Infantry Show Will Be Held Here To Assist In Meeting Seventh War Bond Quota

Rotarians Heard Address By J. D. McPhaul Friday

J. D. McPhaul presented an interesting discussion for Rotarians at their meeting held last Friday, May 25. His topic for discussion was "The Possibilities of the Post War Automobile Industry" and "The Relation of the Manufacturer to Salesmen."

Following his address, announcements were made relative to the next Ladies Night meeting. Ladies Night will be held on Thursday, May 31, at 8:30 p. m., instead of on Friday, because of the Infantry Show to be brought to this city on that night.

Guests for the Friday session were Bub McDonald, Hubert Beckham who is a brother of W. T. Beckham, and Mr. Frazen, guest of Dutch Leuenberger.

Miss Billie Grace Webb of Tech, Lubbock spent the week end here visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Webb.

Trinkka Norman, Wave, Injured In Dallas On Friday

Seaman First Class Trinkka Norman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Norman, Sr., of this city, was seriously injured in a collision Friday night, May 25. She was one of the occupants of the two cars and bus which collided in Dallas that night.

Wave Norman has been taken to the Naval Hospital in Norman Oklahoma, and is said to be suffering from hip and leg injuries. Her pelvis bone was injured also. According to the last reports received in this city, she was said to be resting fairly well.

Seaman Norman is a member of the Waves, having entered that branch of the service approximately 10 months ago. She is a Lamesa High School and Texas Technological College graduate, and prior to entering the service was employed in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman and son, George, Jr., have gone to Norman.

"Here's Your Infantry," which will be brought to this city June 1st, for an 8 o'clock performance in the local football stadium has three main purposes in visiting this city.

These are: First, to aid the local committee and the Treasury Department to meet or exceed its War Bond quota; second, to show the people of America that the decisive factor in warfare is the ability of the Infantry to fight its way in, eliminate the enemy, and hold the ground; and third, to focus public attention on the necessity for a redoubled war effort for defeating Japan quickly.

In their demonstration of Infantry weapons and the tactics of attacking a Japanese pillbox, the members of "Here's Your Infantry," all combat veterans themselves, offer a view of war at its grimdest—the moment when, after air power and artillery have battered at the enemy's front lines and rear support, the Infantrymen close in with rifle and bayonet, clash with the enemy to kill him and drive on—ward—or die in the attempt.

Public curiosity about the weapons and equipment that help make the American Infantryman the best soldier in the world is amply satisfied by the more than a dozen exhibits which are a feature of the "Here's Your Infantry" Demonstration.

The cost of this equipment, in terms of War Bonds, is a telling sales argument on the need for success of the 7th War Loan. Every item has its price tag and Doughboys who made good use of the various weapons in combat overseas will tell how they operate in battle.

Visitors will be permitted to inspect and handle the weapons and equipment and women will be given a taste of the various rations their men eat in combat.

Field communications devices, including the telephone, radio, signal panels and flares will be exhibited and their use explained. A field telephone line will be set up and be shown sensiesOm ethaionm be put in use for visitors.

Clothing and equipment for all types of climate will be shown, including mountain fighting and jungle equipment. There are literally hundreds of items in this exhibit.

You will not want to miss the Infantry Show to be held at the Lamesa football stadium Friday night, June 1. It will be an action packed show, and will be particularly enlightening and interesting.

Eight Or Eighty They All Like Their 'Capea'

By CHARLES FOLTZ
AP Newsfeatures

MADRID — It's seldom advertised on billboards or in newspapers. Human lives are risked and lost, thousands of wild bulls and wild cows fight and die, hundreds of thousands of Spaniards get the thrill of their lives — that's the unsung, unfiled and, outside Spain or Mexico, almost unknown background of the story of blood and sand.

Every tiny pueblo of Spain has its fiesta and every village fiesta in Spain, save in the provinces of northern Galicia and Asturias, has its "capea." Only requirement — one or more wild bulls or wild cows. Add that portion of the male population between eight and eighty which want to be bullfighters or think they are bullfighters, rope off the main square and put a few wooden stands around. Wait for the sunny afternoon of the day of the town's patron saint — and the capea's yours to watch.

Some towns can't afford to kill a wild bull. They rent one of the old capea-wise killers from a local breeder or from a bull-owner who follows the fiesta around Spain. That animal is far more dangerous than anything the world's best bullfighters face in the world's greatest rings, for he has had experience, he has had his horns in men.

Some towns can afford their own bulls. They're usually powerful animals which would be rejected by the big city's rings as too dangerous. After they're killed by a local bullfighter or by one of the hundreds of village matadors who follow the fiestas, risking their life for a night's lodging and the hope of recognition as a matador worthy of better rings, the meat is sold in the town to make up part of the price of the animal.

Senoritas watch from balconies around the public square or from wooden stands at the side when the bull is first released in the ring. Hundreds of men, most of them youngsters, some elderly, are in the square to try their luck.

"Capea" means challenging the bull with a cape, but capes are expensive and few villagers are armed with more than sticks. With them they run before the wild beast, twisting and turning to avoid its horns and trying to tap horns or head with their sticks.

Injury or death is far more frequent than glory. In 1932 at Majadahonda, tiny town of Madrid province, four were killed and many injured in a "capea," after which the government prohibited them. Little attention was paid to the ban.

Frequently the bull charges the stands and sometimes the improvised seats collapse, spilling the spectators before the wild beasts. In Aragon a bull escaped from the square and went wild in a warehouse where wine was stored in skins. The animal was neck deep in wine and the streets ran with the year's vintage before someone slew the bull.

Glory comes just frequently enough to perpetuate the "capea." Juan Belmonte, now retired with a son in the ring, but still considered Spain's greatest living bullfighter despite the phenomenal rise of Manolete, went into the big rings from the village "capeas." So did Marial Lalanda "the old maestro," and Antonio Marques and many others.

Today a young man who wants to be a bullfighter seldom gets into the big league direct from the village "capeas," but it's still in the village where he has the best chance to learn enough about bulls to win a place on a recognized bullfighter's "cuadrilla" or team.

It's the best place, but death charges there.

TIN CAN IS INDIA'S JACK-OF-ALL USES

NEW YORK (AP) — Five-gallon tin cans, in which food, gasoline and other products are shipped to the armed forces, are serving India as seats in movie theaters, measures for fish and grain, and even filled with sand and cemented together, as building blocks. The American Can company says East Indians buy the cans for about 12 cents in American money — a third of a native's daily pay — and sometimes attack each other with knives in a squabble over cans discarded by the Army.

The Army ANSWERS Your Personal War Problems

Your questions on allotments, insurance, legal problems or other matters as they relate to Army personnel and their dependents will be answered in this column or by letter. Write Headquarters, Eighth Service Command, Dallas 2, Texas.

Q. If I put in a claim for the social security benefit of my husband who died while in the Army, will my pension or insurance be affected in any way?
A. No.

Q. We had four sons in the service. One was killed in action and another is a prisoner-of-war. Would you please explain the Army's "remaining son" policy for us?

A. There has been a change in this policy. Now, when two or more members of a family group serving in the armed forces die or are listed as missing or as prisoners-of-war, the Army and Navy on request will transfer all remaining members of the group to non-hazardous duties. If only one son remains, he will be assigned to permanent service in the United States. Cases under this policy must be brought to the attention of The Adjutant General (in the case of the Army) by the immediate family of the service man or by the service man himself. If application is made under this policy, be sure all possible information on names, grades, serial numbers, last organization and station and available information on death, capture or missing status is included.

Q. My daughter is a Wac. She is married to a soldier. After she and her husband are discharged, can they both borrow money under the G. I. Bill of Rights to buy a home?

A. Yes, Each will be treated as an individual veteran. If they are both able to obtain loans from their bank, the Government will guarantee its portion of each loan.

Q. Will a regular Army soldier who was discharged to be an officer revert to his former status when the war is over?

A. When he is released from active duty as an officer, he will be given an opportunity to re-enlist in his former permanent grade in the regular Army.

Q. Our son was hospitalized in England. He writes us that his condition is not serious, but we feel that he may be hiding the truth from us. Would the War Department let us know just exactly how he is?

A. As a matter of policy, the War Department will report serious illnesses and subsequent changes in physical condition to the next-of-kin of hospitalized soldiers. If you have received no official notice of a serious illness or injury of your son, you may assume that his condition is, as he says, not serious.

Q. Can an officer serving overseas stop an allotment made out to his wife?

A. Allotments of officers' pay to their wives are voluntary and may be stopped at any time. Army law, however, requires that an officer support his legal dependents.

Q. Where can I apply for the flag that is given to the families of men who die while in the service?

A. Postmasters have been supplied with application forms to be completed for the issuance of flags for the families of deceased service men.

Q. Could my husband serving in the Army overseas divorce me without notifying me of the proceedings?

A. This is a matter which should be taken up with your civilian attorney. The law requires that the wife be notified of the proceedings either by being served with an official notice of the suit or by publication. Service by publication is authorized when the husband does not know his wife's whereabouts. If both husband and wife are residents of the same state, and he knows where she is at that residence, she must be served with papers.

Pfc. H. Oswald Is Liberated From German Prison

Word was received here Thursday, May 24, that Pfc. Harold Oswald, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Oswald of this city, had been liberated and is now under military control. Pfc. Oswald had been a prisoner of the Germans since August 1, 1944.

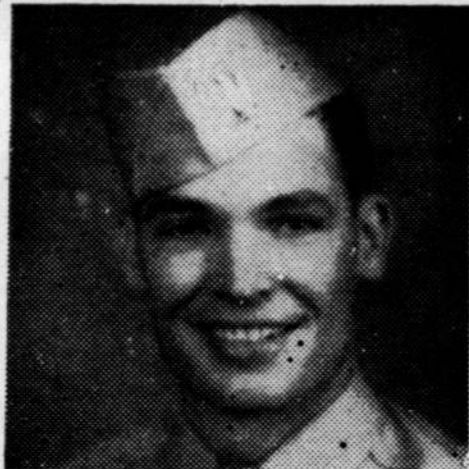

Entering the service in September of 1940, he left for overseas service in October, 1944. While on foreign duty, he was stationed in Ireland, England, and France and was attached to the Infantry.

Pfc. Oswald received his Infantry training at Ft. Sam Houston and at Camp McCoy, Wisconsin. He is a former student of the Lamesa Schools and prior to going into service was employed with his father here as a trucker.

His wife, who has been visiting her parents in Chickasha, Oklahoma, is now visiting in Lamesa with Mr. and Mrs. Oswald.

His brother, S-Sgt. Richard P. Oswald, has received his honorable discharge from service. Another brother, Pvt. L. Z. Oswald, recently left for overseas duty. Pvt. Oswald has been in service 2 years, and received his training at Ft. Lewis, Washington and Camp Roberts. He is a former Lamesa High School student and member of the Tornado team. His wife resides in Welch.

In an average of only 144 hours in class, the Army is able to teach simple arithmetic.

S-Sgt. R. Oswald Has Received His Army Discharge

S-Sgt. Richard P. Oswald, also the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Oswald of this city, received his medical discharge from the military service Saturday, and will make his home here and resume his duties as manager of Johnson Motor Lines.

Oswald, a former Infantryman, was wounded January 2, while in Germany. He received injuries in both legs from an 88mm shell, and was taken to a hospital in England, where he remained until being returned to the States.

Entering the service in April 1944, he received his training at Camp Hood. He holds the Purple Heart, a Presidential Citation, and the Expert Infantryman Badge.

Oswald attended the Lamesa Schools, and prior to joining the service was manager of the Johnson Motor Lines in this city.

He and his wife have two children, Norma Jean, and Paula Helen.

Pfc. G. Flud Tells Experiences In German Prison

Editor's Note: The following article is from the Public Relations Office of McCloskey General Hospital, Temple:

Taken prisoner by the Germans in Luexburg last December 16, when they broke through to create the Audennes bulge, two more Texans liberated from the German prison camps in April have returned to their native state.

They are Pfc. George W. Flud, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Flud of Lamesa, and Pvt. Charlie R. Elder of Slaton.

Forced to march miles without food, crowded into box cars like cattle, to work on farms and the railroad on a starvation diet, shifted from prison to prison, in the months they were held prisoners, is something they'd like to forget.

Flud's outfit was surrounded on a hill. The Germans told them they had 88s zeroed in and could slaughter them and gave them until 8 o'clock the next morning to surrender.

"There was nothing else to do," Flud says, "so we moved down the hill and walked about 30 miles that first day without anything to eat."

Elder served as a railroad commando and Flud as a farm commando. They were forced to do manual labor as long as their physical strength held out and then they were sent to hospitals.

Flud a machine gunner with the 106th Division was liberated by the British Seventh, and Elder, a rifleman with the 28th Division was liberated by the 89th Division.

When the liberators came they threw a few artillery shells in and dropped a few bombs and gave them until 1 p. m., the next day to surrender. It looked as if everybody in the town had put out a washing. White flags were flying from every window—two and three story buildings, all alike.

Both men told of their experiences in the crowded box cars—80 men to the car for five days and nights at a time without anything to eat and one drink of water. Men smothered to death in the cars.

Flud narrowly escaped death from strafing when American planes opened their guns on the unmarked box car he was in, killing several men and wounding many more. He suffered a broken shoulder blade.

Shoved around from place to place and on a watery diet, Flud says he saw men starve and die and murdered in cold blood.

He was interrogated by the Germans on one occasion and placed behind bars in an old castle when he replied by giving his name, rank, aerial number and with the words, "I'm sorry, sir."

He was later sent on a working detail where he carried stumps for about six miles and cut them up.

He saw the German guards shoot several prisoners one time because they were a little slow about getting out of bed and to work. He was beaten to the ground with a rifle in the hands of a guard on one occasion.

Both men were stripped of their watches. Elder had received his only a few days before as a Christmas present. Flud had 2300 francs, about $55 taken from him at Stalag 11 B.

Flud was a welder and blacksmith in civilian life.

Owing to the air resistance, it takes about 19 seconds for a bomb to reach the earth when dropped from an airplane a mile high.

Chafing dishes were used prior to the invention of chimneys and were introduced in England about 1200.

Methods On How To Control The Cutworm Given

One cutworm can bite off many young plants in one night, especially beans, peas, tomatoes and cabbage. But, says Paul Gregg, entomologist for the A. and M. College Extension Service, a bit of cardboard rolled around the plants in their infancy will prevent the worm from doing any damage.

The cutworm, a gray and brown caterpillar-like crawler, does great damage to garden crops if it is not controlled because it works at night. Since it passes the winter beneath the soil and becomes active in the spring, Gregg says that land used for gardens which was in grass or weeds the previous year is likely to harbor a larger number than soil which had been cultivated.

The pest announces its presence in the spring or early summer by cutting off near the ground the stems of the tender young plants it prefers to feed on. Since the cutworm is a common enemy to gardens everywhere Gregg says that gardeners should prepare at the time plants break through the soil or are set out to guard against its attack. One of the simplest means is to erect a cardboard barrier between the plant and the pest. Any lightweight material about the size of a penny postcard will do. Roll this into a collar around the plant, making the opening of the collar about four times the size of the main stem of the plant to allow for entrance of plenty of air and light.

Care should be taken to sink the collar about an inch below ground and leave two inches above the soil. It also helps to protect young plants against the sun and wind. But the danger is not entirely past when the stem becomes tough since the worm sometimes will climb small plants and cut off the leaves. On that account it is well to leave the collar in place until the plants reach sufficient maturity to protect themselves.

Gregg suggests that the best protection for a large garden is poisoned bait, scattered thinly over the plot, or around the bases of plants immediately after setting them out. Directions for preparing the bait may be obtained from county agricultural agents, and it often is for sale by dealers in insecticides or seed men. However, young children, livestock and poultry should not be allowed access to the bait.

RADIO WAVES THROW BIRDS OFF THE BEAM

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radio waves seriously hamper the "homing" performance of pigeons, the Army Signal Corps reports. During tests, pigeons sent home from a transmitting station while it was operating just circled erratically and finally covered the ten miles home in about 50 minutes. But birds released while the station was silent went right home in about 20 minutes.

Undernourished children under the age of four score as much as 18 points higher in intelligence tests after they have been given an adequate diet.

Subscribers Are Asked To Check Expiration Date

Courier readers are asked to watch the expiration dates on their paper in order that they may not miss a single issue of The Dawson County Courier, your home town newspaper.

In other words, if the number following your name on the paper reads 6-45 that means that your subscription will expire on June 1, 1945 and that unless your subscription is renewed your paper will be stopped at that time.

The subscription price of the Courier is $3.00 a year in Dawson, Martin, Gaines, Borden and Lynn Counties, and $2.00 for six months. For a limited time only a 2 year subscription will be offered for $5.00, or you can save one dollar by taking a two year subscription. The subscription price outside this territory is $4.00 a year, except for men in the armed services which remains at $3.00 a year.

Battle Wounds Are Fatal To Pvt. Floyd Billingsley

Editor's Note: The following article telling of the death of Pvt. Floyd Billingsley, was submitted to this office by members of his family:

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Billingsley received a telegram on May 24, from the War Department stating that their son, Pvt. C. Floyd Billingsley, 22, who was a member of the 82nd Airborne Division Paratrooper Unit, died from fatal wounds received in action in Germany.

At the age of 17 Floyd enlisted in the Cavalry and was stationed at Ft. Bliss before war was declared. While there he received a sergeant's rating and served as a special recruit trainer in the Cavalry. When his unit was transferred to Ft. Benning, Georgia, the Cavalry was mechanized and Floyd was for a time attached to the Tank Medical Corps. Promoted to the rank of staff sergeant, he served in the unit for some time training new recruits. Then he volunteered for a transfer into the Paratroopers unit and requested immediate combat duty, but instead for quite awhile he served as Jump Sergeant Instructor for Paratrooper recruits. He still held out for immediate combat duty. He relinquished his staff sergeant's rating in order to quickly get combat duty. He was immediately sent to England for additional training in the unit. After going overseas he participated in many of the major battles with the 82nd Airborne Division in France, Belgium, Holland and Germany.

When he was dropped with his unit in Holland, Floyd was shot in the leg by a sniper. After receiving the wound he and another Paratrooper were cut off from their outfit. The two held a farm house until darkness set in, and then they shot their way back to their Paratrooper Unit. Floyd was sent to the hospital to recuperate from the leg wound. He received the Purple Heart for the wound.

In a few weeks he reported back to his Paratrooper Unit. He helped to top Runstead's break-through in Belgium.

During action in the final battle of Germany, Floyd received the fatal wounds that caused his death on May 1, 1945, after giving almost 5 years of his life to Army service.

Though Floyd is gone and we know he too is one of the thousands of our real heroes who sacrificed all and won't come back, we have reasons to know that Floyd's score is much more than even. He much more than did his part in preserving our precious liberty so that our flag "Old Glory" may continue to wave over the land of the free.

A Memorial Day Service Is To Be Held Wednesday

Members of the American Legion and Auxiliary will sponsor a Memorial Service Wednesday, May 30, at 10 a. m., at the First Methodist Church in this city, and the public is cordially invited to attend.

The program will begin at 10 a. m., with the singing of "America, The Beautiful," to be followed by a prayer by the Rev. D. J. Murray.

Preceding the main address to be delivered by the Rev. Cal. C. Wright, who has taken as his topic, "The Spirit of America," the hymn "America" will be sung.

Mrs. W. J. Beckham will then sing a solo, "In Memoriam," after which the Rev. J. Benson will deliver the benediction.

At 11 a. m., the American Legion and Auxiliary will conduct the regular ritualistic Memorial Service for veterans of all wars in the city cemetery, and graves will be decorated.

Special invitation is extended to all families of all soldier-dead and to all Dawson County citizens to be present for this special Memorial Service Wednesday. Sam Richardson, V. Z. Rogers, the Rev. Cal. C. Wright, and Ed DuBose, made arrangements for the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Billingsley and son Don of Del Rio spent the week end here visiting with relatives. Don remained in Lamesa for a week visit.

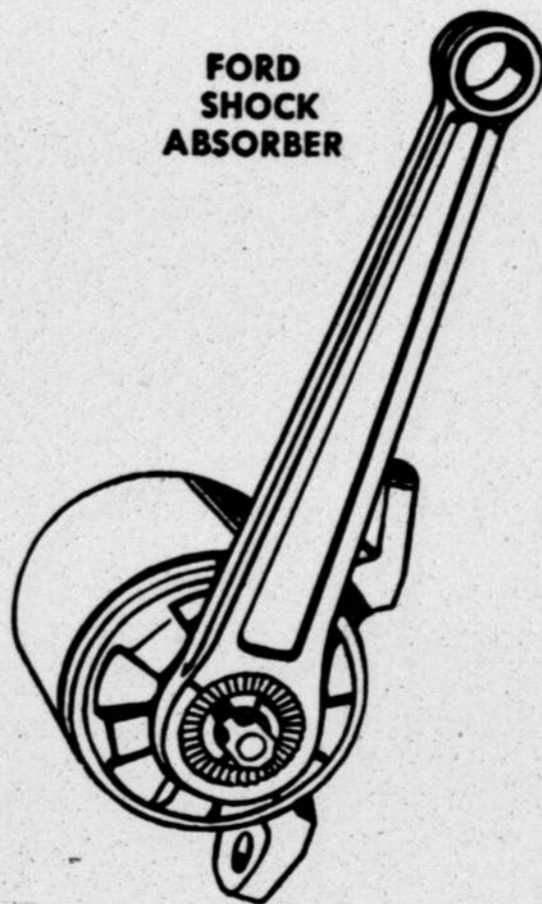

Singeing the hair may make the ends of the hair more brittle.

Floyd is survived by both of his parents, three brothers, Arthur, C. L., and John Brice; five half brothers, Lee, Dolphus and Alva Billingsley; and Lonnie and Ray Freyberger.

Jitterbug's Delight—glitter in this Loretta Original studded with glistening pearlized dots on the jacket of Joseph Berlinger's "Largo" fabric—in black, or red. Skirt of startling white ecru pique. Sizes 9-15.
