Harrison Says Burden Now Is Too Excessive

Tax Revision Proposal By Secretary Mellon Is Roundly Assailed As Frightening To Business Confidence

Public Debt Curtailment And Issue Of Short Term Securities Are Proposed As Cure For Big Deficit

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Chances of a tax increase at the next session of congress lessened considerably today when Senator Harrison of Mississippi, the ranking Democrat on the finance committee, declared against any such legislation.

The Mississippi senator assailed Secretary Mellon for talking about tax revision and called upon the administration to pare down expenditures and to slow up debt retirement during the period of depression.

Issue Securities

Senator Harrison proposed that the treasury bridge the prospective $900,000,000 deficit this year with an issue of short term securities and curtail payments on the public debt for a while, saying the debt retirement program is seven years ahead of schedule.

"I am against any tax increase at this time," he announced. "The American people are in no position to pay increased taxes and it is not the time for congress to try to formulate a permanent tax policy.

All Should Aid

"Our country is in a terrible plight and everyone, without respect to political affiliations, ought to do what he can toward restoring confidence so that business can get on its feet and normalcy prevail. I can't understand how Mr. Mellon can direct criticism at congress for reducing taxes too much and give the impression that there ought to be a tax revision program that

Death Follows In Wake Of Tornado; Limited Wrecked

Many Are Injured As Twister Leaves Destruction

(By The Associated Press)

FARGO N. D., May 27—Swirling down without warning, a tornado flipped the Great Northern railroad's luxurious train "Empire Builder" from the rails near here late today and hurled 12 coaches on their sides, killing one passenger and injuring more than a score others.

Passengers were unaware of the impending accident until they were showered with glass as windows of the coaches shattered like egg shells under the thrust of the wind. A moment later the cars were swept from the tracks and hurled to the ground.

Scene Near Panic

A near panic ensued as screams of injured women and children and shouts of the men added to the turmoil. Trainmen and many of the male passengers rushed about frantically extricating their wives and children and others from the wreckage.

A. Anderson of Montesano, Wash., was the person killed. He was hurled through a window and ground to death under a succeeding coach.

Some Badly Hurt

Several of the injured were seriously hurt, a half dozen having head wounds.

Several passengers were in a semi-conacious condition when they were pulled from the coaches. All were brought to Fargo on a special relief train dispatched to the scene immediately after word of the wreck came.

Farmer Killed

After playing havoc with the train, the tornado swept into Minnesota, killing Andrew Hatlebal, farmer near Moorhead, when a building on his farm collapsed. Many barns and other buildings were wrecked.

Descriptions of the wreck by the train crew and several passengers revealed many freaks of the wind.

Half a mile off the Connecticut shore, a boatman found the body of Miss Doris Dewey 29, psychologist at Bellevue hospital. She was clad in pink lounging pajamas over a bathing suit.

Little Hope Held

The body of Mrs. Marcia Snedden, 26, a psychiatrist known professionally as Miss Marcia Mendenhall, was recovered yesterday.

Little hope was held the other members of the party were alive but eight coast guard cutters, a group of police patrol boats from New York and three airplanes searched Long Island waters all day.

The Woman Pays!
El Paso Wife Says Charges True

(By Associated Press)

EL PASO, May 27.—In perhaps the first case of its kind in Texas, a woman appeared here today as a witness for her husband seeking to divorce her.

Last December, J. J. Cameron sued his wife, Mrs. Anna Du Bois Cameron, for divorce, and then disappeared. Mrs. Cameron subsequently asked her husband's attorney to proceed with the suit.

She explained she had no grounds for a cross action, and said "I've been embarrassed before," when told by the attorney she could, in effect, divorce herself if she would testify her husband's charges were true.

She testified therefore, the allegations in her husband's petition, namely, that she flew into outbursts of temper, drank to excess, found fault with him without excuse, and told him she never had loved him, were true.

The divorce was granted.

Caution Urged As Pools Attract Summer Bathers

WITH the swimming season now on in full swing on the South Plains, there are certain precautions all swimmers should think over a bit, is the advice now being given by local Red Cross life savers.

To curb the number of casualties, linked with swimming, the attention of Lubbock people has been called to safety tips offered by the National Safety council:

Don't swim on an empty stomach. Wait at least two hours after eating before going into the water.

Don't swim if overheated or tired. Neither should a bather overtax his strength. When exhausted, he should rest on his back, then swim ashore.

Don't swim if you have heart trouble.

Don't dive without accurate knowledge of the depth of the water. Driving into unexplored water has resulted in many broken necks.

When caught in swift current or undertow, don't struggle, but allow the current to

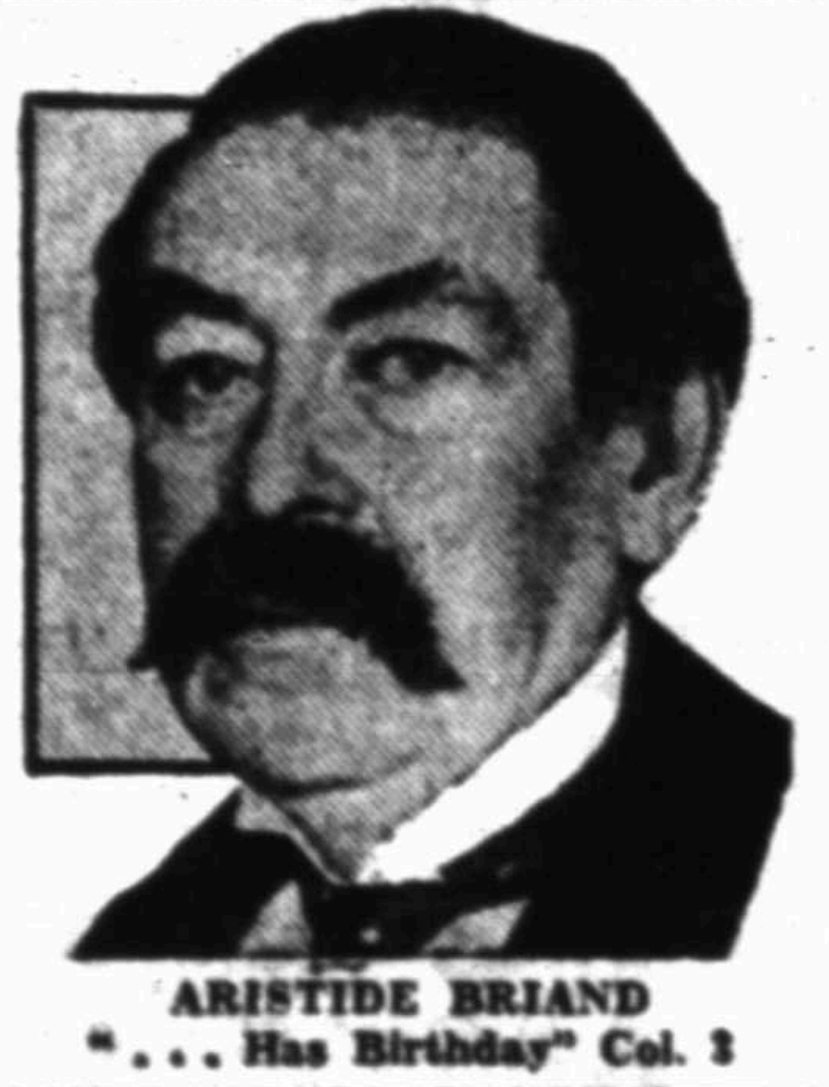
Normandy Hamlet Prepares To Honor 69th Birthday Of Briand

Aristide Briand To Advance Another Year Today



ARISTIDE BRIAND
"... Has Birthday" Col. 3

(By Associated Press)

COCHEREL, Eure Department, France, May 27.— Neighbor Aristide Briand, farmer and fresh water fisherman, will celebrate tomorrow his 69th birthday. All the inhabitants of this hamlet in Normandy intend to celebrate it too, although Briand will be detained in Paris by official duties.

It is here the veteran statesman, eleven times premier, 25 times minister, and a bare fortnight ago almost president, has been able to throw off the cares of office. He has sauntered about the little village on week ends and vacations in rough tweed jacket and breeches and leather puttees, or in rubber boots to wade into a trout stream, and forget his political fights in the chamber of deputies and senate.

Seeks Solitude

Never a bookworm, the minister-diplomat after making his preliminary judgments of men and their otives has sought sylvan solitude.

However, Aristide-Pierre-Henri Briand, to give him all his baptismal titles, was city born and bred. He was born May 28, 1862, in a humble dwelling in the Rue De Marchix at Nantes, in Britanny.

Played at Wharves

His father Piere Guillaume Briand and his mother, born Magdeleine Boucheau, had been engaged in farming but when they took over a little saloon in the tough seaport town of St. Nazaire he delighted in playing about the wharves, listening to the sonorous and often uncouth speech of the sailors and dockers and watching the sailing vessels.

Later when he returned to Nantes to attend high school, this sea-

"We will have an hour and a half play program," Mr. Eaton said. "The council club leaders will probably have the Shollowater club look after some of the program. I do not know who will be the club leaders but expect the council president to name them soon."

Senator Pollard Says That Special Session Worthless

DALLAS, May 27. (AP)—State Senator Tomas G. Pollard of Tyler said here today the existing depressed condition of the oil industry could be dealt with more effectively by a special session of the national congress rather than an extra-ordinary meeting of the Texas legislature.

Declaring the present state of affairs is due to depressed market conditions of the world and the importation of foreign oil from Mexico, Venezuela and Russia, Senator Pollard said neither of these conditions could be remedied by an act of the Texas legislature, but claimed the "further importation of oil will be incurred thereby."

Paving Plans Are Complete

Guy R. Johnston, Construction Engineer, Leaves For Austin To Present College Avenue Project To State

Plans for the paving of College avenue from the north side of Texas Technological college campus to 19th street, were to be taken to Austin late Wednesday by Guy R. Johnston, construction engineer for this division of the state highway department.

The plans have been completed in Mr. Johnston's office. They call for a 40 foot pavement, concrete slab 30 feet wide for the east and west sides, with a parking in between. Streets between 19th and the north side of the campus entering College avenue, a state highway, will have crossovers.

County Will Aid

There will be a concrete curb around the slab, it is expected.

Arrangements have been made by the county commissioner's court for the county to pay for the paving of the east half of the street. The state will take care of the expense of the other paving.

Just when the contract for the paving will be let, Mr. Johnson said he was unable to predict. "The plans have to be checked by the state highway department's engin-

Carnegie Hero Award Is Talked For Lubbock Boy

GEORGE C. WYNN, about 22, who resides at 301 Avenue G and who rescued 9-year old W. L. Simpson from Tumble-N pool Sunday night, is worthy of consideration for a Carnegie Hero medal, according to those who witnessed the act.

Wynn dived where a woman companion had seen the floundering child sink, and rescued him. Witnesses said Wynn and Lloyd Hamilton of 2000-block of Fourteenth street revived the boy after Wynn had pulled him from the pool.

The rescuer was forced to climb a fence surrounding the natatorium before he could dive for the drowning boy. The submerged body of the child's mother, Mrs. Thomas L. Simpson, 40, of 1921 Eighth street was found about 45 minutes later.

A former Luboock High school student, Wynn is employed at a cafe here. After bringing the boy to safety, and helping revive him, Wynn remained at the pool in wet clothing to aid in the subsequent emergency. He since has suffered chest pains, friends said.

BERENICE ALAIRE

NEW YORK, May 27.—Berenice Alaire, 17, and two years removed from Jamestown, N. Y., promises to join the ranks of modern Cinderellas.

Berenice was at work, as usual, in the office of a large Manhattan printing concern when notice came that she had been named winner of the "young artist's vocal contest" in the state of New York, and thus could compete for the national prize in San Francisco early in June.

All of which came about through a circumstance that has its setting on Chautauqua Lake. Now it so happens that each year, the Baroness Katherine Evans von Klenner vacations at her summer home in this lake and woods country. A student of famous old world masters, and herself an artist known to the music world for many years, the Baroness gathers a large group of students from Buffalo and the lake belt during this summer season.

It also came about that, in the course of a summer two seasons ago, the baroness became acquainted with the youngster who is now Berenice Alaire, but

Events Move Swiftly In Libel Case As Testimony Is Speeded

Eleven Depositions And Three Oral Witnesses Are Heard At Wednesday Session; Defense Is Continuing

SPEEDING up its testimony by the elimination of many questions that were repitions of previous depositions and also more general agreement among opposing counsel on issues and purported conditions in the free-range country of Eastern New Mexico, events moved more swiftly Wednesday in the libel suit under way in 99th district court.

Defense in the suit of Fred Spikes vs. J. Evetts Haley, et al seeking $200,000 damages for statements in Haley's "The XIT Ranch in Texas" published by trustees of the Capitol Reservation Lands, introduced eleven depositions and three oral witnesses during the day. Four complete depositions were heard in the morning session and a fifth started and six complete written statements were heard in the afternoon. One man testified late yesterday and two in the morning.

Acquaintance Told

Alex Huffman, of Andrews, Andrews county a former employe of Green Igo from 1897 to 1903, testified to knowing some of the Spikes boys in both Crosby county and in New Mexico. Alex was 12 or 13 years old when he went to work for Igo who had a ranch in Yellowhouse canyon southwest of Lubbock. He first went to New Mexico in 1900 with some Igo cattle, he said. The cattle were for an Igo ranch near Mesa Redonda, with headquarters about two and a half miles southwest of the corner of the Mesa.

"I knew the Spikes boys when I went to school at Estacado," said the witness. "I knew by sight in New Mexico, Fred, Dick, John and Sam Spikes. I saw on Mesa Redonda, John, Dick and Fred. I knew the reputation of John and Dick

Kirkland Term Under Dispute

Prosecutor Will Seek To Increase Prison Sentence Imposed On Youth In Conviction For Assault

(By Associated Press)

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 27.—A move to increase the prison term of Virgil Kirkland was under way tonight.

Prosecutor Robert Estill announced, after the Gary youth had been taken to the Pendleton state reformatory to begin serving a sentence of 1 to 10 years for assault and battery with intent to rape that he would formally demand Monday the sentence be increased to five to 21 years.

Opinion Given

He made this statement after Attorney General James M. Ogden in Indianapolis in an informal opinion, had said Kirkland's sentence of one to ten years in connection with the death of Arlene Draves, was not correct.

Ogden cited a 1930 supreme court decision that a 1927 statute defining rape and setting one to 10 years as punishment did not repeal a 1921 statute covering assault and battery in an attempt to commit rape, which fixed the penalty at five to 21 years and $1,000 fine.

Sealed In Air-Tight Aluminum Ball, Attached To Balloon, Two Are Believed Suffering From Lack Of Air

Only Enough Oxygen Carried For Ten Hours And More Than Twice That Time Is Passed When Sighted Last

(By Associated Press)

AUGSBURG, Germany, May 27.— The fate of Professor Auguste Piccard and his physicist companion, Charles Kipfer, who took off in an air-tight aluminum ball attached to a balloon early this morning was in grave doubt tonight.

Somewhat conflicting reports indicated the balloon in which the two had started out to explore the stratosphere at an altitude of 50-000 feet still was "hedge hopping" about central Europe at an altitude of around 10,000 feet.

Still Are Alive

A message received here from Imst, near Innsbruck, Austria, said the scientists still were alive, but in physical distress.

A later message from Innsbruck said, however, the airdrome official who reported having seen the balloon and the distress signal had declared the gas bag had disappeared again at 9 p. m. He expressed opinion it was continuing its drift southward at an altitude of about 9,850 feet.

ALPS CROSSED

AUGSBURG, Germany, May 28. (Thurs.) (AP)—The "stratosphere" balloon of Professor Auguste Piccard crossed the northern Italian border early this morning after a helter skelter, "hedge hopping" flight above the Alps and gave rise to a growing belief Professor Piccard and his companion, Charles Kipper, could not remain alive.

Messages Received

The balloon further was reported to have been driven over Oetztal and Landeck after it was sighted at Innsbruck.

A message from Vienna said it had taken a course toward Wems from Landeck and observers gathered the impression it was experiencing considerable difficulty in making its way into the warmer atmosphere near the earth.

Out Of Town Events Are To Be Of Interest To Lubbock Women Today

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

BACK to my old job of telling people how to rear their children, here's one of my theories having the championship of a specialist, Mrs. Caroline Clark Myers of Cleveland, who is the wife of Dr. Harry Myers, by the way, says that "The happy child doesn't just happen."

Parents must have the necessary information and then must be willing to expend the effort to gain results, Mrs. Myers says, and she, as well as her husband, is a specialist in parent education at Cleveland college. There are four things that make for the happiness of the child: physical soundness, mental health, social adjustment and proper equipment, according to Mrs. Myers.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

YOU can't tell anything about people by their looks. There's the story about Generel Gregorio Ferrera, who, friends say, is responsible for five revolutions in Honduras, and yet who is described as a mild "family man" who has no earmarks of the dashing soldier of fortune.

Those who know him well say that he is meek of manner with a reserve that closely approaches timidity; his almost frail physique is well under medium height; his speech is halting; he is described as a crafty chieftian of temperate habits—a person who never smokes, drinks intoxicating beverages or gambles. His attire is said to be neat and simple; he has a wide reputation for honesty among his associates. He is a devoted father to five children.

Yet he is a leader in guerilla warfare in a land noted for revolutions.

Watching strangers and speculating on their occupations and inclinations is an amusing sport, but you can't tell by looking at them what they do. The meek men aren't clergymen or teachers; the best dressed man isn't the wealthiest; the one who appears most pompous isn't necessarily important and the one who looks like the villian may be the kindest and most trustworthy sort of fellow.

BELTLESS SILHOUETTES

PARIS fashion notes say that beltless silhouettes are taking the fashion spotlight from the marked waistlines which have distinguished evening frocks. The newest evening gowns are made with intricate diagonal lines, tucking, or criss-cross lines about waist and hips and have no belts.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

AMERICAN men are wasting their time and admiration on women, according to Dr. H. Robert Welti, Swiss economist, who is in New York on a five-day visit trying to find reasons for the drop in stocks. A too highly developed cult of the feminine, he says, is resulting in lack of creative power.

* * *

Dr. Welti must be a man who has a vast knowledge of American men and women if he has spent all of five days in New York observing us! He may be able to move into a Swiss city and spend five days there at the end of which he has a pretty comprehensive view of the situation but he can't possibly include all American men in a class after he has viewed those in New York for five days. There is a land beyond New York even if Dr. Welti didn't bother to look it up.

SUMMER COMFORT

THE harsh lines of earlier designs in porch and garden furniture have been modified and comfort has been the guiding principle for the new patterns, according to a story concerning furniture.

That is good news. If there is anything less comfortable than a lot of porch furniture, it is the seats that are usually placed in tabernacles for church revivals and neither makes one want to linger about. These rustic chairs made of rough tree limbs may look well nestling among the shrubbery but I have yet to meet one that offers any comfort.

When I get out on the porch to acquire some air or sit in the garden sniffing the scents of flowers, I want comfort and a lot of it. The looks of the chair makes little difference if I can sink into it and forget about the worries of the day.

ROASTING CONTROL IS FLAVOR SECRET OF RARE COFFEE

Scientific Control Gives Hills Bros. Coffee the Flavor of Flavors

Invariably foods cooked in small quantities taste the best. The cook is able to control every step—perfectly—mixing, flavoring and cooking.

The principle of Hills Bros.' patented, continuous roasting process is based on the same idea. Instead of roasting their exclusive blend of coffee in bulk, measured quantities of about three pounds pass continuously through the roasters. The heat and speed of operation are accurately controlled with the result that Hills Bros. Coffee is absolutely uniform.

No other coffee can have the same delicious, uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee because no other coffee is roasted the same way. This process—Controlled Roasting—was originated and patented by Hills Bros.

The vacuum can in which Hills Bros. Coffee is packed keeps it fresh always. By the vacuum packing process, air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is taken out of the can and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, will not keep coffee fresh. Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee. Ask for it by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

Garza County Offers Many Scenic Spots

Historic Value Also Attached To Many Of Places In Addition To Beauty; Fishing Is Popular Sport

(By Staff Correspondent)

POST, May 27.—Garza county is replete with scenic spots that will delight the eye of the nature lovers or the eye of the lover of game, both fish and fowl.

"Down below the cap" as the expression is, is to be found the most of the scenic drives. Aside from their beauty, these places have a historic value in that relics are often found of early Indian life here.

Cooper canyon, seven miles south of Post, is one of the beauty spots. Mason's canyon, three miles south is another and Moore's Draw, 16 miles southwest, is a third.

Two Draw Lake, east of town, where many people camp and where several organizations hold summer encampments, also is popular. The lake, as the name indicates, is made by the damming of two draws, forming a fair sized body of water for fishing and swimming purposes.

Donaldson's Lake Popular

Bill Donaldson's lake, just south of town, is the mecca for fishermen. It contains seven to ten acres, depending upon the season, and is, like all other lakes in this vicinity ,stocked with fish.

The drive out west of town to the Boy Scout camp of 400 acres, located at the foot of the caprock, is another beautiful drive. This drive, in all, is about eight miles long. Here, Boy Scouts from over the South Plains area hold their annual camps each summer. The place is the property of the council.

Quanah Parker, noted Indian chief for whom the town of Quanah was named, used to camp here, according to local tradition. The Indians came down here for buffalo hunts and Quanah used to relate of the many camps of his tribes in this section.

Old Trail Followed Up

Through a gap in the cap rock, north of town, used to lead the old trail led in the early days from Big Spring to Lubbock and Amarillo.

Near the gap is located "Buffalo Point." According to John Lovelady a group of white men, in the days when buffalo roamed the plains, got behind a herd of these animals and drove them over the cliff at this point. The cliff projects out from the regular line for several hundred feet.

The hunters got behind the animals and headed them towards the point. The animals were unable to get away from the hunters and headed towards the cliff, In the mass were about 300 Buffalo and the animals plunged to their death off the point, which is about 300 feet higher than the ground below.

Covered With Flowers

At this season of the year, and for the next 30 days or more, according to local men, the canyons and terrain off the caprock is covered with flowers of all kinds.

"I stood on the rim of the caprock the other day," said Marshall Mason, local scout leader. "It was just above the scout camp. I looked over the canyons and saw the ground just covered with flowers. "I have been here for years but this year there are more wild flowers in these canyons than I have ever seen before."

The canyons, too, are the resting place of bones of pre-historic animals, Indian arrowheads and the like. The boy scouts, on their numerous camps, have found many Indian relics, spear and arrowheads. They have also found bonds of animals millions of years old.

Practical Method For Reduction Of Cancer In Nation Given In Report

NEW YORK, May 27.— (AP)—A "practical" method of "beginning to reduce" cancer deaths in this country has been made public in a report by the directors of the American Society for the Control of Cancer.

This may be done, they state, by establishment of special cancer institutes, hospitals, services and clinics. The institutes should be affiliated with universities and include in their programs education, research and treatment in the field of cancer control.

"It does not seem too much to hope," says the report, "that the further development of cancer clinics throughout the country and their coordination through the American College of Surgeons may raise the standards of treatment of cancer, and as a practical result begin to reduce the frightful mortality from this disease."

The report recounts an improvement in earlier reporting of the beginnings of cancer.

"The general lack of knowledge regarding the significance of early signs," it states, "the failure to appreciate the disastrous results of delayed diagnosis and treatment, the inability to distinguish between good and bad treatment, and the feeling that the affliction is a stigma, are each and all responsible for a vast amount of unnecessary suffering and death.

"It is encouraging to note, however, that the situation in this respect has definitely improved in this country during the past decade. Physicians report that an increasing proportion of cases are coming to them earlier in the stage of the disease, with a resulting higher percentage of cures. The public are becoming more familiar with the beginning signs of cancer; they appreciate more keenly the importance of early action; the subject is discussed with greater frankness."

Private agencies largely have caused this improvement, with a few governmental bodies assisting in recent years, says the report. It adds that there is room for wise investment of additional funds in this part of the work.

Lubbock County Singing Convention Meets Sunday With Slaton As Host; Everyone Being Invited

(Special to the Avalanche)

SLATON, May 27.—Details of the program on the all-day meeting of the Lubbock county singing convention, to be held here next Sunday, are being worked out, Dan W. Fortenberry, president of the convention, announced today.

The "sing-song" will be held at the Slaton high school, beginning at 10 a. m. The Lubbock convention of singers has been meeting regularly every fifth Sunday for almost a generation. Record crowds have attended most of the sessions, Mr. Fortenberry said. Many sections of the Panhandle usually are represented at the meetings.

Congregational singing will feature the singing of the day, but special numbers are being arranged to insure a well rounded program.

The older people may bring their "Sacred Harps" and sing some of those old-time "fa-sol-la" songs, Mr. Fortenberry said.

Persons planning to attend the convention are requested to bring their lunches. Slaton will furnish the coffee, the president of the association said.

How would YOU answer this Question?

"Regardless of price, convenience, etc., what tire do you consider the best tire made?"

A LITTLE bewildered by the shaky statistics of some recent tire advertisers, Goodyear asked the Bureau of Business Research of a great University to put the above question to 205,000 representative motorists to get the real low-down on this matter of tire superiority.

You can put calipers on treads and sidewalls, you can compare breaker-strips and cross sections until the cows come home, without knowing much more than you did before.

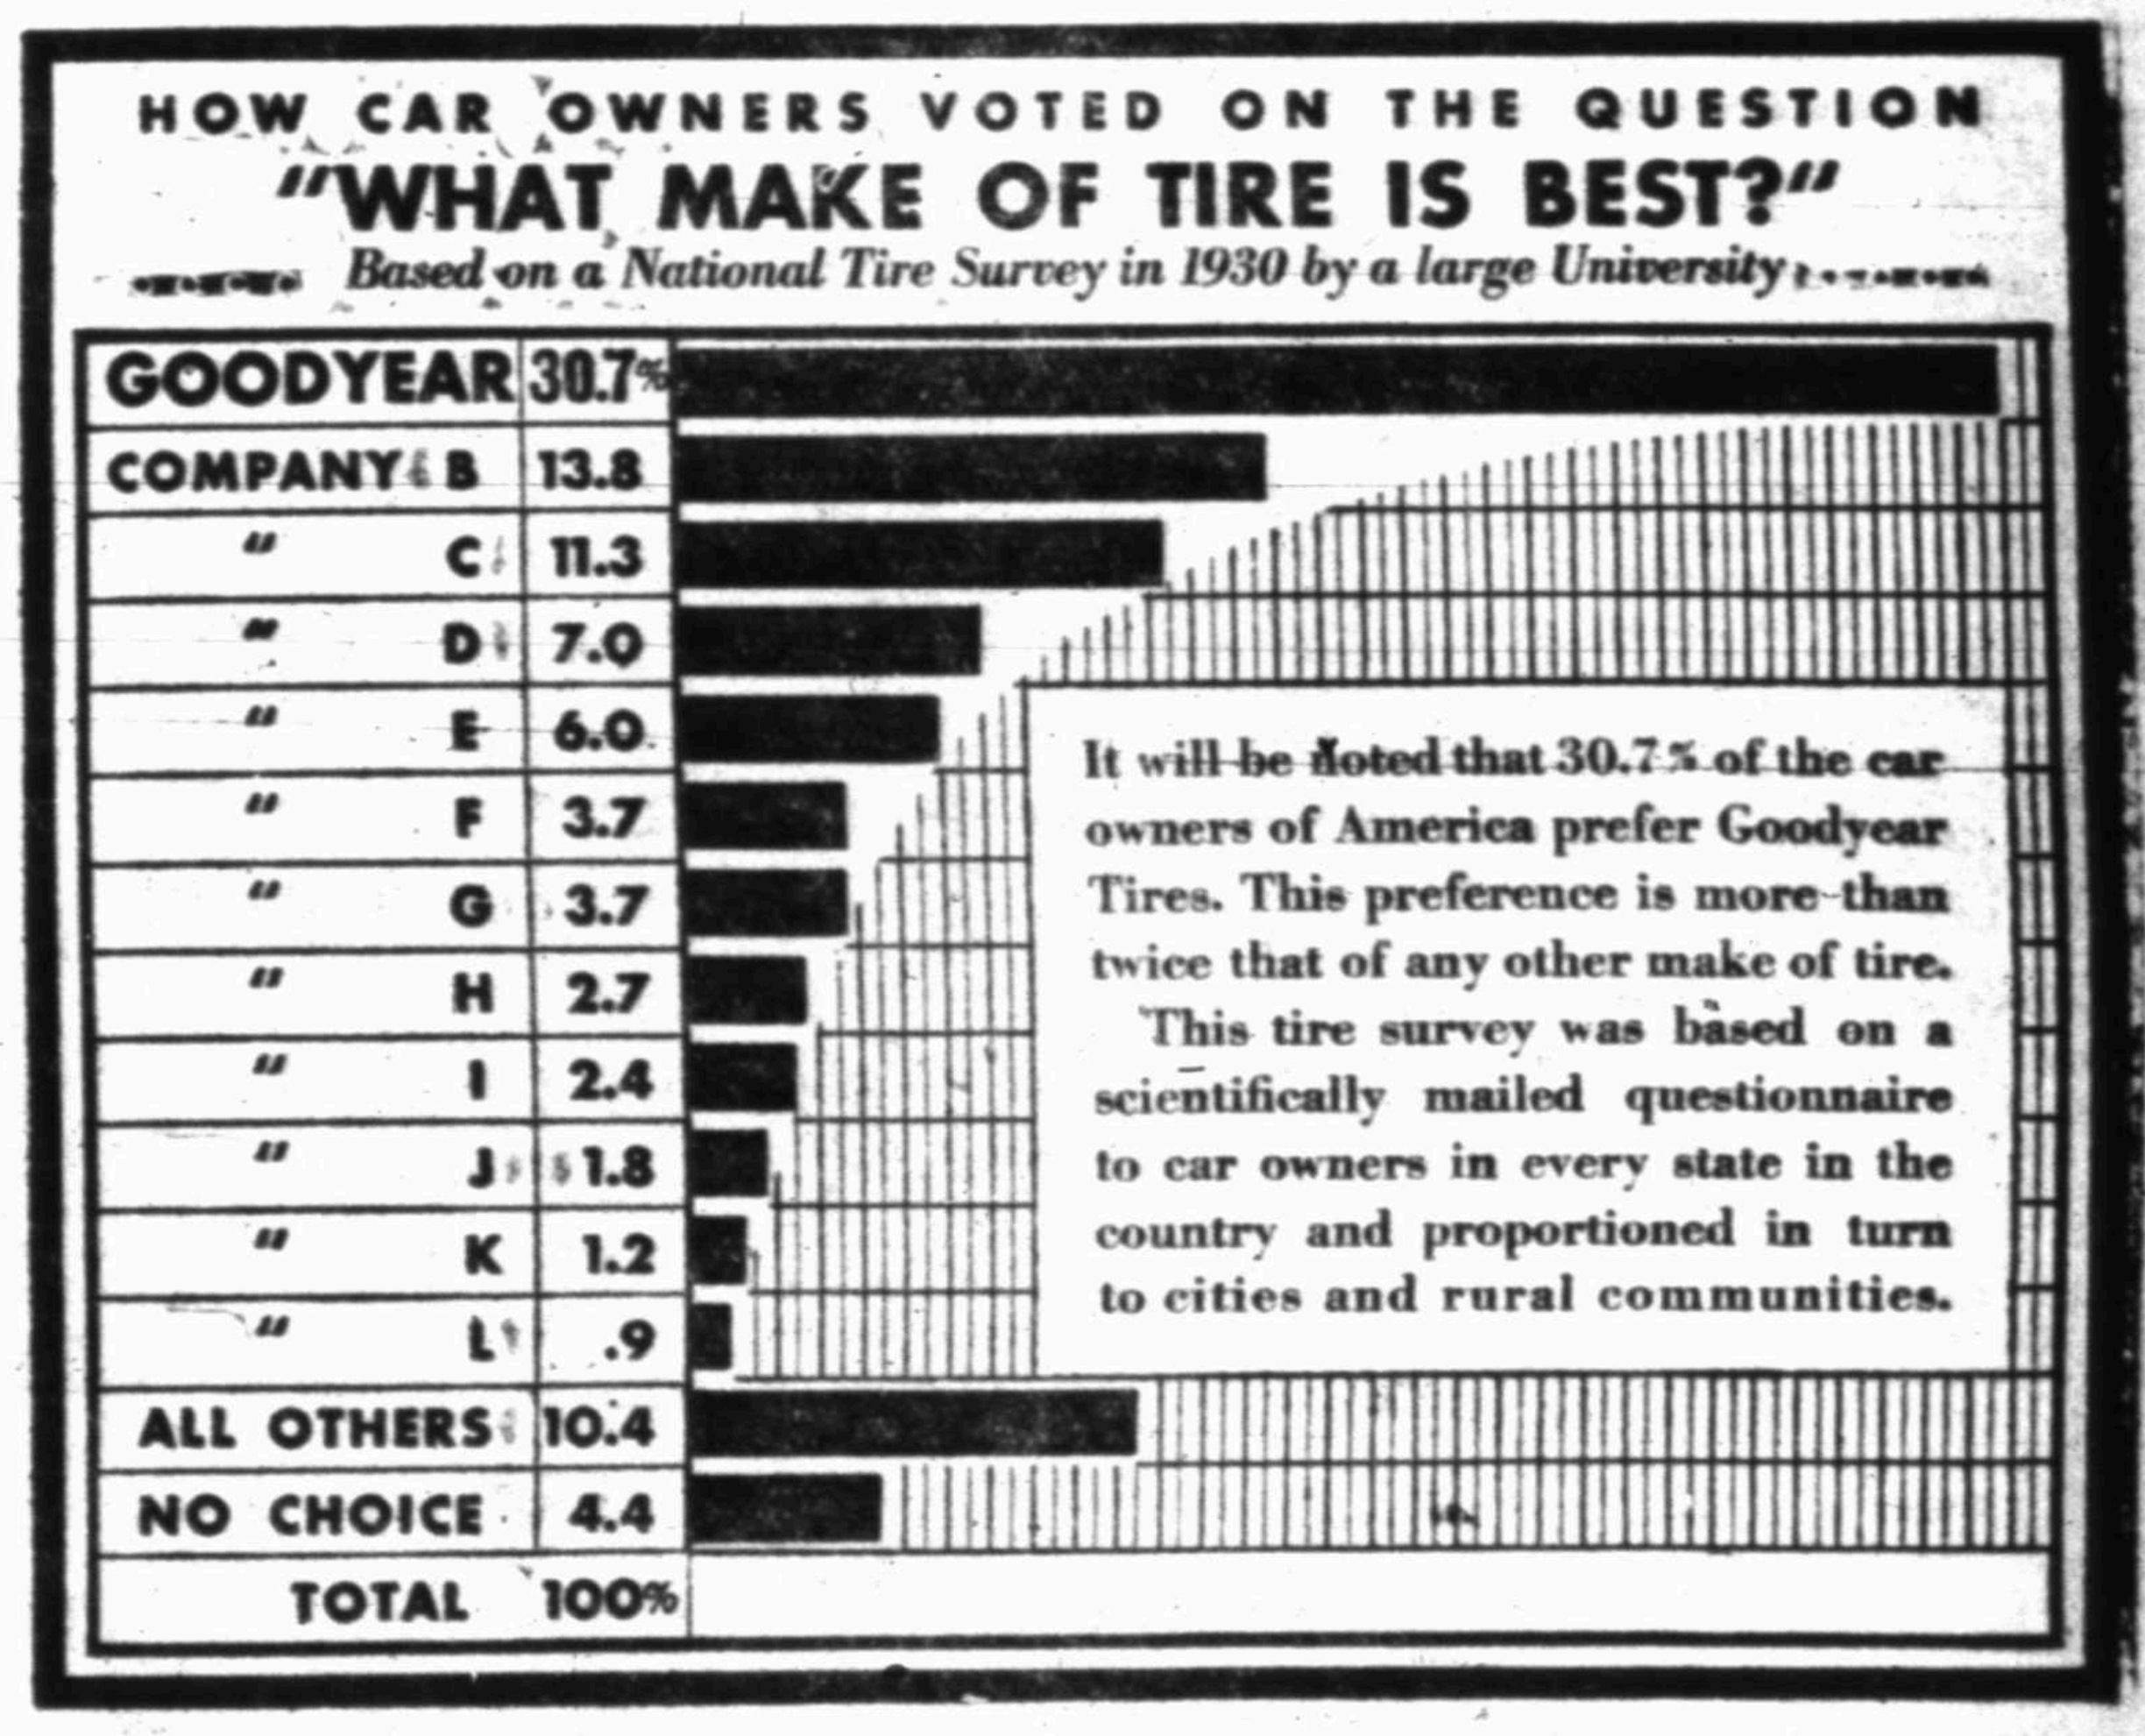
What you really want to know and have a right to know is simply this—what kind of service does the tire give?

The only people who can tell you the real answer to that fair question are the millions of other motorists like yourself who are wearing out millions of tires every month.

So, when there appeared to be a confusion of meaningless comparisons cropping up in the tire business, Goodyear went to the man who knows — the car owner himself.

Here's how they replied to the question, sent out not by us but by a great institution, absolutely neutral and totally reliable.

HOW CAR OWNERS VOTED ON THE QUESTION "WHAT MAKE OF TIRE IS BEST?"
Based on a National Tire Survey in 1930 by a large University



It will be noted that 30.7% of the car owners of America prefer Goodyear Tires. This preference is more than twice that of any other make of tire.

This tire survey was based on a scientifically mailed questionnaire to car owners in every state in the country and proportioned in turn to cities and rural communities.

With Goodyear prices so low, why not enjoy their long mileage, their safety, their good looks yourself?

Judge Halts Plan To Prevent Strib, Schmeling Battle

CLEVELAND, May 27. (AP)— The effort to prevent holding of the Max Schmeling-Young Stribling heavyweight title bout here July 3, by legal process, was halted today by Common Pleas Judge Thomas M. Kennedy when he denied application of Attorney Joseph H. Mellen for an injunction.

Attorney Mellen had alleged the match would be a prize fight which is illegal in Ohio. Judge Kennedy ruled however, it would be a "boxing exhibition," not a prize fight. Boxing exhibitions are legal.

Appeal bond was set at $5,000 but Attorney Mellen, who filed the suit on behalf of a tax payer, said he would not decide whether to appeal until after he had studied Judge Kennedy's decision.

NEW YORK, May 27.—The Athletics, according to the averages, are the worst batters in the league. They make the fewest hits, get the fewest runs and lead the league. You can't lead the league with that kind of baseball, of course. But here's how it's done:

Al Simmons says that Connie Mack's mental powers will win another flag for the Athletics. Thus, in the ninth inning, with Al at bat, the bases full and the A's three runs behind, Al knows without being told that Connie Mack is concentrating on his hitting a home run. There is nothing for him to do but hit a home run, so he does. Mental power certainly is grand.

Take for instance a game in which the A's are unable to score more than one run off the opposing pitcher. Manager Mack thinks it over very carefully and finally comes to the conclusion that it is barely possible to win a ball game on one run. So he master-minds his pitcher, Grove or Mr. Earnshaw, into a two-hit shutout. It requires deep thought but Grove and Earnshaw are very susceptible to one-hit hypnotism.

Take another example of Mackian mentality. Let us say it is May

NOW LET ME THINK!

5. The Athletics are in fifth place. Mr. Mack would like to have his team in first place by Decoration Day. He places his hand on his brow, decides that his team must score more runs per game than his pitchers allow the opponent, and wins a dozen or so in a row, reaching the top of the league. With a mind like that a man can do anything.

Newspaper Team Downs Rainbows; Two Tilts Today

The Avalanche-Journal baseball team broke into the win column for the first time in City League season yesterday to defeat the Rainbow club, 2 to 1, in an almost thrilling game at Merrill Park. Lefty Capps, hurling for the newspaper team, allowed five hits during the five-inning fray while Hower, pitching for the Rainbows, gave up six bingles.

League President J. R. "Dutch" Leuenberger announced last night that the Santa Fe club, managed by Bill Hargrove, had dropped from the organization and would be replaced by a team known as the Advertisers. The Advertisers will follow the schedule according to the games slated for the Santa Fe club. Alvin Dunlop will act as manager of the new team.

Two games are slated for today, both beginning at 6 o'clock. At Merrill Park the Avalanche-Journal team will meet the Advertisers while the Legion-Lions and Wholesalers play at Lions Park.

Paul Tyson To Leave Tigers Of Waco High

Popular Coach Granted Leave Of Absence For Year; Not Expected To Return; Goes To Leland Stanford U.

WACO, May 27.—Paul T. Tyson, whose Waco High school football teams won Texas Interscholastic league champions in 1922, 1925, 1926, 1927 and were runners-up in 1923 and 1924, was today granted a year's leave of absence from Waco High school by Superintendent B. B. Cobb of the Waco public school system. It is doubtful if Tyson will ever return to coach another Waco high school team even though he only requested a year's leave of absence. Tyson, one of the best known football coaches in the southwest, is going to attend Leland Stanford University of Palo Alto, California, to fit himself for a university coaching job.

Tyson is known to have turned down several college coaching positions in Texas following his success with the Waco High school Tigers.

Coach Tyson has made several trips to California of late. He is a personal friend of Pop Warner, Stanford coach. It is probable that he will scout for Stanford this year since Tyson is ranked as one of the best football scouts in the Southwest.

Baseball Men To Meet Again This Morning At 9:30

While nothing definite was established in connection with the installing of professional baseball here, a group of Lubbock men meeting together last night at the chamber of commerce rooms at the city hall heard Harry Wanderling, holder of the franchise for a professional baseball team here, describe the plans for the season and explain why night baseball should be successful in West Texas, and elected to meet in further conference this morning.

Interested parties here, including John Dalrymple and H. H. Shell, contractors, C. A. "Seff" Sheffield and other prominent business men, will meet in the offices of Dalrymple this morning at 9:30 to hear further discussions and to debate the advisability of taking over the franchise and, with Wanderling, a former power in Class B baseball, as manager, undertake to provide Lubbock with a professional baseball club. The team will be a member of the Panhandle League, recently organized with Amarillo, Pampa, Clovis, N. M., and Lubbock as prospective members. It is understood that each of the other cities have already declared themselves ready for actual playing to begin.

The league is to go nighttime, with first class lighting systems being installed in each city and night games to be played almost entirely, according to the plans and announcements. J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, is president of the new Panhandle League.

Frequent Slugging And Weak Fielding Result In Victory For Locals At Merrill Park

Base Hurls Route For Hubber Outfit While Amherst Uses Four Pitchers In Attempt To Curb Lusty Hitting

The Amherst baseball team failed to live up to its pre-game notifications yesterday and the Lubbock Hubbers pounded four Amherst pitchers for sixteen hits and sixteen runs to win the game, 16 to 6, at Merrill Park before half a grandstand full of fans.

Numerous errors on both sides and poor playing in the pinches detracted from what might have been a fan-appealing contest, but as it was the Hubbers literally ran rough shod over the visitors in three big innings to shower hits all over the lot and knock pitchers from the box almost as fast as they took turns on the hill.

Base, Newcomer

Base, a stranger in Hubber uniform yesterday, hurled a ten-hit game that might not have counted for more than three or four runs had his mates been on their toes. They had confidence in him from the first, as witness three errors in succession as the first three Amherst batsmen came up. In that inning the visitors tallied twice, a result of the errors and a home run by Dixon, center fielder. But two were out and after a fourth Hubber fumble the side was retired.

Lubbock counted four times in the first Gaither and Hodges getting on as a result of a hit-by-pitcher and catcher interference and Hambright tripling to center to score them. Brothers singled to score Hambright and France made the visiting second sacker do an error for Brothers' tally.

There was no more scoring until the third when Marshall doubled, stole third and tallied on Bettes' single. The visitors scored twice in the fourth when Blessing, Bradley, Gunter and Pitcher Harmon took four singles in a row, Blessing and Gunter scoring, an error helping.

Heavy Fifth Inning

Then came the fifth inning and the Hubbers went around, six of them going all the way around to score as many runs. Everybody hit but the scorekeeper and he went to the grandstand. Amherst changed pitchers but the slugging continued until two had filed out to center and one was caught trying to steal home. In the seventh they started again but only went four times on six good hits, one of them a double.

"Evo" Marshall furnished the leading batting punch for the locals after a bad start by pounding two doubles and a single. Hambright had a triple and a single and Breedlove, substitute second sacker for Hodges, hit three times in a row and scored twice.

Dixon's home run in the first and double in the third was honor winning for Amherst, though Blessing, Bradley and Harmon got two hits each.

The playing of "Red" Gaither at second and Oaley behind the bat for Lubbock were high points in the defensive game. Gaither, at third, was responsible for seven put outs during the seven innings he worked.

Rotarians Hear Johnston Speak

Discussion of the work of the State Highway department by Guy R. Johnston, construction engineer in charge of the Lubbock county hardsurfacing project proved the feature at noon yesterday when members of the Lubbock Rotary club met in regular weekly luncheon session.

Meeting in the auxiliary luncheon room at Hotel Lubbock, the civic clubbers heard the engineer tell of his duties and of the plans the state department has for improving the Texas highways system. Approximately 100 men were present, including a dozen visiting Rotarians in Lubbock for the annual convention of the Retail Merchants Association of Texas.

Only other address of the day was a humourous classification talk by J. C. Davis, florist. James H. Murdough, engineering professor at Texas Tech, was in charge of the program. Dr. W. A. Jackson, club president, was in the chair.

Left behind when the Plymouth, England, fire department was called to a blaze recently, a fireman was taken to the scene in a motor hearse.

The officer didn't believe her. Not until the girl in a wet bathing suit, disheveled and tearing along a country road in a battered flivver, repeated her pleading was the policeman convinced that she was really trying to find a doctor.

And every minute was so important! Back on the beach small Angie lay white-faced and motionless. Beryl had to find help to save him! She had to!

Angie's rescue from his foolish venture into the swirling waves is one of the exciting episodes in Ruth Dewey Groves' thrilling new serial, "The Melody Girl." Beryl Borden, adored by the neighborhood youngsters who make up "the gang," is the title character. She is the melody girl whose voice is eagerly listened for by thousands of radio fans. Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD"

Eve started it and the daughters of Eve inherited it. Eve gave Adam the apple, and it seems that Adam must have passed it on. For every man and every woman has an Adam's Apple. Put your finger on your Adam's Apple — that is your larynx, you voice box — it contains your vocal chords. Consider your Adam's Apple — when you do so, you are considering your throat — your vocal chords. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Reach for a LUCKY instead. Here in America LUCKY STRIKE is the only cigarette which brings you the added benefit of the exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays. It is this exclusive process that expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos. These expelled irritants are sold to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. And so we say "Consider your Adam's Apple."

Lubbock's Driving Record

SEVERAL weeks ago two motor cars crashed at an intersection of Lubbock residential streets and both machines were damaged. As luck would have it, no one was injured but the driver of one of the cars, a woman, narrowly escaped being thrown from her car by clinging to a door forced open by the collision.

Who was at fault in the mishap is a matter of question and does not enter into the discussion here. It is in the remarks of one of the drivers that The Morning Avalanche is particularly interested.

Considerably riled by the occurrance, the woman driver climbed from her car and, in no uncertain terms, gave her opinion of the affair.

"I've never seen anything like it," she declared to bystanders who had quickly gathered. "The way they drive in this town, it's a wonder people aren't killed by the dozen. Believe me, in Dallas, where I come from, they wouldn't stand for it a minute. They drive according to Blue Book rules down there—and traffic moves swifter, too."

As far as The Avalanche knows to this good day, the woman may have been at fault herself, but the statement she made is one to challenge every driver in this city which is becoming more and more a mecca for visitors. "They drive according to Blue Book rules" is something to conjure with, regardless of whether the person making the statement was or was not the cause of the minor mishap described above.

This much is true of Lubbock, whether we like to admit it or not:

There is more careless driving here than in many other places—and it behooves us, for our own good and that of others, to improve the condition.

It doesn't cost a driver anything to signal for a turn or a stop. It doesn't inconvenience him to drive to the right, to give warning when preparing to pass a car ahead, or to restrain from attempting to pass another car at an intersection.

But unless he does comply with these practical rules, his actions may very possibly cost him plenty in money and inconvenience him in loss of time due to injury.

Turning back to the remarks of the woman in the accident, there are many things possessed by Dallas that are not possessed by Lubbock. We do not have the population, nor the money to secure many of the improvements an older and larger city has secured. But we possess the same amount of intelligence and the same opportunity to drive sanely as the residents of any city, anywhere.

There's no getting around it, Lubbock has builded itself a reputation for being a "hard town to drive in." There's no getting around the accusation that there is too much careless, "bone-headed" driving by most of us.

And there's only one thing to do about it—that being for all of us to resolve to think more and to signal more while behind the steering wheel.

Practical Health Problems

SUFFICIENT VITAMINS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Whenever a new discovery is made in medicine its commercial exploitation promptly follows. We are given as a nation to mass interests and to adopting promptly any new method of amusement, any new food product, or any new scientific discovery.

Everyone can remember the temporary craze for mah jongg, cross-country walking, shaking machines for passive exercise, and ultra-violet rays in the home. Now the furore of interest and exploitation is associated with vitamins.

Readers of this column have by this time realized that practically all natural food substances contain vitamins of one type or another, and that an average American diet consisting of varying quantities of a variety of food substances takes care of most of the vitamin needs of the population. There is no reason why most people should drink a quart of orange juice daily; no reason why they should take excessive quantities of cod liver oil or cod liver oil tablets; no reason why they should expose themselves to sunlight to the point of burning.

Vitamin deficiency in any single case can only be discovered by a careful study of the diet and health of the individual. A hap-hazard taking of great quantities of vitamin-containing foods with the hope of improving health generally may injure the very health that is trying to be conserved.

Apparently a person needs for a full vitamin C supply in any one day the amount of vitamin C contained in a pint of orange juice containing the juice of one lemon together with one-fourth to one-half head of lettuce or its equivalent in raw cabbage. It is not apparent as to just why the lemon juice must be mixed with the orange juice. Neither does any one know from the quantitative standpoint how much strawberry juice, tomato juice, or other substitute rich in vitamin C can substitute for the orange juice.

There are many substances that contain vitamin C, and anyone can eat plenty of fresh vegetables and drink fruit juices and get an adequate amount of vitamin C. Tomatoes, cabbage, gooseberries, strawberries and apples, eaten raw, provide large amounts of vitamin C. Cherries raw contain vitamin C, but cooked cherries are poor in this vitamin. Cabbage, as has been mentioned, is an excellent source, as are also spinach, watercress and Brussells sprouts.

There have been innumerable studies on the subject, all of which tend to the view that a considerable excess of vitamin is not harmful and that the amount necessary for an adequate diet is easily obtained.

Advice Is Given

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 27.—"Times are not going to improve," said Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, "until existing laws are radically changed.

Senator Smith W. Brookhart

"The best we shall have under our present ones is another artificially inflated stock market boom. Even that will not last long. We have passed the point where any extended period of prosperity is possible without a basic readjustment of economic conditions.

"No past depression America ever has experienced has been quite like today's. Hitherto special privilege has been engaged in the job of shaping legislation to its own advantage. Now it has the job completed. Latest tax returns show 504 incomes which, among them, are sufficient to buy the country's entire wheat and cotton crops.

"By no means except a redistribution can good times again prevail in the United States for ordinary folk."

"THIS MAY be the juncture," suggested the senator, "for a party genuinely representative of the people to emerge from the meaninglessness of the two organizations between which we have been steered into such a state of affairs.

"It would seem as if the situation were urgent enough for it."

As a Republican (at least, so labeled) the Iowan's preference is for an effort by progressives to seize control of the G. O. P. machine and give it a twist in the direction he thinks it should travel.

In the event that that plan fails Senator Brookhart does not frown on the idea of an independent presidential ticket next year. "Although," as he told me, "it is too soon to consider the third party alternative while the Republican nomination remains uncertain."

MOST POLITICIANS will smile probably at the intimation that there is any uncertainty now as to President Hoover's renomination.

However, smiles do not phaze Senator Brookhart.

The fashion in which he sticks in Washington, handing out statements in opposition to the G. O. P.'s selection of the Californian to succeed himself in the White House is an object lesson in the virtue of persistency if nothing else.

The chances of a first-term presidential incumbent's designation by his party for a second quadrennium in office generally are deemed so overwhelming that I was curious to learn how seriously the Hawkeye solon regards his anti-Hoover activities. Finally I ventured to drop in and ask him. There is one thing I will say for Senator Brookhart:

Put a question to him and you get a clean-cut answer—no ambiguities, as from plenty of statesmen.

"WITH DUE allowance for the fact," said the Iowan, "that the odds favor the first termer in office, we have a most unusual campaign coming.

"The Republican organization renominated Taft in 1912, despite the managers' belief that he would be beaten, but they were desperately afraid of T. R.'s progressive-ism then. They felt that it was better to lose with Taft than to win with Roosevelt, such was their horror of progressive principles.

"Even the most 'ultra' of conservatives have lost their fear since that era.

"Progressive-ism is not the bug-bear that it was. Indeed, the depression actually has converted many conservatives to it. I get letters from voters who bolted me when I last ran for office, commending my present attitude—and I am sure no one will say I have turned reactionary.

"Party managers, who dictate nominations and renominations, reflect the change I mention. A progressive choice would not scare them to death in 1932, as it would have done in 1912."

"THEY WANT to win," said the senator emphatically, "and they have their doubts if they can do it with Hoover, provided the Democrats name a halfway satisfactory candidate.

"There are progressive Republicans with whom they CAN win, and they know it."

Senator Brookhart's suggestions include Senators George W. Norris of Nebraska, William E. Borah of Idaho, Robert M. La Follette of Wisconsin and Hiram W. Johnson of California and Governor Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania.

SUPPOSE the G. O. P. does nominate President Hoover again, in spite of him—and no independent candidate is named. Would the senator consider throwing his support to any imaginable Democrat?—as the progressive Republican Senators Norris and Blaine threw theirs to Al Smith in 1928.

The Iowan looked exceedingly glum at this query.

"Dominated as the party is today," he said, "the Democratic outlook is mighty unpromising. Raskob! On economic issues!—to say nothing of any others. Why! Senator Simeon D. Fess has nothing on John J. Raskob."

THE RETURN OF CURVES

Shakespeare was fortunate in having lived when he did. Were he living and writing tragedies today, he would never earn a reputation for being the one man of all time who knew women. It cannot be done in this day and age. Femininity is too complex.

There was that fad having to do with straight lines, silhouettes, slenderizing and starvation diets. Girls naturally plump starved themselves for the sake of stylishness. What they did not show in good sense they displayed in stoicism, courage and effort. Some actually starved themselves to death. Many contracted tuberculosis through undernourishment.

But all this is over. Dr. E. S. Judd, of the Mayo clinic, corroborates a popular suspicion that pulchritude is growing plumper and the famine fad is going out with the boyish figure. He has observed already a downward turn in the tuberculosis rate among young girls.

Why did the gentle and fair go to these great lengths? Was it to make themselves more alluring to the opposite sex? Was it to make themselves more attractive in their own eyes? No! Their one and only purpose was to be in style, to reduce their bodies to the proportions demanded by Paris modes. Instead of making the dress fit the body, they made the body fit the dress.

Sanity in curves is being restored, but only because Paris decrees it. Let the style mongers cook up some new monstrosity and the poor slaves to style will become as addicted to it as they were to fasting.

If you are old enough to remember the man's shirt that buttoned up the back, you cannot doubt that the world is getting better.

Today's One-Minute Sermon

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

EL KANTARA—GATEWAY TO THE DESERT.—In traveling from Constantine to Biskra I suddenly beheld a cleft in the enormous rocks, through which we could see the road creeping up into the plain beyond. It was the gorge of El Kantara, which separates the Algerian Tell (hilly side) from the Sahara. It is a complete contrast between north and south, between winter and summer. On one side the soil is dark and fertile—on the other it is rosy and desertlike. The rain stops abruptly north of El Kantara and winter never passes it.

A THRILLING MYSTERY STORY + by MILES BURTON

CHAPTER 53

The sight of three men in uniform waiting outside was something of a shock to the fisherman, but a few reassuring words from Pollard soon put him at his ease. They rowed off to the boat, and very soon Dick had cast off the moorings and hoisted sail. A faint air was blowing up the river, and with the aid of this and the favorable tide they began to drift upstream.

"I got on to the Superintendent," reported Pollard. "He'll have a half a dozen chaps hidden on shore in less than half an hour. They won't move until they hear my whistle. It all depends on those two fellows with the dinghy not spotting them. If they take it into their heads to walk up the lane and find the cars, they may give the alarm before we're ready."

"They aren't likely to do that," replied Dick. "If they've orders to stop where they are, they won't disobey them. Now, we're a party of amateur fishermen, remember, and we've had a drink or two at the pub before we started. It's no good trying to come upon them unaware they're bound to see us coming. Come on, give us a song, somebody."

The driver, it appeared, had an extensive repertoire, and very soon the silence of the river was disturbed by his stentorian strains, in which the rest joined raucuosly. At last Dick, who was at the helm, uttered an exclamation and pointed straight ahead. "There she is, about half a mile ahead!" he said. "Sing, boys!"

They obeyed him, and the lugger drifted on. There was barely enough breeze to give her steerage way, but Dick edged her gently towards the dim form of the motor-boat. The minutes crept by, the eyes of the four men fixed upon the hull ahead of them. At last they could make out the form on a man standing forward on the look-out.

"Here you are," whispered Dick. "Don't stop singing, what ever you do, but catch hold of these belaying pins. You'll find them better than turncheons in a scrap. Now then, stand by!"

They were not more than a hundred yards away now, drifting steadily down upon the bow of the motor boat. Dick sheered off a bit, as though to pass her, anxouis not to alarm the look-out until the last moment. He glanced at his watch. It was just an hour since they had left Bawdsey.

The lugger drifted on, till only fifty yards separated the boats. Twenty, ten! They would clear easily. There was no light in the cabin of the motor-boat, no sign of life on board her except for the look-out forward. Then suddenly Dick put his helm down, and lugger sheered in, aiming to strike the motor-boat amidships.

"Ahoy, there, where are you coming to?" roared the look-out, "On deck, you chaps!"

He picked up a boat-hook, and made a frantic effort to fend the lugger off. Before he could do anything, she had bumped into the side of the motor-boat. The singing ceased abruptly, and a long shrill blast from Pollard's whistle echoed from bank to bank of the river. At the same moment the cabin burst into blaze of light, by which could be seen the forms of men struggling through the companionway.

The four men in the lugger leapt on the deck of the motor-boat meet them. Dick heard Pollard's voice calling upon them to surrender, and then found himself engaged in a life and death struggle with the look-out. He struck wildly at him with his belaying pin, and the man dropped his weapon with a howl of agony. His arm appeared to be broken, and Dick, seeing him fall, ran aft to help the others.

He found them desperately engaged in the cockpit. Curtis was bleeding from a wound in the head, but all three were on their feet, opposing a group of men who were trying to drive them overboard. There had been at least half a dozen men in the cabin, but they were hampered by the fact that only one at a time could come out through the hatch. Dick took his place beside Pollard, and as he did so narrowly avoided a blow directed at his head with a piece of lead pipe. He closed with his assailant, and felt a keen thrill of delight as he recognized the distorted face of the man he knew as Ted.

For an eternity, as it seemed, they swayed backwards and forwards. But Dick was a more powerful man than his adversary, and after a while he wrenched himself clear and Ted staggered back. There was no room to use the belaying pin, and Dick shot out with his left and caught the man under the jaw. He fell limply into the cockpit, and Dick drew back to get a moment's breathing space. And as he did so, he heard the sound of oars, rowing furiously.

This would settle it, he thought. This should be the police from shore, come out in the dinghy to reinforce them. But if they had miscalculated their time! If this should be Ben and his companion, preparing to take the attackers in the rear! He struck at a man who had sprung up in Ted's place, but the man dodged, and he felt a numbing blow on his shoulder. He swayed, trying desperately to save himself from falling. As he did so he heard the grating of the dinghy against the ship's side, and a burly form in blue thrust him aside and drove at his assailant with his turncheon.

A shout from Pollard told him that his scheme had succeeded.

Men At Liberty On $1,000 Bond

DALLAS, May 27. (AP) — Three Fort Worth men charged here with assault to murder and extradited from Louisiana were at liberty today under $1,000 bond each.

The men, Sidney Pritchett, Jack Hawkins and O. D. Stephens, were returned to Dallas from New Orleans last night.

Charges filed May 9 in Justice John Baldwin's court alleged that in an attempted holdup of what they mistook for a liquor cache, three men entered a house in Dallas and held the residents at pistol point while they searched the place, only to find they had entered the wrong house.

Konjola Gives Blessed Relief

Here Is A Medicine of Deeds, Not Words—Read What Former Sufferers Have To Say

No medicine ever became famous by accident. A medicine must make good to win the praise and endorsements of tens of thousands. Konjola is a household word just because this medicine does what it is intended to do.

Mrs. T. G. Moore

Just see what Mrs. T. G. Moore, 514 Mission street, San Antonio, says of Konjola: "Three years ago I began having trouble with my liver and constipation. I felt thoroughly down and out. But after taking Konjola for a month I am feeling better than in a long time, and am more than pleased with results".

Mrs. Edna Barnett

Another staunch friend of Konjola is Mrs. Edna Barnett, 713 N. Pearl street, Dallas, who exclaims: "Every day for the past year I was in misery, with a burning sensation after meals. I was tired, worn out and nervous. I took just four bottles of Konjola and haven't had a trace of indigestion since. I have gained weight, and certainly owe much to Konjola."

Mrs. Emily Kimes

And read of the experience of Mrs. Emily Kimes, 314 McKinney avenue Houston, who says: "I suffered for many months with severe headaches and constipation. I was badly run down and nothing helped me. I have taken seven bottles of Konjola and it was certainly a good investment. I am no longer nervous; have no headaches. Konjola was just what I needed."

So it goes; victory after victory, when Konjola, with its juices of 22 roots and herbs, goes to work. Buy Konjola in any drug store, and do not accept a substitute.

Cotton Cotton Trading Action Picks Up Livestock Lower Tendency Seen For Cattle Grain Moisture Sends Grain Downhill

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 27. (AP)—Trading in cotton was active here today and prices after an early gain of fully three quarters of a dollar a bale later slumped practically a dollar and a half a bale to new lows for the day and season.

Prices closed steady at net declines for the day of 5-10 points.

Liverpool came in 6-8 penny points better than due and private cables stated that shorts covered and the trade called. Manchester cabled that the market there will be closed until Monday next.

July closed at 8.58, down 5 points net for the day, Oct. at 8.97 down 9 points net and December at 9.12, down 10 points net.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 27. (AP)—Despite an early upturn in cotton today, new low records for the season were established. There were partial rallies toward the close. The final price of July was 8.59, a net decline of 3 points while the general market closed steady at 3-8 points net lower.

Liverpool cables were steadier than expected.

Favorable weather condition over the belt so far this week, served to offset a rather unfavorable weekly weather and crop bulletin and in absence of any distinctly constructive features, the sinking tendency of stock values was apparently more impressive than optimistic expressions by some leaders in the trade over business prospects.

Local Markets

These prices are furnished by the following Lubbock firms: Poultry—Lubbock Poultry and Egg company, delivered Lubbock; Dairy Products—Bell Ice Cream company and Mistletoe Creameries; Grain—S. E. Shields And Wood Appear In Davis Cup Match Today

WASHINGTON, May 27. (AP)—Two of the brighest net stars of two countries, Frank X. Shields of New York and Guillermo Robson of Argentina, were squared away tonight for the opening volleys tomorrow of the final American Davis Cup matches.

With Sidney B. Wood, jr., of New York and Ronaldo Boyd, giant Argentine star, who will meet in the second singles match, the players of both teams retired to the Chevy Chase club late this afternoon after a day more filled with international amenities than tennis.

Before President and Mrs. Hoover and others, they played a brief exhibition on the White House court.

Immediately afterwards they were whisked away to the Pan-American union for the ceremonies of the draw and a formal luncheon, followed later by a reception for the diplomatic corps in their honor, given by Secretary and Mrs. Stimson.

McAllen Palms Defeat Sea Hawks Of Corpus Christi

CORPUS CHRISTI, May 27. (AP)—The McAllen Palms won 6-1 today behind the pitching of Willis, who allowed the Seahawks only three widely scattered hits. The locals got an early start with a one run lead, but were unable to retain this lead. McAllen nicked Biggers for six hits, making all of them count for runs.

CORPUS SKIPPER RESIGNS

CORPUS CHRISTI, May 27. (AP)—Announcement was made here tonight that Fincher E. Withers had temporarily resigned as manager of the Corpus Christi club of the Rio Grande Valley baseball league. Withers declined to make any statement other than it was for the best interests of the team. Financial difficulties caused by lack of attendance in entire circuit leads to the belief the league will not operate many days longer.

Reassuring Statements Fall Upon Deaf Ears And Prices Show Breaks

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, May 27. (AP)—Reassuring statements from sources high in business, finance and government fell on deaf ears in the stock market today.

Whatever stimulus prices had received from the stock exchange "bear hunt" petered out in another wave of selling which broke through previous resistance levels in all but a few pivotal shares.

The market rallied in the last quarter hour as shorts who had sold on an unfavorable batch of midweek trade statistics made some purchases, but a large majority of issues closed lower, the average loss being about a point. Sales totaled 2,500,000 shares.

U. S. Steel common had an extreme drop of 4 5-8 to 90 5-8, a new low, before rallying to close at 92 1-4, off 3 points.

Horton Smith, Sarazen And Kirkwood Stay With Match As Prelim To British Open

ARBROATH Scotland, May 27. (AP)—Horton Smith, the tall Missourian, and A. R. Padgham, young British professional, shared the lead today at the end of the second day's play of the $2,500 pitch and putt tournament at Elliott played as a preliminary to the British open.

Padgham added a par-breaking 53 to his 57 of yesterday for a 36-hole total of 110 with Smith only able to get a 56 to add to his par 54.

Gene Sarazen, former United States open champion, took a 59 to fall back on even terms at 113 with his golfing buddy, Johnny Farrell, also a former U. S. open king.

Marco Churio, the Argentine, and Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot player from New York, were one stroke behind Farrell and Sarazen. The tournament will continue through Friday.

was Berenice Johnson at the time. The "Alaire" was borrowed from a French grandfather for concert and stage purposes. At the time, the child revealed no greater potentialities than many others, but a bit of training convinced the baroness that there was a "find"—a coloratura voice, plus a very charming presence and personality.

Inquiry indicated that the child's parents, much as they desired, could not afford the expense of a thorough vocal education—which, in New York, runs into considerable money. So the baroness decided personally to become Berenice's musical mentor. For two years she has been guest and student of the baroness and has found encouragement from half a dozen of the Metropolitan stars.

Now she is headed for laurels in the national voice contest and, if she wins, will use the prize money for study abroad.

Meanwhile Berenice goes on working, for contestants must pay their own fare to the coast.

MIDDLEWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, May 27. (AP)—Declining tendencies were brought to a slower gait at the majority of the cattle markets around the midwestern circuit today; but there was still a narrow demand for the weightier offerings causing spots of weakness. As a rule the trade remained steady to 25 lower. Offerings failed to show much shrinkage despite the ruinous prices cattle have reached from the producing standpoint. Receipts totalled 35,300 as compared with 36,274 a week ago.

The brakes failed to work on the hog market, prices skidding 10-25 and carrying the top price down to 6.40. Several of the leading markets saw their high levels reduced to under the 6.00 mark while extreme weight heavies were taken as low as 4.90.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, May 27. (AP)—Hogs—700. Market 10-20 lower; rail and truck top 5.90, rail hogs 5.90; 5.85@5.90; packing sows weak to 25 lower; 4.50@4.75.

Cattle—3,200; market dull; plain and common grassers 3.75@4.25; on order; strong weight fed cattle 5.00@5.25; Good fat cws 3.25@3.50; butcher sorts around 3.00; low cutters 1.75@2.00; 2 loads good fed yearlings and twos unsold, calf quality mostly plain and common, good heavy slaughter calves 5.25@5.50.

Sheep—15,000; good killing classes fairly active, fully steady; spring lambs 7.00 @7.50; shorn fat lambs and yearlings 6.00@6.50; 2 year old fat wethers 4.25; aged fat wethers 2.50.

Another Probable

It is probable that the letting of the contract for a concrete slab on highway No. 9, south from Lubbock to the Lynn county line, will be on the same date as the contract for the College avenue job. This has been the plan of the state highway department.

Next letting of contracts for paving or grading and drainage work is to be June 22, according to word from Austin. The construction engineer would not state whether the contracts would be let at that time, stating that checking by the federal bureau of roads of plans and estimates would determine date.

Johnston has appeared in smart night places in New York, London and Paris, his partner being his wife, Muriel. She recently sued Miss Adele Fortune Ryan, granddaughter of Thomas Fortune Ryan and heiress to part of his $125,000,000 estate, alleging alienation of affections.

Reports were circulated Miss Ryan was aboard, but John Barry Ryan, Jr., her brother, said she is in Europe.

Grain

FORT WORTH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, May 27. (AP) — Cash grain demand, fair.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid: Wheat No. 1 ordinary hard 80 1-2@81.

Corn, No. 3 mixed 64 1-2@65 1-2; No. 3 white or yellow 67 1-2@68.

Oats No. 3 red 34@35.

Barley No. 2 nominally 49@50.

Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 lbs. 1.26 @1.27; No. 2 kaffir 1.18@1.19.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 27. (AP)—Grain went downhill with the stock market today. Timely generous moisture relief in South Dakota and scattered showers in Montana and North Dakota, where drouth complaints have been numerous, tended also to slacken demand for wheat.

Operating further to weaken grain was word that reapers had started cutting the new 1931 wheat crop in South Texas, and that the harvest was expected to be general throughout Central Texas June 5 to June 15.

Wheat closed nervous, unchanged to 1 1-4 cents lower, corn unchanged to 3-4 off, oats 1-8 to 1-2 down, and provisions showing 7-37 cents fall.

Libel Case

Spikes in Texas and also on Mesa Redonda."

Rode The Range

Huffman said Igo "had me ride the range and look after cattle and horses." Igo's cattle were "Old Mexico cattle" and "some Durham." The Mexican cattle were long horns, easily told.

Witness said he found cattle, dead, with Igo brands on them, mostly cows. He also found many hides of dead cattle in deep canyons. On some he said the Igo brand had been burned so that it could hardly be told. Witness said that he could tell whether a "mother cow" was such or not, by her horns.

Discovered Wire

Huffman was one of the discoverers of some wire on Mesa Redonda, he said. He and Frank Dulaney helped dig it up. One cross examination by G. E. Lockhart, Huffman said he "just left the wire there." He dug it up because he "wanted to see what it was."

Questioned as to his whereabouts the day John and Dick Spikes were killed, witness said he was "in a pasture" in the Igo ranch. He was not invited to join the posse going to the home of the Spikes boys.

Had Seen Fred

Huffman said he had seen Fred Spikes at Tucumcari, but had never talked to him. "I may have spoke to him," he added.

"I don't know where I was when they got back," he said, referring to the posse after its return from the home of John Spikes. "They," he said, "had been trying to arrest the boys, but had failed." He heard the posse had a warrant for the boys.

Siexte Martinez, a resident of the Tucumcari country since 1883, said he knew the reputation of John, Dick and Fred Spikes. He testified in his deposition that at a roundup he once saw John and Dick Spikes go up to the work wagon where he and several others were working for the Howry Cattle company and "wanted to know who ran the roundup." When told by Fred McFarland, he said the Spikes boys told them they "would fix us" if the boys came back. The cowpunchers were unarmed and the Spikes boys were.

Ivey Deposition

James N. Ivey, 74, of Vega, Texas, testified by deposition that he was a rancher in Deaf Smith county, four miles south of Vega in 1901 and 1902 and also a cattle inspector. He knew the reputation of the Spikes boys in New Mexico in those years; knew the boys personally although he did not know their names. His work took him over into New Mexico and it was through that that he became acquainted with their reputation.

By deposition John H. Howry, 69, retired, of Denver, former president and general manager of Howry Cattle company, owners of the HOW ranch, testified he knew "personally and by reputation," John, Dick and Fred Spikes. He knew them from about 1899 to the death of John and Dick.

Plaintiff Objects

A question which would have shown the source of some of his information concerning stolen cattle, was objected to by the plaintiff and objection was sustained. He said he "gave orders" to all employes. "I know of no cattle sold to the Spikes boys," witness testified. He declared dead cows and hides were found near Mesa Redonda that he knew of.

Witness testified that he knew certain men who associated with Henry Hawkins including Jesse Smith, Will Smith, Condy Carmack, W. J. McAdams and others. He also knew Will Andrews, Lee Rasberry and George Massagee.

Howry said he knew of the "Spikes brothers," or the "Spikes crowd" and that he knew the reputation of the Hawkins and Spikes "gang."

Knew of Trouble

On cross examination by deposition witness said he knew of trouble the Spikes boys had had with Fred McFarland, with Vin Cissel and others, mentioning trouble that Dick and Fred had both had trouble with Cissel. He knew of no trouble that Jeff, Sam or Ernest had had.

"I never saw Henry Hawkins and the Spikes boys together," he testified. Vin Cissel was an employe of the HOW ranch and he had, as deputy, warrants for John, Dick and Fred Spikes. "Vin Cessel was in my employe," he declared.

Denies Murder

"Vin Cissel did not murder John and Dick Spikes," Howry testified in response to a question asking him if he did not know that his employe had "murdered the Spikes boys."

Explaining "why" the chuck wagon of the HOW outfit was in the vicinity of Mesa Redonda for several days prior to the killing and on the day, he said that "we had a floating outfit to brand any large calves overlooked by the fall roundup."

"There never was a mob," he said when asked if the "mob" had not eaten at his chuckwagon. "Any man was welcome to a meal any time."

George Kilgore, employe of the Bell ranch in 1901-1902, as "fence foreman," said in his deposition that he "knew John, Dick and Fred Spikes personally and by reputation." He never knew Ernest, Jeff or Sam. He knew Henry Hawkins and his reputation was bad, he said. "Henry Hawkins had the reputation of being a cattle rustler," he testified.

Went To Cave

Kilgore said he went to the cave on the Mesa after the death of the Spikes boys and found two guns, some poker chips and a deck of cards. He knew Vin Cissel and Sam Gholson and their reputations were good.

"I never pursued any alleged gang," he testified. "I was in the Mesa Rica fight."

On cross-examination witness said he had met Fred Spikes a year and a half before the fight. He did not know Jeff, Ernest and Sam. He could not describe the ones he knew and did not know when the Hawkins gang or the Spikes gang was organized.

Mrs. D. W. Dunn, former wife of W. R. Mersfelder, testified in a deposition that she had lived in Hale county near the Spikes boys in Crosby county, as a girl and knew their "general reputation." On cross examination she admitted she had formerly been the wife of Mersfelder, a witness.

Juan Gonzales, Littlefield, a Mexican, testified concerning the robbery of a saloon in the country that he ran for his brother-in-law. One of five men who came into the saloon one day late in 1901, he recognized as Henry Hawkins, he said. They drank and played dice and after he was paid for the drinks, they all drew pistols and forced him to hand over the money, four dollars, he testified. One was called "Red" but the others he did not recognize. The party was in his place for two or three hours and cooked a meal there. They drank heavily, one got drunk and almost forced him to get drunk, Gonzales said.

At the morning session C. F. Burjois, Jim Kurlic, Francisco De Baca and E. S. Gholson testified by deposition and O. M. Conley of Amarillo and Joseph de Graftenreid by oral testimony.

Gholson, 48, son of Sam Gholson, said he lived south of Mesa Redonda and knew many men there. John White worked for his father, he said: Louis Nance lived 10 miles southeast; Vin Cissel, 10 miles southeast; W. M. Lay 30 miles northeast; John Moore, 20 miles northeast and John and Joe Rhea 35 miles southeast. The Rheas were big cattlemen, handling 5,000 or more cattle.

"I personally knew each one," Gholson said in speaking of the Spikes boys. "I knew them in Crosby county as well as New Mexico. Jeff used to work for my father. I knew their general reputation." He knew John, Dick and Fred Spikes in New Mexico; Jeff was in Texas and Sam in Texas most of the time.

Only An Aviator
Capt. Frank Hawks Is No Better

ROME, May 27. (AP)—Captain Frank Hawkes is just another aviator to Roman field authorities.

When the American speed flyer tried to crack European records in a dawn to dusk London-Rome and return flight, his plane had to undergo a complete inspection by Fascist experts just like all other planes that land in Italian airfields.

And precious seconds clicked away while aircraft designers measured and gauged, tested and checked his red and white monoplane at the Centocelle airport here.

Every single part of the plane was carefully recorded and photographs of it were taken from various angles. To complete the job, the speedplane was meticulously weighed.

Tax Increase

would increase the taxes on millions now paying and on many more not now paying levies. Such utterances from him as the spokesman of the administration frightens business and checks the restoration of confidence.

"Mr. Mellon and the Republican administration have from year to year and over the protest of congress gouged American taxpayers in excessive tax requirements over and above those necessary for the operation of the government and the replenishment of the sinking fund by a total of $3,500,000,000. They have taken that amount and applied it in retiring the national debt until we are seven years ahead of our program.

"If that be true then there should be a let up in the too rapid retirement of the national debt. Instead of talking so much about increasing taxes let the administration retrench more and draw in some of the large expenditures we now see going on.

"No, this is not the time for increasing taxes. If this administration instead of studying charts would have the courage to take hold and assume some leadership and let us catch up with our debt retiring program we would not only need no increase in taxes but in short while we will be able to reduce taxes."

Hawks Again Is Record Breaker

PARIS, May 27. (AP) — Captain Frank Hawk, riding his fast airplane like a magic carpet, toured Europe in ten hours today, having breakfast in London, luncheon in Berlin and dinner this evening in Paris.

The three point flight began shortly after eight o'clock this morning when he left Le Bourget for Croydon field, England. He made that trip in a little more than an hour, had breakfast and went on to Berlin, covering that stretch in three hours and fifteen minutes.

The flight down to Le Bourget ended a little after six o'clock this evening. The last leg required three hours and one minute.

Train Wreck

said the 12 cars were literally jerked away from the locomotive which remained on the rails.

The coaches were laid over on their sides, but not a tie was crushed, nor a rail twisted, he said.

List Is Given

A partial list of passengers and injured on the derailed train follows:

Arthur J. Labe, Bellingham, Wash., scratches.

Emma Kuhn, St. Paul, shock.

Andrew Kuhn, St. Paul, shock.

Mrs. Herbert Hunkins, Fort Benton, Mont., shock.

Jacob Kreiger, Spokane, Wash., bruises and scratches on hands.

Ed Aones, Blaine, Wash., head contusion.

Miss F. Noble, New York City, scratches and bruises on body.

The tornado swooped down on the farm of E. C. Miller, a mile east of Dillworth, Minn., and flattened the barn and outbuildings. Members of the family escaped injury.

Edward Brandt, conductor in charge of the train, was dazed by the wreck as were many of the passengers.

Those on the train said they had no warning of the storm until the windows crashed in. Then the coaches overturned.

At least 20 persons were injured, but none was believed seriously hurt, suffering mostly from shock, scratches and bruises. Most of the passengers were from the Pacific northwest, en route to St. Paul.

The "Empire Builder," is one of the fastest and most luxurious passenger trains in operation in the country. It was named for James J. Hill, "The Empire Builder" who constructed the Great Northern from St. Paul to Seattle, Wash. It operates between those two points via Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana and Idaho.

Texas Cotton Crop Report For Last Year Given Out

AUSTIN, May 27. (AP)—In a revised estimate, the United States department of agriculture said today the Texas cotton crop last year aggregated 4,038,000 bales (500 pounds gross weight).

The reduction due to deficient moisture was 28 per cent, the greatest loss attributed to drouth during the last ten years with the exception of 1925, the report said. The Texas drouth loss in 1925 was 40 per cent but that in the United States was not as great as last year.

A four per cent loss from boll weevils was experienced in Texas last year.

Total cotton production in the United States in 1930 was given as 13,932,000 bales.

sage said, also believed they could discern distress signals.

Apprehension was felt for the scientists chiefly because they carried only enough oxygen to last 10 hours. They left the ground at 3:55 a. m. and at the time the balloon was sighted near Innsbruck and nearby points nearly twice the ten hours time had elapsed. They originally intended the flight to last no longer than 5 to 7 hours.

The goal of the two scientists, in the earth's stratosphere, would, if they reached it, have led them into spaces never before entered by man.

Pick Mineral Wells

At the final general assembly yesterday morning Mineral Wells was selected as the meeting place for the 1932 convention of the merchants' organization and its affiliated groups. Galveston was the only other city bidding for the convention.

Following his elevation to the presidency of the association, Mr. Jewett issued a short statement on the work of the state organization.

Gives Statement

"The work of the Retail Merchants Association of Texas during the past year has been very satisfactory," he said. "It is our purpose to aspire to greater activities during the remainder of 1931 and 1932.

"It has been my observation, particularly during the convention just closed, that the merchants of Texas have a feeling that the depression has spent itself, and while business conditions of 1929 are not expected to prevail at once, all expect gradual improvement in business. During the next 15 months all expect a return of the old period of prosperity.

Predicts Prosperity

"With migration definitely toward Texas and continued development of agriculture, industry and transportation it is the general opinion of merchants that the next 10 years will see the state's greatest era of prosperity. It is our advice to all business executives to prepare for this era accordingly," the new president said.

Mr. Jewett is a member of the firm of Rolle-Jewett & Beck, men's clothiers, of Houston. He has been active in the association's work for a number of years.

Fight Doesn't Materialize

The majority report of the committee on revision of the constitution and by-laws was adopted with only one dissenting vote. The expected fight for the passage of a minority report submitted by C. E. Dinkle, of Greenville, failed to materialize. Mr. Dinkle's recommendations provided for the allotting of certain portions of the Retail Merchants association's budget for the operation of the Texas Retail Credit bureaus and Associated Retail Credit Men of Texas by constitutional amendment. Funds for the two organizations are now provided for by action of the executive board.

Changes Approved

Changes approved, in adopting the plan of Robert Stern, chairman, and H. B. Jewett, concern duties of officers and rules for eligibility to membership in the association.

Resolutions adopted at the final session of the assembly included a memoriam to the late A. A. Billingsley, who was a prominent worker in the association; appreciation of the hospitality accorded the convention delegates by the Lubbock Retail Merchants association, business establishment, press and individuals of Lubbock; appreciation of the part taken in the convention by Guy H. Hulse, secretary of the National Retail Credit association.

Reports from the credentials and auditing committees also were read.

Papers were read by E. S. Cummings, Abilene attorney and former member of the legislature; Arthur H. Hert, business research department of the University of Texas, and B. F. Condray, jr., head of the department of economics of Texas Technological college.

Pointed Out Fallacies

Mr. Cummings pointed out the fallacies of the present used in recording judgments granted in Texas courts. The assembly voted to instruct the executive committee to consider reforms suggested by the attorney with the view of staging an active campaign for their passage.

"Texas needs a centralized recording system for caring for judgments returned in its courts," he said. "At the present time these judgments are recorded only in the counties in which they are returned. It is then up to the person who is granted the judgment to follow the judgment through. Often it is found that the person aganist whom the judgment is granted has property in other parts of the state which is subject to attachment to satisfy the grant.

"Often, this proves to be a costly task. If all judgments were recorded at the state capital, this matter would be greatly simplified. Filing fees would care for the expense of maintaining the state office," he said.

Kansas City Inaugurates Fast Race To Land 1932 Democratic Convention

KANSAS CITY, May 27. (AP)—Kansas City started today a race with time to complete a 4 1-2 million dollar convention hall in the hope of obtaining the 1932 Democratic national convention.

Only yesterday the voters, 3 1-2 to 1, approved a bond issue of $39,950,000 for a ten year program of improvements, including the convention hall to replace one hastily erected for the Democratic convention of 1900 which nominated William Jennings Bryan. President Hoover was nominated in the same hall in 1928.

Moving swiftly today, the city made its first move toward purchasing a site in the block adjacent to the present structure.

Conrad H. Mann, president of the chamber of commerce, addressed a telegram to Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, advising him of the successful bond election and asking him to direct the attention of the members of the national committee to Kansas City's most urgent invitation to hold the 1932 convention here.

DALLAS, May 27. (AP)—Suit to revoke the Texas medical practice license of Dr. John R. Brinkley, "goat gland specialist" formerly of Milford, Kans., was filed in 44th district court here today by District Attorney McCraw.
