Red Flag

Members of the USAF Hospital, Reese, transport an 'injured' person to a field hospital 'under fire.' Red Flag exercises such as this, held here Sunday, allow hospital personnel to train in the field environment.

Party to honor McMillin

Plans are underway for a party honoring Lt. Col. Harry McMillin, deputy base commander and colonel-selectee. He will leave Reese May 2 to become the vice commander of the 3800th Air Base Wing, Maxwell AFB, Ala.

The going-away party will be held April 27 at the Enlisted Open Mess. Cocktails will be served beginning at 6:30 p.m., with a barbeque buffet served at 7 p.m. Dress for the evening is country and western casual. Cost for the dinner is $7.50 and everyone is invited. Reservations may be made by contacting unit first sergeants, or by calling MSgt. Roy Prince, Ext. 3473. Deadline for reservations is Thursday.

Colonel McMillin arrived at Reese in June 1984 as the deputy base commander. In February, he became the base commander and served in that capacity until the arrival of Col. John C. Griffith, air base group commander, in late March.

Construction alters traffic path on Main Boulevard

The in-bound lane of Main Boulevard will be temporarily converted to two-way traffic the first week in May when Civil engineers expect to begin work on the out-bound lane.

Pavement and grounds specialists began preparing the street for new pavement last week by ripping out the old asphalt. The in-bound lane is expected to be paved and ready for traffic May 6, said Maj. Harold Becker, civil engineering operations chief.

When work begins on the out-bound lane of Main Boulevard, the out-bound flow of traffic will not be rerouted to other streets, said Major Becker. "We can't totally block off Main Boulevard and reroute out-bound traffic like we can in-coming traffic be-

Weight Program to emphasize appearance

RANDOLPH AFB, Texas (AFNS)—Appearance will play a greater role in the weight management program as a result of recent changes to Air Force Regulation 35-11.

Manpower and Personnel Center officials here said the revised regulation, which will be released this month, does not change maximum allowable weights, but gives commanders more flexibility in administering the weight program.

Officials explained that commanders will be able to lower maximum weight standards if people do not present a professional military appearance at their current weights.

The revisions still allow commanders to adjust maximum weights for those people who exceed the standards, but look good in uniform.

In both cases a body fat measurement—or nomogram—will be used based on revised standards, officials said.

Under the previous limits men were allowed 24 percent body fat and women were allowed 32 percent. The new limits are 20 percent body fat for men 29 and younger and 24 percent for men over 29. For women, the standard is 26 percent body fat for those 29 and under and 30 percent for those over 29.

The revised regulation also allows members to appeal body fat measurements and weight adjustments to the wing commander, and introduces "desired weights" that are 10 percent below maximum weights, officials said.

Persons who are at or below desired levels will continue to be weighted annually, while those who exceed the desired level will be weighed semi-annually—in January and July, officials said.

Members no longer will be allowed a "grace" period under the revised regulation. Previously, people who were five pounds or less over their maximum weights were given 30 days to meet the standard. Now, they will be placed immediately in the weight management program.

The amount of weight a person in the program will lose each month has also changed from 6 pounds every 60 days to 5 pounds per month for men and 3 pounds per month for women, officials said.

Also, members on the program will receive quarterly diet counseling and be required to participate in a minimum 30-day exercise program.

People who lose the required weight will be observed for six months instead of one year as a result of the revised regulation, officials said. Those who do not progress satisfactorily will be subject to administrative action.

More information on revised weight standards is available at the base personnel office.

Commentary

Reese—from a 'new guy' perspective

By Col. Clark Griffith
Commander, 64th Air Base Group

When I left the Pentagon last month, I was obviously relieved to be going back to the field where the day-to-day action really happens.

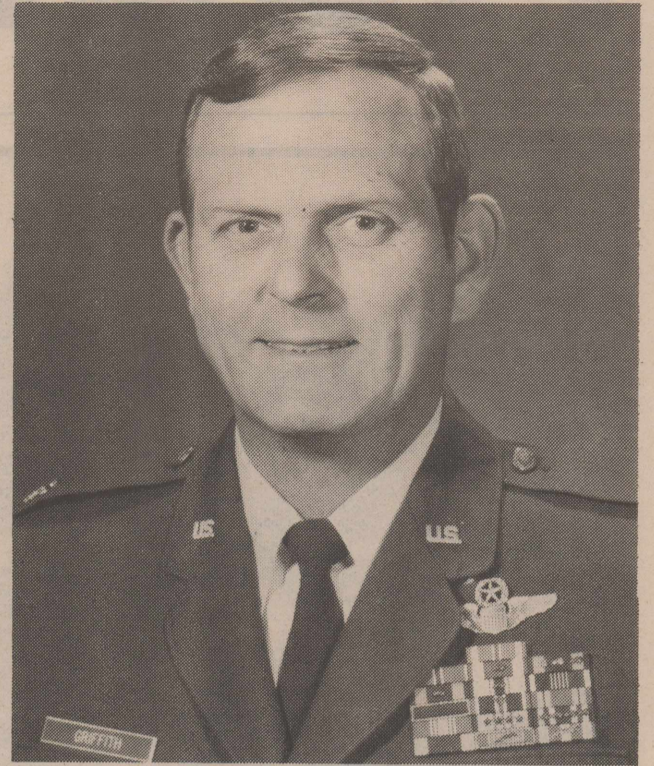

More importantly, I was thrilled to be assigned to Reese since people at both the Pentagon and Air Training Command Headquarters always described Reese differently than any other base. Typical comments were: "Reese is best!" "If you want to do it right, find out how Reese does it!" "You will not find better people or facilities than they have at Reese." "Reese is on a roll—they are at the top in every category!" Having been here now for almost a month, it is easy to see that everything I'd heard is true—and more.

Reese is not only the best, it is getting better every day. The superior manner in which you accomplish the mission, the base appearance, the overall facilities, and the team spirit of all the people are truly impressive. The ongoing projects for the Base Appearance Visit on June 10-12 and Reese Reunion on June 14, are progressing nicely. Particularly impressive are the many self-help projects that I see all over the base. This leads me to the main point of this article. How does all this happen?

The answer is obvious—even to a new guy like myself. You, the men and women of Reese, make it happen! It is done through dedication, professionalism and good old-fashioned hard work that you demonstrate every day.

Your teamwork and support remind me of a story I heard recently about the Statue of Liberty. All of us know that France presented the statue to the United States and it was dedicated by President Grover Cleveland on Oct. 28, 1886. However, what few people have heard is that there was no plan, nor money to erect the statue. Even though times were hard in those days, the people of the United States banded together and contributed pennies, nickels, dimes and hard work to build the foundation for the statue. Thus, one of our nations most prominent landmarks was not just a gift from another country, but was made possible by the determination, dedication and sacrifice of the American people.

Like the Statue of Liberty, Reese is the best around, because the people of Reese provide that solid foundation every day which makes us stand above all others. It is an honor and privilege to belong to such a superior organization.

As a new guy, I can only promise that I will do everything I can do to keep Reese on top. With your continued support and teamwork, we will make it happen.

Children bring out airman's pride

By A1C Gregory Hudson
Hickam AFB, Hawaii

"Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses..." is an often quoted line extracted from the inscription on the Statue of Liberty.

We've all heard it, but how many of us actually know what it means? How many of us ever wondered if those words are truly symbolic of the American way of life?

Until recently I had never given those words much thought, but my awakening to the true meaning of this country's creed came recently when I was at Natrta International Airport in Tokyo waiting for my flight home.

I was trying to relax and watch television, but I noticed a large group of children at the next gate. I immediately recognized them as being from Vietnam and wondered about their destination. Somehow I had a feeling they were going to the United States.

By now, some of the children, who ranged in age from 3 to 16 had moved closer and I decided to ask one of them where they were going.

"America" was the reply as they all smiled with a hint of joy. The oldest of the children explained to me they were going to the United States to join relatives.

Proudly, I told them I was an American and I would be delighted to answer any questions concerning my country.

With what little English they could speak and understand, they gathered around to listen.

As I spoke slowly explaining what American life had to offer them, I could see that even though there was a language barrier, they knew I was sincere. As I began to tell them about my childhood, they were intrigued to learn about the games I played, the places I visited, the friends I grew up with, the fun I had in school and my family life.

All that I shared with them are things we take for granted. But to them, riding a bicycle, playing with dolls, eating hamburgers, going to a ball game and building a treehouse are just dreams. To us it's a way of life.

Now those small things will be available to them. And from the looks of their eager faces, they could hardly wait.

After talking to them for some time, it was time for them to leave. They each thanked me and shook my hand. As I looked in each child's eyes, I could see a glimmer of hope and faith.

When the last child came up to me for her handshake, she reached out both hands to embrace me and said in a tear-filled voice, "Thank you".

Until that moment, I had never been so proud to be an American.

Support people make it happen

By Capt. Jon Gardner
Commander 1958th Communications Squadron

Support people make it happen. How many times have we all heard that? Interesting point, primarily because it's true.

Most of the time when we hear these comments it's about the folks on the flight line. There is no doubt that those people deserve those comments. Believe me they earn 'em.

But what about the rest of the world; services, MWR, Comm, ADP, Transportation, Finance, CE, etc., etc. We all have a tendency at times to take those services for granted. We expect the gym to be open, the pay check to be there and the phone to work. And we have a right to expect those kinds of things. The point is we don't normally think about those things until they aren't there.

Try closing the gym, or not getting your pay check on time. Try living and working without something as basic as a telephone.

I work in the support field and I know how fast and loud the cry comes up from about the land when those things don't work.

The point in all of this is that people make all of those things function; people who work hard to insure those things work for all of us. Those folks are dedicated and concerned. They want you to have the very best they can provide.

Be tolerant. Remember, things break and when they do they will be fixed at the earliest opportunity.

All of us are faced with "do more with less." Well, after a while the "do more" portion costs us somewhere. In some cases that is in response times, but it can also be in the politeness we are given when we "complain."

Support functions, at least in many cases, are misnamed. They aren't support at all, but in reality-necessities. Without them we couldn't do our job.

I remember a secretary who once told me she could only work so many priorities at a time.

There's a lot of truth in that and it is particularly true in the "support" business.

So next time you want to yell, scream and shout at that "support" technician, just remember that one of these times you may be on the receiving end of the yelling. If you calmly and tactfully explain your problem it will probably get fixed faster and with a lot less heartburn.

AFA, more than just a magazine

By Gen. Andrew P. Iosue
Commander
Air Training Command

One voice...220,000 strong and growing. That's the Air Force Association, a non-profit organization of enlisted, officer, and civilian members that speaks up for Air Force people as well as important Air Force issues.

Membership in the AFA is more than receiving the excellent magazine that is sent to members. As we strive to maintain and strengthen our quality force, the possibility of changes to our retirement system and other entitlement programs cloud the horizon. The AFA is working hard to maintain a level of compensation necessary to recruit and retain the best people to defend our nation.

Past issues which the AFA helped support include across-the-board pay increases, enlistment bonuses, extension of the G.I. Bill, improvements in Servicemen's Group Life Insurance, retention of the commissary system, creation of the office of Chief Master Sergeant of the Air Force, degree granting authority for the Community College of the Air Force, and a host of other programs that improve the quality of life for active duty, retirees, civilian employees, reserve forces, and the whole Air Force Family.

In addition to being the national sponsor of the Air

Force's Outstanding Airman Program, the AFA also works at the local level. AFA chapters bridge the gap between military and civilian neighbors through recognition programs, scholarships, and by sponsoring events that bring civic and military members together.

The AFA continually works to educate and inform the public about the development of aerospace power and is able to foster an awareness of the material and manpower strength we need to maintain the security and peace of the United States and the free world. The AFA publication, Air Force Magazine, is a tremendous tool for the military and public alike to learn about our mission, and what we need to preserve freedom.

The AFA is conducting its annual membership drive from Monday to May 31. 1st Lt.

Lou Durkac, at Reese has information on how to become a member.

Membership in the AFA is a personal, voluntary decision. But, it's the right thing to do. By doing so, we will help ourselves as we strengthen our nation's defense.

This year's Air Force association slogan is "Pride in our past...Faith in our future!" Consider being a part of the AFA.

cause our fire department must be able to respond quickly to Reese Village," he said.

The old pavement had deteriorated to the point that it was more economical to replace than repair, said the major. "The surface was so badly cracked that if we repaired it the cracks underneath would have caused our new pavement to crack within a matter of days," he said.

In addition to a smoother surface, the roadway will be expanded from its present 19 feet to 25 feet to provide wider traffic lanes. Drainage will also be improved with the installation of a curb and gutter along both sides of the boulevard.

The ditch along both sides of the street will be filled in and leveled, and have flower beds installed to enhance the street's appearance.

Warning devices block the closed inbound lane of Main Boulevard.

"Let us be very clear on this matter: if we condemn people to inequality in our society we also condemn them to inequality in our economy."

Leukemia, cause of pet death

By Capt. Billy W. Howard
Base Veterinarian

Feline Leukemia Virus (FeLV) infection is one of the leading causes of death in pet cats and kittens. Leukemia, a blood cell cancer, is highly contagious. It is present in the saliva, urine, and feces of infected cats, and is passed to healthy cats by licking, sneezing, and sharing contaminated food bowls and litter pans. Kittens can even pick up the virus by nursing an infected mother.

For years cat owners had no means of preventing FeLV infection in their pets. The only advice a veterinarian can give is to let the animal suffer or have the animal euthanized. Recently, a vaccine against FeLV infection was developed. Now cats can be protected against the many forms of suffering associated with and caused by FeLV infection as early as nine weeks of age.

For the past three months, the local civilian veterinarians have been giving the FeLV vaccine for cats. If your cat has already started its series of vaccinations with any of the 3 local vets, it is recommended that they continue receiving their vaccination series from the original veterinarian. This will provide such information as any ill side effects that may occur and make reports of these findings to the laboratory that produces the vaccine.

The vaccine for Feline Leukemia is now available at all veterinary clinics. For more information, call any of your local veterinarians or the Base Veterinary Clinic at Ext. 3535 on Monday, Tuesday or Friday.

SOS reunion

MAXWELL AFB, Ala. (AFNS)—The Squadron Officer School here is planning a reunion for former Air University faculty members Sept. 20-22. Addresses or phone numbers of former faculty members are needed to update the mailing list. Send information to: SOS/EDOWF, Bldg. 1403, Maxwell AFB, Ala., 36112-5582, or call (205) 293-7311 or AUTOVON 875-7311.

Interest Increase

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—The Veterans Administration increased its maximum home loan interest rate from 12.5 to 13 percent March 25. VA Administrator Harry Walters said the increase was prompted by current mortgage market conditions. Also increased by half a percent point are maximum rates for graduated payment mortgages (13.25 percent) and home improvement loans (14.5 percent). Rates for prefabricated and mobile homes also increased.

AU Review

MAXWELL AFB, Ala. (AFNS)—The March-April issue of Air University Review probes the Soviet Military. An article by Dr. Jonathan Adelman deals with the evolution of Soviet military doctrine. Also, in this issue is an article by Lt. Col Harry Kieling that describes the type of attack pilots might face during a Soviet offensive in Europe.

Chapel women plan retreat

The Women of the Chapel are planning their annual Spring Retreat for 9:30 a.m. April 26 through 3 p.m. April 27. Overnight attendance is optional.

The sessions will be held at the Slaton Retreat House across from St. Joseph's Catholic Church in Slaton.

The retreat is for all women who are interested. The Women of the Chapel is an ecumenical group—so ladies of all denominations are invited. The theme is "Spiritual Nourishment." Rev. John Claypool of the Second Baptist Church will speak the morning of April 26. That afternoon, the attendees will hear Father Bill Hanley of St. Elizabeth's Catholic Church. In the evening, Reese Chaplain (Capt.) Larry Walling will lead devotions, meditations, and prayers.

Margaret Mary McCollough, spiritual life chairperson for the Women of the Chapel, reports that she is hoping to have a special surprise speaker for the Saturday sessions. Ladies are encouraged to attend as much of the retreat as their schedule allows. Free child care will be available at the Child Care Center for all day Friday. No overnight child care is available.

Car-pooling will be available at the chapel at 8 a.m. Friday, and Saturday if necessary. There is no cost for this retreat.

Reservations can be made by calling Margaret Mary McCollough at 794-4097 no later than Tuesday.

Fair offers employment opportunity

The Non-Commissioned Officers' Association's Veterans Employment Assistance Program has been hailed by industry and government as a most unique approach to finding jobs for veterans.

The basic tool of the V.E.A. Program is a mini-resume form which is used to compile an international "People Bank" book, which identifies veteran job seekers and their qualifications for employment. Listings are confined to brief but factual information concerning job interests, geographical preferences, availability date, special skills, education, vital statistics, and a summary of experience.

All veterans, separating service-persons, and retirees are invited to attend the NCOA sponsored Job Fair to be held at the Marriott in El Paso, Texas April 26. The fair will be conducted from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Employer representatives from local and national companies, as well as city, state, and federal government agencies, will be on hand to interview applicants for jobs. Thousands have found employment through NCOA Job Fairs, across the United States in the past several years.

The San Antonio—headquartered NCOA, through the Job Fairs and VEA Program, has helped ease unemployment or underemployment problems in several cities across the nation while helping industry secure the services of the skilled people being separated from the Armed Forces.

For more information, contact the NCOA Service Center, Rt.11 Box 170-F, Lubbock, TX 79707, phone 795-3502.

Dity moves get better

Do-it-yourself moves have always been a good deal and means extra money in your pocket.

Through the DITY program, the Air Force allows self movers to receive an incentive payment of 80 percent of the normal cost of moving via van or motor carrier, less the DITY rental cost on a PCS, TDY or local move under official orders. "This is an excellent way to relocate property whether it be across town or across the country, enabling you to make money as well as reducing the cost to the Government," said 2nd Lt. Ray Hirata, Traffic Management Officer.

"The member does all the loading, transporting and unloading with the property remaining with the member at all times during the process," he said. "All of the administrative details are handled by the Traffic Management office."

"As we enter into our peak shipping season, which is April through September, we encourage all members to take advantage of this," said Lieutenant Hirata.

For more information, contact the Traffic Management Office at Exts. 3943 or 3838.

Mike Stansbury, both from the 35th Flying Training Squadron, took honors. In the Officer Single Unit Lt. George Hooper, 35th Flying Training Squadron was the winner.

A second group of "Homes of The Week" were selected recently. The winners were: Enlisted Duplex Category—SSgt. Damilo Deguzman, USAF Hospital Reese and Sgt. Kenneth Sutton, 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron; Single Unit—CMSgt. Max Lantz, 64th Flying Training Wing; Officer Duplex—Capt. Aubrey Hendrix, 64th Flying Training Wing, and Lt. David Whittemoe, 64th Student Squadron; Single Unit Winner was Lt. Richard Sharpe, 54th Flying Training Squadron.

Tampon Recall

The Air Force Commissary Service is helping International Playtex Inc. with a precautionary recall of tampons containing polyacrylate, a highly absorbent synthetic material.

This precaution is because super absorbent substances like polyacrylate might increase the risk of Toxic Shock Syndrome.

Playtex Super and Super Plus Tampons are affected by this recall and have been removed from commissary shelves.

Customers who have purchased these tampons may return them to the local commissary for a refund, or send the front panel of the box to International Playtex, Inc., P.O. Box 7010, Dover DE 19903 for a replacement coupon.

Base Blood Drive

A base blood drive has been set for Monday from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. in the enlisted club conference room. Members from civil engineers, air base group, and supply should contact their First Sergeants. Everyone else may contact Capt. Larry Johansen, ext. 3723, to sign up or if you have questions about the drive. Sign-ups by appointment is encouraged but walk-ins will be permitted.

The next blood drive is scheduled for May and will be sponsored by the maintenance squadrons.

CGOC Luncheon

The base commander, Col. John C. Griffith, will be the guest speaker at the next Company Grade Officer's Council luncheon set for April 30 in the Davis Room of the Officers' Club. The social period will begin at 11:30 a.m. followed by the luncheon. Persons interested can contact 2nd Lt. Debbie Dubay at ext. 3211 for reservations.

Bake sale

The Enlisted Wives Club will hold a bake sale Saturday at the Base Exchange from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Proceeds will go to the EWC Scholarship fund.

Life guards

The Civilian Personnel Office is taking applications for life guards. Applicants must have a current senior lifesaving and cardiopulmonary resuscitation certificate. Applications will be accepted through May 1, at the Civilian Personnel Office, Building 920, Room 132.

Officers' Wives

The Officers' Wives' Club will hold its final monthly function, until the fall, May 9 at 6:30 p.m. at the officers' club.

This meeting, hosted by the OWC Board, will begin with social hour and voting for next year's officers. At 7 p.m., the Skylarks will perform a mini-concert, with dinner following. Dinner will cost $6.95.

Following dinner will be the installation of new officers. Only persons with reservations for dinner will be seated. Reservations must be made by 8 p.m. May 6, by calling 792-0838 or 885-2693.

Air Force streamlining retraining

WASHINGTON (AFNS)—Air Force Manpower and Personnel officials here are eliminating the Palace Balance Program and merging several others in an effort to streamline the airman retraining program.

Officials said the changes are intended to benefit the Air Force and both second-term and career active duty senior airmen through master sergeants.

More specialties will be opened for retraining out, providing increased opportunity for non commissioned officers to retrain into and between skills receiving a selective re-enlistment bonus, officials said.

Under the new program, volunteers will be eligible for base of choice, but assignments are not guaranteed, officials said.

The airman retraining program is to consist of three distinct phases.

The first phase is purely voluntary. Invitations to retrain will be sent to all eligibles in skills identified for retraining.

Phase two will be more specific, offering training to a more defined group, officials said. The group will be about three times as large as needed. Those in the group will be advised of their rank order.

The third phase provides for selective involuntary retraining and will be used only if necessary, according to officials.

Major commands will be provided a retraining quota and a list of their remaining eligibles, all of whom will have had at least two previous voluntary opportunities to retrain.

Major commands will make selections from the list, and will be responsible for notifying those selected.

Personnel officials said affected airmen will receive letters advising them of retraining opportunities in the near future.

Officials urge airmen receiving letters to contact their base personnel office for full details and application procedures.

Career senior airmen through master sergeants in the following AFSCs will be provided a chance to retrain during fiscal year 1986: 207X1, 231X0, 231X2, 233X0, 271X1, 293X3, 302X0, 303X2, 304X1, 306X2, 321X2A, 321X2C, 321X20, 324X0, 325X1, 328X0, 328X4, 341X6, 361X0, 361X1, 362X1, 392X0, 427X4, 462X0, 463X0, 551X0, 551X1, 554X0, 566X1, 591X0, 591X1, 602X2, 603X0, 605X2, 622X0, 631X0, 645X0, 645X1, 702X0, 703X0, 741X1, 791X0, 811X0, 811X2, 811X2A, 908X0, and 982X0.

People serving in the communications-electronics field (30XXX) will be channeled into other comm-electronic specialties.

Those in the avionics specialties will move into other avionics fields, while people in aircraft maintenance munitions and weapons maintenance (42XXX and 46XXX) will flow into aircraft maintenance specialties.

Officials said these moves will help the Air Force make the best use of its resources and gain full advantage of previous technical training and experience among those who are retraining.

AFAF drive comes to a close

Reese closed its 1985 Air Force Assistance Fund with its most impressive figures ever.

When all contributions were counted the base had collected $32,694 or 192 percent of the base's goal, according to AFAF project officer, Maj. Jim Wilson. This grand total is nearly $6,000 more than last year's total. Reese's goal for 1985 was $18,747, a figure that was nearly doubled by the strong base support, said the major.

Major Wilson noted Operations for their total contribution of $14,178 for 241 percent of their goal. Second was Maintenance with $6,927 or 116 percent. Resources came in third with $5,045 collected and 287 percent of their goal.

Air Base Group was next with $3,948 or 165 percent. The Hospital put in 207 percent of their goal with $2,591. "Every unit went over the 100 percent mark for their goal. I would like to congratulate the entire base for a job well done," said the project officer.

He said that not only did the units perform well, but the unit project officers and key workers did a outstanding job to add to the overall success of the campaign.

"By raising the most money ever for a AFAF drive here the people have shown that they care and want to help Air Force people in need," he concluded.

Air Force News Service

...about leadership communication, Gen. Charles A. Gabriel, Air Force chief of staff, says: "Combat readiness is as much a matter of mind as weapons and logistics. Self-confidence in our capabilities, willingness to fight when called upon, and commitment to America's national ideals are important mental factors in the readiness equation."

"Air Force leaders engender self-confidence and inspire people through training and education programs and through communicating. Communication is particularly important, because it personalizes the link between commanders and their people."

"Through word and action, leaders must communicate effectively at all levels in order to develop the unit cohesion that leads to top performance. In addition, communications between a commander and his or her people must flow in two directions and must take place regularly—daily, weekly and monthly."

Golf tournament deadline nears

Today is the deadline to register for the Calvin Walker Memorial Golf Championship Tournament scheduled for 9 a.m. April 27 at the base golf course.

The tournament is a fund-raising event for the Lubbock

Unit of the American Cancer Society. The name of the event was changed this year in memory of Calvin Walker, a long-time supporter of the society and the annual golf tournament.

The five-person scramble tournament is open to men and women with a $30 per person contribution to the American Cancer Society. The contribution, which includes green fee, breakfast and lunch, is tax deductible.

The first hole-in-one on hole three wins a pick-up truck, and the closest to the hole on hole 14 wins $50. Gift certificates will be presented to first, second and third place winners. Other prizes will be announced on tournament day.

Tournament officials encourage participants to bring their own teams. Players not with a team will be chosen by lot on handicap. Each team must have a minimum handicap of 60 with no team member allowed more than 20 even if their handicap is more.

For more information about the tournament, call Maj. Bill Wrench at Ext. 3518, the American Cancer Society at 794-5808, or Steve Alexander at 765-8861.

Officials, score-keepers

Officials and scorekeepers are needed by the base gym for intramural softball. Any one interested may stop by the gym between 7 a.m. and 4:15 p.m. and see Sgt. Grant.

Rattlers Win!

"Hit Hit Hit" was the way Rattler coach Gary Grant described his teams exploits in their last game against the Knight Hawks. After one inning of play the score was Rattlers 13, Hawks 1. By the time the scoring assault ended the Rattlers enjoyed a commanding 28 to 2 lead. In all the Rattlers collected 32 hits. The win evens their league record at 1-1.

Lady Rattlers up record

Last Thursday the Reese

women's softball team upped their season record to 4-2 by defeating the Cardinals 9-5.

The Lady Rattlers now stand at 2-0 in the Lubbock League. Even with the win Manager Bob Segretti was not pleased with the performance of his team. "I'm embarrassed by our performance. We were very lucky to get so many walks. We have a better team than we showed tonight and I promise that we will not play this lax again." Two bright spots so far this season have been Kim Hudak's .667 batting average and Janice Henderson's 13 RBI's.

IM Volleyball

Six teams battled in the intramural volleyball playoffs but only one team came out victorious, 640MS was crowned as this years volleyball champion when they defeated the 54FTS 15-5, 15-5, last Wednesday night.

ATC sports action

The following individuals will represent Reese when they compete in the ATC Racquetball Championship on April 20-23 at Chanute AFB, Ill. Men's Open Division: Daniel DeRose and Franklin Lastinger. Men's Senior Division: Rick Oberheide and Lori Dorego. Women's Open Division: Marianne Freeman and Laura Darkes.

ATC Bowling Championship

The following Reese personnel will compete for the ATC Bowling Championship at Lackland AFB, TX April 15-17. James Stewart, Harold Green Jr., Raymond Moore, Sheila Newman, David Legge, and Kim Kudak.

Thirteen to receive degrees here

Thirteen Reese enlisted people will receive associate in applied sciences degrees from the Community College of the Air Force in a 3 p.m. ceremony April 26 at the Enlisted Open Mess. Everyone is invited to the ceremony.

Degrees will be presented to the following:

64th Air Base Group: TSgt. Diane Brzozowski, resource management; and TSgt. Loise C. McClure, lodging management.

64th Student Squadron: MSgt. Elbert W. Hopkins, survival and rescue operations; and MSgt. Daniel L. Pareso, resource management.

64th Supply Squadron: MSgt. Wiley Wills Jr., material management; SSgt. Patricia A. Amos, resource management; and A1C Timothy L. Sohler, fuels distribution.

64th Civil Engineering Squadron: SSgt. Richard C. Morehouse, surveying technology.

64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron: MSgt. Lynford P. Linko, aircraft maintenance; and SSgt. Richard A. Marshall II, aircraft maintenance.

64th Field Maintenance Squadron: SSgt. Franklin D. Lastinger, metals technology; and Sgt. William P. Harris, avionics systems.

1958th Communications Squadron: SSgt. Kevin D. Miller, electronics systems.

Degrees will also be conferred upon six former Reese members who have either retired, separated or changed duty stations. They are SMSgt. Ronnie K. Nugent, TSgt. Brian J. Costello, TSgt. Gary Sides, SSgt. Vincent Holt, Sgt. Bruno Lumague, and Sgt. Richard D. Tillman.

Child care provides service

"Child care centers and preschools, including the one here at Reese, are part of the total range of service the Air Force operates for the children of Air Force members," said Earl Hutchings, chief of Recreation Services.

During a calendar year, Air Force child care centers provide over 12 million hours of care to children 6-weeks-through 10-years-old.

The average center provides care for 12 children of single military parents and 18 children of military couples each day. However, most of the children who attend are from families in which one parent is an Air Force member and the other parents is an employed civilian working on base for the Department of Defense, said Hutchings.

Most of the funds for the operations of child care centers are generated by fees paid by the parents using the program. "Appropriated funds, or tax dollars, help by paying for some of the equipment and supplies used," said Hutchings. "The major cost of operating a child care center is the wages of the caregivers—the persons who actually care for the children. These costs are paid from the money generated from the weekly and hourly wages which parents pay."

The Reese Child Care Center serves over 70 children per day. Over 50 of the children attending are cared for on a regular basis while their single or both parents are at work. In addition, approximately 15 children each day, use the center while their parents are going to the commissary, clinic, attending school, or participating in social or recreational activities.

The Child care center is open 50 hours a week—including 8 hours on Saturday and 3 on Sunday.

AFA drive begins Monday

The Air Force Association, a national, nonprofit organization that fights for better benefits for Air Force people and supports a strong national defense posture, will conduct its annual membership drive beginning Monday.

AFA's effectiveness in support of Air Force needs is directly related to the size of its national membership, according to Base Membership Drive Chairman 1st Lt. Lou Durkac.

"Membership in the association is open to all Air Force people," said Lieutenant Durkac. "AFA is the only organization that represents the entire Air Force family."

The association has long been regarded as the Air Force's professional society and through its active Enlisted and Junior Officer Advisory Councils "AFA hears the needs of Air Force people, takes positions on those needs, and fights for them," said Lieutenant Durkac.

The association has over 310 chapter organizations in all 50 states, and at many overseas locations. In this area, AFA members may join the Lubbock Chapter for $18 for one year, and $42 for three.

Lieutenant Durkac pointed out that AFA members enjoy many varied benefits including a subscription to the Air Force Magazine, eligibility for several low-cost group insurance programs, an automobile lease and purchasing program, car rental discounts, an AFA/VISA card, as well as numerous opportunities to work with all elements of the Air Force family and community leaders to solve problems and effect change.

The drive will continue through May 31.

Lieutenant Durkac can be reached by calling Ext. 3354 during the day, and phone 794-4813 in the evenings.

Help needed for Special Olympics

Volunteers are still needed for the South Plains Special Olympics competition to be held May 4 at Estacado High School in Lubbock.

Reese personnel will be starters, judges, time and record keepers, and huggers. Volunteers will receive free T-shirts.

Sign-in for Reese people will be from 8 to 9:15 a.m. Opening ceremonies will begin at 9:30 a.m. and will feature a flag ceremony by 50 Reese volunteers. Competition will be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Transportation for volunteers will be provided from the base exchange parking lot to Estacado High School. Base Special Olympics organizing officials will announce bus departure and arrival times at a later date.

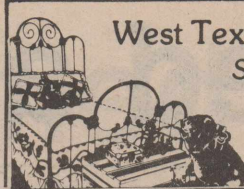

Persons who want to volunteer should contact their unit representative. They are 1st Lt. Barry Brannon, 54th Flying Training Squadron; 1st Lt. Chuck Elliot, 35th Flying Training Squadron; 1st Lt. Bob Cayton and Rob Hostager, 64th Student Squadron; 2nd Lt. Mike Kaut, 64th Organizational Maintenance Squadron; SrA. Debbie Paterson, 64th Field Maintenance Squadron; 2nd Lt.

Ellen Smith, USAF Hospital-Reese; A1C Edgar Chavez, 64th Supply Squadron; TSgt. Kevin Burns, 64th Security Police Squadron; Capt. Rochelle Brown, 1958th Communications Squadron; Capt. Gayle Brodale, 64th Air Base Group; and 2nd Lt. Peter Schmid, 64th Civil Engineering Squadron.

Representatives from the Noncommissioned Officers Association and the Company Grade Officers Council will also be available to sign up volunteers from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Monday through Thursday in the wing dining hall and the officers club.

For additional information, contact 1st Lt. Rob Hostager, Ext. 3677 or 1st Lt. Bob Cayton, Ext. 3596.
