans to have the highest level of living in the world. And, concludes McHaney, National Farm-City Week, Nov. 22-28, is a good time for recognizing the achievements of agriculture and those who are a part of the industry.

Cotton Harvest Slowed By Weather

Cotton harvest in the Greenbelt area was halted for the second time in a week by rain or showers. Harvest was building up a full head of steam after the freeze last Monday according to W. E. Cain, head of the Memphis Cotton Classing Office of the USDA's Consumer Marketing Service. This break in harvest will keep strippers out of fields for several days but will allow us to work on our backlog of unclassified samples, said Mr. Cain.

Quality and characters of cotton is good but it is too early to estimate effects of this rain. Any effect in grades will be minimized if farmers will wait for their cotton, including stalks and bolls, to dry out well before resuming harvest.

Percentage of white cotton classed this week dropped sharply as more strippers began operations. White grades accounted for 35 percent, down from 63 percent last week. Light Spotted grades rose to 60 percent, up from 37 percent last week. Some leading grades were Middling 20 percent, Strict Low Middling 13 percent, and Middling Light Spot 50 percent.

Some staple percentages were 15/16 - 8 percent, 31/32 - 32 percent, one inch - 34 percent, 1 1/32 through 1 1/16 - 20 percent, and 1 3/32 and longer dropped to 6 percent.

Micronaire, or fineness and maturity, readings remain good with 77 percent reading in the desirable range of 3.5 to 4.9. 12 percent miked over 5.0 and only 11 percent miked 3.4 and below.

Pressley results, or breaking strength, as released by the Consumer Marketing Service show 91 percent in the desirable range of 75,000 pounds per square inch and above. The weekly average was $2,000 and the season average is $4,000 pounds per square inch.

Demand for cotton remains light. Some Average prices of cotton last week with mikes readings of 3.5 to 4.9 were Middling 31/32 - 21.59 cents per pound, Middling Light Spot 31/32 - 19.53, Middling Light Spot 31/32 - 20.26, and Straight Low Middling 1 inch - 20.83.

MILK FOR ALL AGES

Every now and then someone sounds off saying that milk is only for babies. It's an easy way to make headlines.

Actually, milk is an important food for all age groups. We all need the nutrients that milk has to offer. And it is smart buying to get this nourishment in the economical form that milk offers. One would not and should not live on milk alone, but if you were a nutritionist you'd know that it is almost impossible to match the economy of milk.

Milk's Nutrients Economical You simply have to pay more per pound for most of milk's nutrients if you get them by way of other foods. And because so little is known about the interrelationships of the nutrients in milk, it is also uncertain whether getting those nutrients exclusively from other foods would be as healthful as getting them from milk. And when it comes to a nutrient like calcium, it is almost impossible to get the amount you need without some milk or milk food in your diet.

This is why I say "baloney" if I hear people sound off against milk.

The Switch From Formula Babies are usually switched, gradually, from formula to whole milk by 10 to 12 months of age, but for some babies it may be earlier. Whether a baby is breast or bottle-fed, supplementary sources of vitamins C and D are started early, generally before the baby leaves the hospital. Citrus juice may be used as a source of vitamin C. Vitamin D milk in the diet of the nursing mother or used in the infant's formula.

Why Adults Need Milk While some people may have the capacity to adapt to lower calcium intakes, even moderate deficiencies in calcium over a period of time may contribute to the occurrence of osteoporosis in later years. Women have a greater risk in this than men. Along with the calcium in milk, adults drinking two glasses of milk per day will get high quality protein and generous amounts of vitamin A and riboflavin as well as smaller but significant amounts of all other nutrients except iron and ascorbic acid. In view of all this, the calorie count of two glasses of milk — 318 calories — is moderate indeed.

Pre-Thanksgiving guests in the home of Mrs. C. G. Nicholson and Mrs. Lona Jones were Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Annie May Stotts and a granddaughter, Miss Kay Ledbetter of California; Mr. and Mrs. Merel Bessie Stevens of Muleshoe, Mr. and Mrs. Gies Nicholson of Ashland, Kansas; Mrs. Mike Nicholson and three children, Shamrock; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Nicholson and Mr. and Mrs. Luther Petty of McLean.

RANGE MANAGEMENT IN SPOTLIGHT The 18th annual meeting of Society of Range Management, will be held Dec. 6-7 at the Commodore Perry Hotel in Austin. B. J. The program will be fast moving and speakers will cover subjects of vital importance in the range management field, Ragsdale said.

BASS BITE CLOSE TO HOME

Backyard fishing, I call it. At the end of a working day when there's a couple of hours of light left in the sky, nothing gives me more pleasure than hustling over to Croton Reservoir in Westchester County, New York. It's near home and it's quiet, and on a given evening its largemouth bass will give you lots of excitement.

Last Monday, a torrential mid-afternoon rain broke a five-day heat spell and I reckoned that bass that had moved to the cooler, deeper waters of the reservoir would be moving back to shallow waters by night fall for better feeding.

Indeed, I knew they had retreated during the heat to deeper waters because two evenings earlier I had rowed out and attracted all sorts of attention but no strikes. I worked with the Ambassador 5000 bait-casting reel with 12-pound test Bonnyl and a one-piece 5 foot, 8 inch Conolon bass rod. First, I cast a Sputter-Puss, a pencil-shaped surface disturber with fore and aft propellers, that gained followers on the retrieve but no takers.

I switched to a black pork rind eel with a black lead head jig for the rest of the evening and worked below the surface. Twice the lure was followed home and I got a couple of short hits, but the bass continued to reject my offerings until it was time for me to call it quits.

Rejecting the offerings of a backyard barbecue after Monday's rain, I arrived at the reservoir early with a sandwich stashed in my jacket pocket. A light breeze flicked out over the large expanse of water, expelling the rain droplets that clung to trees and underbrush rimming the reservoir, causing a peppering of circles on the shallow shore waters where they fell.

I got busy right away with a Mitchell 300 spinning reel and a Conolon 2812 rod—6 foot, 6 inches of medium action with plenty of backbone—excellent for top water play. I was using 8-pound test Bonnyl because fishing bass you want accuracy and in any kind of breeze accuracy requires a small diameter line that's soft and supple.

The bass had been out in deep water for nearly a week and I judged they would be ready for some surface feeding. My choice was a hula popper which conceals a trailer hook in its skirt and is excellent for short strikes in shallow water.

I cast ahead of me in clock-dial fashion—the middle of the reservoir was 12 o'clock and I was walking at 9 o'clock along the water's edge. I would cast from 12 back to 9 and gain maximum coverage with my casts.

I didn't have to wait long or go far. At 11 o'clock I saw a swirl behind the popper as I retrieved. The swirl told me a good four-pounder had just turned away from the lure. At 10 o'clock I retrieved quickly for 10 or 15 feet and let the popper float quietly. About a half minute elapsed then I lowered the rod tip and then flicked it upwards sending the plug skipping suddenly across the surface.

My four-pounder couldn't help himself. He hit in an instant, took the plug and I set the hook. He ran off about 20 yards before I turned him. My line went slack and I knew he was rising slowly in one last effort to throw out the hook. He broke water up to his gill covers, opened his mouth and tried to shake out the hook but I had him good.

I had been at the reservoir a half hour and had caught a four-pounder. I thought about the sandwich in my pocket and thought about the barbecue. I hurried home with my fish.

LOOKIN' BACK

by Vera Featherston Back

Old friends just don't forget! The entire town is excited because of the visitors coming Sunday to give the program at the Alanreed-McLean Historical Society. C. O. Greene, son of McLean's first doctor, will talk to the group. He will be accompanied by his wife Margaret. The Grimes, C. O. and Margaret, were active in McLean in the thirties; he was manager of the local Southwestern Public Service Company and a wheel in the Lions Club and the Chamber of Commerce. She was a faithful member of the Pioneer Study Club and its president in 1937-38. It is going to be fun to have them here.

The early settlers and old-timers remember well the Faulkner family. They will be well represented Sunday, too. Mabel will give the story of the Faulkner Ranch and her father's family. Accompanying her to McLean will be her two sisters, Winnie and Jewel. Jewel will bring along her husband, Ulric Lea, from Knox City. Harry Faulkner and his wife from Amarillo will also be present Sunday. What a reunion we're going to have! Make it a point to be there at the school cafeteria this coming Sunday and greet these good people.

Irene Pagan is visiting in California but she, with her heart of gold, hasn't forgotten her old friends back in McLean. Mrs. Pearl Bogan, at present, is spending her recuperating days in the local hospital and will likely not be able to make it Sunday, but she'll be there in spirit.

A note to Vida Montgomery Lonsdale of Santa Monica, Calif. We're still holding that special showcase that Kenneth and Larue Hambright donated for your father's OB case and its contents. When will they be coming our way?

Eight years ago Gary Joe Graham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Graham, wrote an interesting story on Ed Clifton, calling Ed a "Real Cowboy." That's what Ed is a real cowboy. He began his career when he was 14 by breaking wild horses and kept this up for 40 years or more. He roped from the time he was big enough to throw a rope and was still at it in 1950. When Ed began to work on the Taylor Ranch north of Alanreed, it was run-down and it took this cowboy 10 years to put it in first class condition.

When Ed and Lena first got married they bought a T Model Ford for $160.00. They have the dinner bell in their yard now which Lena used to call the cowboys to dinner, and an old washpot in the front yard that they use for a name plate. They now live at 420 West Third in McLean, and Ed drives a car rather than rides a horse, but when Ed turns that little red car of his around you on the highway, you have the feeling that he's on his way to cut out a calf from the herd for branding.

Sometimes, we'll have to have Ed come to the historical society and tell us of his experiences. They'll be worth hearing! See you Sunday!

Cornette Warns Of Air Pollution

What goes up must come down — and that includes 125 tons of air pollutants now discharged into the air of this country each year.

Dr. James P. Cornette, president of West Texas State University, and chairman of the 1968 Christmas Seals campaign for the Top of Texas Tuberculosis Assoc., admits that it may seem impossible that McLean could have an air pollution problem — out here where the wind supposedly blows free.

"Unfortunately, our air is not free of garbage that is dumped upward into the atmosphere all over the world, in the form of smoke and fumes. And while it is not pleasant to think of New York's London's and Tokyo's air garbage being dumped on the Texas Panhandle, we nevertheless must share the problem."

He stated that many people are prone to lay the major portion of the blame on industry, when actually a substantial share of the pollution comes from automobiles. "Every time we shift the gears and press the accelerator, we add to the problem," he said. Thirty-two meetings have been scheduled throughout the country for a planned attack on the problem, spearheaded by New York, Washington, Chicago and Philadelphia.

Dr. Cornette urged all residents of the Panhandle to contribute to the Christmas Seal campaign, which supports the fight against air pollution, emphysema and tuberculosis.

Choose your market for cleanliness when buying chicken or turkey, say food specialists with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. A good market keeps fresh birds refrigerated and frozen birds frozen at all times.

NUTRITIOUS THIRST QUENCHERS

It's hot and you want something to quench your thirst. Water is wonderful, though there are localities where it leaves much to be desired in terms of taste.

But you're a bit hungry, too. And something with a zingy taste might just quench that dryness in your throat better than water ever could.

What might you fix without too much trouble?

Pink Buttermilk Smoothie

Ever hear of a Pink Buttermilk Smoothie? Well, I hadn't either, until recently. And now I'm sold. It's simple to make and with tall, chilled glasses, here's what you need. Two cups of cold buttermilk, two cups of chilled tomato-vegetable juice, 1 teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce, 1/2 teaspoon of salt, and a dash of hot pepper sauce. Mix everything together. Pour into tall glasses. Garnish with a cucumber disk on the edge of each glass, or pop in a celery stick as a stirrer. Makes six servings, as a cooler, appetizer, or with a salad or sandwich luncheon. That, to me, is a thirst quencher!

Then there are flavored milk drinks. These are made with your favorite fruit. For example, use a one-third cup of canned crushed pineapple, including syrup. Pop it into your blender with a cup of cold milk and beat it until it's smooth and frothy. You can use, instead, canned or frozen peaches, sweetened fresh or frozen strawberries, raspberries, or cherries.

If you're a coffee lover, there's mocha milk. Mix 1 cup of cold milk with 1 teaspoon of sugar, 4 teaspoons of cocoa mix, and 1 teaspoon instant coffee. It makes one serving. There also are milk floats in which you put a scoop of ice cream into almost anything liquid, even soft drinks.

Some Cool Soups

For a more way-out drink—at least I think you can consider it as much a drink as a soup. I certainly do. It's vichyssoise, that lovely cool potato concoction of the French. Then there's jellied consommé with buttered crackers. It may not be exactly liquid, but it sure quenches thirst while giving you substantial nourishment. A version of this that I also like is jellied or liquid marmalade.

There are apparently a world of things we can do to quench thirst if we put our minds to it. Usually when you are thirsty, really thirsty, you simply grab the first thing handy or the first thing that comes to mind. Thus, the secret to having something really special for yourself, or especially for guests, would be to give some thought in advance to things they'd like—and then have the ingredients on hand, or have it prepared. You'll be deeply appreciated for your forethought.

SNOW, AN EARLY INTIMIDATOR

You look at that Wyoming sky with its leaden clouds in early fall and hope like the dickens you're not odd man out with your slender fly rod in the swift waters of the Snake River above Jackson. Snow comes early and fast and it's a gamble to get in and out with a creel of cutthroat trout.

The river is at its lowest this time of year and the air is chill and the wool shirt and the heavy wool socks in the waders are warm and comforting. I waded out knee-deep—downstream good holding waters.

My Abu Delta 3 reel was packed with GBG floating line and rigged to a whippy 7-foot, 10-inch Garcia Conolon 2536 rod. I lost little time tying a gray nymph to a 9-foot leader and casting into the holding waters below the boulders.

I watched intently as leader and nymph sunk away from my raked out floater and began a slow hand-twisting retrieve. Working with nymphs takes a sixth sense and only after hours of practice do you begin to distinguish a strike from a rock or stick snag.

The cutthroat—distinguished by the red markings along and below its lower jaw—inhabits the Snake River in large numbers and is a good under-water battler, though he seldom jumps when hooked. The joy was hooking into one with size and being sure it was a strike and not a snag. It was almost as uncertain as watching the clouds and wondering if they held snow.

In the first hour I hooked into a beauty—a four-pounder that ran out strongly taking all the slack from my fingers. He tied on Delta 3's pre-set drag and my occasional finger-braking, and he came flapping angrily in the shoal water where I waded.

Four cutthroat were in the creel when the warmth began to leave the heavy wool socks in the waders and the cold numbness began entering my fingers. It was a good three hours in the chilling waters of the river. But now the gray clouds were oppressively low and the high Teton in the distance were whitening and the countryside was telling me to leave under rapidly departing safe conduct.

NEWS OF CONSERVATION

By Stephen Qualls, SCS Pampa

Many persons are led to believe that only summer deferments are beneficial to rangeland. This is far from correct. There are several benefits obtained from a winter deferment of native rangeland.

First, the growing bud of the grass is located at the base of the leaves. The leaves serve as a protection or insulator to these buds during the cold winter months. Heavy winter grazing removes all of the leaves and exposes the bud to the elements. These buds can very easily be killed by a hard winter blast if they are unprotected.

Second, if a pasture is winter deferred, the dead grass left on the ground serves as a mulch to absorb early spring moisture. This moisture is held up and absorbed into the ground. If the pasture is heavily grazed during the winter this mulch is not present to absorb the early spring rains, therefore the moisture runs off the land and down the creek forever lost to the rancher.

A third benefit obtained by a winter deferment is the increased vigor of the cool season grasses. There are several cool season grasses which are well adapted to this country. These grasses include Texas bluegrass, Canada wildrye and western wheatgrass. These grasses, which have as high as 18 percent protein, are very seldom found in great abundance in this area due to their high palatability. They are quickly grazed down with winter grazing.

These are three major benefits obtained by winter deferments. Can you afford to miss these benefits year after year?

PLAN YOUR ATTACK

Fishing, like football, requires a bit of strategy. And a good job of "double-teaming" will work just as well on bass as it does on a bruising fullback.

Since many fishing hours are consumed in finding the right combination of lure and fishing depth on a particular day, say the fishing experts at Mercury outboards, the use of and teamwork is highly recommended.

Before casting off from the dock, spend a few minutes in a skull-session with your partner. Discuss the "playing field"—its bays, rocky points, weed beds, dropoffs, etc. How is the weather likely to affect the fish? And what are the scouting reports of yesterday's anglers?

As the plan of attack is mapped out, each man is given a specific assignment. In a boat, it's usually a case of "you hit 'em high and I'll hit 'em low."

If the waters are strange and you're in the fish-finding stage, you'll probably elect to troll. With two men, both the shallow and middle, or middle and lower depths can be "tested" simultaneously. The inshore angler works the shallower level, while the offshore rod probes deeper—an efficient, hour-saving arrangement.

When fish are known to be in a certain spot, different combinations of lures should be tried: floaters and sinkers, spoons and plugs—even various colors of the same lure.

"Ganging up" in this manner may often cut experimenting and prospecting almost in half, note the Mercury lads. The only rule is that two different approaches should be used at the same time.

Instead of copying your partner's choice of lure, snap on what might be his next selection.

TAX SAM SEZ:

TOPIC: Tax Fraud

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, in his Annual Report Summary for the Fiscal Year of 1967, states "The mission of the Service is to encourage and achieve the highest possible degree of voluntary compliance with the tax laws and regulations and to maintain the highest degree of public confidence in the integrity and efficiency of the Service. This includes communicating the requirements of the law to the public, determining the extent of compliance and causes of non-compliance and doing all things needful to a proper enforcement of the law."

On the last page of the Commissioner's Report Summary, under the title "Investigation of Alleged Tax Fraud," there is listed "Plea of Guilty or nolo contendere or conviction after trial . . . 1,173." Apparently, out of 100 million, there were still 1,000 who didn't volunteer.

TB Emphysema Drive Opens

Residents of the Panhandle have received Christmas Seals for use on Christmas mail as the Top of Texas Tuberculosis Assoc. began its 1968 fund raising campaign.

Money from the campaign, said Chairman Dr. James P. Cornette, will provide programs in TB case finding and health education throughout the 26 counties in the Panhandle area.

"Too many people think TB is whipped," the president of West Texas State University declared. "As a matter of fact, there is a large and unrecognized TB problem in Texas. We had 3,209 new cases reported in 1967, plus 499 relapses."

Dr. Cornette stated that the health education program also would stress to both youngsters and adults the dangers of cigarette smoking. He said Texas had over a thousand deaths in 1967 from Emphysema, sometimes known as "The Smoker's Disease."

Mr. Don Harrington of Amarillo opened the drive with his initial purchase of the seals. Goal for the campaign is forty three thousand dollars.

"The money is desperately needed," Dr. Cornette said. "We hope residents of the Panhandle will contribute to eliminate Tuberculosis and Emphysema from the Panhandle."

Contributions should be sent to the Top of Texas TB Assoc., which has headquarters at 514 E. 9th St. in Amarillo.

County Reports 22 Accidents In Oct.

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 22 accidents on rural highways in Gray County during the month of October, according to Sergeant J. L. Dalrymple, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These crashes resulted in ten persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $6,945.00.

The rural traffic accident summary for this county during the first ten months of 1968 shows a total of 175 accidents resulting in three persons killed, 88 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $230,032.00.

November and December are noted to be dangerous months in traffic and especially for pedestrians. Much is heard about the drinking driver and his responsibility for many serious accidents. Seldom is it known that many pedestrians have met their death on the streets and highways because they had been drinking to the extent that they were unaware of the danger they faced as they staggered along the road.

The sergeant stated the familiar saying, "If you drink, don't drive, might be changed to apply to the drinking pedestrian, "If you drink, don't walk - in traffic!"
