

Bridal Tea Held Monday At Union

Mrs. Jim Bob Millhollon, the former Karen Sue Kerley, was honored at a gift tea Monday night in the Union Community Center.

Her chosen colors of blue and white were carried out in decorations. Guests were seated at individual tables covered with white cloths centered with blue mats and floating arrangements of blue flowers. Mrs. Don Elliott accompanied Mrs. Charles Small as she sang two selections from "The Music Man" and Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Small played background music throughout the evening.

Hostesses for the tea were Mrs. Roger Lee, Mrs. Wayne Smith, Mrs. Gordon Smith, Mrs. Winnie Tankersley, Mrs. Robert Waggoner, Mrs. Shelby Coker, Mrs. Pat Johnston, Mrs. Grady Sellers, Mrs. Bill Loney, Mrs. Kenneth Goforth, Mrs. Clifford Terry, Mrs. Jack Finley, Mrs. Jack Hoffman, Mrs. Rex Miller and Mrs. Frank Pruitt.

About 50 guests registered.

Hostesses for a miscellaneous gift shower honoring Mrs. Millhollon at the Ira Community Center recently were Mrs. Andrew Olson, Mrs. S. B. Plummer, Mrs. Travis House, Mrs. Jim Stirling, Mrs. Don Keller, Mrs. I. O. Maupin, Mrs. Ralph Lindsey, Mrs. J. L. Clark, Mrs. Travis Cox, Mrs. Sam Smallwood, Mrs. Lowell Martin, Mrs. Frances Sigallwood, Mrs. Grady Suter, Mrs. Audrey Eubank, Mrs. Alton Sumruld, Mrs. Orville Taylor and Mrs. Sam Martin.

About 75 guests attended.

Prefabricated Fireplace

A tall, slender prefabricated fireplace is now available in finishes such as polished black or copper color baked enamel. This good news comes from the Gas Appliance Manufacturers Association, which adds that the simulated logs are lifelike and burn gently to add warmth and atmosphere to a dining or living room.

Care Of Candles

Warm weather is hard on candles. To keep them straight, store them in your refrigerator. Home economists recommend cleaning candles occasionally with a soft cloth dampened with rubbing alcohol. This keeps them looking fresh.

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE W. GILES

Couple Honored Sunday On Golden Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Giles were honored on their golden wedding anniversary with an open house tea at the Union community center Sunday afternoon.

Hosting the event were their son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Othell Giles of Denver City. Many friends and relatives called between the hours of 2 and 3 o'clock to give best wishes to the honored couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Giles were both born in Kaufman County. He on July 21, 1894, and she on January 23, 1896. They were married by Justice of the Peace, J. A. Massey in Scurry Texas on May 3, 1913. They moved to Snyder in 1930 where they opened a New and Used Furniture Store which they still operate on Avenue S.

Other descendants than the son are two granddaughters, Mrs. Jerry Uhde of Mt. Vernon, Ind., and Mrs. Jimmie Williams of Long Beach, Calif., and four great grandchildren.

Mrs. Jimmie Williams registered guests.

Mr. Jimmie Farmer and Steve Babcock, friends of the couple, greeted the guests. Mrs. N. D. Allen of Dallas, niece of the couple, and Mrs. Doyle Farmer, a friend, served punch and cake.

Miss Blinda Davis presented piano selections during the tea hours. Others in the house party were Mrs. Buck Rooley and Mrs. Geraldine Strickland.

Time Is Factor In Disarmament Talks

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the troubles with looking at a clock is that it seems convincing. The hands point to the very latest minute in the history of man.

But even as you look the second hand is already moving into the next minute. The minutes melt into hours and the hours into days and years. Time begins to look unreal.

This has been the history of all the years of talking between the United States and Russia about disarmament and banning nuclear tests. There has been an unreality about them minute by minute from the beginning.

Last week the Russians said they were a waste of time and as if to prove it, the French two days later announced preparations to make the Tahiti Islands in the Pacific a nuclear testing center.

The fact that the United States and Russia since the war have been in a desperate contest to get ahead of each other in arms has been only a minor factor in the failure of their talks. The real one was and is distrust.

There could be no disarmament that either side would accept without a foolproof inspection system. They couldn't agree on that.

And even if the negotiations agreed, the U.S. Senate could never approve stripping this country of its arms while another Communist giant, not a party to the treaty, kept on arming.

An American-Russian agreement to ban nuclear tests could hardly work, or be approved by either side, if Red China and France were free to build and test their own nuclear weapons, which is what they're aiming at.

But if there was an American-Russian agreement to ban nuclear tests, the two sides would still keep all their nuclear weapons unless there was an agreement to disarm. So far disarmament has been a fantasy.

Both sides have tried to make some propaganda mileage, for whatever that's worth, by presenting an appearance of willingness to disarm and stop testing.

But after all these years the rest of the world could hardly be blamed for being skeptical, particularly since the United States and Russia are skeptical of each other.

The clock grinds on and one thing melts into another.

The United States would have to be doubly skeptical about any agreement with Russia so long as Moscow's ally, Red China, not a party to the agreement, was free to arm and test.

The same goes for Russian skepticism about the United States so long as the American ally, France, not a party to the agreement, is free to arm and test.

To make the whole business more bizarre, the Russians have reason to be equally worried about Red China, even though they're supposed to be allies.

The Chinese Communists, by their split with Moscow, have shown they are not willing to be subservient to the Russians. If they're not willing to be subservient, then they must try to be equal.

And if they become equal, they will be a menace to the Russians as to everybody else.

To confuse matters more, while the United States talked test bans with Russia, the French were busy developing their own nuclear weapons and are preparing to test them. They won't be subordinate to the United States.

While the Chinese would be enough to discourage any American agreement with the Russians, the French would be enough to discourage any Russian agreement with the United States.

If this isn't sufficiently muddled up, there's more.

In the midst of its talks with Russia, about banning nuclear tests, the United States has been trying to agree with its European allies to let them have American nuclear weapons, provided this country could say when they're used.

The American government has been so foggy and vague in explaining to the American people how all this would work, the Russians must be doubly befuddled and twice as suspicious.

Yet, despite all this, the two giants no doubt will keep right on talking about disarmament and a nuclear test ban if only because, in the face of world opinion, they might be too embarrassed not to.

Nuclear Ship Idle Today

GALVESTON (AP) — The nuclear ship Savannah lay idle today after a breakdown in negotiations to settle a salary dispute with her marine engineers.

The Savannah, the world's first nuclear-powered ship, was to have left Galveston for a six-day Houston visit.

Plans for an elaborate welcome were canceled after an official statement was issued by the States Marine Lines, operators of the Savannah.

The dispute centers around an NLR ruling that a higher wage should be paid to top deck officers than to top engineering officers.

The 22,000-ton Savannah was developed at a cost of $3.7 million. She carries a crew of 119 and can carry 60 passengers.

Two Men Charged In Armed Robbery

LAWTON, Okla. (AP) — Two Lawton men were charged with murder and armed robbery Monday in the death Sunday of a retired army officer.

The charges were filed against Edward Green, 29, and Ray Bruner, 27, in the death of retired Maj. Harry McKinney, 43, of Lawton, a civilian employee at Altus Air Force Base.

Band Pupils, Parents, To Meet Tonight

Parents of sixth grade students who are interested in taking band instruction in the seventh grade next year were reminded today that tonight is the last night of the meetings with band personnel.

Tonight's meeting is set for the band room of Francis Junior High School between the hours of 6:30 and 9:30.

Representatives of the music departments of the schools and also of companies which sell new and used instruments will be available to answer any questions the parents or students may have. They also will make recommendations.

Parents and students are asked to attend this final meeting regardless of which school the student will attend next year.

Baptists To Open Annual Convention

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — The annual assembly of the Southern Baptist Convention opens tonight, and there is a possibility that some conservatives in the nation's largest Protestant denomination may renew their campaign to stamp out liberalism.

Messengers — delegates — sent by 33,000 congregations with more than 10 million members gathered in an air of expectancy.

Would the Executive Board of the Missouri Baptist Convention get to the floor with its demand "to complete the removal of liberalism" from Midwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Kansas City?

The controversy rocked last year's assembly at San Francisco.

It adopted a recommendation, initiated by the Rev. K. Owen White of Houston, against "the dissemination of theological views which would undermine faith in the historical accuracy and doctrinal integrity of the Bible."

The controversy focuses on Midwestern Seminary because Dr. Ralph H. Elliott, 25, a professor, wrote a book suggesting the Genesis story of creation might be a meaningful legend rather than literal truth.

Twice at San Francisco the convention rejected resolutions directing the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary Board to cease publication of Elliott's "The Message of Genesis."

Since San Francisco, the Sunday School Board has stopped sponsoring of the book and Dr. Elliott has been fired for declining to withhold it from other publishers.

It is unlikely the controversy will come up until the convention's first business period Wednesday-morning. Tonight is set aside for meditation and inspiration.

AFS Drive Underway

A total of $715 was reported this morning in the current drive for funds being conducted by the American Field Service.

The AFS sponsors a foreign exchange student in the Snyder Schools.

Included in the total reported is $500 which was donated by the Snyder High School Student Council. Other donations include Nolan von Roeder, $10; Women's Culture Club, $25; Business and Professional Women's Club, $80; Acadia Study Club, $25; American Association of University Women, $20; Athenaeum Study Club, $80; and Cosmorama Club, $5.

Tanker Uprighted Without Incident

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — A tanker containing poisonous missile fuel oxidizer was turned upright early today without incident.

Officials had planned to evacuate a large area of northwest Tucson before the salvage work.

The tank-trailer contained 2,000 gallons of nitrogen tetroxide, a non-explosive gas, but considered dangerous and possibly fatal if inhaled or allowed to come in contact with skin.

The tank trailer overturned on a curve.

Washday Tedium

Don't waste time looking for socks, hankies and other small items likely to get lost in the laundry. Home economists recommend the use of a mesh bag for small items. It prevents tangling in the washer, makes small items easier to transfer from washer to dryer and keeps them from getting lost.

Britisher Pleads Guilty To Russian Spy Charges

By PRESTON GROVER
MOSCOW (AP) — British businessman Greville Wynne and Soviet scientific official Oleg Penkovsky, pleaded guilty today to spying for the British and American intelligence services.

Crystal City Dispute Goes Into Court

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Mayor Juan Cornejo of Crystal City today filed a dispute with Texas Ranger Capt. Alfred Allee into court Monday.

Cornejo, one of five Latin Americans who took over city council seats in their home town's municipal election last month, repeated charges that Allee had manhandled him and abused him verbally. Allee has told newsmen he did not touch Cornejo.

The mayor of the South Texas vegetable center asked a federal court order forbidding the Ranger captain "from assaulting, intimidating, threatening or interfering" with Cornejo's constitutional rights.

In addition, Cornejo sued Allee for $15,000 damages.

U.S. Atty. Ernest Morgan said the suit, filed in federal district court here, will be set for hearing at Del Rio.

The pair went before a military tribunal at a show trial in a packed courtroom in the Soviet Supreme Court building.

Wynne, 42, a representative of British engineering firms, told the court he pleaded guilty "with certain reservations which I will make in my statement. The indictment said he acted as a spy between Penkovsky and British and American agents."

The 45-year-old Russian, a former official of the Soviet Communist Party for Coordination of Scientific Research, was charged with high treason.

The indictment said he was assigned to collect information about Soviet rocket troops, Soviet units stationed in East Germany, preparations for a separate peace treaty with East Germany, developments in relations between the Soviet Union and Red China and other political, military and economic information.

Each of the defendants could get the death penalty, but no foreigner is known to have been executed for espionage in the Soviet Union.

Wynne's wife, who arrived from Britain Sunday for the trial, was accompanied by a London barrister, Derek Sinclair, but in accordance with Soviet legal procedure Wynne was defended by a Russian lawyer, Nikolai Borovik.

The indictment implicated a number of officials of the British and American embassies in Moscow. The Americans included an assistant agricultural attaché Rodney W. Carlson of Alcester, S.D., who left the Soviet Union last December; Capt. Alexis Davison of Atlanta, Ga., the embassy physician, who left Moscow Monday at the end of his two-year assignment. Richard Carl Javob of Long Harbor City, N.J., a secretary-archivist who was expelled last November, and Hugh Montgomery of Springfield, Mass., an embassy security officer whose departure never was demanded by the Russians.

Wynne had made about eight trips to the Soviet Union representing British firms. He was arrested in Hungary last November, brought to the Soviet Union and has been held incommunicado ever since.

Giant Lake On Danube Will Aid Yugoslavia, Romania

VIENNA, AP — A tremendous surge of torrential Danube waters between Yugoslavia and Romania will be turned into a giant lake to help shipping and give the two nations a second basic power plant in Europe.

Under an agreement expected to be concluded next month, Yugoslav and Romanian experts will start a joint $200-million project in the Iron Gate Strait within seven years. It calls for a dam and power station with an annual output of 162 billion kilowatt-hours, nearly as much as Russia's Volga River plant.

The dam will raise the level of the Danube upstream about 75 miles, flooding the Romanian town of Orsova and a dozen villages on both sides of the border.

The population of 25,000 will be resettled.

The Danube, blue in Johann Strauss' waltzes, is gray to most beholders. It rises in Germany and runs 1,750 miles, touching the capital cities of Vienna, Budapest and Belgrade.

The Iron Gate is at an inverted U of the river as it flows between Romania and Yugoslavia just before entering Bulgaria on its path to the Black Sea.

At the Iron Gate the river flows into whitecaps as it whirls over jagged rocks between cliffs 120 yards apart. Parts of old shipwrecks are still in the rocks. The Roman emperor Trajan built a road around the gorge for his conquering legions about 1,800 years ago.

Five years during dry summers and in winter, the water level drops to a few feet, haring the underwater reefs and nearly blocking ships. With the artificial lake, holding more than 25 billion cubic feet of water, the rocks will remain deep under the surface.

Tiny Glider-Lands Between Airliners

PARIS (AP) — Officials of busy Orly Airfield gasped Monday as a tiny yellow glider drifted in for a landing between the big airlines.

Pilo Victor Adato, 50, explained that rising air currents failed during a distance and altitude test and an unexpected wind blew him over the airport.

The average cost of a day in school for a pupil in 18 of the nation's largest school districts was $2.33, according to a survey of the National Education Association.

Board Turns Down Plea By Harlingen

By PEGGY SIMPSON
AUSTIN (AP) — How does a town bounce back from a double blow to the pocketbook?

That's what Harlingen would like to know.

John Morgan, superintendent of schools, made an unsuccessful bid before the State Board of Education Monday for what he said would help the Rio Grande city of 40,000 back on its feet.

Two years ago the Harlingen Air Force Base closed, taking with it $2.5 million in annual payrolls. That same year a crippling freeze robbed the area of its first substantial citrus crop since the early 1930s.

This winter saw a repeat of the freeze. Morgan said it will be five or six years before the trees and fields will bear fruit again.

Morgan and his school board president, E. W. Caughfield, asked the state board to refund $1,152,000 in bonds from the permanent school fund. They wanted to refinance them at an annual saving in interest of about $12,000.

The board refused the plea of hardship, saying they would set a precedent of letting schools plead hardship any time they wanted to refund bonds to get a lower interest rate.

Steel Industry May Soften On Wage Settlement Issue

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer
HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP) — The steel industry, facing an expected opening of wage talks with the United Steel Workers, may be softening slightly its position on settlement terms.

A hint of this developed in an observation by Roger M. Blough, board chairman of U.S. Steel Corp., that a hypothetical 12-cent-an-hour package would be "quite extraordinary on the high side."

Answering a stockholder's question, Blough said "any kind of situation like that would be very unhappy compared with any price increases we have had to date."

When the question of proposed wage contract bargaining with the union has come up before Blough and other industry leaders have said simply that renewed discussions were unjustified in the light of depressed steel earnings.

This position intensified, there was no room for wage or fringe benefit concessions.

Observers have speculated lately that selected price increases last month amounting to about one per cent on over-all sales must have weakened the industry's stand.

The price increases also have led to the assumption that the union is virtually certain to demand reopening of the 1962 wage agreement, a matter regarded as uncertain before the markups went into effect.

The present agreement bars a strike for 90 days after formal notice of reopening is served. The union has not revealed its intentions.

The industry said the 1962 pact, providing for improved fringe benefits but no wage increase, cost it 10.9 cents per man hour.

At U.S. Steel's annual stockholders' meeting Monday, Blough and Leslie B. Worthington, president, revealed that they and other officers took five per cent pay cuts, effective Jan. 1.

During a dismal 1962, five major producers, including U.S. Steel, the industry giant, cut dividends. U.S. Steel earnings fell to a 13-year low. Profits apparently are on the rebound, with orders and production up to a three-year high.

The salary reductions, applauded by shareholders, reduced Blough's pay to $263,800 a year, Worthington's to $261,300 and that of Robert C. Tyson, finance committee chairman, to $237,300.

Daily Crude Flow Drops

TULSA (AP) — Several states showed increases in oil production last week, but a big drop in Oklahoma led to a decline in overall U.S. output, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Average daily production last week was 7,460,650 barrels, down 31,075 from the previous week.

Oklahoma production was off 31,075 barrels daily, to an average of 329,400. Increases were noted in Texas, up 11,300 barrels a day to an average of 2,587,300; Louisiana, up 7,275 to 1,413,775; New Mexico, up 1,625 to 302,035.

LAND OF MANANA OR LONE STAR STATE?—Rep. Bill Walker, left, of Cleveland, Tex., wants next year's auto tags to carry the slogan "Lone Star State" and Rep. Rudy Esquivel, right, San Antonio, prefers they read "Land of Manana," meaning land of the future. They couldn't get together on the matter and the House postponed indefinitely action on any type of change. Rep. Neil Caldwell, of Alvin, is in background. (AP Wirephoto)

Unskilled Laborers Have Most Problems

By ROBERT E. FORD
DALLAS (AP)—Business and government leaders say Texas economy is booming. They point to new industries, massive construction projects, low unemployment rates and numerous statistics to support their view.

But Rosalia Lees of San Antonio finds things are not booming at all for him.

Lees is not a special case. He is simply typical of thousands in Texas, an example of trends within the state.

Lees is 42—approaching an age when almost anyone would have difficulty finding a job.

He left a rural area to seek work in the city, a major trend starting more than 30 years ago.

Lees has no skills and only a sixth grade education—a matter of growing concern among those seeking to help others find jobs.

Lees hunts for work each day, but can find only enough to earn $4 to $5 a week. Relatives help him, his wife and their nine children.

He is typical of some in the middle generation, but his eldest son, Amparo, may join another growing group—the young unemployed. Amparo, 18, can't find work.

While city jobless are a problem, concern is growing about rural areas.

Rural population dropped 17 per cent in 10 years while cities gained 48.5 per cent. This loss of population has caused a consequent reduction in business in small towns. So has rural unemployment—4 million unemployed nationally in rural areas.

R. L. Coffman, administrator of the Texas Employment Commission, says of city and rural work situations:

"None of the four major cities is in bad shape employmentwise. I think Dallas and Fort Worth will continue to grow. The petrochemical industry will continue to grow in the coastal area. The Manned Spacecraft Center will be a big help to Houston. West Texas is in pretty good shape, perhaps better than most of the state. Galveston is a tough one. Texas never has recovered from the closing of the Red River towns are stagnant, particularly in East, South and West Central Texas.

The government says 51 of Texas' 254 counties are depressed areas, although some vigorously deny this and refuse federal help. Most are in East Texas, where farming has fallen on hard times for all sorts of reasons. Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., protests the designation, calling it a "stigma."

A great many qualified observers repeatedly say Texas must raise its educational level if it is to keep its citizens employed in an increasingly technical age.

Coffman says, "Training of unemployed is the only answer. The fact that things are relatively good now doesn't necessarily hold for the future. . . . The level of necessary skill is rising."

Earl Rudder, president of Texas A&M, said recently that "I am afraid we have too long relied too heavily on such things as oil, gas and productive soil . . . neglecting the human resources that are so necessary to carry out a proper development of the area."

Along with other problems, the one-time backbone of the state's economy—oil—has fallen on slow days. The state's oil wells are producing only 27 per cent of their potential—held down to keep from flooding the market.

With the decline in production has come a decline in drilling for new wells, with a consequent slowdown in industries supplying the oil fields.

Oilmen mainly blame imports and a decline in the state's share of the nation's production.

The federal government is expected to continue to allow imports because of the probable outcry if we closed the big U.S. market to our allies. Too many U.S. oil firms find importing oil profitable.

It likely will take some radical action for the state to gain more proportion of the national production as long as other states permit increases in their allowable flow.

Pilgrimage Is Problem For Bermuda

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—Bermuda officials have decided they need more chaparrones and new diversions to cope with the horde of college students who invade this British colony each spring.

Everyone insists that there has been no breath of scandal. They just feel that with the annual pilgrimage growing so rapidly, things could get out of hand. Last year, Bermuda played host to 3,810 college men and coeds. This spring the number soared to 7,607.

What worries officials and hotelmen is that the number of faculty members and chaparrones did not grow in proportion.

The mass arrivals have overtaxed Bermuda's entertainment and housing facilities.

Bermuda officials are dismayed by the youths and less reverberating for their hosts.

The government will give more free hamburger broils and chicken fries for smaller and more manageable groups.

There will be rugby games between American students and local British army and police teams.

And there will be chaparrones. "We are going to insist on chaparrones in the future," said Michael Fountain, official in charge of handling student groups.

Women Decide Life Getting Too Rich For Their Blood

BY INEZ ROBB

My friend with the Whim of Iron dropped by for a cup of coffee yesterday and said, apropos of nothing, that life was getting a great deal too rich for her blood.

"Look at my hands," she demanded, thrusting toward me a pair of beautifully manicured mitts. "I was shopping on Fifth Avenue in the Fifties two days ago when I decided I needed a manicure. I realized I was practically on the doorstep of that fantastic beauty salon that was opened with such fanfare a year or two ago.

"I had never been in it, mainly because the newspaper pictures and stories of its interior reminded me of the decline and fall of Rome Or, maybe, the decline and fall of Cecil B. de Mille. However, since I was in front of the place, I decided to go in for a manicure.

"Take my word for it, the newspapers didn't exaggerate. The decor is a sort of amalgam of early M-G-M, the Sullivan's bazaar and the Paris Opera. Dazzling! I was I had just enough sense left to ask the price of a manicure. The duchess in charge said it would be six dollars.

"Six dollars?" I cried. "Look, my hands don't need major surgery. They don't even need extensive repairs, just a manicure."

"When the duchess insisted that the minimum manicure was six dollars, I went over to Saks and got an excellent manicure for $2.50."

My friend poured another cup of coffee, and then asked, "Are American women crazy? Is the whole country on a drunk binge? Six dollars for a manicure? Without tip, yet? How much do you suppose for a shampoo and set?"

"Don't ask me!" I said as I reached for the morning paper and opened it for the women's pages. I pointed to three pictures and a two-column story on a brand-new beauty salon where the duchine and fall a few moments ago." I reminded her. "But here is a nugget of pure Marie Antoinette. The owner of this new salon is quoted in this article as saying, 'I know there's a lot of mass buying being done, but many people go for a hair-bray that costs $2 instead of $4.50. I have never believed that anything wonderful came out of worrying about those people.'

"Touche," said my friend. "That dispenses of you and me!"

home he carries his tools in a black leather Hermes attache case lined in maroon leather. It is $100 an hour or $500 a day, plus transportation. These fees, incidentally, more than quadruple the amount received by members of the task forces appointed by the President of the United States to study national problems. End quote; and me in the bargain!"

"It's probably that Hermes attache case lined in maroon that brings the price up," said my friend. "And my advice to members of task forces appointed by the President of the United States to study national problems is to drop their shabby old brief cases and enroll in barber school."

"You were worrying about the decline and fall a few moments ago." I reminded her. "But here is a nugget of pure Marie Antoinette. Conservative Man Faces Hat Trouble

By HAL ROYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals for a conservative man today is trying to buy a new hat that won't startle passing dogs or scare children into fits.

To women, shopping for a new bunnet is one of the greatest pleasures; to their husbands it is one of the greatest nuisances.

The average man has a secret fear that any kind of headgear makes him look ridiculous except a sun-faded old fishing cap. He realizes he is no Anthony Eden or Clark Gable, two of the few well-known men of modern times that could wear a hat with masculine aplomb.

It is said that the reason President Kennedy usually prefers to go hatless is that he suffered a nervous shock in his childhood by seeing a picture of Calvin Coolidge in an Indiana headdress.

And certainly one of the greatest triumphs of communism is that Premier Khrushchev of the Soviet Union can wear the hats he does and still get re-elected. His hat is always battered down as it were fighting against a hurricane.

But no matter how hard a man argues that the hat he bought in 1960 is still in perfectly fine condition, the more insistent his wife is that he must buy a new one.

So, if you're that unlucky fellow, you go into a store — and here's what happens.

If it's winter, the salesman plops a two-story fur Akashan on your noggin' and remarks, "Very dashing." It makes you feel like a Siberian peasant dashing across the steppes to escape the wolves.

Next he puts on an iron black derby. Is that you in the mirror or a ward heeler on the way to a 1912 meeting in Tammany Hall?

The salesman then clamps on a Hamburg. It makes you look like a diplomat to the United Nations from Outer Slobovia.

Before you can stop him, the salesman slips a beret on you and remarks with false heartiness, "With a small gesture, sir, you could carry that off very well."

Next he claps over your brow a green felt slanted-back hat with a multicolored clothes brush in the band. You can't make up your mind whether you most resemble Robin Hood or a refugee Tyrolean ski instructor.

In desperation the salesman hands you a high-crowned hat with a brim so tiny that you feel you'd have to lift it on and off with tweezers.

All the young men are wearing this style," says the salesman. You and the salesman stare at each other hopelessly. Then you see just the hat you want—a conventional hat with a prospered crown and a brim of decent width. "I'll try that one," you remark.

"But sir," replies the salesman, "that's the one you wore in. We haven't made hats like that since 1950."

"Well, have it cleaned and blocked—and I'll pick it up tomorrow," you tell him.

There's always a chance your wife won't know the difference.

Junior Editors Quiz on HOUSES

QUESTION: What were the first American houses like?

ANSWER: The first settlers from the old world built rough huts which were something like Indian huts or wigwams, often made of poles stuck in the ground and covered with branches or bark. But, as soon as possible, the men would get out their axes and go to work building comfortable log cabins. Since trees were usually abundant, the pioneers could cut plenty of logs from 12 to 16 feet long. After these had been rolled to where they wanted to build, notches were cut as the men lay down in their picture. The picture shows the foundations of a log house and how the logs notch over each other. Notice the door frame standing up. Windows were often made of animal skins or paper greased to make it translucent. Between the logs, wooden chips were driven in and chinked over with clay, making a good tight wall. Roofs were made of hand-cut slabs, and a chimney built—either of logs or stone.

As the pioneers moved west, they often had to put up houses where there were few trees or none at all. The left-hand picture shows a sod house, often built under such conditions. Sod was plowed from the prairie and laid like bricks. As soon as the pioneers could do so, they built solid lasting houses, like the famous little house at lower right, which still stands in Provincetown, Mass.

FOR YOU TO DO: Build a miniature log cabin with matches. If you are very patient you might notch them, but you can get a very good effect by just laying them cross-cross so the ends project about a quarter inch. Fold a square of paper so it has the right roof slant and lay it on top.

Richard Wood of Milburn, Mass., wins this week's prize. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, and you may win a lot of fun. (Don't miss the Junior Quiz column!)

Christine Kaufmann Planning To Retire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Tony Curtis said Monday his wife, German actress Christine Kaufmann, is retiring from movies.

Curtis, 38, married the 18-year-old actress in Las Vegas, Nev., last February.

Miss Kaufmann told friends she wants to devote full time to her marriage.

Curtis was formerly married to actress Janet Leigh, who divorced him in July 1962. They had been married 11 years and had two children.

Exhibit Requires An Unusual Prop

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP) — Officials of the National Science Fair-International were surprised when Bill Horstman, 17, Riverside, Calif., asked for a box contractor, but they found one for him at a pet shop.

Horstman said the box used in his exhibit, "Pathological Study of Boidae," froze to death during the flight from California.

He took no chances with the new snake. He took it to his hotel Monday night for safekeeping.

Doubt Is Bugging Many Businessmen

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A doubt is bugging many businessmen today: Is the present upturn in activity real or just a temporary feverish due to the special situation in the steel industry?

Steel's influence the past month is apparent enough. But more industries with only a nodding acquaintance with that basic one are showing increased activity of their own. And the recovery from the sluggishness of the long hard winter is daily more reassuring.

Steel's role is this: Many customers are pouring in new orders for delivery from now through July and the mills are humming. In part, the steel users are taking care of their own better sales outlook, but perhaps in greater part their aim is to build up stocks against the possibility of a steel strike late in the summer.

And the recent price rise on certain steel products has already acted as a tonic, many business observers feel. The very fact that the steel companies were able to do so this year without arousing the opposition of the federal administration, as they did in their ing their gains. Retail sales have advanced with the coming of spring. The auto industry is particularly pleased. Another token of consumer psychology is shown in the installment debt figures, which have advanced each month this year.

Employment totals have risen, even if unemployment stays sticky because of a labor force that also continues to grow. The Labor Department says that continued claims for state unemployment benefits dropped in the week ended April 20 to the lowest figure since December.

Most corporations are reporting profits currently running ahead of a year ago. Annual meetings of stockholders are cheered by predictions that 1963 as a whole will top 1962.

And to underscore this, Moody's Investors Service reports that more publicly owned corporations increased dividend payments last month than in any previous April—91, compared with 41 a year ago. For the first four months of this year 435 raised payments, also a new high.

The National Association of Purchasing Agents reports in an April 47 per cent of its member companies had increased orders; 46 per cent had higher production; and 25 per cent increased employment, compared with 19 per cent in March.

The agents feel this means that "the total business improvement may be real and not just the hedging" against a possible steel strike.

"You're still living in the middle ages, fads, go back to sleep," said one of the new supermarketers.

Since that day, guess who has been doing the cooking? And it's disheartening the way the ladies set up a clamor when meals aren't served on time and everything isn't seasoned just right.

Mrs. Don Robinson was elected president of the Little League Mothers' Club yesterday afternoon at an organizational meeting. Other officers elected were: Mrs. Paul Hayes, vice president; Mrs. Homer Ray, secretary; Mrs. Skipper Joyce, treasurer; Mrs. Armer McFarland, publicity; Mrs. Harold Brown, food buyer; and Mrs. H. W. Cargile, in charge of donations.

The month of March this year broke several records in the realm of weather. Official weather station reports show it to be the second wettest and second coldest March in 43 years.

Now well identified is Snyder High School, which last year was labeled with a sign made of aluminum letters 16 inches high. The graduating class of 1957, 161 in all, won the trophy for that purpose, and the school board added enough funds to complete that it needed to buy the letters.

Even Judges Go Poetic In Spring

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Even the judges wax poetic at election-time in Kentucky. Circuit Judge Henry Meigs, instructing the grand jury Monday to investigate certain charges made in connection with the campaign, had this to say:

"A quadrennial madness has seized an alarming percentage of the population in the current contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination and the air of Kentucky is filled with the sound and fury of the struggle."

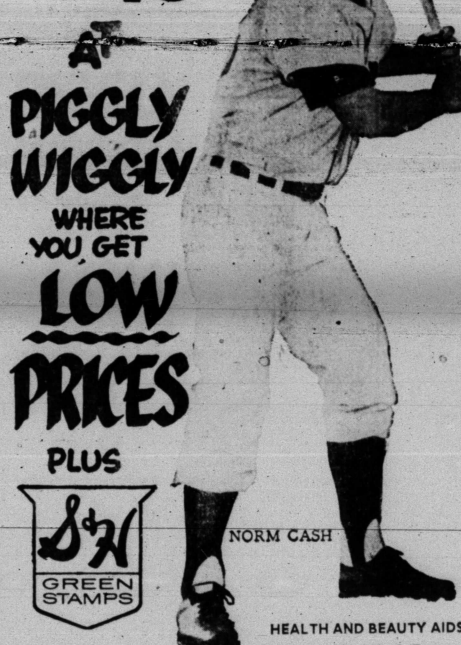

Charge and countercharge rend the soft stillness of spring evenings and through the din of promise and self-praise are heard the small, ugly voices of bribery and kickbacks."

Joint Tests Set On Explosion Hazards

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—The United States and Great Britain have scheduled a series of joint tests northwest of Las Vegas to determine hazards of accidentally touching off nuclear device explosions.

The Atomic Energy Commission said one of the experiments will result in a nuclear detonation. The first test is designed to obtain data on hazards of inhaling small particles of plutonium if a plutonium-bearing device were defused.
