The long-awaited arrival in Lockney of Gary B. Mangold, M.D. has occured.

Dr. Mangold will begin his association with Lockney General Hospital Monday morning.

He will be available as a physican and surgeon from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. Hours on Wednesdays and Saturdays will be 9 a.m. to noon.

A graduate of Lockney High School and of Texas Tech University, Dr. Mangold completed medical school at the Lubbock university.

He has just completed a three-year family practice residency with John Peter Smith Hospital in Fort Worth. As a part of that program, he spent six weeks last summer working at Lockney General Hospital.

In just a few days, Dr. Mangold will be taking examinations toward certification with the American Board of Family Practice.

Family practice is the only speciality requiring re-certification every seven years by that board. Gary's father, Dr. W.J. Mangold who is also associated with the Lockney hospital, received his second certification in 1977.

Dr. Mangold and his wife, the former Brenda Dudley, and their only child, Allison, 4-months-old, will be living at 720 West Willow.

Brenda is also a Lockney High School and Texas Tech graduate. She taught elementary schools in Lubbock and Crowley for six years before the arrival of Allison Feb. 16.

The new doctor is the son of Bill and Martha Mangold, who are more than pleased to have their only grandchild move to Lockney.

Rain Drops (Mixed With Hail) Keep Falling

Welcome to Lockney, home of a least 100 lakes, and where the last drought lasted only 15 days:

Maybe it's not quite as bad as 1941 when over 40 inches of rain fell that year, but many farmers in this area have already seen 20 inches this spring.

And where those torrents of water washing across fields couldn't kill the crops.....hail did the job!

Saturday afternoon's stormy blast sneaked in from the north, wiping out crops from about Evans Gin at Lone Star south for five or six miles. The hail path was about four miles wide.

First came dirt pushed by winds of at least 50-60 miles per hour. And some peopie feel that twisting, tornadic winds were present where damage occured. Sterley Gin lost the burr house, a near-by garage was unroofed and thrown against a house, and the Sterley elevator facilities of Lockney Cooperatives were damaged.

At Joe Foster's home three miles west and a mile and a half north of Sterley, twisting winds raised up the carport, then set it down 8-10 feet west of its former location, flattening their car. Trees in the yard had leaves stripped from sections. Further south, F.G. Jones Jr. had heavy damage to his sprinkler system.

Mrs. Hubert (Agnes) Frizzell reports that four inches of rain were in their rain gauge, but they believe the high winds kept the gauge from catching all the rain. "Water was as deep as I can remember ever seeing it," Agnes says.

As much as three inches of rainfall was received six miles south of Lockney Saturday evening.

And then another rain came about 3 a.m. Monday. Lockney recorded about 5 inches total for both rains. High winds in Lockney Saturday damaged roofs, trees, fences and antennas.

Some interesting farmer's comments heard this week: "Seems like I plant every Monday morning." "Our cotton looked so bad (from all the previous moisture) that the hail just did a mercy killing." "If I have any plants live (after water and hail damage), I want to keep the seed 'cause they'd be strong plants." "Here it is the first of July, we're not finished planting and we haven't even cultivated cotton." (You can tell he still has cotton to cultivate.)

Lots of long faces around for those farms hit Saturday evening were truly wiped out of all crops, yet the farmers' sense of humor still lightens the converstions around the elevators, gins and coffee shops.

As soon as the fields are dry enough, re-planting will start. Few will gamble that the growing season will be long enough to mature cotton, so most will plant soybeans, sunflowers and maybe black-eyed peas.

Some farmers are now on their third planting — makes one think of a comment from an experienced farmer living in another community: "Some people here run their planters without seed the first time around...they know you always lose the first planting."

Maybe you can fool "Mother Nature"?

THE JOE FOSTERS returned home from Ruidoso, NM, to find their car port squashing their car. The damage occured Saturday evening during the big storm. Birda Foster guesses that a twisting-type wind picked up the carport, flinging it into the tree and dropping it onto the car. The edge of the concrete seen in the foreground is where the support posts of the carport once stood. The car now has no top — everything's level at car door height.

Lockney Teacher Married In Plainview Ceremony

Standing in the altar area of First United Methodist Church of Plainview, Miss Vickie Lin Cox and Mr. Michael Kent Glenn repeated wedding promises Saturday.

The 8 p.m. candlelighted service, read by Cecil Golden of Plainview, united in marriage the children of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cox of Route 2 Lockney, and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Glenn of Route 3, Plainview.

The altar area was enhanced by twin apricot gladioli bouquets and a pair of brass spiral candelabra entwined with fresh flowers and holding ivory tapers. Centering the altar was a memory candle arranged with flowers. On each side of the altar was a seven-branch candelabra holding ivory tapers. Apricot carnations and daisies trailed from the candelabras. Candles were lighted by the bride's niece, Melissa Cox of Plainview, and the groom's cousin, Guy Blankemeyer of Dallas.

Wedding guests entering the church were registered by Mrs. Jimmy Glenn. Miss Marci Mitchell handed out service programs. Ushering guests to seats were the bride's brother-in-law, Jon Bass, Jerry Matlock of Silverton, Trent Street of Kress and Tim Young of Duncan, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Ferman McBeth of Kress was organist for the pre-ceremony music and the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied soloists Danny Ellis of Plainview and Miss Melissa Mote of San Marcos.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were her attendants, matron of honor Mrs. Jon Bass of Plainview, the bride's sister; bridesmatrons Mrs. Galon Cox and Mrs. Jerry Cox, both of Plainview and both sisters-in-law of the bride; Mrs. George Rasor of Gruver and Mrs. Jerry Matlock of Silverton, and flower girls Denise and Misty Cox, both of Plainview and both nieces of the bride. Rob Bass, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

Meeting them in the altar area were best man Danny Glenn of Kress and groomsmen David Glenn of Kress, Marty Davis of Lubbock, Jimmy Glenn of Plainview and Barry Street of Kress. Danny and Davis are brothers of the groom and Jimmy is their cousin.

The bridal attendants wore long gowns of apricot silesta chiffon. The blouson bodice featured a scoop neckline and split sleeves. The accordian-pleated skirt was A-line. They carried baskets of apricot, ivory and ginger silk flowers tied with satin streamers of the same colors. The flowergirls carried baskets matching those of the attendants, and in their hair were garlands of the same silk flowers.

Given by Father

Mr. Douglas Cox escorted his daughter down the aisle, and presented her for marriage. Her formal gown was of ivory organza over peau de soie. The bodice featured a V neckline of alencon lace, cap sleeves and empire waist. The bodice and sleeves were embellished with seed pearls. The skirt, adorned by a deep flounce of crystal pleating and alencon lace, cascaded to chapel length.

Her veil of bridal illusion fell from a lace covered camelot headpiece to fingertip length. Scallops of alencon lace outlined the veiling.

The bridal bouquet was a candle-light cascade of ivory gardenias, Sonia and ivory roses touched with gypsophilia. It was carried on a lace-covered Bible used by the bride's mother in her wedding. Tied in the bouquet was the bride's maternal grandmother's (Mrs. C.S. Stanton) wedding band.

The bride wore a diamond broach borrowed from her mother, and handed down from her grandmother. She also wore a drop necklace of ruby and opals that had belonged to the groom's grandmother, the late Mrs. Geneva Bridgeman.

Reception

The reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table was centered with a memory candle surrounded by apricot glads, ivory daisies and carnations. Swags of apricot daisies and satin ribbon outlined the table.

The groom's table was decorated with an arrangement of fruit.

Reception assistants were Tye Blankemeyer, Mmes. Billy Joe Young, Billy Street, John Armes, Harold Blankenmeyer, Elmer Lee Criswell, Tull Thompson, Buddy Brown, Misses Jan Street, Sandra Young and Pam Young.

The newlyweds' wedding trip was to Las Vegas, Nevada. Upon their return they will live in Lockney where the groom is a vocational agriculture teacher at Lockney High School.

MRS. MIKE GLENN

The bride was graduated in 1976 from Plainview High School, and in 1978 from Jessie Lee's Hair Design School in Lubbock. She is employed at Dovie's Hair-Em in Plainview.

The groom is a 1974 graduate of Kress High School and a 1978 graduate of Texas Tech University.

The rehearsal party was given in the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Glenn.

Special guests at the wedding were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C.S. Stanton of Plainview, and the groom's grandfather, Curt Glenn of Plainview.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dickey of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blankemeyer, Tye and Guy of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. John Armes of Gruver.

Lockney Teacher Married In Plainview Ceremony

Standing in the altar area of First United Methodist Church of Plainview, Miss Vickie Lin Cox and Mr. Michael Kent Glenn repeated wedding promises Saturday.

The 8 p.m. candlelighted service, read by Cecil Golden of Plainview, united in marriage the children of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Cox of Route 2 Lockney, and Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Glenn of Route 3, Plainview.

The altar area was enhanced by twin apricot gladioli bouquets and a pair of brass spiral candelabra entwined with fresh flowers and holding ivory tapers. Centering the altar was a memory candle arranged with flowers. On each side of the altar was a seven-branch candelabra holding ivory tapers. Apricot carnations and daisies trailed from the candelabras. Candles were lighted by the bride's niece, Melissa Cox of Plainview, and the groom's cousin, Guy Blankemeyer of Dallas.

Wedding guests entering the church were registered by Mrs. Jimmy Glenn. Miss Marci Mitchell handed out service programs. Ushering guests to seats were the bride's brother-in-law, Jon Bass, Jerry Matlock of Silverton, Trent Street of Kress and Tim Young of Duncan, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Ferman McBeth of Kress was organist for the pre-ceremony music and the traditional wedding marches. She also accompanied soloists Danny Ellis of Plainview and Miss Melissa Mote of San Marcos.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were her attendants, matron of honor Mrs. Jon Bass of Plainview, the bride's sister; bridesmatrons Mrs. Galon Cox and Mrs. Jerry Cox, both of Plainview and both sisters-in-law of the bride; Mrs. George Rasor of Gruver and Mrs. Jerry Matlock of Silverton, and flower girls Denise and Misty Cox, both of Plainview and both nieces of the bride. Rob Bass, the bride's nephew, was ring bearer.

Meeting them in the altar area were best man Danny Glenn of Kress and groomsmen David Glenn of Kress, Marty Davis of Lubbock, Jimmy Glenn of Plainview and Barry Street of Kress. Danny and Davis are brothers of the groom and Jimmy is their cousin.

The bridal attendants wore long gowns of apricot silesta chiffon. The blouson bodice featured a scoop neckline and split sleeves. The accordian-pleated skirt was A-line. They carried baskets of apricot, ivory and ginger silk flowers tied with satin streamers of the same colors. The flowergirls carried baskets matching those of the attendants, and in their hair were garlands of the same silk flowers.

Given by Father

Mr. Douglas Cox escorted his daughter down the aisle, and presented her for marriage. Her formal gown was of ivory organza over peau de soie. The bodice featured a V neckline of alencon lace, cap sleeves and empire waist. The bodice and sleeves were embellished with seed pearls. The skirt, adorned by a deep flounce of crystal pleating and alencon lace, cascaded to chapel length.

Her veil of bridal illusion fell from a lace covered camelot headpiece to fingertip length. Scallops of alencon lace outlined the veiling.

The bridal bouquet was a candle-light cascade of ivory gardenias, Sonia and ivory roses touched with gypsophilia. It was carried on a lace-covered Bible used by the bride's mother in her wedding. Tied in the bouquet was the bride's maternal grandmother's (Mrs. C.S. Stanton) wedding band.

The bride wore a diamond broach borrowed from her mother, and handed down from her grandmother. She also wore a drop necklace of ruby and opals that had belonged to the groom's grandmother, the late Mrs. Geneva Bridgeman.

Reception

The reception was held in the church parlor. The bride's table was centered with a memory candle surrounded by apricot glads, ivory daisies and carnations. Swags of apricot daisies and satin ribbon outlined the table.

The groom's table was decorated with an arrangement of fruit.

Reception assistants were Tye Blankemeyer, Mmes. Billy Joe Young, Billy Street, John Armes, Harold Blankenmeyer, Elmer Lee Criswell, Tull Thompson, Buddy Brown, Misses Jan Street, Sandra Young and Pam Young.

The newlyweds' wedding trip was to Las Vegas, Nevada. Upon their return they will live in Lockney where the groom is a vocational agriculture teacher at Lockney High School.

The bride was graduated in 1976 from Plainview High School, and in 1978 from Jessie Lee's Hair Design School in Lubbock. She is employed at Dovie's Hair-Em in Plainview.

The groom is a 1974 graduate of Kress High School and a 1978 graduate of Texas Tech University.

The rehearsal party was given in the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Glenn.

Special guests at the wedding were the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C.S. Stanton of Plainview, and the groom's grandfather, Curt Glenn of Plainview.

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dickey of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blankemeyer, Tye and Guy of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. John Armes of Gruver.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Graham, Texas
June 18, 1979

Dear Sir:

Enclosed is a check for the paper renewal.

The letters are getting better every week about the water pistols.

Wish I could be there during one of the raids made on the future rulers of the county.

Truthfully it has gotten quiet sickening.

I will say stay in there Felicia Applewhite. You furnish worth while reading material.

Nuclear Power Plants: A Threat To Our Freedom?

Commerce, Texas—During a recent security exercise at an American nuclear power plant, officials with placards suddenly turned up in the control room amid much surprise and some embarrassment.

The cards, held high, said: "Bang! If this was a gun, I'd be in charge of this place."

And, during another similar exercise in the southwestern United States, Army troops with real weapons staged a series of mock attacks with results again embarrassing to nuclear plant officials

According to Dr. Doug Gale, ETSU physics faculty and nuclear consultant, the results of these tests were predictable. What bothers him the most, however, are the implications that our burgeoning technology—particularly in the nuclear field—may pose threats to our own free society.

"Security at a nuclear plant is actually two-fold," he explained. "It is indeed tight for certain types of white-collar crime, such as stealing industrial secrets. Military security, or the actual physical protection of the facility, is not.

"The inherent problem with military security is that the better you make it, the more you must use dictatorship-style tactics: keeping dossiers on individual citizens with technological knowledge, placing the plants on military bases under heavy guard and so on. The communist countries, as an example, don't have any security problems for this reason."

Although placing all nuclear plants on military installations would solve one aspect of the security problem, other disadvantages crop up, Gale said.

"The plants would be awfully easy to knock out in the event of an attack, thus leaving the nation with much of its generating capacity gone forever," he explained. "Also, you would have to tie up a very large number of troops for guard duty."

Strangely, Gale voiced an anti-technology note when asked his own preferences about power generation, expecially in light of his nuclear physics and microcomputer background.

"I'd rather go without electricity than be faced with the prospect of nuclear plants guarded under a dictatorship-like scenario," he said. "If everything is concentrated, all it takes is one lunatic to cripple an entire region. This is true even for conventional plants—if 'Big Alex' in New York, for example, goes down, there goes much of New York City and much of upstate New York.

"My concept of reliable electricity production revolves around many, many localized plants under local control. Then, if one goes down, there is no threat of large-scale catastrophe. I envision these small plants to use appropriate technology, such as wind and geothermal, where possible."

In the midst of red-hot debate over the dangers and benefits of nuclear power, Gale emphasizes that the American people and their government have not yet come to grips with the real problem facing the nation:over-population.

"Our expanding population is crowding us into short-term technological fixes. The United States is like 220 million dope addicts on an energy binge," he warned. "We're overloading the system, deficit spending on energy and other resources. At the same time, scientists are expected to keep providing these quick energy 'fixes.' Personally, I think we have about another 70 years before the roof comes crashing down on us."

Concerning the controversy over nuclear energy, Gale said both sides are firing shots in the dark.

"The anti-nuclear people have a good function in that they keep us from being too hasty about nuclear plants, but at the same time, they tend to distort and emotionalize the issue," he said. "On the other hand, the nuclear people tend to underestimate the problems of nuclear energy. In contrast, my version of Parkinson's Law regarding technological devices is this — first, it'll take twice as long to build as originally planned; second, it'll cost twice as much as planned; and third, it won't work the first time anyway. There are few exceptions to this rule."

Farabee Blasts DOE

Austin...State Senator Ray Farabee blasted Washington for its lack of any National Energy Program saying "State government does not set energy policy, but somehow the Department of Energy (DOE) expects state and local governments to enforce their piecemeal plans."

"Until we have a coherent National Energy Plan, we will be living from one crisis to the next. It is unfair to expect state or local governments to carry out something which the federal government can neither explain, understand nor administer", Farabee stated to the Lions Club in Wichita Falls this week.

Although there are no simple answers to the energy problem according to Farabee, he outlined four points which he stated we must address: (1) a clear-cut National Energy Policy; (2) greater individual conservation; (3) development of energy alternatives such as gasohol, solar energy, coal and lignite power; and (4) priorities for agricultural production, emergency health care and commercial transportation.

Gas Shortage A Farce?

Is there really a gas shortage? Or is there really just a plot to keep vacationing Americans at home this summer and thus help to curb inflation? If this is the case, we don't think it will work.

Americans will find a way to go on their annual vacation trips if they have to crawl to the resort spots on hands and knees. Travel has been important to Americans for our entire 200 years, and we can put our trust in American ingenuity to find a way to make it all possible.

The United States became a great nation because our ancestors believed in growth and progress...scientific, industrial, technological, etc. If the government can keep hands off and not put the lid on this natural growth and progress, American ingenuity will find a way to overcome the problems of energy shortage, if, in truth, it actually exists.

Within our borders, the United States has the following reserves of energy resources based on present rates of consumption: enough crude oil to last for 84 years, enough natural gas to last 400 years, enough coal to last for 600 years, enough oil shale to last 300 years, enough uranium to last 120 years and enough geothermal energy to last for 200 years.

There are enough underground deposits of methane to supply the U. S. with gas for 500 to 1,000 years. According to geologist Paul Jones of Louisiana State University, it is necessary to separate the methane from the liquid in order for it to be used as natural gas. Jones says "we have the technology available to do this."

Our greatest natural resource, human ingenuity, will never be "depleted." We predict that Americans will not stand by and accept the notion that we must content ourselves with a lower standard of living simply because the residents of certain Middle Eastern countries are unable to get along with each other.

Less than half (40 per cent to be exact) of our country's oil was shipped to the U.S. before the Mid-East Crisis arose. There should be no need for our country to depend on foreign sources for this amount of oil if our energy production at home is quickly beefed up. This, in itself, should help to ease the burdens of inflation by creating more jobs.

Once again, the solution to the problem is simply to let nature take its course in the natural cycle of things, preferably without governmental intervention.

If private industry can cut down somewhat on the cost of producing gasohol, (or if the price of gas continues to increase), then this may be one of our ultimate solutions to our fuel supply.

And, as we have stated before, this would "kill two birds with one stone" as far as our immediate area is concerned, since extra agricultural products would be needed to furnish material for making this proposed new fuel.

The Texas Legislature is making moves to secure federal money to assist in constructing gasohol plants in our state. It is to be hoped that such plants will develop in our state and area at an early stage, so as to benefit the farmers of our area more quickly.

Noblett Is New On Aiken Baptist Staff

Aiken Baptist Church has recently called a new minister of youth and music to work with their new pastor James Kaler.

Dennis Noblett

Dennis Noblett, 21, of Plainview, has already begun his duties leading music and working with the Aiken youth from junior high through college age.

Lockney Locals

Christie Jack and Melody Wiley accompanied Melody's dad Richard Wiley to Waco Thursday and Friday on a trip to pick up tires.

Lezlee Wofford had an emergency appendectomy Thursday afternoon in Central Plains Regional Hospital in Plainview.

Earl Norman of Hereford spent Thursday visiting his daughter, Sterling and Gleynn Earle Cummings. He rode here with his daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Hall of Hereford, who went on to Floydada to attend the funeral service for Mrs. Gundla Tyler. Also attending the funeral with the Halls were Mr. and Mrs. G.K. Hall of Hereford.

Mrs. Bonnie Moore has been in Centralia, Missouri, because of the death of her brother, John Mobley.

Team Has High Scores In Wins

Good batting, including triples and homeruns, has bought the Lockney 13 and 14-year-old baseball team three wins since June 16.

Earl Hill and Glenn Bailey's team took wins from Abernathy (18-0), Roosevelt II (22-5), and Roosevelt I (29-5).

Robert Rendon pitched a one-hit ballgame against Abernathy. Joey Davis was winning pitcher Tuesday week when the locals beat the Roosevelt II team. Infield homeruns were hit by Arellano, Brock and Davis, with Arellano getting two of them.

Going into a game Tuesday night, the team was tied for first place in the area teenage league.

Lockney was host, but home field advantage didn't help as Idalou won 12-5. Davis and Rendon both pitched.

Lockney goes to New Deal Friday night for a game. A win there could help the team get into the playoffs, depending on results of other games.

Former Lockney Residents Honored By WTSU

WTSU — West Texas State University recently honored Floyd and B. Tomlinson of Canyon with a reception in recognition of their contributions to the University and community.

One of their contributions is the Floyd and B. Tomlinson Scholarship which is awarded annually to an outstanding agriculture student.

The scholarship was established in 1978 by the Tomlinson's family, Richmond and Mary Jo Hales and Bob and Nancy Law, both of Canyon, and Dr. Kenneth and Norma Jean Williams of Abilene.

The retired pioneer couple farmed in the Panhandle area for close to 60 years. In 1944, Floyd and B. moved to Canyon where they took an active interest in the agricultural programs offered at WTSU.

Floyd was born in Scurry County, near Snyder, in 1902. Following graduation from Cisco High School, Floyd came to the Plains in the early 1920's. He worked for pioneering farmer Taylor Golden near Lockney. On Aug. 18, 1926, he married Ora B. Golden, whom he met while working for her father.

After going into partnership with an uncle, he and B. moved to a farm south of Plainview where they worked continued to purchase land and lease land on which to graze their 250 head of cattle.

In January of 1928, Floyd and B.'s brother Joe Golden moved to Deaf Smith County to break out three sections of grassland. After the birth of their first daughter, Mary Jo, B. joined them on the farm. The Tomlinsons prospered, especially with the addition of daughters Norma Jean and Nancy Kay, and they purchased land in Castro County and in 1944, a house in Canyon.

Mary Jo married Richmond Hales in 1950. They live south of Canyon where they raise registered Angus cattle and farm. They have three children, Rickie, Rhonda and Rod.

Norma Jean is married to Dr. Kenneth Williams who teaches biology at Abilene Christian University. Their children are Cherri and Mark.

Nancy is married to Bob Law, a Canyon farmer-stockman, and they have five children: Chris, Kim, Lanny, Leslie and Rob.

Farabee filed a protest with DOE in Washington last week opposing their latest so-called "conservation plan" because the proposed regulations reflect ignorance of the problems in the 30th Senatorial District.

Farabee stated his office has received a number of requests for assistance in connection with energy needs related to the wheat harvest, disaster needs and health care. "We have received excellent cooperation from the Governor's Office of Energy Resources, and I am pleased that although they are limited in their authority, they have been able to provide assistance in most instances."

Whatever the source of fuel to generate electricity, the cost keeps going up. Oil and gas are higher in price. Coal is costlier to mine and transport. Nuclear generators are among the costliest to build and hydro requires falling water.
But the electric cooperative for 40 years has delivered power at its lowest possible cost. So regardless of the price of wholesale power, the fuel adjustment charge, or inflation, your member-owned electric system is dedicated to that 40 year tradition. You can depend on it.

The 1979-80 State Service Project was announced and once again the members voted for the Children's Dialysis Unit.

Prizes were awarded for the best scrapbook costing over $100, 1st place going to a chapter from Richardson. The best scrapbook costing under $100-1st place went to a chapter from Herst, Texas.

The 1980 convention site is to be Amarillo on June 20, 21, 22. Bids were made for the 1981 convention site by Houston and McAllen. After the vote was taken it was apparent that McAllen's enthusiasm was contagious. The excitement their husbands had showed us that McAllen was, indeed the place husbands could attend and have a very good time. Beta Sigma 'Phi's "Golden Anniversary" will be observed in 1981.

We are so proud to belong to an organization that serves its community and one that can get their husbands involved. We have come away from this convention with an excitement about the coming year as a chapter of Beta Sigma Phi.

ATTEND 4-H TEEN LEADER LAB — Young leaders from Floyd County 4-H clubs participated in the District 2 4-H Teen Leader Lab. The three-day summer workshop was held last week at South Plains College in Levelland. Attending from Floyd County were, from left, Shele Morris, Jill Whitfill, and Darlene Brosch.

NEWS 'N' NOTES

(by Sharon Hillis)

Three young leaders from Floyd County were among the nearly 200 4-H members who participated in a three-day district teen leadership lab here Tuesday-Thursday (June 19-21).

The annual workshop for selected 4-H members was held on the campus of South Plains College, Sharon Hillis, Floyd County Extension agent, said.

Adult leaders, Extension specialists and a team of older youths conducted the learning experiences for the 4-H'ers attending the lab. Participants took part in a variety of activities, from group learning and discussion sessions to game tournaments and special morning and evening ceremonies.

Training focused on teaching teen leaders to help others learn new recreational activities. Time for fun and relaxation provided the participants with the opportunity to make new friends.

The annual leader lab helps 4-H youths develop skills in working with younger club members, broaden their friendships and strengthen their leadership abilities.
