City Fathers Approve Night Watchman Here

The City Council, at their regular meeting, discussed the problem of police and night watchmen with H. E. White, merchant's representative, and agreed that a night watchman could be hired by the merchants, if they would pay him, and that the city would appoint a police commissioner to oversee his work until such time as the city itself could hire a day policeman who would be head of law enforcement in the city.

No time was set for hiring such a policeman, and the city fathers made it plain that they would pay only as much of the night watchman's salary as was necessary to enable the city to deputize him. The rest of his salary must come from merchants themselves, from whom the watchman must collect, as the city assumed no responsibility for this.

In other business the following election judges were appointed for the city election on April 1:

B. T. Hardeman, presiding judge; Mrs. Floy Kennedy, judge; and O. W. Brymer and C. L. Thomas, assistants.

Mrs. Jeanne Tuer then reported on payments made by the city to McClelland and Associates, of Corpus Christi, during the period 1954 and 1960, for professional services rendered during that time.

The drainage survey of Little Bay Shores cost the city $220.62; drainage plans and studies of street construction in Rockport amounted to $2721; inspection of the old sewage lift station and supervision of the installation of a new one came to $267, and services in connection with sewer installation, $1675.

Rockport Elementary Plans For Public Schools' Week

Those participating in the musical program are: Sherry Cobb, Judy Torres, Pam Stevenson, Mary Ruth Shipp, Rosanne Cabaniss, Terry Boggs, Russell Swan, Jerry Brundrett, Isabel Hernandez, and David Roatan.

Members of the group will play Autoharps or rhythm instruments. For a special number they will be accompanied by Sally Griffith, drummer. The group consists of sixth graders from Mrs. Fay Hartman, Mrs. Stanley Shults and Mr. Paul Clark rooms.

After the musical numbers all classrooms will be open for a visitation. The rooms will be open until 9 p.m.

At all times during Public School Week, there will be a registration and information table in the hall by the principals office. The visitors register will be there and all visitors are to sign it. Students from the fifth grades will be on duty at all times to direct visitors to the proper rooms.

Each room is sending a daily schedule home so the parents may select a time to visit when the pupils are in the room. A copy of these schedules will be posted at the registration and information table.

During Public School Week, parents are invited to eat in the cafeteria with their children. The only requirement is that the student notify his teacher the morning of the day you plan to eat. This is to enable the cafeteria to be prepared for extra people. Cost of the lunch will be 35 cents.

SPECIAL INVITATION TO VISITORS FROM ROCKPORT ELEMENTARY

Escobedo and Alegria Get 169 Years

The escape of Romeo Alegria and Eduardo Escobedo from the local jail a week ago was wound up in the 36th District Courtroom this week, when they received sentences that, added to previous convictions in Aransas County, totaled 169 years for the two men.

Alegria had been sentenced here on Feb. 14 to 12 years for burglary, and on Feb. 17, on a charge of theft of more than fifty dollars, to another 10 years in the penitentiary.

Escobedo, returned here from the State Prison to face trial on the same charges, was scheduled to be tried on Feb. 20.

On Feb. 19, the two men jumped Deputy Sheriff Sherman Mundine, took his pistol, forced him to give them his money, and fled in his car, only to be arrested that night about 1 a.m. on North Beach in Corpus Christi.

The Aransas County Grand Jury, called back into session, indicted both of them for robbery with firearms, escape, and felony theft.

Escobedo was tried on the two charges he had been returned to face, and received 12 years on the burglary charge and seven years on the theft over $50.

The two were then tried on the last three indictments, and were sentenced to 45 years each on robbery with firearms, 10 years each for the escape, and seven years each for felony theft.

As all other sentences are concurrent with the robbery sentence, each man will have to serve 45 years in the penitentiary.

Ellis L. Clark, county attorney, was the prosecutor.

Michael's Class At Beeville Has Exhibit There During Past Week

The class of artists taught by Simon Michael in Beeville held an exhibition there in Conoly's Drug Store during the past week with pictures in many mediums.

"So far as we know," one of the members of the class said, "this is the first time that a Beeville merchant has offered to show the work of the entire class, and it has surely given a great boost to our morale. Many have exhibited in Goliad, San Antonio, Corpus Christi and other cities, but to be recognized in this manner by Conoly's is truly gratifying."

Classes at Beeville are held in the American Legion Hall, which Legionnaires donate for the purpose of promoting art work in Bee County.

Most of the Beeville students have attended summer sessions in Rockport, and some have attended the Rockport School of Fine Arts sessions at Fredericksburg.

Mrs. Helen Y. Ezell, wife of the editor of the Bee-Picayune, has been studying under Michael since he started his teaching in Beeville in January, 1954, and is class representative.

Blue and Gold Big Success

150 Hear Aalbert Heine Talk On Hunters Throughout the World Saturday As Cub Scouts and Parents Celebrate

Aalbert Heine, curator of Corpus Christi Junior Museum, held 150 cub scouts, parents and guests enthralled Saturday night at the annual Blue and Gold Banquet as he told how primitive men hunt and demonstrated the arms they use in many parts of the world.

From the moment he pulled a boomerang out of his bag and told the boys about how it was used, until the end of his talk, everyone in the big hall paid strict attention.

A boomerang, he said, is merely a stick, and gaucho bolos are merely stones tied together, but with them, South American Indians and bushmen of Australia are able to kill many animals for food. And cowboys of this country, using pieces of rope, have been able to do the same thing.

A spear is merely a stick and a rock, he told the boys, and showed them how and why spears are used, and demonstrated an atlatl or spear-board, showing how the hunter could use this to elongate his reach and cast his spear farther.

And he told them a little tale that shows that flint, like diamonds, is hard enough to cut glass.

A short heavy spear, sharp on both ends, was the sort, Heine said, used in pitfall traps; a longer one with a detachable head is the kind the Eskimos use to catch seals, walrus and whales.

And then, crowning touch of all, he showed how the Indians of South America made and used blowguns and poisoned arrows.

Hein was introduced by Cubmaster Chester Johnson.

Following Heine's talk, Assistant Scoutmaster J. B. Jackson presented awards to the following:

Bobcat award: Leonard Harris, Jack Suttles and Stanley Shults.

Wolf Award: Morgan Davis, Steve Carraway, Addison McCandless, Al Johnson, Billy Kelsay, Roy Eaton, Linny Landrum, Tommy Wilson, Don Aright and Melvin Moore, Jr.

Arrows toward Wolf Award: Bobby Harritt, gold and silver; Richard Anderson, gold and two silver.

Bear Award: Kenneth LeBlanc, Phil Tedder, Bobby Jackson, Paul Lusby.

Arrows Toward Bear Award: Duke Eaton, gold arrow; David Martinez, gold arrow; Larry Hobbs, gold arrow; John Johnson, Lion Award: Mike Matern and a two-year service star; Duke Eaton, David Martinez, John Honeycutt, Freddie Jackson, Robert Willis, Mark Lang, with two year service star; Johnny Jackson, Johnny

Johnson, with two year service star.

One-year Service Star: Bobby Shaver.

Fifteen Anniversary achievement Award: Mark Lang, John Honeycutt, Freddy Jackson, Mark Brooks, Johnny Jackson, Paul Lusby, Robert Willis and Bobby Jackson.

The totem pole for the pack having the biggest attendance at the banquet went to Den 4, led by Mrs. Chris Willis, which had 100% attendance with 25 at the banquet.

Den 1, Mrs. Vera Kelsay, den mother, had 24 out of a possible 27 present; Den 2, under Mrs. Sarah Davis, had 18 out of 19; Den 3, under Mrs. Faye Shaver, had 19 out of 26; and Den 5, Mrs. Jimmie Honeycutt, had 16 at the banquet.

Guests of the pack included Scoutmaster Ronnie Schultz, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tuer, Mr. and Mrs. (Shelley) Roatan, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bracht, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Nickerson, and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Baughman.

Cellist To Be Heard With Symphony At Del Mar March 6

Cellist Leonard Rose, one of the master virtuosi of the day, will appear with the Corpus Christi Symphony Orchestra, Jacques Singer conducting, Monday evening March 6, Del Mar Auditorium.

When he capped his first extensive European tour last season by playing a Brussels World's Fair recital in October, one of the major critics noted that "There have appeared on the stage of the American Theatre primarily pianists, violinists and singers. Therefore, it was fitting to end these brilliant recitals by presenting a cellist... Lovers of good music were given a treat.

Rose returned from Europe in October to resume his annual North American tour. His 1958-59 itinerary, exclusive of Europe, included almost 60 appearances, of which half were with orchestras.

He was guest artist again with the New York Philharmonic, Cleveland and San Francisco symphonies, among others.

His numerous recordings for Columbia Masterworks include cello literature by Boccherini, Bloch, Franck, Saint-Saens, Sammartini and Schubert. His performance of the Brahms Double Concerto in A-minor for Violin and 'Cello, recorded with Isaac Stern and the New York Philharmonic under Bruno Walter, was awarded the Grand Prix du Disque in 1957.

For ticket reservations write the Corpus Christi Symphony Society, P. O. Box 495 or phone TU-2-2717.

Members of Mrs. Steele's 5th grade are glad to have all the visitors to our room during Public School Week. We are proud of our room and our school and are pleased to have you visit us. Come back!

The Science Club members are busy working on posters and collections for our rock and mineral display. Each member is making something for the exhibit. We are proud of the pink granite Capitol of Texas, made by David Belt and Junior Cruz.

Visitors to our room might be interested in the history mural which shows our country's story from the days of the Indians until the Civil War. Benny Arispe and Joe Flores did most of the art work.

The class Valentine party was held in room 18 on Feb. 14. After exchanging Valentines we enjoyed delicious refreshments. Our thanks to Mrs. Sparks, Mrs. Flores, and all others who helped us with our enjoyable party.

Kay Sparks and Kay Shafer are making a diorama of the Cotton Belt. The "Kays" are proud of their citrus fruit trees, especially the "unusual" one that has not only lemons on it, but also oranges and grapefruit!

Mr. Griffith brought us a series of film strips on Civil War Days. We invited Mrs. Hooker and Miss Clarke and their students to enjoy seeing them with us.

Someone changed a number on James' arithmetic paper. Since no one admitted doing it we decided perhaps a ghost had done it. Now, every time something strange happens, we blame it all on James' ghost.

Junior High Students Give Science Of Measurement The Eye

What is a cubit? If you really want to know ask the seventh graders of Aransas County Junior High School. They have just completed a unit on the history of measures in their math classes.

Since time began man has always measured the world around him. The cave man measured his spear by his neighbor's spear. His world demanded no accuracy. Any size cave would do if his family would fit into it.

Prehistoric man used his own body for measures. In about 6000 B.C. the cubit became the prime measurement in the advanced civilizations along the Nile. The cubit was the distance from the point of the elbow to the tip of the middle finger. In 4000 B.C. the cubit was standardized at what is now 18.24 inches. The cubit was used in building all the pyramids of Egypt. Each side measures 500 cubits, and all measurements are in multiples or fractions of cubits. The span, the distance from the end of the thumb to the tip of the little finger of the outspread hand, was also used by the Egyptians. The universal size of a brick is a span by one-half a span by the nail, the last two joints of the middle finger. The palm the breadth of the four fingers was widely used by merchants for measuring cloth. The digit was the breadth of the first finger or the middle finger. The digit is one-fourth of the palm, is one-third of the span, the span one-half of the cubit. These measures were used to measure things that could be handled.

The earliest way to measure distance was to tell how long it would take to go to a certain place. The Jews used this primitive way. In Luke 24 the say they went a day's journey. Indians tree suns—three suns meant a three days journey. Today we see a house for sale advertised as a ten minute walk from the post office. Distance was also measured in steps.

Among the Babylonians, Egyptians and the Hebrews the cubit was the most important unit of length. As civilization developed and trade grew, measures were needed by more people. Governments began to decide on "standard" measures.

What scientists have found out about ancient cubits has come from studying the ruins of ancient buildings. In the ruins of the famous temple of Karnak, a village on the right bank of the river Nile, a two-cubic ruit was found. Some Egyptian mason had lost it 3000 years before. Egyptians also measured distance by the "rod of cord" of 100 cubits or a larger unit of 4000 cubits.

The foot, gets its name from the human foot, was an important Greek measure. The Greek foot is one-eighth of an inch longer than our foot measure. Because of its convenience the foot became more popular than the cubit.

The Romans borrowed the foot from the Greeks and made it the standard measure for short distances throughout the Roman Empire. A Roman foot was twelve Roman inches long. Our word inch comes from the Latin word uncia which means a twelfth.

The mile came to be the Roman standard measure for long distances. The word mile is from the Latin word mille passium, which means 1000 paces. A Roman pace, a double step, was exactly five feet long.

The foot, the inch, and the mile came down to us from the Romans but changed somewhat in the coming. Measures cannot stay the same for a long period of time unless there is a measuring rod carefully cared for, to show how long the measure is supposed to be. The Romans had such rods. They were kept in the temple in Rome. When the great Roman Empire fell, the rods were lost and measures began to differ. It was a long time before the world had standard measures. In the Middle Ages every town in Europe had its own standard.

In the sixteenth century the Germans had no measuring rods. Directions for finding out how long the rod and the foot should be were: "Stand at the door of a church on Sunday, and bid sixteen men to stop, tall ones and small ones, as they happen to pass out when the service is finished; then make them put their left feet one behind the other and the length thus obtained shall be a right and lawful rod to measure and survey land with, and the sixteenth part of it shall be a right and lawful foot."

The yard came into the English table from the Saxons. In the beginning it was a body measure, the distance around a man's body.

English measures of length is the story of attempts to have measures standardized. Henry I started with the yard; he said the standard yard would be the distance from the tip of his nose to the end of his thumb. In the fifteenth century Parliament tried to standardize the inch. The inch to be determined by laying three grains of barley corn end to end. The grains must be dry and must be taken from the middle of the ear. In the eighteenth century John Bird made a number of metal yard measures and sent them to various parts of the country. The present standard English measuring rod is a very carefully made metal yard, kept in London.

Early American settlers had no standard yard measure. After the Revolutionary War our government did not decide on a standard measure of length. The matter was much discussed but for more than fifty years, nothing was done about it.

Finally, a fairly good copy of the standard yard then in use in England was chosen as the standard measure of length for the United States. Later more exact copies of the standard English yard were prepared. Making accurate copies of standard measures most of them metal, is not easy. Metals, as a rule, expand when they are heated and contract when they are cooled. The standard English yard, for example, is exactly a yard only when the temperature of the rod is 62 degrees Fahrenheit.

Shortly before our government chose the standard yard an entirely new system of measures were worked out in France.

At the time of the French Revolution, the French Republic decided to throw away all its old measures. The new measures were to be entirely new; there were to be new names and new tables. The system that was worked out is called the "metric system." It is named for the "meter" which was to be one ten-millionth of the distance from the earth's equator to the north pole.

The first step in making the new measures was to find one ten-millionth of the distance from the equator to the pole. Of course, the engineers who were to do the necessary measuring could not start at the equator and go to the pole, measuring as they went. They could, however, measure very carefully a shorted distance and from that, calculate the whole distance from the equator to the pole. The distance they chose to measure was from Dunkirk in Northern France to Barcelona in Spain. Their task was far from easy. Their path for part of the way lay through difficult and dangerous mountain country. Their work had to be carried on, moreover, during the terrible Reign of Terror in France. These engineers worked at their task for seven years. At last their work was completed, and a standard metal measure was made. Scientists tell us now that the French engineers did not find exactly one ten-millionth of the distance from the equator to the pole for their meter. They did, however, establish a measure which has become one of the most important of all modern measures. The chief divisions of the meter are the centimeter and the millimeter. Centimeter is one-hundredth; millimeter is one-thousandth of a meter. A meter is 39.37 inches a little longer than a yard. In the metric system distances are measured for the most part, in kilometers. A kilometer is 1000 meters.

The meter, for over 60 years, has been our legal measure in the United States. At present our standard measuring rod is the platinum-iridium meter. From time to time great international conferences have been held to discuss the question of weights and measures. At one of these conferences the International Bureau of Weights and Measures was formed and a certain meter measure was chosen as the international standard meter. Copies of this meter was sent to all countries who had representatives at the conference. In 1893 the meter measure was sent to the United States.

The international standard metal meter is kept in a safe which is in a subterranean vault under one of the buildings of the International Bureau of Weights and Measures, near Paris. Only the Director of the Bureau, in the presence of at least one member of the International committee, may open the vault. Three keys are distributed among three members of the International Committee, of whom at least two, and usually all three, represent different nations. Once every six years, when there is an international meeting at the Bureau, the vault is opened and the standard examined.

In 1889 each nation that supported the International Bureau was allowed to obtain at least one numbered duplicate of the standard meter, made of platinum-iridium. The United States has numbers 21 and 27, which are kept in a vault at the National Bureau of Standards in Washington D. C.

They are not used in making the many measurements that are required at our National Bureau of Standards every day, but the accurate measuring scales of the Bureau are compared with them. Meter 27 was taken to Paris in 1903 and again in 1922, the meter number 21, was taken there in 1932 to be compared with the international standard.

The meter has not changed our common units of length at all. It is a new measure with which to compare our yardsticks and foot-rulers to see if they are accurate. A yardstick is accurate if it is exactly 3600/3937 of this meter measure. A foot ruler is accurate if it is one-third of 3600/3937 of this meter measure.

At the present time in the United States we are using two separate systems of measurements for weight, length, volume, and temperature when only one is necessary for all purposes. We inherited one, the English system, which is now becoming obsolete. The second system, the metric system, the product of mathematical and scientific study, is slowly but surely working itself in. Some believe that in a few years it will be possible to pass federal laws to adopt the metric system to be used by all the people. Then only one system would have to be learned which would make the student's task just half as difficult as it is now. Think it over.

REED-MUNDINE MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

High School PTA Meets

The Aransas County High School Parents and Teachers Association held its monthly meeting Monday, Feb. 27, in the cafeteria.

Mrs. Garvin Mitchell, president, called a short Executive Board meeting preceding the regular meeting.

The program was interesting and entertaining, as it was given by the students.

Mr. Guy Phillips acted as moderator for a discussion panel, composed of Mary Ann Barber, Betty Stryker, and Sherry Lynn Garrett. They gave facts and their own thoughts on allowance for students, standards for making a good home-life, and "cheating"—in the classroom and "away from school." In a poll that was taken, 75 percent of the students has answered that "cheating is never justified." PTA members asked questions and received answers from the panel.

Mr. Joe Randow presented eight of his students in musical ensembles. The brass quintet played a theme from Mozart. The students playing were Priscilla Carleton, Nan Jackson, Hugh Morrison, Jr., Gerald Van Etten and Charles Cosby.

The flute trio, Jeanie Diederich, DeRema LeFevre, and Chris Sorenson played a selection.

Mrs. Gray gave a short talk on Founders' Day and an offering was taken for this.

In the business session the Executive Board recommendations were read. (1) A white elephant sale is to be held in an effort to raise $200 needed for the budget. (2) Our organization will go on record to favor and support "Texas Education Alert Day" on March 30. Mrs. Gray explains that this means we will do all we possibly can to raise the standards of our schools.

The vote carries in favor of both recommendations.

On March 20, the Executive Board will hold a meeting to discuss the project for this year. Mrs. Betty Carroll is project chairman.

On April 4 and 5, the spring conference will be held in Laredo. Delegates will be sent.

Three members were elected for the nominating committee, Mrs. J. D. Gray, Mrs. Charles Garrett and Mr. Pat Smith.

Mr. LeFevre announced Public School Week March 6 thru 10. A band concert to be held Thursday, March 2. Parents are urged to come and visit school.
