CAMP SPRINGS YOUTH DIES OF WRECK INJURY

Burl Faulkenbery Succumbs Early Saturday After Crash North of Roscoe—Others Hurt

Burl Alton Faulkenbery, 24-year-old Camp Springs youth, sustained fatal injuries Friday evening, 7:45 o'clock, when the 1929 model Ford coupe in which he, Everett Dukes and Arvil Brown were riding crashed into the back end of a Whiteside Laundry truck of Lubbock, four miles north of Roscoe on Highway 7.

Everett Duke sustained facial cuts and bruises, and a severe chest injury. Brown's right arm was broken and he received lacerations on the chest and face.

Within a few minutes after the accident occurred, Marcel Josephson, Snyder grocer, stopped, en route from Sweetwater, picked up the trio of Camp Springs boys and rushed them to a Roscoe hospital.

Driver of the van truck for Whiteside Laundry was J. R. Jackson of Lubbock, who lives at 508 Avenue L. Faulkenbery was driving the Ford coupe when the accident happened.

Only actual eyewitness account to part of the accident was furnished County Attorney Ben F. Thorpe (although the accident occurred in Nolan County and out of Scurry County's jurisdiction) by T. C. Godfrey of Fort Worth, a man at present located with Fuller Cotton Oil Company mill at Snyder.

In his statement, Godfrey said he pulled off Highway 7 to avoid a head-on collision with another vehicle that was straddling a black safety line in the highway's center. Godfrey slid off into the barrow pit, and after the car he was riding in stopped, got out and began signaling the approaching truck for assistance.

Jackson was pulling his truck off

Royal Air Force Member Writes To Local Friend

Interesting indeed is the letter from B. Freeman Mays, a member of the Eagle Squadron of the Royal Air Force, mailed October 6 in London, England, and received here just 20 days later by his close friend, John F. Blum. Mays was one of the seven surviving pilots from a boat that was torpedoed about six weeks ago in the Atlantic.

Censored lines are cut from the letter, lines that supposedly told the name of the boat and its location. Other portions of the letter describe the ships young Mays and others of the plucky Eagle Squadron are flying as the fastest bombers built. Only complaint of the RAF pilot was of the penetrating cold of October air in foggy London. Descriptions of his associates, the English people, morale and living conditions dwell on courage, loyalty and appreciation.

Mays, graduate of Southwestern University, Georgetown, in 1935, was best man at the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Blum. He had been Blum's roommate at the school for three years. A 160-pound end, Mays captained the Southwestern football team his senior year. His home is at Wharton.

After graduation from Southwestern, Mays was in the oil game for a time, but his interest in flying led him to Pensacola, Florida, for a study of naval aviation. After joining the RAF, he trained for air fighting at Tulsa, Oklahoma, later shipping into Canada and across the atlantic to war-torn England. Blum and Mays have not seen each other since the Blums' wedding, although occasional letters have linked the two and continue to do so.

Plenty of Weevils

Boll weevils, much to the dismay of farmers, are entrenched in virtually every section of the county, attaches of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Plant Quarantine, report.

Department of Agriculture officials have examined gin trash and bolly burs at every gin in the county and say, definitely that boll weevils have been found at all 14 gins.

Agriculture Department men, while worried about the presence of so many weevils, are chiefly concerned with the finding, if possible, of pink boll worms—since counties can be quarantined where pink boll worms are found in threatening numbers. So far, cotton producing areas cannot be restricted because of boll weevils.

Visitation Day at Camp Bowie Will Show Army Life

Scurry County people who have boys in Company G, 142nd Infantry of the National Guard at Camp Bowie, Brownwood, should circle Sunday, November 16, on their calendars as the date to visit the soldier boys.

Sunday, November 16, was set this week as the day for parents, sweethearts and friends to visit the soldier boys at Camp Bowie. Visitors will have a chance to attend church in one of the modern, new chapels situated at central points in the camp area. All tents, recreation rooms, shops and offices will be open for general inspection by the public.

At noon camp visitors will be invited to the company mess hall to eat "soldier food." This will be the best way for dads, mothers and sweethearts to find out how the army feeds and serves food.

Dad, you too, will get a real surprise. Johnny will show you over the whole camp and you will have a better idea as to just how big a "city" Camp Bowie is. In all probability you will go home Monday morning and say, "Things weren't like that when I was in khaki."

And Sweetheart Sue, you will have something to marvel at, too. This will be a wonderful chance for you to see a great collection of uniforms on some of the finest soldiers in Uncle Sam's Army.

"Since the purpose of this open house," said Brigadier General Fred L. Walker, division commander, "is for visitors to be with their loved ones, to inspect their quarters and obtain first-hand views of camp life, no divisional entertainment or demonstration is planned, but unit commanders should encourage their units to put on interesting programs."

WTCC Convention Featuring Defense Goes to Midland

All out, West Texas!

This will be the theme Monday and Tuesday of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Midland, a convention that will attract at least four representatives of the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce.

R. G. Dillard, local Chamber of Commerce manager, J. O. Stimson, R. J. Randals and C. N. von Roeder announced this week that they will represent the Scurry County Chamber of Commerce at the Midland conclave. Others are expected to join early Monday morning with the Snyder group.

The part West Texas can play in national defense will be the central theme of the WTCC gathering, and banquet that will be staged Tuesday evening in the Crystal Ballroom of the Scharbauer Hotel. Toastmaster at the banquet will be Mark McGee, Fort Worth attorney and Texas Tech, Lubbock, board of trustees member.

Edwin Walton Goes To Victoria Station

Edwin Walton, older son of the A. E. Waltons, is home on a 15-day furlough between his air corps training at Chanute Field, Rantoul, Illinois, and his new station with the 75th Bombardment Squadron at Victoria. Young Walton received his diploma from the mechanics division at the Illinois field along with 842 other machinists, and more than 1,000 air corps men were included in all divisions of this class. Traveling in a car with four other enlistees, Walton left Chanute Field Saturday, arriving here Monday. Compared with the 20,000-man camp at Chanute, the smaller Victoria field will be a welcome change for the West Texas mechanic.

Relative Is Improved.

Mrs. C. E. Helms, who has been visiting her father, Dr. S. E. Schoultz, of Lamesa the past two weeks, returned home Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Helms reports her father, who has been seriously ill, is considerably improved.

BENEFIT FETE SET AT SCHOOL GYM TONIGHT

Hallowe'en Celebration Being Staged By Parent-Teacher Group Will Raise Funds for Lunches

Officers of the Snyder Parent-Teacher Association reported this (Thursday) morning that all arrangements were complete for the Hallowe'en Carnival that will be staged this evening at Snyder Schools.

Principal program feature of the evening will be crowning of the carnival queen at 7:30 o'clock, with the losing candidates as duchesses, who, with the queen, will select their own escorts.

Five candidates from the entire school, one from elementary and junior high school, and three from senior high school, have been named as follows:

Jewel Foster was chairman of the voting campaign, which was concluded Wednesday afternoon. Crowning of the queen at 7:30 o'clock this evening will high point festivities.

Carnival booths will be in the school gymnasium, Mrs. Ixon Joyce, chairman, states. All types of entertainment and games will be on tap for carnival attendants and spectators.

In addition to crowning a carnival queen, dance numbers will be provided by pupils of Elaine Lambert, accordion numbers will be given by Harold Lewis Wade and songs by Laverne Hardin.

P-TA officials point out that proceeds from the evening program of fun, fellowship and games will be turned over to the Parent-Teacher Association-sponsored school lunch room project for purchasing needed equipment.

"My Home Town" Speakers in Abilene To Praise Snyder

Even though Sam Henry Smith, Abilene High School junior, placed first Tuesday at district elimination events in Abilene for My Home Town speaker, Snyder's entry, Hughlene Jeffress, tied for third place.

The Jeffress girl was accompanied to Abilene for the district elimination contest by R. G. Dillard, Scurry County Chamber of Commerce manager and Odell Fenton, another Snyder entry in the contest.

Contestants and their sponsors were guests Tuesday noon at a luncheon given in the Hilton Hotel by Judge R. N. Carswell. The contest was held in the WTCC building conference room.

"We are proud of the showing Fenton and Miss Jeffress made in Abilene Tuesday," Dillard stated Tuesday night, "and even though Snyder's candidates did not win the contest, they let Abilene and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce know Snyder is on the map."

Good Attendance At Court of Honor For Scouts Monday

Good attendance of Boy Scouts and Scouters featured the holding Monday evening at the Methodist Church of the regular monthly court of honor for the Snyder District.

R. G. Dillard presided over court of honor proceedings, and directed the showing of a 2,000-foot length motion picture on Soil Conservation Service work.

In his talk to Boy Scouts and Scoutmasters, Dillard pointed out that life saving units of Boy Scouts would shortly be needed to help in the national defense program, and that Scouts of the Snyder District should "be, as ever, prepared."

The following advancement and merit badges were presented to these members of the Hobbs Boy Scout Troop No. 75: Lynn Bavousett, first class badge; Edward Schwartz, Star Scout badge; Lynn Bavousett, merit badges for wood carving and handicraft; and Clarence Anderson, merit badges for swimming and bird study.

School Lunch Rooms Discussed by School, P-TA Officials Wednesday

Eight Scurry County communities were represented Wednesday afternoon at a meeting on school lunch rooms, held in the county court room by Pat Bullock, acting county superintendent, representatives of the district WPA office at Lubbock and a representative of the Surplus Commodities Administration, Lubbock.

Announcement was made at the gathering that Snyder Schools, Ira School and Ennis Creek School were ready to participate in the program, and that these schools have already received their November quota sheets for surplus commodities needed through the coming month.

Assisting Bullock in presiding over the meeting were R. A. Metcalfe of Lubbock, district supervisor for the Surplus Commodities Administration, Mrs. Mildred Crump and Mrs. Evelyn Bradley of the district WPA office, Lubbock.

From the standpoint of equipment, it was announced that 10 more schools in the county are ready to take part in the school lunch room program. Equipment required to operate a lunch room, Mrs. Bradley pointed out, includes stoves, running water, some type of refrigeration, sufficient dishes and cooking utensils.

It was emphasized by district WPA officials and Metcalfe that all school lunch rooms operated in Scurry, as in other counties, will be operated on the card system. Children able to pay will do so, but those unable to furnish money will not be so required. No child will know which students pay and which do not.

Answering some informally poised questions, Metcalfe pointed out that school children do not need to be children of relief clients to participate in the lunch room project.

Communities like Snyder, Ira, Pyron and Hermleigh, where WPA families are located, may operate lunch rooms as WPA projects, but in smaller communities of the county this will not be necessary. Sponsors of each lunch room must furnish 25 per cent of the project costs—expenses that can be met in the form of rent, water, lights, dishes, etc.

All undernourished or needy children, wherever located in the county, may participate in the lunch room project, Mrs. Bradley declared. Purpose of the school lunch room is to get school students in good physical shape with properly balanced meals.

School faculty representatives at the gathering included:

E. L. Farr of Snyder Schools, A. C. Bishop Jr. of Hermleigh, Earl Horton of Ennis Creek, Mrs. Gasten Brock of Martin and J. M. Glass of Turner.

Officers of Snyder's Parent-Teacher Association were present for the discussions, as was Estella Rabel, county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. Minnie Land, junior field worker for the State Department of Public Welfare.

Besides Snyder, other communities represented included Hermleigh, Lloyd Mountain, Ennis Creek, Ira Plainview, Martin and Turner.

Roll Call Plans For County Laid By R. G. Dillard around the corner!

So declared R. G. Dillard, Scurry County Roll Call chairman for 1941, who states everything is being put in readiness for starting this year's Roll Call Tuesday, November 11.

Campaign teams are being organized in various sectors of the county, and other arrangements are being made to make this year's drive "short and snappy."

Dillard, Chamber of Commerce manager, who headed the Red Cross Roll Call last year, reports that Scurry County's 1941 Red Cross quota has been virtually doubled over last year's figures, due to the greatly increased work the agency of mercy must now do.

Scurry County's quota for 1941 was set several days ago by national officials at 1,050 memberships.

Due to army and navy expansion, and continued calls from foreign countries for Red Cross assistance, work of the non-profit organization has practically doubled within the past three months. To be able to carry on, Dillard points out, the organization must call on loyal Americans for greater support this year than ever before.

10,918 Bales Ginned In County to Date

Cotton ginning figures, gathered Wednesday by The Times from the county's 14 gins, reveals that 10,918 bales of cotton had been turned out through Wednesday.

Inclement weather the past week, plus intermittent rainfall most of the week, greatly slowed down harvesting operations throughout the county, and caused several large groups of cotton pickers to seek "greener pastures."

Rainy weather of the past few days has caused many county cotton producers to turn from billing to picking cotton, with the result that the fleecy staple has been flowing to county gins this week at a fairly steady clip.

"Courtesy Week" Slated.

Snyder Schools, in line with other schools of the nation, will observe the first week in November as Courtesy Week, Superintendent E. L. Farr states. Not only will Courtesy Week be stressed in class room activities and on the school campus, but several talks will be given during the five-day period on what courtesy among students and faculty members can mean to a school.

Second Oil Coat Given Roadbed West of Snyder

Highway 15 construction work activities created a considerable amount of interest this week, when workmen placed a second oil coat treatment to the portion of the East-West road running west from Broadway Courts—west of the square—to the city limits.

Application of the second oil coat was given the roadbed to keep it from becoming damaged by rainfall, particularly the three blocks where dips have been built to keep flood waters draining north from the highway to the Deep Creek watershed channel.

After coat No. 2 of oil had been placed on the Highway 15 roadbed west of the square, and within the city limits, a coating of gravel was applied Wednesday to keep traffic from ruining the oil treatment.

Leonard Spence Goes To Bullis for Training

Second Lieutenant Leonard W. Spence of Company G, 142nd Infantry of the Texas National Guard, was one of three 142nd Infantry officers assigned this week, with 13 other officers of the 36th Division, to the Junior Officers Training Center at Camp Bullis, San Antonio.

Besides Spence, other 142nd Infantry officers attending the training school include Second Lieutenant William J. Shelton and Second Lieutenant Thomas O. Spiva, of San Augustine, who was originally assigned to Company G.

Number, Please!

New 1941 telephone directories for Snyder, containing numbers of new telephone subscribers and other valuable information, were distributed almost 500 strong throughout Snyder's business section Wednesday. Ethel Mae Sturdivant, chief operator of the local Southwestern Bell Telephone exchange, reports.

Miss Sturdivant reports that Snyder has gained 20 new telephone subscribers since the last directory was issued. Gain of approximately 100 subscribers in the rural areas of Scurry County is reported.

Filled with names that are exceptionally easy to read, the new telephone directories have been awaited with keen interest by both old and new phone users.

CAMP FORMED TO HELP LABOR PLACING HERE

Concentration Point for Area Will Bring Workers and Employers Together with Supervision

H. W. Roberts of Dallas, representative of the Texas State Unemployment Service, arrived Tuesday and has established a migratory labor camp for Scurry County one block north of the square at the city tabernacle.

Roberts, who has had wide experience in the handling of migratory and transient farm labor, states the camp is operating smoothly, and that a number of hands have been placed with county farmers to help in harvesting cotton and feed.

The Texas State Unemployment Service official reports that the national defense program has temporarily displaced a large number of wage earners in various parts of the Southwest, and that a considerable number of these people are coming through Snyder and Scurry County looking for temporary employment.

Migrants drifting into town, and who are interested in obtaining employment, are urged to contact Roberts at the city tabernacle as soon as possible.

While the migratory labor camp will be only temporary here this year, officials of the Texas State Unemployment Service hope to have a permanent camp located in Snyder late next summer. Such a camp would do much to alleviate the problem that confronts traveling wage earners when they become stranded, and have no agency to turn to for assistance.

Singing Convention Session Attended by Overflow Crowds

Standing room was at a premium Sunday morning at the Tabernacle Baptist Church in North Snyder when Walter Holmes presided over the opening session of the Scurry County Singing Convention.

Featured throughout the day were such well known song groups as the Abilene quartet, the Lubbock junior quartet and the Lubbock trio—all representing the Stamps-Baxter Music Company of Dallas.

Dinner, at noontime, was spread with simple ceremony. Food to feed double the number of people present was put out by county singers and song lovers.

Directors were present from virtually every Scurry County community, Lubbock, Abilene, Sweetwater, Hobbs, Rotan, Gail, Post and other points in this territory.

The convention went on record Sunday with tributes of respect to two convention officials, J. M. Glass, president, and Leon Guinn, secretary, who were unable to attend because of loss of relatives.

Dewey Niedecken, E. R. Butts and Jack Patrick were named committee members to select the next convention site at its spring sessions.

Ira Schools to Reopen Monday for Classes

Paul Sweatt, superintendent of Ira Schools, announces that the southern county school will open Monday, following a five-week period of dismissal for cotton picking.

The Ira School chief declares that students are eager to get back into the class room, since many farmers of the community are up with cotton harvesting operations to the point where they can keep up with late opening bolls.

The Ira School has a faculty of nine members, and total enrollment of 280 students.

William Miller Joins Naval Air Training

Information received from A. Laverents, commander, U. S. Navy, retired, Dallas, this week reveals that William Harwood Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. William M[illegible], now enrolled at Dallas for training in the Naval Air Base.

A former Texas Tech student at Lubbock, young Miller will be transferred, at the conclusion of his first month's training, to either Pensacola or Corpus Christi for the remainder of his course of instruction.

Charley Resigns

Presented in this picture is a man nearly everyone in Scurry County knows, Charley Lockhart, state treasurer, who handed in his resignation Friday night at Austin, after serving over 10 years as custodian of state funds. Former county treasurer of Scurry County, Lockhart has been in Austin over 20 years.

"Charley" Quits Treasurer Post After 10 Years

Charley Lockhart, a Scurry County man who has been in Austin the past 20 years, and the past decade as state treasurer, handed in his resignation Friday night, due to encroaching ill health.

Lockhart was first elected state treasurer for a term beginning January 1, 1931. He had been reelected uninterruptedly, and would have been custodian of the state's purse strings until 1943 had he served the rest of his present term.

In a letter resigning the office of treasurer Lockhart said:

"The people of Texas have been generous to me, and I am deeply grateful. Two principles have directed my policies as treasurer of the state of Texas; namely, service to the citizens of the state, and protection of their interests in relation to the financial affairs of the state."

Jesse James of Cameron, Milam County, chief clerk in the treasury department, this week became state treasurer by appointment of Governor Coke Stevenson.

Lockhart, known as the "littlest treasurer of the biggest state," is but 45 inches tall, as his Scurry County friends will recall. His report tendered with his resignation showed he was custodian of $341,758,000.

Prior to election as state treasurer, Lockhart served 16 years as county treasurer of Scurry County. When he went to Austin, he worked a decade in the state treasury department, then made the race for treasurer on a platform of "merit."

Company G Move To Oklahoma Seen By Division Heads

Word received Wednesday from commanding officers of the 36th Division at Camp Bowie, Brownwood, reveals that Snyder's Company G, 142nd Infantry of the Texas National Guard, may go to Southern Oklahoma in the near future, with other 36th Division units, for extensive fall maneuvers.

Exact place Company G will be sent in Oklahoma—if the boys do go—was not available for publication this week. It is expected, however, that several units of the "Fighting 36th" will be sent to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, and from there to [illegible] areas.

Company G boys are reported to be in top physical condition, and ready for any kind of "mustering out" orders that may be issued. The boys have gained additional fame as real soldiers, since they came through the Louisiana maneuvers in such excellent form.

CONTRACT ON BORDEN ROAD SURFACING LET

Fort Worth Contractor Gets Project With Low Bid of $230,746 on 30.2-Mile Highway Stretch

Ernest Lloyd of Fort Worth was announced Wednesday afternoon by the State Highway Department in Austin as low bidder, at $230,746, on the Highway 15 paving project across Borden County.

Low bid entered by Lloyd will call for 30.2 miles of flexible base, double asphalt surface treatment and incidental grading from the Dawson County line east to the Scurry County line.

The Borden County road project was one of 19 improvement projects announced by the State Highway Department. Total cost of all projects approved reached the $1,823,630 mark.

Scurry and Borden County motorists, and property owners greeted approval of the East-West Highway paving project across Borden County with keen appreciation, since the Borden County gap has been up for much discussion the past several months.

Beginning at the Borden County line and coming east to Snyder, the Highway 15 roadbed has been given incidental grading and first coat of oil surface treatment. From the Borden line to a point two miles east, asphalt coat has been applied in recent weeks.

And beginning at the city limits of Snyder, west of the square, and coming to a point just west of the Deep Creek bridge on Highway 15, the roadbed was given this week a second oil surface treatment to protect the roadbed where three dips are built from pounding by traffic and damaging from unusually constant rains.

Word received Wednesday night from the State Highway Department indicated that Lloyd is expected to get underway with actual road work in Western Borden County early in November.

Local Methodist Group Has Good Annual Report

One of the most encouraging reports in years will be presented by pastors of Methodist Churches in Scurry and nearby counties at the annual Northwest Texas Methodist Conference in Big Spring November 12-16, Rev. I. A. Smith, Snyder Methodist pastor, reported Wednesday.

Rev. Smith joins other Methodist ministers of this trade area in predicting that most churches in this area will have salaries and benevolences paid almost 100 per cent when the Big Spring conference convenes.

In addition to Rev. Smith, D. P. Yoder, lay delegate, Mrs. R. H. Odom, alternate, and numerous others from Scurry County are due to attend the annual conference. Mrs. Odom is also on the board of missions and church extension.

Tuesday Morning Cold Heralds Frost

Old Man Jack Frost hinted early Tuesday morning that his debut for the current season is not far away. Temperatures early Tuesday morning, in fact, dropped to 40 degrees—just eight degrees above freezing and a few degrees above frost.

Tuesday morning's cold wave, followed closely on the heels of widely scattered rains that continued over the week-end in the Panhandle and throughout North Texas.

Speaking of Jack Frost leads county farmers and ranchers to a bit of speculation concerning the probable killing frost date in Scurry County. Most county residents concur in the belief that the average date for killing frost here falls around November 5-6. This year, however, as several put it, "almost anything could happen."

City Jail Receiving More Repair Work

Snyder's jail, an institution that many people have almost forgotten about, is being given a new lease on life.

So state city officials, who point out that concrete base for the "calaboose," located just south of the city waterworks plant on 26th Street, has been poured, and construction work is proceeding.

The calaboose, which in reality is a large steel cell, capable of accommodating several prisoners, will be enclosed with concrete walls, and will probably have a sheet metal roof.

When completed, the city jail will have water and sewerage facilities, and will be ready for occupants, just in case some of the folks get unruly on Saturday nights, or other times.

Scurry County Chapter of Red Cross Sends Articles to War-Torn Russia

Most recent shipment of finished articles from the Scurry County production program center for the American Red Cross, will go to war-torn Russia, says Jeannette Lollar, county chairman for the work. Included in the shipment were hospital bedshirts, quilts, sweaters, mufflers, shawls and beanies.

Ready for county workers now Miss Lollar and assistants at the work center, just east of Manhattan Hotel, say, are men's, women's and children's sweaters, little girls' dresses and skirts and baby clothing, as follows: Slips, gowns, dresses, caps, sacques, bootees and mittens. All material in the work center must be completed and mailed by December 1.

Clubs, Sunday School classes and individuals from all over Scurry County are urged to help in completing Scurry County's Red Cross quota. The work center is open each afternoon from 2:00 to 5:00 o'clock. Instruction and assistance will be gladly given by those in charge for knitting and sewing.

Interesting facts concerning the production program of the Red Cross were brought to light in a recent discussion given by Mrs. Clyde M. Boren, one of Snyder's most civic-minded individuals, at study club meetings. Portions of her report are given below:

"Materials for the Red Cross are purchased by the United States government from the $50,000,000 appropriation made by Congress for foreign relief. Garments made from these materials must be used exclusively for foreign war relief, and it is necessary to account to the government for every garment shipped abroad.

"Each county Red Cross chapter is given a quota based on population. Finished garments are sent to New Jersey, and there they are placed aboard ships en route to Europe. Four-fifths of the garments go to the British. Of the 300 ships sailing for Europe loaded with Red Cross supplies, only six were sunk up to May 1.

"Entire quota for Scurry County of Red Cross materials is on hand, and must be completed by December 1. Included in Red Cross work already done and that scheduled to be finished next month, the county quota is as follows:

"Seventy-two hospital bedshirts, 30 hospital pajamas, 100 complete baby layettes, 100 extra layette diapers, 36 women's cotton dresses, 192 girls' cotton dresses, 150 girls' woolen skirts, 60 girls' woolen dresses, 20 boys' flannel shirts, 100 knitted layettes, 100 part-wool flannel layettes, 125 pounds sweater yarns.

"In each of the 100 layettes were included: Two outing flannel dresses, two outing flannel slips, two outing flannel gowns, two knitted shirts, two pairs bootiees, two flannel bands, one cap, one sacque, one pair mittens, two blankets, 12 diapers and 12 safety pins.

"Garments, not counting knitted articles, will total 1,060, requiring a total yardage of 3,913 of materials. All yarns used in the Red Cross work have been moth-proofed, and all flannel had been fire-proofed.

"Next quota for the Scurry County Red Cross will be knitted garments for American soldiers in training camps. Central sponsor for this project has not been assigned, and an urgent appeal goes out for some organization or group of county people to assume responsibility for Red Cross production work after December 1."

Jane Hickey Chosen As Carnival Queen

Brunet Jane Hickey, high school sophomore, will be crowned carnival queen at the annual P-TA Hallowe'en Carnival tonight (Thursday). Announcement of Jane's victory was announced shortly past noon Wednesday, as a spirited campaign closed.

Second in the race was the junior high school candidate, Billie Jo Raney, and ranking third and fourth were Bernadine Berry, senior candidate, and Louise Eatmon, junior.

Bobby Hicks was campaign manager for the winning sophomore beauty, who is a comparatively new student in Snyder High School. Entering the local school in September this year, attractive Jane is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott W. Hickey.

Mrs. Elmer L. Taylor New Century Member

Mrs. Elmer L. Taylor is the newest member of Twentieth Century Club, and she attended the meeting Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. H. C. Travis was hostess. During the business session the study group voted to assist the Parent-Teacher Association with the school carnival this week and for each member to complete a Red Cross garment before next meeting.

A program on health and safety furnished timely hints, directed by Mrs. Joe Strayhorn. Topics and members giving the discussions were: "How Some Communities Are Solving Safety Problems," Mrs. Joe Strayhorn; "Dressing for Health," Mrs. H. M. Blackard; "Food for Health," Mrs. John R. Covey; and "Exercise for Health," Mrs. B. M. West.

At the close of the program the hostess passed refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, ripe olives and spiced coffee, all in a Hallowe'en motif. Each plate held a burning orange candle in black gumdrop holder. Marigolds and yellow dahlias were arranged in the house as floral decorations.

The following members were present: Mmes. West, P. C. Chenault, J. Nelson Dunn, Allen Warren, Blackard, W. J. Ely, Covey, Strayhorn, H. J. Brice Taylor, J. E. Lemond, Bessie Perkins, I. W. Boren and the hostess.

Attends Hallowe'en Dance.

Milton Joyce was Snyder's sole representative at the first fall formal of Ko Shari, girls' social club at Texas Technological College, Lubbock, held at the Hilton Hotel. The costumed club members, pledges and their escorts danced beneath floating balloons in a Hallowe'en setting to music by Jack York's orchestra. Miss Joyce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Joyce and a Tech senior, was escorted by Ray Conley.

Progressive Group Studies Biography

Study of America biography was instructive at a recent meeting of Progressive Study Club, when Mrs. A. P. Morris was hostess at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Gaither Bell. Mrs. Bryan Jordan directed the study.

Basing remarks on the words of a great American—"Lives of great men oft remind us we can make our lives sublime, and departing, leave behind us footprints on the sands of time"—the program featured talks by Mmes. C. E. Ross and Edgar Wilson. Mrs. Ross told of famed Americans, and Mrs. Wilson brought fame closer home in her discussion of outstanding Texans.

Japanese daisies and dahlias decorated the house, and the hostess served a salad plate with sandwiches and coffee to Mmes. Ceph Harrell and J. R. Reeves, guests, and members as folows: Mmes. J. W. W. Patterson, Leon Wren, Ross, J. W. Clawson, T. E. Shelburn, John Truss, Lora Miller, S. L. Terry, Wilson and Jordan.

Mrs. Williams Hosts Duce Bridge Club

Lovely Japanese daisies in crystal vases centered tables for Thursday evening, when Mrs. Buck Williams served a delightful salad course as members of Duce Bridge Club arrived at her home for regular club meeting. High score award for bridge went to Rube Lee, and Mrs. Buster Curtis retained the traveling prize.

New officers for the club to succeed Jeannette Lollar, president the past year, and Mrs. Sam Joyce, outgoing secretary-treasurer, are Miss Lee, president, and Mrs. Loy Logan, secretary-treasurer. The club will have supper at Wimpy's Drive-Inn this Thursday night, meeting at the Lollar home, and later playing bridge at Mrs. Joyce's.

Guests for last Thursday's party were Mrs. Frankie Hall of Odessa, former club member, and Mrs. Gaither Bell. Members attending were: Mmes. Curtis, John F. Blum, Joyce and Logan, Misses Lee, Johnnie Mathison, Helen Cauble, Lollar, Frances Boren and Allene Curry.

Mrs. Blum will be hostess for the next regular club meeting, October 30.

Four Panel Talks On Altrurian Program

Reader's Digest panel talks featured Mmes. Lee T. Stinson, R. D. English, J. C. Dorward and John R. Williams Friday afternoon when Altrurian Club held its regular meeting with Mrs. R. H. Curnutte as hostess.

The panel speakers followed a national defense idea in their talks that touched on philosophy of the times, fraternity in factories, the Swiss army and reasons for non-invasion of England. All topics were taken from the October issue of Reader's Digest.

Mrs. Ivan Dodson was the only guest for the afternoon club meeting, and members present included: Mmes. W. R. Bell, Hugh Boren, Lee T. Stinson, J. C. Stinson, H. G. Towle, A. W. Waddill, Williams and the hostess.

Inez Sanders Weds Des Moines Architect

Marriage of Inez Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sanders of Dermott, took place Friday in Lubbock. The bridegroom is Steve Percival, a Des Moines, Iowa, architect, and the couple will live in Des Moines.

Graduate of Snyder High School, Mrs. Percival completed her training at West Texas Hospital nursing school in Lubbock. At the time of her marriage, she had been employed as a stenographer for the Texas Sheet Metal Works in Lubbock for several months.

Mrs. Grantham Returns.

Mrs. R. C. Grantham is back in Texas after a seven-week stay with her daughter, Mrs. Allan Moses, Mr. Moses and their two daughters, Sara Lou and month-old Diana Frances, in Erie, Pennsylvania. The local woman was in Fort Worth Wednesday, visiting her sister, Mrs. Maggie Cole, with plans of coming on home later this week. Most recent interesting side trip made by Mrs. Grantham and the Moses family was their trip to Niagara Falls and into Canada made last Sunday.

Georgia Maule And Big Spring Man Say Vows

Georgia Maule, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. M. Maule, became the bride of Clarence Wicks of Big Spring, former Snyder resident, in a simple marriage service read Sunday afternoon by Rev. Herbert C. Travis, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, at his home here.

Only wedding attendants were the bride's younger sister, Verna Lou Maule, and Mary Bess Abercrombie.

For her marriage Mrs. Wicks chose a navy blue crepe costume suit, and with it she wore navy and dusty rose accessories. Graduate of Snyder High School, the bride was a member of the 1935 spring senior class here. She holds membership in the local chapter of the National Honor Society.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Wicks of Odessa, but he received his education in Oklahoma. In Snyder, Wicks was chassis repair man for the Scurry County Motor Company, and he holds a similar place with a Big Spring automobile house now.

Complimenting Georgia Maule, bride-elect of Clarence Wicks of Big Spring, a bridal shower was given last Thursday afternoon at the Earl Abercrombie home. Hostessing the affair were Mary Bess Abercrombie and Mrs. Earl Abercrombie.

Program for the afternoon was furnished by Marian Letcher and the bride's sister, Verna Lou Maule. Both gave toasts, first to the bride and then to her friends who were present.

Tea and cookies were passed at tea time to the guests, and attractive figurines were party favors.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cauble are in Spur since last week with their daughter, Mrs Clyde Bingham, who underwent an appendix operation in a Spur hospital last week. The Binghams recently moved from Aspermont to Spur.

TURKEY CROP IN AREA ABOVE AVERAGE NOW

More Than 6,000 Birds Reported in Scurry County in Survey Over West Texas Territory

Scurry, Borden, Fisher and other Central West Texas Counties will provide many soldier boys and others in army air corps training a "turkey dinner" Thanksgiving Day, due to the unrelenting efforts of turkey growers to keep flocks this year—despite adverse conditions.

In a 20-county area, including Scurry, Borden and Fisher Counties, the U. S. Census report shows that something like 200,000 birds are on hand now, although turkey producers sustained heavy casualties in the early spring when excessive rainfall caused many young birds to die.

Scurry County turkey growers, particularly, had a streak of bad luck following the hatching season. Young birds died by the dozen, but in spite of this fact the county is expected to market an almost "normal" turkey crop.

Consumption of turkey meat is expected to be much higher this year than usual, and as a result those who have managed to save their birds stand a good chance to profit from holiday season turkey sales.

U. S. Census figures, showing the number of turkeys raised last year in Scurry and nearby counties, follow:

COUNTY—	Turkeys
Scurry	6,093
Borden	1,097
Fisher	3,880
Kent	364
Nolan	4,600
Stonewall	1,115
Mitchell	3,802

Coleman and Callahan Counties are conceded to be the leading turkey raising counties of this entire trade area. Coleman County produced 68,009 birds last year, and Callahan County 23,933.

Quail Trap Helps To Stock Poorly Populated Areas

Due to the fact that the quail season is drawing nearer week by week, nimrods of Scurry and adjacent counties will be interested in the fact a vulnerable quail trap, utilized by the ancient Indians of Mexico, later by the Spaniards and now by the Mexican people, has now found its way into Texas. The trap may solve one of the biggest problems of the Texas Game, Fish & Oyster Commission in transplanting quail to thinly game populated counties of this trade zone.

The trap currently in use is commonly called the "box trap," which is baited to lure the birds within its walls. During the last quail trapping season Department field workers using this method caught over 600 birds, mostly blue quail, and as a result many depleted quail ranges were restocked.

By means of the trap the Game Department is now employing, dozens of quail will be placed in suitable reserves in Scurry, Borden, Fisher and other counties in which game preserve demonstration units are set up.

Now it has been proved that the so-called "new" trap, which has been in use south of the border for perhaps hundreds of years, can snare 200 quail per day!

Briefly, here's how it works in its modern form: A V-shaped "corral" about 24 inches high is set up. The fence is made of ordinary poultry wire. At the little end of the V there is a small opening leading into a rather long but not very high pen. This also is made of wire. Bob-white quail are eased into the "corral" and finally into the trap itself by automobile, never on foot, to avoid flushing the birds. But blue quail are easily forced into the trap on foot.

In the old days the Indians and later the Mexicans did not use wire in the construction of the trap. They piled vegetation or used plaited straw or other material for the two sides of the V, and likewise used plaited material for the pen into which the birds were forced. In some parts of Mexico this old method is still in use.

The more he heard, the less he spoke;
The less he spoke, the more he heard—
Why can't we be like that old bird?

Regulations Will Control Purity of Seeds in Section

Farmers of Scurry, Borden, Fisher and Kearny counties will be interested in the new Texas seed law passed by the 47th Legislature, which will help eliminate one of the main hazards of farming—questionable seed, J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, advises The Times.

The law requires that all seed offered for sale for planting or sowing purposes must be tagged, giving commonly accepted name, germination percentage, mechanical purity and other information. Thus, the farmers of this and other sections of the state will be able to buy seed for planting purposes without taking risks as to value of seed purchased.

Because other states had more stringent laws governing the sale and shipment of seed, it was necessary, McDonald points out, that a uniform law be drawn in order to protect farmers from local and out-of-state firms "dumping" inferior quality seed into trade channels.

"The use of good quality seed is a vitally important factor in any farm production program," the county agent's office points out. "If Scurry County farmers will plant seed of known quality, more uniform stands will be obtained and farm income considerably increased."

There is nothing in the act to prevent one farmer from selling to another farmer seed grown on his farm, when such seed is not advertised in the public press outside the vendor's county, and not shipped by common carrier.

A provision that will interest every farmer in the county is one that says a dealer must have seed tested and tagged before selling, when a farmer leaves on consignment or sells planting seed to a merchant, processor or seed dealer in his home county.

Any person, or course, shipping seed to other states must comply with the seed laws of the state into which such shipments are made. The Texas State Department of Agriculture will supply shippers with information as to noxious weeds of other states, and make examination of seed to find if any noxious weeds are present in shipments.

Brothers Close Through the Years

Presented in this picture are the Fargason brothers of Hermleigh, W. C. Fargason, left, and J. L. Fargason, who have been about as close as two brothers can be. Reared together, the Fargason brothers went to San Antonio together to join the army in the World War, married sisters and live, as neighbors, at Hermleigh. W. C. is the postmaster and J. L. runs the grocery store, but it's all in one building with a doorway between the post office lobby and the store.

Jack Dempsey Visits County Unit at Camp

Soldiers of the 36th Division, including Snyder's Company G members, are in the peak of physical condition, according to Jack Dempsey, former world heavyweight boxing champion, who recently visited the Texas division.

The visiting pugilist was impressed, he said, with the size of Camp Bowie, Brownwood, and spoke highly of Company G as a "crack National Guard unit."

Never return evil for evil; and, above all, do not fancy that you have been wronged when you have not been.

Fargason Brothers Are Traditional Pair in Hermleigh Business Circles

Writing recently in The Abilene Reporter-News, Maurine Roe, staff writer, gave this interesting life history of the well known Fargason brothers at Hermleigh, W. C. and J. L.

Remember the old game? You say "pepper," and I reply, "salt."

If you played it in Hermleigh, and said "Fargason," the immediate response would be "Brothers."

The Fargasons—W. C. and J. L.—are about as close as two brothers can be.

W. C. Fargason was born in Alabama November 26, 1889. J. L. was born there March 26, 1892. They are sons of J. E. Fargason, who also makes Hermleigh his home now.

The family moved to Texas in 1904, to Lamar County, and four years later to Scurry County.

World War No. 1 came along and the two brothers went to San Antonio to be inducted into service together. Their ways split for a time, but it was not their fault. W. C. was assigned to one unit and sent to Georgia for the full duration. J. L. was assigned to the field artillery, Battery E, 127th, and went to France.

But out of the army, they returned to Scurry County. Their father had bought an interest in a grocery store, and they then bought out the partner and worked with him for a time. Later, as he retired, the store became known as Fargason Brothers and that it has been ever since.

In 1923, J. L. Fargason was married to Dosia Callis. In 1927 W. C. Fargason married her sister, Ina May Callis, who had been a teacher at Pyron.

The brothers have continued their association in business, but W. C. is not so active as formerly. He was appointed Hermleigh postmaster on April 11, 1934, by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, and still holds that post. However, there is a connecting door between the post office and grocery. The two families live

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fargason have three children—Frances, 13; Elma Hope, 10; and Johnnye Mae, seven.

The J. L. Fargasons have one son, J. L. Jr., 15, and a junior in Hermleigh High School. He plays first cornet in the band, is a pianist, and last year he was a correspondent for the West Texas School Page in the Abilene Reporter-News.

There is no such way to rise to greater measure of grace as for a man to live up to the little grace he has.—James Gordon Brooks.

Fast - Stepping Merkelites' Title Hopes Not Hurt

Merkel's fast stepping, high-geared Badgers pushed on toward the 6-A championship here last Friday night when they bowled the Snyder Tigers over 48-0 thrillingly. The visitors scored five times on running plays and once passing.

Raymond Smith took the ball across for the first tally of the game early in the second quarter. The Badgers were held for the entire first period without scoring. Cox took a 25-yard pass from Buster Melton for the second, and Melton [illegible] line jab.

Reynolds passed to Carson for the first extra point. Reynolds kicked the second and Melton the third.

Raymond Smith and Melton scored in the third period. Reynolds kicked one extra point but Melton missed the other. In the fourth, Melton counted again, but try for conversion failed.

The Tigers took the beating graciously and had only the facts that they were playing the loop leaders and a team that out-weighed them 25 pounds to the man as alibis.

The line-ups:

Merkel—Cox and Elbert Hickman, ends; Butman and Reynolds, tackles; Euell Hickman and Derrington, guards; Warren, center; Melton, quarterback; Higgins and Clark, halfbacks; Smith, fullback.

Snyder—Rollins and Dorman, ends; Bruton and Leftwich, tackles; Moore and Miller, guards; Burt, center; Crenshaw, quarterback; Hicks and Thompson, halfbacks; Blanchard, fullback.

Window Display at CC Office Attracts

Scurry County people and visitors from nearby counties are showing a considerable amount of attention in the attractive front window display at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Arranged by Chamber of Commerce officials, the front end display contains a number of the farm crop exhibits that copped major prizes at the recent Scurry County Products Show.

Included in the Chamber of Commerce exhibits are sweet potatoes, gourds, kashews, pumpkins, corn, peas, oats, barley, sorghum, yard beans, turnips, artichokes, German millet, a prize watermelon and tame sunflowers.

Rainfall Totals Already Ahead Of All Records

The weatherman has been exceptionally generous with Scurry County this year.

So generous, in fact, that rainfall totals for previous years have jumbled, and Scurry County is the possessor of 42.70 inches of rainfall to 6:00 o'clock Wednesday evening—a total slightly over twice the average annual precipitation for the county.

October rainfall through Wednesday stood at the 9.55-inch mark, higher than at any time for the month since records were started by government gaugers in 1918. Nearapproach to the all-time October rainfall record was October of 1923, when 6.38 inches of moisture were marked up.

County residents were hardly surprised last week, when rainfall was marked up every day—some moisture from Monday through Saturday.

Precipitation last Thursday, for example, ranged from .54 of an inch in Snyder to 1.10 inches in the Union and Arah communities. Saturday, when it was, as some people said, raining "cats and dogs," Snyder gained another 1.87 inches of rainfall. The fall varied from two inches in the Plainview and Lloyd Mountain communities to 1.87 inches at Camp Springs, 1.51 at Hermleigh and 1.26 inches at Ira.

A complete table of rainfall, by months, since 1918 will be found at another place on this page.

Saturday Last Day For Paying Taxes Without Penalties

Attaches at the county tax assessor-collector's office remind Scurry County property owners that Saturday will be a relatively important day.

Saturday is the last day on which to pay state, county and school district delinquent taxes (except 1940), without penalty and interest.

Herman Darby, county tax assessor-collector, points out that the penalty and interest amounts to 51 per cent of the taxes.

Also, Saturday is the last day on which to pay current state taxes with the three per cent discount. Scurry County property owners will really be given until midnight Saturday to arrange tax payments, but very few people, it is felt, will want to wait until the last possible second to pay assessed taxes.

During November, county property owners are advised, the discount on paying current state taxes will be reduced to two per cent. It will be one per cent during November, and no discount thereafter.

Carelessness Causes Home Injuries

Carelessness is writing a new stanza to "Home Sweet Home."

According to the American Red Cross, home accidents last year accounted for their greatest fatality toll in five years. Some 33,000 persons lost their lives through falls, burns, poisoning and other hazards of everyday home life. Although less dramatic—consequently less apt to attract public interest—home accident fatalities ran a close second to death on the street and highway, trailing by 1,500 deaaths.

With carelessness playing the leading role, more than half of home accident deaths were attributed to falls—occuring on stairs, slippery floors, insecure rugs and use of chairs and other articles of furniture as improvised stepladders. Burns and accidental poisoning followed in that order.

Injuries causing varying degrees of disability accounted for nearly 5,000,000 cases involving hospitalization or care of a physician, the Red Cross pointed out.

To reduce accidents in the home and on the farm, the Red Cross is launching its annual accident prevention program the last week of October. Throughout the nation, in schools and through the Junior Red Cross, some 10,000,000 "check lists" listing accident hazards will be distributed. Householders will be urged to conduct a cellar-to-attic checkup to determine the correct hazards.

Dale G. Snyder Gets Age Limit Release

Dale G. Snider, one of Snyder's first draftees under the Selective Service Act, received honorable discharge from the United States Army October 17, and he is at home here now. Snider, among the first 13 county men drafted, has been stationed with the 112th Cavalry at Fort Clark, near Bracketsville.

He has reached the age limit of 28 years, and as others of his age, has received honorable discharge.

FFA Chapters Plan Meet at Hermleigh

O. T. Ryan of Lubbock, area supervisor of Future Farmers of America Chapter work, will be principal speaker Monday afternoon, when FFA chapters of the Snyder District convene at Hermleigh School, 5:00 o'clock, for a district confab, officers of the Hermleigh FFA Chapter report.

At least two or three delegates from each FFA chapter in the Snyder District are expected to attend the gathering. Chapters in this district include FFA units of Fluvanna, Hermleigh, Pyron, Ira and Post.

C. B. Bentley, Hermleigh vocational agriculture instructor, and host instructor for the gathering, states the meeting will be open to the public.

Fast Living and Hasty Eating Taking Toll of Strength Says Health Official

"For the last 20 years or more speed has been one of the dominant factors in American life. Today, because of the tremendous defense needs, assembly line technique, when possible, has been injected into all activities connected with the [illegible] speed is being emphasized in the nation's life.

Plainly, the need of conserving health and strength in the face of present demands is greater than ever before. It follows that 'to make haste slowly' in the art of living, at this time not only is basic good sense but patriotic also. It does not help vitality or health to apply a 60-miles-an-hour pace to unessentials. Nevertheless, evidences of this type of existence are quite apparent. One of the numerous proofs of this fact is the habit many persons have of more or less bolting their food," states Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer.

"This 'hasty lunch' psychology is rather general. The speedily swallowed breakfast is followed by the equally speedy lunch. For many, this momentum carries through the evening meal so that it also is disposed of in record time. It is little wonder, then, that solid food often is insufficiently masticated, that self-prescribed pills for a variety of gastronomical discomforts are popular, and that in extreme cases definite illness develops.

"Of course, time and custom have changed many things, including eating habits. But the point is that nature does not change; while marvelously elastic, she still has her limits as well as punishments for those who persistently disobey. Consequently, the wise person if now a speed-eater, will realize that to take a few minutes more time per meal and to chew food thoroughly that needs chewing are just as essential as are the quality and type of food consumed.

"Bad as speedy eating may be in the case of adults, grown-ups only have themselves or the trend of the times to blame. However, the proposition is different when children are concerned. Youngsters are prone to swallow hastily anything. Chewing to them is a secondary process, and therefore must be definitely encouraged. When the time has arrived for the use of hard food (and that time is at the beginning of the teething period) the baby should be given dry toast, sweiback or a bread crust. The masticating function must be encouraged daily, if sound teeth and sturdy supporting tissue are to be formed. Moreover, emphasis on adequate mastication should be maintained throughout childhood both for proper growth and general health.

"In short, everyone should realize that whether with respect to the with its inevitable accompaniment of insufficient mastication is a practice which can give rise to conditions that in varying degrees deprive one of maximum health, and sometimes is directly responsible for even greater penalties. The practice, therefore, should be discontinued," concludes Dr. Cox.

Corrections May Be Made on Wages to SS Workers Now

Workers whose wages for 1937 were not correctly reported to the Social Security Board have the rest of this year to request a change in their wage records for 1937, W. O. King, manager of the Social Security office at Abilene, points out. He explains that the law allows a period of four years after the year the wages in question were received during which the worker can obtain a correction of any error that may occur in his wage record.

In calling workers' attention to this feature of the law while there is still time to have the first year's record cleared up, Mr. King stated that workers can obtain a statement of their wage records on request to the Social Security Board. All Social Security Board offices furnish post cards for use in making the request. The cards are free and require only a one-cent stamp.

Mr. King explained further that the board's records of employees' wages are taken from employers' reports and that in some instances these reports may be incomplete or incorrect due to misspelling of a name, a mistake in copying the social security account number, or omitting a number entirely. Any worker who has reason to believe that his wages have not been correctly reported should check with the Social Security Board at once.

Hermleigh to Play Dunn.

Hermleigh's Cardinals will be host team to the Dunn Owls in a conference game of the Scurry County Class B football league. Game time has not been set but will be played Thursday afternoon, according to A. C. Bishop Jr., superintendent of Hermleigh Schools.

Prentice Riley Sent To Philippine Camp

Mrs. A. J. Riley received a letter this week from her son, Sergeant Prentice G. Riley—the first received since young Riley sailed from Los Angeles, California, in early August—stating he is now located at Fort Statsenburg, Philippine Islands.

Sergeant Riley has been attached to the 200th Division, Coast Artil- at Clovis, New Mexico. He and 2,000 other soldier boys sailed in early August on the Coolidge under sealed orders, and no word had been received until this week's letter.

REGION SHOWS GROWING WOOL PRODUCTION

Steady Growth in Scurry County's Output Reflected in Survey of Counties in West Texas

Did you know, offhand, that this immediate portion of West Texas is one of the world's greatest sources of wool, annually producing around 90,000,000 pounds?

Scurry, Borden and the 19 other counties that comprise the Central West Texas area are generally regarded as a farming belt, but in 1940 this area produced 6,500,000 pounds of wool—a total almost double the 1934 production record.

With 1,693,164 pounds of wool, Coleman is the leading wool producing county of this territory. The county produced 1,693,164 pounds of wool last year, compared with 895,229 pounds in 1934.

Borden County marked up a wool production total of 174,161 pounds in 1940, census figures reveal, in comparison with 85,369 pounds reported for 1934.

Scurry County reported wool production of 150,676 pounds last year, compared with 113,477 pounds marked up for 1934.

Wool production of nearby counties to Scurry for last year and six years previous follows:

COUNTY—	1940	1934
Fisher	110,494	43,680
Kent	115,344	7,842
Mitchell	198,895	112,974
Nolan	735,659	61,209
Stonewall	38,987	13,011
Haskell	43,327	1,892
Jones	41,550	20,751

Wool producers of Scurry and nearby counties are concerned over the fact that Germany, despite her acute lack of foreign exchange, before the war accumulated gigantic reserves of Australian and South American wools.

Germany, without regard for American produced wool or other goods, remembered her cold, ill clothed army and her half starved, half frozen civilian population in the last months of the World War. Insofar as possible, Germany has determined to guard against a similar occurrence.

Wool supplies the Nazis accumulated have until now enabled the nation to clothe her army. At the outbreak of hostilities, however, the uniform of the private soldier contained only 70 per cent new wool and 30 per cent adulterant cellulose fibers.

This fact seems encouraging to wool producers of this immediate territory, for once the present supplies of raw wool are exhausted, Germany will have to seek fresh stocks. Such action will strengthen the market here and abroad, even though the Nazis obtain their wool from South American sources.

LUBBOCK WRITER REVIEWS SEED BREEDING PROGRESS OF VON ROEDER COTTON FARMS

The following feature article on the Von Roeder Seed Farms of Knapp, written by [illegible], staff writer, appeared in a recent Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Fruits of the development of a new type of long staple cotton to meet the various needs of the high Plains are expected to be reaped this fall and winter by two brothers who have spent the past 17 years in breeding up a cotton known as Western Prolific, now state registered and state certified.

The brothers, C. N. and Nolan von Roedeer, of Knapp, in southeastern Borden County, have a total of approximately 2,200 acres of cotton, on their own land and on leased land. From this they will harvest, they hope, many thousands of bushels of seed.

Development, the brothers found, of a new type of seed was linked with a new type of farming, and for the past two years the seed has been planted to enable the widest use of sound soil conservation practices.

For example, they found in the 1939 planting, that by planting two rows of cotton and skipping three rows, not only were better yields possible, but that the average production was higher and that they could increase yields. Tests showed that planting two and skipping three rows was sounder than planting four and skipping three, because the two inside rows did not attain the yield or development of the outer rows.

Besides this, they come within the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's conservation program, each acre of cotton actually counting as two-fifths, instead of a full acre. Spacing is another feature, cotton is planted in hills, three or four seeds to a hill 24 inches apart in the rows. Rows are 40 inches apart.

"Our cotton for several years has shown high yields," said C. N. von Roeder, oldest of the brothers. "For example, in 1940, a dry year, the average was 410 pounds of lint per acre; in 1939 is was 577 pounds; in 1938 it was 438 pounds. We believe this year, all things considered, we will get a higher yield than we did in 1939.

"Another thing we have found for this deep, sandy soil, is that it pays to plow deep. We break our new land 12 to 16 inches, to bring the clay on top and to hold the soil. That gives us a rich soil and it also helps hold the sand.

"We began breeding in 1923 and kept on. It was not until in 1937 that we obtained state certification of our seed, with state registration a year later.

"This cotton, Western Prolific, is being developed for this section of the state. We believe it will replace half-and-half, with as good, if not a better turnout than that kind, and also adaptable to the entire area.

"Staple length is from 15-16 to 31-32 inches. It cleans out well. It is a cotton that will stand the winds and the rains and also the drouths, we believe."

The father of the boys came to this section and located on a farm five or six miles east of the present location in 1909. The eldest son had [illegible] Academy at Annapolis, Maryland. He resigned a promising future in the navy to come home and help his father farm. He worked with his father and brother and in 1917 they came to the present location, which is eight miles west of the inland postoffice of Knapp and 23 miles south and west of Snyder. It is near the eastern edge of Borden County.

Not until 1923 did the breeding work start. At that time what was believed to be an excellent type of cotton, a large boll and long staple, was planted and best selections of bolls and seed were made.

Neither of the boys knew much about seed breeding but they set out to learn. Books and pamphlets on breeding were secured, read and studied. Short courses in breeding, and also other courses, were attended. Practical breeding work spread. Many nights were spent in study, after days of hard work.

Practical cotton men and breeders, such as those at the state experiment station at College Station and the Lubbock and Spur substations were consulted and their advice followed. The brothers have become skilled in their line of work.

Meantime, acreage to cotton was increased from time to time. More land was purchased, nearby farms being added until more than three sections are now devoted to the work.

A breeding block has been set aside and in it some 200 to 250 selections are planted. Plants of these selections are scored on 10 points and from these 25 or 30 plantings are tried out. From these it takes three years to get the seed ready for market.

"We plant only delinted seed," said Nolan von Roeder. "We plant four pounds to the acre. I believe we can eventually develop a seed that will need only about two pounds to the acre. We use planters with the proper plates to drop three or four seeds each 24 inches."

Last year the brothers had 17,000 bushels of seed available for distribution. All of the picked seed is saved and delinted. The Kemgas plant at Big Spring is used.

This year first planting was in early May. Rains washed out the crops largely, and had to be replanted. This was done in early and late June.

Normal first date of killing frost at the farms is November 7-8, and a total of 207 frost-free days is an average.

Turfout averages 49 per cent, which is considerably higher than most other cottons.

Recently a 10-space section of two rows was cleaned of all leaves on the plants. Bolls were counted, 1,639 of them. Should all of these mature, it is estimated the production will be nearly three bales to the acre.

Between rows, plantings of beans, peas, pumpkins and watermelons are made.

Near the home of C. N. is a breeding plot known as the "crazy" plot. On it are planted a number of varieties—Egyptian cotton, Chinese cotton, Sea Island, American linkless, brown Arizona cotton and other kinds. There are more than a score of varieties of cotton growing here.

The original von Roeders came to Texas before the republic, arriving at Galveston Island in 1830.

Besides cotton, the brothers have a large orchard, 2,900 trees, 80 per cent of them peach trees, with some plums and a dozen or two pear trees. More than 3,500 bushels of peaches were gathered this year.

Vegetables are grown, also some grain sorghums, for the livestock. Dairy cattle are on the farms, to produce more than enough milk. Grain crops are grown for feed only, although the brothers have done some experimenting with sudan and grains.

Father of Local Man Is Taken by Attack Tuesday

M. S. Jones, 55, father of A. L. Jones of Snyder and a long time Jones County farmer, died unexpectedly Tuesday morning of a heart attack.

Rev. George Beavers of Hamlin, pastor of the Nienda Baptist Church, conducted funeral services for Mr. Jones Wednesday afternoon at the Nienda Baptist Church. Burial was in the Nienda Cemetery.

Snyder attendants at final rites, besides Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jones and baby, included Melvin Newton and Emmett Butts of Snyder Volunteer Fire Department, of which A. L. Jones is a member, and Maurice Brownfield.

The Nienda farmer was born January 25, 1886, and had resided in Jones County many years. Other survivors, besides A. L. Jones, include a daughter, Mrs. Odessa Fitzgerald of Hamlin.

EGG SALES IN SECTION BRING IN GOOD CASH

Production of Three-Quarters of a Million Dozen in County Last Year Shown in Tables

Sale of eggs alone in Scurry and 19 other Central West Texas counties last year amounted to nearly $4,000,000, the U. S. Census report shows.

In Scurry County, for instance, a total of 754,091 dozen eggs were reportedly produced last year, a figure that will prove astonishing to many not familiar with the growing poultry industry in the county.

The army camps located at such points as Abilene, Mineral Wells and Brownwood are heavy consumers of "fresh" eggs, and are doing much to strengthen the egg market for Scurry County poultry flock owners.

Poultrymen, after the creation of major army camps, have a market, then, right at home, although eggs go through the regular trade channels before reaching the camps. This spreads the work associated with the poultry business to more people, and means a livelihood for a considerable number of workers.

In reply to inquiries made by several county poultry flock owners, the average soldier in military training is reported by army officials to get 35 eggs monthly. The United States is now shipping millions of dozens of eggs to Great Britain.

Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard has asked the nation to increase egg production by 15 per cent. It is estimated that egg production in Scurry and adjoining counties will be increased by 25 per cent.

Too, growers can feel assured of a stabilized market, since the government has pegged egg prices at 22 cents per dozen.

Dozens of eggs produced last year in nearby counties to Scurry follow:

COUNTY—	Doz. Eggs
Fisher	997,203
Borden	119,497
Kent	11,488
Nolan	586,911
Stonewall	403,291
Dickens	406,780

Auto Certificates of Title Obtainable at Office of Collector

Herman Darby, county tax assessor-collector, pointed out this week that applications for certificates of title to automobiles and commercial vehicles must be secured from his office.

Also every Scurry County automobile operator is required by law, effective January 1, to have such a certificate.

Procedure for securing certificates of title to automobiles, in response to many inquiries, is briefly this:

The owner of the motor vehicle goes personally to the county tax assessor-collector's office, fills out the proper form and makes an affidavit to its accuracy.

The form is then sent by the collector's office to the Texas State Highway Department, license division, for final approval and filing, and a photostatic copy of the approved title is sent by mail to the automobile owner.

At the present time, assessor-collector attaches declare, it requires about two weeks for a title to be returned to the owner.

Officials of the assessor-collector's office are getting a number of inquiries concerning the certificates of title, since only two months remain in which to obtain the vitally necessary instruments.

State Convention of Baptists in Abilene To Attract Locals

Scurry and nearby counties plan to send large delegations of Baptists to Abilene, Tuesday, November 11, through Friday, November 14, for the largest state Baptist General Convention held in West Texas, according to D. W. R. White of Abilene, Hardin-Simmons University president and general chairman of the arrangements committee.

Preceding the convention proper, which will open Tuesday evening, November 11, will be meetings of the Woman's Missionary Union and the Brotherhood convention.

Hon. Pat M. Neff, president of Baylor University, Waco, will bring a patriotic message Tuesday evening, November 11, at the convention's opening session. Scheduled to speak during the four-day gathering are Baptist leaders who are well known throughout the South and Southwest.

Give $72,250 to McMurry College

Food Production Campaign to Be Talked at Session

Farmer committeemen of the AAA and representatives of government agricultural agencies from Scurry County will be in Big Spring today (Thursday) and Friday to lay plans for the Food-for-Freedom campaign in this area, Ross Williams, chairman of the U. S. Department of Agriculture Defense Board for Scurry County, states.

The Big Spring gathering is one of 12 meetings being held throughout the state at the same time to get the food production campaign in high gear, the defense board chairman declares.

Representatives of Scurry County at the two-day meeting include Williams; Edward S. Hyman, county agricultural agent; J. M. Bird, soil Conservation Service; Claud D. Cotten, county administrative officer for Triple A; J. N. York, Sweetwater Production Credit Association; W. O. Moore, Midwest Electric Cooperative; and Horace D. Seely, Farm Security Administration.

"We are undertaking the greatest food production job in the history of the world," Williams declared. "We have the goals to meet and we will meet them. I believe the farmers of this county will go all-out in their effort to do their share in the Food-for-Freedom campaign."

Williams explained that the USDA defense board would announce definite plans for carrying on the campaign in the county after the district meeting, but it is anticipated that county and community meetings to explain what is needed will be held in conjunction with the farm plan and pledge sheet sign-up, which will be ha handled by AAA committeemen.

Demonstration Club Notes

Estella Kabel, County Agent

China Grove Home Demonstration Club met at 2:30 o'clock October 21 in the home of Mrs. O. N. Laster Jr.

For opening ceremony the club members sang "America," followed by "God Bless America." Mrs. O. N. Laster Jr. played the piano and Mrs. Jim Merket led. Roll call was answered with each member paying five cents dues.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Mrs. Stanley Merket, reelected president; Mrs. Rusty Prescott, vice-president; Mrs. O. N. Laster Jr., secretary-treasurer and reporter; Mrs. Jim Merket, reelected council delegate; Mrs. Bill Hairston, recreational leader.

After the business hour, members worked on Red Cross garments and conducted a round-table discussion.

Next meeting of the club will be November 4 in the home of its clothing demonstrator, Mrs. Roy Allen. All women of the community are urged to attend these club meetings and help make Red Cross garments.

Mrs. Jim Boothe, member of the Plainview Home Demonstration Club has worked hard this year to conserve enough food for family use through the winter months and well into 1942.

Mrs. Boothe is utilizing canned products to feed her immediate family and hired hands, and still has enough canned foods on hand to run many months. She reports the following canned:

180 quarts fruit, consisting of six varieties; 57 quarts corn; 110 quarts stringless green pod beans, 90 quarts cream peas, 20 quarts blackeyed peas, 66 quarts tomatoes, 23 quarts tomato juice, 12 quarts peach pickles, 14 quarts cucumber pickles, 52 quarts greens of three varieties, 22 quarts green shelled butter beans, six quarts spring fryers, 10 quarts vegetable soup, eight quarts tomato relish, 19 quarts fruit juice, 10 quarts turnips, 32 quarts squash, 12 quarts green sweet pepper, 21 quarts ripe sweet pepper.

The Plainview Home Demonstration Club member also has pumpkins, kashews and sweet potatoes to can in the near future. She raised over 400 chickens this year, and has about 215 hens at present.

Roby-Merkel Game Seen as Conference Championship Tilt

Topping the list of first rate games to be played in West Texas will be the Roby-Merkel melee at Merkel Friday night.

It's the game that will pack the bleachers and leave standing room at a premium.

The Lions and Badgers are undefeated in conference play and the winner will emerge the champion of District 6-A. Sure, additional games will be played before the Interscholastic League playoff, but, judging from early performances, what team has a chance to beat either?

Merkel, boasting Buster Melton, scorer of 118 points already this season, and one of the finest supporting casts in the area, hasn't been beaten or tied. Roby has been scored on only by Stamford, powerful 10-A entry.

1942 Plan Sheets Must Be Signed Early in Month

Attaches at the county AAA office announced this week that it will be necessary for all Scurry County farmers to fill out and sign, early in November, 1942 farm plan sheets.

The 1942 farm plan sheets, when properly executed, will have the 1942 special allotments, yields, neutral acres, soil building allowance and a plan for farming practices to be carried out in order to earn full payments during the coming year, Claud D. Cotten, county administrative officer for Triple A, points out.

Scurry County farmers will note that next year's farm plan sheets have a section to be filled out by the farm operator, which will pledge his assistance in national defense by increasing production of eggs, milks, home gardens, beef and other commodities.

The farm plan sheets will not only have provisions for enumerating 1941 production figures, but for listing pledges of production during the coming year.

As outlined by Cotten, the farm plan sheets will show:

Livestock and livestock products, cows milked, milk production, hogs marketed or slaughtered, egg production, beef cattle (including the calves), marketed crops and adequate farm frame gardens.

So far, the Scurry County ACA office has not received these forms, but when they arrive Scurry County farmers will be notified about time and place to execute the plan sheets.

"Since it is the duty of every citizen in Scurry and other counties of the state to assist in national defense in every way possible, the county committee is certain that every county operator will make a special effort to assist in executing the plan sheets at the time and place designated," Ross Williams, chairman of the county AAA committee, reports.

Preliminary forms, similar to the 1942 farm plan sheets, will be available at the county AAA office for inspection by county farmers. The forms available are not the forms that will have to be filled out as plan sheets, but will give operators an idea of what will be needed in executing the necessary forms when they arrive.

One for the old joke contest: Two neighbor women had an argument. One claimed she had loaned the other a pitcher and, when it was returned, it was cracked. The other woman said, "In the first place, I returned the pitcher in good condition; in the second place, it was cracked when I borrowed it; and in the third place, I didn't borrow it at all."

New Formulas For Cottonseed Product Are Now Permitted

Scurry County ranchers like J. J. Koonsman, Jesse and Alvin Koonsman, Wade and Harrie Winston, the Miller brothers and others will be interested in a new ruling by the Division of Feed Control Service, effective Saturday, November 1, that permits the marketing of 41 per cent protein cottonseed product as cottonseed meal.

Such a mixture, however, must contain no more than 12 per cent crude fiber, the maximum allowable in 43 per cent protein cottonseed meal and not less than 46 per cent crude protein and crude fat combined.

F. D. Fuller, chief of the Division of Feed Control Service, College Station, says a large number of analyses of cottonseed meal during the past quarter century have revealed the fact there was a decrease in protein content of cottonseed in 1924-25 and a reasonably constant decrease until this year.

Cottonseed crushers have experienced difficulty in making 43 per cent protein cottonseed meal or cake—heretofore the allowable minimum. The new ruling allows millers to manufacture 41 per cent protein cottonseed meal, in addition to 43, 45 and 48 per cent, provided excessive percentage of hulls is not introduced.

Oil Lands Donated To McMurry College

Scurry County students of McMurry College, Abilene, were cheered this week by the announcement that Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Jay of Abilene had donated oil payments due from Coleman County leases that will benefit the Abilene Methodist school by $72,250 through the years.

Jay is co-owner of an Abilene bottling concern and chairman of the McMurry board of trustees. Leases on more than 1,000 acres of oil lands in the Silver Valley field of Coleman County were involved in the transaction benefitting McMurry.

Extension Service Specialist Talks For Unity in Meeting Here Friday

Dosca Hale, Texas Extension Service specialist in family relations and parent education, gave an interesting program Friday afternoon to county Home Demonstration Club members and others gathered in the county court room.

She stressed that "relationships should be properly centered in the family, community, state and nation. It takes all people to make a nation. "We can," she emphasized, "have more unity in families by discussing family problems together.

"We should hold up our democracy by helping in defense work, and do our bit to keep this country safe. We should always be alive and in good spirit to help make family life happy."

Other excerpts from the Extension Service specialist's talk follow:

"There are different types of security we should face. If you do not secure those around you, you will develop the same attitude. We should teach our children that if they really try, things will work out right. We must not let them develop a feeling of insecurity, even though the road ahead looks troubled at times.

"Mothers should help their children learn good habits of eating. Both in what the children eat and how they eat. We should be particular to eat oatmeal, whole wheat bread and drink plenty of milk—with cream still in it—to give our bodies sufficient calcium.

"In European countries the people are given just enough food to keep them alive, but not enough to develop on. One of our best reasons for having balanced meals is to keep us thinking clear and straight.

"We should teach our children to buy good books and magazines. For entertainment, let them invite their friends and turn the kitchen into a place of entertainment."

Miss Hale suggested that rural parents, especially, should take care of young people in the country by working toward community recreation centers. In many counties, she declared, Home Demonstration Clubs are backing and encouraging community recreation centers.

Friday afternoon's gathering marked the first time in county history an Extension Service specialist has visited in Scurry County informally, and on a goodwill tour to acquaint rural women with things that will make America secure physically, mentally and spiritually.

The greatest ornament of an illustrious life is modesty and humility, which go a great way in the character even of the most exalted princes. —Napoleon.

Tigers to Rotan Friday Night for Conference Tilt

Coach Frank Weaver and his Snyder Tigers vie this week with Weaver's old teammate at McMurry College, Clyde Wood and the Rotan Yellow Hammers.

The game will be played Friday night at Rotan with the Yellow Hammers, because of their superior season record, playing the role of favorite. Rotan has been beaten only by Baird in conference competition.

Roscoe travels to Baird in another game that counts. Roscoe has won only once this season and isn't expected to do an about-face at the expense of Baird. The game, originally set for Roscoe, was moved to Baird in order to even the home schedules of the two teams.

Loraine plays at Colorado City in an all-Mitchell County inter-district engagement.

The 3-AA Wolves have more than the Bulldogs can hope to cope with. Loraine's principal desire no doubt is to hold the score down.

Reemployment For Returning Soldiers Studied by Boards

Urging the patriotic cooperation of every employer in Scurry and adjacent counties to see that every returning soldier has a job when he gets home, members of Scurry County's Selective Service Draft Board announced this week inauguration of a carefully studied and organized reemployment program which will function through each local board in the state.

"Many of the returning soldiers must either be cared for when those released from active duty get back, or else face very real hardships," local draft board members declare. "The Selective Service Act imposes the duty of carrying out reemployment provisions upon the entire system—as well as upon former employers of these men."

Under Selective Service provisions, the reemployment program calls for the appointment of a Reemployment Committeeman affiliated with each local board. The committeemen will act as laison"-hblocks-tween returning soldiers and employers.

Function of the local board reemployment committeemen will be to get in touch with the former employer prior to the return of a soldier to see if his former job is still available, and to act as laison agent for the soldier in placing him in available jobs.

FFA Convention Attendants Back At School Work

Back in school this week at Hermleigh is C. A. Dacus Jr., who with C. B. Bentley, vocational agriculture instructor, returned last Thursday evening from the Future Farmers of America Convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

Dacus was one of 300 Texas farm boys and their teachers who attended the Kansas City conclave, in conjunction with which was held the American Royal Livestock Show.

According to Dacus, who is president of the Hermleigh FFA chapter, last week's convention opened Monday morning with talks and plans for a gigantic "Food-for-Defense" campaign, to be carried out by vocational agriculture teachers throughout the United States during the coming year.

For the fifth consecutive year, the Texas FFA Association was chosen one of the nation's "Gold Emblem" organizations for efficient team work. A 40-piece FFA band from Texas was one of the two official convention bands. It led a parade of 15,000 people in the American Royal Horse Show.

Dacus and Bentley both report great times at the convention, and state much of an educational nature was given by convention speakers. This year Texas FFA boys featured grapefruit, prepared by the Edcouch-Elsa Chapter, and blackeyed peas by the Grapeland FFA Chapter.

Dewey Niedecken Named Officer in New Song Group

Dewey Niedecken, who has been prominently identified with singing conventions in this territory for several years, was named Sunday one of the vice presidents of the West Texas Singers' Association, an organization formed at Big Spring.

Singers and song lovers from Scurry, Borden, Mitchell and other nearby counties were attracted to Big Spring Sunday for the songfest and organization of the convention.

Other officers named included S. E. Clark of Abilene, a frequent visitor at local conventions, president; Paul Attaway of Big Spring, Ed Weaver of San Angelo and Mr. Stiles of Stephenville, vice presidents; Glenn Haddox of Abilene, secretary.

Approximately 600 singers participated in the Sunday singing. Date and site of the next annual convention will be selected by officials, Niedecken states.

"The Green Hand" Shows at Hermleigh

C. B. Bentley, Hermleigh School vocational agriculture instructor, reports that the Hermleigh FFA chapter will have a regular meeting Monday evening, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Feature of Monday evening's gathering will be a seven reel, full length picture show, entitled "The Green Hand."

People of Hermleigh and surrounding communities are extended an invitation to attend the gathering, and especially are folks urged to attend who are interested in FFA work. Monday evening's meet will be designated formally as visitors evening.

Colored Church to Hear Dallas Bishop Here Friday Night

Marking the first time that a bishop of a colored church has appeared in Scurry County, Bishop E. M. Page of Dallas will be principal speaker Friday evening at Snyder's colored Church of God in Christ.

Congregation leaders of the local church state that Bishop Page will begin the evening program of singing, preaching and fellowship at 7:45 o'clock. White friends of the colored church are extended a cordial invitation to attend the services.

The Dallas clergyman is known as an outstanding evangelist among the colored people of Texas, and will bring a message of interest to both white people and colored folks.

Certificate of Title Is Needed for Car Owners' Licenses

Notice was posted this week at the door of the county tax assessor-collector's office, advising Scurry County motorists that, beginning January 1, 1942, they must have certificates of title in order to secure 1942 automobile or truck license plates.

Numerous inquiries are already being received by the assessor's department, Herman Darby states, in regards to certificates of title for motor vehicles. These papers must be "in hand" before automobile owners, truck or commercial vehicle owners can get their 1942 license plates.

Those who have not yet put in application for certificates of title to automobiles or trucks are urged to do so as soon as conveniently possible, since the application must go to the Texas Highway Department, Driver's License Division, Austin, for approval before a certificate of title can be issued.

Two Programs for Texas Farmers Will Save Soil and Acres

According to a statement made Tuesday by members of Scurry County's AAA committee, farmers of the state will have two AAA farm programs during 1942.

In Scurry and other West Texas counties, farmers will have the minimum conserving acreage plan and farms in East Texas will have the soil erosion resisting plan.

All counties in the state lying south and east of, and including Wilbarger, Baylor, Throckmorton, Shackelford, Callahan, McCulloch, Mason, Gillespie Kerr, Edwards and Kinney counties will carry out the erosion resisting plan. All other counties will have the minimum conserving acreage plan.

The principal difference in the two plans, county AAA committee members declare, is that under the conserving acreage plan a minimum of 20 per cent of the cropland must be devoted exclusively to soil conserving crops during the forthcoming year. In the erosion resisting area at least 25 per cent of the cropland must be devoted to erosion resisting crops or land uses at some time in the year.

Method of payment will be substantially the same in both plans, with payments being made for planting within special allotments. These include cotton, wheat, peanuts and other approved practices, county AAA committeemen conclude.

Panel Discussion to Be Heard by P-TA

Officers of Snyder's Parent-Teacher Association reported this week that "Is Education Meeting the Needs of Youth?" will be the theme of panel discussions that will be given before P-TA members Thursday afternoon, November 13, by a group of Snyder High School students.

C. M. Kiker, director of Snyder's Tiger Band, states the girls' choral club will also appear on the November P-TA program offering numbers ranging from negro spirituals to popular songs.

Glasscock Countian for Contouring

Here's a pointer for Scurry County ranchers. B. A. Keathley, Glasscock County rancher, right, tells Howard Kinsberry, stockman-farmer member of the state AAA committee, that contour furrowing done under the Triple A's range conservation program has put more grass on his ranch than he ever had before he began the contouring practice.

Miss Clara Pratt, county home demonstration agent of Lubbock, who was here for Scurry County's fourth annual Products Show as a judge and appraiser, offered many helpful suggestions to Miss Estella Rabel and the club women of Scurry County. Local women were high in their praise for Miss Pratt and her helpful hints.

High points for booths and exhibits as suggested by the Lubbock County agent included: Get one central idea over to the public in the simplest way possible; have posters to help tell story; prepare exhibits so that they have eye appeal and high educational value; never overcrowd a booth.

Every home demonstration club in Scurry County had an exhibit for the fair, plus one for the club council. Pyron's booth stressed "Texas Food Standards," with miniature highway signs pointing to good health, strong bodies, cheerfulness and happier living as the right road to travel. The county council prepared streamers from decorated eggs which led to a central thought of "If you need an egg a day, why?" The streamers told of food values to be derived from eggs.

Business centers in the home and on the farm were given attention by the booth prepared by Dermott women, which highlighted home-made filing cabinets, waste baskets, paper weights and bulletin boards. Gifts that can be made in the home, including crocheted baskets and dish rags, jars of fdults and vegetables, and a rug made of toe-sacks.

Lloyd Mountain women designed a child's room, with shelves and tables made of boxes, and a tidiness theme of teaching children to keep their toys in place.

Tri-Community Club showed articles made of sacks—towels, curtains, chair covers, table cloths and napkins.

Foundation of a wedding cake which has been used by two generations of brides of the Von Roeder families, a wedding and birthday cake decorated by Ellen Sorrells, a patriotic cake made by Carla Jean von Roeder and equipment for cake making found limelight in the Bison Club's exhibit.

The old idea of making porch and other furniture of barrels found significance anew in an attractive exhibition by women of the Midway Club. Fluvanna Club members had an exhibit on pressure and waterless cookers and what may be canned in the home. Steps in making comforts of cotton and a finished product gained recognition in a booth prepared by the club of Plainview community.

Making, placing and what can be made from foundation patterns had preeminence in the show by women of the China Grove Club. Final exhibit was by Turner women, and stressed convenience and economy of shopping with cotton stamps released by the Department of Agriculture.

Miss Rabel reminds county people that club exhibits at the Products Show were not judged and given placings, but were prepared only as exhibits of accomplishments of county club women in cooperation with the county home demonstration agent.

A tramp knocked at the back door and the lady of the house said, "You seem to be an able-bodied man; you ought to be strong enough to work." And he replied, "I know, mum. And you seem to be beautiful enough to go on the stage, but evidently you prefer the simple life." She said, "Step into the kitchen and I'll see if I can't stir up a meal for you."

Let us labor for that larger comprehension of truth, and that more thorough repudiation of error, which shall make the history of mankind a series of ascending developments. —Horace Mann.

Wool Products Must Bear Correct Labels

Making wise purchases of woolen goods has never been an easy task for Scurry County women, Estella Rabel, county home demonstration agent, said this week, but now purchasing is easier than ever before because of a new law and new labels.

Under the Wool Products Labeling Act, which recently went into effect, all manufactured products containing wool, except rugs and upholstery fabrics, must bear a label telling what kind of fibers the product contains, and how much of each kind.

Miss Rabel urges county women to take advantage of this new consumer protection by studying labels when they buy woolen clothing. This is especially important, because the prices on woolen goods are higher than in the past several years.

Here are some suggestions that will help Scurry County women judge the quality in woolen goods:

First, look for a good firm weave.

Second, look for some "give" or "spring" in the cloth. Woolen fabrics have a soft wooly nap over the surface, but for good wear they must have a firm weave as a foundation underneath. Poor quality feels lifeless, and often hard and scratchy.

It is pointed out, however, that it does not always pay to buy the best quality woolen goods. This depends on the use to be made of the fabrics. For instance, coats for young and growing children likely will soon be outgrown, so the consumer would not care to invest in expensive fabrics. On the other hand, men's overcoats don't go out of style fast and should give long wear, indicating that it pays to buy good quality fabrics in top coats, especially ones which will be subject to frequent use.

Reason for Joy

Sponsoring of a Hallowe'en carnival this (Thursday) evening at Snyder Schools by the Parent-Teacher association, and sponsorship of similar events by other schools over the county Friday evening gives people of Snyder and Scurry County a real reason for joy. A reason for participating in such festive affairs in this land of the free and home of the brave, when entertainment and amusement are as much of our daily menu as daily papers, radio news broadcasts and hourly market reports.

We should be thankful indeed here in Scurry County, and in other parts of the country, that we can celebrate such occasions as Hallowe'en, Thanksgiving and Christmas—unhampered by the restraining hand of a dictator or the pinching fingers of food rationing cards. In occupied countries of Europe like France, where people in lots of 50 are meeting death because two Nazis were killed, or in Norway, where the population has been ordered to hand over blankets, raincoats and woolen goods, there will be no real Hallowe'en, no crowning of a queen or participating in light-hearted games and amusements under the stars . . . Thanksgiving and Christmas in such countries will be celebrated in empty form only, while in America we can celebrate in any way we like.

Yes, we have real reason for joy and gratitude to a kindly Providence for keeping us free people, and allowing us to enjoy the pleasures and privileges we do today. May we, then, in our every-day walks of life, be more tolerant of other people and feel free to help when their burdens become heavy and oppressive to bear. May we ever be thus blessed, in a land where freedom to do what we please means more than anything else to us.

Lockhart Resigns

Probably one of the most widely known state officials we have had in Texas in many years is a former Scurry County man, Charley Lockhart, who relinquished the reins of state treasurer Saturday night because of ill health. Lockhart had served continuously as state treasurer since January 1, 1931, and had been reelected uninterruptidly during the past five state elections.

Those who know Charley Lockhart say he has done a great job as state treasurer, a tried and true servant of the public who has always gone about his duties conscientiously, and reluctant to leave his office unless he was satisfied the day's work had been well done. Such devotion to his office won for him the nickname of "Blue Ribbon Charley."

We are proud of the record Lockhart has made as state treasurer, because he was formerly county treasurer and made an enviable record while discharging the duties of county office. Charley has gained national publicity by being the "littlest treasurer of the biggest state," a man 45 inches tall, but a man who has, by untiring effort, won the right to temporary retirement until he regains his health.

Editorial of the Week

TOMORROW'S WONDER WORLD.

We Americans may not be riding in rocket cars or making regular trips to the moon within the next 10 years or so, but other wonders are in store for us. There is a chance that some of these wonders may change our lives as completely as the automobile did, or the radio or any one of the many inventions that have appeared within the past generation or two.

That, at least, is the prediction of Dr. Robert A. Millikan, eminent physicist and Nobel prize winner. He says that the life of many during the next few decades will be "powerfully" influenced by industrial and other scientific developments that are under way at the present time.

For some these inventions will not have to wait long. In not too distant future we may be riding in cars built partly of milk, using fuel distilled partly from sweet potatoes, over roads from partly of cotton.

New developments in transportation and international communications as a result of the enormous progress in military aviation. Among other advances he lists new plastics, improvements in short wave radio, better sterilization of drinking water, new knowledge of vitamins to change our eating habbits.

To our children, our present day lives will probably seem as uncomfortable and old-fashioned as the lives of our grandparents seem to us. If the scientists continue to make life more and more attractive for us here in America, we may not want to take that trip to the moon when the time for it does arrive.—The Crosbyton Review.

It was decided several weeks ago that the best way the United States could help beat Hitler, according to defense officials, was to throw everything it had into an all-out arms production program, thereby enabling the job to be finished as early as possible. . . . This trend of thought is becoming clearer from day to day as administration officials point out that plans will shortly be ready on a breath-taking expansion of arms manufacture. . . . The United States, confidentially, will take on the job of supplying the U. S., Great Britain and Russia with enough arms by 1943 or 1944 to match anything Hitler's war industry can produce—a job that will dwarf anything else that even the most optimistic "America first" defenser can think of.

Your original investment in Defense Savings Bonds, Series E, will increase 33 1-3 per cent in 10 years.

Current Comment

By LEON GUINN

Editor's Note—Expressions or opinions contained in this column are those of the writer and do not necessarily reflect the opinions or policies of The Times. Current Comment is merely carried as a feature column.

The news got out this week, by one means or another, that the U. S. Army is counting heavily on a new kind of mechanical fuse to make American anti-aircraft fire the most deadly in the world. . . . By utilization of a highly accurate clockwork principle to explode the shells at pre-set altitudes, much greater precision is obtained than was possible under the powder-train method—a method in which a burning chain of powder, similar to a fire cracker fuse—touched off the explosion. . . . Just in the event an anti-aircraft shell, in such a case, missed its mark, or was not correctly set, the mechanical fuse causes the shells to explode before they reach the ground. . . . Further development of weapons like this will do much to make America able to defend herself if necessary later.

It is of interest to note that the U. S. Treasury Department has quietly, and without fanfare, begun to crack down on foreign vessel's practice of taking on board large quantities of restricted materials under the thin veil of navigation necessities. . . . This practice was drawn to the attention of treasury officials only recently when a Spanish ship attempted to take on four times as much fuel oil as required for a trip home. . . . Now, all shipply supply requests are studied carefully, and materials allocated as actually needed without going through export control channels.

☆

A rather unusual situation developed last week at the Bossert Company, Incorporated, of Utica, New York, when the fact was brought to light the firm was turning out 75-millimeter cartridge shells faster than the government could put powder and fuses into them. . . . As a result, the War Department has ordered the Bossert Company to slow down on the production of cartridges until powder firms can catch up. . . . This appeared as a bright spot in the nation's defense news, especially at a time when nearly all defense order holding firms are being high-pressured into greater production than they can speak of at present.

☆

Wit hthe U. S. Army clamoring for trained dietitians for its camps, 16 University of Texas coeds who have started graduated interneship in institutional management are not worried about finding jobs when they finish school. . . . The 16 girls selected to fill dietitian jobs were selected on the basis of training, scholarship and potential ability. . . . Working and earning at the same time, the 16 girls will be apprentices in the tasks of food preparation, menu making, office work and employee organization.

☆

University of Texas geologists, headed by Dr. E. H. Sellards, announced this week the discovery of a veritable "nest" of meteor craters near Odessa, with a second and third pit already outlined by field men on the job. . . . Largest of the two newly-found craters contains as many as 6,000 to 7,000 meteorites with a total weight of about six tons, Dr. Sellards points out. . . . On completion of scientific examination of the craters by University of Texas WPA field crews, the meteors will be turned into a public educational exhibit—one that visitors from the entire Southwest can explore, tunnel by tunnel, and envision what terrific impacts must have been made in the earth thousands of years ago by the meteors that evidently "rained" down in the crater area.

☆

According to the Texas Tax Journal, "married taxpayers of Texas and eight other states had a close call when Congress was considering the 1941 tax bill. . . . They should be forever grateful to Senator Tom Connally of Texas and the other members who so staunchly opposed this amendment to make it mandatory that the married taxpayers in these community property states fill a joint income tax return.

☆

"Senator Connally, by his courageous defense of states' rights, was able to eliminate this amendment, however, it appears to us that he was materially helped on account of expediency. . . . It is a known fact that many members of both branches of Congress, as well as the Treasury Department, are in favor of this joint income tax return, but rather than jeopardize several other portions and delay this tax bill, agreement was reached to remove the amendment," the Journal concludes. . . . Both single and married folks, nevertheless, will be taxed enough during the coming years—even though Senator Connally did succeed in lifting much of the tax burden from married couples for the present. . . . And for this performance, Senator Connally deserves a full amount of credit.

☆

There is a growing belief, among loyal administration attaches and others—especially key aviation figures—that the monthly totals in aircraft production and exports do not tell the complete story. . . . Ferry command pilots and other aviation men who keep "ears and eyes alert" believe, more planes are being manufactured and sent abroad than anyone realizes. . . . Naturally, some defaails and exact figures on production and export totals are being hidden in certain releases to keep the precise amounts out of Axis hands. . . . Really, how many planes we are sending abroad, in this emergency, comes under the head of nobody's business—except trusted government officials.

Inadale Citizen For Seven Years Buried Sunday

William Hugh Richburg, 69-year-old resident of the Inadale community, succumbed Friday afternoon, 3:45 o'clock, at his residence, north of Inadale, following a five-month period of ill health.

Born November 25, 1871, in Alabama, Richburg had lived in the Inadale community seven years, and was prominent in church and community activities. He was known as one of the outstanding farmers in this community, and had been strong for diversified farming since moving to the Inadale sector.

J. Wright Mooar's Relics at Colorado

Sponsored in Colorado City Saturday by the Self Culture Club, an exhibit of the late J. Wright Mooar's relics was shown in the Second Street building formerly occupied by the Bedford Grocery.

The collection shown by Mrs. J. Lee Jones, was put on display last Thursday at Colorado City's Junior High School, and contained Sharp's big 50 guns, dresses of the 1880's and 1890's, an oxen yoke, shawls, pictures and other articles.

The late J. Wright Mooar, it will be recalled, came to what is now Mitchell and Scurry Counties in the 1870's as a buffalo hunter, and is jointly claimed by Snyder and Colorado City as the No. 1 early day citizen of each town.

By buying Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps regularly you can help the defense program and, at the same time, help yourself and your family.

Turkey Season Pointers Given By County Agent

The year's biggest demand for turkeys is now in the offing, Edward S. Hyman, county agricultural agent, states. It is timely, therefore, for producers to go over all marketable birds carefully and select only the "ripe" birds that are ready to go to market.

Scurry County poultry raisers can determine whether or not birds have developed well in flesh by feeling the keel and along the shoulders and thighs. If they are well fleshed, then examine further to see whether they have put on fat, Hyman points out. This is best indicated by layers of fat found along the thin feather tract of the breast and on the thighs. Examination should continue to see if pin feathers have developed.

Pin feathers, the county agent explains, cut a turkey in grade probably more than any other thing. If a turkey has not developed pin feathers to the point where they protrude through the skin and have taken on a fanlike shape, then it can easily be classified as green.

The degree of pin feather development easily can be determined by folding back some of the feather tracts along the breast to see whether feathers have developed well in the area, then looking on the inside of the wing to see whether the pin feathers have protruded through the web part of the wing. If the thigh is rather smooth to the touch, then pin feathers have developed and taken on a fanlike shape and the turkey will dress out at a good market bird, Hyman declares.

"I find that lots of our toms are marketed too early. If they had been kept off the market another three or four weeks they would have topped the market in quality. So, in selecting turkeys for marketing at Thanksgiving, be sure to look over the toms carefully and do not sell any which are not in top condition," the county agent concludes.

YOUTH DIES

the highway; Godfrey's statement indicated, when the Faulkenbery machine crashed into the back end, left side, of the van truck. Jackson was said to have been moving at from one to two miles an hour at the time.

The Faulkenbery car was completely demolished in the crash. Engine of the vehicle was pushed back into the cab, the radiator flattened against the engine front, as though it had been cardboard, and the chassis of the car twisted into a mass of metal.

Faulkenbery, a former CCC enrollee, sustained a crushed nose, a deep gash across his forehead, misplaced neck vertabraes, back and critical internal injuries. He was given a blood transfusion Friday night at the Roscoe hospital and rallied enough to talk with his parents Saturday morning about 2:30 o'clock. He died at 3:00 o'clock. The Camp Springs youth was born December 4, 1917.

Several Snyder and county residents came by the scene of the crash shortly after it occurred but could furnish no eye witness evidence. Thorpe and J. G. (Pop) Galyean, constable, visited the accident site Saturday morning, even though Scurry County officers could take no action. J. R. Jackson did not give county officers a statement as to his version of the accident.

Funeral sevices for Faulkenbery were held Sunday afternoon, 2:00 o'clock, at Midway Baptist Church.

Rev. Buster Edwards, Campion Baptist pastor, assisted by the Midway pastor, Rev. Earl Powers of Rotan, officiated.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Faulkenbery of Camp Springs; a brother, Jesse D. of Camp Wolters, Mineral Wells; three sisters, Mrs. A. L. Davis of Richmond, California, Mrs. Perry Rodman of Lloyd Mountain and Mrs. Dick Fowler of Camp Springs; and grandmother, Mrs. R. Q. Mills.

Pallbearers were Charley May, Scott Bavousett, Leon Guinn, Milam Fowler, Leo Moffett and Travis Thompson.

Clorette Brown, Bennie Jean Beavers, Bertha Fowler and Doris Dixon were in charge of floral offerings.
