ONLY DRAFTEES WHO VOLUNTEER WILL BE SENT TO VIET

More U. S. Troop Withdrawals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today plans for a two-month withdrawal of 10,000 U.S. troops from South Vietnam and directed that only draftees who volunteer be sent there in the future.

Nixon's action would reduce the authorized troop level to 39,000 by Sept. 1.

The average monthly withdrawal rate of 5,000 for the summer months was half the level of the May-June rate of 10,000.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, who made Nixon's announcement, said the President also ordered that no draftees will be sent to South Vietnam unless they volunteer for service there.

However, Ziegler said, if they are already in the war zone or under orders to go there, they will stay or be sent.

He estimated there are some 4,000 draftees in the Army in South Vietnam .

The press spokesman said the Sept. 1 troop target level of 39,000 would represent a 93 per cent reduction from the authorized ceiling of 549,500 in effect when Nixon took office in 1969.

Asked if the 39,000 would represent a "residual force," Ziegler said he regarded that term as "somewhat of a misnomer." However, he said the United States "shall keep the minimum needed to achieve our objectives," and that, in any case, some American forces would remain until war prisoners and those missing in action have been returned or accounted for.

He said that in addition to troops in South Vietnam, some 40,000 men are aboard ships offshore and approximately 45,000 others are stationed elsewhere in Southeast Asia.

These figures have increased by about 25,000, he reported, since Hanoi's current offensive began last Easter weekend.

Zileger, while declining to predict that Nixon would direct further troop cuts in the future, told reporters, "We will have another announcement on this subject before Sept. 1."

McKool Breaks World Filibustering Record

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — State Sen. Mike McKool of Dallas added four hours and 11 minutes to the world filibuster record today, but his ordeal failed to add a dime to the state budget to help the mentally ill.

McKool held the floor for 42 hours and 33 minutes, eclipsing the mark of 38 hours and 22 minutes set by South Carolina State Sen. Ralph Gasque in 1968.

MORE MONEY

After the 5-foot-4 Dallas lawmaker sat down, the Senate rejected his amendment by voice vote and sent to the House its $4.1 billion spending bill for the year beginning Sept. 1.

McKool said he had called attention to need for more money for mentally handicapped persons and that a House-Senate conference committee might later agree to appropriate extra funds because of the public pressure his fight created.

He complained of numbness and aching bones. This did not stop him, however, from standing and talking some more for television cameras.

The self-styled Chihuahua of the Texas Senate seemed fresh toward the end.

McKool, who was defeated in June in a primary runoff race for Congress, gained the floor Monday morning to speak for a proposed amendment to the Senate appropriations bill that would give an additional $17 million to state mental health and mental retardation institutions.

EXTRA NEWS

He stuck close to the subject throughout his delaying tactics reading and rereading his amendment and statistics on Texas' status in spending for mental health. He read newspaper clippings concerning the mentally retarded who had been helped by treatment. He also read numerous notes, letters and telegrams received from supporters.

Throughout almost all of his filibuster McKool was serious and deliberate, speaking in a slow, carefully paced monotone. Occasionally he sucked a lemon or chewed a cough drop.

"Texas is 46th in the nation in mental health and mental retardation services," McKool rasped as he walked around his desk with his tie knotted and coat buttoned but shoes off.

"I think Texas should be in the top 10. I don't care if it's just shooting marbles," he said.

McKool spent most of the time arguing to the empty chairs of his colleagues.

NO DICE

He wanted $17 million added to the state budget to help mentally handicapped persons. He lowered his goal by steps to $1 million, but the Senate leadership rejected his offer.

'THINK COOL' — That seems to be the philosophy of Mrs. Ronnie (Jan) Moser as she walks along on Main Street Tuesday under a temperature gauge which shows 104 degrees. With Jan is three-week-old Kasi Shea Moser, who must have been thinking: "All things considered, I'd really rather be at home."

'YOU'RE GOING TO GET SOMEBODY HURT'

Complaints Against Cyclists Are Heard By City Council

By CHARLES TEAGUE

Tabled Tuesday night for further study by the city commission was a gas cost adjustment clause proposed by W. N. Lampe, Pioneer Natural Gas Co. The commission was requested to adopt the clause by ordinance as have 60 of the 62 cities now served by the West Texas Transmission System of Pioneer Natural Gas Co.

City manager Harry Nagel advised the commission that the ordinance could allow an annual rate adjustment by default. Annually Pioneer Natural Gas Co., by terms of the ordinance, will submit rate adjustments to the city by mail. The commission is then allowed 45 days to refuse the new adjustment proposal. If, by some chance, a future official who receives the letter doesn't understand the provisions, or if the mail fails to reach the city manager, the rate adjustment proposal would then be effective.

HANDS ARE BOUND

Nagel urged that any rate adjustment require an answer in either the affirmative or negative, before rates could be adjusted.

Arthur Madewell read a petition requesting that steps be taken to stop motorcycles on the area bounded by Marcy Drive, Virginia Street, 17th Street and Birdwell Lane. The petition was signed by 25 residents of the area who have been annoyed by the incessant noise and dust which they contend, infringes on their privileges as citizens.

Commissioner Eddie Acri suggested that the matter was one of trespassing as long as the motorcycles were equipped with mufflers which meet legal specifications. Chief of police Vance Chisum affirmed and added that action can be taken by police only when a complaint has been filed by the landowner. A license number is helpful, but added that the operator of the vehicle must be identified.

Commissioners sympathized with petitioners but admitted that no action could be taken except as provided by existing legislation concerning trespassing and excessive noise.

Commissioner Watkins said, "What you're heading for, you're going to get somebody hurt, because some of these old boys out in West Texas are going to take that gun out there, and he's going to slow them down."

Commissioner Hall asked, "What do you mean WE'RE going to get somebody hurt? . . . We don't have the authority to do it."

REGULAR COMPLAINTS

Chief Chisum reported his experience with the problem: " . . . I receive approximately from five to 15 calls every weekend pertaining to motorcycles on private property, and, gentlemen, our hands are bound. We don't have any law to give us authorization to go on private property and make an arrest. On numerous occasions I, myself, have gone out on weekends and talked to these

First Night The Hardest, Says Senator

AUSTIN (AP) — "The first night was the hardest," Sen. Mike McKool said today after setting new state and world filibuster records.

"I really didn't intend to go as long as I did," the Dallas senator told The Associated Press shortly after he sat down at 7:33 a.m. after holding up debate in the Senate since 11:30 a.m. Monday. He held the floor continuously, talking most of the time, for 42 hours and 33 minutes.

"When I got up Monday I thought maybe I would go until maybe 9:30 or 10 that night. I was going just as long as I could. . . But this was my first filibuster, I've never had any experience in this . . . Then did you see that gallery the first night. That gave me the drive to go on. There must have been 40 or 50 right over there. They cheered and they sent me notes. Then the wires started coming in. I just kept going."

McKool said he did not even think about setting a new state record until about noon Tuesday when he was told by a fellow senator that he was within a few hours of the record held by Sen. Don Kennard, Fort Worth, of 29 hours and 22 minutes. It was the same with the world record. "I just kept thinking I'd go another 15 or 20 minutes and then see how I felt."

I don't think this is a defeat," McKool said, after the Senate overwhelmingly defeated his proposed amendment that would add $17 million more to the spending bill for treatment of the mentally retarded and ill. "I think this (filibuster) has caused an awareness in Texas of the situation in our mental schools And I believe by the time this bill gets through the House and Senate it will have more money in there for the mentally ill, particularly for community treatment services. I've been assured they will try to add $1 million at least."

McKool sucked on lemons, chewed throat lozenges and sipped just a small amount of water. That was all he had during his more than 42 hours.

$4.1 BILLION

Solons Act Quickly On Money Bill

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas legislators moved rapidly on the no-new-taxes $4.1 billion general appropriations bill today after more than 42 hours of delay caused by Dallas Sen. Mike McKool's world's record filibuster.

Senators passed the massive bill on a voice vote about 30 minutes after McKool sat down at 7:33 a.m. with a filibuster record of 42 hours and 33 minutes.

McKool received only six votes for his amendment — the subject of his filibuster — to beef up spending for treatment of the mentally ill and retarded by $17 million.

'REFORM' RULE

Within an hour after the bill passed, the House received it and sent it to the appropriations committee, which substituted its own version that contains more funds for higher education and mental health and retardation programs.

House leaders plan to lay the bill out for debate Saturday morning — a day later than they had planned, due to McKool's delaying tactic.

A House debate earlier than Saturday is forestalled by a new "reform" rule adopted in March which gives House members an automatic 72 hours — three days — to study appropriations bills before taking a vote. The 72-hours began at 9 a.m. today.

The rule was the result of years of griping about "railroad" tactics that sometimes forced representatives to vote blind on the complicated spending measures.

Action on the appropriations bill was set for special order at 10 a.m. Saturday, and the House voted to adjourn until Saturday morning.

Rep. J. E. Ward of Glen Rose asked whether the 72-hour rule could be suspended and the bill taken up sooner.

"This is the first time the rule has been in operation, and I request that we not suspend it," said Rep. Bill Finck, San Antonio, appropriations committee chairman.

Appropriations are the only item before the special session, which the governor called specifically to enact a state budget for the fiscal year starting Sept. 1.

Key Planks In Demo Platform

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are key planks in the Democratic Platform Committee's draft for the 1972 national convention:

VIETNAM—"If the war is not ended before the next Democratic administration takes office, we pledge as the first order of business, an immediate and complete withdrawal of all U.S. forces in Indochina."

BUSING—"Transportation of students is another tool to accomplish desegregation. It must continue to be available, according to Supreme Court decisions, to eliminate legally imposed segregation and improve the quality of education for all children."

TAX REFORM—"We endorse as a minimum step the Mills-Mansfield Tax Policy Review Act of 1972, which would repeal virtually all tax preferences in the existing law over the period 1974-76 as a means of compelling a systematic review of their value to the nation. The most unjustified of the tax loopholes should, however, be closed immediately."

CEILINGS—"A first priority . . . must be eliminating the unfair, bureaucratic Nixon wage and price controls . . . . America's working people will support a truly fair method of stabilization which affects profits, investment earnings, executive salaries, and prices, as well as wages."

DRAFT—"We urge abolition of the draft."

Over 12 Million Gallons Of Water Used Locally

For the second consecutive day, Tuesday brought a new record single-day production for the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The district almost hit the 80-million gallon mark in producing 76,879,000 gallons of water from all sources.

This was 1,765,000 gallons more than for the corrected total of the previous day, when the old record of Aug. 17, 1970 had been eclipsed by a million and a half gallons.

The cities took 60,550,000 gallons, up only about 300,000 gallons from the previous day. Both Odessa and Big Spring set new season records, the former taking 27,310,000 gallons while Big Spring required 12,010,000. Snyder eased off slightly to 4,636,000 and Midland was down a million and a half for 13,365,000 gallons. Stanton also eased off to 310,000 gallons, while San Angelo dropped half a million to 2,658,000.

The oil companies however, were up with a total of 11,634,000 gallons of potable water, about two million over the previous day, and another 4,695,000 gallons of brackish water.

On both days, about 21 million gallons were produced from the Ward and Martin counties well field and the city wells at Odessa and Snyder. The remainder came from Lake Spence and Lake Thomas except 2,375,000 gallons from the diversion works on the river above Colorado City.

Sales Tax Revenue Shows Some Gain

The City of Big Spring will receive sales-tax revenues totaling $105,554 for the first quarter of 1972, up less than $5,000 from the corresponding period in 1971.

The sum returned to Big Spring for the first three months of 1971 totaled $101,831.35.

Colorado City received $14,913 for the first quarter.

young people and asked them not to ride on it, and in many cases, they told me it was none of my business, it was on private property and they had the owner's permission; and there's nothing you can do but turn around and walk off."

An ordinance proposed in the last meeting by Nagel which would make water rates outside the city limits double the water rates inside the city limits was read. The proposal provided that the director of public works with approval of the city manager may execute contracts with industrial water customers who guarantee usage of at least 250,000 gallons per month. The commission ordered that the proposed ordinance be amended to require commission approval of contracts.

A delegation of residents outside Big Spring who presently purchase water from the city argued that there was no reason for the cost of water to double when it crosses the city limits. They contended that they pay a fair price for water at present, and that it would be unfair to charge them twice the rate as city residents are charged. They presently pay a base one dollar higher and additional use charges 10 cents higher than the city residents pays.

Watkins and Nagel insisted that the investment involved in treatment facilities justified the double rate. They stressed that water rates alone are not responsible for repaying bonds and insuring conditions of the treatment plant.

Acri agreed that to increase the rate of long-time customers so radically is an unfair proposal. He urged that the rate for present outside customers remain the same, and that future customers be billed at the double rate.

He moved that the ordinance be tabled for further study. The motion passed.

MEETING TIMES

Commissioners voted, 4-1, to leave commission meeting times unchange, Acri argued that more citizen participation in government could come about if meeting times were changed from 5:15 to the original time of 7 p.m.

FREEDOM BELLS

Mrs. Mamie Lee Dodds approached the commission, requesting their presence at the "Let Freedom Ring" program scheduled for the east side of the courthouse July 4, 8 p.m. She presented Mayor Wade Choate with a colonial soldier hat and measured him for uniform. The commission pledged five city officials to act as honor guard for the program.

Other action taken by the commission on items in the agenda included:

—Approval of a certificate of occupancy requested by Albert K. Webb for the Black Diamond, 3803 W. Hwy. 80.

—Approval for a certificate of occupancy requested by R. L. Lebkowsky for the Tap Room Bar and Grill, 112 Main St.

—Approval of a certificate of occupancy requested by William H. Snow for Hank and Mutts Lounge, 303 E. 3rd. St.

—Directed the city manager to arrange joint session with the county court to discuss the air conditioning problems at Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

—Authorization to city manager to advise merchants interested in burglar alarms system to proceed with choice and purchase of a standardized system. The system is to be paid for entirely by participating merchants.

—Direction to the city manager to request of the Texas Highway Department a change of traffic light location from 5th and Gregg to 6th and Gregg.

—Acceptance of bid from Alamo Steel Co. of $3,868 for reinforcing steel and $506 for brackets and miscellanneous items for construction of a chlorine contact chamber.

—Authorization to the city manager to actively seek bids on the labor to contract the chlorine contact chamber.

—Approval on second reading of the ordinance for loitering on car lots.

—Approval on second reading of the ordinance for bookmaking.

—Acceptance of bid from Allied Machinery and Supply of $750 for the purchase of a bead blaster.

—Approval of payment of vouchers by the city through June 27 excepting voucher No. 6603 from Hester and Robertson Mechanical Contractors. The work performed was for the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center, the maintenance of which is shared responsibility of both the city and the county. The voucher will be presented in the joint session of commission and county court.

Nearly Dozen Twisters Reported In Arkansas

By The Associated Press

Nearly a dozen tornadoes were reported in Arkansas Tuesday night and early today as storms swept over the state for the third consecutive day.

No serious injury was reported. Damage reports were sketchy, but apparently no widespread destruction took place.

State police said two house trailers were demolished at Hector, one was blown over at Augusta, a gymnasium was damaged at Russellville and felled trees blocked Arkansas 282 in the Fort Smith area.

The National Weather Service and state police said tornadoes were indicated by radar, seen by officers or reported by citizens at these locations:

—Newport at 12:29 a.m. today.

—Just north of North Little Rock at 12:30 a.m. today.

—Heber Springs at 12:31 a.m. today.

—Four miles north of Palestine at 1:50 a.m. today.

—About 1½ miles west of Bradford at 11:23 p.m. Tuesday.

—Five miles east of Dover at 11:10 p.m. Tuesday.

—Five miles southwest of Fayetteville at 11:10 p.m. Tuesday.

—West of Augusta on U.S. 64 at 11:48 p.m. Tuesday.

—Five miles southwest of Mountainburg at 10:45 p.m. Tuesday.

—Five miles north of Van Buren at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

State police said high winds nearly blew a patrol car off a road near Palestine and wind up to 60 miles per hour was clocked at Newport.

Houston May Lose Bundle Due To Pollution 'Goofs'

HOUSTON (AP)—Houston may lose millions in federal funds because of failure to comply with water pollution requirements, the Houston Post reported today.

In a story from Austin, it said this warning from Dr. Cooper Wayman, regional counsel of the Environmental Protection Agency, came at a meeting of the Texas Water Quality Board in which the board again prodded Houston officials to get moving on more sewage plant expansions and to run their plants properly.

"This board is no longer going to take a lenient view of inadequate operation of what they have, even if it's nothing but a slop shop," said Gordon Fulcher, TWQB chairman.

Wayman said $7 million in current federal grants to Houston to build sewage treatment plants include requirements that Houston draw up an acceptable master plan for sewage treatment until 1990, and adopt an ordinance requiring industries to pretreat their water or pay the city for treatment.

"We must consider withholding payments unless these conditions are met," Wayman said.

E. B. Cape, Houston public works director, said only about $2.5 million of the $7 million in current federal grants is still unpaid. But Cape said the city is planning future requests for "staggering" amounts of federal money.

He said a planned new plant alone will cost $15 million and the federal government will be asked to pay 55 per cent of that.

Cape said a 1990 plan has been drawn up but not yet approved by the City Council and the Houston-Galveston Area Council of government.

A third draft of an ordinance requiring industry pre-treatment or payment is now under EPA review after two earlier versions were rejected by the federal agency, he said.

Fulcher urged the city officials to get together with the EPA "in all haste" to work out the problems.

"My impression is that if this thing isn't rectified by the end of the year, funds are going to get cut off," Fulcher said.

Buzzing Former Girlfriend In Stolen Airplane Fatal

REDDING, Calif. (AP) — For four hours Robert D. Lively buzzed the home of a former girlfriend, putting the small, stolen airplane through loops, dives and assorted aerial acrobatics.

"That's it. It's all over," were the last words the 25-year-old Lively said over the airplane's radio.

He died Tuesday when the plane ran out of gas and nosedived 70 feet to the ground near an abandoned landing strip.

"I tried to talk him down, but he wouldn't come down," said Deputy Sheriff Jon Kelbaugh, who had kept in constant touch with Lively over a two-way radio.

Kelbaugh said that Lively, formerly of Redding, refused to explain why he was stunt-flying over the Project City area northeast of here. The home of a former girlfriend, who had married another man, is in the area.

However, Sgt. Don Acker said investigators found a flight plan in the wreckage which declared, "Destination Project City. One way, No return."

Acker said, "He was advised he was running out of fuel, but he said he didn't care."

Acker said Lively stole the single-engine Avalon A2 from nearby Enterprise Sky Park where he had taken flying lessons. Deputies were alerted when residents of the Project City area telephoned complaints about a plane buzzing their rooftops.

He Can't See Wallace As Running Mate

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Although he says he's made no decision on a running mate, Sen. George McGovern apparently has ruled out at least one political figure for the job—George Wallace.

"I don't see how that would happen," McGovern replied Tuesday when asked about the possibilities of Wallace joining him as the Democratic candidate for vice president.

The South Dakota senator said the two would not be "comfortable" running on the same ticket. "I could not participate on that ticket," he told newsmen during a campaign stop here.

Asked if that means he does not think the ticket should be balanced ideologically, McGovern quipped:

"Yes, I think that's not a balance—that's a war."

He did not level any harsh criticism at Wallace, however.

McGovern spent a considerable amount of time in this military town outlining his position on defense spending cutbacks, explaining that as President, he would not close affected government employes.

Much of the emphasis would be on reducing U.S. military bases and troop levels overseas, said McGovern, who trained in San Antonio as an Air Force cadet during World War II.

For servicemen returning from Vietnam, McGovern suggested guaranteed public service job for them if they could find nothing in private industry.

Private industry would play a major role in McGovern's defense spending cuts.

To assure jobs for affected military base employes, he proposed government contracts with private industry in such fields as public transit, water development, new sewage treatment plants, new housing and neighborhood centers—areas which he said have been ignored because of the cost of the Vietnam war.

Councils Set Conference

City manager Harry Nagel today announced a tentatively scheduled joint meeting of the city and county commissioners.

The meeting will be in the county commission court room at 3:30 p.m. Thursday. Discussion will be directed at the air conditioning problems plaguing the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center.

When the center was completed and occupied, the city-county health unit was located therein. The city and county assumed responsibility for maintenance in lieu of rent. Much work has been contracted and much money spent toward rectifying eternal air conditioning problems in the building.

In Tuesday night's city commission meeting, Jim Thompson, director of the rehabilitation center, asked that the commission take action to prevent problems likely to arise during the summer months. He said that cardiac patients and paralytic patients cannot be treated when temperatures are abnormal. In the past, he added, treatment has been postponed because of air conditioning problems.

The joint session was arranged to decide what action should be taken to insure temperature control in the rehabilitation center.

A second item on the agenda is in regard to a bill from Hester and Robertson Mechanical Contractors which was submitted to the city for work performed at the rehabilitation center. Since both governmental agencies are responsible for the maintenance expenditures, the bill will be presented at the joint city-county session.

Area Of Baytown Sinking Into A Bowl-Like Hole?

HOUSTON (AP) — An engineer says the flood-prone Brownwood section of nearby Baytown is economically impossible to save and residents should abandon the area.

Others say bayshore residents in the Baytown area should consider shutting down water wells.

They claim much of the area is sinking into a bowl-like hole, making it vulnerable to floods.

Engineers, hydrologists and other speakers discussed the bayshore land before a League of Women Voters panel in Baytown Tuesday night.

W. R. Williamson, Harris County flood control engineer, said the Brownwood area is doomed. He said the section floods whenever an east wind blows at high tide and there is no economical way to salvage the land.

The Brownwood section with about 400 homes is on Scott Bay, Crystal Lake and Burnet Bay. Homes are in the $10,000 to $30,000 price range. About 15 homeowners have left because of repeated flooding the past decade.

The sinkage has been critical since 1943, with an estimated subsidence of 5 to 5½ feet, including 1½ feet in the last seven years.

Engineers blame the subsidence on the huge withdrawal of underground water by the City of Baytown and industries along the Houston Ship Channel.

Baytown Mayor Glen Walker told the panel the situation is critical. He said the use of underground water must be sharply curtailed or stopped entirely.

He said Baytown is negotiating with Houston and the Trinity and San Jacinto River Authorities for water and plans to limit or abandon its present well system.

Theft Ring May Involve Two Officers

HOUSTON (AP) — Investigation of a multi-state theft ring, which officers say may involve two police officers, will continue today.

The police chief of suburban South Houston said Tuesday "it looked like" one of his officers was involved in the alleged ring while intelligence agents with the Department of Public Safety say they plan to question another police officer in the Northeast Texas town of Clarksville.

The agents say the operations of the ring stretch from Texas to Missouri to Florida and involve the stealing on order of motor cars, mobile homes and boats.

Silence No Guilty Sign

AUSTIN (AP) — The conviction of three men in Dallas for possession of marijuana was reversed today by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals because the prosecutor made a point of their silence when they were arrested.

The appeals court sent the case back to Dallas, rubbing out the five-year probated sentence of William Hawk, four-year probated sentence of Howard Hammonds and two-year sentence assessed J.C. Vance.

They were arrested by Department of Public Safety narcotics agents Feb. 20, 1972, at a Dallas apartment.

In his arguments, the prosecutor said, "There was silence out there that night of that arrest because nobody denied. . ."

Defense lawyers objected "to the use of silence as being an inference of guilt" and "on the grounds that there was no question at that time giving cause to bring about silence into play."

House Demos Will Be Asked To Repudiate Party Charter

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democrats will be asked today to repudiate a proposed new Democratic party charter drafted for presentation to the party's national convention.

Incensed at what they regard as a downgrading of state Democratic leaders and elected public officials in the proposed party structure, a group of congressmen forced a special meeting of the House Democratic Caucus to put it to a vote.

BIG BOYS

The opponents, mostly big-city Democrats and members of regular party organizations, hope strong caucus action against the plan will add to the difficulties it already faces at the Miami Beach convention.

The plan, drawn up by two reform commissions created by the 1968 convention, would establish a national Democratic party with enrolled, dues-paying members. It would greatly expand the Democratic National Committee, giving a majority on the committee to locally elected persons, and authorize a national conference every four years, also controlled by delegates from the grass roots, to set party policy.

SPECIAL MEETING

The plan aroused heated opposition at the regular monthly caucus last week and petitions were sent around for another meeting this week so it could be voted on. It takes 50 members to get a special meeting and Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., who circulated the petition, got 70 to sign up.

Annunzio, a member of Chicago Mayor Richard Daley's Democratic organization, said he proposed plan would remove most of the present party leaders from positions of control, replacing them with women, youths and blacks, three categories guaranteed representation in the ruling bodies in proportion to their numbers in the voting-age population.

"I don't think that represents the Democratic party," Annunzio said Tuesday. "It's a goddamned quota system, something the Democrats have always been against. And paying dues before you can vote. That's going back to the poll tax."

Annunzio will ask the caucus to vote on a resolution stating that the plan "is not in the best interests of the Democratic party," and calling for further study of the issue.

Annunzio's objections were heightened by changes made in the plan by the convention Rules Committee last week after it had been presented to the House Democratic Caucus. Led by delegates pledged to Sen. George McGovern, the committee greatly enlarged the representation of grass-roots Democrats on the key committees and further reduced the influence of state party chairmen.

Miss Molina Named Woman Of The Year

Miss Ramona Molina was chosen Woman of the Year by Spring City Chapter, American Business Women's Association, at a dinner meeting Tuesday at Holiday Inn.

RAMONA MOLINA

Miss Molina is a charter member of the chapter and has served as corresponding secretary. She is presently chairman of the ways and means committee.

"Miss Molina is a very congenial person and we are indeed lucky to count her as a member of Spring City Chapter," said Mrs. Fred Butler as she read the letter which nominated Miss Molina for the award. Miss Molina was presented a charm by Mrs. Dale Fryar.

Miss Molina began working for Montgomery Ward in 1955 as a PBX operator, sales clerk and assistant cashier. In 1963, after earning a degree in business from Howard County Junior College, she became head cashier and head of the payroll department. When the company computerized some of its operations, Miss Molina returned to HCJC for a course in data processing and computer work.

Other activities of Miss Molina's include membership at St. Thomas Catholic Church where she has served as president, treasurer and publicity chairman for the church's altar society. She is a member of National Catholic Women and of the local PBX Club. In her spare time, Miss Molina enjoys baking, tennis and bowling.

Miss Molina's name will be entered in competition for national ABWA Woman of the Year. The winner will be announced at national convention in October in Miami, Fla. Miss Molina and Mrs. Butler will attend the convention.

Guest speaker for the evening was Jack White of the Department of Public Safety who outlined some causes of and precautions against automobile accidents.

"Four-day weekends are known as 'operation motorcide,'" White said. "Motorcide is the killing of a person or oneself by a motor vehicle." White estimated that 58 people will be killed in Texas during the upcoming long weekend, which averages out to one every two hours. He said 15 to 20 per cent of all the accidents will occur during the last six hours of the holiday.

White said primary factors contributing to traffic accidents are weather, traffic, highway, vehicle and driver conditions. He said at least 50 per cent of fatal accidents are related to alcohol.

"Driver carelessness is the biggest factor in accidents," said White. "Before leaving for vacation trips, drivers should check their vehicle, familiarize themselves with the route to be taken and allow plenty of time to arrive alive. Accidents occur because of unfamiliar situations. People are used to driving 30 miles per hour in town most of the time, and when they reach 70 miles per hour limits on freeways they are not conditioned to react properly to the situation."

Guests were Mrs. Jack White, Mrs. Dean Proctor and Mrs. Eunice Bell. Mrs. Dale Fryar presided, and the invocation was by Mrs. Edward Akin.

Miss Molina gave the vocational talk about her responsibilties at Montgomery Ward. The benediction was by Miss Mary Curtis. The group will meet again at 7:30 p.m., July 25 in the Pioneer Gas Flame Room.

Miss Schraeder Feted At Shower

Miss Katherine Schraeder, who will be married Aug. 12 to Marc Scott, was honored Monday evening with a gift shower in the home of Mrs. O. J. Bohannon at Sand Springs.

Cohostesses were Mrs. James Eppler, Mrs. Howard Calhoun, Mrs. Carl Gray, Mrs. Pete Jensen and Mrs. B. R. Stewart.

Pink corsages were presented to the honoree, her mother, Mrs. A. W. Schraeder; the prospective bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Berl Scott; and his grandmother, Mrs. Estell Joiner.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth, and the centerpiece was an arrangement of pink spring flowers. Appointments of crystal and silver were used. The registry was accented with a vase holding pink carnations.

The honoree was attired in a blue silk dress.

Hospital Needs Items To Sell

Items are still needed for a garage sale scheduled July 7-9 by Big Spring State Hospital. The sale will be conducted at the old Giant Food Store, 8th and Scurry. Anyone with goods to donate may contact Mrs. Larson Lloyd, volunteer coordinator at the hospital, 267-8216, Ex. 308. In the Forsan area, contact Miss Jackie Whetsel to have the items picked up.

Also, Mrs. Lloyd said a transistor radio is needed now for a patient suffering with a broken back.

Arts, Crafts Shown By Speaker

Creative arts and crafts which are enjoying current popularity were demonstrated by Mrs. W. P. Hughes, guest speaker at Monday evening's meeting of Young Homemakers of Coahoma.

Mrs. Hughes, who operates Creative Arts and Supply, displayed samples of various types of crafts, including tolle painting, crackle discs, decals, plaques and decoupage. She noted that a new decorative item, called a 'thumpkin,' involves the use of a thumb print to which is added art work making it resemble an animal or other object.

Mrs. Earl Tarbett, club secretary, presided for a brief business session, announcing that the next meeting will be a family ice cream supper at 7:30 p.m., July 24 at Richter's Store. Mrs. R. L. Coates will be hostess.

Mrs. Eddie Read announced that the area convention will be a one-day meeting Sept. 16 in Sweetwater.

Gift Party For Bride

A pre-nuptial gift shower honoring a former local resident, Miss Lucia Taylor, was held Saturday in the home of Mrs. Marshall Cauley, 524 Scott. Miss Taylor, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Connell Taylor of San Angelo, will be married to Gordon Simmons of Detroit, Mich. Aug. 19.

The ceremony will be held in the chapel of the First Baptist Church, San Angelo, with Chaplain Lee Butler of Big Spring officiating.

Cohostesses for the party were Mrs. Raymond Stallings, Mrs. Raymond Dyer, Mrs. Ernie Boyd and Miss Jan Dunagan. Mrs. George Pasley presided at the refreshment table.

The honoree, attired in a navy pantsuit with red trim, was presented a corsage of yellow daisies, as was her mother.

The crystal-appointed table was covered with white linen and accented with an arrangement of yellow daisies with touches of blue.

Beauceants Plan Trip To Assembly

Several members of the Social Order of the Beauceant will attend the Supreme National Assembly Oct. 2-7 in Dallas. Plans to attend were finalized at a local meeting Monday evening in the Masonic Temple.

Mrs. Lee Porter presided, and a donation was made to Knights Templar Eye Foundation. The order will not hold regular meetings during summer months, but a family night picnic is scheduled at 7 p.m., July 22 at Mrs. Porter's home, 1919 Parkwood.

Refreshments were served to members and guests by Mrs. C. R. McClenny, Mrs. George Pittman and Mrs. R. L. Lee. Regular meetings will resume at 7:30 p.m., Sept. 11 at the Masonic Temple.

Wedding Customs Changing With Attitudes Of Seventies

By PEGGY WALKER
Copley News Service

The bride wore a summer voile granny gown and daisies in her hair. Her bridegroom's Mexican wedding shirt was lace trimmed and full sleeved, tucked in with a wide leather belt.

They supped on carrot cake, cashew butter sandwiches and organic apple cider chosen by the bride for the reception. She postponed the honeymoon until a more convenient time and returned to work the next day.

The newlywed Ms. Bride and her bridegroom of the '70s will reside in a comfortable apartment made possible by a two-paycheck income, surrounded by unconventional wedding gifts from tuned in friends — a natural foods cookbook, plants in earthy pots, a tool chest, a subscription to a home improvements magazine.

Offbeat gifts? 'Unconventional fare and attire. The postponed honeymoon and the working bride. Like the freeform wedding and self-written vows, all of it is part of changing attitudes about weddings in the '70s.

Anyone who assumes "wedding" means engraved invitations, satin gowns, church ceremonies, champagne and a bevy of gifts from the silver department may be in for a surprise.

This is a decade in which wedding clothes may tend to be unconventional — but no less elegant. One recent bride wore a Juliet gown; her groom, a ruffled Edwardian shirt. They entered the church to the theme from "Romeo and Juliet."

Bridal showers often are for her and him, now. Ceremonies are moving to the beach and park. And vows may be rewritten in poetic verse.

The only safe thing to assume is that former dos and don'ts of etiquette have taken a back seat to personal style and the whims of the liberated bride of the '70s.

And liberated she is.

Statistics indicate the new husband of the '70s will bring home a bride much changed from the dependent, family and child-oriented homemaker who married dear old dad.

Chances are she will be an affluent, well-educated, decision-making business partner.

And she's not likely to settle down to back-fence recipe swapping, soap operas over the ironing board and 24-hour duty caring for the home and family. Not in the beginning, anyway.

A recent survey reveals 94 out of 100 contemporary brides-to-be intend to work after marriage for about three years, at full-time, not part-time, jobs.

Many honeymoons may have to be put off until jobs of both the bride and groom permit.

The bride will work because she will be better educated, more mature, closer in age to her husband than her counter parts of the past, if statistics hold true, and will have more leisure time away from domestic duties due to modern conveniences and a trend toward smaller families.

Surveys have put the '70s bride's median age at 21, her fiance's at 24 years.

Government statistics show that husbands are younger than in previous years and, therefore, may not have had time to establish themselves in chosen careers before marriage, which may increase a bride's desire to work to supplement income.

Inflation and increasing economic stress may further the trend.

But despite rising prices, younger husbands and unsure careers, the trend of the bride to leave home and enter the office will undoubtedly leave young husbands resting easier when they reach that part of the vow that deals with "for richer or poorer."

One in-depth poll indicates the new bride will bring home an average income of $97 per week, which combined with her husband's average earnings of $151 will put the family annual income at nearly $13,000.

For each bridegroom liberated from part of the family financial responsibility in early years of marriage, there will be a bride liberated from household chores and family-rearing in turn.

As we enter what appears to be an era of the two-child family, the young bride may elect to put off having children until her husband's income becomes stable and she has tried her own hand in the labor market.

With more education, the Equal Rights Amendment and the liberation movement at hand, she is likely to be working at a job and earning a salary which she probably couldn't have achieved until this decade.

And along with the job, the bridal gown and the free-form ceremony that break with tradition, there are likely to be bridal showers a bride wouldn't have dreamed of until the '70s.

Trends point to coed showers with gifts for both bride and groom (each opens both kinds), ecology-oriented showers (gifts made of recycled paper) and do-it-yourself showers with gifts of paint rollers, tools and hardware for practical couples from practical friends.

At one recent contemporary shower, the bride even received a glimpse into the future. The gift was an astrological forecast looking 20 years into the future.

SOMETHING NEW — In the '70's, it's "new" attire, a romantic gown over a pink gingham slip, a Pierre Cardin champagne beige polka-dotted suit.

'Quotable Women'

"It's so funny. Here we sit in our luxurious hotel drinking champagne and dining on caviar and then we go down there and get rejected" — singer Eartha Kitt after being removed from a bumper car in South African amusement park.

"America is still the top place for making films" — Polish actress Magda Zawadzka.

"The challenges facing our society today are so big and exciting that this is the moment for women to be widening their horizons not narrowing them. Let us get ourselves obsessed with something bigger than sexual politics."—Barbara Castle, member of the British Parliament, charging that the American women's liberation movement is wasting its time on trivialities.

Honors Received By Local Secretaries

Three certificates of achievement were presented to representatives of the local National Secretaries Association at a Texas-Louisiana Division meeting held recently in New Orleans, La. Accepting the awards for the chapter were Mrs. Vic Ames and Mrs. Camille Patterson, local delegates.

Certificates received were for educational achievement, membership increase and participation in providing information for a Certified Professional Secretary's examination.

Mrs. Ames reported on activities at the convention at a meeting Monday evening in the Texas Electric Reddy Room. Mrs. Sue Ratliff presided, and Mrs. Ames outlined goals of the chapter for the 1972-1973 club year.

Two new members introduced were Mrs. O. L. Renegar and Mrs. Conny Wade. Guests were Miss Jeanie Darden, Miss Dorothy Smith and Mrs. B. B. Averitt.

The group will meet again for a salad supper at 7 p.m., July 24 in the Reddy Room.

Cherry Death Penalty Upheld

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today upheld the death penalty murder conviction of James Walter Cherry in the Jan. 10, 1969 slaying of Dallas County Deputy Sheriff Eddie Raymond Walthers.

Walthers was killed and Deputy Alvin Maddox Jr. was wounded in a melee at a Dallas motel, where the two officers had been sent to make an investigation.

Accroding to case records, Walthers died of a bullet wound through the heart.

The case was tried in Fort Worth on a change of venue.

Lawyers for Cherry sought reversal of his conviction on grounds that 22 prospective jurors were excused because they said they could not assess the death penalty.

The jurors should have been asked only whether they could consider the death peanlty as punishment for a crime, the lawyers asserted.

But the high court said this interpretation of the U.S. Supreme Court's "Witherspoon,'" the court said, "the state is entitled to determine not only that the prospective juror will consider the death penalty, but also whether there are circumstances conceivable under which he could assess such a penalty."

Cherry's lawyers also complained that a Georgia prison warden was permitted to testify that Cherry, under a life sentence, had escaped on May 20, 1968, and had been at large since then.

The court said the testimony was permissible for the purpose of showing Cherry's motive for resisting the Dallas officers.

The court also overruled a contention that objects taken from the motel room were the results of an illegal search and should not have been admitted in evidence.

Noting that Cherry and his woman companion fled the room after the shootout and were arrested elsewhere, the court said: "After the abandonment of the room, the appellant had no right to complain about a search."

O. H. IVIE (LEFT) ACCEPTS PLAQUE FOR CRMWD
Presentation made by Elmo Wasson (C), Malcolm Patterson (R)

Water District Is Cited For Community Services

For the first time, an institution rather than an individual was cited Tuesday evening by the Big Spring Rotary Club as having made the outstanding contribution to the community.

Rotarians saluted the Colorado River Municipal Water District for "dedicated unselfish service to the many communities it serves."

Elmo Wasson, speaking for the awards committee, credited the district with having relieved the area of water worries and thus opened the way to other progress.

"You took a dream and moulded and chiseled until it took form as an indespensible service to this area," he told district officers and directors who were guests at the occasion.

He presented a handsome plaque to P. C. (Cody) Harbour, Odessa, CRMWD president, and certificates to directors' former directors and widows of deceased directors.

From a mere idea, the CRMWD directors developed a project costing $11,750,000 at the outset "when money like that scared the wits out of a lot of people," he said. In its first year of operation the district sold about a billion gallons of water, and now exceeds 16 billion a year. During the first 20 years of operation the system has been expanded until it has two major lakes, 390 miles of pipelines and has delivered 194 billion gallons of water to its customers. It has issued $60 million in revenues bonds — all without one cent from the taxpayers — and has paid off nearly one-third of that debt, said Wasson.

In addition to Big Spring, it has furnished all the water needs of Odessa and Snyder, in addition to selling water to Midland, Stanton and San Angelo and indirectly to Sand Springs, Coahoma, Ira, Dunn, and Roby. A decade and a half ago before people began to talk about pollution, the district was doing something about it and even expended a million dollars for a pollution control works on the Colorado River, Wasson added.

"You have created a miracle," he noted. "You have fixed an ideal example emulated by many others and envied over the state."

Harbour expressed thanks on behalf of directors, including J. L. (Dusty) Rhoades, H. S. (Duke) Sampson and Jim Perry of Odessa; R. W. Currie, Dr. Lee Rogers, John L. Taylor, and Jimmy Taylor of Big Spring; R. D. (Rex) Fields, W. A. McGlaun and Lyle Deffebach, of Snyder (Dr. John Blum was unable to attend).

Former directors present and cited were Willard Sullivan, H. W. Wright and R. A. Schooling, Big Spring, and James Rosser, Bill Wilson and Gene Dulaney, Snyder. Widows of former directors present to receive citations were Mrs. R. T. Piner, widow of the first president, and Mrs. Curtis Driver, Big Spring.

Also recognized were O. H. Ivie, general manager; Joe Pickle, secretary; T. C. Richardson and Loy (Bo) Anderson, division superintendent; Walter Ross, accountant; Lee Freese, Fort Worth, engineer.

CERTIFICATE DUE AUG. 1

The final certification date for Howard, Glasscock Martin, Borden and Dawson counties is not until Aug. 1, J. G. (Gabe) Hammack Jr., county ASC manager said today.

The final date for Sterling, Coke, Mitchell, Nolan, Scurry counties and counties east of them is July 1, but west of that line certification of acreage for crop payments this year is not until Aug. 1. Hammack said that producers, listening to programs coming from the counties east of the line, had become confused about the cut-off date.

Nix Efforts To Cut Money For Arms

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backing President Nixon's war and weapons policies, the House has decisively rejected efforts to cut a $21.3-billion arms bill and to write a war-pullout deadline into it.

It also shouted down a proposal to outlaw U.S. bombing of North Vietnamese dams and dikes. The White House has denied reports that U.S. bombing has struck such targets.

In voting Tuesday, amendments to cut $1.7 billion from weapons projects including the Trident missile submarine, B1 bomber and Safeguard antimissile site for Washington were defeated.

The House then voted 334 to 59 to approve and send to the Senate the $21.3-billion authorization for tanks, missiles, ships, planes and other weapons for the fiscal year starting July 1.

Opponents contended that the President's accelerated Trident and B1 development requests could undermine the U.S.-Soviet strategic-arms-limitation agreement and destroy the confidence of taxpayers who expected bigger weapons cuts because of the accords.

Rep. Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., argued, "Obviously, we've got the power to blow the Soviets to smithereens. And all we're talking about here is how fine a powder to grind the other peoples of the earth into."

But Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., backed Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird's position that the Moscow agreements "should be scrapped" if Congress does not continue U.S. weapons development, because of the greater number of missiles and submarines given the Soviets under the accords.

Nixon asked for the Trident and B1 speedup and has argued that rejection would lead to U.S. inferiority by the late 1970s.

The amendment to order U.S. forces out of the Indochina war by Sept. 1 was proposed by Rep. Michael J. Harrington, D-Mass., and rejected after brief debate.

The amendment by Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-Ill., to prohibit U.S. bombing of North Vietnamese dams and dikes was quickly rejected by voice vote.

Open House Set Back One Week

The open house planned on the eve of the opening of Mt. View Lodge, a convalescent home at Marcy and Virginia, has been delayed a week.

A death in the family of R. W. McDonald, builder and president of the company, occasioned the delay, said the Rev. Billy Hendrix, who will be administrator for the new facility.

The open house has been rescheduled for July 8, he said.

$150,000 Surety Bonds Free Two

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, businessmen, charged with conspiracy to smuggle 2,900 pounds of marijuana, were free today on $150,000 surety bonds.

Released were Raul Vasquez-Villalobos, 43, and his brother, Roberto, 28, who jointly posted a $55,000 cash deposit on their bonds and signed over the assets of their trucking line as collateral on the bonds.

Federal agents said they found the marijuana concealed in the bed of a refrigerated trailer here on Feb. 4.

Indicted in the case with the Vasquez brothers were four San Antonians and another Nuevo Laredo man.

The case is set for trial in federal court here on Oct. 16.

Three In Hospital Following Wreck

An early morning accident on I.S. 20 near Cosden Refinery sent three members of a West Virginia family to Hall-Bennett Memorial Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hylvert and their son, William, were taken to the hospital by Alert Ambulance following the car-truck collision.

William Hylvert was treated and released and Mr. and Mrs. Hylvert are in good condition undergoing further tests.

The driver of the truck was uninjured.

Threat Of Materialism Grave, Says Speaker

A materialism that trickles down even to the children is the greatest threat to Western civilization today, Delbert Downing, Midland, told the Big Spring Rotary club Tuesday evening.

Downing addressed the annual recognition-installation ladies night of the club at the Big Spring Country Club. A. J. Statser became president, succeeding Malcolm L. Patterson. The program was attended by more than 200, including directors, former directors and wives of deceased directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, which got the citizenship award.

Proclaiming himself an ardent admirer of science, Downing said, that nevertheless, there "are some things that science can't do — like teach us to love, pray, have integrity, empathy, compassion."

It's a poor trade when progress comes at the expense of humanity and leaves out the element of how to live together, he said.

"We get so absorbed cramming our children with facts that we forget to leave time to play and to dream."

He challenged corporations to forego snapping up all the young people with high IQs and leave more of them to go into the humanities "or whatever else it takes to help us just to live."

He quoted Will Durant as having said all civilizations began with the soil and with faith in a Supreme Being, then swithched to faith in things until 22 of them perished.

But, declared the speaker, history doesn't have to repeat. "We've got everything but a desire to leave something for posterity. We can do our part by making certain that when we come to the end we can find we have done our best to leave less hate, suspicion and prejudice in our little corner."

Installed by Adolph Swartz as officers were Statser; Ralph Gossett, vice president; Bill McRee, secretary; Tommy Ross, treasurer; Dan Wilkins, Norman Picquet, Oliver Cofer and Jimmy Taylor, directors. Patterson was presented with a past-president's pin and with a plaque in appreciation for his services. Statser announced suspension of the next meeting, July 4, but said that officers, directors and committee chairman will meet at the Settles Thursday, July 6.

Perfect attendance pins went to Walton S. Morrison for 28 years, Olen Puckett, 26 years; and Jimmie Walker, 21 years.

Trailers, Other Items On Rolls

COAHOMA — There were no registrants to protest values when the board of equalization for the Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 met here Tuesday. No value schedules were changed, but trailers and new property were added to the rolls.

Officials were busy Wednesday tabulating the roll. The district buys treated water from the City of Big Spring and sells it to customers in Sand Springs and Coahoma.

CRUSHED ON IMPACT

Beer Can Bumpers For Automobiles?

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Beer can bumpers for automobiles?

About 40 University of Arizona engineering students have combined 20 used beer cans with $2 worth of lumber to develop a bumper they say will leave cars undamaged in collisions at five miles per hour.

"Admittedly it's not very attractive, but I think people are beginning to be more willing to buy cars that aren't necessarily attractive, but are safer and more practical," Lawrence Scott, chief adviser to the students, said Tuesday.

The cans on the test car still contain labels and the wood is unfinished, but Scott said he expects cosmetic improvements later.

The cans are sandwiched lengthwise between two pieces of lumber and, Scott said, can be attached to conventional cars to replace original bumpers.

"If you take a beer can and stand it on end, you'll find it can absorb a lot of force—about 200 pounds of it, in fact," Scott said. "The principle of our bumper is to have the cans absorb the impact instead of the car.

"The cans may be crushed on impact, but they're free and anyone should be able to replace the damaged cans at home with about as much trouble as changing a tire."

The bumper is one of the main features on a car that the engineering students are modifying for entry in a contest sponsored by a group called Student Competition on Relevant Engineering at the General Motors proving grounds at Milford, Mich., in August.

The car also will be equipped to use clean-burning natural gas and has other safety features inside, such as special-seat belts for pregnant women and a polarized plastic visor which swings in front of the windshield at night to reduce headlight glare.

KEN BUCHANAN, deposed lightweight boxing champion, claims his loss to Roberto Duran Monday night should have been ruled "no contest." Duran won the title when Buchanan could not answer the bell for the 14th round after having been felled by a low blow after the bell sounded ending the 13th round.

HEGAN'S SLIDER — Oakland A's Mike Hegan, who replaced Mike Epstein ejected in the top of the fourth inning, slithers between the legs of Ranger Rich Billings in the top of the ninth inning. Dave Duncan singled to left field scoring Hegan; Bill Voss holding at second. Plate umpire, Jim Monochick called the play. A's win 9-3.

Hagood Quits Steer Post

Oakey Hagood has resigned his position as baseball coach at Big Spring High School in order to assume a job as head of the physical education department.

"It's something he's been thinking about for a long time," athletic director Clovis Hale said. "When the opportunity came, it was kind of a now-or-never situation."

Hagood will replace Jim Stapleton as the PE director.

During his last season here, Hagood made a bid for the 5-AAAA second-half championship before losing a heartbreaking game to Odessa High School.

He had become coach of the Steers in 1968 when Spike Dykes was installed as athletic director.

Several quality players graduated from the high school during Hagood's tenure. Among them were Gary Don Newsom, captain for the Army baseball team next season, and R. J. Englert, the leading batter in the Southwest Conference in 1971 when he played for Texas A&M.

HAMILTON, FINGERS

A's' Hurlers Turn Hitters

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — At the current rate his pitchers are pounding the ball, Oakland manager Dick Williams could be pardoned if he moved his pitchers into the fourth spot in the batting order.

Ken Holtzman killed the Rangers Monday night with the game-winning double and Dave Hamilton and reliever Roland Fingers unloaded Tuesday in a 9-3 victory over Texas for the American League Western Division leading A's.

With the score tied 1-1, Hamilton led off the sixth inning with a ringing double, his first hit of the season. It led to a two-run inning although Hamilton tired running the bases and was lifted.

Fingers crashed a towering 350-foot shot into the left field seats in the seventh inning—also his first hit of the year and only his second career homer.

"It came on a high fast ball," said Fingers, proudly displaying the ball which bounced out of the seats for the writers gathered around his dressing room stall. "I hit the same kind of a pitch for my other homer in Milwaukee in 1970. I guess you might say I'm a fast ball hitter."

Williams said Hamilton, who got credit for his fifth victory against a single loss, was "bushed" from running the bases in the 101-degree heat.

"He was feeling weak," Williams said.

Fingers, who was credited with his seventh save, said "I don't see how the Rangers play in this kind of weather. I lost 10 pounds out there today. If I played here all year, I'd lose 110 pounds. Oh mercy, I don't know how they do it."

The heat got to A's first baseman Mike Epstein, who was ejected by home plate umpire Jim Honochick, arguing over a called third strike. "It was the first time I've ever been kicked out of a major league or minor league game," Epstein said. "It was mighty quick, boom . . . boom."

FOSTER STOPS MIKE QUARRY

Ali Wins; Looks For Frazier

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Muhammed Ali wants Joe Frazier and Bob Foster wants a bout with Ali after a short and sad night of boxing for the Quarry brothers.

After the Quarrys were stopped in their fights Tuesday night, a Quarry relative wound up in jail after a melee in the $100 seats after the Ali-Jerry Quarry bout in Las Vegas Convention Center.

The 30-year-old Ali, 216½, clowned with 27-year-old Jerry, 198, early in their heavyweight bout. He stood in the corner and gestured as if to say, "Come on. Give me your best punch."

Ali, making Quarry his sixth victim in six bouts since losing to heavyweight champion Frazier last year, started hitting Jerry at will in the fifth round and punished him with innumerable blows in the sixth.

Ali landed about a dozen blows before the fight was stopped 19 seconds into the seventh round.

Foster, 33, handled Mike Quarry, 21, with calculated calmness to defend the light heavyweight championship for the 10th time—a record. A left hook knocked the youngest-ever challenger in the division on his back for three minutes.

Foster said later he set up the knockout with a right to the body and a right uppercut to the jaw. Previously unbeaten Mike went down for the first time in 37 fights.

The knockout came just as the bell sounded to end round four.

Foster, at 173½, weighed one and one-half pounds less than Mike.

Meanwhile the Quarry clan argued with other fans after Jerry was defeated. Mother Arawanda and sister Diane were involved, along with Robert Colbaugh, 23, of Norwalk, Calif., a brother-in-law of Mike and Jerry.

As security guards restrained Mike, Clark County Sheriff's deputies arrested Colbaugh, who was booked for investigation of battery and held on $250 bail. No other arrests were reported.

Despite their troubles, there were cash rewards for the Quarrys—$200,000 for Jerry and $45,000 for Mike. Ali earned $500,000 and Foster $80,000 as the crowd of 6,549 in the 7,500 seat arean paid $349,800—a Nevada record gate.

Meanwhile, Ali, who previously has indicated he would fight Foster, said, "I'm back. I'm ready for Frazier. He's got to come out. He's been fighting nobody."

Foster called Mike the best challenger he's faced and said he tagged him with the same punch combination he used to KO Dick Tiger for the title in 1968.

Foster, who upped his record to 48-5 with 41 knockouts, said, "I'd like to fight a guy like Muhammed Ali. Him and I are the same type of fighters. I'll take him any time.

"He can't hit harder than me—I know that. He may outweigh me but he can't outpunch me. A fight with him is where the money is."

He should have a relatively easy first round against Patrick Wolfe of Ireland. But from then on it will be a difficult course to the finals Saturday.

Looming menacingly in the same half of the draw were Alexander Timoschinin, the Soviet Union's top Olympic medal prospect, and Larry Krecastsky, Dietz' New York Athletic Club colleague from New Rochelle, N.Y.

ROLLING WITH THE PUNCH — Muhammad Ali leans back as a punch from Jerry Quarry grazes him during their heavyweight fight in Las Vegas, Nev., Tuesday night. The bout ended in a technical knockout in the seventh round when the referee refused to let Quarry continue.

New York Trips Pirates; Trail Bucs By One Game

By The Associated Press

Remember the old gag about first prize being a week in Philadelphia and second prize two weeks there? Well, two National League baseball teams headed for the City of Brotherly Love Tuesday feeling a lot better about things.

New York and Philadelphia open a two-game series tonight with the Mets right back in the thick of it in the NL East following a 7-4 victory over front-running Pittsburgh and the last-place Phillies just happy to have a victory to come home on.

They got it in the second part of a doubleheader in Chicago, also by a 7-4 score, after the Cubs took the opener 6-3.

"We needed that one badly, very badly," said Manager Frank Lucchesi, who harassed club ended a 3-10 road trip. "It will make that flight home 30 minutes shorter."

Elsewhere, Cincinnati edged slumping Los Angeles 5-4, Houston blanked San Diego 6-0, San Francisco nipped Atlanta 3-2 on Bobby Bonds' 10th-inning home run and St. Louis stretched its winning streak to seven games by edging Montreal 4-3 in 11 innings before the Expos bounced back to win the nightcap of the twi-night twin bill 11-3.

Lucchesi, who admits he "takes the losses home with me," has heard rumors of late that his job is in jeopardy and had company on the road trip—new General Manager Paul Owens.

The Cubs took the opener behind Ferguson Jenkins' six-hit pitching. They scored twice in the fifth on triples by Ron Santo and Bill North and J. C. Martin's double and wrapped it up with three unearned runs in the sixth.

Mike Ryan drove in four runs for the Phils in the second game with a homer, single and double and Darrel Brandon pitched 5 2-3 strong innings of relief.

The Mets made it two in a row over the Pirates and pulled to within one game of the Bucs on Jim Fregosi's tie-breaking three-run homer in the seventh, the first pitch thrown by reliever Bob Miller. Before the series, the Mets had seemed to be staggering, losing 12 of 17 games.

But Fregosi, who had driven in only two runs in his previous 26 games, matched that total with a bases-loaded single in the first inning. The Mets then withstood Pittsburgh home runs by Richie Hebner and Al Oliver, tied the score with two runs in the sixth and won it in the seventh.

Don Gullett, making his first start in nearly two months after a siege of hepatitis, limited Los Angeles to four hits in seven innings as the Reds beat the error-plagued Dodgers and remained one-half game in front of Houston in the NL West.

The only run he surrendered was Steve Garvey's second-inning homer. The Reds wrapped it up with three runs on only one hit in the sixth. Downing walked in one run and reliever Pete Richert walked in another after errors by third baseman Garvey and shortstop Bill Russell and Denis Menke's single loaded the bases. Bobby Tolan drove in what proved to be the winning run with a sacrifice fly.

The Dodgers made it close with three runs off Tom Hall in the eighth, a rally featuring Wes Parker's two-run double.

Bonds' leadoff shot in the 10th inning off Atlanta's Cecil Upshaw stretched San Francisco's longest winning streak of the season to four games. Hot-hitting Chris Speier homered for the Giants' first run and scored the second after singling. The Braves tied it in the ninth on Felix Millan's two-out single off Jerry Johnson after starter Sam McDowell was forced to leave the game when he deflected a smash with his pitching hand.

Houston's Dave Roberts blanked his former San Diego teammates on six hits while the Astros banged out 14 in eight innings off loser Steve Arlin, who hurled a one-hitter and two-hitter in his previous two starts.

Astros Trim Padres, 6-0

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Dave Roberts restricted his former San Diego teammates to six hits Tuesday night as Houston trimmed the Padres 6-0 in a National League baseball game.

Roberts, 7-3, making his first start against the Padres since they traded him to the Astros last winter, was backed by a 15-hit attack off Steve Arlin, 7-7, who pitched a one-hitter and a two-hitter in his last two starts, and Mark Schaeffer.

Angels Pull Off Triple Play; Trip Minnesota Twins

By The Associated Press

In 31 years of professional baseball, Bill Rigney has seen plenty. But the manager of the Minnesota Twins is always ready for something new.

"When you think you've seen it all," sighed Rigney Tuesday night, "something like this happens."

"This" was a triple play pulled off by the California Angels that rescued Nolan Ryan from his toughest moment and helped the fireballing right-hander whip the Twins 3-1.

"This" wasn't your run of the mill ordinary triple play. "This" was a triple play manufactured by Steve Braun and Harmon Killebrew on the basepaths. And what made this triple play so tough was that Killebrew was on third base and Braun on second, eliminating any force play putouts.

Killebrew had opened the Twins' fourth with a single and moved to third on Braun's double. Next, Jim Nettles flied to Jim Spencer in left. One out.

Killebrew, not the fastest runner in the American League, faked a start from third and Braun apparently thought he was running and also started to go. Third baseman Ken McMullen cut off Spencer's throw and relayed to second baseman Sandy Alomar who tagged the trapped Braun. Two out.

Next Alomar threw to shortstop Leo Cardenas, covering third, and Cardenas tagged Killebrew who was, for some unexplained reason, standing a few feet off the base. Three out.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, Detroit trimmed New York 5-2, Milwaukee dropped Baltimore 6-4, Oakland ripped Texas 9-3, Boston took Cleveland 8-2 and Kansas City defeated Boston 6-4.

Spencer, normally a first baseman, was playing only his third game in the outfield but picked up an assist on the triple play—something most outfielders never manage in an entire career.

Ryan allowed only four other hits and scored the tie-breaking run in the seventh inning when he tripled and came home on Sandy Alomar's two-out single. Ken McMullen homered for the Angels.

The Detroit Tigers widened their AL East lead to two game over Baltimore by beating New York while the Orioles were losing to Milwaukee.

The Tigers welcomed left-hander Ward Blasingame to the American League with consecutive first inning homers by Aurelio Rodriguez, Al Kaline and Willie Horton that produced four runs. That was plenty for Mickey Lolich, who won his 12th game, tying Gaylor Perry of Cleveland for the major league lead.

Bobby Murcer homered for the Yankees, who've lost four in a row after winning six straight.

Johnny Briggs slugged a three-run homer to tie the game in the sixth inning and then singled home Milwaukee's tie-breaking run in the eighth as the Brewers trimmed Baltimore for the second straight night.

Burns Leaves Stanton Post

STANTON — Jackie Burns, head basketball coach at Stanton High School, resigned recently to accept a similar position at Claude.

Head football coach and athletic director Bill Young made the announcement and noted that the school will accept applications for the job at this time.

Lake Spence Draws Host Of Visitors

Nearly 50 towns were represented in the list of visitors at Lake E. V. Spence during a four-week period during June.

There were 47 Texas towns represented in people contacted by lake patrolmen, the Colorado River Municipal Water District reported. There also was one out-of-state party.

Patrolmen interviewed 1,744 individuals, and they estimated that they saw no more than 60 per cent of those at the lake. On this basis, the traffic at the lake have been 3,700 individuals for 6,000 visitor days.

Of the groups interviewed, 280 appeared for picknicking, 286 skiing, 3,482 fishing, and another 468 were on outings with their boats.

Based on the actual interviews, there were 770 from Odessa who spent a day or more at Lake Spence during June, according to R. A. Schooling, administrative assistant in charge of the lakes. Midland ranked next with 470, while Robert Lee, adjacent to the lake, had 480. Big Spring ranked next with 310.

Towns represented in the survey extended from Monahans and Farwell on the west to Lubbock on the north, Dallas on the east and Ballinger on the south.

HAPPINESS — Mrs. Bobby Hull shows her excitement at the size of the check as her husband, the former Chicago Black Hawks ace, holds high the $1 million he received in St. Paul Tuesday for signing with the World Hockey Association. Hull will get another $1.5 million for coaching and playing with the Winnipeg Jets.

Bobby Hull Inks Pact With New Hockey Loop

WINNIPEG, Man. (AP) — Blake Hull, overhearing a conversation about his hockey-playing father, interrupted:

"Can they really sue my dad?"

The question delivered by the 10-year-old son of Bobby Hull is very timely, especially after Tuesday's chain of events.

Hull, who starred for 15 seasons with the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, signed contracts worth $2.5 million to serve as player-coach of the new World Hockey Association's Winnipeg Jets.

The 33-year-old "Golden Jet" appeared at a St. Paul, Minn., news conference Tuesday morning to sign a personal services contract and receive a $1 million certified check from WHA Properties Ltd.

Then Hull, his wife and three of their five children, flew aboard a chartered jet with WHA officials to Winnipeg to sign a $1.5-million playing contract with the Jets.

WHA officials called it the largest contract paid to a professional hockey player.

"His playing contract was signed here in Winnipeg," Donald J. Regan, WHA general counsel said from league headquarters in Santa Ana, Calif. "And it is governed by the laws of Manitoba."

"If the Black Hawks and the NHL would like to sue the Winnipeg Jets in Winnipeg, I think they'll have a tough row to hoe."

There was no immediate comment from the Black Hawks or NHL President Clarence Campbell if a suit would be filed maintaining that Hull had not played out his option, even though his contract had expired.

Hull said he didn't think Arthur and William Wirtz, chief executives of the Black Hawks, would take him to court.

"I think the Wirtz' will consider this as a business transaction," Hull said. "If they do, I think they are barking up the wrong tree. I have no regrets, no ax to grind. The WHA is going to be as great as the NHL some day. My main concern now is to make the league go. I'm hoping a few more of the boys will come over now."

Hull was the 91st player the WHA has signed and the 34th with NHL experience.

A WHA spokesman said 24 more players have signed but "the other teams didn't want their announcements to get lost in the middle of the Hull signing."

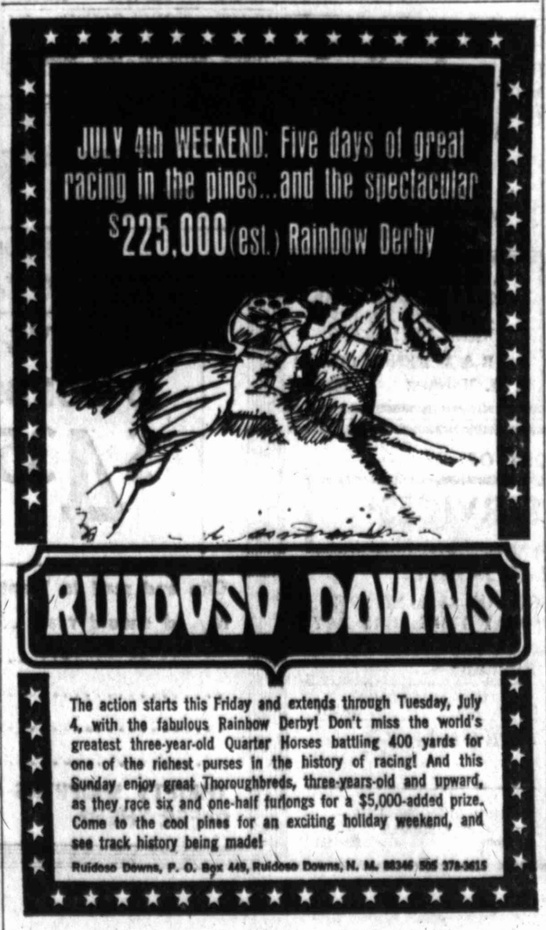
Dietz Going For Win

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, England (AP) — New Yorker Jim Dietz attempted today to win America's first Diamond Challenge sculls at Henley Royal Regatta in seven years.

Dietz, well over six feet tall, and weighing 196 pounds, hoped to emulate America's most famous oarsman, Dick Stero, who won single rowing's most sought after prize in 1965.

Dietz' task is far from easy this time.



FACES NATASE

Graebner Renews Bitter Net Rivalry

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Clark Graebner the fierce-serving American tennis star, renews a bitter old personal rivalry today in a bid toward winning the Wimbledon title.

Graebner was scheduled to play his old foe Ilie Nastase of Romania, in the second round on Wimbledon's center court.

Nastase, a 25-year-old gypsy who was once a shepherd boy, is the No. 2 seed and is expected to meet Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., in the final.

The last time Graebner and Nastase played each other was at London's Royal Albert Hall in January. That match ended in one of the most astonishing scenes ever seen on a tennis court.

Graebner climbed over the net and grabbed Nastase by his shirt. The Romanian walked off the court claiming he had been intimidated.

"It had better not happen on the center court," said an official of the All-England club. "We have given all players a stern warning that anyone who misbehaves in any way will be instantly disqualified."

Graebner, of New York, is sore because the Wimbledon Committee left him out of the seedings.

Nastase is one man in a three-pronged East European thrust for the Wimbledon title.

The others are Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, seeded No. 5, and Alexander Metreveli of Russia, seeded No. 8. Both learned their tennis on hard courts but got into the seeding list because the grass court stars of the World Championship Tennis professional group are not competing.

Metreveli, who spent the winter playing on the grass courts of Australia, came from behind to beat Patrice Dominguez of France 7-9, 6-1 6-4, 6-4 in the second round Tuesday.

Smith reached the third round, beating Hank Irvine of Rhodesia 6-4, 9-8, 6-3, without reaching the form that took him to last year's final.

Two more U.S. Davis Cuppers, Tom Gorman of Seattle, Wash., and Erik Van Dillen of San Mateo, Calif., both won their first round matches.

Chippers Set For Dusters

Morton's Chippers will face the Webb AFB Dusters in a fast-pitch softball doubleheader at Comanche Trail Park tonight. The first game of the twin bill is set for 7:30 p.m.

The Chippers have competed in several tournaments in West Texas this season. They are entered in the Webb AFB Invitational Fast-Pitch Softball Tournament which starts Friday and will run through Sunday.

Monahans Slates Track Meet

MONAHANS — Monahans will hold its summer recreation track meet tomorrow with entries from several West Texas cities expected to compete.

Preliminaries are scheduled to begin at 1 p.m., with the finals scheduled for 7 p.m.

Competition will be held in the midget division (10 and under), junior (12-13), intermediate (14-15) and senior (16 through high school eligibility).

CARROL RIGHTER

THURSDAY, JUNE 29

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A wonderful day for you to get in touch with good friends, whether they are conventional or unconventional, practical or visionary. Let them know you want to join forces with them in an activity that will bring mutual benefits. Be active.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Plan to meet with friends you like for whatever joint aims you may have, be it business or recreational. Make notes so you do not forget salient points. Take it easy tonight.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A good day to contact influential persons and get their support for your ideas. Engage in civic work that pleases you and at which you are so adept. Show that you have poise.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Improving your home and business situations is possible now if you apply yourself. Look into a new activity that would be fine for you. Show that you are a broadminded person.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can inaugurate a new system that can help you handle your responsibilities more efficiently. Come to a true understanding with mate. Show that you are truly devoted.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Cementing better relations with associates and showing you understand their viewpoints is wise. Situations arise through which you can benefit greatly. Be on the alert for them.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You are enthused about getting those duties behind you, which is fine, but use modern methods for best results. Fellow workers cooperate willingly now. Relax at home tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Forget unimportant work and go out to the amusements that give you relief from worry and perk up your spirit. You have a personal goal which you can attain with the help of mate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Try to establish a more relaxed relationship at home now so that there will be more happiness there for all concerned. Do some entertaining in your home tonight. Be poised.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have good plans to discuss with associates, so do just that early in the day. Make and keep the appointments that are necessary later in the day. Be wise.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show that you understand your monetary responsibilities and do whatever will insure security for you in the future. Follow the advice of a business expert.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Once you have handled business affairs, seek out those friends you like and enjoy recreation together. A new attitude could be very helpful now. Show that you have wisdom.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20) Use your intuition and know what you want to accomplish in the future. Take the right steps in such directions. You can have far greater rapport with mate in the days ahead.

Fight To Recapture Quang Tri Province

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government today launched its first attempt to recapture Quang Tri Province. More than 10,000 marines and paratroopers crossed the My Chanh river along a 10-mile front stretching from the South China Sea to the jungled foothills west of Highway 1.

U.S. B52 bombers dropped some 1,350 tons of explosives to open the way for the push. Tanks, artillery, U.S. gunfire from ships offshore and American fighter-bombers supported the advancing troops.

There were no immediate reports on the extent of North Vietnamese resistance or of casualties.

Since the North Vietnamese completed their conquest of Quang Tri, South Vietnam's northernmost province, on May 1, the South Vietnamese have made a number of in-and-out sweeps into the Communist-held territory along the coast. But the drive today was the first large-scale attempt to carry out President Nguyen Van Thieu's orders on June 19 to retake all territory captured by Hanoi's forces in the offensive that began March 30.

Meanwhile, President Thieu fired a province chief American officials consider one of the best in the country. Vietnam Press, the government news agency, confirmed the ouster of Col. Nguyen Van Chuc as the top official in Binh Dinh, the coastal province at the foot of the central highlands, and said he would be replaced by Col. Hoang Dinh Tho, who has been chief of Quang Tin province, farther north.

The report gave no reason for the switch, but some Americans thought it was a payoff to Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Toan, who was recently named commander of the 2nd Military Region, which includes Binh Dinh. These sources said Col. Tho is an old friend and associate of Toan.

Binh Dinh is one of the areas least controlled by the Saigon government, and the North Vietnamese captured three of its nine districts in their current offensive. But the Americans blame the South Vietnamese army's 22nd Division rather than the militia forces controlled by Chuc. "Without him it would have been worse," said one American.

Thieu came under fire in Saigon from political opponents after his supporters in the Senate called a secret rump session Tuesday night without any opposition members present and adopted the controversial bill giving the president power to rule by decree for six months.

Senate President Nguyen Van Huyen charged that the government bloc's action was illegal, and a court challenge was expected.

Karp Near Death When He Operated

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. Denton Cooley testified Tuesday in a $4.5 million damage suit against him that Haskel Karp was near death when he operated on him in 1969.

Cooley performed the world's only artificial heart transplant on Karp after an operation to repair Karp's damaged organ failed.

Karp's widow, Shirley, of Skokie, Ill., is suing Cooley and Dr. Domingo Liotta, a designer of the artificial organ, claiming that the doctors should not have used the artificial heart, which until that time had been used only in animal experimentation.

Karp lived for three days with the artificial heart, but died the day after a human donor heart replaced it.

Cooley testified Tuesday he was operating on another patient in an adjoining room when he was told Karp was about to die. He completed his operation and hurried to Karp.

When he came into the operating room, Cooley said, Karp was "mottled and blue and breathing in sharp gasps . . . he was virtually moribund."

Cooley estimated that Karp started failing about an hour before surgery. "It seemed fortuitous to us that we had predicted correctly and the man almost expired in the hall before he got into surgery."

John Holloway, the lawyer for Mrs. Karp, asked Cooley if the anesthetic given to Karp might have caused his problems.

"It's very likely we opened him without it (anesthetic)," Cooley replied. "They are in an anesthetic state when like that."

Cooley said he had promised Karp he would try an operation to repair the heart but that prior heart attacks had so damaged the organ it was "virtually hopeless." He went ahead and performed the repair job, but the heart would not pump, Cooley added. It was then he implanted the artificial heart until a human heart could be found.

Dr. Michael DeBakey, another Houston surgeon with extensive experience in heart transplants, was due to testify Tuesday but did not. He left the courthouse after spending an hour and a half in a closed session with U.S. District Court Judge John V. Singleton and lawyers for both sides. It could not be determined whether DeBakey will testify later.

Conferees Key To Funds For Trinity River Spans

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate-House conference committee will decide whether federal funds will be provided to build high bridges over the Trinity River in Texas.

The Senate Appropriations Committee Tuesday voted to restore the full $3.6 million necessary for the project.

But a House committee had previously deleted most of the money from an appropriations measure.

The Senate reversal of the House action came under pressure from Texas senators John Tower and Lloyd Bentsen.

The difference between the $3.6 million Senate version and the $1.7 million House version must be reconciled in a joint committee.

The bridges are the forerunner of work on the Trinity Canal project itself, to run from Dallas-Fort Worth to Houston-Galveston on the Gulf Coast.

The Senate committee said it generally concurs in the House's reasoning in eliminating the budgeted $1.99 million for high bridges over the Trinity.

However, "in view of the hazardous traffic situation which exists in the Dallas-Fort Worth metropolitan area where the multiple lane loop 12 highway system feeds into a narrow two-lane bridge crossing the west fork of the Trinity River, the committee has restored the budget estimate," it reported.

It said the Texas highway department has money to complete the highway system and eliminate the "dangerous bottleneck."

"The funds recommended by the committee will enable the state to proceed to construction through a contract with the federal government for a high-level crossing," it said.

The Senate committee also concurred with the House in providing $50,000 to restudy the Lakeview Reservoir project.

"In view of the rising costs of land in the area, the committee believes the review study should include consideration of a flood control-only project with minimal recreational pool," the report said.

There were no other changes in Texas public works projects made by the Senate committee.

Charge Three Teenagers In Firebombing

HOUSTON (AP)—Arson investigators arrested two teenaged youths Tuesday night and sought a third in the fire-bombing of a fashionable Houston residence.

The firebombing was one of two which occurred early in the day. Investigators said they were not related.

Officers arrested Ray A. Loden Jr., 17, and James Michael Burt, 18. They said a third youth, Sean Moore, 18, was being sought.

All three were charged with arson by explosives, discharge of a bomb and possession of a bomb.

The bombing was at the home of Ray K. Bullock Sr., vice chairman of Surety Savings Association. A railroad flare was flipped through a window and the resulting fire destroyed a room.

"In two minutes the whole room was on fire."

Officers said the two arrested youths signed staetments about the firebombing. The investigators said the fire was the latest in a series of incidents involving Bullock's 16-year-old son and other neighborhood youths.

Moments after the Bullock bombing, someone tossed a gasoline-filled plastic jug with a paper wick in its neck through the window of the W. L. Morris Co.

Fire gutted the paint contractor's office, doing an estimated $3,500 damage.

Officers said at first they thought there might be some connection between the two cases because Morris had recently done some painting work at both Surety Savings and the Bullock home.

But they said later they believed someone else was responsible for the second bombing and several suspects were in custody.

Ginning Costs Show Increase

Texas cotton growers' ginning costs were higher in the 1971-72 season because they had to take more pounds of seed cotton to the gin to make a bale of lint cotton.

Growers paid an average of $23.21 for saw ginning and wrapping a 480-pound net-weight bale according to statistics released by the Economic Research Service and the Agricultural Marketing Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. The cost for the previous season was $20.00.

The amount of seed cotton needed to make a bale showed the biggest increase in the machine-stripped method of harvesting, where 2,755 pounds were needed compared to 2,174 pounds in the 1970-71 season. Increased weights were also needed with the other methods. Pounds of seed cotton needed to make a 480-pound net-weight bale by harvesting method were: machine-stripped, 2,755; machine-picked, 1,547; machine-scrapped, 2,328; hand-snapped, 2,123; and hand-picked, 1,561.

About 99 per cent of the 2,496,000-bale 1971 upland crop was harvested by mechanical means, and the following is a breakdown by method and percentage: machine-stripped, 78 per cent; machine-picked, 20 per cent; machine-scrapped, one per cent; hand-snapped, one per cent; and hand-picked, less than one-half of one percent.

Receiving charges at Texas public warehouses averaged $1.08 per bale compared to $1.00 a year earlier and to this year's U.S. average of $1.06. Insured storage was 62 cents per bale per month compared to 57 cents a year earlier.

Offer Bill To Lift Legal Barrier Against Freeway

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Texas Sens. Lloyd Bentsen and John Tower introduced legislation in the U.S. Senate Tuesday aimed at lifting a 10-year legal blockade against a controversial freeway through local parkland.

Tower told San Antonio newsmen that the move was intended to correct "an intolerable situation in which courts ruled a state may not return federal highway construction assistance funds in order to be able to proceed on its own without federal assistance."

The legislation was drawn up in an effort to free the state of Texas to resume work on this city's long-stalled North Expressway, although it does not mention the freeway specifically.

Opponents of the expressway have successfully fought the project over its proposed route through part of San Antonio parkland, arguing that feasible alternatives exist.

Tower said an overwhelming majority of local citizens favor completion of the expressway and that "this has been evidenced by a petition I have received containing 103,000 signatures."

The State of Texas has withdrawn its request for federal aid on the expressway in an unsuccessful attempt to remove "federal questions" in suits against it.

The Tower-Bentsen legislation provides that state highway departments can notify the Transportation Department that they wish to terminate federal aid on "any particular project" in their highway programs.

After the Transportation Secretary receives such notice and approves termination, and the state returns the funds involved, "the particular project shall immediately cease to be a federal aid project and no further federal action shall be required," the legislation states, in part.

Matador Sales Tax OKed By Voters

MATADOR — Only 200 voters went to the polls here Tuesday but they were enough to approve a proposal to start a city sales tax. The issue carried, 172-29.

The same tax was rejected by Matador voters in 1969. The voter turnout represented less than half of Matador's qualified voters.

Miami Beach City Council Mulls Demonstration Woes

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Ten proposed antidemonstration ordinances aimed at maintaining order during the Democratic National Convention by outlawing acts ranging from cop baiting to rioting go before the Miami Beach City Council today.

The consideration comes one day after a renewed pledge of peace for the convention was offered by members of the Youth International Party (Yippies).

MIXUP

Two of the 10 proposals are supported by Police Chief Rocky Pomerance, whose information officer, Lt. Pete Corso, stressed the chief's desire "to start out on a harmonious footing."

Pomerance had been reported as supporting all the proposals, but he later said this was the result of a mixup. He said he sent the measures—culled from those used in Los Angeles and Washington—to city lawyers only for analysis. However, all 10 wound up on the council's agenda.

The chief said he supports proposals giving him power to establish emergency curfews, and allowing police to rope off a trouble spot and permit entry only by the press or other people approved by police.

Pomerance said he did not want ordinances banning the singing of obscene songs; disorderly conduct; derogatory remarks to policemen; public use of obscenities; participation in a "riot, rout or unlawful assembly"; remaining at the scene of a riot; inciting to riot; or malicious provocations.

Yippie leaders Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman said at a news conference Tuesday all activities of the Yippies during the Democratic convention will be peaceful.

'MARRIAGE'

All major nondelegate groups have said they would try to keep all the demonstrations peaceful.

Ed Sanders, another Yippie leader, said, however, that special arrangements were being made for Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, whose role as an Illinois delegate is being challenged.

"We're going to bring him his seat at the airport. Then we're going to follow him everywhere he goes," said Sanders. "Just like they did to us in Chicago in 1968."

Plans To Tack Social Security Increase Onto Debt Ceiling Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite President Nixon's objections, Democrats are moving ahead with plans to tack a 20-per-cent Social Security increase onto a bill raising the national-debt ceiling.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said his amendment is in final form and ready to be offered when the debt measure comes before the Senate, probably Thursday.

The House passed the debt-limit bill 211 to 168 Tuesday. House Democratic leaders are arranging procedures to try to accept the Senate Social Security amendment when the legislation is returned to the House.

Unless the bill is signed into law by Friday midnight, the national-debt ceiling will drop back to $400 billion from the present temporary figure of $450 billion.

Since the debt now stands at about $427 billion, the government technically would be unable to meet its bills unless the higher ceiling is extended as the bill provides.

Nixon called in Republican members of the Senate Finance Committee Tuesday to protest the Democratic plan to attach the Social Security hike to the debt-ceiling bill.

After that meeting, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler accused Church of playing politics. Ziegler said he thinks Church "wants to tie this thing up a little bit so he can create a little tension."

Church, in a Senate speech, replied that he simply is trying to help the elderly without waiting for the big Social Security-welfare bill to clear the Finance Committee.

It was learned that Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, senior Republican on the Finance Committee, probably will offer a 10-per-cent Social Security hike as a substitute for the Church proposal. But it appears a number of Republicans will join most Democrats in voting for 20 per cent.

In voting Tuesday to raise the debt ceiling to $450 billion until Oct. 31, the House rejected attempts to attach tax-reform riders.

On a 207-180 vote, the House beat back a move by Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., to allow amendments aimed at plugging what he called tax-law loopholes favoring corporations and the wealthy. Reuss said closing those loopholes would yield the Treasury up to $6 billion.

Sen. Church said the financing provisions of his bill, to pay for the benefit increases, have been cleared with the Social Security Administration.

They would boost the wage base—the amount of annual earnings against which the payroll tax is levied—and the rate paid by the worker and employer.

These changes mean that the maximum tax for the worker and employer, $468 this year, would go up to $594 in 1973.

Attitude, Good Habits Helpful

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Larry Lewis, a sprightly banquet waiter who runs 6.7 miles around Golden Gate Park most days, celebrated his 105th birthday by revealing his secret to long life.

"The secret of longevity lies in your attitude, eating nourishing but not fattening foods, abstinence from smoking and alcohol, lots of exercise and lots of pure water," Lewis said. Friday.

He still is active as a waiter at the St. Francis Hotel.

Chain Helps Forest Grow

QUEBEC (AP) — Anchor chain originally intended for a Canadian destroyer is being used to grow forests in Ontario.

Twenty-foot lengths of chain are dragged by tractors across waste land where trees have been harvested for newsprint and other forest products.

To each 76-pound link is welded a long heavy tractor pin, which churns the soil up over the surface mat of old pine needles and forest debris.

This helps put the jackpine seeds in direct contact with soil so they will germinate. If the seeds stayed on top of the non-soil mat, they could not germinate and produce a new forest.

Grant Four Immunity In Gun Inquiry

FORT WORTH (AP) — In a move similar to that which resulted in the jailing of Kenneth Tierney, a U.S. district court judge here has granted immunity to four more witnesses in a federal grand jury arms investigation, despite protests from defense attorneys.

Tierney and the four other men are all being questioned concerning possible traffic of weapons to rebel forces in Northern Ireland.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Leo Brewster Tuesday granted immunity to Mathias Reilly, Paschal Morahan, Daniel Crawford, and Thomas Laffey and instructed them to testify before the grand jury.

Attorneys for the four, William Cunningham and Frank Durkan, protested the ruling, calling it "use immunity" that would leave their clients open to prosecution in another country. Reilly and Crawford say they are from Britain. The other two men are believed to be from New York.

Last week, Kenneth Tierney of New York refused to testify after being granted immunity and was jailed by Judge Brewster for contempt. Dunkan and Cunningham, also attorneys for Tierney, have filed motions for his release with the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

After the immunity ruling, the four men were called to the grand jury room but it was believed none of them testified. Judge Brewster was expected to conduct a hearing today on what, if anything, the men told the jury.

Pistol Slayings Of Man, Woman

PARIS, Tex. (AP) — Police in this Northeast Texas town continued today their investigation into the pistol slaying of a young man and woman whose half naked bodies were found sprawled in a woods near here.

Sylvia C. Akard, 19, of Paris, had been shot in the back four times. James G. McConnell, 20, of Bogata, was shot three times in the back.

Investigators said Miss Akard was wearing only a blouse. McConnell was clad only in a pair of undershorts. Both bodies were found Tuesday by a fisherman near Lake Crook in a wooded area.

Marijuana Pleas By Two Women

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Two Columbus, Ga., women pleaded guilty in federal court here Tuesday to charges of possessing 200 pounds of marijuana. Sentencing was deferred to a later date.

Entering the pleas were Martha D. McClellan, 26, who listed her home both as Columbus and San Antonio, and Marie-Clair Cruz, 31.

A third defendant, Mary B. Bechtold, 31, also of Columbus, is to be arraigned at a later date.

The women were arrested here April 5 on charges in the alleged smuggling of the marijuana from the Del Rio area on the Texas-Mexico border.

Can't Stand Liberalizing

Nuclear physicist Andrei D. Sakharov is making a high-risk effort to get the Soviet government to make sweeping reforms which would open up the society and protect human rights.

Sakharov, the father of Russia's hydrogen bomb, proposed a bill of rights for the Soviet Union and urged redirection of the nation's economic and foreign policies.

Government reaction is almost predictable. Sakharov, like other Soviet dissidents, probably will be adjudged insane and sent to an asylum. This "humane" treatment has replaced exception or labor camp exile.

The Soviet Communist party and the Soviet government are extremely conservative. They do not want change, since they believe they have the final answer. Any citizen who dares criticize or dissent is assumed to be insane.

Sakharov's ideas are radical, indeed, for Russia. He asks amnesty for all political prisoners, and end to closed trials, new laws on sending dissenters to asylums, a new freedom of the press law, and end to jamming foreign radio broadcasts, access to foreign literature, open borders, consideration of ending the death penalty, a "watchdog committee" to protect prisoners, and a stronger attack on alcoholism.

"Our society is infected with apathy, hypocrisy, narrow-minded egoism and hidden cruelty," he wrote. With hurt I am forced to note, in the wake of a largely illusory liberalism, the growth of restrictions on ideological freedom or persecution for political and ideological reasons."

This cry for freedom will not be welcomed by Kremlin leaders. Yet if they continue to repress such men as Sakharov they may well be encouraging the eventual destruction of the Soviet system.

Systematic imprisonment of dissenters has long been Soviet policy. Noted authors, scientists and scholars who proposed reform or criticized the government have been punished and sealed off. The loss of these minds is a loss to the Soviet nation.

Yet Sakharov understands the risk he is running. If he gets away with his proposal, which he passed on to Western newsmen, it will be a great breakthrough. But only the day before the physicist issued his appeal, Pyotr I. Yakir was arrested. Yakir's crime was to campaign for broader civil rights and to charge that vestiges of Stalinism remained. His arrest proved his point.

The Hard Way

The Interior Department has a plan which it thinks may be the best way of coping with the salty water problem between the United States and Mexico.

High salt content in the lower Colorado River basin has been an issue between the two countries for years. Recently President Nixon and President Luis Echeverria Alvarez discussed it in their Washington summit.

By agreement, Mexico is entitled to 1.5 million acre-feet of Colorado River water a year. Heavy use of the river's water by American farmers along the California-Arizona border has drained off the better water and left that of vastly lower quality to flow into Mexico, where it adversely affects crop production.

The interior Department proposed to set up a $140 million desalting plant cabable of "sweetening" the brackish water before it goes into Mexico. This would use the reverse osmosis technique to remove salt, and may be costly to operate in addition to creating a problem of salt disposal. That may be the hard way to do it. Spending a lesser amount to buy back agricultural water and let it flow to Mexico may be too simple.

Rays Of Unsunshine

Around The Rim

Joe Pickle

There is a saying, to wit: "It's a beautiful day; now watch some so-and-so louse it up."

THIS UNDOUBTEDLY is the formula upon which the television soap opera is constructed. Actually, there is so little joy permitted to seep from the cracks of the story, one wonders why it would not be blessed in exhultation. Not so; always there are several characters who will put on the damper. For instance:

THE HERO, after a long and almost hopeless fight ,has cleared his name of a false criminal complaint and has been restored to the bosom of his family. A friend of the family is discussing the matter with his faithful wife, who stuck with him through thick and thin, though beset with moments of doubt:

WIFE: Isn't it Wonderful? I knew that truth eventually would prevail. I could just shout for joy! Aren't you happy for us?"

FRIEND: I couldn't be happier for you if I were you. Just to think — after all this time, they said he didn't do it? Do you think they really meant it?"

TOMMY AND HIS wife, Mary, have been having their difficulties. She has had suspicions that he has been thrust into the arms of other women and that perhaps he was not as strong in resisting as he might have been. But it turns out that her suspicions were wholly unfounded. Tom has been as faithful as Homer the Elephant in Dumbo — 100 per cent. In their moment of blissful reconciliation, her best shares the happiness:

MARY: Oh, I'm so ashamed to have doubted for a moment that Tom could have looked at someone else. I'm so lucky to have a man like him that I don't know what to do. I'll never doubt again."

FRIEND: "Yes, yes, I know. But has he told you lately that he loves you?"

THERE HAS been a distressing shortage of company funds, and an uncanny set of circumstances has pointed the finger at our Bill. Everybody has shunned him like a leper, and it appeared only a question of time until the chief of detective served a warrant on him. But surprise of surprises, it turns out that a suave accountant, living high on the hog, had been trapped into admitting that it was he who had dipped into the till. The boss talks to Bill about it.

BOSS: I confess that there were certain things that made me wonder — thoughts totally unworthy of me. Down deep, I guess I really had faith, but for even those shadows of doubt, I ask your forgiveness. I want you to know that I'm glad it's all cleared up."

BILL: Gee, I can understand, the way things kept stacking up, how you would be bound to have some questions, and even suspicions. But that's all past now. Just to know that you had and still have faith in me is all that I ask."

BOSS: Great! Now let's get back to work, and don't worry about a thing. By the way, did you know the cash register was short in your department last night?"

Music On The Mount

Robert E. Ford

The temperature was in the 90s, the sun was enough to blister granite and the humidity could drown a dryland Texan.

It was not a time to leave an air-conditioned home and go downtown to stand around in the weather and watch people on a Saturday.

IT TURNED out to be worth the effort and discomfort, and it's too bad that all those people who believe the world is going to hell in a handbasket weren't there to see it.

What it was was the last day of Explo 72, that Crusade for Christ affair that brought thousands of young people to Dallas from all over the world.

The final event was a day-long session of music called the Jesus Music Festival. The scene was a complex of expressways easily blocked off on a Saturday.

Someone had hammered together a large stage, and the concrete and grass-covered open places sloped upward gently, creating a natural amphitheater.

OFFICIAL ESTIMATES placed the crowd at 150,000 to 200,000. That was at any given moment.

Hundreds always were arriving and others leaving, like ocean waves coming and going, and probably twice the listed figures were there at one time or another.

It wasn't the mere massiveness of the crowd that was impressive, remarkable as it was.

It was the young people.

They sat around in groups on the grass or the concrete, talking with each other, letting the music from the performers on the stage pour over them.

There probably was more skin in sight than anyone ever will see outside such mass-attraction beaches like Coney Island.

Oh, there were some maxi-skirts and a few pants suits. But mostly it was mini-skirts and shorts for the young women. A good many young men took off their shirts and carried them stuck in their belts.

A few very young women carried infants.

THE CORE of this crowd had been in Dallas six days but gave no evidence of fatigue or discomfort. The young people were still smiling, relaxed, with a sort of inner calm.

Remarkably, in this gigantic crowd, only one person was smoking.

This was an old goat who decided long ago that cigars are good for his health without being able to explain exactly why. But none of the young non-smokers made an issue of it.

Almost shocking to a longtime resident of a city was the numerous occasions when some pretty young chick would walk past, smile, and say "hello."

The first time or two this happened the older man was so shocked he couludn't respond, then he got into the spirit of this fellowship and smiled and helloed along with the best.

It is to be hoped, of course, that the young ladies do not become carried away with the spirit of Explo 72 and greet persons with such warmth on the average street. It could be trouble.

A PERSON ATTENDING the music festival and not wearing an Explo tag was fair game immediately for the young people who wanted to tell persons about Christ.

They were not aggressive, however. A pair would walk up and smile and ask something like, "Do you know Christ?"

Which might be material for thought for choir directors.

For even older ears may be educated by this time to something with a little more enthusiasm than many of the double-rhythm hymns heard in churches. Next time you pick up a hymnal, look at the date of the authorship of the songs — many were written in the 1600s and only a few later than 1900.

DEATH IS THE PUSHER!

The Waiting Game

Marquis Childs

WASHINGTON — The efforts of promiment and well-heeled Democrats to sidetrack George McGovern with a moderate center candidate have all but run out of steam. The McGovern sweep in New York, with the attraction it holds for wavering delegates not anchored to one of the also-rans, is a cclincher.

LINGERING HOPE had fixed on the possibility of a draft of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. This, too, has faded, for in the view of those who face the realities Kennedy will not be on the ticket this year either as No. 1 or No. 2.

This reporter is convinced Kennedy will say no regardless of how he may answer hypothetical questions about his duty to his party and the plea that only he can defeat Richard Nixon. There are many reasons why this should be so. That at the age of 40 he can afford to wait it out is perhaps the principal reason. If he should wait through four presidential elections he would still be younger than Sen. Edmund Muskie who at 58 is not an ancient.

ANOTHER REASON is evidence that the Republican National Committee is compiling a record on the tragedy of Chappaquiddick that runs to several volumes. The senator himself has dismissed it by saying that a campaign could not be based on merely repeating the details of a tragic accident.

While the bugging foray at Democratic National Committee Headquarters was a disaster, Republican investigators have come up with what is in the Republican view a blockbuster. It is the secret report of the grand jury that, under the prodding of District Attorney Edmund Dinis, investigated the Chappaquiddick accident.

AFTER HEARING a number of witnesses the jury reported that it found no grounds for a criminal indictment. An inquest into Miss Mary Jo Kopechne's death had been held and the proceedings subsequently made public. They were put into a booklet that was widely sold at $1.25.

BY 1976 Chappaquiddick would be a very old story. With his able staff Kennedy could rack up a favorable record in the Senate with issues such as medical care and others that touch the mass of voters. If McGovern should be elected the Kennedy prospect would go over to 1980 when he would be 48.

But with his sure feel for politics — his brother, John F. Kennedy, once said that Teddy had a better political instinct than anyone in the family — the senator from Massachusetts knows which way the wind is blowing. Running against an incumbent President is always tough. The party is in disarray and this does not look like a Democratic year.

AS ONE ELDER statesman, who put a lot of money on Sen. Edmund Muskie and is now writing of his stake, sees it, a re-elected President Nixon will face very hard sledding. A lot of gas is being fed into the economic balloon to get through November. This may help lower unemployment so that by October it could be down from just under six per cent to just under five per cent. But it could also stoke up inflation, which is already threatening to break out in a new round of higher food prices.

Flood Insurance Blame

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP)—Pennsylvania insurance commissioner Herbert S. Denenberg suggests that flood victims in scores of communities in the East might consider suing their insurance agents and brokers for negligence.

"If agents want to assume the privileges and status of being professionals they must take the responsibility too," he said in an interview.

"As a lawyer," he said, "I think there is ample precedent to accuse them of negligence if they failed to tell their clients that flood insurance was available.

Such suits would be restricted to residents of communities in which flood insurance was available under a federal subsidy plan. While most communities are eligible, not all sought qualification under the program.

Action would be filed by individuals or by groups acting in a class action, in much the same way that professional negligence cases are being brought in increasing numbers against lawyers and doctors, he said.

Should such a concept find wide acceptance the consequences for agents, insurance companies and municipalities would be extraordinary, but it wouldn't be the first time Denenberg has provoked and upset the industry.

A Certified Life Underwriter and former professor, Denenberg earlier issued "A Shopper's Guide to Life Insurance," challenged the fees charged by hospitals and paid by Blue Cross and denied Blue Shield a rate increase.

The fact that flood insurance is available in many communities, and can be made available as the industry's best able in others, has been dekept secret and least publicized product, but agents alone are not at fault.

Under the federal plan, communities may qualify for flood insurance, to be purchased by property owners, by agreeing to certain land usage and property restriction clauses.

However, most communities have failed to take qualifying action. Denenberg said that of 5,000 flood-prone communities in the nation, only 1,200 are enrolled. Of 500 such communities in Pennsylvania, only 90 are qualified.

Moreover, either because the state's 30,000 agents failed to inform them or because they chose not to seek coverage, only 683 property owners were covered under the federal plan at the time the floods struck.

Scolds Congress

David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Friction between the Democratic-controlled Congress and a Republican president has come to the surface in the controversy over the new law to assist education. President Nixon has just signed a $19 billion bill to aid education but he accused Congress of failing to provide solutions to the all-important problem of school busing which now is the subject of court orders.

THE PRESIDENT had hoped the new law would include provisions that would temporarily postpone the court orders until a constructive program could be worked out. He said:

"Confronted with one of the burning social issues of the past decade and an unequivocal call for action from the vast majority of the American people, the 92nd Congress has apparently determined that the better part of valor is to dump the matter into the lap of the 93rd (Congress). Not in the course of this administration has there been a more manifest congressional retreat from an urgent call for responsibility."

THE PRESIDENT expressed disappointment that Congress did not draw up national standards for desegregation which would give guidance to federal judges "so that court-ordered busing to integrate public-school systems would be used only as a last — never a first — resort."

Mr. Nixon said Congress had failed to act on his request for a limit on future court-ordered busing through the sixth grade and for legislative relief for school districts operating under court orders which require busing in excess of reasonable standards. The President was outspoken in his criticism of Congress. He declared it had offered rhetoric but no answer to the busing problem. He added:

"It has provided a clever political evasion. The moratorium it offers is temporary; the relief it provides is illusory."

THE PRESIDENT in his statement pointed out that the law, which furnished $19 billion in federal assistance over the next three years, represents a new effort to rebuild the nation's educational system, contains funds to help school districts meet special problems of desegregation, and provides grants and subsidized loans to enable all students to go to college regardless of how poor they are.

Star-Making Role

Hal Boyle

By BOB THOMAS
(Substituting for Hal Boyle)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Check the local listings and you're likely to find movies starring the offspring of Henry Fonda, Judy Garland, Kirk Douglas, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Edgar Bergen, Maureen O'Sullivan, Lloyd Bridges and John Wayne.

Now add another name to the list of second generation stars: Edward Albert.

He's the handsome, blue-eyed son of Eddie Albert, star of the television series "Green Acres" and several dozen movies, and Margo, who appeared in "Winterset" and "Lost Horizon"—she was the beauty who aged in minutes when she left Shangri-la.

Their 21-year-old son will become an instant star with the release next month of the movie version of "Butterflies Are Free." Little doubt about it. He has the best star-making role since Dustin Hoffman's in "The Graduate."

Albert plays an affluent blind youth who runs away from his protective mother to set up his own pad in San Francisco. Arthur Knight's Hollywood Reporter review termed him "infinitely touching in a role that could easily degenerate into self pity. Instead, he is warm, funny, believably self-reliant, and dramatically effective.

Not bad for a young man who never acted before.

"Well, just once," he admitted. "It was in a picture called 'The Fool Killer' with Anthony Perkins, and I was 11 years old. My mother helped me get through it. I don't remember much about the experience at all."

Despite his inexperience, he more than holds up his end of scenes with pros Goldie Hawn and Eileen Heckart. Could this be laid to heredity?

"Environment, too," he said. "You see, ours is a very tight family. Whenever my father went on location, he took all of us along—as far back as 'Roman Holiday' when I was one year old. I often went with him on night club tours, too. So I absorbed a tremendous amount.

"We also stay home a great deal and watch movies on television. Afterward we discuss what was good and what was bad about the pictures."

Elward Albert was born and reared here, but he grew up outside the Hollywood world. His parents sent him to public schools, and the Alberts never traveled much in the movie crowd.

Young Albert was a junior in psychology at UCLA when a friend, Mary Loos, recommended him to producer Mike Frankovich for "Butterflies Are Free." He auditioned successfully for Frankovich.

Albert lives at home with his parents. Doesn't he want more freedom?

"No," he replied. "I've done my independent bit; I lived in Europe and other places alone. Right now home is the nicest place to be."

My Answer

Billy Graham

I do so want to be a Christian but find it very difficult to reason my way. It is not easy to accept something I can't understand. Can you help me? A.W.

You are making the mistake of Nicodemus: trying to get into the kingdom of God head first. The will is as important to your entering the kingdom of God as your intellect. As we have heard said: "No man is born into the kingdom of God head first." Men are not "drawn from in front by the mind, they are pushed from behind by the will" to borrow a phrase from Schopenhauer.

You say: "I do so want to be a Christian." This signifies that God has created within you the desire, and that means that the work of salvation has already begun. The Bible says: "If any man will do his will he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God or not." God wants your will. Surrender it to Him! He has said: "Son, give me thine heart," not, "Son, give me thine intellect." You are just a step from the kingdom; a step exactly the length of your will.

A Devotion For Today . .

Love one another with brotherly affection. (Romans 12:10, RSV)

PRAYER: Spirit of God, speak through us today. Make us aware of the needs of others. Amen.

Says Instability In Jewish Family Is Growing Fast

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The international president of B'nai B'rith says instability in the Jewish family is growing at an alarming rate.

"Ten years ago, you very seldom heard of a Jewish youngster appearing in juvenile court," David M. Blumberg of Knoxville, Tenn., said here. "Our divorce rate was one-fourth the rate at that time; we had some intermarriage, but not much.

"But today we find that the Jewish people find themselves in the normal pattern. Our kids are drug addicts. The divorce rate has increased even more than the ratio of the general population, and intermarriage is a very serious problem for us."

Blumberg said at the B'nai B'rith District 2 convention that he believed the problem began when the older generation "opted for middle-class norms" rather than old traditions.

Medals Struck

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (AP) — Medals commemorating the murder by Maoris of French explorer Marion du Fresne June 12, 1772, are being struck by the Auckland Numismatic Society.

Du Fresne and some of his crew were killed in the Bay of Islands for infringing sacred Maori rites and undermining the power of local chiefs.

The medals—10 gold, 200 silver and 300 copper—depict Du Fresne's murder, and his two ships, Mascarina and the Marquis de Castries.

DESPITE STATE LAWS BANNING USE

Fireworks Hurt Thousands

CHICAGO (AP) — Thousands of persons are injured each year in fireworks accidents despite strict state laws which have reduced fatal mishaps almost to zero.

This Independence Day will be no different, according to the National Safety Council which predicts that hundreds of injuries will result from use of bootlegged fireworks around July 4.

The council says many otherwise law-abiding citizens ignore the laws, which cover more than 60 per cent of the population, and bring fireworks into a state or municipality which has banned their possession, sale or transportation.

The laws have succeeded in cutting the death toll from 466, tabulated by the American Medical Association in 1903, to none in recent years.

BOOTLEG BLASTS

The AMA says another contributor to the absence of deaths is the fact that Americans take to the roads in automobiles on holidays instead of staying home and shooting fireworks.

The council says that bootleg users find a black market connection or bring fireworks from some rural area where they are sold in the open.

Mail-order chemical kits, containing potentially explosive chemicals, are available through magazine ads even though they are illegal, the council observed.

Deuel Richardson, a spokesman for the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) in Boston, says that although the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has banned Class B explosives, it still allows use of Class C fireworks which carry a warning note.

DOUBT

Class B fireworks include cherry bombs and some types of aerial bombs and rockets. Class C fireworks are small firecrackers and nonexplosives such as sparklers and snakes.

"We are still puzzled by the attitude of the FDA in allowing Class C fireworks," Richardson says. "It has taken the position that as long as these fireworks carry a warning label, they are not harmful to children."

"We doubt very much," he says, "if any 6, 7-or 8-year-olds pay any attention to warnings on small firecrackers."

YOU IN A HEAP O' TROUBLE, BOY — Joey Shanahan, 4, sets his mouth in grim determination as if expecting two motorcycling policemen to flag him down and ask where he's going in such a hurry. Actually, the toddling Easy Rider was riding down a Seattle street cleared for bicycling enthusiasts.

Banks Hold Hidden Blocks Of Stock

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lee Metcalf said today that some of the nation's largest banks hold huge hidden blocks of stock—perhaps even controlling interest—in many of the biggest U.S. corporations.

But these banks are difficult to identify, he said, because on stockholder lists they almost always appear under corporate pseudonyms, otherwise known as nominees or street names, for which translations are not readily available.

For example, Chase Manhattan Bank is rarely identified on stockholder lists. Instead, it appears under one of its 24 street names, a list that includes Clint, Cudd, Egger, Gooss, Gunn, Kane and Ring.

Metcalf, a Montana Democrat and a member of the Senate Government Operations Committee, made his remarks in a speech prepared for delivery to the Senate.

STREET NAMES

The use of street names by large institutional investors leads to problems, Metcalf said, particularly in industries required by law to make public the names of large shareholders in annual reports to federal regulatory agencies.

For example, the Civil Aeronautics Board requires airlines to disclose stockholders with 5 per cent or greater interest.

"Reports filed with the CAB by airlines state that, as of the end of last year, Chase Manhattan held 6.5 per cent of the stock in TWA, 9 per cent of the stock in Eastern, 8.4 per cent of the stock in National and 7.5 per cent of the stock in American," Metcalf said.

But, he added, no Chase Manhattan holdings were listed by three other airlines, Northwest, United and Western.

"Nevertheless, Chase Manhattan holds more than 6 per cent of the common stock in each of those three airlines, according to letters I received recently from those companies," he said. "The bank holds the stock through two or more nominees in each instance."

POWER PLAN

The Securities and Exchange Commission says that generally an interest can exercise effective control of a corporation by holding as little as 10 per cent of the corporation's stock. Metcalf said he understands that 5 per cent can constitute controlling interest if other votes are scattered.

Metcalf said he would introduce later this year a "corporate ownership report act" which would require companies to disclose the true identity of those interests which have voting control over large amounts of stock.

Metcalf said also he found bank domination in the broadcasting and electric-utility industries.

Both India, Pakistan Toughen Their Stands

SIMLA, India (AP) — India and Pakistan toughened their stands in preparation for today's start of peace talks between Prime Minister Indira Gandhi and President Zulfikar Ali Bhutto.

Indian spokesmen said their government and Bangladesh had agreed that the 91,000 Pakistani prisoners of war in India will not be returned to Pakistan until Bhutto recognizes the cease-fire line through Kashmir as an international boundary and recognizes Bangladesh as an independent nation.

Bhutto in a broadcast from Pakistan Tuesday night demanded the return of the POWs and said India "has no justification, moral or legal, to continue to detain our men. If by doing this India thinks that it can force us to accept humiliating terms, it is mistaken."

Most of the POWs are troops or civilian officials who surrendered in Bangladesh when the Pakistani army was defeated there during the December war that separated the former East Pakistan from the rest of the nation.

Bhutto also said he desired the resumption of diplomatic relations between India and Pakistan, which were broken Dec. 6 after India recognized Bangladesh. But Indian Foreign Secretary T.N. Kaul told newsmen that this was secondary to the president's tough line on the POW issue.

Kaul said the Indians could not tell yet whether Bhutto took this tough line to impress his people at home or because he planned to pursue the same line in the talks with Mrs. Gandhi.

The meeting here in the Himalayan foothills is the first India-Pakistan summit conference in six years, since the late Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri and President Mohammed Ayub Khan went to Tashkent, in the Soviet Union, after the 1966 war over Kashmir.

That Himalayan state has been one of the chief causes of trouble between India and Pakistan since 1947, when the state's Hindu maharaja joined the State to India even though most of the Kashmiri people were Moslems.

After a civil war in 1948 in which both India and Pakistan took a big part, Kashmir has been divided by a U.N. cease-fire line. India holds the more populous and productive part, including the Vale of Kashmir. Recognition of this cease-fire line as an international boundary would constitue abandonment of Pakistan's claim to the rest of the state.

Horse At Ruidoso Kicks $100 Bills

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP)—Walt Culbrson, a clocker at Ruidoso Downs race track, paid scant attention to a small object on the track until a horse kicked it and $100 bills started flying through the air.

Culberson found a wallet and $1,000 in loose bills.

He turned the wallet in to the track security office Monday, ending an anxious 30 minutes for Robert Lofton, an owner-trainer who had lost the wallet while working out some horses.

Lofton rewarded the clocker with $100.

Divorce Yourself Court Order Out

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A man who marketed do-it-yourself divorce kits is under court order to stop doing business in the marriage field in New York State.

State Supreme Court Justice James H. Boomer imposed a permanent injunction on James A. Winder, owner of the Divorce Yourself operation.

Boomer in his ruling said that Winder was dispensing "advice concerning the laws of divorce and separation" and thereby was practicing law illegally.

Winder, who had established offices here and in Buffalo, Binghamton, Syracuse, Queens, and Seattle, Wash., was selling $75 kits that were supposed to help a couple file for divorce without hiring a lawyer. He also developed and sold separation kits for a lesser price.

A barber by profession, Winder denied he was giving legal advice. He said he planned to appeal the case to the Appellate Division.

Traffic Group Meets Friday

A regular meeting of the Big Spring Traffic Commission is scheduled Friday morning at 10. A new request for traffic control will be presented and three requests tabled from the last meeting will be under discussion.

J. A. Beam, principal, College Heights Elementary School, made a request for a stop sign and caution light at 18th and Benton streets. The intersection in question is located on the northeast corner of the College Heights campus.

The three items tabled from the last meeting include requests for a stop sign on 14th and Bell, a stop sign on Benton at 16th, and a request for a stop sign to be located at the intersection of Arizona and Stadium.

Records of accidents and bodily injuries occurring at each of the three latter intersections for the past year have been obtained from the police department and will be studied during the Friday morning session.

THEY CARRY 'HEAVY LOAD'

DALLAS (AP) — Eleven Dallas strippers took the show to the sidewalks to air professional gripes against a local nightclub owner.

Full-dressed, the buxom strikers carried home-made placards reading "Strippers carry a heavy load" and "We make your money, respect us."

The boycott was directed against George Charalambopolous, owner of The Spotlight, who was under fire for what the girls said were orders for them to coax patrons into buying drinks during their off-stage hours.

"That at time between dancing is ours," said one of the girls after they handed in a list of eight demands entitled "Exotic Dancers Association Rules."

Charalambopolous accepted the demands, saying: "I've been in this business 10 years and I've never made a girl hustle a drink."

Man nearest camera rushed the photographer and put his hand over lens in attempt to prevent further photographing. In lower photo aroused bystanders crowd around car after seeing commotion. Committee Sounds Cheerful Note For McGovern's Push

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democratic Credentials Committee has Georgia on its mind today after sounding a cheerful note in George S. McGovern's march to Miami Beach and turning the music sour for a delegate named Daley.

The panel was to take up convention-seating challenges from five states, including Maine, Iowa, Kentucky and Nevada, but Georgia's hearing appeared most rife with controversy.

Seventeen of Georgia's 53 delegates were being contested on grounds the state violated many of the McGovern-promulgated rules. The charges included under-representation of women, youth and blacks, and election irregularities.

UNIT RULE

Strategists for McGovern, whose forces make up about half the 150-member committee, rate the Georgia case as one of the three most important of about 75 separate challenges still facing the panel.

The other two, says Eli Segal, McGovern's credentials coordinator, are those in Chicago and California, both of them cases which provided major developments Tuesday.

McGovern opponents hope to wrest away 150 of his 271 California delegates with the argument that the state's winner-take-all primary violates the spirit of reforms prohibiting unit rule.

But a committee hearing examiner, Burke Marshall, ruled Tuesday that the reforms had not been transgressed in California, although he left it to the full committee to decide whether the results were nonetheless unfair.

FIRST BALLOT

His finding considerably buoyed the McGovern camp which feared their man's first-ballot potential at Miami Beach could evaporate should he lose the California case. The entire committee will rule on the issue Thursday.

Another examiner's report, meanwhile, came as a blow to Mayor Richard J. Daley and 58 other uncommitted delegates from Chicago. Former U.S. Atty. Cecil Poole found that Daley's group had violated several reform guidelines "both in letter and in spirit."

Daley's delegation is challenged by the Rev. Jesse Jackson and several McGovern supporters who contend the mayor failed to include proper representation of women and minorities and engaged in unfair campaign practices.

The Credentials Committee decides the Daley case Friday.

In other action Tuesday, the committee rejected a challenge to Alabama's 37-member delegation on a vote of 69 to 55. A predominantly black faction led by Dr. John L. Cashin Jr. had sought full recognition in place of the Wallace-controlled regulars.

Challenges involving portions of the South Carolina and Florida delegations were also dismissed by the committee. Those contests were based upon an appeal for more women.

Bullfighters To Retire At 55

MADRID (AP) — Spain's bullfighters will have to retire at 55 under a Labor Ministry decree published Monday.

Only one active bullfighter, Antonio Bienvenila, is anywhere near retirement. He is 51.

Effort To Beat Back California Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern's supporters are mounting a massive effort to beat back a California credentials challenge which could be the last major threat to his nomination.

McGovern forces succeeded on another front Tuesday when Democratic party platform-writers produced a document echoing the senator's key positions, but in terms that his two main rivals also could embrace.

The platform draft will be offered for a vote at the Miami Beach convention where debate seems certain on a number of planks opposed by Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and his supporters.

WALLCE ON TAXES

The Platform Committee voted overwhelmingly to authorize a minority report by the Wallace forces on such issues as taxes, the economy, welfare, busing of school children, prayer in schools, and crime.

McGovern continued his tour of the South where he found a friendly reception and indications of possible later ballot support from Arkansas delegates.

In a significant gesture to party regulars, he indicated that, if he wins the nomination, he will keep Lawrence F. O'Brien as national party chairman.

With the proposed platform ready to be mailed to delegates, attention in Washington turned to the Credentials Committee which, in its first decisions Tuesday, tossed out challenges to the Alabama, South Carolina and Florida delegations.

A half-dozen key McGovern advisers met Tuesday night with the senator's supporters on the commitee to map plans for the showdown Thursday on the California challenge led by allies of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey.

WINNER-TAKE-ALL

The McGovern forces won the first round when hearing examiner Burke Marshall refused to support the attempt to split California's 271 votes, won by McGovern in the June 6 winner-take-all primary, and award them on a proportional basis.

That could take 151 votes away from McGovern, who claims to be within 20 votes of the nomination. The latest tally by The Associated Press gives him 1,358.9 votes—150.1 votes short of the 1,509 needed.

The entire California delegation could not vote on the case if it is appealed to the full convention as expected. With the California votes eliminated, a solid bloc of McGovern opponents possibly could muster a majority.

FUSS SHAPES

Another potentially divisive argument was shaping up over the 59 Chicago delegates headed by Mayor Richard J. Daley. They face possible expulsion for violations of party rules in their selection.

Eli Segal, McGovern's credentials coordinator, indicated that compromise efforts would be attempted before Friday afternoon, when the case is due to come before the committee.

Cecil Poole, the hearing examiner in the Chicago case, ruled Tuesday that the 59 delegates were slated in violation of party reform rules on "procedures, notice, openness and timeliness."

Though many of the challengers support McGovern, he has taken no position on that dispute but backs a similar challenge by some of his downstate Illinois supporters.

The final platform draft adopts McGovern's call for total U.S. withdrawal from Indochina as the new president's first order of business, urges an end to tax loopholes for individuals and corporations, and endorses a prudent defense policy that cuts waste. It adopts something close to the McGovern plan for income payments to replace the welfare system, but omits any reference to the details McGovern has outlined and is now revising.

Opening lead: Three of ♠

A careless play at the opening gun led to the upset of South's four heart contract today.

West chose to open the three of spades, the deuce was played from dummy and East put up the queen which lost to declarer's ace. A club was led at trick two and when West played the deuce, North's jack held the trick. The queen was returned dislodging West's ace.

The switch was to a diamond. Declarer wanted to put up the ace and return to his hand to cash the king of clubs in order to discard dummy's seven of diamonds, but he lacked a quick entry. He was obliged to play North's small diamond in the hope that West had underled the king. When East turned up with that card, however, the contract was doomed, for South could not avoid the loss of two hearts, one diamond, and one club.

Declarer made his mistake at the opening gun. Inasmuch as a potential diamond discard was available on declarer's third club, the latter should have exerted every effort to preserve an entry to his hand to obtain that objective once the ace of clubs was dislodged. This can be accomplished by putting in the ten of spades from the dummy.

If East covers with the queen, then South retains the nine in his hand to overtake North's deuce on the next lead in spades. If East plays a small card at trick one then declarer has the king left for his reentry.

By so doing, South avoids the diamond loser, for there is no way for the defenders to prevent him from discarding North's seven of diamonds on the king of clubs after West's ace is out of the way.

IRA's Cease - Fire Appears To Be Generally Effective

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — William Whitelaw, Britain's minister for Northern Ireland, meets militant Protestant leaders today in an attempt to convince them not to disturb the fragile cease-fire now in its second day.

Whitelaw hoped to persuade the Protestants that the government's new conciliatory approach to the Irish Republican Army is not a sellout and will serve the interests of Northern Ireland's Protestant majority as well as the Roman Catholic minority.

Protestant hard-liners contend that the IRA truce, which began at midnight Monday, will help the guerrillas escape punishment for their terrorist bombing and killing and at the same time permit them to maneuver to force Northern Ireland under the rule of the Catholics in the republic to the south.

Meanwhile, sporadic violence continued to flare after the start of the truce, but it was on a small scale compared to the bloodletting of much of the past three years.

An 18-year-old Protestant youth died during the day of wounds he got before the truce. A 38-year-old Catholic was shot dead when the truce was seven hours old. Reports said he refused to stop at an IRA street barricade.

Major Battle For Hearts, Votes Of Dixie Residents

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Sen. George McGovern, attaching negative motives to the Nixon administration's so-called Southern strategy, has committed himself to doing major political battle with the President for the hearts and votes of Dixie residents.

The South Dakota lawmaker who is favored to capture the Democratic presidential nomination next month, shrugged off predictions the South will easily go Republican this year, and he promised Tuesday he would campaign hard in the region.

Newspaper writers and politicians "who keep claiming I don't have any chance" in the South against Nixon "may be in for one of the biggest surprises of their lives," McGovern told a Little Rock, Ark., rally.

"If there's anyone under the impression that we're going to write off the South, or any other part of the country, forget it," he later told a meeting of Arkansas Democratic convention delegates.

"I want to offer something other than the Nixon strategy," he said during the campaign day that took him from San Antonio, Tex., to Little Rock. The Nixon strategy, he said, is "a divisive one, one that appeals to the Old South, to the worst instincts in all of us."

McGovern said several times during the day he thinks the South would benefit more than any other region by his populistic tax reform proposals and his plan to end the Vietnam war within 90 days of his inauguration. The South, he said, has suffered a disproporationate number of casualties in the war.

He admitted, however, that his support of school busing to achieve racial desegregation could hurt him in the region, but, speaking to the Arkansas delegates, he blamed Nixon for making school busing a major issue when, he said, it needn't have been.

McGovern's audiences at Tuesday night's rally here and earlier in Oklahoma City, San Antonio and Little Rock have been made up overwhelmingly of young adults. He proved he has enthusiastic young admirers in those cities and a campaign organization capable of getting them out.

But whether he is making inroads among older voters appears questionable based on his appearances in the first two days of this three-day trip that concludes today in Columbia, S.C.

And it appears equally questionable whether he has made progress in converting two Democratic governors who have said McGovern's presidential nomination would mean the party's defeat in their states next November.

Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, who was the overnight host of McGovern and his wife Eleanor, did not greet McGovern at the Atlanta airport nor did he appear with him at the rally in front of the state Capitol.

In Arkansas, Gov. Dale Bumpers likewise did not appear at public gatherings with McGovern, but he did show up at a news conference with the senator at the governor's mansion.

Delayed Funeral, Painful Memories

WASHINGTON (AP) — On a hillside at Arlington National Cemetery, World War II's sorrowful memories are being reopened for the families of five Marines who gathered to bury their sons and brothers killed nearly 30 years ago at Guadalcanal.

Today's funeral services answered the plea of Mollie Johnston of Littleton, N.C., mother of one of the Marines, to bring her son's body home "if it takes a hundred years to find him."

About 40 surviving relatives were expected to attend the funeral, but not Mrs. Johnston. She died a few years ago.

The remains of the five Marines lay in lost, unmarked graves on the Pacific island battlefield until they were discovered in 1970.

The five, among nine Marines killed by Japanese small-arms fire on Oct. 9, 1942, were identified as Pfc. David W. Johns, of Johnstown, Pa.; Pfc. Eugene Johnston, Littleton, N.C.; Cpl. John F. Suggs, Richlands, N.C.; Pvt. Paul E. Gagnon, Augusta, Maine, and Pfc. Godfrey E. Hunter Jr., Winston-Salem, N.C.

They were members of Company E, 2nd Battalion, 7th Marines, 1st Marine Division, on a six-day sweep from the Matanikau River to Point Cruz on Guadalcanal's northern coast.

Because of the heavy fighting, the Marine Corps said, eight of the Marines were buried where they fell.

A Marine spokesman said artillery barrages and the rapid jungle growth hid the grave sites and only three of the eight were later found by the graves-registration service. They were brought home for burial.

The families of the remaining five were notified of their deaths but told the bodies could not be found. In a letter to the commandant of the Marine Corps in 1946, Mrs. Johnson pleaded: "I want him brought back if it takes a hundred years to find him."

In 1970, Mrs. Y. Timothy Kwaimani, wife of a forestry official on Guadalcanal, found the skeletal remains of an American serviceman and the identification tag with the name: "G.E. Hunter, 131427, U.S.M.C."

A subsequent search, prompted by a letter from Mrs. Kwaimani to the 1st Marine Division Association in the United States, turned up additional remains.

Dallas Bonds Win Approval

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas voters approved a $172 million bond program Tuesday with a relatively light turnout of some 42,000 voters.

Fire protection facilities in the program received the highest margin of victory, 70 per cent, while a child care center in South Dallas won by 55 per cent, the lowest percentage of approval of any of the propositions on the ballot.

Tax-supported bonds approved included $3.9 million for fire fighting facilities; $5 million, libraries; $231 million, parks; $56.2 million, streets; $16.7 million, flood and storm drainage; $11.1 million, public buildings; $5 million, neighborhood improvements and $800,000 transit facilities.

Revenue bonds approved included $50.2 million for water works and sewers.

Morphine Base Found In Auto

AIX-EN PROVENCE, France (AP) —A man cutting up a large American sedan for scrap metal Monday found 33 pounds of morphine base hidden in the rear wheel arches.

The car had belonged to a Turkish citizen sentenced in Marseille in 1969 to three years in jail on drug smuggling charges, police said.

Morphine base is the last stage in the chemical transformation of opium into heroin.

Induced Vomit

Your Good Health

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Recently a friend lost a dear little boy after he drank cleaning fluid of some kind. Her doctor said, "If you had made him vomit right away, he might have stood half a chance."

Just how do you make a child (or adult) vomit? — Mrs. B.

Often there's dry mustard powder in the kitchen. A tablespoon of it in a cup of warm water usually will induce vomiting.

Other methods are drinking a hup of soapsuds (n o t detergent), or a strong solution of salt or baking soda, or tickling the back of the throat with your finger.

But vomiting shouldn't be induced blindly in all cases of poisoning. It is important to know what was swallowed.

If acid or strong alkali (such as lye) has been swallowed, vomiting should NOT be induced. The poison burned on the way down; it will burn on the way up. The victim should be taken in all haste to a hospital for the stomach to be washed out and empied with a tube.

Likewise, vomiting is harmful if some hydrocarbon (petroleum products, gasoline, kerosene, furniture polish and so on) has been swallowed. Vomiting can permit some of the poisonous fluid to get into the lungs and cause even worse trouble.

Speed is urgent in many poisonings, but doing the right thing and not the wrong thing can be just as important. Or more so.

Everybody — especially if there are small children in the household — should have the phone number of the Poison Control Center handy where it can't get lost.

In at least some communities the telephone operator can give the number in seconds. I just tried it.

But in smaller communities they don't have their own Poison Control Center, I don't know. There are different phone companies, too.

I should think it might be wiser if the mayor, or town constable, or local doctor or somebody made sure that local operators had at their fingertips the number of the nearest Poison Control Center in a nearby city. Maybe popularizing such numbers would be a good project for Ralph Nader if he has any spare time.

Even your regular doctor often has to appear to a control center to find out what the active poisons are in all sorts of household materials, ranging from berries in the back yard to shoe polish, cosmetics, paint thinners and pills.

If you know what a child ate or drank, a Poison Center commonly can tell what the poisonous ingredient is, and what type of first aid or treatment is right.

I mention "what a child ate or drank" because the vast majority of serious accidental poisonings are among toddlers or small children.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If the daily stool becomes black, is this normal or could something be wrong? — M.L.C.

Black (or very dark, or tarry, or red) stool can result from certain foods and medications, but more often it is a sign of bleeding somewhere in the intestinal tract. When it happens daily, it becomes a suspicious sign indeed. I can only urge you to get to your doctor at once for tests to see whether the cause is innocent or whether bleeding is responsible.

Note to D.H.: It is quite common to give monthly injections of B-12 to control pernicious anemia — but if you are more comfortable with weekly instead of monthly injections, I would say that you have answered your own question. Your blood count should be a guage for the frequency of injections.

How to get rid of leg cramps and foot pains? The answer may be simple. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of the Big Spring Herald for a copy of the booklet, "How to Stop Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use zip code), stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

City Freely Tows Unwanted Autos

VIENNA (AP) — The city of Vienna has a special mailbox for motorists desiring to surrender ownership of their dying automobiles.

The mailbox in the traffic department is used to speed receipt of documents facilitating the removal of abandoned cars from the streets of the Austrian capital. Under a program started in 1970, old cars are towed away free if the driver signs a form relinquishing ownership to the city.

So far, more than 1,200 Viennese have signed their cars up for the free trip to an auto graveyard.

Sticks By Him

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you from the State Penitentiary in Huntsville, Tex., where I have been locked up for two years. I have three more years to serve and here is my problem:

Three months before I got locked up and sent here I met a very lovely young lady. She is 27 and I am 29. She works in the daytime and goes to school three nights a week. She is a "lady of the evening" but that doesn't interfere with her love for me. She writes to me faithfully and says she loves me and will wait for me. She is loyal and true, Miss Abby, and I think about her all the time.

Should I put all my faith and trust in this woman? I believe I really love her. I need your advice and opinion.

VERY TRULY YOURS,
"278946"

(Not my real number)

DEAR "TWO": If she has stuck by you, writes faithfully and promises to wait for you, I'd say your faith in her is well justified. Good luck.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I read with interest the letter signed "Troubled Daughter" in which two brothers refused to share with three sisters the responsibility of caring for their elderly mother.

Do you know that in the State of California only sons are responsible (money-wise) for an aged parent who is on welfare, unless the daughter works or has an outside income, regardless of how large her husband's income is?

My husband (an only son) pays over $100 a month to the California Public Welfare office while his three married sisters pay nothing, as they are not employed outside the home.

Our attorney advised us that it is unconstitutional to discriminate against the sexes, but Kings County Department of Public Welfare threatened to take us to court if we don't reimburse them $109 per month.

UNLUCKY TO BE LIVING IN CALIF.

DEAR UNLUCKY: Your letter (accompanied by valid documentation) was a surprise to me. Does anyone out there have an ace to bet that King?

* * *

DEAR ABBY: A wife signed "Old Fashioned" wrote to say that she didn't share her husband's yen for X rated moves. If you read between the lines you can see a middle-aged male with a sagging libido. What he needs is a wife who can kindle a few sparks, lose some of her inhibitions and be a little less old fashioned.

Let's face it, that husband is hoping that if he exposes his wife to a few explicit scenes in the biological realm it will give her an inspiration.

NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR NORTH: Before blaming the inhibited woman for batting zero in the boudoir, consider this: Psychiatrists tell us that a surprising number of men can perform anywhere except at home because of their inhibitions. Every decent woman is "mother," so they find their pleasure where "mother" isn't.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: This is for "YOUR HUSBAND'S MISTRESS," who ends up with, "What good is the status of being a legal wife when all your friends know that your husband is in love with another woman?"

I would like to know since when is love equated with sexual satisfaction? If that man really loved you, he'd have sex later.

Wake up, Sister. You're being used!

Thanks for letting me get this off my chest, Abby.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

JESUS CHRIST: A girl wrote to tell you the kids at school gave her a hard time. I had the same trouble. I was teased to death. I got into arguments with the teachers. I was miserable.

Then I met the Lord. I took a good, hard look at myself and realized I had brought some of the teasing on myself. I asked God to help me so that school would quit bothering me. I don't mind going now.

I don't bother about what other people think of me. I don't have to apologize to them for living any more. I know that God loved me enough to send His Son to die for me.

I am involved with other Christians now and am having fun. (Yes, Christians have fun.)

No drugs, no booze, no sex. Something infinitely stronger — Jesus Christ. Jesus doesn't wear off as the day wears on. Drugs, sex and booze do!

If you think you can be happy without Him you're wrong. He offers happiness on earth and eternal happiness with Him in heaven after you die. He has this happiness and wants you to have it, and you can, just for the asking.

It's as simple as that. You can have your pass to heaven sealed in just 30 seconds. Just ask Him and he'll save you — on the spot.

Being saved is fun! Jesus loves you. Be happy. Ask Him today.

I'm not talking about religion. I'm talking about Jesus. I'm saved, happy and having fun.

He still lives! Do you? Hate doesn't cut the mustard.

Smile. Jesus loves you. — Saved in Alabama.

(A.) Thank you for your testimony. I am happy that you are happy and I am glad to pass along your good news.

But maybe you had better take another good, hard look. Being a Christian is not simple. It isn't just slogans.

Read the four gospels, all of them. They are not long, but they are simple, not just slogans. Have I read them? Yes, again and again. Every time I find some deep new truth in them.

It Sure Wasn't Timber Wolf

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — Jay Cordray thought he killed a timber woulf but he was unsure, so he sent photographs of the animal to the Illinois State Museum for identification.

John R. Paul, museum curator of zoology, said the creature was "not a wolf in the sense of a timber wolf."

The animal, instead, is probably "pure coyote, possibly with a little dog breeding in its background," Paul said.

Timber wolves have been absent from northern Illinois where the animal was killed for at least 50 and probably closer to 100 or more years, Paul said.
