Pontiff Visits Student Priests

Pope John XXIII, right, chats with student priests during a visit to the major Roman seminary of St. John in Lateran in Rome. The Pontiff makes an annual visit at the seminary on the feast day of the Madonna of Faith. The Pope himself attended the seminary in his days as a student priest in Rome.

Oil Theft Trial Is Launched Today

Labor Union Chiefs Support Foreign Policy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Top leaders of organized labor may be lukewarm over President Kennedy's domestic economic stand but they are squarely behind the administration's Cuban and other foreign policies.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council in a weekend statement during winter meetings here praised the President for courageous and capable foreign policy leadership. The council called for an end to partisan political criticism of Kennedy's handling of the Communist threat in Cuba.

The labor chiefs declared in another statement, however, that Kennedy's domestic programs are too mild to spread prosperity and provide for a full production, full employment economy.

"American is headed for another recession this year — the fifth of the post-World War II period—if present economic trends are permitted to run their normal course," the council said.

Instead of the gradual $10-billion tax cut which the President has proposed to Congress the council recommended that taxes be cut by that amount immediately with benefits focused more prominently on lower income taxpayers.

U. S. Makes Large Loan To India

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States today made the largest development loan in the history of its foreign aid program—$240 million to India.

Its purpose: to help India finance imports of priority goods. No military aid is involved.

The entire amount will be spent in the United States.

The only larger U.S. loan was for $322.7 million. It was to Britain in 1948. It was for reconstruction, not development.

Prince Albert of Belgium is in the capital for a two-day visit. As honorary president of the Belgian Office of Foreign trade, he is looking over possibilities for more trade with the United States.

The prince, 28, is the younger brother of King Baudouin. He will meet President Kennedy at a White House luncheon Tuesday.

A bipartisan Senate group has urged a clampdown on American aid to Southeast Asia. It wants a solid reassessment of security needs there.

Reporting on a study made at the request of the White House, the group headed by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said $5 billion in economic and military aid has been channeled into Southeast Asia since 1950. It questioned how much good this money had done and how long present aid policies should be continued.

The Navy may be getting a rival for its Polaris as a weapon for surface ships. The Air Force apparently is developing a mid-range ballistic missile.

No name for it as yet. It would be mobile, with a projected range of about 3,000 miles — about 200 miles more than that of the advanced A3 Polaris now being developed.

A House subcommittee is going to take a close look at broadcast ratings. It wants to find out how they are made, how they are used and just how accurate they are.

Firms that provide such ratings claim they indicate how many people around the country are tuned in to a particular radio or television program.

Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., heads the House Commerce Committee and its special investigating subcommittee that will hold the hearings. Opening date: March 5.

First Case From Grand Jury Charges

LONGVIEW (AP) — Two motions, one by the state and the other by the defense, were quickly overruled today as Dist. Judge David Moore was called to trial on felony oil theft charges.

The case was called in Moore's own court with Dist. Judge Ward Chandler of Carthage presiding.

The state motion was for a change of venue. The defense asked that the indictment be quashed.

After overruling both motions without comment, Chandler recessed court until 1 p.m. to give the state a chance to locate missing witnesses.

Moore is charged with felony theft of oil through what the state contends is an illegally deviated well.

His is the first case to come to trial from the several hundred so-called "slant-well" indictments voted by East Texas grand juries.

The state based its change of venue motion on the allegation that Moore was so prominent and popular and has so many friends who are prejudiced in his favor that the state cannot get a fair trial in Longview.

The defense contended Moore was wrongly indicted under two felony statutes and that he should have been charged under a special mineral act which would reduce the charge to a misdemeanor with a maximum fine of $1,000.

Dist. Atty. Ralph Prince said he was withdrawing from the case, explaining he had known Moore for a number of years and was a close friend.

He said he was doing this to avoid any criticism.

He said Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr, at his request, was assigning his chief of the attorney general's oil and gas division, Cecil Rotsch, to assist in the trial.

Prince assigned two of his assistants, Nathan Holt and Kenneth Dickerson, to the case.

Moore, 42, is accused of stealing crude oil taken from adjacent leases through one well on the David Moore-M. F. Fisher lease near Gladewater. Conviction could carry a sentence of 2 to 10 years in prison.

The state contends the one well on the lease is bottomed at or near the intersection of three other leases, owned by Amerada Petroleum Corp., Continental Oil and Producing Properties, Inc.

After the indictment was returned, Moore voluntarily stepped down from the bench where he has presided since August, 1957. He has said he is confident facts in the case will support his claims of innocence.

Moore made two voluntary appearances before the Gregg County grand jury and at an Austin hearing of the House General Investigating Committee.

Concessions Reduce Demo's Lead In Recount Of Votes

ST. PAUL, Minn., (AP) — Concessions which reduced the recount lead of Karl Rolvaag, the Democratic candidate, from 133 to 14 were made today at the opening of the recount trial involving disputed ballots in the Minnesota governorship election.

C. L. Nelson, New Prague, Rolvaag's attorney, told the three-judge District court that 241 of 249 ballots in Category 1 claimed by Rolvaag should be deleted from the total, and that 122 of 137 in this class counted for Republican Gov. Elmer L. Andersen should be deducted.

Category 1 involves ballots marked for either Rolvaag and William Bratz, the Industrial Government candidate, or for Andersen and Bratz.

This shift cut 119 votes from Rolvaag's recount lead of 133.

Still in dispute were eight ballots in this class claimed by Rolvaag and 15 claimed by Andersen.

As the trial got under way this morning, there were no spectators, as such, in the courtroom—only party officials or members of the press.

Nearly 1½ million votes were cast for governor. The race was the closest in Minnesota's 106 years as a state.

The State Canvassing Board declared Andersen the winner by a margin of 142 votes. Rolvaag asked for a recount and the State Supreme Court appointed three district judges to take charge—J.H. Sylvestre of Crookston, Sidney E. Kaner of Duluth and Leonard Keyes of St. Paul.

The trio will pass upon between 1,500 and 2,000 disputed ballots culled from the 96,000 challenged by both sides in the recount proceedings. The recount put Rolvaag ahead by 133 votes, but Andersen remained as governor pending a decision on disputed ballots.

The disputed ballots have been divided into 24 categories. The judges said they will rule on each category as it is presented to the panel.

A week from today the panel will start hearing allegations of irregularities in conduct of the election.

The judges may be asked by Rolvaag to rule on admissibility of about 7,000 absentee envelopes. The Democrats have challenged 7,000 envelopes and the ballots received in them. Reasons for challenge include absence of a notary seal, postmark, or voter's signature.

Attorneys for the two sides have said they hope for a decision from the judges about March 20. However, the loser can appeal to the State Supreme Court. In that event, the final outcome would be delayed about another month.

Girl Survives 33 Hours With Carbon Monoxide

HOUSTON (AP)—A 16-year-old girl, unconscious about 33 hours in a closed car filled with carbon monoxide fumes, was alive and resting well today.

A friend, Dennis John Miller, 21, a roofer's helper, was dead.

Police said Miller's death was accidental.

The girl, Donna Jean Holstein, said car trouble developed while she and Miller were on a date Friday night and that she went to sleep in the car while he tried to make repairs. She said she did not wake up until Sunday when B. W. Seago, 58, stopped at the parked automobile and asked if she needed help.

Seago said Miss Holstein replied that she needed no help but knocked on his door a few minutes later and asked to use the telephone. Seago said he then found Miller's body in the car.

Seago said he had noticed the car in front of his home Saturday but ignored it until he saw it still there Sunday.

Investigators said the car ignition switch was on but the gasoline tank was empty. Police said Miller apparently went to sleep in the car after completing the repairs.

Hollywood Begins Its Annual Academy Awards Carnival

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood begins its annual dizzy Oscar carnival today by announcing the 1962 Academy Award nominations.

Reflecting the global aspect of movie making, it looks as if this year's awards will be the most international yet.

One Italian picture, "Divorce, Italian Style," is rated a good chance to cop a best picture nomination and also a best actor nomination for star, Marcello Mastroianni. Mastroianni doesn't speak English.

"The Longest Day," Darryl F Zanuck's personal movie invasion of Normandy, is a strong candidate also. It is the first multiple language movie wherein the German, French, English and American soldiers speak lines in their native tongues.

There also could be a chance of a deceased playwright who never wrote a word for the movies being nominated for best screen play.

Eugene O'Neill's "Long Day's Journey Into Night," is a favorite for a best picture nomination. Its makers filmed O'Neill's story of his tragic family mostly as a photographed play, using the famed dramatist's stage directions as a working script. He got solo screen play credit.

Much of the competition is expected to involve such movies as "To Kill A Mockingbird," "Days of Wine and Roses," "The Music Man," "Lawrence of Arabia" and "The Manchurian Candidate," among others.

For the best actor award the prenomination predictions are Gregory (Mockingbird) Peck, Jack (Wine and Roses) Lemmon, Jason (Long Day's Journey) Robards Jr., Robert (Music Man) Preston, Peter (Lawrence of Arabia) O'Toole and Mastroianni.

For top actress there will be two old-timers favored to win nominations— Katharine Hepburn as the tormented, dope-addicted mother of O'Neill's play and Bette Davis as the eccentric former child star in "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?"

But they will have tough competition, if the oddsmakers are right, from such younger stars as Anne Bancroft in "The Miracle Worker," Geraldine Page in "Sweet Bird of Youth" and Lee Remick, the alcoholic wife in "Days of Wine and Roses."

Winners will be named at the traditional award ceremonies April 8.

Coast Guard Probes Deeper Into Missing Ship

BEAUMONT (AP) — A Coast Guard inquiry dug deeper today into the disappearance of the tanker Marine Sulphur Queen.

Two Coast Guard men and a former member of the missing tanker's crew were called as witnesses.

The Sulphur Queen left Beaumont Feb. 2 on its last voyage.

Coast Guard investigators said they would check life preservers and debris from the tanker found off the Florida coast last week in an effort to determine what happened to the boat and its crew of 39.

The Sulphur Queen disappeared en route to Norfolk with a load of molten sulphur.

David Fike, 53, of Houston, second mate of the Sulphur Queen, who left the tanker on its last call to Beaumont for a two months vacation, notified the Coast Guard he was back at home after a trip to Daytona Beach, Fla.

The Coast Guard had sought him as a witness. Fike informed investigators, however, he was undergoing dental surgery and may not be able to appear here at once.

Evidence last week showed that the Sulphur Queen was to have gone into dry dock in January, but this was postponed so the tanker could make one or two more voyages.

Lt. Bobbie Burns of the Coast Guard investigating office testified he found a one-inch crack in the hulk of the vessel and numerous small fractures in the bulkhead, but told the investigating board these had been repaired.

He said the ship was not pressure tested and that he did not submit a structural report.

Kodak Sales $1 Billion

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — Eastman Kodak Co. sales reached a record $1 billion in 1962, the firm reported today.

Albert Chapman, chairman, reported that 1962 sales at $1,056,072,473 were about 7 per cent above the $898,171,969 in 1961.

Net earnings in 1962 also reached a new high of $140,342,438 compared with $130,203,447 in 1961.

Panel Approves Military Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Armed Services Committee approved a $15.8 billion military authorization bill today—including $363 million to step up the controversial RS70 reconnaissance strike plane program.

Chairman Carl Vinson, D-Ga., said the extra money would pay for construction of two more RS70s, which the administration doesn't want to build.

"We felt it was our duty to put it in," Vinson said. But he said the committee only authorized the extra funds, and did not order the Pentagon to spend the money.

The Pentagon now plans to construct three of the 2,000-mile-an-hour planes. The first is to be test flown late this spring.

The committee also voted extra funds for the Navy to build two more attack submarines. That increases the fiscal 1964 program from the six subs approved by the Pentagon to the eight sought by the Navy.

Vinson said the committee actions increased the military procurement and research bill by $497,700,000.

Controversial Hearings Set

AUSTIN (AP) — Both houses of the State Legislature have scheduled public hearings on a number of controversial proposals.

The House Liquor Committee considers Thursday a proposal to allow liquor to be sold by the drink during the same hours beer is presently sold.

Rep. Ike Harris, Dallas Republican, will propose Monday night a law forbidding a person's name from appearing twice on the same ballot. Two years ago Lyndon Johnson ran in the general election for both the vice presidency and as senator. The House Elections Committee will consider the measure.

Also tonight, the House State Affairs Committee will hear proposals to open welfare records to public inspection; repealing the law passed in 1956 providing for elections to abolish integrated schools; and a bill which would give Texas firms preference in bidding on state projects.

Tuesday afternoon, the House Banks and Banking Committee will consider three proposals to regulate the small loan industry. Similar bills are in a Senate subcommittee.

Three bills for new congressional districts will be presented to a House committee Wednesday night. Two similar proposals are being studied by a subcommittee.

Italians, Dutch Take Lead In French Assault

BRUSSELS (AP)—Italy and the Netherlands took the lead today in striking back at France as the ruling body of the European Common Market gathered for the first time since the French vetoed Britain's entry into the group.

Both the Italians and Dutch made plain that they would not now sign a new treaty for trade and aid with 18 African states, all but two of them former French colonies.

The delay means that for another year at least Frenchmen will have to pay higher prices for African coffee and African bananas, among other things.

Under the new agreement, aid to African producers from a six-nation $730-million fund would have taken the place of subsidies France has paid. The fund is also to help the Africans develop new crops and industries.

The Common Market Council of Ministers is meeting for a two-day session in an atmosphere tense with resentments. The other five members—West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—are angry with the French for blackballing Britain. The French feel that the others are ganging up on them.

The African treaty was to have been signed this week at Yaounde, Cameroon. Now it seems likely to be deferred at least until the end of May. By that time Italy and The Netherlands will have elected new parliaments.

Informed sources said deferment of the agreement angered French representative Jean Marc Boegner, who said, "This will be unfortunate for the Common Market."

The African treaty is close to the hearts of the French because it would tie the whole former French empire in Africa to the Common Market. The other European nations do not oppose it but they want to show their annoyance with the French.

Ambassador George Damas of Gabon said the 18 new nations hoped they would not be made to suffer from reprisals taken by some Common Market members.

"After all, this is exclusively a European crisis," he said. "I hope that at least we will get assurances that it will be signed eventually."

The ministers also will take up relations with the Middle East. Iran wants a special trade agreement with the six nations of the Common Market.

Turkey, which considers itself a European country, wants formal association with the Common Market. Israel also wants a special trade agreement, but the talks have so far come to no conclusion.

New Hearing For Hijacker

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ordered today the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans reconsider its decision upholding the conviction and life sentence given Leon Bearden, the first man convicted as an airplane hijacker.

The high tribunal told the Circuit Court it should give Bearden an opportunity to present oral argument on the merits of his case, either by himself or through an attorney.

Bearden and his son Cody, then 16 years old, passengers in a Continental Airlines jet transport over New Mexico Aug. 31, 1961, pulled out guns and ordered the pilot to fly to Cuba. The pilot said he did not have enough fuel to fly to Cuba and landed the jet at El Paso, Tex. Federal, state and city officers seized the plane and overpowered the Beardens after they had been in control for nine hours.

The father was sentenced in federal court in El Paso to life imprisonment on a kidnaping count, to five years for stealing a plane, and 20 years for obstructing interstate commerce by robbery. The terms are concurrent. Cody Bearden was sentenced to a federal correctional institution until he is 21. He did not appeal to the Supreme Court.

Dies At Age 101

WELLINGTON (AP) — C. W. Roberts, a retired farmer and stockman, died Sunday at the age of 101. He helped organize Collingsworth County and had made his home in this vicinity for 75 years.

FIRST SCIENTIFIC EVIDENCE

Computer Decides St. Paul Authored Only 4 Epistles

LONDON (AP)—Two researchers using an electronic computer have decided that St. Paul was the author of only four of the 14 Pauline epistles in the New Testament.

Scientific evidence for their thesis is to be published next month by Dr. G. H. C. MacGregor, professor of Bible criticism at Glasgow University, and the Rev. A. Morton, a minister at Culross Abbey, Fife.

Together they programmed the computer with a quarter of a million words of Greek prose and analyzed the results of a stylistic study of the epistles and work by other Greek authors.

Morton told a newsman:

"The results are convincing. The work is based on the principle that authors have certain habits of style deeply ingrained. For the present study we have considered such things as the space between the uses of the word 'and,' repetitive uses of the word, sentences beginning with the word and so on."

Morton said their paper will present for the first time scientific evidence in support of the theory that only four of the epistles—Romans, First and Second Corinthians, and Galatians—were written by St. Paul.

"We have reached no final conclusion on the very short (358 word) Philemon epistle, but there is no reason to argue he did not write it. The stylistic differences between these epistles and the others is great," he said.

$250,000 Fire In Georgia City

MACON, Ga. (AP)—Authorities probed smoke-blackened ruins today to determine what started the general alarm fire which destroyed old Wesleyan College and three apartment buildings and caused damage estimated at $250,000.

Only the four-story brick shell remained of the vacant building which was being torn down to make room for a new post office. Two firemen were injured and more than 30 families left homeless in this middle Georgia city by the four-hour fire Sunday.

Ancient Town Hit By Tremors

BENGHAZI, Libya (AP) — New earth tremors struck the ancient town of Tolemaide during the night but it was not known today whether there were any casualties.

Tolemaide, a town of about 500 people settled by the Greeks before the birth of Christ, is 18 miles from El Marj, where 261 died in an earthquake last week.

Heart Fund Coffers Fill

A preliminary count of proceeds from Sunday's Heart Fund canvass shows $1,881.26 added to the 1963 campaign, according to Mrs. Tommy Hubbard, Heart Sunday chairman.

"We are extremely pleased with the results. The area chairmen did a wonderful job and deserve much of the credit," she said.

Last year at this point proceeds were $1,605.83. The 1963 figure is subject to correction for discrepancies in reporting and any additional funds which are turned in late.

About 300 persons participated in the three-hour drive which began at 1 p.m. Sunday. Several streets, especially in the Washington Place area, remain to be worked and this may be done today. The turnout of workers was good, although illness prevented several persons from participating in the drive.

"Many envelopes were left at homes where no one answered the door," Mrs. Hubbard said. "The sunny weather helped the drive, but it hurt a little too, because many persons were lured away from home to take advantage of it."

She urged persons who were absent from their homes Sunday to place their contribution in the envelopes so the drive results can be determined soon.

Several areas are due for an extra pat on the back, Mrs. Hubbard said. The Coahoma and Sand Springs area, for instance, where $271.20 was brought in, and the Bauer and Lakeview districts, which nearly doubled last year's contributions.

After the mop-up drives, all that remains of the current Heart Fund campaign will be collection of the Plastic Hearts which have been on display at business houses in Big Spring and Coahoma most of this month. They will be taken up Thursday or Friday.

Results in the various areas were: Airport No. 1 and 2 $73.37, Bauer $65.44, Boydstun $219.03, Cedar Crest $35.80, College Heights $216.81, Lakeview $70.62, Marcy $61.43, Western Hills $47.62, Park Hill $227.87, Washington No. 1, No. 2 and Monticello $580.30, and Coahoma and Sand Springs $217.20.

Big And Little Girl Styles

Pre-school femininity and the zany look loved by teen-agers are incorporated in these fashions. At left is scalloped edge party frock with four cornered parasol; center is bunny eared straw hat with playsuit; at right is fruit print sports ensemble with same miniature fruits on straw scuffs. Raffia-fringed wig hat with its own pigtail completes the costume.

Kids Copy Babysitters; Thumbs Down On Copying Mother

NEW YORK (AP)—Chances are your pre-school daughter will turn her petite thumbs down on another mother-daughter dress. For you are not her fashion ideal anymore.

Her babysitter is.

She still may play "mother" with her dolls and "house" with her little friends but the little girl wants to look like the big girls who sits with them, or their own big sisters.

For these reasons childrenswear designer Ruth Combs ignores Paris women's wear influences, despite trend in the field to imitate them, and instead keeps her keen brown eyes on the high school crowd.

"For example, we're using madras for kiddies," she says, "because it's been a smash with teen-agers."

Perhaps because teen-agers leaf through the fashion magazines with their sleepy charges on their laps, little girls are much more sophisticated about fashion than they used to be. "You'd be surprised at how label-conscious five-year-olds are."

NO DITTO STYLES

Don't assume Ruth creates miniature teen-age garments for her shrewd little clients, though. She just borrows their style mood and fabric trend. Indeed, the very idea of adapting women's wear designs to youngsters is abhorrent to her.

"Children's shoulders are small and they need something horizontal at the top like a middy collar," says the brown-eyed, auburn haired lady in soft Carolina drawl. "They need flaring skirts to minimize their middles and to give them room for action. I think it's horrible to incarcerate a child in a straight shift. A child's dress should bounce."

Today Ruth Combs' word is authority on the childrenswear field, but it took Hendersonville, N. C., designer four years to earn her position.

"Businessmen laughed us off at first as a couple of bored social butterflies whose enthusiasm would soon wane," Ruth says of business partner Daisy Sample and herself. "In a way I can't really blame them."

FALSE START

Ruth's first try at business isn't anything she's proud of. Curling false braids around her head to look of legal age, she signed a lease for a hat shop immediately after graduating from Traphagen.

She worked hard at her hats until the summer heat gripped the city and her family went to their cool mountain home. Then she took the braids off, bravely confessed to the landlord that she was too young (17) to sign contracts, and took off to the hills.

The business urge never surged again until Ruth had married, divorced, and had seen her only daughter off to college. Then, because she had always made her daughters' costumes after failing to find anything she wanted in the shops, Ruth and long time friend Daisy began to custom design childrenswear in earnest.

Their first plant was infested with copperheads. By forming a human chain they swept them out of hiding and destroyed them. In designing her own fabrics, which Ruth has always done, she also made some serious and expensive mistakes in the beginning. Once a horse print came out backward, an error which forced her to provide a velvet lattice fence to disguise it.

Since these unsteady days Ruth and Daisy have switched to wholesale operation which now reaches across the country into many a stylish little girl's wardrobe.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

More Than 200 At Thinking Day Event

Webb Neighborhood, comprising seven troops of Brownies and Girl Scouts, presented a Thinking Day program at John Lees Service Club Sunday with some 200 persons in attendance. Also Andrea Primdahl of Troop 299 received the curved bar, highest award in Scouting.

An original poem by Denise Head was the keynote of the program which celebrated International Friendship. The opening flag ceremony was given by Senior GS Troop No. 299. Each of the seven troops participated in the presentation which included singing, dancing, skits and a display of international costumes.

Mrs. Charles Head, mistress of ceremonies, introduced Mrs. Larson Lloyd, the speaker. In her talk on "International Friendship," Mrs. Lloyd explained the use of the Juliet Lowe fund to which each troop contributed.

The curved bar award was made by Mrs. Lloyd in the presence of Andrea Primdahl's mother, Mrs. J. Primdahl, and her troop leader, Mrs. Lyndon Lewis. And, after awards were made to those selling the most GS cookies, the colors were retired by the senior troop.

Concluding the event, refreshments were served.

Miss Young Bride Of Jerry Wayne Cave

LAMESA (SC)—Miss Lavonda Rue Young and Jerry Wayne Cave were united in marriage Saturday at 7 p.m. in the Northside Church of Christ.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clovis Young, and the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Cave of Ackerly.

Truman Hayes read the double ring ceremony before a bridal archway entwined with greenery and flanked with baskets of white stock and greenery. Spiral candelabra holding cathedral tapers formed the background for the floral arrangements. Wedding tapers lighted the bridal aisle.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original gown of white delustered bridal satin designed and made by her sister, Mrs. Otha Brown. The formal gown was designed with a portrait neckline and long tapered sleeves ending in petal points over the hands. The neckline and front panel of the deeply pleated skirt was enhanced with appliques of re-embroidered Alencon lace, sequins and seed pearls. The full skirt formed a chapel train accented with three satin petaled roses entwined with seed pearls.

Her circular veil of silk illusion was attached to a large petaled rose of delustered bridal satin. She carried a cascade of white carnations with showers of feathered carnations atop a white prayer book.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Otha Brown, was matron of honor. Best man was Daniel Cave of Ackerly, the bridegroom's brother.

A reception was held in the Woman's Study Club building following the ceremony, with members of the wedding party and their parents assisting the couple in the receiving line. Guests were in attendance from Ackerly, Lubbock, Colorado City, Odessa, Seagraves, Seminole, Petersburg, Meadow, Big Spring and Lamesa.

For a wedding trip to Dallas the bride wore a 2-piece lightweight wool suit in turquoise and bronze with matching silk blouse and bronze patent accessories. The couple will be at home at 209 N. Avenue G in Lamesa after the wedding trip.

The bride is a graduate of Lamesa High School.

The bridegroom was graduated from Flower Grove High School, and is now farming in the Ackerly Community.

East-west places were taken by Mrs. Ayra McGann and Mrs. Ben McCullough, first; Mrs. W. T. Drake and Mrs. Joe Sharpnack, second; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Riley, third; and Mrs. R. E. Dobbins and Mrs. Bill Emerson, fourth.

To Marry In June Rites

LAMESA (SC) — Mrs. N. S. Parker announces the forthcoming marriage of her daughter, Terrye Ladell, to Jimmy Garrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Garrett.

The wedding is set for June 1 in the Northside Baptist Church.

The bride-elect, a graduate of O'Donnell High School, is presently employed by Dawson County. The prospective bridegroom, a graduate of Lamesa High School, is stationed with the U. S. Marine Corps in California.

Miss Morton Bride-Elect

LAMESA (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Morton announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Retta Joyce, to Melvin A. Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Morris of Welch. The wedding is planned for July 26.

The bride-elect is a sophomore at Lamesa High School, and the prospective bridegroom is a graduate of Dawson High School in Welch. He is presently employed as a service station attendant.

SPOUDAZIO

A change of meeting place is announced for members of the Spoudazio Fora. Scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, the meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Bob Clark, 2103 Morrison, instead of the home of Mrs. Ennis Cochran.

Schildknecht-Tinsley Vows Are Exchanged

LAMESA (SC) — The First Presbyterian Church was the setting Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Rebecca Carter Tinsley and Ellis Lee Schildknecht, with the Rev. Walter C. Horn, pastor, officiating in the double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Roy Tinsley. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis McClellan Schildknecht of Osborn, Mo.

Marriage vows were repeated at the altar which was centered with a large basket of all-white gladioli, stock and candytuft flanked with floor candelabra.

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a white formal gown of candlelight Chantilly lace and nylon tulle. The lace bodice was fashioned with a Queen Anne neckline and long tapered sleeves ending in petal points over the hands. A Polonaise drape formed two floor-length lace panels in back, and tiny lace covered buttons fastened the dress to below the waistline.

The two-tiered ballerina length veil of French silk imported illusion was attached to a crown of pearlized flowers. She wore a single strand of pearls.

Her bridal bouquet was a cascade arrangement of all - white sweetheart roses interspersed with stephanotis.

Miss Mary Katherine Tinsley, the bride's sister, was maid of honor and Robert Schildknecht of Warrensburg, Mo., the bridegroom's brother, was best man.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents.

For traveling the bride chose a tangerine silk linen suit with black patent accessories. The couple will be at home on the Flying Ranch near Capitan, N. M. after March 3.

The bride is a graduate of Lamesa High School, Stephens College, Columbia, Mo. and Texas Tech College.

The bridegroom, a graduate of the University of Missouri, is employed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as an agricultural engineer.

Wedding Plans Are Announced

LAMESA (SC) — Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Logan announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Viola Virginia, to Benson Edgar McCulloch, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McCulloch.

The wedding is planned for April 16 in the home of the prospective bridegroom's parents.

THE CHURCH RESTORED

By T. H. Tarbet, Preacher
Church of Christ, 2000 West Highway 80

During the "Dark Ages," the true church may have continued to function in certain places, unknown to the few historians of those days. At least, the church existed in the word of God, the seed of the kingdom, which endureth forever (Luke 8:11; I Pet. 1:25). But it was obvious that the true church was unknown to most of the people. The known church had become corrupt. It was not the true one.

Faced with that problem, certain people begin a movement to reform the Roman church. History knows this as the "Reformation Movement." It brought many blessings. It did not, however, fill the need. The people did not need a man-made church reformed. They needed the divine church restored to them. It existed, but they were not acquainted with it. Restoration was the need; not reformation. There may have been many efforts at restoring the true church; and history records at least one great "Restoration Movement" which started in England and America in the nineteenth century. Today, many of us are working to take the people back to the original church of the Bible. What can be wrong with that???

Tested Taste

A little white wine left over? You'll find it will enliven condensed cream of tomato soup. The wine may be substituted for part of the water used in diluting the soup, or it may be added after dilution.

Souffle Tip

When you are preparing a baked dessert souffle, you may butter the souffle dish and sprinkle it with sugar before adding the souffle mixture.

White Pepper

Note to new cooks: keep white as well as black pepper on hand. Use the white pepper in a light-colored dish when you don't want grains of black pepper to show.

150,000 See Laredo Fete

LAREDO (AP) — A festive crowd estimated at 150,000 turned out in bright sunshine Sunday for the finale of this border city's annual George Washington Birthday Fiesta.

Chill temperatures and rain had cut attendance the first two days of the celebration.

The border was open and many crossed to Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, to see six bullfights featuring three top matadors during the afternoon. Thousands of Mexicans poured into Laredo for the festivities on the Texas side of the Rio Grande.

High point of the program in Laredo was a dinner honoring U. S. Dist. Judge Reynaldo Garza of Brownsville as Mr. South Texas of 1963. Garza, the first Latin American to be appointed a federal judge, was praised as the man who had done the most for South Texas and for Latin American relations.

Julio Santos Coy, undersecretary of labor in Mexico, read a message of good will and congratulations from Mexican President Adolfo Lopez Mateos.

In his speech Garza mentioned a long-time San Antonio newspaperman, Clarence LaRoche, as a Texan who had done outstanding work in improving relations between Mexico and the United States.

Did Teddy Ask Politely Or Rip It Up?

STOWE, Vt. (AP)— A spokesman for U.S. Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and a news photographer have given conflicting versions of an incident resulting from a candid photograph taken at this ski resort.

Philip N. Lawson, 21, of St. Albans, a photographer for the Vermont Sunday News, accused the senator Sunday of grabbing his camera, ripping the leather case, and ruining a roll of film.

A spokesman for Kennedy, youngest brother of the President, said the senator had asked Lawson not to use the candid photograph. He said Lawson "was very cooperative and handed over the film."

The Kennedy party which included Mrs. Edward M. Kennedy, U.S. Atty. Gen. and Mrs. Robert F. Kennedy and their seven children and Mrs. Robert McNamara, wife of the defense secretary, returned to Washington Sunday night.

Lawson said the incident took place in the lounge of The Lodge at Smugglers Notch at about 5 p.m. Saturday.

The Kennedy spokesman quoted the senator as describing Lawson's version of the incident as "distorted."

The spokesman said a number of photographers, amateur and professional, had taken pictures of the senator all weekend without difficulty.

Publisher William Loeb of the Vermont Sunday News issued a statement which said, in part, that Lawson "was on a routine picture taking assignment ordered by his managing editor Robert Bruso. He was in a public place. He at all times acted in a gentlemanly and courteous fashion. When the Kennedys had earlier declined to be photographed and told him to come back, he had done so and waited patiently only to be refused again."

Loeb, who also publishes the Manchester, N.H., Union Leader, charged "the Kennedys are not content with managing the news as in the case of Cuba. Now they apparently intend to suppress the news."

Carol's Show A Real Special

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV - Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A new report on television audience attitudes indicates that most of us would rather see a regularly scheduled program than a special.

If that is true, it may be because so many programs called specials aren't really specials at all—most often one or more big names surrounded by familiar comedy material and tired sketches.

Therefore, when something like Sunday night's CBS "Carol and Company" comes along, it's worth a special cheer. We had a sparkling hour from the moment Carol Burnett yearned (in song) to play Jeanette MacDonald parts to her hilarious striptease at the end.

She's a fine comedienne who can belt out a song. She also has that appealing waiflike quality that endeared Chaplin and other great clowns to audiences.

Robert Preston's competent presence was a great help too. He and Carol had a bright and offbeat duet that started with a round and wandered off unexpectedly through "The Whiffenpoof Song" and "You Are My Sunshine."

Preston's "I Died a Thousand Deaths" was a clever musical number—a star describing his film specialty.

All the music, material and humor were fresh and gay. It was a real special—a television treat.

Efforts To Fly Balloon Fail

A fabric rip in the scientific balloon, left, forced the postponement of a flight to study the planet Mars. The top section of the dual balloon was being inflated at Palestine, for the flight when gas started escaping through the tear in the fabric and it collapsed as shown at right. At far left is the large 36-inch reflector telescope, part of the 6,000 pounds of scientific equipment, which the balloon was to carry to an altitude of 80,000 feet for the electronic look at Mars.

Ghostly Splendor Marks Abandoned African Resort

By RICHARD F. LONG

KISENYI, Rwanda (AP) — This celebrated resort area of the Belgians, surrounded by the spectacular beauty of Lake Kivu, now reminds the visitor of a scene from "Gone With The Wind."

In empty splendor many of the great mansions and hotels look down on the lake from brilliant tropical settings. Broken windows and tall grass around them are reminders of a fabled era that may never return.

Only a few Europeans remain to run hotels and restaurants. Once there were 500 European families, mostly Belgian, living in luxury by African standards. Now approximately 20 European families remain.

The Goma area is made up of two resort communities on Lake Kivu, the lake that divides the Congo from Rwanda. Goma is in the Congo. Kisenyi, one mile to the east, is in Rwanda. The Congo received its independence from Belgium in 1960. Rwanda, a U.N. trust territory administered by the Belgians, received its independence last year.

For all practical purposes the Congo and Rwanda were nearly considered as one by the Belgians. Whatever happened in one affected the other.

So, when independence came to the Congo, the residents and hotel owners of Kisenyi, in Rwanda, fearing that the violence might spread here too, packed their belongings, left their homes and farms and headed back to Belgium.

Not many have returned. A hardy few stayed on, running their small businesses and farms amidst great difficulties.

"There was never any real trouble here," said one of the store operators who stayed.

"But the people feared there would be violence from the Africans, as in Bukavu. So they left and most have never come back."

Bukavu, in the Congo, at the southern end of Lake Kivu, was the scene of great violence at the time of independence. European missionaries were killed there.

Kivu, which sits just below the equator, has always been considered among the most beautiful African lakes—a jewel amid towering mountains. It is free of bilharzia, the disease carried by snails, so you can swim without fear.

You can still get comfortable hotel quarters in Kisenyi. Room and meals average $6 a day. The French cooking is good despite the difficulties hotel owners experience in getting foods they would like. For after-dinner, 100 African cigars can be purchased for 80 American cents.

Village streets are practically deserted. Stores, hotels and restaurants on the main thoroughfare, are mostly vacant. The sandy beach stands in stark loneliness.

The devaluation of the Congo and the Rwanda franc, both used as money here, tells the economic story. Before independence the rate was 50 Congo or Rwanda francs to $1. Now it is 240 Congo and 80 Rwanda francs to $1.

House Office Building Is A Reminder

Editor's Note: About $100 million is being spent to provide more office space for members of the House of Representatives. Why so much to provide an extra room for each of 435 members? John Beckler takes a close look at the project.

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The vast shadow of a new House office building lies across Capitol Hill these days, and across the desks of members busily seeking ways to whittle President Kennedy's budget.

Those who pause in their pursuit of economy to look at the massive marble structure, still uncompleted, may find themselves haunted by the words of the late Rep. Russell Mack, R-Wash.

"How can any member of the House hereafter criticize the administration for extravagant spending if we ourselves vote approval of this grandiose project? Mack asked.

HOW BIG?

How grandiose is the project turning out to be?

When ready for use in about 18 months, the new building with its three-room office suites for 169 members will have cost $83 million. The members who move into it will be getting their quarters, along with added facilities of the building, at a cost of $483,000 each.

Renovation of the present House office buildings to enlarge their two-room offices to three rooms will bring the total cost of the project to about $100 million.

Since the original aim was to provide an extra room for each of the 435 members, the taxpayers will be spending $230,000 per added office room.

It was back in 1957 when Rep. Mack asked his question about extravagant spending on the project. The new office building then was just a gleam in the eye of Speaker Sam Rayburn. A huge hole marked its site.

NO ANSWER

Mack's question went unanswered. No answer was really needed after Rayburn stated firmly during the 1957 debate: "I know better than any other man in the House that we need this additional room."

Today a 10-story structure—named the Rayburn Building in honor of the late speaker and covering two city blocks—rises from the site that had only a large hole in 1957.

The building also will have a swimming pool, nine committee rooms, a cafeteria and five private dining rooms. There will be parking space for 1,600 cars.

Each suite really has a fourth room for a receptionist, and also includes two bathrooms and a built-in refrigerator. The committee rooms will rival movie palaces in elegance and space.

RENOVATION DUE

Once the new building is occupied the two existing office buildings will get a top-to-bottom renovation at an estimated cost of $18.5 million. Each member in these will be provided with a three-room suite.

The expansion of the House into three office buildings while its membership has remained the same—435—as when only one building was needed, reflects the increased work congressmen have taken on.

Where one or two office clerks handling a dozen letters a day were all a member needed in the 1920s, staffs of eight or nine and mail averaging hundreds of letters a day are now the rule.

Increased population in most districts and a proliferation of government services account for much of the extra work.

No small bit is generated by the congressmen themselves through newsletters, speeches and other material used in a ceaseless mail-order campaign for votes.

FEW WILL SAY IT

Despite the undeniable increase in work, however, few members will say openly they need a third room.

Rep. Edward P. Boland, D-Mass., says flatly: "The vast majority of members need a three-room suite as much as they need another hole in their heads."

Even some who do not object to the added space are opposed to the Rayburn building because of its cost. They recall that the last time the House got the expansion urge, in 1932, it put up a building with 251 two-room suites for a little over $7 million, a far cry from the $83 million now going to provide 169 suites.

Expansion has not been limited to the House side of the Capitol. The Senate added a second building a few years ago for $25 million, giving each senator at least five rooms, and some, seven.

MUST WEEP

Officials of executive agencies, who have to plead with Congress for every penny and tell exactly where it is going, must weep when they realzie that only $25,000 of the $100 million for the House offices project ever went through the regular legislative channels.

That was for a survey of office needs in 1955. When the item came to the floor, Rayburn offered an amendment increasing the amount to $2 million plus "whatever additional sums may be required." The amendment passed by voice vote without debate.

By 1957, when opponents finally forced a roll call vote on the issue, the huge hole for the building had been dug.

After a bristling fight the funds to start construction were voted, 206 to 176.

Since then, annual appropriations—all stemming from Rayburn's original amendment—have totaled more than $90 million.

FOR THE "PEOPLE"

Faced with criticism of the cost of the lavish building, members generally adopt the view expressed by Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., who as majority leader in the 1957 debate observed: "These buildings are not for members of Congress, they are for the people."

RS70 Flight Expected Soon

By RALPH DIGHTON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The technical problem that has kept the RS70 bomber grounded months past its original flight date has been solved, its builders say, and the weird-looking monster should fly late next month or in April.

When—or if—it flies, the huge craft's 2,000-mile an hour windstream is expected to fan to new fury the flames of controversy ignited when the administration decided the RS70 has been outmoded by missiles.

The problem that delayed the RS70's first flight, scheduled for last December, was a fuel tank leak that showed up in tests simulating the stresses of flying more than three times the speed of sound.

GREAT PRESSURE

Such acceleration would throw the jet fuel against the rear of the tanks with a pressure several times greater than that experienced in conventional aircraft.

In conventional jet aircraft a slight leak probably would not be dangerous. The fuel—a highly refined kerosene—would evaporate before it became a problem.

In the RS70 the slightest leak could mean disaster.

The buffeting of air molecules at high speed is expected to heat some areas of its skin to 600 degrees Fahrenheit. If its jet fuel, or even fumes, came in contact with these super-heated areas fire or explosion could result.

"We have solved the problem—found the right materials for the sealant," said a spokesman for North American Aviation, Inc.

"The actual repair work is being done right now. When you see the RS70 roll out of its hangar in the next few weeks you will know the leak has been whipped."

GLOOMY FUTURE

Even when it has been brought up to design specifications, made capable of carrying 50 megatons of nuclear destruction to any point on the globe at twice the speed of today's fastest U.S. bomber, the RS70 faces a gloomy future.

Defense planners say the RS70 is obsolete, that its job can be done better and more cheaply by missiles, and that the real need is for an advanced craft that can fly both in the air and in space.

Supporters of the RS70 insist that it would be useful for at least another 10 years and that failure to put it into production will leave the United States lagging behind the Soviet Union in a vitally needed type of aircraft.

NO CEREMONY

Because of this controversy there may be no public ceremony when the RS70 sticks its pointed nose out of its hangar at Palmdale, Calif.

Here again leakage will be a factor—leakage not of fuel but of information.

"It's quite possible," says a source close to the RS70 program, "that if the roll-out could be kept secret there are some who would want to do so.

"A public roll-out would give opponents another chance to attack the administration's decision, but at the same time everybody knows you can't keep a thing like the RS70 hidden."

For more than a year 1,000 engineers and technicians have been hand-crafting three RS70s in a huge hangar 70 miles north of here on the Mojave Desert. Only one is close to completion. When it rolls out for pre-flight tests of its six 30,000-pound thrust engines, it will be visible from a major highway.

NO SECRET

The first flight will be no secret, either. The RS70 will fly only 30 miles, from Palmdale to the Air Force Research Center at Edwards Air Force Base, but its noise and its shape will alert thousands.

There will be a ground-shaking roar as the J93 engines, each the size of an automobile, rev up for take-off. As residents of this aircraft-conscious area begin scanning the skies, there will soar into view an apparition out of science fiction: 250 tons of titanium and steel, fabricated into a pencil-bodied vehicle 185 feet long with a triangular wing, 100 feet across, where the tail normally is.

If the RS70 performs well on its first flight the administration can expect new demands to put it into mass production.

Once there were plans for 150 of these behemoths at a cost of $10 billion. This has been cut back to three, at a total cost, including research and development of $1.3 billion.

DOWNGRADED

When the huge airplane was conceived it was designated the B70, with the B standing for bomber. Recently it was downgraded to RS70. The RS stands for reconnaissance-strike, a mission currently assigned to pursuit craft.

Industry sources hold little hope that the RS70 will be mass produced. At best, they say the three now being built will become flying laboratories to help in the development of future aerospace planes.

"Someday civilian travelers may want to fly 2,000 miles an hour, span oceans in 90 minutes," says one industry source. "If they do, the prototypes are already built."

A Blanket Of Snow

Snow provided a blanket for these two horses seen wandering in a field west of Lubbock during a snow storm. The two used tumbleweeds that had blown into the fence for food and the snow for water.

Niki, Mao Seem Gingerly Approaching Reconciliation

By STANLEY JOHNSON
Associated Press News Analyst

Soviet Premier Khrushchev and Chinese Communist chief Mao Tze-tung seem to be dipping their toes gingerly into the waters of reconciliation.

There are indications from both Moscow and Peking that the leaders of the two Red giants want to bridge their ideological and political fissure which has rocked the Communist world.

Signs of a thaw in the icy relations began to appear ten days ago.

Among the latest developments:

1. Mao Tze-tung called in the Soviet ambassador to China, Stepan V. Chervonenko, for their first serious talk. Pravda on Sunday gave big front-page play to the meeting.

Wu Hsiu-chuan, who was publicly humiliated by Khrushchev at the East German Red party congress in Berlin, was present. Wu toured East European party congresses recently, attacking Yugoslavia and, by implication, Khrushchev.

Also present was Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-lai and former ambassador to Moscow Chinese President Liu Chao-chi.

2. On a slightly lower level in Moscow, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko had the new Chinese ambassador, Pan Tzu-li, to lunch, obviously with Khrushchev's approval. This also was big news in Sunday's Pravda.

It was evident both ambassadors had something of importance to report to their chiefs and also that they had had something of importance to say to their hosts.

Khrushchev singled out Pan for ostentatious attention at a Moscow reception. He publicly pledged the eternal brotherhood of the Soviet Union and Communist China.

Then Pravda printed a long editorial which, as the Chinese had done previously, deplored the publicity surrounding the dispute. It said the Soviet Communist party would meet privately with any fraternal party no matter what quarrels lay between them. Such a meeting, Pravda said, could then be followed by an international session of the world Communist movement.

The Peking People's Daily, organ of the Chinese party, then printed without comment the harsh Soviet criticism of Communist China's "hard line" policy. It also ran Pravda's suggestion for a meeting but with more emphasis upon the multination gathering.

Sunday the People's Daily took the next, and expected, step in this elaborately formalized dance. It blamed somebody else for the fight.

The French and Italian Communist parties, said the organ of the Chinese Reds, "slandered the Communist party of China and other fraternal parties and distorted the truth about the differences within the ranks of the international Communist movement."

If the Russians will buy this, it could mean the two giants would smooth things over with only a few ritual sacrifices in Paris and Rome.

Burglars Enter Three Places

Three burglaries, netting a total of $159.72 in money, goods, food and tools, were investigated by Big Spring police Monday morning. All occurred during the weekend.

Irene Hunter, at the Greenleaf Inn, 206 NW 3rd, told officers that two men came into her place and ordered food. She said while she was preparing it the men took the money box from the music machine and left. She said the box contained about $20 in small change.

W. D. Blythe, manager of Western Ice Co., 709 E. 3rd, asked police to investigate a burglary of the grocery department in which 20 cartons of cigarettes, 9½ gallons of ice cream, a pound of bacon, two loaves of bread, five pounds of coffee, and six 6-packs of beer were taken. A rear door of the ice house was opened, and the door between the ice house and grocery department forced. Value of the missing merchandise was $79.72.

A tool shed at the Co-op Gin Co., on the Andrews Highway was forced open and new tools, valued at $60, taken. A door to a smaller shed nearby was also opened but nothing reported missing.

Foe Of Secret Sessions Gets Nod To Speak

AUSTIN (AP)—Lt. Gov. Preston Smith said today he will recognize Sen. A. R. Schwartz of Galveston, "anytime he wants" to speak against the Senate's traditional secret sessions.

Schwartz originally scheduled his speech blasting the secret sessions for last week, but postponed it until today.

Early in the session, Schwartz introduced a resolution calling for opening of Senate consideration of governor's appointees and meetings of the nominations committee, where he is vice chairman.

Later, he and Sen. Andy Rogers of Childress introduced a proposed constitutional amendment which would let the people decide whether they should be barred from future sessions.

Schwartz said he once believed that secret consideration of appointees were good in that they protected the reputations of men considered for state appointments.

"But now," he declared, "I have changed my mind. I think it works just the opposite and actually hurts nominees."

Sen. Walter Richter of Gonzales also called Sunday for an end to the secret Senate sessions.

He said rejection of a nominee in executive session "has implications which could be immensely damaging to his character and unjustly so. I'm inclined to agree that we don't need to transact this type of business in secret."

County Buys Tank, Truck

Howard County Commissioners Court spent $8,307.75 Monday for a 3,600-gallon water tank and a truck tractor to pull it with. The court considered bids for a new truck-tractor and a water tank for use by the road and bridge department.

The truck bid was awarded to Pollard Chevrolet Co. for $4,696.77. Delivery is promised within 30 days.

The tank was sold by J & L Tank Co., Fort Worth; the bid was $3,609.98. Delivery is promised in 30 days.

Other bids for the truck were: Shasta Ford Co., $4,724.56; Shroyer Motor Co., $5,750; Driver Truck and Implement Co., $5,197.36; Jones Motor Co., $4,954.

Tank bids, other than the one, accepted:

Gorbett Bros. Fort Worth, $4,659.50; Lubbock Mfg. Co., Lubbock, $3,712.

David Fewell Dies Sunday

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Trinity Baptist Church for David L. Fewell, 22, who died Sunday morning in a local hospital. He had been ill since July of last year.

Mr. Fewell came to Big Spring in 1957 from Abilene and married the former Miss Bonnie Roland on Dec. 20, 1958 in Big Spring. They lived at 1900 Mittell. He was born Oct. 22, 1940 in Soper, Okla.

Mr. Fewell was employed by Cosden Petroleum Corporation in the maintenance department. He was a member of the Trinity Baptist Church.

The Rev. Jack Power, pastor of Trinity Baptist, will officiate at the funeral. Burial will be at 5:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Elmwood Memorial Park, Abilene.

Pallbearers will be Curtis Bates, Gabe Hammock, Leon Gage, Ed Wright, Wayne Speegle and Roland Beal.

Survivors include his widow; one son, Joe David Fewell, of the home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fewell, Big Spring; one brother, J. L. Fewell Jr., Artesia, N. M.; two sisters, Mrs. Donald Reed, Tucson, Ariz., and Mrs. Pete Tomlin, Woodbury, N. J.; and his grandmother, Mrs. H. D. Lindsey, Soper, Okla.

No Cases Ready For Trial Today

Judge Ralph Caton had 16 civil cases docketed for jury trial this week in 118th District Court. Monday morning, he sounded the docket—and not a single case was ready for trial.

Fern Cox, district court clerk, and his two deputies, were then put on the phones contacting the 100 members of petit jury panel slated to come to court at 1:30 p.m.

Cox and his co-workers were trying to reach all of the panel and save the jurors a wasted trip.

It is not uncommon, the judge said, for a docket to dwindle sharply when sounded but he said he was disappointed to have all 16 cases fall by the wayside.

The next docket is set for March 11.

Ten of the cases slated for this week were damage suits, five were suits on compensation and one was a suit on a debt.

Three Seek Seats On School Board

COAHOMA—Three men have filed for two places on the Coahoma Independent School District board of trustees.

The election has been called for April 6 at the Coahoma City Hall, and Donald Lay will be the election judge.

Clay Reid, farmer, and James (Buddy) Barr, stock-farmer, have filed for re-election. Barr recently was appointed to the board to succeed Jim Hodnett, who resigned.

T. H. Greenfield, Cosden employe, also has filed for a place on the board.

Other prospective candidates may file by filling out an application not later than March 6 at the office of the superintendent of schools in Coahoma.

Playoff Scheduled

The final game of a playoff series for the district championship will pit Sands vs. Gail girls in Tahoka at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday. The game originally was set for the same time at Lamesa, but the site has been changed. Sands won the first game 43-40 and Gail the second one 57-44.

Tax Relief Bugaboo: Will State Assessments Rise?

EDITORS NOTE: If you're looking forward to a break under President Kennedy's proposed tax program, don't overlook climbing state, local and Social Security taxes. They may cut in sharply on what you would save if Congress approves the President's proposals.

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rising state, local and Social Security taxes may nibble away a large chunk — possibly half — of President Kennedy's proposed tax cuts by the time they would take effect.

The $2.2-billion increase in Social Security rates on Jan. 1 and the $500-million hike in postal rates on Jan. 7 will offset most of the $3.1 billion in individual and corporate tax savings proposed by Kennedy for 1963.

With most of the 47 state legislatures meeting this year considering tax increases totaling perhaps $2.5 billion, much of the $3.2-billion reduction envisaged in the Kennedy program for 1964 would be wiped out.

Not all the legislatures are expected to raise taxes but it's true that a four-year cycle of such action has developed, and 1963 is the year for it. Thirty-three states raised taxes in 1959.

OTHER FACTORS

Three other factors will be working, tax experts report, to dilute the income-boosting, investment-stimulating and job-creating benefits of Kennedy's net $10.3 billion, three-year tax reduction.

1. Part of the taxpayers' savings would be picked up automatically by the 19 states whose taxpayers can deduct federal income taxes from their taxable income. In these states a cut in federal taxes means more income would be subject to state tax.

2. In 13 states whose tax systems are tied to the federal system, the laws require that citizens compute their taxable income on about the same basis as they do for the federal income tax. The revenue-boosting reforms which Kennedy seeks — including curtailed personal deductions—would become part of these state systems, unless the state rules are changed. The federal rate cuts would not necessarily be carried over into the state systems, so state tax liability would be increased.

3. Cities and other local governments not only are pressing state legislatures to raise taxes and funnel more revenue to the cities, but many are considering new taxes of their own.

INCOME TAX

Pittsburgh wants the Pennsylvania Legislature to let the city levy a 1 per cent income tax on non-residents who work in Pittsburgh. St. Paul has been weighing a 1 per cent income tax if the Minnesota Legislature does not enact a state sales tax to be shared with the cities. Buffalo, N.Y., has asked legislation enabling it to levy a 1 per cent payroll tax.

Only three states raised taxes in 1962—Michigan, Mississippi and New Mexico—but state and local government costs went on rising almost everywhere. In many cases the feasible limit of borrowing has been reached.

A survey made by the Tax Foundation, Inc., New York, a privately supported, non-profit research organization, indicated that by early January revenue-raising proposals were being considered seriously in 33 states.

For reasons not fully explained, the years preceding national elections have become the big ones for state tax-boosting.

The Tax Foundation notes that in 1955 32 states enacted new or higher taxes. In 1959 there were 33. The number dipped to 7 in 1960, rose to 24 in 1961, and dwindled to 3 in 1962.

LULL BEFORE STORM

Last year's reprieve, says the foundation, "was by all indications the lull before the storm and not the beginning of any trend." It predicts: "The storm is likely to break in 1963, when scores of major tax proposals are expected to appear on legislative agendas.'

The foundation's survey identified specific proposals totaling about $1.7 billion of new state revenues but dollar estimates were not available, or were available only in part, for 18 of the 33 states.

Since then, governors' budget messages and other state legislative proposals have filled in some gaps. It now appears that the grand total of pending proposals would exceed $2.5 billion, most of which would be felt in calendar 1964.

Such a total would mean offsetting Kennedy's second-year reductions to almost the same considerable extent as this year's federal tax relief would be offset by the Social Security and postal rate increases.

A good many legislatures almost certainly will reject or reduce the proposed tax increases, or resort to borrowing. Some states, where taxes are linked to the federal income tax, may find increased revenues will eliminate the need for new or higher state levies.

STATES LISTED

The 19 states where some or all of the federal tax is deductible from state-taxable income—so that state taxes will rise if federal taxes fall—are:

Alabama, Arizona, Colorado, Delaware, Idaho, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Carolina, and Utah.

The states whose tax laws would mean higher state tax collections if the federal rule for deductions is tightened are:

Hawaii, Idaho, Iowa, Kentucky, Minnesota, Montana, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota and Vermont.

A similar rule for deductions applies in Alaska and West Virginia, but their taxpayers would come out ahead in the long run. Their state tax is figured as a simple percentage of the federal tax they pay; a federal cut would also mean state tax relief.

The hunt for new revenues is leading state legislatures to consider not only sales and income taxes but a bewildering list of levies covering cigarettes, liquor, gasoline, insurance premiums, corporation income, and use taxes.

Other popular devices include raising markups in state liquor stores, reassessing property, raising fees for state services and business licenses, and extending sales taxes to new products.

MORE POPULAR

Shifting to a withholding system for state income taxes is gaining popularity. When it starts, taxpayers not only must pay the past year's taxes but make current payments out of their paychecks, as Virginia citizens are now doing.

Prize-Winning Journalist Enters News Bias Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversy over government management of the news sharpened today as President Kennedy became the target of a cannonade from an elder statesman of journalism, Arthur Krock.

Krock, prize-winning newsman of the New York Times, writes in Fortune magazine that the administration is managing the news, to its own ends, with a cynicism, boldness and subtlety unparalleled in peacetime history.

The blame for whatever success Kennedy has had in the effort must rest with "the printed and electronic press itself," Krock says, for the campaign is really aimed at "managing the purveyors of the news."

The White House declined immediate comment. Latest word from Kennedy on the subject came last Thursday when he said at a news conference that if his administration is really trying to manage the news "we have had very limited success."

Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., chairman of a House subcommittee on Freedom of Information, said he would have no comment until he could read the entire Krock article.

One potent method Kennedy uses, Krock writes, is "social flattery of Washington reporters and commentators." Another, he says is "selective personal patronage" —the granting of exclusive quotable interviews which under preceding administrations were a rarity.

"But Mr. Kennedy prefers," Krock writes, "the intimate background briefings of journalists, and their publishers, on a large scale, from which members emerge in a state of protracted enchantment evoked by the President's charm and the awesome aura of his office."

Krock charges that the weapon of news management has been used to "inflate success and gloss over error" in the Cuban crisis; that false impressions were given last year that the budget would be in balance, and that officials have prevaricated on such subjects as the balance-of-payments problem which, Krock says, "is visibly growing worse."

Krock, 76, was chief of the New York Times Washington Bureau from 1932 to 1953, and now writes a column of news commentary for the Times. He is the winner of two Pulitzer prizes and a citation equivalent to a third.

He is a long-time friend of the Kennedy family and says of the President: "I am absolutely personally fond of him."

Brucellosis Meet Tonight

Ranchers and farmers of the county are urged to attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at which plans for the countywide Brucellosis re-check will be explained.

The re-check is to begin March 4. Under its provision, thousands of cattle in the county must be tested if the county is to be continued as a certified Brucellosis free area.

Herb Helbig, county farm agent, said it is urgent all stock owners cooperate with the program. He said a veterinarian from the federal agency on control of diseases in cattle will be on hand tonight to answer questions ranchers and farmers may have.

Helbig said he had been advised the laboratory will not be set up in this county for the current re-check tests. Blood samples taken from the stock will be sent to some other county where the mobile laboratory will be operating. He explained that from three weeks to a month will be needed to complete the check of the more than 11,000 head of cattle in this county.

Included in the testing program will be TB checks on more than 500 head of dairy cattle.

Former Korean Leader Departs

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Former secret police chief Kim Chong-pil, forced into at least temporary exile, said today he hopes his departure will stabilize South Korea's turbulent political situation.

The once-powerful Kim took an airliner to Tokyo to begin what is officially labeled a 50-day tour abroad as "ambassador at large."

There were unconformed reports that the winners of the power struggle within the military government were arresting some of the men who helped Kim turn the Central Intelligence Agency into a feared instrument of political power.

Kim quit as CIA chief last month to organize the Democratic-Republican political party that was to be the military's vehicle for winning power as civilians in elections this spring.

Shorn of his CIA power, Kim ran into trouble from opponents in the junta and was forced to retire from the party and politics.

City To Open Bids Tuesday For Bonds In Master Plan

Bids will be opened for the sale of $670,000 in general obligation bonds under the Master Plan bond program at 7 p.m. Tuesday when the city commission meets.

The amount of the bonds will be $80,000 under the $750,000 scheduled to be sold in 1963, because of the oversale by that amount in 1962. The $670,000 will bring the amount to the original figure scheduled through 1963—$2,795,000.

Work included in the Tuesday night bond sale will be two new 16- and 18-inch water lines to supply the South Mountain area, and to connect the downtown business area and the northside to the new elevated water storage tank north of IS 20. The amount set up for these two lines was $170,000. The contract has been let to Panhandle Construction Co., Inc., Lubbock, for $122,190 and work is to start around the first of March.

The other phases of the Master Plan program to be covered by the sale will be two new fire stations, one in the southwest part of the city and one near Wright's Airport Addition; two new booster trucks for the fire department, and two new pumpers; rehabilitation of the municipal golf course, new playground facilities in all parks, including Moss Creek lake; drainage structures throughout the city, including retention dams and purchase of right-of-way for streets where needed to correct drainage problems, and a street assessment paving program.

The city commission will also hold a public hearing on a request for on-premises beer and wine consumption for the Lucky M Drive-in, 3507 US 80 West; appoint members of the Planning and Zoning Commission, and a Park and Recreation Board; consider lighting of the softball field in the city park; consider purchase of two new police cars, with trade-ins; first reading of three ordinances annexing land requested, and along IS 20.

School Decides Value Of Land

A 10-foot strip of land, 151 feet in length, which runs north and south between the present site of the Big Spring post office and the Gulf Oil Co. station on Gregg, is worth $2 a square foot.

The narrow strip of land, which the school district in the passage of years had forgotten it owned, is wanted by the post office department. The Big Spring school board checked out the property and decided that it was worth $2,020 and so advised E. C. Boatler, postmaster.

Boatler, in turn, relayed the information to V. E. Bell, Lubbock, real estate officer for the post office department. Bell will inform Washington.

Boatler said that he did not know what the next step would be. Nor, he added, did he know exactly why the post office department has developed a sudden interest in this long forgotten strip of land.

"They told Bell," he said, "they wanted the land for 'budgetary purposes,' whatever that may mean."

Contest Ends First Week

Time has run out for nominations in the first round of the courtesy month campaign, but three more chances come up before the month-long effort is terminated. Through this morning, 64 letters had been received, according to Kenneth Pace, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce.

Deadline for entry each week is midnight Sunday. Letters should be of 35 words or less and mailed to the Chamber.

Three persons voted most courteous in the sales or service field will receive gift certificates of $5 as well as writers of the winning letters. Selection will be made Tuesday and the winners will be known before noon.

During the four weeks, a total of 12 winning letters will be chosen. From these, a grand prize winner will be awarded a $250 gift certificate. Nominations for the second week begin today.

List Of Cincinnati Challengers Grows

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cincinnati has won its shot at a third consecutive national college basketball championship and the line of challengers to the mighty Bearcats is gradually growing longer.

Arizona State, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia and Texas captured conference titles Saturday night with them, automatic berths in the NCAA tournament. In addition, all 10 at-large spots in the coast-to-coast classic have been filled, with Pitt clinching the last one Saturday night.

Still to be settled in the closing two weeks of the regular season are no less than 11 conference races, with NCAA trips contingent upon each. Some of these league battles are snarled to a fare-thee-well, promising a scramble of down to the wire finishes—and perhaps a playoff or two to get into the national playoffs.

The other big post-season affair—the National Invitation—may wait until the conference races are decided before naming the last few clubs to its field. The 26th NIT will be a 12-team tourney of major independents and perhaps as many as three conference entries.

Here are capsule rundowns on current conference races:

BIG TEN—Ohio State and Illinoise at the top with 8-2 records, Minnesota and Indiana longshots. The fifth-ranked Buckeyes won their 47th in a row at home Saturday, 83-70 over Iowa, and the sixth-ranked Illini also won at home, 89-77 against Iowa.

BIG EIGHT — Kansas State ahead at 8-2 but Colorado, Oklahoma State, Iowa State close behind. The Wildcats jumped in front by winning at home over Iowa State 62-50.

SOUTHEASTERN — Eighth ranked Mississippi State, 99-64 winner over LSU, in the lead but unlikely to go to the NCAA because of policy against integrated athletics. Ninth-ranked Auburn, 78-59 loser at Kentucky, and Georgia Tech tied for second. Tech beat Georgia 66-58 in overtime.

BIG SIX — Stanford at 6-3 with three to go, all on the road, and Washington 6-4 with two road games left. This one could be a deadlock.

IVY LEAGUE — Penn and Princeton at 9-3 and Yale at 8-3 the contenders, with a definite chance of a three-way tie. All three won Saturday, Princeton 74-60 at Harvard, Penn 82-63 at Dartmouth and Yale 61-60 in overtime at Cornell.

MID - AMERICAN — Bowling Green and Toledo 8-3, with Ohio University and Miami of Ohio 8-4 and finished with conference play. Bowling Green entertains Marshall tonight while Toledo plays at Western Michigan Wednesday. On Saturday, Bowling Green downed Western Michigan and Toledo clipped Marshall 63-58.

WEST COAST ATHLETIC — San Francisco leads at 7-1, St. Mary's is 7-2 and Santa Clara 6-2. San Francisco's four remaining games include two with Santa Clara and one with St. Mary's, meaning the Dons will have to win it on their own. St. Mary's beat Los Angeles Loyola 81-74 Saturday, Santa Clara whipped San Jose 77-57.

OHIO VALLEY—Morehead, 8-3, winds up at Eastern Kentucky Tuesday night, Tennessee Tech finished 8-4 with a 84-61 romp over Murray Saturday.

YANKEE — Rhode Island, 8-1 and Connecticut, 7-1, tangle at the Conn. court Saturday, Connecticut also has a home conference game Tuesday, with New Hampshire.

Bribes Offered Basketball Players

Rice University basketball players Dick Cramer, left, and Herb Steinkamp, right, were offered a bribe of $1,000 by a fellow student to shave points in a basketball game with Baylor University. Rice University officials did not identify the student but announced he had been dismissed from the university. (AP Wirephoto).

Longhorns Shooting At Another Record

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Texas already is the Southwest Conference basketball champion but there's more to be accomplished if the next two weeks—win more games than the last undefeated Texas team to take the title and beat the last team to hand it a licking, Texas Western.

The Longhorns made it 11 in a row last week and clinched the championship when Texas Tech knocked over second place Rice. Texas beat Southern Methodist, its chief tormentor, 92-76 while Tech was ruining Rice's fading dreams with a 74-73 decision.

Texas can tie the conference record of the 1947 champions by trouncing Rice at Houston Tuesday night. Then if it wins the remaining games on the schedule—Arkansas at Austin Friday and Baylor at Waco March 5—it will have a 14-0 record.

Texas enters the Mid-West regional NCAA eliminations at Lubbock March 9 to meet independent Texas Western if a battle for a spot in the tournament at Lawrence, Kan.

The last game Texas lost was in the Sun Bowl tournament at El Paso Dec. 29 and it was 45-40 to Texas Western.

Texas has won more championships than any other team in the conference. This one makes 10 undisputed while the Longhorns tied for three more. Arkansas has figured in more championships than anybody, however. The Razorbacks have won eight titles outright and tied for six more.

Tuesday Arkansas gets Southern Methodist at Fayetteville while Texas A&M plays Baylor at Waco and Texas Christian engages Texas Tech at Lubbock.

Wall Wins In Caracas Open

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Art Wall, the pro from Pocono Manor, Pa., who has been plagued by a variety of ailments in recent years, may have regained the touch that made him golf's top money winner and won him the U.S. Masters title in 1959.

"I feel now I have broken the barrier and my luck will change," the 39-year-old Wall said Sunday after his first tourney victory in 2½ years. He won the Caracas Open with a 72-hole total of 274, 6-under-par.

Wall, whose last tourney victory was in the Canadian Open in July 1960, stood off the pressure of fast-closing young George Knudson of Toronto and put together a 1-under-par 69 on the final round to go with previous rounds of 67, 70 and 68.

Wall, who topped the money-winners with $59,167.60 in 1959 and was the PGA's "Golfer of the Year" that year, picked up $1,300 for his victory on the third stop of the Caribbean tour.

Knudson, who was second with a 276, won $1,100 and moved into the lead for the cup, emblematic of the over-all winner on the tour with 75 points. He had Sunday's best round, a 66, closing from five strokes back.

Center Point And Union Winners

KNOTT — Center Point boys turned back Ackerly 27-23 to win the boys division of the Knott Pee Wee basketball tournament here Saturday. Union girls then ousted Center Point 21-14 for the girls' title.

Third place for boys went to Union and Vealmoor got consolation. Trophies went to all of these as well as Garden City for sportsmanship.

On the boys all - tournament team were Hanson (Center Point), Ken Maxwell (Ackerly), Pearce (Union), Larry Franklin (Gail) and Jim Fryar (Knott).

In the girl's division Grady A copped third, Knott consolation and Gay Hill girls the sportsmanship trophy.

All-tournament choices were Debra Lewis (Center Point) Debra Williams (Ackerly), Nancy Pugh (Grady), Carter (Union) Gail Welcher (Union) and Paula Wood (Knott). Individual awards were made to the all-star selections.

Both Ready For Rematch

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Gene Fullmer remains unfinished business for middleweight champion Dick Tiger today—but settlement is expected in a big-money match in June.

Figures in the $100,000 bracket are flying as fast as the punches thrown Saturday night in Convention Center where Tiger retained his crown on a draw decision after 15 rounds of battling.

Fullmer, of West Jordan, Utah, who lost his title to Tiger in San Francisco last Oct. 23, declared, "I'm ready for the rematch. I thought I beat him Saturday night and there's no reason I can't do it again."

Tiger thought he had won. He said he was shocked at referee Vern Bybee, who scored it a 69-69 draw while judge John Romero scored for Fullmer, 70-68. Judge Pat Diskin ruled for Tiger, 71-67. The Associated Press had it even at 70-70 under the Nevada scoring system of five points to the winner of a round and four or less to the loser.

At a news conference Tiger criticized the man who fought him to a standoff.

"He shouldn't use tricks," Tiger said of Fullmer's strategy of jabbing and dancing away. "I am the champion. I'll never use tricks."

In the San Francisco fight, Fullmer employed his usual style. He bulled his way in—and took a licking. So he switched styles for this one.

Bi-District Fray Begins

By The Associated Press

The 177 survivors of the Texas schoolboy basketball district campaign start eliminations Monday night as they pare down to the 22 teams that will compete in the state tournament at Austin next week.

There will be bi-district games all over the place the next two nights. Regional playoffs Friday and Saturday will produce four state tournament teams in Classes AAAA, AAA, AA and A and six in Class B.

The bi-district clashes start Monday night in Class AAAA with El Paso Austin and San Angelo playing at San Angelo and Texarkana battling Denton at Denton.

Tuesday night Pampa will be at Fort Worth Haltom, Dallas Jefferson at Fort Worth Arlington Heights, Houston Bellaire meeting Spring Branch at Houston, Beaumont French and Pasadena tangling at Houston, Austin McCallum and Victoria at Seguin and San Antonio Jefferson meeting San Antonio Burbank.

Class AAA determines its state tournament teams with both bi-district and regional clashes. In region 1, defending state champion Dumas will hook up with Seminole, Lamesa and Graham in a tournament at Lubbock Friday and Saturday.

Other district champions of Class AAA—Hurst Bell, Kilgore, Paris, Corsicana, Bridge City, Brenham, El Campo, Clear Creek, Austin Johnston, San Marcos, South San Antonio and Weslaco—will play bi-district games.

Three defending state champions are in the field—Dallas Jefferson in AAAA, Dumas in AAA and Buna in AA.

There are 16 districts in the two top classes, 32 in AA and A and 61 in Class B.

McKinley Winner In Pan-Am Meet

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP)—Chuck McKinley, Trinity University's high ranking tennis amateur, won both singles and doubles in the Pan American College Tournament that ended Sunday.

McKinley, No. 1 in the nation and star of the Davis Cup team, beat Antonio Palafox, Mexican Davis Cupper playing for Corpus Christi University, 6-4, 6-4, for the singles title.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Big Spring is going to play host to the followers of four fine basketball teams tomorrow night.

Regrettably, the two playoff games were booked the same evening. As it is, local basketball buffs have a choice of watching neighboring Forsan play Miles in the HCJC Gym or sitting in on the attraction between Seagraves and Jim Ned, two Class A teams, in the High School fieldhouse.

When Jim Ned and Merkel tangled for the fifth time this season in Abilene the other night for the right to meet Seagraves, the crowd was estimated at 1,500. If the team followers support their teams in the accustomed way here, the restaurants and the service stations, along with other businesses, are going to feel the impact of their trade.

It's a time for everyone here to be convivial.

* * *

Pat Gerald, who coached the Sweetwater football teams for years and who is now a successful and prosperous business man there (some say his income exceeds $25,000 annually), has been named to head up the Industrial Foundation program in Sweetwater.

* * *

Jack Mercer of the Odessa Permian basketball team, top scorer among District 2-AAAA players returning next season, lacked only six points of registering 400 points over the season. The Panthers played 29 games, in all. That averages out to 13.6 points a start.

Mercer hit considerably above that average in two games against Big Spring, scoring a total of 46 points. Big Spring beat Permian the second time around and probably would have won the first one, had it not been for Mercer's 28 points.

Big Spring's highest scoring returnee will be Albert Fierro, who finished with 325 points.

Fierro, for the most part, left the scoring to others this year. He more than earned his keep as a rebounder.

This year's National Golf Day program begins Saturday, May 25, with the Round of the Champions, Open titlist Jack Nicklaus and PGA king Gary Player, scheduled at the Dallas Country Club for Tuesday, May 28.

Linksters everywhere, using assigned handicaps, seek to beat the winning gross card in the Nicklaus-Player match.

Last year, National Golf Day earned $37,000 for charity and 43,800 linksters won appropriately decorated medals for beating Gene Littler, winner of the champions' round.

The ex-Big Springer, Camilo Pascual, now with the Minnesota Twins, was one of three big league hurlers to pitch five shutouts last season. The other two: Dick Donovan of the Cleveland Indians and Minnesota's Jim Kaat. Top man in this department over the years is Robin Roberts of the Baltimore Orioles, with 35. He achieved all of his shutouts for the Philadelphia Phillies, however.

Joe Newbill, new head football coach at Midland Lee, says he plans to have his team make regular use out of the Spread T formation. If that style of attack is run right, it's very hard to defense.

Roy Peden, well known here as a sports official, recently was named president of the Odessa chapter of the Southwestern Basketball Officials Association, although he resides in Kermit.

Steer Tracksters Enter Snyder Meet

The Big Spring Steer track team is due to take part in its initial meet Saturday at Snyder.

Originally, Coach R. C. Moore had planned to take some boys to Fort Stockton last Saturday, however several of the boys were ill and some others were not ready. Moore plans to take 22 to the Snyder outing.

Hawks Entertain Clarendon Bulldogs Here This Evening

In their next-to-last home outing, the Howard County Junior College Jayhawks will entertain the Clarendon Junior College Bulldogs here this evening.

Game time is 8 p.m.

Nothing is at stake in the conference race, because HCJC had to forfeit a pair of games earlier due to an ineligible player. Clarendon has been hustling along but has lacked the height to outscore the opposition.

AMARILLO NEXT

The Hawks will entertain Amarillo here Thursday evening, then on March 4 will wind up the season with an invasion of the San Angelo gymnasium. That stacks up as one of the most exciting games of the entire campaign.

The Hawks take an 8-5 conference record into the game this evening and a 22-7 season standing. Clarendon is 4-21 for the season.

Starters for Clarendon likely will be Bill Bentley, 6-2, No. 32; Jim Boyd, 6-2, No. 21; Leroy Garrett, 6-4, No. 33; James Starkey, 6-0, No. 13; Alin Scott, 6-1, No. 31.

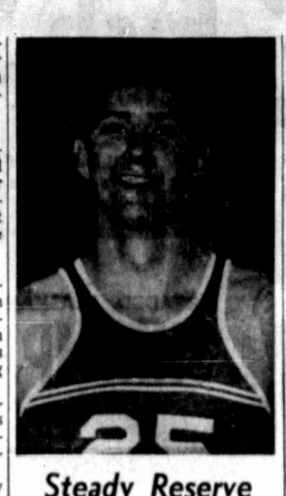

Others on the club are Sammy Johnston 5-1, No. 22; Hubert Bronniman, 5-10, No. 15; James Allen, 6-2, No. 34; Joe Lennor, 5-11, No. 14; Garland Lancaster, 6-2, No. 11; Randall Murry, 5-10, No. 12; Max Courtney, 6-8, No. 25.

400 FOR CARTER

Walter Carter, ace shooter for the Hawks, will be gunning for the 400-point mark. He has 368 so far, and it will take a mighty good night for him to pass another century mark. Big Walt has been held down part of the season due to a hand injury, but he's back in good shape now.

He is expected to get a lot of help from Ernest Turner, who has been a main factor in keeping the Hawks in games all season. So long as he is in there, the Hawks have a way of going. Conroy Lacy, who has proven to be a real clutch player in recent games, as is hustling Cotton Thompson, another clutcher.

Jim Wilburn, slowed by a bum ankle, could get a starting post, as could Charles Cumbers, who has done some outstanding work in muscling out the opposition on rebounds.

Steady Reserve

Jim Oldham (above), a freshman at HCJC, has piled up a lot of playing time for the HCJC Jayhawks this season. He'll perform against Clarendon College here tonight.

WASN'T PUSHING

Beatty Decides To Take A Rest

NEW YORK (AP)—After running four of the six indoor under 4-minute miles on record, Jim Beatty has decided to leave the lodge for the rest of the indoor season and his rivals couldn't have had happier news.

Beatty, the barrel-chested little Los Angeles Track Club ace, whipped to a 3:59 flat mile in the National AAU track and field championships last Saturday and he wasn't even pushing. Last year he went under 4 minutes twice and less than two weeks ago, he lowered the indoor record to 3:58.6, with young Tom O'Hara of Loyola of Baltimore chasing him home.

O'Hara also broke the 4-minute mark. Last year, Siegfried Herrmann of East Germany made the club.

How far down can Beatty bring the indoor record? The possibilities are fantastic. Consider that he had to lead the pack all the way in the AAU mile. This is distasteful to top runners. They like someone to pull them.

Also consider that Beatty hit the three-quarters in exactly 3 minutes. He is capable of running the last quarter under 57 seconds. With someone to pull him out and a fast final quarter, 3:56 does not seem beyond him.

"I think I can hit 3:57," said the 28-year-old insurance adjuster. "But I'm not going to run the mile any more this winter. I'm going after Peter Snell's 8:34.4 2-mile record in the Chicago Daily News Relays."

Beatty already holds the world outdoor record — indoor records are recognized only in the United States—of 8:29.8.

"I wish some of the other guys in the AAU race had pushed me in that last quarter," Beatty said. "It might have been better."

Valery Brumel of the Soviet Union whipped John Thomas again, clearing 7-3½ in the high jump, a half-inch under his record, to 7 even for the Boston University senior. Brumel's teammate, Igor Ter-Ovanesyan turned back Ralph Boston in the broad jump for the third time in three meetings this winter, 26-6½ to 25-9¾.

Lt. Jack Yerman of the U.S. Army won the 600 in 1:09.4, just a tenth of a second over the indoor record, and Bill Crothers of the University of Toronto kept his winter record clean with a 2:09.8 victory in the 1,000.

Fans Trap, Maul Ref

By The Associated Press

Some Los Angeles pro basketball fans apparently aren't content with deriding the referee when their team loses.

Take Sunday night in Los Angeles when the invading Boston Celtics routed the Lakers 119-109 in the National Basketball Association. At halftime with Boston ahead 66-51 some in the crowd of 14,828 trapped referee Norm Drucker near the dressing room. He was mauled and kicked in the shins before rescued by police.

Drucker said he wasn't hurt enough to keep him from officiating in the second half. He had been roundly booed by some Laker rooters because of calls they thought favored the Celtics.

In NBA Sunday afternoon games the Detroit Pistons beat the Cincinnati Royals 119-110 at Baltimore, the St. Louis Hawks drubbed the San Francisco Warriors 127-106 and the Syracuse Nats whipped the New York Knicks 143-126. Detroit beat Cincinnati 105-102 and San Francisco downed Chicago 92-88 Saturday night.

The champion Celtics piled up a 30-point lead on the Lakers at 94-64 before Coach Red Auerbach pulled his regulars and Los Angeles scored 16 straight points.

Lund Wins Big Daytona Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Big Tiny Lund took the biggest ride of his life Sunday—a $24,600 trip around the Daytona International Speedway.

Lund, driving a 1963 Ford to which he had been assigned only 10 days ago, won the fifth annual Daytona 500 late model stock car race in a late-charging dash that carried him to the biggest pay window of his life.

He finished the long grind completely out of gas, going the last quarter mile on pure momentum. But he finished 24 seconds ahead of Fred Lorenzen of Charlotte, N.C., and 26 seconds ahead of Ned Jarrett of Conover, N.C.

TWO PLAYOFF GAMES DUE

Big Spring has the distinction of having two high school basketball playoff games here Tuesday. Both tilts are scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

In the HCJC gym, Forsan will entertain Miles, while Seagraves and Jim Ned will tangle at the high school gymnasium.

Leaders Change At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A big shakeup in the second weekend of the Southwest Bowling Association Tournament brought new leaders in all-events.

Capitol Bowling Center of Austin topped Class A teams with 1997. Robert Myrick and Jerry Simmons of Greenville led Class A doubles with 1244. Joe Berg of Lawrence, Kan., paced Class A singles with 684. Bob Stiles of Dallas led Class A all-events with 1847.

Follis Credits Hustle As Secret Of Amazing Record By Tornadoes

LAMESA (SC)—About 28 years ago O. W. Follis, a schoolboy cager playing for Hughes Springs High School, picked up a Texas map and scanned it to find a place called Lamesa.

He was interested because Lamesa was soon to be Hughes Springs' opponent in the semi-finals of the state basketball playoffs.

His first reaction to Lamesa and its basketball team was not favorable because the Golden Tornadoes whipped Hughes Springs in a double overtime and later got knocked out of the tourney.

Eleven years later, knowing the general location of the Dawson County seat, Follis packed a bag and headed for Lamesa and his first teaching job, one he secured at mid-term.

"People kept telling me I was crazy, that I would starve to death teaching, and I really didn't aim to stay," he recalls. "In fact, I didn't aim to teach after the term was over."

Everyone who is fond of the game of basketball is glad Follis stayed because he's compiled one of the state's most amazing coaching records after 17 years as head basketball mentor.

He also put in eight years as head football coach, during which he won two district championships. He was head baseball coach for three years, and golf coach for 10, plus serving as athletic director for most of that 17-year span.

His real pride and joy—a fast-breaking court squad—continually overshadows all other athletic efforts at Lamesa High School. His 1962-63 club (which won 26 and lost 4) posted the best record in a long line of great seasons.

Now, Follis and his Golden Tornadoes are preparing for Region I-AAA playoffs in hopes that the Golden Tornadoes can duplicate the performance of his 1959-60 court squad that copped the state Class AAA championship.

Before that big thrill were the district championship teams of 1950, 1951, 1953, 1960, 1961 and again this year when his squad went undefeated in 10 conference games.

A 1947 graduate of East Texas State College, Follis promptly entered the Navy. As a coach in the Navy he had season records of 18-6 and 32-0. He has yet to have a losing basketball season.

The habit is catching. Junior high coach Lynn Ranson's eighth graders won 22 and lost only two this year, and the B-team, under Coach Earnie Reusch, finished a 20-3 mark.

O. W. FOLLIS

"There's a lot of fine kids here—they may not be the best in basketball players—but they're still fine kids. I like to coach a kid who wants to play," said Follis.

Follis has no magic formula—just hard work and bustle goes into his Golden Tornado teams. "Hustle will win a lot of ball games for you," Follis said.

In 1952 he tried as head coach to cop district championships in all three major sports, but lost out in baseball.

In 1955 and 1956 he was on the board of directors of the Texas High School Coaches Association, in 1958 he was a member of the North all- star football selection committee and in 1961 coached the North basketball all-stars to victory in the annual summer classic.

Because he's never had a losing season, Follis has been sought by a number of schools, mostly Class AAAA. The University of Texas offered him the job of freshman basketball coach, but he turned them down cold.

Why?

"I just don't like to move," he says.

His current Tornadoes are driving toward Follis' all-time winning streak of 19 games. The 1962-63 club has won 17 in a row.

Previously, he had winning strings of 15 straight, 13, two of 12, one of nine and on five different occasions posted 8-game skeins without defeat. His record speaks for itself and it speaks mighty well. In 17 seasons here, Follis cagers have won 365 and lost 125 for a 74.8 percentage.

Reject NASA Offer

Maj. Robert M. White, left, and Col. Charles E. (Chuck) Yeager, right, two of the Air Force's key space experts, rejected offers to join the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, an informed source said in Washington, D.C. White, of Edwards AFB, Calif., is the X15 pilot who holds the world altitude record for aircraft. Yeager is commandant of the aerospace research pilot school at Edwards.

Dirksen Says 4 Yanks Died In Cuba Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said today he has uncovered evidence that four American fliers were killed in the abortive 1961 invasion of Cuba.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, said in an interview he has completed a one-man inquiry into the Bay of Pigs disaster and is ready to turn his findings over to Senate investigators.

Other than to report the belief that four American lives were lost, he declined to discuss the evidence he has assembled. Some of it came from participants in the invasion and some from U.S. military personnel in the area at the time.

The Republican leader said the four fliers were shot down in invasion planes which did not carry U.S. markings. Presumably they were in B26 bombers downed by jet trainers inherited by Fidel Castro from the overthrown Batista regime.

News stories at the time mentioned that one U.S. civilian flier might have been shot down. This report later was labeled erroneous.

Dirksen said he plans to discuss his findings with Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate's Preparedness subcommittee.

A subcommittee inquiry into the military strength of Soviet-dominated Cuba is expected to get under way this week. Stennis has indicated he regards the 1961 invasion as "spilled milk" to which the group would not be justified in devoting much time at this point. Dirksen disagreed.

"It seems to me it becomes a matter of some importance when even four American lives are lost," he said.

Dirksen and other Republicans have contended that Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy opened the whole matter up to investigation with a statement that no U.S. air cover had been promised the invaders.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., accused Kennedy of trying to make a "readjustment of facts" to lay a major share of the blame for the invasion's failure on the Republican administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., contended on a television program Sunday that he and other Republicans had warned in advance what would happen in the Bay of Pigs.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., who appeared on the program with Scott, said his colleague was engaging in "Monday morning quarterbacking."

"All of your talk about the Bay of Pigs was after the event," he told Scott.

He went on to say that by advocating drastic action against Cuba now, Scott was "trying to do some Friday afternoon quarterbacking—and you don't know the signals."

Scott went on to urge an ultimatum to the Soviets to get their troops out of Cuba. He said the United States should get its Latin American neighbors to join in a "total Western Hemisphere blockade" of Cuba.

The chairman of the Organization of American States said Sunday night he thought the OAS would support another blockade.

OAS Chairman Gonzalo J. Facio noted in a television interview that the organization voted unanimously last October to support the U.S. quarantine on offensive arms shipments to Cuba.

In Cuba, clothes rationing was to go into effect today in the Havana area. The Castro government said the rationing is aimed at destroying speculation and insuring a fairer distribution.

Deadline Out On Rail Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Assistant Secretary of Labor James Reynolds said today he has been informed that Southern Pacific clerks plan to strike the railroad at 6 p.m. Tuesday unless their contract dispute is settled by then.

The strike would extend east to El Paso.

Reynolds flew in from Washington to join Francis O'Neill of the National Mediation Board in an attempt to head off the threatened strike of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks. Traffic along 8,000 miles of SP track in seven Western states would be halted by the walkout.

Reynolds said that he understood the railroad would place an embargo on freight shipments in anticipation of a strike.

An SP spokesman, however, said announcement of an embargo could not be made until the railroad received official notification of the strike from the union.

Search For Quake Victims Abandoned

EL MARJ, Libya (AP) — The search for bodies was abandoned in the earthquake ruins of El Marj today, and Libyan officials began making plans to resurrect the shattered town.

Thousands of homeless moved forlornly into two encampments being rushed up outside the town. They settled down, 60 and 70 to a tent, to await provision of new homes.

"They will have a long time to wait," said one local official. "It could take months or years to rebuild El Marj. But we have been promised that the town planners will be here as soon as possible to make a start."

The 20 per cent of El Marj's buildings still standing after the quake Thursday night are too dangerous for habitation. The rest are rubble.

The death toll was estimated at 261 by British army authorities who supervised the rescue work. Libyan officials said about 40 persons were still unaccounted for.

Crowds of homeless still milled around the center of town, waiting to be directed to some kind of living quarters. Some refused to budge. One aged Arab in tattered robes sat on the rubble of his house and declined the offer of a tent. "This is my home," he declared.

Authorities ordered a dusk-to-dawn curfew following outbreaks of looting. Libyan soldiers were ordered to shoot pilferers on sight.

To ease the difficulties of a long spell of tent life for the homeless the Libyan authorities asked British troops to set up electric generators and arrange water supplies.

A Devotional For The Day

Search me, O God, and know my heart: try me, and know my thoughts: and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting. (Psalms 139:23-24.)

PRAYER: We thank Thee, heavenly Father, for the privilege of prayer, and the assurance when we pray that Thou art listening. Forgive yesterday's failures and keep us from tomorrow's anxieties by living this day in the strength of Christ. In His name we pray. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Tidy Phrases

Sen. Jacob Javits led the field in virtuosity during the Lincoln's birthday celebrations, when Republicans indulge in their favorite pastime of praising their party's first president and barbecuing Democrats.

After whacking the administration's exposed parts, Javits said, "Those of us who are devoted to a bipartisan foreign policy" are urging the President "to make clear to everyone in his administration that this is no time for clumsy diplomacy."

It isn't often possible to tie up the Cuban problem, the Canadian problem and the French problem into such a tidy package in two phrases. Viva bipartisanship!

Touch And Go

New pressures are being applied to efforts to secure appropriations for canalization of the Trinity River to the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

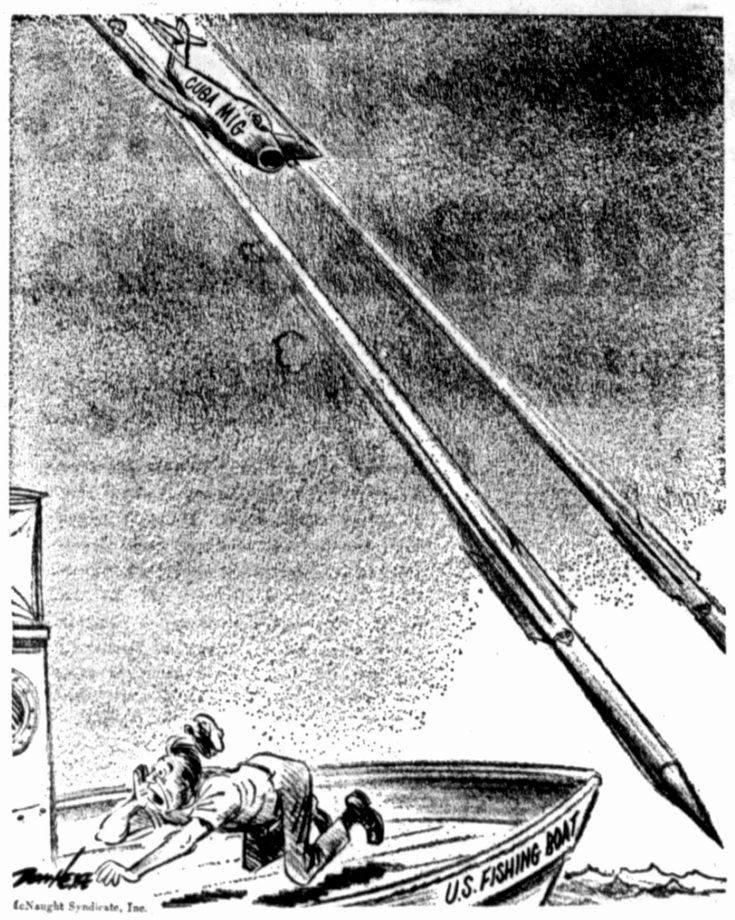

According to information put out by the Trinity Improvement Association, this herculean undertaking would cost around $45,000,000. Estimated economic benefits are pegged at $630,000,000, thus yielding a ratio of 14 dollars benefit to dollars spent.

There is no guarantee that the cost estimate is accurate. On the contrary, experience has shown that estimates of similar projects by the federal government fall far short of the ultimate costs. It is not far-fetched to consider that the costs might equal the economic benefits.

Dallas and Fort Worth cannot be faulted for pressing for the project, but looking at it objectively as outsiders, it is difficult for those away from those terminal points and from proximity to the Trinity River to believe it is economically feasible or fair to other areas.

Some of the anticipated benefits would doubtless radiate from the Trinity and its terminus, but the benefit-cost ratio is so narrow that it seems more likely that benefits would be drawn in from outlying areas rather than radiating from the Trinity.

To justify universal participation as by government, a project of this sort ought to show an overwhelming ability to generate new benefits. Otherwise, and this seems a case in point, there is little of no net gain, but rather a transfer of economic activity from one area to another.

'HERE COMES ONE OF THOSE DEFENSIVE WEAPONS'

David Lawrence

Political Issue In Medical Care

WASHINGTON—It's going to be harder to get a doctor when you are sick, harder to get into a hospital, and harder to take care of the young as well as the old who become ill in the future—if the federal government intervenes in the field of medical care as just recommended to Congress by President Kennedy.

Time was when, if you were sick, you could get a doctor to come to your home. Today most patients have to go to the doctor's office except when gravely ill.

THERE SIMPLY aren't enough doctors now. This is primarily because medical aid is covered in part by private insurance plans that make it less costly. Persons who used to take care of minor ailments themselves often seek medical aid nowadays. The insurance idea itself is a good one. But until the shortage of doctors produced by the existing plans is overcome, the proposed intervention by the federal government with free medical care for certain age groups will only intensify the problem for almost everybody. Elderly persons require individual care and continuous observation, but if there is a shortage of physicians, these patients will be neglected no matter how much of the bill the government is willing to pay.

IT'S GOOD politics, of course, for any President to champion social welfare legislation, but free medical attention for millions of citizens will constitute in the field of welfare benefits the biggest single expense imposed on all the people.

Taxes are to be raised to finance the medical plan proposed by the President. Not only will everybody's Social Security rates go up, but the tax will be imposed on the first $5,200 of salary instead of the current figure of $4,800 a year. The purpose, of course, is to collect about $10 billion more over the next five years. Just what this does to the administration program for a "tax cut" is not readily calculated, but it is another example of how the much-talked-about "tax cut" is rapidly turning into a tax rise.

WITH THE objective of the President's plan — to provide medical care for the aged—there will be little dissent. But the question really is whether those families which can afford to take care of their own aged members shall be required to pay taxes to support a plan in which their own relatives—though able to afford the medical care—would get it at government expense.

The "medical care" agitation will, moreover, raise false hopes. The proposed plan doesn't cover medical treatment but mostly the charges for hospitalization and related services. The political value, however, of proclaiming "medical care for the aged" will continue to be there, and it's politics that's really back of the whole crusade.

THE VAST MAJORITY of doctors are vehemently opposed to the new plan. They feel it will demoralize the whole system of medical care in America, and they ought to know. They constitute a dedicated profession. They are on call in serious cases at the hospitals or at private homes day and night. They must be precise in their findings because errors can be fatal.

THE MEMBERS of the profession are men and women who know medical conditions in this country and are familiar also with what "socialized medicine" has meant in various other countries. They fear that the new plan some day will result in "socialized medicine"—a scheme in which the government runs the medical-care program, pays the fees of doctors, and standardizes their incomes. The administration denies that its plan will ever bring "socialized medicine," but the doctors know that, if the medical profession is overwhelmed with cases due to the free service programs provided by the government, the demand on the time of all doctors will be so great that the government will have to step in to try to bring order out of the chaos that will ensue.

NOBODY OBJECTS to better medical care for the aged, as well as for everybody else, but there are serious differences of opinion as to whether those who seek to make political capital out of the issue will produce frustration in the medical profession and a lowering of the high standards of medical care which have long prevailed in America.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

If management's right to automate its property is an absolute one, then does not the union have an equally absolute right to resist automation in order to protect the workers' property — their jobs? . . .

Once, management insisted it had the "right" unilaterally to discharge an employe; now that right is considerably limited by public law and private contract. Once, management insisted it had the fixed and absolute right to move its plant where it pleased; now that right is becoming more and more limited by unions and the courts. Once, unions were free to keep out Negroes, but that kind of freedom is disappearing under the moral and legal pressures of the community. Ultimately, technology may force America to adopt a different set of axioms, based on an understanding that the acceptance of technology does not mean an unquestioning acceptance of its uses, products, and results . . .

Until now, unions have led the attempts to ameliorate the effects of unemployment. They have restricted production, created "unwork," and even now are demanding a shorter work week. They have lobbied for increases in the amount of unemployment insurance. They have proposed guaranteed annual wages, supplementary unemployment insurance benefits, and improved pension plans. They have challenged the government to devise fiscal policies that will give greater impetus to the economy.

Unions should take the lead in developing new standards for assessing the effects of technology. Their staffs are in a unique position to become the social ecologists of an industrialized society. . . .

Once the consequences are assessed, even imperfectly, the increased efficiency gained through technology should be then weighed against other social values that may be important enough to justify limiting some uses of technology.

If we do not develop standards beyond the singel one of efficiency for judging technological change, if we do not create new jobs by devising new economic instruments, and if we do not create new theories of industrial justice for the technological dilemmas of the twentieth century, only two alternatives may be open in the twenty-first century: either there will be so few jobs available that only an elite will be allowed to work while the remainder of society consumes, or the practice of "unwork" will need to spread.

Trouble With NATO Has Deep Roots

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trouble with the Allies over nuclear weapons has its roots in a secret agreement made 20 years ago at Quebec between President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Churchill.

Their two nations, along with Canada, were working together to develop the atomic bomb. Their secret, wartime agreement — to exchange information on atomic development — was disclosed after the war.

BUT THE United States ended the agreement after the war and put a lid on information. Years later, in his "Memoirs of the Second World War," Churchill still sounded terribly disappointed.

"I thought the best possible arrangements had been made in the agreement with President Roosevelt."

The British were certainly disappointed. So, later, were the French. Now President Kennedy, for the sake of the cold war alliance, is trying to work some new kind of agreement. He calls it a multinational nuclear force.

That's a vague, mushy-sounding phrase. It's because Kennedy hasn't been clear on what he has in mind. For reasons that follow he probably doesn't know exactly what he can do or how far he can go. Congress has a say in this.

ROOSEVELT died before the war with Germany ended and was replaced by President Truman. The British replaced Churchill with Prime Minister Attlee before the war with Japan was ended.

Attlee met Truman in Washington late in 1945 to discuss a future atomic partnership. In his memoirs written years later Truman recalled asking the State Department for an interpretation of the Quebec agreement.

He got this answer and stood by it: exchange of information on how to manufacture the bomb—"know-how"—was to be shared only if necessary to get the bomb made.

THE DEPARTMENT said this was understood by Churchill's experts working on the problem. But when Churchill was writing many years later he still seemed to have a different understanding.

U.S. reasoning went like this: Although the United States had a monopoly on the bomb in 1945, the Russians eventually would learn how to make it. Meanwhile, this country wasn't going to help the Russians break the monopoly by divulging manufacturing "know-how."

On Aug. 1, 1946, Congress made the clamp-down on information doubly sure with the Atomic Energy Act.

AS TIME passed the United States had to balance its concern about secrecy against its concern for the NATO alliance since it was holding back information in a field upon which the strength of the partnership depended.

The United States had to rearrange its thinking. In 1955 it agreed to exchange some information with the British who, by 1957, exploded a nuclear device of their own. The Russians by then had a bomb of their own.

In 1958 Congress amended the act of 1946, allowing the President to give allies information on weapons and materials but not weapons or parts of weapons. This could be done only when an ally had made "substantial" progress in the development of atomic weapons. It gives a president room for choosing.

SO FAR Britain has qualified, but not France, although France has had its own atomic explosions. They are the only two who have made what might be considered substantial progress.

French President de Gaulle wants to make his own nuclear force.

He has this kind of concern, involving the most important restriction of all in the law Congress passed: no matter where American nuclear weapons are placed—say in Europe—the United States must not turn control of them over to anyone else. Thus the United States alone can say when, or if, a weapon is to be fired.

This leaves De Gaulle with the fear—and who can say this country would not feel the same if the positions were reversed?—that in some crisis the United States, for its own reasons, might not be willing to pull the trigger to back up its allies.

NOW KENNEDY has offered Britain—and France, too, although France turned him down — missiles for which she will have to make her own warheads.

Still unanswered because Kennedy as of now probably doesn't know the answer is this question:

What good are the missiles to the allies if they don't have warheads to put on them. He can't give them the warheads unless Congress changes the law, so what does it add up to? Nobody seems to know.

British Budget Up

LONDON (AP) — The British government is going on a spending spree in the next financial year.

Estimates of government expenditure published Friday total 6.13 billion pounds, or $17.18 billion, for the fiscal year beginning April 4.

This is $1.47 billion more than was budgeted for the current year. The increase—nearly 10 per cent—is the biggest since the Korean War.

Defense costs will go up $364 million to a peacetime record of $5.33 billion.

Appointment Broken

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP)—Sgt. S. L. Clements of the Florida Highway Patrol was heading toward Winter Haven for a luncheon engagement when a truck suddenly turned off a side road into the path of his station wagon.

"I leaned on the horn and pressed my foot to the brakes," Clements said. "I turned my car and hit him broadside. He just kept coming."

The damage was $2,500.

The driver of the truck was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

Clements went to the hospital for minor cuts.

His appearance before the Winter Haven Lions Club to lecture on highway safety was postponed.

To Your Good Health

Causes Of Heartburn And Hiccups

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes heartburn and hiccups and what is the cure?

I have both troubles—heartburn after eating only one slice of bread. And for hiccups I've tried everything including some old-fashioned superstitions.—H. C. D.

Heartburn? Many causes. Spicy and irritating foods; inflammation of esophagus or gullet; regurgitation of stomach contents back up into the gullet (hiccups could cause that to happen); any disorder of the upper intestinal tract, including ulcer of stomach or duodenum; hiatal hernia, or gall stones. Also excessive alcohol, tobacco or coffee; or hyperacidity, which is an excessive secretion of digestive juices.

The cure? The first rule of health is to find out the cause before choosing a treatment. Medication, diet, cutting down on something you are getting too much of—all of these are good cures if applied to the right cause. In some few instances surgery may be required, but that will mean you are correcting more than just the heartburn.

If the heartburn is persistent, consult your doctor. Exact diagnosis is worth a lot of guesswork.

Now for hiccups. Cause most frequently are overeating or eating too fast; irritation of the diaphragm; kidney or liver disease; and habit.

My best suggestion is to take this up with your doctor when you see him concerning the heartburn. It is entirely possible that correcting one will correct the other.

I have no pet remedy for hiccups. There are as many so-called hiccup cures as there are "cold cures" and very few of them do any more good. Breathing into a paper bag, or holding your breath are probably as effective as any.

What about getting heartburn from only one slice of bread? Is that literally true? If so, it's rather unusual, because bread is bland and non-irritating.

Too often a particular item of food is blamed for distress when some other factor is the real cause. However, if the bread really does cause it, you might be hypersensitive to wheat.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a wheezing sound in the chest? Does it signify a lung or heart disorder?—K. H.

Not necessarily—it can be asthma, bronchitis or a throat ailment. But some of these may intensify heart or lung trouble, so a thorough check-up is in order.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: We have six healthy children, aged 4 to 16 and they each drink a quart of homogenized milk a day.

With all the rumors about cholesterol and strontium 90, my wife thinks we should discontinue or at least curtail their milk consumption. What's your verdict?—J. W.

Here's my view—not verdict. After seeing thousands of milk-drinking youngsters grow up strong and healthy, I've got to have more than theories or notions to persuade me to avoid a food that has done so much for us.

Concerning cholesterol, it seems more to the point to be cautious about other sources of animal fats. We need some fat in the diet and the butterfat in milk is a good source. Milk also is rich in calcium, which is needed for strong bones and teeth.

As to strontium 90—it's matter that deserves continuing study, as does all radioactivity, but I can't see any reason for giving up milk.

Around The Rim

Improving The Male's Appearance

The American Institute of Men's and Boy's Wear, those who make policy for the organization, seems to think that the Little Woman tries hard enough to look chic when she goes out in public.

Her help-meet makes no great effort to improve his appearance most of the time, on the other hand, and at times is guilty of shocking taste. So says the Institute.

SPOKESMEN for the organization pass along these suggestions, which they insist will not only make the male animal look better and feel better but will serve to make his clothes last longer:

Pleatless trousers seem to be the thing these days but chubby men should beware of them. Such slacks only serve to make the fat look fatter. Pleated trousers will give the slimmer look.

The shorties would be wise to make use of tapered trousers because they 'stretch' a tall man and exaggerate his height.

MEN SHOULD guard against wearing striped and plaid clothes together. If, when some morning you oversleep and don't have time to shave, wear a bright tie. It serves to divert attention from that chin shrubbery.

Ever been tempted to dip into the little woman's cold cream and apply it to your face when she isn't looking? The Institute says you should drop your inhibitions and give yourself an occasional facial. It will do for you what it does for her.

THE HAT manufacturers have been screaming this for years: That the well groomed man always wears a hat outdoors. That is especially valuable advice in cold weather. Regardless of how warmly you're dressed body heat will escape if your head is exposed. The man wearing a topcoat but no skypiece appears half-dressed.

Your shoes suffer when you wear no rubbers or galoshes over your shoes during rainy weather. I venture to say most West Texas men don't even own a pair of galoshes. Mud and snow leave permanent stains and add a stiffness that cracks shoe leather. To counter-act this, saddle soap should be applied to shoes while they are still wet.

AMONG OTHER suggestions the Institute passes along:

In a restaurant or other public places, button one or two buttons on your coat.

Repeated dry cleaning and pressing has no harmful effects on your clothing. A suit, dry-cleaned 25 times without being worn, looks as good as new.

HANG UP your clothes properly each night. Alternate your clothes as much as possible. Allow a suit or jacket to 'rest' one or two days before being used again. The wrinkles will disappear.

Just Keeping Pace With The Men

The luckiest thing that ever happened to the masculine sex was the serpent in the Garden of Eden. It has given Adam, through the ages, the one perfect out for all the ills to which he has made himself heir and err. Whenever he is moanin' low, which is about 99.44 per cent of the time, he can point to Eve—the Little Woman—as the cause of all his miseries.

WHEN THE LORD called Adam to account in the Garden of Eden, did the young man blame the serpent for his fall from grace? Certainly not! Poor Adam, snivelling and hiding behind Eve's fig leaves, as he has been doing ever since, piteously cried:

"The woman whom thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree and I did eat."

Adam may not have established the oldest profession but he certainly inaugurated the oldest precedent when he shifted any responsibility for his own downfall to Eve who, by that time, had enough trouble of her own.

IN NO SEGMENT of life has woman, her life and man's hard times been such a boon as in newspaper and magazine worlds. Every time an editor in either field is stumped by the problem of what to do with his prize male feature writer and sob sister (oh, yes, Virginia, all the best sob sisters are male), he leaps at a brilliant solution.

"Go out and do a series of articles on modern woman," the editor cries. "A series in depth is the ticket. Find out what makes her tick. Dissect, and let not chivalry stand in the way of a full expose."

WELL, I HAVE just finished reading another syndicated newspaper series by a male sob sister on the vagaries of my sex.

Nothing new; nothing original; nothing doing.

However, one item or statistic in the series caught my fancy, not because it was new or original but because it is so old and oft-repeated. That is the charge that we gals spent probably two billions annually in beauty shops. Perhaps, "even three billions," this writer added.

WHO WILL deny it, even the three billion figure? It could be four billion. And worth every cent of it, too!

Now, I would like to see a little serious study in the opposite direction. How much money do men spend annually in the masculine equivalent of the beauty parlor—the barber shop? How much do they spend on haircuts? Shampoos? Shaves? Facials? Manicures? Permanents Rinses —dyes, baby—to tone down the gray streaks at the temples? Frantic treatments to stop falling hair, more bluntly known as baldness?

HOW MUCH do they spend on massage? Exercise machines? Steam rooms? Turkish baths? Supports—corsets, honey—to conceal middle-aged spread?

And for whom were wigs and toupees first invested? And who had a monopoly on them until the wig craze for my sex came down the pike two or three years ago? And who will have a monopoly of them again when my sex tires of the fad? It ain't any fad, dear, among the opposite sex, and never has been. the mighty Caesar, Julius, first wore a laurel wreath to conceal his baldness and, when they didn't quite cover his egg head, a wig. Men had worn them in Greece and Egypt long before Caesar.

I'LL BET A nickel that more money is spent annually by men for baldness cures than is spent by women in beauty parlors! And I'll win my bet because most men snap up, sub rosa, any anti-baldness gook on the market, and the real statistics aren't available.

"Verily, every man living is altogether vanity" sayeth the Book of Common Prayer. If we women spend a fraction as much money, trying to stay passably attractive, as is squandered by men, it is only because, Lord love them, we are trying to keep up with the pace they set.

Royal Brothers Always Fall Out?

WASHINGTON—C. L. Closelooker, the research man, has come up with a message of cheer for those who fear a Kennedy Dynasty.

"They should take heart," said Closelooker, who was taking a close look at dynasties in English history. "The one sure thing about royal brothers is that they will fall out."

WAS MR. CLOSELOOKER implying that John, Robert and Edward Kennedy would get to squabbling over the division of power after helping each other up the ladder?

"All I know is what I read about royal brothers," insisted Closelooker, whose fingers were grimy from turning the yellowed pages. "They fall out. They fall in love with each others' wives and favorites. They fall upon each other with daggers and swords. They eventually fall out of power. I'm speaking, of course, about the Lancasters and Yorks, not of the Kennedys. But one dynasty is very like another. England had the War of the Roses, between the Lancasters and Yorks, and now maybe America is in for the War of the Shamrocks."

MR. CLOSELOOKER better be careful. Those deadly parallels could become deadly to his own safety around Washington. His research might be cheerful tidings to Republicans, but . . .

"Oh, it's cheerful for other than Republicans," insisted Closelooker. "A close look at royal fratricide could be very heartening to American feminists. For the outcome of the long English Civil War of brother vs. brother was the elevation of Queen Elizabeth I. History would be running true to form if John vs. Robert vs. Edward brought about the ascendency of America's first Madame President."

MR. CLOSELOOKER was moving pretty fast, but America must be the only major country never ruled by a woman. It's got to happen some time.

"What an example to American feminism Elizabeth Tudor would be," ejaculated Closelooker. "With Madame President in the White House, we'd soon have the kind of turnover in Congress that elections never provide. The seniority system would get the axe, literally, if Madame President beheaded her opponents as the Queen did. As for diplomats who botched up a mission . . ."

GETTING BACK to dynasties, Gore Vidal writes about the Kennedys in the current "Esquire." Vidal has John Kennedy defeating Rockefeller in '64, and Robert Kennedy doing the same thing in 1968. Vidal doesn't mention Ted Kennedy, but by 1972 the junior senator from Massachusetts will be 44, the ripe presidential age of his clan, and he could step right into the succession.

"That isn't what the books suggest," declared Closelooker, peering at his history books. "It's far more probable that by 1972 the 22nd Amendment will be in limbo, and that we'll get a fraternal free-for-all. This is what happened in the reign of Richard III. Shakespeare wrote a great play about the brother with the bad back . . ."

BAD BACK? Now, Mr. Closelooker was getting too close to actualities. Just because President Kennedy has a bad back is no reason to . . .

"I didn't mention JFK," Closelooker broke in. "I was referring to Richard, Duke of Gloucester, who was a hunchback. He poisoned the minds of his two brothers, Henry and Clarence, against each other. Both of them soon ended up dead. Richard gets the crown, but in turn is defeated and slain, and his nephew comes to power."

THE KENNEDYS have plenty of sons and nephews, but . . .

"That's right," averred Closelooker, "but in the end, the woman triumphs, and the War of the Shamrocks—er, Roses—is over. Long live Madame President, and all that."

JFK Lashes Tax Critics

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy took blunt issue today with critics of his tax cut plan, saying they have an obligation to offer positive alternatives if they don't like his top priority package.

Kennedy argued his proposal would promote the kind of economic growth that could add a total of $5,000 to the income of the average American family during the next 10 years. That would be an average annual earnings increase of $500 per family.

In a major address prepared for a symposium sponsored by the American Bankers Association, Kennedy said his own tax bill may not be perfect. He acknowledged that it "is now under attack from both the left and the right."

But the attackers, he said, "are under some obligation to put forward a solution of their own" to the growth-rate problem if they don't like his idea of cutting taxes by $10.2 billion during the next three years.

He also had sharp words for those who want lower taxes, provided they reap the biggest benefits.

"The prospects for tax reduction and economic growth must not be endangered by squabbles over who will benefit most," he asserted.

The ABA symposium was called to enable some 300 executives and analysts from public and private life to hear discussions of economic growth and possible ways of achieving it.

Per Jacobsson, managing director of the International Monetary Fund, was one of those sharing the platform with Kennedy. Jacobsson argued that the European Common Market must look outward and associate with other areas of the free world—a hope that was dimmed by French President Charles de Gaulle's recent veto of British membership.

Kennedy aimed his remarks directly at the principal arguments advanced by critics of his call for the largest tax cut in the nation's history.

He was particularly biting in references to what he termed "heated talk about budget increases—partisan talk about swollen federal payrolls—exasperated talk about increasing the deficit—and, finally, rash talk about a crushing debt burden."

Kennedy said civilian budget expenditures are decreasing, the federal payroll is getting smaller in relation to the population, the deficit would be bigger than ever if inaction on taxes hastened a recession, and the national debt "is not only manageable but steadily declining" in relation to the size of the economy.

The President did not picture his tax plan as a take-it-or-leave-it proposition.

"I do not say that it is a perfect program, which cannot be changed by the Congress, which will satisfy the desires of all groups, or which will achieve all the growth we need as fast as we wish to achieve it," Kennedy said.

But he certainly pictured the administration plan as the basic framework for progress and said it tackles pressing issues which "must not be decided by the rule of party politics, public opinion polls and predetermined prejudice."

In discussing economic growth, Kennedy was scornful of those who, he said, find the subject too abstract or academic to form a solid foundation for legislative proposals.

"There is nothing academic," he said, "about pushing our economy to grow at the rate of 4 per cent instead of 3 per cent."

Tanker Debris Still Washing Up

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—Debris from the Marine Sulphur Queen is still washing ashore along the southern Florida Atlantic Coast. Investigators say the evidence has not led to any conclusion about the fate of the freighter or the 39 men aboard.

Two more life jackets were discovered Sunday on a Fort Lauderdale beach, bringing to 11 the number of remnants found since Thursday.

The Marine Sulphur Queen disappeared after sailing from Beaumont, Tex., Feb. 2.

Temple Man Is Charged In Holdup

TEMPLE (AP)—A post office employe found a bundle containing $9,500 in a corner mail box Sunday, and officers charged a Temple storekeeper with snatching the money from a bank messenger.

The robbery occurred Saturday at the home of Mrs. D. B. Boyd, who told officers a bandit in a stocking mask forced her to order the cash from her bank.

Laurens Milton Johnson, 31, manager of a clothing store, was charged in the holdup. He went free under $5,000 bond after arraignment before a U.S. commissioner at Waco.

Officers said Johnson had given no statement about the case.

FBI agents, Texas Ranger Trenton Horton and Temple Police Chief A. C. Berry decided they needed fingerprints to check against some found in Johnson's car. They filed the complaint after questioning him.

Details of how investigators sought to link Johnson to the holdup were not given.

Berry said the bundle of money was addressed to Mrs. Boyd. Inside was a note.

"It read something like 'This is your money—I'm sorry,'" the police chief said of the note.

Mrs. Boyd told police an intruder armed with an iron bar woke her at her home early Saturday and demanded $30,000. Told she didn't have that much, the man compelled her to write an $11,500 check.

After the bank opened, a messenger picked up the check at her telephoned request. The holdup man stood behind Mrs. Boyd, grasping one arm as bank porter W. C. Irons returned with the money and she opened her door.

The bandit stepped into view as Irons counted the cash and the porter dropped it. Two bundles containing $2,000 escaped the robber's clutch as he snatched up the money and ran.

Johnson reported his car stolen soon afterward. He said it was taken from a parking place beside the post office, half a block from the Boyd home. Police found the abandoned car a bit later and said it presumably was used for the masked man's getaway.

Rotarians Set Ladies' Night

Rotarians will hold their annual Ladies' Night meeting at the Big Spring Country Club Tuesday at 7 p.m., with Dr. P. Merville Larson, head of the speech department at Texas Tech, as the speaker. No noon meeting will be held Tuesday.

Dr. Larson has been head of Tech's speech department since 1950. He taught at Southwest Texas State College and at A&L before going to Tech. His undergraduate and Master's degrees were earned at Kansas State University, and his Ph. D. at Northwestern University.

He was a Fulbright Lecturer on American Civilization in Denmark in 1957-58. He did research work in the Royal Library in Copenhagen in 1961 after accompanying a group of Tech students on a six-week tour of eight European countries.

Dr. Larson has been a Rotarian since 1953 and is now chairman of the International Student Projects committee of his club. Visiting Rotarians from other area clubs will be present at the Tuesday program, including Stanton, Colorado City, Lamesa and Snyder.

Rites Set For Mrs. Hoisager

Services for Mrs. Lillian Lucille Hoisager will be at 10 a.m. Tuesday at Trinity Baptist Church. Mrs. Hoisager, 56, died early Saturday in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston. She had been employed as a cook at Howard County Hospital Foundation for the past year but had been ill since last August.

The Rev. Jack Power, pastor of the Trinity Baptist Church, will officiate at the services. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Pallbearers will be Hardy Hughes, W. B. Crooker, Jimmy Morehead, Amon Jackson, Carl McKee, A. L. Carlile, O. C. Owens and Nathan Stalcup.

Survivors include her husband; four sons, Julian Hoisager, Duncan, Okla., Myral Hoisager, Abilene, Ariel Hoisager and Lyle Hoisager, both in Germany; three daughters, Mrs. Bob Carlile, Cheryl Hoisager and Vada Hoisager, all of Big Spring; her father, John M. Murray, Ackerly; two brothers, Thomas Murray, Andrews, and Bill Murray, Chickasha, Okla.; five sisters, Mrs. Earnest Clanton, Ackerly, Mrs. M. S. Hughes, Hobbs, N. M., Mrs. Mary Love, Pecos, Mrs. Marion Dyess, Roswell, N. M., and Mrs. Jack Long, Sparenburg; and eight grandchildren.

Light Snow For East

By The Associated Press

Light snow fell across sections in the eastern half of the nation today and cold weather clung to northern Midwest areas.

The snow belt extended from the northern Plains eastward into the Ohio Valley and appeared headed for the middle and north Atlantic regions. Two inches of snow fell in a six-hour period in Springfield and Peoria, Ill. Snow flurries powdered areas in northern Kentucky.

Subzero cold again was reported in northern Minnesota and sections of the Dakotas, Wisconsin and Michigan. Temperatures were nearly 20 degrees below zero in Pellston, Mich., and International Falls, Minn. Generally clear and cold weather prevailed in upstate New York, with temperatures ranging from 15 in Poughkeepsie to zero in Watertown.

Temperatures were in the 50s or higher in most of Florida and from much of Texas into the Southwest desert region. Readings were in the 20s and 30s in most other parts of the country.

Skies cleared in most of the Southeast in the wake of heavy rains and strong winds in the south Atlantic and Gulf states.

Signs On Agenda Of Chamber Group

Signs pointing up Big Spring's assets will be the subject for discussion at a meeting of the advertising and promotion committee of the Chamber of Commerce at a meeting Tuesday at 4 p.m.

The signs are a part of a program to encourage travel along US 80 and to call attention to facilities available at Big Spring to these travelers. They will be at points of exit from the bypass route.

Off'cials Make Trip To Austin

The mayor was to attend a legislative breakfast Monday morning. Burgess was to meet with an attorney concerning aid in filing the city's suit against the State Board for hospitals and special schools to obtain a new water rate for the Big Spring State Hospital.

Date of filing the suit has not been set but plans were to be made today if an attorney is retained.

Winning Of West Good Movie Theme

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A hit for months in London and Paris, "How the West Was Won" has finally made its Western premiere. It's a hit here, too.

The most frequent comment at the lavish Hollywood opening was: "What a pleasure to see a real movie again."

That can be written with a capital M. For "How the West Was Won" represents a return to the style of film making that Hollywood seemed almost to have forgotten. It fills the immense Cinerama screen with startling scenery, stirring action, attractive characters, and a theme befitting the hugeness of the production.

It will be difficult to return to tawdry little dramas with psychotic casts after this.

MGM and Cinerama made a wise gamble in entrusting their $14 million to directors Henry Hathaway, George Marshall and John Ford. All three were schooled in the silents, which held action and pictorial quality in high regard. All three know the value of pace and well-etched character.

The episodic epic is type cast, and wisely so. Characters dart in and out of the script with such speed there is no time to develop them.

So they are easily recognizable —James Stewart as a footloose trapper, Henry Fonda ditto, Richard Widmark as a tough-as-nails railroad boss, Gregory Peck as a gambling charmer, John Wayne a gruff Gen. Sherman, even Raymond Massey as you-know-who.

A notable departure from type is Walter Brennan, lovable grandpa McCoy, as a murderous bushwacker. He is capital.

Debbie Reynolds and George Peppard thread through the film, giving a needed unity. Miss Reynolds gives her first performance of real dimension, and Peppard continues to impress as star material.

Builders Aid In Fitting Out Homes

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The couple wanting professional help in fitting out its home hasn't far to look today. Builders, manufacturers, retail stores, all increasingly cater to the customer's own taste, or offer to upgrade it in his home, old or new.

In a number of localities the construction industry is going in for combinations. Builders, architects, interior decorators, furnishing suppliers are offering professional advice as a unit.

Some of the nation's best known stores have offered similar service for generations. But in the last decade this move has spread widely. One reason is that more customers demand it. Either their own taste is improving, or keeping up with the Joneses calls for this outside aid. Another reason is that many times as many persons now can afford such service as could at the end of World War II.

Perhaps thanks to this, prices of antiques have risen smartly. Some 14,000 dealers in them in the nation are doing a better than $450 million a year business. And for persons who want to floss up the home without permanent outlay, rental services deal in art, music records and tape recordings.

Upgrading has moved beyond the home into such fields as office furniture and decor and even to giving factory machinery and walls a more aesthetic appearance.

Department stores and quality shops have been in the forefront of the effort to raise taste—and to sell taste. Some of the stores that have worked that side of the street for many years include, to name just a few, Marshall Field in Chicago, Altman's and Lord & Taylor in New York, John Wanamaker in Philadelphia and the New York suburbs.

Bonwit Teller in New York organized a Consumer Advisory Board of eight women social leaders. Bamberger's in Newark, N.J., set up a Customer Advisory Committee on which club women served.

Rich's, Inc. in Atlanta, Lord & Taylor and Bloomingdale's in New York have conducted contests for architects. Macy's, John Wanamaker and H. S. Pogue in Cincinnati are among those constructing full-size homes of various types. Well-staffed speakers bureaus have been maintained by Bambergers, J. L. Hudson's in Detroit and L. S. Ayres in Indianapolis, among others.

* * *

A stable of interior decorators to find for customers what they want or to steer them toward what they may only vaguely know they want is found in many stores across the land. This service is growing. Leonard's in Fort Worth, Tex., enlarged its budget to train in-home consultants. J. C. Penney announced a new in-home selling and consulting service for its Orlando, Fla., store. Hager's department store in Lancaster, Pa., stressed decorating skills in matching floor coverings to draperies, wallpaper and furniture.

Sears, Roebuck is employing designers to improve both its expensive and economical models of many types of goods, and has turned to merchandising works of art.

Retailers and manufacturers are spreading out ever further into cultural fields. The Dallas Symphony Orchestra played at the Dallas Market Center for buyers at the home furnishings market. In New York the National Design Center houses many exhibits of manufacturers and decorators putting on the soft sell for both home owners and industrial purchasing agents. Also in New York the I. Miller Shoe Co. displays both paintings and shoes at its spectacularly designed Fifth Avenue store.

Jersey Standard Oil this year is giving a soft sell over television in its Festival of Performing Arts, after successful showing in other years of the Play of the Week.

And the Stanford Research Institute in Palo Alto, Calif., estimates that 14 million Americans a year engage in spectator culture. That many attend concerts, theaters, art galleries.

Surgeons Elect

FORT WORTH (AP) — The Texas Society of Osteopathic Surgeons elected Dr. N. G. Palmarozzi of Beaumont president Sunday. Members voted to meet in Austin next year.

Award Given

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Institute of Architects has given an award of merit to the Dallas architectural firm of Harrell & Hamilton for its design of the Apartment Tower in Oklahoma City.

Science Advisor

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Dr. John Calhoun Jr., 45, vice chancellor for development of the Texas A&M College system, has been appointed science advisor to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall. He will receive $20,000 a year.

DEAR ABBY

Memo To All Teen-Agers

DEAR ABBY: You hear a lot about teen-aged girls going wrong. Here's the other side of the story: I am a male, age 20, and I have a four-year-old son to support. I've never been married. I went with a nice 16-year-old girl and we thought we were in love. We got serious and before we knew it we had gone further than we had intended to. I would have married her but I was scared. And I didn't want to be tied down at the age of 16. Annie (not her real name) died nine months later in the delivery room. She left me and her parents with a ten-pound bundle. Her last wish was for me to take care of the baby. Annie was a wonderful girl. I have been running from the idea that I killed her ever since. I joined the Army to forget, but I can't. I haven't dated a girl since. I don't think I ever will. Annie's parents are raising the boy and I still haven't the courage to face them and ask them to forgive me. Abby, please keep preaching to teen-agers that playing with grown-up ideas is asking for trouble.

SINGLE FATHER

DEAR FATHER: For every girl who gets "in trouble," there is a boy. But seldom does one have the courage to step forward and take the blame. If your letter makes one boy or girl think twice —it's worth the space in this newspaper.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Tell the woman who can't watch television during the day because her husband takes a tube out of the set before he goes to work in the mornings to take another tube out after he leaves. So when he comes home at night and replaces the tube he took out so HE can watch television, it still won't work.

SANDY

DEAR SANDY: And what has she gained? Then neither of them will be able to watch it. You remind me of the man who drilled a hole in the bottom of the boat so the other guy would sink.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Be fair and print this for "BACHELOR GIRL, AGE 32." First of all, the assumption that widows and divorcees are "common retreads and warmed over has-beens," and that all 32-year-old bachelor girls are respectable, is the biggest bunch of baloney I've heard yet. My wife was a divorcee when we met. Because of her first experience in marriage she was far more understanding, tolerant and mature than any "single" girl I'd ever gone with. We have been happily married for 12 years and have three beautiful children. I louldn't trade my wife's discarded fingernail clippings for all the "respectable," never-married, 32-year-old bachelor girls in the world.

MARRIED A DIVORCEE

Press Group Holds Meeting

LUBBOCK (AP) — The West Texas Press Association has selected Big Bend National Park as the site of its next mid-winter meeting.

About 135 persons attended the 14th annual mid-winter session here Sunday. They heard Melvin Munn, Pampa public relations consultant, blast what he termed "the controlled news program."

Munn spoke at a luncheon given the visitors by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, host to the meeting.

Catfish Among Problems In Famine Fight

By JAMES M. LONG

ROME (AP)—Catfish is among the problems of the Food and Agriculture Organization. It is seeking to overcome prejudices and get people to eat more fish.

Expert John Fridthjof, a Dane, champions the cause of low-priced fish.

He explains, "Food from the sea makes up only one per cent of the world's diet. Often, even when it is available, people will shy away because of local taboos, unfamiliarity, or the fish's name or looks."

The catfish is whiskered, bulge-eyed, flat-beaded and slimy, without scales. Fridthjof met the catfish complex while working for his own government at the end of World War II. The Danish catfish is tasty and tender, but Danes wouldn't have it.

"We just couldn't get people to eat it, much less buy it," Fridthjof says. "Then we got the idea of filleting the fish, cutting off the head and selling only the clean, filleted meat.

"We gave it a new name—cutlet fish. The results were amazing."

Low prices scare off the prospective fish eater, too.

"When I was in Chile," Fridthjof recalls, "we were trying to promote the consumption of merluza (hake)—a member of the cod family. In neighboring Argentina and Uruguay this fish is quite popular."

In Chile, he said, merluza is so abundant that it costs little and thus is looked down upon. So he and his Chilean colleagues got a few hundred pounds of finest quality Chilean merluza and divided it in two piles. On one pile they stuck up a sign announcing the usual price. On the other pile they doubled the price.

"At the end of the day," he says, "we had sold all the high-priced merluza, but had more than half of the cheap pile left."

Fridthjof took measures to combat a West African prejudice against eating dogfish. He simply changed the name to "fish 45" — the number representing the fish's protein content. He says that now people who wouldn't have looked a dogfish in his ugly face are eating fish 45—and asking for more.

Parts Of State Due Moisture

By The Associated Press

Clouds built up to give promise of rain Monday over southern areas of Texas and slightly cooler air headed into the Texas Panhandle.

Skies were clear in other sections and temperatures remained well above freezing in early morning.

Forecasts called for occasional rain or showers to continue along the upper and middle Texas coast Monday night and Tuesday while they spread inland, reaching into the edge of Northeast Texas.

Somewhat cooler weather was in store for all areas of the state Tuesday, with the mercury sagging as low as 25 degrees in the Panhandle.

New extended forecasts, for the period through Saturday, promised moderate to locally heavy rainfall in South Texas, mainly Tuesday and Wednesday, and a few showers in North Central and Northeast Texas.

Temperatures hit Sunday afternoon highs ranging from 74 degrees at Childress, Mineral Wells and Wichita Falls down to 54 at Galveston.

Readings early Monday varied from 38 at Lubbock and Wink to 56 at Brownsville.

Crash Victim
