VIRGINIA AND NEW YORK DEMOCRATS VICTORS

Testimony Closes In Hamilton Trial After Defendant Again Takes Stand

SLAYER DENIES STORY TOLD BY BOY'S MOTHER

State Consumes Day in Tearing Down Plea of Self-Defense

ARGUMENTS TOD'AY

Case to Reach Jury Late Wednesday After Attorneys Speak

WEATHERFORD, Texas, Nov. 5. (AP)—Dramatically and almost theatrically the R. M. Hamilton murder trial today approached a jury verdict, the defendant and the mother of the 21-year-old man he slew closing the cases for the defense and state. Arguments are to begin tomorrow.

Less than two hours after Mrs. Grace Walton, clad in black, had told of her last few minutes with her son, Tom Walton Jr., Hamilton testified for the second time, denying Mrs. Walton's testimony.

The state in rebuttal, after assailing the stories of the defendant and two defense eye-witnesses, played its strongest card. It called Mrs. Walton as its closing witness. District Attorney Edward Thomerson, his hand under Mrs. Walton's elbow, helped her to the witness stand. The space inside the railing was so crowded by attorneys and newspaper men she had to walk directly in front of the jury, her dress brushing those in the front row.

Tom's Call Related

Mrs. Walton said that the morning of the killing her son came to the Tourist inn at Amarillo where she was manager and placed a telephone call. In a weak voice that scarcely could be heard despite the utter quietness of the court room, she said she heard Walton say: "Is Judge Hamilton in? Is this Judge Hamilton? This is Tom Walton."

Then, she said, her son left the inn, and within half an hour she was at an Amarillo hospital beside his body, pierced by four bullets fired in Hamilton's Amarillo law office.

Hamilton took the stand only to deny state rebuttal evidence. One state witness, Mary Wright, Amarillo long distance telephone operator, had testified that "three or four days before" the homicide she handled a long distance call from R. H. Hamilton to his brother, Dexter Hamilton, Dallas lawyer.

Long Distance Conversation

After the connection had been made the 19-year-old witness testified she "pushed the key back and listened to see if they were talking all right. The Hamilton in Amarillo said 'What shall we do about the divorce?' The Hamilton in Dallas replied, 'I wouldn't do anything about the divorce just keep it quiet for a while.' The Amarillo Hamilton said: 'Well, I guess so.' Then the Hamilton in Dallas said:

City Which Banned Bare Legs Gets New Mayor

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 5. (US)—Girls in Lynn may go without stockings if they choose.

J. Fred Manning was elected mayor today by about 6,000 votes. He succeeds Ralph S. Bauer, who attracted nation-wide attention some time ago by insisting that all girls must wear stockings while walking on the city's streets.

Thirty-seven out of 43 Lynn precincts gave Manning 15,799, Lynn M. Ranger 9,904. This is the first time Manning ever ran for elective office.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN RIFT CLOSED

Parliament Votes Resumption of Relations

LONDON, Nov. 5. (AP)—The house of commons late tonight voted 324 to 199 for resumption of diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia after a long and somewhat acrimonious debate.

Earlier the house defeated by the same vote an amendment offered by former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin deploring the "failure" of the new labor government to maintain the conditions which the prime minister and the foreign secretary had laid down for the resumption of diplomatic relations.

The vote of the house paved the way for restoration of the diplomatic ties severed in 1927 during the premiership of Mr. Baldwin. The Anglo-Russian trade agreement was terminated at the same time. The break followed a raid on the London headquarters of Arcos, Ltd., the Anglo-Russian trading organization. It was alleged that espionage and propaganda had been carried out under the guise of the trade organization.

The next step toward resumption is an exchange of ambassadors which is expected to follow quickly. Soon thereafter new negotiations will begin for the settlement of outstanding questions and probably including drafting of a new trade agreement.

Attorneys to Argue Hoobler Appeal Today

Special to The Record News.

DAN HARDY, 65, EARLY SETTLER DIES AT HOME

Pioneer Archer and Wichita Citizen Succumbs to Heart Stroke

STARTED AS COWBOY

Mississippi Immigrant Employed on OX Ranch In Early Days

Dan Hardy, 65, pioneer resident of Wichita Falls and one of the early settlers of Archer county, died suddenly of a heart attack at his home, 1100 Travis street, at 11 o'clock Tuesday night.

Death came to Mr. Hardy shortly after he had retired for the night. Mrs. Hardy said she discovered his death after she had been awakened by his groans. She said she quickly switched on a light and went to his aid, but to no avail. Friends and a physician were called. An examination by the physician revealed that a heart stroke had caused death.

Funeral Undecided

Mr. and Mrs. Hardy were the only members of the family in the city. In addition to his widow, he is survived by a daughter, Mrs. John R. Chambers, of Dallas; and two brothers, R. C. Hardy of Los Angeles, Calif., and F. J. Hardy of LaJunta, Colo. Funeral arrangements will await the arrival of these relatives, it was said. The body was taken in charge by the Hines mortuary.

Mr. Hardy in his youth was a cowboy on the now famous OX ranch of Archer county. After his family had moved from Mississippi, where he was born, to Montague county, he came to Archer county as a cowhand, leading this rough pioneer life until he had acquired cattle and property of his own. He made many friends in Archer county, and had planned to once again be with them at the forthcoming reunion to be held there beginning Nov. 11.

Came Here in 1903

Leaving Archer City in 1903, Mr. Hardy moved to Wichita Falls, where he prospered in business, later acquiring oil and real estate holdings both in Wichita and Archer counties. At the time of his death he was active head of the Hardy Oil company, and was regarded as in the best of health.

50 Dallas Burglaries Are Believed Solved

DALLAS, Nov. 5. (AP)—Police today believed they had solved at least 50 burglaries here during the past four weeks with the arrest of a man, and recovery of a number of stolen articles in possession of his relatives. Officers estimated his operations had netted him approximately $5,000 in money and jewelry. He was living in an elaborate apartment.

Wales Plans Continue African Hunting Trip

LONDON, Nov. 5. (AP)—The most eligible bachelor, Edward Albert, prince of Wales, will go hunting with the new year for big game.

London papers today said he was planning to return to Africa in January to complete the tour interrupted last year when his father, King George, became seriously ill.

At St. James palace today it was announced that with the approval of King George and Queen Mary it was planned provisionally for him to sail for Capetown Jan. 2.

Texas Prison System General Manager Resigns

HOUSTON, Nov. 5. (AP)—Weary of what he termed the "pernicious attitude of some of those who should be helping," and disappointed at the money shortage in the Texas prison system, W. H. Mead resigned today as its general manager.

Accepting the resignation with "regret" the prison board named no successor. Chairman W. A. Paddock said. He reiterated late today that he could not say who was under consideration for the post. It was reported unofficially that Lee Simmons of Sherman, a member of the board might be selected.

SIMON RITES SET THURSDAY

Gas Claims Life of Wichita Real Estate Dealer

Funeral services for J. J. Simon, 68, pioneer real estate operator of Wichita Falls, who was found dead in his room early Tuesday morning, will be held at 3:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon with Rev. Alvin F. White, former pastor of Grace Methodist church and now pastor of the Blackwell, Okla., Methodist church, officiating. Interment will be in Riverside under the direction of the Merkle Undertaking company.

Found Dead

Mr. Simon was found dead in an upstairs room of his home, 1817 Tenth street, about 8 o'clock Tuesday morning by Mrs. Simon. A gas tube which had been disconnected from the pipe was found in the room.

A verdict of "intentional asphyxiation" was returned by E. V. Gwinn, justice of the peace, who was called to hold an inquest over the body. Mr. Simon was not dressed, apparently having arisen only a short time before. He had been dead about 30 or 40 minutes, it was said. The door to the room was shut when Mrs. Simon entered.

Resident 20 Years

J. S. Bridwell, who had called earlier in the morning to see Mr. Simon, had been gone from the house only a short while when Mrs. Simon telephoned him that she had found her husband dead. Mr. Bridwell has been a close friend of the family for several years. Mr. and Mrs. Simon came to Wichita Falls in 1909 from Missouri. They had originally lived in Kansas. Mr. Simon had been interested in local real estate since he first came to this city and he had many friends in this vicinity.

Survivors include his widow; one sister, Mrs. T. J. Womack of Alva, Okla.; a brother, John M. Simon of Olsburg, Kan. C. V. and F. C. Walter, both of Chicago, brothers of Mrs. Simon, are expected to arrive in Wichita Falls Thursday for the funeral services.

Galveston Masonic Dedication Planned

GALVESTON, Texas, Nov. 5. (AP)—With the expected arrival tonight of John H. Cowles, grand commander of Scottish Rite Masonry, southern jurisdiction, plans are going forward for the dedication ceremonies of the beautiful new Scottish Rite cathedral on Friday evening. AGED WOMAN SUCCUMBS TO FIRE INJURIES

Mrs. Helen Aynes, 79, Grandmother of Mrs. W. E. Hodges Here

CLOTHING IGNITED

Young Granddaughters Witness Tragedy, Calling Assistance

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Nov. 5.—Mrs. Helen Aynes, 79, stepmother of Mrs. E. W. Nicholson, and grandmother of Mrs. W. E. Hodges, both of Wichita Falls, died at her home here tonight from burns received this morning when her clothing became ignited from an open stove. Two other granddaughters, Lorraine Aynes, 19, and Louise, 15, were seriously burned while trying to extinguish flames which enveloped their aged grandmother.

The tragedy occurred early this morning shortly after Mrs. Aynes arose. She was assisted to the stove by her two granddaughters. While in front of the fire her clothing was ignited. Virtually the whole body of the victim was seared.

Son Comes to Aid

Lorraine and Louise ran, screaming, to her aid. Their screams were heard next door by the Rev. D. S. Aynes, son of the victim, and father of Lorraine and Louise. He rushed from his house and assisted the two girls, who were administering relief to Mrs. Aynes.

Throughout the day Mrs. Aynes showed signs of improvement, but late today her condition became worse, and she died about 7 o'clock.

Funeral arrangements had not been completed late tonight.

Other Survivors

In addition to her son, the Rev. Aynes, Methodist Mission pastor here, and her two granddaughters, Lorraine and Louise, of Vernon and her relatives in Wichita Falls, Mrs. Aynes is survived by another granddaughter, Mrs. J. W. Malone of Electra; two other stepdaughters, Mrs. W. R. Sikes of Seymour and Mrs. T. N. Brown of Jacksboro; a daughter, Mrs. J. E. Montgomery of Amarillo; and two stepsons, D. N. Aynes and Jacksboro and J. W. Aynes of Crosbyton.

Mrs. Malone from Electra, and Mrs. Hodges of Wichita Falls both arrived in Vernon today after being notified of the tragedy.

BURIAL PROBABLY AT JACKSBORO

Mrs. E. W. Nicholson, 1815 Tenth street, stepdaughter of Mrs. Helen Aynes, fatally burned at Vernon today, learned of her stepmother's death early Tuesday night. Interment probably will be in Jacksboro, she said.

Woodrow Davis, 13, Tells Jury Of Slaying of Lucian and Leon Shook

Schoolboy, Given Immunity by State, Says Youths Slain Just To See Them Kick

EASTLAND, Texas, Nov. 5. (AP)—Woodrow Davis, 13-year-old eye-witness to the murder of Lucian and Leon Shook, told a jury this afternoon that Clyde Thompson, on trial for the double slaying, killed the Shook boys "just to see them kick," and after shooting them, beat them in the head with the butt of his pistol.

For more than two and one-half hours, the seventh grade school boy described the killing and stuck to his story under a grinding cross-examination by Judge J. E. Stubblefield, defense lawyer. He admitted that he had been promised immunity for his testimony.

Hunting Trip

Thompson shot the boys, young Davis said, with a pistol belonging to Davis' father. He said that he, Thompson, and Woodrow's brother, Thomas, had started hunting late in the afternoon and he discovered his father's pistol in Thompson's belt.

"What are you going to do with that," he said he asked Thompson. Thompson replied that he was going to kill Lucian Shook, the witness testified.

"I asked him what he had against Lucian, and he said nothing, that he was going to shoot him to see him kick."

Shook Boys Lead

The three boys then went to the Shook's home, and on a pretext that they had cornered a wolf, induced Lucian and his brother accompany them. They left the Shook cabin single file, Lucian and Leon in the lead.

When they had gone a short distance from the house, Davis said, he heard a shot. He looked down the trail and saw Clyde Thompson shoot each of the boys three times, "and then beat their brains out with

PILOT'S BODY ORDERED HOME

Transport Co. Refuses to Allow Burial

Word was received here shortly after midnight Tuesday by Paul M. Backus, brother-in-law of Pilot John Carmichael, killed in an airplane crash in Mexico, that Mexican officials had refused to allow the body of the flier to be brought to the United States. Maj. Horace H. Carmichael, brother of John, and Maj. B. A. Law, superintendent of operations of Corporacion Aeronautica de Transportes, were at that time en route to Mexico City by airplane to obtain a release for the body from the Mexican capital.

Officials of the Coporation Aeronautica de Transportes refused Tuesday to allow burial in Toulca, state of Mexico, of the bodies of John Carmichael, former Wichitan and the three others who were killed in an airplane crash near Villa Carbon early Monday morning, but it had not been learned here whether the body of Pilot Carmichael had been brought to El Paso.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul M. Backus, 2114 Jones street, brother-in-law and sister of Carmichael, received a telegram from C. A. T. officials in Torreon, state of Coahuila, Tuesday morning asking instructions as to the disposition of the body. Mr. Backus wired for the body to be sent by train to El Paso but had received no confirmation of the telegram at a late hour Tuesday night.

Major Horace H. Carmichael, brother of John and also connected with the C. A. T., makes his home at the Hussmann hotel in El Paso, Mr. Backus said, and will arrange for forwarding the body when it arrives in the United States.

The crash occurred about half an hour after the ship, with Pilot Carmichael at the controls, took off at 6:30 o'clock from Valbuena field at Mexico City bound for Juarez. Bad weather at Hichapan, state of Hidalgo, forced the plane to turn back and the crash occurred at Pena del Monte rancho near Villa Carbon in the mountainous country on the rim of the valley of Mexico.

The others killed were Gov. Man-

JOHN POLLARD SEEMS CERTAIN OF ELECTION

Old Dominion Repudiates Coalition of G. O. P. and Anti-Smiths

LAGUARDIA QUITS

New York Republican and Herald-Tribune Concede Defeat

(By The Associated Press)

Smashing Democratic victories in Tuesday's elections were recorded in Virginia and New York City with a repulse in Kentucky of the Republican offensive to obtain control of the state legislature.

In addition the Democrats made a net gain of five mayors in other New York cities; elected a mayor of Indianapolis, were leading in the Boston mayoralty contest and had a number of their candidates for municipal offices in Chicago in the lead.

The Republicans saw their candidates in the only congressional election, that in the twenty-first (Manhattan) New York district, running far ahead of his Democratic and Socialist opponents on the face of early returns and also reelected a Republican mayor of Louisville by an unprecedented majority.

The anti-Smith Democratic Republican coalition challenge to the Democratic organization in Virginia was answered by a landslide for John Garland Pollard, gubernatorial candidate of the regulars. With almost half of the state still to be heard from at midnight, Pollard's majority had mounted to more than 40,000.

Hopeful of retaining the bulk of the advantage gained in the presidential election last November, the Republican leaders, both state and national, were surprised by the tremendous vote which the Democrats rolled up in the Old Dominion.

POLLARD ELECTED VIRGINIA GOVERNOR

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 5. (AP)—John Garland Pollard, former professor of law at the College of William and Mary, was elected governor of Virginia tonight in what turned out to be a landslide for the Democratic party.

The Democratic nominee led his opponent, Dr. William Moseley Brown, nominee of the anti-Smith Democrats and Republicans, in every congressional district and with less than two-thirds of the total vote tabulated, had amassed a lead of close to 50,000 votes. Pollards' election was conceded by Brown headquarters at 10:40. At that hour returns from 1,080 of the state's 1,683 precincts gave Pollard 99,038; Brown 51,457.

Probably the most widely discussed phase of the unusual campaign was the "De Priest circular" incident. A circular was anonymitures of Oscar de Priest, Republican negro representative from Chicago, and his along with an account of a White House tea which the negro representative's wife attended and excerpts from a number of De Priest's speeches. The assertion in this circular that Henry W. Anderson, Republican leader, Dr. Brown and the Republican platform stood

CLEANERS AND DYERS STRIKE

Chicagoans Must Let Their Clothes Stay Dirty

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

CHICAGO, Nov. 5. (UP)—Messy days are ahead of Chicagoans who, up until tonight, considered themselves well dressed.

That blob of gravy the portly alderman spilled upon his broadcloth covered middle at luncheon today is going to stay just where it splashed for quite some time to come. The gin that dribbled over the blonde girl's taffeta dress at a party tonight will leave its mark for at least a week and no one knows how much longer. The pearl gray hat which sailed off the head of the elegant boulevardier and into a muddy gutter is going to look like a ditch digger's chapeau indefinitely.

Chicagoans, in other words, are going to be a very sloppy looking tribe generally through no fault of their own.

Cleaners Quit Business

The cleaners and dyers, the cleaners and dyers' union, a few dozen gangsters and an equal number of racketeers have become so thoroughly enmeshed with intrigue and counter intrigue that the owners of the cleaning shops closed their doors today.

Not only that, they are going to leave them closed until the union men decide to come back to work as non-union men, announced Clayton Patterson, representing the shop owners. Patterson, it seems, is something of an expert on the business of engineering lockouts and was brought here especially to handle this one.

So thoroughly did he do his job that hardly a dye vat in the city boiled today, hardly a cleaning tank whirled and many a pressing machine failed to steam creases into trousers piled beside it.

Chicago's cleaning bill annually runs to the staggering total of $35,000,000. That in the final analysis accounts for the present difficulties. The racketeers wanted some of that $35,000,000 and, as racketeers often do, they got what they wanted.

Pants Often Bombed

For several years, it was nothing unusual for a customer to send his pants to be cleaned and to be informed the next day that they had been reduced to shreds along with other pants by a pineapple bomb. Things came to such a pass that some of the larger cleaning plants put gangster organizations on their payrolls to guard the pants and other such which citizens sent to be cleaned.

The gang of Al Capone, for instance, is reported reliably to be connected intimately with one of the largest plants in the city.

Members of the cleaning and dyeing union, meanwhile, got but little out of the whole business, so they claimed, outside of running the risk of being bombed. And that's none too pleasant, especially when there is no added salary to compensate for the danger.

Insurance Companies Make Charter Changes

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (INS)—An amendment to the charter of the Great National Life Insurance company, of Dallas, increasing its capital stock from $165,000 to $190,000 was approved today by the attorney general's department.

A charter for the Mutual Life Insurance company, of Corpus Christi also was approved. The incorporators were named as Murl Hurt, Mack Hurt, W. D. Nolte and others, all of Corpus Christi.

The firm will do business under the mutual plan.

Sentence Given Prison Supervisor Upheld

PHOENIX, Ariz., Nov. 5. (UP)—Lorenzo Wright, superintendent of Arizona's state penitentiary, must pay a $1,000 fine or spend six months in his own prison.

Wright's sentence by a lower court for allowing a convict to leave the prison long enough to be married to a guard's daughter, was upheld late yesterday by the supreme court. The superintendent was convicted on contempt of court.

CHARGES FILED IN SLAYING

Houston Man Slain, Brother-in-Law Wounded

HOUSTON, Nov. 5. (AP)—Ferris Moses, 33, and L. J. Watkins, brothers-in-law, fell last night under pistol bullets fired from a parked automobile here. Moses died early today, and Watkins, superintendent of the city dog pound, was taken to a hospital with a shoulder wound. Michael La Tonia, 22, who said his address was "anywhere," was charged with murder.

Watkins told police he and Moses had set out to report to police that "nine men had jumped on" Moses earlier in the evening and had beaten him severely.

Meanwhile, police were told in a statement by Ross Zinanti, truck farmer, that the beating Moses said he took was at the hands of a fellow player in a game at a grocery store.

Zinanti said Moses "got in an argument with a man and that the latter hit him on the jaw and knocked him down." Moses, Zinanti added, said "All right boss," got up and left.

"We got in my truck and drove to Heiner and Andrew streets. Moses saw a sedan car parked at the curb and jumped off the truck and approached the car," Watkins said.

"I heard Moses say 'here they are,' and two shots were fired. The first shot struck me in the shoulder. The second shot struck Moses. I saw him reel and fall. I jumped from my truck and ran home."

When Watkins reached home Mrs. Watkins called an ambulance.

Moses came here from Corpus Christi about three months ago and has been living with his sister, Mrs. Watkins. He was employed as a waiter in a cafe.

Harry Ebbets, the young New Jersey middleweight, has been promised a title match if he beats Rene De Vos.

ELECTION FRENZY

Single Ballot Cast in One New York City Voting Box

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—George Schrader, lone resident of the 33th election district of the 10th assembly district, today cast the one vote that the city had appointed four election clerks and one policeman to receive in the city election.

Schrader did not vote until in the afternoon, after walking to the polling place and peering in early in the morning.

The election board, after waiting nine hours to receive the single ballot, had to wait three more hours until official closing time at 6 o'clock to count it.

Australian Jurist Tells Reason for Low Crime Record

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5. (US)—"We have little crime in Australia because we do not have prohibition," Ben Bernard, justice of the supreme court of New South Wales, declared after his arrival here today.

"It is largely because we have regulated the liquor business and our speedy justice that Australia enjoys one of the lowest crime records of any country," Judge Bernard, who is on a two-year world tour, continued.

In Sydney, with a population of 2,000,000, there were only 6,000 arrests for intoxication during the past year, he said, while the number of arrests for habitual intoxication was only 300.

"Twenty years ago," he said, "there was inserted in our constitution a clause calling for a referendum vote in 1929 upon the liquor question. It was a compulsory vote with three possible choices. They were government regulated sales, open bars, or prohibition.

"Nine-tenths of the population were in favor of the existing system—open bars, with trading from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m.

"The government receives annually 14,000,000 pound sterling in excise duty and Sydney has less crime per capita than any city in the world."

Judge Bernard will remain in Hollywood for two weeks, going from here to Chicago, New York and Washington before embarking for Europe.

Missing School Boy Believed Kidnaped

DURANT, Okla., Nov. 5. (INS)—A statewide search was launched today for Dale Davidson, 16-year-old boy of Colbert, near here, and a man who is believed to have kidnapped the youth after promising to employ him last Saturday.

The boy failed to return home from his new job Saturday night. Yesterday, John Goolsby, the boy's uncle, received a letter purporting to have been written by the missing boy. The letter said young Davidson would return home Monday night but he failed to appear.

Texas Seeks Recovery Of Wartime Expenditure

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (INS)—Recovery for the state of $300,000, spent in organization during the world war of the 36th division, Texas National guard, will be sought by a party of state officials who will leave Sunday for Washington to present the claim.

Included in the official party, which will attempt to prove the claim before the comptroller general of the United States, will be Assistant Attorney General Rice M. Tilley; Comptroller S. H. Terrell; Adjutant General R. L. Robertson and Assistant Adjutant General Taylor Nichols.

REBELS RETREAT

SHANGHAI, Nov. 5. (UP)—Rebellious Kuominchun troops in the Chinese civil war were retreating westward, abandoning quantities of ammunition and 20,000 prisoners to the Nationalists, led by Chang Kai-Shek, president of the party, according to advices received here from the Honan frontier, where several battles have occurred.

UNDERPASS ORDERED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 5. (UP)—The state highway commission today ordered the M-K-T railroad to construct an undergrade highway crossing two miles east of the railway station at Elk City on U. S. highway No. 66, Beckham county commissioners filed the petition Feb. 13.

SO DIZZY, HAD TO LIE DOWN

Oklahoma Lady Says She Obtained Relief by Taking Black-Draught

Tahlequah, Okla.—"We have used Thedford's Black-Draught in our family ever since I can remember," says Mrs. M. C. Weatherford, of 117 Ross street, this city. "My mother gave it to us children. Whenever we got sick or out of order, she gave us a few doses of it to straighten us out.

"For years I have kept Thedford's Black-Draught in my home. I find it the best medicine for sick headache and biliousness I have ever tried.

"Sometimes I have spells when everything seems dark before my eyes and I feel dizzy. I have to lie down or I would fall. When I feel such an attack coming on, I take Black-Draught and make a tea out of it, which I take in small doses for several days. The dizziness quickly passes off after I take Black-Draught, and I feel fine.

"I gave my little grandchild Black-Draught not long ago. She was bilious and this made her drowsy and languid. I made a tea of the Black-Draught and gave it to her, and very soon she was up, playing around the house."

BUMS DECLARE WICHITA 'EASY'

Welfare Workers Warn Against Alms Seekers

It's the "Mister, can you give me a dime for a cup of coffee?" season again. And as regularly as the ducks fly South, the hobos ride the rails and hitch-hike North, South, East and West toward Wichita Falls, known to all bums as a "soft" town.

"King" Brands City

Through their varied and secret means of communication, word has been passed from tramp to vagabond and from nomad to adventurer that dimes for cups of coffee are plentiful in Wichita Falls. Even during the summer and milk weather, from 10 to 20 are registered every night on the books of the Salvation Army dormitory, which is maintained in the old city hall annex. During the cold weather the total jumps to between 25 and 50. The present register shows men and women ranging in age from 20 to 96 and in "home town" if any, from Maine to Los Angeles and from Minnesota to Florida.

The king of hoboes, who sleeps in nothing but the best hotels and does his panhandling in a princely style, spread the word throughout the country in newspaper interviews that Wichita Falls was the "easiest" town on his travels. "I rate towns NG for no good, G for fairly good, and VG for very good. XLNT, which means excellent, is saved for such towns as Wichita Falls, Texas," was the gist of an interview given by this royal bum in Illinois not long ago.

One of the visitors now staying in the Salvation Army dormitory was brought to the community chest headquarters Monday morning and admitted that he had been begging on the streets for about an hour. He exhibited $2.50 in dimes, nickels and pennies, or about the same amount that an ordinary day laborer secures for a whole day's work.

"The money given these beggars on the street would help the community chest total to go over the top," said A. E. Kelly, campaign director, Tuesday. "All who solicit help should be sent to the Salvation Army if they are transients or to the family relief association if they are residents."

Investigation Urged

Miss Myrle Neely, executive secretary of the community chest, asked that people investigate the cases of beggars before giving money to them.

"Some people ask why the community chest doesn't take all of the beggars off the streets," she said.

"Our greatest difficulty in caring for the pauper group is that people will give money when solicited on the street. How can we expect to encourage a man to keep on working hard for a standard scale of pay when he knows that he can go out on the street and pick up five or ten dollars in a few hours with a hard-luck story?"

Home Made Gun Kills Boy, 12, Who Made It

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Nov. 5. (UP)—Raymond Ward, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Ward, living 10 miles northeast, fell dead today at his mother's feet, the victim of a gun he had made himself.

Raymond started from the house with his gun, accidentally banged it against the porch and it discharged in some manner. A .22 caliber bullet penetrated his abdomen.

New Accident Policy For 1 Cent a Day

Thousands Are Protecting Themselves Against Worry —Plan Sent Free for Your Inspection.

The Postal Life and Casualty Insurance Co., 2756 Moriarty Bldg., Kansas City, Mo., is issuing a new accident policy that pays up to $100 a month for 24 months in case of total disability—$1,000 in case of death, and costs less than 1c a day —$3.50 a year.

Over 50,000 men, women and children over 10 years of age already have this protection. No examination whatever is required—you do not even have to pay a cent until you have thoroughly examined the policy.

Simply send name, address, age beneficiary's name and relationship and they will send this policy on 10 days' Free inspection.

If you are not entirely satisfied after a thorough examination that it is the best and cheapest insurance you can buy, just return the policy and you owe nothing. Write them.—Adv.

Stubborn Coughs Ended by Recipe, Mixed at Home

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up a stubborn, lingering cough. It takes but a moment to prepare and costs little, but it gives real relief even for those dreaded coughs that follow severe cold epidemics.

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times the cost. It never spoils and tastes so good that even children like it.

Not only does this simple mixture soothe and heal the inflamed throat membranes with surprising ease, but also it is absorbed into the blood, and acts directly upon the bronchial tubes, thus aiding the whole system in throwing off the cough. It loosens the germladen phlegm and eases chest soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of distressing coughs, chest colds, and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Armed Bandit Robs U. T. Student of Car

AUSTIN, Nov. 4. (INS)—Robert Reeves, University of Texas student, was $18 poorer and minus his automobile as the result of an encounter with a hijacker on a highway near Austin, he reported to police today.

Reeves, while joyriding with a girl companion, also a university student, was held up by an armed man, forced to give up all the cash he had and then abandon his machine. He and his companion walked several miles back to town.

Flavor From The Mountains of Central America

For People Who Want Something Different in Coffee!

FROM tiny volcanic districts high in the western mountains of Central America come coffees unlike any known before.

Experts concede that these coffees have a rare tang and rich bodied flavor, not duplicated by any other region in the world. We don't want to tell you how good it is. We want you to try it instead —to discover it yourself.

Why It Is Different

Nature alone puts the flavor in coffee—puts it in the growing berries. "Blending" and "roasting" do not change it. For roasting can only bring out whatever flavor nature has already put in.

Most of the coffee that you get today, regardless of brand, has one common flavor. Because 70% of all coffee sold in the United States comes from one general region—Brazil.

The marked difference you will find in the taste of Folger's Coffee comes from an entirely different type of coffee. Coffees grown in the mountains of Central America. Coffees that world experts consider the choicest, richest flavored of probably any known.

To Let You Test It

Get a pound of Folger's Coffee from your grocer today. Drink it tomorrow morning. The next morning drink the coffee you have been using. The third morning drink Folger's again. Then decide which you like best. If, for any reason, you do not choose Folger's, your grocer will gladly refund the full purchase price. We will pay him. That's fair, isn't it? You risk nothing—so why not order Folger's now for the test? 555

ROCK ISLAND PLANS 59-MILE EXTENSION IN PANHANDLE

STATE GRANTS RAIL PROGRAM

New Line Would Terminate at Dalhart

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—Construction of 59 miles of railroad in the Panhandle of Texas by the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf Railway company was authorized by amendment to the company's charter approved by the attorney general today.

The proposed new construction is in territory of the Panhandle and Santa Fe Railway company proposes to build two lines for an aggregate of 148 miles.

The Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf proposes to build from its line at Dalhart, in Dallam county, through Dallam, Hartley and Moore counties from Amarillo to Stinnett, county seat of Hutchinson county.

The Panhandle and Santa Fe last week amended its charter to permit extensions from Amarillo, in Potter county, through Potter, Moore, Sherman and Dallam counties, via Dumas, in Moore county, to Stratford, in Sherman county, thence northwesterly to a point in the north line of Dallam county, the distance being 98 miles and from Dumas, in Moore county, through Moore, Hutchinson and Hansford counties so Spearman in Hansford county, a station on the North Texas and Santa Fe railway, a distance of about 50 miles.

Yesterday the Abilene and Eastern Railway company was chartered to build a line 45 miles long from Abilene, Taylor county, to Cross Plains, Callahan county.

Sooner Franchise Law Held Unconstitutional

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 5. (AP)—The Oklahoma supreme court today held unconstitutional a law which for the last four years has enabled public utility companies to operate under indefinite term permits upon surrender of their municipal franchises to the state corporation commission.

The measure, which was the outstanding issue in the 1925 session of the legislature, has been under bitter attack of municipal officials since its enactment. Virtually all utility companies whose franchises have expired since the law became operative are operating under permits issued by the corporation commission. The permits, under the law, are revocable only under act of the legislature.

Report Sale of Line To Pennroad Interests

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—The New York Times today says the Pennroad corporation, investment company formed last April by interests that control the Pennsylvania railroad, has bought control of the Pittsburgh & West Virginia railway, key line to eastern railroad consolidation. This was acquired by purchase of the holdings of Frank R. and Charles F. Taplin, chairman and general counsel respectively of the West Virginia road.

Simple Life Story of Grannie Brown Is Judged Best of Many Biographies

History of Woman Who Lived to Be 100 on Banks of Skunk River in Iowa Has 'Human Interest'

By H. ALLEN SMITH

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (UP)—Grandmother Brown, a garrulous old lady who lived and died on the banks of the Skunk river in Iowa, and whose sole claim to fame lies in the fact that she attained the age of 100, completely captivated judges in the recent Atlantic Monthly $5,000 prize biography competition.

In fact, the judges passed up such notable characters as Christ, Napoleon, Hoover and 600 others, in selecting the quaint story of Maria Brown's life.

The book, called "Grandmother Brown's Hundred Years, 1827-1927," has just been published by Little, Brown & Co. of Boston. The publishing house today furnished the United Press with a list of the subjects who competed with Grandmother Brown for biographical distinction.

World Leaders Compete

Five separate manuscripts having to do with the lives of King David, Christ, Paul of Tarsus and Thomas Jefferson were submitted. The lives of Franklin, Napoleon, Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt each were written twice in the contest.

One biography, containing 75,000 words, chronicled the life of an 11-month-old baby. Another concerned the earthly existence of "a yaller dog." Still another purported to be the true life of a woman's pet cat.

Biographies were submitted on Carlyle and Rose Bonheur, Diogenes and Edward Bok, Calvin Coolidge and Oscar Wilde, Marshal Foch and Lotta Crabtree, Herbert Hoover and Tom Paine, Nathan Hale and Catherine the Great, Thomas Aquinas and Voltaire, Elbert Hubbard and Francisco Villa, Longfellow and Mussolini, Cardinal de Retz and H. G. Wells, Gutenberg and Sun Yat Sen, Hannibal and Geraldine Farrar, Shakespeare and Sitting Bull, General Calles and Jane Addams, Franz Liszt and Daniel Boone, Roger Williams and Prester John, John Sutter and Queen Isabella, Ruskin and Andre, Bolivar and Oliver Goldsmith, Warren Hastings and Patrick Henry, a German barber and Daniel Webster.

Shook Teddy's Hand

But grandmother Brown won in a walk. The story of her 100 years of life is unusual simply because Grandmother Brown never did anything startling. The most important incidents in her career were trivial, such as shaking hands once with Teddy Roosevelt and making a table scarf for Cal Coolidge.

The winning biography was written by Harriet O'Connor Brown, a daughter-in-law of Grandmother Brown. The book, for the most part is made up of Grandmother Brown's own words. She is, in fact, sort of a lady Trader Horn. Throughout the narrative she interrupts the sequence of a story with an occasional "oh, dear, oh, dear," or bursts forth in praise of the pies her mother used to make.

Outside of going to hunt hickory nuts, planting petunias and having children, her career was uneventful.

The only "public office" she ever held, as she puts it, was the presidency of the Fort Madison Ladies' aid. When she first heard men speak of the railroads, she imagined that they were ordinary dirt roads with fence rails laid crosswise to keep the surrey wheels from sinking into the mud.

She remarked that if all the clothes she had made were hung on a single line, they would reach from down here to up there and maybe back. And if all the biscuits she baked during her life were placed in a single pile, the result would outdo the efforts of the pyramid-building Pharaohs.

'Safe and Sane' Fourth Originator Is Dead

DEAL, N. J., Nov. 5. (UP)—Mrs. Julia Barnett Rice, originator of the "safe and sane fourth" and leader in campaigns to abolish unnecessary noises, died at her home here last night.

She was the widow of Prof. Isaac Leopold Rice, pioneer in the storage battery business and inventor of submarines.

M'ALESTER, Okla., Nov. 5. (UP)—The First National bank of Quinton has been sold to L. P. Coblent, G. F. Streich, J. T. Courts and C. S. Hampton of Quinton, it was announced today. Consideration of the 223 shares of stock was $39,000. Former owners were J. McClanahan and M. L. Stockton of McAlester, and A. L. Fields, Quinton.

PASTOR HELD UNDER BOND

Former Erick Clergyman In Statutory Case

SAYRE, Okla., Nov. 5. (UP)—Harry W. Davis, former pastor of the Erick, Okla., Baptist church, charged with statutory offense, was held today in lieu of $15,000 bond after his preliminary hearing.

He is awaiting action of the district court and will be arraigned the first day of court Nov. 18. Trial was to be set for Nov. 27.

About 100 Erick citizens attended the trial yesterday.

Lawyers for the defendant are Senator Briggs of Wilburton and R. N. Linville of Elk City. Due to faith in Davis, Briggs is offering his services free.

Gen. Blanco's Death In 1922 Explained

SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 5. (INS)—Mystery which has for seven years surrounded the death of General Lucio Blanco, a leader in the revolt which overthrew the Carranza governmnet of Mexico in 1922, was believed to have partially cleared today.

Luke Carver, a precinct constable of San Antonio, was arrested here today in connection with the death of General Blanco and Colonel Martinez, whose bodies, handcuffed together, were found floating in the Rio Grande river near Laredo on June 7, 1922.

Carver was taken into custody by Bexar county deputies upon a warrant issued for his arrest in Laredo following his indictment by a Webb county grand jury.

THIEVES ESCAPE

HOBART, Okla., Nov. 5. (UP)—Officers today were mystified by the escape of thieves who Sunday night looted a clothing store here of between $4,000 and $5,000 worth of merchandise.

MacDonald Reports to Parliament on Plans

LONDON, Nov. 5. (UP)—Reporting on his American mission to discuss naval limitation, Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald today told the house of commons the success of the London five-power conference in January was the next objective of England and America. He declared "the desire to make it clear to everyone that in our mutual relations the Paris pact of peace is a reality" was the supreme fact in the Anglo-American naval negotiations.

ALABAMA RUM PLANTS SEIZED

Acting Sheriff Gives Warning Then Makes Raids

TUSCUMBIA, Ala., Nov. 5. (AP)—O. P. Romine, coroner and acting sheriff of Colbert county, today reported the confiscation of approximately three dozen stills of varying capacities as a result of a warning broadcast to known and suspected moonshiners in the territory under his jurisdiction.

Romine said the warnings, broadcast at his direction, were to the effect that if stills were not surrendered at the courthouse here, raids would immediately follow although there was no response from the moonshiners. Raids were made overnight resulting in numerous arrests.

As the number of stills in and about the courthouse increased late yesterday, reports were current on the street that moonshiners had decided not to await the arrival of officers but had voluntarily surrendered their outfits. Coroner Romine said, however, that apparently the men engaged in the traffic preffered to risk arrest to voluntary surrender.

Neuralgic Pains Stopped By Capudine

Capudine quickly relieves the neuralgic headaches, rheumatic pains, and the aches accompanying colds that make life so miserable for so many people, especially during the winter months. It soothes the tense nerves, quickly stops the pain and affords peaceful relaxation. Being liquid, Capudine acts almost instanly—much quicker than tablets and powders. Contains no opiates and does not upset the stomach, therefore is most desirable.

The next time you suffer from such pains take two teaspoonfuls of Capudine in a little water and note how quickly the pain fades away. Capudine has been sold by druggists for more than 30 years. 30c and 60c bottles.—Adv.

It is there, undoubtedly... a "sparkle" of spicier aroma, an extra touch of flavor, a certain added "character," unmistakably Chesterfield's own.

Junior C-C to Sponsor Dances at Spanish Fiesta

At a meeting of the executive board held at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Tuesday morning, the Will Durant lecture and the Spanish fiesta were subjects most often mentioned.

Each department chairman made her report and incidental to the announcement of the Will Durant lecture, which will occur Tuesday, Nov. 12, it was announced that tickets would be on sale at Cargill's book store in the lobby of the Hamilton building.

It was also announced that husbands' tickets, which allow the husband of a club member to attend all the artist programs, were on sale for $5 each. This was particularly mentioned because Durant is a man's lecturer.

The Spanish fiesta, which will take place Friday and Saturday at the Fritz Motor building, is announced as the outstanding social affair of the season. The Junior chamber of commerce will sponsor the dance which will be given each evening.

The best talent in the city in artists will take part on the program, among these, Miss Dorothy Greathouse and Mlle. Delphyne Baluewa, the latter with several of her artists. Mr. Fritz himself is bringing two out-of-town Spanish dancers to take part and the members of the Junior Forum will put on a tango in the dance hall and a skit downstairs.

Pies, cakes and candies have been promised by so many people that Mrs. A. M. Lummus, chairman of the telephone committee, reported that she saw no chance to display them unless Mr. Fritz moved all his cars out.

Every concession for merchants' booths has been sold except one.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

Working days sometime wear so much on working people that they go home thinking of the next morning's work and we have heard them speak wistfully of what a grand rest it would be when they reached Heaven.

◇ ◇ ◇

But it all depends on whether or not they are fundamentalists. Just imagine one who rebels at a loud speaker, (some fundamentalists do), or even very high music in the room, being forced to hear angels eternally playing on harps.

◇ ◇ ◇

Every individual with an individual idea has his own perspective of heaven. Ours isn't of eternal harp playing. We have known times when an hour alone in a deep, primeval forest would mean a sweet and quiet heaven. So far as that goes, we believe the majority of folk would be happier if they had a "withdrawing" room—one where they could be alone to think and read and know "quiet."

◇ ◇ ◇

Since one can't escape from his mind, his mind should be as pleasant a place as possible. That can't be done with a furor of noise round about.

◇ ◇ ◇

Rest means one thing to one person and one thing to another. We have seen people who got the equivalent of rest—which is relaxation—out of riding the "cyclone" at the lake.

◇ ◇ ◇

It isn't often found in clubs, for clubs are often a strain. But we did find it in a club meeting we recently attended in Wichita Falls.

◇ ◇ ◇

This club meeting took place in a room where all the lighting was from two soft yellow lights gleaming from antique sconces over the mantel, two richly shaded lamps, and a wood fire that burned dimly or extravagantly as it was fed by an economical or an extravagant hand.

◇ ◇ ◇

The walls of the room were brown and the curtains were a vivid orange. The furniture had a deal of rich soft blue in it and the thick hooked rugs were blue.

◇ ◇ ◇

A stool before the fire was the begrudged place where everyone wished to sit. But as everyone could not sit on that little hassock, they pulled rugs closer and sat on the floor.

◇ ◇ ◇

To a person who has always loved to stretch out in front of a wood fire, it was restful. Nobody thought less of one for lacking dignity. You might even sit on your feet if you wished.

◇ ◇ ◇

The program was given without any formality and every member who took part on it expected open hearted criticism. It is the one place where we have heard women say what they really thought about an article.

◇ ◇ ◇

And there was wit and wisdom shown—not only in the program, but in the conversation and the criticism.

Dix Raps Men For Failure to Tell Wives of Business

"Why Men Who Are Married to Women Who Are Sensible and Discreet and Loyal and Anxious to Be Real Helpmates Shut Them Out From Their Confidence Is One of the Unfathomable Mysteries That Women Grow Gray Trying to Solve."

In a recent magazine article Mrs. Coolidge made the statement that she first learned that her husband "did not choose" to be president again from a senator, and she adds that she is proud to be married to a man who feels free to make his decisions and act upon them without consulting her, or giving her any advance information about them.

Few women who have graced the White House have ever been more admired by the women of the country than has Mrs. Coolidge, but not many wives will follow her in this Patient Griselda attitude toward a husband.

For in this land of the free and emancipated feminist women feel that the ideal of marriage is not a despotic autocracy but a democracy and that a man's wife should be his full partner and not his bond slave. They feel that since every decision that their husband makes affects their own lives just as much as it does his, they have a right to some say-so in the matter.

Of course there are plenty of men who never tell their wives anything about their affairs and who never talk over with them any of their plans.

There are thousands upon thousands of wives who haven't the slightest idea how much money their husbands make, whether they are prosperous or not, what investments they have, nor whether, if their husbands should die, they would be left with a fortune or penniless, but none of these women that I have ever met were proud of being kept in the dark, or considered that her husband was giving her a fair deal.

If a man has picked out a congenial idiot for a wife, or if he has selected a wife who is a babbling fool who blabs everything she is told, it is understandable that he would not consult her about matters that she lacked the intelligence to comprehend, or confide to her business matters that he did not wish broadcast to the world. But why men who are married to women who are sensible and discreet and loyal and anxious to be real helpmates, shut them out from their confidence is one of the unfathomable mysteries that wives grow gray trying to solve.

Few things in family life cause more friction than this close-mouthed policy of the husband. For one thing its unjustness antagonizes the wife. She has put everything she is and has into Benedict & Co., and she considers that she has at least a right to know what the firm is doing. For another thing she is bound to consider it an insult that her husband does not consider her worth consulting, and that he holds her opinion of so little value that he isn't even interested in knowing what she thinks about things.

Much of the extravagance of which husbands complain is the direct result of their never talking over their business with their wives. Most women have a horror of debt and they would live within their income if they knew what their income was. But they don't. All they know is that their husbands always grouch over the bills, and since they are due for a scene, anyway, on the first of the month, they feel that they might just as well be hung for a sheep as a lamb, so they go on and buy what they want, and get things that they would never dream of purchasing if they knew that they couldn't afford them.

Moreover, the man who never tells his wife anything misses a lot of mighty good teamwork which she would do if he made her a party to his hopes and plans. Many a woman who frets and nags because she can't have a new car, or go to Europe, would be glad to do without the luxuries she craves if she knew that she was helping to save the money to enlarge the store, or pay for a gilt-edge bond.

And think of the tragedies that would be avoided, and that we all see happen so often, when the men who have never told their wives anything about their affairs die, and a woman who has been used to living luxuriously finds that they have spent everything her husband made as they went along, and that she is left a pauper at middle age. Or a poor, bewildered widow is left with her husband's business on her hands, of which she knows no more than a babe, and in her ignorance of all money matters is so helpless that she gets cheated out of her inheritance.

It may gratify a morbid vanity in a man to pose before his wife as an oracle who is capable of deciding every issue in their joint lives without calling upon her poor assistance, but he pays a costly price for his egotism, because it builds a wall between them. No woman can feel close to a husband who does not confide in her, who does not open his heart to her; who does not tell her of his every hope and plan and ambition, and thus make her feel that she is a part of himself. The only happy married couples are those who talk everything over endlessly together. Perhaps there wouldn't be so many bored husbands if men would only condescend to talk shop with their wives.

Furthermore, the man who never discusses things with his wife deprives himself not only of a valuable ally in saving and a helpmate in getting along and an interesting companion, but of a shrewd adviser. For while a woman may not understand the technicalities of a business deal, she often has an intuition that is so nearly occult that it enables her to go to the very heart of a matter that a man has been unable to reason out. And, anyway, for a man just to discuss a matter with his wife often clarifies it in his own mind and enables him to reach a wise decision.

Certainly any woman who is fit to be a man's wife is worthy to be taken into his confidence, and that is the way wives feel about it.

"THE PRINCESS SILHOUETTE"
Pattern 1778

A striking version of the new princess silhouette is exemplified in this frock. The revers, the linked cuffs and the placing of the buttons are decidedly tailored, yet the flared skirt, with two inverted pleats, is unquestionably feminine.

Design 1778 may be fashioned of a light weight tweed, wool crepe covert cloth or printed velvet. Its lines are youthful and very slimming. If one wishes to wear a belt, suede or patent leather should be chosen, and worn at the normal waist line or a bit below, whichever is most becoming.

May be obtained only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36 and 38.

Size 14 requires 2½ yards of 54-inch material.

This model is easy to make. No dressmaking experience is necessary. Each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions including yardage for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of 15 cents in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

The fashion book is 15 cents but only 10 cents when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

Tejas Delphian Gives "Medieval Social" Program

Mrs. W. L. Scott led an interesting lesson on "Aspects of Medieval Social Life" for members of the Tejas chapter of the Delphian society when they met at the Woman's Forum Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Following a short resume and the critic's report, the following program was given: "Medieval Guilds," Mrs. Rhea Howard; "Book Making in the Middle Ages," Mrs. R. G. Cocanower; "Troubadours," Mrs. A. D. Tennyson, "The Nobility," Mrs. W. S. Ellis; "The Peasants," Mrs. H. B. White; "The Student," Mrs. Frank Elkins; "The Monks," Mrs. H. A. Glass; "Inn-Keepers and Travelers," Mrs. E. C. Norwood; "The Love of Heloise," Mrs. J. H. Cable.

For current events Mrs. G. Engle grave "Interior Decoration" and Mrs. R. L. Hargrave discussed "Art."

Those present were Mesdames A. C. Bennett, F. H. Bennett, J. H. Cable, B. F. Caldwell, R. G. Cocanower, W. H. Ellis, G. Engel, H. A. Glass, R. L. Hargrave, Rhea Howard, H. P. Ledford, O. F. "They work while you sleep"

Do you have days when you feel sluggish—when everything seems an effort—and you have no appetite? Take a candy Cascaret before you go to bed! This gentle, harmless aid to the bowels is often all that is needed to clear up a sick headache and cause any other symptom of sluggishness to vanish.

Cascarets can't harm you for cascara is a favored laxative with medical authorities. It does a perfect job of cleansing without violence and without forming the laxative habit. Cascarets are pleasant to take, for they are sweetened with pure cane sugar and flavored with real licorice—children love them.

A candy Cascaret or two will usually clear up a bilious, constipated condition between night and morning. Their action is so gentle there is no discomfort from them or danger in their frequent use. They are a pure vegetable product. They do not weaken the system. In fact, the cascara actually strengthens bowel muscles. Remember this when you have a coated tongue, bad breath, when the head feels dull or there is any sign of poor elimination.

A dash of sugar does not make vegetables sweet

A little sugar develops the natural vegetable flavors

ANNOUNCEMENT has been made that two groups of women cooking experts recently rediscovered the old secret of using a dash of sugar in the cooking of vegetables (preferably cooked in little water). It should be made clear to everyone that the purpose of using this small amount of sugar is not to make the vegetables taste sweet. That is not the case at all. As one of the women—a nationally known authority—says, the sugar not only increases the delicacy of flavor but it brings out all the distinctive qualities of the vegetables. She adds that a dash of sugar restores the freshness of flavor, in a large measure, to vegetables that have become slightly wilted, and it helps to heighten the color of the vegetables.

No one would advise making vegetable foods taste sweet. This proper use of sugar does not do that. The remarkable thing about a little sugar is that it develops the natural flavors of the foods and that it blends and accentuates the other seasonings used.

Now that the skinny, scarecrow figure is unfashionable, women will be more willing than ever to follow the dictates of medical science and to encourage the members of their family to eat a varied, balanced diet. Most unflavored foods are bland and unpalatable. A little sugar makes fresh and stewed fruits, cereals, milk desserts, cooked vegetables and some meats delicious to the taste. Sugar is nature's perfect flavor. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute. (Adv.)

Forum to Construct Clubhouse Garage

A garage, servant's room and storeroom at the Woman's Forum is an established thing. The board of directors in their meeting Tuesday morning decided definitely that work should begin.

Gifts for the building have been numerous. Among others named are $150 in lumber, a pair of garage doors, 10 sacks of cement, tile for the roof, 75 pounds of nails and nine days of labor.

One contractor has offered his services to supervise the work. The Labor temple donates two days of labor each month to the forum regularly.

All that is necessary to complete the building is a little more lumber and the brick for the walls.

Work will be started at once.

Manuscript Club Has Delightful Program

Mrs. R. H. Davis was hostess Monday evening to members of the Manuscript club, who met in a delightfully informal fashion for the monthly evening program.

The masses of chrysanthemums were decorations particularly noted along the mantel and book shelves of the living room and in the next room, an enormous basket of the little button chrysanthemums made a lovely spot of color.

Miss Sara Jones gave a Western story and a narrative poem, both of which received commendation and the criticism which this club gives each member.

Mrs. H. B. van Emden read from manuscript written when she was 17 years old, a "diary story" which was particularly interesting because of its history.

This story brought out discussion of life and customs in the Netherlands, fully as interesting, it was said, as any part of the program.

The last number on the program was reading the second chapter of the composite novel which is being written by members of the club. The first chapter, written by Mrs. W. B. Whiting and already criticised, was read, then Mrs. Mary Grady Baccus gave the second chapter, which she had revised since its criticism. Mrs. Sam Kruger was given the third chapter to finish and the plot she is to use.

A refreshment plates was served to Mesdames W. B. Whiting, H. B. van Emden, Sam Kruger, C. R. Yauger, M. C. Baccus, W. H. Sanford, R. E. Davis and Miss Sara Jones, club members, and to Mesdames W. M. Cason, A. E. Nelson and Brock, who were guests during the evening.

COLLECTION OF TAXES GAINS

Delinquent Payments Show Big Increase

Collections of delinquent school and city taxes far exceeded the collections of current taxes in the two divisions, during the month of October, a condition which likewise prevailed during the same month last year, with the exception that delinquent tax collection for October, 1929, were larger than those of the year previous, W. R. Hyer, city tax collector, announced Tuesday. Collections of current taxes in October, 1928, however, exceeded those of the same month this year, he said.

The announcement was made in the regular monthly report, completed Tuesday.

The report showed delinquent school tax collections for October, this year, totaled $6,157.17, as compared to $4,500.07 in the same month last year. Current school tax collections for October, 1929, however, totaled $2,081, as compared to $2,887.60 collected during October, 1928.

Delinquent city tax collections for October, this year, the report showed, total $7,000.90, a gain of over $1,500 over collections for October of the previous year, which totaled $5,353.92. Current city tax collections for October, 1929, were shown to amount to $2,441.46, as compared to $3,735.48 collected during October of the previous year.

Occupation tax collections for October, this year, totaled $170, as compared with $160 collected on this score during October, 1928, the report showed.

History of Wichita Motor Company Told in Address to Realtors

Discussion of the Wichita Falls Motor company by R. R. Keith comprised the second chapter of a program of industrial education given before the Wichita Falls Real Estate board in its regular bi-weekly meeting at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

In its 19th year, the company now has a capital stock of $50,000, the speaker said.

"It employs 45 men in the factory here and 13 in the local office. Offices also are maintained in Dallas, Houston, San Antonio, Oklahoma City and Seminole, Okla.

"Eighty-five different foreign countries are included in the trade territory of the local plant, extra heavy duty trucks bearing the name 'Wichita' comprising the principal item of production. The company is now planning to open an office in Fort Worth."

Harry H. Culver, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, will visit Wichita Falls on Dec. 3, it was announced by C. R. Seals, president. Mr. Culver is on an airplane tour of this country and Canada, visiting local boards. Members of the board at Lawton, Okla., will be invited to attend the meeting to be addressed by Mr. Culver here, it was announced.

AIMEE AND MA EFFECT TRUCE

Evangelist and Mother Have 'Made Up'

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 5. (INS)—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, noted evangelist, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, have "made up."

That a reconciliation had been effected was disclosed today after Mrs. McPherson said her mother would resume her work at Angelus temple. Following the split between mother and daughter last year, Mrs. Kennedy went to the Northwest, and while there made assertions which resulted in the filing of impeachment proceedings against Judge Carlos S. Hardy, whose acceptance of a $2,500 "love offering" from Mrs. McPherson resulted in charges of which he was subsequently cleared.

Although the county grand jury still is investigating charges that Mrs. McPherson misappropriated funds belonging to the church, she was granted permission to make a trip to the Northwest.

A special session of the jury is scheduled next week to consider whether the evangelist will be indicted. Several days ago she appeared before the jurors and turned temple records over to them in response to a summons.

Eat Everything without Fear of Indigestion

Are there lots of foods you can't eat—for fear of gas, bloating, pains in the stomach and bowels? Do you have to pass up favorite dishes—while the rest enjoy them?

That's a sign you need Tanlac! For more than 10 years Tanlac has restored to vigorous health thousands who denied themselves their favorite foods just as you have to.

Mrs. Albert B. Greer, 720 W. Markham St., Little Rock, Ark., says: "Since taking two bottles of Tanlac, I can eat anything without indigestion and put in a full day's work without a bit of trouble."

If you suffer from indigestion gas, dizziness, headaches, constipation or torpid liver—give Tanlac a chance to help you! The first bottle often brings the needed relief.

Spasms of Asthma

And for Simple Nasal Irritations Use the Old Herbal Mixture—

Dr. Blosser's Medical Cigarettes

Dr. Blosser originated the formula over 50 years ago. It consists of berries, herbs, leaves and seeds that produce a smoke that is soothing to the mucous membranes of the head and throat.

These cigarettes have been used in increasing quantities not only in the United States, but in many foreign countries as well. Most every drug store has them in stock.

In the next attack of asthma, or when you have simple nasal irritations, light one of these medical cigarettes and see how it eases the breathing and clears out the head.

See why so many people keep them at hand, always ready for the next attack.—Adv.

City to Improve Scotland Park Roads

Workmen who have been employed on the Scott avenue bridge were moved Tuesday to Scotland park, where a number of improvements are to be made, according to F. M. Rugley, city engineer. Mr. Rugley said the streets in the park will be cut deeper to facilitate drainage, and the general appearance of the roads will be improved. The work will require about two weeks, Mr. Rugley said.

Tommy Loughran plans to begin his comeback in New York shortly after Jan. 1.

Let the ECONOMY TWINS Bring New Hours to You

HOW often have you said, "If I only had someone to help me I could be through with my work in time to—?" Yes, in time to enjoy a whole world full of new diversions. Time would be yours for study and self-improvement, for profitable occupation, for devotion to your children and their needs, for bridge, golf—or for doing any one of hundreds of other delightful things.

Electricity creates the New Hours for these things. There is an electric appliance for practically every household task of today. If, alone, you can do your work in six hours per day, with the help of electric appliances you should be able to do it in three hours. There are three perfectly New Hours for you each day.

Then, too, there is the ease of doing things electrically. In three hours you can not only do all the work which once took six hours, but you can do it so much easier. So that when you are through with your work you will feel fresh and ready to fully enjoy the three New Hours which will be yours to do with as you will.

These New Hours are already made for you. They are right in the walls of your home. All you need to secure them is a few properly placed Service Outlets and the electric appliances which will most efficiently and economically do your work and conserve your strength.

The Texas Electric Service Company completely understands the use of electricity in the home. We will be glad to advise with you as to the placement of Service Outlets in your home, and also as to the most useful appliances for your particular needs. Then you can begin at once to enjoy the fullest use of electric service, for our terms are such that you use your appliances as you pay for them, conveniently, each month. Let the Service Outlet start bringing New Hours to you at once.

From Youth to Old Age

DURING the three trying periods of maturity, maternity and middle age, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proves its worth.

This famous medicine benefits 98 out of every 100 women who report after taking it.

WINNIE DAVIS DORSEY
519 Orange St., Indianapolis, Indiana

"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I was run-down and underweight, as girls sometimes are. One of my friends told me about your medicine. I have gained strength and I work every day in a laboratory."—Winnie Davis Dorsey.

10,000 Bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound are sold every day

MRS. VERN L. DENNINGS
510 Johnson St., Saginaw, Michigan

"Although I am only 22 years old, I have four babies to care for. Words cannot explain what your Vegetable Compound has done for me. My mother always kept it in her house for years. She calls it "the old reliable." Before my first baby was born she urged me to take it because I was so terribly weak, and I gave it a good trial. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. At one time I had to lie down four or five times a day. I still take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I need it for I feel that it gives me strength to be a good mother to my little family. I will gladly answer letters asking about it."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings.

MRS. WILLIAM PARENT
1415 W. 62nd St., Seattle, Washington

"When my little daughter was born, we were living on a homestead way up in northern Alberta, Canada. I had four other children and I worked so hard that I suffered a nervous breakdown. The doctor's tonic didn't seem to help me and when a friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to take that instead. One day I felt good, the next day I might feel bad but I kept on with the Vegetable Compound until I felt well again. It is a wonderful medicine for it surely brought back my strength. Today I can do anything, thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. If any woman will write to me I will tell her all I can about this medicine."—Mrs. William Parent.

MRS. DELLA HUTSELL
626 E. 1st St., Casper, Wyoming

"Three years ago I was in bed three months with a nervous breakdown. For years I suffered, having to lie down frequently and often I felt so weak I could hardly stand up. I have four children, the youngest 21, and I board two little schoolgirls. I try to keep my home as a mother should but I am at the age so many women dread. Since taking six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I feel 100% stronger. I am not so nervous and my appetite is better. My head only bothers me once in a while for which I praise your Vegetable Compound. I am always recommending it to other ladies when we get talking together."—Mrs. Della Hutsell.

THE SPOILS OF OPTIMISM

Daily Editorial

PERK UP. Worry is like a mold, can't affect anything that's moving—no more than a parasite creeper will cling to a spinning flywheel.

If you're threatened with reverses, remember that rain doesn't always fall from darkened skies. Every hour that intervenes between cloud and downpour gives you a chance to find an umbrella—to locate a cyclone cellar.

The last barrier thrown up at the last moment has saved more than one cause from defeat.

As long as you're standing, you're not yet drowned.

Consider the optimist; he's prospecting at futures for rainbows, while you're cowering at the storm.

He knows that the calm will surely follow the turmoil.

The stubbing stone in the darkness is a happily discovered spot which he may thereafter avoid.

Amid the wreckage of disaster, he reaches for the timbers to be picked out for rebuilding.

When shattering gales sweep the grain-fields, he immediately plans where he may use the straw.

The general determined to win his battle, accomplishes more through the force of optimism than with his artillery.

Without that belief, a dozen regiments and a thousand cannon might as well be half the number.

A doubter can't conquer anything, because he can't conquer his own fears. He's an enemy within the ranks—a traitor to his personal flag.

Ability is futile; knowledge, useless; and experience, wasted if they can't supply spark-plugs in a crisis.

WHENEVER the stock ticker starts to spell financial doom and fear-maddened hordes begin to stampede and hasten the disaster, a scattering of optimists—the confident visionaries who always believe that confidence and progress and the limitless resources of America will readjust the balance—snatch the nation from the jaws of despondency.

They estimate the country's unimpaired assets, regard balance sheets, examine the economic structure and verify its intrinsic soundness, calculate the daily earning power and consumption power of a hundred and twenty million people, and pile their fortunes into a fike against the tides of Doubt.

But they really risk nothing—the risk would all lie in hesitation and retreat. They save themselves by saving the markets.

The most valuable stock listed in Wall street—and history—is optimism, and it's worth more per share than First National.

Anything is possible to a man who won't surrender to confusion and setback.

He doesn't always win through, but he makes good a dozen times oftener than the gloom-snooper, the whiner, the defeatist and the pessimist.

His judgment occasionally misfires, but usually the very vehemence of his faith carries the day and turns the odds.

He can never see failure because a silver lining somewhere is shining in his face, blinding his eyes to the impossibilities.

He doesn't heed the warnings of discouragement and the wails of timidity because, higher and clearer than all the purblind arguments of petty minds, he hears the thundering call of success—the bugle blare to action.

He never sells tomorrow short, and so inherits and deserves the spoils of victory.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who lacks respect for the farmer should remember that he cannot live without those who till the soil."

The world owes a debt of gratitude to the farmer and in reality, his calling is the highest to which men can aspire. Rome have to become very hungry before they can realize this truth.

Some people believe in law and order—if they can lay down the law and give the orders.

Senator Cutting of New Mexico is said to be the best piano player in the senate. But the lobbyists seem to be best at drumming up business.

Wall Street Riddles

THE CURRENT ANTICS of the stock market are puzzling enough, heaven knows; but they are not half so puzzling as some of the comments that have been made by our financial and industrial overlords.

There seems to be a feeling of relief that the small investor is being removed from the scene. It is being said, almost with an air of rejoicing, that this small investor has been forced out. The little fellow, evidently, was guilty of many peculiar sins.

One high commentator says that the market got out of kilter in the first place because the small investor persisted in putting in his money. He came in in swarms, into the sacred precincts of Wall street, where only the mighty are supposed to tread; and the flood of money that he brought—for there were many of him—sent prices away up where they should not have been.

Another blames the small investor in another way. After buying beyond all reason, he says, the small investor suddenly stopped buying—and, at that moment, the bottom began to fall out of things. It was reprehensible for the little fellow to start, and it was reprehensible for him to stop. He caused trouble both ways.

Quite beyond all of that, however, there remains that strange, but quite evident, feeling of relief that the little fellow has at last gone out. One gathers, listening to these high pronouncements, that it is quite proper for a millionaire to buy 1,000 shares of U. S. Steel and quite dreadful for a shoe salesman to buy 50.

When the big fellow does it he is investing, he is helping to maintain the easy flow of credit and financial support that sustain our prosperity, he is indulging in esoteric and praiseworthy financial manipulations proper to his class; but when the small investor does it he is gambling, and his activities hurt the market, discommode business and lower the moral tone of the nation.

This sort of thing is harder to understand than the stock market crash itself. It is only typical, however, of the fuzzy way in which our mental processes always seem to work where Wall street is involved.

Probably it is just as well, all around, that the joy-ride has ended. It was spreading an unhealthy atmosphere throughout the land. The old lure of something for nothing was abroad, potent and irresistible. People wanted to get rich, not by hard work, but by luck; and the great gamblers who took big fortunes out of Wall street were not looked upon for what they were, but were considered industrial and financial leaders.

Probably it will be a long time before the immediate causes of the crash are agreed upon. Meanwhile, we wish that the financial world's big-wigs would stop being so sanctimonious about the crimes of the small investor. A few months ago they were welcoming the small investor with brass bands. Now, their eyes on heaven, they are telling him that he should have stayed home and practiced sober thrift.

Gambling, apparently, is a sin unless you have a million dollars.

Farmer Jim Bobs Up

FARMER JIM bobs up serenely. There is a campaign coming. There is a governor to be elected next year. Officially he has made the announcement that the Fergusons are willing to be drafted "if the people demand them." Farmer Jim has a plan. He would not dismantle the antiquated pen system. He would not sell the farms. He would ask the legislature to appropriate $500,000 for pen improvements. He would issue pardons to 2,000 convicts who have expiated their sinning against the law and are ready for atonement and complete reformation. He would have a five member highway commission and the voters to elect the commissioners. Well, well, well. The plot thickens and the high spots of the campaign next year may be the highest of spots that Texas politicians have known.

Penalty for a Social Error

WALTER GRAMM journeyed from the Windy City to Tampa, Fla., where he was fined $1,000 and costs by Federal Judge A. Akerman. Gramm assumed responsibility for liquor found in trunks brought into this country from Cuba by Congressman M. A. Michaelson, Republican, of Illinois.

Now the maximum punishment is two years' imprisonment.

Judge Akerman has a heart. He imposed a heavy fine on Gramm, saying: "I have no desire to punish Gramm for the faults of the escaped congressman—one of those who votes dry and drinks wet."

Michaelson was given the branding iron; Grimm was given the fine. Gramm was the "fall guy" for his brother-in-law. Now what will the voters of the district do in the balloting next year?

Traffic Deaths—Still Rising

STATISTICS of the Travelers Life Insurance company reveal that the automobile traffic death list is still rising. During August of this year—the last month for which there are available records—2,900 people were killed in American automobile accidents.

That represents an increase of 23 per cent over August of 1928.

If we weren't so case-hardened to these tragedies, this announcement would horrify the nation. Nothing in all our national life is more amazing than the complacent way in which we accept our motor traffic fatality list.

Query

I will set out some morning to recapture
The gold of youth I've flung along the way;
I am too young to lose the careless rapture
Of other years when all the months were May.

There must be songs that need a minstrel's singing,
There must be lyres that wait a tender touch,
Surely somewhere there still is laughter ringing—
Somewhere a land where nothing matters much.

I will find inns where friendly fires a-burning
Make the gray wolves of Winter howl in vain;
There I will stay till memory, returning,
Drives me afoot with fierce incessant pain.

And if the trail should lead me back unharmed—
Will you be there to greet me, open-armed? —J. P. S.

Always Belittlin'

There is a simile in P. D. Wodehouse's comedy, "Candle-Light," that got a titter on the opening night:

"Wives are like good cigars: they are never good if you let them go out."

Mr. Wodehouse was probably acquainted with the writings of Henry J. Byron, the English dramatist, who said:

"A play is like a cigar: if it is a failure no amount of puffing will make it draw, but if it is a success, everybody wants a box."

Our old friend Anon had, also, a go at the cigar idea, as revealed in Wilstach's simile book:

"An actor is like a cigar: the more you puff him the smaller he gets."

The Broadway Way

And if you asked any of the Broadway actors, the appropriate punishment for Pantages would be to make him play his own circuit.

A Form of Criticism

Percy Hammond, the dramatic critic, who enjoys calling his confreres "aisle actors," walked out in the middle of the last act again during the other premiere. As he waddled up the aisle Hammond put on his hat.

"Hmmmm," muttered a first-nighter, "he's showing his contempt for the audience as well as the play."

Incidentally

Speaking of critics, Jack Haley, of "Follow Thru," tells of the Scot who was watching the movietone program of political talks in Longacre square and walked out because it had no news reel.

Reform

Once we never said a word,
Verbiage was missing;
Both of us, it seemed, preferred
To spend our time in kissing.

Now you use your lips to chat,
Shunning amorous danger;
Evenings all seem rather flat—
Talking with a stranger.
—Filstac.

Oop!

Dear Walter: Back in 1792 one Anthony Pasquin, Esq., who appears to have got around rather a lot, was pathfinding for Richard Bennett and Will Morrissey, as witness his "advertisement" in his book, "Children of Thespis." Mr. Pasquin puts his finger on you people just like this:

"When I first undertook to write this poem, it was with a thorough contempt for the opinion of those persons who have arrogated to themselves the high and mighty title of reviewers, and this contempt originated from my having a perfect acquaintance with the vices and weaknesses of the men; being superior to their jurisdiction, I dare tread upon their assumed authority. I know them to be blockheads of the first magnitude, envious and stupid, cowardly and corruptible. When a man destitute of feeling is fit for no other purpose in society, he may make a tolerable executioner; so a literary dunce, when denied the advantages of genius, may make a respectable reviewer: the requisites are dullness and malignity—the ends, profit and dishonor. Their interference with the productions of men of wit is a circumstance of the highest presumption, and somewhat like the conduct of unprincipled old maids; for though they have not sufficient merit to win a husband for themselves, they possess an adequate portion of ability to sully the virtues of those who have."

So what, you old virtue-sullier?
—Willard Keefe.

In Case You Didn't Know

"You said a few columns ago," writes L. L. of the Explorers' club, "that you never knew that it was called 'The Canadian Mounted Police instead of the Northwest Mounted Police.' They were never known as the latter, but as the Royal NWMP and now they are called the R. C. M. P.—Royal Canadian Mounted Police. Did you know also that it is the only civilian police force in the world; being neither federal, city nor provincial police and that they were formed in '74 as civilian frontiersmen?

"Also that they will not accept married men, and the favorite type is the man who has been unsuccessful in a love affair who wants to get away, far away, and forget someone or something. The harder a fellow has been jilted the farther north his post will be, in the knowledge that he has more courage and fortitude than the average man. And, lastly, the Mounted never heard the phrase: 'Get your man!' until Hollywood sent it via a movie into Canada. Their only motto, which is etched on their badges and buttons, is 'Maintenons le Droit'—'Keep the Law.'"

'EASY' The Love Story of a Modern Girl

By BEATRICE BURTON

CHAPTER XXXI

The whole length of the room was between Ann Marie and the doorway where Neal stood.

Very slowly she crossed it, her eyes fixed on that tell-tale smear of lipstick at the corner of his mouth.

"Neal," she said as she came up to him, "you look as if you had been stealing somebody's girl, yourself. Your face is just covered with lipstick."

"Never mind about me!" Neal rapped the words out. "We're talking about you just now!"

He caught her by the wrists and held her in a grip of iron.

His eyes, a little blood-shot as they always were when he was drinking, slewed around towards Jim Goodwin.

"I want you to understand," he said to him, "that Miss Macy is engaged to marry me, Jim." His voice was sharp with sarcasm.

And then, before Ann Marie knew what he was about, he had pulled her close to him and had kissed her on the mouth.

Then he let her go.

"You didn't know we were engaged, did you?" he asked Jim.

Ann Marie never remembered what Jim Answered. She was looking at him. His head jerked back and he looked exactly as if someone had struck him a blow in the face.

"Let's go back to your flat, Neal," Ann Marie said. "We're neglecting all those people—Come along, Mr. Goodwin."

But Jim said he couldn't stay any longer.

"I promised my father I'd talk over some things with him tonight," he said. "And I'm afraid I'll have to go."

He followed them into the other flat for his hat and coat and there he had a last word with Ann Marie

"I'll come for you at one tomorrow," he said to her, "and I'll bring my sister along for lunch. You can tell Neal she's going to chaperone us if he kicks about your coming with me. And you can bring him along, too, if you like. Then, after lunch, I'll take you down to see those advertising people."

She followed him to the door when he turned to go.

"Before you came here tonight I was all topsy-turvy—I didn't know where I was going to get a job or any money," she said solemnly, "and now I just know that everything is going to be fine with me! No one has ever bothered about me like this before—I don't know how to say 'Thanks'."

He smiled down at her without speaking.

"And thank you so much for the pansies!" she went on in her soft, breathless way. "Good night."

They shook hands, and he started down the stairs.

Then suddenly he turned and came back to her, just as she was beginning to close the door.

"I just want to tell you," he said, and she noticed that he seemed embarrassed as he spoke, "that if there is anything my sister can do for you, she'll be tickled to death to do it. She's a great girl and I know you'll like her."

And with that he swung around and ran down the stairs.

Ann Marie went back into the noisy studio. The radio was going full blast, and everybody had a glass of orange juice with "something" in it.

Neal was dancing with the girl named Tillie. Her sleek black head was on his shoulder and her arms were tight around him.

Leota was squeezing oranges at the little table behind the screen.

"Neal seems to have busted that green glass orange-squeezer he had," she said when Ann Marie came to help her, "so I'm using a tea cup. It work's swell."

She gave Ann Marie a swift, searching look and a catty, nasty little smile.

"I used to keep some rouge and lipstick up on this shelf," she went on, running her hand along the back of a shelf above the table. "I wonder if they're still there."

She laughed and withdrew her hand. In her palm was a tiny, gold-plated vanity case and a lipstick!

"Oh, don't look so shocked!" she said cheerfully to Ann Marie. "You're not the only girl who's spent a lot of time in this place! Don't flatter yourself, dearie! Your boy friend was my boy friend for quite some time!"

Ann Marie smiled at her as if she didn't care.

But she did care. It was a blow to her to find out that Neal had been amusing himself with Leota all these long weeks when she had been longing for him, saving up money to come to him, back in the old brown house on Pleasant street. Oh, well, that was a man for you! she told herself.

To hold a man you had to be on the job every minute. You had to be pretty and peppy and smart. You had to show him how much you loved him, and you had to make him comfortable . . . It was a trick. A trick as hard as tight-rope walking or ski-jumping.

"Flag-pole sitting would be easy compared to it," Ann Marie summed it all up that night, and then she walked out into the room to take Neal away from the girl named Tillie. The girl whose lipstick was the exact shade of the lipstick that was smeared on Neal's cheek.

But it wasn't easy! For Tillie was still dancing with Neal and when the radio-music spun down and finally stopped, she kept right on dancing with Neal, humming her own tune.

One of the Terrill brothers came up to Ann Marie with a drink in his hand. He linked his arm through hers.

"Where have you been all my life, woman?" he asked her, his face close to hers.

But Ann Marie did not even try to answer him. She shook her head, slipped her arm out of his, and turned her back on him.

"I hate all this!" she told herself disgustedly. "It isn't fun! It isn't anything but a brawl—it must be like some of the evenings they used to spend at Titherages Place, back home!"

Suddenly she made up her mind to go home and go to bed.

"I'll say I have a headache," she decided.

But no one seemed to be paying any attention to her.

One Terrill brother was dancing with the tall blond girl.

The other one, the one with the drink, was behind the screen talking to Leota.

Neal was still doing the Varsity Drag with Tillie in the middle of the alcohol-scented, smoke-filled room. They were all paired off!

And, without a word to anyone, Ann Marie slipped out of the place and into the peace and quiet of her own flat across the hall.

It seemed very clean and orderly after the other room.

The fresh night wind made the pansies flutter in their baskets on the window sills.

And when Ann Marie turned out her light the stars shone into the room every time the breeze blew back the window curtains.

She lay in bed, her hands clasped behind her head, and thought about Neal and the girl who had kissed him that night.

"I wonder why I don't cry," she said to herself, and all at once she fell asleep.

At seven the next morning Ann Marie's alarm clock woke up and began to scream like a lost soul.

"Oh, you!" Ann Marie said aloud to it, and got out of bed to turn it off. "Do be still!"

She had had that alarm clock for more than two years and she had a friendly feeling for it now. It was the most dependably noisy little thing in the world.

It always got her up on time.

And this morning she wanted loads of time. Time to shampoo and brush her hair until it was like old gold. Time to manicure her nails and press her dark-blue dress.

She wanted to make a good impression on Jim's sister. And knowing Jim as she did, she could imagine what his sister would be like. She would be dressed very quietly and well, and her skin and hair would be fresh-laundered. She might not be beautiful but she would be attractive and friendly and nice. . . . That is, if she was anything like Jim.

How well he had behaved himself last night, she thought, when Neal had raved and ranted at him. The difference in the two men struck her all at once, as she got up and began to make coffee on her tiny electric plate.

"Neal's just a spoiled boy, sometimes," she said to herself. He doesn't think about anything but his own pleasure—his own good time."

And still she knew she loved him, in spite of the things about him that she didn't like or understand.

At 10 o'clock she unlocked the door of his apartment with the key that he had given her and peeped in.

He was still asleep evidently. The door of the tiny dressing closet was closed.

So were all of the windows of the studio. And the air was so thick with the odor of stale cigarette smoke and orange peel and "loud" perfume that it made her sick as she crossed the big room and flung up the sashes of all three windows.

Then she set to work to put the place into some kind of order.

For almost two hours she worked Washing glasses and plates. Emptying cigaret stubs into the grate and setting fire to them with an old newspaper. Sweeping the rugs. Beating the flattened cushions of the couch. Mopping up the hearth where a glass had been broken. Getting Neal's breakfast ready.

At half past 11 she heard him running water into his bath-tub.

At five minutes to 12 he came walking out into the big room. He had the fresh pink look that always follows a bath and a shave, and he looked more like Lord Byron than ever with the collar of his clean white shirt turned down. Over his clothes he wore a dark blue silk house coat, and he had on his blue leather house slippers.

"Hello. How's my only sweetheart this morning?" he asked, and put his arms around Ann Marie as she stood at the little table pouring out his first cup of coffee.

She turned in his arms and looked at him. "Your only sweetheart!" she mocked him. "Hardly that, Neal. You seem to have as many sweethearts as a sailor."

She was hurt and jealous, and she wanted him to know it. She pulled herself gently away from him and set his glass of orange juice on the table.

"I didn't boil any eggs for you this morning," she said quietly. "I knew you wouldn't want a big breakfast when you are going to have lunch with the Goodwins at one."

He shook his head. "Lunch with the Goodwins?" he repeated, giving her a hard angry look. "I certainly am not going to have lunch with the Goodwins, today or at any other time."

"Well, I'm supposed to—" Ann Marie was beginning when he stopped her.

"All right! Go ahead!" he said irritably. "Run around with them all you want to! Only don't expect me to have anything to do with you, if you do! I watched you and Jim Goodwin last night!"

"And I watched you, too—with that Tillie woman!" Ann Marie came back at him. "Dancing with her as if you two were the Siamese twins! Kissing her—"

"All right, all right!" he cut in again. "If you don't like it you know what to do! You're not married to me, you know!"

1917—E. M. House arrived in London to represent President Wilson in conference of allies to discuss peace.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

Society and the Opera

The Metropolitan opera season opened in a blaze of market depression in New York the other night. Again all records for gross poundage of millionaires herded under one roof were broken.

"Manon Lescaut" was the musical attraction and it was unanimously voted the best opera the 400 ever slept through.

The "diamond horseshoe," most famous rock-pile in the world, seemed up to normal, but a number of costly stones were having their last outing under the old management, due to margin calls.

As is customary, the audience was graded in three layers. The real smart-setters sat in the parterre, the Grade B boys and girls in the grand tier and orchestra and the people who are forced to get along with one yacht or less in the galleries.

No person who needed a shave and hair-cut was allowed within 10 blocks of the opera house and the streets were closed to pedestrians with soft hats and no earrings.

It was the first big fall workout of the upper set. Every big family sent in its varsity team, although the hoi polloi seemed to be using a second-string eleven.

Several dowagers were bruised crowding into the spotlight and a number of debutantes sustained serious burns from standing too close to the flashlight powder, but the only people in shape for the infirmary were the society editors and fashion experts, all of whom were under the terrific handicap of knowing they would lose their jobs if they misspelled the name of a solitary person wearing more than a yard of pearls.

You can be inaccurate about many things but there are few newspaper crimes like putting an "i" or an "e" in the wrong place in mentioning a man or woman with a string of 15 servants.

All the Vandervilts, Twomblys, Goelets, de Puysters, Rogers, Fishes and Astors were there in droves. Final figures showed that there were six more Twombleys than last year but that the Goelets had suffered a loss of three chairs.

The opening night at the opera is supposed to be a musical event but it is really a roll-call and inspection. What society does with a symphony orchestra the army does with one bugle.

Sartorially it was a great success, with no blight on the ermine and chinchilla crop reported. Skirts were longer, chins higher and eyebrows unchanged.

The music was good but nobody paid any attention to it.

Only one major disturbance occurred. A society leader shot her husband for letting her step out of the limousine at a time when all the cameras were pointed the other way.

Extending the Limits of Man's Opportunity

Power has lightened the farmer's burdens and shortened the miles to town

ONLY A FEW generations ago the life of man was circumscribed by his own physical limitations . . . the dexterity of his fingers, the strength of his back, the speed of his limbs, and the labor of domestic animals.

The interchange of commodities was slow, difficult. There were no good roads, as we know them today, not any way to travel swiftly, surely, over these roads. The deeply rutted wagon trail was a long, hard trail.

Though boundless acres were all about, it was only the adventurous few who traveled far. Many a man lived and died without ever having been more than fifty miles from home.

Then was born an idea that was destined to reshape the frontiers and the future of the entire country—the idea of making a small, strong, simple automobile so low in price that it might be placed within the means of all the people.

The coming of this new means of transportation not only changed the industrial life of the nation, but helped to change the private lives of every one for all the generations to come.

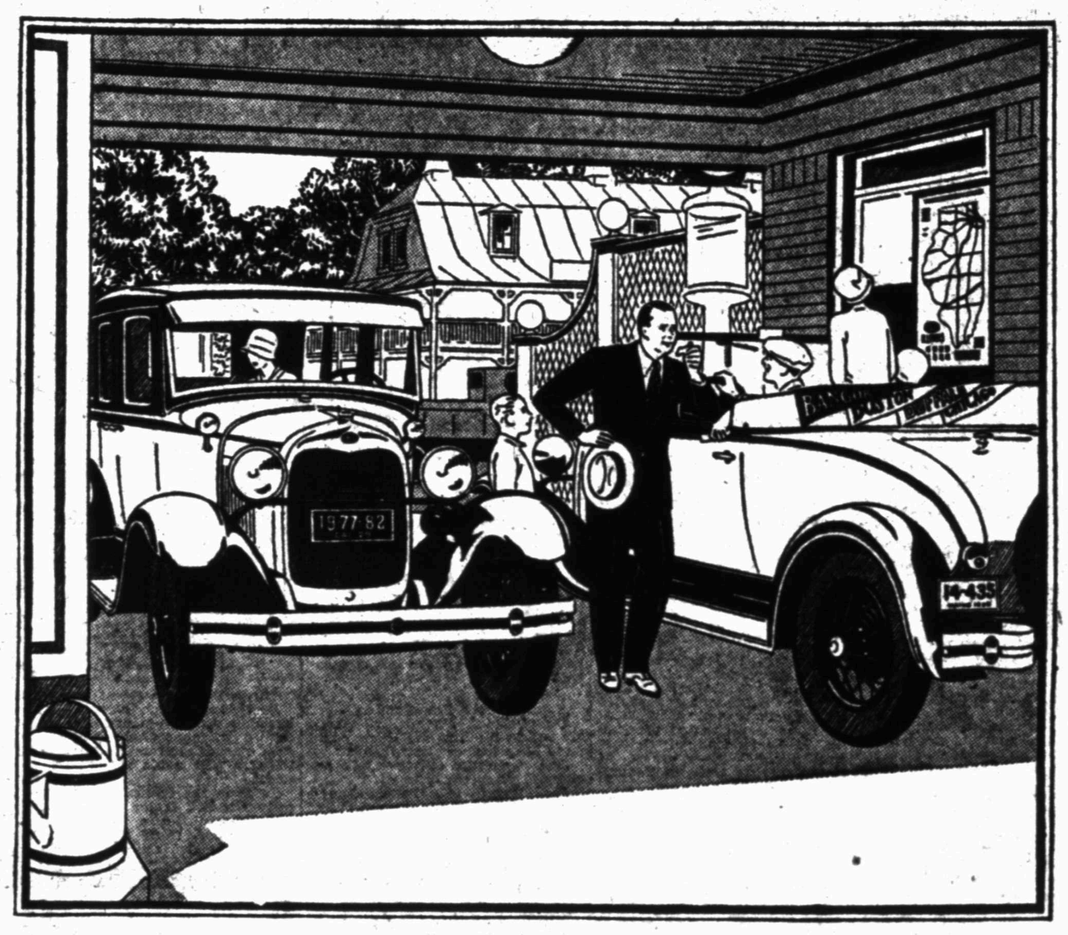

It leveled hills, extended horizons, created new opportunities, furnished the means to earn more money and to enjoy the leisure which that increased income should bring.

In creating and building a small, strong, simple automobile at a low price, and in using it, man became accustomed to thinking of machinery as a servant. He made power work for him.

More and more as time went on, in industrial plants and on the farm, heavy labor was taken off the back of man and placed upon the broader shoulders of the machine.

The Ford moved everywhere, blazing the way over miry roads and rocky mountain trails, through gumbo and sand, creating a rising demand for swifter, smoother travel that resulted in the construction of hundreds of thousands of miles of cement and macadam highways reaching to all parts of the country.

The benefits resulting from the introduction of the low-priced automobile have done more than perhaps any other single thing to increase the standards of living and to make this a truly united country.

Maine speaks to California—in Illinois!

All the people are blended together by the flexibility and swiftness of automotive transportation. The prairie farmer, the industrial worker and the city business man are governed by similar impulses, similar tastes, similar demands upon highly specialized machinery to serve them.

This civilization can show no greater example of disciplined machinery than in the operation of the Ford Industries.

The great miracle is not the car, but the machines that make the machine—the methods that make it possible to build such a fine car, in large numbers, at a low price.

Craftsmanship has been put into mass production. Millions and millions of parts are made—each one so accurate and so exactly like the other that they fit perfectly to the thousandth of an inch when brought together for assembly into complete units.

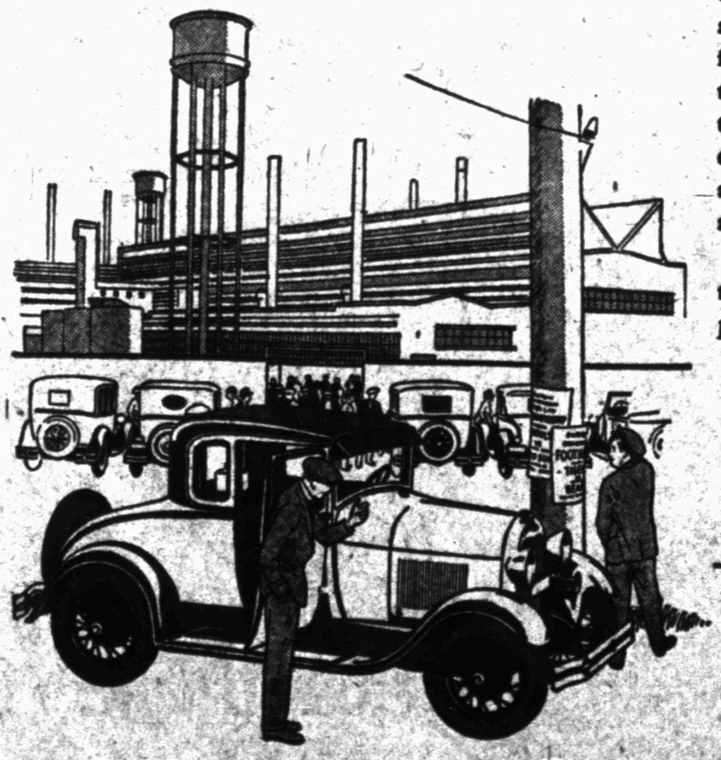

Men by the thousands and the hundred thousand are employed at the Rouge plant alone and there are hundreds of acres of plant equipment. Yet the purpose today is wholly the same as when the equipment of the Ford organization was housed in a single small building.

Everything that has been done has been done to give further scope and expression to the Ford Idea.

That idea is not merely to make automobiles—not merely to create so much additional machinery and so many millions of additional horse-power—but to make this a better world in which to live through providing economical transportation for all the people.

For that purpose the first Model T was made twenty-one years ago. For that purpose the new Ford is made today.

In 1929, as in 1908, it is again helping to reshape the frontiers and the future of the country and to further extend the limits of man's opportunity.

To all men—everywhere —the advantages of economical transportation

WELL KNOWN ATTORNEYS TO ARGUE HAMILTON CASE TODAY

JURY TO HEAR MUCH ORATORY

Deliberation Cannot Start Before Night

'You had better watch your step or you'll get into something it won't be so easy to get out of'."

In reputation of that testimony the defense used five witnesses. Dexter Hamilton denied he had talked with his brother, as did C. C. Hamilton, another Dallas brother. Managers of the telephone company at Amarillo and Dallas said their files showed no record of the call. And the defendant himself said he had not "at any time" talked with either of his Dallas brothers about his daughter, Theresa, Walton's 17-year-old bride, or a divorce.

Sticks to Story

Hamilton positively denied that any one ever had called his office and said, "This is Tom Walton." He also attempted to impeach the testimony of R. E. Coon, public stenographer, who had said he was in Hamilton's office April 25 when Walton visited it. Hamilton, the first time he was on the stand, insisted he saw Walton only on March 9, and March 30. He stuck to this story today.

As the state concluded its case it brought from Dallas a hand writing expert, W. A. Weaver, who examined letters Mrs. Hamilton testified she sent her husband from Austin telling him of threats Walton had made against him. Weaver said the envelopes were not addressed and the letters written, in some instances, with the same pen or the same kind of ink.

Walton's brief stay at the University of Texas, where he and Theresa were married Feb. 10 while they were in school, first was brought into the case by a state witness when Harry Blackwell of Weatherford testified he was Walton's "partner" in physics experiments. Walton, Blackwell declared, had a reputation as a "kind and inoffensive student."

Walton's Pal Heard

Howard Dees was used by the state in an effort to arouse doubt in the jurors minds as to some threats Walton was said to have made against Hamilton to university girls. Dees denied Walton had told Christine Campbell of Pampa that he could "kill old man Hamilton or start a scandal on Helen," Hamilton's eldest daughter, also a university student. Dees answered "I don't remember" to more than a score of questions on cross-examination.

Since the trial began a week ago Monday the defense had used 55 witnesses, six in rebuttal, while the state had only 10 on direct testimony but 28 in rebuttal.

Introduced as physical evidence were the .44 caliber nickel-plated pistol with which Walton was slain, his blood stained clothing, three pistol bullets, a map of the room in which the shooting occurred, five empty pistol shells, the marriage certificate given to "John Thomas Walton Jr., and Theresa H. Hamilton," and a series of letters Walton had written to Theresa were included in Mrs. Hamilton's letters to her husband. Mrs. Hamilton's letters were mailed when she was with Theresa and the girl was recovering from an appendicitis operation in an Austin hospital last April.

District Judge J. E. Carter had not decided tonight how long he would allow for arguments.

Only three members of the Hamilton family have testified in the case. Both Judge and Mrs. Hamilton have taken the stand twice. Helen Hmilton 21-year-old daughter was also a witness and told of having communicated a threat which she said Walton made, to her father.

Theresa, 18-year-old daughter of the defendant and widow of the slain youth, has been kept carefully in the background. Early in the trial she sat in the courtroom at intervals. As the trial progressed she has been conspicuously absent.

End of the testimony, brought near the close one of Texas' most sensational and widely discussed murder trials. More than 90 witnesses, including some of the states' most distinguished citizens have testified.

15 Attorneys Involved

Fifteen attorneys, five for the prosecution and 10 for the defense are engaged in the case. Counsel included many veterans well known in Texas criminal courts.

No line-up has been announced on the arguments which are to begin at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning after Judge Carter reads his charge to the jury. It is believed that C. B. Reeder, R. E. Underwood, and E. A. Simpson, all of Amarillo, and Sam Shadle and R. B. Hood of Weatherford will be the speakers for the defense. Edward W. Thomerson, district attorney of Potter county, Hugh H. Cooper, special prosecutor of Amarillo, E. H. Grindstaff, special prosecutor of Weatherford and V. P. Craven, county attorney of Parker county, will present the state's case.

Close of the testimony this afternoon ended an exact week of testimony during which some of the best legal minds of the state and section have fought over points involved in the trial.

Tom Walton Jr., was shot and killed in the office of his father-in-law, H. H. Hamilton in Amarillo on May 4, 1929. Hamilton was immediately charged with and later indicted for murder in connection with his death.

Walton was secretely married to Theresa Hamilton, daughter of the defendant at Austin on Feb. 10, 1929, while both of them were students at Texas university, testimony at the trial has shown.

Judge Hamilton denied from the stand that he knew of the marriage until after the shooting. Other defense witnesses have supported him in his testimony.

Statement Argued

Much of the testimony of the case has revolved around the contents of a statement made by J. W. Burks, Amarillo real estate dealer, who was in Hamilton's office at the time of the shooting, to District Attorneys Thomerson. Burk's statement to the grand jury was introduced in evidence by the defense after he had given an eye-witness account of the shooting from the witness stand.

Prosecution witnesses who were in Thomerson's office at the time the statement was made testified that Burks said at that time that he was sitting at the desk and did not see the actual shooting.

All through the testimony the defense has carefully built its case of communicated threats and self-defense. Letters postmarked Austin and addressed to Judge Hamilton in Amarillo signed by his wife and daughter were introduced by the defense. In most of the letters were enclosed letters from Tom Walton to Theresa Hamilton.

Practically all of the letters read from the stand by the defendant warned him against threats which the letters said Tom Walton was making against him and members of the family.

An examiner of questioned documents and an expert on handwriting by whom the state sought to question the letters warning Judge Hamilton was called to the stand.

First threats which he received came through the letters from his wife and daughter and defendant said on the stand.

Harry Bishop, Amarillo attorney formerly assistant district attorney of Wichita Falls, testified that he warned Judge Hamilton after Walton had visited him in his office.

Through a handwriting expert, the prosecution attacked the authenticity of letters purported to have been written to Hamilton by his wife, then at Austin, during several weeks preceding the homicide.

The first witness, W. A. Weaver of Dallas, said he had been an "examiner of personal documents" for nine years.

District Attorney Edward Thomerson handed the witness a letter Mrs. Hamilton had written to her husband in pencil, asking whether the letter had been inscribed with the same pencil used for addressing the envelope. Weaver said, since the writing was done in pencil, he could not determine.

A second letter, also from Mrs. Hamilton to her husband, dated April 8, then was handed to the witness, and he said the letter had been written and the envelope addressed with different pens.

Weaver said the letter had been written with a stub pen, the lines about one-fiftieth of an inch in width, while the width of lines on the envelope, about one-hundredth of an inch, indicated it had been addressed with a fine pointed pen.

Other Letters Examined

Weaver next examined a letter dated April 12 from Mrs. Hamilton to her husband. That letter, he said, was written with a stub pen, and the envelope addressed with a fine point pen.

The fourth, he said, was written with a stub pen while the envelope was addressed with a "small, round-pointed pen."

Tests showed different inks were used on the envelope and in the fifth letter, the witness declared, while the envelope and the sixth letter were written with different pens, as was the case with the seventh letter and envelope.

Thomerson had Weaver compare the writing on six envelopes, all of which the witness said had been written with the same pen, while a different pen was used for the seventh. One letter differed from the six, Weaver, declared, in that it had been written with a fine pointed pen while the others were written by a stub.

Examines Eighth Letter

An eighth letter was written with the same pen as its envelope but with "different ink; or 'the same ink in a different condition," Weaver declared.

The witness told how he used chemicals to restore the original color of ink and the letters were clipped to a cardboard and passed to the jury for examination.

The direct examination concluded, R. E. Underwood of defense counsel asked Weaver where he was born and he said "in Tennessee."

"What part?" Underwood asked.

"In middle Tennessee, I think."

"Why don't you know?"

"I left there when I was three and never went back."

"You were not enough interested in your birthplace to find out?"

"No, sir."

No College Degree

Underwood asked whether Weaver ever had obtained a college degree and when the witness replied he had not, the lawyer asked: "Do you know anything about chemistry?"

"No, sir."

"Do you know anything about the chemical composition of inks?"

"No, sir."

"Do you know the difference between an atom and a molecule?"

"No, sir."

"Then you know absolutely nothing about chemistry?"

"No, sir."

"Do you remember having asked both sides in a case in Dallas to employ you?"

"No, sir."

"Do you ever do that?"

"I might let them both know I am an expert or send them a circular."

"And then testify for both sides?"

"No, sir."

"Oh, you testify only for the side that pays you?"

"No, sir." Weaver was emphatic.

"When did you ever testify against your employer?"

"In the Joe Hanson case in San Antonio."

"Have you been paid or are you to be paid in this case?"

"I expect pay, but I don't knew how much."

"You wouldn't have come if you hadn't expected pay?"

"I can't afford to do my work for nothing," the witness agreed.

Denies Agreement

"You agreed to come and make a favorable witness for Thomerson after an hour and a half examination in Dallas?"

"I didn't agree to come then."

"But you later agreed to come when Thomerson wired you?"

"Yes."

Underwood then began questioning the witness on the letters.

"You based your opinions on the letters and envelopes on the difference in the widths of the letter 'L'?"

"Yes, sir."

Underwood handed the first letter to Deaver and asked him to examine it and tell the jury about it.

"I don't need to see it—I know all about it," Weaver said.

Weaver said in the first letter and envelope, pencil-written, he found only a difference in the width of lines in the letters. He was reluctant to testify positively on that point.

Underwood showed Weaver Helen Hamilton's letter to her father and the witness said he thought the letter and envelope were written or addressed with the same or similar pens but with different ink.

The cross-examiner said: "As a matter of fact the paper on which the letters were written differs from the envelopes."

"I think they match."

"If there was a difference in the texture of the paper used in the envelopes and paper on which the letters were written there would be a difference in the amount of ink the paper would absorb?"

"Yes."

"And that would make a difference in the width of the lines?"

"No, the shading would be the same."

Witness Not Shaken

Underwood, as usual, attempted to heckle the state witness, but Weaver was not shaken or disturbed.

"The thickness of the ink also would govern the width of the line?"

"No."

"Then why not?"

"The pen would govern that."

"You are not attempting to say these letters were not written by the person who addressed the envelopes?"

"No, sir."

Roy Slay, previously a defense witness, employed by the Amarillo Undertaking company which took Walton to a hospital and embalmed the body, was the 16th state rebuttal witness. He identified Walton's clothing, introduced as evidence yesterday when the district attorney was on the stand.

Nineteen-year-old Mary Wright, Amarillo long distance telephone operator, said she had placed calls frequently for Hamilton and knew his voice. She said she handled a long distance call from Hamilton to Dallas "three or four days before the killing."

The call was placed to "Mr. Hamilton" at a Dallas number.

Miss Wright said she got the "Mr. Hamilton" at Dallas and connected him with the defendant.

"Do you know the substance of that conversation?" Thomerson asked.

"I do."

Objection Overruled

A defense objection was overruled, and Thomerson's next question was:

"Did you recognize Judge Hamilton's voice?"

"Yes, sir."

"Tell the jury, in exact words if you can, what was said."

"I got the call through, pulled the key back and listened to see if they were talking all right. I knew Theresa and Tom were married." The defense objected to the latter statement, and the jury was instructed not to consider it.

"The Hamilton in Amarillo said: 'What shall we do about the divorce?' The Hamilton in Dallas said: 'I wouldn't do anything about the divorce. Just keep it quiet for a while.'"

On cross-examination she added: "The Hamilton in Dallas said: 'You had better watch your step, or you'll get into something it won't be so easy to get out of.' Then they said goodbye and hung up."

Underwood asked the witness whether she had attempted to find a ticket for that call and she said she had.

"If you made that call there will be a ticket some place in the Amarillo office?"

"Yes, sir."

Re-Direct Examination

On re-direct, Thomerson asked: "It is possible that the ticket could have been lost or destroyed?"

Over a defense objection, she answered: "very easily."

Miss Wright left the stand, and Wilbur Nigh of McAlester, Okla., took the stand, testifying that Walton's reputation in McAlester was that of a "kind and inoffensive citizen." He was not cross-examined.

Other residents of McAlester, Bill Cornelius, Geo. F. Miller and Walter Edwards, testified similarly.

Miller declared he came to Weatherford after receiving a telegram from Walton's mother, Mrs. Grace Walton, while Edwards said Walton, a De Molay, had played in the Masonic band.

Then Harry Blackwell of Weatherford, student in the University of Texas, said his co-worker in physics experiments at the university had been Tom Walton during the six months Walton was a student.

Blackwell said Walton's reputation as a "kind and inoffensive student" at the university had been good.

Afternoon Testimony

After the noon recess, D. D. Booth, first sergeant at Brooks field, San Antonio, where Walton was a cadet from November, 1926, to April, 1928, was the first witness. He said he had not heard at any time that Walton was "a violent and dangerous boy." The defense asked no questions.

Howard Dees of Amarillo said he went to Austin with Walton, reaching the university city on April 5. He and Walton went riding with two girls, one of whom was Christine Campbell. When they returned from the ride Walton stood beside the car and talked with the girls until they went inside the house. He said Walton did not stop on the steps. Miss Campbell previously had testified Walton stood on the steps and threatened Hamilton.

"State whether or not you heard Tom Walton threaten to kill Hamilton and slander his daughter, Helen," Hugh Cooper of Amarillo, special prosecutor, instructed.

"I did not," Dees answered over a defense objection.

Holloway Recalled

Ed Holloway was recalled in a further attempt by the state to impeach testimony of J. W. Burks, star witness for the defense. Holloway declared Burks once told him, "possibly an hour and a half," after the homicide, he had not seen the shooting.

Mrs. Grace Walton, the mother of Tom Walton, then took the stand. District Attorney Edward Thomerson asked whether the son had any fire arms in the home. She replied: "He did not."

When the state had rested, the defense called G. N. Hailey of Amarillo, district manager of the telephone company, as the first surrebuttal witness. Hailey was asked whether he had looked for a ticket for a call from R. H. Hamilton at Amarillo to Dexter Hamilton at Dallas. Mary Wright had said she heard the men talking about a "divorce."

Hailey said he had searched tickets for every Amarillo telephone for calls in April and May in an effort to find that ticket.

"Was there any such record?"

"I was unable to find it."

Not Cross-Examined

The state did not cross-examine Hailey.

Another district telephone company manager, S. A. Stewart of Dallas, also was asked about the ticket for the reputed phone call to Dexter Hamilton. He said he had searched the records of three Dallas telephones, and had found Dallas telephones, 5-2440, 2-7195 and 3-6346, and had found no such ticket. The Dallas phones were Dexter Hamilton's he said.

Cooper, cross-examining, brought out that Stewart would not have found a record had the call been paid in Amarillo.

L. H. Johnson of the telephone company at Amarillo, testified as to the manner in which tickets for long distance calls are handled. He said the tickets were sent to Dallas for billing and returned the first of each month. Thomerson got the witness to agree the telephone company had no other record of the calls and that if a ticket should be lost in Dallas or in transmission he would have no record.

Brothers Testify

Dexter Hamilton then testified on the same telephone call. He said his brother, R. H., never had talked with him about a divorce. He also denied he had had a telephone conversation of any sort with his brother in 1929 before May 4.

"I had never heard of Tom Walton. I didn't know there was a cloud on the horizon," Dexter said. He said he did not know of the shooting until he purchased a paper on the afternoon of May 4. His Dallas phone numbers, he declared, are 5-2440 and 2-7195.

C. C. Hamilton, another brother of the defendant, declared "Never in my life did I talk to my brother in Amarillo over the telephone."

Neither of the brothers was cross-examined, and court recessed for a few minutes.

Archer Grand Jury Indicts Quintet

The November grand jury of the 30th district court, which started deliberations Monday at Archer City, was dismissed Tuesday afternoon after listing five indictments in its final report, Mike Anglin, assistant district attorney who sat with the body in its sessions Tuesday, said.

Three persons, Bob and Archie Ratliff and Hugh Eaton, were named in one indictment charging burglary. The indictment charges the trio robbed an oil storage house on the American Refining company's property near Archer City about two weeks ago. A drum of gasoline and two five-gallon cans of oil were stolen from the house, the indictment said.

R. H. Taylor was named in an indictment charging disposition of mortgaged property.

Three other indictments, two charging forgery and one charging swindling by means of a worthless check, were returned. The principals in these indictments, Mr. Anglin said, are not in custody.

Trial of civil suits got under way Tuesday with Judge Allan D. Montgomery presiding. Criminal cases will be taken up the week beginning Nov. 18, Mr. Anglin said.

Four Lamesa Business Houses Are Robbed

Special to The Record News.

LAMESA, Texas, Nov. 5.—Four business establishments here were robbed of approximately $400 in cash by safe blowers Monday night. Officers had made no arrests tonight.

Safes in the Lamesa Motor company, the Hill Motor company, and the Lamesa Steam laundry were rifled. The Coca Cola Bottling works was also robbed.

CRASH KILLS FRED JESTER

Greer County Business Man Fatally Hurt

Special to The Record News.

MANGUM, Okla., Nov. 5.—Funeral services are to bheld Wednesday at the First Baptist church here for Fred Jester, prominent business man of Mangum and Jester, and son of D. C. Jester, for whom the town of Jester, Okla., was named, who was killed by an automobile near here Monday night.

Interment will be made in Jester, 20 miles northwest of here.

Jester, repairing a tire on the side of a highway three miles north of Mangum, was struck by a car driven by William Crowe, of Jester, authorities said. Crowe, it was said was rushing to a hospital at Mangum with his child, who was having convulsions. He said he did not see Jester in the road, according to officials.

Besides his father, a pioneer of Oklahoma, Mr. Jester is survived by his widow and a sister, Mrs. O. C. Fros, of Norman, Okla.

Pilot's Body Ordered Home

uel Carpico of Aguas Calientes, Robert G. Lowry, 40, traffic superintendent of the C. A. T., and Senor De Valera, secretary to Governor Carpio. Mr. Lowry formerly of Fort Worth and Pilot Carmichael had both been connected with Texas newspapers before going into the field of commercial aviation. Carmichael lived in Wichita Falls about two years ago and had been connected with The Daily Times for about four years previous to that time. He left here and entered the government flying school at San Diego, Calif., and from there into commercial aviation. He flew a line between Brownsville and Central America for some time and later joined the C. A. T., flying the first plane over the new line last August.

Negro Woman Held On Charge of Shoplifting

Caught taking a man's cap from a counter of the J. C. Penney store about 3:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, two negro women were arrested by police and taken to the city jail for questioning. They were unable to explain why they wanted a man's cap, officers said. It was later discovered they had also stolen a scarf and several fancy handkerchiefs from the W. T. Grant store earlier in the afternoon. One was released on bond and the other was held. One of them was also booked for abusive language at the time of the arrest.

Hoover Fails to Ask Hi Johnson to Dinner

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. (AP)—Official Washington was speculating tonight over the failure of President Hoover to invite Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, to the White House dinner tonight in honor of Ambassador Dawes. The California Republican is the only member of the senate foreign relations committee who was not invited.

for poll tax as a prerequisite to voting, drew a somewhat heated exchange between party leaders.

Anderson, denying the poll tax statement as "absolutely false," accused Democratic headquarters of distributing the pamphlet in a letter asking Dr. Pollard if he "authorized or approved" the pamphlet. The Democratic nominee termed the Anderson letter a "brazen piece of insolence" in denying knowledge of the circular, and said the poll tax statement was not in the platform of the Republican party. He said, however, that it was in the Republican platform when Anderson ran for governor in 1921 and charged that "political expediency" kept it out of the platform this year.

I. C. Trotman, ex-anti-Smith committeeman, who resigned when the anti-Smith convention refused his resolution on "white supremacy" came forward as the author of the pamphlet on Friday night preceding the election. Democratic headquarters had vigorously denied its circulation.

LA GUARDIA SENDS WALKER CONGRATULATIONS

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—Congressman Fiorello H. La Guardia, Republican-Fusion candidate for mayor, conceded the election of Mayor Walker at 8:37 p. m. tonight.

"Accept my congratulations on your victory and best wishes for a successful administration."

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—The New York Herald-Tribune (Republican) conceded the re-election of Mayor James B. Walker at 7:15 o'clock tonight.

GOTHAM RUNS TRUE TO FORM

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—New York city, traditional stronghold of Democracy, ran true to form in the quadrennial municipal election today and on the basis of returns from more than half the election districts, gave Mayor James J. Walker, a lead of nearly 300,000 over Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia, Republican-Fusion candidate.

The vote from 1,950 districts out of 3,411 in the city was:

J. J. Walker, Democrat, 502,346.

F. H. La Guardia, Republican, 204,131.

Norman Thomas, Socialist, 95,117.

R. E. Enright, Square Deal, 3,288.

The strength of the Socialist candidate, Norman Thomas, was one of the surprises of the day. Four years ago, when he ran for mayor, he received 39,574 votes. If he maintains his average strength shown in the early returns, he will surpass the high water mark of the Socialist vote in New York. This was 145,332 in 1917, registered by Morris Hillquit, when he ran for mayor. Walker carried La Guardia's as well as Thomas' precincts.

BOSTON ELECTS DEMOCRATIC MAYOR

BOSTON, Nov. 5. (AP)—James M. Curley was elected mayor of Boston for the third time today with a plurality of 20,000 votes. Curley was given a close race by Frederick W. Mansfield and both Curley and Mansfield far outstripped Daniel H. Coakley, who was credited with only a few thousand votes. All were Democrats.

DETROIT MAYOR'S RACE IS CLOSE

DETROIT, Nov. 5. (AP)—Former Mayor John W. Smith was leading Charles W. Bowles by a small margin with 324 of 852 precincts reported in the Detroit mayoralty election tonight. The vote stood: Smith 47,816; Bowles, 46,229. It appeared the winner would not be known until all the votes were counted.

REPUBLICAN WINS IN BUFFALO, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 5. (AP)—Charles E. Roesch, Republican, was elected mayor of Buffalo today by a plurality of 7,562 over the present mayor, Frank X. Schwab, a Republican running on the Democratic ticket, and Frank C. Perkins, Independent.

The vote; Roesch 77,125; Schwab 69,593; Perkins 9,031.

DEMOCRATS WIN IN INDIANAPOLIS

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 5. (AP)—Reginald Sullivan, an attorney, was elected by the Democrats as mayor of Indianapolis today defeating Alfred M. Glossbrenner, Republican. Glossbrenner conceded his defeat when returns from slightly less than half the precincts in the city showed that his Democratic opponent was leading by almost a 2 to 1 ratio.

Hotel Men Name Huckins Director

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 5. (AP)—Corpus Christi today was selected as the next convention city of the Texas hotel association at the annual meeting here. Mineral Wells and McAllen also sought the gathering.

Roland Burge, manager of the St. Anthony hotel in San Antonio, was elected president of the association. C. H. Hilton, first vice president and Bruce Carter of Houston, second vice president.

R. L. Anders of San Antonio was reelected secretary treasurer for his sixteenth term. Graham G. Hall of Houston was named sergeant-at-arms and Judge A. L. Peeler, also of Houston, legal adviser.

Directors named were: Paul Harvey, El Paso, chairman; Roland Burge, San Antonio; Floyd Singleton, San Antonio; C. N. Hilton, Dallas; Joseph Huckins, Wichita Falls; Jack White, San Antonio; Harry L. Hussman, El Paso; Hayden Hudson, Dallas and Bruce Carter, Houston.

Funeral Rites Today For B. T. Griffin

Funeral services for B. T. Griffin, 57, local plumber who dropped dead while working in the backyard of a vacant house at 3301 Garfield street about 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, will be held from the residence, 1504 Taylor street, at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with Rev. W. D. Bratton, pastor of the Church of the Good Shepherd, officiating. Interment will be in Rosemont under the direction of the Hines mortuary.

Active pallbearers will be J. O. Elliot, J. A. Cavanaugh, Lou McDernott, W. D. Griffin, Lester Flatt and Ben Kaufman.

Survivors include a son, James Griffin, who with his wife lives at the family residence here; two brothers, John Griffin of Hollywood, Calif., and Joe Griffin of Chicago; and two sisters, Miss Kate Griffin and Mrs. Nina Gearen, both of Sioux City, Iowa. Mrs. Griffin, wife of the deceased, died here last June.

JOHN WHITEHURST DIES

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 5. (UP)—John Whitehurst, pioneer in agricultural development of Oklahoma, died at a hospital here today. He was a member of the first Oklahoma legislature.

BOY, 13, TELLS OF KILLINGS

Woodrow Davis Relates Night's Events

the pistol while they pleaded for mercy."

Then, Woodrow related, Thompson washed the pistol, "which was covered with blood and brains," pulled off his shirt and washed it, and hung it on a mesquite tree to dry.

Return to Cabin

The three men then returned to the Shooks' cabin and rifled it of clothing, a banjo and a gun. They decided to burn the bodies, so they took Shook's car and started back to the scene of the slaying.

Unable to get the car through a fence they abandoned the idea of burning the bodies. They walked back to where the bodies were, Woodrow said, and searched the clothes. Young Davis said Leon Shook was still groaning. Clyde Thompson then put on the shirt he had washed, and they went to the Davis' boys home and spent the night.

Woodrow said that following the shooting, Clyde Thompson "patted" the pistol and told the Davis boys that he now had two notches on his gun, and if they told of the killing he would have two more. He added, Woodrow testified, that when he was 21 years old, he would have 21 notches on his gun.

Gun Identified

The gun was identified by witnesses as the one found in possession of Thompson was also identified by Woodrow as the one Thompson used. The barrel was bent and so badly warped the cylinder would not revolve.

Lee Reid and Cy Bradford, former deputy sheriffs who investigated the killing, testified to finding the bodies. They said they found a number of teeth, and pieces of skull scattered around.

By a ruling of the court today, Thompson's sanity is an issue in the case. Thompson, since taking of testimony has begun, continually mumbles in a scarcely audible voice, and stares blankly at the floor or ceiling.

Second Trial

Thompson was once tried and convicted for the Shook murders, and given the death sentence, but his case was remanded on an appeal.

L. E. Edwards, manager for the oil company which employed Thomas Davis, Woodrow's brother, was also sentenced to death. His appeal is now pending.

Mrs. J. L. Pierce, formerly of Cisco but now residing at Stephenville, a sister of the Shooks, was the second witness. She said she last saw Lucian alive Sept. 7, 1928, when he and Leon left her home in Cisco to return to the oil lease.

The witness testified she went with officers to the cabin the following Monday when they came to her home and asked her to assist them in searching Lucian's cabin. She said her brothers' bodies had been found that morning.

Taking of testimony was started after the morning session of court was taken up in completing the jury, the selection of which started yesterday.

SHRINE SHOW HAS HARMONY

But Critic Sees Need of More Choral Parts

By W. L. UNDERWOOD
The Record News Staff

Partially overcoming the handicap of miscellaneous curtain-raisers which delayed the show's opening excessively, the Maskat temple minstrels, 1929 edition, constantly gained momentum for a successful performance before several hundred patrons gathered at the Memorial auditorium Tuesday night.

While the minstrel proper admirably escapes the usual failing of such productions, that of drawing out endlessly, the program contains such a multitude of individual numbers as to forbid detailed acknowledgment of each performer's contributions. Therein probably lies the major complaint which might be registered toward the makeup of the entertainment. With a proven ensemble of male voices available, it is to be regretted that more opportunity was not given to hear it in choral numbers. It is to be hoped that some day a home talent minstrel in Wichita Falls will find at least a majority of the personnel thoroughly familiar with the words of the songs, in order that effective ensemble of male voices may be enjoyed more fully. No feature would be more popularly received.

Choral Arrangements

A commendable innovation in Tuesday night's minstrel was the introduction of harmonic arrangements in the choral parts. The insertion of baritone shades and tenor "barber-shops" departs perhaps from orthodox minstrelsy, but considerably enriches the tonal effects obtained by the best of amateurs. Whatever tendency the opening night performance may have shown to move with retarded spark should be attributed to the fact that it was the first public presentation.

No less than an even dozen specials were introduced before Interlocutor Ed Peterson's impressive black and white circle. Proportionate applause crowds certain numbers into the foreground, noticeably L. R. Thurman's "Down the Trail to Home Sweet Home," and Jarry Moffett's "Sleepy Valley." The audience reflected also a kindly mood for Ernest Reeves' yodeling numbers, which were insistently encored. Sectional sympathies heightened the reception of two southern songs, "Way Down South," by Dr. J. H. Fletcher, and "Ole Man River," from the "Showboat," sung by Dr. O. T. Kimbrough. The work of the chorus was best demonstrated in the support given the melodies sung by Mr. Thurman and Doctor Kimbrough.

Novelty features included an ingenious performance with a miniature mouth organ by Jack Mulkey, recently of Houston. Simulation of the Fast Express and as an encore, realistic reproduction of a dark-town blues strain proved one of the evening's hits. A second highlight was furnished by a local buck-and-wing dancer who blended with the prevailing color scheme sans makeup.

Tesco Quartet Heard

Two selections by the Tesco quartet, whose members were included in the quota of endmen for the minstrel, provided an effective closing group. "Felix the Cat," and "Showboat," the latter utilizing a vocal reproduction of the steam calliope, preceded the spirited chorus, "Blue Grass," with which the evening closed.

Mose (H. W. Gray) and Hambone (Jack Gross) of KGKO bore the burden of humorous dialog, which is never allowed to become lengthy.

A group of selections by Gordon Shea's orchestra provided a pleasing opening number in the first half of the bill. Short-stage acts by Mr. and Mrs. Hank Harris and Pat Wilds of the Olympic theater, and a skit by Bud and Dot Reeves intervened between the orchestral group and the minstrel's opening.

Accompaniments for the musical portions of the minstrel were furnished by an orchestra directed by Leon Taylor. The performance is to be repeated Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

Playground Band to Lead Parade Opening Spanish Fiesta Friday

The Wichita Falls Playground band, shown in the picture with their director, Paul Seeds, will head the parade that will formally open the Spanish fiesta at noon Friday.

This band, composed of 37 members, which has only been organized one year, played at all park activities during the summer. At the Dallas state fair they won third place.

The ages of the boys range from 10 to 16. Their youthfulness made them more interesting when they furnished the music for the old settler's reunion which took place at the Jim Marlow home in the early autumn.

AUTO STRIKES WICHITA GIRL

Doris Gene Hurd Injured In Accident

Doris Gene Hurd, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Hurd, 2810 Grant street, was severely injured about 6 o'clock Tuesday evening when she ran into the street in the 2600 block on Grant and was struck a glancing blow by an automobile driven by J. C. Crawford, negro, 513½ Franklin street.

The child was rushed to the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital where immediate X-ray examination of her head and body was made. No fractures were found, according to physicians, but she had suffered a slight concussion of the brain which apparently resulted from a tearing of the soft tissues on the interior of the skull. Her condition was not considered critical but the concussion might develop into a serious case, they said.

The accident occurred while the child was walking down the street with Mrs. W. W. Dukes, whose address was also given as 2810 Grant street. She broke away from Mrs. Dukes and ran down the sidewalk and into the street with Mrs. Dukes in pursuit. Her only other injuries were slight body bruises. Motorcycle Officers Ralph Rohatsch and Howard Peters investigated the accident.

Evangelist to Speak At Lions Luncheon

Dr. Leslie Finnell, evangelist, who is conducting a revival at the First Christian church will be the principal speaker at the Lions club luncheon Wednesday, it was announced Tuesday.

A special musical program is being arranged by E. F. Bohmfalk.

Pattern-Life of Jesus Should Rule Hearts, Says Dr. Finnell

"This is a time and place to let people know that there is a hell on earth and a hell throughout eternity for those who do not acknowledge Christ as master and follow Him to the best of their ability as long as they live," declared Dr. J. L. Finnell at the First Christian church Tuesday night in his sermon on "Letting Christ In."

Doctor Finnell spoke from the text: "Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in, and will sup with him, and he with me."

"It is worthwhile to notice that those words of the Master reflects a domestic custom: The door must be opened from within. It is so with the human heart: no earthly friend, nor Jesus himself, may enter unless the door of the heart be opened from within. Notice also that His words imply that once He is admitted, Christ becomes the host: he no longer is the stranger, nor the guest, but is host," said the evangelist.

Heart-doors are kept closed by persons because they compare their lives with those of other human beings, instead of comparing with the pattern-life of Jesus, the speaker said, and because of absolute ignorance of what Christ means. One of the outstanding weaknesses of present American civilization, Doctor Finnell said, is the absence of religious education from the public school system.

Plans have now been completed for the daily reading of the Bible in the public schools of Fort Worth, the speaker said, with all the city churches cooperating in the selection of passages which are to be used on various days of the week.

Ladies of the church had charge of the services Tuesday night, conducting the devotional services, ushering, accepting the offering, and furnishing the song service. Mrs. W. L. Parker sang "When They Ring the Golden Bells," accompanied by Mrs. O. B. Kiel, as a special number.

It was announced that Thursday night will be young peoples' night, with delegations expected from the high school and junior college student bodies, before which Doctor Finnell spoke Tuesday morning. Men of the church will conduct Friday night's service. The revival being conducted by Doctor Finnell will be concluded Sunday night.

Rev. W. A. Irwin To Give Talk At Church Tonight

Rev. W. A. Irwin, nationally known evangelist and father of the late Capt. Bill Irwin, who was lost in the flight to Hawaii three years ago, will speak at the East Side Presbyterian church Wednesday night, it was announced Tuesday.

The subject of Rev. Mr. Irwin's talk has not been announced but an interesting speech has been promised. The public has been invited. Rev. Mr. Irwin is at present pastor of the McLain, Texas, Presbyterian church was formerly pastor of the Presbyterian church at Amarillo. He has spent many years in evangelistic work and is a singer and choir leader as well as a minister. He will also sing several songs Wednesday night.

ONEAL HEADS IKE WALTONS

League President Reelected At Meet Tuesday

Ben G. Oneal was reelected president of the Izaak Walton league in Wichita Falls at the regular monthly meeting of the local organization in the 78th district courtroom Tuesday night when about 30 members were in attendance. W. J. Lee was reelected secretary.

A board of directors, composed of J. W. Pond, J. O. Presley and W. Daniel, was also elected and President Oneal was authorized to appoint an advisory committee. Several committees were appointed, one to meet with members of the Vernon and Olney Izaak Walton leaguers on the matter of raising funds to construct additional ponds for fish propagation at Lake Kemp. A committee reported that City Manager George D. Fairtrace had agreed to replace the fish barrier net at Lake Wichita which was torn down when construction of the new spillway began.

Thanks for the Ad

My tail-end hook is gone, I guess,
And for the present I'm out of that mess;
No more does the pill take a left-side flip—
Thanks, old man, for a worthwhile tip.
Yesterday on number five—
Man, listen!—I uncorked a drive!
My second, a spoon, carried all the way,
And ten feet back of the pin it lay;
A curling putt, but true it ran
And dropped with a plunk right in the can;
That's what happened the day I shook
Myself all loose from that tail-end hook.
—SIR BILL OF MANCHESTER.

(You may recall we advised Sir Bill
To swing the heel of his club at the pill).

A Hard Assignment

Those talking about hard football assignments for the year might consider the case of Harvard.

Harvard struck the Army on Oct. 19. On Oct. 26 Dartmouth blew along. Florida came last week. That made three tough ones. Now Michigan, at Ann Arbor, lies just ahead for Saturday; after that Holy Cross and Yale follow in order. This makes a total of six hard games without a week's rest. They all demand about as good football as Harvard can show. As this will be the Crimson's first invasion of the Mid West, there is a most earnest desire on Harvard's part to prove that most of the football isn't played west of the Alleghenies. Michigan has set no universe on fire this season, but there have always been possibilities that the team would hit a far higher plane and finally get somewhere—as it did last year, after a groggy, floundering beginning. So Harvard has no weak team to meet in facing Michigan through a big November game.

Boosting the Real Star

Dear Mr. Rice: After watching so many football and basket ball games and seeing so many brilliant stars escape without notice because they did not do the actual ball carrying or scoring, I have been moved to pay tribute to the men who, in my mind and to the mind of every real keen observer, deserve the greater portion of recognition.

I believe this poem will act as a fitting memory to Ed Hill and to other football greats who have passed beyond the horizon, as well as present-day performers like Myers of N. Y. U.; Murrel, of Army, and others.

"The Man Who Takes 'Em Out"

"He plays the hardest roll of all,
The role that brings no fame,
The role that only coaches know
Decides the score and game.

"He plays the real unselfish part,
The part no rooters see,
The part that brings no deafening cheers
To stars in victory.

"He plays the game for all he's worth,
Not for applause and shout—
Yes, I for one will e'er respect
The Man Who Takes 'Em Out."
—MARTIN H. BARAD.

Which calls to mind one of the old and truest slogans of the game —"For football players look in front of the ball."

Zuppke's Delight

Bob Zuppke, of Illinois, doesn't really get steamed up until he gets a crack at some standard eastern team. When he does, you can gamble that on that particular afternoon he will have his team ready to give everything it has, with nothing held in check. Zuppke's delight is trimming the East whenever he can. He set out to get Pennsylvania a few years ago and won in a canter.

He has had his eye on the Army game ever since it was arranged, and there is a big chance that even Cagle will have a hard time making any great headway against the Orange and Blue defense, which is always of a high order.

The Illinois attack this season isn't up to its strong defense. Illinois has a line that can hold its own anywhere, but so far the western team has shown no ball carrier with any outstanding quality.

Texas-Baylor Game To Draw Thousands

AUSTIN, Nov. 5. (AP)—The largest football crowd of the season here is expected to find its way to Memorial stadium Saturday when the University of Texas meets Baylor. Neither has suffered a conference defeat.

It will be homecoming at the university and thousands of former students and lettermen of other years will be on hand. Special rail rates have been offered and the attendance may reach 30,000 if the weather is favorable.

After the gruelling battle with S. M. U. Saturday, Coach Clyde Littlefield faces the herculean task of keeping his charges primed for two more Saturdays in succession. T. C. U. follows Baylor to Austin. A let-down in either of the next two battles probably would prove the end of the Steers' dream of a second straight conference championship.

The Longhorn mentor supervised his squad today in light scrimmage against a freshman team running Baylor plays.

Matty Bell's Foootball Team Training for S. M. U.

COLLEGE STATION, Nov. 5. (AP)—With most of the squad back in harness, Coach Matty Bell is putting his Texas Aggies through a strenuous workout this week preparing for the game Saturday with the Southern Methodist Mustangs. Mustang formations were played against by the regulars today.

Those on the injured list who were back in uniform tonight included Paul McFadden of Cleburne, end, and Walter Ewell, Dallas, guard, injured in the T. C. U. game, and Brooks Conover, Dallas half, who has been nursing an injury since the Arkansas game.

CRITICS POINT TO CHAMPIONS

Brownsville Impresses the Whole State

DALLAS, Nov. 5. (AP)—The state high school grid race fast is simmering down to where it is possible to put a finger on the half-dozen outstanding schoolboy elevens in Texas. The bolder critics already are predicting what teams will clash in the final struggle for the championship now held by Abilene.

Brownsville still commands the spotlight. Its tremendous scoring record and uncrossed goal line has impressed the entire state. Other prominent contenders on the face of their records thus far include Abilene, Breckenridge, Amarillo, Cleburne, Waco and Central of Fort Worth. There are other undefeated teams in district play, but their records have not been so outstanding as those named.

Breck-Abilene Bout

This week's major contest will bring together Abilene and Breckenridge, the oil belt's two undefeated units, at Breckenridge. The winner will be favored to meet Amarillo later on for the championship of West Texas and the Panhandle.

A brief resume of the situation in each of the eight class A districts follows:

District 1. Amarillo, by defeating Lubbock, 13 to 7, practically sewed up the title. Each of the other six teams has met defeat.

District 2. Breckenridge, with six straight wins, and Abilene, with five, have taken the lead in what many regard as the stoutest section in the state. Their bout Saturday virtually will decide the title. Cisco, with four wins and one loss, still has an outside chance.

District 3. Central, with three victories and one tie, has the best record. Forest of Dallas has won two and tied two. Sunset, Dallas, holds three victories and one defeat. Central meets Oak Cliff of Dallas Friday at Fort Worth. Forest meets Highland Park at Dallas.

Waco Going Strong

District 4. Waco and Cleburne each has won two and lost none. Cleburne's 33 to 0 win over Temple stamped the Yellow Jackets as strong contenders. Only one game is booked this week, Waxahachie invading Waco for a probable trimming.

District 5. Three victories and a tie have made the Sulphur Springs eleven outstanding, even though Denton has won its only start so far. Denton and McKinney play Friday.

District 7. Beaumont and Ball of Galveston each has won three straight and John Reagan, Houston, has won two. Reagan displayed unusual power in holding Waco to a six-point victory week before last. Port Arthur has won three and tied one. Port Arthur and Beaumont play Armistice day.

District 6. Marshall and Tyler hold the fort in this East Texas section, each with two victories. Texarkana has won two and dropped one. No district game is scheduled this week.

District 8. Only one team, Austin, now blocks Brownsville's path to the sectional crown. Austin barely nosed out Main avenue of San Antonio, 7 to 6, for its fifth straight win. Brownsville hung up its fifth straight by crushing Brackenridge, San Antonio, 64 to 0. Harlandale, San Antonio, plays at Brownsville this week, while Austin will be idle.

Coyotes and Tribe Have Heated Time In Tuesday's Bout

Platitudinously speaking, there are scrimmages and scrimmages. Tuesday afternoon out at the Junior college football practice field Barry Holton and E. A. Baggett, well known gridiron mentors hereabouts, decided to hold another one of their scrimmage sessions. Preparatory to the mimic warfare between the Coyotes and the Indians, the coaches put their charges to hard work for almost an hour, running the gamut of football fundamentals in order to better get the boys set for what was to come.

After the aggravating fundamentals were done with Coach Baggett called out to the other side of the field and asked the opposing mentor if he was ready to begin. To which the scowled faced mentor answered in the affirmative and so it came about that the two teams, the Indians and the Coyotes were drawn up facing each other ready for a tussle.

Indians Take Ball

The Coyotes kindly conceded the opposition the first possession of the oval and squared off to try and stop the Redskins from marching down the field with the ball. But, for the good it did them, the Pack might have been in their classrooms or downtown manipulating a billiard cue. For on the very first play, Cox, that sweetest running and passing of all Indian ball toters, whipped a short, hard pass right over the Coyotes' heads and into the loving arms of Dale Davis, that most extraordinary receiver of passes on the same eleven, and he raced straight across the goal line. The whole thing was simply startling in its beauty and perfection of execution.

Then as if trying to "show off" the Indian boys brought the ball back to the same spot and shot over another pass equally as good and as splendidly achieved. Davis took the ball over his left shoulder and did a beautiful "antelope" through the entire Pack and again dashed across the Coyote goal line. Those two passes were about the prettiest and slickest seen on a local gridiron this season, so many of the sideline bugs seemed to think.

Coyotes Get Going

After that first little flurry, the Indians pulled several line bucks just to keep things from getting too montonous, but they were not as successful in this endeavor. The Coyotes seemed to have regained possession of themselves and determinedly put a stop to the runaway scrimmage. On the next two or three plays Jerry Elliott and Chick Holden took it in their heads to try and shine like All-American players and they did. They tore through the Indian line as if it were not there and downed the runner before he knew what it was all about. This bold tackling seemed to inject new life into the Pack like a shot of mother's aged-in-the-wood blackberry wine. The Coyotes were themselves again and to better describe them it is here affirmed that they started playing like they did last Saturday against the Vernon Lions. And when that is mentioned, the story has been told.

Baylor's Great Quarterback

This is Jake Wilson, backfield specialist who has helped the Baylor Bears to a good start in the Southwest conference campaign.

WACO, Texas, (AP)—Every so often a small school's gridiron warrior makes the rest of the football world sit up and take notice. Baylor university's Bears, crouching behind a wealth of promising material, hope to wedge into that spotlight this fall.

Winning their first four games, Baylor already is a dominating menace on the Southwest conference horizon. Larger schools in the circuit heard pre-season rumors of Baylor's strength; now they believe them.

Morley Jennings, head coach, has so much material that his biggest problem is to give every star a chance. There are a dozen backs, all of almost equal caliber, and a bevy of veteran linesmen scrambling for regular berths.

Critics call Baylor's line prospects among the best in Southwest conference history. Weldon Lucas, Bear captain, is at right end, with Bochey Koch, an all-conference guard last year, and Charles Morris, a smashing tackle.

The backfield is built around Jake Wilson, regarded as the best all-around back in the Southwest.

Baylor won the Southwest conference title in 1915, 1922 and 1924. In none of these years did the Bears have the galaxy of stars in this year's lineup.

Golf Partners of Prince Eddie Irked

Wales' Incessant Whistling Is Too Much

SUNNINGDALE, Surrey, Eng., Nov. 5. (INS)—The Prince of Wales must either give up whistling or cease to play golf.

This is the decision reached by his partners at the game.

Not that the prince's whistling is so bad in itself. It is the meagreness of his repertoire that is the cause of the complaint.

He can whistle, it appears, only two tunes, one is "Alice, Where Art Thou?" and, the other is "Come Into the Garden, Maud." And throughout two rounds of golf, 4½ hours of solid play, he will whistle these two classics, not to say sentimental tunes, and these two only.

"I wouldn't mind if he would only have his old ukulele or his trap-drum brought around with him," said one of his partners today. "Then he might give us a bit of up-to-date jazz occasionally.

"But 'Alice' and 'Maud' are too much for me. They just get me down. Do you think I can sink a long putt while he is working up to the top note of 'Alice, Where Art Thou?'

"If he doesn't give up his whistling he is going to lose his partners."

Indians' Pep Squad Plan to Accompany Team Armistice Day

Indian gridiron support will not be lacking when the Wichita Falls Junior college eleven squares off with the ancient rivals from North Texas Agricultural college on Armistice day, if present plans of the school's pep squad develop. Work is being done on chartering a special bus to carry rooters that have no other way to go, the bus to leave Wichita Falls at 6 o'clock Monday morning and to return after the game in the afternoon. An attractive round trip fare has been made to the students and it is believed no great difficulty will be experienced in getting up the 30 minimum required.

Supporters of the team know that the Indians are the underdog in the game and also know that if they can win against the Aggies that their season will not have been in vain; hence no effort is being spared to make the trip a success. Dean S. H. Rider of the college has announced the students going with the pep squad will be given excused absences for the day. Miss Madge Davis of the English department has been appointed by the dean to be in charge of ticket sales to the bus special. Yell leaders Babe Anderson, Nannae Mae Snoddy and Fritz McDonald met with R. O. Jonas, pep squad sponsor, Tuesday afternoon to make final plans for the trip.

Whisky Seized In Raid by Constable

About seven gallons of whisky were confiscated by Constable Frank Morgan late Tuesday afternoon in a raid on a house on Seymour street where a man was found busily pouring out part of the liquor. The case was turned over to federal authorities, no arrests having been made by Constable Morgan.

GA. TECH VS. NAVY

Announcement Says Two Teams May Begin 1931

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 5. (AP)—Chip Roberts, chairman of the Georgia Tech Athletic committee, said today that Navy and Georgia Tech probably will begin a home and home football engagement in 1931 with the Middies playing here the first year and Georgia Tech going to Annapolis in 1932. Commenting on reports that Navy and Georgia Tech would play next year, Mr. Roberts said that was unlikely because of the possibility of Army and Navy renewing relations, but added that "if it can possibly be arranged we will be glad to play them."

St. Edward's and Howard Payne Scheduled Nov. 11

DALLAS, Nov. 5. (AP)—Two elevens that have helped dim the records of a pair of Southwest conference teams will clash in the feature tilt of the Texas conference's Armistice day card.

St. Edward's university, boasting a 20 to 7 victory over Rice institute, and Howard Payne college, which held Southern Methodist to a 13-13 tie, are scheduled to meet at Brownwood Monday. Neither has met defeat in its own conference.

Simmons university, third undefeated member school, will tie up with Trinity university at Waxahachie in a second conference battle Monday.

The Howard Payne-St. Edward's game winner will be favored to fight it out with Simmons for the championship.

Fordham-West Virginia Play Scoreless Tie Game

NEW YORK, Nov. 5. (AP)—Fordham and West Virginia university played a scoreless tie today, the New Yorkers driving 72 yards in the closing minutes but falling 12 inches short of a touchdown.

West Virginia had two great chances in the first few minutes of play after a Fordham fumble, but when Fordham stopped this drive, its time of stress was over from a defensive standpoint. The Maroon offensive did not start to function until it was too late. The one sustained drive was under way when the game ended.

TEN-DAY MEET STARTS TODAY

Great Horses to Be Seen on Texas Track

FORT WORTH, Nov. 5. (AP)—Horse racing, without betting, is to be tried here with the opening tomorrow of a 10-day meeting of the Texas Jockey club at Arlington Downs, a plant built by W. T. Waggoner, multimillionaire oil and cattle man, in an effort to revive racing in this state.

Waggoner, the owner of the Three D stables, has announced his determination to give Texas "racing of the highest caliber" and make it popular, although the lure of betting is absent.

Great Horses Run

Among the entries for the meeting are Calf Roper and Panchio, Waggoner horses which have competed in the Kentucky Derby; Crystal Pennant, Coffroth Handicap winner and his stable mate, Sankari; and Uncommon Gold, leader of the Handicap division at the fall meeting held at Fairmount Park, St. Louis.

Three feature attratcions are on the program—the $2,500 Dallas handicap over a mile, to be held Saturday; the $2,500 three in the handicap for 2-year-olds on Nov. 13, and a mile and a quarter race the final day with a purse of $5,000 and added money.

Guaranty Bowlers Take Three in Row To Tie City Nat.

The Guaranty State bowlers took three straight games from W. B. McClurkan Tuesday night at the Spudder alleys and by virtue of the victory went into a tie with the City National bank for first place in the Commercall league standing The First National bank took two out of three from Coca-Cola and at the same time Boone-Kemp took a like number from the P. B. M. company.

Turgeon of the First National bank had high three games with 567 and Maunders of Boone-Kemp Inc., had high single game with a 209.

Lamar Fair of McClurkan made his initial appearance in the Commercial league and could hardly get from under the spell of the foul man, for three times in the three games he was called on this score by the man who punches the little red light.

Al Marsters Is Out For Rest of Season

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 5. (UP)—Al "Special Delivery" Marsters, Dartmouth football ace, will be unable to play again this season, it was announced here tonight.

An injury received to his back in the Yale game was responsible. Yesterday Marsters was removed to Dicks house, the college infirmary, and today four X-ray photographs were taken of his back.

The photographs disclosed that while Marsters had sustained no injury to the spine itself two bones near it had been cracked and demanded that he remain in bed for two weeks. After that it was said he must keep very quiet for at least a month.

Freshmen at Notre Dame aren't given opposition plays any more. Instead they learn Notre Dame plays and gain experience against the day they'll carry the school colors.

Sport Loose Ends

By W. G. CHAMBLESS

Aside from the question of mature supervision over the game of football by coaches, there is some doubt whether the mentors meddle in the plays as is popularly supposed. "When I send a team out to a game," says Chick Meehan, "I've taught them all I can up to that time. If they haven't learned enough to win with that, there's no use trying to teach them on the field."

The popular supposition is that the coach directs the play of the quarterback by instructions from the bench. Knute Rockne, who is regarded as among the wisest of the coaches that football has ever had, at least in modern times, recently said: "I think it would be foolish to flood a quarterback with a lot of directions from the bench. In the first place, he ought to know more about his own and the opposing team from his post out there on the field than I would here on the bench. Even if he didn't, I don't think that a lot of words from me would help him; they would only add to his confusion."

A coach, of course, directs substitutions designed to strengthen and help the game along; and, between halves, he talks over the weaknesses of the first half and plans for the second. As for running matters from the bench, it isn't nearly so easy or common a practice as it looks. Ed McMillan, about the best of the post-war centers at Princeton, has pointed out: "When you get into action, you're out there alone. You forget crowds—I never remember having seen one. And you forget coaches. What you do remember, if the coach has been a good teacher, are the things he taught you all through the season. I don't think there is a thing the coach can do after the game has started."

Times do change. It would seem that one of the football reforms which came into being only a few years ago has already gone by the boards—the famous non-scouting agreement. When Tad Jones was coach of Yale, he and Bill Roper agreed that scouting was an evil thing and that each would refrain from it. This meant not only that Yale and Princeton would not scout each other, but also that Yale and Princeton would not scout any other opponent. Harvard upset this plan by refusing to join, but several other colleges signed the agreement.

This year Yale and Princeton still hold to their agreement with each other, but the matter ends just there. The reform has been weakened again, for in it Yale has consented to break the pact with West Point. Now each time Yale plays, army officers, equipped with sketching boards and other paraphernalia, sit high up in the press seats at the Yale bowl and watch proceedings. On Monday, in the coach's room of the gym under the bluffs at the Point, their reports are submitted and gone over with great care. Yale, of course, reciprocates, and the early Monday afternoons in the "Y" club are devoted to the same procedure with perhaps less military precision.

So long as football remains the game it is, scouting will be a part of it. At every big college, the staff of the coaches has a supplementary group of men whose names seldom get in the papers but who are an important part of the coaching equipment. These are men assigned to various opposing teams for weeks before the date of the game.

Enemies of scouting say that it tends to lessen the initiative of the players. Bill Roper has felt strongly on this score. "We have found," he said last year, "that non-scouting has worked toward giving the men who play the game the chance to use their heads as each situation comes up." Friends of scouting usually reply as the "Gloomy" Dobie of Cornell did when questioned at the height of the furor over this reform: "You can't teach the average college boy enough football now when there is scouting. It would be an impossible job if you abandoned the practice." The reasoning is that if you scout a team, you have only to teach your men a certain type of play. With no scouting, you have to teach them everything, for there is no way of being prepared for what your opponent may do.

The neutral's attitude has been expressed by Chick Meehan, the very smart little man who runs New York university football: "I'll give any coach in the country my plays if he wants them. If he has the team to stop them, it's all right with me. I'll even give him my signals. Heaven knows it's hard enough to teach a team its own signals and keep them from mixing them up. I wouldn't want to try giving it another team's on top of that."

Scouting is an attempt to figure out each play. In big college football there are very few plays. New York university, for instance, has twelve, some varied slightly. Knute Rockne has said that there are only seven places where you can send a man with a ball, and that there ought to be only a few more than seven plays in an offense.

Scouting has more to do with the manner in which the plays are carried out—whether one team pulls its guard out each time to run interference; how the defense is handled for passing; whether a punter takes two or three steps before kicking. The scouts look for defects in ball-carriers, small idiosyncrasies that show what they are going to do. One man may shift a foot just a fraction of an inch before the start of the play in which he is to receive the ball.

The name of scouting is against it. It brings to mind spies hiding under bushes and peering through knotholes. Those days have gone forever. There was a time when the scout sneaked into the games and practices, but now he is the guest of the home team, with tickets furnished. More often than not he lunches with the local coaches. On the day of Dartmouth's first game of the year, Arnold Horween and the Harvard assistants were Jack Cannell's guest at Hanover. Mal Stevens of Yale would have been there, too, but his team had a practice game scheduled.

The height of all this has been reached this year with the building of a special stand for scouts at Duke's new million dollar stadium.

Rattlers Battle Sherman Saturday

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Nov. 5.—After winning 26 to 0 from Edinburg college last Saturday, thereby chalking up their sixth victory of the season, the St. Mary's university Rattlers of San Antonio are diligently preparing for their tilt with Austin college of Sherman, Texas, next Saturday in San Antonio. The Austin college team are by no means weak, since they held the powerful S. M. U. Mustangs to only two touchdowns.

This game will offer fans their last opportunity to see the mighty Rattlers in action against collegiate opposition at home. Following Saturday's game the local team will prepare to invade Chicago for their intersectional clash with the De Paul university Blue Demons of that city.

A special train will leave San Antonio Nov. 14, for a week's trip which will include stops in New Orleans, St. Louis, Springfield, Memphis and three full days in Chicago. The special will arrive at noon Saturday Nov. 16, two hours before the great game between Notre Dame-University of Southern California. The big event of the trip, the game between "The Rattlers" and the "Blue Demons" will take place Sunday afternoon Nov. 17, in the world famous "Soldiers' Field stadium" on the lake front. The rates for the trip are as follows:

$80, two persons in lower berth.

These rates include round trip railroad and pullman fare, including occupancy of cars while in Chicago which will eliminate all hotel expenses. Also including eight meals on diners en route to and from Chicago, sightseeing trip in New Orleans and Springfield.

The train will be parked in Chicago adjacent to the New Union station, location of which is convenient to the downtown or "Loop district" and Soldiers' Field stadium.

NOCONA ELEVEN WILL GET TEST

Big Armistice Day Crowd Is Expected

Special to The Record News.

NOCONA, Texas, Nov. 5.—Preparations are being made here for a great event on Armistice day, Nov. 11, when it will be fought to a finish to see which it will be Jacksboro or Nocona Indians. This is the deciding game and it will be seen at the ending of the last quarter, who will be district champions, class B district 4.

Indians' Record Clean

The Nocona Indians feel very confident for many reasons. They have made an enviable record this season—not being defeated in any conference game, while they played some strong teams. The last tilt with Bowie was hard fought, it is admitted, but other games were won by larger margins.

The boys are doing some hard drilling and are toughening up for the fray. Another encouraging feature is that all came out of past skirmishes without injuries.

Showed Up Decatur

The Indians made quite a dent in the Decatur Baptist college eleven last Friday in a game here. And this was the college first-string too. Nocona held them to one first down in first half. There was one 90-yard run on intercepted pass, by Nocona, and an 80-yard run on kickoff. The final score was, Nocona 12 and Decatur Baptists 7. This was only a practice game. However all these victories make it encouraging for the Indians and of course gives them more vim and pep.

Big Crowd

This Armistice game is expected to get a record-breaking crowd.

The uniformed pep squad will be on the scene to do their stuff and the Jacksboro eleven will surely get a warm reception. The home team expects nothing but a hard struggle, of course, but they feel equal to the occasion.

Mustangs Will Put In Hectic Week To Prep for Aggies

DALLAS, Nov. 5. (AP)—Far from convinced that a scoreless tie with Texas has ruined his chances at the Southwest conference flag, Coach Ray Morrison is drilling his Southern Methodist squad hard in preparation for Saturday's fray with the Aggies at College Station.

With the probable exception of Malcolm Powell, rangy center, the S. M. U. squad will be intact for the Aggie bout. Powell injured a knee in the Texas game and is not likely to play this week. Mason, halfback, and Hammon, tackle, who also incurred injuries against the Longhorns, will be ready to go.

Baylor Star Halfback Is Regaining Old Form Now

WACO, Texas, Nov. 5. (AP)—With Virgil Gilliland, Baylor's elusive halfback regaining some of his old form, the Bears' chances for defeating Texas Saturday appeared somewhat brighter today. Coach Jennings, who saw the S. M. U.-Texas game, came back armed with a book of notes on Texas' plays, and he put his eleven through a fast pace today.

The Baylor eleven is in fine physical shape for Saturday's fray.

Convicted Perjurer Ineligible to Testify

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 5. (UP)—A person who has been convicted of perjury cannot testify in an Oklahoma court even though the case involves his own company and he has been pardoned with a full restoration of citizenship.

The supreme court laid down this rule today in an opinion by Justice Fletcher Riley in the case of S. T. Blakely et al. vs. J. S. Bearden. Blakely had been convicted of perjury and sought to testify in the case. Justices Clark and Cullison dissented.

Health and Diet Advice

MATERNITY MORTALITY

It has been estimated that 15,000 mothers die from childbirth in the United States every year. In spite of the wonderful hospitals and skilled obstetrical care, probably here more mothers pay the supreme sacrifice while giving life than in any other nation of the world.

There are some countries who lose only half as many mothers as we do. A mother in Italy, the Netherlands, Sweden or Norway stands only 50 per cent of the chance of death that the mother in America has to stand. Holland wins the honor by having the lowest death rate of all since for every thousand babies born only 2.3 mothers are lost. In this country, for every thousand babies born alive 6.7 mothers die. The rate for Scotland is 5.8, then comes Germany with 5.2. England has lowered her rate to 3.8. Italy's rate is 2.7. In Scandanavia the rate is well under 3.

In white women between the ages of 15 and 44, motherhood comes as a cause of death second only to tuberculosis. Is there any reason why we cannot lower this death rate at least to that of Holland? Sixty-five per cent of the maternity deaths are due to blood poisoning. These cases occur more often to city women than to women of the country. The usual cause of septicemia has been laid to the door of the doctor who is in too great a hurry, and delivers with instruments, lacking the patience to wait until nature attends to the delivery.

A patient with faulty habits of eating and elimination who is run down is, of course, more likely to develop a case of infection even when the instruments are highly sterile.

I believe that the greatest factor in reducing the deaths from child bearing is the prenatal age. The mother should be carefully examined, measured, and her habits of living adjusted. She is the one person above all others who needs to live wisely, to eat the right things at the right time, to get enough sleep and exercise. Every hamlet in America should have its center where instruction on these subjects can be given.

The young woman who is willing to have a baby, to go through with the ordeal of its birth, to care for it and cherish it, to make a home for it where it will be cared for, and to lavish on it all of the tenderness and sweetness which has made the name of mother the grandest name in the world, should not have to run the risk of any needless dangers before she can clasp her precious bundle. Let us organize to save the mothers.

To any who are interested I will be very pleased to send my motherhood series which outlines the dietetic and hygienic care that I have found most advisable in this extremely important period of a woman's life. Simply write to me in care of his newspaper and enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request, and the article will be sent to you without charge as soon as possible.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Growing Taller

Question—Miss R. W. asks: "Could you tell me a way to grow taller? I am 19 years of age. Also, how may I strengthen my legs? Do adenoids cause the speech to be backward?"

Answer—Walking is the best exercise I know of for strengthening the legs. You should start walking a short distance each day, gradually increasing it as your strength increases. We do not stop growing until we have reached about the age of 25, and if nature intended for you to be any taller, you will naturally become so, and the walking will help. Adenoids may be the cause of a defect in the speech, and if this is the case they can often be cleared up through the use of a proper fasting and dieting regime. Vocal gymnastics which any singing teach can instruct you to use would also be of benefit.

Drinks With Meals?

Question: K. A. writes—"In your menus you never mention anything to drink at meal time, tea, coffee nor milk. Should we not use any of them?"

Answer—The best drink with meals is water, and not too much of that.

X-Ray Burns

Question: Mrs. J. writes—"From taking x-ray treatments for the removal of hair on my chin and chest I received first degree burns four years ago which have left unsightly parched looking black and purple spots on my skin, and little places that look like broken veins on my chest. Will any special treatment remove these marks, and would your curative diet help in any way?"

Answer—It is difficult to remove the effects of an x-ray burn, but the treatment that I have found of most benefit to this condition is the infra-red rays for a few minutes followed by the ultra-violet rays. While the cleansing diet regime is helpful to almost anyone, I do not know that it would have any specific effect upon this type of disorder.

Love for Floor-Walker Drives Girl to Suicide

CHICAGO, Nov. 5. (US)—Love for a loop floor-walker almost cost the life of Mrs. Charlotte La May, pretty young divorcee, today.

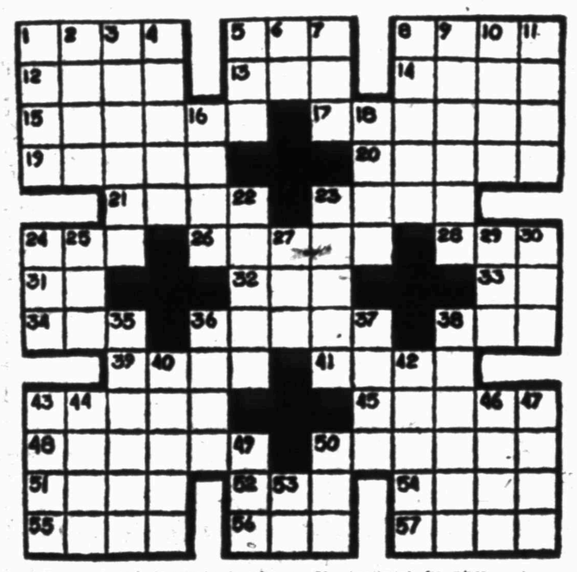

"I don't know his name," the girl said when police questioned her at the Washington park hospital after she had swallowed poison in a suicide attempt.

"He was so charming. I fell in love with him at once. But he was so cold and would do nothing but direct me where I asked. I'm awfully sorry about the wholemess."

COPPACK RETAINED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 5. (UP)—Roy O. Coppack, Republican member of the state board of affairs, will be retained in that position, Governor Holloway announced today.

TEMPLE OPENS TURKEY MART

25 Cents Paid for First Birds; Lower Price Seen

Special to The Record News.

TEMPLE, Okla., Nov. 5.—The 1930 turkey market was opened by the B. & O. stores here this morning with a price of 25 cents per pound prevailing throughout the day, according to Otto Mooney, one of the owners.

Deliveries were unusually heavy throughout the day, it was reported, from a large territory extending beyond the Red river into Texas. So far as could be learned, Mr. Mooney stated, the local market was the only one in the state at which buying for the Thanksgiving day trade has begun.

No prediction as to the price to be offered Wednesday was made by Mr. Mooney. He stated that purchase of turkeys would be limited to the number for which delivery had been contracted, and predicted a season price of about 20 cents on No. 1 birds.

MARKET EXPECTED TO OPEN HERE THURSDAY

Information given by local poultry dealers Tuesday indicated that the market on turkeys will open here Thursday, Nov. 7, for preparation of the nation's Thanksgiving day dinners.

No indication as yet has been given as to the price which probably will be offered on No. 1 birds, but a figure of not more than 20 cents is anticipated by those interested in the industry.

Buying of turkeys began at Temple, Okla., Tuesday morning with a voluminous influx of birds. Reports indicated that buying might be curtailed at any time by a fluctuating market.

Reliable advices stated Tuesday that 30,000,000 pounds of dressed turkeys comprise the present surplus on the Eastern market, promising a check of any flights in buying prices during the coming weeks.

Cotton ginning in the county went beyond the 1928 mark Tuesday when 389 bales reported for the day brought the total to 16,355.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 5. (AP)—Cotton worked to new low ground for the season today under selling pressure on pre-bureau liquidation and hedging. In late trading the market steadied and final prices showed recoveries of about 50 cents a bale. January dropped to 17.37, or 36 points net down but rallied later and closed at 17.47, or 26 points net lower. The general market closed steady at net losses of 25 to 26 points.

Liverpool cables were about as due and first trades here showed losses of 2 to 3 points. The market weakened sharply in sympathy with a late break in Liverpool and on liberal liquidation in advance of the government's crop report.

The flood of offerings uncovered stop loss orders on the decline which added to the weakness. December ultimately traded off to 17.25, Jan. 17.37, and March 17.6, or 33 to 36 points net down.

Towards noon the market steadied and prices rallied 10 to 11 points from the lows with Dec. at 17.36, and Jan. 17.47. The improvement was maintained to the end, final prices showed a net loss of about $1.25 a bale.

Receipts 74,327, for week 211,449; for year 4,492,287; last year 4,433,860. Exports 27,412; for week 173,067; for year 2,310,295; last year 2,489,038. Stocks 2,336,202; last year 2,120,239. Stock on shipboard at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 152,853; last year 154,625; spot sales 34,419; last year holiday.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 5. (AP)—(U. S. D. A.)—Liberal receipts of cattle around the 11-market circuit enabled packers to regain the whip hand, and they were able to erase most of the advance effected yesterday. Strictly choice matured steers and long yearlings suitable for shipping held steady, but less desirable grades were under pressure. Fat light yearlings ruled steady with 15 head of 868-pound steers on heifers at Kansas City scoring $16.25. Highly finished yearling steers realized $16.00 both at Kansas City and St. Louis. Offerings 58,800.

Hog trade continued slow at prices unevenly 10-35c lower than yesterday's average market. Current rates are the lowest of the season. The day's extreme top of $9.50 was paid early at Chicago. Receipts 105,600.

Sheep supply numbered 57,800. A decrease of 10,500. Killing classes were unevenly steady to 25c higher, with most of the upturn registered on fat lambs. Chicago obtained $13.25 for choice natives and fed westerns, while choice rangers in Kansas City made $13.00.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Nov. 5. (AP)—(USDA)—A broad active demand for low cutter cows, mostly on order account proved to be the most interesting feature of cattle trade here Tuesday. Cows of these low-costing grades made a good clearance running the early rounds at prices that were strong to 25 cents higher and some strength was also displayed in butcher and beef grades. The market for other classes of cattle, including slaughter steers and yearlings held generally steady. She stock, low cutter cows and mixed butcher classes formed the big bulk of the day's cattle receipts.

Fat yearling trade carried a small lot top of $13.50 and a few good yearlings reported around $11.00 and $12.30. Sorts at good fat cows sold up to $8.00 and bulk of the butcher grades sold around $6.00@6.50. Low cutters at $3.75@4.85 and about 40 loads sold on outside account at $4.25@4.85.

Good heavy stock calves, preferably steers, wanted at $10.00 and $10.50 and quite a little business reported in stock heifer calves at $9.00@9.75.

Slaughter calves ruled mostly steady. Packers paid up to $9.50 for two loads of good to choice heavy fat calves, other heavies at $9.25 and less; cull sorts at $5.00@5.50.

No smooth butcher hogs shown in the carlot division today and available supplies of medium grade lights sold at $8.75@9.00. Prices that appeared 10 to 15c lower, truck hog receipts fairly liberal and the market in this division ruled steady to 10 cents higher, bulk sold to small killers. Best truckers topped at $9.05 and others sold at $8.90 and less.

Only 600 sheep and lambs posted for Tuesday's trade and Texas supply included two decks of feeder lambs on contract prices. Opening sales quotably steady, fat truck lambs brought $12.00 and feeder truck lambs sold at $10.00 and $10.50.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5. (INS)—Hogs—Receipts 33,000, market 10 to 15c higher; top $9.50; bulk $9@9.40; heavyweight $8.65@9.40; medium weight $9@9.50; lightweight $9@9.45; light lights $8.75@9.30; packing sows $7.90@8.60; pigs $8.35@9.00; holdovers 3,000.

Cattle—Receipts 11,000 market steady. Calves—Receipts 3,000, market steady. Beef steers—Good and choice $14@15.75; common and medium $9@13.50; yearlings $9@16.00. Butcher cattle: Heifers $7.50@13.00; cows $6@10.50; bulls $7.50@11.00; calves $12@14.50; feeder steers $9.50@12.00; stocker steers $8@11.00; stocker cows and heifers $6.50@10.00. Western range cattle: Beef steers $8@12.00; cows and heifers $6@10.00.

Sheep—Receipts 11,000, market steady. Medium and choice lambs $12@13.50; culls and common $9@11.00; yearlings $8@11.00; common and choice ewes $3@5.50; feeder lambs $11.50@13.00.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 5. (AP)—Cattle—Receipts 1,100; calves 900; lightweight steers and yearlings $11.00@11.50; grass cows $6.50@7.50; vealers $12.00.

Hogs—Receipts 1,800; trucker top $9.05; prospective rail top $9.05.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 5. (AP)—(USDA)—Hogs—Receipts 14,000; 15@25c lower; top $9.05 on 210 to 250 pounds.

Cattle—Receipts 17,000; calves 3,000; steady to 25c lower; slaughter steers, good and choice 950 to 1500 pounds $11.75@15.75; cows $7.75@10.25; stocker and feeder steers $9.75@12.25.

Sheep—Receipts 7,000; lambs 25c higher; sheep strong; lambs $12.00@13.00; ewes $4.25@5.60.

Grain

TEXAS CASH PRICES

FORT WORTH, Nov. 5. (AP)—Wheat on the cash grain market today closed sharply lower in sympathy with the decline in contract values. Other grains showed little change. Lifting of the Texas port embargo on wheat is expected by dealers to have little effect, except as to shipment of some low-grade stuff, mills having raised their premiums so high as to make export sales practically impossible.

Dealers and mills bids and offers, basis delivered Texas common points:

Wheat—No. 1 ordinary hard milling $1.21½@1.22; 13 per cent protein $1.23½@1.24; 14 per cent protein $1.27½@1.28; 15 per cent $1.31½@1.32; 16 per cent $1.35½@1.36.

Corn—No. 2 mixed $1.03@1.04; No. 2 white 95 per cent $1.05@1.06; No. 2 yellow $1.10½@1.11½.

Oats—No. 2 red oats 58@59c; No. 3 white delivered group 1 points 55@55½.

Heads—Milo per ton $24.00@25.00; kaffir $22.50@23.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Nov. 5. (AP)—Abrupt breaks in wheat tore the market down 3½ cents a bushel today making the drop 9½ cents from last week's top level. Huge immediate supplies on hand both appeared to be largely responsible. The market here closed at within ⅛c of the lowest point reached.

Latest Chicago quotations on wheat were nervous 2¾ to 3⅝c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1 to 1⅜c down, oats ⅛@1 to 1⅛@1¼c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 17c.

With foreign prices showing much greater downturns than had been looked for, the market displayed weakness from the outset.

Adding to the downward swing of wheat values were assertions that Europeans appear disposed to let holders of wheat on this side of the Atlantic carry the load and pay storage charges, knocking at the door only when pressing needs require.

Clear, cold weather excellent for field work did a good deal to pull corn prices lower. Many traders were inclined to look for a larger movement of new corn soon to market centers. Oats declined with corn and wheat.

Provisions reflected downturns in the value of hogs.

BROOKHART TO REPEAT STORY

Senate Hears Partial Account of 'Party'

By FRASER EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. (US)—A corner of the curtain was lifted on a "Wall street booze dinner" by Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, of Iowa, in the senate today, to give the country a glimpse of such social affairs in Washington.

On the eve of his appearance before the federal grand jury, Brookhart described the now famous dinner given at a local hotel in 1926 by Walter J. Fahy, New York broker, at which he said senators were presented with silver hip flasks filled with Scotch whisky.

The long-heralded expose of senatorial drinking at the dinner created as much merriment as it did sensation. It left some of the senatorial guests, whom Brookhart failed to name, in a more comfortable frame of mind, but it may cause embarrassment to several Wall street financiers.

Loomis Named

Brookhart named Otto H. Kahn of Kahn, Loeb and company, and E. E. Loomis of J. P. Morgan and company, as his dinner partners. Loomis was the only man mentioned by name as having taken a drink. It was "alcoholic stuff" apparently "too strong to take raw," the senator said.

In the event Leo A. Rover, U. S. district attorney for the District of Columbia, pursues his investigation of the Fahy dinner on the basis of Brookhart's testimony tomorrow, it is assumed that Kahn and Loomis will be summoned before the grand jury, along with their broker host. This would also involve Senators Smoot of Utah, Edge of New Jersey and Senator-Elect Vare of Pennsylvania, the only senatorial guests mentioned by Brookhart. The Iowan, however, specifically absolved Smoot of accepting a hip flask. In fact, he said Smoot was "disgusted with the booze part of the dinner." Nor did the late senator Gooding, of Idaho, who accompanied him to the dinner, take a flask, said Brookhart.

Wall Streeters Active

"And I did not," said Brookhart, who is proud of the claim that he has never tasted liquor in his life. "As to whether the other boys did, they can answer for themselves. I do not know. A good many of them, the Wall streeters, were very active in getting flasks. I noticed that."

When Brookhart said Senator Edge had asked him if he "got contaminated just a little" because he sat between Kahn and Loomis, the New Jersey senator jerked around in his seat to look at the Iowan behind him. Senators and galleries laughed.

There was another chuckle when Brookhart said that Senator Moses, president pro tempore of the senate, who was occuping the vice president's chair, urged him to accept Fahy's invitation.

"'Who is Fahy, anyhow,' I asked," said Brookhart.

"He said, 'Well, he is an old friend of Norris and La Follette, and he is giving a friendly dinner, down there'; and that is true," continued the senator.

While Brookhart failed to explain it, it is presumed that he referred to the fact that when Fahy was a writer on the Washington Times 20 years ago, when the late Frank Munsey was carrying on a progressive crusade, Fahy was on friendly terms with the late Senator La Follette, father of the present Wisconsin senator and Senator Norris, of Nebraska.

"I said 'All right; if that is all there is I will go,' and I went," said Brookhart.

"When I got down there the first fellow that greeted me was Otto Kahn. I did not recognize him as a particular friend of Norris and La Follette.

"I looked around at that bunch, and it seemed to me there was something doing and in a little while someone lifted the curtain either on a table or a bookcase or something, and underneath that curtain was a rack of beautiful silver hip flasks.

"Help Yourself"

"The word went around that they were filled with Scotch or something of that kind, and 'help yourself.' A considerable number of the gentlemen there did help themselves."

Senators and gallery occupants rocked with laughter a few moments later when Brookhart read a letter from Roger W. Mintone, of Boston, enclosing a newspaper clipping that the senator was to appear before the grand jury. The letter read:

"If the enclosed represents your idea of the ethics of a guest invited to a private dinner to broadcast tales about his hosts, the suspicion that you are a charter member of the Great American Polecat club seems amply confirmed."

Brookhart Undisturbed

Moses was forced to admonish the galleries against any demonstration before order was restored.

Brookhart, however, was undisturbed by the hilarity. He went on to tell how Kahn advised him that his scheme for railroad valuation "would not work" while Gooding was approached by other members of the party on his proposal to amend the "long and short" railroad law.

Although Brookhart was a bit vague about it, he indicated that it was his chief purpose to expose such methods of lobbying rather than reveal the names of senatorial drinkers. He said that he assumed Mintone was a "perfectly honest man" but "that he did not know the circumstances of this dinner," and added:

"Mr. President, I want to say this, that no man can invite me to a dinner and talk to me about my duties in the United States senate with a view to influencing me against my constituents and call that confidence.

"No man can invite me to a dinner where crime is in evidence in any way and say to me that because of his confidence as a host I shall conceal the crime, or neglect to testify to the facts exactly as they occurred.

Country's Trouble

"That's what is the matter with this country. It is these infernal high societies, these secret societies which think they are above the law, these societies which say the law is for the little men and not for the big men."

After commending President Hoover and Vice President Curtis on their personal stand on prohibition, Brookhart urged other diplomats to follow the example of Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador to hold "dry" dinners. He insisted that conditions had improved since he first came to Washington in 1896.

"There was a bar in the restaurant of the house at that time," he said. "In one walk in Washington I saw more drunken congressmen than I have seen drunken people altogether in this city in the last seven years."

Melon Blamed

After describing liquor smuggling over the Canadian border, as a result of a personal investigation last summer, Brookhart declared it was a result of an insufficient border force and declared that secretary of the treasury was to blame.

"We voted him $50,000,000 to improve and to increase this prohibition force, and he turned it down. He did not want it," said Brookhart.

Brookhart then went into the Fahy dinner. He explained that he had thrown away his invitation, but produced an invitation and guest list to a dinner given by Fahy in December, 1928. He declined to insert the guest list in the record, however.

"And here is a list of the senators and of the guests," he said. "Some of these senators, I know, did not attend this dinner. They told me so; and, by the way, probably five senators have asked me if they attended the one that I did. They did not seem to remember."

This produced a hearty laugh.

"I am not going to put in this list of guests," he continued. "I do not know whether there was any booze at this dinner or not; but this was a Wall street dinner. I see Mr. Loomis, of the Morgan company, mentioned here, and there is a long list of Wall streeters in this list of guests."

'Unwritten Law' Valid in Lone Star State Exclusively

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 5. (AP)—The "unwritten law," justifying the slaying of a wife by a husband when she is found with another man has no place in Wisconsin jurisprudence, the state supreme court ruled today in refusing the appeal of Louis M. Payne sentenced to 20 years for killing his wife. The court asserted an English court has never held "an outraged husband may take the law into his own hands and slay except in the state of Texas."

SERVICES FOR MRS. BRYAN

Rites Held Here for Pioneer Of Wichita Falls

Funeral services for Mrs. C. M. Bryan, 69, pioneer former resident of Wichita Falls, who died in Mangum, Okla., early Monday morning, were held at the grave in Riverside cemetery at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon after the body had been forwarded from Mangum where services were held Tuesday morning. E. F. Bohmfalk, educational director of the First Methodist church, officiated at the services here.

Mrs. Bryan first came to Wichita Falls in 1880 when her father, known to old timers as Major Harris, moved his family first from Dallas to a Red river farm and then to this city. She was a charter member of the First Methodist church, the organization of the church having taken place in the parlor of the famous old Harris house, which Major Harris built across the tracks from the present site of the Fort Worth and Denver freight station. She lived here until 1910 and at intervals since that time.

Survivors include three sons, Alfred, Gordon, and Marvin; one brother, W. T. Harris, 1100 Taylor street; and two sisters, Mrs. Earl Van Dorn and Miss Betty Harris of Dallas. Mr. Bryan, who was former Wichita county tax collector and former city marshal here, was killed about a year ago in an automobile accident near Amarillo.

Baggage Man Faces Charge

Furniture Given Him to Pay Debt, Says Wichitan

A formal charge of burglary was filed Monday afternoon against Jim Calahan, local baggage man, in connection with the removal of furniture and furnishings valued at more than $400 from a house belonging to J. H. Wright, about three miles from the city just off the Iowa Park road last week.

Calahan was arrested by members of the sheriff's department Monday after investigation had located a part of the furniture in a local furniture store. In a statement to L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney, Monday afternoon Calahan said the furniture was given him in payment of a debt, and he did not know the house was not the property of the man who gave him the furniture. The debt amounted to $50, he said. Calahan was held in the county jail Tuesday night, no bond having been set.

School And College Notes

Miss Catherine McCarty gave a discussion on newspaper interviewing at the regular meeting of the college Writers club Tuesday afternoon. Miss Bernice Jeter read an original feature story on the Sam Houston extension of the city library. New books were discussed by various members of the club. Miss Aldie King presented an article to the club and was admitted to membership. It was decided that the members would answer the roll call at each meeting with the history of a word, or some profitable material.

100 Attend Picnic

Approximately 100 students attended the get-together and picnic Monday night at Weeks park, given for the college mathematics classes, according to B. T. Adams, instructor. Katherine Keller and Howard Martin were in charge of the entertainments and eats.

Parade Prizes

Miss Charlotte Joiner presented prize boxes of candy for the best decorated cars in the football parade Saturday to J. I. Staley, Mrs. Witherspoon and Miss McKee at high school assembly Tuesday morning.

Team Honors Teacher

Members of the high school football team dedicated the 14-0 victory over Vernon to J. A. Hood, faculty member, at the regular assembly Tuesday morning. Leo Davis, member of the football team, made the presentation. Mr. Hood is a strong supporter of the team and the school, and the whole student body agreed with the football team in their selection.

Finnell Gives Talk

Dr. J. Leslie Finnell, pastor of the Magnolia Avenue Christian church of Fort Worth, was the principal speaker at the regular high school and Junior college assembly Tuesday morning. Dr. F. A. Bash, pastor of the First Christian church of this city, introduced the speaker. Doctor Finnell is now holding a revival here, and will continue through Sunday, Nov. 10.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Ads accepted for afternoon papers up until 11 a. m. same day.

Morning paper up to 6 p. m. for the following morning.

Sunday paper up to 1 o'clock Saturday night.

Same copy in both papers.

THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS from 4 to 6 p. m. And telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.

Exceptions: Want ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headlines and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

School for Brides Teaches Girls How To Hold Husbands

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. (UP)—A school for prospective brides, with a curriculum that instructs them how to hold husbands has been started here by the Young Woman's Christian association.

The principal admonition is to keep hubby's stomach contented. More prospective brides desire lessons in cooking that in any other subject.

Mrs. Irvin W. Ketcham, educational director of the association, said the school was started after a number of young girls, including many Washington debutantes, asked for such preparations.

"The girls realize that they must win husbands with their hearts and hold them by caring properly for them," Mrs. Ketcham said. "We have classes in cooking, marketing, household management, directing servants and dressmaking.

"The girls, all considering matrimony, take biscuit making as the major subject. Then we teach them the fine art of cooking with other culinary instruments instead of using the can opener.

"One husband brought his wife to the school and asked us to please teach her how to cook. It saved the couple from separating."

Carl Williams Tells Cotton Control Plan

WASHINGTON, Nov. 5. (UP)—Carl Williams of Oklahoma, cotton representative on the federal farm board, today in a statement said that centralized control of cotton marketing will be the first farm aid step of the federal farm board.

"The board will encourage and promote cooperative unions of cotton growers and "all organizations will combine to sell the cotton in such a way that all the cotton of all the members will go to world in a single steam under central control," Williams said.

Shorter exhibition game programs are planned for several major league teams next spring.

$400,000 PLACED IN DEEP DRILLING FUND

ELECTRA C.-C. PLANS BANQUET

Program of Stock Sales Outlined at Meet

Plans which leaders in the deep oil drilling project now in progress here believe will produce the remaining $600,000 of capitalization within the next few days and announcement of the subscription of $75,000 worth of stock by three corporations recently were given before a meeting of about 50 business men of Wichita, Wilbarger, Clay, Archer and Young counties in the City National bank directors' room Tuesday morning.

An increase of about $100,000 in the total amount of stock subscribed to date, which was inaugurated last Wednesday with the placing of approximately $300,000 capital stock with local business men, was represented largely by blocks of $25,000 each taken by James E. McKanna, president of Tower & McKanna, Inc., J. W. Carpenter of Dallas, president of the Texas Power and Light company, and the Upham Gas company. It was announced that other subscriptions comprising the $400,000 thus far pledged range in amount from $1,000 to $50,000. It was indicated that other large subscriptions probably will be announced within the next two or three days.

Second Meet Called

Another meeting of the entire finance committee will be called within a week, Harry Hines, chairman, announced, at which time representatives of the four districts included in the project will be given lists of prospective investors in their respective communities. These citizens will be called upon for subscriptions, it was announced, after which the campaign for whatever unsubscribed balance remains will be carried to the general public.

A committee, headed by A. E. Kelly, manager of the Texas Electric Service company, will submit the investment to owners by chain stores doing business in this territory, and the proposition also will be presented to non-resident owners of property in this locality.

Preparatory to the enlistment of investors in the Electra territory, an invitation banquet is to be given at the Mariott hotel in Electra Wednesday night for about 100 business men of that area. The affair is being sponsored by the petroleum division of the Electra Chamber of Commerce, it was announced. According to information given Mr. Hines, he said, similar meetings are being planned for Archer City and Henrietta.

Short addresses were made Tuesday morning by Mr. Kelly and Mr. Hines expressing confidence in the investment features of the recently organized Deep Oil Development corporation, and advancing the opinion that little trouble will be met in placing the entire $1,000,000 of capital stock.

Profits Expected

Mr. Hines stressed the fact that new sands to be encountered between present producing levels and the maximum depths to be explored are expected to make the corporation a profit-paying concern, even though no quantity of deep oil should be found.

"I predict that the year 1930 will be one of the most prosperous we have ever had," declared Mr. Hines. "This corporation probably will participate in the drilling of 25 to 30 deep tests, and this activity, I believe, will occasion the spending of millions of dollars in this section during the coming year by major companes whose activities would have been very limited but for this deep drilling campaign."

Mr. McKanna also spoke briefly, expressing his faith in the predictions of William N. Nicholls and other geologists that paying quantities of oil will be found in deep sands here.

Today — At the Theaters

By W. L. UNDERWOOD

MAJESTIC: "The Sophomore," with Eddie Quillan, Sally O'Neil and a college campus. Talking comedy. Song feature. Movietone news.

STRAND: "Why Bring That Up?" by Moran and Mack, the "Two Black Crows." "Moonshine," talking skit. Paramount sound news.

OLYMPIC: William Haines in "A Man's Man," with Josephine Dunn. Comedy. Pathe review. Honey H. Harris on stage.

GEM: Joan Crawford and Nils Asther in "The Dream of Love." Comedy.

Those who didn't see Harold Lloyd's rollicking farce, "The Freshman," may pick up that gladsome atmosphere with more modern setting in "The Sophomore," now cutting capers at the Majestic. Those who did see the first-year epidemic of semi-authentic collegiate fratmosphere should naturally graduate to the sophomore division as interpreted by Eddie Quillan and Sally O'Neill, and will matriculate for the current courses in advanced humor.

◇ ◇ ◇

Not that Eddie and Sally have picked up Harold's 1927-28 classic and appropriated it to their present use, even screen-play sophomores wouldn't betray the traditions of their classification by adopting freshman patterns. They might take a "fish" idea and improve upon it, of course, and possibly that has been done—but only through the advantage afforded by sound-recording equipment. From the standpoint of wholesome nonsense, produced through artistic caricature of characteristics commonly attributed to college students, "Sophomore" has little on his silent first-year predecessor. But an even break with the Lloyd film classifies Eddie Quinnan's as one of the most entertaining comedies in current film history.

Sally O'Neill's attractive little person is brought in for the element of pathos, you understand—there is always an element of pathos in affairs of young love like that. And since she is a waitress, the snobbish sorority sisters are given occasional opportunities to turn rampant noses skyward. But Eddie is in there for fun, both as a college boy, and as an actor in the talkies.

There is a football game, of course, and believe it or not, Eddie does not stage a 99½-yard dash to score the winning six points as the final whistle smote the air. The dramatic technique for this moment was furnished by the heads-up California captain who last year charged madly down the field to cross his own goal line and give the enemy the decision. But Eddie found a way to save the day, which is none the less hilarious for having necessitated several intricate expositions of football rules.

Graham McNamee, celebrated radio announcer, surely will enjoy this picture. The take-off on radioland's greatest microphonic-dramatist furnishes one of the most entertaining lines in the whole show. Mr. McNamee's effective style in the broadcasting booth above the stadium is given a polite but exceedingly poignant serving of razzberries.

◇ ◇ ◇

Local admirers of Moran and Mack, the "Two Black Crows" whose screen story of "Why Bring That Up?" is now being enacted at the Strand, probably will believe the following yarn, since it comes straight from Charlie Mack. It converted him thoroughly to a belief in the "sweet uses of adversity." Anyway, this is the way he says he got his start:

◇ ◇ ◇

"I used to deliver my comedy rapidly with a silly grin at the end of each line. But one day I cultivated a terrific toothache and had to go on the stage before I could get it pulled or even treated.

"I was in such misery that night that I couldn't have smiled for anyone. I began my act just as I felt—sad, and uninterested in everything. I was a hit. The sicker I got, the more tired and sad I spoke. I was a riot—and so was my head. But I've kept that voice ever since."

◇ ◇ ◇

That being true, we can guess where Harry Green got his idea for a malady to motivate part of the action in "Why Bring That Up?" Harry of the pleading voice didn't grow up in the shadow of the screen. He was taken from New York law practice for a talking-picture career.

AD CLUB HEARS TALK OF CITY

Members Review Business Conditions Here

Members of the Wichita Falls Ad club engaged in an old-fashioned testimonial meeting on the subject of this city's future in the regular weekly meeting held at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon, with P. B. Roberts in charge of the program.

Evidences of a steady growth and improvement in business conditions which already have begun were cited by W. S. Abbott, C. A. Spragins, E. A. Bebb, T. A. Bradley, Don Ross and Albert E. Kelly. The deep oil drilling campaign about to be inaugurated was stressed by Mr. Kelly as one of the best guarantees of renewed commercial activity and success.

Members of the club voted to send flowers to Voyle N. Armstrong now in Indiana with his mother, who is seriously ill.

Work of the committee appointed recently to aid the Junior chamber of commerce in putting on the "Buy at Home Week" this month was reported by T. A. Bradley, chairman.

Optimists to Have Program on Armistice

R. E. Shepherd will lead a special series of army songs, Archie Smith will give several vocal selections and John Butts will give a reading at the special Armistice day program for members of the Optimist club luncheon at the Kemp hotel Wednesday, it was announced.

The speaker for the day will be announced at the luncheon.

Dick Gregg, J. Dud Hall and Julius Engleman are in charge of the arrangements.

Hack Wilson is considering a vaudeville contract.

City Urges Care of Water Pipes

Douglass Issues Cold Weather Warning

Though now it is hot one day and cold the next, cold weather is bound to come soon, and with it, the usual winter quota of busted water pipes.

In order to decrease this quota, Dr. A. H. Douglass, manager of the city water department, issued the first of his warnings to citizens Tuesday. They will be repeated, he said, in hopes of obtaining better results this winter than last.

The text of his warning was this; Those who have water cutoffs in their home system are urged to remember that they should be used when winter's blasts arrive. Those without water cutoffs in their homes should have them installed immediately. This, Mr. Douglass said, will eliminate tortuous nights when the citizen, comfortably ensconced in a warm bed, can hear pipes bursting in the cold without, and feel utterly helpless to control the situation. It will also obviate the necessity of city water department employes being called at all hours of the night to remedy a broken pipe, a job which Mr. Douglass pointed out, as being that of a plumber and not of the water department.

Night Life Gets You if You Don't Watch Out!
The kind that goes on in the big plants—but War Vet won't be licked.

This kind of man wins no matter where you put him
HOW would you like it if every two weeks you had to stand your life on its head, give up your good night's sleep, and work all night instead? This is what happened to W. H. Huggins of 90 Savannah Street, Rochester, New York. When he came back from the War, he took a "shift" job—two weeks' night work alternated with two weeks in the daytime.
"It certainly shot me all to pieces," said Mr. Huggins. "I was licked before I started. My pals noticed that the night shift got me, so during a 'lunch' period in the middle of one night one of them said to me, 'Hug, I bet I know what's the matter with you. This irregular life gets us all unless we watch out. Why don't you try Nujol? That will keep you regular as clock-work even on the night shift. Most of the boys are onto this little health trick. Try it!'
"Well, that very night on the way home I got a bottle at an all-night drug store, and within a week I felt like a different person. I want to tell you I've got my job licked now. I wouldn't know myself. You can lick any job, even a night one, if you get the poisons out of your system regularly."
That's the great thing about Nujol. It is the simple normal way to take up the poisons in your system, (we all have them) and clean them out regularly. It cannot hurt you no matter how long you take it, and it forms no habit.
Nujol contains no medicines or drugs. It is simply the world's most famous method of bodily lubrication.
You can get a bottle at any good drug store, in a sealed package, for less than the cost of a couple of good cigars. Begin today to prove to yourself how Nujol can help you to lick the toughest job!
