Thoughts
Of A
Newsmen

After attending the Monday School Board meeting, I'm almost certain that the board will not be able to please everyone concerning the early morning darkness problems caused by Daylight Savings Time.

Board Member Norman Roberts laid the blame for the time on the individual citizen for not expressing an opinion against the new time to our legislators. I would have to agree. In the long run, Daylight Savings Time will probably cost more than was believed it would save; and the individual citizen is at fault for not being heard.

We just hope the board will come up with the best possible solution, one that might work next year also (if and when the problem arises again).

I got a call Tuesday from a mother who had taken her child to school. She called saying that children walking to school in the dark could not be seen by motorists and that she nearly ran over one. She urged that parents use fluorescent tape on children's clothing and books so that they can be seen by oncoming cars. She also said that motorists should drive with extra caution during the early morning hours, since the safety of the children is what is most important.

Schedule Alterations ★ Is Main Topic ★
Of School Board

The Burk Burnett School Board met Monday night and discussed the possibility of altering school hours so that children would not have to walk to school in the dark as has been the case since Daylight Savings Time went into effect.

Superintendent James Pearson opened the conversation by saying that since it is dark at 7:30 in the mornings, many people are of the opinion that the new time is dangerous to the elementary school children and inconvenient for bus-riders and that some students even brought flashlights to see how to get to school.

School Board president Gene Bankhead agreed that there was some danger, and suggested to the board that if a policy is decided upon, the board should stick with it. Other area school districts have changed their policies on time adjustments several times, causing discontent by almost everyone involved.

Representing approximately 50 working mothers was Glenda Galvez of Burk Burnett. She urged the board to hear from a few of the parents before they make a decision. She said that all employees cannot adjust their working time to correspond to the new schedule, and therefore she was against a schedule change.

Board member John Gill stated that he received several calls Monday and the majority of them were for a change in the time for safety's sake. Superintendent Pearson agreed that the number one concern is the safety of the school children and said that he is going to a meeting in Austin this week which was set up to produce a solution to the problem.

The Board was not sure of the number of children who walk to school nor of the number of working mothers, but agreed that there were approximately 700 children who are bused.

Due to the absence of some of these figures and to the possibility of a solution to the problem at the Austin meeting of Superintendent Pearson, the Board decided to table the matter until a special meeting Monday, January 14. They hoped both sides of the conflict would be represented with facts so that the matter could be settled for the good of all concerned.

The contract of Raymond Smart as district tax collector was renewed for 1974 also. He submitted a report to the board forecasting a district tax valuation of $35 million and tax collection of $555,000 in 1977, which is almost double the present tax structure.

December tax collections were reported at $43,659.01, bringing the total for the year to $81,753.69 (about 70 percent of the current tax rolls).

The minutes of the Regular Board Meeting Dec. 10 and the Special Board Meeting Dec. 17 were approved as was the BHS athletic and activity reports.

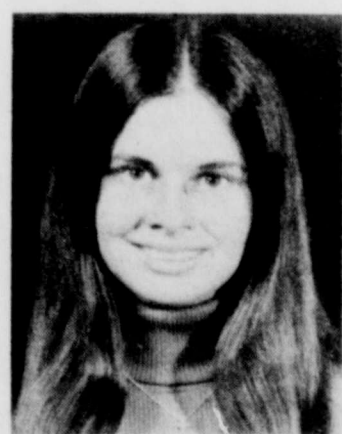

The Board agreed to pay the school bills and athletic bills and accepted the resignation of Mr. John Divine (bus driver). The Board unanimously agreed to allow the group to have an antique car show on the Jr. High Football Field one Saturday in May and it was reported that a buyer for the house on Sycamore was found.

Bob Carpenter, representing the Noon Lions Club, asked the Board if a boxing tournament could be held in the Junior High School gymnasium in March. The tournament would include kids from about age 6-17 with open divisions also. He said that about 90 percent of those participating will be school children and funds raised will go for glasses and clothing for needy children.

Board member Thurman Allison stated to the rest of the Board that they should make an exception to the rules recently passed concerning the conservation of energy and let the group have use of the gym. A motion was made and passed to approve use of the gym for this tournament.

The board discussed adding lights at the football field and deferred a decision on academic credit for students making European study tours to Superintendent Pearson.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. — Legislative leaders expressed optimism for success of the state Constitutional Convention which opened at noon Tuesday (Jan. 8).

Planning committees have worked out a fast-paced 81-day schedule which may, or may not, hold up.

Optimists see at least a 50-50-chance of success, noting that of 12 constitutions offered voters in other states during the last 12 years, half were rejected, frequently on a single issue.

House Speaker Price Daniel Jr., projected presiding officer of the historic convention, the first since 1875, hopes to have committee hearings started by January 16.

Preliminary briefings by corresponding committees of the 37-member Constitutional Revision Commission will precede the committee hearings.

Daniel claims the convention, composed of 181 legislators, will be successful because delegates have a down-to-business attitude and are the best prepared group (thanks to work of the Revision Commission) ever to undertake such a task.

Such controversial issues as right-to-work inclusion in the constitution, legislative pay raises and appointive appellate judges, under Daniel's plan, would be submitted to voters as separate issues. That procedure, the speaker maintains, would prevent jeopardizing a largely non-controversial document because of a handful of hot potatoes.

Eight substantive committees and five procedural committees are proposed to handle the initial hearings and study starting next week.

POLITICAL SEASON ON — Major candidates are getting in place for the 1974 primary races.

Attorney General John Hill announced for a second term. Agriculture Commissioner John White announced for a 13th.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe revealed his plans (back in late October) to seek a second term.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby will be doing the same. Others already on the starting blocks include Railroad Commissioners Jim Langdon and Mack Wallace. Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Treasurer Jesse James (although some haven't announced formally).

Comptroller Robert Calvert remains a question mark. Whether or not he retires, former Secretary of State Bob Bullock is running for his office, and State Sen. Jim Wallace of Houston is a probable.

Republicans have fielded in the governor's race Henry Grover, Jim Cranberry, State Rep. Ray Hutchison and Odell McBrayer.

Toll Free Telephone Line Will Operate During '74 Constitutional Convention

A statewide toll-free telephone line which enables Texans all over the state to ask questions and offer suggestions on constitutional revision will continue to operate during the 1974 Constitutional Convention.

The telephone number is 1-800-292-9600.

The Texas Constitutional Information Center was originally established by the Texas Constitutional Revision Commission as part of its charge to inform the public of its activities.

The telephone line has averaged a high volume of calls from citizens with questions about the constitutional revision process or the Commission's proposed new Constitution for Texas.

During the first month of its existence, between November 15 and December 15, the center received an average of 48 calls on each working day. The number of calls ranged from a low of 15 on the first day of operation to a high of 143.

The information center will continue to operate 24 hours a day. It will be manned by staff during the daytime and calls at night will be recorded for answers later.

Information Center staff is equipped to answer many of the questions asked. Other questions will be referred to appropriate Convention research staff for written answers.

What TESCO is doing to provide the electricity you'll need.

We're spending $700 million on new construction during the next five years.

We must have new plants that will permit us to diversify the types of fuel we use to generate electricity.

Natural gas is our major fuel at Texas Electric now, with oil used on a standby basis. But both these fuels are in increasingly short supply.

So Texas Electric, along with two other electric utilities, is building plants in East Texas that use lignite coal, a fuel that is not being used extensively for any purpose other than the generation of electricity.

One lignite plant already is in operation, and two others are being built. But it costs about twice as much to build a lignite plant as one that uses natural gas.

A nuclear-fueled plant is scheduled to be operational near Glen Rose by 1980, and this one will cost more than three times as much as a gas-fueled plant.

Financing the essential expenditure of more than $700 million in just the next five years is what makes an increase in electric service rates necessary.

We're working to supply the electricity you'll need, but it will have to cost more in the future.

needy Texans received cards authorizing food stamps for them early this month.

Vowell said steps were taken to assure that none of these go without food stamps this month because they do not have cash for bonus stamps or because of errors or late deliveries of supplemental security income checks.

On the same agenda, TAC will consider Southwest Airlines' request to suspend weekend flights between San Antonio and Houston due to fuel shortages. Another application, by Maverick Airways, proposes two round-trip flights daily between San Antonio and San Angelo.

Constitutional Convention Of 1974 Differs From Earlier Conventions

AUSTIN--Members of the Texas Legislature met in Austin Tuesday, January 8, to begin an historic undertaking, the first full-scale revision of the Texas Constitution in nearly 100 years.

The Constitutional Convention of 1974, composed of the Senate and the House of Representatives, has been charged by the people of Texas with studying the present Constitution, written in 1875, and recommending changes to the people.

The recommendations of the Convention must be approved or rejected by the voters of Texas at an election to be set by the Convention.

The Constitutional Convention was authorized by a constitutional amendment approved by the 63rd Legislature and by a 560,000 vote majority at a general election in 1972.

Preparations for the Convention included the appointment of the 37-member Constitutional Revision Commission which met from March through November of 1973 and recommended a new Constitution for Texas to the Legislature.

Texas has existed under a number of constitutions. As a province of Mexico, Texas had at least two constitutions, and a new one was adopted in 1836 when the Republic of Texas was established. When Texas entered the United States, a new Constitution was written, and that was followed by a Confederate Constitution at the time of secession in 1861. In 1866, Texans adopted a new Constitution in order to rejoin the Union.

The present Constitution, written in 1875 and adopted in 1876, was the product of Reconstruction. State government was tainted by land, stock and railroad scandals.

The voters of Texas approved the call to the 1875 Convention by 29,000 votes out of 90,000 cast. The 90 delegates were elected by the people, three from each state senatorial district.

Of the delegates, 75 were Democrats, 15 were Republicans. There were six Negro delegates. The largest single occupational group were farmers, 41 in number. Another 29 were lawyers and others were merchants, editors, stockmen and physicians.

More than a score of the delegates had been high ranking officers in the Confederate Army. Three had been Union Army officers. One was a former United States Congressman and two were former members of the Confederate Congress. Nineteen had been Texas legislators.

Major controversies at the 1875 Convention included education - whether free public schools established during Reconstruction should continue with state financing, the elected officials and the question of land subsidies to railroads.

The Convention standing committees included committees on federal relations, state affairs, the Bill of Rights, the Legislature, the Executive, the Judiciary, Suffrage, General Provisions, Education, Agriculture, Public Lands, Immigration, Crime and Punishment, Counties, Municipal Corporations, Railroad Corporations, Private Corporations, Revenue and Taxation, Printing and Contingent Expenses, Engrossed and Enrolled Ordinances and Style and Arrangements.

The 1875 Convention decided early to save $10 a day by refusing to hire a stenographer to record proceedings. As a result there was no official record of Convention action. The Convention logged 68 working days, between September 6, 1875, when it was called to order, and November 24, 1875, when it recessed. The Constitution was approved 52-11. The state appropriated $100,000 for the Convention, and some $70,000 was spent.

The Constitution was sent to the people for ratification on February 15, 1876. It passed by a vote of 136,606 in favor and 56,652 against the new Constitution. Ninety-nine years later, the Convention presents many contrasts.

All the delegates are state legislators--161 Democrats and 20 Republicans. Seven are black. Six are women, unlike 1875 when all the delegates were men. The 1974 delegation includes 12 Chicanos as compared to the 1875 Convention that listed no delegates with Mexican-American surnames. This is surprising when one considers the role played by Chicanos in the development and fight for freedom in Texas only 40 years before.

The principle occupation is the law, with 92 legislators listing themselves as attorneys.

Only 16 list farming or ranching as an occupation. Other professions include teaching, construction, insurance, real estate and public relations. One delegate to the 1974 Convention is a professional football referee.

The Joint Constitutional Convention Planning Committee has recommended eight substantive committees and five procedural committees. The substantive committees would be concerned with the Executive Branch, the Legislature, the Judiciary, Education, Finance, Local Government, General Provisions and Rights, Suffrage, Amendments and Separation of Powers.

The procedural committees would include committees on Style and Drafting, Rules, Submission and Transition, Administration and Public Information.

By Constitutional Amendment, the 1974 Convention must meet January 8 and adjourn on or before May 31 unless a 60-day extension is approved by a two-thirds vote. A budget for the Convention will be adopted.

Proceedings at the 1974 Convention will be completely recorded and transcribed, as have all proceedings of the Constitutional Revision Commission.

Unlike the 1875 Convention, the 1974 Convention has a body of research and recommendations in hand, made available by the Constitutional Revision Commission. This includes a complete draft Constitution prepared after 19 public hearings and 732 hours of meetings.

New Brucellosis Regulations

Go Into Effect Jan. 15

All livestockmen should be aware of the new brucellosis regulations which will be in effect on January 15, 1974.

According to information received by B.T. Haws, Wichita County Extension Agent, from the Texas Animal Health Commission, this regulation requires that all breeding cattle two years of age and over that change ownership are required to be brucellosis tested.

Breeding cattle may be tested on the farm or ranch or at an auction market. Slaughter type breeding cattle may be sold through livestock markets without test until sampled on the kill floor. The brucellosis test will be good for movement purposes for a thirty day period provided animal is ear tagged and accompanied by test certificate.

This new regulation will bring the Texas Brucellosis Program into compliance with the National Uniform Methods and Rules which are considered minimum standards for attaining and maintaining Certified Free Brucellosis status in the state of Texas.

Effective January 15, 1974, this regulation will be in full force and effect.

Governor Dolph Briscoe will be among the major speakers at the 1974 annual conference of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station January 9-11 at Texas A&M University. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dr. Robert Long will speak the first morning of the conference.

About 750 Texas Agricultural Experiment Station scientists are expected to participate in the professional meeting.

With commercial fertilizer in short supply, manure use may increase. Manure contains essential plant nutrients and is also valuable in improving the physical properties of some soils. Most feedlot manure is being delivered for about $1-$150 per ton plus five cents per ton mile. Studies with manure on corn and grain sorghum in the Panhandle have shown almost no response to as much as a 125 percent increase in yields compared to fields receiving no fertilizer.

Livestockmen that have cattle grazing on Coastal bermudagrass should watch these animals closely for "shakes" or "staggers". Symptoms of affected cattle include muscle tremors, incoordination, weaving or bobbing of the head, a wild-eyed expression and an inability to rise when down. Salvation and stiffness or weakness of hind legs may also be evident. Animals may die from drowning, dehydration or a direct effect of the toxic principle. The number of animals affected in a herd can vary from 10 to 100 percent. The condition is thought to be caused by a mold growing on dead bermudagrass. And cattle eat some dead grass when trying to reach green grass.

What can be done once animals are affected? It is suggested that you handle them with care and driving them off the bermudagrass slowly onto green oats or into a pen. The cattle should be fed all the hay they can eat plus a feed high in carbohydrates, such as a low protein grain cube.

Families concerned with using their incomes to better advantage will be interested in the just-released Yearbook of Agriculture. "Handbook for the Home" is the title of the U.S. Department of Agriculture publication, which is planned to assist consumers in getting more for their dollars, according to Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butts.

Each member of Congress has limited copies of the book for constituents. The USDA has no copies for public distribution.

when the temperature is above 40 degrees F. January or July is the recommended time for pruning the bleeders: Birch, Elm and Maple.

When sudden freezing immediately follows pruning, wounds often fail to heal properly. Therefore, withhold the urge to prune if the weather bureau forecasts a sudden drop to sub-freezing temperatures.

Any wound more than one inch in diameter should be coated with a water soluble asphaltic dressing. Housepaint and roofing tar, etc. should not be used due to the possibility of injuring the cambium layer. Large wounds should be recoated 2 or 3 times a year until they are completely healed.

Wounds should be oval or canoe shaped in outline. If not, remove enough extra bark to the heartwood to make them so.

Never leave any stub of a tree limb. A stub cannot heal. Dead stubs should be removed flush with the parent limb or trunk.

Large limbs should be removed in three cutting operations as outlined in OSU Fact Sheet #6402.

The commercial pruner should know these basic facts. Plans for a 55 gal. barrel wood stove are available at the OSU Extension Center. The total cost of the stove including vent piping is about $15.00.

One reason for rising food costs is that we're eating more meals away from home. Commercial restaurant sales have more than doubled in the past decade, points out Mrs. Cwendolyn Clay, consumer marketing information specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System.

To sparkle, glassware must be absolutely spotless. Whether washed in an automatic dishwasher or by hand, any glassware can reflect its natural beauty.

Consumers find that automatic dishwashers clean thoroughly with less breakage than hand-washing--when racks are loaded according to manufacturer's directions.

Fertilizer Shortage Expected In Spring

Austin--Anticipating a four million ton shortage of fertilizer next spring, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White warned Texas farmers they must try for "maximum benefits from a minimum amount of fertilizers in 1974."

Stressing more efficient use of fertilizers, White said it may be necessary to re-evaluate some farming procedures.

An important early step in determining fertilizer needs is a soil test, he said. Some of the larger fertilizer companies will provide this service for their customers. Farmers may also take their own soil samples and send them to Texas A&M University for analysis. Boxes and forms for sending soil samples are available through the county agent.

Farmers should also take a close look at the fertilizers they have been using to make sure they are using a fertilizer best suited for their needs, White said. With the current shortage of fuel, White suggested that farmers may be able to save by using a fertilizer which takes only one application.

The Fertilizer Institute has advised that fertilizer needs be determined early and suggests farmers get their orders in as soon as possible to avoid transportation problems.

Early orders will help the companies plan their shipments.

Good aeration of the soil will also help to get the maximum benefits from fertilizers, White said.

"Farmers must utilize every known method for getting full benefits from the fertilizer to keep up production levels," he said. "Fertilizer is not only going to be in short supply, but it is also going to be more expensive."

Several factors have contributed to the fertilizer shortage, White said. An additional 62 million acres of cropland diverted from production in 1972 have been released and are available for production next year.

Also, fertilizer exports have increased this year due to higher foreign prices. Export market prices were about $70 per ton while price ceilings held domestic prices to about $45 per ton. With the removal of price ceilings last month, more fertilizer should be available in the United States but at higher prices, White said.

If estimates of a four million ton shortage are accurate, "we could lose 200 million tons of grain potential for next season's crop," White said. "More efficient use of the product is absolutely essential."

White: Finance Return To Farm

AUSTIN--A statewide program to finance young families who want to go into agriculture has been proposed by Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White.

Speaking at the Governor's Rural Development Conference, White suggested a program similar to the veterans land board program to assure funds for young people to get into full-time agriculture.

Over 2,000 leaders from rural Texas gathered in Austin to hear the Report of Governor Dolph Briscoe's Commission on Rural Development.

"The basic family farm concept of agriculture must be encouraged if we are ever to see progress in rural development," Commissioner White stated. "To expand rural areas and to revitalize many Texas towns that are dying, we must devise a plan which will enable young families to accept agriculture as a satisfying way of life."

"This program will not get off the ground unless people in rural areas push for programs that will help them. Most of our voting population live in large-city areas, but rural citizens have a good case for such legislation," White said.

Rural population has declined steadily since World War II. Since 1960 the number of Texas farms declined from 247,000 to 209,000, a decrease of 15 percent.

As the farm numbers declined, the average size of farms increased substantially. The average farm in Texas is now 678 acres, compared with 619 acres in 1960.

Family labor on farms has also shown a 35 percent decline during the past 12 years. Hired farm labor declined 53 percent in the same period. The total of Texas farm workers dropped from an average of 423,000 in 1960 to a low of 275,000 in 1972.

"Emptying of rural areas in Texas is one of the most tragic events in our history. Our nation's strength lies in private ownership of the land, especially in the family-owned farm. Rural areas must be helped to strengthen their economy and the attractions of rural life. It is essential if our cities and rural areas are to survive," Commissioner White said.

Grain Thieves Manipulate Weight To Cheat Dealers, White Warns

AUSTIN--A new method of stealing grain without the use of a "pit man" or electronic device has been devised by grain swindlers, who continue to cheat grain dealers out of thousands of dollars.

Recently disclosed by Agriculture Commissioner John C. White, the method involves manipulating weights during double weighing. It is difficult to detect unless scale operators know what to look for, White said.

"The drivers always pick out scales that are not long enough to weigh the whole tractor and trailer together," White said. "When they pull the tractor onto the scales to be weighed, they activate a device that raises the front axle of the rear tandem wheels."

More weight is placed on the front of the trailers, increasing the weight of the tractor. When the truck pulls up to weigh the trailer, the wheels are lowered.

The process is reversed when the trucks load grain. The wheels are raised while the trailer is on the scales. More weight is put on the tractor, making the load weigh less than it is.

Such deception can increase weight by 5,000 to 10,000 pounds each time grain is bought and sold.

White pointed out that double weighing is illegal, but is often done at scales not long enough to handle large trucks. The fraudulent practice works only in cases of double weighing.

Though only one instance of such deception has been uncovered, Texas Department of Agriculture officials fear more trucks are equipped in this manner. They have warned grain dealers to watch for trucks with the following characteristics:

--Rear tires far enough off the ground that they can be turned by hand. All four wheels should be firmly on the ground.

--Tires about 18 inches apart. Tires of the rear tandem should be six to eight inches apart.

--An air bag at the rear of the trailer and extra air hoses coming off the cab.

White also mentioned other precautionary measures that every scale operator should take. These include making sure locks are on scale manholes, checking under scales frequently for weights placed on multiplying beams, looking under the tarp and checking for false bottoms.

Anyone who suspects he is being cheated should contact the Texas Department of Agriculture, White said.

Question:

Will you have enough natural gas for your home this winter?

Answer:

Yes!

Let's lay this question to rest once and for all. Lone Star Gas Company has enough natural gas reserves under contract to adequately supply our residential, commercial and other higher priority customers for many winters.

To be sure we have enough for these consumers, we will make some extensive curtailments of service to our large volume customers during extreme cold weather this winter. In fact, our contracts with large volume customers anticipate the need to curtail up to 100% of their needs during these cold periods. This allows us to assure service to residential, commercial and other higher priority customers.

We're taking major steps to make sure you have gas for the future. New gas we're buying costs more than four times the price we paid just a few years ago. This is an astonishing amount of money! But it's the price all of us must pay for a continuing supply of natural gas energy.

This winter, and in the future, natural gas from Lone Star will continue to be your best method of home heating, water heating and cooking...just as it has been for more than 40 years. But we all must remember to help conserve this precious energy fuel.

Canadian Speaks Up For United States

Recently Gordon Sinclair, the Canadian radio and TV commentator, broadcast an editorial from Toronto. Any number of people in this country heard it or have since read it or heard it on record (which has been one of the most requested on United States radio the last few weeks). For the benefit of those who missed it, the following is Sinclair's editorial.

This Canadian thinks it is time to speak up for the Americans as the most generous and possibly the least appreciated people on all the earth.

Germany, Japan and, to a lesser extent, Britain and Italy were lifted out of the debris of war by the Americans who poured in billions of dollars and forgave other billions in debts. None of these countries is today paying even the interest on its remaining debts to the United States.

When the franc was in danger of collapsing in 1956, it was the Americans who propped it up, and their reward was to be insulted and swindled on the streets of Paris.

I was there. I saw it. When distant cities are hit by earthquakes, it is the United States that hurries in to help. This spring, 59 American communities (were) flattened by tornadoes. Nobody helped.

The Marshall Plan and the Truman Policy pumped billions upon billions of dollars into discouraged countries. Now newspapers in those countries are writing about the decadent, warmongering Americans.

I'd like to see just one of those countries that is gloating over the erosion of the United States dollar build its own airplanes.

Come on, let's hear it! Does any other country in the world have a plane to equal the Boeing Jumbo Jet, the Lockheed Tristar or the Douglas 10?

If so, why don't they fly them? Why do all the international lines except Russia fly American planes? Why does no other land on earth even consider putting a man or woman on the moon?

You talk about Japanese technocracy, and you get radios. You talk about German technocracy, and you get automobiles.

You talk about American technocracy, and you find men on the moon—not once but several times—and safely home again.

You talk about scandals, and the Americans put theirs right in the store window for everybody to look at.

Even their draft-dodgers are not pursued and hounded. They are here on our streets, and most of them—unless they are breaking Canadian laws—are getting American dollars from Ma and Pa at home to spend here.

When the railways of France, Germany and India were breaking down through age, it was the Americans who rebuilt them. When the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central went broke, nobody loaned them an old caboose. Both are still broke.

I can name you 5,000 times when the Americans raced to the help of other people in trouble. Can you name me even one time when someone else raced to the Americans in trouble?

I don't think there was outside help even during the San Francisco earthquake.

Our neighbors have faced it alone, and I'm one Canadian who is damned tired of hearing them kicked around.

They will come out of this thing with their flag high. And when they do, they are entitled to thumb their nose at the lands that are gloating over their present troubles.

I hope Canada is not one of these.

Southwestern Bell Has 37,000 Employees

Southwestern Bell is planning a record construction program for Texas in 1974, despite the recent clouding of the state's economic picture due to the energy crisis.

"Our projections indicate it will take more than $10 million a week, on the average, to keep ahead of the expanding telecommunications needs over the state in 1974," according to T.O. Gravitt, Southwestern Bell vice president and head of operations in Texas.

It will mark the second year in a row in which the company has spent more than a half billion dollars expanding and improving telephone service in the state.

While the final audit of 1973 cannot be completed until about mid January, Gravitt estimated the year's capital expenditures will total about $515 million. "If the energy crisis does not precipitate a sharp decline in economic activity," he explained, "we may well need an 8 to 10 per cent increase in construction dollars in 1974 over what we are spending this year."

Although not a record year in telephone growth, 1973 has been one of the better years, according to Gravitt, with more than 300,000 phones added.

While Southwestern Bell is the largest telephone company in Texas, it is far from being the only phone company. There are 94 other operating companies serving more than 1,200, 000 telephones. The total number of phones is now in excess of 7,100,000 which is more than in all South America.

In addition to being the state's largest phone company, Southwestern Bell may be the state's largest private employer, with 37,000 employees.

Taxes and payroll continue to be far and away the company's largest operating expenses but, at the same time, a significant factor in the Texas economy, totaling over $600 million.

Wages and salaries in 1973 are up $70 million, to a total of more than $400 million. Taxes paid to state and local taxing entities increased $20 million, to a total of $225 million.

Auto Registration Renewal Applications Should Be Arriving

AUSTIN--Owners of some 8.4 million motor vehicles in Texas will have some important mail coming their way in January.

Registration renewal applications will be put in the mail shortly after the holiday season by the Motor Vehicle Division of the Texas Highway Department.

The same quick and easy method made possible by modern computer technology will be in effect this year as it has been in the last few years.

Vehicle owners can save time that used to be spent waiting in long lines at county tax offices throughout the state by ordering their 1974 license plates by mail.

All that must be done is to send the entire three-part application by mail to the county tax assessor collector in the owner's home county, enclosing the registration fee plus $1 for each vehicle to cover handling and mailing.

There are three things to remember:

1. Leave the three-part form intact. Don't separate the three parts.

2. Mail it to the county tax office in your home county. (Mailing it to the Highway Department will only delay getting your 1974 license plates).

3. Be sure to include the registration fee, plus $1 for each vehicle for postage and handling.

You may apply for license plates by mail after January 1. However, county tax offices won't mail plates until after February 1. Owners should allow at least 30 days from the time they apply for the license plates to be returned.

In-person registrations will begin at county tax offices and, in some counties, at substations on February 1. Even though the automated registration application procedures have speeded up the process, waiting lines will grow progressively longer as the April 1 deadline approaches.

Your Baby is What You Eat, Says March of Dimes Doctor

by Arthur J. Salisbury, M.D.
Director of Medical Services
The National Foundation-
March of Dimes

We are a nation of snackers. We often skip meals, but nibble constantly during coffee breaks, after school, with cocktails, and before bed. We are always eating, but too many of us aren't eating well.

When a woman carries these sloppy eating habits over into pregnancy, she is risking her own health and that of her unborn baby.

At The National Foundation, we have a special interest in nutrition because of its influence on pregnancy. Underweight or overweight mothers have a much higher incidence of premature and low-birth-weight babies than do healthy mothers.

The child grows more rapidly during these nine months than at any other time in his life, and he is totally dependent upon his mother to supply all his nutritional needs.

Our concern is that these babies, who weigh 5½ pounds or less at birth, tend to have many problems with normal physical and mental growth. Most of the babies who die in the first year of life are those who are premature or of low weight at birth.

Research indicates that the mother's diet deficiencies during pregnancy may cause malnutrition in the unborn baby. This could lead to abnormal development of the child's brain and to other birth defects.

Eating right is important for all of us all of the time. But an expectant mother is eating for two. The emphasis, however, must be on what she eats, as well as how much. She must be doubly sure that she is getting sufficient proteins, minerals, and vitamins.

PROPER WEIGHT GAIN in pregnancy can be an important influence in the health of mother and baby. The March of Dimes encourages regular prenatal care visits to doctors or clinics, where information about nutrition is available.

Best Choices

These are abundant in the basic food groups: milk, meat and fish, fruits and vegetables, breads and cereals.

Milk advances the baby's growth because it helps build muscle and bones.

Meat and fish are sources of protein, iron, and B vitamins for the baby and supply energy for the mother. This group includes chicken, turkey, tuna, salmon, liver, beef, and pork.

Vitamin C, contained in fruits and vegetables, and vitamin A, found especially in the yellow vegetables such as carrots and squash, are necessary for normal development of the baby.

Enriched or whole grain breads and cereals furnish iron, B vitamins, protein and energy.

Doctors like to keep a close watch on weight gain and diet because they are important aspects of prenatal care. They recommend an increase of between 24 and 30 pounds in a normal pregnancy. However, a woman's general health, age, and weight are always taken into account. But whatever amount is right for her, those pounds are supposed to come from eating a balanced diet of nutritious foods—not just from eating.

80% Co-Insurance - What's that?
A home or commercial building may have a market value of say $30,000. Unless your fire insurance is at least 80% of value ($24,000) you cannot claim full compensation on a fire loss. Your insurance settlement would bear the same ratio to the true loss that your insured value bears to the true value of the building. Get it? If you carry only $15,000 insurance on a $30,000 building - in case of a $10,000 fire loss, your insurance would compensate you only $5,000. Be sure you have 'full value' insurance with Wampler Agency.

Weekly Health Tip
from JOE GILLESPIE
Every year many people are electrocuted in their bathtub by electrical appliances falling into the tub. This includes electric heaters, hair dryers, razors and radios. Using a portable hair dryer while doing the laundry or dishes is also dangerous. If a 'ground', such as faucets or water in the sink or tub is touched, a fatal surge of electrical current can result. Keep electrical appliances away from bathtubs, showers and sinks.

Southwestern Bell Is Confronted With Energy, Paper Shortages

With the energy crisis expected to curtail travel in the future, you would think it might be a "windfall" for the telephone industry as more and more people turn to "the next best thing to being there."

But that's not necessarily the case, according to T.O. Gravitt, Southwestern Bell vice president who heads up the company's operations in Texas. "We may see some increased usage because of the energy crisis, but I am afraid any significant increase would be short lived," Gravitt explained. "It is not so much what it does directly to the telephone industry but rather what it does to the general economy."

"The telephone itself requires little electricity to operate, and we maintain storage batteries and emergency generating equipment as a safeguard against commercial power failures of short duration. When the 'brown-outs' occurred on the East Coast a few years ago, telephone service was never interrupted."

"Still, we may be one of the state's largest energy users, with 1,350 buildings to light, heat and cool, and a fleet of 7,400 motor vehicles. But we are doing everything possible to conserve energy, consistent with the need to maintain telephone service around the clock and to protect the health and safety of our 37,000 employees.

"Should the energy crisis worsen and continue over a prolonged period, leading to a general economic slowdown, the telephone industry has no immunity," Gravitt said.

"In fact," he pointed out, "a decrease in Long Distance volumes is oftentimes one of the first tangible indicators of an economic slowdown."

"While a public utility's position is, admittedly, unique, it can do no better in the long run than the customer it serves."

But the energy shortage is not the only problem with which the telephone industry is confronted, Gravitt noted.

Southwestern Bell has already been hit with the paper shortage. The printing of new telephone directories is on the company's "critical" list.

The management, staff and patients wish to thank all who brought candy, cookies and fruit during Christmas and to the many groups who gave their time with programs and caroling. Also, to those who served refreshments during game time. To Bozo Darnell and the other musicians, the Bower Sisters and Susan Nichols, and last, but not least, Santa Claus.

The Christmas Program and exchange of gifts for the patients on Christmas Eve brought many relatives and friends. We want to thank all for this wonderful response.

We want to welcome Mrs. Myrtle Audrain, a new resident in the home and hope she will be happy here.

Mrs. Ruby Lange, LVN, is our new addition to the staff and we are glad to have her with us.

Our deepest sympathy goes to an employee, Barbara Jantzen, whose mother passed away in England shortly before Christmas.

Several of the residents of the home went to relatives for Christmas. Mr. and Mrs. O.J. Cooper went to Wichita Falls for Christmas dinner with their son and family, Mr. and Mrs. O.J. Cooper, Jr.

Mr. Walter Helms went to Ft. Worth to visit a sister-in-law, Joyce Helms, and to Longview, Texas and Shreveport.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Hanks were Mrs. Enid Wynn, niece, of Lawton, Okla., and Mrs. Viola Witsell, Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Brandon and Mr. and Mrs. Don Howard, all of Lawton.

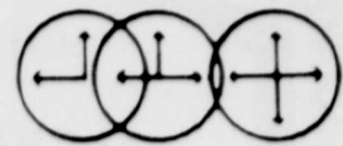

The O.J. Cooper, Sr. had as visitors: Addie Gilliam, Paris, Texas; Peggy and Penny Wineberry, Thornberry; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Cooper, grandson and granddaughter from Shreveport, La.; Edith Fleming, Wichita Falls and Wendell and Marylou Hale.

Oscar Klinkerman was visited by Paula Riley, Marion Black, Shausa and Lelon Riley, Karl Mertins, Marvin Klinkerman, Arnold Muller, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Siber.

Visiting Mrs. Hinda McDonald were Ben L. McDonald Jr. and Gracie, son and his wife from Warner Robins, Georgia; another son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. James R. McDonald from Wichita Falls; a brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. T.W. Adams, from Austin, Tex. and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Chamberlain from Sherman, Texas.

Visiting G.L. Boyd were Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Boyd, Charlotte Delph and Sean.

MADE IN THE IMAGE OF GOD

"Made in the image of God" to some people is a questionable statement, to say the least.

"With all the grief and sorrow man creates throughout the world," they say, "where is any evidence of this 'image of God' business?"

Well, one place is in your eye. Psalms 94:9 says, "He that formed thy eye, shall He not see?"

God loves color—He must! Look at the riot of colors throughout His world. And then—"He who formed your eye" made it so it could detect color! All this in His image!

And remember, He who formed the eye is able to see as well. Everything and anything—everything inside and outside of you—how you live, how you act, what you do and where you go—all is seen by Him.

"His eye is on the sparrow, and I know He watches me."
