MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

Politics is a fascinating game. Office holding isn't. It is fascinating for the man who makes it a study and plays it as a side issue for recreation purposes. New York is the largest of the world cities. War made it the financial center of the universe. It is a polyglot community. Theodore Roosevelt once said that it was more than a melting pot—that it was an international boarding house. Regardless of what Roosevelt said, it is the metropolis of the world. A year ago its voters gave Warren G. Harding almost 400,000 plurality. It was a republican landslide. A year later John F. Hylan, democrat, running for re-election for mayor, won by a majority of more than 400,000 and sent to defeat Major Henry W. Curran, a former service man, a leading republican and supported by all voters opposed to the democracy and particularly that wing of democracy known as Tammany Hall. Nothing like it has ever happened before. It may never happen again in the history of Gotham politics. United States Senator William M. Calder directed the Curran campaign. He had a sub-director, Henry W. Taft, brother of the chief justice of the supreme court of the United States. There was Curran money galore and at all times the Curran campaign chest was full to overflowing. Mayor Hylan was born on a farm way up-state. He was educated in the public schools. He became a railway fireman and later a locomotive engineer. He made Brooklyn his home. He studied law in leisure hours. He abandoned the locomotive and hung out his shingle. His people elected him judge of one of the Brooklyn courts. He became well known in politics. Four years ago he defeated John Purroy Mitchell, the best mayor New York ever had. Mitchell lost his life when his air machine came down with a crash over in Louisiana. After his defeat he entered the aerial service and hoped to win honors in defense of his country in France or Flanders. Hylan has served four years. He had against him in his last fight the New York Herald, the World, the Times, the Tribune, the Sun, the Globe and he had for him the William Randolph Hearst newspapers. He had William Travers Jerome, Samuel Untermyer and many erstwhile noted democratic barristers ever on his trail. Hylan triumphed over a republican democrat coalition ticket; he triumphed over a chain of formidable daily newspapers; he whipped to a finish United States Senator William M. Calder, representative of the national administration and chief distributor of federal patronage in the city and state of New York. He has served four years; he has been elected for another term of four years. He carried to success with him all the candidates for minor offices in the boroughs of Greater New York. Miss Anna Matthews, running on the Hylan ticket for the office of city registrar, was elected by a vote of more than two to one. Upstate, the New York democrats made surprising gains. They won all the offices in important cities that the republicans had controlled for years. They took Albany away from Boss William M. Barnes, the publisher and politician whom Theodore Roosevelt despised. They may have elected a judge of the state court of appeals, Townsend Scudder, nominated by the democrats to take the race against the William S. Andrews, running for re-election and the judge who declared the soldier bonus law unconstitutional. There was joy at the wigwam in Fourteenth street Tuesday night. Charles F. Murphy's power had not been broken. Tammany had triumphed as Tammany had never triumphed before and the doorposts of the wigwam were red with the blood of slain republican politicians and their democratic allies. Tammany was organized 125 years ago and the Tiger has been buried many times. Texas sent forty Immortals to the Baltimore convention in 1912 and Former Governor Thomas M. Campbell returned home proclaiming to his people that he had the skin of the dead Tammany tiger in his trunk. Where is the tiger? Feeding on huge piles of raw meat and fat official tidbits. Of course it was not a straight democratic victory or a Hylan victory. Former Governor Al Smith, the idol of the East Side, made the fight for Tammany. He carried New York city by three or four hundred thousand majority at the same time that a republican candidate for the presidency carried it by more than three hundred thousand. In the last analysis the republicans of the state and city of New York were given an awful trimming. Every fellow with a grievance damns the party in power, nationally speaking. They damned Wilson in the last year of his administration. They are damning Harding in the first year of his administration. It is the way of the world, the way of human nature, the mood that a man is in. Republicans swept Kentucky last year; democrats swept it this year and the republican governor elected last year will be compelled to do business with a democratic legislature elected this year. Kentucky has returned to its democratic love. Louisville remains republican, but Louisville is the home of Henry Watterson and the star-eyed goddess of reform and unadulterated democracy. Not long ago Marse Henry said that the two great parties were as much alike as two peas in a pod and that prohibition and equal suffrage had played hell with the fundamentals and the ideals of democracy. Maryland democrats swept the political platter clean, recaptured the city of Baltimore, elected a democratic state comptroller and a legislature democratic in both its branches. Old Virginia rolled up her usual democratic majority, notwithstanding the republican nominee for governor was a man of distinguished ability and

OWSLEY TO BE IN 1922 RACE FOR GOVERNOR

Tells Friends Here That It Is His Present Intention to Oppose Neff in 1922 Democratic Primary.

Has Received Many Promises of Support From Friends in Various Parts of State Who Urge Campaign.

Alvin M. Owsley of Denton will be a candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination against Pat M. Neff in the primary of July, 1922, he told friends here Wednesday morning. His mission to Wichita Falls was a non-political one, but friends here did not long permit politics to be entirely kept out. Asked the direct question with regard to his candidacy, he said:

"It is my present intention to be a candidate."

During his present trip, which has included so far El Paso, Amarillo and Wichita Falls, he says that his friends have brought the gubernatorial question to the front, and he has been promised support not only among the younger men, but among older men, including a number who are influential and prominent throughout the state. Similar promises have been received from other parts of the state from friends urging his candidacy, he said.

A formal announcement and a statement of the principals of his platform are not to be expected before the first of the year. He has a few more speaking engagements in Texas, and plans a visit to his relatives in Denton before returning to Indianapolis, national headquarters of the American Legion, for work in connection with the Americanization department of the American Legion which he is directing.

Col. Owsley, while a young man, only 32 years of age, has held a number of responsible positions both in civil and military life. At the outbreak of the war he resigned the position of district attorney in his home district and went into the army, his ability rapidly bringing him to the front through various grades until he was a lieutenant colonel at the time of his return to civil life. His personality has been such that he was one of the most popular and best known of the young Texans who served with the 36th Division, the National Guard division from Texas and Oklahoma.

Col. Owsley is a fluent and pleasing speaker, as was demonstrated in the two talks he made while here Wednesday. He left Wednesday night for Fort Worth, where he speaks today, and goes on for speaking engagements at Dallas and Tyler.

FRENCH ARMY AND JAP NAVY ARE PROBLEMS

Two Nations Will Present Obstacles to Disarmament, Hitchcock Tells University Students.

By Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 9.—United States Senator G. M. Hitchcock, democrat of Nebraska, told 3,000 University of Nebraska students gathered to approve the coming disarmament conference, that the conferees will find two great obstacles to disarmament, one presented by France and the other by Japan.

"France," said the senator, "with her great army of 800,000 men will object to military disarmament unless and until she can be assured by other nations of protection from Germany in case she disarms. * * * * The question is whether the other nations will be able to give France such guarantee of protection as will induce her to agree upon a military disarmament. Very few people are so sanguine as to believe that this will be possible, and it follows, therefore, that there is not much hope at the present time that an agreement for military disarmament will be reached at this conference."

Had the United States joined the League of Nations, he said, it and other members of the League would be committed to a pledge of protection for France against external aggression and "France would have no excuse, or much less excuse, for maintaining her enormous army."

Turning to naval disarmament, he said an entirely different situation was found.

"Upon the broad expanse of the Pacific," said the senator, "is to be fought out the greatest tournament between occidental and oriental civilization. Whether this tournament is to be one of war and bloodshed or whether it is to be one of trade and commerce may depend somewhat upon the results reached at the approaching conference. * * * Indications are that Japan will consent to disarmament providing an agreement can be made by the terms of which she will be guaranteed what she considers to be her special rights and interests on the Asiatic Coast."

LLOYD GEORGE OPTIMISTIC OF IRISH AFFAIRS

Prospects for Ireland Entering Commonwealth Better Now Than for Years, Asserts Premier.

"Washington Conference Like Rainbow in the Sky Where Blue Is Beginning to Emerge."

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—The Lord Mayor's banuet this evening assumed more than national importance when the prime minister, replying to the mayor's toast to the cabinet ministers, followed the custom of such gatherings at the historic guild hall of speaking his mind regarding foreign affairs.

The tradition has been that the prime minister must touch only on foregn policies in his annual guild hall speech, but in response to the lord mayor's suggestion that the guests anxiously awaited news of the Irish conference, Mr. Lloyd George quickly expended the statement made early in his speech that "the Washington conference is like a rainbow in the sky," and then passed to the question of Ireland.

He declared that there was a better prospects of Great Britain's proposals to Ireland being heeded today and of Ireland accepting the invitation to enter the British commonwealth as an equal than for years, but that the conference still was in a critical stage. Beyond that, he carefully refrained from divulging the results or possibilities of the conferences which are now being held with the Irish representatives.

In the opening remarks the premier alluded to the economic troubles afflicting the world, such as followed the Napoleonic wars. He expressed conviction that the force of the cyclone was already spent, and followed with a recital of numerous symptoms indicating that a revival was coming, particularly the fact that "in every land the slackness that seemed to overcome labor is passing away."

"The world is settling down to work" said Mr. Lloyd George, "and it is work alone that will fill the depleted tills, which will enable purchasers to come to markets. The blue sky is beginning to emerge: the Washington conference summoned by President Harding is like a rainbow in the sky. For, without the assurance of peace, restoration of business is impossible."

Unions Honor Preachers and Let 'Em Work

By Associated Press.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 9.—Seven clergymen today exchanged the ministerial frock of laborers' overalls and went to work in the building trades. It was a one-day job for them, the result of an invitation by the central labor union in return for the clergymen's courtesy in asking labor leaders recently to speak from their pulpits.

In a pelting rain the Rev. Harry Freda drove a cement wagon, the Rev. Newton C. Fetter and the Rev. C. A. Young worked as laborers on the municipal latin school; the Rev. Frank Kindendon and the Rev. F. D. Parker plied brooms on a winter street building and the Rev. C. S. Stephenson and the Rev. A. Smith did odd jobs on other buildings under construction in the business district.

DISARMAMENT CALL DIVINELY INSPIRED QUOTATION OF HARA

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—During an impressive memorial service which was held today at the Japanese embassy for Premier Hara, who was assassinated last Friday at Tokio, Sennosuke Yokota, who particularly represents the Japanese cabinet, revealed that on the eve of the sailing of the disarmament conference delegation from Japan, Mr. Hara expressed the conviction that President Harding in calling the conference was the instrument of God.

The prime minister was not known as a religious man and Mr. Yokota explained that he was deeply moved to hear his chief friend burst into a flood of religious emotion in discussing the Washington conference. "President Harding has been inspired by God to do this," said the premier, and it behooves mankind, which is represented at this conference, to accomplish things for the high and lasting benefit of humanity. "If the men who go to Washington from the various countries do not succeed, I firmly believe that it is because human nature has not yet attained the stage of perfection which God expects of it. If the conference fails I believe it means that mankind must further suffer."

WHERE UNKNOWN HERO WILL REST

This photo, taken from the top of the Arlington Amphitheatre, shows the tomb where America's unkown soldier will be buried Armistice Day. In the background are seen the electric amplifiers for transmitting President Harding's speech to the thousands of persons on the outside of the amphitheatre.

HOUSE HEARS ECHO WATSON A. E. F. CHARGES

Democratic Representative Hotly Denies Statement That Line Soldiers Were Killed by Comrades.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Representative Johnson, republican, South Dakota, former officer in the army, declared in the house today that while he had no substantation of the charge, he had "reason to believe that soldiers who were traitors, cowards or mentally unfit, were shot by their own comrades while facing the enemy."

The statement was hotly denied by Representative Butwinkle, democrat, North Carolina, also a former officer, who declared he would not permit the Johnson statement to go unchallenged.

There were indications that the house, like the senate, was on the verge of a row over charges by Senator Watson, democrat, of Georgia, that soldiers were hanged without trial.

"No American was shot in France without trial," said Mr. Johnson, "but there may have been cases where they were shot in the line of battle by their own forces as traitors or as mentally deranged."

From the democratic side members attempted to break in on the speaker, who could not make himself heard at times because of the hub-bub.

Commenting on the charge of illegal hangings made by Senator Watson, Mr. Johnson declared: "No matter how we agree or disagree with the former secretary of war or General Pershing, I know the charge that men were taken out and hanged without courtmartial conviction is not true."

There was applause from the democratic side when Mr. Buttwinkle declared that while he had served with ten divisions overseas, he never before had heard the astounding statement that men who were deranged or traitors or cowards had been shot down in their tracks by men on their own side.

"I never heard of a man being hanged in France or anywhere else overseas without courtmartial conviction," declared Mr. Buttwinkle, "and I will not stand here and let go unchallenged the statement that men, either cowards or insane, were shot down by their comrades."

CLEVELAND GIVES FOCH BIG WELCOME

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 9.—Rain and threatening skies did not deter Cleveland citizens extending a hearty welcome to Marshal Foch today.

During the day he was greeted by Governor Harry L. Davis and others at the home of Parmley Herrick, son of Myron T. Herrick, American ambassador to France, where he rested yesterday; visited local American legion headquarters, headed a parade, appeared at a civic mass meeting, attended a chamber of commerce luncheon, received an honorary degree from western reserve university and was entertained at a banquet tonight.

BRITAIN PLANS PAYMENTS ON DEBTS TO U. S.

Arrangements Have Been Made to Pay Interest at Rate of Fifty Million Pounds Annually.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 9.—An arrangement has been made to begin paying the interest on the debt owed by Great Britain to the United States at the rate of 50,000,000 pounds yearly it was announced in the house of commons today by Robert Horne, the chancellor of the exchequer.

Sir Robert made this announcement in the course of a statement on the budget prospects. He added with emphasis: "I hope this remark about the debt we owe America will not be made the occasion for any discussion of the inter-allied indebtedness. It does not conduce to the friendliness of the feeling between America and ourselves to discuss the matter at all, at present."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The treasury is as yet without advices from Great Britain as to that government's intention to begin the payment of interest upon its debt to the United States, officials said today.

However, officials said, it was probable that Great Britain was preparing to begin interest payments under the tentative understanding by which the interest on the debt was deferred for a three-year period ending next April. As the British fiscal year ends in March, officials explained, and that government is now preparing its budget for the coming year, arrangements may have been made to begin the payment of interest next spring.

The British debt now stands at approximately $4,000,000,000 of principal upon which interest is payable at five per cent, annually. The

UNKNOWN HERO LIES IN STATE AT WASHINGTON

Body of Plain Soldier Rests Where Only Matyred U. S. Presidents Have Slept in Death.

Ceremonies Begin When Boom of Cannon Signal Coming of Cruiser Olympia Bearing Body.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—A plain soldier, unknown, but weighted with honors as perhaps no American before him because he died for the flag in France, lay tonight in a place where only martyred presidents, Lincoln, Garfield, and McKinley, have slept in death. He kept lonely vigil lying in state under the vast, shadowy dome of the capitol.

Only the motionless figures of the five armed comrades, one at the head and one facing inward at each corner of the bier, kept watch with him.

But far above, towering from the great bulk of the dome, the brooding figure of freedom watched, too, as thought it said, "well done, to the servant, faithful unto death, asleep there in the vast, dim chamber below.

America's unknown dead is home from France at last and the nation has no honor too great for him. In him, it pays its unstinted tribute of pride and glory to all those sleeping in the far off soil of France.

It was their homecoming today, their days of days in the heart of the nation and they must have known it for the heart beat of a nation defies the laws of space, even of eternity.

Sodden skies and a gray, creeping chilling rain all through the day seemed to mark the mourning of American soil and air at the bier of the unknown hero. But no jot of the full meed of honor was denied the dead on that account. From the highest officials of the government to the last soldier or marine or blue jacket, rain and cold meant nothing besides the desire to do honor to the honored.

Ceremonies Brief.

The ceremonies were brief today. They began when the far boom of saluting cannon down the river signalled the coming of the gray cruiser Olympia. The fog of rain hid her slow approach up the Potomac, but fort by fort, post by post, the guns took up the tale of honors as she passed.

Slowly the ship swung into her dock. Along her rails stood her crew, long lines of dark blue, at rigid attention and a solemn expression, uncommon to the young faces beneaht the jaunty sailor hats. Astern, under the long gray muzzle of a gun that echoed its way into history more than 20 years ago in Manila Bay, lay the flag draped casket. Above a tented awning held off the dripping rain, the inner side of the canvas lined with great American flags to make a canopy for the sleeper below. At attention stood five sailors and marines as guards of honor for the dead at each corner and at the head of his bier.

Below on the cobbled stretch of the old dock at Washington navy yard, a regiment of cavalry waited, sabers at "present" at the black draped gun caisson with its six black horses to carry the casket to the capitol.

Crew Lines Rail

As the ship's bell clanged out the quick, double strokes of "eight bells", the sailors four o'clock and the hour set for arrival, the bugles rang again and the crew again lined the rails far above the dock. The marine guard filed down the gangway to face the troopers across the dock, the ship's band came down and formed beyond the marines. On deck at the gangway head, four sideboys took their place on each side facing toward each other, the boatswain waiting behind them to pipe a dead comrade over the side with the honors accorded to full admirals of the fleet. Cars bearing Secretaries Weeks and Denby, Assistant Secretary Wainwright, General Pershing, Major General Harbord, Adjutant General Coontz and Major General Lejeune, the marine commandant, and their aides, rolled up.

These highest officers of the army and navy formed in line facing down

DEMOCRATS GAIN G. O. P. OUTPOSTS IN FOUR STATES

Control of Kentucky Legislature Wrested from G. O. P.'s After Two Years—Kohler, Republican, Ousted as Police Chief, Elected Mayor of Cleveland.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Final summation tonight of yesterday's results of the year's elections throughout the country indicated substantial gains for the Democrats in four states—Maryland, Kentucky, Virginia and New York—while municipal ballots in many cities resulted in changes of party control. The outstanding case of statewide Democratic victory was in Kentucky, where that party regained control of the legislature which has been Republican for two years.

In Maryland, where the entire lower house was elected, with 27 members of the senate, Democratic control was increased.

In Virginia, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, State Senator E. Lee Trinkle, led his Republican opponent by a wide margin, which extended also to his running mates, including J. Murray Hooker, the party's candidate for representative in congress.

ROUT OF G. O. P. CELEBRATED BY TAMMANY MEN

Election of Hylan and Running Mates Greatest Democratic Victory in New York History.

John F. Hylan.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Tammany chiefs tonight were celebrating the result of yesterday's election which promised absolutely unchallenged control of the city's government machinery after January 1.

In the greatest Republican rout ever experienced in a city election, in New York City, Mayor Hylan was returned to office as was every one of his running mates on the Democratic ticket. He had a plurality of 417,986 over his coalitionist Henry H. Curran, garnered through a clean sweep of every borough, and was outdistanced in only five of the 62 assembly districts.

Ninety three percent of the 1,268,464 voters registered, cast their ballots—a turnout which political observers declared was the heaviest in New York's history.

Of the Republican contenders, the strongest race was run by state Senator Charles C. Lockwood, candidate for controller. He led the head of his ticket by 60,933 votes, although failing to carry any of the boroughs.

Townsend Scudder, Democrat, carried the city by 261,975 over William S. Andrews in their contest for judge of the court of appeals.

Besides commanding every vote on the board of estimate, which controls the city's finances, the Democrats will have an increased membership in the board of aldermen.

An outstanding feature of the election was the small vote of the socialists, about 50,000 less than was given Morris Hillquit when he ran for mayor four years ago. Jacob Panken, the party's candidate, received 83,309 votes.

One of the few exceptions to the general Democratic sweep was in the second judicial district where District Attorney Harry E. Lewis, Republican, was elected as one of the candidates for the supreme court bench.

In the New York assembly, the Democrats increased their representation by 23 seats, although the Republicans, with a total of 96 assemblymen, still retained a wide working margin.

Albany, long regarded as the stronghold of Republicanism in this state, will have a Democratic administration for the first time in 22 years. The Democrats elected their mayoralty candidate, William S. Hackett, and seized every other berth in the city administration balloted on, including a large majority of the 19 aldermanic seats.

Detroit re-elected Mayor James Couzens, whose campaign was waged on a platform calling for municipal traction ownership, while Cleveland gave Fred Kohler a substantial plurality over Mayor William S. Fitzgerald, republican, and voted to change to a city manager plan of government in 1924. It was Kohler, who, when dismissed as chief of police by Newton D. Baker, then mayor, told his friends he would some day vindicate himself by being elected head of the city government. He conducted his campaign without the backing of an organization and without making a speech.

Republican mayors were elected in Indianapolis and Cincinnati.

DEMOCRATS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP AT BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 9.—Virtually complete returns from yesterday's election show that Wm. S. Gordy Jr., democrat, was elected comptroller by a plurality of approximately 18,000 votes over State Senator Oliver Metzerott, republican. The democrats are also assured of control of both branches of the legislature by an increased majority over the last session.

The democrats made a clean sweep in Baltimore, electing the entire city and legislative tickets.

HARDING MAY HAVE TO WELD G. O. P. SPLIT

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Harding may be asked to act again as mediator in the tax revision fight, in view of Democratic leaders in the house, who point to a wide split in Republican ranks in both the house and senate on the income surtax provision in the tax measure.

The Democrats say that the majority leaders in both houses are opposed to the senate amendment with its maximum rate of fifty percent, but are faced with the possibility of its final enactment through a coalition of "insurgent" Republicans and the solid Democratic minorities.

Representative Dickinson, of Iowa, and other leaders of the "insurgent" Republicans in the house, believe they have sufficient votes, with the aid of the solid minority, to force acceptance of the senate surtax rates. They have agreed, however, to defer the fight in the house until after the conferees get underway their work of re-writing the tax bill.

Under the agreement, as outlined today by both sides, the bill will be sent to conference tomorrow without instructions to the house managers, but the managers, before agreeing with their senate co-workers on the surtax provision, will ask the house for instructions. This it was explained, would open the fight on the floor of the house, probably next week.

LLOYD-GEORGE SENDS REGRETS TO PRESIDENT

Important Legislation Precludes Attendance at Opening of Arms Meeting, Says Premier.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Premier Lloyd George, in a personal message delivered at the state department today by Ambassador Geddes, expressed regret at his inability to attend the opening session of the armament conference, and declared that nothing but the intensely delicate state of the Irish negotiations and matters relating to unemployment legislation in parliament precluded his attendance.

The premier's message said;

"Will you please express to President Harding my very keen regret and disappointment at having been unable to leave England in time to attend the opening of the Washington conference.

"The discussion to which he has invited the powers whose representatives assembled in Washington this week is of profound importance to the whole world.

"Nothing but the intensely delicate state of the Irish negotiations and the absolute obligation which I feel to parliament and the country to be present here until those negotiations are completed would have prevented my sailing last Saturday as I hoped to do. I must discharge that obligation before I leave, but I will sail at the earliest possible moment and I hope to be with you before the conferences reaches the deciding stage of its momentous work.

"I need not assure you in the meantime that the heart of Britain is deeply set upon the success of the conference. The world has needed such a lead as President Harding gave us last July for many months. It was the new world's opportunity. To have grasped it promptly as President Harding and his advisers did, will prove a lasting credit to the clear eyed statesmanship of the United States."

Secretary Hughes expressed to Ambassador Geddes the appreciation of this nation for the prime minister's message and said a reply to it would be cabled soon.

more than state wide popularity Party lines appear to have been ignored in the cities west of the Alleghaney Mountains. Cleveland, first city of Ohio, elected Fred Kohler mayor over W. S. Fitzgerald, republican incumbent. Kohler's democratic rival was an also ran. He did not get third place. Years ago Kohler was a policeman known as Golden Rule Kohler. He was dismissed from the force for conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. Now he is mayor-elect of a city of more than a million souls. Lew Shanks, professional auctioneer and vaudeville comedian, is the mayor elect of Indianapolis. He was mayor once before and when the street railway men went on strike he was accused of playing into the hands of the strikers. When he announced as a candidate he was denounced by the leading republicans of his city and state and one of the foremost business men of Indianapolis was named by the democrats to oppose him. Party lines were ignored and the man who had been a successful auctioneer, a successful clown, a successful vaudeville actor but a rank failure as a public servant made a clean get-away and his majority is very large the election judges quit counting it. Speaking of political freaks and freakish elections there appear to be millions of American voters who are glad to contribute to the gaiety of nations by pushing the freaks along. Detroit re-elected Mayor James Couzens. Couzens is worth twenty millions and the voters of Detroit overwhelmed his critics and his opponents. Two American municipalities declared for the city manager plan of government. Cleveland elected Golden Rule Kohler mayor, limited his tenure of office to two years, at which time the manager plan will be ushered in. Cleveland is the largest city in the world that has ever given its official endorsement to this plan. Michigan City, Indiana, declared for the plan and elected a board of five commissioners to put it in force. A woman candidate for commissioner ran first. Indiana is the home of the makers of many of the six best sellers. Indiana is the home of politicians who carry their nerve with them. A former convict was the democratic nominee for mayor in one Indiana city, but he was snowed under by a republican. A man who had served a jail sentence was the democratic nominee in another important Indiana city and the republicans kept him just outside of the breastworks. As a matter of course, these gentlemen with prison records may have been railroaded to penal institutions, their hands may be clean and their hearts pure, but the ballotings demonstrated very clearly that their admiring fellow citizens had conscientious scruples against placing their names on official pay rolls. Mayor-elect Lew Shanks of Indianapolis is constitutionally, intellectually and temperamentally unfit to be the mayor of a great city and yet he had a majority of twenty-five to thirty thousand over Boyd M. Ralston, a successful business man, a scholar of high degree, an unblemished record and the possessor of executive ability of the highest order. This is a democracy and the will of the majority is said to be the voice of God. But back to the metropolis of the world, the financial center of the world, where Father Knickerbocker is the patron saint of the people and the Statue of Liberty the blazing torch of American civilization. How did it happen that the William Randolph Hearst newspapers ran away with that combination of (admittedly) the greatest newspapers of the world? Has William Randolph Hearst been substituted for Father Knickerbocker and has Arthur Brisbane been substituted for the Statue of Liberty as the blazing torch of humanity on this side of the blue Atlantic.

UNKNOWN HERO LIES IN STATE AT WASHINGTON

the open space between the troops and the marines.

On the deck the bugles called attention. A group of petty officers stepped forward to raise the casket. Forward a gun crashed the first drumming roll of the minute guns of sorrow. The Olympia's band sounded the opening chords of Chopin's funeral march and to the slow half step, and carried high on the shoulders of his navy and marine corps comrades, the unknown was tenderly lifted down the steep pitch to the dock.

Rear Admiral Chandler of the Olympia and his aides came behind, hats off in the rain and held across their breasts. Below the cabinet members also stood bare headed in the rain, the army and navy officers at salute.

Last Salute of Sea.

Just as the casket passed out through the rails, over the side to the plank, the wail of the bo'sun's pipe sounded, shrilling the last salute of the sea to the dead. It sounded oddly against the back ground of the dirge and as the sound of the pipe died away the gun forward barked again, the passing of another minute.

Step by step the bearers labored down the plank to the cobbled dock floor below. Again the pipe above wailed as they stepped ashore at last and the unknown was again on American soil.

Slowly the flag draped casket moved down between the lines of troops and marines and under the eyes of the blue jackets standing rigidly at the ship's rail high above. As they came abreast of the band, the dirge was stilled, a marine bugler sounded four flourishes of salute to a general officer. Then the stirring, lifting strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" rang out to the gray sky, the nation's only hymn of freedom. Again the slow march to the waiting gun carriage was taken up; again the wail of the funeral march, but through which the crash of the gun above sounded. The caisson waited in a space between the second and third squadrons of the full strength of the third cavalry from Fort Myer, and beside it stood the eight body bearers of the army headed by Sergeant Woodfill, hero among heroes of Americans who fought in France.

The soldiers took over the burden at the gun carriage and then could be seen a withered handful of flowers, the only decoration on he flag-wrapped casket. They were the blooms with which this casket was chosen from others in France before the long homeward journey began.

Through it all, they have lain there above the breast of the dead, following with each passing day. They will go with the unknown to his last sleep in the stone crypt at Arlington.

As the casket was strapped in place, an order rang out and the cavalry band swung off to the left playing "Onward Christain Soldiers." Behind them, sabres, cap brims and sodden colors dripping with rain, came the troopers, four abreast, troop after troop after the caisson and then following came Secretaries Weeks and Denby riding together in a closed car, General Pershing and Admiral Coontz, and behind them the other officers and officials.

Thousands Brave Rain.

The horses swung away at a slow trot. Ahead the winding road to the old gateway was lined on either side with marines at present arms and behind them, row after row, were packed the thousands of just plain American citizens who had braved cold and rain for hours to stand bare headed as the body of this honored fellow countryman was carried by.

Out through the gateway the cortege clattered to find other crowds lining the way under the light of a fading autumn day. It moved quickly on through the streets, ringing to the melody of the band and the drumming of the horseshoes on the wet pavement. On it went, to swing at last into the great plaza before the capitol and there troopers again drew up in line facing the massive buildings with sabres at "present" as the casket was lifted down and carried up the wide stairway to be placed on the catafalque in the dim rotunda. The two sentries, bare headed, followed and behind them the officers and others.

There were few in the great hall. The only lights were those high among the pillars above the sculptured walls and the last fading gleam of day through the high windows. The waiting guard, which would stand through the long night about the bier, stood at "present arms" as the casket was carried in and set in place on the high black draped structure on which the body of President McKinley was last to repose in state.

Harding Arrives.

There was a pause until the ring of a command out of the plaza, the flurry of drawn steel as the sabres of the cavalry leaped out to "present" to announce that President and Mrs. Harding had arrived. The last rites of the day were at hand.

As the President and Mrs. Harding came into the dim chamber, brilliant lights leaped up to make possible a picturing of the scene for all America to see. The cameras clicked, there was on other sound. About the bier the guards stood with rifle butts grounded.

Mrs. Harding came forward, a wide white ribbon in her hand. She had stitched it herself, and stepping upon the base of the catafalque she laid it across the casket, a slash of white across the rain-sodden flag with its withered cluster of French flowers. As Mrs. Harding stepped down, the president took her place and to the ribbon pinned a silver shield of the United States, set with 48 golden stars. It is symbolic of the heart of the nation that goes with this soldier to his tomb.

Floral Tributes.

Then a great wreath of crimson roses was handed to Mr. Harding and he laid it softly on the casket near the head and gave place to Vice-President Coolidge and Speaker Gillett, who moved forward together to lay the tribute of congress, a wreath of pink roses and snap-dragons in place. Chief Justice Taft moved forward from the opposite side, bearing the floral tribute of the Supreme court, a wreath of chrysanthemums and carnations. Secretary Weeks laid the army's token of remembrance, a wreath of white roses, against the casket at the head and Secretary Denby placed the navy's offering, chrysanthemums and roses, set on an easel at the foot of the bier. Over and to one side, next the wall was placed the great masses of pink blossoms that were warmed to life by the sun of France to be carried all the long way on the Olympia.

Then General Pershing stepped forward to place his own tribute and that of the American Expeditionary forces on this unknown, gallant comrade's coffin. It was a wreath of giant pink chrysanthemums and as he placed it, the officer paused a moment, stepped back a pace or two and, drawing his figure to its full height, lifted his hand to cap brim in rigid salute to the dead.

Few Spectators.

The only spectators of these simple rites were the few clustered in the doorway of the great chambed. The bright lights blazed for a few moments as the President and Mrs. Harding went out to receive again formal honors from the troops waiting below. Then the unknown was left alone with his motionless guard of honor that was changed at frequent intervals through the night, alone with his head eastward toward distant France and at his feet, through a far window and the end of a pillared corridor, the twinkling lights of Washington. On either side of the doorway, which he might have gazed, stands the statues of Lincoln and Grant as though they also kept vigil. And as lights were switched off and the great building was wrappd in the gloom of night, the dim twilight of the few scattered hidden electrics let the shadows fall over the bier and fill the vast cavern of the dome above with a mystery and a peace that will not be broken until daylight streams against through those high windows.

BRITAIN PLANS PAYMENTS ON DEBT TO U. S.

annual interest amounts to about $200,000,000, which would be approximately equivalent to about fifty million pounds figured at an exchange rate of about $4. the pound now being quoted at $3.94. There is, however, accumulated interest which would amount to about $600,000,000 on November 15, which would have to be taken into consideration by the British.

RENEWED CONFLICTS EXPECTED IN WEST SPANISH MOROCCO

MADRID, Nov. 9.—Active preparations for approaching operations by the Spanish forces in the western section of Spanish Morocco are reported in a dispatch to El Sol from El Araish today. The plans, it says call for a combination by the army centered upon El Araish, on the Atlantic, with the forces in the vicinity of Tetuan, near the Mediterranean under the joint command of General Barrera and Marzo.

It is assumed the objective is the high ground of Beni Arous, midway between the two places named. The beginning of the operations against the Moroccan tribe men in this sector probably will be decided upon, it is said, at a conference between General Berenguer, the Spanish high commissioner in Morocco and the government on the arrival of General Berenguer in Madrid in respons to his recent summons hither by the government.

PRESIDENT HARDING URGES SUPPORT FOR RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Harding asked the American people tonight to give their liberal support to the annual campaign of the Red Cross for relief contributions, which begins on Armistice Day and continues for two weeks.

The call of the Red Cross, the president said in a formal statement, should be regarded as "the call of country and humanity." He set aside next Sunday as "Red Cross Sunday" and requested that churches throughout the country devote that day to impressing the gospel of service.

GEORGIA SENATOR HAS PHOTOS PURPORTING TO SHOW HANGING OF U. S. SOLDIER IN FRANCE: HERE THEY ARE

JOHN J FORBES

ADJUSTING THE NOOSE

AFTER THE TRAP WAS SPRUNG

Senator Thomas Watson of Georgia recently startled Congress and the country with the statement that American soldiers in France were hung by order of their superiors during and after the war. When his statement was denied by General Pershing and others, he said he would produce photographs to substantiate it. Here are two of the photos in his possession. They were supplied the Georgia senator by John J. Forbes, an ex-marine of Cleveland, Ohio, who says he himself witnessed at Is-sur-Tille, France, the hanging pictured here. Forbes says he is willing and anxious to go before a congressional committee and testify that Senator Watson's charges are not exaggerations

POPE'S APPROVAL IS BESTOWED ON ARMS CONFERENCE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—While the delegations of the powers were quietly at work today perfecting their plans for the armament conference, cheering assurances of support for the purposes of the negotiations reached Washington from two important quarters of the old world.

David Lloyd George, the British premier, in a message expressing regret that he could not attend the open-heart of Great Britain "was deeply set upon the success of the conference," and promised the diligent efforts of the United Kingdom toward a solution of the problem of armaments.

At the same time, it became known through unofficial channels that Pope Benedict had given his approval to the purposes set for the conference and might pronounce the official sanction of the holy see at the consistory of November 21. He has prepared to maintain close contact with the negotiations as they develop.

The certainty of support by two such powerful forces struck a note of encouragement in all the delegations as they conferred among themselves on the work ahead. For the most part these conferences produced on surface developments if importance although they brought together for the first time the full membership of the American delegation and its advisory committee, and gave the representatives of the other powers, occupied hitherto with a succession of ceremonial visits, a breathing space in which to review their plans in the light of their experiences on American soil.

FUNERAL FOR MRS. ALMOND AT 3:00 THIS AFTERNOON

News of the death of Mrs. Almond, mother of Mrs. Fred M. Gates, of this city, in Fort Worth Wednesday was received in Wichita Falls Wednesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Gates were in Fort Worth at the time, and will return this afternoon, bringing the body of Mrs. Almond with them.

Funeral services will be held from the train, it is announced, conducted by Rev. F. T. Datson, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd.

EX-LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR DIES AT AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 9.—James N. Browning, aged 71 years, former lieutenant governor of Texas, was found dead in bed this morning. He died during the night after being at his law office yesterday as usual.

Lieutenant Governor Browning was well known throughout Texas. He was a member of the eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth legislatures. He was a candidate for speaker of the house in 1890 and was defeated by R. T. Milner of Rusk county by three votes. He was elected lieutenant-governor in 1898 and served in this capacity during the two terms of Governor Joseph D. Sayers. Governor Lanham appointed him a member of the board of regents of the state and he served four years. From 1907 to 1915, he was judge of the forty-seventh judicial district.

BOWIE CITIZEN HAS WONDERFUL RECORD AS POULTRY RAISER

FREDERICK, Okla., Nov. 9.—Starting eighteen years ago with five hens and one rooster, and now being the owner of 120 acres of land near Bowie, Texas, on which there are over 18,000 White Leghorn chickens and with an incubating plant capable of hatching 65,000 baby chickens monthly, is the record of M. Johnson of Bowie, who is known as one of the largest "baby chick" men in the south, according to J. G. Brown and Wiley Voyles who spent Sunday on the farm.

Brown and Voyles arrived at the Johnson farm about 11 o'clock Sunday and spent several hours inspecting the plant, on which are the most improved equipment and methods used by poultry raisers. It is understood that nothing but pure-bred White Leghorn chickens are kept or raised on the farm.

DOWNTOWN HOTEL RAIDED BY OFFICERS

Five women, two men from a prominent Wilbarger county family and two negro porters were caught in a police dragnet Wednesday night when a large raiding squad headed by Police Commissioner Fitts, Police Chief Morgan and Night Chief McDonald raided a prominent downtown hotel.

Investigations of the case were being pushed by County Attorney Fulton and Assistant County Attorney Somerville, at whose instance the raid was conducted at 2 o'clock Thursday morning.

The two men were released and it was thought that three of the women would be released without charges.

IT'S EASY TO BE A MILLIONAIRE—IN RUSSIA—IN RUBLES

By Associated Press.

WOSCOW, Nov. 9.—Americans and Englishmen now coming to Russia suddenly find themselves millionaires in rubles, because of the relative value of rubles as compared to dollars or pounds. A hundred dollars is equivalent to several millions of rubles.

The first effect of being a millionaire is to make the stranger haggle over the prices of commodities then in a few weeks the realization that a million rubles is not very much money and that everybody in Russia who has anything at all is a millionaire just like himself.

A small shop keeper has a daily turnover of 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 rubles. Even the boys who drive cabs or sell cigarettes about the railway stations are millionaires, handling 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 daily. A million is jocularly referred to as a "lemon" so little is it esteemed.

Being wealthy in Russia is very much of a burden. The newly rich carry their money in satchels or handbags. It is so bulky that a whole valise full of it is needed for a journey of a few days.

As the money has depreciated in value on the home market, the treasury has progressively raised its numerals from 100 to 10,000 and recently 50,000 and 100,000 rubles series have been printed.

PIONEER WOMAN OF WEST DIES AT 94

By Associated Press.

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Jane Baker, aged 94 years who twice crossed the western plains in an ox cart and who is reputed to have been the first white woman to live in Denver, Colorado, died last night at the home of her adopted daughter in Murtaugh, Idaho. On her second trip across the plains in 1857 from Tennessee she stopped at the present site of Denver where she saw the first house erected and bought the first yard of calico offered for sale there, paying $1.50 a yard for it.

OBITUARY

H. E. Darling, 65 years of age, dispatcher for the Wichita Valley and Fort Worth and Denver railroads for the past sixteen years and prominent in Masonic circles died Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the home of his son, 1924 Ninth street. The deceased had been in ill health for over three years and for the past week had been considered in a critical condition.

The body was taken in charge by local masonic bodies. It will be shipped to Childress Thursday afternoon where it will be received by Childress Masons. Complete arrangements for the funeral will be announced Thursday.

The deceased was a member of the Childress Lodge, Chapter and Council and of the Memphis Commandery.

HUSBAND OF PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE IS GRANTED DIVORCE

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—A decree of divorce was granted to J. Stanley Joyce, millionaire lumberman, by Judge Sabath in superior court today upholding Joyce's charges that Peggy Hopkins Joyce, former chorus girl, had been guilty of misconduct with Henri Letellier, wealthy publisher and sportsman of Paris and Evans Spaulding, New York clubman.

Joyce yesterday settled with his chorus girl wife out of court for $80,000 in cash and jewels and furs valued at about $800,000. She is required to return other jewels valued at $400,000 and relinquish all claims to his estate of approximately $5,000,000.

TODD TRIAL AT WEATHERFORD NEARING END

By Associated Press.

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Emily Todd, mother of Willis Payne Tood of Weatherford, who is charged with the murder of James McNeal, Fort Worth service car driver, on a lonely road near Fort Worth August 31, was the closing witness for the defeuse in its major case here today. The defense spent the afternoon attempting to prove Tood is of unsound mind. The state rested its case during the morning.

A majority of the defense witnesses would hedge upon cross examination and said they thought the lad peculiar, while his brothers and parents declared him to be of unsound mind. The defendants people told mostly of his habit of sitting morosely at home and of his taking many trips.

The case is expected to go to the jury late Thursday afternoon. The state is asking the death penalty.

OHIO CITY PLAYS JOKE ON ITSELF

By Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 9.—A man who has lived in Youngstown only three months and whose platform provided for discontinuance of street car service, turning the streets over to jitney busses and for jailing any citizen who paid taxes under a recent re-valuation, yesterday was elected mayor over candidates backed by the major party organizations. He is George L. Oles, who came in from the country, established a residence in a hotel and carried on an eccentric advertising campaign without the support of any particular element or organization.

Other "planks" in Oles' platform included permitting "spooning" in city parks under police protection, dismissing the entire police force if it "doesn't mend its ways" and a promise to turn over his salary to charity.

The women's vote is believed to have been responsible for Oles' election.

DEMOCRACY IS YET MILITANT ASSERTS HULL

Party Chieftain Highly Gratified at Capture of Republican Strongholds in Tuesday's Election.

People Now Realize Merits of Democratic Administration, States New Head of Committee.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Results of yesterday's elections prove that the spirit of the democratic party "is still militant." Chairman Cordell Hull of the democratic committee said today. His statement follows:

"Fighting democrats, who captured numerous republican outposts in Tuesday's election have given evidence that the spirit of the party is still militant. Although this was not a general election, a conservative interpretation of the elections held, indicate that the people are far enough away from the mist and confusion of war condition and influences to see the merits of democratic administration to realize the great benefit so generally enjoyed thereunder and to see and become convinced of the increasing demerits of the present republican administration. They realize that the comprehensive program of reconstruction proposed by the democratic administration following the Armistice was obstructed and its chief measure defeated by a republican congress during 1919 and 1920, with the disastrous result to business which have inevitably followed. They indicate a general trend from the republican party, including sections long under republican rule.

"Apart from the gratifying outcome in Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland and other localities and the tremendous victory in greater New York, the results in upstate New York cities, and in Bridgeport, Conn., following recent democratic victories in other Connecticut towns, are particularly gratifying because they have been strongholds of reactionary republicanism.

"The democratic victories of Tuesday will inspire democrats everywhere to renewed efforts with increasing expectations of success."

HARDING HOPES TO DEVELOP ALASKA ANNOUNCES FALL

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—It is President Harding's policy to develop Alaska, the senate committee of territories was informed today by Secretary Fall of the interior department, and Senator New, republican, Indiana, chairman of the committee, during hearings on bills to consolidate government activities in that territory.

"I am not violating any confidence," Secretary Fall said, "when I say that it is the president's policy to open up Alaska and that he intends to direct all possible effort to that end. I had stated to the president that if it was his policy to develop Alaska, then it was going to be necessary to coordinate the activities of the different departments and bureaus having to do with Alaska, and that, if it was not his plan to develop the territory and he intended to permit present arrangements to continue, I would devote my attention to other matters."

Marrying J. P. Has Regard for Closed Cars

"Marry you while you sit in your car."

Justice of the Peace Gwinn who broke into fame several months ago when he announced on the door of his court room that he "would marry you in a minute. Tuesday night inaugurated a new policy in the business of marrying which threatens to austrip all competition.

As indicated above the veteran justice is now prepared to marry you while you are seated in your automobile.

Tuesday night a local service car driver brought I. F. Amidon and Stella Taylor of Burkburnett to the justice's home and after stating that the couple preferred to be married in the car asked if the marrying justice would consent

After some reply to the effect that "he would marry them on top of the car if they wanted to" the justice with his marriage book in hand went out to the car and seated between the couple in the rear seat performed the ceremony.

"Just as good a way as any" declared the justice Wednesday. The new service car can be obtained night or day. The justice asks that during the on coming winter season, closed cars be used as was done Tuesday night.

Judge Grubbs to Hear Postponed Federal Court

The opening of the next term of federal court here has been postponed from November 19 to December 12 and Judge W. T. Grubb of Alabama will preside in place of Judge James C. Wilson, according to information received by United States Commissioner Lantz of the local federal office Wednesday.

In his letter explaining the postponement and substitution, Judge Wilson said that conflict with the term of federal court at Fort Worth now in session made the change necessary. As was the case last year Judge Wilson has found that he does not have time to hold the fall court session here. Last year a federal judge from Alabama was substituted. Judge Wilson spoke highly of Judge Grubb in his communication.

The term will open on December 12 and will probably continue for three weeks. The first week will be given over to the trial of civil cases with criminal cases the following week.

Henry Zweifel newly appointed federal district attorney of the Northern Judicial District will have charge of the prosecution of the criminal cases. The grand jury will be called in session on the opening day of the term.

Pennsylvanian Is Director of United Campaign

Announcement that Jess W. Bole advertising man of Johnstown, Pennsylvania would head the local committee which will have charge of the United Campaign for Charities to be held on November 28, 29 and 30 was made Wednesday by C. H. Clark, chairman of the general committee.

Mr. Clark also announced that the meeting of the general committee scheduled to be held tonight, has been postponed until Monday night to prevent conflicts with other important meetings that were previously scheduled for the remainder of the week.

The services of Mr. Bole were secured through the Salvation Army according to the announcement. Mr. Bole each year devotes two months to aiding in the financial campaign of the Salvation Army in different parts of the United States and is being loaned by that organization for the local united charities campaign.

According to Mr. Clark, the services of Mr. Bole are secured without cost to the local campaign. Mr. Bole has established offices at the Chamber of Commerce which will be headquarters for the campaign.

LLOYD-GEORGE SENDS REGRETS TO PRESIDENT

Important Legislation Precludes Attendance at Opening of Arms Meeting, Says Premier.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Premier Lloyd George, in a personal message delivered at the state department today by Ambassador Geddes, expressed regret at his inability to attend the opening session of the armament conference, and declared that nothing but the intensely delicate state of the Irish negotiations and matters relating to unemployment legislation in parliament precluded his attendance.

The premier's message said:

"Will you please express to President Harding my very keen regret and disappointment at having been unable to leave England in time to attend the opening of the Washington conference.

"The discussion to which he has invited the powers whose representatives assembled in Washington this week is of profound importance to the whole world.

"Nothing but the intensely delicate state of the Irish negotiations and the absolute obligation which I feel to parliament and the country to be present here until those negotiations are completed would have prevented my sailing last Saturday as I hoped to do. I must discharge that obligation before I leave, but I will sail at the earliest possible moment and I hope to be with you before the conferences reaches the deciding stage of its momentous work.

"I need not assure you in the meantime that the heart of Britain is deeply set upon the success of the conference. The world has needed such a lead as President Harding gave us last July for many months. It was the new world's opportunity. To have grasped it promptly as President Harding and his advisers did, will prove a lasting credit to the clear eyed statesmanship of the United States."

Secretary Hughes expressed to Ambassador Geddes the appreciation of this nation for the prime minister's message and said a reply to it would be cabled soon.

more than state wide popularity Party lines appear to have been ignored in the cities west of the Allegheny Mountains. Cleveland, first city of Ohio, elected Fred Kohler mayor over W. S. Fitzgerald, republican incumbent. Kohler's democratic rival was an also ran. He did not get third place. Years ago Kohler was a policeman known as Golden Rule Kohler. He was dismissed from the force for conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman. Now he is mayor-elect of a city of more than a million souls. Lew Shanks, professional auctioneer and vaudeville comedian, is the mayor elect of Indianapolis. He was mayor once before and when the street railway men went on strike he was accused of playing into the hands of the strikers. When he announced as a candidate he was denounced by the leading republicans of his city and state and one of the foremost business men of Indianapolis was named by the democrats to oppose him. Party lines were ignored and the man who had been a successful auctioneer, a successful clown, a successful vaudeville actor but a rank failure as a public servant made a clean get-away and his majority is so large the election judges quit counting it. Speaking of political freaks and freakish elections these appear to be millions of American voters who are glad to contribute to the gaiety of nations by pushing the freaks along. Detroit re-elected Mayor James Cozzens. Cozzens is worth twenty millions and the voters of Detroit overwhelmed his critics and his opponents. Two American municipalities declared for the city manager plan of government. Cleveland elected Golden Rule Kohler mayor, limited his tenure of office to two years, at which time the manager plan will be ushered in. Cleveland is the largest city in the world that has ever given its official endorsement to this plan. Michigan City, Indiana, declared for the plan and elected a board of five commissioners to put it in force. A woman candidate for commissioner ran first. Indiana is the home of the makers of many of the six best sellers. Indiana is the home of politicians who carry their nerve with them. A former convict was the democratic nominee for mayor in one Indiana city, but he was snowed under by a republican. A man who had served a jail sentence was the democratic nominee in another important Indiana city and the republicans kept him just outside of the breastworks. As a matter of course, these gentlemen with prison records may have been railroaded to penal institutions, their hands may be clean and their hearts pure, but the ballotings demonstrated very clearly that their admiring fellow citizens had conscientious scruples against placing their names on official pay rolls. Mayor-elect Lew Shanks of Indianapolis is constitutionally, intellectually and temperamentally unfit to be the mayor of a great city and yet he had a majority of twenty-five to thirty thousand over Boyd M. Ralston, a successful business man, a scholar of high degree, an unblemished record and the possessor of executive ability of the highest order. This is a democracy and the will of the majority is said to be the voice of God. But back to the metropolis of the world, the financial center of the world, where Father Knickerbocker is the patron saint of the people and the Statue of Liberty the blazing torch of American civilization. How did it happen that the William Randolph Hearst newspapers ran away with that combination of (admittedly) the greatest newspapers of the world? Has William Randolph Hearst been substituted for Father Knickerbocker and has Arthur Brisbane been substituted for the Statue of Liberty as the blazing torch of humanity on this side of the blue Atlantic.

UNKNOWN HERO LIES IN STATE AT WASHINGTON

the open space between the troops and the marines.

On the deck the bugles called attention. A group of petty officers stepped forward to raise the casket. Forward a gun crashed the first drumming roll of the minute guns of sorrow. The Olympia's band sounded the opening chords of Chopin's funeral march and to the slow half step, and carried high on the shoulders of his navy and marine corps comrades, the unknown was tenderly lifted down the steep pitch to the dock.

Rear Admiral Chandler of the Olympia and his aides came behind, hats off in the rain and held across their breasts. Below the enbinet members also stood bare headed in the rain, the army and navy officers at salute.

Last Salute of Sea.

Just as the casket passed out through the rails, over the side to the plank, the wail of the bo'sun's pipe sounded, shrilling the last salute of the sea to the dead. It sounded oddly against the back ground of the dirge and as the sound of the pipe died away the gun forward barked again, the passing of another minute.

Step by step the bearers labored down the plank to the cobbled dock floor below. Again the pipe above wailed as they stepped ashore at last and the unknown was again on American soil

Slowly the flag draped casket moved down between the lines of troops and marines and under the eyes of the blue jackets standing rigidly at the ship's rail high above. As they came abreast of the band, the dirge was stilled, a marine bugler sounded four flourishes of salute to a general officer. Then the stirring, lifting strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" rang out to the gray sky, the nation's only hymn of freedom. Again the slow march to the waiting gun carriage was taken up; again the wail of the funeral march, but through which the crash of the gun above sounded. The caisson waited in a space between the second and third squadrons of the full strength of the third cavalry from Fort Myer, and beside it stood the eight body bearers of the army headed by Sergeant Woodfill, hero among heroes of Americans who fought in France. The soldiers took over the burden at the gun carriage and then could be seen a withered handful of flowers, the only decoration on he flag-wrapped casket. They were the blooms with which this casket was chosen from others in France before the long homeward journey began.

Through it all, they have lain there above the breast of the dead, yellowing with each passing day. They will go with the unknown to his last sleep in the stone crypt at Arlington.

As the casket was strapped in place, an order rang out and the cavalry band swung off to the left playing "Onward Christain Soldiers." Behind them, sabres, cap brims and sodden colors dripping with rain, came the troopers, four abreast, troop after troop after the caisson and then following came Secretaries Weeks and Denby riding together in a closed car, General Pershing and Admiral Coontz, and behind them the other officers and officials.

Thousands Brave Rain.

The horses swung away at a slow trot. Ahead the winding road to the old gateway was lined on either side with marines at present arms and behind them, row after row, were packed the thousands of just plain American citizens who had braved cold and rain for hours to stand bare headed as the body of this honored fellow countryman was carried by.

Out through the gateway the cortege clattered to find other crowds lining the way under the light of a fading autumn day. It moved quickly on through the streets, ringing to the melody of the band and the drumming of the horseshoes on the wet pavement. On it went, to swing at last into the great plaza before the capitol and there troopers again drew up in line facing the massive buildings with sabres at "present" as the casket was lifted down and carried up the wide stairway to be placed on the catafalque in the dim rotunda. The two sentinels, bare headed, followed and behind them the officers and others.

There were few in the great hall. The only lights were those high among the pillars above the sculptured walls and the last fading gleam of day through the high windows. The waiting guard, which would stand through the long night about the bier, stood at "present arms" as the casket was carried in and set in place on the high, black draped structure on which the body of President McKinley was last to repose in state.

Harding Arrives.

There was a pause until the ring of a command out of the plaza, the flurry of drawn steel as the sabres of the cavalry leaped out to "present" to announce that President and Mrs. Harding had arrived. The last rites of the day were at hand.

As the President and Mrs. Harding came into the dim chamber, brilliant lights leaped up to make possible a picturing of the scene for all America to see. The cameras clicked, there was on other sound. About the bier the guards stood with rifle butts grounded.

Mrs. Harding came forward, a wide white ribbon in her hand. She had stitched it herself, and stepping upon the base of the catafalque she laid it across the casket, a slash of white across the rain-sodden flag with its withered cluster of French flowers. As Mrs. Harding stepped down the president took her place and to the ribbon pinned a silver shield of the United States, set with 48 golden stars. It is symbolic of the heart of the nation that goes with this soldier to his tomb.

Floral Tributes.

Then a great wreath of crimson roses was handed to Mr. Harding and he laid it softly on the casket near the head and gave place to Vice-President Coolidge and Speaker Gillett who moved forward together to lay the tribute of congress, a wreath of pink roses and snap-dragons in place. Chief Justice Taft moved forward from the opposite side, bearing the floral tribute of the Supreme court, a wreath of chrysanthemums and carnations. Secretary Weeks laid the army's token of remembrance, a wreath of white roses, against the casket at the head and Secretary Denby placed the navy's offering, chrysanthemums and roses, set on an easel at the foot of the bier. Over and to one side, next the wall was placed the great masses of pink blossoms that were warmed to life by the sun of France to be carried all the long way on the Olympia.

Then General Pershing stepped forward to place his own tribute and that of the American Expeditionary forces on this unknown, gallant comrade's coffin. It was a wreath of giant pink chrysanthemums and as he placed it, the officer paused a moment, stepped back a pace or two and, drawing his figure to its full height, lifted his hand to cap brim in rigid salute to the dead.

Few Spectators.

The only spectators of these simple rites were the few clustered in the doorway of the great chambed. The bright lights blazed for a few moments as the President and Mrs. Harding went out to receive again formal honors from the troops waiting below. Then the unknown was left alone with his motionless guard of honor that was changed at frequent intervals through the night, alone with his head eastward toward distant France and at his feet, through a far window and the end of a pillared corridor, the twinkling lights of Washington. On either side of the doorway, which he might have gazed, stands the statues of Lincoln and Grant as though they also kept vigil. And as lights were switched off and the great building was wrappd in the gloom of night, the dim twilight of the few scattered hidden electrics let the shadows fall over the bier and fill the vast cavern of the dome above with a mystery and a peace that will not be broken until daylight streams against through those high windows.

GEORGIA SENATOR HAS PHOTOS PURPORTING TO SHOW HANGING OF U. S. SOLDIER IN FRANCE: HERE THEY ARE

JOHN J FORBES

ADJUSTING THE NOOSE

AFTER THE TRAP WAS SPRUNG

Senator Thomas Watson of Georgia recently startled Congress and the country with the statement that American soldiers in France were hung by order of their superiors during and after the war. When his statement was denied by General Pershing and others, he said he would produce photographs to substantiate it. Here are two of the photos in his possession. They were supplied the Georgia senator by John J. Forbes, an ex-marine of Cleveland, Ohio, who says he himself witnessed at Is-sur-Tille, France, the hanging pictured here. Forbes says he is willing and anxious to go before a congressional committee and testify that Senator Watson's charges are not exaggerations annual interest amounts to about $200,000,000, which would be approximately equivalent to about fifty million pounds figured at an exchange rate of about $4, the pound now being quoted at $3.94. There is, however, accumulated interest which would amount to about $600,000,000 on November 15, which would have to be taken into consideration by the British.

RENEWED CONFLICTS EXPECTED IN WEST SPANISH MOROCCO

MADRID, Nov. 9.—Active preparations for approaching operations by the Spanish forces in the western section of Spanish Morocco are reported in a dispatch to El Sol from El Araish today. The plans, it says call for a combination by the army centered upon El Araish, on the Atlantic, with the forces in the vicinity of Tetuan, near the Mediterranean under the joint command of General Barrera and Marzo.

It is assumed the objective is the high ground of Beni Arous, midway between the two places named. The beginning of the operations against the Moroccan tribe men in this sector probably will be decided upon, it is said, at a conference between General Berenguer, the Spanish high commissioner in Morocco and the government on the arrival of General Berenguer in Madrid in respons to his recent summons hither by the government.

PRESIDENT HARDING URGES SUPPORT FOR RED CROSS CAMPAIGN

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—President Harding asked the American people tonight to give their liberal support to the annual campaign of the Red Cross for relief contributions, which begins on Armistice Day and continues for two weeks.

"The call of the Red Cross, the president said in a formal statement, should be regarded as "the call of country and humanity." He set aside next Sunday as "Red Cross Sunday" and requested that churches throughout the country devote that day to impressing the gospel of service.

Sewell Fields is scheduled to go to trial in the 30th district court at Henrietta this morning on a charge of robbery with firearms in connection with recent alleged robbery of an aged couple at Dean by himself and H. T. (Scotty) Scott.

POPE'S APPROVAL IS BESTOWED ON ARMS CONFERENCE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—While the delegations of the powers were quietly at work today perfecting their plans for the armament conference, cheering assurances of support for the purposes of the negotiations reached Washington from two important quarters of the old world.

David Lloyd George, the British premier, in a message expressing regret that he could not attend the opening session of the conference," and promised the diligent efforts of the United Kingdom toward a solution of the problem of armaments.

At the same time, it became known through unofficial channels that Pope Benedict had given his approval to the purposes set for the conference and might pronounce the official sanction of the holy see at the consistory of November 21. He has prepared to maintain close contact with the negotiations as they develop.

The certainty of support by two such powerful forces struck a note of encouragement in all the delegations as they conferred among themselves on the work ahead. For the most part these conferences produced on surface developments if importance although they brought together for the first time the full membership of the American delegation and its advisory committee, and gave the representatives of the other powers, occupied hitherto with a succession of ceremonial visits, a breathing space in which to review their plans in the light of their experiences on American soil.

FUNERAL FOR MRS. ALMOND AT 3:00 THIS AFTERNOON

News of the death of Mrs. Almond, mother of Mrs. Fred M. Gates, of this city, in Fort Worth Wednesday was received in Wichita Falls Wednesday night. Mr. and Mrs. Gates were in Fort Worth at the time, and will return this afternoon, bringing the body of Mrs. Almond with them.

Funeral services will be held from the train, it is announced, conducted by Rev. F. T. Datson, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd.

EX-LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR DIES AT AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Texas, Nov. 9.—James N. Browning, aged 71 years, former lieutenant governor of Texas, was found dead in bed this morning. He died during the night after being at his law office yesterday as usual.

Lieutenant Governor Browning was well known throughout Texas. He was a member of the eighteenth, nineteenth and twentieth legislatures. He was a candidate for speaker of the house in 1890 and was defeated by R. T. Milner of Rusk county by three votes. He was elected lieutenant-governor in 1898 and served in this capacity during the two terms of Governor Joseph D. Sayers. Governor Lanham appointed him a member of the board of regents of the state and he served four years. From 1907 to 1915, he was judge of the forty-seventh judicial district.

BOWIE CITIZEN HAS WONDERFUL RECORD AS POULTRY RAISER

FREDERICK, Okla., Nov. 9.—Starting eighteen years ago with five hens and one rooster, and now being the owner of 120 acres of land near Bowie, Texas, on which there are over 18,000 White Leghorn chickens and with an incubating plant capable of hatching 65,000 baby chickens monthly, is the record of M. Johnson of Bowie, who is known as one of the largest "baby chick" men in the south, according to J. G. Brown and Wiley Voyles who spent Sunday on the farm.

Brown and Voyles arrived at the Johnson farm about 11 o'clock Sunday and spent several hours inspecting the plant, on which are the most improved equipment and methods used by poultry raisers. It is understood that nothing but pure-bred White Leghorn chickens are kept or raised on the farm.

DOWNTOWN HOTEL RAIDED BY OFFICERS

Five women, two men from a prominent Wilbarger county family and two negro porters were caught in a police dragnet Wednesday night when a large raiding squad headed by Police Commissioner Fitts, Police Chief Morgan and Night Chief McDonald raided a prominent downtown hotel.

Investigations of the case were being pushed by County Attorney Fulton and Assistant County Attorney Somerville, at whose instance the raid was conducted at 2 o'clock Thursday morning.

The two men were released and it was thought that three of the women would be released without charges.

IT'S EASY TO BE A MILLIONAIRE—IN RUSSIA—IN RUBLES

By Associated Press.

WOSCOW, Nov. 9.—Americans and Englishmen now coming to Russia suddenly find themselves millionaires in rubles, because of the relative value of rubles as compared to dollars or pounds. A hundred dollars is equivalent to several millions of rubles.

The first effect of being a millionaire is to make the stranger haggle over the prices of commodities then in a few weeks the realization that a million rubles is not very much money and that everybody in Russia who has anything at all is a millionaire just like himself.

A small shop keeper has a daily turnover of 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 rubles. Even the boys who drive cabs or sell cigarettes about the railway stations are millionaires, handling 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 daily. A million is jocularly referred to as a "lemon" so little is it esteemed.

Being wealthy in Russia is very much of a burden. The newly rich carry their money in satchels or handbags. It is so bulky that a whole valise full of it is needed for a journey of a few days.

As the money has depreciated in value on the home market, the treasury has progressively raised its numerals from 100 to 10,000 and recently 50,000 and 100,000 rubles series have been printed.

PIONEER WOMAN OF WEST DIES AT 94

By Associated Press.

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Jane Baker, aged 94 years who twice crossed the western plains in an ox cart and who is reputed to have been the first white woman to live in Denver, Colorado, died last night at the home of her adopted daughter in Murtaugh, Idaho. On her second trip across the plains in 1857 from Tennessee she stopped at the present site of Denver where she saw the first house erected and bought the first yard of calico offered for sale there, paying $1.50 a yard for it.

HUSBAND OF PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE IS GRANTED DIVORCE

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—A decree of divorce was granted to J. Stanley Joyce, millionaire lumberman, by Judge Sabath in superior court today upholding Joyce's charges that Peggy Hopkins Joyce, former chorus girl, had been guilty of misconduct with Henri Letellier, wealthy publisher and sportsman of Paris and Evans Spaulding, New York clubman.

Joyce yesterday settled with his chorus girl wife out of court for $80,000 in cash and jewels and furs valued at about $800,000. She is required to return other jewels valued at $400,000 and relinquish all claims to his estate of approximately $3,000,000.

OBITUARY

H. E. Darling, 65 years of age, dispatcher for the Wichita Valley and Fort Worth and Denver railroads for the past sixteen years and prominent in Masonic circles died Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at the home of his son, 1924 Ninth street. The deceased had been in ill health for over three years and for the past week had been considered in a critical condition.

The body was taken in charge by local masonic bodies. It will be shipped to Childress Thursday afternoon where it will be received by Childress Masons. Complete arrangements for the funeral will be announced Thursday.

The deceased was a member of the Childress Lodge, Chapter and Council and of the Memphis Commandery.

TODD TRIAL AT WEATHERFORD NEARING END

By Associated Press.

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Emily Todd, mother of Willis Payne Tood of Weatherford, who is charged with the murder of James McNeal, Fort Worth service car driver, on a lonely road near Fort Worth August 31, was the closing witness for the defense in its major case here today. The denfense spent the afternoon attempting to prove Tood is of unsound mind. The state rested its case during the morning.

A majority of the defense witnesses would hedge upon cross examination and said they thought the lad peculiar, while his brothers and parents declared him to be of unsound mind. The defendants people told mostly of his habit of sitting morosely at home and of his taking many trips.

The case is expected to go to the jury late Thursday afternoon. The state is asking the death penalty.

OHIO CITY PLAYS JOKE ON ITSELF

By Associated Press.

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio, Nov. 9.—A man who has lived in Youngstown only three months and whose platform provided for discontinuance of street car service, turning the streets over to jitney busses and for jailing any citizen who paid taxes under a recent re-valuation, yesterday was elected mayor over candidates backed by the major party organizations. He is George L. Oles, who came in from the country, established a residence in a hotel and carried on an eccentric advertising campaign without the support of any particular element or organization.

Other "planks" in Oles' platform included permitting "spooning" in city parks under police protection, dismissing the entire police force if it "doesn't mend its ways" and a promise to turn over his salary to charity.

The women's vote is believed to have been responsible for Oles' election.

DEMOCRACY IS YET MILITANT ASSERTS HULL

Party Chieftain Highly Gratified at Capture of Republican Strongholds in Tuesday's Election.

People Now Realize Merits of Democratic Administration, States New Head of Committee.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.– Results of yesterday's elections prove that the spirit of the democratic party "is still militant," Chairman Cordell Hull of the democratic committee said today. His statement follows:

"Fighting democrats, who captured numerous republican outposts in Tuesday's election have given evidence that the spirit of the party is still militant. Although this was not a general election, a conservative interpretation of the elections held, indicate that the people are far enough away from the mist and confusion of war condition and influences to see the merits of democratic administration to realize the great benefit so generally enjoyed thereunder and to see and become convinced of the increasing demerits of the present republican administration. They realize that the comprehensive program of reconstruction proposed by the democratic administration following the Armistice was obstructed and its chief measure defeated by a republican congress during 1919 and 1920, with the disastrous result to business which have inevitably followed. They indicate a general trend from the republican party, including sections long under republican rule.

"Apart from the gratifying outcome in Virginia, Kentucky, Maryland and other localities and the tremendous victory in greater New York, the results in upstate New York cities, and in Bridgeport, Conn., following recent democratic victories in other Connecticut towns, are particularly gratifying because they have been strongholds of reactionary republicanism.

"The democratic victories of Tuesday will inspire democrats everywhere to renewed efforts with increasing expectations of success."

HARDING HOPES TO DEVELOP ALASKA ANNOUNCES FALL

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—It is President Harding's policy to develop Alaska, the senate committee of territories was informed today by Secretary Fall of the interior department, and Senator New, republican, Indiana, chairman of the committee, during hearings on bills to consolidate government activities in that territory.

"I am not violating any confidence," Secretary Fall said, "when I say that it is the president's policy to open up Alaska and that he intends to direct all possible effort to that end. I had stated to the president that if it was his policy to develop Alaska, then it was going to be necessary to coordinate the activities of the different departments and bureaus having to do with Alaska, and that, if it was not his plan to develop the territory and he intended to permit present arrangements to continue, I would devote my attention to other matters."

Marrying J. P. Has Regard for Closed Cars

"Marry you while you sit in your car."

Justice of the Peace Gwinn who broke into fame several months ago when he announced on the door of his court room that he "would marry you in a minute, Tuesday night inaugurated a new policy in the business of marrying which threatens to austrip all competition.

As indicated above the veteran justice is now prepared to marry you while you are seated in your automobile.

Tuesday night a local service car driver brought I. F. Amidon and Stella Taylor of Burkburnett to the justice's home and after stating that the couple preferred to be married in the car asked if the marrying justice would consent.

After some reply to the effect that "he would marry them on top of the car if they wanted to" the justice with his marriage book in hand went out to the car and seated between the couple in the rear seat performed the ceremony.

"Just as good a way as any" declared the justice Wednesday. The new service car can be obtained night or day. The justice asks that during the on coming winter season, closed cars be used as was done Tuesday night.

Judge Grubbs to Hear Postponed Federal Court

The opening of the next term of federal court here has been postponed from November 19 to December 12 and Judge W. T. Grubb of Alabama will preside in place of Judge James C. Wilson, according to information received by United States Commissioner Lantz of the local federal office Wednesday.

In his letter explaining the postponement and substitution, Judge Wilson said that conflict with the term of federal court at Fort Worth now in session made the change necessary. As was the case last year Judge Wilson has found that he does not have time to hold the fall court session here. Last year a federal judge from Alabama was substituted.

Judge Wilson spoke highly of Judge Grubb in his communication.

The term will open on December 12 and will probably continue for three weeks. The first week will be given over to the trial of civil cases with criminal cases the following week.

Henry Zweifel newly appointed federal district attorney of the Northern Judicial District will have charge of the prosecution of the criminal cases. The grand jury will be called in session on the opening day of the term.

Pennsylvanian Is Director of United Campaign

Announcement that Jess W. Bole advertising man of Johnstown, Pennsylvania would head the local committee which will have charge of the United Campaign for Charities to be held on November 28, 29 and 30 was made Wednesday by C. H. Clark, chairman of the general committee.

Mr. Clark also announced that the meeting of the general committee scheduled to be held tonight, has been postponed until Monday night to prevent conflicts with other important meetings that were previously scheduled for the remainder of the week.

The services of Mr. Bole were secured through the Salvation Army according to the announcement. Mr. Bole each year devotes two months to aiding in the financial campaign of the Salvation Army in different parts of the United States and is being loaned by that organization for the local united charities campaign.

According to Mr. Clark, the services of Mr. Bole are secured without cost to the local campaign. Mr. Bole has established offices at the Chamber of Commerce which will be headquarters for the campaign.

LOCAL MEN REPORT BIG MEXIA SALE

Howell and Howell, Wichita Falls brokers who have recently started operations at Mexia, report one of the largest deals transacted in Texas oil properties practically closed, whereby the T. L. Smith Oil Company, the Woodbine Oil Company, and the Hughes Oil Company, with possibly one or two other smaller properties will be bought by William Sacks of Saint Louis, for a consideration around six million dollars. Sacks is president of the Pan American Petroleum Company, with properties up to the present time confined to Oklahoma pools.

say BAYER Aspirin

"Bayer" on Genuine Aspirin—say "Bayer"

Warning! Unless you see the name "Bayer" on package or on tablets you are not getting genuine Aspirin prescribed by physicians for twenty-one years and proved safe by millions. Take Aspirin only as told in the Bayer package for Colds Headache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Earache, Toothache, Lumbago and for Pain. All druggists sell Bayer Tablets of Aspirin in handy tin boxes of 12, and in bottles of 24 and 100. Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. —Adv.

Armistice Proclamation

Immortal words by that grand and noble president that will ring down through the ages:

Washington, November 11, 1918.

My Fellow Countrymen:—

The Armistice was signed this morning. Everything for which America fought has been accomplished.

It will be our fortunate duty to assist by example, by sober friendly council and by material aid in the establishment of just democracy throughout the world.

FAMOUS ORGANIST ARRIVES FOR CONCERT

Clarence Eddy, famous pipe organist, arrived in the city Wednesday night and will be the guest of his former pupil, Mrs. F. R. Collard while here.

Mr. Eddy will appear in concert at the First Baptist Church Thursday evening and the recital will be free, enabling every music lover in the city to hear one who is said to be the greatest living organist.

A silver free will offering will be taken to pay expenses at the concert and to apply on the organ fund for the big pipe organ recently installed at the church.

Mr. Eddy's critics at home are as generous as those abroad. The New York Globe musical critic said of him this year: Mr. Eddy is a master of the organ. His technique is prodigous, and his interpretative are comprehensive. It is not putting it to strongly to say that he is not surpassed as an organist in the world.

SILVER TEA TODAY AT LEGION QUARTERS

Friends of the Woman's Auxiliary to the American Legion are reminded of the Armistice Silver Tea which the members will give at the legion headquarters today from 3 to 10 o'clock.

Members of the various clubs of the city are especially invited.

A silver offering will be taken.

Fashions for Americans

The soft hat of velveteen or wool fabric is a rival of the long popular tam with the school girl this year. One of these practical bits of headgear is shown in the upper sketch. It has a four-piece jockey crown and a soft brim that may be worn turned up or down with equally good effect. Such a hat is smart made either of velveteen or wool jersey cloth, or of a rough tweed. The tam is of course still popular and always will be, but an unusually large number of these soft fabric hats are seen this season. The crocheted tam may be a vary lovely thing if made of angora wool, one chic model recently seen being of a soft gray angora trimmed with a stiff black quill drawn through the meshes of the cap at one side.

The center hat in the sketch is a Breton sailor, the crown being of valvet or hatter's plush, with brim covered with uncurled plumage.

The lower sketch shows a matros's hat, a closely fitting toque of velvet trimmed at one side with a pompon or ostrich centered with a jet ornament.

Styles in millinery are as varied as they could possibly be this season. Large, small, and medium sized hats are all good, and the color range includes everything from the most vivid tints to black, hats of all black being exceedingly popular. Veil styles are practically as varied, black leading the color procession. Dark brown and beaver are also popular, and veils in fuchsia color are featured. The yardage veilings, that is veils designed to be worn draped closely about the hat and face, are now more generally popular than the picturesque pattern veils.

Three Hats for as Many Ages of Femininity Are Shown in the Sketch.

CHOIRS TO ASSIST IN COMMUNITY SINGING

The choirs of the various churches and the Glee club of the high school are requested to be at the court house Friday morning at 10 o'clock to assist in the community singing which will be a part of the Armistice Day celebration planned by the Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion.

MISS HANKS WRITES PRIZE WINNING ESSAY

Miss Mary Hanks, member of the Business Woman's club wrote the prize winning essay in the contest recently launched for the prize, a large folding autograph Eastman kodak, donated by the Wilford-Harrison drug store. Miss Hanks took for her subject, "Why You Are a Worker in the Club, and What Would You Like to Have Done That Isn't Being Done? Miss Hank's essay follows:

"If you are a worker in the club, you have advantages that you would never be able to have, anywhere else. You are associated with the best class of girls, and girl-friends count a whole lot to a business girl. You have the opportunity to display your best talent, and show other girls what they could do. In the club, you also have the opportunity to help those who need it.

"I think that every girl should be given an active part in the club, so that she would think of the club at least once a week, besides Tuesday nights. I know lots of girls who say that they 'don't get a thing out of the club,' and it is just because they don't put anything into it.

"If each girl had something definite to do, and the success of each meeting depended on her to do her part, then every girl would feel that she were responsible, and the club would be much stronger."

PARENT-TEACHERS HOLD INTERESTING MEETING

A talk by Dr. N. H. Grafton was a feature of the meeting of the Parent-Teachers asociation held at the high school Wednesday afternoon.

Other numbers of the program included a reading, Jenny's White Rose, by Miss Vaughn Buchanan, a duet, "Stars of the Summer Night," and "Love's Old Sweet Song," Misses Gracie Ritter and Mary Smith, accompanied on the violin by Miss Zens Pickle, and a Spanish War song by Miss Ruth Chandler.

During the business session, plans for a joint program to be given by students of the music and public speaking department were made.

DELPHIAN CLUB MEETS AT LIBRARY WEDNESDAY.

With Mrs. T. R. Boone, leader, the second act of Macbeth was the subject of an interesting study program of the Delphian club at the library Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Mary A. Colquitt, an honorary member, made the club an unusually splendid talk on "Good Housekeepers in Shakespeare," and Mrs. Leonard Grayson talked on "Scottish Traits in Lady Macbeth and Macbeth."

The papers were followed by one of the most interesting discussions held by the club recently.

Those present included: Mesdames Mary A. Colquitt, C. N. Alexander, Harry Baum, Bert Bean, J. C. Berney, T. R. Boone, Nat Chenault, W. W. Cook, Leonard Grayson, J. C. Humphrey, O. E. Maer, Strib Moore, Mark Moore, Harold Murph, J. J. Perkins, W. S. Robertson, Marvin Smith, C. W. Wallace, O. E. Nichols and B. L. Fain.

YOUNG GIRLS NEED CARE
Mothers! Watch Your Daughters' Health
Health Is Happiness

From the time a girl reaches the age of twelve until womanhood is established she needs all the care the thoughtful mother can give.

The condition that the girl is then passing through is so critical and may have such far-reaching effects upon her future happiness and health that it is almost criminal for a mother or guardian to withhold counsel or advice.

Many a woman has suffered years of prolonged pain and misery through having been the victim of thoughtlessness or ignorance on the part of those who should have guided her through the dangers and difficulties that beset this period.

Mothers should teach their girls what danger comes from standing around with cold or wet feet, from lifting heavy articles, and from overworking. Do not let her overstudy. If she complains of headache, pains in the back and lower limbs, or if you notice a slowness of thought, nervousness or irritability on the part of your daughter, make life easier for her. She needs thoughtful care for a few years.

In all such cases Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be given as it is especially adapted for such conditions. It contains nothing that can injure and can be taken in perfect safety.

Read how Mrs. Eicher helped her daughter. She says:

"At the age of sixteen my daughter was having trouble every month. She had pains across her back and in her sides. Every month her back would pain her so she could not do her work and would have to lie down. My married daughter recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I read the books which were left at my door. She took it faithfully and is now regular and has no pain. We recommend the Vegetable Compound and give you permission to publish this letter in your little books and in the newspapers."—Mrs. KATIE EICHER, 4034 N. Fairhill St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Mrs. Williams will profit by her own experience. She says:

"When I was thirteen years old I had sick spells each month and as I was very backward I would bear the pain and my mother knew nothing about it. I read in the daily paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and took my own spending money and bought a bottle. It helped me so much that I took it regularly after that until I had taken two bottles and I did not have any more pain or backache and have been a healthy, strong woman. I see now 39 years old and have a little girl of my own, and when she gets old enough I shall give her none other than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. C. E. WILLIAMS, 2437 W. Toronto St., Philadelphia, Pa.

For almost fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been relieving women, young and old, of ailments peculiar to their sex. Ask your neighbor about it, for in every neighborhood there are women who know of its merits.

Thousands of letters similar to the above are in the files of the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., and for years such letters have been published. Surely it is worth your while to make a fair trial of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent to you free upon request. Write to The Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Massachusetts. This book contains valuable information.

WICHITA FALLS FEMININE GOLFERS WILL JOUST IN BIG DECEMBER TOURNEY

Plans were formulated yesterday for a major 18-hole tournament early in December open to the members of the Women's Golf association of the local Country Club. The plans took definite shape at the weekly meeting of the association, and the aid of A. I. Kendall, club professional, was invoked to list the handicaps of all entrants.

Between now and Thanksgiving every entrant in the tourname t must play eighteen holes in order to obtain a basis for the handicapping. As soon thereafter as is possible the tourney will be played. The event will probably be an 18-hole match play under handicap affair, and the finals also, it is understood, will be eighteen holes. Several of the masculine members of the Country club have offered to put up prizes for the event, and it is expected an unusually large field of starters will participate.

A putting tournament featured the weekly meeting yesterday, Mrs. Fred Couper winning the prize, a golf ball given by Frank Van Wormer.

The Women's Golf association, which was organized recently with Mrs. W. B. Pyron, president and Mrs. H. F. Weldon, secretary and treasurer, has the following charter members, all of whom are keenly interested in golf:

Mrs. Pyron, Mrs. Weldon, Mrs. Fred Couper, Mrs. A. L. Kendall, Mrs. W. W. Silk, Mrs. J. B. Hatchitt, Mrs. F. E. Van Wormer, Mrs. C. C. McDonald, Mrs. Morris Marcus, Mrs. Peyton Gwynn, Mrs. Davenport, Mrs. P. A. McDermott, Mrs. C. H. Reid, Mrs. L. W. Perhan, Mrs. Rinehart, Mrs. A. H. Britain, Mrs. E. P. Bass, Mrs. Charles Watson, Mrs. W. C. Witcher, Mrs. C. R. Hartsook, Mrs. Carl Waelder, Mrs. Ben Oneal, Mrs. Tom Roberts, Mrs. L. R. Buchanan, Mrs. R. W. Garrett, Mrs. W. C. Ray, Mrs. D. G. Whitney, Mrs. Julian Bobo, Miss Lillian Fain, Mrs. Dan Rubsan, Mrs. Bruce Larkin, Mrs. Jackson Price, Mrs. C. W. Snider, Mrs. J. M. Williams, Mrs. P. S. Richardson, Mrs. V. H. Shepherd, Mrs. W. B. Hamilton, Mrs. A. E. Myles, Mrs. Tom Hunter, Mrs. C. E. Thames, Mrs. Culbertson, Mrs. G. H. Hampshire.

Participating in the putting tournament around the putting "clock" at the club yesterday were Mrs. Julian Bobo, Mrs. W. B. Hamilton, Mrs. C. E. Thames, Mrs. G. H. Hampshire, Mrs. Rinehart, Mrs. H. F. Weldon, Mrs. Fred Couper, Mrs. A. L. Kendall, Mrs. W. B. Pyron, Mrs. W. W. Silk, Mrs. F. E. Van Wormer, Mrs. C. R. Hartsook, Mrs. Peyton Gwynn, Mrs. Witcher and Mrs. Charles Watson.

JOHNNY BUFF, FACING SHARKEY TONIGHT, PLACES IN JEOPARDY EVER CHANGING BANTAM TITLE

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—The bantam weight boxing title, which is to be defended by Johnny Buff of Jersey City against Jack Sharkey of New York in a 15-round bout tomorrow night, has changed hands three times in the last year.

Joe Lynch received the judge's decision over Pete Herman of New Orleans here last December, but Herman, after a series of victories abroad, returned and outpointed Lynch, regaining the title which he soon lost to Buff in another decision contest.

Besides Sharkey, prominent aspirants for the crown are Carl Tremaine, Cleveland; Joe Burman, Chicago; Charles Ledoux, France; Phil O'Dowd, Columbus and Lynch and Herman.

Herman has held the title since defeating Kid Williams of Baltimore in a decision contest in New Orleans more than four years ago.

In good shape, as he was two years ago when he pasted Jimmy Wilde at Milwaukee, Jack Shawkey, a tough, slugging little fellow, would have stood a much better chance of beating Buff than he appears to stand now. Buff is 33 years old and will weigh probably not more than 115 pounds when he enters the ring at Madison Square Garden Thursday night. Sharkey may weight as much as 118 pounds at 2 p. m., which would enable him to weigh 120 at 10 p. m. when the fight begins.

Buff trains constantly and maintains his excellent physical condition. Sharkey on the other hand, has been careless of his training and, even with this chance to crack Buff for the title, has not taken the trouble to leave the lee of the tall buildings for a few weeks of country air. He has trained in a gym. mostly on the apparatus and, although boxing well, is said to have made no great improvement in his endurance.

WISDOM and WORSE

By C. F. C.

"Topper" Rigney wouldn't look so awful worse in a Spudder uniform, would he? The Spuds have almost obtained some fine players on so many other occasions, only to have the luck break the wrong way, that I won't believe the "glad tidings of great joy" until I see said uniform draping the graceful form of said Rigney. Skipper Salm's after him, and I hope he lands him. Even is he don't, I decide to worry greatly over the infield situation. Give the Spudders some real twirling, and Bescher, Miller, Rothfuss and Griggs as outfield timber, and I'll gamble that the infield situation will somehow take care of itself.

"Flees Jail on Fake Pass"—headline. Now the football rules committee will probably put their beans together and abolish the fake pass.

Speaking of football rules and their abolishment, many sporting writers, I have noticed lately, are urging elimination of the jump shifts now in common use on the gridiron. Under the rules the players taking part in one of these shifts must pause perceptibly between the shift and the passing of the ball, the idea of the rule being to give the opposition opportunity to set itself for the new attack. The question of the legality of the length of the pause is left entirely to the judgment of the referee. Contant practise by some teams has given them a shift of lightning speed with a pause that is practically negligible; this is particularly true of the Georgia Tech eleven, and a number of critics have expressed the opinion that the shift of the "Golden Tornado" is illegal. Those who would have the shift play eliminated assert that under the open style of play it is not needed, and advance other reasons for its abolishment. Personally, I can see nothing against it. From the spectator's viewpoint football is interesting in exact proportion to the speed, daring and novelty each team uncovers—and football more and more is becoming the spectator's game. Crowds of 75,000 are common at a big Eastern battle, and you can't tell me they're all college graduates. As long as the public gives such generous support to the game, why eliminate any section of the sport that adds to the zip and zest with which it is played?

Saw a little item recently that stated how the football field at Hayward Park, Nebraska City, has all the smoothness of a billiard ball, a steam roller being used on it before every gridiron battle. The gray-haired gentlemen who played football many years ago must look with disapproval on such fancy business, for in their day it was the famous player's favorite sport to use the irregularities of the turf, and frequently a large handful of gravel, to impress upon some member of the opposition his own helpfulness. And the steam roller "in them days" used to consist of a "fackle back" formation with three huge huskies in a row—slam the ball into the midriff of the last husky, and then pile through, brother, pile through! That WAS a steam roller!

They're pleading now for a game between Yale and Iowa. But all I've gotta say is them Easterners are gluttons for punishment. Chicago, Notre Dame, Centre and Nebraska all went East and mopped up gloriously—yet the supporters of those Eastern elevens still howl for another Western or Southern eleven to come a-running. It's all right for the grandstand lads to yell for more, but I wonder if the Eastern players themselves are not quite satisfied for the season?

TAIL OF THE FAR NORTH.

WEST TEXAS LOOP FIGURES ON 8 CLUBS

STAMFORD, Texas, Nov. 9.—The Stamford Chamber of Commerce is in receipt of a letter from the Young Men's Business League of Ballinger inviting a committee to a meeting to be held in Ballinger on November 14 for the purpose of discussing the West Texas baseball situation.

It is generally known that the question of an eight-town league instead of a four-town league, which now exists, is meeting with general consideration, and this question will be under discussion at the Ballinger meeting. The following is the letter received from the Ballinger organization:

"The president of the West Texas Baseball league is calling a meeting of the officials of the league to be held in Ballinger on November 14th, in conjunction with a meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

"We understand that parties in your town are interested in securing franchise rights and we would suggest that you have a representative from your city present at the baseball meeting. Both meetings will be held in the Ballinger club in separate rooms."

BOY SCOUTS TO PLAY SATURDAY FOR GRID TITLE

The football championship of the Boy Scouts of Wichita Falls will be settled this coming Saturday morning, when the undefeated elevens of Troop 6 and Troop 4 tangle in the final game of the Scout schedule. The game will be played at 9:30 o'clock either on the Austin school grounds or at Athletic park. Originally it was hoped to offer this game as part of a twin bill with the Devol-Wichita Falls high school game Armistice Day, but that plan has been abandoned.

The two Scout teams are evenly matched, and an interesting game should result. Early in the season before the schedule was arranged, they met in a practise game which was won by Troop 6 by the narrow margin of 7 to . Since then each team has won four straight victories in the Scout football league. On a comparative scores basis Troop 6 shows the stronger, having been scored on but once this year and having piled up more than 120 points; whereas Troop 4 has been scored on three times and scored but 50 points. However, Troop 4 has had playeds out in almost every game played but will have all of the first string youngsters available for Saturday's game—while Troop 6 will be weakened slightly by the absence of two regulars.

NORTHWESTERN ALL SET FOR BASKETBALL

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Dana M. Evans, athletic director at Northwestern University, today announced his tentative basketball schedule for 1921-22 and while a few dates still are to be made, the schedule is considered unusually attractive.

The schedule follows: Dec. 17, Norte Dame at Evanston; Dec. 31, Yale at Evanston; Jan. 3, U. S. Infantry Officers' Training School team, Camp Benning, Ga.; Jan. 7, Minnesota at Minneapolis; Jan. 9, Wisconsin at Evanston; Jan. 14, Indiana at Bloomington; Jan. 16 Purdue at Lafayette; Jan. 20 Chicago at Chicago; Jan. 23 Purdue at Evanston; Feb. 6 Wisconsin at Madison; Feb. 11 Norte Dame at South Bend; Feb. 18 Indiana at Evanston; Feb. 25 Ohio at Evanston; March 4 Ohio ta Columbus and March 6 Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Director Evans has some fairly good new material in Sherer, Stoker, Burch, Smith and Persinger who will be trying for one of the forward positions; Houghton, a promising center and Johnson and Calhoun, prospective guards. Among the veterans are McKenzie and Paterson, guards; Holmes, center, and Franzen and Palmer, forwards. Director Evans is personally coaching the team this year.

The oldest fire chief in the United States, in point of service, is Thomas G. Gleason, who has been at the head of the fire department of Ware, Mass., for more than fifty years.

90,000 MAY SEE ELI AND TIGER PLAY SATURDAY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 9.—With nearly all of the first-string men in excellent physical condition and with a mental attitude that should go a long way toward getting results in a football classic, such as is sure to be staged within the bowl next Saturday, the Yale football team will start tomorrow on a five days' preparation period for the annual clash with Bill Roper's rejuvenated Tigers. Princeton's great victory over Harvard has increased interest in the battle this week-end, if such a thing is possible, and the ticket department anticipates a drive on it beginning tomorrow. It will be a futile drive, for not a ticket is in sight tonight.

H. F. Woodcock, the general manager of the ticket department, yesterday sent 53,000 tickets through the mails, this being Yale's share. Princeton has asked for 25,000 tickets and Mr. Woodcock said today that in all probability not one will be returned. Mr. Woodcock said that 150,000 would see the game if there were accomodations. As it is, the seating capacity of 78,000 will be taxed to the limit.

Every precaution will be taken this week to guard against injuries and, while the varsity will be worked hard on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the practice will not be severe to the extent of laying up star players.

MUNDAY TO HAVE PATRIOTIC PROGRAM ON ARMISTICE DAY

MUNDAY, Texas, Nov. 9.—Lowery Post No. 44, American Legion, has completed plans for a patriotic celebration and picnic Nov. 11. Some of the features of the program will be an Armistice Day parade, firing a presidential salute and a basket picnic lunch with barbecue served by the Legion Post. All business houses will be closed for the day.

PLAY DRAGS IN BOBBY-MONTE GOLF EVENT

Matches in the Stainforth-Burns trophy tournament at the Wichita Falls Golf & Country club are dragging a wee bit slowly this week, many of the first round players having failed to settle their 18-hole arguments.

Of the second round matches thus far completed, Major Fuller defeated C. J. Barnard; W. B. Chauncy took the measure of C. E. Watson; Horace Robbins lost out to E. G. Hill; W. W. Anderson won from W. U. McCutcheon; Lloyd Weaver defeated W. W. Gardner and Frank Collier eliminated Alex Britain.

The only third round match that has been played was the defeat yesterday of Collier by T. B. Cochran, 8 up an 7 to play. Cochran was very much on his game, going out in 32 and coming home in 36 for a medal score of 68. Small wonder Frank couldn't stand the pace!

ILLINOIS HOPES TO UPSET DOPE AGAINST STAGG

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 9.—With the all important Chicago game three days distant, Coach Bob Zuppke has played his eleven against Chicago formations all this week in preparations for the contest here Saturday. It will be homecoming here and on that day the great alumni drive for the new $2,500,000 memorial stadium will be full blost.

The odds will greatly favor the Maroons, but Zuppke is well known for upsetting football dope and the Illini will go after the Maroon scalp as they did four years ago when they beat the undefeated Minnesota aggregation that seemed invincible.

In order to stop the winning streak of the Staggmen, Illinois will have to make a big come-back, but several Illini teams have done it in the past. Woodward, who replaced Jack Crangle at full back in the Michigan game when the big veteran was taken out because of injuries, played an excellent game, plugging up the holes on defensive and tearing through the Michigan line for good distances each time he carried the ball. The new passing combination, Pedan to Walquist, worked four times and netted the Illini three of their seven first downs. First downs were scarce in this 3 to 0 battle.

Romney and Cole are the Maroons who will be closely watched. A pass, Cole to Romney, and a kick by Romney gave the Chicago boys their victory over Princeton and put the Maroons near the top in football competition this season.

The Illini ends against Depauw will be Carney and Dave Wilson, and Anderson and Mohr will start at guards. Vogel's passing from center last Saturday was far better than that of Mohr's the week before so the husky sophomore will go back to his job as pivot. Don Pedan and Dutch Durant will go in at the half back jobs and Captain Walquist will do the piloting.

FATHER AND SON PROGRAM AT HI SCHOOL

Patriotism and the necessity for promoting a better spirit between fathers and their sons were the controlling themes of a special program rendered Wednesday morning at the Senior high school auditorium by members of the Speakers' club. Several numbers were rendered by students under Miss Genieve Goff of the music department and from the department of public speaking under Miss Juanita Kinsey.

A good attendance of fathers and mothers as special guests of the club was reported.

The program was opened with several selections by the high school orchestra and the glee club sang selections pertaining to fathers and sons.

The program was announced as follows:

Declamation on allegiance to the flag, C. C. Randle.

Playlet, composed and acted by William Powers, Joe Bashara, James Fox and Hollis Clark.

Declamation, "Who They Died For," by Edgar A. Guest delivered by Joe Bashara.

Talk on Armistice Day, Darrold Kahn.

Solo, In Flanders Field by Lester Tucker.

Declamation, Stars and Stripes, by Miss Thelma Cain.

TO PUT IN BIG STORE AT 1924 TENTH STREET

The intention to consolidate White House Market No. 2 and the Gate City Grocery into one large store in their newly acquired large two-story building at 1920 Tenth street in the near future was announced Wednesday by Mitcham and Huff, proprietors of the White House Markets. The announcement came on the heels of the report from the federal court that J. Caruthers, former owner of the building had won his suit for permision to use the building for commercial purposes.

The deal for the building was not completed until after the report was received, according to the announcement.

The injunction preventing the use of the building for commercial purposes was obtained about eighteen months ago against Mr. Harrison and the case has been in litigation ever since. A similar ruling concerning the right of a city to prevent the opening of business houses in residential districts was handed down some days ago by the Texas supreme court in connection with a Dallas case. The decision on the local case was handed down by Judge James C. Wilson.

Mitcham and Huff expect to begin alterations of their new property prepartory to opening the new business within a few days.

ASKS FEDERAL INSPECTOR OF CAR SHIPMENTS

Authority for a local man to act as federal inspector of car load lots of produce coming into Wichita Falls in interstate shipment was asked of the United States Department of Agriculture Thursday by Dr. A. H. Douglass.

Such an inspector is badly needed here for the protection of local business men and the general public, Dr. Douglass declared. The request was forwarded by Dr. Douglass at the request of business men and representatives of local railroads.

Heretofore the produce has been inspected by representatives from the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college, who make occasional trips here. This plan, Dr. Douglass asserted, is unsatisfactory as it leaves both the railroads, receivers and shippers without a definite basis from which to attempt to reach agreements, when produce is reported damaged.

TOM B. TAYLOR IS TO BE CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR, SAYS

Confirming rumors that have been current for several days past, Tom B. Taylor declared Wednesday that he is in the race for mayor of Wichita Falls, subject to the spring elections of 1922. Mr. Taylor declared however that he will not make his formal announcement until January 1, 1922, and will not begin active campaigning before that date.

A clean race and exceedingly active campaign was promised all opponents in the informal announcement of Mr. Taylor who has lived here for a number of years and is well known. He was connected with the city sanitary department as a special policeman for about two years, resigning last summer.

Commenting on his announcement, Mr. Taylor asserted that a number of his friends had been urging for some time that he make the race. The decision, he said reached only a few days ago.

His platform, when formally announced he said, will promise a clean city government with no sign of partiality to any person or body and a square deal to every one, should he win the election to the city's highest office.

IN MEMORIAM

Charles Edwin Gant, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. S. Gant was born September 18, 1891, and on Friday morning at 3:40 o'clock the death angel came into their home and as his shadow darkened by the sweetest soul went up to the sky, he took with him our precious Charley and cast a shadow of sorrow and loneliness over our home. This is the first time the family circle has ever been broken, and it came to us as such a shock. Yet, we know our loss is but his gain.

Charley professed faith in Christ when a boy, uniting with the Cumberland Presbyterian church of which he was not only a consistent member but a valuable member. He was married to Miss Dot Hunt, August, 1913. To this union three children were born, two girls and a boy, Lois, age six, Mary Francis age three, and Charles Ray age two years.

We cannot understand why God has called Charley away from his beloved companion and sweet little children, when they need him so much, and he will be greatly missed by us all. Jesus said "In my Father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you." There Jesus has a place for Charley in that mansion of glory where sickness, sorrow nor death ever comes. He bore his sufferings without a sigh. The last time I laid my hand upon his fevered brow, he looked up into my face and with the sweetest smile said: "Don't worry about me I am alright." He was so sweet and patient "The angels seemed in waiting and Jesus so near." It is hard to give up our loved one when he is so needed—but we must say: "Weep not as those who have no hope, for if faithful we shall meet again some day under fairer skies and a happier world, where partings will never come."

When stricken hearts go to their God,
And ask for peace and calm;
Their eyes are lifted from the sod,
They feel the healing balm
Which comes through Christ the only one,
Who holds the keys to heaven.
They know his mind is God's will
Done the spiritual leaven.
'Tis thus we glimpse the mountain top
Where our beloved stands,
He did not falter, nor did he stop,
E'en o'er the desert sands,
The Christ mind ever was his guide
He held the Father's hand,
And safely by the Savior's side
He entered Beulah Land.

HIS SISTER,
MRS. J. D. MEREDITH.

HAMPTON JURY VERDICT TO BE KNOWN TODAY

Closing Arguments in Case Growing Out of Fatal Auto Crash Heard at 5:30 Wednesday Afternoon.

Attack on Credibility of Important Defense Witness, Over Objections of Attorneys, a Feature.

A jury of six men today will decide the fate of J. C. Hampton, local laundry employe, who has been on trial in the county court at law, since Monday charged with negligent homicide as the driver of the automobile which on the night of October 31 crashed into a party of young people on the concrete road west of this city, injuring several and causing the death of Miss Oneta White, 16 year old local high school girl.

After four attorneys had concluded their arguments to the jury late Wednesday Judge Guy Rogers placed the case in the jury hands telling them that they could then consider the case if they desired or adjourn until morning. After retiring for a few minutes the jury reported and asked to adjourn until this morning.

Crowd Hears Arguments

Another crowded court was in evidence at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon when County Attorney Fulton made the closing argument in the case which is said by county officials to have attracted greater interest than any that has been tried in a county court in recent years. Due to the large crowds that have attended the trial, the sessions have been held in the 78th District court room.

The defense pulled another surprise in the trial of the case when W. M. Bonner, one of the attorneys for the defense waived his right of argument after his associate, W. Sanford had spoken half of the time allotted each side. Assistant District Attorney Holliday and Assistant County Attorney Sommerville with County Attorney Fulton made arguments for the state.

Judges Change.

Previous to the arguments, Judge Guy Rogers read a several page charge to the jury. He charged the jury that they might find the accused guilty of negligent homicide upon one of two accounts termed first and second degree. The first degree according to the charge has to do with deaths brought about by negligence where the accused was in the performance of a lawful act and the second while performing an unlawful act. An act is unlawful according to the court's charge when it is in violation of the penal code or where the act might be the basis of a civil action.

Negligent Homicide Defined.

An important feature of the charge as to the second degree negligent homicide was the court's charge as to what constituted an unlawful act in the case on trial. The court charged that it was a violation of the penal code of the state to pass a car on the right when approaching from the rear. The court also charged that it was violation of the penal code to drive faster than a reasonable rate and that it was unlawful for a car to pass a stopped car at a greater speed than 15 miles an hour. It is part of the state's contention in the case on trial that Hampton violated all three of these statutory regulations.

The defense which had placed one witness on the stand late Tuesday evening concluded its direct evidence Wednesday morning with the testimony of Mrs. Mae Fields, who accompanied the accused on the night of the tragedy and who was in the front seat with him when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Fields Testifies

She said that she saw the truck when they came within 60 feet of its rear. She said that she screamed and that Hampton at the same time set the break causing the rear wheels to slide. She said Hampton blew the horn of the automobile but that none of the party attempted to get out of the path of the machine.

She further testified that there were no rear lights on the car and declared that there were several members of the party to the left of the truck. She also supported the defense's contention that the truck was parked at such an angle in the road that there was more room to pass it on the right than on the left.

On cross examination County Attorney Fulton attacked the credibility of Mrs. Field's testimony practically all of which was contrary to that given by state witnesses.

He first asked her if she had not stated in his office Tuesday evening that Hampton, on their return to this city on the night of the tragedy, declared that "he did not know where he could have been looking as he did not see the people until he struck them," or words to that effect. The witness denied making the statement in the presence of Mr. Fulton, Assistant District Attorney Holliday and Assistant County Attorney Somerville. The latter was placed on the stand later and testified that Mrs. Fields had made the statement.

In a further attack on the credibility of the witness' testimony, Mr. Fulton brought out that the witness was the former wife of Sewell Fields, well known local character who goes on trial in the 30th district court at Henrietta today, charged by indictment with robbery with firearms.

The witness said that while she had known the accused since April she had not gone out with him until she obtained her divorce from Fields last month. The state's question as to whether or not the witness knew that Hampton was married when she consented to accompany him on the automobile party was withdrawn before it was answered.

Defense Objected.

This line of questioning was allowed only after defense had made strong objections on the grounds that it was not relevant and introduced for the purpose of prejudicing the jury against the accused. The testimony was allowed by the court after state attorneys stated that it was offered for no other purpose than to attack the credibility of the witness' testimony.

In rebuttal the state offered the testimony of Lloyd Weaver and Harry Smith two local automobile dealers in connection with the probable speed of the car at the time it struck the party of young people. Both testified that a car going at the rate of 20 to 25 miles an hour would stop within 15 to 20 feet on a concrete pavement if the brakes were set so that the wheels were locked.

In the cross examination of Smith the defense for the first time brought into the case the fact that according to the state's testimony Miss McMillany one of the members of the party, was struck by the fender and was seated on it with no serious injuries when the car stopped. Smith in answer to queries expressed the opinion that the car could not have been going faster than 12 or 15 miles an hour or she would have been seriously injured.

The state in rebuttal also placed Mrs. Pearl Schrock one of the chaperons of the Hallowe'en party on the stand. She testified she saw the car approaching and got to the left of the pavement to let it pass. She also testified that none of the party were between the left edge of the truck and left edge of the pavement. Many other details in connection with the accident she could not remember.

The defense concluded the testimony taking at 3:45 p. m. with the testimony of R. D. Atkins, 700 Fifth street and W. A. Posten, fellow employe of the accused at the City Laundry. The former testified that he and others arrived at the scene of which state witnesses testified cured and that the truck was on the left edge of the pavement with no lights. In cross examination he was asked whetser he knew that the truck had been moved from the right to the left side after the accident of whics state witnesses testified. The witness did not. Posten testified as to the kind of tires on the Hampton car.

Magnolia Co. Announces Gas Price Advance

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 9.—Gasoline will be advanced 2 cents a gallon, making the quotation 2 cents, effective Friday, the Magnolia Petroleum company announced today. Kerosene also will be increased 1 cent a gallon, making the wholesale price 13 cents in Texas common point territory. Increases in prices of crude oils was given by officials as the cause for the advance.

BIBLE CLASS TO GIVE ARMISTICE PROGRAM SUNDAY

A special Armistice Day program to be given between 9:30 and 10:30 o'clock by Judge A. B. Carrigan's Bible class will be held next Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church, it was announced Wednesday by Julian Montgomery, president of the class.

The bible classes from the Christain, Baptist and Methodist churches are to be the guests of the class and are expecting to meet at their own churches and march to the Presbyterian church in a body.

The musical program by the Church Orchestra will begin at 9:30, and will continue until 9:50. The following program will then be given: Five minute address by Luther Hoffman, president of the Pat Carrigan Post of the American Legion; solo by George Taylor; reading of the Bible lesson by L. R. Buchanan; lecture by Judge Kay.

WOMEN HELD INELIGIBLE TO GRAND JURIES

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Nov. 9.—Women are not eligible to serve on grand juries in Texas, the court of criminal appeals held today in reversing and dismissing the case of Dick Harper, given two years for burglary in McLennan county.

The records showed that ten men and two women composed the grand jury which returned an indictment against Harper. He appealed his case claiming that such a grand jury was illegal and could not return a legal indictment.

In returning the decision the court held that the constitution says that grand juries must be composed of "twelve men" and that it cannot be construed as including women. Also that the suffrage act by congress gave the women right to vote but that did not qualify them as grand jurors.

Two other cases from McLennan county were reversed and dismissed for the same reason. They were Ernest Carter and R. H. Storms, both sentenced to nine years for felony thefts.

The case of Robert J. Riddle, sentenced to life for murder on indictment by the same grand jury, was not decided as the court held that it was not submitted in the proper way.

WACO, Texas, Nov. 9.—The decision of the state court of criminal appeals, ruling that a grand jury composed in part of women, is not legal, affects a number of cases here. The grand jury, empaneled in January, of this year, was composed of ten men and two women. The women were Mrs. W. E. Spell and Mrs. E. L. Humphreys. Robert Riddle, indicted by that grasd jury for the murder of Mrs. Ida Sorley in December, 1920, was given 99 years.

Drouth Crumbled Surface Hinders Repairs to Roads

I am aware that the dirt roads running out of this city in my precinct are in a deplorable condition," declared J. P. Jackson, county commissioner from Precinct 1, Wednesday, "but as long as this dry weather continues they cannot be repaired and it is useless to spend money in an attempt to do so."

"When roads are as dry as they now are grading will not fill up the holes but will simply destroy what hard surface you have and add to the dusty condition. I have the precinct's road equipment in condition to start work on the roads just as soon as we have a rain heavy enough to soak into the road bed several inches."

Mr. Jackson said Wednesday that some complaint about the condition of the roads in his precinct had been made, adding that at present there was no remedy for the condition. The dry weather will also delay the final completion of the Charlie road which is now being graveled he said. According to Mr. Jackson it is impossible to roll and complete a gravel road as long as the bed of the road and the gravel is as dry as it is at present. The gravel he said would however be placed on the road to be rolled following a rain.

44—LEGAL NOTICES

THE STATE OF TEXAS.
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to summon W. H. Henry by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 89th District Court of Wichita County, to be holden at the Court House thereof in Wichita Falls, on the 1st Monday in January A. D., 1922 the same being the 2nd day of January A. D., 1922. Then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 13th day of June A. D. 1921, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 11004-C wherein, Bradford Supply Company is plaintiff and W. H. Henry is defendant and said petition alleging, that during a period commencing October 4th, 1920, and ending November 5th, 1920, plaintiff, at the special instance and request of the defendant, sold and delivered to him oil well machinery, materials and supplies; in consideration whereof, the defendant then and there promised plaintiff to pay off it the sum of $4423.43.

That said account is past due and unpaid, and defendant, though often requested, has hitherto failed and refused, and still refuses to pay the same or any part thereof, to plaintiff's damage in the sum of $4433.43.

WHEREFORE, plaintiff prays the court that the defendant be cited to appear and answer this petition and that it have judgment for its debt in the sum of $4433.43, with interest thereon at the rate of 6 per cent per annum from January 1st, 1921, until paid, and for costs of suit and such other and further relief, special and general in law and in equity that plaintiff may be justly entitled to receive.

Herein Fail Not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return theron showing how you have executed the same.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND and the Seal of said Court, at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 15th day of October A. D., 1921

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Texas—Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon W. R. Shankle and J. H. White, by making publication of this citation once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the Honorable 30th District Court of Wichita County, to be holden at the Courthouse thereof in the city of Wichita Falls, on the third Monday in December, A. D. 1921, the same being the 19th day of December, A. D. 1921, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 20th day of July, 1921, in a suit numbered on the Docket of said Court, No. 11201, wherein Continental Supply Company is plaintiff and W. R. Shankle and J. H. White, composing the firm of Shankle & White, are defendants; said petition alleging a debt in the sum of $1,677.50, due and owing by defendants to plaintiff, for goods, wares, material and oil well supplies sold and delivered by plaintiff to defendants at their special instance and request: that plaintiff on January 31, 1921, it made and filed the affadavit required by law fixing its materialman's lien upon the lease, leasehold estate and oil and gas rights, and personal property and equipment upon the East half of the North 40 acres of Lot 1, Munger Subdivision of Block 24 of the Kemp Subdivision of the Wichita Valley Lands in Wichita County, Texas; that plaintiff's debt is just, long past due and unpaid, and that defendants have failed and refused and still fail and refuse to pay the same or any part thereof; wherefore, plaintiff prays for citation by publication to said defendants, and that upon a hearing hereof it have judgment against defendants for its debt, lawful interest thereon, costs of suit, a foreclosure of its materialman's lien and an order of sale thereof directing that the proceeds of such sale be applied to plaintiff's judgment.

Herein fail not, but have before said court on the said first day of the next term thereof, this write, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the seal of said Court in the City of Wichita Falls, this the 9th day of November, A. D., 1921.

Citation by Publication
THE STATE OF TEXAS
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Wichita County, Greeting:

YOU ARE HEREBY COMMANDED to summon H. C. Roberts and Theo. Hildebrand by making publication of this citation once each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 30th District Court of Wichita County, to be holden at the Court House thereof in Wichita Falls, on the third Monday in December, A. D. 1921, the same being the 19th day of December A. D. 1921, then and there to answer an amended petition filed in said Court on the 29th day of October, A. D. 1921 in a suit numbered on the docket of said Court No. 10802-A wherein, W. L. Schachner and C. F. Carew are Plaintiffs and H. C. Roberts, M. M. Ferrell and Theo. Hildebrand are Defendants, and said petition alleging, that on or about the 10th day of May, 1921, plaintiffs as trustees for Texlouana Producing & Refining Company, were legally seized and possessed of an oil and gas lease and the oil and gas being produced from the following described tracts of land situated in Wichita County, Texas, holding and claiming the said leasehold estates, and the said oil, gas and mineral right therein, to-wit: The oil and gas and mineral leasehold estates in and to and covering the South 20 acres of block No. 12 of the B. N. Ferguson Sub-division of the J. T. Lewis survey in Wichita County, Texas.

Also the oil, gas and mineral rights and leasehold estates in and to and covering Block No. 6, Knight's sub-division of the North ½ of Block No. 72 of the R. R. V. lands in Wichita Co., Texas, and as shown by the plat of said Knight's Subdivision.

Also the oil, gas, mineral rights and leasehold estates covering the west 2½ acres of the east 10 acres, and the east 2½ acres of the west 5 acres of the east 10 acres, of the south 3 acres of the south 40 acres of block 86 of the R. R. V. Lands in Wichita County, Texas.

That on the day and year aforesaid, defendants unlawfully entered upon said leasehold estates and premises, and ejected plaintiffs therefrom, and unlawfully withhold from them the said trustees and the said Texlouana Producing & Refining Co., the possession thereof, to their damages in the sum of $10,000.

Plaintiffs further allege that defendants, in order to cloud plaintiff's title to said property are claiming that plaintiffs are indebted to them for work and labor rendered by defendant to the Texlouana Producing & Refining Co., and have filed and caused to be filed and recorded on the deed records of Wichita Co., Texas, what purports to be Labor's Lien upon and against the property hereinbefore described, but that indebtedness on the part of defendants against plaintiffs, and said labor lien filed against plaintiff's property, are false and fictitious. Also that said leasehold estates were and are now producing oil; that the defendants while in the employment of plaintiffs on said leasehold estates during the months of April, May and June, 1920, illegally and unlawfully converted from said leasehold estate oil to the value of $3,000; that the defendants on or about said date did also illegally and unlawfully take into their possession one certain Essex automobile owned by plaintiffs of the reasonable market value of $2000, and converted the same to their use and benefit.

WHEREFORE plaintiffs prays judgment of the court against defendants for the title and possession of the hereinbefore described leasehold estates, that plaintiffs pray for judgment cancelling all claims and liens made by defendants for and against said leasehold estates, and judgment for $5000 and such other and further relief, special and general, etc.

Herein Fail Not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ, with your return thereon showing how you have executed the same.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND and the Seal of said Court at office in Wichita Falls, Texas, this the 31st day of October, A. D. 1921.

A. F. KERR,
Clerk District Court, Wichita Co., Texas.

U. S. DELEGATES TO CONFERENCE MEET WITH COMMITTEE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—The broad principles of this government's position in the armament conference were laid before the advisory committee of twenty-one today at its first meeting.

All four of the American principal delegates were present and although it was understood that the meeting was devoted largely to a preliminary survey of the situation, a general outline of the program on which the American delegation has agreed was said to have been submitted for suggestion.

Plans for the official reception here late today for Arthur J. Balfour, head of the delegation from the British empire to the armament conference were halted upon word from Montreal that the distinguished party would not arrive until tomorrow morning.

Rail Project Working Out, Announcement

No announcement, save that the Byers-Waurika rail project was working out in a satisfactory manner was made following the conference Wednesday between Frank Kell and a party of Waurika business men headed by E. J. Kelly.

The Waurika visitors, while not discussing the conference, expressed themselves as very anxious for the building of the line.

On account of Friday of this week falling on Armistice Day, the first meeting under the new plan will be Friday week, Nov. 18.

Federal Court Opens Term on December 21

The next term of federal court to be held here will open on December 12 with Judge W. I. Grubb, judge of the Alabama federal district court sitting in place of Federal Judge Wilson.

Inability of Judge Wilson to be here caused the postponement for the usual winter term of the court, which meets in November and in the securing of Judge Grubb to hold the court.

A fairly heavy docket, principally of criminal cases, is to be tried at this term which may last three weeks.

DANGERS FROM DISLOYALTY ARE OWSLEY'S THEME

Urged Deportation of Those Who Would Bring About Armed Revolt in United States.

Right of Free Speech Does Not Include Right to Abuse Speech, Speaker Says.

Dangers threatening American ideals and traditions through indiscriminate immigration and the consequent inpouring of those who are disloyal and enemies to American principles furnished the principal theme for two talks here Wednesday by Alvin M. Owsley of Fenton, director of the Americanization work of the American Legion, the first before the Wichita club at their noon luncheon, and the second before a combined meeting of members of the local legion post and the public at the First Christain church Wednesday night. An afternoon meeting, originally announced, was combined with the night meeting.

Deportation of disloyal people was urged by the speaker at the Wichita club. The right of free speech did not include the right to abuse free speech, and the government which guarantees that right has the right to forbid its abuse by those who would advocate the overthrowing of that government and the consequent making impotent of this guarantee.

The glories which are those of Americans was also touched on by the speaker—the fact that this government was the first to give religious liberty, free speech and a free press, and to bring this about through inspiration in other lands within the first hundred years of its existence was pointed to by the speaker as something unequalled by any government since time began.

"Men of other nations saw that our forefathers fought for and achieved their freedom—men of other nations followed their example," he said.

Political and religious liberty and freedom of speech and press were obtained in almost all important nations of the earth he brought out.

The spirit shown by the armed forces which fought the cause of civilization during the late war, by those others who waited for the call which did not reach them, by the parents of those who were in the armed forces, and by those who provided the armed forces with the means wherewith to fight was alluded to by the speaker as typifying the best that is in Americanism.

Major W. L. Culbertson, regular army officer on detail here with the national guard, and a former comrade in the service with Col. Owsley, were introduced to the club by President A. H. Britain and responded briefly.

The great aim which is that of the American Legion, its men and women, were referred to by the speaker in his evening talk. The keeping alive of the ideals, memory of those who fell, and the spirit of patriotism which is the birthright of Americans were mentioned as among the great aims of this organization.

In dealing with the problem of foreign immigration, and the menace which indiscriminate admission of aliens constitutes to American institutions, the speaker declared that the test applied to those seeking admission to this country should not be one of birth, but of appreciation of an devotion to the ideals and institutions of America.

He referred to the coming disarmament conference and expressed the hope that the result would be a considerable step in the direction of accomplishment of the things that Americans and their comrades in arms of other lands had fought and died for in the cause of freedom democracy.

The speaker was introduced by Luther Hoffman, commander of the Pat Carrigan post, American Legion, a boyhood friend of the speaker. In introducing the speaker Mr. Hoffman reminded the audience of the Armistice Day program which is to be observed at the county court house Friday, starting at 10:00, and of the Armistice Day tea in the afternoon, given under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary at the Legion club rooms on Ohio avenue.

Veteran of Confederacy Answers "Here"

F. H. Lewis, 79 years of age, resident of Wichita county for 37 years and well known in this section, died Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at his home, ten miles north of Wichita Falls. Mr. Lewis' death followed that of his wife by only two weeks. The deceased was a member of the Methodist church.

The funeral service, which was attended by several of the Confederate veterans now living here, was held Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Rosemont Burial park, the Rev. W. A. Betts, pastor of the Methodist Mission churches officiating.

Joe Brannon, a neighbor, wrote the following tribute which was read at the graveside by the officiating minister:

"F. H. Lewis, a Confederate veteran and highly respected citizen, has been a resident of this community for 37 years. This honored follower of Lee saw the rise and fall of the Confederacy and when the smoke and carnage of battle had rolled away and he saw his beloved Virgin scarred by war and her historic valleys billowed by the graves of her dead, the same intrepid spirit that ever dominated his impulsive nature led him to new fields of fortune and adventure in Texas, where he has lived ever since.

"Uncle Harry" as he is familiarly known, was a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for many years. He was a regular attendant at its services until declining age and ill health made it impossible. He is survived by one brother who lives in Palmer, Texas, and a sister residing in Florida.

"Dear veteran head that bows today
Beneath the snows of age,
We'll ever keep your memory bright
On history's living page."

W. A. BETTS,
Pastor M. E. Mission.

CHINESE LEADERS, AT ARMS CONFERENCE, HAVE DISCARDED ORIENTAL GARMENTS

Dr. M. T. Liang, left, Madame Sze and Admiral Tsai Ting-Kan.

Dr. M. T. Liang, ex-minister of foreign affairs of China, and Admiral Tsai Ting-Kan, associate director of the Chinese revenue council, are two of China's prominent men already in Washington for the disarmament conference. They are shown above with Madame Sze, wife of Alfred Sze, Chinese ambassador to the U. S. It is noticeable that the delegates from China, with few exceptions, wear western garb, having cast aside the cue and silk oriental dress.

KEMP FEELING FIT ON RETURN

J. A. Kemp is feeling fit and is particularly gratified over the sale of the irrigation district bonds, which he believes will open up great things for Wichita Falls and the surrounding section, he declared Wednesday on his arrival from Galveston where he has been taking treatment for several weeks for nervous and stomach trouble.

Mr. Kemp's appearance bears out his statement of the benefits he had secured through his stay in Galveston.

He is still under direction of physicians, however, who have forbade his jumping back into harness directly on his return from hospital. He expects to "take it easy" for some little time, and not to endanger his improvement through a too abrupt resumption of business affairs.

Alleged Forgery Figures in Suit

The trial of the suit of the Coleman Drilling company against the First National Bank of Burkburnett to recover deposits of $4,500 which the plaintiff company alleges they deposited in the bank and which was allowed to be withdrawn through forged checks, opened Wednesday with jury in the 89th district court before Judge P. A. Martin.

According to the plaintiff's petition they had deposits totaling as high as $50,000 in the bank at one time. The company alleges that the company over a period of time allowed an employe of the company to cash checks on the deposit who had not been authorized by the company.

In their answer the bank alleges that it was understood that the employee had the necessary authority to write the checks on the account. The alleged forgery had been accomplished some time before it was discovered by the plaintiff company and bank.

OLD AND NEW COVENANTS SERMON THEME

Abrogation of the Ten Commandments of Moses was made complete when Christ was crucified on the cross. This was the theme stressed by Evangelist Price Billingsly Wednesday evening at the Church of Christ, Tenth and Austin streets, in a strong sermon on the subject "Old and New Covenants."

The crucifixon of Christ, the evangelist declared, fulfilled and abolished the requirements of the ten commandments, after which the road to Salvation is through the Blood of Christ, who died that men might have life, everlasting. With the crucifixon of Christ, the speaker asserted a new law was ratified and a new priesthood set up under which men can not be saved except through the blood of his Savior.

"Moses Or Christ" is announced as the subject for the Thursday evening sermon.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM FOR HIGH SCHOOL

Lectures on patriotism will feature class-room work in all of the city schools Thursday, according to announcements of Lee Clark, superintendent of city schools, but only one special program will be held.

Teachers plan to have every student of Senior high school in attendance Thursday morning at the special program at chapel, which is to be in charge of the graduating class. As Thursday is Senior Dress-Up Day it is expected that the rediculous will be mingled with the sublime in the program given. The custom of an annual senior dress up day was inaugurated several years ago and has been growing in popularity and scope with each succeeding year. Grotesque costumes and takeoffs of faculty members are often practiced in the humorous numbers on this occasion and several patriotic numbers are scheduled to be included.

With the close of class-room work Thursday all students will be dismissed until Monday, so they may take part Friday in commemorating the end of the great war.

SPECIAL MATINEE ARMISTICE DAY AT WICHITA THEATER

The Gene Lewis-Olga Worth stock company will give a special matinee tomorrow afternoon on account of Armistice Day. "The Acquittal" which is being offered this week is without a doubt one of the finest plays ever seen in this city and Miss Olga Worth will be seen in one of her best parts. Miss Worth also wears some very handsome gowns in this play. "The Acquittal" will continue all the balance of the week with a special matinee tomorrow, also a matinee on Saturday.

Next Week "Scandal."

In presenting "Scandal," the offering of the players at the Wichita theater all next week without any increase in prices. Manager Lewis is offering Wichita Falls a big New York hit, a comedy at which hundreds of thousands, living from one end of the nation to the other, have chuckled, roared and rocked in their seats. It is safe to say that no comedy ever written has enoyed a more successful career than this great mirth vehicle of Cosmo Hamilton's."

DIDN'T I TALK YESTERDAY?

You will pardon me for talking so much in my ad yesterday. I was enthused. I couldn't help it.

I was telling you about a machine that would actually pick cotton.

Pick it better than the average cotton field darkey.

You thought I was lying.

Oh, yes, you did. You don't believe a machine can be made that will pick cotton without damaging the bloom, the unopened boll or the foliage.

I didn't either until I saw it.

I want to tell you to your face, it is the most marvelous sight in the machine world.

It just reaches out to every open boll, gets the cotton, puts it in a sack and is moving forward all the time.

The thing that impressed me most is that a boy can pick five bales of cotton per day with it. It is almost inconceivable.

The Wichita Motors Company of Wichita Falls, Texas, is going to make the machines.

Jack Culbertson is the head of that concern. He is the builder of the famous Wichita truck.

Mr. Culberson realizes that the enterprise must be launched on a large scale in keeping with its commercial importance.

He realizes that he has an unusual proposition.

A proposition that means a new era in the South, a proposition that should net the men who own it many millions of dollars.

It strikes me that there isn't anything in the investment field today that will compare with a successful cotton picking machine.

Think what it means!

I say, think what it means!

The Wichita Motors Company is a going concern with a world trade. It will be merged with the Price-Campbell Cotton Picker Corporation.

The Wichita Motors Company is the backbone of this company; it is the company that assures you your 8% dividends on money invested.

The Price-Campbell cotton picking machine is the speculative opportunity that goes with it. It is the one that will pay the handsome returns of the common stock.

And you can be a part of it, you can have a role on the beneficiary end of this industry.

The Wichita Motors Company has decided to offer the public an 8% preferred stock at $10,00 per share, and, for a limited time, will throw in one share of common stock.

To my mind that is the best investment ever offered the public.

The stock should soar like a rocket when the machines are turned out at the factory. I can't conceive of anything but sensational advances when those machines begin to crawl over the farms of the South. Can you?

Write tonight. Get some of that stock. Be in on the greatest industrial deal ever put over in the South. I say, be in on it.

Publicity Man for the New Cotton Picker.

SPEAKING OF BANDITS.

This did not happen in Mexico: Near Paxton, Illinois, a dozen bandits armed with shotguns and bombs held up an Illinois Central Limited train, shot four or five innocent men and looted a mail car of $2,000,000. Governor Len Small, of Illinois, is facing trial on an indictment charging him with taking $2,000,000 from the people of that state in the form of fees or interest on money while serving as state treasurer. "Big Bill" Thompson is mayor of the city of Chicago. Secretary Herbert Hoover had "Big Bill" on the rack on account of some of the anarchistic ravings of "Big Bill." Of course the Obregon government should not be recognized by the Harding administration. It was not recognized by the Wilson administration. They shoot bandits in Mexico without trial and there is more banditry in Chicago in a week than there has been in Mexico since Carranza was sent to a bloody grave by a traitor to his cause.

Petroleum is a great game. Amount of capital invested in the game in the year 1919 is given as $2,420,488,000. This figure includes natural gas gasoline extraction plants but does not include distribution systems of oil and gas companies. Do not overlook the fact that 1919 was a long time ago.

WOMEN FOR PEACE.

Ten thousand Japanese women signed a petition of peace and sent it to President Harding. As a matter of fact, the women of the world are for disarmament; the clericals of the world are for disarmament; the idealists of the world are for disarmament; the philanthropists of the world are for disarmament, but the politicians of the world are not for disarmament. They say that there have been wars and rumors of wars since time began and there will be wars and rumors of wars until the end of time. Sir Philip Gibbs uttered a great truth when he said that the nations of Europe are cursed with elderly statesmen, men without vision and men ever willing to push to the front their own personal and selfish programs.

PETROLEUM FIGURES FOR THE PEOPLE.

In the year 1920 the United States produced 443,402,000 barrels or 63.8 per cent of the world production. Mexican production for that year was 163,540,000 barrels or 23.5 per cent of the world's supply. Total world production was 694,854,000 barrels for the year. Speaking of figures, from 1857 to 1920 the United States produced nearly 5,500,000,000 or more than 62 per cent of the total. Mexico produced 600,000,000 barrels. Russia produced 2,000,000,000 and the world produced within the period named 8,700,000,000 barrels. Petroleum is the greatest game in the world. They have just begun to play it.

Paul Gage of Dallas has charge of the Humphreys Pure Oil Company's line from Mexia to Beaumont, where the company will build a large refinery. Who was it that said that the Pure Oil Company was an independent conrern? Colonel Humphreys has given a contract for twenty 55,000-barrel tanks which will increase his storage capacity to 2,000,000 barrels. Big man, that Mexia colonel, who is making Dallas the Pittsburg of the South and spouting oil at the front door of Fort Worth.

Business is business. The war finance corporation has approved a loan of one million dollars to a ro-operative association in Arkansas rice. Other loans of a total of $172,000 went to five financial institutions in Texas. The sun is shining in this land of ours.

Washington says that congress will not vote a tariff on oil. The Record News said the same weeks and weeks ago. When it comes to petroleum, the Republican administration and Republican congressional leaders are the rankest and rawest of free traders.

District Judge W. B. Howe, of El Paso, says the existence of the Ku Klux Klan is "libelous to the name of his city." If so, what is the judge going to do about it?

Kentucky has a rooster that smokes cigarettes. To the head of the class, thou immortal and prodigious Paris liar.

What Government Cannot Do

By DR. FRANK CRANE

(Copyright, 1921, by Frank Crane.)

The governments of the world have discovered, or are discovering, that there is something that is bigger than any of them.

The great laws that govern mankind and create the happiness or misery of the people are not laws that are passed by any parliament or congress.

The vast forces that produce plenty or famine, prosperity or unemployment, are not forces that originate at king's tables or statesmen's councils.

Which is now being shown in large capital letters and words of one syllable by the chaos of exchange.

The Westminister Gazette says: "The idea that exchanges can be stabilized by any official magic is pure illusion. We might as well try to regulate heat or cold by faking the thermometer. Exchanges are the automatic register of certain conditions which must be changed before the world can resume normal trading.

"They register the loads of mutual indebtedness, the enormous quantities of goods which are expected to go out without their equivalents coming in, the doubts, hesitations, and fears felt by commerical men in all countries about the policy and intentions of the Governments, and the unknown possibilities of the future.

"Until these are resolved and it is possible to see clearly even a few months ahead, the exchanges will continue to fluctuate and the tendencies of the debased currencies will continue to be downwards."

The truth of the matter, which some time or other we shall have to face, is that civilization has reached a point where it must go a step beyond the stage of being managed by separate nations or perish.

Commerce and transportation have gone beyond the antiquated machinery of government. They have created already a world unity. And unless governments fall in line and form themselves into some kind of unity evolution is going to cease and the process of degeneration set in.

The quarrel over the League of Nations, or the Association of Nations, or whatever one minds to call it, is not a matter of names, or of political purpose, or of personal ambitions. It is a matter of absolute essentiality to the world.

There is never going to be any way out of the confusion of exchanges until there ceases to be a bitter confusion of governments.

Some time or other and somehow or other the nations of the world must get together and think in terms of mankind and not in terms of the Star-Spangled Banner or Vive la France.

For this matter of exchanges is most vital. It is the fundamental cause of the greater part of the economic troubles of the world. People are building no houses, they are launching no new enterprises. Capital is scared. Labor is unemployed and menacing.

And the trouble lies so deep that no one nation can cure it. Nothing but some sort of world government can apply the remedy.

CHATTERER FRIGHTENS SAMMY JAY

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was mightly tickled with himself. Yes sir, he was mightly tickled with himself. You see, he had found a way of getting into Farmer Brown's corncrib, where was stored so much beautiful yellow corn that it seemed to him that there was enough for all the Squirrels in the world. All he had to do was to go up to Farmer Brown's doorway very early in the morning before Farmer Brown's boy was up, climb the tree with the branches hanging low over the corncrib, drop down on the roof, and slip through the hole he had found close under one edge of the roof. Then he could eat his fill, stuff his cheeks full and scramper back to his new home in the Old Orchard the same way he had come.

Now, the more some people have the more they want. It is the very worst kind of selfishness and is called greediness. Chatterer had found a way to get all the corn he wanted without working for it, and there was enough to feed him as long as he lived, though he should live to be a hundred years old. To be sure, it wasn't his. It was Farmer Brown's. But Chatterer looked on Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's boy as his enemies, and he could see nothing wrong in taking things from his enemies. Perhaps he didn't want to see anything wrong. All his life he had stolen from his neighbors. That is one reason they dislike him so. Anyway, if ever a little voice down inside thied to tell him that he was wrong. Chatterer didn't listen to it. Perhaps after a while the little voice grew tired and didn't try any more.

After Chatterer had made a few successful trips to the corncrib he began to look upon it as his own. He would sometimes hide in the old stone wall, where he could watch Farmer Brown's Boy open the door of the corncrib and fill a basket with yellow ears to feed to the hens and the pigs and the horses. At such times Chatterer would work himself into a great rage as if Farmer Brown's Boy were stealing from him. But there was nothing he could do about it, so he would go back to the Old Orchard and scold for an hour. But what made him still angier was to see Sammy Jay help himself to a few grains of corn from between the cracks in the walls of the corncrib. He forgot how Sammy had first told him about the corncrib and how Sammy had warned him about Shadow the Weasel. That is the trouble with greed—it forgets everything but the desire to have and to keep others from having. Chatterer didn't say anything to Sammy Jay, because he knew it would be of no use. Besides, if he did, Sammy might find him over in the corncrib some day and make such a fuss that Farmer Brown's Boy would find him.

Finally Chatterer thought of a plan and chuckled wickedly. The next morning he was over in the corncrib bright and early. This time he stayed there until it was time for Sammy Jay to arrive. Peeping of the hole by which he came and went, he saw Sammy come flying from the Old Orchard. Sammy made no noise, for, you see, Sammy meant to steal too. Presently Sammy found a crack against which an ear of corn lay very close. He began to peck at it and pick out the grains. Chatterer stood over to it, taking the greatest care not to make a sound. Presently

He Beat His Wings and Tried to Scream, but Couldn't Because He Couldn't Open His Mouth.

Sammy's black bill came poking through the crack. Chatterer seized it and held on.

Poor Sammy Jay! He was terribly frightened. He thought it was some kind of a trap. He beat his wings and tried to scream, but couldn't because he couldn't open his mouth. Then Chatterer let go so suddenly that Sammy almost fell to the ground before he could catch his balance. He didn't wait to see what had caught him. He started for the Green Forest as fast as his wings could take him, and as he went he screamed with fright and anger. Chatterer chuckled and his chuckde was a very wicked sounding cuckle.

"I guess," said Chatterer, "that Sammy Jay will leave my corn alone, after this."

TRANQUILITY.

Though evils burden this poor globe, and wrong makes right an also ran, I do not yell or tear my robe, or follow any noisy plan; I'd like to see a change, in sooth, to see the right in better luck; but years have taught me this great truth—it never helps to run amuck. The agitators who uprear on kegs and boxes, in the mart, and shriek that doom is drawing near unless we tear all things apart, would never help us dodge that fate, in case its solemn hour struck; one thing is true, one truth is straight—it never helps to run amuck. I pin my faith to wise old boys who make the good things come to pass, who don't believe in empty noise, in booming drums or sounding brass. They straighten things that are amiss, while agitators paw and buck, and watching them has taught me this—it never helps to run amuck. The tranquil men who use their domes will solve our problems, one by one, while Windy Willie rants and foams and says the nation's course is run; the tranquil men will demonstrate the worth of quiet thought and pluck; and this is sure as death or fate—it never helps to run amuck.

Milk-Wagon Striker: I gotta get more money and that's all there is to it. Understand.

Arbitrator: But think of the thousands of babies—

Striker: I can't help them now. I gotta get a raise.

Arbitrator: Think of the thousand of little kittens that must have a saucer of milk every morning and night!

Striker: I should worry about kittens!

Arbitrator: Think of all the cats—

Striker: Let 'em get along on mice or catnip or sumpin. I'm no animal feeder.

Arbitrator: Think of all the people who have a passion for baked apples.

Striker: What about 'em?

Abritrator: They can't eat 'em without milk or cream!.....Think of the plight of the thousands of soda-fountain clerks.

Striker: What've they go to do with it?

Arbitrator: At least they'll have to let the public in on what they've always carefully guarded as a secret.

Striker: What's that?

Arbitrator: That they can make milk drinks without a drop of milk. ....Think of the horrible position the lunchroom men are in.

Striker: What position?

Arbitrator: They can't go on serving chalk and water as cream at 10 cents a portion now that the customers know it can't be cream.

Striker (brushing away a tear): Don't make me cry.

Arbitrator: Think of all those poor clerks and accountants in the downtown business houses whose wives allow them only 20 cents for lunch.

Striker: What about them guys?

Arbitrator: They can't get their crackers and milk.

Striker (weakening): That's so. Maybe I am a bit inconsiderate. I've seen those crackers-and-milk birds eat ....it's very touching!

Arbitrator (realizing he has the striker weakening): And have you ever gazed into a Childs lunch room?

Striker: Yes.

Arbitrator: And seen the milk toast addicts?

Striker: Yes....Yes.

Arbitartor: Think of them....trying to enjoy milkless milk toast!

Striker (weeping): Don't! Don't! This is maddening!

Arbitrator: And think of the poor Broadway show girls....the leading ladies....the grand opera prima donnas!

Striker—What about them? Speak!

Arbitrator: What are they going to do about their milk baths?

Striker (breaking down completely, and with a groan): Stop!....This is too much....I surrender....where's my wagon?....I didn't know what a milk srtike meant!....I didn't know! ....I didn't know!"

He rushes to his wagon.

The arbitrator, smiling with satisfaction, goes into a saloon and orders a near-beer.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

By M. JESSIE LEITCH

CONCERNING IODINE

The boy who had picked up a vague impression about iodine being an emergency fluid to be painted on fresh wounds and cuts, stared a bit when, during his illness in the winter, the doctor ordered his painful chest to be painted with iodine.

"But my chest isn't wounded," he objected. "I thought it was when you had a cut finger or a smashed hand, or something that you were painted with iodine."

The doctor smiled as he explained that this was indeed true, but that on the other hand iodine was one of the best counter-irritants known.

"But what," demanded the boy, "is a counter-irritant? And why do I have to have one on my chest, just because it happens to hurt me when I breathe?"

How Pain Is Relieved.

"Because," said the doctor, "a counter-irritant, which is any substance applied to any area of the body to produce an irritation of the sensory nerve endings, relieves congestion and inflammation. And, therefore, brings relief from pain."

But half convinced, the boy lay back on the bed and submitted to being painted with iodine.

He was not in the hospital, but in his own home. He was in his own rather cluttery, interesting bedroom, as a matter of fact, and the rooms was not without its appeal when one had to spend days in bed.

There was the paddle hanging on the wall, reminiscent of the scarlet canoe that was spending the winter in the boathouse, of the stretches of lazy river, and lily pads, of quiet dawns and dusks when the boy, whose name was Charles Law, had idled many a happy hour away under the blue skies of summer.

Was a Typical Boy's Room

There were racquets, and canoes, with school streamers attached. There were skates and books and pressed flowers and butterfly nets, all jumbled pleasantly together. It was a typical boy's room—but to get back to the pain in Charles' chest, it was with rather morbid curiosity that he watched the doctor produce a bottle of iodine, some toothpicks, and some absorbent cotton.

Wrapping the tufts of cotton wool around the end of the toothpicks, the doctor took the cork from the iodine, bared Charles' chest, and, dipping the little sticks in the iodine, proceeded to apply a thing coating of the dark-brown fluid. He waited a minute, and Charles glanced up inquiringly.

"I am waiting for it to dry. Since I wish to produce a slight irritation, I must apply a second coat, till the skin is a dark-brown color, and a slight stinging sensation is induced. But too much would cause a blister. I don't wish to do that. The skin should never be moist when one is applying iodine, for moisture increases the irritant action of the iodine."

"And if one should apply too much iodine, doctor?" questioned Charles' mother anxiously.

"Simply wash it off with a mild solution of ammonia water," explained the doctor. "Also, a wet dressing should never be applied over an iodine dressing, when one is caring for cuts and scratches. The result is an iodine burn."

And the area of the boy's chest which was painted with iodine the second time having dried, the doctor applied a thin layer of warm flannel, and within an hour the irritating cough and the pain that had been racking the boy's chest was a great deal better.

"You've got to hand it to the good old counter-irritants," he said, with a flash of a smile.

Watching the Parade

By JOHN PILGRIM

First time I saw this kid was in Chateau-Thierry. He was a striker and bottle washer, and greaser, and general handy man about a transportation outfit that was rolling badly needed supplies up to the front on twenty-four hour shifts. That is, the boys drove twenty-four hours without rest. The next twenty-four hours all they had to do was drive back again. They used to average a few hours sleep every once in awhile.

"I used to be a bank clerk," said this kid to me, after he'd borrowed my cigarettes. "Funny, isn't it?"

He aimed to go back home and be a banker some more, he said, when the war was over. Next time I saw him was on the platform of one of those little pine-shanty railroad stations they still have in parts of the west. He was hustling baggage to the hotel wagon. Between times, he said, he washed dishes in the hotel kitchen.

'Whatsa matter?" I asked. "Got off that indoor stuff, did you? Looking for life in the open and all that sort of thing? You for the wild and free?

The kid said I talked like a nut. He said that when he went back to wherever it was he came from in Michigan, his job in the bank was gone. So he had just been doing what he could from that time on. He had no money saved up and so could not afford to loaf and look. He had to work and look. Now he had several hundred dollars laid away and was in sight of three or four chances to make an independent stake.

"Next time you see me I'm liable to own the bank," the kid said. He grinned when he said it, but he more than half meant it.

That kid didn't belong in a hotel kitchen, with baggage smashing as a side line, any more than I belong in Buckingham Palace. But he didn't worry, and he wasn't ashamed of doing what his hands found to do, and he was smart enough to mow away some of that good kale, instead of pretending that he was Algernon, the young duke, on his Sunday afternoons off.

He's a well-informed kid, too. I'll bet that he has read all about the problem of unemployment in the newspapers.

The Daily Story

A LITTLE REST

Copyright, 1921, by W. Werner

Jim had been quite cross at breakfast because Lena had jumped so frequently to attend to the children and get different parts of the meal that she had forgotten. "Seems as though you might set the table properly. If a man ran his business the way many homes are run there wouldn't be much profit. Modern times demand efficiency," he remarked.

The faint worry lines in Lena's face had deepened distressfully at the candid criticism. "It sounds right," she said in a puzzled tone, "but somehow it doesn't always work out. I got up ten minutes before the alarm went off because I wanted to make muffins, but Janet fretted so that I had to take her up. That tooth seems awfully painful."

Jim munched the toast that had been substituted for the muffins he liked. "There is always some perfectly good excuse. Yesterday it was because Tom burned himself pouring out boiling water that my breakfast was simply ruined. I get my work done."

Lena was really glad when he put on his overcoat and accepted the morning paper, which she had brought in from the snowy doorstep and folded and handed to him. She was thankful that the paper had come on time. He always blamed her personally when the boy was late with it. "I guess I try to do too much myself," she thought, watching the straight, handsome figure of her husband go briskly down the street, "but labor is so costly that I hate to spend money for what I can do. The children need so many things."

She hurriedly set about her morning's work and managed to get the lighter pieces of washing (things that could not wait for the twice-a-month visit of the laundress) put to soak. Tom and May went off to school and the dining room was cleared before it was time to take Ella to the kindergarten. She put Janet in the baby carriage and they started off.

At 4 o'clock Jim got a telephone message from his next-door neighbor telling him to come home immediately. Lena had slipped on the icy back porch and strained herself so badly that she had been put to bed.

"The doctor thinks I'll need a nurse," Lena said weakly, "but I think I can manage some way. We can't afford a nurse."

"I'll just stay at home tomorrow. I'll be glad of a little rest. Don't worry, Lena; just watch how I'll get things shipshape. Takes a man to straighten out tangles," he remarked importantly.

"If you wired mother maybe——"

"Don't need her. I'll fix everything up tomorrow and then come home afternoons. Surely you can keep Janet in bed with you when I'm gone."

Lena's worry did not vanish. Even with the assurances that he briskly continued to give, she knew what the children required better than he.

The dinner, with the uproarious aid of the children, who welcomed any change, was not bad, although Jim scorched the potatoes and did not cook the steak sufficiently. The twins, Tom any May, were clamorous for help in their redding lesson.

"I'll just leave the dishes," Jim said finally when he had at last quieted Janet. "The twins must have their lesson."

Lena had been unable to eat the badly prepared meal, and she now looked dubious. "It will be a rush in the morning if everything is about," she reminded Jim.

"Nonsense; you'll see how I'll manage. The children should be taught something at home." Clearing a space by pushing back dishes, Jim began. "Goodness, Lena," brushing his hair irritably when he had sent the children to bed, "what silly questions they ask, and yet how hard they are to answer. What is Janet crying about?"

"I expect she wants a drink. Did you empty the sink strainer, Jim?"

"Why, no. I just left things. Won't take me long in the morning."

Jim refused to get up when the alarm went off, saying there was nothing to do except get the children off to school. At 7:30 Lena awakened him. "Better get up, Jim. The twins will be late."

He went out and looked at the dirty dishes crossly. Putting on the teakettle he went into the bathroom to shave.

"Guess something is burning, papa." May stood in the doorway.

The kettle had burned dry and chipped the enamel on the bottom. Jim put out the gas and abandoned shaving until later. He put on his bathrobe, although he had always felt injured if Lena did not wear a fresh gown for breakfast. He had ground half the coffee when the noise awoke Janet, who shouted with temper and the emerging tooth.

"Jim, I told you to grind that last night."

"I forgot it. Here, keep still, Janet. Want me to whip you?"

Ella began to whimper at this. Lena seldom scolded.

Jim gave Ella a nickel to keep still, and taking Janet on his hip, with his bathrobe tassel to play with, he tried to get breakfast with one hand. It was a tedious process, and the man who made a fetish of efficiency felt bewildered. When he went into the dining room to set the table the cereal burned and the twins refused to eat it. "Say, Lena, I'll give you some breakfast after I get the children off to school," he called, remembering the dainty trays his wife had prepared when he had been ill two months previously.

The twins looked queer and unkept when he finally shooed them out at five minutes to 9.

"Did you bring in Janet's clothes from the porch line Jim? Her dress will have to be ironed before her bath. I've gotten a little behind with my sewing and the laundress won't come until next week." Lena reminded her husband.

"Sewing? Washing When do you stop to breathe?" He was still wearing the bathrobe. "Does that child have to be bathed?"

"Hurry, papa, I'll be late for kindergarten. It begins at 10," urged Ella, clinging to his loose robe in a fashion that maddened him. "Mamma takes me and I ride in the buggy with Janet when it's so slippery."

"She has to have her bath and a clean frock, Jim, and her mittens have to have the ribbon sewed on or she'll lose them.

Jim sat down on the side of the bed with a sudden laugh, while Janet reached for his hair. "Lena, I apologize for all my barbarous criticisms. How you manage four children and cook and sew and wash and run to kindergartens is beyond me. From now on you have every stitch of the laundry work done and buy ready-made clothes till these babies are big enough to help. I'm making plenty in the business——" The back door bell interrupted Jim. The milkman was there, and at the same instant the mail carrier rang in front.

Jim opened the door intending to reach out for the mail, when the doctor appeared looking rather surprised at the bathrobe and the now yelling Janet. "Please send a nurse, doctor. This housekeeping game is too strenuous for me," he remarked. And Lena inside smiled.

DISARM

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1921, by The Associated Newspapers.)

From the harts of the plain people everywhere goes a message of mingled entreaty and warning to the delegates to the great international conference about to be held in Washington. It is a short and simple message, summed up in the one word:

"Disarm."

The people do not want a conference that merely confers.

They do not want a political palavering.

They do not want a diplomatic manoeuvring.

Least of all they do want any secreat militaristic influence to be allowed to intrude into the conference, keeping alive the old delusion that the surest guarantee of peace is to expect war to spend millions and billions of dollars living up to that expectation.

However theorists may argue, the plain people of the world know very well that the great spendings, the colossal spendings of the past have not preserved peace.

They know very well that as the armament spendings have increased wars have multiplied.

They can see clearly that so long as nations equip themselves to fight one another, fight one another they surely will.

And from the experiences of the world war just past, the plain people can see more clearly than ever before that such fighting means for victor, as well as vanquished, misery unspeakable.

The slaughter of the rising generation, sorrow in myriads of homes, vast spreading of disease, incalculable wealth, widespread unemployment, weakining of national morals, and crushing burdens in taxes—that is what flows from the wars which the making of mighty armaments was to prevent.

Yet there remain those who would preach the outworn doctrine, "Arm to the teeth!"

There remain those who, obsessed by this doctrine, wilfully blind themselves to the truth that if accepted as in the past, it must ultimately mean the breakdown of civilization.

The plain people urge the conferrees at Washington to be deaf to the specious pleas of these architects of woe.

They urge the conferrees not for a moment to lose sight of the terrible debit account of past and present warwaging and equipping for war.

And their hopes and their prayers are that from the conference will result a real and early removal of the burden and the menace that great armaments involve.

From New World and Old World alike, from the greatest cities and the tinest hamlets, in throbbing chorus of longing and command, the plain people cry to their representatives now assembling in Wasmington:

"Let nothing stop you from doing what you have come together to do.

"Abandon all racial jealousies, all racial ambitions and fears. Think first and last of human welfare.

"Disarm."

Some Chest-Nuts

The pile of flinty stones still to be broken was a very large one thought the stonebreaker as he gazed at it disconsolately between his bites at a large sandwich of bread and cheese.

A minister came along and gave him a cheery "Good morning," remarking that he had a deal of work to get through yet.

"Aye," said the eater, "them stones are like the ten commandments."

"In what way?" inquired the clergyman.

"You can go on breaking 'em," came the reply, "but you can't never get rid of 'em."

Red in the face with hurry and excitement, the suburban resident rushed into the police station and exclaimed: "They say you have caught the man who broke into my house the night before last."

"Yes," replied the sergeant. "Do you want to see him?"

"Do I want to!" replied the burglar's victim. "I want to know how he got into the house without waking my wife. I've been trying to do that for the last ten years."

It is said that an ancient Chinese sage who lived in the second century was offered a bribe. His silence being accepted as hestitation, he was assured that he was perfectly safe, as no one knew it. He replied:

"Heaven knows it. You know it. I know it. How can you say that no one knows it?"

"Say, Ted," said Bob, "you know Mr. Jones, the grocer?"

"Yes. What's the matter?"

"Well, Mrs. Jones has got a baby girl and maybe there won't be a row. I saw a notice in the window yesterday, 'Boy Wanted.'"

Room for Improvement

The newely elected president of a banking institution was being introduced to the employes. He singled out one of the men in the cashier's cage, questioning him in detail about his work, etc.

"I have been here forty years," said the cashier's assistant, with conscious pride, "and in all that time I only made one slight mistake."

"Good," replied the president. "Let me congratulate you. But hereafter be more careful."—Wall Street Journal.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Coffee futures were lower today owing to easier ruling of Rio exchange rates and reports of slightly lower cost and freight offers from Santos. After starting at a net decline of 6 to 11 points active months sold 11 to 18 points net lower, easing off to 8.53 for December and 8.05 for March. Last prices were the lowest for the day showing net losses of 11 to 20 points. Sales were estimated at about 39,000 bags. December 8.54; January 8.39; March 8.04; May 7.94; July 7.88; September 7.80.

Spot coffee quite and unchanged at 8 3-4 to 87-8 for Rio 7's and 11 3-4 to 12 1-2 for Santos 4's.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Raw sugar was a little more active with sales reported by the committee of 170,000 bags of Cuba's to local refiners at 2½c cost and freight equal to 4.11 for centrifugal, or unchanged from last prices. Duty free sugars were unchanged at 4.06 for centrifugal.

Raw sugar futures were firmer on covering and scattered buying by trade interests and Wall Street with closing prices 2 to 3 points net higher and with business a little more active. December closed at 2.43; March 2.28; May 2.37 and July 2.48.

There were no changes in refined with fine granulated listed at 5.20 to 5.30. Business was still restricted owing to the inability of refiners to make prompt delivery.

Refiner futures were nominal with no transactions. Closing bids were unchanged to 5 points net higher. December closed at 5.45; March and May 5.30.

LABOR DECIDES TO CALL STRIKE IN ROME

By Associated Press.

ROME, Nov. 9.—The chamber of labor today decided to proclaim a general strike in Rome. The decision came as a sequel to difficulties that have arisen between workers and the fascisti, or extreme nationalists.

Stocks

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Large buying orders from speculative sources came into the stock market over the election day recess and prices of various popular issues, especially oils, steels and kindred shares were substantially enhanced.

In the case of Mexican Petroleum which dominated the market at a net gain of 7 1-8 points the movement was mainly on technical conditions, the shorts paying heavy tolls.

Rails, steels and issues of like description drifted aimlessly for a time but came briskly forward in the last half of the session.

Shares of concerns which may reasonably hope to benefit by increased holiday business, such as the department stores, also strengthened, but tobaccos and several of the more obscure specialties were heavy or irregular. Leaders were undeterred by the rise of call money from 5 1-2 to 6 percent in the final hour, many closing prices being at or near the day's top levels. Sales amounted to 865,000 shares, cables stating that Germany is preparing to meet her next reparations payment accounted for the moderate rally in marks, first in London and then here. Sterling was firm but remittances to most of the other allied countries were moderately lower on small trading. Of the neutral countries, Danish bills were heavy and Far Eastern quotation continued to rise.

Liberty and most other active bonds were irregular on further profit taking, the international group also showing no marked trend. Total sales par value $15,675,000.

Cotton

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Then census report showing 6,646,136 bales of cotton ginned up to November 1, or about 100,000 bales more than the total crop indication of September 25, was followed by a break of approximately a cent a pound in the cotton market here today. January sold off to 17.15, or 109 below Monday's close and the lowest price touched since it advanced to 21.75 last September. That delivery closed at 17.24 with the general market closing steady at a net decline of 85 to 100 points.

The ginning figures were evidently a disappointment to recent buyers and the remaining old long interest, and appeared to be taken as indicating a crop more likely to exceed than fall short of seven and a half million bales, or about a million bales in excess of the end September forecast. The market opened easy at a decline of 26 to 38 points and sold off rapidly under liuidation and scattering pressure from local, southern and Wall Street sources. The selling pressure slackened from time to time during the day and there were moderate rallies, but each bulge met increased offerings and lowest prices were reached during the last hour when December sold at 17.35 and March at 17.04 with active months generally showing net losses of 94 to 110 points. Offerings then became lighter and there were rallies at the close, with last prices showing bulges of some ten to fifteen points from the lowest.

The ginning figures were accompanied by a report from the census bureau indicating that the average weight of square bales ginned up to October 18 this year was 502.5 pounds compared with 511.2 pounds to November 1 last season and 504.4 to November 1 two years ago. The relatively light weight of the bales failed to modify the influence of the larger ginnings than expected, however, and other features in the day's news were overshadowed by the revision of crop ideas.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 9.—The one influence in cotton today was heavy ginning and it caused prices to decline 117 to 133 points, the market closing at practically the lowest of the day at 16.62 for December and 15.87 for July, new low levels for the downward movement which had been underway for some time. Much liquidation of long contracts came on the market and after the close it was a gossip around the ring that a great deal of unprotected spot cotton in the interior had been hedged during the day by sales of future contracts, which, of course, increased the pressure against values. The only support the market had came from realizing by shorts and it was not of sufficient volume to result in upward reactions of importance.

The total of 6,646,136 bales ginned to the first of November, according to the report issued by the census bureau on the opening, compared with general expectations of not more than 6,300,000 bales but its real bearishness lay in the fact that it was so much higher than the crop estimate made some time ago by the department of agriculture and recently confirmed, which put the total yield this season at 6,537,000 bales.

Ginning for the period amounted to 1,145,549 bales and was another argument against the market for it was pointed out that this quantity of cotton was ginned at a time when the claim was constantly heard that there was next to no cotton left to be ginned.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Liuidation on the bearish ginners report on cotton carried cottonseed oil off ten to to thirteen points, but shorts came in on the decline and steadied the market toward the close. Leading months closed 7 to 8 points net lower. Sales 39,200 barrels. Crude market lower. Prime crude 6.75@7.00; prime summer yellow spot 8.10@8.65; December 8.40; March 8.78; May 8.97, all bid.

LIVERPOOL STOCK COTTON.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 9.—Spot cotton in limited demand; prices unchanged; good middling 12.38; fully middling 11.98; low middling 10.28; good ordinary 7.83. Sales 5,000 bales, including 4,400 American.

The air in large cities, it is said, is usually as fresh as that found on mountain-tops by the sea, or in deserts.

Drake did not know whether he would be beheaded or praised when he returned to England with his first Spanish plunder.

Livestock

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Nov. 9.—Due to the improved demand for canner cows, the cattlemarket presented a more lively appearance Wednesday morning, but steers did not sell very freely and as on other days recently, the calf market dragged. Receipts amounted to 3,500 head of cattle and 4,000 calves. The market was quoted steady on cattle and the calf trade was quotably unchanged.

No quotable change developed in hog prices, a run of 1,000 head selling readily. Good hogs cleared to packers at 7.40 and most of the run sold at 7.00 to 7.35. Pigs ruled steady to ten cents higher, the best going at 7.60.

Sheep receipts were limited to 125 head, the run being of mixed quality and mostly common. Prices were unchanged. A few ewes were good and brought 4.00. Quotations:

Cattle—Beeves 3.00@5.75; stockers 3.00@4.50; cows 2.25@4.00; canners 1.50@2.25; heifers 3.00@5.00; yearlings 3.50@6.00; bulls 1.50@2.75; calves 2.00@6.00.

Hogs—Light 7.25@7.40; medium 7.00@7.25; mixed 6.50@7.00; common 6.00@6.50; heavy 7.00@7.25; rought heavy 6.00@7.00; pigs 7.50@7.60; stags 5.00@5.50.

Sheep—Lambs 7.00@7.50; yearlings 5.00@5.50; wethers 4.50@4.75; ewes 3.25@4.00; culls 1.00@2.00; stocker sheep 2.50@3.50; stocker lambs 4.00@6.00; goats 1.00@2.00.

KANSAS CITY LIVESTOCK.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 9.—Cattle 12,000; beef steers dull, steady to 25c lower; top heavies 9.25; calves mostly 50c lower; good and choice vealers 8.50@9.00; heavy and medium weight mostly 4.00@5.50; stockers and feeders weak to lower; stockers 4.00@5.40; feeders 4.50@5.50; other classes slow; mixed western canners and cutters 2.75@3.10; cows 4.25@5.00.

Hogs, 7,000; steady to weak; packer top 7.05; shipper top 7.10; bulk of sales 6.55@7.50; sows 5.75@6.00; pigs 15c lower; bulk 7.75@7.90.

Grain

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Wheat displayed fresh strength today, all points showing a falling off in receipts. The market closed strong 1 1-2 to 2 1-8 net higher with December 1.06 1-8 to 1.06 3-8 and May 1.11 1-2 to 1.11 5-8. Corn gained 5-8 to 3-4c and oats 1-8@1-8 to 3-8c. In provisions the outcome was unchanged to 20c lower.

It was with but little effect that bears in the wheat trade tried to explain away the evident curtailment of receipts, and there were predictions that total primary receipts this week might not exceed 6,000,000 bushels as against recent totals of 9,000,000 to 10,000,000. Notice that no moisture of consequence was reported from Kansas, Oklahoma or Texas despite and snow elsewhere counted as an aditional bullish factor.

Corn and oats sympathized a little with wheat strength but held within narrow limits.

Firmness in provisions was only temporarily, toward the last quotations having a downward sla because of absence of demand.

BURGLAR MAKES VALUABLE HAUL IN ST. LOUIS HOME

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 9.—A burglar today entered the home of W. P. Tobin and after binding a domestic, escaped with jewelry valued at more than five thousand dollars, according to a report to police. The gems were taken from a hiding place, the report said.

Indigestion or Sour, Gassy Stomach

"Pape's Diapepsin" gives Relief in Five Minutes

"Pape's Diapepsin" relieves stomach distress in five minutes. You don't want a slow remedy when your stomach is bad—or an uncertain one—or a harmful one—your stomach is too valuable; you mustn't injure it with drastic drugs. Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in giving relief, its harmlessness, its certain unfailing action in regulating sick, sour, gassy stomachs. Keep this perfect stomach doctor in your home—keep it handy—get a large sixty-cent case from any drug store, and then if you should eat something which doesn't agree with you, if what you eat lays like lead, ferments and sours and forms gas; causes headache, dizziness and nausea; eructations of acid and undigested food—remember as soon as Pape's Diapepsin comes in contact with the stomach all indigestion vanishes. It is the most efficient antacid known—the certainty and ease with which it overcomes stomach and digestive disorders is a revelation to those who try it.—Adv.

"BIG TIM" AND CO-DEFENDANTS ARE CONVICTED

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—"Big Tim" Murphy, union leader, former state representative, former secretary to Congressman "Pipes" McDermott, and alleged gunman, was found guilty today by a jury in Judge Kenesaw M. Landis' court of plotting the $300,000 mail robbery at Dearborn station last April. Vincenzo Cosmano, union president and protege of Murphy, Edward Gelrum, alleged driver of the bandit car, and Paul Volanti also were convicted.

Murphy was convicted on two counts of conspiracy to rob the mail. Each count carries a maximum penalty of two years imprisonment and $10,000 fine. Cosmano and Gelrum were found guilty on the conspiracy charge also. A charge of robbing the mails was not sustained by the jury.

Murphy and Volanti were the defendants named in the conviction on the charge of knowingly possessing stolen government property. The punishment is similar to that of the conspiracy charge.

Immediately after the jury had returned its verdict, attorneys for the convicted men entered separate motions for retrial. All the defendants were allowed to leave the courtroom on their present bonds until next Monday when Judge Landis will hear the motions.

MRS. OBENCHAIN AND BURCH IN COURT

Above: Mrs. Obenchain (left) with woman bailiff. Below: Arthur Burch (left) wit. his attorney, Paul Schenck.

When Mrs. Obenchain was photographed in court at the opening of Arthur Burch's trial in Los Angeles, she not only refused to heed the photographer's request to "look pleasant," but even attempted to hide her face. Burch was more accommodating. He is shown with one of his lawyers, who is attempting to make the court believe hat Burch is crazy.

How Yeast Vitamon Tablets Put On Firm Flesh

Quickly Increase Your Energy and Beautify the Complexion—Easy and Economical to Take.

Thin or run-down folks! Take Mastin's VITAMON—two tablets with every meal. Then weigh and measure yourself each week and continue taking Mastin's VITAMON regularly until you are satisfied with your gain in weight and energy. Mastin's VITAMON contains highly concentrated yeast-vitamines as well as the two other still more important vitamines (Fat Soluble A and Water Soluble C). It is now being used by thousands who appreciate its convenience, economy and quick results. By increasing the nourishing power of what you eat Mastin's VITAMON supplies just what your body needs to feed the shrunken tissues, strengthen internal organs, clear the skin and renew shattered nerve force without upsetting the stomach or causing gas. Pimples, boils and skin eruptions seem to vanish as if by magic and the complexion becomes radiantly clear and beautiful.

IMPORTANT! While the amazing health-building value of Mastin's VITAMON has been clearly and positively demonstrated in cases of lack of energy, nervous troubles, anemia, indigestion, constipation, skin eruptions, poor complexion and a generally weakened physical and mental condition, it should not be used by anyone who OBJECTS to having their weight increased to normal. You can get Mastin's VITAMON tablets at all good druggists.
